Easter Egg Hunt Saturday

The Kewaskum American Legion, Robert G. Romaine Post 384, and the Women's Auxiliary will hold its annual Easter Egg Hunt for Children in River Hill Park at 1:00 p.m. on Saturday, April 15.

All area children are invited to participate in this annual scramble for colored eggs. This year as in the past, Mr. and Mrs. Easter Bunny will stop by to visit with the kiddies, courtesy of the Kewaskum Junior Women's Club.

Children age five and under will "hunt" eggs on the west side of the river and those age six and over will do their hunting on the east side of the river. The limit is six eggs per basket.

In case of inclement weather, Legion members and Mr. and Mrs. Bunny will be on hand at both places to hand out eggs and candy to the kiddies.

On Saturday, April 22, students at Kewaskum High School will gather under the stars to celebrate Junior Prom 1995.

The dance will be held in Rose Hall of Kewaskum High school from 8:00 p.m. until 11:30 p.m. Parents and community members are invited to join the students for the Grand March, which begins at 9:30 p.m.

Students may purchase tickets at lunch during the week of prom. Tickets may also be purchased at the door on the evening of prom. In order to enter the dance on Saturday, all students must present their tickets and student identification card. All visitors must have a visitor's pass. No one will be allowed to enter the dance after 9:30 p.m.

Information will be available during the week of prom regarding packages and prices for formal photographs.

Post-prom festivities are planned from 12:00 a.m. to 4:00 a.m. at the West Bend Y.M.C.A.

US 45 Construction Begins Here Monday

Construction is to begin the week of April 17 on a $906,121 project to improve 1.3 miles of US 45 between Washington County Hwy. H and WIS 28 in Kewaskum.

One lane will be kept open to traffic in both directions until the project is finished, expected to be around August 1, weather permitting, said Keith King, project manager for the Wisconsin Department of Transportation. Musson Bros., Inc., of Rhinelander, is the main contractor.

The project will improve safety and traffic flow, especially through the US 45-WIS 28 intersection, King said.

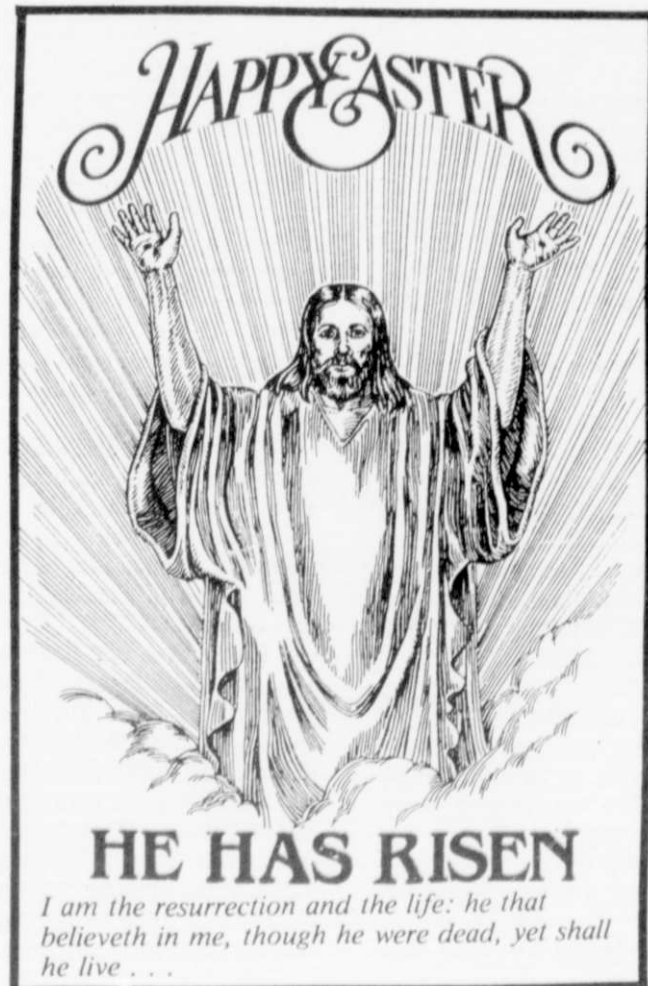

The roadway carries an average daily volume of 13,600 vehicles, including 9% trucks, and frequently is congested. There were 73 accidents in the area from 1990-92, including 15 at the US 45-County H intersection at the south end of the project.

The urban segment of the roadway will be repaved with asphalt. The rural portion will be reconstructed and widened from the existing 30 feet to between 48 and 52 feet, consistent with the width of the urban portion. Curb and gutter and sidewalks will be added.

New curb and gutter with sidewalks also will be installed, along with traffic signals, on the east side of the road at the County H-US 45 intersection.

The box culvert bridge over North Creek will be widened, consistent with the width of the improved roadway.

Helen Felix Shares Memories Of Childhood in Kewaskum

Helen Felix, remembering the good 'ole days

By Sharon Callaway Roznik

Although Kewaskum as an incorporated village this June 10th, the area was settled before this, and it is estimated that by the year 1850, 400 families were already living in and around the village.

One of the first inhabitants was Jesse Myers. He and Henry Eames made the first plat of the area that was later to become the village of Kewaskum. In 1852 he built a log house on the bank of the Milwaukee River, the first habitation of the village. Later the same year, he built a sawmill and started construction of a grist mill in 1854.

Helen (Harbeck) Felix was born in Kewaskum in 1910, and has followed it's grandfather with interest. Her grandfather, Nic Rimmel, owned Rimmel Manufacturing, and was famous for his numerous mechanical inventions. He raised four daughters, one of which was Helen's mother, Rose. Kewaskum had no high school back then, so every day Rose rode the train to West Bend to attend school and earn a teaching certificate. She later married Don Harbeck, who ran the town's newspaper/publishing business.

The town was comprised of settlers from German descent, though there were some Irish and English. Those people whose parents had come from England, but were born here, were labeled Yankees. When Helen was very small, both German and English were still taught and used in schools.

The town was thriving with businesses and full of the bustle of everyday life, especially on Saturdays from 8 to 2 when farmers came into town to trade eggs for groceries and have their grain ground at the feed mill, which was located on Wilhelmina Street at that time (now First Street). Wilhelmina Guth was Augie Bilgo's great-grandmother, and a well-known resident of the village. The mill was run by Henry and John Muckerheide.

"One of my favorite childhood memories is also of the bobsleds and riding on the runners," Helen recalls, "although now it seems like a very dangerous thing to do." Some of the farmers obliged the children, and others didn't hesitate to use their buggy whips. The children would jump on the runners and ride to the end of town, then hop on an incoming bobsled, enjoying continuous round-trip rides. According to Helen, after the advent of automobiles and people began traveling to bigger cities, Saturdays were never quite the same. The Kissel car, made in Hartford, was one of the first cars, and some were owned by village residents.

Parents had no fear of letting their children play outside after dark, and play they did, and their great numbers made it easy to chose up sides for some team sports. "Chase the blue bottle," was a hide-n-seek game, and those hiding could chose any place in town or country, including the nearby fields. There wasn't any Daylight Savings Time back then, so darkness came at eight.

"The uptown and downtown kids would challenge each other," Helen explains. Those residents living on the east side of the river were from "down in Canada," as they called it.

Helen and her friends also enjoyed fishing and swimming. "We did our swimming in the Milwaukee River, along with all the broken glass, tin cans, crabs and bloodsuckers. Seldom was there a time we didn't have a bloodsucker attached to our feet." They liked to squirm between the swimmer's toes, and sometimes they were difficult to pull off. The saying was that the bloodsuckers had to get full of blood and then they'd fall off.

Once a group was swimming below the collapsed old dam near the Main Street bridge, when Al Driessel drowned. "He went down quietly, and no one noticed until his brother Arthur (Otzzie) became alarmed when he no longer saw him with the group," Helen remembers. They thought he was playing a trick, so they searched along the shore before they called for any help.

Other games they enjoyed playing were marbles; jacks; hopscotch; the farmer in the dell; pump, pump, pull-away; ollie, ollie oxen-free; a-tis-ket a-tas-ket; here goes a bluebird through the window, and many, many more.

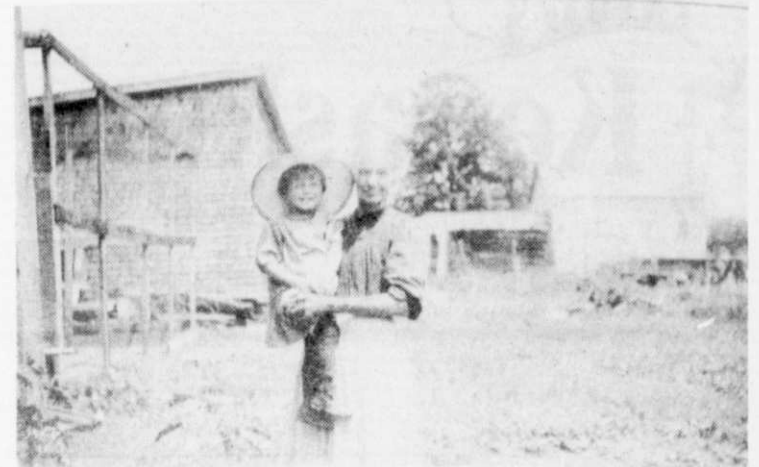

All the stores in town delivered right to the homes, so many of the village residents didn't need a horse, or means of transportation. The train schedule was frequent, and traveled to most of the surrounding cities.

Helen says that shopping was a lot different back then. "No one helped themselves at the general store; you gave the clerk your list of goods, and they took care of everything for you." Most purchases were available in bulk and stored in big barrels. Five cents would buy a big box of fine chocolates. The Koch General Store was located where Kuehl's Suds and Spirits now operates. Milk was still delivered in bottles.

Also in those days an election took place and the presidential seat changed parties, so did the postmaster, and the location of the post office. The post office has been moved quite a few times within the history of the village.

Schools taught the basics and there wasn't much fun involved in education. Helen attended Holy Trinity School, where three nuns from St. Agnes taught the children in two rooms. They were very strict and ruled according to the proverbial book. "We all recall one great teacher," Helen declares. "Sister Ernestine wanted all of us to become something in life, and she cared very much. Everyone remembers her."

The boys and girls weren't permitted to sit or play together, or associate in any way. Any mixing would take place at local dances. Boys wore short pants and dresses were mandatory for girls, with knit wool stockings covering their legs in winter. "It was so cold going to school, but as the day warmed up, we almost died in those stockings," she states. When snow pants came into style, the priest frowned on the girls wearing "pantaloons." Clothes were purchased through the Sears and Roebuck Catalog, and the Koch and Rosenheimer stores, and most of the women were proficient at sewing home-made clothing.

The girls at Holy Trinity were the janitors, while the boys carried wood for the stove. Outhouses were still in use. They had no electricity in the building in 1920, although some had it sooner than others. "When we did get electricity, the least little storm would make it go out."

Once a month, Helen took the train to Milwaukee with her Aunt Helen Rimmel, and that trip was a paradise at Christmas time. They visited Chapmans, Gimbels, and Boston Store, enjoying the glamour of the big city. During the holidays, Christmas trees, so they were lit infrequently to avoid the danger of fire. Stores tempted children with sleighs, coaster wagons, scooters, dolls and barrels full of Christmas candy.

In 1929, Helen married Frank Felix, who she met at one of the town dances, where men danced a quarter and women danced for free. Dance halls were popular meeting places and Kewaskum had several, including the octagon shaped dance floors on North and South Side Parks. They were usually held in summer, and an entire side of the building would be opened up, inviting the summer breeze indoors.

Frank fixed radios, and later televisions, and the couple opened a repair service in the village. But it was difficult collecting payment during the depression, and hardly anyone could pay for service work. Helen considers herself fortunate. "We weren't so bad, some families fared better off than some."

As luck would have it, John Van Blarcom was going out of business, and the Felixes moved into the old Ziegler building to start a Gambles franchise, selling hardware, radios and eventu-

Members of the National Wild Turkey Federation (NWF) Gateway Gobblers recently presented a check in the amount of $2,500 to Dr. David Heather, Kewaskum School District Administrator, for the benefit of the Kewaskum School District Riverwalk Project.

The Riverwalk Project will be located behind the Kewaskum Middle School along the Milwaukee River. It is a project that will be developed in stages and when completed will benefit students, area residents and wildlife.

Gateway Gobblers sponsored their fifth annual fund raising banquet in February which boasted an all time high attendance of 247. Funds raised are sent to NWF. Local chapters from around the country complete applications for funds from NWF. A state super fund committee determines how the funds are then distributed.

Wisconsin leads the nation in dollars raised and spent on wild turkey resource. Since 1987, over 168 projects totaling over $430,000 have been funded in Wisconsin.

In 1994, over 1,000,000 trees and shrubs were planted, more than 500 acres of food plots were planted for wild turkeys and other wildlife, over 300 landowners/hunters enrolled in an oak restoration program, in excess of 10,000 tree shelters were distributed to landowners, over 1,500 acres of new forests were established with NWF planters and Wisconsin chapters conducted over 100 community service programs including hunter safety, youth education and outdoor skills.

The Gateway Gobblers, chartered in 1990, has a membership of 239. In 1994, Gateway Gobblers achieved the status as the top fundraising chapter in Wisconsin. This prestigious status was reached with a lot of volunteer time, effort and hard work. Other projects established through the Gateway Gobblers efforts were tree shelters on East Moraine Drive and a donation to the Hartford Middle School for the development of a nature trail and educational materials and equipment.

Many Wisconsin chapters, including Gateway Gobblers, sponsor JAKES (Juniors Acquiring Knowledge, Ethics and Sportsmanship). Outings are planned for youngsters, 17 years or younger, to educate them about nature and the outdoors through various activities such as fishing, clay target shooting, nature walks, turkey calling contests, cooking on open campfires, gun and archery safety, as well as education in wild turkey history in Wisconsin. Wisconsin leads the nation in youth (JAKES) members.

On Saturday, June 3, the Gateway Gobblers will sponsor a JAKES Fishing Day on the Milwaukee River near the Historical Society Log House in Kewaskum. Anyone interested in becoming a JAKES member or any lucky turkey permit holder interested in joining the NWF is invited to call Jim Schaub at 626-8227 or Ralph Miller at 533-4988.

The NWF is a not-for-profit, educational, conservation organization comprised of state and local affiliates working for conservation of the wild turkey and the turkey hunting tradition. In Wisconsin, there are 47 chapters, two of which are women's chapters, the only two in the nation ranking Wisconsin second in total membership nationwide.

Have a safe and successful spring turkey hunt!

ally televisions. Bill Ziegler had run a tavern and upstairs dance hall in the building, where Helen recalls the German Kasper (puppet) shows, and the traveling medicine shows.

Their business prospered, running on a cash only basis, for approximately 35 years, until they retired from the Gambles business. Afterwards, Frank still continued the repair and service end of the business. The couple raised two daughters, Jeanne and Mary. The Felixes will always be a part of the history of Kewaskum, and Helen is looking forward to helping Kewaskum celebrate its rich heritage.

'Egg-ceptional' Art Form

By Sharon Callaway Roznik

The saying goes, "don't put all your eggs in one basket," but Karen Fechter created a unique business by doing so, and her egg art reveals a knack for turning a plain goose egg into a masterpiece.

Eggs of all shapes and sizes are transformed into intricately detailed collectibles, such as wearable jewelry, bells, ornaments, music boxes, and jewelry boxes. Each piece is an original work of art, completely hand crafted, and Karen considers them "heirlooms of the future," a family treasure that can be passed down through generations.

The origin of egg art dates back to 722 B.C., when a Chinese chieftain gave painted eggs as edible gifts during a spring festival. In the thirteenth century, recorded history mentions painted eggs with intricate designs containing religious symbols and meanings.

The egg, thought to have great magical powers, symbolizes the source of new life. The giving of decorated eggs has been an important tradition in the Old World for many years. It is given to express the love and friendship that lies deep in the heart of the giver.

Karen learned this type of art form from a friend who had taken classes in Menomonee Falls. She orders her eggs from a company that ships them already hollowed out, but they arrive very dirty and they have to be carefully scrubbed clean and prepared for working with. "I'd say it took me at least two years just to learn the different techniques and finishes applied to the inside and out," she explains, and has been seriously pursuing this art form for the past eight years.

She starts out by scoring the egg, or scribing it, so it can be cut evenly into one of several different patterns she uses. Some have little doors that open outward, and others are cut open and a scene is placed inside. Musical bells and jewelry boxes are lined with velvet, and trimmed in beads, gold and antique gold. "I find a lot of old jewelry and beads at rummage sales and use it to decorate the outside of the piece," Karen points out.

In her craft, she uses a variety of different eggs, including goose, turkey, quail, pigeon, finch and cockatiel, although you can even buy eggs as exotic as ostrich, rhea, swan, turtle and snail. All the eggs are unfertilized. "The finch eggs are the most fragile ones I work with," she mentions, and some do break in the process. "In the beginning you break a lot of them, but after awhile you get a feel for them as to how much pressure they can take."

Each individual piece is decorated with painted artwork or decals using different themes such as Precious Moments, clowns, flowers, butterflies, and other nature scenes. She cuts the eggs open using a small air drill, and also cuts intricate designs into the shells, or personalizes them with names for special occasions such as birthdays, weddings, and anniversaries, and taking personalized orders is a specialty she enjoys. "The wedding eggs are very popular right now, and I do quite a few because they are a gift that can be treasured," Karen says. For birthday orders, she can decorate the eggs using the person's birthstones. Much of her egg art is also mounted on ornate gold or silver pedestals for display purposes.

The ornaments and necklaces are dipped in a special hardening material to make them extra sturdy. The necklaces are dipped twelve times to create a lasting finish. Karen uses either a glossy or a matte finish depending on the effect she wants to create.

She likes to maintain the natural color of the eggs for authenticity, like the speckled shells of the turkey and the bluish tint of the swan's egg. To avoid waste, every part of the egg is used, and many of the oval cut-outs are turned into refrigerator magnets.

Much of her work is sold right out of her home, since she works full time at Tri-

Manor in West Bend and doesn't have time to attend many shows. Her egg art can usually be seen at West Bend Hospital's Auxiliary Craft Show held at Silverbrook School, the Kewaskum Junior Women's Kettle Country Christmas Show and the Oconomowoc Craft Show. "I don't always have much stock because they sell out so fast," Karen adds.

Although the work is painstaking, and attention is given to each little detail, it seems to be addicting, as far as Karen is concerned. "I'll plan on putting in a couple hours in the evening, and before I know it, it's midnight. Once I get going, I lose all track of time." To view her display of unique egg art, contact Karen at 334-5718.

Peace Church Offers 'Living With Purpose'

Peace Church of Kewaskum is offering an invitation to people in the community to attend a six week course, "Living With Purpose."

The course will be offered on Wednesday evenings, beginning on April 19 and running through May 24. It will be taught by Rev. James Bettin and Nancy Panzer. The cost for the course is $5.00 per student for the class book.

"Living With Purpose" challenges us to check out the spiritual condition of our hearts, and to find ways of improving and strengthening our life with Christ and with one another. Video segments of life situations bring students face to face with characters who struggle with "conditions of the heart." Class members are guided through use of exercises of prayer, meditation, confession and forgiveness.

If you wish to enroll, please call the church office during the morning at 626-4011, or the parsonage during afternoon or evening hours at 626-2911. We welcome you to come and grow in spiritual health.

KHS Music Students Perform in Texas

The KHS Concert Choir performing at the San Antonio Heritage Music Festival.

Mr. Bertelsen supervising the changing of the flat tire.

For those of you who were awake at 6 a.m. on Wednesday, March 29, you may have seen four coach buses leaving Kewaskum High School.

Four buses, 126 students, and 18 chaperones, were heading for San Antonio, Texas, loaded with suitcases, instruments, movies, food, cameras and much excitement for the trip.

After 28 hours on the road, the first stop in San Antonio was the Mexican Market Square, where many t-shirts, etc., were purchased by the students. Then on to a large shopping center across from our hotel while we waited to check in. Finally the Sheraton Fiesta was ready for us and everyone rushed to their rooms to unpack and shower.

The first evening was then spent at the downtown River Walk. Friday morning, we all boarded our buses and went to Sea World of Texas. Even though the weather was cloudy and cool, the shows still kept the KHS students clapping.

By mid-afternoon we were once again on our buses heading to Highland High School where the Concert Band, Symphonic Band and Jazz Band began their festival performances. Then back to the hotel for pizza, TV and playing the game of wondering if your chaperone is really watching (they were!)

Saturday morning was back to the high school for the performances of the Madrigal Choir and the Concert Choir. As soon as these two groups were finished it was back on the buses and off to Fiesta Texas for a day of fun and sun, and the sun was there to cooperate. One last trip to the high school for the Swing Choir performance and back to the theme park for more fun, sun, food and awards.

At the awards ceremony, the following awards were received by the KHS musicians: Concert Band - Bronze Award; Symphonic Band - Second Place and a Bronze Award; Jazz Band - Silver Award; Madrigal - Silver Award; Concert Choir - First Place and a Silver Award; Swing Choir - Second Place and a Silver Award.

The final award received by the entire group of students attending this music festival was the spirit award. The inscription reads: "THE SPIRIT OF SAN ANTONIO AWARD, Presented To The School Who Best Represents

Its Community and State At The 1995 San Antonio Heritage Music Festival." Other schools who participated in this festival included those from Louisiana, Minnesota, Oklahoma, Texas and Maryland.

After the excitement of the above awards, the students spent the rest of the evening dancing away at the outdoor DJ dance. Sadly, our last day in Texas arrives, but it was a beauty - sunny and very warm. After checking out of the hotel, the buses took us back downtown to the Alamo and River Walk.

Six hours later, we are once again on the road and pointed north to Kewaskum. The trip home went much faster and we all arrived back in town at 6:15 p.m. on Monday, April 3.

There are and will be many fond memories of this trip, as well as stories and special happenings. Ask any student or chaperone about the trip and they will probably talk your ear off.

In spite of the long travel time, many good things happened during the trip to San Antonio, and the directors and student of the Kewaskum High School Music Department wish to thank each and everyone of you for your continued support, not only through your attendance at our music programs, but through your financial support with our many fund raising events.

Thank you for your magazine renewals, your candy orders, the tree decorated for Christmas, and all those bags of popcorn at the athletic events. Thank you all for caring!

Centennial Quilt Raffle Underway

Toni Farrell displays her handmade quilt that is being donated for a Centennial Quilt Raffle. Tickets are available at local businesses.

Statesman Photos by Sharon Callaway Roznik

By Sharon Callaway Roznik

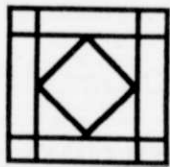

The WCAHCE Kewaskum Center Homemakers include six groups within the Kewaskum area who have been working together to come up with some fundraising ideas to benefit Kewaskum's Centennial. Two Washington County Homemaker members from the Eager Beavers group have generously donated to the cause.

Karen Ellefson has donated an overnight stay for two in a private, third story room called the Eagle's Nest, at her beautiful Old Country Ridge Inn Bed and Breakfast, located in rural Kewaskum.

Toni Farrell of Kewaskum has donated her time and talents by creating a hand-made quilt, to be raffled off, along with the Bed and Breakfast stay.

The quilt fits a double size bed, and is done in pink, forest green, and Victorian floral, following an Amish diamond quilt pattern, which is a square set on a diamond.

Toni is currently working on it and will be putting it on display at the General Store Antique as soon as it is completed, which should be sometime in the next month.

Raffle tickets for the two items will be available throughout businesses in town, and all proceeds will be donated to the Kewaskum Centennial Committee. Two drawings will be held, one for each prize, at 6 p.m. on the day of Centennial in the Kettle.

The Eager Beavers will also be selling pizza at the Centennial Celebration, scheduled for June 10th in Riverhill Park, and will be showing off their fashions of period dress.

A gift for the entire family - a subscription to the Kewaskum Statesman, serving you and your family for 100 years!

Municipal Building Closed Good Friday

The Kewaskum Municipal Building will be closed Friday, April 14, in observance of the Good Friday holiday.

Regular office hours will be resumed on Monday, April 17.

Kewaskum Fire and Rescue Squad Calls

Saturday, April 8 - The Kewaskum Rescue Squad responded to a call at 7:57 p.m. in the Village of Kewaskum for a male patient who was hit by a car. The patient was transported to St. Joseph's Community Hospital, West Bend.

Easter Seal Goes Neighbor To Neighbor for Spring

The Easter Seal Society of Wisconsin has begun its spring Neighbor to Neighbor Campaign. As part of the campaign, one of your neighbors will pass you an envelope and ask you to support Wisconsin's children and adults with disabilities through Easter Seal programs and services. Envelopes were distributed in March and will end in May.

After enclosing your tax-deductible contribution, please pass the envelope on to the next neighbor. Each contribution you make helps support Easter Seal programs and services for people with disabilities, including camping and recreation, respite and recreation, Wisconsin craftsmen, ACCESS WISCONSIN, resource center for farmers with disabilities, equipment loan, education and advocacy. All of these programs fulfill the Easter Seal mission: to maximize opportunities, minimize barriers and increase independence for people with disabilities.

Since 97 cents of every dollar raised stays in Wisconsin, Easter Seals was able to provide programs and services to over 13,000 people with disabilities throughout Wisconsin in 1994. Campaigns like Neighbor to Neighbor make it happen. If you have any questions about Easter Seal or the Neighbor to Neighbor Campaign, please contact 608-277-8288.

Time Capsule Planned by Jaycees for Centennial

As part of Kewaskum's Centennial the J C's are having a time capsule. They are having a 6 x 3 ft. vault. It will be open and on display June 10th at the Riverhill Park.

Plans are being worked on to have it available for one to two weeks before the celebration also. We would like all village churches, businesses, clubs, village departments, organizations and the public to be aware and welcome their contributions to fill the time capsule.

Ideas could be pictures, (JC's are planning the '95 little league pictures to be placed), church bulletins or notices from June 10th, prices of items in stores, membership lists, etc. The ideas are endless

Remember the size so no real large items please, we want to leave room for as many people as possible. This is the time to think ahead and personalize your business, church, club, or group into Kewaskum's history.

You may say what can I put in? What about a letter to your future grandchild? Think in 50 or 100 years you may or may not be around for you to see or even talk to this child. But wouldn't it be grand if he or she could read a letter written by their grandparent's own hand decades from now. Use your imagination.

If anyone is thinking of a movie taped, remember the equipment needed to view the tape. In 50-100 years our technology and equipment will be totally different and today's tapes more than likely will not work.

Just a reminder! Make sure all names are correctly spelled and are in the correct order. THIS IS ALSO ON A FIRST COME FIRST SERVE ORDER BASIS AS SPACE AVAILABLE. Start thinking ahead as June 10th will be here fast and maybe make yourself or something of yourself a small part of Kewaskum's history.

Learning Speech Sounds - It Takes Time

by Judith Stippich,
Speech and Language Clinician
Kewaskum Public Schools

As we all know, people aren't born talking. Children learn speech gradually.

For example, by the age of three, children usually have mastered sounds like P, B, M, N, T, D, and W in simple words. Sounds such as R, L, TH, and S may not be said correctly until the early school age years. Many mistakes are made in the process. A child may substitute one sound for another (like wun or run), or omit a sound (as in ba for ball). Sound may also be distorted such as in thoap for soap.

Some errors may be common while some may indicate a problem exists. A problem exists when a child consistently makes speech sound errors that are not usually made by children of the same age. It may then be called an articulation disorder or delay.

Errors in speech could be caused by physical problems such as cleft palate, cerebral palsy, or frequent ear infections. Sometimes articulation delays may run in your family. Still others may occur because of an unknown disturbance in the normal process of learning speech sounds.

It may be difficult for you to tell if your child is producing normal errors for his or her age or if an articulation disorder or delay exists. If you have concerns you can refer to the chart below. This should also help you to understand what to expect from children of different ages.

If you think your child has a speech problem, you can call a speech and language clinician at your school. You do not have to wait until your child is of school age.

Age of Expectancy to Say Sounds: By 3 years - M as in mime and home, N as in no and man, P as in pie and hop, W as in win, T as in toe and hat, H as in hi.

By 3.5 - B as in be and web, D as in do and mud.

By 4.0 - K as in key and make, G as in go and pig, F as in fun and knife.

By 4.5 - (some distortions accepted) - S as in soap and bus, SH as in shoe and push, J as in jam and fudge, CH as in chop and much, Z as in zoo and buzz, S blends as in step, and snack and spot.

Minutes of Village Plan Commission

Village of Kewaskum
Plan Commission
February 28, 1995
7:00 p.m.

The Plan Commission of the Village of Kewaskum, Washington County, Wisconsin met in the Council Room of the Municipal Building, 204 First Street.

Administrator Daniel S. Schmidt called the meeting to order and took roll. President Robert H. Wagner and Gerald Stollenwerk asked to be excused and were absent. Members present were Paul Ziebert, David Goeden, and Zoning Administrator Richard Zaring. John Stephani indicated he would be attending, but was absent. A quorum was not present.

Administrator Schmidt opened up the meeting with general discussion regarding the R.T.K.M. LLC. request for a conditional use permit and a new Certified Survey Map. The action of the Village Board was discussed regarding the abandonment of the installation of the extension of Highland Avenue.

At 7:45 p.m. John Stephani arrived. On a motion by Paul Ziebert, seconded by Richard Schmidt and unanimously carried, David Goeden was asked to serve as Chairman Pro-tem.

On a motion by Richard Schmidt, seconded by John Stephani and unanimously carried by voice vote, the Commission approved the minutes as printed for January 24, 1995.

Further discussion pursued pertaining to the request of R.T.K.M. LLC. for conditional use permits for a planned unit development and for placement of a private driveway, parking lot, sidewalk and recreation area within the flood plain concervancy area. On a motion by Richard Schmidt, seconded by John Stephani and unanimously carried by voice vote, the Commission sent the two matters to the Village Board for public hearing with a favorable recommendation.

On a motion by Richard Schmidt, seconded by Paul Ziebert and unanimously carried by voice vote, the Commission recommended the inclusion of some points in the developer's agreement for the PUD as follows: That the dumpsters be screened, proper curves within the drive be reviewed by the engineers for safety and access, a landscape buffer be provided to the west and north adjacent to the single family homes, that a 5 foot wide sidewalk be provided adjacent to the private drive, storm drainage be reviewed by engineers, security lighting be installed and the normal maintenance of all such improvements be so noted, as well as any others the Village Attorney may deem necessary. Also that the agreement be brought back to the Plan Commission prior to final approval.

Mr. Rick Kania of SEWR-

PC was present to review the status of the topographic mapping, as well as additional information regarding the proposed Land Use Plan. Mr. Kania brought up for discussion the second time the variety of street cross sections that will appear in the Land Use Plan. Some cross sections were noted to be changed and some deleted from the Village's Plan. It was noted that any changes so desired may still be made prior to final approval.

On a motion by Paul Ziebert, seconded by John Stephani and carried by the majority roll call vote, the Commission adjourned the meeting. Roll call vote was 4 "Aye" 0 "Nay" 3 "Absent."

Turkey Hunting Season Opens

The spring 1995 turkey season began on April 12, in turkey hunting zones throughout the southern half of the state. As the popularity of this hunt has picked up momentum, I have noticed a few problems which I will attempt to address.

The most common problem is one hunter interfering with another hunters hunt. We all know the importance of scouting before your time period, and we encourage it, but consider doing it on Monday and Tuesday when the season is closed or in the afternoon after the hunting is completed.

Nothing is more upsetting than to be working a nice tom and have someone who is not hunting, just scouting, come walking by and scare the bird off. Another situation which has been brought to my attention is the turkey drive.

We are all aware of deer drives that take place in the deer season, but it seems that some desperate turkey hunters are using this method to get their bird. I have to admit, it is not illegal, but it is sad that people will attempt to take a turkey using this method.

This method of hunting also interferes with other hunters that may be hunting in the area, increases the chance of there being a hunting accident, and also increases the chances of wounded birds or hens being shot.

Hunting turkeys is best done by sitting in one location and attempting to call a bird to you. It does not always work the way you may want it to, but that is what makes turkey hunting the great sport it is.

The other problem which has been coming up quite often is trespassing on private property. As in all hunting, permission is required before entering on to private tain of the Illinois State team, will compete at the NCAA Outdoor Nationals May 31 - June 3 at the University of Tennessee.

The Redbird is continuing what she accomplished at Random Lake, where she ran her way to a fabulous prep career.

Daggett won state cross country championships her junior and senior seasons while not losing a race over that two-year period. She won the state 3,200 her senior year after finishing second as a junior. She won the state 1,600 her junior year and finished fifth as a senior.

property. It can be tough when you hear a tom gobbling just across a field or a fence line. Trespassing leads to closed hunting.

As hunters, we should always show respect to other hunters, the game we are hunting and to property owners.

Lady Indians Fastpitch Prospects Look Good

By Tom Menger

Although cold weather has forced many of the KHS girl's fastpitch teams practices indoors, Coach Janet Molebash has still been impressed with what she has seen from her Indian team.

With only four returning seniors, inexperience looks to be one of the main factors for the Indians.

"I think we may struggle early..." Coach Molebash said of her young Indian team, led by senior letter winners Stephanie Heberer, pitcher; Missy Junk, outfield; Sara Steinert, outfield, and Shelly Williams, catcher. "But the girls should progress as the season goes on."

Top underclassmen prospects include Angie Bindrich, second base; Heather Gray, centerfield; Tanya Krahn, shortstop; Tiffany Laubach, first base; Debbie Neumann, third base and Susie Vrana, first base.

One of the main goals of the team this year is to reduce the number of errors, a problem that plagued the team during much of last year.

"We've been focusing more on some of the basics this year, a lack of feeder programs puts us behind some of the other teams," Molebash said, noting that many other conference cities have fastpitch programs for girls from middle school on up.

The Lady Indians look to be strong offensively, with depth and team chemistry also playing major roles in the teams' success.

"Attitude is always a main focus, and the girls seem to be working well together... I'm really impressed."

Molebash looks to Two Rivers to lead the tough EW conference, with Kiel and New Holstein close behind. "Two Rivers lost alot of players this year, but they have a good coach. Everyone looks good, there should be a lot of tight games."

Wilson Honored as Wisconsin's Conservation Warden of the Year

EAU CLAIRE -- Russell Wilson, Department of Natural Resources Conservation Warden at LaCrosse, has received the 1994 Haskell Noyes Award honoring him as Wisconsin's Conservation Warden of the Year.

Russell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wilson of Kewaskum. The award was presented by Emerson Noyes of the Noyes family recently during a banquet at LaCrosse.

The award, an inscribed watch, has been presented yearly since 1930 when it was originated by Haskell Noyes, a member of the Wisconsin Conservation Commission. That Commission was the forerunner of the current Natural Resources Board. Noyes created the award to annually recognize Wisconsin's most outstanding conservation warden.

Wilson was recognized for the excellence of his law enforcement program at LaCrosse. He was described by his Warden Supervisor Steve Dewald as, "an excellent example of an efficient, hard-working warden who is always willing to go the extra mile for the Department and his fellow wardens."

Wilson's station, located in an urbanized area on the shores of the Mississippi River, presents a number of challenges, according to District Warden Dave Rasmussen. He said enforcement of fishing, boating, waterfowl and other resource laws have always been an important part of the conservation warden's work and Wilson's skills in these areas are excellent. Wilson was recognized for his waterfowl enforcement efforts in 1994 when he received the Mississippi Flyway Waterfowl Officer of the Year Award. He is the first Wisconsin conservation warden ever to receive this award.

Wilson also was recognized for his efforts in education and proactive enforcement. He initiated a Mississippi River Cleanup in 1992 enlisting volunteers and aid from businesses to remove thousands of pounds of debris and litter from the Mississippi River. He also has been instrumental in waterfowl identification workshops in LaCrosse, and has worked hard to develop hunter education programs for beginning hunters.

Accepting his award, Wilson gave credit to fellow employees noting that together they "had made a difference" in protection of the state's resources.
