Kewaskum Man Injured In One-Car Accident

Kewaskum EMTs worked on accident victim Dean Roe, as a tow truck worked to free his car which was pinned against a tree along the bank of the Milwaukee River.

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

Dean Roe, 54, of Werner Drive, Kewaskum, remains hospitalized with injuries suffered in an accident last week.

The one-car crash occurred Wednesday, June 28, at 3:50 p.m., on Riverview Drive, just south of Werner Drive in Kewaskum. According to the Kewaskum Police Department report, Roe, who was alone in his car, stated he may have fallen asleep or blacked out as he was headed north on Riverview.

The vehicle veered off the road over the curb on the west side of the road. The car continued down the embankment of the river, careening off one tree, coming to rest, with the driver's side pinned against another tree.

The Kewaskum Rescue Squad arrived on the scene to give aid to Roe. A tow truck was also called in to free the car and pull it back up onto the roadway as EMTs continued to work on the victim.

Roe was transported to St. Joseph's Community Hospital, West Bend, complaining of back pains. A hospital spokesperson stated he remains in the intensive care unit, listed in stable condition.

Peace Church Habitat for Humanity Work Project Scheduled for July 8-15

Members of Peace United Church of Christ in Kewaskum were commissioned at the July 2 worship service by Rev. James Bettin for a week of Habitat for Humanity construction. The 25 member work crew will leave for Zanesville, Ohio, on July 8 and return July 15. The Peace Church congregation supports this annual outreach project with individual sponsorships as well as Lenten offerings and special gifts throughout the year.

In 1987, 15 Peace members built new homes for Habitat in Nashville, Tennessee, 22 worked in Buffalo, New York in 1988. Travel and food expenses are provided by Peace Church as well as a monetary gift to the project for building supplies.

Both the Buffalo and Zanesville projects involve rehabilitation of homes by the workers. The age ratio for the Kewaskum group ranges from 14 to 73 years. The willingness to work hard to provide affordable housing for non-interest purchase by poor families is the Habitat Criteria based on the economics of Jesus. Volunteer labor and donated supplies makes this a reality.

Seven Peace Church members attended the closing program in Milwaukee on June 16 to hear former President Jimmy Carter and Habitat founder Millard Fuller summarize the success of the Carter Work Project there two weeks ago. National as well as state attention focused on Milwaukee June 10-17. Gerald Secor, Peace Church member, worked on that Milwaukee crew.

Seven of the members commissioned last Sunday have been on all three Peace Church Habitat crews (1987-1989); they are: Betty and James Bettin, Marlene Domasky, Marian Erdmann, Shannon McFadden, Bret Rauch, and Richard Zarling. Seven members have been on two projects: Karen Kletti, Ruth and Willard Gruhle, Pat and Patrick McFadden, Robert Schreffler, and Jennifer Stelter. One year participants include: Brian Goetsch, Susan McFadden, Steve, Cassie, and Chris Romans, Courtney Sparks, Darlene and Wayland Tessar, Connie and Howard Zemlicka, and Kevin Hinz. The Ohio crew will be housed at Central Presbyterian Church in Zanesville and plan to participate in a noon lunch program for disadvantaged local residents at St. John's Lutheran Church there during the work week.

Summer Safari... A ZOOper Success!

The Kewaskum Public Library's summer reading program, "Summer Safari" was a hit with 88 youngsters turning out to participate in the six-week session. Activities included stories, videos and art projects such as creating animals out of balloons. The staff did an excellent job of setting the scene for the program by decorating a section of the library to resemble a jungle complete with hanging vines and trees containing monkeys and snakes. A stalking leopard also guards the jungle's entrance.

Karen Kletti's award winning homemade quilt.

The Riverside Cafe was the place to be on Saturday, May 20th. Members of the KJWC and their husbands shared in a delicious buffet - style meal and some good conversation. Big ideas were in the air for next year. Good memories of the past year were hard to forget.

This year's out-going President, Kathy Charland, began the business part of our gathering with the presentation of awards earned by the club. The club is part of the 6th District, which is part of the total state of Wisconsin, and the General Federation of Woman's Clubs known throughout the nation. The awards included outstanding participation in areas of membership, public relations/communication, "economics," public affairs - safety, cultural exchange, conservation of natural resources, and a special award for attendance and participation (with instruction specifically to Gayle Van Ess) in the area of "living with chemicals."

The club also received certificates of merit for over 10% membership growth, for fund raising, and beautification of our community; along with conservation and environmental education.

The club was presented with a certificate of appreciation for its organization of the Sixth District Convention, held last October in Kewaskum, at Peace Church. (Thanks again area chamber of commerce members for your support).

Next, President Kathy Charland presented the award for Club Woman of the Year. This year the award went to Louise Martin for her over and above contributions to the club. Congratulations Louise!

A very special recognition then went to Karen Kletti, in honor of her 1st place award in the 6th District Annual Arts and Crafts Contest and 2nd place finish in the State-wide Contest between WFWC members. Karen entered her home-made bed quilt done in reds, blues, pinks, and shades of white. The quilt included some squares designed by herself. Good job Karen!

Finally, Kathy presented the new officers for '89-'90. They include Louise Martin, President, Barb Breitag, V.P., Diane Shreves, Treasurer, Diane Stangl, Rec. Secretary and Laurie Fechter, Corresponding Secretary.

The evening ended quietly with talk of November's Art and Craft Fair. Congratulations to all of this year's club members for an outstanding year and better tomorrows. Vacation Bible School at St. Lucas Lutheran Church

On July 24th, St. Lucas Lutheran Church will open its doors to the children of the community with its new "Jesus Is" Vacation Bible School. The idea of the VBS course, according to Vicar Steve Nuss, vicar of St. Lucas, is to "teach the children that 'Jesus Is' Savior, God, Man, Friend and Life, most of all." He added, "we want the children of our church and community to grow up with the certainty that God Loves them and shows that love most vividly in his Son, Jesus Christ."

The one-week course will include Bible study, games, songs, recreational activities, craft projects, all correlated to the Bible lesson themes. Each VBS student's workbook contains the Bible story for the day and related study materials.

"Everything that we do at the VBS will be centered on the Bible," Vicar Nuss said. "The children can learn their mathematics and history in school, but they need the Bible to give them direction for their lives."

This will be the third VBS conducted by a vicar at St. Lucas in as many years. St. Lucas, working in conjunction with the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod (WELS), participates in the vicar program which sends out third-year seminarians to work under ordained pastors as part of their training.

The Bible School will run from 9:00 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., Monday through Friday, July 24-28. All classes will be held at St. Lucas Lutheran School directly across the street from the church, at 1410 Parkview Drive.

The VBS is open to all children in the community from ages three to 14. Anyone interested in enrolling their children in St. Lucas Vacation Bible School, or wanting further information, should phone 626-2591 or 338-1392.

Being aroused by the smell of smoke in her home in this village at 3:15 a.m. Thursday of this week, Mrs. Bertha Casper hurried downstairs and discovered that a basket of laundry in a rear kitchen was on fire. The burning basket of wash was noticed in the nick of time as in a few moments the flames would have spread through the room. Marvin "Shorty" Schaefer, son-in-law of Mrs. Casper, who with his family also lives in the building and Lloyd Melius, a roomer, immediately carried the basket out to the yard and poured water on it to extinguish the blaze. Their quick work made it unnecessary to summon the fire department.

West Bend Co. Collection Demonstrates Historical Value of State Historical Society Business History Records Project

By Robert Granflaten, State Historical Society of Wisconsin

A lot more than meets the eye can be learned from the collection of West Bend Co. business records held in the archives of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin.

The records are among those of several Wisconsin industries — lumbering manufacturing, commerce, textiles, railroads and breweries — that are part of the Society's Business History Records Project. Funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, the project will result in processing and indexing of corporate records from 11 companies and three chambers of commerce.

The West Bend Co. material, one of several business collections to be processed as part of the project, is the subject of a three-part exhibit at the Society's headquarters building in Madison. Titled "More Than Pots and Pans," the exhibit includes a little of everything represented in the collection — from company correspondence and financial records to historical photographs, advertisements and product literature, and, of course, pots and pans.

The exhibit gives the Society an opportunity to show the depth of the collection, which contains records typical of those found in business collections plus a wealth of material not ordinarily found among donated corporate files.

The information embodied in the collection reveals much more than facts and figures from company ledgers. Together with the previously processed papers of Bernhard C. Ziegler, a company founder, the items form an important body of primary source material for historical researchers.

On the face of it, the collection documents the history of one component of the aluminum cookware industry — namely consumer products-type cookware — a manufacturing area in which Wisconsin was prominent. It traces West Bend's growth from the days of its earliest cookware products, through changes brought about by the Great Depression and World War II, and up to the vastly diversified product line that characterizes the company in the 1980s.

But other information is contained between the lines, and that's what makes the West Bend material unique, says Lynn Lubkeman, the archivist in charge of the Business History Records Project. The firm's product literature, as an example, not only gives historians clues to how marketing strategies changed over the years, but also reveals changes in social history, such as attitudes toward women as consumers.

When the company introduced its "Waterless Cooker" in 1920, allowing whole meals to be prepared over one burner, the product was advertised in "Good Housekeeping" magazine as a means of liberating women from kitchen drudgery, with a headline reading, "Here is Liberty Indeed for Every Housewife in the Land," complete with a Statue of Liberty logo.

Other advertising material in the collection emphasized not only that West Bend products were a requisite part of any modern kitchen, but that they represented a more convenient, timesaving, thrifty and healthful way to cook. That this type of advertising message was one American women were willing to embrace in the 1920s and '30s is evidenced by company records which indicate sales of the Waterless Cooker were largely responsible for carrying West Bend through the Depression years.

Indeed, until the outbreak of World War II, most women consumers seemed ready to accept the underlying assumption of West Bend's pre-war marketing strategy — that a housewife's principal concern was for her role as a provider of domestic quality of life. It was a very different kind of message that West Bend sent to the public during the war years.

Women were no longer depicted as being kitchen-bound by the product promoters, but as staunch defenders of the homefront. They were pictured not in aprons but in factory smocks as they helped West Bend wage the war effort. The war years brought about wholesale changes in West Bend's product lines, and with those changes came a whole new image of the company.

Aluminum was needed for the war effort and was banned for use in consumer products in 1941. West Bend reacted by shifting to production of more than 300 different items under defense contracts, including anti-aircraft cartridge cases for the Navy, powder tanks and rocket containers. Product literature took on a patriotic tone, complete with posters in red, white and blue that touted the company's new-found purpose.

The changes wrought by the war presaged the diversification that would characterize West Bend's growth through the next several decades. As the company began to gear up for resumption of peace-time production, its products would soon include the "Elgin," the first air-cooled outboard motor. Later, items made from copper, steel, brass and plastic began to roll off the assembly line, including electrical appliances, exercise equipment, bathroom and other home products.

In 1961, in deference to the changing nature of its products, West Bend Aluminum Co. dropped "Aluminum" from its corporate name, becoming simply The West Bend Co., and during the 1980s divested the aluminum cookware products that originally brought the company international recognition.

Thanks to the State Historical Society's West Bend collections, historians researching any number of topics — from social, economic and labor history to consumerism — now have access to primary source material that otherwise might have been lost or destroyed. The records of other companies in the Society's Business History Records Project, once processed and cataloged, will provide still more vital information documenting the history of business both within and outside of Wisconsin.

The three-part West Bend exhibit — located in the lobby, archives reading room and iconographic study room of the Society's headquarters building — is open free to the public Monday through Friday until Sept. 1. It is the first of several exhibits that will illustrate the progress of the Society's efforts to collect and interpret business history.

Volunteer members of the Kettle Moraine Hospice, Inc., recently held their annual Recognition Banquet at Cedar Ridge, of the Cedar Lake Home Tri-Campus. Program speaker, Pastor, Tom Townsend, commended the group for its caring and commitment philosophy. "In spite of all the pain, suffering, fear and anxiety of the terminally ill; Hospice is there to care, to give support; and this commitment is the Rainbow," he said. Pastor Townsend, a retired minister, spoke of the time and hours given freely by members to lend support and help make the lives of the terminally ill and their families more fulfilling and comfortable. "When these people become anxious, exhausted, or confused you are there for them," he added.

KMHS, Inc., provides this free supportive care around the Washington County area — in efforts to keep patients as fully alive as possible and to free members to go places and do things for themselves for a few hours. Wisconsin Electric's Smart Money Program Takes On New Life in Old Appliances Old refrigerators, freezers and air conditioners can be "born again" in an environmentally sound manner after they've served their useful lives in your kitchen, basement or window.

Those old appliances, "turned in" under Wisconsin Electric Power Co.'s Smart Money Energy Program, take on new life in the steel and aluminum in new appliances. In addition, their chemical components are recycled.

"During 1987 and 1988, Wisconsin Electric customers turned in more than 92,000 old refrigerators, freezers and air conditioners," said Valerie Clarke, superintendent of Residential Energy Management at WE. "Instead of disposing of them in landfills, which is a common practice, those units were shredded at scrap yards to reclaim aluminum and steel for use in other products." This year, an additional step is being taken with the 35,000 units that are expected to be turned in between May 1 and Aug. 31. "Before the appliances are scrapped, refrigerants will be drained for recycling, and capacitors will be removed and incinerated," Clarke explained.

Refrigerants contain chlorofluorocarbons, or CFCs, which were banned from spray cans in the late 1970s because of their effect on the stratospheric ozone layer. Capacitors in some refrigerators manufactured before 1980 contained small amounts of polychlorinated biphenyls, or PCBs, which have been classified by the Environmental Protection Agency as a hazardous substance. "There are no federal or state regulations requiring the recycling of the CFCs when disposing of household appliances," Clarke noted. "But since we are removing a significant number of old appliances each year in our Smart Money program, we want to dispose of them in the safest manner possible."

Wisconsin Electric offers its customers $50 and $100 U.S. Savings Bonds for removing old, operating refrigerators, freezers and room air conditioners.

"We're 'purchasing' conservation as one method to meet growing electrical demand," Clarke explained. "By helping our customers save money on their energy bills, we help keep rates low by postponing the need for new power plants."

In loving memory of Tammy Sue Liepert, who passed away, ten years ago, July 8, 1979:

We often sit and think of you
And speak of how you died;

Food Dehydration Workshop Offered

Kewaskum Statesman,
Friday, July 7, 1989, Page 11

Drying is one of the oldest methods to preserve food. For thousands of years, people have dried foods to preserve them for leaner times. Preserving seasonal foods, such as this year's vegetable crop, by drying is still useful and convenient. It also conserves storage space and offers an alternative for those who need a break from traditional canning methods.

Drying or dehydration is a process which inactivates enzymes and removes water from a food to a point at which micro-organisms are inhibited from growing. Consequently, food drying is a great way to preserve foods.

The process of dehydration and refreshing (soaking and/or cooking foods to hydrate them) is being offered through the Washington County Extension Office. The workshop is scheduled for Wednesday, July 12 from 1:00 - 4:00 p.m. and will be held in Room 119 in the County Courthouse. Margaret Gubin of Juneau will instruct the class. Through personal insight, including eight years of teaching and a recently published cookbook, she will give practical application suggestions for dehydrating foods. Included in the workshop are finished samples of recipes prepared by her.

The numbers will be limited for this workshop, and a $3.00 registration fee is being charged to defer the cost of printed materials and food samples. Registration is required and due before July 7.
Mail registration to Marie

Highway 45 Bypass Work Progressing

Machinery spread gravel in preparation for laying concrete along a portion of the final two lanes of the Highway 45 bypass.

Motorists should be aware and prepared for changing traffic patterns as vehicles are re-routed around the construction throughout the summer. The bypass work is expected to be completed by late fall.

Road Construction Begins on Paradise Drive in West Bend

Road construction is expected to start the week of July 3, 1989 on the reconstruction of Paradise Drive, from the Fox River Valley Railroad crossing to CTH "G," in West Bend. The work will consist of grading, base course, and the construction of a two-lane bituminous concrete pavement with 8-foot wide shoulders.

The work will be performed under a contract let to H. James & Sons, of Fennimore, Wisconsin, at an estimated cost of $274,085.00. Financing will be shared on approximately a 76-24 percentage by the Federal government and the City of West Bend, respectively, from funds provided primarily by gas taxes.

Paradise Drive will be closed to through traffic during construction operations, with access only to local property owners. It is anticipated that the road will be closed during the week of July 3, 1989 and will be reopened by mid-September.

A marked detour will be provided by the City of West Bend. The detour will follow Main Street, Decorah Road, and CTH "G."

It is anticipated that this project will be completed by mid-September.

Every possible effort will be made to provide continuous and safe ingress and egress to all residential properties during this reconstruction, but pedestrians and motorists are urged to use caution in the construction zone.

World's Largest Cheese to Make Appearance In Kewaskum

Belle of Wisconsin is moved out of the Simon's Specialty Cheese cooler onto her specially designed, refrigerated "Cheesemobile."

A view of Belle as she is seen by millions of people across the United States, in her specially designed, refrigerated "Cheesemobile."

MADISON, WIS. — The term "big cheese" has long been used to describe an important person. But these days, mention of The Big Cheese can mean only one thing to millions of Americans: Belle of Wisconsin, the World's Largest Cheese. Belle, recently on a cross-country tour, will soon make an appearance in Kewaskum.

The World's Record Mammoth Cheddar is a 40,060-pound wonder. At 20' long, 5'8" wide and 5'10" high, Belle will be listed in the next Guinness Book of World Records. The big cheese will be at Kewaskum Sentry, #475, 927 Fond du Lac Avenue on Saturday, July 15 from 8 a.m. - 12 noon.

The Grade A Wisconsin Mammoth Cheddar was made March 14, 1988, in Little Chute, Wisconsin, by an expert cheesemaking team that worked 24 hours straight to produce her, using more than 400,000 pounds of fresh Wisconsin milk in the process.

Belle is completing a 15-month national marketing tour of food stores and special events, and recently completed an eight-day "Victory Tour" across Wisconsin. All the activity — designed to promote sales of Wisconsin cheese — is part of the largest cheese promotion ever undertaken, and it has put Belle onstage for her fans to see.

During her tour, Belle received an honorary star from the Hollywood Walk of Fame (where they love BIG stars), appeared on national television shows, and generated hundreds of inquiries from around the U.S., and as far away as London and Australia.

In many areas where Belle appeared, she had official police escorts into town, appeared in parades, was greeted by busloads of schoolchildren and senior citizens, and was welcomed by majors, Chamber of Commerce representatives and other dignitaries.

The 60-foot Cheesemobile that transports Belle is a specially designed, refrigerated tractor-trailer with computer-controlled systems for maintaining exact temperature and humidity conditions for aging the cheese. After Belle's final appearance at the Wisconsin State Fair in August, the big cheese will be a premium, pleasingly sharp Wisconsin Cheddar.

"Belle of Wisconsin uniquely symbolizes Wisconsin's position as the top cheese-producing state, and is a memorable way to remind consumers that Wisconsin cheese is tops in quality, variety, taste and volume," said Susan Hughes, a cheese expert with the Wisconsin Milk Marketing Board. Hughes escorted the big cheese to major markets throughout the national tour.

Master Cheesemaker Dave Simon, of Simon's Specialty Cheese, made Belle for the Wisconsin Cheese Institute (WCI), a foundation funded by Wisconsin cheesemakers and marketers. Oklahoma City-based Fleming Companies, Inc., the nation's top wholesale food distributor with 4,700 stores in 37 states, purchased Belle from WCI and is sponsoring the tour to food stores and special events nationwide.

Wisconsin Milk Marketing Board, a non-profit marketing organization funded by more than 37,000 Wisconsin dairy farmers, is coordinating national publicity for the tour and the many sales promotions that will be held in connection with Belle's appearance in various markets.

Dairyland Seed recently acquired land near Gibson City as part of its continuing effort to expand hybrid corn and soybean research.

Executive Vice-President Tom Strachota recently announced plans to expand its research facilities. The first step in expanding its Corn Belt Research facilities is the acquisition of land near Gibson City.

"We recently completed a purchase of approximately 75 acres of land south of Gibson City," said Strachota. "The 75 acres of land consist of a uniform drummer soil type."

According to Dairyland Vice-President of Research, Dr. Paul Sun, "This 75 acre piece of land provides us some of the finest soil in the world on which to conduct hybrid corn and soybean research."

Dr. Sun pointed out that having this high quality soil was fundamental to the successful development of superior hybrid corn and soybean varieties in the future.

Dairyland plans to construct office, lab, cold storage, machine shop and equipment storage facilities later this year. In addition, future plans also call for two soybean greenhouses to be erected.

Dairyland Seed has been conducting research at Gibson City for the past four years under a lease arrangement. The acquisition of this land and construction of these facilities will allow Dairyland to expand its research efforts for the Corn Belt.

Dairyland Seed is a third generation family-owned business headquartered out of West Bend, Wisconsin. Research locations include Clinton, Wisconsin, Sloughhouse, California, and Gibson City, Illinois. Dairyland's corn conditioning facility is located at Mt. Hope, Wisconsin.

For more information, call or write Dairyland Seed, P.O. Box 958 West Bend, Wisconsin 53095. Phone 414-338-0163.

CRP Crop Base Reductions For Contract Term Only

Enrollment in the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) reduces ASCS crop bases only for the 10-year term of the CRP contract. It is not a permanent reduction.

The reduction is in proportion to the number of acres the participant enrolls. If the participant enrolls 10 percent of his cropland, he reduces his crop base by 10 percent. The participant chooses which base, or bases, to reduce.

The next signup for the Conservation Reserve Program is July 17 through August 4 at county ASCS offices.

WALLEYE ANGLERS REMINDED OF CHANGED BAG LIMITS

MADISON, WI — Walleye anglers are reminded that daily bag limits are changed on certain lakes in northern Wisconsin. The bag limits are posted on signs at lake access points where the limits are reduced.

The normal five walleye per day and 10 walleye total possession limits remain for all other lakes.

"Special regulations have been set for Balsam Lake in Polk County and Trout Lake in Vilas County," Doug Morrissette, DNR Bureau of Fisheries Management director said. "The limit on Trout Lake is two walleyes, 15 inches or larger and on Balsam Lake the limit is three walleyes, 16 inches or larger."

Megabucks Will Be New Concept for Lottery

MILWAUKEE...Wisconsin's MEGABUCKS Lotto*America will give state Lottery players a new type of game, a pari-mutuel game, Wisconsin Lottery Executive Director William F. Flynn, Jr. has announced.

"Our instant games have pre-determined prize amounts that are randomly distributed throughout a game when we print the tickets. In our pari-mutuel game, MEGABUCKS, the numbers of winners and sizes of prizes will vary from drawing to drawing," Flynn explained.

"With an instant game, we know that if we sell 30 million tickets, we will have three dozen winners at one level, 1,296 winners at the second level and so on.

"In a pari-mutuel game, while odds have been calculated for each prize level, the fact that the odds of winning the top jackpot are 1:12,913,583 does not mean selling 13 million tickets for a particular drawing guarantees one jackpot winner.

"As we have seen in other states, where the luck of the draw has allowed the jackpot to grow to world record levels, it is impossible to predict if a jackpot will be hit or how many players may share in the big jackpot," Flynn explained.

Player participation in MEGABUCKS will decide if the jackpot for the drawing grows above the $2 million minimum guaranteed by Lotto*America and how much above the $2 million the jackpot actually reaches. The more tickets sold for a particular drawing the larger the jackpot becomes.

MEGABUCKS tickets will be sold at more than 1,400 retail locations across the state. A ticket will cost $1 and will give the player two sets of numbers in a drawing.
