School, Lottery Referendums Defeated

Andera Receives Most Votes for School Board

Kewaskum School District voters seemed to send a clear message to the powers that be by soundly defeating the school referendum by 373 votes and giving their support to newcomer Mary Andera, who garnered the most votes, 1,298, for a seat on the Kewaskum School Board.

The two other seats on the School Board were won by Incumbents John Schulte, who received 1,247 votes and Karen Sparks, who edged out Ray Engelking, 1,014 to 995.

In the village, President Robert Wagner, who was running unopposed, garnered 417 votes. The three trustee candidates automatically were elected to the available three seats on the Village Board. Incumbent David Goeden received the most votes, 378, as compared to Harry Roecker's 310 and Gary Gavin's 263.

The 511 total village voters also defeated the school referendum by a narrow margin, with 248 no votes over 243 yes votes. The village cast 357 school board votes for Andera, 306 for Schulte, 256 for Sparks, and 255 for Engelking.

In the Town of Kewaskum Town Supervisor race incumbent Richard Welch was defeated by David Dorn and Michael Lettow. Dorn received 159 votes, Lettow 158, as compared to Welch's 94.

In the Town of Wayne a seat for Town Chairperson, was won by Mark L. Strobel, who received 241 votes over David Scharf with 153.

Town Board Supervisory seats in the Town of Auburn were won by Kenneth Jandre, 204 votes, and Incumbent Dennis E. Fronck, 194 votes over Lloyd C. Bunkelman who received 171.

In the Town of Farmington, James Degnitz garnered 321 votes, Frank Mayer had 296 and Richard Schneider received 265.

Even though voters in Washington County passed the sports lottery, 9,550 to 9,439, the sports lottery referendum was soundly defeated statewide.

Monday is Deadline for Fireworks Donations

Monday, April 10, will be the last day area residents, civic organizations and businesses can contribute towards the Village Centennial fireworks finale according to the Kewaskum Centennial Committee. Fireworks for the event and the July 3rd display must be ordered this week in order to be constructed and shipped in time for our village's birthday celebration.

Any donations, in any amount, will be gratefully accepted through Monday. Many ground displays have already been ordered by businesses and there is not much room left to set up very many more.

What the committee is looking for at this point is contributions towards the aerial bursts and finale packages which always take everyone's breath away for miles around.

Now, the amount of colors exploding in the sky on the evening of June 10th in Riverhill Park depends on what people want to sponsor. We can have an average amount of fireworks or we can envision a display of fireworks the likes of which we have never seen in this area, to cap off our Centennial celebration.

I'm hoping the child in all of us gets their wish, and with everyone contributing a little, we can all exel "oohs and aahs" as we sit back and watch the beautiful sky show. If we all do our part, we can make this into a beautiful memory our children will carry with them for a long time to come.

The names of contributors will be published in next week's edition of the Statesman. There is a coupon on page 20 of this paper you can fill out with your donation and either drop off at the Statesman, 250 Main Street, or it can be mailed to Centennial Fireworks, % The Kewaskum Statesman, P.O. Box 98, Kewaskum, WI 53040. Help us create a memory.

Time Capsule Planned by Jaycees for Centennial

As part of Kewaskum's Centennial the J C's are having a time capsule. They are having a 6 x 3 ft. vault. It will be open and on display June 10th at the Riverhill Park.

Plans are being worked on to have it available for one to two weeks before the celebration also. We would like all village churches, businesses, clubs, village departments, organizations and the public to be aware and welcome their contributions to fill the time capsule.

Ideas could be pictures, (JC's are planning the '95 little league pictures to be placed), church bulletins or notices from June 10th, prices of items in stores, membership lists, etc. The ideas are endless

Remember the size so no real large items please, we want to leave room for as many people as possible. This is the time to think ahead and personalize your business, church, club, or group into Kewaskum's history.

You may say what can I put in? What about a letter to your future grandchild? Think in 50 or 100 years you may or may not be around for you to see or even talk to this child. But wouldn't it be grand if he or she could read a letter written by their grandparent's own hand decades from now. Use your imagination.

Clinics to Merge

By Sharon Callaway Roznik

As of April 1, the Sison Medical Clinic Ltd. in Kewaskum has merged with the West Bend Clinic, and long time area physician, Dr. Cesar Sison, will now be a full partner with West Bend. Dr. Sison has provided general surgery and family practice care to the Kewaskum area for the past 24 years.

Sison joins 13 other doctors who work within West Bend Clinic, but states that Kewaskum will still be his home base. "We've been spreading ourselves too thin lately," he explains, citing some of the reasons for the recent change in medical services. "Both my wife, Aurora, and Dr. Castro have retired from the clinic, and I've taken on most of their patients. For the last two years, I've been working alone, and I feel it's too much for one person."

The Sisons traveled to this country from the Philippines in 1964, and after completing their medical training at the Illinois Masonic Medical Center in Chicago, Illinois, began working in the Milwaukee area. In April, 1971, they moved to Kewaskum after a friend from Jackson, who was also a doctor, told them that Doctor Edwards was retiring and the community needed a doctor to replace him.

"We decided to try it for at least two years and after that we would decide if we wanted to stay," Cesar recalls. They purchased the home of Doc Edwards' daughter, and later built their own home in the village.

In the beginning, the husband and wife team ran two offices. One was located at the Community Center in Campbellsport, where they worked out of three rooms, and the other was based where My Little Friends Day Care Center now operates in Kewaskum.

Cesar and Aurora enjoyed the community and found life in a small town to their liking, so they decided to remain here, where they've raised three children, John 28, Cesar Jr. 24, and Ira 22.

With most large medical complexes merging with each other these days, Sison points out that the days of "solo practitioners" are coming to an end. Two internal medicine specialists will be joining him at West Bend Clinic's Kewaskum location; Dr. Greg Blommel and Dr. Michael Mosley will be practicing here part time. Future plans include the hiring of an additional family practitioner.

"We are very pleased to have Dr. Sison join our organization, said Todd J. Hammer, M.D., the Clinic's President. "The Kewaskum area is important to our future growth and Dr. Sison's

Die Freistadt Alte Kameraden To Be Featured at Centennial

Shown above are members of the Die Freistadt Alte Kameraden band who will be performing at Kewaskum's Centennial celebration on Saturday, June 10, at Riverhill Park.

By Sharon Callaway Roznik

Kewaskum is honored to welcome Die Freistadt Alte Kameraden Band to its Centennial Celebration; a musical group whose love for music and fellowship is rooted deep in tradition.

Their story begins in the Province of Pomerania in Prussia, when in 1838, 400 families defied the King's order to worship in the state church, and left Germany to seek a new life in America. After a long and difficult trip, they arrived in Buffalo, New York, with 40 families continuing on into wilderness north of Milwaukee. They called their new home Freystadt, meaning "free place," but later changed it to Freistadt.

These settlers brought with them a tradition of playing music, and 103 years later, some young members of the community decided to form a band. The year was 1942, and it was a difficult time for the German farming community. Many of them still farmed with teams of horses, and their church service was held in the traditional German language, when America was at war with Japan and Germany. These young people felt their music would contribute to the national effort and demonstrate their strong patriotism as Americans.

They called themselves the Victory Band, played for local weddings, and took home a second place from the Ozaukee County Fair. Through the years, membership changed, and every Fourth of July the group joined their fathers and other musicians to play at the Freistadt Church picnic, performing music from the church band's library.

By 1966, the band members were married with families of their own, when the group was invited to play for the Germantown Lions Club's first Octoberfest. It was then they decided to change their name to the Freistadt Alte Kameraden Band.

They rehearsed in Marvin Boehlke's barn, and a neighbor, attracted by the noise, came to see what was going on. He went back home and got his homemade ash can cover string base and joined in. The following years brought them more jobs traveling and playing in Stoughton, Newburg, Cedarburg, Deerfield, Slinger, Mayville, and Waunakee.

Their reputation as an authentic Bavarian brass band spread throughout the area, and they were chosen to play at various ethnic festivities in Milwaukee, including a performance at Mount Mary College for the Drei Trachten Verein, and the Bavarian Club's annual Octoberfest in Old Heidelberg Park. In 1972 they were the honored ethnic group at the International Institute's annual Holiday Folk Fair held in Milwaukee's Arena.

Since then, the band has traveled to Germany four times, fulfilling lifelong dreams of playing at a number of exciting and historic locations. The band's library of German music continued to grow, and their sound continued to improve, rewarding them with a host of job invitations. Governor Lucey proclaimed the band, "Wisconsin's Ambassadors of Music to Germany."

The band has made five musical recordings, and are played regularly over WTKM in Hartford, and their music is also sold at all playing engagements. Their new goal was to improve their playing ability and presentation of the German sound, which they accomplished and surpassed.

In 1975, the Thames Television Company of London spend a month in Freistadt, filming the German segment of a six part television series called, "Destination America," in which the band appeared in many of the scenes. The same year they were recruited to play in the Smithsonian Institute's Festival of American Folk Life in Washington D.C.

Their 40th Anniversary celebration was held in 1982, and since then their reputation has continued to expand worldwide, creating an exchange of German bands and dance groups that travel from Germany to Freistadt to visit and perform at events throughout Wisconsin. Since 1981, the Freistadt Alte Kameraden Band has been one of the featured performers at Milwaukee's Germanfest, held on the Summerfest Grounds.

One of the highest honors for any entertaining group is to perform for the President of the United States, which the band did, on two different occasions. The first was at Old Heidelberg Park on the occasion of President Ronald Reagan's 1984 re-election campaign, and again in 1987 in Port Washington for Reagan's election tour.

Many of their jobs developed into return performances year after year, and in 1992, they celebrated 50 years together. This small group of friends who gathered together in 1942 to play for fun and 4-H competition, never dreamt of the things that would happen to them along the way, and least of all, that they would still be a group 50 years later. These dedicated musicians continue to strive for excellence and play for the enjoyment and camaraderie the traditional German music brings to them.

Join them June 10th at River Hill Park in Kewaskum for an unforgettable experience as they merge their history with our rich heritage in celebrating the paths that led us to success in this great country.

A Walk With Tiny Down Kewaskum's Memory Lane

By Sharon Callaway Roznik

Tiny Terlinden has lived in Kewaskum practically all of his 77 years, and those who know him, consider him one of the town's historians. His collection of slides and photographs chronicle the growth of the village, as well as the changes that have taken place throughout the decades.

His father died when Tiny was eight years old, and his mother, Mrs. Tillie Schaeffer, operated the Grand View lunchroom where Schmitt's Never Inn is now located. Tiny spent much of his youth there, which served as a tavern, a grocery store, and also sold fresh baked goods daily to the people of the community.

The Grandview Lunchroom also served as a meeting place for young people, and during World War II it became a sort of headquarters for servicemen on leave, also attracting the young girls that lived in the village. A special wall was dedicated to all the boys serving their country, and their photographs, addresses and pennants were put up for viewing. "It was a fun bunch of young people," he recalls, "and we used to have a lot of parties there when someone came home on leave."

Terlinden was also in the military for three years during World War II, and spent a year and half over in Europe. While stationed in Germany, he kept in contact with another local serviceman, Ralph Marx, who was also in Germany. Marx was an officer and arranged for Tiny to visit him in Berchtesgarden. The two of them toured Hitler's bombed out hideout, and Tiny chipped off a piece of Hitler's fireplace, which he still has in his possession.

Another of his longtime hobbies is music, and Tiny learned to play the piano and accordion. In the late 30's, he and some friends joined up with Al Krahn and became Al's Melody Kings. "We called it old time music, on the same order as polkas," he explains, and his career continued throughout five different bands from high school until 1962, including the Kewaynie Five, Etta's Old Timers, and the Tiny Terlinden Orchestra, which gathered a large following.

From 1962 to 1981, he began to play organ by himself, entertaining at the Glacier Inn for eight years while it still operated as a hotel, and then for Hon-E-Kor Country Club every Friday night for 19 years. He owns an expansive collection of long playing records and still enjoys listening to the music that brought him fame and recognition.

Tiny was employed by Miller's Furniture Store for 41 years as a repairman/handyman, and remembers when the store burned down in 1941, an event that he recorded with his camera. What started out as just a hobby he dabbled in after he got out of points out that although he isn't good with dates, his recollections of what life was like growing up in a small town is extremely vivid and colorful.

Val Peters had a harness shop in town and in winter-time, bobsleds were a common sight as a means of transportation in the village. The children loved to hang on to the runners to get a free ride. In November, 1940, Franklin Roosevelt Jr. made a brief stop at the corner of Main Street and Fond du Lac Avenue, while passing through town. His father was president at the time.

Some of the businesses on the south end of town included Leander Honeck's Filling Station with George Kippenhan's garage out back (the same building held a mattress manufacturer), The Wigwam restaurant - run by Bill Edwards, Frances Bohn's liquor store, Carl and Harry Schaefer's garage, with Orrie Buss as their mechanic, Louis Heisler's Tavern, Henry Ramthun & Sons Hardware, Plumbing and Heating - with the building of metal boats as a side line, Clarence Kluever's barber shop, the Tavern of Albert Terlinden, Don Harbeck and Art Schaefer's printing/newspaper office, and the L. Rosenheimer Department Store, where John Witzig had a spot to sell his shoes in.

Bernard Seil ran a John Deere dealership in a warehouse behind Rosenheimers, and Tiny noted that at the time it was the biggest parts dealership in the state. People would travel to Kewaskum from all over the area to find the parts they needed. Ed Miller Sr. owned Miller's Furniture store at that time and Artie Perschbacher and his son Myron owned a garage and sold Buick cars.

Dr. Ed Hausman was the doctor of the town, back in the days when they still made house calls. There used to be a tavern run by Frank Keller where a parking lot is now located on First Street, and the Farmers and Merchants State Bank is now Bartelt Insurance Company. Upstairs, Dr. Leo Brauchle practiced dentistry. The Republican House (now the Glacier Inn) was operated by Bill and Mary Schultz. Kilian Honeck Sr. owned Honeck Garage school, turned out to be a great photographic contribution to Kewaskum's recorded history and the building of this community into what it has become today.

Starting with a simple Kodak Brownie box camera, he recorded everything he saw. "If there was anything to see, I took a picture of it," Tiny states. "I made it a point to photograph every business in town." He tried developing his own film for awhile, but it turned out to be too costly for him, so he regularly began to take it down to the old drugstore run by Otto B. Graf. Now he uses Nikon cameras and a variety of lenses, and enjoys recording his travels, which includes the 49 states and Europe. "I have always loved traveling, and still do a lot of it whenever I can."

Talking to Tiny is like taking a walk down Memory Lane, or in this case, the streets of old Kewaskum as he remembers them. He

Kewaskum FFA to Host Annual Rabies Clinic

Dr. Charles Ogi, right, administers a rabies shot to one of the local canines as the proud owner helps out. All dogs and cats are welcome to the rabies clinic. Any other specialty animals, please call ahead for special instructions.

It's that time of the year again when your loving pets need to be vaccinated against rabies.

The Kewaskum FFA is concerned for pets and pet owners. They are hosting their annual Rabies Clinic in the agriculture room at the high school on April 26, 1995. Vaccinations will begin at 6 p.m. and continue until 8 p.m. They will be administered at a reduced price of $10 per animal and proceeds are going to a scholarship fund for FFA students.

Administering the vaccinations will be Drs. Charles and Greg Ogi. They enjoy keeping man's best friend happy and healthy.

Rabies is a virus that is passed through saliva of animals. The incubation period can vary from 15 to 20 days of the first sign. The first symptom is a loss of appetite and behavior change. The second phase is known as the paralytic form, where paralyzation and salivary excretion begin. In the third stage, the animal becomes very irrational and viciously aggressive. Dogs rarely live more than ten days after the first sign.

Knowing these signs, it's a good time to have all pets vaccinated against rabies. If you are unsure about your animal's health, contact your local veterinary clinic.

and he doubled as a cattle dealer. Jake Becker was the town's blacksmith.

"We used to have a lot of business here, all kinds of stores for every little thing you can imagine," Tiny recalls. "The town survived very well during the depression, and we didn't lose many businesses." Quade Creamery (before Kemps) employed a good many people as well as L. Rosenheimer's Malt House. Rosenheimer was a big name in town at that time and owned many of the businesses.

The Malt House had steam pipes running underground that furnished heat in the wintertime for Rosenheimer's Store and the bank, with a big metal trap door in the middle of the sidewalk. There was enough heat radiated in that area to keep the sidewalk free of snow.

"Everybody knew everyone else, and we all got along," Terlinden remarks. "Everyone was like a big family and made themselves at home. When farmers came into Mom's tavern and she was in the kitchen, they'd just walk right back there and visit with her."

When Tiny was eight years old, a train derailed in town and his Dad took him up to get a closer look. The whole town came to see the big event.

At that time, Fond du Lac Avenue used to be lined with large trees, which were cut down in 1957 when they repaved the road and added new sidewalks and street lights.

Traveling down Main Street there was a hat shop, and Phillip McLaughlin's butcher shop, John Gruber ran the bakery and Hubert Wittman was the town's barber. Next down the line was Reinder's Funeral Home, Endlich's Jewelry Store and Mike Skupnivit's hardware store, and later on came the Modernistic Beer Garden, run by Jake Meinhardt. John Marx ran the IGA store, and just across the railroad tracks was the location of the firehouse. Jake Rimmel was the gate tender for the railroad and was stationed in a tower near the tracks.

Farther down Main Street was John Brunner's tavern, which changed hands to Ed Bartelt and then Jimmy Miller. Next door was a baker's shop, Dr. Nolting's dentistry, Holy Trinity Church, Meilahn's Funeral Home, and the A.G. Koch Store and Farm Machinery. Oscar Koerble was one of the main clerks there. A blacksmith shop stood alongside the Milwaukee River.

Across the street, past the old school, was the Kewaskum Opera House, which served as a tavern and dance hall. "I loved going to the wrestling matches that were held there," Tiny declares, "and also the medicine shows that came into town. Bill Gossman played the piano while they peddled their medicines."

Nearby was John Witzig's barber shop which was later taken over by Al Wietor, and next in line was Ed Miller's drug store and photography. His son Charles continued the business. The flower shop was located next door but burned down in the early 1960's. Joe Eberle's tavern and bowling alley was next. He was well known across the state for his prize winning beagles. His brother, Bill, was John Schaefer's mechanic.

John Van Blarcom owned a hardware store, which was later turned into a Gambles Store by Frank and Helen Felix. Farther along came Joe Meyer's shoe store and the telephone office. "Celesta Koerble was the telephone operator, and to put a call through you had to turn a crank on your phone and she'd answer. Then you'd tell her the number you wanted to reach, and she'd put you through. She always knew everything that was going on in the town."

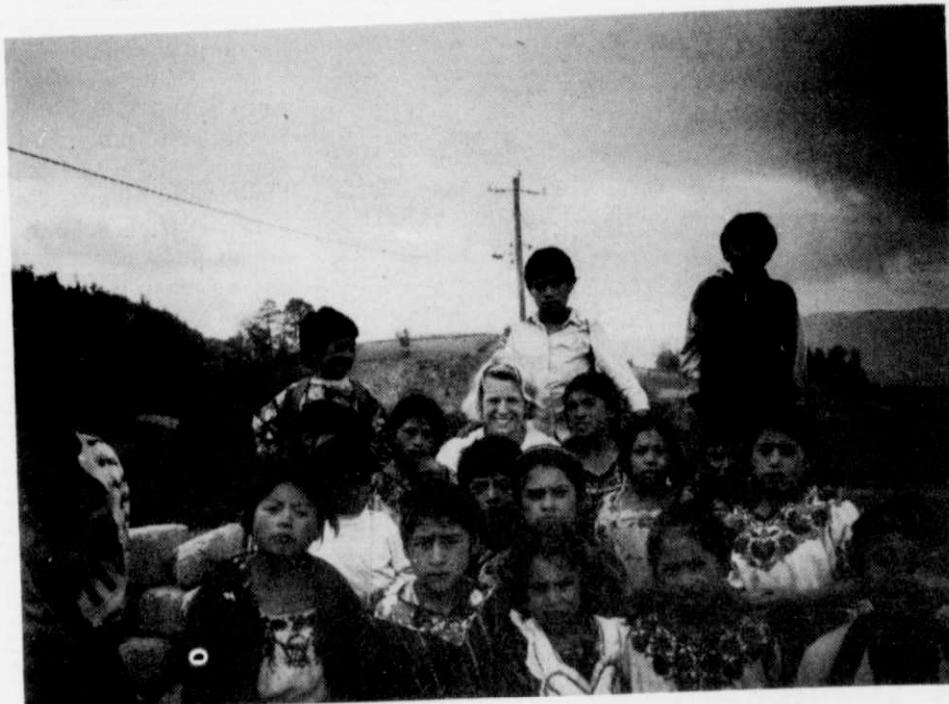

Frank Hepe was Kewaskum's postmaster for many years, with John Stellflug's meat market right next door, and then Sebastian Casper's Tavern, where Timblin's new trucking office now stands. The train depot was across the street, alongside the tracks. Tony Schaefer was the dispatcher, and when the train would slow up Tony would run alongside with a long hook and hand messages to the conductor. The big metal wheel wagon was loaded up with mail from the train and pulled down to the post office.

Groups of people would come up from Chicago on the train and get off in Kewaskum. They held picnics at Northside Park, which was a popular park with big shade trees and sheltered buildings. Across the tracks was H.J. Lay Lumber Company where Fred Buss was in charge, and the Bank of Kewaskum, owned by the Rosenheimers.

"There used to be a vacant lot where the old Savings and Loan building is now located," Tiny remembers. "One night a week the local business people would sponsor a free outdoor movie, as a promotion to get people into town to shop at their stores."

These scenes of the streets of old Kewaskum have been as Tiny remembers them, brought to life through his collection of old photographs. As an unofficial historian of the village, some names may have been left out, but his memory paints us a picture of what life was like back in "the good old days."

Former KHS Student Pam Gauger Experiences Third World Country

Pam Gauger, a graduate of Kewaskum High School, was one of eight UW-Oshkosh students who spent their spring break far from the traditional spring break destinations. Pam stated, "I was in search of a different kind of adventure that would benefit not only myself, but others as well." They spent ten days in Central America, taking Spanish lessons, painting a school, visiting indigenous villages and living among the Guatemalan culture. The following is Pam's story on her adventure.

The Alternative Spring Break, sponsored by the Newman Center in Oshkosh, took the students to Quetzaltenango, Guatemala, four hours north of the country's capital, Guatemala city. We traveled every day to an indigenous village called Canton Chiqua, a 40-minute drive from Quetzaltenango.

The village had no medical facilities or running water. Clean water was a 20-minute walk down the mountain. Our mission was to repaint the exterior and interior of the village's one and only grade school and refurbish the desks.

We left that village having done much more than that! Being the first American group to work in the village, we stirred up a lot of curiosity and wonder. As we painted we sang many songs in English and Spanish and taught the village children a few words in English. Duck, Duck Goose ended up becoming one of their favorite games that we taught them.

Everyone was so happy and friendly. I've never felt so much admiration and appreciation than I did with these children. We all became very attached to the children, which made our leaving a very difficult task.

We also received two hours of Spanish instruction each day from private professors at Central Lenguaje del Centroamerica, a Spanish language institute attended by students from around the world. Being forced to speak the language with my host family and professor definitely helped me to become more conversational in Spanish.

I know I have come back a better person because of this experience and it really has helped me to put things into perspective back here in the States. There are so many things I do not need. I know I will never take things for granted the way I have in the past.

I was really touched when my host family, who are living at poverty level, donated some money to help the people in the villages who were less fortunate than themselves.

Guatemalan people live for today, not for tomorrow, not for the future. They make the most of their days and this is something I am really trying to work on being back here in the United States. We truly are very fortunate people and I encourage everyone to try and visit a Third World Country, especially if you think you really have it bad here in the United States.

I, now, truly believe you don't know what "bad" is until you experience it first hand. Knowing that we made a difference in the lives of the people we spent time with in Guatemala definitely fulfilled my wishes for an adventurous and rewarding spring break. I would go back in a heartbeat!

Mother Goose, Easter Bunny At Pancake Breakfast Saturday

Mother Goose and The Easter Bunny are teaming up to raise money for The Washington County Humane Society. The Capital Development Campaign P.A.W.S. (Provide Animals With Shelter) will host "Brunch With The Easter Bunny and Mother Goose," on Saturday, April 8, from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at The Shelter, 3650 Hwy. 60.

This is the first year The Washington County Humane Society has held such an event. "We are very excited," said Diane Horlamus, executive director. "The response to our fall pancake brunch was tremendous. We thought we would have an event in Spring for the children."

West Bend native, Judy Farrow-Busack, who is portraying Mother Goose, has been traveling around the Midwest telling stories for the past 18 years. "I have always liked books and poetry," Busack explained. "My father wrote poetry and whenever I took care of my little brother, I always had to give him a report, in rhyme, as to how the evening went." She then added, "I can talk as quickly in rhyme as I can talk normally."

Busack has worked as storyteller at the Germantown Public Library for the past eight years. For the 11 years past, she worked at the West Bend Public Library. Busack knows over 200 children's stories. She will be telling some of her stories every hour during the Brunch.

Horlamus commented, "I have seen Mother Goose tell stories. She can captivate audiences from five to 50 years old." She then added, "She really is Mother Goose."

Children can have their photo taken with The Easter Bunny. Portraits today will take professional portraits all morning. Kids will also receive a surprise-filled egg to take home.

The Shelter will be transformed into a beautiful banquet hall and visitors can see the animals available for adoption. "It takes a lot of work to put an event like this together," Horlamus stated. "We rely heavily on our volunteers to help us with things such as bathing and grooming the animals and decorating the shelter."

The brunch includes all-you-can-eat pancakes, sausage, apple sauce, bakery, coffee, juice and milk. The donation is $5 per person (age six and older) and $3 for children under the age of five. All the proceeds will fund The Washington County Humane Society's Capital P.A.W.S.

The P.A.W.S. campaign goal is to raise $750,000 to expand and renovate the existing animal shelter. Currently, volunteers have raised over $250,000 towards the goal. The campaign is slated to run into 1997. Pledges can be given over a three year period.

The Washington County Humane Society is a non-profit, non-tax funded organization which takes care of animals, both wild and domestic. Last year, 3,000 animals were brought into the shelter.

April Showers

by A.Mi

Wunderbar! Spring, at last, at least we like to tell ourselves that after those shivery, dormant winter months.

Yet April has a way of making us question those "spring hopes" many times over. One day it is gloriously warm...the next, more winter like than winter itself. Then one warm evening we spy brave little flowers poking their innocent heads out of the damp soil. Hurrah! we phantasize imagining their producing myriads of blood-root and cowslip blossoms... only to discover a two inch snow fall the next morning.

In spite of it all, with a little patience, all of us have the joy of spring finally fully arriving in all of its beauty. Glorious wild flowers; the shag bark hickory trees modestly displaying their abundance of orchid-like blooms; an unbelievable variety of birds building their first nests of the season; and Mother Nature proudly presenting us with a delightful spectacle of furry babies.

To my delight, I sighted this week the three-legged White-tail do I told you about

Kewaskum School District News

A Very 'Abe'le Principal

President Abraham Lincoln (Principal Kevin Steinhilber) paid a visit to the Farmington Elementary School on President's Day. He visited the classrooms telling his life story. President Lincoln stressed the importance of lifelong learning.

Friday, February 17 began in the usual way at Farmington Elementary School... with the Pledge of Allegiance, of course! From then on, the schedule was completely changed from the usual math, spelling, science or recess.

The students had a special "Enrichment Day" for their morning on the early release day. They chose three favorite "classes" from a list of 23 topics chosen by an earlier school-wide survey of a range in topics from first aid to rocks and minerals to sign language to crafts and a nature hike.

Everyone went home with something to show. The PTO-sponsored event was a great success and included many Farmington family members as well as their students. "Are we doing this again next year?" was a common question heard after the first class.

The Farmington PTO would like to thank the following for their enthusiasm and talent and help to make this project an exciting change from their regular day:

Farmington Elementary School staff, Mr. Miller, Mrs.

Olsen and the high school cheerleaders, Coach Nell and the high school wrestlers, Mrs. Henke - jewelry, Carol Zoerb - brainbusters, Ellen Henckel and Arlene Paulus - sugar egg panorama, Barbara Smith - die cut designs, Jayne Steiner and friends - ice cream making, Gina Wilson - sign language, Sheila Sauer - cinnamon ornament, Janet Cinnerer - homemade play dough, Millie Hedlund, Diane Jacobi and Lisa Gibson - baking, Janet Wolfenber - Alaska story-time, Mrs. Alaska stories - nature trail, Thomas Larsen - all-around good cheer and errands, Mrs. Koepf - "Getting Along," Barbara Argabright, St. Joseph's Health Promotions - stress management, Gary Klas - Civil War re-enactor, Professor Ed. Dommissiee, UWWC - rocker and minerals, Cindy Hacker - theater, Diane Horlamus, County Humane Society - pet care, Jackie Wicklund, Red Cross - first aid, and Mr. Donath and Mrs. Mahan - computer lab.

Farmington Elementary School has truly special folks.

ART ENRICHMENT has started again at Kewaskum Middle School. There are presently 17 sixth-grade students involved in the program. These students decided they wanted to make money as well as art this past holiday season, so they created a collection of holiday pins, with designs such as snow people, stars, peace signs and angels. The students sold their pins at the Kewaskum Junior Woman's Club Craft Fair in November. The club sold nearly their entire stock of pins at $1.00 each, raising a total of $100. The student artists have decided to donate $25 to a local charity, with the remainder going back into the Art Enrichment activity fund. The students' next project is now on display in the Kewaskum Middle School library. After a cold afternoon of collecting sticks on the KMS grounds, the students set about painting them and putting them together in a large stick sculpture. Both of these projects represent the kind of individual and group creativity that Art Enrichment is all about. Way to go students!

Help Wild Birds Stay Safe in Spring

Jo Ann M. Hoffert
Washington County
Wildlife Rehabilitator

In Spring, many birds return to our area to establish territories and nesting sites. What can you do to make this time of the year safe for wild birds?

Check carefully for nests in spring and summer before trimming trees and bushes.

Check cavities in trees for occupants before cutting. Many tree dwellers such as the woodpecker and screech owl find hollows in trees a perfect place to dwell.

Birds vie for territory and nesting sites. Some may mistake their image in a window or patio door for a competitor. If you have a recurring problem, tie streamers or put a dark paper silhouette of a hawk on the OUTSIDE of your window to break the reflection the bird sees.

If nesting begins in a dangerous place around your home, deter nest building by loud noise, clapping or waving a towel nearby. If the nest is merely inconvenient, PLEASE - HAVE PATIENCE. Baby birds grow very quickly. Give them privacy and keep your cat indoors.

Use alternative methods to care for your lawn, flowers and shrubs. Ground eating birds can mistake granule fertilizers for seed. Many insect sprays are extremely toxic to birds. Reference guides can be found at the library and bookstores.

Be responsible when fishing. Water birds can easily get entangled in discarded fishing line, hooks, or may ingest lead sinkers which prove fatal.

If you are unsure if a bird or animal needs help, call Jo Ann Hoffert, 338-8883.

Two Area Students Included In Fond du Lac Chapter DAR Good Citizen Award Winners

Good Citizen Award winners in eight area high schools have been announced by the Fond du Lac Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR).

Included are Trisha K. Teofilo, St. Mary's Springs High School, Fond du Lac and Cheri Lichtensteiger, Campbellsport High School.

Faculty and senior classmates in each school have selected one student who best exemplifies the qualities of leadership, service, dependability and patriotism to an outstanding degree. Area winners are judged locally: 50 percent on personal involvement and 50 percent on an essay of 500 words or less on "Our American Heritage and Our Responsibility to Preserve It." The area winner goes on to competition at the state level.

Trisha K. Teofilo, daughter of Robert and Mary Teofilo, Kewaskum, is a student at St. Mary's Springs High School. She is a member of the National Honor Society and is active in Campy in Ministry. Trisha has lettered in concert band, pep band and jazz band. She has also lettered in varsity cheerleading, is a Student Ambassador and works in the school office. Trisha plans to attend a four-year university to study Spanish and music, with the possibility of graduate school and/or international studies.

Cheri Lichtensteiger, a student at Campbellsport High School, is the daughter of Bonnie Lichtensteiger, Campbellsport. She is a member of the National Honor Society, president of Student Council and Varsity Club, active in cross country, track and basketball. She is on the yearbook staff and a Badger Girls participant. Her career goal is to become a lawyer.

minimum allowance per day, whichever is greater.

Eligibility for this examination is limited to two years unless, after eighteen months, applicants request to have their eligibility extended for an additional year. Applicants whose eligibility has expired must reapply to compete for a standing on the register.

"I do not want to give the impression that we will be hiring great numbers of people in the coming months," the postmaster said. "I anticipate approximately 1-2 vacancies will occur in the next two years that will be filled by hiring people from the Rural Carrier register. We need qualified people who will be willing to accept employment, and we want to offer people in the local community the chance to compete for these openings by signing up for and taking this examination."

Postmaster Bonnie explained that those wishing to take the examination could apply by completing an application card at the Kewaskum Post Office, Kewaskum, WI between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.

County Lottery Claims Still Being Accepted

WEST BEND...Fredric A. Seefeldt, Washington County Treasurer, announced last Friday that he does have authority to accept 1995 Lottery Credit claim forms after the March 31 deadline printed on the cards.

As of Friday morning, March 31, the County Treasurer's office had already processed 15,000 claim cards. Earlier in the month, 29,401 cards were mailed to Washington County residents.

"Due to some unforeseen delays in processing, the turn around time between receiving the cards and March 31 was shortened," said Seefeldt. "This has caused concern for some County residents, but I can now assure everyone that if we receive their card, it will be accepted," said Seefeldt.

"The response has been excellent and I commend everyone for their prompt action," Seefeldt said. "Looking at the stack of cards waiting to be processed it seems we got them all back, but I know that is not the case. I do want to encourage all eligible homeowners to return their cards so their claims can be processed," Seefeldt added.

"Every effort was made to reach all eligible parties through the mailing. Homeowners, who feel they are eligibles, but did not receive a claim card, should still contact my office so that a late claim card can be sent to them," Seefeldt advised.

Office hours are 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Mon. through Fri. Telephone numbers are: West Bend area: 335-4324; Metro area: 342-2929 and Hartford area: 644-5304.

Reindl Named to Coaches All-State Gymnastics Team

Nadalie Reindl sports the silver medal she won at the state gymnastics meet last month.

By Tom Menger

Kewaskum High School sophomore Nadalie Reindl received recognition once again for her gymnastics achievements this year, by being named to the Wisconsin High School Gymnastics Coaches Association All-State Team recently.

Reindl was named to the team for her accomplishments on the floor exercise, where she averaged 8.4 for the year, and set a new KHS record with an 8.7.

Nadalie's 8.4 average placed her third among the five girls named to the all-state team in the floor exercise, which was headed by Amanda Kurth of Mt. Horeb, who averaged 8.94.

Nadalie placed 19th on the floor exercise and won a silver medal for her second place finish at the Division II state meet last month.

Fishing Clinics Offered to Area Youngsters Saturday

The opening day of fishing season is on the horizon. Dads and Moms, Grandpas and Grandmas are looking forward to enjoying time on area waters, catching fish and, hopefully, enjoying a meal and two of fresh fish. Many area young people would also enjoy the experience, but need a place and opportunity to learn proper, safe techniques.

The Long Lake Fishing Club, Inc. is offering to teach children, ages six through twelve, to be responsible users of our waters, topped off with the opportunity to catch fish. Learning sessions will be held at Sandy Knoll Park on Wallace Lake Drive, West Bend, on Saturday, April 8, beginning at 9 a.m. It is suggested participants arrive by 8:45 a.m.

Sessions include: Fishing and Boating Etiquette; Being a Responsible Citizen; Environment: Lakes and Watersheds - Keeping Them Clean; Fish Habits and Identification; Equipment and Rigging; Boat Safety, Rules and Regulations; and Casting Practice.

There is no fee for the clinics. Parents are invited to observe. A child who is dropped off must be picked up by or before noon.

Members of the Long

Lake Fishing Club, many of them DNR-trained Master Anglers, will conduct the clinic. Following the completion of the learning sessions, members of the club will assist the youngsters in fishing for rainbow trout. Some equipment is available for use. If a child has access to a rod and reel, it is suggested he/she bring it along. Bait will be provided.

The program in West Bend is sponsored by the Long Lake Fishing Club, Inc., Dundee, and the Wisconsin Council of Sport Fishing Organizations.

The Long Lake Fishing Club is a non-profit organization of over 450 members whose interests include lake management and habitat protection in addition to education and the promotion of good fishing and clean waters.

This is the fourth year the LLFC is sponsoring this clinic in West Bend. Over 400 boys and girls benefited from the instruction and hands-on opportunity. The club also hosts and/or educates groups from Big Brothers/Big Sisters of West Bend and Fond du Lac, area schools and 4-H, the Threshold, and groups of elderly people.

Anyone interested in becoming involved in supporting the efforts of the Long Lake Fishing Club can contact Dick Edwards, N4155 Boy Scout Drive, Campbellsport, WI 53010, phone 414-533-4430.
