Let There Be Light

Economics students from Kewaskum High School are working with the local Subway store to help raise money for lights that will go on the high schools football field.

"The students are learning about marketing while having fun coming up with marketing ideas to help raise money for the lights," said economics teacher Dave Rockhill. The project's advisers are Dick Fird of the Milwaukee Subway Development Office, and Tom Steffek, the local Subway co-owner. The project is also in conjunction with the Junior Achievement program which is an organization that helps promote and fund economics education.

The students are calling this the "Let There Be Light" project. K.H.S. art students are helping to design and produce the ads and posters for this promotion. The promotion will begin in about two weeks. The way it will work is twenty-five cents of every six inch sub sandwich will be donated to the lights fund. Fifty cents of every foot long sandwich will also be donated.

A special promotion for kids will include a Petey Pickle pull back and go miniature car and a special weekend celebration

Board Compromises on Pledge

By Sharon Callaway Roznik

Another lengthy school board agenda included a progress report on the high school construction plans by architect Dave Dall'Agnese, who informed them that all contractor's bids were due in this past Monday, and will be presented at next month's board meeting.

The board approved the construction drawings for the high school addition and remodeling 6 to 1, with Neal Weare voting no. Discussion involved the placement of a uni-sex bathroom near the front of the building, with some board members questioning why the "L-shaped" bathroom design was not utilized as they had requested. This type of bathroom design was desired for it's possible ability to cut down on the smoking problem in the high school.

Dell'Agnese explained that the unisex design had to conform to a code which demands an airlock and visual barrier to the hallway, and this was the cheapest and easiest location to build it in. The unisex bathroom meets the needs of a handicapped individual who may have assistance from someone of the opposite sex. "It's not a pressing major issue, at least not to us," he expressed. "It's kind of an administration and management issue," referring to the problem of smoking.

Principal Heidner indicated it was a cultural issue. "There's a small number of students who are convinced they have a right to smoke during their lunches, in the building." He stated that he has been working very diligently to break that belief, and will continue to do so.

The district's OM teams joined regional competition held at New Holstein and Mrs. Schulist reported the following results: Farmington - 11th out of 13; Kewaskum - second out of 11; Wayne - fifth out of 14; KMS - sixth out of seven; KHS - third out of nine; and another KHS team led by Mr. Soller took first and received the coveted Renee Fusca award for creativity. They have the honor of going on to compete at the state level.

Building and Grounds Superintendent Fred Boehlke reported on the district's recent buildings inspection by the state inspector, who checks for any structural deterioration. The roofs were pointed out as being in bad need of repair, and Boehlke informed the board that if they hadn't put these repairs onto a referendum, the district would have been written up and cited with a fine.

This committee also asked for approval to purchase a PA system for the football field, having received a low quote of $2,244.00. This cost will be included in the 1995-96 budget, with the classes of '93 and '94 each contributing $400 for use towards the ath-

Future of KHS Driver's Ed. Program in Doubt

By Sharon Callaway Roznik

The future of Drivers Education may be in the hands of the private sector, according to conversation that took place at Monday night's school board meeting.

After advertising in several area newspapers and some outside the area for a certified Driver's Ed instructor, the district has yet to receive any responses. Both the classroom session and behind the wheel have been covered for the remainder of the school year by contracting with the Fond du Lac School District, but none of the driver instructors they have currently been using are available for this summer.

"Driver Education may be a thing of the past if we are unable to find anyone to do the instruction," points out District Administrator Dr. Heather. The program itself has never been a money maker for the school, with costs exceeding the student fees and state aid by about $5,000. We may not have to cut Driver's Ed, it may just die out of itself because we can't find the people we need," he points out.

There are only one or two schools left in the state that still offer the program due to lack of instructors. In order to teach within the school system, a person must obtain certification through the Department of Public Instruction, which entails several hours of classroom instruction. In the private sector, a license is simply acquired through the Division of Motor Vehicles for a small fee, making it far more lucrative for instructors to teach privately.

High School Principal Heidner related the fact that a letic field project.

Another additional cost will be the installation of a crowd control fence set between the bleachers and the running track to keep spectators from running onto the track during track meets, and to keep them away from the football team during games. Estimates for the fencing will run about $2,642.00, if they run it the full length of 360 feet. The board approved the commit-year ago when he was looking for an instructor for these classes, he found out that only one student in the entire state had graduated from the education program for Driver Certification. "Even though we have registered students for next year, if we don't have an instructor, we can't hold the classes," he told the board, "but we're hoping we'll be able to offer it this summer."

President Ruth Schmitt asked if it came to the point where students had to seek out instruction from a private Driver's Ed instructor, if it were possible they could use the school's facilities to meet and conduct their classes. "That's something we have to look into," Principal Heidner answered, "because we have to be compatible with all board policies. We need to look at the fact that if it's for profit, then we have to check out rental fees covered under our rental policies."

Although everyone was in agreement that Kewaskum would like to provide this service for our students, it was pointed out that schools across the state are running into the same problem. The high school charges $65 for their student fee, which is the lowest in this part of the state. Private instructors charge anywhere from $225 to $240, but if they come to the school it's possible the fees will go up to cover the rental charges, if they're willing to come here at all.

KHS Principal-Parent Roundtable Tuesday

Principal Charles Heidner invites all Kewaskum High School parents to join him at the quarterly roundtable on Tues., March 28, at 7:00 p.m. in the library.

Mr. Heidner would like to update parents on the building remodeling project and the press box and athletic field progress.

Additional topics of interest to parents will be the second semester exam process, dress code policy revision, and teacher/student/parent concern process.

Any concerns and questions are welcomed. Please join us in support of your school and enjoy refreshments while we meet.

Heidi Terlinden Takes First Place in Citizenship Essay State Contest; First in County and District

The Wisconsin Farm Bureau federation Women's Committee, in conjunction with the Washington County Farm Bureau women, sponsors an annual citizenship essay contest. The contest is open to 5th and 6th grade students. This year's theme was "Five Ways to be a Good Citizen."

This year's county winner was Heidi Terlinden, a 5th grade student of Mr. Dennis Reha, of Kewaskum Elementary. Heidi is the daughter of Karl and Marilyn Terlinden of Kewaskum.

Heidi was then eligible for the Farm Bureau District one contest in which she also placed first which qualified her for the state competition.

It is with great pleasure that the Washington County Farm Bureau women congratulate Heidi on placing FIRST in the state competition. As the first place state winner, Heidi will receive a $100 savings bond from the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation Women.

Five Ways To Be a Good Citizen

by Heidi Terlinden
KES 5th Grade - Mr. Reha

Citizen - a person who is a member of a country or state either because he was born there or because he's been made a member by law. Citizens have certain duties to their country and are entitled to certain rights.

A good citizen should be a hard worker, honest, respectful, thoughtful, and encouraging.

Every citizen should "pull his own weight" so others don't have to do his share. Statistics show work is good not only for your body, but your mind too.

Imagine what it would be like if you never had to worry about anyone lying, cheating, or stealing. Many of the problems would be solved in our country and within our government if people would be honest.

When a person is thoughtful, it's like a double-edged sword. Both people are affected by it. If everyone would follow the golden rule: "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you," people would be much happier. The saying "It's better to give than to receive" is true. It's much more fun to give.

Respect is necessary in keeping order. If people respect authority, the laws and rules are obeyed. Respect is also necessary in taking care of the earth. By showing respect to others, you can gain respect for yourself.

Encouragement does not usually come naturally to most of us. We criticize instead. Encouragement is a better motivator. It doesn't cause anger or resentment like criticism. Encouragement makes a person feel good about themselves.

Amazingly enough, all of these qualities are found in the Bible. Possibly if our country would once again follow the Bible and use it to teach us values, we could turn around many of the wrong things happening in our country.

In 1840, Martin Van Buren became the only presidential candidate in American history to seek election without a running mate.

Controversy Surrounds School Board

THURSDAY, MARCH 23, 1995 PAGE 7

By Sharon Callaway Roznik

It seems that controversial subjects surround the Kewaskum School Board these days, and Monday night's meeting was no exception. Despite a diversity of opinion regarding the policy addressing Ceremonies and Observances (Holidays Associated with Religion), respect for these opinions prevailed and the discussion remained objective.

Ever since Farmington Elementary canceled their Christmas program in lieu of a Spring concert, and then reversed its decision after numerous parents voiced their disapproval, the topic of religion in school remained an unanswered question. Board member Schulte asked Dr. Heather to present some information to the policy committee to be written up for policy regarding this subject, and it was later amended using language proposed by Mr. Schulte from The National Liberty Counsel, a non-profit legal organization that defends religious liberties and helps schools develop policies.

The committee's decision to bring the policy to the board was split in a 2-2 vote, which ordinarily kills the motion, but Neal Weare requested it go to the board for first reading consideration and discussion. It basically states legally what schools can and cannot do regarding the observance of holidays with a religious connection, intending "to neither promote nor to denigrate religion or religious practices."

Audience members reflected both sides of the issue, with some feeling any religious direction should remain separate from school, guided by the U.S. Constitution. One parent stated, "As one of the fastest growing counties in the state, the diversity of citizens is bound to increase. The spiritual and religious education my children receive comes within our home and church. As a taxpayer in this district, I want my taxes that are earmarked to go for education to be spent in the classroom, not the courtroom."

Mary Andera, a school board candidate in the April election, held a different viewpoint. "This issue is a very frightening issue in my opinion. The idea of individual freedom is based on Christianity, and it is crucial to the history of our country... it's what the whole constitution is based on. For our school to secularize everything, we have then adopted the religion of atheism."

"I think it does a real disservice and intellectual dishonesty to suggest that wanting to keep church and state separate equates with an atheist state," retorted audience member Jack Theusch. "One of the driving forces of this country was a search for religious freedom. I would like to ask someone who favors this policy what it is that this policy would allow to happen in the schools that can't happen now?"

Board member John Schulte addressed this question. "All this policy does is it clarifies what the laws are, and what the courts have decided regarding these laws, and puts it in writing so the staff can understand what their boundaries are." He further stated that it gives the children freedom to express themselves without oppression, to bow their heads and say a prayer before their dinner. "This policy does not favor just one religion," he pointed out.

Schulte reported that there have been instances such as the above mentioned prayer, and a child putting "Jesus Loves Me" on a poster, in which the children were told they were not allowed to do this in school. The policy itself is backed up by the courts, he assured everyone. "The feedback from the community is they want Christmas called Christmas," he added.

Other parents agreed with Schulte and liked the idea of a policy that specifies what their rights are; what's allowed and what isn't, because as ordinary citizens, they often don't know where they can take a stand. One parent offered the comment that it was very straightforward and easy to understand, and one of the reasons they moved to the district was because of the quality of the school system, and hoped it would remain that way.

Policy Board member Marcia Theusch didn't believe a policy of this sort was needed at all. "If we need a policy at all it's probably nothing more than a statement that says Christmas programs will be allowed. There is nothing here that would prevent Satanism or other cults from coming into the schools." She asked how a teacher could bring in religious materials to the classroom and not show some biases towards one religion or another.

President Schmitt pointed out that these problems in the school are not prevalent happenings, and that the school district has checks and balances in place to protect the children in these situations. "Our system has worked well for a number of years, and I am not aware of many more than two or three complaints in all the years I've been on the school board."

In closing comments, Jean Goeden expressed, "I can certainly see the writing on the wall, this is going back to policy." Her main concern was that the district is unified in doing it all one way, or no way, and it is not left up to the decision of individual teachers. Ron Beim-born also added, "I don't feel that religious activities or opinions should be taught in public school. However, I do feel that there should not be a teacher that tells a kid that has a bible on their desk to take it home and don't bring it back. This is wrong."

All concerns that were discussed at this meeting will be brought before the policy committee at some point in time, so a decision can be made regarding the future of religion in Kewaskum Public Schools.

tee's request for these items.

Board member Ray Engelking told the board that a citizen's committee had been formed to help raise monies for bleachers and lights for the football field, and anyone interested in finding out more information should contact the Cartwrights.

President Ruth Schmitt had asked Dr. Heather to research the procedures this board and previous boards have used in the past regarding the adoption of policies, and Dr. Heather had found that it was a mixture of various ways. "I'm not sure you have a consistent history of how you handle the approval policy," he stated, and recommended they work up some type of consistency they can all agree with. "It is indeed time to write down what we want to happen in a consistent manner," Schmitt emphasized, and requested that they organize a workshop for all board members on this subject.

She offered an apology to the members of the board, if in the past, they felt she hadn't given them the time and opportunity to discuss all aspects of a policy, and added that she was willing, at this time, to discuss the Pledge of Allegiance, at length.

Jean Goeden discussed the changes in the wording of the policy, which now reads that the Pledge be "recited at the beginning of the announcements once per day," and added that the policy would take effect in the 1995-96 school year.

Schmitt expressed that she would support it 100% if a compromise could be reached at the high school level, with the reciting of the Pledge of Allegiance taking place once per week. "I don't want it to become so repetitive that it loses the respect it deserves, that's the only thing I object to in the entire policy," Dr. Heather supported this idea, urging them to "get this over and move along."

The board amended the policy to include the high school's weekly recitation, with Jean Goeden voting no, and unanimously approved the policy as a first reading.

Summer school will be somewhat different this year, without the use of the middle school and the high school due to construction. The courses have been dropped down from five weeks to four weeks due to the lack of air conditioning at Kewaskum Elementary.

The request to pay David Jones legal fees was approved, with some reluctance from a few of the board members.

In other business, teacher Peggy Henke has been nominated for the Herb Kohl Fellowship, and high school student Nadalie Reindl placed second on the balance beam at the state gymnastics meet. Erin Krueger was chosen as Student of the Month.

Letter to the Editor:

I want to commend Mrs. Goeden, Neal Weare and John Schulte for their work in helping to implement the recitation of the Pledge of Allegiance.

I am very concerned about our Board of Education's reluctance to pass on the reciting of the Pledge of Allegiance in our schools. At the December 12th, 1994 meeting, I was the person who asked the board to vote that night with no abstentions. Reluctantly, the vote was unanimously passed. That was 3 1/2 months ago.

Now several members refuse to implement the Pledge as a daily program. WHY? The 500 plus signatures on the petitions and the 100 plus people in attendance at the meeting means nothing.

Remember the board members who spoke out in favor of reciting the Pledge and also Mary Andera, who expressed her agreement in the Pledge. You now have a chance to change the make up of the school board in the coming election.

I endorse John Schulte for another term and newcomer Mary Andera to represent us in the coming years.

WE DO NOT TAKE PATRIOTISM LIGHTLY!

To the Residents of the Kewaskum School District,

Being appointed to the school board for an interim year is a unique way to get some experience, before deciding whether to run for a three-year term. In the upcoming elections on April 4, voters will choose three of the four candidates; the top two vote-getters will serve three-year terms, and the third will serve the remaining year of the term which was vacated.

In asking for your vote, I would like to introduce myself. Originally from Indiana, my background includes attending Purdue University (mathematics), teaching in several states, and moving to Wisconsin from Georgia in 1977. While in Georgia I had worked for a CPA firm and was responsible for $1.5 million in grand funding accounting for a six-county region. I earned my Masters in counseling from Marquette. While my children were younger (now in grades 6 and 9 at KMS and KHS) I was a Certified Financial Planner and had my own practice in West Bend. Since 1989 I have worked as a school counselor in grades K through 12 in Horicon, and since 1990 my family has operated Glacier Orchard from our home on Glacier Drive.

As you can see, I bring a diverse background in business, finance and education as well as a range of experiences to this task, and have found it challenging and rewarding. I believe that I have a lot to learn and a lot to offer, including my willingness to grapple with some pretty tough questions ahead; I have been trained to be a good listener, and I am very willing to listen to you! I don't believe in simple, pat answers to complicated questions, and my goals include keeping our schools up to date and striving for excellence. We have fine families raising fine children in a difficult time, and the whole community, not just the school district, must take the credit as it takes on the responsibility in this endeavor.

Thank you for your interest, and don't forget to vote on Tuesday, April 4th.

Sincerely,
Karen K. Sparks,

Campus Notes

WINONA, MN -- The admissions office of Winona State University has admitted more than 1,890 freshmen for the fall quarter, 1995, according to Dr. James Mootz, director of admissions.

These students were admitted to WSU after a review of their high school class ranking and/or their score on college entrance examinations. Many of these students may be accepted to more than one college or university and a percentage may choose to attend college elsewhere.

Included is Christine Schmidt, Kewaskum, who attends St. Mary Springs High School.

Winona State University is a public liberal arts college in Southeastern Minnesota with an on-campus enrollment around 6,000 students and an additional 1,200 students studying at the WSU Rochester Center in Rochester, Minnesota, or in other off-campus course offerings.

this we wind up needing the current "GIANT BANDAID" to try and cover all the existing small ones.

4. There was no visible provisions for keeping these new funds separate and the ultimate users accountable for where every dollar eventually goes.

To summarize, I voted no because of the way it was handled. That does not mean I cannot understand the need or do not wish to see the problems resolved. We are forcing our individual school administrators to allot excess time for facility problems at the expense of time they should be spending on the education and development of our children.

It can be assumed that we are looking for a replacement business manager. Although our district size makes this position a questionable need, we will probably continue to spend the money! I suggest the new business manager be charged with the responsibility of creating a reasonable outline, including projected cost, plans for future needs in building maintenance and operations, so as to free our building administrators up so they can get on with the jobs they trained so long for. (Bless them for their perseverance, it's easy to understand their feelings).

We do not need to create another position for supervision of maintenance and operations. We are not large enough to justify it. New administrative positions aren't the cure for our problems, we have adequate personnel now if properly directed.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sherman, Scott Townships Planning Annual Meetings

By Bernadette Mondloch

The Towns of Sherman and Scott are busy making plans for items to be discussed at their annual meetings, both to be held on Tuesday, April 11.

In the Town of Scott, two major items will be talked about. One being assessment practices for the town, the other will be the updated recycling program being initiated.

The Town has been working for over a year in planning a recycling center which will allow the town to market their recyclables instead of contracting for removal of them. The purchase of a fork lift for $5,700 has already been approved and the committee is still shopping around for a baler which will handle paper and plastics.

Other small items necessary for an efficient operation have already been purchased and put to use. There is a possibility that the recycling programs long range plan will allow for other municipalities to make use of the facility also. For the present time, it will remain for town residents only. The recycling center is located north of the town hall on Boltonville Road.

The Town of Scott will hold its regular monthly meeting prior to the annual meeting on April 11. It will begin at 7 p.m. followed by the annual meeting at 8 p.m.

Centennial 'Cents'

Students at Kewaskum Elementary School are busy saving their pennies to benefit the Kewaskum Centennial Celebration being held June 10th at River Hill Park.

First grade teacher Elaine Prost brought the idea to the school, and now 21 milk cartons are located throughout classrooms at Kewaskum Elementary School. Mrs. Prost is also a member of the Centennial committee.

As students fill up the cartons with pennies, they will be transferred to a big jar so they can see how much they've saved. These funds will help purchase either firework or the sponsorship of a wagon in the wagon train. It will be a big decision.

Somewhere near the week of May 5th, they will be celebrating Kewaskum's 100 years of existence with an all-school birthday cake. "We'll also be doing lots of things to celebrate as we'll learn how life was back then," Mrs. Prost added.

When Will the 1995-1996 Fishing Licenses be Accepted?

With the end of March approaching rapidly, a number of fisher-people have contacted me with questions on fishing licenses. The big question this year is when will the 1995-96 fishing license be accepted. This question comes in many forms but the answer is about the same.

If I purchase a 1995-96 fishing license now, before April 1st, will it be legal to fish with it in the month of March. The answer is yes, as soon as you buy the new license we will honor it. This would apply whether you had a license for last year or not. It is also not necessary to carry the old license if you don't want to. If the license has stamps attached to it then you should carry both licenses for the stamps expire on March 31st.

I'm also sure that many of you will not get that many of your Patron License renewed in time for the start of the new license year on April 1st. Again, don't worry you can fish on your old license until the new license arrives in the mail. Early mailing of the renewal will insure that you get the new Patron License before April 1st.

At this time most vendors will have the 1995-96 fishing license available and applications for the 1995-96 Patron License is available at DNR offices.

If you have any other questions on this topic or another feel free to contact me.

AG WEEK

Is March 19 - 25, 1995

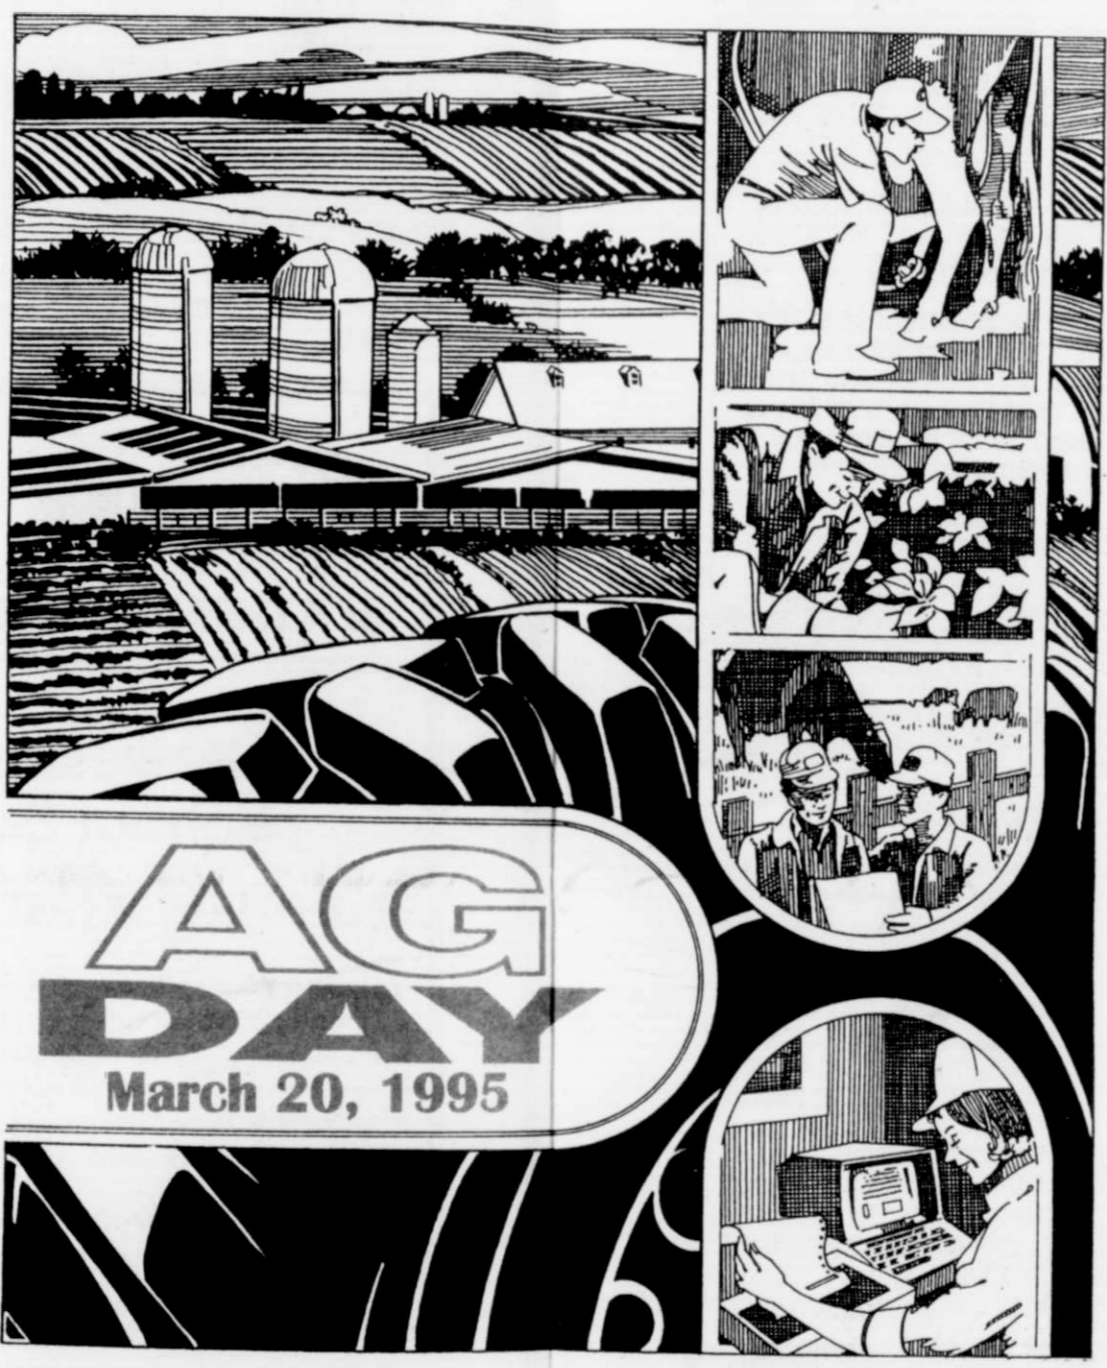

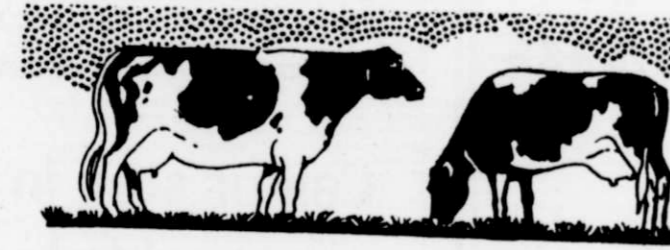

National Agriculture Day Celebrates the Environment

More forests and open land; cleaner water, soil and air; and more wildlife are the fruits of farmer's and rancher's hard work. The many contributions American agriculture has made to preserving and nurturing our environment will be celebrated during National Agriculture Week, March 19 through 25, and National Agriculture Day, March 20.

Wildlife is one of the primary beneficiaries of American agriculture's stewardship. Seventy-five (75) percent of the nation's wildlife live off of farms and ranches. The trees that farmers and ranchers plant to protect their land provide shelter for birds, deer, antelope, ducks and geese. Freshwater streams that run through farm and ranch land are home to millions of fish. Corn, wheat, soybeans and other crops left on field after harvest provide bountiful food that helps many animals make it through the winter.

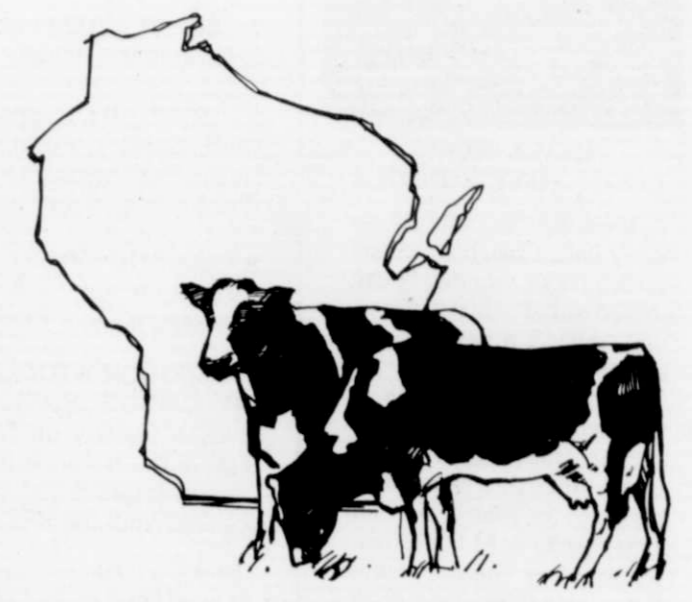

The efficiency of modern agriculture has also left more land and forests for wildlife to forage.

American agriculture is also preserving natural resources - water, air and soil - that form the backbone of food and fiber production.

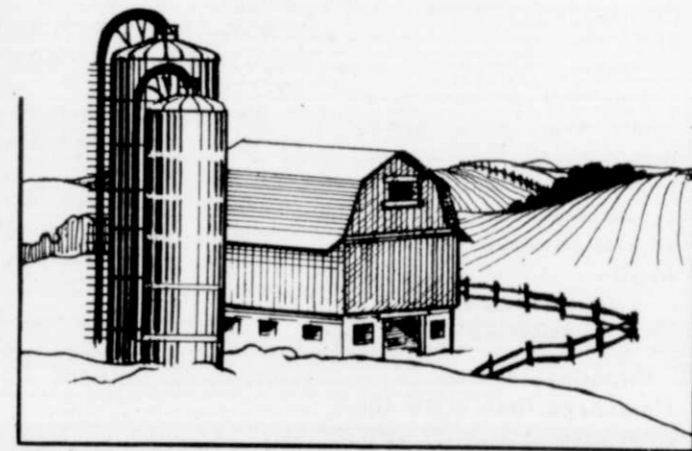

AG DAY
March 20, 1995

With less than two percent of Americans living on farms these days, National Agriculture Day helps to remind us of the importance of American agriculture and the men and women who feed and clothe us. We urge all Americans to take a moment on March 20 to celebrate the enduring partnership farmers and ranchers have made with nature.

Red Cross Says 'Help Can't Wait'

During March, the West Bend chapter of the American Red Cross is conducting a campaign to increase its volunteers and financial contributions. The chapter serves a widespread area, including this community.

One way to describe the Red Cross, according to Jackie Wicklund, the chapter's Executive Director, is through the statement, "Help Can't Wait." For more than 80 years, the national Red Cross has provided health and safety services to communities across the nation. Its mission includes emergency prevention and preparedness.

Every year, 300,000 to 400,000 Americans collapse in their homes, in workplaces, or on the streets as a result of cardiac arrest. Every year, over two million Americans are hospitalized because of injuries and over 142,000 die.

Wicklund states that the Red Cross promotes knowing what to do in a life-threatening situation so that help can save lives. The chapter provides on-going classes in such areas as CPR, First Aid, Life-Saving, and Babysitting Skills.

The West Bend Chapter can be easily contacted to inquire about services or to assist as a volunteer or to make a financial contribution. It is located at 2410-B S. Main Street, West Bend. The telephone number is 334-5687.

Legislators to Meet in West Bend for Public Hearing on Farmland Use Assessment Plan

State Representative Michael Lehman (R-Hartford) announced the Assembly Ways and Means Committee will meet on Wednesday, March 29, in the West Bend City Hall to discuss a proposal that would change the way farmland is assessed for property tax purposes.

Lehman said the Committee will hold a public hearing on Assembly Bill 176, which would establish a use value standard for assessing agricultural land. The hearing will be held in the West Bend City Hall Council Chambers, at 1115 S. Main Street, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. The public is encouraged to attend.

The Hartford Republican said the farmland use value bill would require that agricultural land be assessed on the basis of its productive use rather than its development potential.

"Under current law, all property in Wisconsin is assessed on its highest and best use," he explained. "For agricultural land, the 'best' use is considered the land's potential to be developed rather than farmed."

"Urban sprawl has driven up the value of farmland, and increased property taxes dramatically, forcing many farmers to sell," Lehman noted. "Wisconsin loses about 1,000 family farms each year, and we can help family farms stay in business if we change the way agricultural property is assessed and taxed."

"The farmland use value assessment bill will do just that, and will result in lower assessed property values and lower farm property taxes," Lehman said.

The Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation predicts farm property tax bills to decline by 20% or more, although Lehman said it is difficult to predict exactly how the measure will affect individual farmers.

For more information about the public hearing or the bill, call State Representative Michael Lehman at the State Capitol at 1-800-362-9472 or 608-267-2367.

WARM WATER ANYONE? The eighth grade students at Holy Trinity School tapped into the sun this winter. They constructed heating systems that increased the temperature of the water by 12 degrees. This was fantastic considering it was a very windy and chilly day.

The standards and symbols we use today for graduation attire were set back in 1894 by the Intercollegiate Commission.

What's Going On at The Public Library?

Don't forget... Spring storytime for four-and-five-year-olds will begin again on March 31, for eight weeks of fun. Registration is necessary so please sign up at the circulation desk today.

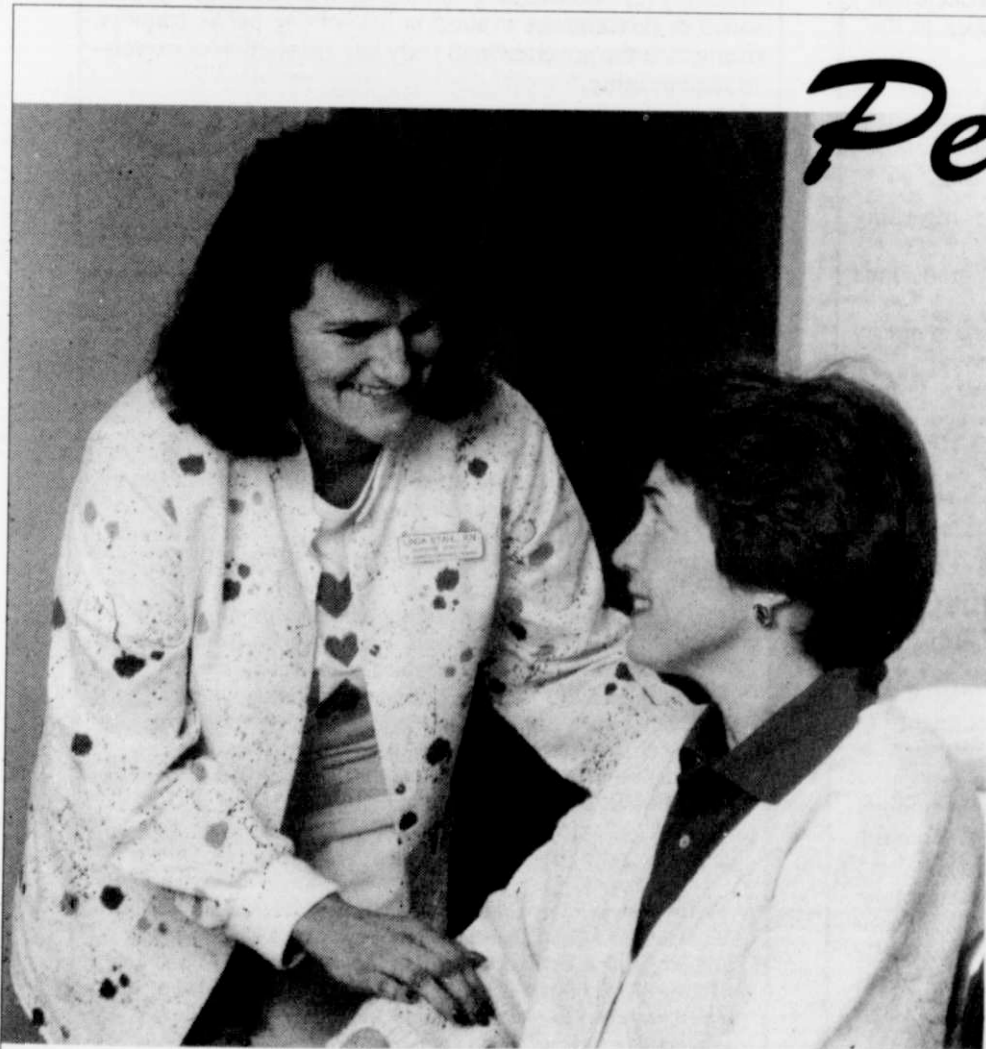

The 1995 Milwaukee Bucks challenge has come to an end. Of the local participants, fifteen kids earned vouchers good for a free ticket to the Bucks game on April 9. Ten participants read more than 750 pages, and are eligible for a drawing for an official Bucks basketball, to be given away at the game.

On the local level, congratulations go to Joshua Zima, the winner of the Milwaukee Bucks t-shirt, and Troy Koefler, the winner of the Bucks "shoe" keychain. There was a total of 17,180 pages read by kids registered at the Kewaskum library. Congratulations to all participants for a job well done!

Congratulations to Josh Zima, the winner of the Milwaukee Bucks T-shirt, which was given away by the Kewaskum Public Library in a drawing after the completion of the "Milwaukee Bucks Reading Challenge."

Governor OKs Environmental Assessment for WB Runway

A $300,000 project to conduct an environmental assessment for a proposed extension of the northeast-southwest runway (4/22) at West Bend Municipal Airport has been given the go-ahead by Governor Tommy Thompson.

"The environmental assessment will help determine if there are any environmental impediments to extending the northeast/southwest runway at West Bend Municipal Airport," said Governor Thompson. "The new runway length will more safely accommodate existing and future air traffic and will assist this community in meeting the anticipated economic growth forecast for Washington County."

The Governor's action

releases $15,000 in state funds to analyze the environmental effects of building a new runway on a different alignment to replace an existing runway. The assessment will examine what, if any, impacts there would be to nearby wetlands, forests, and residences. It will also consider what effect the new runway and its alignment will have on the proposed rerouting of WIS 33 near the airport and on noise.

The City of West Bend is contributing another $15,000 toward the environmental assessment with the Federal Aviation Administration providing $270,000.

The environmental assessment is to be completed by 1996. No date has been scheduled for construction of the new runway.

Mother Shares Story of Frustration and Help Made Available Through Persistence

THURSDAY, MARCH 23, 1995 PAGE 17

This is a success story that follows a long, hard road, but in the end, as you will see, persistence and unconditional love win out.

It all started about five years ago, when a twelve-year-old we'll call Katie, came home with a fever after skating with her Grandma. Her family chalked it up to the flu and went about their business. After all, children are expected to get sick every now and then, especially during the winter.

The problem was Katie didn't get better, she continued to get worse, and doctors didn't seem to have any answers as to the cause of her condition. The first doctor diagnosed a bronchial infection, and sent her home with antibiotics. Still, she continued to deteriorate to the point where she had to be hospitalized for dehydration. "I kept noticing how pale she was," remembers Ellen, her mother.

Next they tried a pediatric doctor, but that didn't pan out either. "He always talked over our heads so it was hard to understand him, plus he was too quick to inject cortisone into her knees, because by now her joints were affected," Ellen points out.

Katie and her mother traveled to Children's Hospital in Milwaukee, where she was run through a battery of tests, including a spinal tap, but they all came up inconclusive. By now Katie was suffering from severe headaches, joint pain, fatigue, and difficulty sleeping. "They prescribed an antidepressant to help her sleep, but I wasn't comfortable with that, the drugs made her groggy," Ellen states. Many times her questions to doctors were answered with the same, general statement, "they're teenagers," as if it was something Katie would outgrow. Other times they suggested it was psychological.

Ellen wasn't buying into any of this. Mothers know their daughters, and before all this began, Katie had been a happy, active teenager. She kept noticing those television commercials for Prologue, a doctor referral service, and one day decided to call up and see what they could do for her daughter. It turned out Prologue changed both their lives, by referring them to a Dr. Milay in Hartford, who now practices in Arizona.

Dr. Milay studied Katie's case, researching all the information he received from Children's Hospital and the possible diagnosis, and realized things just didn't jive. He had a different idea of what was wrong with Katie, and he had an answer to their questions.

Katie was diagnosed with Chronic Fatigue Syndrome, and Ellen recalls the day she found out. "I didn't want to believe him. The little I'd read about it, I knew that not much was known about it at all, and oftentimes it was thought of as a psychological problem. It was so hard watching Katie's friends continue on with their lives while she had to stay home. But she's got a very mature outlook on life, I can tell you -- more so than some adults."

With the doctor's help, Katie learned how to manage her illness, and train her body to become aware of when she was getting sick before it happened. "Now I feel it coming on and I take a break," Katie explains. She needs to get lots of rest, maintain a low exercise level, and eat whatever she can tolerate. "When she was in the hospital, the nurses would come in her room, and say, 'here's the girl that doesn't like to eat,' and that hurt Katie," Ellen recalls. "It wasn't a matter of her not wanting to eat, she couldn't."

Through this entire five year ordeal, school had become a nightmare, with a few bright spots that somehow led Katie through and gave her strength to go on. The two that shined the brightest were Mr. Heckel and Mr. Squier, who both knew Katie and realized her illness wasn't psychological. "There were a lot of great teachers in eighth grade that really helped her out. They didn't treat her any different than before, they were really fantastic."

When Katie began to miss more and more school, Ellen would go in and pick up her assignments, but Katie wasn't able to keep up with her classes, and started to fall behind in her studies. Ellen went in to talk to the principal about tutoring, and her daughter possibly attending school only three days a week. A meeting was held with her teachers and the doctor in attendance. "It was during this meeting I remember a Guidance Counselor had written on the bottom of some notes, 'poor me syndrome'," Ellen remarks. "I saw it when I was applying for SSI (disability for Katie)."

A tutoring program was set up, but the teachers weren't sure how to grade her, and Katie missed school. She tried going back the last month, but that put her back in the hospital with high fever and severe pain. The stress of trying to keep up had been too much. "I guess I forgot to slow down," Katie replies.

When Katie entered high school they received a letter saying that a special program was being set up for her, so Ellen called the administrator of special programs. He knew nothing about the letter, and assumed things were just being carried over from the middle school. At registration, she explained her daughter's situation and was told all she needed was a note from the doctor.

At the beginning of ninth grade, Katie began to go downhill again, missing a lot of school, and when Ellen called to pick up her assignments, she was told that she needed a doctor's excuse or Katie would be considered truant. When she talked to someone higher up, she was told, "sometimes kids use these excuses in order to be truant." Ellen slammed down the phone in frustration.

"I thought I had explained everything to them at the beginning of the year," she exclaimed, but went ahead and did what they wanted and Dr. Milay came in to talk to the school again. Katie was assigned a tutor to help her with her studies.

More problems arose when the tutor, unfamiliar with Chronic Fatigue Syndrome, accused Ellen of not feeding Katie properly. She fell even more behind in her studies, and the learning seemed inadequate, and often confusing for Katie. She was hospitalized again, and another meeting was called with the school. "Don't they understand that Katie has a faulty immune system that fights itself?" Ellen questioned, wishing there was some other way to help her daughter.

When the school defended the tutor, Ellen started really pushing for something new, and suggested home schooling. She was told that Katie would have to be continually evaluated in a program like this and there were no guarantees. As a last resort, Ellen contacted members of the school board to see if there was any other alternatives, and Neal Weare and Jean Goeden came to her rescue.

Weare researched the possibilities and asked Ellen if Katie was ever "M-teamed," where the school evaluates the student. He was told that Katie hadn't been, but Ellen later found out that an evaluation had taken place in 9th grade. "They should have known that she had been, no one ever told us that she was eligible for a different program."

Katie was entitled to an IEP major evaluation, and began receiving instruction from regular high school teachers in all her subjects. She was required to take an HSED (High School Equivalency Test), because she had fallen so far behind in credits from years of delays and illness. Right now, Katie is one test away from completing it, and will be graduating with her class this June.

"There's got to be some way parents with kids like this can get help without going through all these delays," Ellen expresses. "These kids can only attend school on an on again, off again basis. Sometimes she even missed tutoring because of her illness."

"I want people to know that the school board was instrumental in getting us the help we needed. We will be having a graduation party in June, and you can be sure Neal Weare will get an invitation. He opened doors for us we never thought existed. We shouldn't have had to go through all this, but it was because her illness was something that wasn't acknowledged or recognized. We wanted to tell Katie's story so others would know that there are programs out there that can help, but someone has to steer us in the right direction."

IN MEMORY

In memory of HAROLD A. BOETTCHER, who passed away five years ago, March 24, 1990:

Life is but a stopping place,
A pause in what's to be.
A resting place along the road,
To sweet eternity.
We all have different journeys,
Different paths along the way,
We all were meant to learn some things,
But never meant to stay...
Our destination is a place
Far greater than we know.
For some, the journey's quicker,
For some, the journey's slow.
And when the journey finally ends,
We'll claim a great reward.
And find an everlasting peace,
Together with the Lord.

Town of Scott Board Reviews Conditional Use Permits

By Bernadette Mondloch

During a public hearing held prior to the March 9th meeting of the Town of Scott Board, several requests for conditional uses were reviewed. The most controversial was that of Henry Derler, County SS. All home based businesses within the town require a conditional use permit which carries with it a $75 application fee to cover costs of the planning commission.

Derler objected to the fee as well as the permit. He explained that he is retired, living on social security income and as a hobby, repairs and rebuilds horse drawn carts and horse harnesses. Because he relates to this activity as "only a hobby."

He said, "I don't feel I should pay $75 for a hobby. Show me where I don't have a right to do what I'm doing." Referring to his participation in the armed services, he added, "I fought too hard for this country and I have rights too."

Supervisor Richar Bemis explained that the fee was charged so all of the town's taxpayers would not be responsible for the costs of zoning for individual properties.

It was agreed to table the request until the board would have time to view the premises and observe exactly what is being done at that location. The planning commission has recommended that a conditional use permit be issued.

As Mr. Derler was leaving he said, "Just mail any communications you may have for me to "Town of Scott, Little Russia, 53001."

Conditional Use permits which were approved went to A & R Pipeline for an office building in Section 17, to Leslie Gessner for a welding and machine shop in Section 20 and to Norbert Degnitz for cabinet building in Section 27.

The question of whether or not a well which was drilled in the vicinity of Church Street in Beechwood was illegally done on right of way has been resolved. A search of the minutes of July, 1979 indicates that a survey was approved for the location of Church Street. The survey shows that the road right of way is 33 feet at the west end and narrows to 24.75 feet at the south end. This puts the well's location at 20 feet off of the center of the road and therefore is legal.

Bemis, a member of the Fire Department Committee related that the next meeting of that committee will be held on September 25. If both fire departments fail to send representatives at that time, he will not schedule future meetings. He related that it has been past practice to have a town board member meet with the Batavia and Beechwood fire departments several times throughout the year to discuss various issues and needs. At the last meeting only Beechwood was represented.

Jean Strack has submitted her resignation as representative on the Random Lake Community Joint Library committee, effective immediately. She is resigning due to a job conflict. Anyone interested in being her replacement should contact Chairman Lester Benzschawel.

Jean Linton and Marshall Reysen have been reappointed to the Board of Appeals, with their terms to expire in 1998. A building permit was issued to William Hermann, home, $94,000.

The Town of Scott Treasurer and official dog licenser, Marie Ederler, wishes to remind all Scott dog owners that licenses are due April 1. Dog owners waiting until after that date to obtain a license for their dog will be subject to a $10 penalty per dog.

Those who fail to apply for a license will have their names turned over to the District Attorney for prosecution. Dog licenses are not a local regulation, it is a directive of the State. Proof of vaccination for rabies must be given at the time of application.

"King Solomon," declared a little girl in Sunday School, "is my favorite character in the Bible-because he was so kind to ladies and animals."

The startled teacher demanded, "Who told you that?"

"Nobody told me; I read it myself in the Bible," asserted the little girl. "It says Solomon kept seven hundred wives and three hundred porcupines."

Schreffler Named to EW's Second Team

By Statesman Sports Writer

KEWASKUM - Despite finishing among the leaders in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference in scoring, Kewaskum's Kelly Schreffler didn't garner enough support from league coaches to earn a first team all-conference spot.

Instead, Schreffler had to settle for a spot on the league's all-second team. Schreffler finished fifth in the league in scoring, with 153 points, good enough for a 12.8 average per game. A junior this season, Schreffler was the Lady Indians' most consistent offensive player.

Two Rivers, which rolled through the EW schedule with a 12-0 record, placed three players on the conference's first team. Senior Shanna Miller led the way, along with senior guard Angie Gates, and soph forward Kristin Steckmesser. Joining the three Purple Raiders on the first unit were Chilton's Chyanne Kapitski and Plymouth's Jenny Sorensen.

Kapitski, who hit the Lady Indians for 36 points in a late-season win, led the league in scoring with 220 points, an 18 point per game average. Sorensen, New Holstein's Mindy Schmidt and Miller also placed ahead of Schreffler in the scoring race.

Schmidt joined Schreffler on the second unit, along with Chilton's Mary Engler, Kiel's Hope Kort, Two Rivers' Krista Hoffman, and New Holstein's Laurie Buchel.

Kewaskum Athletic Club Offers Youth Hardball Leagues

As the spring season gets closer, the Kewaskum Athletic Club/Youth Division members are once again making preparations for the upcoming baseball season.

As in years past, the KAC/YD will be sponsoring youth hardball for three different leagues. There will be Midget (ages 9-11), Little (ages 12-13) and Pony (ages 14-15). Those eligible for Pony League will be for anyone who is not involved in a WIAA sanctioned program through their respective high schools.

These leagues are a traveling league with games played in Kewaskum as well as surrounding communities. Any questions about any of these leagues, you can contact Dean Scheel (626-4600) or Gary Schweder (338-0814).

This year will be the second year of sponsoring the Youth T-ball and Youth Rubberball programs. The required ages for these programs are (5-7) for T-ball and (8-10) for Rubberball. All games will be played at the Kiwanis Community Park. Any questions or concerns about these two leagues can be directed towards Connie Schulist (626-4253) or to Karen Kletti (334-0227).

Sign up for all leagues will be held at the Kewaskum Community Building on Thurs., evening, March 30, from 6 to 8 p.m. and also on Sat., afternoon, April 1 from 1 to 3 p.m.

All forms for sign up will be handed out at all local schools and if you are unable to sign your child up on the above dates, all forms can be mailed to Dean Scheel, 1122 Edgewood, Kewaskum, WI, 53040. Cost for sign up will be $6.00, for T-ball and Rubberball; $10.00 for Midget and Little League, and $15.00 for Pony League.

The Kewaskum Athletic Club/Youth Division is an organization that handles the summer youth baseball leagues as well as the fall flag football season. It is an organization directed at providing the Kewaskum area youth with an opportunity to work together to learn sportsmanship, teamwork, and the basic fundamentals of baseball as well as football. We are constantly looking for new members, volunteers, coaches and umpires.

This organization also is accepting any money donations which will go towards providing our area youth with the proper equipment for their safety and protection. Checks can be made out to Kewaskum athletic Club/Youth Division and mailed to 1122 Edgewood Dr., Kewaskum, 53040. All past and future contributions are greatly appreciated.

Good luck to all players on their upcoming baseball season. 3-23-21

David Gosa of Kewaskum arrived back from the National Junior Olympic Cross Country Ski championships held in Alaska, tired but happy with a fourth place relay medal in hand.

He got off the plane in Milwaukee Sunday, March 12, at 2 p.m. with air temperatures around 70 degrees after leaving Fairbanks, Alaska, at midnight Saturday when temperatures of -50 degrees and wind chills of -75 degrees were recorded, a difference of about 120 degrees!

The high point of the week for KHS senior, David Gosa, was the fourth place finish his relay team captured on the last day of competition on Saturday. The first two legs of the relay were classical technique and the last leg was freestyle technique.

David skied the second 5 K classical leg. The Midwest District Team, of which David was a member, spent one week in Alaska competing against the other 14 district teams from the rest of the United States.

In individual competition, David finished 26th out of 33 in the 15 k freestyle competition on Wednesday and also 26th out of 34 in the 10 K classical competition on Friday. The races were held at Birch Hills near Fairbanks, Alaska. Over 300 skiers from across the United States competed at the races.

David felt that going to and competing in the National Junior Olympics was an excellent experience. The competition was fierce just like he thought it would be at the national level.

In one race, the Alaskan district racers took the first nine places. When asked about the course, David replied, "The course was the hardest he had ever skied on. The uphill was extremely long and the downhill was long and very fast."

Racers going down one of the hills, were being clocked going 45 to 50 miles per hour. The weather during the week was really quite mild by Alaskan standards. The high temperatures for the day were usually about -5 to 0 degrees. David also remarked that he had never seen so much snow and that Alaska is truly very beautiful and hopes to go back.

David again wishes to thank all the businesses, organizations, and individuals who made contributions to help defray the costs of getting to Alaska and competing at the National Junior Olympics. "This was a really great experience," concluded David.
