Electors Approve 1991-92 School Budget

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

The proposed 1991-92 Kewaskum School District budget, as presented, received few comments from the electors in attendance at the Annual Meeting Monday night. Only former school board member Perry Ankeron questioned the increased budget. He wondered if the taxpayers were really seeing any improvement in the quality of education which would justify the $200,000 plus increase which included the addition of one more full-time teaching position for virtually the same number of students attending as during the 1990-91 school year.

There were no changes made in the proposed budget of $9,547,061, for the coming school year. Based on anticipated revenues from other sources of $4.78 million, the district will be levying a school tax of $16.82 per $1,000 of assessed valuation to raise the additional $4,760,895, required to meet next year's budget expenditure needs.

The approved levy represents a 2.81% or 46c increase over the 1990-91 levy of $16.36. District Administrator Dr. David Heather stated the new levy rate was based on the assumption that the district's equalized value would rise by about 2.65%.

What the increase means to the taxpayer is, that on a $50,000 home the 1990 school tax was $818, for 1991 it will be $841, up $23, on a $70,000 home, 1990 - $1,145, 1991 - $1,177, up $32, on a $90,000 home, 1990 - $1,472, 1991 - $1,514, up $42.

With no further discussion, the motion to set the levy was approved.

Also approved were the standard annual motions regarding the lunch program, text book purchases, transportation contracts, and the school members' salaries which will remain the same at $800 per year.

The meeting was held in Rose Hall and there was plenty of room for all in attendance. Subtracting the administrators and some of their family members, teachers, and the media, who live in the school district, you could count on one hand, the number of electors present at the most important school board meeting of the year.

Despite the small turnout Heather thanked those who did attend for showing an interest in the school district.

Village Board Names Bilgo's Successor

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

The Kewaskum Village Board, Monday night, selected an individual to succeed Augie Bilgo who retired last month as Kewaskum's Superintendent of Public Works.

The trustees approved the Administrative Committee's recommendation to hire Jerry E. Gilles, 41, of Star Prairie, Wisconsin, for the position.

Prior to his employment in Star Prairie, Gilles held the position of Superintendent of Wastewater Treatment, Watertown, Wisconsin. He has a Bachelor of Science Degree from the University of Wisconsin and maintains water and water pollution control state licenses.

Gilles will begin his employment with the village August 15th, at a salary of $30,378. He will serve a 120-day probationary period.

Gilles is married, with two daughters.

According to Village Administrator Dan Schmidt, a total of 39 applications were received for the position of Director of Public Works. All the applications were reviewed by the board for specific qualifications it felt were required for the position. After narrowing the field, interviews were scheduled and held last week.

In other business, Police Chief Richard Knoebel updated the board on the status of hiring additional part-time officers. He advised the board that his department had received only four applications for the position, none of which held any certification for the job.

Knoebel suggested the issue be turned over to the Fire and Police Commission.

Knoebel noted during an informal discussion after the meeting that it costs the village $7,206.00 to train one part-time officer.

In other action, the board approved a special picnic license covering August 3 and 4, for the Kewaskum Horseshoe League.

The board then adjourned to closed session.

Travelers Learn First Hand Life on the Farm

by S. Roznik & L. Thorn

Participants in a special program entitled "Academic Adventures in America" shared their experiences with the Kewaskum Kiwanis on Monday evening. The four young people traveled to America to take part in a non-profit educational and cultural exchange program dedicated to bringing people of all ages closer together, resulting in a better understanding of one another's way of life. The Farm Program is designed for participants 19 years or older - and these four students learned firsthand what life on the farm is like in Kewaskum while they stayed with area families for approximately one to three months. Living with farm families, helping with chores, experiencing the lifestyle of rural America, enjoying different recreational activities, was quite a learning experience. The four visitors talked to the audience about their native countries and what life is like for them at home. Pictured left to right: Yves Thill from Luxembourg staying with the Leander Herriges family; Christiane Saeglitz of Mettmann, West Germany is staying with the Roger and Ann Neumann family; Nickolas Rutsaert of Brussels, Belgium is living with the Jim and Carol Oelhafen family; and Lars Scheithauer of Dorfehemnitz, East Germany, stayed with the Howard Proeber family.

The four young people will each be headed home sometime in the next couple of weeks.

Local Athletes Take State Honors at Special Olympics

The 1991 Wisconsin Special Olympics Summer Games were recently held in Stevens Point, June 28 through June 30, with over 1850 athletes competing in the state finals in one of five sports: gymnastics, soccer, volleyball, aquatics and athletics.

Five hundred volunteers along with family members from around the state turned out to support the athletes. Athletes win locally at area meets tournaments to advance to the state-level competition, and are expected to follow a minimum of eight weeks of training and competition.

Athletes are placed in divisions by ability, age and gender. Local athletes took honors at state and placed in their respective competitions as follows: Justin Petermann, 6th place, 100 meters, 0:20.9; also 1st place, standing long jump, 1.50. Jennifer Strancke, 2nd place, softball throw, 4.25. Julainne Morgan 2nd place, 0:53.6, and Brian Hanrahan 4th place, 1:00.3, 50 Freestyle. Julainne Morgan, 5th place, 50 backstroke, 1:17.9.

Special Olympics is the first organization other than the national Olympic committee to be recognized and endorsed by the International Olympic committee.

Kasten Opposes Senate Pay Raise

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Senator Bob Kasten, R-Wis., Issued the following statement on Thursday in opposition to a pay increase for members of the U.S. Senate which passed last week on a 53-45 vote. Kasten voted against the pay raise.

"While the rest of America is suffering from last year's tax increase — and we in Congress have asked American taxpayers to put up more of their hard-earned dollars — I think it is wrong that Congress is using a portion of that money to raise its own pay.

"When we raise our own salaries, it should be due to merit — based on our abilities to legislate and more importantly, to balance the federal budget.

"Until the Congress can act responsibly on federal matters — such as keeping taxes low — I do not believe that they deserve a pay hike."

Dear Dr. Sylvia,

What is the importance of children keeping their rooms clean? What is the best way to get my daughter to keep her room clean (or at least halfway)? I can't seem to convince her. Her room is a mess!

Mom Who's Not Sure It's Worth It

Dear Mom,

There are times when no mom is sure it is worth her effort, and you will personally need to decide how important it is to you. It is good for children to learn to take on responsibilities around the house that match their developmental level. They can learn to pick up their toys and even their clothes before they are two and can expand those good habits each year. Of course, they need to be patiently and consistently taught, and that can be so frustrating to parents that they find it more efficient to take the responsibilities on themselves. Unfortunately, children also learn that if they frustrate their parents sufficiently, the tasks will get done for them. Thus, some bad habits begin. Children don't even seem to mind if their rooms are a mess.

The cleanliness standard for children's rooms doesn't have to match the standard for the rest of your home, but it should meet some reasonable threshold level so that 1) you're not embarrassed to bring a friend past the children's and 2) your children will become accustomed to a reasonably organized and clean environment.

Sit with each child and make a list of chores for which he or she should be responsible. Most families want beds made, clothes put in the laundry, and toys picked up. Some families include vacuuming and dusting in their list of requirements. Occasionally, bathrooms and other household tasks are added. Be sure your children have received your "how to" instructions for each task on the list. Explain to your children that you will not nag or remind, but will inspect each Friday at five (or a time that would be convenient for you). You will expect all listed activities completed before weekend activities begin. That means no television, Nintendo, friends over, or friends to visit until their work is finished. Stay calm, firm, and consistent until they have developed good habits.

Some parents may choose a daily inspection before evening television. Some parents give their children an allowance only after inspection. An effective plan includes a specific list of activities, an exact time for accountability, and consistent follow-through by parents until the good habits are formed.

Room-cleaning problems stem from inconsistency and nagging without follow-through (a problem to which all of us are vulnerable). If you've been remiss, you're not alone, but don't be surprised to hear your children debate with you about their rights to live in their room the way they want it. Since children don't pay rent and parents do (or a mortgage payment), it does establish that parents may still have reasonable control within their own home. However, do be reasonable in setting children - comfortable expectations. If you set your cleanliness standards too high, your children will fight you, and you will find yourself wondering if it's worth the struggle.

Here's another tip to help your daughter. If her room is really out of hand, work side-by-side with her to organize it and clean it up thoroughly. That will make her feel like she has "a fresh start" and will encourage her to maintain the cleanliness. The side-by-side work can be fun and will give her a sense of your partnership instead of her feeling embattled with you.

I remember that as an adolescent, I wondered why it was so important to my mother that I hang up my coat instead of leaving it on the nearest chair. Hanging coats was just not on my agenda, and I truly did not understand her point at the time. She persevered and I finally learned; then I persevered and our children learned. The real agenda is responsibility and reasonable organization - the requirements for effective accomplishment at home, at school, and in the workplace. Your daughter's room is a good place for her to start.

"Summer is Here - Are Your Children Safe?"

Now that school is out for the year, many parents are concerned about the needs of their children. Working parents, especially, may wonder what to look for in quality child care. When you're looking for someone to care for your children on a regular basis, you want the right someone. But how do you tell?

Jan Felthous, Summer Home Economist, suggests considering these three things: the caregiver, the setting, and activities provided.

"A good caregiver should be well trained, and warm and loving toward children," Jan says. "Whether your child is an infant, toddler, pre-schooler, or school-ager, the caregiver should encourage the child's interests and stimulate the child to explore and discover new things."

Interview caregivers to find out about their training and experience. Research shows that caregivers with formal education or training provide better care than those without such training. This is even more important than years of experience.

Also, be sure to ask questions about their attitudes toward child rearing, guidance and discipline.

"And listen to your instincts. Do you feel good about this person? That's just as important as a person's formal qualifications. Find someone, if you can, who shares your values."

Also consider the setting. Whether you use in-home care, family day care, or center care, the facilities should be safe and healthy. The equipment — games, toys and furniture — should be in good repair and appropriate for your child. The number of children should be low enough to allow your child to receive individual attention.

When you ask about activities, check to see if those planned would be adjusted to your child's stage of growth and would help your child develop mentally, physically, socially and emotionally.

MEMORIES

Shown in the above photo is the former Rimmel Manufacturing Company during the early 1900's which was located at the corner of First Street and Railroad Street. In 1895 the machine shop was producing drilling-boring machines, brass and iron goods, shafting, iron pipes, fittings, engineers' tools, fire extinguishers, pulleys and pumps in 1895, and continued to grow so that in September and October, 1898, a shed 16' wide and the length of the shop was added, as well as an office on the southwest corner. By 1900 the shop made iron pumps, hand engines, drilling and boring machines, and fire, factory, tank and well pumps. In addition it sold hardware, stoves, ranges and building material. After 1912 it produced its two most famous products — corn huskers and cement mixers. In September, 1919, the shop was purchased by local entrepreneurs and incorporated on October 7, 1919. The new owners took possession on October 21st and manufactured corn huskers, cement mixers and grinders. During the depression business became bad and consequently the shop was rented to Louis Bath, who conducted a general machine and repair service. In 1936 the foundry was torn down and the following year Mr. Bath purchased the business and property from the Rimmel Corporation and resumed business under the name of Rimmel Manufacturing Co. In 1972 the business was discontinued, with all of the equipment, machinery and inventory, including the last corn huskers and cement mixers, sold at auction. The building was then torn down and a 16-unit apartment was built on its site.

HELP FOR DISABLED CHILDREN

BY
DAVID W. BECKER
BRANCH MANAGER

Many people don't realize that Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits can be paid to children, but they can. In fact, we pay monthly SSI benefits to more than 350,000 disabled children under 18. About half of them are under age 10. Their payments average $387, and in most States, they're eligible for Medicaid, which helps them pay their medical bills.

For children to get SSI, their disability must last, or be expected to last, for at least 12 months. More than half of the children currently receiving SSI have mental disorders. For example, they are mentally retarded, autistic, or have serious psychiatric problems. About one-fourth have disabilities of the nervous system or sense organs, like blindness, deafness, or epilepsy. Many children born with leukemia, cerebral palsy, Down's Syndrome, or HIV positive, or who have other severe birth defects, also get SSI.

Social Security recently adopted new rules for evaluating children's disabilities. Under the new procedures, we look at how the child's disability keeps him or her from doing things children of a similar age can normally do. Under previous rules, only children who met specific medical criteria were found eligible for SSI. The new rules mean many more children will be eligible for SSI.

In addition to being disabled, a child must have limited income and resources to qualify for SSI. We also consider the parents' income and resources, but a family doesn't have to be destitute for the child to get SSI.

Many resources — like the family's home, for example — aren't considered. And we make allowances for other children living in the home.

Parents or guardians who have a child they think could qualify for SSI should contact Social Security. Or if you know someone with a disabled child, tell them about SSI. Just call 1-800-2345-SSA (1-800-234-5772) between 7:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. for more information. The best times to call are between 7:00 and 9:00 a.m. and evenings.

Pat Benvenuto presents Martha Kudek with her "balloonist" certificate

Christmas came in July for Martha Kudek. Her life long dream was to take a hot air balloon ride. On Monday, July 8, her children and grandchildren surprised her with a hot air balloon ride.

Her daughter and granddaughter invited her to watch a balloon take off West Bend U.W. Campus soccer field. They told her the ride was a couple celebrating their anniversary. Martha really got surprised when she was told to put on a helmet because the ride was for her.

Martha really enjoyed the ride. She said it is so quiet and peaceful up there, you can hear people talking and dogs barking. The pilot said it was a good night for riding, they'd seen two other balloons near Milwaukee. They were in the air an hour and were as high as 1500 feet. Martha didn't think Cedar Lake was so big!

Upon landing and putting the gear away, a celebration was held in the field to toast the ride. Pilot Don Benvenuto presented Martha with a certificate and a pin for her enjoyable adventure.

Anyone interested in making their dream come true call Don and Pat Benvenuto, West Bend.

THE ATTACK OF THE ENDLESS TIEBREAKERS

Even though I've met many challenges in my life, I think the one on August 25, 1990, was the toughest. It was the day of the Washington County Tennis Invitational. There were six teams that competed that day. They were Kewaskum, West Bend West, West Bend East, Hartford, Germantown, and Slinger. We arrived at the West Bend courts at 8:00 a.m. sharp. It was drizzling out, and it looked as if it would continue. The coaches had their meeting and play got underway around 10:30 a.m.

My doubles partner and I drew Slinger for our first match. By this time, the sun had peeked its head through the clouds to make it very damp and muggy. The first set went into a tiebreaker after the score was 6-6. We won the tiebreaker 7-3. The second set started around 11:15. By now the sun was directly overhead, and it was about one hundred degrees out on the courts. We wouldn't have to stop playing for lunch; we could just fry hamburgers on the court. We won the second set 6-1. We were now in the semifinals after our grueling one and a half hour match. Next we were scheduled to play West Bend East. (They had won the title last year at number three

Between our first and second matches, we only got a ten minute snooze. At about 12:15 p.m., our second match began. This match took two long, strenuous hours. We lost the first set in a tiebreaker 6-7, won the second set 6-2, and finally lost the third set tiebreaker 6-7. After three and a half hours of hard tennis with only a ten minute "coffee break" in one hundred degree weather, I was literally shot. After my partner scraped me off the court, I went home and slept for twelve hours.

I feel we played well and almost overcame the challenge of winning the match. But one challenge we did overcome is that we never quit. We put everything we had into that match. Sometimes, that is more important than winning.

The Kewaskum firemen answered a call at 5:45 p.m. Tuesday to a serious fire at the farm owned by Richard Candee of Milwaukee at the intersection of Cty Trk Y and Hwy 45 in the Town of Auburn, about five miles north of Kewaskum. Three fire departments were summoned to the scene. First called was the Campbellsport department and when the flames, fanned by a high wind, got out of control and threatened to burn all of the other buildings on the farm, the Kewaskum department was also called. Later the Eden department arrived and assisted the Campbellsport and Kewaskum tankers in hauling water. The blaze burned two large barns to the ground. The roof and corner of another large barn also caught fire but the building was saved by firemen. Several nearby sheds also caught fire and were saved by the battling firemen whose water supply was limited at times. An amount of hay was also lost. Kewaskum firemen fought the blaze for about two hours and then returned to the station with the Campbellsport firemen standing by. An abandoned house on another farm owned by Candee was partially burned Wednesday at 5:40 p.m. on the Auburn Lake Road. Fond du Lac County Sheriff's office is investigating possible arson in connection with the two fires in two days.

Allen A. Tessar has been named credit manager of Regal Ware, Inc., Kewaskum, according to an announcement by James D. Reigle, company president. He succeeds vice president Charles E. Reigle, who has held the position since the company's founding in 1945. Mr. Reigle will continue with the department on a semi-retired basis. Tessar joined Regal Ware in 1949 as a member of the firm's accounting department.

Miss Joan Gonnering, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nic Gonnering, Route 2, Kewaskum, was the lucky contestant to be selected county dairy queen at the county contest held last Thursday. Joan will be awarded with a free trip to the Wisconsin State Fair where she will compete with other county queens for the honor of being chosen Wisconsin's dairy queen. The queen will be selected on Thursday evening, August 21, at a banquet tendered in their honor by state fair management.

A large semi-trailer truck owned by the Pope Transportation Co. of Wausau was damaged in a freak accident on Highway 55 north of the village early Tuesday morning. The accident occurred when the driver stopped a short distance north of the overhead bridge. While the driver was placing a flare a few feet back of the truck, the brakes evidently unlocked and the machine began moving down hill. Facing north, the driverless truck crossed the road, rolled down a steep hill on the other side of the highway into a deep culvert where it overturned. Both the truck and trailer were quite badly damaged. It took until the following afternoon before the truck could be righted and removed from the ditch.

John Reinders of Route 3, Kewaskum, was painfully injured on Monday afternoon while helping a neighbor when he fell from the binder he was driving. One wheel of the binder ran over him and he suffered a fractured shoulder blade and collar bone. He was taken to St. Joseph's Community Hospital.

A marriage license has been issued in Milwaukee to P. Paul Kern and Miss Cresence Stoffel. Miss Stoffel is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Stoffel, former residents of Kewaskum.

Leo Husting, aged 32, was fatally injured Friday evening at Campbellsport when kicked in the stomach by a horse. The young man, who was prominent in village affairs, died within an hour after sustaining injuries. Physicians ascribed his death to an internal hemorrhage. The blow was delivered with such force as to leave the imprint of the iron shoe on the young man's stomach just over the solar plexus. The young man and his father had been out driving the team. As the young man led one of the horses into the barn stall he stepped to the side and pulled the harness off. It appeared the horse had a sore upon its neck and that young Husting drew the collar against it causing the horse to kick. It was a large animal and was not known to be vicious.

Last Monday at about 10 o'clock, fire broke out in the boiler room of the West Bend Malting Company's plant and rapidly spread throughout the whole plant gutting the building from one end to the other, causing a loss of about $75,000, fully covered by insurance. The first was one of the worst in the history of West Bend. Business throughout the city was practically at a standstill. From the early beginning of the fire the city water supply gave out. Nothing could be done to save the property. Several times the Northwestern Railway freight house was in danger.

Last week indeed was a busy week for the stork. On Friday he left at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Buddenhagen, twin girls, and on Saturday while visiting the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wesenberg, he was kind enough to leave a bright bouncing baby boy.

Jos. Welzien, the local barber last Tuesday, while shooting sparrows, accidentally shot himself in the right foot with a 22 rifle. The cartridge being loaded with bird shot. Having the rifle close to his foot, the full discharge lodged therein. Mr. Welzien is now nursing a sore foot but nonetheless is able to take care of his barber duties only through hardship.

Jerree Bryant Selected as 1991 KFC/D.A.R.E. U.S. Junior Ambassador

A native of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, eleven-year old Jerree Bryant has been selected as the 1991 KFC/D.A.R.E. U.S. Junior Ambassador for her courage, strength and commitment to stay away from drugs and alcohol.

Jerree recently completed sixth grade at the Sherman Multi-Cultural Arts School in Milwaukee, where she is active as a kindergarten monitor, school monitor, and a member of the school newspaper. She is also interested in acting, singing and modeling.

Jerree feels the best way to a long life is to stay away from drugs. "I feel the only kind of peer pressure we should have is to pressure each other to strive to be the best we can be," she said. "That means to say no to drugs...the most important right I have is to keep my body and mind healthy."

Jerree one day hopes to be either a pediatrician or an attorney.

"My name is Jerree Bryant. I am a sixth grader from Sherman Multi-Cultural Arts School, Milwaukee. When I graduated from D.A.R.E. this year I made a life long pledge to stay drug free. That pledge was not to my parents, friends, principal, teachers, or the D.A.R.E. officer. That pledge was to myself. For the dare program taught me about life skills. It taught me that I have a right to say no to drug offers, and that it's O.K. to be called a chicken. I have a right to be treated fairly. I have a right to avoid negative peer pressures. I have a right to feel good about myself. I have a right to look at consequences so that I can make the right choices.

However, the most important right I have is to keep my body and mind healthy. The D.A.R.E. program stresses the importance of finding alternatives to drugs. I know that the main reason young people get involved in drugs is because of boredom. I stay active by acting, singing and making art in Multi-Cultural Arts Program as well as being a kindergarten monitor, school monitor, and member of the Sherman Multi-Cultural School Press Club. I belong to the Milwaukee Boys and Girls Club and the Berean Family Worship Church. I also take modeling lessons on the weekend. The activities I do are not only fun but I learn many different skills. We all want to live long productive, and rewarding lives so we can be positive role models to our children. To live long lives is to say no to drugs.

I feel the only kind of peer pressure we should have is to pressure each other to be the best we can be. That means to say no to drugs.

The best way I can teach others is to show them with my life. Now you can see why I made that pledge to myself and not to others, my parents, teachers, principal and the D.A.R.E. officer. I am proud of myself and I want them to be proud of me, too."

Many smokers have a bad cough they can't get rid of. This can mean they have a disease called chronic bronchitis.

West Bend Mutual Makes List of Top Premium Writers

West Bend Mutual Insurance Company ranks among the nation's top 50 mutual companies as measured in business volume, The National Underwriter reports.

Seven other Wisconsin-based mutual companies made the top 50 list. They are American Family, Employers Insurance of Wausau, Sentry, Heritage Mutual, SECURA Insurance, Church Mutual and Milwaukee Mutual.

"The men and women who are a part of this state's insurance industry have always known that Wisconsin is a great place to do business," noted Eric Englund, president of the Wisconsin Insurance Alliance. "The fact that eight of our State's companies appear on a list such as this is evidence that Wisconsin's property-casualty insurance industry is strong and stable and growing." Englund also attributed the strong performance of Wisconsin insurers to "capable governmental regulation, a strong, competent workforce, and an environment that fosters company growth."

The National Underwriter reported the number of property-casualty insurance premiums written in 1990 increased at a higher rate than in the previous two years. National premium volume increased in 1990 by 4.7 percent raising the total premiums written to more than $218 billion. Cautioning that the increase was modest, the journal said the numbers compare favorably to the three percent increase of 1989, and represents an additional $10 billion in premiums written.

Observing the list provided good news for "insurers and consumers alike," Englund said a number of factors unique to Wisconsin were responsible for the growth of mutual insurance companies. Pointing out that Wisconsin has a long tradition of "practical insurance regulation, common sense legislation, an excellent service to consumers," he said the insurance industry has always been attracted to Wisconsin because it can count on finding well-educated workers whose "commitment and competence is a cornerstone of our ability to grow."

Englund also noted the birth and growth of mutual insurance companies have their roots in the progressive traditions of Wisconsin that encouraged the development and expansion of the policyholder-owned mutual insurance companies. This Wisconsin heritage has been a major factor in encouraging "our companies to become regional or national in scope and operation."

Good sun protection habits begin with sunscreen and moisturizer

Soaking up the sun isn't what it used to be. Today, "the deep dark tan is out," says Mallin DeSantis, Health and Beauty Editor of Cosmopolitan magazine.

You still may be looking for fun in the sun, but don't let your skin pay the price. To prevent premature aging and skin cancer, "it's important to protect your skin with a good sunblock as well as a good moisturizer," says renowned dermatologist Dr. Albert Kligman of The University of Pennsylvania. A new line of sunscreens, Vaseline Intensive Care Moisturizing Sunscreen Lotions, combines the traditional benefits of sun protection with a moisturizer that helps prevent the dryness and tightness of sun-dried skin.

Good sun protection habits are important, especially for younger people, since 80 percent of all lifetime sun damage occurs before age 18. Experts suggest:

- Avoid the sun, especially during noon time hours.
- Cover up exposed areas.
- Apply sunscreen regularly, preferably one that moisturizes.

For further information on skin care and a free brochure on sun protection, call the Vaseline Skin Care Institute at 1-(800) 654-1104.

A LASTING TRIBUTE

SOUTHEAST WISCONSIN VIETNAM VETERANS MEMORIAL FUND Vietnam Vets Salute Dr. Listwan For His Memorial Efforts

WEST BEND — An impressive memorial honoring veterans of the Vietnam War is nearing completion, thanks in part to the efforts of General Clinic physician, Dr. William Listwan, who raised nearly $16,000 for the memorial from West Bend area contributors.

The memorial will be dedicated October 19-20 at Veterans Park north of the War Memorial in Milwaukee.

Southeast Wisconsin Vietnam Veterans recognized Dr. Listwan, a Vietnam veteran, when they presented him with a framed commemorative poster on July 17. The presentation was made at the General Clinic, 205 Valley Ave., West Bend, by George Hall, a 1968 First Air Cavalry veteran who heads the board of directors of the Southeast Wisconsin Vietnam Veterans Memorial Committee.

Ted Poull, who is also on the board, said Dr. Listwan became involved in efforts to build the memorial when Poull, who is with Boldt Construction, supervised the building of the General Clinic in 1989. The two and another veteran working on the clinic talked about their plans while sitting in the construction shack on the building site.

"Dr. Listwan took the ball and ran with it. He started on PR for the memorial," said Poull, who was with the First Air Cavalry Division in 1970.

Through many personal contacts, newspaper ads and letters,

Listwan raised $15,000 to $16,000 over an 18 month period. There were several large contributions of $1000 or more.

Listwan, who served as a medical officer with the Navy in 1969 and 1970, said his motivation was "to do something positive" on behalf of the veterans and he was pleased with the generosity shown in this community.

Poull, said the memorial committee needs to raise about $20,000 more. He said some $200,000 in in-kind donations of material and labor have greatly offset the total cost of the memorial, about $450,000.

The Vietnam Veterans memorial consists, in part, of three Wausau red granite columns, 30 feet, 26 feet and 22 feet high. One column is dedicated to MIAs and POWs, another to those killed in action and the third, to those who returned. There are 11 smaller columns around the perimeter, each one representing one year of the war as recognized by the government. Five stone benches represent the five branches of service.

Poull said that, despite the way many Vietnam veterans were treated when they came home from the war, Vietnam vets as a whole are now coming into their own, joining mainstream veterans groups like the VFW and American Legion. With the return of Desert Storm veterans, Vietnam vets reminded the nation of the sacrifice made by all veterans.

He said Vietnam veterans are carrying on a tradition of honoring and caring for all who served.

"This memorial is not only closing a chapter for Vietnam veterans. But along with the Vietnam Memorial, we are on a board that is developing the park for other groups, such as China-Burma veterans, to be recognized...We're laying the groundwork," said Poull.

Engraved paving bricks are being sold at $50 and $75 each. The commemorative posters, by professional artist Rick Thrun, are also for sale. Information on contributing to the memorial can be obtained anywhere Miller Brewing products are sold, by calling radio station 93QFM at 276-2040, or by writing to Southeast Wisconsin Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund, Inc., 606 W. Wisconsin Ave., Milwaukee, WI 53203. The station has been an active in drawing support for the memorial effort.

Some of the major donors of materials and manpower have been Miller Brewing, 93QFM, Wisconsin Electric, Harley-Davidson, Wisconsin Gas, the Marcus Corporation, Gillen Pile and Driving, Edgerton Excavating, Central Ready mix, Lombard Electric, Boldt Construction, J & M Reinforcing, Peckman Memorial, architect Bob Cooper, architect Ken Stock, and Arnold O'Sheridan, for electrical and structural work.

County Fair Meat Animal Sale

Washington County Agriculture Agent
Jack Trzebiatowski

The 1991 Meat Animal Sale is scheduled to be held on Thursday, July 25 at 7:30 p.m. This is the 22nd Annual Sale that is held as a part of the Washington County Fair. The Sale will be at the county fairgrounds located in Slinger.

The sale is one of the highlights for many livestock exhibitors who have worked with their project animals during the past year. The sale will feature some of the best steers, lambs and hogs raised by youth livestock project members in Washington County.

Project members acquire their animals when they are young, they care for them, feed them and spend countless hours working with them to get ready for the County Fair. The animals are weighed in at an earlier time and identified. They are weighed again when they are brought to the fair and a rate of gain is calculated. The animals are judged by a livestock judge and must meet quality standards in order to be eligible for the sale.

Livestock projects allow members to learn about proper and current methods of livestock production. The programs also provide an opportunity to learn other skills and leadership development.

This livestock sale has been successful because of the support of the various businesses in the Washington County area. These businesses attend the sale and support the activity of the project members. It gives these project members an opportunity to earn some money from their project. Members usually invest this money in new animals for next year or in some cases save it for education beyond high school.

The Sale Committee would like to invite all businesses and individuals to attend a Pre-Sale Social scheduled to be held at 6:30 p.m. one hour before the sale. Individuals can register for the Pre-Sale Social and the auction near the beef barn at the Washington County fairgrounds.

Prevention of Food Poisoning

By Jan Felthous
Summer Extension
Home Economist

It's picnic season! How can you be sure your foods are safe to eat in hot, summer weather? Here are three ways to prevent food poisoning by handling food properly.

A basic rule to KEEP HOT FOOD HOT or COLD FOOD COLD. Germs multiply very quickly at in-between temperatures, and they can cause food poisoning.

Foods which must be kept on ice include dairy foods, eggs, and salads with creamy dressings. A good tip for hot dogs or sandwich meat is to freeze them ahead; they will thaw on the way to the picnic. They will still be plenty cold when you are ready to use them. For sandwiches, pack the meat separately from other sandwich makings. Then, put the whole sandwich together minutes before you eat. The lettuce will be crisp, and the bread will not be soggy. The mayonnaise should also be kept cold so all the sandwich making will be safe to eat.

Those who like to grill chicken or ribs away from home would be wise to precook the meat. Meats should be well chilled on ice and packed separately from other foods so that meat juices will not contaminate other foods.

A second basic rule is to keep foods as germ-free as possible. Pack plenty of utensils for serving. If a serving spoon is passed from one dish to the next, germs will also be spread. Each dish should have its own utensil.

Children love to help prepare and serve foods. Double check that their hands are clean. Also remind them not to put their "used" utensils into a serving dish.

Finally, throw out any foods that have been sitting out at room or air temperature. For foods that spoil easily bring only the amount of food you think can be eaten when fresh rather than a large amount. Bring plenty of foods that do not spoil, like popcorn, pretzels, peanut butter, bread, cookies or cake. Any food that can spoil easily and has been at air temperature for even half an hour may have enough germs to give you food poisoning.

KEEP YOUR FAMILY'S FOOD SAFE THIS SUMMER!

For further information on food safety, contact Jan Felthous, Washington County Summer Home Economist, P.O. Box 1986, West Bend, WI 53095.

IN MEMORY

In memory of ALFRED "BUDDY" HOLZMANN who died five years ago, July 29, 1986:

It's been five years since you left us; since the last time we heard the gentleness in your voice, felt the warmth of your smile, or saw the love in your eyes. Some days it seems like only yesterday - some days it seems like forever.

So much has happened since you've been gone. We've all grown and changed. You would be very proud of all of us. We try to follow the examples you set for us - to be honest and hard-working, thoughtful and unselfish, and to value our family more than anything. That's not always easy, but you lived your whole life that way.

Five years have somehow managed to go by. They say that time heals all wounds, but we are still waiting for the hurt to stop. We may not cry as often as we used to, but it still hurts just as much when we do. No words can say how much we miss you. There is an empty space in our lives and an empty corner in our hearts that will last forever.

If we could go back and tell you one last thing, it would be how thankful we are for the years that we had together, how grateful we are to have had your influence in our lives, and how much we all love you!

Newspaper for Livestock Bedding

Dairy and livestock farmers are buying the West Bend News and other newspapers for their animals. No, the animals have not been educated to read the paper and keep up with world wide events. The newspaper provides comfortable bedding for the animals.

More farmers have developed an interest in using newspaper for bedding. Straw and other bedding materials are often in short supply or expensive to purchase. With the emphasis on recycling and Wisconsin law banning newspapers from landfills there will be large supplies of newspaper available.

Some farmers are collecting the newspaper from friends or church groups for their use. They are using forage harvesters to shred the paper and storing it as loose material or baling it with a hay baler.

The Village of Jackson is the only municipality in Washington County presently in the business of shredding, baling and selling newspaper to farmers for bedding. At the present time they have more demand than available supply for the product. They expect to increase their supply in the near future. The current price is $1.00 for a sixty pound bale. This is about $35.00 a ton, which is competitive with other sources of bedding. Individuals that are interested in more information about the process in the Village of Jackson, or interested in a supply of newspaper for bedding can contact the village at 677-9001.

Newspaper is an effective bedding material. It has been used by many farmers in the area and throughout the state. Users report that it takes less pounds of newspaper than straw to provide adequate bedding for livestock. Farmers also report that newspaper is easy to use and adapt to their livestock production system. They also reported it does not cause a litter problem and was easy to spread on fields.

Preliminary research conducted in Jefferson County also found that newspaper bedding contained lower numbers of bacteria that may cause mastitis than other sources of bedding materials.

Research has also found no environmental problems from spreading newspaper on farm fields. The ink or other residues do not contaminate the soil, the material breaks down rapidly adding organic matter to the soil. When handled properly it does not blow around and cause littering problems.

Research and demonstration projects using newspaper for bedding have been conducted in many counties by farmers and University of Wisconsin Extension. Farmers or units of government that may wish to have more information about using newspaper for bedding should contact the Washington County University Extension Office.

Errors, Walks Help Indians Win Regional

By Statesman Sports Writer
KEWASKUM — As just about any good pitcher knows, walks usually come back to haunt you. Add a couple of untimely errors to the scenario, and it can be lethal.
 That is just what happened to Tim Olszewski and his Germantown teammates last Tuesday, as Kewaskum took advantage of Olszewski's wildness and three errors by his fielders to post a 3-2 victory over the Warhawks to win their WIAA Regional Final matchup. Olszewski and the Indians' Shawn Schneider hooked up in a good pitcher's dual in the contest, each allowing just five base hits to the opposition. But Schneider got the better of the matchup, striking out seven, as well as helping himself out at the plate. The junior right-hander had three of his team's hits.
 Germantown jumped out to an early lead as it came up with a single run in the bottom of the first. (Despite the game being played in Kewaskum, the Warhawks were the designated home squad). The Hawks leadoff batter, Tim Bauer singled to right and went to second on an error, eventually coming around to score on Jeff Kratz's single.

 The Indians answered immediately with a run in the top half of the second. An error allowed senior Dave Pauers to reach base, and after he had moved up, Schneider socked a ground rule double to score Pauers and tie the game.
 Olszewski lost his control in the fourth, allowing the Indians to grab the lead. After Pauers again reached on an error and moved to second on a sacrifice, Olszewski proceeded to nail Brad Weinreich and Todd Muckerheide with pitches to load the bases. Olszewski then walked Aaron Rettler to force in a run, but then got out of his jam by getting a strikeout and a ground out to end the inning.

 The Warhawks tied the game in the sixth, getting a pair of base hits in the inning, but any momentum that the Hawks had built was quickly turned back as Indian catcher Scott Donath threw out a runner attempting to steal third base. Schneider responded with a strikeout to end the inning.
 The Indians got the winning run across the plate in the top of the seventh, with all the action taking place after there were two out. Olszewski walked Jason Krahn and then gave up a single to Pauers, putting runners on first and second.
 Schneider then added to his hit total with another ground rule double, scoring Krahn and giving himself a one-run lead to take to the mound in the bottom of the seventh. He proceeded to strike out two batters in the inning, and then got a flyball out to end the game.

East Eliminates Indians in Sectional

By Statesman Sports Writer
PORT WASHINGTON — They made the most out of four errors by West Bend East, but the Kewaskum Indians were unable to back it up with any punch against Sun pitcher Brad Geldnich.
 Geldnich limited the Indians to just two hits in the game, but then had to sweat it out in the seventh, as the Suns almost threw the game away, before downing Kewaskum 3-2 in WIAA Sectional competition here, last Thursday. The loss ended the Indian season.
 Indian pitcher Chad Cook did his best to match Geldnich's performance. Cook, who missed most of the season with a shoulder injury, had a shutout going until the fifth inning, and wound up scattering seven hits while taking the loss.
 Cook got some help from his teammates in the early innings. In the fourth, the Suns had a runner on third with one out when a flyball was his to rightfielder Todd Muckerheide. The sophomore then made a perfect throw to the plate to nail the East runner attempting to tag on the play.
 East finally got to Cook in the fifth, as Greg Kohler opened the inning with a ground rule double. It looked as if the junior lefty might get out of the inning as the next two batters went down, but Geldnich helped himself out with a clutch single up the middle to score Kohler. Geldnich tried stretching it by attempting to go to second but was thrown out.
 The Suns added two more in the sixth. Bill Matenaer singled to score Lance Roell, who had singled one out earlier. Dan Hartwig then pinch ran for Matenaer, and came around to score on a double by Mike Luedtke.
 Geldnich, meanwhile was busy mowing down Indian batters, and had a no-hitter going until the fifth. Still, the Indians had not threatened and found themselves down 3-0 heading into the do-or-die seventh.
 Dave Pauers opened things with a single, and went to second on a wild pitch by Geldnich. Shawn Schneider then whiffed, but the next batter, Brad Weinreich, hit a ball to third that Kohler threw away, allowing Pauers to score and Weinreich to move to second.

 Muckerheide followed with a strikeout, but Kohler again booted a ball, this one hit by Aaron Rettler, allowing Weinreich to advance to third. Geldnich then tried to pickoff Rettler, but subsequently threw the ball into rightfield, allowing Weinreich to score, making it 3-2. But that's where the comeback ended, as Cook flew out to end the game.

 The loss gave the Indians a 15-11 mark on the year. East (16-9) went on to beat Cedarburg in the sectional final 5-4 in eight innings, thus earning a trip to the state tournament in Stevens Point. The Suns won the game when Kohler opened the bottom of the eighth with an inside-the-park home run.

Bow Hunters May Harvest Two Deer In Select Areas in 1991 Hunting Season

Units eligible for 2-deer bag limit with bow.

MADISON, WI — Wisconsin bow hunters will be able to harvest two deer in 61 Deer Management Units during the 1991 season because of high deer populations in those areas, according to Bill Ishmael, Department of Natural Resources deer, bear and furbearer ecologist.

The early statewide bow deer season opens on Saturday, September 21, 1991 and runs through Sunday, November 17, when it closes five days prior to the start of the gun deer season. The late bow deer season opens Saturday, December 7, and runs through the end of the year.

"Bow hunters who want to shoot two deer during the archery season must shoot and register their first deer in one of 61 designated Deer Management Units," Ishmael said. "The bow hunter will, at the time of registration of their first deer in one of the two-deer bag limit units, get an application form for the second tag at the registration station."

Bow hunters will then have to take the completed application form and validated portion of the carcass tag from their first deer to a specified DNR office to be issued a second bow deer tag. Ishmael said that a list of offices with the second-deer tags will be available in August. Hunters may also mail the completed application, along with the validated carcass tag from the first deer, to the DNR License Section at Madison.

If the first deer harvested from one of the 61 designated Deer Management Units is an antlered buck, the bow hunter would be eligible for a second tag good only for an antlerless deer and only in the Deer Management Unit where they shot their buck.

If the first deer harvested in one of the 61 designated Deer Management Units is antlerless, bow hunters would be eligible to shoot a second deer of either sex anywhere in the state.

"Either way, the first deer must be taken in one of the 61 management units if the hunter wants to be eligible for a second tag," Ishmael explained. "There may be a charge for the second tag, depending on the outcome of the 1991-93 biennial budget."

The bulk of the Deer Management Units eligible for the bow season two-deer bag limit are generally in the northern part of the state. The exceptions are three units along the western border in the Mississippi River area; four units in Richland, Sauk, Iowa, and Lafayette counties; two units in the extreme southeast corner of the state; and the Door County peninsula.

"All of the units included in the bow season two-deer bag limit are 20 percent or more over deer population management goals," Ishmael added. "We also anticipate that all gun deer season hunters who apply for these units will receive Hunter's Choice permits as well."

WISCONSIN FISHING:

What Makes a Fish Good to Eat?

MADISON, WI — Did you ever think about what makes a fish such a tasty meal?

Chances are your taste has been set by what kind of fish your parents caught and how they cooked them. A golden walleye fillet represents the top of the line for many people, but there are many thousands of other anglers who will flatly argue that a "yellow belly" bullhead is the finest tasting fish that swims!

Generally, firm flesh with a sweet, distinctive taste makes a quality fish — qualities that are often associated with cold water.

A winter-caught bluegill or northern pike is usually judged "better" than a softer-fleshed crappie from a warm, shallow lake in summer. But even bluegills may get a sort of "grassy" taste from summer algae blooms that the discriminating fish eater can recognize.

I believe the surroundings that fish come from also influence how we view them on the plate. Take a nine-inch brook trout, for example. The flesh is actually quite soft when fried or baked lightly, but that is deemed the best cooking technique for those species. Just the appearance of that beautiful spotted creature fried whole conjures up the clear, bubbly environment it lived in — and with a piece of parsley and a lemon slice next to it, it is special.

Some of our trout have white or tan flesh from exclusively fish diets, while others have the bright orange-pink meat characteristic of eating crustaceans such as insects and crayfish. That coloration comes from carotene, the same substance that gives a carrot or cooked lobster their orange color. Most other fish meat stays white no matter what they eat.

Does the colored trout taste better? Personally, I don't think so, but it sure looks good.

Although each kind of fish does have its own taste, how you cook it probably is more important. There are three tricks to fish cooking I try to follow:

First, eat them as fresh as possible. Why do you think shore lunches taste so great? Partly because the fish is only minutes out of the water.

Frozen fish are fine, but the longer they are frozen, the more they lose their taste. Oily fish like trout or smelt lose considerable quality in just a few months, while a perch fillet frozen in a block of ice may keep for a year.

Secondly, the threat of bones turns a lot of people off to eating Wisconsin fish. Learn how to fillet your catch so your kids can eagerly pop bluegill fillets into their mouths like potato chips. It's not difficult once someone shows you how.

The third secret is cooking. Really fresh fish like walleye, perch and bluegill can be rolled in flour and fried in butter. A bullhead or catfish must be fried much harder in oil and often spiced up with pepper and paprika.

A charcoal grate is an excellent way to cook a large salmon fillet or bake a northern pike in aluminum foil. Learning the correct approach can make the difference between a delicious meal and a disaster.

Good luck on your next fishing trip — and in the kitchen. For more information contact: Lee Keren — 608-267-0796.

Gonring, Athletics Outslug Slinger

A's Move Into Sole Possession of First

Athletics catcher Greg Rinn prepares to throw to first base in turning a pitcher-to-catcher-to-first double play, ending a Slinger threat in the third inning. Outfielder Mark Schlosser (10) looks on.

As Slinger right fielder Dave Geldnich (33) and shortstop Corey Held (17) look on in disgust, Kewaskum's Doug Gonring is met at home plate by his A's teammates after slugging the second of his three home runs in the Athletics' 7-4 victory.

By Statesman Sports Writer
KEWASKUM — If quality players are supposed to shine in big games, here wasn't any question about who was the best player on the field Sunday afternoon when Kewaskum and Slinger tangled in a battle for first place in the Rock River Northern Division.

Athletic player/manager Doug Gonring socked three home runs and drove in four runs as Kewaskum took over sole possession of first with a 7-4 win over a frustrated Slinger squad.

The A's got a shaky, yet winning effort from starter Tim Heberer, who got himself in and out of major jams all afternoon. In both the first and third innings Slinger had the bases loaded with one down, and both times a comebacker to the mound resulted in a 1-2-3 double play to get the lefty out of the inning.

Reliever Don Menzel avoided further trouble in the sixth, when a Slinger hitter doubled to right center with two outs, driving in a run, but then committed a cardinal sin of the game by getting thrown out trying to move to third on the play.

Gonring started his day off with a solo shot in the bottom of the first to put the A's up 1-0.

Slinger's Craig Sadowninski answered with a shot to left field in the top of the second to tie things at 1-1. The visitors proceeded to post two more tallies in the frame, as they took their first lead at 3-1.

Kewaskum came back with one in their half of the second, and then Gonring hit his second homer of the day in the third, as the A's retook the lead at 4-3.

Gonring then made it 3 for 3 as he and third baseman Terry Koth hit back-to-back shots in the fifth, giving the Athletics a 6-3 lead that they would never surrender.

The game got a bit on the ugly side in the later innings, as both the Slinger manager and leftfielder Dave Geldnich were ejected by the home plate umpire for arguing calls. The ejections couldn't downplay the fine effort by the A's, however, as they now improved to 10-2 in the Rock River, while Slinger fell to 9-3.
