tion advising the Kewaskum Board of Education that he had accepted a position with another school district.

Kopecky informed the board in his letter that he will be assuming the post of Director of Instruction with the Waupun School District. His resignation will become effective August 16th.

The School Board accepted the resignation with the stipulation that Kopecky pay the standard $400 liquidated damages fee since he had an existing contract with the district which did not expire until 1992.

Kopecky came to Kewaskum from the West Bend School District, August 1, 1984, replacing former Principal Clark Pearson who had decided to return to the high school staff as a teacher.

Connell came to the district from the Sparta School District, July 1, 1990, replacing Assistant Principal Roy Esser who retired after more than 30 years in the teaching profession.

Connell informed the board that he was resigning to accept the position of high school principal with the West Grant School District, Patch Grove, located near Prairie du Chien. His resignation takes effect August 2nd. Connell also paid the liquidated damages fee since he had signed a contract with the Kewaskum School District for the 1991-92 school year.

In other action the board approved the hiring of Yolanda Manske as a half-time speech and language clinician. The position is in addition to the two present full time speech therapy positions. Heather told the board that the part-time clinician salary of approximately $13,000 is reimburseable at about 53%, by state aids funding.

The board also approved the hiring of Joseph McGurran, to fill a position of high school math/science instructor. The position had been approved at a previous meeting.

The board then adjourned to closed session.

Area Family Finds 'Remedy' For Son's Fishing Fervor

Jim and Pat Schug of West Bend found a remedy for their son's fishing fervor when they became the new owners of the Remedy, a 28-foot charter fishing boat based in Sheboygan.

Marc Schug, who is 20 and a student at the University of Wisconsin in Madison, is the Remedy's first mate, working alongside veteran Captain Merle Johnson. As first mate, Marc is helping other fishing enthusiasts pull in catches of king and coho salmon, rainbow, brown and lake trout from the fish-rich waters off of Sheboygan.

Fishing since he learned to walk, Marc brings his own stock of fishing experience on board the Remedy.

"Marc would rather fish than eat or sleep," says Jim, a business teacher at the Milwaukee Area Technical College and co-owner with his wife of Midwest Agribusiness, an educational software company in West Bend. The Schug's two daughters, Nicole, 15, and Elizabeth, 8, also enjoy family fishing on the Remedy.

The Remedy is a 28-foot Carver Santa Cruz Sportfisherman and is one of the larger charter boats docked at the C. Reiss Marina in Sheboygan. The Remedy is equipped with VHF-FM radio-telephone, CB radio, Loran-C navigation, an enclosed toilet, two berths and all necessary Coast Guard required equipment.

Sheboygan is the "hot spot" for sport fishing on Lake Michigan, the sixth largest lake in the world. More fish are caught off Sheboygan waters than any other single port in Wisconsin — more than 25,000 annually — and Sheboygan holds more state records for big fish than any other Wisconsin port.

The Remedy itself has an impressive record. In 1990, its catch average 65 pounds of fish per half-day (six hours) trip for the season.

Long-time friends, Jim Schug and Merle Johnson taught together at Oshkosh North High School, where Johnson continues to teach electronics during the school year. Johnson is a U.S. Coast Guard licensed captain and a Wisconsin licensed trolling guide. He's been fishing Lake Michigan and Lake Superior since 1967. Jerry Doebert, a Sheboygan police officer, also serves as mate and backup captain.

The Remedy was Johnson's boat, and over the past 15 years has lured repeat fishing customers from all over the country.

"Merle called it the 'Remedy' because it was the perfect prescription after nine months of school," said Jim.

When Johnson said his boat was for sale, the Schug's were more than a little interested.

"We kept asking more and more questions. Then we decided, 'We ought to buy it for Marc'," said Jim.

While many young men Marc's age are pining for a car of their own, it seemed almost unbelievable to Marc that his parents would buy a charter fishing boat.

"He couldn't believe it," said

Jim.

Marc enjoys life on the lake, but for the first mate it's not just fun and fishing. He puts in long days on the Remedy, putting out lines, taking out hooks, cleaning fish, and doing maintenance. After several years as first mate, Marc will be eligible for a captain's license.

The 1991 season has been a busy one. Jim said that while most weekends are already booked, there are still some weekday openings.

Reservations are taken year round for six-hour, nine-hour and 12-hour charter trips. To book a fishing trip aboard the Remedy, call Captain Johnson at 414-233-1522 or First Mate Schug at 629-9623. Reservations and more information may also be obtained by writing to Remedy Charter Service, 6739 Glacier Drive, West Bend, WI 53095.

HOW DO YOU SPELL RELIEF?

By William J. Hunter

Some members of the state legislature have a new answer to the old TV advertisement question, "How do you spell relief?" Their answer? "T-A-X H-I-K-E!"

That's right, the legislature is once again proposing to provide Wisconsin residents with "property tax relief" by raising another tax, this time the state sales tax. The bipartisan plan currently under consideration would increase the state sales tax rate to 6 percent, resulting in a 6.5 percent rate overall in Milwaukee and the other 39 counties taking advantage of the local sales tax option. In addition, the plan calls for extending the sales tax to include a variety of services that are not currently taxed.

Part of the new sales tax revenue would be given to local school districts. Their property tax levies would then be reduced by state law by an average of 66 percent. Supporters of the plan claim that it would reduce total property taxes by an average of 18 percent by the end of the year.

The plan, like many before it, uncomfortably rests on two very questionable assumptions. The first is that Wisconsin can reduce property taxes by replacing locally generated tax revenues with state tax dollars. The second is an assumption that Wisconsinites are so hungry for property tax relief that they are willing to pay more in other taxes and substantially more taxes overall, in order to reduce their local property taxes. Neither of these assumptions is correct.

Several economic studies show that attempts to reduce local taxes through state aids to local governments are doomed to fail for a number of reasons. Most importantly, tax "relief" from the state relieves the pressure on local government to be fiscally responsible to taxpayers -- local government officials become more beholden to state officers than to local constituents. In addition, many of these efforts actually require governments to spend more, as when state grants are dependent upon local matching funds. Finally, once state legislators have dispensed this aid, they often feel free to tell local governments how to spend it by imposing unfunded state mandates. Overall, state aid to local government stimulates local spending, often resulting in property tax increases rather than relief.

Wisconsin already has a great deal of experience with state aids to local governments. In fact, the State of Wisconsin leads the country in providing state revenues to local government. Wisconsin returns 61 percent of state general revenues to local units of government. Wisconsin's position as a leader in state aid has not, however, brought about low levels of local property taxation -- far from it. Property taxes in Wisconsin are currently the sixth highest in the nation. Wisconsin residents face property tax rates that are almost twice the average for all states.

While the current proposal is unlikely to reduce property taxes, it will certainly raise the total tax burden for Wisconsin residents. First, the higher sales tax rate will take $980 million more out of the pockets of Wisconsin consumers every year. Second, the proposal will increase state income taxes by millions of dollars, because it eliminates the property tax credit for homeowners. Finally, the proposal will increase our deductible income tax bills, because state sales taxes are not deductible on federal tax forms. (The property tax, on the other hand, is deductible). Even if the sales tax increase reduced local property taxes dollar for dollar (a very unlikely event), the majority of Wisconsin residents would still experience an increase in their total tax burden because their federal income taxes would rise.

To be fair, I should acknowledge that there are elements of the proposal that could help reduce local property taxes without increasing other taxes. For example, the proposal calls for reasonable limits on mediation awards in teacher contract disputes and for state-mandated limits on local government spending growth. Both of these changes could help to limit future property tax increases. There remains, however, serious doubt as to whether these elements will survive in the face of heavy lobbying from municipal governments and teacher unions.

I am willing to give the legislature the benefit of the doubt in the matter of state-mandated cost controls, such as modifying the state mediation law. In fact, I believe the non-tax provisions of this proposal have much merit and would be a positive first step toward reducing the growth in property taxes. But if the state legislature really wants to do something that will reduce property taxes, it should let the local citizens decide on the appropriate level of property taxes by requiring voter approval of all local budgets. This step could lead to true property tax relief for Wisconsin.

MPTC Course Schedule Available

Residents of Fond du Lac, Green Lake, Dodge and Washington counties are accustomed to receiving a schedule of Moraine Park Technical College courses in their mailbox each August and December. This practice has been changed, according to Edward Osborn, public information manager at the technical college.

"As a cost-cutting measure, we have decided to send the course schedule only to people who truly want it," said Osborn. Instead of mailing the 80-page booklet to every household in the Moraine Park Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District, this week the college is sending out a bright red postcard announcement to residents. A tear-off business reply card allows interested persons to ask to be put on a mailing list to receive the course schedule in early August. "In marketing parlance, this is called 'qualifying your customers' and we think it's good business," said Osborn. "Instead of sending an unsolicited mass mailing to 105,000 homes, we can now focus on serving the people who are in need of our services."

In addition to potential cost savings, sending out fewer course schedules has environmental implications. Currently, it takes 30 tons of newsprint annually to print the Moraine Park schedule of courses. According to the Paper Institute of Technology, the college can save 300-600 trees a year, depending on how many course schedules are requested.

Osborn also said the college will "dedicate the month of August to focusing public attention on vocational-technical education."

"Statistics coming out of the U.S. Department of Labor tell us more and more jobs will require some form of technical education — as many as 80 percent of the jobs being created this decade," Osborn said. "The Bureau of Labor Statistics also estimates that 75 percent of today's workers will need some form of retraining before the year 2000. We're seeing more and more adults returning to school for classes as a result of these trends."

Regal Hires Steiner As Junior Accountant

Lisa Steiner

Regal Ware, Inc. has hired Lisa Steiner as a Junior Accountant, effective June 3. In this position she will assist managers of all areas of the corporate finance department.

Steiner comes to Regal with an associate's degree in accounting from Moraine Park Technical College and has worked for two summers in the Regal Ware accounting department.

Regal Ware, Inc. is a major manufacturer of cookware and kitchen electrics headquartered in Kewaskum.

Dear Dr. Sylvia,

A problem that occurs every summer when my kids are home (now 14 and 16) is that they fight while my husband and I are at work. They call me and complain about the other. There is nothing I can do from where I am, and I'm frustrated and very concerned for the rest of my work day. Sometimes things have escalated to the point where I think they may kill each other. Any suggestions?

Working Mom

Dear Working Mom,

First let me assure you that your fighting children are not likely to kill each other. Sibling rivalry may get rather nasty, but it rarely approaches murder. It actually becomes much less of a problem when mother is not there to mediate. Fourteen- and sixteen-year-olds can escape to the solitude of their rooms if the going gets too rough.

First of all, tell your teenagers that they absolutely may not call you at work unless it is truly an emergency. Most bosses don't appreciate children interrupting their employees, although they would surely understand if it were an emergency. If your children misuse the emergency privileges, charge them for your time. Three dollars each time they make an unnecessary call should minimize that telephone ringing and will keep you more efficient and more fair to your employer.

Fourteen- and sixteen-year-olds should have busy summers. Both are old enough to be working outside the home unless they have other planned activities. Mothers have a great need for babysitters during the summer, and both your children are of qualifying age. Sports, summer school, camp, art and music classes, or other structured activities are good alternatives for part of the summer. It sounds as if your two children are bored and don't understand the importance of your career. I notice that you don't mention their calling their father. Undoubtedly, neither he nor his boss would tolerate the calls and neither should you. You and your husband take work seriously. You're good role models. It is now time to give a message about the importance of work to your children.

The National Multiple Sclerosis Society would like to recognize the students at Holy Trinity School in Kewaskum for their outstanding efforts in the 1991 MS READaTHON reading program. The two participating students read seven books and raised $24.00 to help fight the battle against illiteracy and multiple sclerosis.

The MS READaTHON reading program is a family oriented educational event developed by the National Multiple Sclerosis Society. The program teaches children the importance of reading throughout life and the importance of helping others.

Students had approximately six weeks to read as many books as possible, while gathering pledges on a per book basis.

The 1991 MS READaTHON program had its best year ever. Four thousand students from more than 260 schools statewide raised over $187,000. Funds raised by this program help to support chapter services for the 5,000 Wisconsin residents who live with multiple sclerosis and international research projects to find a cause and cure for this disease.

MS is a chronic, progressive disease of the central nervous system with no known cause, effective treatment or cure.

Letters to the Editor

Food Pantry Thanks You

The Board of Directors and the 120 volunteers of the Full Shelf Food Pantry want to extend a HUGE thank-you to the West Bend/Washington County community for the support shown the Pantry over the last three weeks.

Over $9,066.00 in cash and over 5,000 pounds of food were received from over 100 individuals and group contributors, with many additional pledges of future support. We will attempt to thank each contributor individually by mail, but hope that this letter will also reach all of those who gave anonymously.

We would also like to clarify a small matter of management policy. The fact that the Pantry would exhaust its available funds at some point in 1991 has been well-known for over a year. Even though all of our overhead, all of our labor, and about 35% of our food is donated, we still have to buy over 100,000 pounds of food per year to meet client need. The question facing the Board was never if we would run out of funds, but when.

Over the last year, the Board has extensively modified the mix of food items available at the Pantry. We had started in 1982 and built up to a list of 26 items which nutritionists had told us would best combine together for the most meals. If these items were not donated in sufficient amounts, then cash was used to purchase them. Amounts of each item given out were determined by family size.

Over the last year, the Board has reduced that list to 16 items and reduced the given per family amounts. The most recent items cut were hamburger, spaghetti sauce,

With all of the cost-cutting steps the board had taken, it was estimated at our annual meeting that the available funds would carry us to late September or mid-October if the level of client demand stayed the same and donations stayed equal to the previous year. October to January are big donation months for the Pantry and we hoped that would carry us into a new budget year.

Unfortunately, the economy did not cooperate. Client demand was up almost 35% and donations of food were down almost 20%. This combination brought about the fiscal crisis of July, which was reviewed by the Board at its June meeting.

We hope this letter will clear up some of the misconceptions that may have arisen over the operation of the Pantry. Our doors are open, our meetings are open, our records are open. We WELCOME visitors and observers (just be prepared to work).

United Way is also pleased with the results to date. Working together, we can help feed the hungry.

Savings Tips for Young Earners

Whether it's babysitting, fast food or construction, summer time is working time for thousands of Wisconsin teenagers. And also the time when parents find themselves urging their teens to save a little of their cash. Easy to say; hard to do.

Here are some tips that Valley Bankers offer that may help teens put something aside. The tips are drawn from the Personal Economics Program (PEP), which Valley sponsors in more than 80 Wisconsin communities. The program is designed to teach young people how to manage their money. Valley Bankers made 276 presentations to more than 6,239 young people during the 1990-91 school year.

* Save for a goal. Whether it's a new bike or a college education, teens need to see a purpose in their saving.

* Get them to agree on a goal, don't just impose a goal on them. They'll learn more about money management if they're part of a goal-setting process.

* Have teens save a set amount each week before taking out other expenses.

* Teens who don't have major personal expenses (such as rent or car payments) should be able to save at least 25 percent of their take-home pay.

* Open a savings account. A savings account allows a teen to see progress toward a savings goal and makes it psychologically more difficult to spend the money.

* Show interest in your teen's money management habits. Try to reinforce savings goals, but avoid a constant criticism about teen spending. After all, it's their money and they should be able to enjoy some of it now.

"Money management is a complicated subject," said Valley Bancorporation President Peter M. Platten, ILL. "Valley supports the PEP program because it gives the students the opportunity to learn to be better consumers and better money managers."

Income from the sale of milk contributes 58 percent of Wisconsin's total cash receipts from farm marketings.

Piano Students Perform Recital

Row one: Aileen Chambers*, Amanda Bullette, Becca Cartwright, Shannon Totsky*, Emma Chambers*, Rachael Strassburg, Theresa Schultz*, Katie Survis*, Jenny Boehlke*. Row two: Aggie Friedel*, Jason Fidele*, Eileen Kohlwey*, Sara Ramel*, Jeff Noren, Erin Krueger, Jeni Keller*, Jamie Gerlach, Tammy Schultz*, Jolene Trapp*, Heidi Gruhle, Jenny Goodsell*. Row three: Terry Christie (instructor), Chrissy Neumann*, Rachael Chambers, Erin Stoffel*, Rachel Gosa. Missing: Amanda Schoofs*. *Denotes Moraine Musician member.

On the evening of May 28, 1991, in the Kewaskum Middle School band room, over 100 family members and friends were entertained by 26 piano performances. Students, aged seven to seventeen years old, demonstrated their talents on the keyboard. Each student performed two pieces, including a memorized solo.

Despite sweaty palms, shaky knees, and sticking piano keys, each student did a fantastic job displaying their accomplishments. All of the students received certificates in recognition of their performance in the recital.

Seventeen of these students were also members of Moraine

Musicians. This is an organization formed to enhance private lessons through exposure to different musical experiences. One of these experiences is a Festival which occurred in March 1991.

The Festival required each musician to perform two contrasting, memorized pieces for a judge. These musicians earned ratings of Superior, Excellent, and Very Good. Amanda Schoofs and Teresa Schultz received special recognition for achieving a superior rating at the Festival. All of these students should be applauded for their extra efforts.

Refreshments were served following the recital.

New Laser Treatment for Glaucoma Now Available at St. Luke's Medical Center

A new laser procedure that greatly simplifies the surgical treatment of glaucoma is now available to patients at St. Luke's Medical Center in Milwaukee.

Glaucoma, a disease that causes blindness in approximately 2 percent of Americans over age 35, results from increased pressure within the eye. The correct amount of pressure depends on the eye's ability to regulate the amount of watery fluid, called aqueous, that flows from behind the iris, through the pupil and into a tiny space at the front of the eye between the iris and cornea. Like the air in a tire, the aqueous maintains the eye at the correct pressure with any excess draining away if the pressure starts to rise.

If the drainage mechanism is not working correctly or becomes blocked, the pressure can rise high enough to damage the optic nerve and cause severe loss of vision and eventual blindness. Glaucoma is usually controlled with eye drops given two to four times per day or by pills given in various combinations. If these medications are poorly tolerated or not effective in controlling the pressure rise, surgery becomes necessary.

The holmium laser is used to make a hole about the width of a human hair in eye tissue to allow liquid to flow out. Because the procedure is much less traumatic than conventional glaucoma surgery to the delicate structure of the eye, it is usually performed on an outpatient basis avoiding the additional cost of a hospital stay.

"The standard procedure takes about an hour of operating time, 25 minutes just to open the tiny channel. With the laser, the channel is created in 15 seconds," said Dr. Kenneth Olander, a glaucoma specialist who performed the first laser treatment at St. Luke's. "For the majority of patients this will be the treatment of the future."

HUSHED LOVE

I really don't know you
 I don't know your name
 But there's one thing I'm sure of
 Our dreams are the same
 You really don't talk much but neither do I
 It seems that we're both just a little bit shy
 Whenever I see you it's hard not to stare
 Your eyes tell me secrets of how much you care
 There's a certain expression which I'm sure you've heard
 It says that actions speak louder than words

Catholic Knights Adds Product to Interest-Sensitive Line of Life Insurance

Catholic Knights Insurance Society recently introduced its newest addition to the Knight Life series of interest-sensitive whole life insurance products. "Custom Knight Life" is Catholic Knights' most flexible product.

"Custom Knight Life was developed to directly address the permanent insurance needs of the 40-plus market as well as buyers of all ages with large permanent insurance needs," said Daniel Strasburg, Catholic Knights vice president, chief actuary. "Our sales force indicated that there were many requests for a safe product, offering many features of our existing Knight Life line, but with a choice of benefit and premium patterns."

Custom Knight Life is an interest-sensitive whole life plan with a modified death benefit. The initial level guaranteed premium funds a base death benefit that stays level until age 65, or 15 years, whichever is longer.

The buyer may select a guaranteed term benefit, with an ART premium structure, to make up for any base death benefit reduction that has not been replaced by participation credits. Available participation credits may fund any needed term benefit. In addition, a new flexible term rider option can further reduce premiums.

In general, Custom Knight Life's premiums are on average 35 percent lower than the typical whole life policy. Custom Knight Life offers minimum guaranteed death benefits and interest rates.

"In comparison with many other interest sensitive products in the marketplace, Custom Knight Life provides a guaranteed death benefit and guaranteed cash values," said Strasburg.

The Knight Life series, which includes Custom Knight Life, is backed by a well-diversified, conservative investment portfolio. Catholic Knights investment philosophy backs all Catholic Knights' life insurance and annuity lines. For 13 years, the Society has earned an A+ (Superior) rating from A.M. Best Co., one of the industry's impartial publishers of statistics.

The Kewaskum area is serviced by Kathleen Ramthun, 414-626-2869. She is affiliated with Catholic Knights' Kettle Moraine Agency, 303 North Main Street, Suite 200, West Bend, Wis., 53095, phone 414-

With the purchase of Catholic Knights products, insureds become owners and members of the fraternal benefit organization. These members also belong to Catholic Knights 127 branches, located throughout Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois and Iowa. These local groups sponsor charitable, educational, spiritual and social activities for members and the community.

Catholic Knights Insurance Society is a 106-year-old fraternal benefit organization based in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. It is the largest Catholic fraternal in Wisconsin in terms of assets and insurance in force and the second largest Catholic fraternal in North America in terms of insurance in force.

The Romans built more than 50,000 miles of road in their empire. Some are still in use today. They are distinctive in that they run in almost straight lines, passing over hills instead of cutting around them.

High winds accompanied by heavy rains, lightning and thunder raced through this area along a squall line shortly after midnight Sunday. The storm felled trees, power failures occurred and caused other damage. The storm broke right after the firemen's picnic had ended here. In this village a 12-foot tall wire backstop screen and its 10-foot wooden supports atop the baseball grandstand on the school grounds was torn loose by the wind and tossed to the ground. Several trees in the village were felled by the wind. The winds and rain brought welcome but temporary relief from the heat and humidity and the rain relieved parched pastures and lawns.

Besides the regular run of busy picnic duties, the local firemen and police had quite a few extra activities keeping them jumping this year. There were two auto accidents in the park and a third following the picnic Sunday. There were two fire calls (both false alarms) one right after the parade and the second during the storm right after the picnic Sunday night. There was one ambulance call early Sunday evening.

Arthur W. Koch, 55, storekeeper of this village, who with his brother Ervin, operates the A.G. Koch, Inc. firm, sustained severe chest injuries, scalp lacerations, one of which severed an artery, and minor cuts and bruises Tuesday afternoon when he lost control of his Nash sedan on Highway 23 about eight miles west of Fond du Lac. Mr. Koch was on his way home from Ripon. The car skidded 282 feet on the slippery pavement, went off the road, down an eight-foot embankment and then struck a large tree. Kenneth Johnson of R. 2, Campbellsport, a passenger in the Koch car, sustained only minor cuts and bruises, although he was thrown from the vehicle. The accident occurred after a heavy shower and was on a sharp curve in the highway. Johnson said Koch was driving about 45 miles an hour when he lost control.

The new designs of quarters, dimes and half dollars have made their appearance in Washington. The government began putting them in circulation recently. Under the law the Secretary of the Treasury may change the design after twenty years. This is the first time since 1891, that any of these coins have been changed. According to treasury officials the half dollar has fallen into disuse recently. One purpose of the design on that coin is to revive its popularity.

Reducing Disease Problems in the Garden

Good preparation and management form the backbone of a disease-free garden.

Diseases spread rapidly through infected plants, soils or seeds. The key to growing healthy plants is to break that cycle, says University of Wisconsin - Madison extension plant pathologist Gayle Worf. He offers the following recommendations for reducing disease problems in your garden:

- * Plant disease resistant crop varieties, especially those that resist diseases common in your area. Select healthy, disease-free seeds and transplants. Avoid saving seed unless it's a variety that you can't get anywhere else.

- * Choose a sunny location for your garden. Many crops require full or near full sunlight throughout the day. Planting them in shady spots increases the risk of disease.

- * Provide a healthy growing environment for your plants. Make sure your soil is fertile and well-drained. Fertilize correctly — excessive or too little fertilizer makes a crop more susceptible to disease. It's important to get your plants off to a good start, because seedlings are often more susceptible to diseases than mature plants.

- * Space your plants far enough apart to permit good air circulation.

- * Practice crop rotation. Don't plant a crop or crops from the same family in the same spot two years in a row. Rotations prevent root rot and wilt diseases from building up in the soil. Making a map each year can help you better lay out your garden.

- * Turn under or compost plants in the fall. You may want to remove diseased plant material rather than compost it. Bacteria and fungi that cause foliar diseases usually live over in the debris or the seed, not in the soil itself. Rotation combined with turning under or composting debris can eliminate these organisms from the garden.

- * Water carefully. Try to water in the morning if possible. Watering in the evening will encourage disease development. If you must water in the evening, water from below rather than above to prevent plant leaves from staying wet through the night.

- * Pick off diseased leaves as blights begin to appear. This will slow the spread of disease. Dig up plants infected with wilt or root and remove the soil they were growing in. For example, if you have a diseased tulip plant, remove both the plant and bulb and the soil around it before planting a healthy bulb. Replace the soil with compost or soil from somewhere else.

- * Avoid flowers — such as roses, zinnias and phlox — that grow well in Wisconsin but have a number of disease problems, if you don't want to use a fungicide.

Perform a death-defying act.

Eat less saturated fat.

New State Highway Maps Now Available

The state Department of Transportation says the new 1991-92 state highway map is now available, and urges people to pick up copies at Transportation District offices.

"The new map emphasizes the wide variety of Wisconsin transportation services ranging from the Corridors 2020 economic-development backbone system to bicycling and hiking trails, and it was printed in Wisconsin," according to DOT Secretary Ronald R. Fiedler.

"We think that the new map puts forward a good overall view of Wisconsin, its recreational and economic opportunities, and our social and cultural traditions," Fiedler said.

But the DOT is also focusing on economy by asking people to pick up single copies and local businesses to pick up bulk quantities at their nearest transportation district office, Motor Vehicle Customer Service Center or State Patrol District Headquarters.

The reason is that it now costs 52 cents to put a single copy in the mail, and $6 to UPS a box of 500. "We will, of course, send copies by mail, but if people are renewing a driver's license or registering a vehicle, it's a good opportunity to save tax dollars," Fiedler added.

Wisconsin was the first state in the nation to issue a state highway map showing a numbered highway system. This innovation, which made it possible to travel the length and breadth of the state without having to stop and ask directions, was soon copied by virtually every country in the world.

The year was 1918, and a year's supply of maps was 7,500 copies. Today the DOT expects to distribute 2 million in 1991 and another 1.5 million in 1992. "A little less than half of the printing goes to the Division of Tourism to answer requests for vacation information from potential tourists," Fiedler said.

Fred Ross, administrator of the Division of Highways and Transportation Services, said the new map is brighter, more colorful and easier to read...and it's printed on recycled paper. Printing was done by Western Printing, Racine.

"We've made a major effort to erase the computer-graphics look through new typestyles," he said. "However, the computer played an even greater role in its development. In addition to the base map, all community inserts were produced on CADDs (computer-aided design and drafting)," he added.

Governor and Mrs. Tommy G. Thompson are shown with a lake scene in the background, carrying through the recreation theme. The cover photo is also a lake scene, the bustling Milwaukee marina with the city skyline and Hoan bridge in the background.

Other photos depict a Lake Michigan sunset, the auto ferry from Bayfield to Madeline Islands, a snowmobile traversing the Military Ridge trail between Madison and Dodgeville, winners of a Musky fishing contest at Minocqua, Wyalusing State Park in Southeastern Wisconsin, a typical Rustic Road, the Elroy-Sparta bike trail, a summer festival in Milwaukee, the Department of Natural Resources' MacKenzie Environmental Center at Poynette, a member of the Chippewa tribe in traditional costume, the Horicon Wildlife Refuge, a Door County fish boil, the Spooner Fish Hatchery and hockey players on a Madison lagoon.

Ross said the map features charts of the facilities available in state parks and forests and trails, and new charts of "watchable wildlife" areas at state-owned facilities, state fish hatcheries, and sites operated by the State Historical Society.

The 1991-92 highway map shows the completed freeways and expressways of the Corridors 2020 highway system in brighter colors. "These are the major roads that form the backbone system of our economy, as well as serve the millions of vacationers visiting their favorite recreation areas" Fiedler said.

Major new Corridors 2020 roads on the new map include Highway 29 east of Wausau and US 53 north from Onalaska to Holmen. Major new construction projects, also on the Corridors 2020 system, include US 53 expressway in Douglas County, US 151 from Verona to Mt. Horeb and between Sun Prairie and Columbus to be open late this year, the Highway 50 expressway in Kenosha County, Highway 29 west toward Marathon City, and WIS 57 south from Sturgeon Bay.

In addition to the folded pocket maps, Ross said there is a larger plastic wall map available at a cost of $6 each plus tax. The wall maps and the free pocket maps may be ordered from the DOT Map and Document Sales office, 3617 Pierstorff Road, Madison.

Crop Fertility Management

Crop producers spend considerable amounts each year to provide the nutrients necessary to grow their crops. With the cost of most fertilizer ingredients increasing and the prices of farm commodities declining, it is important that growers carefully develop their fertility program.

The starting point in any soil fertility program is a current and accurate soil test. The result of any test are dramatically effected by the accuracy of the sampling procedure. Samples should be taken to the plow depth and with adequate sampling sites to represent the field being tested. It is recommended that fields be sampled at least once every three years to monitor the soil fertility level.

There are a number of ways to get soil samples tested. Producers can work with their fertilizer dealers or crop consultants or they can send samples directly to a number of private or public laboratories located within Wisconsin.

When the soil test results are received, it is important to analyze them closely and make any necessary adjustment. Some soil testing laboratories will now make adjustment for previous crop history, crop residue or manure applied, if that information is made available and submitted with the sample. If these adjustments are not made, then growers need to make these adjustments from the amount of fertilizer recommended from their soil test report.

The amount of nitrogen credit from alfalfa is generally estimated to be 40 lbs. of nitrogen per acre, plus one pound of nitrogen for every percent legume in the stand. Growers should use 50 percent of that amount if the stand was harvested after September 10 of the previous year. Other legumes such as red clover, or birdsfoot trefoil provide 80 percent of the nitrogen level of alfalfa. Growers can also plan on about 30 lbs. nitrogen per acres being available the second year following the sod.

Credits also should be taken for manure that's been applied to the field. Dairy manure normally supplies about four tons of nitrogen, 3 lbs. of phosphate and 8 lbs. of potash per ton of manure applied to the field. Growers can also have manure samples tested for fertility levels and use this information when giving credit for nutrient applied.

Fertility management becomes more critical as the cost of nutrients increases and the value of crops decline. Producers that are interested in more information can contact the county Extension office for more information, on soil testing and fertility management.

Scientists estimate that as many as 200,000,000 meteors enter the earth's atmosphere every day. These and other meteorites are estimated to add more than 1,000 tons daily to the Earth's weight.

Deadline for Sign-up In Low-Cost Crop Contest is Aug. 1

If you think you can grow corn, soybeans or wheat more efficiently than other farmers in your area, the Wisconsin Profits through Efficient Production System, (PEPS) program may be for you.

Unlike other yield contests, the PEPS program rewards farmers who grow crops with the lowest per bushel costs. The program emphasizes soil and water conservation, efficiency, profitability and competitiveness rather than productivity alone.

You will receive forms for recording production information such as costs and yield when you enter the program. This information will be put through computers after harvest to make an economic analysis. The winner is whoever has the lowest per bushel costs.

There are divisions for cash-crop corn, dairy/livestock corn, soybeans and wheat. You can enter as many divisions as you wish. University of Wisconsin - Madison extension agronomists Paul Carter and Ed Oplinger encourage you to compare profitability of your management systems (tillage, weed control, etc) and crops by entering several different plots.

The PEPS program also has a "verification only" option. This will allow you to keep track of production costs or compare treatments without competing in a contest.

The deadline to sign-up for the contest is Aug. 1. There's a $25 fee for each entry, and winners in each division get a $100 cash award at the annual Corn/Soybean Conference banquet next February. Separate competitions in five regions of the state allow for differences in climate conditions.

You can get detailed rules and applications forms from county extension offices or from the PEPS Program, UW-Madison Department of Agronomy, 1575 Linden Dr., Madison, WI 53706. The phone number is (608) 262-1533.

Chairman of the Administrative Committee, Thomas McElhatton brought up for discussion the possibility of advertising for an additional department of public works employee. It was noted that one DPW employee is off on a medical leave awaiting surgery and a lengthy recovery period without any indication when and if he will be able to return to regular duty. It was also noted that if we did not have the summer part-time personnel we would not be able to perform all tasks now.

Hoenecke's Late Blast Lifts Athletics

KEWASKUM — As he jogged out to leftfield for the ninth inning, Kewaskum Athletics outfielder Andy Hoenecke was in a mood to joke about his tough year at the plate.

"Barry (Wenzlaff) told me that at least I got my hit this month sooner than I got the one last month," Hoenecke quipped regarding his two-run homer in the bottom of the eighth, which helped the A's come from behind to upend a pesky Fond du Lac squad, 4-3.

Hoenecke wasn't quite as jovial early in the game as he popped up a few times and was 0 for 3 heading into his last at bat. Wenzlaff had reached base on an error to open the inning, and one out later, Hoenecke finally connected off of losing pitcher Rick Grahl.

"That was really a clutch home run by Drew," Athletics coach Doug Gonring said after the game, which was dominated by both teams' pitching.

Kewaskum got on the board first, as third baseman Terry

Koth, who had a pair of hits in the game, launched a solo homer over the leftfield fence in the bottom of the fourth to give his team the early 1-0 advantage.

But Fond du Lac answered in the top of the sixth with three runs, thanks to the help of an error. Grahl started the rally by reaching on the error, while Mike Gantner and Chip Paulson followed with walks.

After a fielder's choice on a ball hit by Randy Williams scored Grahl, Todd Bonlander singled, scoring Gantner. After another out, John Dilhb singled to bring in Williams, but on the play, Bonlander tried to catch the A's napping with the ball, and subsequently was thrown out at the plate for the final out.

Down 3-1, the A's chipped away, getting a single tally in the seventh. Eric Pearson reached on an error and Mark Schlosser followed with a single to put runners on first and second. Gonring then came up with a clutch single to score Brian Bracken, who pinch ran for Pearson.

Hoenecke's blast an inning later somewhat took away from the brilliant performances of the A's pitching. Lefty Tim Heberer started the game and went six strong innings for the Athletics, before yielding to Don Menzel, who ended up getting the win in relief.

"We got outstanding pitching from those two," Gonring went on to say regarding Heberer (4 hits, 7 K's, 2 BB's) and Menzel (0 hits, 5 K's, 3 BB's). Grahl didn't do a bad job for the visitors either, as he went the full game, giving up 8 hits, while striking out 3 and walking 2.

The win left the A's with a 9-2 mark in the Rock River Northern Division, leaving them in a first place tie with Slinger, which beat Waupun 11-7 on Sunday. That tie will be broken this Sunday however, as the A's will host Slinger this Sunday, beginning at 1:30, in a game that could decide the league championship.

Kiel Downs Indians in Wild One

By Statesman Sports Writer

KIEL — It was only fitting that the game took two days to complete.

In something that resembled a wild men's softball game, and finished with a football-like score, the Kewaskum Indians closed out their regular season by getting nipped by Kiel in a weird affair, 18-17.

The game, which began last Tuesday, was halted in the bottom of the seventh because of darkness. At that time, the Indians were clinging to a 10-9 lead, but Kiel had the base loaded against Indian lefty Chad Cook.

Cook was the fourth Indian pitcher to be used at that point, as Indian ace Shawn Schneider started and was removed in the second inning after surrendering a half-dozen runs. Matt Schlosser and Dave Pauers followed in order, and neither had much success in stopping the Raider onslaught.

Fortunately for the Indians, their bats were alive as well. Jason Krahn homered for the Indians, as did Dave Pauers, who delivered his shot with the bases loaded.

When the game was resumed on Wednesday, Kiel's Ryan Arnold promptly delivered a double to score two more runs and put his team back in front. By the end of the inning, the Raiders had tagged Cook for two more runs, and Kiel had a 13-10 advantage heading into the seventh.

The Indians didn't lie down, however, as they coupled some clutch base hits with a number of Kiel errors. In all, the Indians batted around the order, scoring seven runs to take what looked like a comfortable 17-13 lead.

Cook, who has pitched well since his return from a shoulder injury, couldn't hold onto the lead though. The junior lefty gave up five runs in the bottom half of the inning, and the Indians closed out their regular season with a heartbreaking loss.

Luckily for the Indians, their fold against the Raiders didn't determine the Eastern Wisconsin Conference championship. Plymouth took care of that by themselves, as the Panthers won the undisputed title by downing Two Rivers 7-5 last Tuesday night. Plymouth finished the regular season with a 14-4 mark, while the Indians finished in second place with a 12-6 record.

Indians Blanked by Rams

By Sportsman Sports Writer

KEWASKUM — Pitching certainly has not been a liability for the Kewaskum baseball team this year. Chad Cook, making a return from shoulder surgery earlier this year, continued his strong comeback with a fine performance against Random Lake here, last Monday.

The only problem was that the Rams' starter, Keith Hillen did a little bit better, shutting down the Indians on just four hits, as Random Lake beat the Indians in a tight one, 1-0.

Cook, who injured his shoulder in the Germantown tournament early in the season, pitched five strong innings before giving way to Matt Schlosser in the sixth inning. Senior Dave Pauers finished the fine Indians mound effort by throwing the seventh frame. The three combined to give up just six hits.

Hillen meanwhile, had the Indians offstride all night, and finished with 12 strikeouts and just one walk. Not too shabby for a guy who hadn't pitched in two weeks because of an injury.

The only score of the game came in the top of the fourth, when Random Lake's Steve Tuma doubled to right, and came around to score on a base hit by Cory Straub.

The Indians had their chances, though. In the first inning, the Indians had a pair of runners aboard with only one out, but Hillen got out of the mess by getting an out on a ground ball, and then a strikeout. The Indians also had two runners on base in the fifth, but another strikeout got Hillen out of it once again.

Hillen finished strong as well, getting eight of his last nine outs via the strikeout.

The win upped the Rams' overall record to 20-2, and just enhanced the reasons why the team was the outright winner of the Central Lakeshore Conference's championship. The Indians, meanwhile, dropped to 13-10 overall, including a 12-5 mark in the Eastern Wisconsin race.

Stollenwerk 2nd In Nationals

By Statesman Sports Writer

OAK LAWN, ILLINOIS — Anita Stollenwerk came up just a bit short in her attempt to win a national judo title, as she had to settle for second place at the United States Judo Federation Junior Youth National Championships held here on Friday, July 5.

Over 700 participants took part in the tournament, with contestants competing from almost every state.

Competing in the Batam three female class for 51-60 pounders, Stollenwerk upended Sayaka Matsu Moto of San Francisco, California, to earn a spot in the finals against Torrence, California's Nicole Akiyama.

Stollenwerk won one match against Akiyama in the finals, but Akiyama wound up winning the best two-out-of-three match to win the national championship.

Anita is the daughter of Keith and Sue Stollenwerk of Milwaukee and the granddaughter of Gerald and Patricia Stollenwerk of Kewaskum.
