Village Board Votes to Raze Fond du Lac Avenue Property

By Lana Harbeck Kuehl

Following intense discussion Monday evening the Kewaskum Village Board voted unanimously to raze the Village's rental property located at 1102 Fond du Lac Avenue.

In regards to the property, Village Administrator Daniel Schmidt stated, "We tried to put some costs together from different contractors regarding the work... To start off with we did contact our attorney, the assessor, the building inspector, and insurance carrier, as well as a large number of contractors. We received very few estimates back. Our attorney indicated that the village should not be in the rental business as far as residence. Our assessor indicated that the value on it would be $57,700. He indicated that there was a lot of maintenance to be done on the property. The building inspector said the exterior of the house is good but the interior of the house is in need of a lot of work. He indicates the electrical portion may be a concern... also, we would have to install two jump stoops which we didn't have figured. The stairs, some railing is also needed for the basement stairs and the upstairs steps need to be enclosed."

Schmidt added, "The contractors in general, with the exception of one, basically all said they didn't think it was worth the investment to upgrade. The cost of upgrading it for the facial type things, that being the paint and carpet, came in roughly at $6,650. Capital type expenditures, that being the roof, rear roof and entrance, with reference to the siding, that came in at $15,300. The heating system came in at $5,000. If we upgraded both kitchens and bathrooms fully, that would be $8,000. Exterior doors would be $2,000, as well as the windows being replaced at $12,400.

Schmidt did indicate that some of the repairs could be put off for now, but basically the repairs needed immediately would cost from $23,100 to $29,750, without the cost of additional parking spaces needed.

Schmidt also stated, "The property was originally purchased in the mid-1970s for the location of the firehouse. The house was in relatively good repair and that's why we determined not to tear it down at that time, but rent it out and try to recoup some of the money. To date, we probably took in enough money to pay for the land as it was purchased to the tune of around $60,000. We also checked in reference to having the house razed. That cost would range from $3,300 to $7,300 depending on the disposal of the material.

Schmidt also indicated he had been in contact with the DNR regarding that and felt the cost would be more in the $3,300 to $4,300 range.

Trustee Robert Stoltzmann commented he had been contacted three separate times regarding the house by village residents with all three of those comments being negative. Stoltzmann said a local contractor informed him it would be a minimum of $60,000 to upgrade the property.

A member of the audience and former trustee, Gary Gavin stated, "None of this would have been brought up if you didn't over the last 20 years finally get one bad tenant that you had to have evicted." It was Gavin's con-

KEYS, Inc. to Award $30,200 In Scholarships in 1995

The Board of Directors of Kewaskum Youth Scholarships, Inc. has announced that ten scholarships totaling $30,200 will be awarded to this year's graduating Kewaskum High School seniors. The following is a listing of the amount and number of each kind of scholarship.

Two four-year college scholarships, each worth a total of $10,000 ($2,500 a year for four years) are being offered. One of these $10,000 scholarships is provided by the KEYS scholarship fund, and the other is provided by the Oscar C. and Augusta Schlegel Foundation. Two $2,000 KEYS College or Technical Scholarships ($1,000 per year for two years) will also be awarded. A $1,000 KEYS Technical Scholarship will be awarded for the second time this year as well. The Barbara York College Scholarship worth $1,200 will also be awarded for the second time this year.

Three memorial scholarships will also be awarded this year: The Ann-Marie Horner Memorial Scholarship will be presented for the sixth time, the Kilian A. Honeck Memorial Scholarship will be presented for the fourth time, and the Evelyn Joyce Gruber Memorial Scholarship will be presented for the third time. Each Memorial Scholarship is worth $1,000. The James and Sarah Andre Scholarship, also worth $1,000, will be awarded for the third time to

It doesn't seem possible, but yes, that time of year is ever so swiftly sneaking up on us again.

It's time for the Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce Annual Christmas Parade and all the frivolity that goes along with it.

That means the annual fundraiser to underwrite the cost of the parade is also underway.

The parade is scheduled for Sunday, December 4 at 5 p.m. but the fundraising begins now.

The Chamber of Commerce is in the process of again selling the red, green and white memorial lights that will be placed on the tree in front of Valley Bank this year.

The lights cost $10 each and your donation will be used to directly benefit the Christmas parade. For those of you who want to get a headstart on having your name placed on the boards, the coupon is located on page 5.

Lots more details on the lights and the parade will be published next week.

a student pursuing a nursing career.

The first scholarships awarded by KEYS, Inc. were worth $500 and were presented in the spring of 1986 and 1987. In 1988, $1,500 in scholarships were awarded, followed by $3,000 in scholarships in 1989. In 1990, the dollar amount jumped to $12,000 and then climbed to $16,000 in 1991.

Then, in 1992, the dollar amount awarded rose to $20,500; in 1993, $25,000; and then jumped to $30,200 in scholarships last year. With the $30,200 in scholarships to be awarded in the spring of 1995, the total amount will reach $139,400 awarded since 1986. The KEYS organization wishes to thank the alumni, businesses, organizations, and community members for their generous donations which make these scholarships possible.

KEYS officials hope that the community senses the pride that is involved in this accomplishment. Even with this kind of success, KEYS realizes that more funds must be raised to provide the interest for even more scholarship help. If KEYS is to continue to grow, donations are necessary from the whole community. Past and new donors are asked to please continue to contribute to KEYS.

If anyone is interested in making a contribution to KEYS, please do so by making out a check payable to KEYS, Inc. and sending your donation to KEYS, Inc., P.O.

Box 124, Kewaskum, WI 53040.

Remember that KEYS is the community's scholarship organization: Help take ownership by making a donation to and sensing the pride experienced in the KEYS scholarship organization.

Village Board

sensus that good income was realized from the building with a bare minimum of expenditure.

Gavin further stated, "There's no reason that if it was cleaned up... you might be talking $10,000, but you're looking at a building that should generate a $9,000 a year income. It's not hurting anybody, the building isn't that big an eyesore... If this village over the last 20 years would have been sticking a few thousand into the building, there's no reason to be sitting with the building right now."

Schmidt reiterated, "The intent was not to put money in it but to go ahead and try and recoup the money that was paid for it. And that was the intent of the board back in 1975, and I was on the board at the time as a trustee and that was the intent of the board. It came very, very close to being razed at that time."

Schmidt also added that there was no money in the budget for the amount of repairs that needed to be done.

He said, "If it was on a different lot that met zoning or if it was owned by an individual or a different business other than a unit of government, I would be the last one to recommend that it be torn down. I think it's an attractive building; the exterior is attractive... the interior needs ALOT of work. When you invest over 50% into something, the fact being is the village doesn't have the potential to gain. If we invest $25,000 we don't have the benefit to recapture that in ten years if we wanted to sell the property... because it isn't a saleable piece of property. It was purchased as land to build something on. We built a firehouse on it. It's a totally different scenario than if an individual owned it. We don't have the money to invest in it for one thing."

Trustee Stoltzmann added buildings have to have someone to care for them and maintain them. By the time that factor was figured in, that would even lessen any profits the village could realize.

The consensus of other board members was they hated to see the building torn down but it was too late to start investing vast amounts of tax dollars to bring it up to standards now.

President Wagner stated, "The Board kind of made up their minds many years ago when they decided not to maintain the house. It sounds as if past boards made the decision for us."

In other board matters, reports were given by Assistant Fire Chief Mark Herriges, Chief of Police Richard Knoebel, Director of Public Works Jerry Gilles and Village Administrator Dan Schmidt.

The Board voted unanimously to accept the revision of the Bylaws of the Kewaskum Fire Department. Assistant Fire Chief Herriges also added, "As our village is growing, our number of rescue calls is going up tremendously. Last year for the year we had right around 215 and that's about where we are already this year. And I think last year was the most calls we ever had in a given year."

Director of Public Works Jerry Gilles reported, "The manhole reconstruction project has been completed on Main Street and Highway 45."

Trustee Robert Stoltzmann said the question had been put to him, "What in the world are you doing?"

Gilles explained, "The project was that in looking at the top two, three and four feet of these manholes, which were brick in construction, due to the frost, the traffic and also in sewers of that nature, all the metal at the top of the manhole always deteriorates first. Your steps at the bottom will be good, the steps at the top will be deteriorated. When we looked at these manholes, the top areas were failing and the bricks were starting to chip off. Underneath the metal covers there were becoming gaps. So we felt that these were failure points that in two years, five years or a few years... we tried to identify all the failure points. And the reason we did that now, was that when we resurface that road we're attempting not to have to dig up that road next year or the year after."

Gilles further explained it is their intention now for this new roadway surface to have a twenty or thirty year life. Gilles said they also will be looking at problems in that line for next year's budget.

President Wagner asked Village Administrator Dan Schmidt, following his report, if the village's new storage facility was in operation now and he was told it would be probably about a month yet before it is up and running.

Library Board Representative Charles Waala and Head Librarian Nancy Bauer reported there is an upgrade on the proposed MOLLI automation system for the public library, called Athena, which is being looked into. The upgrade would cost no additional money, but it would not be available until January. It was also noted the Kewaskum Lions Club will be donating $1,000 toward the library automation system which will replace the card catalog.

Many various budget items were also reviewed with the Annual Budget Meeting being scheduled for Monday, November 28th.

Did you try and make an outgoing call on Monday and couldn't get thru? There was a reason! Phone service was disrupted for several hours Monday afternoon after the Washington County Highway Department was placing a snowmobile sign on Highway H, a half mile east of Highway 45, when crews struck a cable.

According to reports, the outage affected about 6,000 people in Campbellsport, Kewaskum, Eden, Lomira and Theresa. Callers were unable to call in or out of the area. Local calls were not affected.

The disruption happened around 2:30 p.m. and was restored by 5:15 p.m.

The Unbelievable
By A.Mi

The fun of friendship sometimes spills over into the "hard to believe" each others tales of experiences! That is exactly what happened to me this past week.

My favorite hiking companion called me to say that he had just had one of the most thrilling incidents occur of his lifetime. His wife had sent him to their ever-bearing raspberry patch to gather a pint of her favorite fruit. As he stepped out the door, a squall of premature snow floated from the heavens gilding the berry plants not with gold, with a whiteness, lace-like...framing the plump red berries with a beautiful wintry halo!

"Just think," he opined, "for the first time in my life I was given the magic of PICKING RASPBERRIES in the SNOW!"

I have thought a lot about his experience this fall. Really unusual. And yet, isn't this a little bit what nature is all about? Having the unexpected provided when one least expects it? How often while meandering across hill and dale one happens upon the most remarkable. Like the lovely doe minus her front left leg proudly showing off her triplet fawns. Or the time a three foot bull snake slithered from the creek-bank grasses into my canoe as I was paddling downstream. Indeed, Mother Nature seems to always have a special "something" if one but takes time out to go out into her domain.

But, I repeat, how spectacular for my friend to have had the opportunity to gather RASPBERRIES in the SNOW! It is experiences like that which helps one to really appreciate, really feel THANKFUL for living life, itself.

Chad Harlow Appearing In UW-Stevens Point Musical

Chad Harlow, 1015 Hillside Drive, Kewaskum, is a member of the ensemble in Stephen Sondheim's musical, "Assassins," directed by James Woodland of the theatre and dance faculty, which opens at 8 p.m., Friday, November 11, at the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point.

The production continues at the same time on November 12 and 15 through 19, and at 4 p.m., Sunday, November 13, in the Jenkins Theatre of the Fine Arts Center. Tickets are on sale at the Arts and Athletics Ticket Office, (715) 346-4100.

Woodland, who is assisted by Ian Pfister of Sheboygan, describes the musical as "brilliant but disturbing." Due to the subject matter, it has been called "imaginative, insightful, provocative and controversial." Its major characters are based on presidential assassins or attempted assassins, including John Wilkes Booth, Sara Jane Moore and Squeaky Fromme, John Hinckley Jr. and Lee Harvey Oswald.

"One of the interesting things about all these individuals was their motivation," Woodland says. "Each one believed he/she had just cause for killing or attempting to kill a president of the United States." The director describes the music as beautiful and exquisite, woven throughout with the underlying American motifs of folk songs, marches, gospel and folk themes.

Woodland says the preparation for UW-SP's staging of "Assassins" has been academically rewarding for the students because they have spent so many hours researching the historical characters they portray. A sophomore musical theatre major at UW-SP, Harlow has performed in "Weird Romance" and "After Image" at the university.

The son of Judy and Joe Harlow, Chad is a graduate of Kewaskum High School.

IN MEMORY

In memory of RUBEN OPPERMAN who passed away, Nov. 13, 1974:

We watched through all your suffering
And often had to cry
For we knew that very soon
We'd have to say good-bye
When days are sad and lonely
And everything goes wrong
We seem to hear you whisper
Cheer up and carry on.
Everytime we see your picture
You seem to smile and say
Don't cry. I'm in God's keeping
We'll all meet again some day.

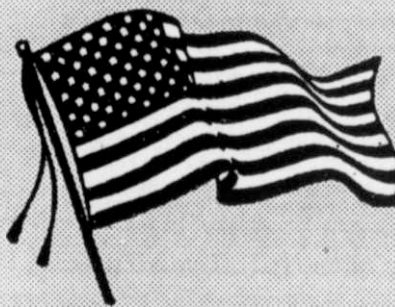

Deeply missed by his wife,
children and grandchildren.

IN MEMORY

In memory of MARTHA SCHILTZ, who passed away one year ago, November 12, 1993:

They say memories are golden, Well, maybe that is true, But we never wanted memories We only wanted you.

If we had one life time wish One dream that could come true, We'd pray to God so hard For yesterday and you.

If teardrops were a stairway And heartaches make a lane, We'd walk a path to Heaven And bring you back again.

A thousand times we needed you. A thousand times we cried. If your love could have saved you, You never would have died.

Sadly missed by her daughter and son-in-law, Dorothy and Lawrence Kutz.

IN MEMORY

There is many a lonely heartache, There is many a silent tear, God only knows how much we miss you At the end of this first year.

Sadly missed by his wife and children.

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of Ruth Schladweiler, who passed away November 10, 1992:

There's a road they call remembrance,
Where thoughts and wishes meet.
We have that road in thought today,
To one we cannot greet.

Though her smile is gone forever,
And her hand we cannot touch,
There are still so many memories,
Of one we loved so much.

Her memory is a keepsake,
With which we'll never part.
God has her in his keeping,
We have her in our heart.

Sadly missed by husband Al, and sister-in-law Otilia Mueller

Preparation is the Key To Safe, Successful Hunt

MADISON -- Advance planning will not only increase the chances hunters will have a successful hunt, it can help reduce the chances of accidents, injuries or other problems, according to Tim Lawhern, state hunter education coordinator for the Department of Natural Resources.

"When you walk into the field with a loaded firearm, you assume a lot of responsibility," Lawhern says. "With as many as 650,000 licensed deer hunters participating in the annual Wisconsin gun deer season, it is crucial that they follow proper safety practices."

Lawhern urges hunters to brush up on basic safety precautions prior to the hunt. The first step, he says, is to make sure firearms are in proper working order before taking them out in the field or firing range. Check the barrel for obstructions, make sure the gun's action and safety mechanism are working properly and give the firearm a good cleaning. Next double-check that you have the right ammunition.

"Take the time to get out and become familiar with or acquaint yourself with the firearm you will be using," he says. "Sight in your firearm so you know you can make a good, clean shot. A trip to the target range to check the gun's accuracy will improve your chances and help avoid unnecessary injury to animals. Hunters should know their skills and then establish a mindset to stay within their shooting skills," he says.

Proper firearm handling can help avoid common mistakes that may have dangerous consequences. "Maintaining control of your firearm and the muzzle direction is the most basic safety rule, yet it is one that often is forgotten, sometimes resulting in tragic consequences," he says.

Whether the gun is loaded or not firearms should always be pointed at the ground or up in the air. "If you've ever had a rifle or shotgun inadvertently pointed at you," Lawhern says, "you know it's an awful feeling."

Another basic safety rule is to always be sure of your target and what lies beyond it. "Unfortunately, hunters have been killed by other hunters who forget or disregard this basic rule."

Wearing blaze orange clothing is another important safety measure. Although state law require hunters to wear 50 percent blaze orange above the waist, including any headgear, Lawhern recommends that hunters wear solid blaze orange clothing, including pants. "This is especially important while hunting near standing crops or dense brush where only a portion of a hunter may be visible to another hunter," he says.

Lawhern urges hunters to replace faded blaze orange with bright, solid blaze orange outerwear. Camouflaged blaze orange is less safe, and new orange mesh vests on the market are neither safe nor legal, he adds.

Hunters should also be prepared for the diverse weather conditions they may encounter. "We've had everything from a foot of snow to freezing rain to hot summer-like weather for the deer season," he notes. Insulated clothing, rain gear, and proper footwear can make hunters much more comfortable. Lawhern also recommends taking along an extra change of dry clothing.

Other equipment to assemble prior to the hunt includes a reliable compass, hunting knife, matches in a waterproof container, a flashlight, some extra food, a small canteen of water, and tow rope. Lawhern says bandages are also a good idea since the vast majority of hunting accidents involve hunting knife injuries. Another common mistake people make is forgetting their license, backtag or permits back at home. "These should be the first things on your list," Lawhern says.

Another key piece of pre-hunt planning is to become familiar with where a hunter plans to hunt.

Those hunting on private lands should arrange a visit with the property long before the season begins for permission to hunt. "And it is important to respect a landowner's decision should they deny permission to hunt," Lawhern says, since the landowner may have a pre-existing agreement to let other hunters on the property.

"Spend a few minutes talking with the property owner, and get to know what he or she expect of you," Lawhern says. "Let them know who you are and where you'll be. After all, that person is more than just someone who's letting you use their property. If you become lost or injured, you may count on them to save your life."

The Department of Natural Resources recently published a new map of public hunting grounds around the state. The map is available at many DNR offices. Maps of public lands may be available at county offices and at local sporting goods outlets.

"You may want to visit on the previous weekend to see where the deer are moving

Outlook Good for Wisconsin Deer Hunters

MADISON -- Deer hunters should have excellent prospects this year, as deer populations are at or above population goals throughout much of Wisconsin, according to state wildlife officials.

The nine-day gun season runs November 19 through 27. The statewide bow deer season opened September 17 and will run through November 13. Bow season opens again on December 3 and runs through December 31.

There were 442,320 Hunter's Choice permits available for the gun deer season, and bow hunters who harvest a deer from one of more than 30 units are eligible for bonus bow deer permits.

"There were more bonus and hunter's choice permits available this year because of the growth in the herd," says Bill Mytton, deer and bear ecologist for the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources.

The department establishes harvest quotas for each deer management unit to keep the deer population in that unit near overwinter population goals. The harvest quota determines the number of bonus or hunter's choice permits available in that unit.

Statewide, the deer herd is estimated to be between one million and 1.25 million animals, according to Mytton.

Wisconsin gun deer hunters harvested 217,584 deer in 1993 including 100,977 antlerless deer and 116,507 antlered bucks. The 1992 gun deer harvest total was 288,820 including 177,245 antlerless deer and 111,476 antlered bucks.

REGIONAL OUTLOOK

Wildlife biologist have grouped deer management units together into "biotic regions" that classify geographical areas of the state with different land uses, climates, topography and other characteristics that affect the carrying capacity of the area for deer.

The five biotic regions are identified as Northern Forest, Central Forest, Western Farmland, Eastern Farmland and Southern Farmland.

"These regions have distinctive characteristics that play a role in deer management," Mytton says. For instance, severe winters can have a dramatic impact on overwinter deer survival in the Northern Forest region and crop successes or failures can influence herd growth in farmland regions.

Mytton says area wildlife managers have offered the following regional outlooks for the deer seasons:

NORTHERN FOREST

Deer numbers are increasing throughout the north with good hunting prospects for this fall. This region experienced excellent fawn production in 1993. An abundant acorn crop last fall put the deer in great shape going into winter, and combined with a very mild winter the outcome shows high overwinter survival. Also, the adult does come through in good condition, and their surveys indicate another year of high fawn production.

Most deer management units in the eastern half of the region are near or above population goals. Deer numbers in the northwest are also near goals. Only two units in the entire north appear to be clearly below goals and eleven units are clearly above goals.

WESTERN FARMLAND

Deer numbers are above goals in most units throughout the region. Fawn production and survival has been high in recent years and again this year.

EASTERN FARMLAND

The majority of units are above management goals. This region also experienced a mild winter, and fawn production is high. Bonus permits are available for both gun and bow hunters in most units.

CENTRAL FOREST

The Central Forest should provide excellent deer hunting opportunities for the fall of 1994. Deer populations are currently very good due to the excellent winter survival and relatively low antlerless harvest in the fall of 1993. Virtually no winter mortality was documented for the winter of 1993-94, primarily due to an excellent acorn crop and loose, fluffy snow which allowed deer to paw down to this nutritious food source. Early indications show an above average fawn crop which is likely the result of the excellent condition of the does during the winter months.

Antler development should be better than normal for bucks this fall, although the number of older aged bucks will probably not be as great as in 1993, because of the good gun hunting conditions in 1993 that resulted in a high buck harvest.

SOUTHERN FARMLAND

Deer numbers throughout the south are at or close to record levels and should offer excellent hunting in 1994. Deer sightings this spring, including does with fawns, are high, and road kills appear to be up over recent years. Many deer management units are well above goals, with bonus permits for both gun hunters and archers. Metropolitan units (59M, 76M, 77M) will continue to offer archers a four-deer bag limit.

UW-Eau Claire is Partner In Homework Helpline

EAU CLAIRE -- Students and their parents across the state can let their fingers do the walking for help with homework assignments.

The CESAs/Ameritech Homework Helpline, headquartered at the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire, is available via a toll-free number for all students (K-12) from around Wisconsin from 4:30 to 9 p.m. Sundays through Thursdays.

The Helpline is an education/business partnership of the Wisconsin Cooperative Education Service Agencies Foundation (CESA), Ameritech, Inc., Ameritech Foundation, UW-Eau Claire, Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction, Wisconsin Education Association Council and the Wisconsin Association of School Boards. This service began on October 10.

From a room in UW-Eau Claire's McIntyre Library, certified teachers answer the telephone to help with questions about math, science, English and other subjects.

The teachers help students after school learn how to use various learning resources and strategies to solve not only their current homework problems but those in the future as well.

Their location in the university library's Instructional Materials Center gives Helpline staff access to databases and other remote references and resources helpful to students.

"The teachers aren't there to hand out answers to specific questions," said Vicki Lyons, project coordinator from CESA 10. "The intent is to help students think, solve problems and become more aware of resources available to them."

Housing the project at UW-Eau Claire is important to its success, Lyons said. "The library offers us resources beyond what we could ever have envisioned," she said, describing the program's location in the library as "prime space."

Since interaction isn't face-to-face, students have to learn to organize their thoughts and communicate effectively with the Helpline teacher, said Paul Pisani, CESA administrator.

"So before they even ask a question, the learning process has begun," Pisani said.

The 17 Helpline teachers receive special training on how to solicit the information needed to be the best help to the caller. Of the staff, three-fourths are currently teachers and one-fourth are substitute teachers or involved in other education-related activities.

Each staff person works two to three nights a week. A similar project in Minnesota showed that help in the math and science areas is the biggest demand. The average length of a call in Minnesota was six to eight minutes, Lyons said.

Eventually teacher education majors at UW-Eau Claire may be involved in the project, perhaps as observers or as research assistants to the helpline teachers, Charles Larson, assistant dean of education said.

"Their involvement will familiarize them with the program when they get into the classroom and expose them to students with different cultural backgrounds," Larson said.

Working with UW-Eau Claire has been a positive experience, Pisani said. "Things don't normally move this quickly in government or in a university this size," he said. "What we've learned from this experience is that when you bring the right people to the table with a common focus, you can accomplish anything."

Funded for one year by Ameritech, the project will be evaluated at the end of the year. "Our hope is to have this continue," Lyons said. "As a parent there are subjects I can't provide in-depth assistance with or my schedule doesn't allow time to help do it's great to have an outside resource. This doesn't replace what goes on at school, it enhances it."

To access the Homework Helpline, dial 1-800-222-2912 or send e-mail on the Internet to HOMEWORK @ UWEC. EDU. For local calls in the Eau Claire area, dial 836-5090.

HT Convention of Pumpkin Scientists

Holy Trinity fourth graders Lisa Boden, Brenda Flasch and Joey Rinzel measure the float height of a pumpkin.

Mrs. Susie Heimark's fourth graders at Holy Trinity School held their Second Annual Convention of Pumpkin Scientists.

For three days the students explored the pumpkins in many ways. They weighed the pumpkins on a scale. Measured the circumference and counted the creases of the pumpkin in Spanish. They also predicted what would happen if a pumpkin was submerged in water. Would it sink or float? "The best experiment was seeing a big pumpkin and a little pumpkin float," fourth grader Lanaya Martin concluded.

Students also wrote up an experiment answering a question concerning the pumpkins. Some questions were: Do pumpkins with bigger circumferences have more creases? Do bigger pumpkins have more seeds than smaller pumpkins? Do heavier pumpkins have heavier seeds? The students wrote a hypothesis and tried to prove it. Each child wrote up a conclusion.

The 1994 convention of pumpkin scientists concluded with a pumpkin seed tasting party.

Mayville in Title Game

By Statesman Sports Writer

MAYVILLE - It's an old concept, but Mayville High School's football team is looking for new results.

The Cardinals once again qualified for the WIAA Division 4 championship game, defeating Brodhead-Juda 35-7. The win sets up a showdown with Baldwin-Woodville, which defeated the Cardinals in last year's championship game. Baldwin-Woodville defeated Marathon 33-0 to earn a return trip to the championship.

It is the third straight year that Mayville has gone to the WIAA championship game, having lost in the title game the past two years. In 1992, the Cardinals fell to Columbus.

In other WIAA football action, Menomonee Falls' quest for the Division 2 title came to an end, as it was downed by Cudahy 28-0. Falls had beaten Eastern Wisconsin Conference champion Plymouth 26-0, in the opening round of action.

Cudahy meanwhile, will face Menomonie (12-0) in the Division 2 title game. Menomonie, the defending Division 2 champs, beat Marinette, 42-14, in the semifinals.

In Division-1, it will be a battle of unbeaten, as defending champion Hartland Arrowhead (12-0) will face Muskego (12-0) in the championship. Arrowhead defeated D.C. Everest 24-7, while Muskego upended Kenosha Tremper 30-6 in the semifinals.

Other WIAA championship games include Thorp(11-1) against Hilbert (11-1) in Division 6; Fall Creek (12-0) against Darlington (12-0) in Division 5; and Waupaca (12-0) against Monroe (12-0) in Division 3.

The title games in divisions 6, 4 and 2 will be decided on Thursday at Madison's Camp Randall Stadium, while Divisions 5, 3 and 1 will be played on Friday.

West Bend East Takes Second

By Statesman Sports Writer

NEENAH - The West Bend East volleyball team was just two points away from defending its WIAA Division 1 championship here, last Saturday night. But Wauwatosa East, which had lost to the Suns in last year's title match, and twice more this season, had other ideas.

After losing the first game of the championship match 11-15, the Red Raiders had to rally to win game two 17-15. That set up a one game, winner-take-all battle in the third game, which was dominated by Tosa East, 15-7.

The victory helped the Red Raiders avenge a loss in the pool play the previous day, in which West Bend East upended the Red Raiders, 15-12, 15-8. The Suns had also knocked off Tosa East in two games earlier this year, en route to winning the West Bend Sprawl tournament.

But the Red Raiders regrouped to win the state's top title, their second championship in three years, and sixth title overall.

In Division 2 action, Eastern Wisconsin Conference, Sheboygan Falls Falcons finished tied for the best record (2-1) along with Platteville and defending champion Waupun. But it was Platteville that came away with the championship, as it won a three-way tiebreaker with the other two schools. Black River Falls (0-3) took fourth.

In Division 3, Oostburg took home its first-ever state title in the sport, beating top-ranked Iowa-Grant 15-6, 15-13 in the championship match. Meanwhile, Turtle Lake won its second straight Division 4 title, winning all three of its matches against Pecatonica, North Crawford and Greenwood.

All-State Golf

By Statesman Sports Writer

STEVENS POINT - The WIAA announced its annual girls golf all-state team, with northern Wisconsin schools dominating the first team selections.

Among the girls making the first team were Appleton, West's Andrea Klee, Rice Lake's Anne Marsh, Eau Claire North's Michelle Thierer, and Madison La-Follette's Kim Reid, all of whom are juniors.

Rounding out the first team are seniors Rheba Mable of Marshfield, and Andrea Meeker of Milton.

The second team consists of Onalaska's Meghan Dunham, Kettle Moraine's Lauren Essig, Waukesha South's Margaret Johnson, Kettle Moraine's Trish Magaw, LaCrosse Central's Kate Theune, Racine Case's Erika Toeppe, and Watertown's Julie Walsh.

Essig is the lone senior of the group, while Walsh is a sophomore, and the rest juniors.

On the third team were Eau Claire North's Bridgett Hoepner, Racine Park's Sara Pirk, Appleton West's Erika Stockwell, Brookfield Central's Julie Strang, Onalaska's Crystal Van Riper, and Racine Park's Amy Zelling.

Zelling is a freshman, while Von Riper is a sophomore, Hoepner is a junior, and the rest seniors.

Receiving honorable mention were Holmen's Tara Clemens, Marinette's Molly Diemer, Darlington's Selena Jacobson, Holmen's Kelly Kleinsmith, Madison West's Molly McKegney, Marinette's Sarah Picard, Mukwanago's Kelly Sheehan, Holman's Nikki Tabbert and Mukwanago's Katie Vandehy.

Muzzleloading Offers Additional Hunting Opportunities

MADISON -- Wisconsin deer hunters have had the opportunity in recent years to expand their hunting opportunities by hunting deer with a muzzleloader rifle.

"It has always been legal for hunters to use muzzle-loading rifles during the regular nine-day gun deer season," explains Kevin Wollenfang, a wildlife biologist with the Department of Natural Resources, "but Wisconsin has also offered a special season for hunting with muzzleloaders only since 1991."

This year, the seven-day muzzleloader-only season will run from Monday, November 28 through Sunday, December 4. To participate in the special season, Wallenfang says, hunters must possess an unused Hunter's Choice or Bonus Permit, or group hunt with someone who does.

Those units where antlerless permits are not available for the 1994 gun season will not have a muzzleloader-only season. They include units 2, 8, 13, 29B, 30, and 31, as well as the Mississippi River Block Units 74A and 74B.

Additional muzzleloader hunting opportunities are available at four State Parks that only allow muzzleloader hunting within their boundaries during the regular nine-day season. The parks are Governor Dodge, Blue Mound, Perrot, and Peninsula. Wollenfang says Harrington Beach State Park is expected to add a muzzleloader season in 1995. A Hunter's Choice Permit is also required to hunt in each park.

"These hunts have become very popular in recent years, and it is rare for there to be any unissued permits when opening day rolls around," he says. All parks are closed during any extended deer seasons and during the seven-day muzzleloader only season.

Legal firearms for muzzleloader deer hunting include smoothbore muzzleloaders of at least .45 caliber, or rifled muzzleloaders of at least .40 caliber. During the special seven-day muzzleloader only season, telescopic sights are not allowed, and rifles must have an exposed, outside hammer.

"Archers should remember that they will be sharing the woods with muzzleloader hunters on December 3 and 4, so they are required to follow blaze orange requirements during those days," Wallenfang says.

Tree Stands Leading Cause of Injuries

MADISON -- Tree stands offer deer hunters advantages by expanding the hunter's field of view, by elevating the hunter above the deer's line of sight, and often -- by providing a safer and more effective shot.

However, notes Tim Lawhern, hunter education administrator for the Department of Natural Resources, deer stands are also a major cause of hunting accidents and injuries.

"Makeshift and poorly maintained tree stands are among the leading causes of hunter injuries each year," Lawhern says. Some of the most serious of those accidents involve people shooting themselves while climbing into and out of tree stands.

Falls from tree stands can be deadly as well, and are a common occurrence as hunters maneuver to shoot or absorb the recoil from firearms or the release force from bows.

A number of injuries each year are the result of hunters who climb trees while carrying loaded firearms. A rifle may fall and discharge, or a hunter may lose track of which way it's pointing. "Always point the muzzle in a safe direction," Lawhern cautions.

Permanent tree stands are illegal in public forest and hunting areas, but they are common on private land. Hunters are tempted to use unattended tree stands they discover on public land, but Lawhern notes if they do, they may be subject to penalties of over $90.00.

On private property, a hunter must have the property owner's permission to legally use a tree stand. Year-round exposure to the weather can rust and rot them beyond the point of safety, Lawhern notes.

Those hunters who plan on using tree stands should follow proper safety precautions. "A safety strap, secured firmly around the waist and to the tree itself is a simple safety measure that can prevent an accidental fall," Lawhern says.

Another essential piece of equipment is a rope, which can be tied to the stand or a nearby limb. The hunter should use the rope to carefully raise the firearm or bow and quiver up to the stand after climbing up. The same process should be used to lower your firearm or bow when you're ready to leave the stand. Firearms should be unloaded and the chamber left open.

Oostburg Wins Soccer Title

By Statesman Sports Writer

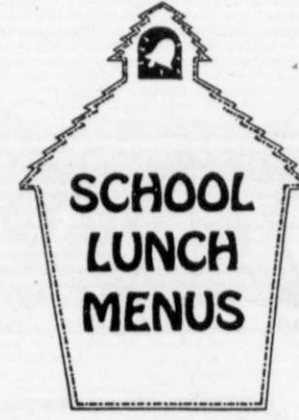

MADISON - Oostburg High School had to be feeling pretty good about itself on Saturday afternoon, as the school captured two different state titles on the same day.

After the Flying Dutchman's girls volleyball team won the Division 3 volleyball championship, the school's boys soccer team downed Delavan-Darien 2-1 in the WIAA Division 2 championship match.

Oostburg ended the season with a 23-2-3 record, while Delavan-Darien fell to 24-4-1.

In Division 1, Whitefish Bay was outshot 17-4 in the title game against Cedarburg, but it was the Blue Dukes that made the most of their opportunity, scoring a pair of goals to beat the Bulldogs 2-1, and win the state title.

Whitefish Bay ended up with a 19-2-2 overall record, while Cedarburg finished 23-3-3 with the loss.

Team Deer Volunteers Help Count Size of State Deer Herd

MADISON -- An increasing number of deer hunters and other people interested in the outdoors are taking an active role helping Department of Natural Resources wildlife biologists estimate the size of Wisconsin's deer herd.

Now in its second year, a program called "Team Deer" offers volunteers a chance to contribute to Wisconsin's deer management program, explains Bill Mytton, DNR deer and bear ecologist. Eventually, the observations submitted by Team Deer volunteers will be used to help estimate the size of Wisconsin's white-tailed deer herd and to help set hunting harvest goals.

"The response to the Team Deer concept has been excellent," Mytton says. "We now have more than 760 volunteers across the state who are helping us keep track of the deer herd, and the volunteers have been very enthusiastic about the program."

Team Deer volunteers receive survey forms to record the number and sex, if it can be identified, of deer they observe while out in the field. Mytton says some volunteers, such as farmers, record observations while conducting daily routines that take them into the field. Other volunteers make special trips afield to look for deer.

"One of the real positive outcomes of the program that we are hearing from volunteers is that entire families are getting involved with the surveys. Moms, dads, and the kids are going out together to look for deer. It is a great way for families to spend time together and a real good opportunity for parents to teach their sons and daughters more about wildlife," Mytton says.

Last year, volunteers submitted more than 450 survey forms, recording 17,400 observations, Mytton says. "There were some differences between the Team Deer observations and observations conducted by wildlife staff, but overall we were very impressed by the work of Team Deer volunteers," he says.

Survey results from this summer have not yet been tabulated, but Mytton is expecting both the total number of surveys submitted and the number of deer observations reported to increase.

According to DNR Bureau of Research personnel, who are compiling the survey forms, three years of data are necessary to develop a comparison factor before the Team Deer observations can be incorporated into the statewide estimates made by wildlife managers. "After this year, we'll be two-thirds of the way there," Mytton notes.

Other activities that Team Deer volunteers have been involved with include aging deer at deer registration stations during the gun deer season and collecting, sorting and counting deer registration stubs.

Another added benefit from the Team Deer program, Mytton says, is the opportunity for local DNR wildlife managers and outdoors people to better get to know each other. "The program has opened up communications and is helping our wildlife managers build credibility with local residents," he says.

One of the most active Team Deer groups in the state has been in the Horicon area. Tom Nigus, DNR wildlife supervisor for the Horicon area, says there is a core group of about 15 volunteers in the area with another 40 to 50 volunteers who are conducting surveys.

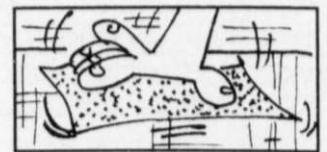

"We have some excellent cooperators who have sort of picked up the ball in this area and are running with it," Nigus says. The group plans to hold occasional meetings and has started its own newsletter.

"It is a pretty diverse group. It includes members of the Conservation Congress, members of local bow hunting and conservation clubs, and individuals who are involved with a quality deer management effort to increase the number of trophy-sized deer in the area," Nigus says. "But the common thread is they are willing to volunteer some time to help us improve our deer management program."

People interested in becoming involved with Team Deer can write to: Team Deer, Bureau of Wildlife Management, Wisconsin DNR, P.O. Box 7921, Madison, WI 53707-7921 or contact their local wildlife manager.

'O.K., Where's the Second Deer!'

By Bruce Neeb, DNR
Public Information Officer

"Watch out for deer on the way home." I'll never forget my reaction to the last time I heard that. As a Public Information Officer with the Department of Natural Resources, I write that news release each year, urging caution on the highways during the deer mating season. "Mom, you don't need to remind me," I said.

Yep, I know all the best stretches of highway for prime deer viewing. I know all about using my high beams, watching the edges of the road and slowing down through those areas at night. "If I hit a deer, it would be like a fireman's house burning down," I said.

My family's into it as well. My wife never fails to remind me to slow down on a stretch of country highway about four miles from her mother's house. For years, the kids have known their seat belts will keep them from flying through air if we have to stop to miss a deer. I was consciously looking for deer as we drove through that same stretch of county highway near Ladysmith last Friday.

The doe arrived right on cue, and in classic form, leaping full stride onto the shoulder and into the lane

Special Olympians Place at Milwaukee Bowling Tourney

The Kewaskum Special Olympians competed in the Greater Milwaukee Area Bowling Tournament at Red Carpet Bowlero on Sunday, Oct. 23.

Kewaskum bowlers accumulated a three game total within their division. Brian Hanrahan placed 3rd with 281 pins. Justin Petermann placed 5th with 144 pins. Jeff Puestow placed 1st with 225 pins. Sarah Rodenkirch placed 2nd with 338 pins. Amy Wieting placed 1st with 226 pins.

Bowlers that received 1st, 2nd, or 3rd place ribbons will compete at the Regional Bowling Tournament at Red Carpet Regency Lanes in Milwaukee on Nov. 13th!

about 25 feet ahead of me. On went the brakes, car seats and seat belts straining as my sleeping kids rocked forward.

As the doe cleared the path of the van, I eased off the brake, then thought out loud, "O.K., where's the second deer?"

And there it was, also in full stride, and just eight feet in front of me. This time the tires nearly skidded as I re-applied the brakes. My wife and kids rocked forward even further. The van had all but stopped as the young buck cleared the bumper, his backside within inches of the chrome.

The kids gained a new appreciation for their seat belts as my wife explained to them we had just missed two deer. I felt pretty smug as she marvelled at my ability to predict the second deer. I realized I had been lucky later when we arrived at my mother-in-law's house and she told us a deer had run smack into the side of a friend's car down the road just earlier in the evening.

It is that time of the year again. We will hear a lot of folks talking about close calls during the next few weeks, and others talking about repair bills and deer that were injured in collisions.

Personally, I hope I have had my close encounter for this season. Of course, after writing this, I can't help but think there's a bunch of deer out there waiting to show me I'm not so smart after all.

*Use your high beams, and watch for deer along the roadsides.

*If you spot a deer, apply your brakes and slow safely -- without skidding or swerving.

*Wait to see if the deer is accompanied by others. During the fall mating season they usually are.

*Use your vehicle's horn to scare the deer off the roadway.

*If you hit a deer, report the accident to your local police or sheriff's office.

Where Are All the Deer?

MADISON -- When a state wildlife manager estimates an area has a certain number of deer per square mile, it is not uncommon for hunters and other members of the public to question the figure.

Such questions are not surprising, says Mary Kay Judd, a wildlife educator with the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources, because "there is room for confusion when talking about deer herd estimates."

Wisconsin's program is a model for deer management nationwide, Judd says, but it is also complex and sometimes confusing. The herd estimates are based on mathematical formulas that rely on observations of deer in the field, available deer habitat in an area, and the sex and age of deer that are registered during the fall hunting seasons.

Judd says a common misunderstanding is that an estimate of a certain number of deer per square mile means there are literally that many deer per mile of land in an area. "That's not the case. What the wildlife manager means is that there are, on average, that many deer per square mile of deer range within an area," she says.

Not all land within the boundary of a deer management unit is habitable by deer. "Extensive agricultural fields unbroken by windows or a traffic-choked urban lands don't count as deer habitat," Judd says.

Suitable deer habitat includes permanent cover -- forests, woodlots, brush-covered lands or marshes -- at least ten acres or more in size. Wildlife managers also make some adjustments for deer movement into adjacent farm fields and other marginal habitats.

"The number of square miles of deer range in a unit is always smaller than the total number of square miles in a unit," Judd says.

Another reason people may question herd estimates is that deer are not evenly scattered over the landscape. "Deer are usually grouped together in bunches. If someone is in an area that includes a lot of marginal habitat, they likely won't see as many deer as if they were in an area that is prime habitat," she says.

A yet more complex part of Wisconsin's estimates is what is referred to as the S-A-K or Sex-Age-Kill formula. The S-A-K, Judd explains, is a series of mathematical equations that use data on the sex of the deer, the age of the deer and the number of deer killed during the bow and gun deer seasons. The formula provides wildlife managers with reasonably accurate herd estimates for setting harvest quotas.

The large number of deer scattered across the state and unpredictable quirks of nature can cause glitches in the formula, Judd says, but "overall Wisconsin's wildlife managers have delivered accurate predictions of the annual fall deer population for more than 40 years.
