Annual Audit Report

Village In Good Financial Shape

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

A review Monday night, of the village's annual audit reflects a very favorable financial picture for Kewaskum, according to Nicholas Quartaro, CPA, with the auditing firm of Conley, McDonald, Sprague & Co.

Revenues exceeded expenditures by approximately $81,000 for 1989, noted Quartaro, and that, along with sound budgeting procedures has put the village in a very good financial picture. He also noted that the 1990 budget and village's fund equity have Kewaskum on a solid foundation. "Of the $1.4 million loan limit available to the village, Kewaskum has 46% it could still borrow and that's a good figure," stated Quartaro.

"In going through the village's records," stated Quartaro, "There were very few audit changes due to the good job done by Dan (Schmidt) and Janet (Knops) your book-keeper." That's not usually the case in small communities, noted Quartaro.

In going through the various areas of the audit, Quartaro had only one major recommendation and that was that the village consider a rate increase for the water utilities. "While the department is in the black, its rate of return is only 4%. The Public Service Commission recommends a return of 5 1/4%, so I would suggest you apply to the PSC in the near future for permission to raise your rates."

In other action the board approved two summer beer licenses, one for the Kewaskum Softball Association and the second for the Firemen/Legion Picnic in July.

Building permits for a detached garage and a sun porch were also approved.

Board members Gary Gavin and Ken Bonlender reported on library business. Gavin advised the trustees the village had received $3,132.00 as its fourth quarter payment through the county library system. He also advised the board that Library Director Kitty Hlavaty had expressed dissatisfaction with her latest salary increase, noting she felt it should have been more. Several board members said her raise had been calculated according to the standard wage scale used for all village employees.

Dan Schmidt noted that, despite a postponement of the date for the library's loss of county funding, it is still being required to come into compliance to upgrade the director's certification.

Bonlender advised the board that the county is also looking into a state library system. "That package comes to $60 million," he stated. Bonlender told the board he was not in favor of the idea. "If the state gets a hold of this, I think we're going to have a lot of problems. For one thing, everyone will have to be in compliance. If not,

Stay Inside, Off the Phone To Avoid a Lightning Strike

Kewaskum Statesman, Thursday, May 10, 1990, Page 5

It's been 15 years, but Char Zarling of Kewaskum still gets anxious when a thunderstorm is in the vicinity.

Zarling's live on Long Lake in the Kettle Moraine State Park during the summer months. It was a Sunday afternoon in August, 1975. Most of the day it had been raining and storming. The sun finally came out and while Char walked out on to the patio to set up the lawn chairs, lightning struck a nearby Hickory tree, came down the side of the tree and then struck her, knocking her to the ground.

One of her children heard her scream and her husband, Bob, found her laying on the patio. She had stopped breathing and had no pulse. She was knocked unconscious.

Char was taken to a local hospital by ambulance. She had burns on her left leg. Her heartbeat was stable, but the electrocardiogram looked like she had suffered a heart attack. She woke up with a severe pain in the front part of her head, which she had for several months. "I couldn't even call it a headache because it wasn't like any headache I'd ever had," said Char. "I had nightmares for a week of this huge ball of fire that came towards me. I heard a loud noise when the bolt hit."

Last year lightning killed four people and injured seven others in Wisconsin, according to the National Weather Service office in Milwaukee.

Considering that a band of thunderstorms can produce tens of thousands of lightning strikes over a region of two or three states in one 24-hour period, it is truly amazing that there are not more people killed or injured by lightning, said Richard Orville, a meteorologist in Albany, N.Y. and one of the nation's foremost experts on lightning.

Being outside or being inside on the telephone are two dangerous places to be during a thunderstorm, said Orville, director of the National Lightning Detection Network, a federally supported network established in 1987 that keeps track of lightning strikes in the continental US for research purposes.

Most of the deaths by lightning nationally over the last 20 years occurred in open fields, Orville said. The next most dangerous place was under trees.

"If you can't get indoors, one of the safest places to be during a thunderstorm is in your car," Orville said.

"We have a lot of respect for lightning now," Char said. When a storm approaches, we move indoors as quickly as possible. We don't like to talk on the phone and we even unplug the T.V. MPTC Learning Specialist at Workshop

Janet Eisberner, student learning specialist for Moraine Park Technical College, attended the first annual Transition Workshop to discuss ways to assist high school students with learning difficulties who plan to attend Vocational, Technical and Adult Education campuses.

The workshop was co-sponsored by the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction, Wisconsin Board of VTAE and the Wisconsin Division of Vocational Rehabilitation.

More than 200 participants from approximately 150 schools and other education-related organizations attended the workshop held April 25-26 in Madison.

Conference participants were encouraged by State Superintendent Herbert J. Grover, VTAE State Director Dwight York and DVR Administrator Judy Norman-Nunnery to implement transition activities with the local school districts, VTAE districts and the DVR offices.

Eisberner is a member of a work group that also includes Irene Heather and Sue Burgard of Kewaskum High School, Elaine Heyer of Ripon High School, Terry Kosloske of Oakfield High School, Frank Kubick of Berlin High School, Maryjane Cass of Hartford High School, Patti Rabe Sawyer of Fond du Lac Goodrich High School and Matt Kallio of CESA 6.

The work group will meet in September to coordinate information to smooth the transition of students with learning difficulties to Moraine Park.

'Scared Stiff'

KHS Students Receive Lesson in Staying Alive

Kewaskum Police Officer Robert Buddenhagen talked to KHS students about the problems caused by driving and drinking during his presentation "Scared Stiff."

"Good morning ladies and gentlemen. My name is Officer Robert Buddenhagen and I am with the Kewaskum Police Department...I'm not here to entertain you, but to talk to you about saving your own life and possibly the life of a friend, and how each of you individually can contribute toward reducing the slaughter and fatal accidents on the streets and highways in this area."

This was the introduction to an important presentation given to six classes at the Kewaskum High School called "Scared Stiff." Officer Buddenhagen explained in vivid terms the hazards of drinking and driving. He told the students that "today 360 teenagers will be seriously injured," suffering internal and external injuries, leaving permanent disabilities and constant reminders of the hazards of drinking and driving. Officer Buddenhagen went on to say that even more tragic is that "eleven teenagers will lose their lives in the same one day period" from injuries resulting from an accident.

The program combines color slides of serious accidents with a frank lecture on the result of drinking and driving. Included in the presentation is a description of an autopsy. It also takes the students through a fictional funeral as seen by a 17 year old who died in a drunken driver accident.

The "Scared Stiff" program was presented at the Kewaskum High School during the week preceding the prom. Kewaskum Police Chief Richard Knoebel said that "Prom time is always an uneasy time for parents who worry about auto accidents and drinking and driving. Being a rural community it is necessary for our young people to drive to attend special events but if this program opens the eyes of those attending and saves one life the time and effort will be well worth it." Knoebel went on to say "I have received good comments on Officer Buddenhagen's presentation and the teacher in whose classes the program was presented has shown an interest in repeating the program next year."

Retirement Reception for School Employees

The Kewaskum School Board and Staff cordially invite community members to join them in honoring several employees who will be retiring at the end of the school year.

Retirees are Mr. Roy Esser, Kewaskum High School Vice Principal; Virginia Froehlich, Teacher; Belva Cundy, Cook; Audrey Heberer, Cook; and Dolores Kertscher, Cook.

Retiring board member, Don Nowak, will also be recognized.

A reception will be held Thursday, May 24, 1990 in the library at Kewaskum High School from 4:00 - 5:00 p.m. A presentation time of 4:15 has been set for any individual or group to recognize them.

Ayer to Perform Farewell Appearance

The 70-member Moraine Chorus will say goodbye to its founder and director during its spring semester concert at 2 p.m., Sunday, May 13.

Peter Ayer, a professor of music at the University of Wisconsin Center — Washington County, started the group in 1969 and has directed it ever since. He is retiring from UWWC at the end of the school year.

The public is invited to the concert in the UWWC Union Theatre. Admission is free.

Ayer said that many of the numbers were selected by chorus members from their favorites that have been sung over the years. "One of the things I feel good about with the chorus," he said, "is the amount of really significant music literature that we've done here. We've done some of the best choral works that have ever been written."

Chorus favorites being included on Sunday's program, Ayer said, include "Abide with me," which he called "one-of-the-best-known hymns, ever;" Cole Porter's "In the Still of the Night;" a spiritual "Live Humble;" and Gabriel Foure's "Requiem," which Ayer calls "one of the really sublime choral works of all time." Variety has been a hallmark of the chorus programs over the years. Ayer said, "We sing a lot of music that some people think is too egalitarian to be performed by elite musical organizations. What they don't understand is that many times a piece of music becomes great because of the way it is performed."

Appearing in the concert will be two singers who have been with the chorus ever since its first rehearsal in 1969: Pat Groh of West Bend and Carol Ayer, Peter's wife.

Three chorus members will perform solos at the concert: Al Marschner, Bob Schuppel — a former UWWC student and Laurie Skjerseth.

All solos over the years have been sung by chorus members. Ayer said, "I've made it a goal. We never import soloists. We always use soloists that are in the group."

For more information on the concert, call UWWC in West Bend, 338-5200.

I say BRAVO, to the KHS Booster Club for sponsoring the Late Night Frolic for approximately 200 Kewaskum High prom-goers who attended the post prom party.

I am sad, that my daughter didn't get to attend for reasons untold; however, I am over-enthused about the thought that the students having such good clean-fun all together at the same time and till 4 a.m. at the Fond du Lac YMCA was a fabulous idea. Even bus transportation was provided. I am sure this event will remain in the minds and hearts of all. It's a hard age, and they deserve some fun and a place to go for CLEAN ENTERTAINMENT. Thanks to Kewaskum Booster Club and especially to parents who encouraged their sons or daughters and to you the students who had the GUTS to go and try out something new and different. GOD BLESS YOU, STUDENTS!

Summer Jobs for Students No Longer Tax Exempt

Students looking forward to summer jobs will usually not be able to claim the "exempt" status on their income tax withholding forms, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Like many low-income people and part-time workers, most students could exempt themselves from income tax withholding in the past. Tax law changes that took effect in 1987 mean that most high school and college-age workers now need to have tax withheld from their paychecks.

If a person can be taken as a dependent on someone else's return, and that person has combined wage and nonwage income of more than $500, then he or she will be unable to claim exemption from withholding. Nonwage income includes such things as interest and dividends. That means if you make more than $500 for the year, and just one dollar of it is interest, you won't be able to claim exempt status on your W-4, the IRS emphasizes. A person who has wage income only can usually claim exemption from withholding on the W-4 if his or her wages in 1990 total $3,250 or less.

Most students can avoid an unexpected year-end tax bill by claiming single status with one allowance on Form W-4. Publications 505 and 919 have more information on income tax withholding. To get a free copy of these or any of more than 100 other booklets, call the IRS toll free at 1-800-424-FORM (3676).

The executive's wife picked up their little daughter and asked, "Do you like your new nurse, dear?" "No, I don't," the girl replied. "I hate her. I'd like to grab her and bite her neck like daddy does."

Farmington OM Team Earns Coveted Ranatra Fusca Award at State Competition

A Farmington Elementary Odyssey of the Mind team, comprised of third and fifth graders, was awarded the exclusive Ranatra Fusca Creativity Award at the state competition.

The Ranatra Fusca Creativity Award is presented to teams or individuals who exhibit exceptional creativity. This is generally awarded for some aspect of a team's performance or behavior at a competition. However, on occasion it is given for outstanding ideas beyond the OM competitions. Those teams and individuals who are given this award at the world finals have their names engraved on the Ranatra Fusca Trophy. This trophy is on exhibit at the world finals and on occasion at other areas. The award is felt to be the essence of the Odyssey of the Mind Program.

The Farmington team entered the Omitronic Humor Division, and was comprised of fifth graders Brian Branchford, Mike Danielson, Tyler Stiff, and Eric Van Denmark and Mike Kertscher, Megan Neville, and Stacy Siebenaler were from the third grade. The team was coached by Fran Lider - Farmington 5th grade teacher and parents Jacquie Branchford and Kathy VanDemark.

The children used their materials in an original way. For example, they were making meatballs in Julia Child's Kitchen. They needed pork so they used an actual made-up pig. When they needed sour milk, the team used a made-up cow. Their stove was the omitronic character, and they used its' responses to show fire, water and all the needed responses quite well, in a way that depicted how a stove may really feel if it were being cooked upon.

The kids enjoyed themselves and learned a lot from the experience. Some of their comments included, "it was fun;" "it caused a rise in my responsibility level;" and "it was quite an experience."

Kiwanis Clubs Observe Prayer Week

Kewaskum Kiwanis members will recognize Worldwide Kiwanis Prayer Week May 13-19, 1990, said Robert Sparks, president of the Kiwanis Club of Kewaskum.

In observance of Worldwide Kiwanis Prayer Week, the club will invite the local clergy to its May 7 meeting as guests to speak on religion in our community, said Sparks.

The observance, which began in 1980, provides Kiwanis clubs with an opportunity to promote religious activities throughout the community, as well as recognizing individuals for their outstanding contributions to spiritual welfare, said Sparks.

The first Kiwanis club was chartered on January 21, 1915, in Detroit, Michigan. Today, Kiwanis has grown to number 8,500 clubs and 320,000 members in 73 nations around the world. Clubs sponsor community service projects under the motto "We Build."

Last year, Kiwanis clubs raised and spent more than $65 million on community service activities, with special emphasis on meeting the needs of underprivileged children. Kiwanis members also donated more than 22 million volunteer hours - to these service activities.

Congress Spring Hearings Air Proposed Rule Changes

MADISON, WI — More than 4,500 concerned sports persons and conservationists met across the state during the 1990 Conservation Congress Spring Hearings last week in Wisconsin.

In total, those attending the spring hearings voted on a collection of 52 resolutions. The various resolutions that were favored will translate into rule changes later this year or in 1991. The question receiving the highest number of popular votes was that of allowing baiting for deer hunting. The question was favored 2,970 to 631. On a county basis the proposal was approved in 64 counties, defeated in seven counties with one county not voting.

Most counties favored a question asking the DNR not to develop administrative rules banning many semi-automatic firearms in use for hunting. A total of 70 county hearings favored that resolution while one opposed it and one abstained from voting. Rock County opposed it and Menomonee County did not vote.

By popular and county vote, sports persons expressed overwhelming support to the Conservation Congress in favor of continued operation of the Poynette Game Farm's production of pheasants. Voters also underscored a change in emphasis from the current stocking to establishment of a hardier and wilder strain of pheasant similar to the Iowa strain now being raised.

Other questions winning big included all changes in baiting rules, elimination of the state-issued bear-dog permits, increasing the size limit for lake sturgeon, and extension of shore fishing for lake trout to include all of April and September.

Questions that were voted down by large margins included prohibition of hunting other wild animals during the hunting hours for the spring turkey seasons, prohibition of shooting of shotguns and muzzle-loaders off or across unpaved public roads, and all of the northern pike management questions except for the question favoring present statewide no size limit and five fish daily bag limit which was approved.

Valley Reports Earnings Increase; Declares Dividend

April 25th the Department of Revenue (DOR) began mailing out $184.8 million in rebate checks to state taxpayers. The estimated average check will be about $123 and the maximum payment is $260. Many people are wondering who will, and will not receive checks, and how the size of the credit is being determined.

Approximately 1.5 million school credit payments are being distributed through the first week of May. Because the checks are in addition to any 1989 state income tax payment that a taxpayer may receive, many taxpayers will receive both a regular state tax refund and a school credit check from the DOR this year. A notice describing how the one-time payment was computed will accompany each school credit check.

Taxpayers do not have to file a claim form to receive the one-time school credit payments. The check will be mailed automatically to taxpayers who qualified for a "School Property Tax/Rent Credit" on their 1987 or 1988 state income tax forms and had a state tax liability after the credit was applied.

The DOR has already received inquiries from taxpayers who receive homestead credits in 1987 and 1988, but did not have an income tax liability in those two years will not be eligible for the credit.

Taxpayers who do not receive a school credit check and believe they are entitled to one, should begin by reviewing their 1987 and 1988 tax records to determine if they qualified for the "School Property Tax/Rent Credit" and had a net tax liability in 1987 or 1988.

A special taxpayer assistance unit has been set up to respond to inquiries about missing checks and other problems. The address and phone number are: Department of Revenue, School Property Tax Credit, P.O. Box 8903, Madison, WI 53708, (608) 267-0666. Taxpayers should wait until May 7 before reporting a missing check.

Special Meeting to Mark Stroke Awareness Month

The Hartford Area Stroke Club will hold a special meeting during May, which is Stroke Awareness Month.

The club, which is co-sponsored by The Elder Peer Counseling Program of Washington County, Senior Friends, Outreach to the Aging and the American Heart Association of Wisconsin, will meet on Wednesday, May 16, at 1:00 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church, 738 W. Monroe Street.

The program for the meeting will include a talk by Shari Purman, OTR an occupational therapist from Hartford Memorial Hospital who will discuss stroke rehabilitation and adaptive equipment for the stroke survivors.

Membership in the Hartford Area Stroke Club is free.

Stroke is the third leading cause of death in America and in Wisconsin after heart attack and cancer.

Fortunately, mortality from stroke is declining. Since 1973, the death rate from stroke has dropped an average of 5.5 percent a year.

For more information on the Hartford Area Stroke Club or the May 16th meeting, call 673-5652 or 644-5796.

Pap Tests Crucial to Early Detection

By Judith Shipstock, R.N., Nurse Practitioner

Each year, 6,000 women in the United States die of cervical cancer and another 13,500 women are diagnosed with the disease. Cervical cancer is the second most common cancer found in women. It is also one of the easiest to detect and treat, if discovered early.

Cervical cancer occurs when abnormal cells on the surface of a woman's cervix extend into deeper layers of the cervix or spread to other organs. There are seldom any symptoms, particularly in the early stages of the disease, and the cancer can easily go unchecked. However, cervical cancer can be detected by an exam that includes a Pap test.

A Pap test is a simple, painless procedure done during a pelvic exam. A sample of cells are taken from a woman's cervix, put on a glass slide and studied under a microscope. If the cells are healthy, the Pap test is called negative. A positive or abnormal Pap test indicates that a woman has an infection, abnormal cell changes that could lead to cervical cancer, or cervical cancer. All three conditions need to be treated. If discovered early and treated, cervical cancer can be cured nearly 100 percent of the time.

An annual gynecological exam, including a Pap test, is the best way to prevent cervical cancer. A woman should receive her first Pap test as soon as she becomes sexually active or by the time she is 18. Most health care professionals recommend that a woman receive a Pap test annually; however, a woman should consult with her doctor to determine the schedule best for her.

Some women are at greater risk for cervical cancer than others. The following women are at most risk for cervical cancer:

- women who are sexually active
- began having sexual intercourse at an early age.
- have had multiple partners,
- are cigarette smokers,
- have had a sexually transmitted disease,
- or have not received annual gynecological exams.

Daughters of women who took a drug to prevent a miscarriage while pregnant may also be at risk for cervical cancer, even if the women have never had sex.

To prevent cervical cancer, a woman should have a Pap test once a year or as often as her doctor recommends. A woman should also report any unusual vaginal bleeding or discharge to a health professional immediately.

not only will the library's funding be cut off, but all of the county's as well."

In other business the board approved the hiring of a list of part-time summer employees and the new secretary for the Municipal and Police Departments.

The board turned down a request by the Kewaskum Softball Association to hold a third tournament at no cost to the association for the use of the Kiwanis Park diamond and facilities.

Parks Chairman Tom McElhatton advised the board the association is already being given free use of the facility for two other week-end tournaments. Trustee Mary Krueger said if entry fees were being collected for the tournament she could see no reason not to charge the association for the use of the facilities. The board unanimously voted to deny the request.

McElhatton also informed the board that the village had received a donation of $100 from the Kewaskum Horseshoe League toward the pit lights.

Public Works Superintendent Augie Bilgo advised the board that he had a wood chipper in for demonstration purposes. The chipper reduced a stack of brush that would have filled two trucks, into one small pile, he noted. "I think the chipper is the way to go," he stated.

Schmidt told the board a used chipper could be purchased for about $4,500, however it did not have any safety features. A new unit would cost $15,000 - $18,000. Krueger said, "we might as well look at one that's big enough and equipped to do the job because we're going to be using it for a long time."

Bilgo also suggested the village look into organizing a fall "Clean Sweep" operation. We no longer pick up hazardous materials including paint removers, paint and other chemicals with the garbage. If it is put out with the trash, we put it aside. With a 'clean sweep' day, residents can bring in those materials on a designated date and we could have a licensed company come in and haul them away for a fee.

Bilgo also noted residents are calling in about garbage again being brought into the village by non-residents. He said the situation was being watched.

Bilgo told the board another item the village should look into is the setting up of a rented dumpster for construction refuse. We can't keep throwing lumber and stuff into our garbage truck, he said. He suggested the village consider a requirement or ordinance that when a party gets a building permit for a new home or even remodeling, they should be required to have a dumpster at the site until the work is completed. Apartments and commercial projects are already required to do that, he noted.

In other action the board awarded a contract in the amount of $32,141, to Payne & Dolan, for asphalt repair and paving work throughout the village.

Police Chief Richard Knoebel informed the trustees that his officers will again be handing out baseball cards. The cost of the cards is being picked up by Valley Bank of Kewaskum.

Chief Knoebel asks that parents remind their children not to run into the street when they see the police cars. The youngsters should wave to the officer who will pull up to the curb and hand out the cards on the passenger side of the squad.

WE Redesigns Customer Bills

Wisconsin Electric Power Co. has redesigned customer bills to provide more information and make them easier to read and less costly to process.

"Our customers told us they wanted to more easily locate the amount due and payment date," said Nancy Noeske, vice president of Consumer Relations at WE. "That information now appears at the very top of the bill."

The new bill is printed on a cream-colored background instead of gold, which makes it easier to read.

The new bill is divided in three parts. The first section summarizes previous payment information. The second section contains current consumption data and the third section computes the amount due. Added information allows the customers to compare electricity consumption with the same period during the previous year.

A new window envelope and perforated payment stub at the bottom of the bill will reduce processing costs for the 41,000 bill payments Wisconsin Electric receives each day.

Mother's Day Remembrance

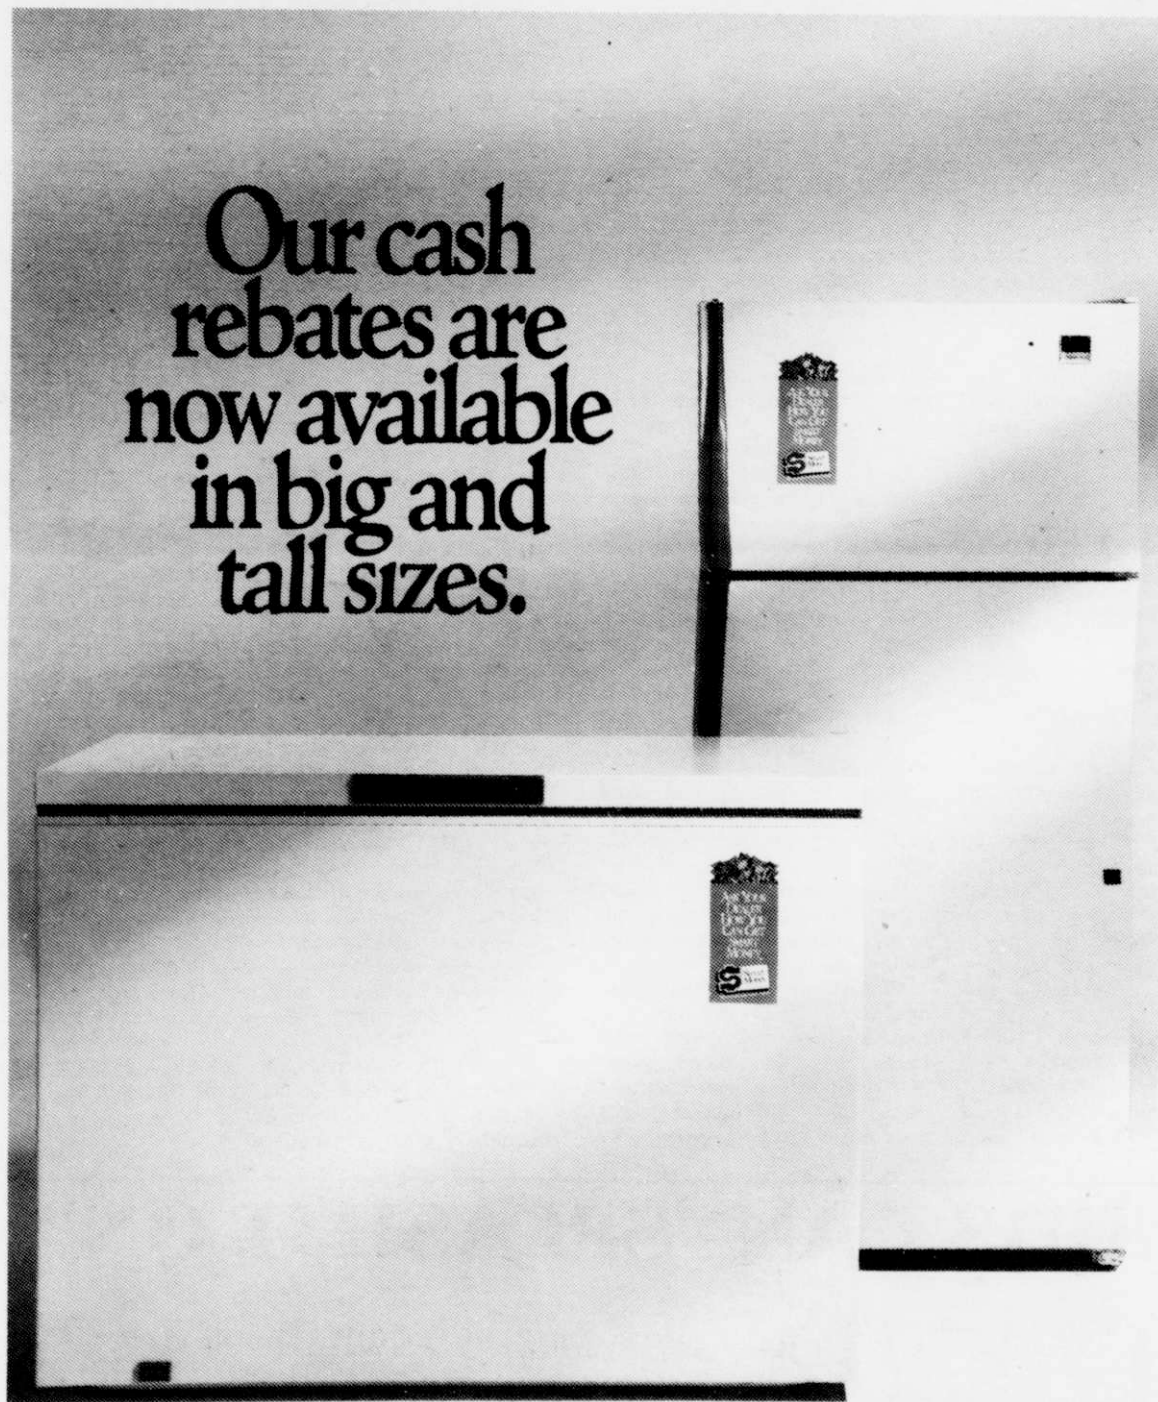

As Mother's Day approaches, I am reminded of a song I sang in a play many years ago. The author is unknown:

M is for the million things she gave me,
O means only that she's growing old,
T is for the tears were shed to save me,
H is for her heart of purest gold.
E is for her eyes with lovelight shining,
R means right, and right she'll always be -

Put them all together they spell MOTHER a word that means the world to me.

General Clinic Adds On-Site Ultrasound

Ultrasound Helps Answer Questions About Fetal Development and Conditions in Internal Organs

Kewaskum Statesman,

Thursday, May 10, 1990, Page 16

David Lindholm, General Clinic sonographer, explains how ultrasound uses sound waves to produce a picture of internal body organs. The hand-held transducer "scans" the skin surface and picks up sound waves from tissues inside the body. The sounds are then converted into images on the screen. Ultrasound is a new on-site service of the General Clinic.

Ultrasound, a technique that uses sound waves to produce a picture of internal body organs, has been added in February to the services of the General Clinic West Bend.

The new ultrasound examination area is part of the General Clinic X-Ray Department, and is under the supervision of David Lindholm, sonographer.

Lindholm said that, at the General Clinic, ultrasound is being used specifically in three areas. In obstetrics, the use of ultrasound helps determine the size and development of the fetus. Ultrasound is also used in the female pelvic area to determine such things as uterine fibroids or aneurisms. In the general abdominal area, ultrasound looks at many organs, including the kidneys, gall bladder, spleen and pancreas.

"Ultrasound uses sound waves instead of X-rays to make a picture," explained Lindholm, who has worked with ultrasound for 12 years. "A human being can hear 16,000 to 20,000 cycles per second. Ultrasound produces waves of 2.25 to 10 million cycles per second."

Lindholm said that the benefits of ultrasound are that it is a non-invasive procedure, painless, and has no known harmful side-effects.

And, he added, ultrasound often reveals things that won't show up on an X-ray. For example, ultrasound is more sensitive to tissues and can indicate how thick a tissue wall is, or whether there is bile or sludge.

Over 99 percent of gall bladder examinations are done using ultrasound, Lindholm noted.

Some areas of the body, however, cannot be examined by ultrasound because they are hollow, he added.

Ultrasound can determine the age of a fetus through the measurement of skull and limbs. Its size, development and position are noted. Often, the patient will take home a print of the ultrasound image —

In the abdominal area, ultrasound gives a good picture of any calcifications in the liver, or tiny stones in the gall bladder.

Doppler is used to determine how fast blood is flowing through the body.

The state-of-the-art ultrasound unit at the General Clinic is operated by a disk driven computer with a touch-control screen. The sonographer uses a hand-held device called a transducer to direct the sound waves into a specific area.

He moves the transducer across the skin surface, "scanning" the area. The sound waves bounce off tissues inside the body, like echoes, and are converted into an image on the screen. Bones, fluids and tissues of the human body each reflect ultrasound waves differently.

Ultrasound can create a two-dimensional still picture called a sonogram. Another form, called real-time, shows movement of the organs or fetus. Doppler ultrasound, a third type, gives sound signals instead of pictures and is used to monitor the fetal heartbeat.

For the patient, the typical ultrasound examination takes about 45 minutes, said Lindholm, time that includes preparation, a preliminary interview, and a change of clothes into a hospital gown. The pictures produced by ultrasound are read at the clinic by a radiologist.

Ultrasound is performed at the request of the patient's physician.

Ultrasound, now a standard procedure in modern diagnostic medicine, got its start in World War II when it was used to look for U-boats. The technology has benefitted from the space program and is also used in science and industry. Lindholm pointed out that anyone who has used a fish finder on a boat is already familiar with ultrasound.

Corporate Contributions Decision Could Benefit Wisconsin

By Senator Donald K. Stitt

Last summer, Senator Lynn Adelman and myself drafted a measure that offers a series of changes to our state's campaign finance law. Overall, our plan seeks to reduce the impact of what are termed "independent expenditures."

In crafting such legislation, we took special care to establish a level playing field in Wisconsin for both political parties, most notably in the area of individuals and groups who wish to contribute to campaigns.

Interestingly, the U.S. Supreme Court has recently accepted a case that may offer a better bearing on how we, as a State Legislature, attempt to generate fairer campaign finance laws.

In Austin, Kelley v. Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, the Michigan Chamber was prohibited from placing a political advertisement in a local newspaper in favor of a state candidate.

This sort of ad would have run as an independent expenditure because it would not have emanated from the candidate's committee.

Because the Michigan State Chamber challenged the ruling, this case has now reached the land's highest court. The Chamber has argued that prohibition against corporate independent expenditures is a violation of their organization's (and its members') free expression and equal protection rights under the U.S. Constitution.

This is a curious argument, and one which may have direct ramifications for Wisconsin. Here in our state, corporations are forbidden from contributing funds to political candidates or groups. This is currently true for at least 19 states and generally extends to prohibitions against corporations waging independent expenditures as well.

The problem is that a disparity often exists in states like Wisconsin who prohibit corporate contributions. For instance, in our state, unions are allowed to amass hundreds of thousands of dollars for their political action committees. Business association PAC's, however, can barely raise ten thousand dollars because of the corporate contributions prohibitions.

This is not an unusual situation and, in effect, works to create inequities in our campaign financing laws. Currently, 48 states allow union dues to be used for political purposes. Only two states, North and South Dakota, prohibit them. Again, at least 19 states maintain a prohibition against corporate contributions.

The Michigan State Chamber case now awaiting Supreme Court review could serve as a bell-weather on this issue; perhaps legalizing corporate contributions to political campaigns in Wisconsin and throughout the United States. Such a decision, if rendered, would be based on the equal protection argument.

This would be good news for Wisconsin. If we are to allow union PAC's to flourish, we should also permit corporations the right to contribute directly to campaigns and political organizations within certain guidelines. Or, using a twist of the equal protection argument, both unions and corporations should not be allowed to contribute directly.

Sources following the Michigan State Chamber case feel there is a better than 50 percent chance the court will overturn corporate prohibitions — at least for independent expenditures. Again, this would be good news as we seek new and fairer ways to reform our campaign finance laws.

Panzer Announces County WCC Project

The Wisconsin Conservation Corps (WCC) Board has approved Washington County's application for a WCC crew. "The WCC is a fantastic program! Not only will Washington County have an opportunity to update many of its park areas, but several of our young people will gain valuable job experience through the WCC project," said Representative Mary Panzer (R-West Bend).

The Wisconsin Conservation Corps was created by the state legislature in 1983 to offer meaningful conservation-related job experience to unemployed young adults. This experience enhances their chances for future employment in the private sector. At the same time Wisconsin communities like Washington County benefit from the variety of work done by the crew.

Washington County will receive the services of a WCC crew for one year to complete many conservation and community development projects at Glacier Hills, Albecker, Homestead Hills, Ridge Run and Sandy Knoll County Parks. "WCC will pay for wages, safety equipment, and other crew support at a cost of $75,700. Six young adults and one crew leader will undertake most of the needed work. The equipment and supplies will be paid for by Washington County. The taxpayers couldn't ask for a better deal!" said Panzer.

Among the projects the crew will handle are landscaping and painting, nature trail sign installation, pit toilet construction, rock retaining wall construction, and tree planting. Panzer urges any young adults interested in this type of work contact Tim Perry at the WCC Southeast Regional Field Office, 30 W. Mifflin, Suite 408, Madison, WI 53703, (608) 267-2720. Candidates must be 18 to 25 years old and unemployed to qualify.

Persons With Disabilities Find Independence at Easter Seal Camps

Persons with wheelchairs have few problems enjoying Camp Wawbeek's pool. The pool and its poolside activities are fully accessible to persons with physical limitations, as are the many other Camp Wawbeek activities.

This is the time of year to begin thinking about summer camp. For many of us, thoughts of camp bring visions of youth swimming and enjoying a host of other camp activities.

But camp doesn't need to be limited to the physically fit and active. This year nearly 900 children, teens and adults with physical disabilities will be able to enjoy one or two week stays at the Easter Seal Society of Wisconsin's Camp Wawbeek and Pioneer Camp in the Wisconsin Dells. Both camps cater to persons with physical disabilities.

Camp Wawbeek, which gets its name from a line in Longfellow's poem, Hiawatha, first opened in 1938 and is the second oldest camp for disabled in the United States. It offers sessions for campers age 8 and older who have a wide range of physical disabilities.

Pioneer camp's program is geared to persons with disabilities, between the ages of 10 and 50, who are more mobile and are seeking a physical challenge. Its two-week adventure and challenge sessions include extended camp-outs and canoe trips and special high and low ropes courses. In addition, special week-long sessions for campers with asthma and cystic fibrosis are part of the curricula.

Probably the most important feature of these camps says Camps Director, Susan Faltinson, is that Wawbeek and Pioneer lets each camper be more than just a person with a disability. "People come here to be themselves," Faltinson said. "Here they are people first and disabled second."

That ability for each person to be himself or herself is illustrated in each camper's description of their experiences. Rhonda Clark, 21, has cerebral palsy and has been coming to camp since 1981. She describes her week-long stays at Camp Wawbeek as a "fantasy". Clark said, "It's nice because everybody gets along and nobody stares. You get to do things you normally can't do, like sleeping under the stars."

John Gilbertson, who is partially paralyzed because of a spinal cord injury, calls Camp Wawbeek "a little bit of heaven." He has been coming to camp for two years and says he enjoys just sitting on the porch of the "Castle," Camp Wawbeek's oldest and most noticeable building overlooking the 400-plus acres. "I really appreciate the variety of things I can do," he said of the activities which include fishing, canoeing, riflery, archery, campouts, cookouts, swimming and crafts. "There is something different to do every day," Gilbertson said.

For Lucas Osmond, 12, a stay at camp means a chance to be on his own and is an opportunity to meet new friends. "I can meet friends and be with people who have the same disability I have and we can do the same things," he said. Osmond has cerebral palsy and has been coming to camp for five years. "I've learned I can do a lot of things on my own without a lot of help," Osmond said, "and if I need help I can always ask a counselor."

Besides being a vacation for the camper, a stay at Pioneer Camp or Camp Wawbeek is also a chance for the care giver to get a vacation said Faltinson. "It's just as important that the care giver have a vacation as it is the person with the disability," Faltinson said. "It gives them an opportunity to relax from their busy

At Pioneer Camp, persons with less severe mobility impairments can challenge themselves to the low ropes course. Plenty of counselors are on hand to assist each camper during the course. Other camp challenges include the high ropes course and extended canoe trips and campouts.

schedules."

Jim Gilbertson says the week his brother John spends at camp is a vacation for himself. "It makes me very confident and comfortable that he can go there and have a blast and meet new people. I can stay home knowing he is in good hands," he said. "It's a week's vacation."

Faltinson said the camps have 65 people on staff as counselors plus at least one registered nurse and several nursing assistants. During any one session, Faltinson said, there are never more than 85 campers, and the usual number is between 70 and 80.

About 80 percent of the campers at Camp Wawbeek have some kind of mobility impairment, requiring them to use wheelchairs, walkers or braces. Their disabilities include or are the result of cerebral palsy, polio, stroke, amputation, muscular dystrophy, spina bifida and arthritis.

Faltinson said that both camps are set up to be fully accessible including some paved trails. At Pioneer Camp campers have less severe mobility impairments, she said, but it, too, is accessible.

Few campers are able to pay their own way to attend the sessions because they live on limited incomes. Instead, they find sponsors such as community service groups or churches to finance all or part of the expense. A 12-day youth session costs $435 and a 7-day adult session costs $218. The fee covers all camp expenses.

Contributions, or sponsorships, are essential and help make camp a reality for people with disabilities like Rhonda, John and Lucas. Individuals can also help by sending contributions.

For more information on becoming a camper, on how your contributions help campers, or how you can help in other ways please contact Susan Faltinson, Easter Seal Camps Director, 1409 Emil Street, Madison WI 53713.

Bob Cross Memorial Run/Walk June 3

The fifth annual Bob Cross Memorial Run/Walk has been scheduled for Sunday, June 3 in West Bend. The event will get underway at 10:30 a.m. at Regner Park.

The event, sponsored by the American Cancer Society, is a 5k/10k run or a 5k walk through the streets of West Bend.

Participants are asked to solicit pledges and all money raised is used to support cancer research, education and rehabilitation.

Last year's 1,250 participants raised almost $34,000 for the fight against cancer. This year organizers hope to see at least 1,400 participants raise $40,000.

Ron Spears, co-chairman of the event, said organizers are again planning many race-day activities, including live music, a kiddie run, and refreshments.

The American Cancer Society will present plaques to race winners in their respective gender and age groups. Top money raisers will receive trophies and ribbons.

Registration is only $8, or $10 the day of the race. The family registration fee is $25. All registrants will receive a Bob Cross Memorial Run/Walk t-shirt.

You may obtain registration forms and pledge sheets by calling the American Cancer Society office at 338-4060 or by stopping in at these West Bend businesses: Bits N Pieces Floral, 319 S. Main St.; West Bend Mutual Insurance Company, 1115 S. Main St.; or The Fast Foot in the Paradise Mall.

A GRANDCHILD'S TRIBUTE

Though the final chapter has been written, the book on Doc. Edwards' life is far from closed. His thoughtfulness, caring attention for all, and his fondness for life will long be remembered by everyone who knew him. His grandchildren knew him well, maybe best of all. One of his grandchildren wrote the following short essay which was read at the funeral services held on May 5th.

"In your life, you run across a lot of people, some intelligent, some kind and compassionate, some who are definite leaders. These people all leave their mark on you. I was fortunate to know a man with all of these qualities and many more. He was always ready to help his family and friends, no matter what the cost. He would always show you ways to improve and better yourself. He gave so much to his community and never asked for anything in return.

I was always amazed at his love for children. When little ones would talk to him, he would get all teary-eyed and a big smile would spread across his face. I never knew a man with such a big heart.

He loved his wife passionately. I have never seen a more unselfish love and I believe I never will again. People who knew him know what I'm talking about. I was blessed by God to have known him at all and blessed even more to have had him as my Grandfather. My Grandfather, Dr. Richard Graham Edwards, died on May 1st. I feel honored to have had this love and will sadly miss him."

Study Shows How Natural Compound Inhibits Cancer

New studies show that a natural compound, known as CLA, which inhibits cancer is a potent anti-oxidant. The finding helps explain CLA's anti-cancer properties and could mean it has a future as a food additive.

Food scientists at the University of Wisconsin-Madison report in the February 15th issue of Cancer Research that CLA inhibits the formation of tumors in the forestomachs of mice. The forestomach is the upper section of a mouse's stomach.

"The current experiments help explain how CLA acts to inhibit cancer and indicate that CLA might be part of a natural cancer defense mechanism in animals and people," says Michael Pariza of the UW-Madison's Food Research Institute.

Pariza had originally found the compound in grilled ground beef in the late 1970s. In 1985, he showed that it inhibits skin cancer in mice. Two years later, Pariza's research group identified it as CLA - conjugated linoleic acid. And last year he reported that CLA is common in many foods of animal origin.

In the Cancer Research article, Pariza, Yeong Ha and Jayne Storkson report on three independent experiments. In each experiment, mice receiving CLA developed only about half as many tumors as mice in the control group.

There are several slightly different forms of CLA, Pariza says. "We gave mice a mixture of nine forms and found one of them concentrated in the membranes of cells that line the forestomachs of mice."

Other experiments showed that CLA was a potent anti-oxidant. "Many anti-carcinogens are also anti-oxidants," Pariza says. Anti-oxidants neutralize molecules in the body known as oxygen radicals. Scientists have shown that oxygen radicals appear to be involved not only in activating the cancer process but also in inducing cataracts and have been implicated in the development of heart disease and arthritis, according to Pariza.

"We know that CLA is present in people. In addition to eating it in foods, there is some evidence that people may be able to produce the same form of CLA we isolated in the cells of mice. Therefore CLA may be a natural compound we make to protect our cells from the damage these radicals cause," Pariza says.

"We don't know yet if these findings with mice mean that CLA can help prevent cancer in people. There may be a role, but we won't know until we completely understand the mechanism and find out if people respond the same way."

Pariza says the research may have a more immediate payoff in the food industry, where artificial anti-oxidants such as BHT and BHA are added to foods to prolong their shelf life by keeping food from turning rancid.

The research was supported in part with funds from the UW-Madison College of Agricultural and Life Sciences, the National Cancer Institute, the Wisconsin Milk Marketing Board and gift funds to the Food Research Institute.

Baseball Wall Gets Spruced

Spring cleaning isn't only for the ol' homestead.

At Mayville's historic White Limestone School it's called "May Day Spruce-Up."

This year, it's on Saturday, May 12, from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

Over those five hours, individuals and Mayville service groups are invited to rally at the restored building to get rooms ready for public viewing of its displays.

Responding to the call of Limestone Restoration Corporation Director Alzora Brummond, Mayville, is Theresa's Rube Schuster.

As vice-president of the 61-year-old Rock River Baseball league's Oldtimers' association, Schuster is curator of the organization's Wall of Fame in one of the first floor classrooms.

He'll be there with other Oldtimers' members to dust up, scrub up and anything else necessary to spruce up all the trophies, pictures, posters and other memorabilia that's growing steadily from the one wall toward the other three.

Anyone with a mothballed Rock league item or items to brighten the wall can bring it/them to the school on May 12 or phone Schuster at 387-3748 for pickup.

Become a Teen Volunteer

This is the summer to make a difference!

This is the summer to get involved!

This is the summer to become a teen volunteer!

The Volunteer Center of Washington County is once again offering summer volunteer jobs for teenagers.
This program entitled "Terrific Teens" is funded by a grant from the Milwaukee
Foundation. During the past two summers, teenagers have volunteered their time to agencies which are in need of help. They have worked with therapists at a children's rehabilitation agency, assisted the art teachers at the art gallery, learned the inner workings of an office and run the ice cream shop in the Samaritan Home. There is a wide variety of summer volunteer job opportunities.

The benefits are many including having fun, making new friends, learning job skills and earning the right to list volunteer work on future resumes. Teens truly believe they can help someone in need and they do it with enthusiasm.

Why don't you call the Volunteer Center at 338-8256 and join the team of your volunteers? Call today and let us find the right job for you!
Don't wait! It could be one of the best calls you've ever made.

Kewaskum's Osterbrink One of Three to Sign Northeastern Illinois Women's Basketball Announces Signings

Northeastern Illinois University Women's Basketball Coach Mike Fogel announced the signing of his first three recruits for the 1990-91 season. Among them are two high school seniors and a junior college transfer with three years of eligibility remaining.

From the junior college ranks, Coach Fogel found Beth Salvaggio, a 5-8 guard, at Elgin Community College in Elgin, Illinois. As a freshman, Salvaggio was a 2nd team All-Region IV member and a 1st team All-N4C Conference. She was second on the team in scoring with 406 points (17.7), averaged 7.6 rebounds, 4.7 assists, and 2.1 steals. She was the teams leading free throw shooter at 80.9% (72-of-89), and three point shooter at 51.2% (42-of-82). As a senior at Dundee-Crown High School she was unanimous Fox Valley All-Conference as both a junior and senior, and was a Chicago Sun-Times Special Mention All-Area player.

Among the freshman is Katie

Stein, a 6-0 center from Lake Park High School in Illinois. She is Lake Park's 6th all-time leading scorer after finishing her senior year with 335 for a 13.4 average. She is also the schools 3rd all-time leading rebounder with 618 in her career. As a senior she had 261 for an average of 10.4. With 102 blocked shots as a senior she became the schools all-time leader with 234. As an unanimous All-Upstate 8 Conference pick, she earned All-Area honors from the Daily Herald, Elgin Daily Courier, and the Wheaton Daily Journal.

Pam Osterbrink, a 6-1 center from Kewaskum High School in Kewaskum, Wisconsin, rounds out the signings. Osterbrink brings the much needed height that Fogel was missing as well as some top notch statistics and honors. As a senior she received honorable-mention All-State honors as well as 1st team All-Eastern Conference Honors for the second consecutive year. She was voted to play in the Wisconsin Basketball Coaches Association All-Star Game on June 16 in Oshkosh. As a senior she averaged 17.5 points and 13.5 rebounds and shot 56% from the field.

Indian Netters Last in Germantown Triangular

GERMANTOWN — The Kewaskum tennis team continued to struggle here, last Monday in the Germantown triangular meet although Shawn Schneider became the first Indian this year to win a match. Schneider decisioned Ricardo Sanches of Milwaukee Vincent, 6-4, 0-6, 7-6, to break the ice for his, and the team's, first individual victory. The doubles team of Ira Sison and Mark Piowarczyk also almost got into the win column, as did many of the other Indians, against Vincent. Sison and Piowarczyk eventually lost to their opponents, 5-6, 4-6. Every Indian won at least two games against Vincent.

Germantown was a much different story, as the Warhawk netters dominated the meet, winning every medal. Schneider once again put up the best fight, but this time he lost to Scott Zak, 1-6, 4-6. Germantown 7, Kewaskum 0.

Singles No. 1 - Bruce Waechter lost to Ted Macksam, 1-6, 0-6; No. 2 - Chris Weddig lost to Kevin Zak 3-6, 0-6; No. 3 - Schneider lost to Zak, 1-6, 4-6; No. 4 - Brian Blair lost to Darren Auxier 1-6, 1-6.

Doubles No. 1 - Sison/Piowarczyk lost to Don Russell/Frank Susnik 0-6, 0-6. No. 2 - Adam Pilachowsky/Jim Gildersleeve lost to Keith Haack Ryan Schrank 0-6, 0-6. No. 3 - Bob Schreffler/Kevin Hein lost to Eric Brill/Charlie Hart 1-6, 0-6.

Indian Boys Last in JH Williams Relays

PLYMOUTH — Contrary to their girls counterparts, the Kewaskum boys track team is at a severe disadvantage against their opponents this season because of a lack of depth. Never was this weakness so evident than in the J.H. Williams Relay held here.

To be successful in this type of meet, a team must have three or four quality athletes in most of the events. This year's Indian boys just do not have the numbers, and therefore finished last in the eight-team event with just 9 points.

Eastern Wisconsin Conference power New Holstein won the meet with 120 points, followed by Sheboygan Falls (89), West Bend East (84), Two Rivers (51), Slinger (42), Plymouth and Kiel (35), and Kewaskum.

All the Indians could muster against the tougher competition was four fifth-place finishes and one sixth-place. But that didn't mean that the Indians didn't run well.

The Kewaskum 400 meter relay posted their best time of the year (46.9) in taking fifth. Members of the unit include Kim Marx, Randy Schlice, Aaron Miller and Doug Mueller.

Two other Indians relay teams, the 1600 (Mueller, Willie Kries, Jim Rix, and Rob Kertscher), and the 800 (Schlice, Miller, Kertscher and Marx), also took fifth-place finishes.

The Indian pole vault team, made up of just Brian Jackson (cleared 11'0") and Kertscher (cleared 10'0"), also finished fifth. The third member of that trio was unable to compete, or the Indians would definitely have been in that event.

The lone sixth recorded by the Indians occurred in the high jump, where Muller and Rich Radtke teamed with foreign exchange student Bernd Gusinde.

THANK YOU

I would like to thank everyone that helped out in any way, or sent flowers, cards, gifts, and visited, while I was recuperating at home after a recent car accident. Thanks to my family, friends and relatives for all their help, also to the doctors and emergency room care at St. Agnes Hospital and the ambulance and paramedic crew from Fond du Lac. Thanks also to my mother.

KHS Girls, Boys Place Third In Track Meet Held at Home

PLYMOUTH — Both the Kewaskum boys track team and the Indian girls track team finished third in their respective meets held here, last Tuesday.

The boys wound up with 39 points, behind winner Plymouth (66), and Two Rivers (65). The girls, meanwhile, finished with 35 points, winding up behind winner Plymouth (65) and Two Rivers (63).

Three double places led the way in scoring for the Kewaskum boys. First place finishers by Brian Jackson in the pole vault (11-6) and Rich Radtke in the high jump (5-8) were followed closely by third place finishes in the same events by Rob Kertscher (10-6) and Doug Mueller (5-6), respectively.

The Indians also had two athletes place in the 100 dash. Randy Schlice continues to run well, as he took second in the event with a time of 11.8, followed closely by teammate Aaron Miller's 11.9. Miller also added a second in the 200 dash, coming across in 25.3.

Hurdler Kim Marx also ran well on the day, placing second in the 300 hurdles (45.0) and third in the 110 high hurdles

A combination of illnesses, minor nagging injuries and fatigue led Indian girls head coach Perry Koth to hold out most of his main weapons in the girls meet.

"It was a combination of a lot of things," Koth said, explaining why he held out most of his starters in the meet. "I just thought it (giving the girls a rest) would be best."

The result was placing third in the meet, a meet which the Indians would likely have won at full strength. But that didn't bother Koth.

"They all ran pretty well," Koth said. "I wasn't disappointed. I just wanted to get as many girls in the meet as possible."

Kristi Lubahn did participate, and she won the 100 dash, coming across the wire in 11.5, just edging out teammate Rachel Gosa, who was second with a 11.7 clocking.

Andrea Fleiss also had a good day, coming in a close second in the triple jump, going 30'1.25" missing first by one inch. Terry Vogt also continued to improve, winning the long jump with a leap of 14'2.75."

Indian Girls Third at New Holstein Relays

NEW HOLSTEIN — While the Kewaskum girls track team has been winning every Invitational that it runs in, the Indians found out last Wednesday that Relay meets are a bit different.

Especially when the meet is your third in three days. That was the scenario facing the Indian girls last week, and they handled it fairly well, placing third in the New Holstein Relays. Kewaskum's 76 points put them behind Valdres (89) and New Holstein (83) in the final standings.

"We did about what we expected," Indian head coach Perry Koth said after the meet. "Relay meets are different. The (time) splits are hard to judge, and they're not that accurate."

While the running events may be hard for a coach to judge, the field events aren't. And that's where the Indians excelled in this meet, with two of their three firsts occurring in field events.

As a matter of fact, the Indians' long jump team, Pam Osterbrink (5'0"), Ingrid Ankerson (4'8") and Andrea Fleiss (4'8"), not only won the event with a combined 14'4", they set a meet record as well.

The Indians long jump trifecta of Kelly Korth (14'7"), Terri Vogt (14'6"), and Tammy Michaels (14'2.75") also brought home a first place, as they teamed up for 43'5.75."

The third Indian win came in the 800 relay, where the team of Tina Schwartz, Kelly Korth, Rachel Zuehlke and Melissa Brown continued to shine, winning in 1:54.9.

Kewaskum recorded three seconds in the meet as well. Two of the three occurred in the field events, as the Indians were runnerups in both the shot put and discus competitions, trailing New Holstein each time.

The shot put team of Tina Weddig (32'0"), Marlene Wodsedalek (31'0"), and Lora Delcore (30'5.5") combined for 93'5.5", while the discus team, although 20 feet behind the Huskies, had a pair of personal bests - Weddig's 116'0" and Delcore's 95'0".

"Weddig threw nine inches further than her previous personal best," Koth pointed out, noting that the school record is 121'. "She's got a month to go, and we're hoping

Officers Chosen for Rock River League Oldtimer's Association

Carl Heimerl, Jackson, was reelected to an eighth term as president of the Rock River League Oldtimers' association at the organization's annual business meeting Saturday at Dodge Center, Horicon.

Rube Schuster, Theresa, again was chosen vice-president and Bud Bellon, West Bend, secretary-treasurer.

Four new candidates were added to the 1990 Hall of Fame ballot; Outfielder Emil Baerwald from past Horicon and Mayville teams, infielder-manager Don Beilfuss of Beaver Dam and Lowell and a pair of pitchers, southpaw Chuck Erdman, Jr. of Rubicon and Neosho and righty Dean Wilderman, who graduated from Mayville's mound to the pro minor leagues back in the 60's.

The four join six 1989 holdover candidates: Wally Baumann (Lebanon team), "Fritz" Goebel (Long Lake), Don Gourlie, Sr. (LeRoy), Marv Klawitter (Burnett), Roy Maass (Lebanon) and Harvey Vocks (Juneau).

Members present voted unanimously that five from the 10-nominee slate be elected by mail ballot to the league's Hall of Fame.

Six had been inducted from among 12 candidates in each of the past five years. Names on the LeRoy Locker Hall of Fame plank now number 99 in the 61-year-old league.

The late Ray Schilling, a Horicon catcher in the 1930's, was chosen to be enshrined in the Rock's Posthumous Hall of Fame.

Three get-togethers remain on the Oldtimers' '90 calendar.

They, their families and friends will gather for a Milwaukee Brewers day game vs. the world champion Oakland A's on Thursday, July 5, at Milwaukee County Stadium.

They'll assemble at a Rock River championship playoff game as guests of the league in early September and wind up with the Hall of Fame Dinner on Nov. 3 at the Mayville Golf club.

she can break it."

The sprint medley team of Braun, Stacey Heberer, Rachel Gosa and Zuehlke also placed second, coming across in 2:00.6, .7 off the lead.

"We did well. I was real happy with the results," Koth said, although he pointed out the one weakness that his squad might have. "We are lacking depth in the distances, and the hurts."

Girl Tracksters Win Mayville Invitational

MAYVILLE — After victories in the 39-team Titan Invitational and Washington County Outdoor track meets, the Kewaskum girls tracksters aren't getting complacent with themselves, as evidenced by their performance in the Mayville Invitational last Monday.

In the first of a scheduled four meets in five days, the Indian girls ran wild, literally, over the rest of the field, winning the meet with a whooping 156 points. Host Mayville was a distant second with 108 points.

"You just can't score that many points (156) with just average athletes," Indian head coach Perry Koth said last week. "We're real deep, and had a lot of double - places. It just shows the strength of our team."

Kristi Lubahn flexed her muscles by winning the 300 hurdles in 50-34, and then coming back to anchor a pair of relay teams, the 800 and 1600, to victory.

"She's coming on," Koth said of the senior runner. "She's one of our better sprinters... her and (Melissa) Braun."

Lubahn, along with Kelly Korth, Tina Schwartz and Braun, captured the 800 relay in 1:53.3, while she helped Nicole Doherty, Terri Vogt and Rachel Zuehlke win the 1600 relay in 4:28.8.

Schwartz and Korth had a hand in another Indian first, this one coming in the 400 relay. Stacy Heberer ran the first leg and Shelley Kassekert ran the anchor in the units' winning dash of 55.8.

The only other Kewaskum first came in the high jump, where senior Pam Osterbrink cleared the 4'10" mark to win that event. The Indians also had the second place finisher in that event, as Ingrid Ankerson leaped 4'8" to finish just behind Osterbrink.

Tina Weddig had a pair of seconds for the Indians, taking the runner-up spot in both the shot put (32'5½") and the discus (107'6"). Braun captured a second in the 100 dash (13.4) and a third in the 200 dash (28.4).

Other seconds recorded by the Indians included Vogt's 54.49 in the 300 hurdles, (finishing behind Lubahn); Tammy Michaels second in the long jump (14.11); Zuehlke's second in the 400 dash (1:03.7).

Third place finishes were recorded by Doherty in the 400 (1:06.2); Ankerson in the triple jump (30'10") and Laura Delcore in the discus (89'6").

Delcore also added a fourth in the shot (29'10½") as did Laurie Vogt in the 1600 (6:03.0) and Michaels in the triple jump (30'0").

Meanwhile, in the Mayville JV Invitational, the Indian girls rolled up an even more impressive point total than the varsity. The Indian JV's won the meet with an incredible 201 points.

"Part of that (the high point total) is because we have 50 individuals out for the sport, and we are able to fill almost every event," Koth said of the JV meet, but also added "We have a lot of talented people (on the freshmen/sophomore team) who in other years, might be on varsity."

One of those talented individuals Koth was referring to was Rachel Gosa. The sophomore won the 100 dash in a meet record 13.69 seconds, and then went on to contribute to two more wins in the 400 and 800 relays.

Indian Netters Downed by Chilton

KEWASKUM — The Kewaskum boys tennis team played Chilton much better than they have with its previous opponents, but the Indians still came up on the short end of a 6-1 score.

The number one doubles team, consisting of Ira Sison and Mark Piwowarczyk broke into the win column with a 7-6, 7-5 decision over the Tigers' Cliff Kelsey and Chris Kuba.

Every other match, with the exception of number four singles, saw the Kewaskum team win at least seven games without winning the match. Shawn Schneider came the closest to winning at No.-3 singles, as he dropped a three-set decision to old nemesis Mike Schierl, 7-5, 3-6, 4-6.

In the JV meet, Kewaskum also picked up a win as Brian Blair and Shane Oppermann teamed up to beat Chilton's Todd Mueller and Brian Geiser, 10-3.

Chilton 6, Kewaskum 1
Singles No. 1 - Bruce Waechter lost to Daryl Woelfel 5-7, 4-6.

No. 2 - Chris Weddig lost to Jess Hoffberger, 4-6, 4-6.

McElhatton Hits Ace in JV Golf Meet

CHILTON — Kewaskum Indian JV golfer Eric McElhatton accomplished what most golfers can only dream about, here, last Monday. The high school sophomore stepped up to the 155 yard, par 3 number 5 hole at the Hickory Hills golf course, took out his 5-iron and proceeded to knock in a hole-in-one. The ace put the icing on a round of 44 for McElhatton, who helped his team to a 204-208 victory over Chilton in the two schools' JV golf meet. "He was pretty excited, and rightfully so," Kewaskum head golf coach Joe Harlow said, noting that this was McElhatton's first year of competitive golf, and what a way to begin his career. His 44 was the fourth best score in the entire (JV-Varsity) meet," Harlow went on to say. "He's been shooting real well lately. It looks like he'll be a good one." As for the varsity meet, the Indians were a bit inconsistent and paid for it with a 175-194 loss to the Tigers. For the first time this season, the Indians didn't have the meet medalist, as that honor belonged to Chilton's Dale Forstner, who carded a 40. Kewaskum's Ryan Amerling paced his team with a 43, while Mark Heather shot a 49. "The scores don't look that solid," Harlow said, when asked if his team was showing improvement. "But, we haven't had good weather to play in yet. If it (wind) calms down, I guess we'll see."

Indian Golfers Last In West Bend Invite

WEST BEND — The Kewaskum golf team had its troubles in the West Bend Invitational held at the West Bend Country Club here, last Tuesday.

Although the Indians didn't shoot that badly overall, their score of 204 put them last among the larger schools. Hartford won the meet with 171 strokes, just ahead of Homestead's 172 total. Hartford's Mark Mitchell was the meet medalist, shooting a 40, and then holding off Homestead's Jay Donnelly and Grafton's Stu Brown in a sudden death playoff.

Kewaskum was led by Ryan Amerling, who carded a 46. "He's been very solid," said Indian coach Joe Harlow of Amerling, who has been the Indians' most consistent player this spring. "He hasn't broke 40 or anything yet, but it's only his first year on Varsity. He's coming along."

Aaron Laatsch and Mark Heather each had 49's for Kewaskum, while Eric McElhatton, coming off of a hole-in-one the day before, had his problems, shooting a 60.

"Overall, I guess I wasn't displeased," Harlow said, noting "We had three guys break 50, so that was nice to see."

RAIN OUTS

The Vander Pan Relays, a coed track meet that was to be run last Friday afternoon in Sheboygan Falls, and the Washington County Tennis meet, supposed to be held last Saturday in West Bend, were both cancelled due to the weekend rain. No makeup dates have been announced in either meet.

Indian Golfers 10th in Invite Mother nature shortened the Brown-Port Golf Invitational from an 18-hole tournament to a 9-hole event last Friday. It really didn't matter to the Kewaskum golf team, who did quite well in the meet, placing 10th in the 15-team invite, dominated by Class A schools.

Kewaskum finished with 249 strokes, while the winning Grafton golfers completed the course with 221 strokes. Class B power Brown Deer was second with 222.

Three Indian golfers finished with 48's in the meet, which used all five golfer's scores. Ryan Amerling, Aaron Laatsch, and Mark Heather all carded 48's on the day, while Tim Butschlick had a 50, and Corey Krahn a 57.

Grafton's Dave Foley was the meet medalist, as he came in with a 39, tying Brown Deer's Ross Dilling. Foley beat Dilling in sudden death, however, earning top honors.

Indian Netters Fall Again

TWO RIVERS — The Kewaskum Indian boys tennis team continues to improve, that doesn't mean any numbers are showing up in the win column for the Indians.

Several Indian netters played well, but the team just couldn't pull out a victory in its 7-0 loss to Two Rivers, here last Thursday afternoon.

Sophomore Shawn Schneider, playing much better tennis of late, came closest to an Indian victory, falling 4-6, 5-7 to the Raiders' Jason Zimmer. No. 1 singles player Bruce Waechter also won six games against his opponent, John Kern, before falling 2-6, 4-6.

In doubles action, the team of Ira Sison and Mark Piwowarczyk also won six games in their 4-6, 2-6 loss to Mark Brashaw and Jim Bauchnect. The loss dropped Kewaskum's overall mark to 0-7, including 0-4 in Eastern Wisconsin Conference action.

Two Rivers 7, Kewaskum 0. SINGLES — No. 1 - Waechter lost to John Kern 2-6, 4-6.

No. 2 - Chris Weddig lost to Scott Radeker 0-6, 1-6.

No. 3 - Schneider lost to Zimmer 4-6, 5-7.

No. 4 - Brian Blair lost to Ron Zach 0-6, 2-6.

DOUBLES — No. 1 - Sison/-Piwowarczyk lost to Brashaw/-Bauchnect 4-6, 2-6.

No. 2 - Bob Schreffler/Jim-Gildersleeve lost to Matthew Carmen/Greg Gordon, 1-6, 0-6.

18-Year-Old Kenseth Takes Main Event at Slinger Speedway

By Bob Schaefer

SLINGER — Eighteen year old Matt Kenseth opened the 1990 points season at the Slinger Super Speedway in grand style Sunday night, claiming his first-ever late model win.

Other feature winners on Pontiac Excitement Night, presented by Bob Fish, were Doug Duncan in the sportsman class, Jim Cina in the amateur division and Tom Lamers in figure eight.

Preparing for his high school graduation, Kenseth decided 1990 was the year he would move up to the late model class after several seasons behind the wheel of a sportsman machine. He made the jump in style, buying a car formerly owned by Rich Bickle Jr. and putting a Prototype motor under the hood. In only his third start with it, the machine proved to be a winner.

Starting on the front row, Kenseth powered to the lead in the non-stop event over fellow rookie Vince Miller, Tony Strupp, Al Schill and Fred Winn. Strupp was able to dispose of Miller early and proceeded to snatch the lead from Kenseth on the sixth lap.

From there, Strupp pushed his mount to the limit, building up as much as a full straight-away advantage over Kenseth, who, in turn, had built up a considerable gap over then third-place Fred Winn. Strupp looked well on his way to feature win No. 2 at the speedway this year until misfortune set in.

A flat tire on the 27th lap sent the West Bend hard-charger to the pits and put Kenseth back into the lead, a spot he would never relinquish. Strupp went on the finish 16th overall.

Battling for runner-up-honors, Winn, Robbie Reiser and fast qualifier Conrad Morgan all came together, powering out of the fourth turn heading toward the checkered flag with Reiser ending up on the short end of the deal. The Allenton driver looped his Camaro, dropping from third to seventh in the final running order.

Win held on for second with Morgan third, followed by Andy Wendt and Jerry Wood.

Al Papini took the lead from Dave Dubnicka on the sixth lap of the sportsman feature with Duncan following his move and taking second a lap later. From there, Papini had his hands full of Duncan as the two ran nose-to-tail for the next 13 laps. As the white flag unfurled, Duncan dove low on Papini, going into the first turn. The two made contact, sending Papini's mount into a spin and Duncan's to victory lane. Papini was credited with ninth in the 10-car field.

Mike Vogt drove to second, followed by Jason Schuler, Curt Pfeil and Larry Johnson.

Running in their first-ever feature event, amateur drivers Cina and Jay Stadler waged a torrid battle for the 15-lap win. Stadler grabbed the top spot on lap No. 3 and built up a sizeable margin before a yellow flag came out for debris on the track. This was the break that Cina needed as the Hartford pilot worked around Stadler for the win. Brian Oelhafen finished third.

Tom Lamers held off defending figure eight champion, Scott Koch, to take the division's 10 lap feature.
