Formal dedication ceremonies were held at Mapledale Manor in Kewaskum at 2 p.m. on Tuesday, Dec. 11.

Mapledale Manor, owned by Drs. Cesar and Aurora Sison of Kewaskum, is a 55 unit retirement facility containing 28 one and two bedroom apartments and 15 CBRF (community based residential facility) units.

Tiedt then presented Lt. Governor Scott McCallum who addressed the large crowd of residents and well-wishers.

McCallum congratulated the Sisons and thanked them for inviting him to the ceremony. He then spoke on a few senior citizen issues being currently worked on in Madison.

Dr. Sison was then introduced and he gave a brief talk on Mapledale Manor and announced that plans were already underway to construct another CBRF facility on the same property in the future.

Following the ceremony, guests were treated to coffee, punch and a vast array of snacks and hors d'oeuvres. They were also invited to tour the bright, new facility which was beautifully decorated for the ceremony and Christmas.

Safe Christmas Is Best Of All

Christmas, the happiest of holidays, should never be spoiled by tragedy.

Remember that most holiday accidents take place during the last 6 hours before Christmas Eve than during the remainder of the holiday. The hourly rate for accidents is much greater during this 6-hour period than during the rest of the holiday.

Most accidents happen on the highways and in the home. If you're driving, don't get in a hurry. If you've been enjoying Christmas "cheer" of the alcoholic variety, don't drive. Check Christmas tree lights and other sources of danger around the home. Never leave tree lights burning if you leave the house.

Vietnam Vets Urge You to Support Troops In Middle East by Displaying Blue Ribbons

Many people have asked what they can do for the men and women in the Middle East.

In September, the Vietnam Veterans of America adopted the ROYAL BLUE RIBBON, to be displayed as a symbol of its recognition of the men and women who are now serving their Nation in the Middle East.

There are many reasons we have picked the Royal Blue Ribbon as our color. It has to do with the colors in our United States Flag.

The red in our flag signifies the courage and sacrifices of our nations defenders. George Washington described the white in the flag as symbolizing our desire for liberty - and the land of the free.

The blue in our flag represents the loyalty and unity of our citizens. Another interpretation of the blue on the flag indicates God's heaven, under which our flag flies. These are very good reasons why we choose the blue ribbon.

We urge everyone to wear a royal blue ribbon, or tie them on your cars, trees, businesses or homes; to show your support for our troops in the Middle East, and that WE DO CARE!

Show our support, show your colors. WEAR THE BLUE RIBBON.

OUR TROOPS ARE FIRST RATE. WEAR THE BLUE RIBBON FOR THEM.

Letters to the Editor

December 10, 1990

Letter to the Editor:

January 1, 1991 will go down in Wisconsin's environmental history. That's when the first major requirements of our new recycling law go into effect.

Beginning in 1991, Wisconsin landfills and most incinerators will no longer be allowed to accept used motor oil, vehicle batteries or appliances. Wisconsin businesses, home owners, motorists and others will need to properly recycle these items. This is the first important step in a five year march toward mandatory recycling of 14 key items that have been clogging Wisconsin landfills and presenting unnecessary risks to our environment.

Complying with the 1991 bans should be relatively easy. Many excellent private and public recycling services exist no matter where you live and more are starting up daily. Lists and information on whom to contact or where to go to recycle the affected materials will be available through all local governments, the University of Wisconsin - Extension and Dept. of Natural Resources offices. I encourage everyone to share more localized information, so all citizens will find recycling easy and convenient. Indeed, there is no excuse for improperly disposing of these items which could be unsightly and environmentally harmful.

So I urge everyone to find out more about recycling and to transform New Year's Day 1991 to Recycling Day 1991...the first day in a new environmental era in Wisconsin.

Sincerely,
C.D. "Buzz" Besadny

Consider Eye Safety When Buying Holiday Toys

A child's favorite Christmas or Hannuka gift may be his WORST enemy. It could cause serious eye injury or even blindness, warns Prevent Blindness-Wisconsin.

According to a U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission survey of hospital emergency rooms, children under the age of 15 receive toy-related eye injuries primarily from slingshots or sling-propelled toys, toy guns and other toy weapons with projectiles. BB and pellet guns, which can cause severe injuries and even loss of a child's eye, should not be considered toys.

Prevent Blindness-Wisconsin offers the following precautions that could save a child's sight:

- * read all warnings and instructions
- * inspect toys for durable construction
- * repair or replace defective or damaged toys
- * beware of craft kits with instant drying glues, bits of glass or wood burning tips.
- * consider a child's ABILITY rather than age when purchasing toys for age warnings are NOT safety guarantees.

KHS Student of the Month

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

Mike Kocher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kocher, 355 North Avenue, Kewaskum, has been chosen as the Kewaskum High School "Student of the Month" for December.

Mike was the first student selected for the honor in a new program at the high school which began this month. He was chosen by a committee of his peers from a group of candidates nominated by KHS teachers. The student committee reviewed all the nominations and the announcement of their selection was made at the December Board of Education meeting.

At the School Board meeting Mike was presented a certificate by KHS principal Leroy Kopecky and a plaque by Board President Neal Weare.

The program is designed to recognize students for their activities, accomplishments or service to the school and its student body. The unusual aspect of the program is that the students themselves, make the final decision as to who will receive the honor.

Mike, a senior and student in the school's Art-4 class, is currently creating a video to promote the high school's Art Department. He is working on his own time, shooting the footage, writing the script, creating the visuals and setting up the sound stage.

"Mike is definitely putting in creative overtime and working above and beyond the call of duty to create an exceptional video," said KHS principal Leroy Kopecky.

Mike has been actively involved in past Odyssey of the Mind Competition on the local, state and world level. He is also a member of the KHS Chess Club.

Fireplace Adds To Holiday Atmosphere

For many families, the holidays would be incomplete without a fire in the fireplace. However, a small fire is just as cheerful as a roaring one — and much safer.

Most people prefer wood logs, although coal or charcoal can be used, especially in small fireplaces with grates. Hardwoods make the best wood fire. Scrap lumber or softwood create too hot a flame and can cause sparks to fly out the chimney. This may be a fire hazard to your roof or nearby trees.

If a fire is not out before you retire, push the logs in to the rear of the fireplace or stand them securely into either corner. Be sure the fireplace screen is securely in place. At Christmas-time, DO NOT burn wrappings from presents in the fireplace, flames may flare into the room.

Spend your money wisely. Advertise in the Statesman.

WTA Releases State Lottery Figures

The Wisconsin lottery had ticket sales of $309.6 million in 1989-90, its second full year of operation, according to the Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance (WTA), Madison. For that same year, the amount for lottery prizes was $158.5 million; other expenses were $42.9 million and $87.9 million was provided for property tax relief.

The WTA, a privately supported government-research and citizen-education organization, pointed out that lottery sales of almost $310 million exceeded the total amount collected by the state from excise taxes on cigarettes and tobacco ($140.8 million), liquor and wine ($30.4 million) and beer ($9.4 million).

The WTA said the major expenses of the lottery were: retailers' commissions of $15.9 million; public information expenses, $6 million; phone and postage, $5.5 million; contractual services, $5.1 million; and employe salaries and fringe benefits, $5.1 million.

The constitutional amendment authorizing a state lottery prohibits the Lottery Board from engaging in promotional advertising. However, information advertising is allowed, with $6 million spent in 1989-90. This was 1.9% of gross revenue, which is comparable to the percentage in similar size states that do not have advertising restrictions.

In 1988-89, Wisconsin ticket sales per capita were $47.33 and the U.S. average of the 29 states that had a lottery was $99.17. Nationally, ticket sales ranged from $219 per capita in Massachusetts to $13.62 in Montana.

Wisconsin's prize money in 1988-89 was $119 million, or 52% of sales. This is slightly less than the 53% nationally, the WTA said. Massachusetts had the highest return at 63% and the state of Washington, the lowest at 46%.

The cost of administration as a percentage of sales was 6% nationwide. Wisconsin was at the U.S. average, while Illinois, Maryland and Pennsylvania were the lowest at 3% each. Kansas, at 25% was the highest.

The Wisconsin constitutional amendment also requires that the net proceeds to the state from lottery sales be used for property tax relief. The term, however, was not defined and there is political disagreement between the Democrats and Republicans as to how the money should be paid out, the WTA noted. It is estimated that there will be $138 million available for property tax relief by June 30, 1991. The issue to be resolved at the 1991 session of the legislature is how the money will be distributed.

For a free copy of the report on state lotteries, write to the Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance, 335 West Wilson Street, Madison, Wisconsin 53703-3694.

Lunch Tips Kids Will Eat Up

By Lauren Cnare, UW-Madison Center for Health Sciences

Packing a healthful lunch that's both nutritious and fun to eat can be an overwhelming challenge for parents, especially at 6 a.m. every weekday. But with a little planning and advice from your child, preparing lunches can be a family activity that reinforces healthy eating habits while increasing the chances your child will eat the lunch.

"A healthy lunch improves children's ability to concentrate," says Gail Underbakke, registered dietitian at University of Wisconsin Hospital and Clinics. She adds that a lunch providing one-third to one-fourth of the child's daily calorie and nutrient requirements also helps prevent hunger pangs during the school day.

Keep in mind, however, that food isn't nutritious unless your child eats it. "A lunch that appeals to an adult may not interest a child," says Underbakke, "so plan the week's lunches with your child's advice. You'll save time and your child will be more likely to eat those lunches."

When planning lunches, keep three principles in mind: nutrition, safety and palatability. Here are some suggestions:

Nutrition — Select a variety of foods from the four food groups — fruits and vegetables, dairy products, meat and proteins, and grains. Underbakke suggests parents prepare lunches that reduce sodium and fat, increase fiber and minimize foods that are high in calories, whether from fat or sugar. Desserts and beverages can disguise hundreds of calories.

Safety — A bag lunch may sit at room temperature for four to five hours, enough time for cold or hot foods to reach the prime temperature range for bacteria growth. Cold foods that could spoil should remain under 40 degrees; hot foods must be kept above 140 degrees. Freezing cold foods and using a reliable vacuum bottle can assure a safe lunch.

Palatability — Generally children like simple things to eat. Pasta salads are too "mixed up" for most children. Rather than mix foods together, pack items individually. Select foods that are easy to eat. The younger the child, the more "ready to eat" the food should be. Fruit — especially for children losing baby teeth — should be cut up or peeled started, and sandwiches can be quartered.

Single servings are ideal for children because they provide just enough to eat and a variety of foods at one meal. Underbakke suggests single serving containers of cut-up fruit or vegetable pieces, frozen vegetables that thaw by lunchtime and individual cartons of real fruit juice. Small containers of toppings such as granola for fruit and low-fat dips for vegetables add interest both in flavor and activity for 9 and 10 year olds.

Don't be afraid to add variety. Sandwiches, for example, can be more than two slices of bread with a filling in between. Underbakke suggests varying the choice of bread by using biscuits, muffins, crackers, bread sticks or pita bread to fulfill the grain requirement. These can be served alone or with a filling or spread.

Many sandwiches made with meat or peanut butter are suitable for freezing. They can be made several days in advance and will keep wrapped in plastic or foil. Frozen sandwiches will thaw by lunchtime and will help keep other foods cool. Toppings, such as dressings, lettuce and tomato should be packed separately.

And don't leave out dessert — it makes a meal whole and interesting. "Dessert doesn't have to be unhealthy, especially if it's homemade," Underbakke says. "Oatmeal cookies, carrot cake or pumpkin muffins are sweet, but nutritious, additions."

Children can be picky eaters and, despite all your planning and packing, their neighbor's lunch suddenly may seem more appetizing than their own. "You can't prevent trading, it's part of socializing for children," says Underbakke. "But at least you know you sent your child off with something better than a soda and snack bar."

County League of Women Voters Hold Dinner Meeting

The League of Women Voters of Washington County celebrated its achievements at a dinner meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 14, at the Riverside Cafe in West Bend. Guests Gina Taucher and Jan Martin, representing the League of Women Voters of Wisconsin, spoke about the activities and achievements of the League in Washington County during its twenty year history.

The League has been an active and visible force on the political scene in Washington County, conducting candidate forums for every local election to ensure that voters were informed on candidates' stands on the issues. In addition, the League has been involved in local, state and national issues in the public interest.

The availability of library service to all Washington County residents was an issue that League members pursued actively from 1981 until 1986 when the county board approved the implementation of county-wide library service.

The League has been actively involved with community education in the areas of voter registration, demonstration of the use of computerized voting machines and teaching about voting in local high schools.

Washington County businesses and individuals have supported the League through financial contributions and attendance at public information meetings and forums.

The Washington County League is currently seeking new members. A core group that has been active in leadership positions for several years would like to pass that leadership on. If you are interested in an issue-oriented organization that promotes involvement of citizens in government, contact Lynn Camin at 338-3081 for information about the League of Women Voters of Washington County.

With tidings of comfort and joy, we extend our hopes to all. May your season be abundant with love and good cheer at this, the most wonderful time of year! We greatly appreciate your friendship and good will!

Kettle Moraine Audubon Society to Conduct Annual Winter Bird Count

On Saturday, Dec. 29 the Kettle Moraine Audubon Society will be conducting the annual winter bird count. This is one of more than 1550 similar counts conducted throughout the USA from Guam and Hawaii to Labrador during the last weeks of December. The survey on December 29 will take place within the confines of Washington County.

The survey hours are from 8 a.m. through 4 p.m. During those hours you may see cars slowly moving through your neighborhoods with people eyeing your yards with binoculars; or you may see people walking through your neighborhoods doing the same. The cars will be identified with a sign in their back windows identifying them as part of the survey. If any persons having active feeders in their yards see someone from the KMAS and feels they have some information to give to us they should feel free to do so.

Obviously, at the Christmas season, warmer climates and saltwater areas have an advantage over our Wisconsin winter. But the winter bird count is extremely important in identifying our winter resident birds as to species and numbers. This year we expect to see the Snowy Owl. It has come south looking for food as the cycle of lemmings as a food source in the north has dwindled.

Children love things they can carry. Cover an empty coffee can with vinyl, attach yarn handles. It can make a great Christmas gift in which to carry crayons, miniature cars, toy soldiers and many other little treasures.

Give a Gift of Love and Understanding

At this moment, hundreds of foreign exchange students worldwide will never be granted the opportunity to follow their dream of studying in the United States, unless you help. What is deterring these 15-18 year old high school students from realizing their dream is quite simple; they need a host family to provide a caring and loving home, a home just like yours, for five months (second semester), or nine months (school year).

Please take a minute to consider your family as a host to one of these well deserving youngsters. These young ambassadors, presented by the Youth Exchange Service, are eager to share their hopes and dreams, as well as trading their cultural knowledge with your family. Yes students provide their own spending money and are covered by exceptional accidental/medical insurance. No value can be placed on the educational prosperity of intercultural understanding that evolves between host family and student.

You can help shape a young mind and make a difference in a teenager's heart by welcoming an exchange student into your home. Contact the Youth Exchange Service, a nonprofit organization dedicated to bridging intercultural difference through educating your young. Phone toll free: 1-800-848-2121.

Variety of Seeds, Feeders Help Attract Birds to Bird Feeding Stations

MADISON, WI — How can you attract a variety of birds to your winter bird feeding station? You'll need to provide a variety of seeds, feeders, and cover, says Mark Martin of the Department of Natural Resources.

"The seeds that certain birds prefer correlate with what they are naturally adapted to eat," said Martin, natural areas management specialist for the DNR's Bureau of Endangered Resources. "You'll attract more kinds of birds if you put out different kinds of seeds in different kinds of feeders."

Birds attracted to winter feeders are seed-eating species such as finches, cardinals and nuthatches. According to Martin, these birds spend the winter in Wisconsin because they are naturally adapted to find seeds in the snow, or because the increased popularity in bird feeding provides them with a food source they wouldn't find under normal conditions.

"Cardinals previously weren't found in Wisconsin, but they've moved north with the food source," Martin noted. "Finches such as pine siskins and redpolls move with their food source too - they'll stay in an area if seeds are available."

Martin offers several tips that will help attract more birds to your feeder this winter:

- * Start feeding in late October and continue through the following April.

- * Goldfinches flock to niger seed. This black, oily seed imported from India also attracts siskins and redpolls.

- * Red and white proso millet is popular with ground-feeding birds such as juncos, cardinals, sparrows, doves and finches.

- * Sunflower hearts (also called fines) provide energy that birds convert to body heat. Because the hulls are removed, sunflower hearts attract a wide variety of birds, including grosbeaks, chickadees and crossbills.

- * Small, black sunflower seeds, with the hulls still intact, are higher in oil than striped sunflower seeds and attract many species.

- * Cracked corn is an inexpensive food high in calories, carbohydrates and vitamin A. It attracts ground-feeding birds such as doves and white-throated sparrows.

- * Suet, hung from a tree in a suet feeder or old potato sack, attracts woodpeckers.

- * Birds need water and grit too. Grit is available at most farm stores — it helps birds digest and extract necessary nutrients from their food. Water heating devices can be purchased at most garden and hardware stores.

- * Fillers such as wheat, hulled oats and milo don't attract birds, but are often added to inexpensive bird seed mixes.

- * Scatter some seed on the ground and provide some low feeders and hanging feeders with perches to attract birds that don't like the conventional feeders. To create a more diverse feeding area, put the ground feed in a different area each week. Make sure to clean all the feeders and remove seed left on the ground at least weekly.

- * Birds prefer feeding stations that offer them some protection from predators. A yard with trees, shrubs, vines and wildflowers will attract many species. "Don't be alarmed if a hawk frequents the area," said Martin. "They usually are after the old or sick birds — it's a natural occurrence." American kestrels, Coopers hawks and sharp-shinned hawks remain in Wisconsin through the winter, according to Martin.

- * Squirrels are inevitable. Try diverting them from bird feeders by scattering ear corn on the ground.

"If you start feeding, make sure you continue through the winter," said Martin. "This is especially important in rural areas where your feeding station may be the only one around."

The University of Wisconsin - Extension offers three publications that will help you set up a bird feeding station: "Landscape Plants that Attract Birds," "Bird Feeding Tips for Beginners and Veterans," and "Shelves, Houses and Feeders for Birds and Squirrels." Call UW-Extension at (608) 262-3346 to order these publications; there is a fee for each.

For more information contact: Mark Martin — 608-266-8916.

ADOPT A HYDRANT

For the Coming Snow Season of 90-91

Help your community in reference to emergency government and protection by adopting one of the Village of Kewaskum's 130 plus hydrants for the coming snow season. The hydrants are for everyone's protection and an important part of the communities fire protection plan. Several communities already rely on the citizenry to shovel out the hydrants. This proves to be a cost savings for everyone and improves the snow removal process. Industries and businesses are encouraged to adopt their adjacent hydrants also.

Help your community by helping yourselves!

IRS Offers Electronic Filing for Refund Claims

People claiming refunds can have their 1990 federal income tax returns filed electronically starting in January, the Internal Revenue Service says.

Offered, usually for a fee, by many professional tax preparers as well as some banks and employers, electronic filing involves using a computer and a telephone modem to send returns directly to the IRS. This service is available to people who do their own returns as well as those who have them professionally prepared.

Electronic filing can save time, trouble, and worry by speeding up refunds and cutting down errors, the IRS says. A refund is issued within three weeks after the IRS receives the return.

People can get their money even faster by choosing to have their refunds deposited directly into their bank accounts. Since direct deposit eliminates the possibility of a lost or stolen check, it may be particularly attractive to people who travel a lot, move soon after filing, live in high-crime areas, or for whatever reason have difficulty getting their mail.

The IRS electronically verifies receipt of electronically filed returns within two days. So there's no reason to worry about the return possibly getting lost in the mail. Mistakes often delay refunds, but according to the IRS, electronic filing reduces errors by an average of more than 80%. Nationwide, more than four million federal income tax returns were filed electronically during the past year.

Nurturing Group At Family Center

The Family Center of Washington County is a new, unique, and exciting meeting place for young families with children birth to 3 years old. It is a resource center for two parent, single parent, or blended families wanting ideas and information on raising children.

One of the ways Family Center will promote positive parenting is through the Nurturing Program... which is an upbeat educational/support group for parents and their children (birth to 3 years). The Nurturing Program is two groups at once. While parents meet in our Family Room with two trained leaders, their children meet in the Kid's Room receiving professional child care.

Parents watch film strips, have discussions and role play to help learn about raising children and healthy family living. Starting dates are: Wednesday January 9, 6:30 - 9:00 p.m. and Wednesday, January 9, 9:00 - 11:30 a.m. This is a 16 week program and free of charge.

The group will meet at the Family Center, 279 S. 17th Avenue, West Bend, (former General Clinic Bldg.) For more information call Betsy Kaplan at 338-9461.

In order to raise money for their parish, some North Stamford, Connecticut, residents started an annual tour called "A Christmas Walk." Early in the season hundreds of people paid for tickets to visit 9 homes to see handcrafted ornaments, festive wreaths, and elaborate table settings. Afterwards, the group met for luncheon in the church hall. This project helped to spread the Christmas mood and also gave ideas for their own homes, plus the church netted thousands of dollars.

The public hearing was held regarding the request of Dr. Sison for a Conditional Use Permit to allow for an exception to grant the establishment of a CBRF within 2,500 feet of an existing CBR Facility for the lot located at 1042 Fond du Lac Avenue. On a motion by Trustee Larry Williams, seconded by Trustee Kenneth Bonlender and carried by the majority roll call vote, the Board closed the public hearing. Roll call vote was 7 "Aye," 0 "Nay," 0 "Absent."

Fire Chief Robert Stoltzmann brought up for discussion the flagging of the fire hydrants as to make it easier to locate them following a snow storm. Administrator Schmidt had prepared a news note asking the public to adopt a fire hydrant. Discussion regarding fire hydrants and the snow maintenance encompassed the possibility of making an ordinance to enforce having the property owners adjacent to a hydrant responsible for the snow removal.

Superintendent of Public Works Department, Augie Bilgo was asked to clarify which items are picked up with the normal garbage collection. The DPW uses the recycling list as provided in the ordinance as well as applying the fact that the landfill is no longer open. That means no building/demolition materials, furniture and carpeting are picked up, but that a substantial amount of common sense was also used. If we would not use such common sense a lot of debris would be standing around the community. A review of the ordinance was asked for regarding making the restrictions a little more clear.

On a motion by Trustee Mary Krueger, seconded by Trustee Robert Beisbier and unanimously carried by voice vote, the Board approved the applications for Operator's Licenses upon proper payment of fees and authorized the office to issue said licenses for 90/91 as follows: JoAnn M. Fielder - West Bend, WI. Rita A. Ebert - Kewaskum, WI. Shirley M. Schlice - Kewaskum, WI. Lisa Jackson - Kewaskum, WI.

NOTE: The Police Department had no objection to the application.

Administrator Daniel S. Schmidt reviewed some items and correspondence with the Board as follows:

1. The possibility of holding an informational consensus building meeting in February or March where community input is placed in a priority needs basis. The Board offered their support of such a meeting.

2. A review of the Budget Control Sheet for the month ending November 30, 1990.

3. A review of miscellaneous correspondence.

On a motion by Trustee Thomas McElhatton, seconded by Trustee Robert Beisbier and unanimously carried by voice vote, the Board approved the payment of bills as recommended by the Administrative Committee. The total of all claims as recommended are as follows:

RESOLUTION NO. 90-34 A RESOLUTION OPPOSING A WATER USE FEE

BE IT RESOLVED, by the Village Board of the Village of Kewaskum, Washington County, Wisconsin, that the Kewaskum Water Utility is opposed to the DNR's budget proposal for 10 cents per 1,000 gallons. This proposal will cost us annually $16,465.30 (depending on your annual sales of water at 1,000 gallons times 10 cents). We believe a more equitable funding source would be from general purpose revenue (GPR).

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, the Village of Kewaskum's concern about how these funds will be used. It is our understanding that funds will support a number of non-drinking water needs. They will also subsidize private non-community water systems which we feel is not equitable.

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the Village of Kewaskum respectfully request your support to oppose the water use fee.

APPROVED AND ADOPTED this 10th day of December, 1990.

Snowmobiling is a Privilege, Not a Right

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

It was understandable, when that big snow came two weeks ago, everyone, young and old alike was just itching to get out there for their first ride of the season.

But, sad to say, some people forgot one very important fact. "Snowmobiling is a privilege, not a right." Just because it snows and you have a machine doesn't mean you can ride where you want, when you want. There are laws we all have to obey. It is no different than driving a car.

Every club in the area received one complaint or another about individuals, some locals, some from out of the area, doing everything from riding on the road to trespassing and causing property damage.

One property owner stopped a snowmobiler running through his yard. The rider was told he did not have permission to ride there. The rider's response was he did not think he needed any permission. The landowner, a snowmobiler himself, was upset by this answer and the man's apparent ignorance of the law.

The bad thing about similar situations that weekend is the fact that a few inconsiderate violators of the laws governing the sport cast a sour reflection on all snowmobilers, bringing back memories of an image local, county and state snowmobile organizations have worked twenty years to erase. Over the those years, snowmobilers have organized and worked hard to develop and create a 15,000-mile system of uniform trails in Wisconsin, offering the best snowmobiling in the United States snow belt. A lot of effort has also gone into improving relations with the landowners and non-snowmobilers. The state now has a trail system which can provide all the legal riding anyone could want.

A good thing about that weekend is the fact that, despite these isolated and thoughtless instances of abuse, snowmobilers and landowners are still working together to keep those trails in tact.

If you are a snowmobiler, here are a few very important things to remember: First of all, remember that just because it snowed that does not mean conditions are good enough for riding or that trails are even open. While one area may receive substantial snow, others, especially open and plowed fields, may be bare providing poor riding. Before you go out, check with local clubs and associations for trail conditions and openings.

Next, when you do go out, "STAY ON THE TRAIL." Remember you are riding on someone's private land as a guest. They are giving you, all of us, the privilege of enjoying a wonderful winter sport. And another thing, just because some trails go through wide open fields that doesn't mean you have an open invitation to joyride all over the countryside. Most of that land is hay and winter wheat fields from which farmers earn their living. Damage those fields and they may close their land to our trails. Already with only one weekend of snowmobiling in, some area clubs have received calls from landowners that trails will be closed if riders do not stay on the trails. When signs say "Stay on the Trail," that's exactly what they mean. The trails are clearly marked. Without trails, no one rides!

Clubs such as the Kewaskum Sno-Chiefs, New Fane Kettle Riders, Campbellsport Snow-Cougars and many, many more, have worked hard to maintain good working relationships with the landowners so they can provide excellent trails for everyone. The same is true with the Kettle Moraine State Forest. No one has to let you ride on their land. Forest officials have the authority to close trails, not only temporarily but permanently. The state forest also has lands that are off limits to all types of motorized vehicles.

Another thing for parents to remember is that unless a youngster under sixteen has taken the DNR snowmobile safety course, it is illegal for them to operate a machine on their own. Children under the age of twelve must have a parent or guardian in attendance. There are substantial fines for ignoring this law.

Don't drink and drive, that now applies to snowmobiles. Wisconsin law enforcement officers can now stop you and test for OWI on a snowmobile. You can be arrested and fined.

If you do ride along a roadway and it is not a trail, you still have to have the property owner's permission or it is trespassing. On numbered and lettered highways you must ride at least ten feet from the paved road. At night you must travel with the flow of vehicular traffic. Oncoming lights on the wrong side of the road is confusing and dangerous to motorists who may not realize what they see is a snowmobile and not a car on the wrong side of the road.

If you don't know the condition of the ice on rivers and lakes, stay off. It's better to be safe than sorry or worse, dead, because you went through thin ice.

These are just a few things to keep in mind when you want to go snowmobiling. No one is trying to scare you, just make sure that the laws are obeyed and everyone enjoys a safe season of snowmobiling.

Last of all, remember this statement by a past president of the Association of Wisconsin

Snowmobile Clubs, "Trails just don't spring up in winter and disappear in spring." They are there because hundreds of clubs and thousands of their members spend countless volunteer hours "every year" contacting landowners for permission to use their lands, clearing the routes, putting in the signs in fall and taking them down again in spring.

If you don't belong to a club, join one. It's the best way to find out what snowmobiling and snowmobilers are all about. It's also a great way to insure that Wisconsin's trail system will continue to thrive for everyone to use. You'll also make a lot of great and lasting friendships, not only in your own hometown but all over the state.

Raiders Defeat Indians 43-27

KEWASKUM — The Raiders defeated the Indians Friday 43-27 in the Indians second conference meet, bringing the Indians to a 0-2 conference record.

Although there were several fine performances for the Indians Friday, the number of individual losses couldn't bring the Indians to a victory.

The excitement for the evening came when Kurtz, Dzedzic, and Kapp pinned each of their opponents in less than a minute. Kevin Kapp, wrestling against Derek Downing, showed no trouble as the effortlessly pinned Downing in a quick :57. Following Kapp came Dzedzic's pin at 125 in :43 against Jeremy Peterson. With the excitement lowered after two losses for the Indians 135 and 140 pounders, the action came alive again as Josh Kurtz, with his sixth win in a row, and still undefeated at 145, pinned Mike Greenwood in a breathtaking :42.

The Indians other win came from freshman Chad Muckerheide. Performing exceptionally well against senior Randy Reimer, Muckerheide was forced to make a comeback as he was down 0-4 in the first period. In the second period, Muckerheide came ahead 5-4 and fought hard for his 7-4 victory.

The upset of the evening came when sophomore Todd Muckerheide was defeated, 0-5 to Mike Wasilkoff. Having a bad match, Muckerheide, expecting a win, couldn't gain any points against Wasilkoff.

103 — Jeremy Harel (TR) received forfeit.

112 — Kory Shillcox (TR) pinned Rachel Chambers :50

119 — Kevin Kapp (K) pinned Derek Downing :57.

125 — Mark Dzedzic (K) pinned Jeremy Peterson :43.

130 — Jeff Sabish (K) received forfeit.

135 — Scott Merkes (TR) defeated Brad Riekkoff, 14-2.

140 — John Franzen (TR) pinned Chad Bindrich, 1:36.

145 — Josh Kurtz (K) pinned

Mike Greenwood :42.

152 — Chad Muckerheide (K) defeated Randy Reimer, 7-4.

160 — Dean Downing (TR) pinned Mark Morell, 2:57.

Living Nativity at St. John's Church in West Bend

December 1990 marks the eleventh year that St. John's Congregation, West Bend, has presented the Christmas story with a living nativity scene outside on the church lawn. Members of the congregation take the roles, donning long robes that often conceal overcoats and snowmobile suits to guard against wintry weather.

In spite of the cold, the simple pageant which is performed to a tape-recorded narration by Pastors Hoehner and Jones has been popular. Crowds of 25 to as many as 200 spectators at one performance gather around the wooden manger near the base of the belfry where an "angel of the Lord" appears to proclaim the good news of Christ's birth.

Further bringing to life the events of 2000 years ago are the animals assembled for the scene. A donkey, calf and some sheep are housed inside the stable for the pageant presentations. In recent years, two llamas loaned by a West Bend area couple as "camel substitutes" have proven of particular interest to children in the audiences.

Performances this year are Wednesday through Friday, December 19, 20 & 21 from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Presentations of 15 minutes with five-minute intermissions are given throughout this time period. Each presentation concludes with the participants and the audience singing "Joy to the World." Coffee and hot chocolate are served inside the church between presentations of the living nativity.

St. John's is located at the corner of Sixth Avenue and Decorah Road on West Bend's south side. The congregation invites the public to attend this pageant free of charge.

Holiday Gift-Giving Made Easy

Holiday gift giving is easy when you whip up delicious food treats.

Rich, tempting flavors of chocolate and pistachios combine for simply irresistible "Chocolate Crunch Pistachio Favorites." And best of all, they're a snap to prepare.

Need a last-minute gift or that special something for someone on your list who seems to have everything? Natural pistachios in a decorative jar or tin with a colorful ribbon make a quick, easy gift.

California has harvested its biggest crop ever. Fresh from the groves, these pistachios are high in fiber, low in saturated fat and have no cholesterol. You can feel good about stocking up for the holidays.

CHOCOLATE CHUNK PISTACHIO SHORTBREAD

3/4 cup butter
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1-1/2 cups all-purpose flour
3/4 cup coarsely chopped, natural California pistachios
1/2 cup semi-sweet chocolate chunks
1 egg white, beaten

Cream butter and sugar. Add vanilla and stir in flour gradually. Fold in 1/2 cup pistachios and the chocolate chunks. Pat shortbread dough into greased 8-inch square pan. Brush lightly with egg white. Sprinkle remaining pistachios over top. Bake at 300 degrees F., for 20-30 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool and cut into squares. Makes approximately 16 squares.

PISTACHIO FUDGE TARTS

2 eggs, beaten
2/3 cup light corn syrup
1/3 cup sugar
3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla dash salt
1/2 cup (3 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate morsels, melted
1 cup coarsely chopped, natural California pistachios
Pastry for single crust 9-inch pie

Cut pastry into 4 (6-inch) circles; fit circles into 4-inch tart pans. Combine all ingredients except semi-sweet chocolate and pistachios; stir in chocolate then 3/4 cup pistachios. Pour into pastry shells; sprinkle with remaining pistachios. Bake at 375 degrees F., 25 to 35 minutes or until center is set. Cool on wire rack. Makes 4 (4-inch) tarts.

How the Three Little Kittens Went Caroling One Christmas

Everyone remembers the story about the three little kittens who lost their mittens — but did you know that those kittens went caroling one Christmas?

It all happened on a Christmas Eve, not long ago. The kittens were enjoying a romp by the fireplace. A pretty ornament had fallen from the Christmas tree, and Fluffy, Buffy and Taffy were having a lot of fun playing with it, until Mama Cat came along to scold them.

"You'll break that ball if you keep playing with it, kittens," she warned. But, those naughty kittens kept on playing with the pretty glass ball. Sure enough, there was the sound of breaking glass as Fluffy slammed the ball against a wall. "Now you've done it!" Mama Cat said, putting her paws up in the air. As the mistress of the house came in to see what had broken, the kittens scampered off to hide under the big sofa.

"What happened here, Sissy?" said Mrs. Allen. But Mama Cat just meowed. "Oh no, my favorite ornament is broken. I've had it for over 20 years! Well, nothing to do but clean it up." She went to get the broom as Mama Cat poked her whiskers under sofa. "A fine kettle of fish you've gotten me into," she scolded.

"We're sorry, Mama," said Fluffy. "Yes, we're sorry about it," the others chimed in. "Well, sorry isn't enough," said Mama Cat. "Don't you think you should make up for this naughty thing you've done?" "Make up for it? How can we do that?" asked Taffy.

"Well, you could try doing something nice instead," said Mama Cat. "Something nice! But we don't know how to do anything nice!" said Fluffy.

"That's just the point! You kittens are always getting into some mischief or another, but when do you ever do something nice for someone?"

The kittens thought about it and had to admit they had never done anything nice for anyone.

"Now's the time to start," said Mama Cat. "It's Christmas, the time when you should do something nice for someone. Why don't you do a good deed this Christmas?"

The kittens talked it over and agreed they would do a good deed for someone that very night. But what? Fluffy suggested giving back the cheese they had stolen from Mrs. Mouse, but Taffy had already eaten it.

"Maybe we could wind up the ball of yarn we unwound yesterday," said Buffy. They scampered up to Grandma Allen's room, but Grandma had wisely locked up all her yarn in a cupboard.

What to do? The three little kittens thought and thought. This was almost as bad as the time they lost their mittens! Suddenly, they heard the sound of music outside. The three of them dashed to the window and looked out. A group of youngsters were singing carols in front of the house. What a pretty sound they made! The three little kittens listened quietly, enjoying the young voices. "I love Christmas carols, don't you?" said Taffy. "Everybody loves Christmas carols," Buffy agreed. "That's it!" said Fluffy. "We'll sing Christmas carols for somebody!"

The other kittens agreed that it would be something nice all right, but for whom could they sing? Then Buffy remembered Mrs. Mouse and her family of little mice living in the barn next door. "I'll bet no one's singing carols for them!"

"That's right," said Taffy, who was feeling a little guilty about the cheese. So off they went to find their mittens, which were all nicely washed and dried, of course.

That Christmas Eve a family of mice were very surprised to hear Christmas carols coming from outside their cozy quarters. When they peeked outside, they were even more surprised to see the three little kittens, singing their hearts out. It was a nice way to celebrate Christmas, the kittens decided — in fact, they enjoyed it so much, all three of them said, "Let's do it again next year!"

It's a pleasure to greet our friends at this time and wish you all the happiness the season can bring!

How to Select and Care For Real Christmas Trees

The fragrance, color and texture of real Christmas trees are drawing more and more consumers to Christmas tree lots this year. A natural Christmas tree is often considered the true symbol of a "real" Christmas — and more than 33 million Americans are choosing to buy fresh, natural trees.

Wisconsin is the third largest producer of Christmas trees in the nation, harvesting more than three and a half million each year. Over 300,000 of the trees are sold within the state, according to Bob Williams, marketing specialist with the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection (DATCP).

The favorite tree among Wisconsin buyers is the Scotch pine, followed by White pine, Balsam fir, Norway pine, Fraser fir and Spruce according to Williams.

The basic rule when purchasing a real tree is to buy a fresh one and keep it fresh.

"When buying from a lot, test trees for freshness," says Williams. "Run your fingers down a branch, toward the tip — the needles shouldn't come off in your hand. Or place a needle between your thumb and forefinger and try to bend the needle. A needle from a fresh tree should bend rather than break."

Williams suggests other freshness checks, "Shake or bounce a tree and if many needles fall off, select another tree. In addition, a fresh tree should have its natural fragrance and good green color."

To keep your tree fresh once you get it home, saw a new straight cut across the base of the trunk. About one inch is enough. Immediately place your tree in a water-holding stand or, if you are not ready to decorate it, in a bucket of water. Don't let the base of the tree dry out or a seal will form and another new cut will be necessary.

A fresh tree will retain its moisture content and thereby keep its fragrance and needles if kept in a stand that has a good water-holding capacity. A tree may absorb from a pint to a gallon of water each day, depending upon its size and condition. Checking the water supply daily and refilling when necessary will prevent the needles from drying and the boughs from drooping.

"Follow these tips and the enjoyment of a real Christmas tree can be yours throughout the holiday season," Williams says.

HAVE A NICE HOLIDAY.

Wishing you a very merry Holiday Season!

Beware of The Holiday Hazards

By Lisa Brunette
 UW-Madison Center for Health Sciences

MADISON, Wis. — The biggest potential health hazard you and your children face during the holidays is not a poinsettia leaf, or a Christmas ornament made of dough and covered with shellac, or even that tempting mistletoe dangling from the ceiling.

The biggest health hazard is probably sitting in your freezer right now: the turkey.

Food that has been improperly prepared and stored is the major source of real health hazards in the home during the holiday season, according to experts at the Regional Poison Control Center at University of Wisconsin Hospital and Clinics.

"Every year, we get calls from parents concerned about the special hazards of the holiday season," says Donna Lotzer, a poison-information specialist at UW Hospital. "They're worried about a lot of things, from children chewing on poinsettia leaves to the safety of the leftover turkey they forgot to put in the refrigerator overnight. While they're right to be cautious about the plants and other holiday decorations, the danger of food poisoning tops the list of concerns everyone should be aware of."

The rules for proper preparation of turkey are simple, Lotzer says.

* Don't stuff the bird the night before, because the interior cavity can be a prime breeding ground for harmful bacteria.

* Remember to thoroughly clean the cutting board or other surfaces touched by raw poultry.

* Once the bird is cooked and served, make certain that it is promptly refrigerated after it has cooled. "Promptly," in this case, means to longer than an hour.

While those simple precautions are among the most important to remember, Lotzer says the holidays do call for an extra measure of care overall.

While most seasonal decorations and plants are not toxic, the combination of holiday magic, toddlers' curiosity and a relaxed household routine can create other special dangers.

"Some of the more serious problems are likely to arise just because the normal routine is disrupted," says Lotzer. "Grandma is here for a visit and leaves her heart pills out on the counter — in clear view of the 3-year-old. Or a Tom and Jerry is left unattended for a few moments while mom or dad takes a phone call — and curiosity gets the best of a toddler."

Fortunately, though, many common holiday decorations are not toxic. Handmade ornaments covered with shellac generally don't contain enough of the spray to be dangerous. Tinsel, a favorite of toddlers because it's shiny and easy to grab, is now made of non-toxic materials instead of its one-time lead-based components. And tree lights and glass ornaments, while they may cause cuts, won't poison a child. Lotzer does warn parents about antique ornaments, however, which may contain lead-based paint.

With some exceptions, special holiday plants and trees are also safe. The poinsettia plant has often been singled out as a particular danger because of its leaves and sap. Lotzer says poinsettias actually pose a very small risk of toxicity, although the leaves and sap may cause some skin or mouth irritation. Unless the child has ingested a large amount, however, parents need not be overly concerned.

The Jerusalem cherry plant, another holiday favorite, can be dangerous because its brightly colored berries, particularly when unripe, can cause vomiting and abdominal pain. Other seasonal plants, such as the Christmas cactus and Norfolk pine, pose little if any toxic threat. And mistletoe berries, which are toxic, have largely been replaced by plastic imitations.

Another potential holiday threat that is frequently overlooked is alcohol. The unattended drink poses one hazard, but many gifts of cologne or aftershave lotion are up to 90 percent alcohol, and ingestion of even a small amount can be another severe hazard to a small child. Fortunately, most kids find the taste so that they're likely to take only a swallow before spitting out the remainder. Nevertheless, Lotzer says all children who are suspected of ingesting alcohol should be carefully watched for problems.

If a parent suspects a child has eaten or chewed a harmful substance, Lotzer urges a phone call to the Poison Control Center. The center is staffed 24 hours a day and the pharmacists can offer immediate advice on how to treat the full range of problems caused by both common household and holiday products. The number to call is (608) 262-3702.

"The best time to call us," Lotzer reminds parents, "is before you use a product. But if something goes wrong and you're faced with an emergency pick up the phone and we'll have an answer in a very short time."

Coast to Coast

TOTAL HARDWARE.

Putting Your Gift Under Wraps

Wrap your gift as pretty as you please, but when preparing it for mailing, aim for utility.

Milwaukee Postmaster Dennis L. Nott advises holiday mailers to use a sturdy carton large enough to accommodate the gift package plus cushioning, and remove or mark out any conflicting address information on the box. Brown paper and twine cord are not necessary. In fact they may be detrimental. Paper can rip, and twine can become entangled in mail processing equipment and conveyors.

"It's important to seal your parcel securely," says Nott. We recommend either pressure-sensitive tape, nylon-reinforced craft paper tape, or glass-reinforced pressure sensitive tape.

The recipient's address should be in the lower right portion of the package on one side only. Your return address in the upper left hand corner of the package, should be complete with your proper ZIP Code. Before sealing your package, it's a good idea to put the address on a sheet of paper inside.

"Proper addressing means complete and legible addressing," says NOTT. Always include apartment and suite numbers and correct ZIP Codes. The ZIP Code belongs on the same line as the city and state, which is where out sorting clerks look for it. To ensure legibility, print clearly with smudge-proof ink.

"Good strong packages with complete, legible addresses help ensure that your gifts will arrive quickly and in good shape," Nott says. Printed or typed addresses prepared in the proper format can be read by our automated equipment, he adds. Automation means lower mail processing cost, which ultimately translates into lower postage rates.

Pointers For Parents

Healthy Christmas Toys Means Happy Kids Year-Round

It's Christmas morning and all through the house... toys from Santa are the focus of attention. But the joy can soon be interrupted if those toys break down or start squeaking. And, unhappy children mean frustrated parents.

One way to prolong the life of mechanical toys is to lubricate moving parts. One product, WD-40—lubricant, rust preventative, and cleaner—helps remove carpet fibers as well as grass clippings or dirt from working parts, protects metal surfaces from rust or damage, and stops squeaks. It is especially useful on items stored or forgotten outdoors.

The spray lubricant is also used as a cleaner, removing crayon and black marks left by children and their toys. The non-oily product leaves no sticky residue to attract dust and dirt. It does not build up with repeated use.

Parents are sometimes challenged with the assembly of new toys. Putting a new tricycle or bike together, for instance, can be difficult when nuts, screws, and various parts are new. The lubricant also works to ease the assembly of toys.

To prolong the life of toys, try WD-40 lubricant on:

- swing sets
- wheels of miniature cars and trucks
- erector sets
- squeaking tricycles or bikes
- bicycle chains
- wagon, roller skate, and skateboard wheels
- strollers
- cleaning plastic dolls
- moving parts of mechanical toys

For a break around the house, try WD-40 on toys and help maintain a peaceful, smooth-running home all year long.

Cheers To You!

We value your friendship, loyalty and support. Hoping your season is merry!

BIER'S JEWELRY

The Origin of "Xmas"

The observance of Christmas in our modern world is a combination of both secular and religious customs—a heritage passed down from many centuries.

Christian churches, almost from their infancy, have celebrated Christmas. This festive occasion in England was known as Christmesse, meaning "Christ's mass," from which the word Christmas comes. We often see Christmas shortened to "Xmas." Some of us hesitate to use the "X", thinking it is like "X"-ing Christ out of Christmas, but we are told that the "X" is the Greek equivalent of "Ch" and that "Ch" stands for Christ.

Progressive Christmas Party

A progressive Christmas dinner can be made for those young at heart. As you track from one home to another you might have an Italian salad or a pate de noel (a glorified hamburger in a pie shell from France). Another home might serve Hungarian soup, while another might have Christmas cookies, lebkuchen from Germany, or hot wassail punch from England.

Each house is decorated for the country it portrays and a carol also from that country is sung. The hostess tells of holiday customs in that land.

May you rejoice in the spirit of Christmas.

Dr. J. Dennis Connor

All the blessings of the season to you and your family. We hope that you will find peace and contentment this Christmas and always.

Antique Christmas Ornaments Add Style

While the first Christmas trees were decorated with fruit and nuts, and other edible ornaments, by the middle of the 19th century, elaborately decorated objects began to adorn the increasingly popular evergreen.

Handblown glass balls, called kugels, have added shimmering beauty to pine boughs since they were first made in Germany in the early 1800s. Available in elongated as well as round shapes, kugels could be had in a variety of sizes and colors, as well.

Molded glass ornaments originated in the latter part of the 19th century, also in Germany. The earliest shapes — pine cones, fruit and icicles — were joined by a wide range of others, from fairytale characters to animals, Santas to edifices, as manufacturers became ever more inventive.

Paper ornaments were also popular in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. These took two major forms: "Scrap ornaments," colorfully printed, thanks to the newly refined process of chromolithography; and Dresden ornaments, whose cardboard base, both die-cut and embossed, was painstakingly decorated with gold, silver and other colors of paint.

Among the most popular subjects for scrap ornaments were angels and snowmen, and Santa himself starred in many an eye-catching chromolithographed scrap ornament.

While scrap ornaments were always two-dimensional, Dresden ornaments were often carefully worked into three-dimensional shapes, such as vehicles (including early depictions of airplanes and zeppelins) and animals. Superb detailing characterizes these ornaments, which are among those most treasured by collectors of antique Christmas decorations.

Considerably less elegant, ornaments of spun cotton were popular for their low cost as well as for the wide range of subjects they represented.

Animals, fruits, clowns and angels joined innumerable Santas in these three-dimensional ornaments formed by combining cotton and cellulose fibers, over a base of cardboard or wire. Their hard outer surface on which decorations would be added, was created by the application of glue.

By the 1930s, virtually all of these charming, early decorations had become obsolete. However, today they are heirlooms, prized by collectors and exhibited in museums.

TREAT THE BIRDS

The Christmas season can be a difficult time for our feathered friends, the birds, particularly if there is a snow cover. You can trim an outdoor tree and decorate it with meat, vegetables and seeds to share your holiday blessings with cardinals, juncos, sparrows, finches and other birds. Those named above like vegetable seeds, but you can use such things as pine cones dipped in suet, bits of apples or carrots, even pie crusts to attract hungry blue jays, woodpeckers, nutcrackers, chickadees, warblers and brown creepers.

Children love cone-cups

Most youngsters love cupcakes . . . they love to eat 'em . . . they love to bake them. Christmas "cone cups" are fun and a marvelous treat, iced and decorated with bright holiday gumdrops.

Fill flat-bottom ice cream cones half full of cake batter and bake in a slow oven on a cookie sheet. Serve plain or iced, and best of all, there are no crumbly cupcake liners left over. They're also great to have along on a car trip for a snack, and again, no litter!

Old Fashioned Christmas Has Special Appeal

An old-fashioned Christmas! What wonderful memories and images that expression evokes!

In the days before Christmas, Mother would be busy at the old wood stove, baking special breads, pies, cakes and sugar cookies, or making maple sugar candy. Sister would be helping mother in the kitchen, while brother kept the wood box filled with wood.

Dad would go into the woods and chop down the Christmas tree, bringing it home triumphantly on a sled. The tree was placed in the parlor, with real candles decorating it, as well as strings of popcorn and cranberries that had been strung by the children. Popcorn balls wrapped in tinfoil, and paper cones filled with homemade candy also decorated the tree.

The Christmas season actually began much earlier in the old days, for most gifts were handmade and so had to be worked on months in advance. The boys often made wooden objects, while the girls might embroider handkerchiefs or aprons. Mother, of course, kept her needles busy as she knit or crocheted garments for the whole family. Dad would whittle whistles or animals, or make a hobby horse or wooden doll.

On Christmas Eve, at the old country church, the tree was the biggest you'd ever seen ablaze with candles. Nearby someone held a ten-foot pole that had a wet sponge tied on the end, should a fire start.

The bells would ring out over the countryside, bringing families in their sleighs or bobsleds, eager to worship the new-born King. What a delightful, jingling sound the bells on the horses would make, as they trotted through the snowy countryside. The bobsled or sleigh would be filled with hay, and the youngsters would snuggle under lap robes and gaze at the stars above, or hop on one of the heavy runners for an exciting ride.

A Christmas play would be performed at the church by the children, and afterwards Santa would make an appearance, rewarding the youngsters with goodies.

After hanging their stockings over the fireplace on Christmas Eve, the children would go to bed, happy with anticipation. They slept in big, fluffy beds, with father ticks and feather comforters. If it was an especially cold night, mother would wrap a hot iron in flannel to warm their feet.

On Christmas morning, the youngsters would dash downstairs to find their stockings filled with nuts, apples, peppermint canes, hard ribbon candy, tin horns and a real orange in the toe of each stocking!

After Christmas dinner, the youngsters would go sledding or skating. Later, by the lamplight, the family might gather around the organ and sing carols, or perhaps dad would read a favorite scripture passage or a poem.

Christmas of long ago was a simple, unhurried, and happy time.

Poinsettia Pointers

There are some medical and plant experts who think old Ebenezer Scrooge must have started the story sometime before that memorable Christmas Dickens wrote about. It's the fable that still pops up once-in-awhile this time of year about some mysterious danger that lurks in the most popular of all Christmas flowering plants, the poinsettia.

An office of the U.S. Government, leading research scientists, and the people of the American Association of Nurserymen might very well summarize their findings on the matter with Scrooge's traditional words: "Bah, humbug!"

Here is what spokesmen for the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare have written: "Although there are a number of reports including the ingestion of parts of the leaves and berries of the poinsettia, we have yet to find mention that a child became ill, except for a few cases where vomiting was reported." Translated by the nursery people, that means that a little person might possibly get an upset tummy from eating poinsettias—or all sorts of things a little person ought not eat.

But poisonous? Bah, humbug!

This holiday season, as for many Christmases past, more than 25 million poinsettia plants will decorate American homes. Be sure yours has the right amount of light and water. An easy rule of thumb is to place the plant in a room with enough natural light to permit a person with reasonable eyesight to read fine print. Avoid direct sunlight. As for water, poinsettias appreciate quite a bit. When the soil feels dry to the touch, give the plant a drink, but remove excess water afterwards.

Relax and enjoy your poinsettias—one of nature's friendliest, loveliest gifts for Yuletide.

Goldsmithing

Jo was the first to wake in the gray dawn of Christmas morning. No stockings hung at the fireplace, and for a moment she felt as much disappointed as she did long ago, when her little sock fell down because it was so crammed with goodies. Then she remembered her mother's promise, and slipping her hand under her pillow, drew out a little crimson-covered book. She knew it very well, for it was that beautiful old story of the best life ever lived, and Jo felt that it was a true guidebook for any pilgrim going the long journey.

She woke Meg with a "Merry Christmas," and bade her see what was under her pillow. A green-covered book appeared, with the same picture inside, and a few words written by their mother, which made their one present very precious in their eyes. Presently Beth and Amy woke to rummage and find their little books also — one dove-colored, the other blue; and all sat looking at and talking about them, while the east grew rosy with the coming day. In spite of her small vanities, Margaret had a sweet and pious nature, which unconsciously influenced her sisters, especially Jo, who loved her very tenderly, and obeyed her because her advice was so gently given.

"Girls," said Meg seriously, looking from the tumbled head beside her to the two little night-capped ones in the room beyond, "mother wants us to read and love and mind these books, and we must begin at once. We used to be faithful about it; but since father went away, and all this war trouble unsettled us, we have neglected many things. You can do as you please; but I shall keep my book on the table near, and read a little every morning as soon as I wake, for I know it will do me good, and help me through the day."

Then she opened her new book and began to read. Jo put her arm round her, and, leaning cheek to cheek, read also, with the quiet expression so seldom seen on her restless face.

"How good Meg is! Come, Amy, let's do as they do. I'll help you with the hard words, and they'll explain things if we don't understand," whispered Beth, very much impressed by the pretty books and her sisters' example.

"I'm glad mine is blue," said Amy; and then the rooms were very still while the pages were softly turned, and the winter sunshine crept in to touch the bright heads and serious faces with a Christmas greeting.

"How nice my handkerchiefs look, don't they? Hannah washed and ironed them for me, and I marked them all myself," said Beth, looking proudly at the somewhat uneven letters which had cost her such labor.

"Bless the child! she's gone and put 'Mother' on them instead of 'M. March.' How funny!" cried Jo, taking up one.

"Isn't it right? I thought it was better to do it so, because Meg's initials are 'M.M.', and I don't want anyone to use these but Marmee," said Beth, looking troubled.

"It's all right, dear and a very pretty idea — quite sensible, too, for no one can ever mistake now. It will please her very much, I know," said Meg, with a frown for Jo and a smile for Beth.

Not a very splendid show, but there was a great deal of love done up in the few little bundles; and the tall vase of red roses, white chrysanthemums, and trailing vines, which stood in the middle, gave quite an elegant air to the table.

"She's coming! Strike up, Beth! Open the door, Amy! Three cheers for Marmee!" cried Jo, prancing about, while Meg went to conduct mother to the seat of honor.

Beth played her gayest march, Amy threw open the door, and Meg enacted escort with great dignity.

Mrs. March was both surprised and touched; and smiled with her eyes full as she examined her presents, and read the little notes which accompanied them. The slippers went on at once, a new handkerchief was slipped into her pocket, well scented with Amy's cologne, the rose was fastened in her bosom, and the nice gloves were pronounced a "perfect fit."

HEALTH FOOD CANDY

Here's something for weight watchers who find it difficult to resist the endless chocolates, jellybeans, caramels and candy canes that seem to be everywhere during the holiday season. This is a health food candy that's not only good, it's good for you.

- 1 1/4 cups quick-cooking oatmeal
- 1 cup flaked coconut, chopped
- 1 cup walnuts, coarsely

- chopped
- 1/2 cup toasted wheat germ
- 1/2 cup sesame seeds
- 1 tablespoon ground cinnamon
- 1/2 cup snipped dried apricots
- 1 stick butter or margarine
- 1/4 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
- 1/2 cup honey

Combine oatmeal, coconut, walnuts, wheat germ, sesame seeds and cinnamon in large bowl and stir to mix well. Add apricots and toss. In a small saucepan, melt butter, stir in brown sugar and heat until dissolved. Drizzle over cereal mixture and toss until evenly moistened. Spread evenly in 13 x 9 x 2-inch baking pan, sprinkle with honey. Bake in 350 degree oven 25 minutes, stirring occasionally with a fork. Turn onto lightly greased aluminum foil and spread into layer about 1-inch thick. Let cool. When mixture is cool enough to handle, shape into 1-inch balls. Allow to cool completely and store in plastic bag or airtight jar. Makes about five dozen balls.

As the Christmas spirit radiates around us, we especially hope you feel the festive warmth and promise that this holiday brings. Enjoy it...with our sincere thanks.

Christmas In America Is a Kaleidoscope

Being the melting pot that it is, America is a kaleidoscope of customs and colors when it comes to Christmas. Almost every region has its own unique way of celebrating the holidays, although a common thread runs through all, of course.

In a tiny town in South Dakota, the nativity is recreated in an actual barn. The pageant is presented each year by the members of a local church, who build the sets, make the costumes, and write the narration. It is said by those who have attended this Christmas pageant that one comes away with a sense of the wonder that must have been felt by those first shepherds so very long ago.

In the village of Christmas, Florida, as you might expect, Christmas is a very special time. There is a permanent Christmas tree there, which is decorated each year with contributions from the townpeople. Around December 3rd, the tree is lit, while families and neighbors gather together to sing carols.

Of course, no other town is as uniquely American as Williamsburg, Virginia, the village that has been restored to its colonial period, and that celebrates Christmas in early American style.

The holiday season is heralded in Williamsburg with blasts of cannon, followed by musket volleys and fifes and drums.

This is the signal for residents of Duke of Gloucester Street to light candles in their windows, a tradition known as the Grand Illumination. These will be the only lights, except for bonfires and cressets, which are baskets of burning wood on 7-foot poles. Every night until New year's, the candles are lit to give this charming town its special holiday glow.

Each season, local youngsters perform a Mummer's play about St. George, and play games that were popular with the children of colonial times.

In many parts of Los Angeles, California, which has a large population of Mexican ancestry, Las Posadas is celebrated to commemorate Mary and Joseph's search for sheiter on Christmas Eve.

Participants follow a couple dressed up to present the two travelers in a predetermined route. The pilgrims stop at each home, asking for lodging with a traditional song. Each time, they are turned away, until the last stop, when they are invited to enter.

Wherever you travel in the United States at Christmas time, you will find special ways of celebrating the season that are unique to each area, demonstrating the variety that is America.

'Crismon' Tree Tells A Story

Christmas trees embody different kinds of traditions. Many families traditionally observe each Christmas by adding one new decoration to the family tree.

Churches also decorate Christmas trees and many have adopted ornaments that tell a story. These are called "Crismon" trees from a combination of the words "Christ" and "monogram." Crismon thus means, "monogram of Christ."

Decorations include the traditional Nativity figures, animals, Biblical items, such as chariots and crosses, as well as the white rose which symbolizes the infant.

Golden Platter

You can make a very rich-looking gift in a simple way.

Glue wheel-shaped macaroni around the raised edge of a paper, oval dinner platter.

Cut a Styrofoam cup in half and glue it to the center of the platter. Spray paint all with gold paint.

Place evergreen sprigs, poinsettias, etc. inside the cup.

Set tiny reindeer, snowmen, etc., in the platter.

TORCH PARADE

Caroling and Midnight Mass are longtime traditions in the mountains of Western Austria. Beginning with the family living farthest from the village church, torch-bearing carolers begin a procession. At each house along the way, greetings of "Froehliche Weihnachten" are exchanged and the inhabitants join the march to the next home. Eventually, the whole population is part of the parade as it arrives at the church steps in time for Midnight Mass.

DAIRYLAND SEED

The Christmas Dinner

By Washington Irving

The dinner was served up in the great hall, where the squire always held his Christmas banquet. A blazing, crackling fire of logs had been heaped on to warm the spacious apartment, and the flame went sparkling and wreathing up the wide-mouthed chimney.

The parson said grace, which was not a short, familiar one, such as is commonly addressed to the Diety in these unceremonious days; but a long, courtly, well-worded one of the ancient school. There was now a pause, as if something was expected; when suddenly the butler entered the hall with some degree of bustle: he was attended by a servant on each side with a large wax-light, and bore a silver dish, on which was an enormous pig's head, decorated with rosemary, with a lemon in its mouth, which was placed with great formality at the head of the table. The moment this pageant made its appearance, the harper struck up a flourish; at the conclusion of which the young Oxonian, on receiving a hint from the squire, gave, with an air of the most comic gravity, an old carol.

The table was literally loaded with good cheer, and presented an epitome of country abundance, in this season of overflowing larders. A distinguished post was allotted to "ancient sirloin," as mine host termed it; being, as he added, "the standard of old English hospitality, and a joint of goodly presence, and full of expectation." There were several dishes quaintly decorated, and which had evidently something traditional in their embellishments; but about which, as I did not like to appear over-curious, I asked no questions.

It would be tedious, perhaps, to my wiser readers, who may not have that foolish fondness for odd and obsolete things to which I am a little given, were I to mention the other make-shifts of this worthy old humorist, by which he was endeavouring to follow up, though at humble distance, the quaint customs of antiquity. I was pleased, however, to see the respect shown to his whims by his children and relatives; who, indeed, entered readily into the full spirit of them, and seemed all well versed in their parts; having doubtless been present at many a rehearsal. I was amused, too, at the air of profound gravity with which the butler and other servants executed the duties assigned them, however eccentric. They had an old-fashioned look; having, for the most part, been brought up in the household, and grown into keeping with the antiquated mansion, and the humours of its lord; and most probably looked upon all his whimsical regulations as the established laws of honourable housekeeping.

After the dinner-table was removed, the hall was given up to the younger members of the family, who, prompted to all kind of noisy mirth by the Oxonian and Master Simon, made its old walls ring with their merriment, as they played at romping games. I delight in witnessing the gambols of children, and particularly at this happy holiday season, and could not help stealing out of the drawing-room on hearing one of their peals of laughter. I found them at the game of blind-man's buff. Master Simon, who was the leader of their revels, and seemed on all occasions to fulfill the office of that ancient potentate, the Lord of Misrule, was blinded in the midst of the hall. The little beings were as busy about him as the mock fairies about Falstaff; pinching him, plucking at the skirts of his coat, and tickling him with straws. One fine blue-eyed girl of about thirteen, with her flaxen hair all in beautiful confusion, her frolic face in a glow, her frock half torn off her shoulders, a complete picture of a romp, was the chief tormentor; and, from the slyness with which Master Simon avoided the smaller game, and hemmed this wild little nymph in corners, and obliged her to jump shrieking over chairs, I suspected the rogue of being not a whit more blinded than was convenient.

It was inspiring to see wild-eyed frolic and warm-hearted hospitality breaking out from among the chills and glooms of winter, and old age throwing off his apathy, and catching once more the freshness of youthful enjoyment. I felt also an interest in the scene, from the consideration that these fleeting customs were posting fast into oblivion, and that this was, perhaps, the only family in England in which the whole of them was still punctiliously observed. There was a quaintness, too, mingled with all this revelry, that give it a peculiar zest: it was suited to the time and place; and as the old manor-house almost reeled with mirth and wassail, it seemed echoing back the joviality of long departed years.

"Kismus"

There are some Americans who still are untainted by Christmas commercialism! The Navajos living on reservations are practically untouched by our commercial American Christmases. A big dinner might be held at the trading post with fruits and candies, toys and clothes for all who attend. Although, "Kismus" is a vibrant and vital day, many Indians haven't grasped its significance.

Holiday Hope For The Homeless

For 5,000 children nationwide, the only glimpse they'll have of a Christmas tree or gifts is through a storefront window. That's how many children will spend the holidays in a rescue mission, according to the International Union of Gospel Missions (IUGM).

What holiday gift could you give a homeless man, woman or child? It's easy to overlook the obvious. Most need a "holiday hand-up"—to emerge from desperate circumstances. IUGM recommends the following:

Instead of money, purchase food yourself, direct the person to an agency providing food and shelter, or give a gift certificate that can be redeemed for food.

Homeless shelters need food staples—such as sugar, flour, canned items, juices, soups and stews—during the winter months.

Warm clothing—coats, jackets, socks, shoes, and gloves—is needed, and blankets, baby formula, disposable diapers and children's clothing.

Make a child's wish come true. Donate new toys such as dolls, trucks, games and stuffed animals.

Volunteers can help serve holiday meals, sort and distribute clothing, deliver food baskets and provide transportation.

Small toiletry items—soap, toothbrushes, toothpaste, and shampoo—are welcome.

Find out how to help the homeless in your community—call IUGM at 1-800-624-5156.

Food Stain Removal

Food stains are part of the holiday season. Good food and drinks abound and mishaps are frequent, with clothing and tablecloths the most frequent recipients of someone's miscue.

Prompt treatment is recommended for any stained material—the sooner, the better. Protein-based stains such as milk, blood and fruit can be soaked in an enzyme pre-soak product before washing. Greasy stains should be spot treated with a pre-wash product.

Some difficult stains may require bleaching, but check garment label first. Some fabrics should not be chlorine bleached. Washable fabrics can be spot-cleaned with pre-wash products, then laundered. Non-washable materials may be spot-cleaned with a sponge wetted with a dry-cleaning fluid.

WHO SAYS YOU CAN'T BUY HAPPINESS?

The Salvation Army knows better. Donations of time and money make Christmas a reality for children who could only dream about it before.

Story of The Little Match Girl

By Hans Christian Andersen
In the cold and gloom a poor little girl, bareheaded and barefoot, was walking through the streets. In an old apron she carried a number of matches and a bundle of them in her hand. No one had bought anything of hers all day!

Her little hands were almost benumbed with the cold. Ah, a match might do her good, if she could only draw one from the bundle and rub it against the wall and warm her hands at it. She drew one out, R-r-atch! How it sputtered and burned! It was a warm, bright flame, like a little candle, when she held her hands over it. But the little flame went out...and she had only the remains of the burnt match in her hand.

A second was rubbed against the wall. It burned up, and when the light fell upon the wall it became transparent like a thin veil, and she could see through it into the room. On the table a snow-white cloth was spread; upon it stood a shining dinner service; the roast goose smoked gloriously, stuffed with apples and dried plums. Then the match went out and only the thick, cold wall was before her. She lit another match. Then she was sitting under a beautiful Christmas tree. Thousands of candles burned upon the green branches. The little girl stretched forth her hand toward them; then the match went out. The Christmas lights mounted higher. She saw them now as stars in the sky; one of them fell down, forming a long line of fire.

"Now someone is dying," thought the little girl, for her old grandmother, the only person who had loved her, and who was now dead, had told her that when a star fell down a soul mounted up to God.

She rubbed another match against the wall; it became bright again, and in the brightness the old grandmother stood clear and shining, mild and lovely.

She took the little girl in her arms, and both flew in brightness and joy above the earth, very, very high, and up there was neither cold, nor hunger, nor care — they were with God.

BEST OF ALL

Particularly at Christmas, the things you can't buy are best of all. What about some token of love, about love itself, and friendship, understanding, a helping hand, prayer...and consideration?

These things are not for sale in any store and they are things most people seem to need most. Let's not permit the crowds and the excitement to crowd Christmas out of our hearts, but keep it where it belongs. Christmas is not found in stores, nor under the tree — it is in the hearts of people.

Mistletoe Subject Of Superstition

The ancient Druids called mistletoe "all heal", believing it had miraculous powers to cure diseases. The Druids probably are responsible for the mistletoe kiss — but custom demanded the mistletoe first be cut with a golden knife and that one berry be removed each time someone kissed beneath it.

According to an ancient Norse myth, mistletoe berries are symbolic of tears shed by Freyja, the goddess of love. Balder, the god of light, couldn't be hurt by anything that grew on — or under — the earth. The evil god, Loki, knowing mistletoe grew neither on earth nor under it, had Balder slain with a spear tipped with mistletoe.

Balder was mourned by all creatures in heaven and on earth, including Freyja, and the tears she shed became the pearly berries of the plant, which even today symbolizes love.

Holiday Hints

Present Surprises

Having that spare holiday gift tucked in your closet for "emergencies"—the surprise present, the forgotten grab bag gift, is an ideal during the holiday season, or any gift-giving time of the year. Problem is, what type of gift is one-size-fits-all in terms of lifestyle, age and sex? And would be welcome no matter how many duplicates show up under the tree?

Chances are virtually everyone on your gift list loves music—whether it's teenagers and college students listening to portables at school or on the move; commuters taping for their car stereos; audio buffs taping their compact disc collection for use in other audio equipment.

A good gift should also be pocket size, easy to select and usable from the moment it's open. Pick a top-of-the-line, high quality metal-particle audio cassette known among recording publications worldwide for its ability to meet the demands of any recording application, including those who are fussy about recording quality.

Friends on your list will be pleased at the way top-quality metal audio cassettes seem to improve the performance of their cassette deck, portables, and in even the most demanding cranked-up car stereos. They'll also appreciate the look and high-tech feel of well-made, state-of-the-art

Stacking up on quality cassettes can be a clever Christmas move.

"shells"—the part of a cassette that houses the tape and controls its ability to run smoothly through any deck.

"More and more consumers are finding that quality metal audio cassettes are a terrific way to go—and what better way to show your friends how smart you are than to introduce them to the perfect audio cassette," according to Dan Garcia, tape expert from THAT's compact disc-quality recording cassettes. "Our engineers designed our tape to go with all the new digital recording sources such as compact discs, and its other technical features make it the perfect running mate for portables and car stereos," he adds.

So next time you're looking to impress your friends with the perfect gift—try out a compact disc-quality recording cassette. And while you are at it, buy yourself a few for being such a good Santa Claus.

Gift Pondering

In all innocence a husband gives a middle-aged wife a crockpot and the wife may think, "That's how he thinks of me—just a cook or maid! Why didn't he give me a lacy nightgown?" Or a beau's lady friend has been wanting him to get that fashionable, bulky turtle-neck sweater which he detests—so, this year, there it is under the tree.

Then there is the couple who uses Christmas gifts as ego boosters. Each year that goes by brings a more expensive gift for the other. They go on spending in a self-centered way and if either breaks the pattern the other will feel unloved.

All the budgets in the world can't compensate for poor communication.

Before doing Christmas shopping it might be well to have a family discussion with each member of the family feeling free to express his feelings about gifts. The age-old idea of each family member making a list of what he'd like can simplify shopping.

For holiday happiness do a bit of pondering before giving.

He Was Remembered

Christmas is for children—God's children, young and old!

He was nearly 85 years old—and squeezes the lady's hand who came to bring Christmas to this nursing home resident. "You know, we have not always been like this," he meekly said, pointing to his arthritic hands and tapping the floor with his cane.

Tears rolled down his wrinkled face, then he smiled, shuffled his cane and proceeded to the tree to select his gift.

What joy there is in doing for others and seeing their pleasure at being remembered!

A Christmas Party Favor

These pretty candles have a surprise inside.

They can be used as table name plates for a party, or just use them in your family's decorations and each will be surprised that all along they have held treats.

Use a cottage cheese type top for the base; line it with red paper. Cover a cardboard tube with red paper.

Wrap Christmas white, silver, or gold tape around the tube for a striped design.

Make a round disk to fit the top of the candle; make a slit in this; insert a flame cut from yellow or gold paper into this slit.

Glue bottom of tube to the lid. Attach a pretty bow to center of candle. Let sit until dry. Fill the tube with candies, then tape on the top disk.

Group candles in a nest of evergreen sprigs interspersed with baubles to match the colors of the candles as a decoration, or one by one by each place setting, its base decorated with evergreens.

SEASON'S SPIRIT

For years, the small town of Hartford, Ky., was known to truck drivers, tourists and travelers because of a large sign on the outskirts of town, which read: "Welcome to Hartford, Ky., Home of 2000 happy people and a Few Soreheads." Visitors during the Christmas season were even more impressed by an addition to the sign which said, "Even the Soreheads Wish You a Merry Christmas."

Exchanging Gifts A Delicate Matter

Returning or exchanging gifts received for Christmas can be a problem. It is quite proper to return clothing that does not fit for exchange. If a gift arrives damaged, return it to the store where purchased and explain the situation. If purchased out-of-town, write the store, describe the item and damage and ask for instructions.

A gift that was wrapped and mailed by the donor and not insured should be acknowledged as if the gift arrived in good condition.

We Know It's Been Said Many Times, Many Ways...

Merry Christmas. Enjoy the fruits of the season.

Family Reunion Bread Perfect for Holiday Centerpiece

Kewaskum Statesman, Thursday, Dec. 20, 1990, Page 17

Holidays are the perfect time to round up the whole clan for a family reunion. Although it's fairly rare to get everyone "home for the holidays," it's fun to extend the invitation to friends and new neighbors who live a distance from close relatives.

For your own memorable contribution to the feast, make Pull-Apart Reunion Wreath—a delicious pull-apart yeast-bread wreath from Fleischmann's Yeast that doubles as a decorative centerpiece for the table. A quick one-rise method allows you to make the bread wreath or whole wheat yeast rolls in just one hour—start to finish. This handsome wreath is made by tying short "ropes" of dough into loose knots and then attaching them together to form a bread wreath. Before baking, the wreath can be glazed with egg wash and then sprinkled with poppy or sesame seeds.

Fleischmann's Yeast has established a toll-free number (1-800-227-6202) to answer consumer questions about yeast baking. Baking specialists are available to answer questions from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, Monday through Friday.

PULL-APART REUNION WREATH Makes 2 wreaths

- 5 3/4 to 6 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 packages Fleischmann's® RapidRise™ or Active Dry Yeast
- 1 1/2 cups very warm water (125° to 130°F)
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened
- 3 eggs, at room temperature
- Sesame or poppy seeds, optional
- Vegetable cooking spray

In large bowl, mix 1 1/2 cups flour, sugar, salt and undissolved yeast. Gradually add water and butter to dry ingredients; beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add 2 eggs and 1 cup flour; beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. With spoon, stir in enough remaining flour to make stiff dough. On lightly floured surface, knead until smooth and elastic, about 5 minutes.

Divide dough into 36 equal pieces. Roll each piece to 8-inch rope. Loosely tie knot at center of each rope. Arrange 18 knots, side by side, barely touching, in ring shape on baking sheet coated with vegetable cooking spray. Repeat with remaining rolls; cover. Place 2 large shallow pans on counter; half fill each pan with boiling water. Place baking sheets on pans; let dough rise 20 minutes.

Lightly beat remaining egg; brush on rolls. Sprinkle with sesame or poppy seeds, if desired. Bake at 400°F for 12 minutes or until done. Remove from baking sheets; cool on wire racks.

Whole Wheat Rolls: Replace 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour with whole wheat flour in above recipe. Mix, shape and bake as directed.

WELCOME WINDOW

Let your picture window extend a holiday welcome to one and all. Place a candle, a wreath or a spray of evergreen in the window. Let your children put their artistic talents to work, using easily-washed-off artificial colors or snow sprays to create a stained-glass effect.

COMPANY TREATS

Unexpected visitors are part of the holiday season, so be prepared. Stock up on traditional foods such as plum pudding, miniature fruit cakes, candies or pickled peaches or pears. Don't overlook coconut, nut meats and ice cream sauces to dress up plain puddings or ice cream for dessert.

Jingle Bells, Jingle Bells

We've come a long way since the horse-drawn carriage, but our commitment to family traditions and old-fashioned values remains the same.

Happy holidays and heartfelt thanks to our many good friends.

Glass Trinkets

It seems that Christmas tree decorations as such were handed down to us from 16th Century Germany as apples, sugar figures, gilded nuts, shepherds and dolls were hung on the Christmas tree. But it was not until 1860 that glass trinkets began to replace the edible hanging ornaments. It was the Germans who once again took the lead as the father blew glass figures while the rest of the family painted fancy designs on the ornaments.

Straw Angels & Mushrooms

Almost anything goes to hang on the Christmas tree -- as long as it's colorful. Strings of mushrooms hang between paper flowers and egg-shell birds as a part of the Polish Christmas trees. Angels made of straw hang with birds on the Scandinavian tree. Early American trees were adorned with popcorn and cranberry strings.

CHRISTMAS SAFETY TIPS

When riding an elevator or escalator this crowded holiday season, experts at the Westinghouse Elevator Company advise that you can safely rise to the occasion by observing a few common sense precautions:

1. Never ride an escalator if you can't attend to your children, your packages, and still hold the handrail—use the elevator instead.
 2. Watch your step when getting on and off—the elevator floor may not be level with the hall (building/store) floor.
 3. Never put your hand, or an object, between closing elevator doors—wait for the next car.
 4. If a power failure occurs while an elevator is moving, don't panic. Every modern elevator has a two-way communication system; press the alarm button to notify attendants to get you off.
 5. If there is a malfunction, or someone accidentally falls, you should inform the lobby attendant, or someone in authority in the store.
 6. Never push both Up and Down buttons. This stops elevators going both ways and delays service.
- Escalators are moving flights of stairs that can cause you trouble unless you keep these points in mind:

1. Wait your turn, hold the handrail, and as you step on, keep your feet slightly apart and away from the sides.
2. Take special care in riding and stepping off the escalator if you are wearing soft or rubber-soled shoes that could catch on the sides or on the stationary platform at the end-step over, don't slide over, the platform.

REMINDE CHILDREN that they should not play on an escalator.

3. Above all, hold on to small children, helping them observe the above precautions.

4. Keep hands off anything but the top of the handrail. Don't lean on the sides—loose fitting clothes and dangling scarves can get caught.

5. Children can injure other passengers if they run up the stairs and fail to stand still and hold onto the handrail.

6. Observe escalator etiquette: Don't eat on the escalator where dropped food can create a hazard; don't drop litter; don't let children slide down handrails.

7. Never wheel an infant's stroller onto an escalator.

8. Try to lend a helping hand to the blind and the handicapped.

Elevators and escalators are among the world's most widely used forms of transportation. They are the safest, too! Being considerate and knowing how to use them properly can assure you of a safe trip.

Year-Round Christmas Tree

Need to add an evergreen tree to your landscape? Have your nurseryman save a balled-and-burlapped evergreen to be delivered near Christmas. After the tree arrives, let the ball soak up some water in a tub; later remove the burlap and let the access water drain. Then wrap the ball in a sheet of plastic and tie securely. The foliage can be sprayed with an antidesiccant which you can buy at garden centers. This solution will also be good for cut trees. It dries in a thin, transparent film allowing carbon dioxide and oxygen passage to continue yet it helps prevent the drying of needles.

The tree may be placed indoors a couple of days before Christmas but it's advised not to keep it inside more than a week. After the holidays plant it in a hole you've probably dug and mulch it to keep it from freezing.

In Czechoslovakia a girl tells her fortune by putting a cherry twig in water on Dec. 4. If it blossoms before Christmas Eve, she will marry sometime that year, World Book Encyclopedia explains.

Santa Claus, a famous town in Indiana, re-mails thousands of letters and parcels with its postmark at Christmastime.

Origins of Rudolph

One of the most beloved figures in modern Christmas lore, Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer, was born when a Montgomery Ward advertising copywriter named Robert L. May was told to create a booklet which would be given to children at Christmastime.

That was in 1939, and "Rudolph with his nose so bright," the nose which made him a laughingstock among the other reindeer, has charmed generations of children for over 50 years.

Interestingly enough, the words of the song, "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer," were not included in the original booklet that told Rudolph's story, and were not written by May.

Rather, 10 years after May's original creation, his brother-in-law, composer Johnny Marks, put Rudolph's tale to music, and wrote the lyrics with which we were familiar today.

Cowboy-singer Gene Autry recorded the tune, which was released in the fall of 1949 and quickly became a smash hit.

Time to Start a New Tradition

"Hand addressing Christmas cards and packages has become an ironclad tradition," says Milwaukee Postmaster Dennis L. Nott. He'd like you to consider a new addressing tradition. If you're a personal computer user, why not use your printer to print peel-and-stick labels? A printed address — in the proper format — speeds it through our automated equipment.

"Peel-and-stick labels are a real time-saver and allows you to spend more time on the sentiments inside," says Nott. They are also far easier to read on red or green envelopes.

If you don't use computer-printed labels, here's a few hand addressing tips that improve the ability of our electronic equipment and people to read the addresses and speed your holiday greetings through the mail.

- * Print the address.
- * Keep a uniform left margin;

use all capital letters. Make sure the letters don't touch each other.

* Eliminate all punctuation in the address except the hyphen when you use ZIP + 4 Codes.

* Make sure the city/state/ZIP Code line is at least one inch above the bottom edge. If you use address labels, place them one inch above the bottom edge.

* Spell out the city name, but use the two-letter abbreviation for states. Use a single space between words and between the state abbreviation and the ZIP Code.

* Do not use the name of building in place of the street address. In rural addresses, the route number should precede the box number.

* Use the abbreviations AVE, ST, LN and RD for avenue, street, lane and road and use only the first capital letter for north, south, east or west (N-S-E-W).

Advent Puts Many In the Holiday Mood

Advent is the period of four weeks preceding Christmas, a time of anticipation and preparation for the advent of the Lord. It begins on the Sunday nearest the 30th and ends at midnight on Christmas Eve.

One of the oldest of Christian traditions, Advent, which derives from the Latin word adventus, or coming, was widely observed during Victorian times and it is still observed by many.

One of the customs of this season is the Advent wreath, symbolizing the light which is to come into the world at Christmas time. It is customary to light candles on four successive Sundays during the Advent season, usually with a prayer and a song such as "O Come Emmanuel."

Another tradition especially loved by youngsters is that of the Advent calendar. Each calendar contains 24 picture windows with little flaps to be lifted each day, beginning on December 1. These calendars usually feature a tiny picture or Bible verse or a phrase from a Christmas song. They can be obtained at religious book stores, and they are a delightful way for children to anticipate Christmas.

In many countries, the setting up of the nativity scene is the most important activity during Advent, unlike the United States, where the creche is often left to the last. Elsewhere, the manger scene is assembled weeks before Christmas, with elaborate settings sometimes taking over a whole room.

In Britain, the first Sunday in Advent is Stir-Up Sunday, when everyone in the family helps with the making of the plum pudding, while making a Christmas wish. Not surprisingly, Advent is a time for "baked ahead" for the holiday season in many countries.

The Jesse tree is another tradition that is appropriate for Advent. It celebrates the Jewish heritage of the Messiah, and is inspired by the quotation from Isaiah: "A shoot shall sprout from the stump of Jesse."

A small tree, artificial or real can be used for this purpose - or a tree can be made from construction paper. Each day, a piece of paper bearing a name, a Biblical quotation, or a symbol associated with the ancestors of Jesus is hung on the tree, beginning December 1.

Yet another tradition is the Advent candle, a large white candle that counts off the days until Christmas with colorful numbers and decorations. Youngsters can take turns lighting the candle each day, while the family sings or says a prayer.

Symbolic observances such as these during Advent can make the Christmas season more meaningful for youngsters and adults alike when it does arrive.

On this great holiday, let us join together in prayer. Let each ask, in his own way, that the true spirit of this Christmas season—its joy, its beauty, its hope, and its ever-abiding faith—find its way into every heart and home.

Let us pray for the blessings of peace, with time to build and grow, to live in harmony and sympathy with our fellow man—and to plan the future with a determined confidence.

Let us pray that those who work for a world of reason and understanding be given courage and energy unlimited.

And, let us pray that the message of Bethlehem be made known to one and all, so that the good that lies in every man's heart may be ever magnified.

Christmas Greetings of Love and Peace

Thank you for making us a part of this kind and caring community.

It Was The Day After Christmas

It was the day after Christmas and all through the condo not a creature was stirring, not even ole cat Bondo.

The children were sacked, and snuggled in bed with visions of robots and bicycles red.

Mom in the love seat and I on the couch were resting our bodies and heads, crying ouch!

When all of a sudden upstairs rose a clatter, we sprang from our seats to see what was the matter.

Tony and Tim turned the toys on with Ryan, hers wouldn't work, so Marissa was cryin'.

The toys once nifty, humorous and fun, were squeaking and squawking and some didn't run.

Away to the chimney like a rocket I flew, and looked for the stocking the one that said Lou.

I hopped over transformers, a robot named Shorty, searching my stocking for my WD-40.

The wheels were all shrieking, the gears were all stuck, the toys that were talking had all run amuck.

The starship from Gluddos that was supposed to fly, its engines were sputtering and choking to die.

A dinosaur's legs and arms on remote, were grinding and scraping and starting to smoke.

The train jumped the track with wheels all a whirring while Gethro the cat, his motor stopped purring.

As the turbulence mounted and cacophony grew, I wished,

Saint Nick...I had closed the flue!

As I pulled out my hand and was turning around, the kids cheered the WD-40 can I had found.

I frantically sprayed each pedal and gear, almost got Ginger our dog that was near.

Spritzed a wheel, a motor, a wire, a Jack in the Box whose crank got too tired.

I sprayed mom's crystal, as she said "what's this?"...easily removed the price tag I missed.

The noise started to dull and the children grew happy, the roller skates hummed as did electro man, Zappy.

One by one the toys settled down...no squeaks, no squawks, no children to frown.

We were all smiling and gone was the fear that this all might happen again next year.

As I thought about Christmas and dozed out of sight...A can of WD-40...and to all...a good night.

Holiday Crafts Are Fun for Youngsters

Christmas is the ideal time of year to involve youngsters with crafts — there are so many delightful decorations that can be made easily, and it helps while away the time waiting for Santa.

Candles and Christmas are synonymous, so organize a candle-making project for your children and their friends this holiday season. All it takes is some leftover candles, crayons and milk cartons.

Break the old candles into small pieces, making sure to save the wicks — you'll need them later. Melt the candle pieces in a double boiler, adding crayon for color.

Cut the top off from a milk carton and clean it. Pour your candle mixture into the carton.

When the candle is almost firm, push in a long wick.

After wax has hardened, cut the container away with a sharp knife. Rinse the candle in hot water, smoothing out bumps.

Here's where the kids can really have some fun. Have them make fanciful designs by gluing sequins and other decorations to the candle.

Youngsters can also make decorative ornaments by covering plastic foam balls with scraps of fabric, glued on; sequins and beads can be pinned on to make colorful designs.

Marshmallows dipped in food coloring can be inserted into a plastic foam cone with toothpicks to make a neat, edible Christmas "tree."

It's easy to make "stained glass" windows — all you need is tissue paper in different colors and some black tape. Cut out geometric designs and let the youngsters create their own windows by taping the colored pieces together on a window.

Let the youngsters decorate some gifts this Christmas — they'll enjoy it and the recipients will be pleased by their efforts. Have them cut out designs from last year's Christmas cards and glue them to the packages. They can also use doilies and stick-ons and bits of ribbon to create some designs of their own. The same technique can be used to make greeting cards from the youngsters to surprise fond grandparents.

Crafts such as these can make Christmas even more special for your youngsters and bring pleasure to others.

Stocking Stuffer Suggestions

Looking for just the "write" gift to stuff in a stocking this holiday season? Quality writing instruments can be an ideal choice for anyone on your list.

A pen can be a mighty good choice for a holiday stocking stuffer.

The classic "pen and pencil" set is no longer an impersonal "I don't-know-what-else-to-give" gift. Writing instruments have fast become an extension of the individual.

Indeed, today's quality writing instruments are made to suit the individual tastes and lifestyles of all ages. To stimulate those with little hands and big imaginations, Pentel, the first name in quality writing instruments, developed "Minnie 'n Me," three rollerball pens and a free Mickey Mouse Magazine. The magazine is a 40-page book chock full of interesting stories and activities.

For adults, the writing instrument company offers its stylish, refillable Superball pen with metal tip in five colors; and a matching automatic pencil that uses the strongest lead in America. The set comes in a gift box, along with a free clip-on Santa bear or stuffed teddy bear tree ornament.

For that business colleague or loved one, writing instruments are affordable, always appropriate and very useful.

'Twas the night before Jesus came

*'Twas the night before Jesus came and all through the house
Not a creature was praying, not one in the house.
Their Bibles were lain on the shelf without care
In hopes that Jesus would not come there.*

*The children were dressing to crawl into bed,
Not once ever kneeling or bowing a head.
And Mom in her rocker with baby on her lap
Was watching the Late Show while I took a nap.*

*When out of the East there arose such a clatter,
I sprang to my feet to see what was the matter.
Away to the window I flew like a flash
Tore open the shutters and threw up the sash!*

*When what to my wondering eyes should appear
But angels proclaiming that Jesus was here.
With a light like the sun sending forth a bright ray,
I knew in a moment this must be THE DAY!*

*The light of His face made me cover my head
It was Jesus returning just like He had said.
And though I possessed worldly wisdom and wealth,
I cried when I saw Him in spite of myself.*

*In the Book of Life which He held in His hand,
Was written the name of every saved man.
He spoke not a word as He searched for my name:
When He said, "It's not here," my head hung in shame.*

*The people whose names had been written with love
He gathered to take to His Father above.
With those who were ready He rose without a sound
While all the rest were left standing around.*

*I fell to my knees, but it was too late:
I had waited too long and thus sealed my fate.
I stood and I cried as they rose out of sight:
Oh, if only I had been ready tonight.*

*In the words of this poem the meaning is clear,
The coming of Jesus is drawing near.
There's only one life and when comes the last call,
We'll find that the Bible was true after all!*

HOLIDAY HINTS

Batteries Not Included—Holiday's Most Popular Refrain

One are the days when a child's big Christmas gift was a flexible flyer sled or just a simple baby doll in a stroller under the tree.

The boom in consumer electronics that made walking and talking dolls so popular last year has brought basic toys with new high-tech twists into vogue this Christmas. From plush talking animals to baby dolls that grow up before your very eyes, battery-powered toys—both new and the modernized classics—will be at the top of every kid's letter to Santa.

Parents should remember, however, that these toys need a lot of energy to keep them running at optimal level. Consumers are expected to spend about $1 billion on batteries during the holiday season alone, according to industry projections from Duracell.

Electronic toys are big battery eaters. The more popular toys require between three and seven batteries each. It's no wonder the average household buys about 40% of their average 32 batteries per year in just the last few months of the year.

The experts at Duracell offer consumers these tips for getting the longest life, and lowest operating cost from the popular high-tech playthings this season:

- Consumers should look for the freshest batteries available on stores' shelves, preferably batteries that have "install by" dates on the packaging so the batteries are guaranteed freshness and long life.
- Check the toy's box for battery requirements. It should tell you the number and size of the batteries needed. Alkaline batteries are the type recommended by many toy manufacturers because of their ability to outlast zinc-carbon batteries by as much as six times or more.

Make sure the positive (+) and negative (-) terminals are aligned properly. Many high tech toys have complicated battery configurations. The device won't work unless the batteries are inserted exactly as the manufacturer specifies.

Consumers can also get free copies of the "Things To Know About Batteries" tip brochure by writing to: The Ultimate Power Source, 40 W. 57th St., Suite 1900, New York, NY 10019.

The Best Christmas Gift of All!

Sally's brother Timmy was writing a letter to Santa, when she asked him, "Timmy, would you write Santa a letter for me, too?" Sally didn't know how to write, you see.

"All right," said Timmy. "What do you want Santa to bring you?" Sally thought and thought. "I don't know what to ask for," she told her brother. "That's easy," said Timmy. "Why don't you ask for a fire engine?" "No, I don't think I want a fire engine," Sally said. "Then how about a transformer?" said Timmy. "No, I don't want a transformer."

Timmy was getting annoyed with his little sister. "You'd better decide what you want to ask Santa first. I have to write my own letter now!"

Sally looked at all her toys. She had two dolls, a toy stove and sink, a dollhouse, crayons and a coloring book, and lots and lots of stuffed animals.

She thought about it every day until it was Christmas Eve, and she still had not thought of something she didn't already have.

For the first time she could remember, Sally was not excited as she and Timmy hung their stockings over the chimney.

On Christmas morning, Timmy was the first one out of bed. He dashed into the living room and soon he came running into Sally's room to wake her up. "Sally!" he said, "Come see what Santa brought you!" Sally jumped out of bed and ran to the living room. There, under the tree, was a big box marked "To Sally from Santa."

Sally ran to the box and looked in. Inside was an adorable puppy! Sally scooped the puppy up and hugged it. The puppy licked Sally's face and wagged its tail happily.

Just then, Sally's parents came into the living room. "Look what Santa brought me," Sally said, showing them the puppy. Sally's mother smiled. "I guess Santa knew there was something you didn't already have."

"Yes, and it's the best present ever!" said Sally, hugging her new puppy.

Three Beautiful Wise Men

You will need three tall green bottles. Bend poster board in a circular base of varying heights for each bottle. Spray paint the bases gold. Set the bottles in the bases.

Fringed and curled gold foil makes the collars.

Three colors of acetate attached to the necks makes the capes.

The heads are amber glass floats. Cut crowns and sleeves of gold foil with cutout decorations. The same color of acetate lines the inside and show through the cut-outs. Decorate with glass jewels and beads.

Wrap a band of gold poster board around the bottle for arms with hand-shapes extending to hold tiny, jeweled chests, or small glass floats topped with jewels.

The Satisfied Christmas Shopper

Mike thought as hard as any six-year-old could think! What could he get for his sister? His heart thumped with joy as he thought about it, but he had only thirty-five cents in his pocket. Still, it was fun going around the shops and he came home with a very satisfied look.

Mother couldn't wait any longer and just had to ask what Mike had bought.

"I got her a cream puff," Mike beamed.

"Well, Mike, you know that won't last until Christmas," his mother said.

"That's just what I thought after I bought it, Mom," calmly replied Mike, "and so I ate it!"

Christmas Wish For Fish Dish

Fish have become the main Christmas entree for some countries. Stewed eels were eaten in Italian homes. In Denmark, Norway and Sweden the largest fish are saved for this occasion and blessed by priests. Dried cod are soaked in lye water for hours, then the flaky bits are cooked and served with melted butter and lingonberry sauce.

In Poland and Germany, carp is served with a gingersnap sauce. Spain has salt cod with a special sauce. The Finns have boiled cod, seasoned with allspice.

The biggest toy store in the world is Hamley's, founded in London in 1790. It has selling space of 45,000 square feet on six floors.

Tradition:

THE JOY OF BELLS AT CHRISTMAS

Thousands of Americans across the nation will welcome the Christmas season with melodious songs of joy created by choirs of handbell ringers.

Bells have long been a symbol heralding the Yuletide—the sidewalk Santas and the chiming in church steeples. Although certainly not new, the popularity of handbell choirs has enjoyed an unprecedented growth in less than three decades.

These groups even have their own organization, known as the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers (AGEHR). In existence only since 1954, it's dedicated to promoting the art of handbell ringing.

The initial organization numbered only 46 member choirs. Today, it has grown to 4,200 representing about 75,000 choir members throughout the U. S.

The people at Schulmerich Carillons, the Sellersville, Pa. based-firm that is the largest bell manufacturer in the world, estimate that there is probably an additional 150,000 handbell ringers in the country, unassociated with AGEHR. The company reports about 2,000 new handbell choirs appearing each year.

Not surprisingly, handbell ringing is becoming popular in many walks of life. Music educators have welcomed them into their curricula for some good reasons: A set of handbells offers an effective way to involve many students at a much lower per-pupil cost than most other instruments. The bells require little maintenance and are always in tune.

In addition, handbells have an appeal for musical students on all levels. More and more concert and symphonic groups are adding handbells to their repertoires, as well.

Bells play a meaningful role in our lives at any season but they can make Christmas that much richer.

'Cards for Camp' Campaign Now On

Wisconsin Badger Camp recently announced its annual "Cards for Camp" campaign which is once again being supported by individuals and groups throughout the state. To date, $540 has been raised.

The campaign encourages the public to send a Christmas card with a donation to Badger Camp. The appeal is unique in that the cards will be used in the arts n' crafts program, the envelopes to start the first campfire of the season, and the donations to sponsor needy individuals for a week at Badger Camp. One card per donation will be enough to meet Badger Camp's program needs.

Badger Camp is a non-profit educational and recreational facility for mentally and physically disabled individuals ages 3-93. Located 10 miles south of Prairie du Chien, the camp accepts clientele on a first come, first serve basis, regardless of the severity of their disability or their inability to pay. Badger Camp's 1990 summer program served over 770 special citizens.

All cards and donations can be sent to: "Cards for Camp," Wisconsin Badger Camp, Box 240, Platteville, WI 53818.

Please send just one card with your donation as that will supply more than enough for the arts and crafts program. All donations are tax deductible as allowed by law.

White Dove Decorations

Add pretty, two-dimensional, white doves to your Christmas decor by drawing the shape of a dove on white cardboard. Cut the dove out. Glue a sequin or pretty button on for an eye. Pretty feathers can be glued on as a tail or draw the tail feathers. Draw wings on the white cardboard and cut them out. Cut a slot in the upper half of the dove's body. Insert the wings in this slot. Sit them on the Christmas tree's limbs or other greenery, or hang them by inserting string at a balance point.

Frosty The Snowman

Enchant the kids with a popcorn ball snowman. Make a larger popcorn ball for his base and a smaller one for his head.

The brim of the hat is a slice from a large gumdrop with a small gumdrop for the crown. His eyebrows are licorice strips. Chocolate drops can be his eyes with a tiny gumdrop for his nose and a sliced gumdrop for buttons. His mouth can be a half circle from the large gumdrop. Two strands of yarn tied around his neck become his scarf.

A name tag can be attached to the scarf for a place-setter.

To crack a quantity of nuts quickly, put them into a bag and gently hammer until all are broken open.

Fancy Feasts

One of the most sumptuous Christmas dinners was given in 1492 (when Columbus was feasting in the New World with an Indian chief) by Henry VII. Lord Mayor and aldermen of London were being honored. There were 120 different dishes served to the king, queen, and court members, with the peacock being the most outstanding dish. The mayor and his associates had only 24 dishes and an abundance of wine.

These lavish feasts were continued during the reign of Henry VIII, who once used a gold tablecloth that had cost more than $3,000.

The feasts often began at noon and lasted for the next eight or nine hours. Often the banquets had twelve courses, symbolic of the twelve disciples.

PEACE on EARTH

May the peace that passes understanding begin in each heart and encompass the whole world at Christmas.

MADISON — Wisconsin Lottery retailers will have HOLIDAY BONUS tickets — just in time for the big holiday season, according to Wisconsin Lottery Executive Director William F. Flynn, Jr.

"HOLIDAY BONUS is one of the most popular instant scratch games we have ever offered," Flynn said. When the game was introduced last year, 10 million tickets sold in less than two weeks.

"As soon as HOLIDAY BONUS arrived last year, players wanted to know if we were planning to offer the game again, and the good news is: Yes, HOLIDAY BONUS is back! HOLIDAY BONUS tickets were distributed to many retail partners all across the state beginning Monday, December 10. Every lottery retailer should have their HOLIDAY BONUS tickets by Friday, December 14," Flynn explained.

"HOLIDAY BONUS is popular because of its 70 percent payback to players. While the top prize is $1,000, we have concentrated the prizes in the $1 to $40 range, which means that there are a great deal of winning HOLIDAY BONUS tickets, in fact, there are more than two and one-half million winning HOLIDAY BONUS tickets," Flynn continued.

Just like last year, only 10 million HOLIDAY BONUS tickets were printed, about one-third of a normal Wisconsin Lottery instant scratch ticket order. HOLIDAY BONUS tickets are sold by Wisconsin Lottery instant ticket retailers who offer two or more scratch games to their players.

"We don't expect HOLIDAY BONUS to last long. Our warehouse inventory of tickets will be virtually exhausted after one delivery to each lottery retailer," Flynn noted.

For unexpected guests or a get-together that does not include meal serving, hot buttered rum and cookies are a good choice. In preparing the drinks for company, you can have the mugs set out with their spices in advance, then complete the drinks with the addition of warmed flavorings and boiling water.

- 2 whole cloves
- 2 whole allspice
- 1 short stick cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- Boiling water
- 1 1/2 ounces light rum
- 1/2 ounce dark rum
- 1 teaspoon butter or margarine
- Ground cinnamon-optional

Put the cloves, allspice, stick cinnamon and sugar in mugs or glass and add a tablespoon or two of boiling water. Combine the rums in small saucepan and heat but do not boil. Pour rums into spice mixture, filling mug or glass with boiling water and immediately add butter. Sprinkle with cinnamon if desired. 1 serving.

Your poinsettia likes at least 4 hours of bright light each day and likes to be kept moist.

After your plant stops blooming, cut the stems back to about 4" and replot the roots in fresh soil.

Each month fertilize the plant until fall. It may flower again if you plant it in a totally dark place for 6 weeks, 14 hours a day. For Christmas blooming do this in September and October.

Holiday Stuffing Goes Wild

The holiday season seems to be the time of year when Americans, no matter how sensible our diets may be the rest of the year, throw caution to the wind and feast on tempting foods. One favorite holiday tradition — stuffing — often pales in comparison to many of the other more dazzling dishes gracing a festive family dinner table. But it doesn't have to.

"Savory Wild Rice and Sausage Stuffing" is a delicious departure from the usual bread stuffing. Prepared in your microwave in just minutes, the delicious combination of long grain and wild rice, Italian sausage, dried fruits and almonds is pleasing to the eye and palate. And compared to conventional cooking methods, preparing this stuffing in the microwave oven will help preserve the festive color and texture of the fruit, almonds and other ingredients.

A covering of microwave safe Saran Wrap® brand plastic film will help seal in moisture, retain flavor and prevent splattering. Due to its tolerance to high cooking temperatures and resistance to hot fats and oils, Saran Wrap is the best plastic wrap for microwave oven use. Always remember to vent the wrap by turning back a small corner to allow steam to escape, and remove the wrap away from you to prevent burns from escaping hot moisture.

Try serving "Savory Wild Rice and Sausage Stuffing" over the holidays with turkey, roast duck or ham. And, be sure to take advantage of a harvest of seasonal vegetables and fruits to help brighten — and lighten — your holiday feast!

Savory Wild Rice And Sausage Stuffing

- 1 package (6-1/4 ounces) fast-cooking, long grain and wild rice
- 2 cups hot water
- 1 tablespoon margarine or butter

- 1/2 pound hot or mild Italian sausage, casing removed, crumbled into small pieces
- 1/2 cup sliced green onions and tops
- 1/2 teaspoon ground coriander seed
- 3/4 cup coarsely chopped mixed dried fruit
- 1/4 cup orange juice
- 1/2 cup diced, unpared apple
- 1/2 cup whole, unblanched almonds
- Salt
- White pepper

Combine rice, water and margarine in a 2-quart, glass, microwave-safe casserole (discard spice packet); cover with Saran Wrap brand plastic film, venting one corner. Vent should be approximately 1-inch from side of dish.  Microwave according to package directions.

Place sausage in a 1-1/2 quart glass, microwave-safe casserole; cover with Saran Wrap, venting one corner.

Microwave at High Power until sausage is no longer pink, about 2 minutes; drain excess fat. Stir in green onions and coriander seed; cover with Saran Wrap, venting one corner. Microwave at High Power for 2 minutes. Stir in dried fruit and orange juice; cover with Saran Wrap, vent one corner and microwave at High Power for 2 minutes, or until fruit is softened and orange juice is almost absorbed. Stir fruit and sausage mixture, apple and almonds into rice; cover securely with Saran Wrap and let stand until all liquid has been absorbed, 3 to 5 minutes. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Makes 8 servings (about 3/4 cup each)

*Trademark of The Dow Chemical Company

Proper venting is essential to the cooking process as it allows excess moisture to escape, keeping cooking temperatures constant.

White House Christmas Tree

The large Christmas tree that stands so eloquently each December on the White House lawn usually comes from our western states. What happens to it when the season is over? We are told it is usually cut up and used for the White House fireplace the next winter. The next time you see one of the President's "Fireside Chats" on TV -- you may be watching last year's Christmas tree going up in flames!

O tannenbaum!

Christmas wouldn't be Christmas without the fir tree, but it wasn't until the 8th century that the fir tree became associated with the holiday.

It was then that the missionary Boniface persuaded the Teutons to transfer their worship of the sacred oak to an evergreen tree in honor of the Christ Child.

In the mystery plays of the 11th century, the fir tree was hung with apples to represent the garden of Eden. It remained for Martin Luther to adorn the fir tree with candles, to give us the Christmas tree we are so familiar with today.

Famous Christmas Pie

Probably the most famous Christmas pie ever made was one made for Sir Henry Grey in England in 1770. Grey's housekeeper, Mrs. Dorothy Patterson at Horwick sent the pie to Sir Grey's home. It was about nine feet in diameter, weighed 165 pounds and was served from a four-wheeled cart. The pie contained minced meat of several blackbirds, pigeons, partridges, turkeys, geese, rabbits and ducks--plus a couple of bushels of flour and twenty pounds of butter.

Christmas is just around the corner!

It's almost here — that day of the year when everyone feels like a kid! Have a happy and merry Christmas.

CHRISTMAS PARTY FAVORS

For a welcome gift for any age—fill a real ice cream cone full of nuts and/or Christmas candies. Place the cone in the middle of a square of plastic wrap or foil gift wrap. Bring the wrap up to the top and tie with a ribbon. Fluff the top of the wrap.

Another attractive Christmas favor cup can easily be made by cutting the tops out of small milk cartons and then covering the sides of the milk containers with Christmas cards. Attach a handle that's made from braided yarn to the box. Fill the Christmas cup with nuts and/or candy. Quart-sized cartons make really pretty popcorn containers.

Plum Full Of Plum Pudding

Every 50 years in the village of Paignton, in Devon, a giant community plum pudding was prepared.

The grand pudding for 1819 included 120 pounds of suet, an equal amount of raisins, a large number of eggs and four hundred weights of flour. It took three days to boil this 900 pound pudding, after which it was drawn by three horses to the village green. Naturally there were many difficulties in its preparation and the villagers were greatly disappointed to discover that the center was not done. Eventually this custom was abandoned because of these difficulties.

Holiday Food For Wisconsin Homeless

Chicago, November 16, 1990 — For most people, hunger is a word not usually associated with the holidays. But for homeless men, women and children, hunger can be as real as no place to sleep. This holiday season, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's food assistance programs for the homeless are helping to lessen the reality of hunger by providing soup kitchens and community homeless shelters with nutritious supplies of food.

Commodities acquired through surplus removal and price support programs are distributed to nonprofit charitable institutions that serve meals to needy persons on a regular basis. This year, soup kitchens under the Food Distribution for Charitable Institutions Program will receive flour, cornmeal, rice, macaroni, peanut and oil products, and butter.

Additional commodity canned food such as green beans, corn, pork, peanut butter, applesauce, beans, pears, peaches and apple juice will be distributed under USDA's Soup Kitchen Program. This program is administered by 26 nonprofit agencies in 51 Wisconsin counties.

"Without USDA commodities, some private nonprofit agencies would not have enough food items to prepare meals for the homeless," says Monroe Woods, administrator of USDA's Midwest Food and Nutrition Service office in Chicago. Woods says that these foods represent only part of the record-level USDA spending for homeless food assistance.

In addition to commodities, the Food Stamp Program currently provides low-income people with food stamps to purchase nutritious food. In Wisconsin, 286,936 residents receive more than $15 million each month in food stamp benefits. Requirements that food stamp applicants have a fixed residence or cooking facilities were removed years ago. And today, the program is even more responsive to people who are homeless.

- Housing assistance payments do not count as income in determining food stamp eligibility of applicants who live in temporary shelters where they cannot cook and store food;
- States may receive federal matching funds to support efforts to inform homeless and other low-income persons of food stamp benefits;
- Homeless persons are eligible for expedited food stamp service, which means they can have food stamps in hand within five days.

Another USDA food assistance program is the Women, Infants and Children (WIC) Program, which supplements the diet of pregnant and post-partum, low-income women and their children under five years of age. States can now adapt WIC food packages to the special needs of homeless women and children. For instance, smaller containers and food that doesn't require cooking may be prescribed; and food packages may be delivered to a designated central location. Homeless individuals may also participate in Commodity Supplemental Food Programs operated by 48 local agencies in 20 states across the United States.

Many children from homeless families can also benefit from USDA child nutrition programs, especially school lunch, school breakfast, and summer food service programs. It is estimated that about 95 percent of all public schools and a quarter of all private schools participate in the school lunch program, making nutritious lunches accessible to over 90 percent of all school children. During the summer when school lunch is not available, nutritious lunches, milk and snacks are also available to children in low-income neighborhoods through the Summer Food Service Program. Some homeless shelters which offer licensed child care services while homeless parents seek jobs are participating in the Child and Adult Care Food Program. These child care centers serve nutritious snacks to children under six years of age.

For more information about USDA food programs for the homeless contact: Lawrence Rudmann, Public Affairs Director, USDA Food and Nutrition Service, 50 East Washington Street, Chicago, IL 60602.
