Village Sludge Storage Problem Becoming Critical

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

In a preliminary review of a Needs Study, Water Pollution Control Superintendent Pete Albers told the Kewaskum Village Board, Monday night, that storage of the plant's sludge was at the critical stage.

Albers said, "We have enough capacity to store one month's sludge (300,000 gallons), and if I can't get on the fields next week we're in trouble." "If I can't get on the land, I'm going to have to find a farmer with a storage facility that has room and rent space."

Albers has been pushing to get the study going so the village can begin construction of a larger storage facility which is needed to meet Federal and DNR mandates. "Right now the Federal requirement is a capacity to store six months worth of sludge," said Albers.

The DNR doesn't want us spreading during the winter, he told the trustees. Trustee Gary Gavin then asked Albers what he had done with the sludge from the other winter months. Albers said he was able to spread it on a few farms. "The trouble is," said Albers, "it has to be done on almost level land with a grade of no more than 2% and there's not a lot of flat land around here."

Albers told the board the village is running out of time to remedy the problem. "It won't be long before no one will be allowed to go on the land in the winter, even the farmers will have to store their manure in some way until spring." The next thing will be that no one will be able to top spread on the land, all the sludge and manure will have to be injected into the ground.

The survey also showed that while the treatment plant was doing a good job, there were several areas where the equipment, besides the sludge storage tank, were undersized and being overloaded. The study shows where we have to expand to meet present and projected needs for the next 20 years, Albers told the board.

Albers said there were a few things that had to be added to the survey and then he would bring the finalized copy back to the board.

In other business the board voted to award the contract for the River Hill Park's band stand reconstruction to Heberer Bros. Construction, with some minor changes. Parks Committee Chairman Tom McElhatton advised the board that Jim Schaub had retracted his bid because of health reasons which will not allow him to work for several months.

In other action the board approved a Class 'B' malted beverage license for the Kewaskum Athletic Club, contingent upon a letter of approval from Kewaskum

Property Tax Relief Plan Creates New Problems, Highlights Old Ones

By Senator Don Stitt

The measure receiving great publicity and fanfare this legislative session is Senate Bill 48, an initiative aimed at reducing property taxes.

The plan is bold, innovative and comprehensive. But, in my opinion, it's a misguided, band aid approach.

Let me say from the start, that I'm one of those who believe the real way to provide meaningful property tax relief is to modify the state's mediation-arbitration law and affix enforceable cost controls on schools.

I'm also one of those who believes better quality education could come from a school choice program.

Having said that, Senate Bill 48 doesn't mess around. It aims to reduce property taxes by approximately 23%.

But Senate Bill 48 also wants to raise taxes to pay for the relief. First, by raising the state's sales tax a penny and second, by expanding the higher sales tax to a number of goods and services presently exempt.

In order to fund such a high degree of property tax relief, more dollars must come from somewhere. SB 48 proposes that it come from realtors, engineers, accountants, lawyers, etc.

What the bill says is: pay for education by shifting taxes, with the finger pointed at large and small businesses.

In my opinion, this tax shift would be anti-growth and anti-business.

Supporters of SB 48 would suggest I'm straying from the plan's goal... to reduce property taxes. I believe the bill can indeed produce temporary relief. But I'm skeptical it can sustain relief.

It would be a mistake for the State Legislature to enact such a dramatic plan unless it ensures us long-term results.

What happens if we relax, or repeal school cost controls in five years? What happens if education costs continue to rise at a rate sometimes twice that of inflation? What happens if the cost controls develop loopholes?

Answer: We look for new taxing sources. Maybe we raise the sales tax to seven cents or eight cents. Maybe we expand the sales tax to more goods and services. Maybe we do both again.

I submit that such a scenario would initiate a taxing and spending nightmare reminiscent of Massachusetts.

There are other problems. A recent Department of Revenue analysis concluded that if SB 48 were enacted in its present form, an individual's cumulative tax burden may actually increase rather than decrease.

And, finally, an even greater problem.

In trying to improve and maintain quality public education, our state has done what the rest of the nation did over the last ten years: we threw record amounts of money at our education problems.

The result has been astounding and tragic. By most measures, we have failed to achieve our educational goals.

More money has not translated into better education. Higher teachers salaries have not produced better educated students. Expanded curriculums have not insured higher standards in reading, writing and arithmetic.

Here in Wisconsin, there's no question our property taxes are too high and our schools are spending more and more tax dollars.

Since 1982, school costs rose $2.07 billion; our property tax levy rose 83%.

Ten years ago, our cost per student was $3,141. This year it is $5,826... an 85% increase.

I, for one, am not prepared to support an expansive anti-business and anti-growth tax shift in an era when we can't even guarantee improvements in the quality of our education.

No matter how much our property taxes are cut, or to what extent business is asked to pay the freight — what about our kids? What are they getting for the buck?

How many millions of dollars must we ante up, in whatever form, before we seriously and collectively consider the possibility that our educational system is flawed.

West Bend Savings Bank, S.A. reported record earnings for the first quarter of 1991. Richard A. Larson, CEO and Chairman of the Board for West Bend Savings indicated that during the quarter, the bank had substantially reduced its mortgage interest rates for new loans and had begun downward adjustments on many existing adjustable rate loans with higher interest rates.

Operating income for the first quarter was $1,241,240 which represents a 21.7% increase from the first quarter of 1990. Net income was $232,891 or 31% higher than 1990's comparative results. Larson added that a strong quarter for consumer lending and a profitable quarter for every subsidiary company in the savings bank's Financial Resource Group helped to produce the record results.

Loan delinquencies were at an all time low and the 65 year old financial institution reported no loan losses during the first quarter. The savings bank increased its reserves and net worth by 10%. West Bend Savings substantially exceed all required fully phased in capital and reserve requirements.

St. Joseph's Hospital Auxiliary Hosting Membership Tea

On Wednesday, April 24, 1991, the Auxiliary of St. Joseph's Community Hospital, West Bend, will be hosting a Membership "Tea" at the West Bend Gallery of Fine Arts, 300 South 6th Ave., beginning at 9:30 a.m.

All present active and associate members, as well as prospective new Auxilians, are cordially invited and encouraged to attend.

Throughout the year, Auxilians work actively in the hospital and/or on our various fundraising activities and do not have the opportunity to really get to know each other. Well, this is your opportunity and YOUR DAY! Come join us for a "get-acquainted" day, and bring a guest or two with you.

Originally organized as a service group, the Auxiliary also sponsors a number of fund-raising projects (Magic Marketplace, the Auxiliary Ball, the Christmas Love-Light Tree, the Well-Wisher Gift Shop and its highly successful flower cart, etc.). However, our main endeavor is in Inservice work in the hospital. Our Volunteer Service Hours from 1964 through 1990 total almost 250,000!

Volunteers staff the front information desk, aid in physical therapy, out-patient departments, ambulatory surgery, x-ray, central supply, floor duty under staff direction, deliver mail and flowers, assist in discharging patients, act as Tour Guides, and perform other functions where needed.

The Auxiliary has also instituted some new activities recently, for which volunteers are greatly needed, on a continuing basis. They include: Celebration Dinners for new parents, a weekly Bingo Game for inpatients, the Infant Car Seat Rental Program, the new Volunteer Program, which offers teens 14 years and older the chance to do volunteer work in the hospital, and at the same time, expose themselves to the many different healthcare-related opportunities.

In 1985, we opened our membership to male volunteers! We welcome anyone wishing to donate volunteer time to Inservice work and/or fund-raising.

If you are interested in additional information on becoming a member of the Auxiliary, call our Membership Chairman at 644-8002.

Tom Deluca to Appear at UWWC

UWC-Washington, County's Mainstage Presentations will present Tom Deluca, comedian/hypnotist on Friday, April 26 at UWC-Washington County, 400 University Dr., West Bend. Deluca has been named Campus Entertainer of the Year twice since 1986, an honor he shares with the likes of Linda Ronstadt, Kenny Rodgers and Huey Lewis and the News and others.

Deluca, who was featured recently in People magazine, plays to sell out crowds around the nation. This is his second visit to UWWC. Deluca's show is part stand up comedy, some ventriloquism, but most of the fun is the show that the audience volunteers put on after he has hypnotized them. Deluca makes suggestions to the hypnotized but avoids anything embarrassing. He will, for example, ask participants to sing the theme songs from their favorite TV show, speak a language from another planet or act like five year olds.

The public is invited to attend the pure fun of Tom Deluca. Advanced tickets are $5, $6 at the door. Seating is limited to 300. For reservations or more information call 335-5200.

You're Invited to Kewaskum Klean-Up Day On April 27

Members of the GFWC Kewaskum Junior Woman's Club encourage and invite area residents and community organizations to join in the fourth annual Kewaskum Klean Up Day beginning at 9 a.m. on Saturday, April 27.

As our landfills are closing, disposing of our refuse is becoming more of a problem. Unfortunately, our country roads in some areas are becoming a dumping ground.

In the spring of 1990, Kewaskum Juniors were joined by members of Girl Scout Troop #268. As a result of their five hour efforts on Oak Drive, 40 bags of roadside garbage was collected. Approximately 35 bags were of materials that could be and were recycled. In addition to the 40 bags of garbage a mattress, box springs, tire and clothing were found and properly disposed of.

If you are unable to join us, why not begin in your yard, business or clean up an area near your home. Anyone interested in participating with Kewaskum Juniors may call Patty at 626-2673 or Louise at 626-4291 for more details. Our

Campus Notes

The University of Wisconsin--River Falls fall semester Dean's List honoring 663 students has recently been announced by Registrar Melvin Germanson.

To be named to the Dean's List, a full-time undergraduate student must earn a grade point average of at least 3.5 on a scale of 4.0, or midway between an "A" and "B" average.

Students from this area included Eric C. Pearson, 745 E. Main Street, Kewaskum, and David C. Zlesak, 6540 Meadowlark Lane, West Bend.

CORRECTION

In last week's story on the curriculum coordinator, it was stated the school board had approved Dr. Heather's recommendation to increase the position to full time, with a salary of $46,000.

After some discussion, the board did vote to extend the position from 50% to 100%, but agreed to discuss the length of the contract and the salary in closed session before approving the wage recommendation portion.

West Bend Earthweek Committee Activities

Co-chairs, Sherry Ullius of Lac Lawrann Conservancy and Bernice Popelka have worked with the West Bend Paradise Mall Office to invite various schools, organizations, institutions, and governmental agencies to have informative displays in honor of Earthweek from April 22 through April 28. As a result, the Mall will be filled with about 25 colorful displays for the public's enjoyment and information.

Most classrooms in every elementary and middle school in the West Bend Joint School District are collecting pennies for The Children's Rainforest which this year is in Guatemala and costs $35/acre. Each classroom collecting over $35 will receive a certificate from The Nature Conservancy.

Other West Bend School Earthweek activities include:

A. Adopt-A-Park: developing the students' sense of stewardship for West Bend and Washington County Parks by having them choose a park to keep clean and pick up litter.

B. Displaying work on environmental studies at the Paradise Mall from April 22 to April 29.

The West Bend Area Chamber of Commerce will host "Ultimate Show and Tell," a breakfast on Earth Day. They will highlight businesses and industries that have purchased new equipment or designed new programs or processes that contribute to saving our natural resources, protect the environment, or control pollution.

Kieckhafer Named 1991 United Way Campaign Chairman

Tom Kieckhafer

Tom Kieckhafer, President of The West Bend Company and Corporate Vice President of Premark International, Inc., has been named Campaign Chairman of the 1991 United Way of Washington County fund drive.

Kieckhafer, a native of West Bend, is active in the community. He serves on the United Way Board, M & I First National Bank Board and St. Joseph's Community Hospital Board of Directors. He also serves on the Boards of the Direct Selling Association, and AHAM-American Home Appliance Manufacturers.

A graduate of Lakeland College, Kieckhafer has also completed an Advanced Management Program at Harvard University.

The 1991 United Way campaign theme is "Sharing Is Caring." The campaign officially begins in August, and will cover the nine communities of West Bend, Hartford, Kewaskum, Jackson, Slinger, Allenton, Newburg, Hubertus and Richfield. The 1990 campaign surpassed its $685,000 goal by raising more than $689,000.

Right now, we're in the process of lining up leadership in the different campaign divisions," said Kieckhafer. Due to the efforts of 1990 chairman, John Dedrick, many people are already in place.

"I see people involvement as the key to our continued success. Our track record is that we surpass our goal... but we also have to be realistic. With our current economy, the need for United Way programs and services is greater than ever. The challenge is to raise the very necessary funds to benefit our friends and neighbors right here in Washington County."

Money raised will provide funding in 1992 for 29 non-profit agencies serving Washington County. These agencies are:

The American Heart Association, American Red Cross - Kettle Moraine Region, American Red Cross - West Bend Chapter, Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Washington County, Bay Lakes Boy Scout Council, Catholic Social Services, Children's Service Society.

Child's Place, Citizen Advocacy, Council on Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse, Family Center of Washington County, Friends of Abused Families, Full Shelf Food Pantry, Wau-Bun Girl Scouts, Hartford Area Community Blood Donor Club, Hartford CPR, Hartford Emergency Squad.

Kettle Moraine Hospice Services, Kewaskum AFS, Lutheran Social Services, Nova Services, Outreach to the Aging, Senior Citizens Activities, Southeastern Wisconsin Center for Independent Living (SEWCIL), The Salvation Army, The Threshold, USO Volunteer Center of Washington County and The Youth Project.

Agencies are currently preparing their 1992 budget requests.

"Washington County is a caring community. I have traveled extensively, and whenever I come back home, I realize how much we have right here," said Kieckhafer. "We are blessed with a fine quality of life — and United Way plays an important role in ensuring that our good quality of life continues."

Behind-the-scenes efforts for the 1991 campaign have already begun. More than 150 volunteers will be involved in this year's process. "I'm looking forward to another successful campaign for the United Way of Washington County, concluded Kieckhafer. "It's one of the few county organizations that brings us together as one caring, sharing community," he said.

Wartime Veterans It's a Boy!
May Get 8.1%
Home Loans

The new interest rate for the Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs' (WDVA) primary mortgage home loans has been set at 8.10 percent. The 8.10 percent interest rate also applies to WDVA home improvement loans.

The primary mortgage home loans are being financed through the sale of $30 million in state general obligation bonds. This makes the home loan program completely self-supporting and requires no state tax funds. Since the program began in 1974, WDVA has made more than 44,000 home loans totalling nearly $1.5 billion.

To be eligible for WDVA home loans, a veteran must meet state residency requirements and have served on active duty during a wartime period or period of hostilities. In addition, the veteran's combined annual household income (veteran plus spouse) cannot exceed $39,000.

Interested veterans should contact the county veterans service office at the county courthouse. The phone number for the Washington County Veterans Service Office is 335-4457.

A son, Steven Dennis, was born to Laura and Dennis Batterman of Mayville on April 4, 1991. Maternal grandparents are Howard and Georgiana Kirchner of West Bend. Paternal grandparents are Theodore and Virginia Batterman of Mayville.

This week is National Library Week, and this year's theme is "Kids Who Read Succeed." Some Kewaskum preschool children are getting a head start by attending the weekly story hour currently being conducted by our Kewaskum Public Library.

They have stories read to them by the librarians, Kitty Hlavaty and Darlene Rohlinger; but equally important, they can use their own library card to select and check out any number of picture, ABC, and story books to look at and read with their parents the rest of the week.

To emphasize the importance of reading and a love for books, the Kewaskum Public Library in cooperation with The Kewaskum Junior Women's Club is offering a library card to the parents of every newborn baby in the community.

"Kids Who Read Succeed" is a lifetime process to be started the earlier the better!

Letters to The Editor

Letter to the Editor: Victory,

First, I would like to congratulate my opponents in the last School Board election, Neal Weare and Jean Goeden, and encourage them to do their best possible to serve the needs of our schools. I am sure that all of us want the very best schools, and we can only achieve that by supporting responsible decision making on the part of our School Board members. This can only happen with the cooperation and support of all those now vested with that responsibility. I feel confident that with community involvement, and a positive attitude we can all hope for the progress and cooperation that is needed. I wish the teachers, administrators, and the School Board a fine and productive year.

Secondly, I would like to thank the hundreds of voters who supported me in the last election, and the individuals who worked on my behalf. It was a very close vote, and that is most encouraging considering that I have only one relative of voting age in the district and the relatively low voter turnout. I can only interpret the support you gave me as an endorsement of what I believe in and of my qualifications. It gives me hope for the future - THANKS.

Once again, I would like to encourage all of you to be involved. I am proud to be a member of this community, and hope that you all share that feeling. Remember, it is only with your direct input and support of our School Board, Administrators, and Teachers can we be confident in maintaining a quality educational system. A good school system should be one of our primary concerns. Let us have a good school year, and encourage the types of changes in our school that will help make our children enthusiastic, bright productive and ready for the dynamic future ahead.

Thank you Sincerely,
Ray L. Engelking

KHS Students Video Winners In Wisconsin Media Fair

TODAY'S AGRICULTURE

By Jack Trzebiatowski, Extension Agriculture Agent

Byproduct Feeds Can Replace Dry Corn in Dairy Rations

If you need to purchase corn for your dairy cattle, you may be able to develop a cheaper ration by replacing corn with byproduct feeds when the prices are comparable. Wheat middlings and corn gluten feed are two byproducts feeds that can replace corn as an energy source in dairy rations.

When corn is supplemented in the dairy ration, it provides a source of starch. The starch in corn gluten feed and wheat middlings is digested more rapidly in the cow's rumen than starch in corn. This difference is an important factor in ration balancing.

Corn gluten feed is the part of commercial shelled corn that remains after manufacture of corn starch or syrup. It is available in wet or dry form.

The nutrient composition of wet and dry corn gluten feed is identical except for dry matter content. Dry corn gluten feed has 90 percent dry matter compared to 43 percent for wet corn gluten feed. Corn gluten feed contains 22.5 percent crude protein, 3.5 percent fat, 13 percent acid detergent fiber and 45 percent neutral detergent fiber (dry matter basis).

Corn gluten feed is a low-starch feed. Its fiber is easily digestible in the cow's rumen, so despite its high neutral detergent fiber level, corn gluten feed will slightly improve rumen pH and fat test.

The protein in corn gluten feed is highly degradable. High-producing cows in early lactation may not receive enough protein when fed rations high in corn gluten feed. To meet the protein needs of high producers, check the ration to see if additional bypass protein is needed.

You can incorporate dry or wet corn gluten feed in the diet up to 30 percent of total dry matter.

Wheat middlings consist of particles of wheat bran, germ, and flour created in the milling process. Wheat middlings have more available starch than corn gluten feed, but particle size limits the starch advantages.

Wheat middlings contain 89 percent dry matter, 18.4 percent crude protein, 10 percent acid detergent fiber and 37 percent neutral detergent fiber (dry matter basis). The protein is highly degradable in the cow's rumen, so high-producing cows may need more bypass protein.

Pelleting or feeding wheat middlings in total mixed rations (TMR) helps reduce palatability problems. Limit wheat middling to 25 to 40 percent of the grain ration, or 15 to 20 percent of total ration dry matter.

If you plan to use either corn gluten feed or wheat middlings, balance the ration for minerals and vitamins. Be sure to adjust the ration for calcium and phosphorus, since both feeds contain more phosphorus than corn.

Rations containing wheat middlings or corn gluten produce satisfactory milk yields when fed according to UW-Madison recommendations. Base your decision to purchase corn gluten feed or wheat middlings on corn and soybean prices.

A computer spread sheet, FEEDVAL, is available from the county UW-Extension office to help you compare prices of various feed sources.

Trapp Bags His Second Turkey

Ralph Trapp of Beechwood bagged this tom turkey weighing 20 pounds on opening day of the second annual turkey hunt, Wednesday, April 10. Trapp shot his turkey off Tower Road near Beechwood. For the second year in a row, Trapp was the fourth to register his turkey at Dins Mobil Mart in Dundee. He stated he went out around 6:45 a.m. and shot the bird around 7. He managed to attract three other birds around the same time with his alluring calls. The Wednesday opening was the first of six turkey hunting periods that will end May 19. A total of 600 permits were issued for the six time periods.

TORNADO TIPS

What to Do If You're Away When a Tornado Threatens

Although most people know where to seek shelter from a tornado in their own home, they become confused or panic if a warning is issued while they are at work, out shopping, or in their car, according to the Wisconsin Division of Emergency Government.

Some basic rules apply, no matter what your location. The best shelter is on the lowest level of a building, away from windows and doors. When possible, get beneath a sturdy piece of furniture. Protect your head and chest, since storm-related deaths are frequently due to injuries to these parts of the body.

If you're in a public building, look for a predesignated shelter. Always stay inside the building. Don't run for your car, since you're generally safer inside a structure than in the open.

Beware of long-span roof areas, like those found in malls and gymnasiums. Instead, try to find a smaller room, such as a closet, restroom or storeroom. Stairwells also make good shelters.

In mobile homes or cars, leave them and find shelter in a building. If there is no nearby shelter, lie flat in the nearest ravine, ditch or culvert with your arms shielding your head. Keep alert for flash floods that often accompany such storms. Share your knowledge with those around you. Direct co-workers, companions, and fellow shoppers to safe shelters if they appear confused when a tornado threatens.

No one can stop a tornado, but there are precautions you can take to safeguard lives and property. That's why Wisconsin's Governor Tommy G. Thompson has declared April 7th through the 13th "Tornado Awareness Week." The Wisconsin Division of Emergency Government, the National Weather Service, and County Emergency Government Directors have joined forces to help spread the word on tornado safety throughout the state.

Letters to The Editor

Letter to the Editor: Victory.

First, I would like to congratulate my opponents in the last School Board election, Neal Weare and Jean Goeden, and encourage them to do their best possible to serve the needs of our schools. I am sure that all of us want the very best schools, and we can only achieve that by supporting responsible decision making on the part of our School Board members. This can only happen with the cooperation and support of all those now vested with that responsibility. I feel confident that with community involvement, and a positive attitude we can all hope for the progress and cooperation that is needed. I wish the teachers, administrators, and the School Board a fine and productive year.

Secondly, I would like to thank the hundreds of voters who supported me in the last election, and the individuals who worked on my behalf. It was a very close vote, and that is most encouraging considering that I have only one relative of voting age in the district and the relatively low voter turnout. I can only interpret the support you gave me as an endorsement of what I believe in and of my qualifications. It gives me hope for the future - THANKS.

Once again, I would like to encourage all of you to be involved. I am proud to be a member of this community, and hope that you all share that feeling. Remember, it is only with your direct input and support of our School Board, Administrators, and Teachers can we be confident in maintaining a quality educational system. A good school system should be one of our primary concerns. Let us have a good school year, and encourage the types of changes in our school that will help make our children enthusiastic, bright productive and ready for the dynamic future ahead.

Thank you Sincerely,
Ray L. Engelking

TODAY'S AGRICULTURE

By Jack Trzebiatowski, Extension Agriculture Agent

Byproduct Feeds Can Replace Dry Corn in Dairy Rations

If you need to purchase corn for your dairy cattle, you may be able to develop a cheaper ration by replacing corn with byproduct feeds when the prices are comparable. Wheat middlings and corn gluten feed are two byproducts feeds that can replace corn as an energy source in dairy rations.

When corn is supplemented in the dairy ration, it provides a source of starch. The starch in corn gluten feed and wheat middlings is digested more rapidly in the cow's rumen than starch in corn. This difference is an important factor in ration balancing.

Corn gluten feed is the part of commercial shelled corn that remains after manufacture of corn starch or syrup. It is available in wet or dry form.

The nutrient composition of wet and dry corn gluten feed is identical except for dry matter content. Dry corn gluten feed has 90 percent dry matter compared to 43 percent for wet corn gluten feed. Corn gluten feed contains 22.5 percent crude protein, 3.5 percent fat, 13 percent acid detergent fiber and 45 percent neutral detergent fiber (dry matter basis).

Corn gluten feed is a low-starch feed. Its fiber is easily digestible in the cow's rumen, so despite its high neutral detergent fiber level, corn gluten feed will slightly improve rumen pH and fat test.

The protein in corn gluten feed is highly degradable. High-producing cows in early lactation may not receive enough protein when fed rations high in corn gluten feed. To meet the protein needs of high producers, check the ration to see if additional bypass protein is needed.

You can incorporate dry or wet corn gluten feed in the diet up to 30 percent of total dry matter.

Wheat middlings consist of particles of wheat bran, germ, and flour created in the milling process. Wheat middlings have more available starch than corn gluten feed, but particle size limits the starch advantages.

Wheat middlings contain 89 percent dry matter, 18.4 percent crude protein, 10 percent acid detergent fiber and 37 percent neutral detergent fiber (dry matter basis). The protein is highly degradable in the cow's rumen, so high-producing cows may need more bypass protein.

Pelleting or feeding wheat middlings in total mixed rations (TMR) helps reduce palatability problems. Limit wheat middling to 25 to 40 percent of the grain ration, or 15 to 20 percent of total ration dry matter.

If you plan to use either corn gluten feed or wheat middlings, balance the ration for minerals and vitamins. Be sure to adjust the ration for calcium and phosphorus, since both feeds contain more phosphorus than corn.

Rations containing wheat middlings or corn gluten produce satisfactory milk yields when fed according to UW-Madison recommendations. Base your decision to purchase corn gluten feed or wheat middlings on corn and soybean prices.

A computer spread sheet, FEEDVAL, is available from the county UW-Extension office to help you compare prices of various feed sources.

Indian Girls Short-Handed at Titan

By Statesman Sports Writer

OSHKOSH — After taking first place in the annual Titan Invitational track meet a year ago, the Kewaskum girls track squad had their sights set on another fine showing here, last Monday.

But injuries and illnesses have been the only thing slowing down the Indians so far this spring, and once again the Indian girls were left short-handed for the meet.

Missing three key runners, and having its best sprinter and best distance runner not at full strength, the Indians were still able to pick up 14 points in the meet, far off the first place total, yet still a fine mark in the huge invite.

Leading the way for the Indians were senior Ingrid Ankerson, who garnered a third place in the high jump with a leap of 5-0, and also a fifth place showing in the triple jump, where she went 32-7.

Senior sprinter Melissa Braun, who was a bit under the weather but took part in the meet anyway, was responsible in part for the rest of the Indian point total. Braun finished fourth in the 220 run with a time of 28.3, and also helped the 880 relay team, consisting of Braun, Kelly Korth, Tina Schwartz and Ginger Wiesner, take sixth with a time of 1:58.2.

Co-ed County Track Meet April 19

The Washington County co-ed outdoor track meet will be held Friday, April 19, at the Kewaskum High School track.

Field events will begin at 3 p.m. and running events at 3:30. Admission is free, but there is limited outdoor seating, so spectators are encouraged to bring lawn chairs. Concessions will be sold by Kewaskum Booster Club.

UWWC Netters Open Season

By Statesman Sports Writer

WEST BEND — Both the men's and women's UWWC tennis teams opened their 1991 season here, last Friday, although the two squads came out on different ends in the win-loss column.

The Wildcat women handled UW-Sheboygan easily, 6-0, while the men had a tough match on their hands, and ended up losing to the visitors, 4-3.

All the Wildcat women's singles players won in straight sets against their foes, including Heidi Wagner's impressive 6-0, 6-0 walk over her opponent at No. 4 singles.

Wagner had a little tougher time at the No. 2 doubles spot though. Teaming up with Jenny Meyer, the pair dropped the second set in their match, before prevailing 6-0, 5-7, 6-1.

The Wildcat men were sparked by singles wins at No. 3 where Curt Tuescher beat Chad Schreiber in a close one, 6-2, 7-6 (7-3), and at No. 4, where Brady Helmbrecht took care of Ryan Worm in straight sets, 6-4, 6-0.

Tuescher teamed up with Mark Hoffman for the only other Wildcat victory, coming at No. 2 doubles, where the duo came back Schreiber and Chen Xiong, 0-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Instructions will focus on proper grip, stance and swing with special emphasis being placed on the iron game. The intent of this course is to have students feel comfortable playing regulation courses, enjoying golf without worrying about slow play, and to have an understanding about the basic rules and etiquette associated with the game of golf.

Ken Thomas and Barb Casper will be the instructors for these classes. Thomas is a former golf coach at the campus, and Barb Casper is a former Women's Public Links State Champion, and manager of Thornbrook Golf Course. Students are asked to bring their own clubs.
