Kemps Moving Out of Village

By Sharon Callaway Roznik

In an interview Tuesday morning Executive Vice President of Marigold Foods, Larry Gergens, announced the decision of their Board of Directors to move the Kemps-Marigold Kewaskum Plant to their newly acquired Cedarburg division

The announcement came from their Minneapolis, MN, corporate headquarters, and Gergens states, "it has been an extremely difficult decision for us." He commented on the cooperation the Kewaskum plant has always received from the community and village board. "We have never had a problem or complaint about the Kewaskum community," he stressed.

The decision reached by the Board was influenced by the August, 1993 purchase of Cedarburg Dairy, and the need to consolidate for financial reasons.

"Marigold Foods undertook a five month long term study, "Larry explains," to extensively weigh the options." Only three alternatives were available: 1) Keep both plants running; 2) consolidate the Cedarburg Dairy into Kemps, Kewaskum or 3) close down operations in Kewaskum and consolidate in Cedarburg.

There were some big issues that played into the final choice of locations, Gergens points out. "It's fairly obvious we are land-locked in Kewaskum. We've purchased a lot of land, but its very congested." Also, the majority of milk from both plants is shipped and sold in the Milwaukee and Chicago markets.

Once known as the Kewaskum Creamery, its history is highlighted in the book, "Kewaskum Then and Now" by the late Mark Smucker. An excerpt from the book reads:

"The KEWASKUM CREAMERY was started in 1903 by Moritz and Adolph

Glacier Inn to Become A Fond Memory

William and Nancy Kulas

By Sharon Callaway Roznik

After eighteen years as owners of the Glacier Inn Supper Club in Kewaskum, William and Nancy Kulas are closing the doors after Sat., June 25th.

The historic building, located on the corner of Fond du Lac Avenue and Main Streets is up for sale, with several prospects in the making. There is a chance it may remain a supper club, but Bill states, "if the building isn't sold by mid-July, it will be renovated into rental spaces."

Originally named the Republican House, the 129 year old structure qualifies for the Wisconsin Historical Society Preservation Program. "We've considered remodeling the inside into a turn of the century motif...tin ceilings and chandeliers would work well, as well as restoring the original mosaic tile floor that was hand-laid by Edward E. Miller of Miller's Furniture," comments Bill.

They purchased the Glacier Inn on Jan. 3rd, 1977 from Marge and Willard Lynn. Kulas was a state trooper at the time. "I went from law enforcement to serving drinks," Bill laughs.

Their decision to leave the restaurant business is by no means a retirement. Bill holds a Bachelors and Masters degree in Business Administration. He is employed with a company based in Minneapolis, MN, and also teaches Marketing part-time at Moraine Park in West Bend. Nancy works full-time for Washington County.

The couple plans to remain in town and build a home. "All our friends and everyone we know are in Kewaskum," they explain.

Their family includes two sons; Scott is finishing his masters degree in computer science in La Crosse, and Craig is a junior at UW-Milwaukee.

"We want to thank the community for their friendship and support throughout the years, and invite them to stop by to say goodbye." The last evening of serving will be this Saturday.

New Fire Truck Arrives!

Kewaskum Fire Chief Mark Groeschel and Assistant Chief Mark Herriges were on hand Tuesday morning, June 21 to accept the keys to the new equipment truck purchased from Emergency Vehicle Apparatus Company. The truck was constructed by Excellence, Inc. of Madison, Alabama and the chassis was purchased from Cooleys in West Bend.

Town of Wayne Board's Options Are Limited; Permit is Approved

By Louise Martin

Residents in the Town of Wayne have been very vocal over the past months voicing their objections and concerns to having an adult oriented store in their township. Opposition will not be enough, however, to prevent the store from becoming a reality.

At their town board meeting on Wednesday, June 15, acting on the recommendation of the Plan Commission, board members voted unanimously to issue a conditional use permit to Special Souvenirs, Inc. The store will sell adult oriented books, tapes, magazines and novelty gift items. Viewing booths will also be a part of the store.

The permit was issued with several conditions attached. Failure to comply or violation of the permit could force the store to close. The conditions include among others providing a list of items to be sold, no sale of smoking materials, no expansion of the building, background checks on all employees, a training program for employees and steps be taken to prevent minors from viewing adult oriented items through store windows.

At the request of town resident and Washington County Sheriff Robert Schulteis, the store will be required to retain store surveillance tapes for 60 days in the event they would be needed in a criminal investigation.

Village Board Addresses Kemps Move

By Lana Harbeck Kuehl

What appeared to be a rather mundane village board meeting ended on a somewhat positive, hopeful note as Village Board President Robert Wagner addressed the issue of Kemps Dairy leaving the Kewaskum business community as the last item on his agenda at Monday evening's Village Board meeting.

Official proceedings opened with Assistant Fire Chief Mark Herriges giving his monthly report and updating the board on the new fire truck which is enroute to Kewaskum. Herriges stated, "it was supposed to be here today. They had a few minor problems. Hopefully it will be here tomorrow. I guess we'll know more after tomorrow."

Trustee Robert Beisbier asked what kind of problems they had and Herriges replied, "They had a problem with one of the belts. They came up through Springfield, Illinois. They had it there for a one or two day show and they were going to leave yesterday morning and I guess they did have problems with these belts turning over and the salesman tried fixing it himself. Once a belt turns over they usually don't stay on. It came off again yesterday morning so he couldn't find another belt to replace it." Herriges stated the belt was "probably for the alternator."

Chief of Police Richard Knoebel followed with his monthly report. Trustee Robert Beisbier asked Chief Knoebel about the high-speed chase that traveled through the village on Saturday night and inquired if it was the policy of the Kewaskum PD "not to get involved in the chase."

Knoebel added, "It is department policy that if there is a chase going through town and there is somebody else following, you find a place in town to get a good view of the vehicle going through, direct traffic if you have to, but we will not get involved in a fox chase where there's twenty cars following one person."

Beisbier further inquired, "Do you still have good communication with Fond du Lac and Washington County?"

Knoebel replied, "Yes we do. We have radio communication with both. We've got Fond du Lac frequencies in our radios, as well as Washington County. What happens if you get a bunch of cars, all of a sudden you get an accident involved. The original department is the one that chases. I do not believe in getting involved with other department's chases. It is my policy and most department's run that way."

Beisbier asked if the motorcycle went through Kewaskum at the reported high rate of speed and Knoebel added, "Could have been, I believe Fond du Lac called the chase off right after he went through town here."

Mark Herriges added, "We were just pulling out with the ambulance when the cycle came through and I would say he was going probably in excess of 90 to 100 miles per hour."

Beisbier said, "Somebody asked me, so I thought I'd ask."

Chief Knoebel further stated, "You don't want to get involved in a chase. Once the chase starts, everything that happens after that becomes involved in the original chase. Everybody doesn't write a citation. Years ago they used to say you wrote a ticket for every stoplight and everything else. It doesn't happen that way. You get a bunch of cars chasing it and you're going to get a bad accident."

Director of Public Works Jerry Gilles followed with his report, and discussed changes at the wastewater treatment plant and the sale of pumps no longer needed.

When asked how the village's water supply is holding out, Gilles replied, "The water is holding out alright with the dry weather. The computer which we have scheduled to replace gave us quite a bit of grief over the weekend. It seems like it's allergic to rainfall. It's kind of typical within a bad lightning storm that we will have to reset that, but we haven't had that much lightning and thunder and we've had to come in at night and reset the computer and this morning it stopped functioning and it did not turn in an alarm. Normally when it stops it goes to a fail and the fail gives us an alarm. This morning... it just stopped working and did not give us an alarm."

In the absence of Village Administrator Daniel Schmidt, Janet Knopps gave his report and reviewed the operator's license renewals.

The only committee report given was that of the Parks and Recreation Committee by Chairman Charles Waala, who met with his committee, prior to the regular village board meeting at Kiwanis Park. Waala brought up the fact two more benches had been vandalized recently, and there was discussion on the ball diamonds.

Waala stated Administrator Schmidt had been in contact with Dr. David Heather of the Kewaskum School District in regards to the four ball diamonds within the school district and Heather said the district's ball diamonds were available for public use.

Under unfinished business, Director of Public Works Jerry Gilles discussed the Capital Improvements projects on Knights Avenue and Wildlife Drive and reported that he had a pre-construction meeting with Sommers Construction.

Gilles stated Sommers will begin construction on Wildlife Drive sometime after July 4th with a substantial completion date by Labor Day.

New business included the review and authorization to sign the Final Subdivision Plat for Sunset Estates I. Village Engineer Ken Ward reported the change from the original plat is the addition of Gavin Parkway, a loop street that will go all the way around through Phase II. According to Ward, "Because of the Wetlands that are bordering more or less along Edgewood Road and to the south of lots one through five, Gary Gavin had an option to either put the road through at this time, or go through about a two-year DNR process to run the road straight through to North Avenue. Gary elected to put the loop street in. Therefore you see the entrance in Phase I and in Phase II it will move all the way around and meet up with Braatz Drive instead." The Board voted unanimously on the approval.

Prior to adjournment, President Wagner addressed the meeting. "As we all know, Kemps Dairy is going to be leaving town. I imagine it's quite common knowledge by now. It's a real disappointment... I think we had a real good working relationship with the dairy and I have talked with Larry Gergens, the executive vice president, and he expressed the same feelings. They did it for what I would consider real sound business reasons. You can't hardly argue with them. If I was in his shoes I probably would have done the same thing also. It's not due to any problems between the Village and Kemps Dairy whatsoever. None of the rumors that you hear that we were going to try to get them to pay for half of the sewer treatment plant and so forth, none of that's true. And again, they plan to be here for the next twelve months from what he told me. They are offering about 80% of their employees jobs in Cedarburg. He also did mention to me... that ten drivers will work out of Kewaskum. At this time, they plan to sell the building the way it sounds... I really don't know right now. The way he mentioned they can't really expand and so forth, for they are landlocked. The trustees who have been on the board for awhile, know that we have tried to work with them. The street was part

Jennifer Schmidt Attends Hugh O'Brian Seminar

Jennifer Schmidt

Jennifer Schmidt, daughter of Dean and Laurie Schmidt of Kewaskum, was chosen as the 1994 Hugh O'Brian Ambassador for Kewaskum High School.

Each year, one sophomore from high schools around the state are recognized for their leadership abilities at a three-day seminar led by volunteers from the HOBY alumni. This year, Schmidt attended the southern seminar held at Carroll College in Waukesha, June 10-12.

Speakers at the seminar included Jerry Taff, who spoke about the importance of controlling one's own mind, and having a positive attitude.

Jennifer visited various corporations, including G.E. Medical Systems, J.C. Penney Catalog Distribution and the Coca-Cola Bottling Company. They also had some volunteer tours at Second Harvesters Food Pantry, Brookfield Park and Recreation Department and various nursing homes. Everyone working at the leadership seminar does so on a volunteer basis.

The Kewaskum Kiwanis sponsored Ms. Schmidt's weekend. To learn more about HOBY, you may contact Jennifer at 626-4883 after 6 p.m.

First Steak Fry a 'Grilling' Success!

Kewaskum's First Annual Steak Fry was a smashing success last Monday in spite of the fact Mom Nature decided to turn off the outside air conditioning. You didn't have to be grilling steaks to feel the heat of the kitchen.

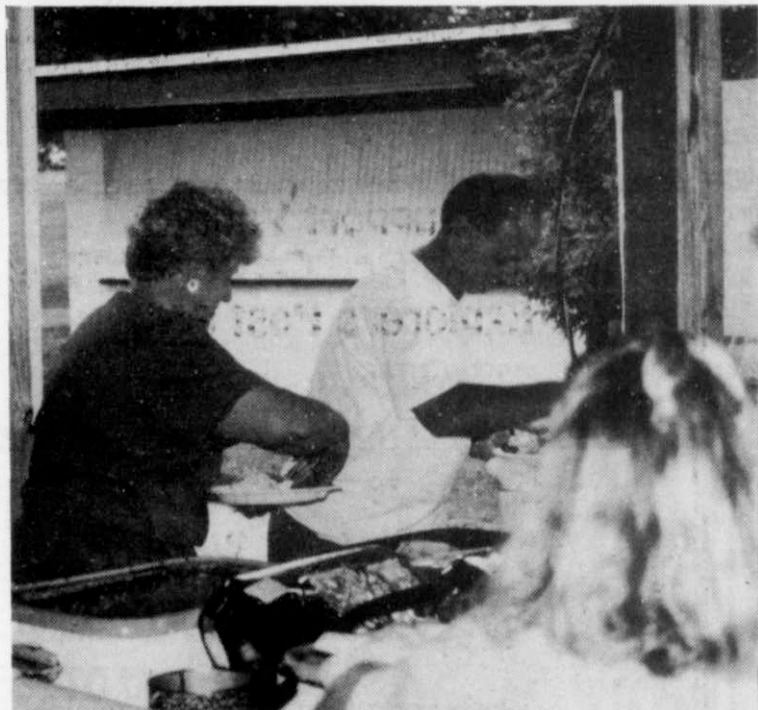

Nevertheless, the joint effort of the Kewaskum Lions and Kiwanis was favorably accepted by hungry Kewaskumites. And the beauty is, the entire community will benefit as all proceeds from the event will be donated to the Kewaskum Riverwalk Project.

Just under 300 steaks were grilled and members of both organizations were quite pleased with the outcome of their first joint effort and plan to make this an annual event. It is hoped next year's steak fry can be held in conjunction with Kewaskum's Centennial Celebration in June.

Marvin Martin, the oldest active member of the Kewaskum Kiwanis accepted the tickets for the first annual steak fry.

Steak fry patrons going through the food line helped themselves to baked potatoes, cole slaw, Texas toast, baked beans, grilled-just-the-way-you-like it tenderloin steak and then topped it off with a piece of ice cream cake roll for dessert.

The Kewaskum High School Jazz Band provided the dinner music at the steak fry.

Rosenheimer. A Mr. Limbeck of Denmark was the first butter-maker and he introduced the process of butter churning to the village. A total of five wagons were on the road each day buying milk from area farmers up until the creamery was sold to S. C. Wollensak and H. J. Grell of Johnsons Creek in 1904.

The building was damaged by fire on July 18, 1911 but was soon repaired and fire proofed. Mr. Wollensak became the sole owner of the business in August, 1916 when he bought out Mr. Grell, and operated it successfully until April, 1923 when he, in turn, sold it to Wm. B. Wells of Chicago.

Mr. Wells died in June, 1931 and the creamery was incorporated in March, 1933 by Arthur Barlass of Chicago, who died in September, 1936. Shortly afterward, the name was changed to The Kewaskum Creamery Company, with Henry Quade as president and general manager. After his death in 1940, the business was managed by members of his family until April 1951 when it was sold to Heinemann Creameries, Inc.

Marigold purchased the business in 1980 from Fairmont Foods.

Kemps will continue to run at full-scale until the transition takes place, which they predict will be in approximately ten to fourteen months, "at least by this time next year," Gergens confirms.

The Kewaskum plant employs 65 people, and its estimated Cedarburg expansion could possibly employ 50-55 more personnel.

Marigold is offering their Kewaskum employes positions at the Cedarburg Dairy, as well as other incentives such as a severance plan for those employees who choose not to commute to the new location.

The Vice President stressed again, "We have not had any bad relationships in our 24 years of business and this decision was in the best interest of Marigold."

There are three things I always forget. Names, faces, the third I can't remember.

Wayne School Honors Retiree Tom Larsen

On May 20th the Wayne

Elementary school PTO sponsored a retirement party at their school for Tom Larsen.

The dinner was a potluck for all the Wayne families. The program consisted, of a joke telling time by the students, a teacher's skit, presentation of gifts to Mr. Larsen and a speech by Mr. Larsen.

The students and teachers made banners to decorate the gym.

Some of the gifts presented were a golf t-shirt, golf coupon books, golf balls and hand-made joke books from the students. A fun time was had by all!

The PTO would like to thank the parents for their support this past school year. We all wish Mr. Larsen a happy retirement.

residents approve of the adult establishment or not, their options were limited. Failure to issue the permit could have resulted in a law suit against the township sighting violation of freedom of speech rights. A lengthy court battle and possibly a ruling against the town could have resulted in costing the taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars. The whole legal process thus far has cost nearly $20,000.

Stan Riffle, the attorney representing the town in this matter, will draft the permit with the recommended conditions included, and present it for review to the board and Special Souvenirs possibly by their July 20 board meeting.

In other business, the board voted to accept the application of Gordon Hoffman as the new zoning administrator and to increase the zoning fee, which has not been adjusted since 1986, to a set amount of $150.

A discussion was held on traffic concerns on Midland Drive which has developed into quite a thoroughfare with road construction on Highway 41. Board member Mark Strobel has received calls regarding speeding traffic on Midland. Sheriff Schulteis explained state law prohibits reducing the speed limit, but possibly increased patrols on the road would help.

Douglas Prunty, a town resident who is losing access to his property from the Highway 41 construction, has been contacted by the Department of Transportation representative at the request of Mary Panzer's office to work out an alternative access. The new access would be to Skyline Drive. The board recommended a meeting be arranged by all residents affected by the construction, board members and the DOT representative.

of the problem there also. He had also reasons that he really didn't want to go into detail about... They also have room for expansion at Cedarburg and can consolidate their operations. It's too bad to see it happening, but there really wasn't much we could do to stop it from happening. It proba'ly will hurt tax revenues."

Former Trustee Gary Gavin added, "It's not the property tax that is the concern, it's the $250,000 in sewer and water."

Trustee Bob Beisbier commented that "it will make a difference in the future of our plant, which we will not have to do anything for quite awhile... we've got volume now to no end, for years to come."

Wagner concluded with, "We'll have to wait and see, hopefully things will work out."

Ms. Frizzle and the Magic School Bus Hit the Road for Neighborhood Libraries

Ms. Frizzle hands out McDonalds cookies to Kewaskum participants

The community room was packed with children enjoying four books from the Magic School Bus series read aloud by Ms. Frizzle.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. -- The Magic School Bus has hit the road and is visiting 80 libraries in virtually every community in southeastern Wisconsin for lively and educational storytelling programs, including a visit to the Kewaskum Library on June 20th

Sponsored by McDonald's Restaurants of Southeastern Wisconsin, the storytelling program is based on the popular and award-winning children's science book series called, "The Magic School Bus," published by Scholastic, Inc.

True to the main character in the book series, the eccentric teacher, Ms. Frizzle, entertained and educated children in Kewaskum with a 30-minute program of humorous, interactive and educational readings. Ms. Frizzle, portrayed by an actress with experience in children's theater and education, arrived at the library in a wildly painted replica of the Magic School Bus, donated by the Boucher group.

Developed in part by the Milwaukee Public Library, the program aims to get children excited about reading during their summer vacations.

"Because it is one of the most popular book series among elementary school-aged children, the Magic School Bus is sure to encourage young people to visit their neighborhood libraries this summer," said Jan Botham, children's services coordinator for the Milwaukee Public Library, who selected the books for the storytelling program. "It is our hope that the children who take part in the program will be reminded that a trip to the library can be an adventure, just like the ones described in the Magic School Bus books."

The Kewaskum library will receive a set of Magic School Bus books, compliments of McDonald's Restaurants, and children who attended the programs were treated to McDonald's cookies.

Nationally, McDonald's

Restaurants is sponsoring the animated version of the Magic School Bus books for television, airing on PBS in the fall.

McDonald's Restaurant is the world's largest restaurant operation. There are 96 corporate and locally owned McDonald's Restaurants in southeastern Wisconsin.

Readers of the Week

Kewaskum Public Library's Readers of the Week for week one are (L to R) Brett Koefler and Leah Sabel.

From the Pages of Menagerie

Throughout the summer, we will be running excerpts from Kewaskum High school's literary all-conference publication "Menagerie," featuring the writings of our students.

TUMBLE DRY

I told you it was delicate, but you let it flop and turn and spill. It could have shrunk, or frayed, or gotten so hot it may have melted. You didn't care. You just let it go, mixing it with your colors and regulars and even heavy duties. You sucked every last molecule of life-giving moisture out of it. Then handed it back to me, dry and damaged. Now that I have it back, I know it's changed. It doesn't fit right anymore. I noticed a stain that didn't wash out. It was new, pure, before you had your way with it. You can be sure I'll never lend it out again.

Van Beek - Koerner

St. Mary's Catholic Church, West Bend, was the setting for the April 23 marriage uniting Yvonne Van Beek and Tom Koerner.

Parents of the couple are John and Dolores Van Beek of West Bend and Harold and Betty Koerner of rural Cato.

The matron of honor was Annette Sonn, the bride's sister. Bridesmaids included Kim DuVall, sister of the groom, and Mary Van Beek, sister of the bride.

The flower girl was Melissa Jansen, godchild of the bride.

A Rose Is A Rose

By A.Mi

June and the Wisconsin rose by the side of the road is a gift of nature many of us nature lovers long for during those cold, drafty days of winter. There is something delicate, lifting, about this pink beauty. It is both hearty and dainty...ever a reminder of the Lord's ability to bring blossoms from the heart of the earth without the touch or labor of mankind.

Just as the months of April and May provided us with a fantastic array of wild flowers across wood and vale, June sets forth its favorites. The wood anemone which some of us call the "moon flower" probably is one of June's loveliest. However, the pink to blue forget-me-not; the wild geranium, and a multitude of others including the moth mullein all bring to light the inspiration that only Mother Nature can provide. We really are blessed!

And then, is it not true...life without the gift of the wild flower surely would be but a lackluster existence for many of us? No matter the problems nor the depressing news of the day,

Chris Trina, friend of the couple, was the best man. Bob DuVall, brother-in-law of the groom and Peter Sonn, brother-in-law of the bride, were groomsmen.

Ushering duties were shared by Tim Riley and Mary Moll.

The bride is employed as a legal secretary at O'Meara, Eckert, Pourros & Gonring in West Bend. The groom is employed at M&I Data Services, Inc. in Milwaukee.

The couple honeymooned in Hawaii. They reside in Menomonee Falls.

when one spies the lily of the field, the rose of the roadside, the pure white unfolding of the anemone petals, it is then that our hearts are lifted with a hope serene and solid. If these beauties can appear seemingly from nowhere...then I, too, can face life with both verve and faith with the knowledge that their caretaker will also make it possible for me to bloom, to brighten, to bring something fine to not only myself, but to those about me.

Yes, "a rose is a rose".. its "just being there" speaks louder to me than many a spoken word or written lecture. There is much more to life than ups and downs. Mother Nature sees to that!

Wunsch Recognized At Badger Boys State

The 53rd session of Badger Boys State was celebrated June 11-18, as 915 Wisconsin High School Junior boys participated in the annual workshop in citizenship. The boys participated in city, county and state elections in a hands-on experience in democracy.

Badger Boys State was organized by members of the American Legion in response to the German-American Bund Camps and Communist Party Pioneer Youth Camps held around Wisconsin during the 1930's. The first Badger Boys State was held at St. John's Military Academy in Delafield. Two years later the program moved to the Ripon College Campus due to the lack of adequate space at the academy. The program was suspended for two years due to the demands of World War II and reopened in 1946.

In addition to the program in citizenship, citizens participate in special schools of instruction in law, environmental ecology, parliamentary procedure, leadership and sessions for peace officers. A full program of athletics, a newspaper, band and chorus round out the activities.

The highlight of the week was the Inaugural Program on Thursday, June 16, when Governor Tommy Thompson addressed the citizens. Newly elected Badger Boys State Officials were given the oath of office by John P. Wilcox, Justice of the Wisconsin State Supreme Court.

The Badger Boys State Citizens have been selected by their respective high schools and are sponsored by the various American Legion Posts and other service organizations. At the conclusion of the program this year, over 47,000 boys had participated in the Badger Boys State experience.

Christian Wunsch, 16th Co., USNA, Annapolis, MD, was recognized for two years of service as a city counselor at Badger Boys State. Wunsch, formerly of Kewaskum, attends the U.S. Naval Academy. At Badger Boys State he was in charge of the BBS Color Guard.

Friends of Abused Families Receives $50,000 Transitional Housing Grant

Ann Stoffel, Executive Director of Friends of Abused Families, Inc. is pleased to announce that Friends has been granted monies for a transitional housing program to begin July 1, 1994 through June 30, 1996 in the amount of $50,000.

A program coordinator will be hired in July to work with battered women and children who have received services at Friends. The coordinator will establish a support network to become self-sufficient by assisting women in securing affordable housing, work on setting goals and objectives, work with employment programs and agencies, look at education resources for career choice and provide information on Parenting on Own.

The coordinator will also be responsible for the management of a transitional house which will become the property of Friends of Abused Families in the next several months. Once the house has been renovated, a woman and her children can live there for up to 18 months. Rent would be adjusted according to the HUD income guidelines.

Women who receive ongoing support through the continuum of care approach to become self-sufficient have a better chance of succeeding.

This program will provide the follow-up care needed once a resident leaves the shelter program.

If anyone is interested in donating monies to help renovate the home, you may mail a check to the First National Bank of Hartford, 116 W. Sumner Street, Hartford, Wis. 53027-0106 c/o Friends of Abused Families, Attention James Vogelsang. Designate the monies for transitional housing.

Engine Technology Program Unique

When someone says engine technology, what do you think of? Building engines on an assembly line? Repairing a lawnmower or boat motor?

If you do, you're not alone, said Jim Berger, Moraine Park Technical College's engine technology instructor. "A lot of people put engine technology in the category of small engine repair and it really isn't," he explained. "We're not talking about building engines like you do on an assembly line," said Berger. "This is an industry-oriented, design development program. Most of our graduates are working on the engines that might be produced two or three years from now," he explained. "We're talking about building a one-of-a-kind engine, and yes, our students do a lot of that type of thing."

Berger has been teaching engine technology at Moraine Park's Fond du Lac campus for the past 28 years, arriving on campus one year after the program began. The idea for the program came from the suggestion of Tecumseh Products Company, Inc., New Holstein, which was having difficulty finding trained engine technicians. "Tecumseh was a big supporter of the program and we had a real nice co-op effort with them," said Berger, who worked with Tecumseh to develop curriculum for the program. Berger said Moraine Park has been providing Tecumseh, as well as other area small engine manufacturers, with trained engine technicians ever since.

Moraine Park's engine technology program is unique in that it is one of only two in the United States -- the other is at Cal PlyTech in California. Graduates leave the program set to work at major engine manufacturers in a variety of areas including research and development, quality testing and testing related to new design and development. They are also prepared to go into the service area -- but from the standpoint of service school trainers or service warranty people working for a manufacturer, said Berger. "If you're going to sell engines you've got to have training procedures out there to train the mechanics who repair them in the field," said Berger. "Our graduates can do that."

Berger said the engine technology field attracts men and women who have good math, science and computer skills. "You definitely have to be computer literate to do well in the program," said Berger. "You've also got to have an inquisitive mind and mechanical aptitude. It all helps."

To provide students with an educational experience that's most relevant to the work place, testing for small engine manufacturers is done right in the classroom, said Berger. "We do quite a few co-op projects with industry where we do the testing here," he said. "The company provides the engine and the test procedures, and we gather the information and write the reports. It's my way of getting something that continues to be relevant."

Relevance is important in a field that continually changes. Berger said instrumentation and the methods used to obtain data on specific engines is probably the biggest change he's seen in his 28 years of teaching. "We used to gather information manually," he said. "Today we take ten times that quantity of information and we have to gather it in tenths of seconds because they (manufacturers) want that much more information and that many more closely spaced sets of data."

Another change currently underway which will have a big effect on all small engine manufacturers is the new federal laws for exhaust emission standards, which have to be met by 1998. Berger said his program is preparing for these changes. "We're currently in the process of getting some new (emissions testing) equipment, and next spring we'll be replacing our fluid power and pneumatics course with an emission testing course."

The changes in emission laws will also strengthen the already strong engine technician job market, said Berger. "The job market is excellent right now," he said. "It's the best it's probably been in 28 years." Berger currently receives more notices of job openings than he has graduates to fill them. This also holds true for his first year students, he said, who typically try to find summer employment pertaining to the engine technology field. "All of this year's first-year students are working in program-related summer jobs and I'm still receiving requests."

If you would like more information about Moraine Park's Engine Technology program call Ron Meloney, Dean - Trade and Technical Division, (414) 924-3161 or Reg Langille, Counselor, (414) 924-3199.

Fishing on Crooked Lake this year is exceptionally good, with a large amount of Pickerel and other small fish being caught there daily. Ed Stahl of Beechwood, was one of the lucky fishermen, being successful in catching fifty pounds of pickerel in one and one-half hours one day last week, while fishing on said lake. The largest one weighing seven and one-half pounds while the rest averaged between one and one-half to three pounds each.

Fourth of July this year in the village will not pass by as quietly as one at first thought. Mrs. Catherine Eberle has made arrangements to hold a picnic at the North Side Park during the afternoon. Concert music will be furnished by the Gibson Harp Orchestra of Appleton. Games and amusements of all kinds will be on hand and there will be plenty of fun and amusements for both young and old. Refreshments of all kinds will be served. In the evening a grand dance will be held with music being furnished by the Gibson Harp Orchestra. On Saturday evening, July 5, Adolph Backhaus will give a dance in the South Side Park hall. Music will be furnished by the Gibson Harp Orchestra. Mr. Backhaus is doing his utmost to make this dance the most enjoyable event of the season, and extends a cordial invitation to all to attend.

Sunday, June 22, marks the initial day for the horse races at the fair grounds at West Bend. The horses in the contest are owned by citizens of Washington County. The new sport ought to prove of great interest to all those who are interested in races.

of Mr. and Mrs. John Schlosser of New Fane, became the bride of Mr. Arnold Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Harris of Chicago.

Public Health Experts Warn Of Mosquito-Spread Illness

MADISON... Don't forget the mosquito repellent when camping, hiking and participating in other outdoor activities this summer, public health experts caution.

"Mosquito bites and Wisconsin summers go hand in hand, but in rare cases, these bites can be dangerous instead of simply annoying," says Peter Shult, Ph.D., chief virologist at the Wisconsin State Laboratory of Hygiene (WSLH).

"Last summer's floods increase the possibility of uncommon mosquito-transmitted encephalitis diseases, such as Western equine, Eastern equine and St. Louis, which typically do not occur in Wisconsin," says Shult. "These types of encephalitis can occur in all age groups," he adds.

The La Crosse strain of California encephalitis is responsible for most cases of mosquito-transmitted encephalitis in Wisconsin, mainly affecting those who live in or visit western and southern parts of the state. Most cases of infection occur between June and November in children between one and 15 years of age, according to Shult.

Last year the Wisconsin Division of Health (DOH) reported 17 cases of La Crosse encephalitis, although the number of mild unreported cases may be much greater.

Symptoms of this type of viral encephalitis include brief fever, chills, headache, vomiting, drowsiness and a change in mental activity. Symptoms of more severe infections include swelling of the membranes around the brain and spine, tremors, convulsions and coma. Fewer than one percent of infected patients die from the disease, although long-term effects, including speech impairment, short attention span and seizures, may occur in up to 15 percent of infected patients. While no specific treatment exists for the disease, medications can help control some symptoms.

The tree-hole mosquito, or Aedes triseriatus, one of about 50 mosquito species in the state, transmits the infection to humans. Cases occur primarily in rural and suburban locations where the mosquito finds suitable breeding sites in tree holes, old tires, bottles, cans and any other refuse that collects standing water. Adult mosquitoes rest in shaded areas during the day, with most activity during early morning and late afternoon.

To protect children from this illness, the Wisconsin Division of Health offers the following guidelines:

- * Fill in base tree holes temporarily with sand or coarse soil.
- * Cover old tires so water can't collect in them.
- * Don't leave empty cans and bottles lying around.
- * Have children use mosquito repellent and wear clothing that covers arms and legs, especially during the mosquito's peak biting periods.
- * Get medical attention immediately if your child develops symptoms of fever, severe headache, vomiting, drowsiness or convulsions.

Student Night At UWWC

Non-Traditional Student Night, an informal panel discussion and general information session will be held at University of Wisconsin - Washington County, Tuesday, June 28th at 7:00 p.m.

This informative gathering will be conducted by non-traditional students. A non-traditional student is defined as a person who has not attended school for four or more years. Joel Rodney, UWWC Dean said, "Approximately one third of the student body at UWWC is non-traditional students."

Topics of discussion will include financial aid, the advantages of attending a smaller institution, and the importance of a good education in today's changing job market.

Joel Kastner and Gay Griesbach, who have each completed two years at UWWC and are enrolled in Cardinal Stritch this fall, will participate in the discussion. Annette Gamache and Lynne Bannon, who will continue at UWWC in the fall, will also be available to answer questions.

Nancy Henderson, Director of student Services, said, "We have got some good, solid non-trads with varied backgrounds. They are ready to talk about their experiences and give encouragement."

Henderson will be available to assist with questions on financial aid, admissions and transfers.

Refreshments will be served. The meeting will be held in Room 259 and is free and open to the public. For further information call Student Services at 335-5201.

Wisconsin Eagles Helping Restore National Populations

HAYWARD -- Wisconsin's growing population of bald eagles has spread its wings to help restore populations of this majestic bird throughout its former range in the United States.

The Department of Natural Resources recently collected 15 young bald eagles and shipped them to Arkansas and Tennessee to help bald eagle recovery efforts in those states, said Lowell Tesky, a DNR wildlife technician at Hayward.

Nine eaglets from northwestern Wisconsin were flown to Arkansas and six eaglets from the north central part of the state were sent to Tennessee.

"We have been sending eaglets to other states every year since 1983 and Wisconsin's eagle population is still growing," said Randy Jurewicz, chief of nongame section in the DNR Bureau of Endangered Resources. Other states that have received Wisconsin eaglets are New York, North Carolina, Indiana and Ohio.

Tesky said the counties where the eagles are taken have some of the best reproduction rates in the state. Taking the birds from their Wisconsin nests, he adds, does not harm the state's eagle population.

"We only take one bird from a nest where at least two young exist in the nest already," he said, "and if there are three young in the nest, two will be taken." Research has shown that about half of the eagles born each year do not survive the first year of life.

Wisconsin has 500 nesting pair of eagles. Tesky credits public education about eagles, the banning of such chemicals as DDT, and the state's eagle restoration program as the reason for the success.

Before shipment, the 5-to-6 week old eagles were sent to the Raptor Rehabilitation Center in Minneapolis for a thorough health exam. The center fed and cared for them for a few days before putting them in special cages for the air trip south.

Tesky said it is important the birds get to their new home before they learn to fly.

"As they learn to fly and fend for themselves," he said, "their minds imprint on the environment of the area. In two to three years when they are sexually mature they will return and set up their own nesting territory."

Because eagle populations in other states are growing to the point where they no longer need imported eaglets, 1994 could be one of the last years for the eaglet gathering program, according to Jurewicz.

"The gathering program is expensive and other states pay Wisconsin for gathering the eagles," he said. There are additional costs associated with the transportation, nest site preparation, and care until the eagles can fend for themselves.

Once the eaglets are at the new nesting site, they will have little human contact to ensure the birds remain wild. Jurewicz said an attendant for each bird uses a special feeding box to drop food to the eaglets. The food consists mostly of fish.

EWSCA NEWS

(PLYMOUTH, WI) Two-time Modified track champion Donny Goeden of Kewaskum picked up his first 30 lap Modified feature victory of the season Saturday night in Eastern Wisconsin Racing action at the Sheboygan County Fairgrounds.

Milwaukee's Pete Ostrowski jumped to the front on lap 1 and held on to a comfortable lead until lap 10 when Goeden worked his way up from sixth starting spot to mount a challenge. Over the next 11 laps of the race, Goeden tried to pass Ostrowski by using the high and the low groove but he could not oust Ostrowski from the top spot. A red flag on lap 21 for a stalled car tightened the field and allowed Goeden to close up on Ostrowski's bumper for a nine lap dash to the finish.

Entering turn 2 of the final lap, Goeden made a move on the high side and drove by Ostrowski as the two powered down the backstretch. Goeden went on to take the win by five car lengths over Ostrowski. Randy Sippel of Elkhart Lake was third, Randy Tracy of Plymouth took fourth, and current Modified point leader K.J. Skelton of Cascade rounded out the top five.

John Gilson of Sheboygan Falls led wire to wire on his way to victory in the 20 lap Hobby Stock Feature. Gilson took command of the race on the first lap from his second row starting position and held off late challenges from Hobby Stock point leader Brian Gilles and Sheboygan's Jeff Leonhard.

Leonard followed Gilson to the line to take second, Gilles came in third, Chad Czuppa of West Bend finished fourth, and Kevin Ruh of Bensenville, Illinois claimed fifth.

People traveling in the rural areas may have noticed signs posted in fields reading "DANGER AREA TREATED WITH PESTICIDES - DO NOT ENTER." This may lead people to being concerned that farmers are using pesticides that are more hazardous than in previous years.

This is not the case. The signs are being placed as a result of recent regulations requiring the posting. The Environmental Protection Agency has recently required that pesticides now carry a reentry statement. This statement specifies a time after application that persons should not enter the treated area.

The Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade, and Consumer Protection requires that the area be posted if the label carries a reentry statement. Therefore, the requirement for more areas needing to be posted.

Signs must be posted at the edges of fields or outdoor areas that border within 100 feet of a public road or within 300 feet of sensitive areas such as homes, hospitals or clinics, schools, parks, or other public areas.

Signs must be posted every one-fourth mile along the treated border, and at normal entrances to be treated area.

The sign must say "Danger - Area Treated with Pesticides - Do Not Enter," or have similar words or symbols.

The area must be posted before or immediately after the pesticide application.

The signs must stay up until the restricted entry interval is over. Signs may remain up indefinitely, as long as they are readable.

Washington County and other areas of the state are experiencing increased numbers of rural non farm people that have concerns about the normal farming practices in their area. It is important for farmers and applicators to communicate to their neighbors about the products they are using.

These non farm residents hopefully will understand that the pesticides used today pose less risk than those used in the past and the posting is just to comply with changing laws.

These changes are also visible in the urban areas. Most commercial application of pesticides place signs on lawns and other treated areas.
