Terrorism Rattles Nation

By Andrew R. Kuehl
 Staff Writer/Photographer

Terrorists shocked the nation and local residents here Tuesday morning when they hijacked two airliners and crashed them into the World Trade Center in a series of attacks that brought down the twin 110-story towers. About 50,000 people work at the Trade Center.

Within the hour the Pentagon was hit by American Flight 77, which was seized while carrying 64 people from Washington to Los Angeles. The plane took out a huge section of one of the Pentagon's five sides, sending up plumes of black acrid smoke. The White House, the Pentagon and the Capitol were then evacuated along with other federal buildings in Washington and New York.

This horrific sequence of destruction has an astounding impact here to local residents.

The Kewaskum School District Crisis team met yesterday morning and released a letter to parents.

"Our country has been profoundly affected by today's events. We would like to offer you our assurance that we are responding to and addressing the needs of our students. The District Crisis Team met this morning and has decided to respond on an ongoing and as needed basis to this crisis.

The students at the Kewaskum Middle School and High School were informed about the current events. The team felt it was not appropriate to inform the children at the elementary school. However, some students at the elementary school may have heard about the situation.

Along with that letter parents were given a hand-out, "Coping with Children's Reaction to Disasters".

The team also decided to postpone the Open Houses scheduled at KES and KMS. All extra curricular activities were cancelled district wide.

Each school staff was to conduct a meeting Wednesday morning to discuss how to address students' reactions to and concerns about the crisis.

Gauvin stated that they would be holding a prayer service at the church on Wednesday. She also indicated that all extra curricular activities were cancelled.

According to numerous news sources one of the planes that crashed into the Trade Center was American Airlines Flight 11, hijacked after takeoff from Boston en route to Los Angeles. American Airlines issued a statement saying it had "lost" two aircraft - Flight 11, with 92 people aboard, and Flight 77 from Washington to Los Angeles, carrying 64 people.

In Pennsylvania, United Airlines Flight 93, a Boeing 757 enroute from Newark, New Jersey, to San Francisco, crashed about 80 miles southeast of Pittsburgh. It was believed the intended target of that plane was apparently Camp David, the presidential retreat in Maryland, 85 miles away.

Altogether, the four planes carried 266 people.

Authorities went on alert from coast to coast, halting all air traffic around the nation for the first time in history.

The Federal Aviation Administration ordered all outbound flights grounded. The FAA said the ban would not be lifted until Wednesday at noon EST, at the earliest.

Some airports also were evacuated. Around 9:30 am. Milwaukee's Mitchell International Airport became one of them.

Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, passengers were barred from entering the gated areas, and police patrolled with dogs.

At 10:30 am Washington County Sheriff Jack Theusch advised the press that in light of the tragedy on the east coast the Washington County Sheriff's Department and the Emergency Management Department would be increasing security at all of the county facilities. All of the facilities remained open. Sheriff's deputies patrolled parking lots and entrances of all the facilities.

"At the present time there is no reason to believe that any of the buildings here are targets, but to hopefully provide some comfort to the employees as well as the persons doing their daily business, we will continue the security throughout the day," said Theusch in his written statement.

He further stated, "At the present time there are no implied or real threats to Washington County. This is being done only as precautionary and will be continued until the need is no longer present."

Wisconsin Governor, Scott McCallum also issued a statement earlier in the day.

"Today, there was a vicious, cowardly attack on America. What a horrible, horrible tragedy. There are no words to even describe what I watched unfold on television. I have been fully briefed by Military Affairs, the Department of Transportation, the Department of Administration and Capitol Police. I have talked with the mayors of the state's three largest cities. I want to assure the citizens of Wisconsin that every possible security measure has been put in place, and I am confident that the appropriate steps have been taken to protect our citizens and our facilities. Our hearts and prayers go out to the victims and their families."

The Governor canceled his appearances for the day under heightened security after terrorist attacks.

Meanwhile in New York City authorities were still trying to evacuate those who work in the twin towers when the glass-and-steel skyscrapers came down within about 90 minutes after the attacks, which took place 18 minutes apart.

Sources said as the tragedy unfolded at the Trade Center, people on fire leaped from the windows to certain death. Some jumped from as high as the 80th floor as the planes exploded

Additions Made to St. Lucas School Staff

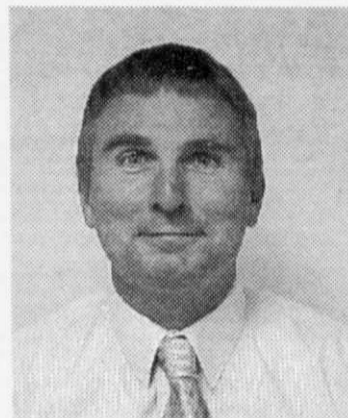

Kurt Gosdeck

Sara Caauwe

Mrs. Coralee Henning

Steven Strassberg

St. Lucas Lutheran Elementary School in Kewaskum, welcomes two new teachers to the staff as this new school year begins. Installation was held on Sunday, August 19, 2001 and following the service, the congregation hosted a brunch served in Hoenecke Hall.

Kurt Gosdeck joins the staff as third and fourth grade instructor. He was born the first of five children to Rev. David and Judith Gosdeck in New Ulm, MN, on April 23, 1970. His childhood was spent in several locations in Minnesota as his father served as pastor in various congregations.

He graduated from elementary school at Salem Lutheran School in Stillwater, MN. His high school years were spent at Martin Luther Prep School in Prairie du Chien, with graduation from Luther Preparatory School in Watertown in 1988.

Kurt furthered his education by attending Martin Luther College to prepare for teaching ministry. He graduated from MLC in 1993 majoring in Secondary Education/Physical Education and a minor in Social Studies.

He was assigned to Illinois Lutheran High School in Crete, IL and served there for several years.

Crete Lutheran Elementary School then called him as sixth grade teacher - the position he held until being called in April 2001 by St. Lucas to join the teaching staff in Kewaskum. In addition to the classroom duties of the third and fourth grade, he will be the Athletic Director and Technology Assistant.

In 1997 he met Sarah Richter, a native of Princeton, WI and on July 25, 1998 they were united in marriage at Zion Lutheran Church in Crete, IL.

Kurt enjoys doing home improvements in his spare time, a talent being put to good use now that they have purchased a home in Kewaskum. He further enjoys fishing and many other sports activities.

Mrs. Sara Caauwe was assigned to the school as the new seventh and eighth grade teacher. She graduated from Martin Luther College in New Ulm, MN this past May with a Bachelor of Science degree in Elementary Education with a concentration in Social Studies.

Sara was born in Manitowoc on October 25, 1977 - the oldest child of Paul and Kay Kassulke. Her family has since been blessed with seven additional grandchildren - the youngest is now 12. Her family relocated to Inver Grove Heights, MN where she continued school and graduated from Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran School.

After graduating from St. Croix Lutheran High School in West St. Paul, MN in 1996, she left for New Ulm to begin studying for the teaching ministry. During the school year 1999-2000 she was assigned as an emergency teacher in Manitowoc serving the sixth to eighth graders at Trinity Lutheran School.

On June 23, 2001 Sara was united in marriage with Johann (Hans) Caauwe at Emanuel Lutheran Church in St. Paul, and they moved to Kewaskum. Hans is also a Martin Luther College graduate and he will be attending Wisconsin Lutheran Seminary in Mequon in preparation for the public ministry.

In addition to her classroom duties, Sara will be assisting as coach in the athletic department. Her spare time is very limited, but she does enjoy reading and doing some needlework. She is very enthusiastic about this school year and the beginning of her ministry at St. Lucas.

The third addition to the staff at St. Lucas is Mrs. Coralee Henning who has been called to a part-time position. She will be teaching mornings on the fifth grade level and looking forward to returning to the teaching staff. Corey is no stranger to the members of St. Lucas as she taught the middle grades of the school for eight years after her graduation from Dr. Martin Luther College. She then taught at St. John's Lutheran School in Lannon for two years prior to her marriage to Rev. Timothy Henning and her return to Kewaskum. They have been blessed with two children, Anna and Elizabeth, who are also students at the school.

Along with the new members on the teaching staff, Steven Strassberg has been called to assume the additional duties of principal. He has been a teacher at St. Lucas since 1988 and will continue teaching the fifth and sixth grade.

Steve has been in the teaching ministry for 27 years with the first years after graduation from Dr. Martin Luther College spent as a principal at St. John's Lutheran School in Stanton, NE. While in Nebraska, he received his Masters Degree in Administration in 1982 from Wayne State College in Wayne, NE.

Steve and the former Cynthia Blackstad were married in New Ulm, MN and they are the parents of three college age children, Jeremiah (and his wife Julie), Rachael (and her fiancée Wade Kreif) and Joshua. Steve is looking forward to the challenge of the new responsibilities and duties as the school administrator.

The members, parents and students at St. Lucas students say "Welcome to you all and God's blessing in your teaching ministry!"

Protecting the Health of Your Backyard Trees, Woodlots

The Evening with Nature Series begins another great season at the Northern Kettle Moraine State Forest with the program, "Protecting the Health of Your Backyard Trees and Woodlots."

The program will be held on Thursday, September 13, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Henry S. Reuss Ice Age Visitor Center. The Ice Age Visitor Center is located off of Highway 67, 1/2 mile west of Dundee. The program is free, but donations are always gratefully accepted.

Whether you live in the city or country, trees are an important part of our lives. Trees provide shade on a hot sunny day, clean air to breathe, wood for countless products, homes for wildlife, energy savings in winter or summer and so much more.

Today, there are many threats to our valuable trees including gypsy moths, oak wilt, garlic mustard, over-crowding, bark bruising and compacted soils. Defending of our backyard trees and woodlots is something everyone can do with a little advice and direction.

Join Department of Natural Resources Forester, Julie Peltier, to learn how to protect the health of trees in woodlots and backyards. If you have a problem tree, bring in a sample branch to help Julie identify the tree and the problem.

For further information or directions to the Ice Age Visitor Center, please contact Jackie S. Scharfenberg, Forest Naturalist. She may be reached at (920) 533-8322, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

United Way Campaign Underway Here

A key event has ushered in the start of the annual United Way of Washington County Campaign: the Campaign Kickoff on September 5th. Community volunteers and agency representatives officially began the 2001 Campaign at the KC Hall in West Bend. This year's goal is $1,165,065, commemorating the "65 Years of Giving Help and Hope" message, and United Way's beginnings in our area in 1936.

Kewaskum's Division Leader for this year is Carole Conner. Campaign volunteer Jerry Gosa led a successful Pacesetter Campaign - the Kewaskum School District came in ahead of last year's total with more than $11,500 raised so far.

Wayne Graczyk, Kewaskum School Superintendent and a United Way Board member, co-chaired the event which reflected the Campaign fun theme of "fish."

The campaign video, highlighting local people who benefit from United Way was also shown. Those in attendance heard the campaign message of Help and Hope from Tim "Kingfish" Purman, 2001 Campaign Chair and President of the First National Bank of Hartford. United Way Board President Jeanne Kreilkamp, and Executive Director Barbara Hurula also spoke of the importance of the United Way effort here in Washington County.

"We'll be involving more than 150 volunteers to help us raise needed funds for this year's campaign," said Purman. "Our volunteers have gone through training and learned about the many agencies and programs United Way funds here in Washington County." He noted, "The training is an eye-opening experience for new volunteers; we are also pleased to have many returning campaign veterans who are also committed to the United Way cause."

The performance is free of charge and will be held in the Theatre at University of Wisconsin-Washington County, 400 University Drive, West Bend, on Monday, September 17, 2001 at 7 p.m.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

This letter is about Washington County Board Supervisor Sherlyn Stiewe, Fair Park and Gun Shows. Her opinion of guns, public policy and county property is out of line. She wants to kill gun shows at Fair Park.

For years there have been gun shows in the county, on private and public property, without a health or safety problem. The real reason to kill gun shows at Fair Park is Sherlyn Stiewe's own anti-gun regulation, which would only discriminate private citizens, who are the taxpayers of Washington County.

Sherlyn's big media myth is that criminals and felons are coming here from Milwaukee and buying guns without a background check. There is not one stitch of evidence to show this has ever happened. If she really knows this (which she doesn't) she should ask for law enforcement.

State and Federal laws prohibit firearm possession by a felon. About half of the exhibitors at a gun show are licensed dealers that fill out a government form and call an F.B.I. background check on every gun sale. The other half of the exhibitors are citizens, from Washington County and the surrounding area. These are the only people Sherlyn is targeting. This discrimination to these taxpayers will draw a lawsuit.

I have contacted Sherlyn Stiewe and asked her specifically of fundraiser dinner banquets for Ducks Unlimited and Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation. These are very successful due to gun raffles. She will not answer that question.

She is against all guns and citizens gun rights and using this Gun Show spin to kill all gun events at Fair Park.

Please call your County Board Supervisor and tell them how you feel. Look them up at <http://www.co.washington.wi.us/data/boarsupervisors.html>

Dear Editor:

In recent coverage of Governor Scott McCallum's budget vetoes, newspapers throughout the state have quoted the governor saying Wisconsin's schools are "fully funded" and our teachers among the most highly paid in the nation. Both statements are untrue. I understand that the errors are the governors and not the newspapers, but these are grossly inaccurate statements that must be corrected.

Wisconsin teachers have actually lost purchasing power to inflation since 1993, and average salaries have declined from 13th in the nation in 1992, to 16th in 2000, and an estimated 20th in 2001. The economic status of teaching is eroding in the state with the profession falling 25 percent behind gains in the state's median income, and 38 percent behind gains in Wisconsin's per capita income since 1987.

Teacher pay needs to be a state government priority because great schools depend on great teachers and staff. And great schools benefit everyone, because today's students are tomorrow's employees and employers, taxpayers, voters and community leaders.

Schools are not "fully funded" simply because costs have slightly outpaced the record-low inflation of the last three years. Throughout the state, budget constraints are forcing increases in class sizes, the elimination of calculus, French, Spanish and consumer education courses, the limiting of gifted and talented and at-risk programs, and delays in hiring staff and purchasing textbooks and computers.

School costs are driven by demographics and policies, not inflation. The number of students in our public schools with limited English proficiency increased from 10,007 in 1988 to 25,382 in 1999. During the same period, special needs students increased from 78,046 to 120,598. Also, schools are investing in new technology, revamping curricula to meet new statewide standards and tests, and reducing class sizes in grades K-3.

All of these changes come with costs unrelated to inflation. The governor's comments suggest that he is in a state of denial about Wisconsin's crisis in school funding.

Sincerely,
Stan Johnson
President of the Wisconsin Education
Association Council

Area Red Cross Responding To East Coast Disaster

The local American Red Cross West Bend Chapter wants to assure area residents that it is responding appropriately to help with relief efforts following Tuesday's catastrophic events in New York City and Washington, DC. The following information summarizes what the Red Cross is doing nationally and locally, and how area residents can help support relief efforts.

It is important to stress that the initial hours of any disaster are very chaotic, and although the level of Red Cross response is heightened because of Tuesdays events, area residents should not perceive Red Cross activities as a cause for alarm. Residents are encouraged to remain calm and not add to the chaos surrounding this disaster.

National Red Cross Response:

* The American Red Cross is responding to the incidents in Washington, DC and New York City. The chapters and volunteers are working with emergency management to ensure that help is being provided.

* The national immediate response team has been activated and is in motion to assist victims and survivors.

* American Red Cross mental health and health workers will be helping people recover from the emotional trauma of the incidents. People will be experiencing stress from the lack of warning, the unfamiliarity of the event, the exposure to gruesome situations and mass casualties. Additionally, the shock of such a terrible event caused by what appears to be human hands will cause emotional trauma in communities across the country. People in the affected areas are encouraged to contact their families outside the area to let them know they are okay.

Local Red Cross Response:

* Local Red Cross officials are coordinating with the American Red Cross national offices to support national relief efforts however necessary.

* Trained Red Cross personnel are coordinating with state and local emergency management officials to ensure an appropriate and coordinated response.

* The local American Red Cross will be fielding inquiries from area residents wanting to help victims of the disaster or confirm the welfare of their loved ones in the affected areas. Area residents wanting Red Cross assistance in confirming the welfare of an immediate family member may call the local Red Cross at 334-5687.

* The local Red Cross has activated key disaster response leaders to prepare an appropriate response.

* Already trained local Red Cross disaster relief workers are being polled regarding their availability and standing by to respond as needed.

How Area Residents Can Help:

* Individuals who are moved by this tragedy and want to provide immediate support for this and other disasters can mail donations to the local Chapter for National Disaster Relief of call 1-800-HELP NOW or 1-800-257-7575. All American Red Cross Disaster assistance is free, made possible by voluntary donations of time and money from the American people.

Kenworthy Unveils 'The Hand Behind The Mouse'

By Judy Steffes

There have been quite a few articles written about Kewaskum's John Kenworthy and his book The Hand Behind the Mouse. Kenworthy wrote the biography on Ub Iwerks, who was the man responsible for creating Mickey Mouse.

Over the past twelve years Kenworthy has been interviewing coworkers, friends, actors and actresses about Iwerks. He said, aside from the personal satisfaction he felt completing the book he also believed the piece was a good challenge, to help people recall the accomplishments of a man many, said they could not remember.

"I initially wrote the book because I was interested in the animation side of film," said Kenworthy who works full time as a graphic designer for Wago Corporation in Germantown. "I felt Ub Iwerks was a good story because he was an 'every-man' who managed to succeed, even though he never received the attention Walt Disney had."

Ub Iwerks was Disney's first partner and friend when they went out to Hollywood and created Mickey Mouse. "Ub represents so many of us, because in society today we have the false impression that you have to be a Walt Disney to be a success. Here's a guy who had an opportunity at various times in his life to earn a lot of money or to get a lot of fame and he chose not to."

Kenworthy co-authored the book The Hand Behind the Mouse with Leslie Iwerks, Ub's granddaughter. Ub Iwerks was originally from Kansas City and later moved to Hollywood. Kenworthy said his toughest challenge, in writing the book was getting near the people he needed to interview. "Obviously being based in Kewaskum, you don't have a lot of access to Chuck Jones, who is the major director for Warner Brother's Cartoons or Leonard Matlin, who hosts Entertainment Tonight and is an expert on animation," he said.

To get interviews on Iwerks, Kenworthy put in a lot of legwork, going through four or five people before finding the one guy who knew how to get in touch with someone. "I thought the biggest challenge was getting to the right people at the right time," he said. "A lot of the people I interviewed were 90 years old and many aren't around today. A lot of times I was the last person to interview them."

Kenworthy said there were also folks who passed away before he was able to speak to them. "Shamus Culhane, for example, died two weeks before I tracked down his phone number," said Kenworthy who felt Culhane would have been a great interview because he worked extensively with Iwerks. "I feel bad about that but there are other people like Al Eugster who I was able to get in touch with," he said about the man who worked on the Betty Boop cartoons. "Even though he was in a nursing home and couldn't really hear to make telephone calls Eugster and I ended up corresponding through letter."

Kenworthy managed to nail down about 300 interviews with various animators, directors, actors, and actresses. But aside from battling the age issue he also had to deal with folks who had fading memories of the past.

"Ralph Somerville, who was a lesser known animator, began the interview by telling me he had been out of the industry for thirty some years and quite frankly he didn't care for it that much when he was in it. He said he had forgotten everything and really didn't know if he could be much help," said Kenworthy who felt Somerville surprised them both. "I would mention someone I had already talked to and he would say, 'Oh yeah I remember him.' We ended up talking for about an hour and he had a lot of great memories and great stories I didn't expect. At the end he said, if you ever want to call me up and chat, it's been a lot of fun."

If collecting the memories on Iwerks was not enough of a reward, Kenworthy said the momentos he received also meant a lot. "Animator Ollie Johnson, was well known in the Disney circles, as one of Disney's nine old men. When I sent him a copy of the book, he sent me a picture from Bambi that he had drawn sixty years ago," said Kenworthy who felt it was things like that that really showed how much people enjoyed the nostalgia of that era.

As Kenworthy made more contacts with animators who knew Ub Iwerks he also got an education on advancements in cartoon technology. "I think if Ub were around today he'd be leading the industry because he was a technical genius," said Kenworthy who learned about Iwerks inventions, which added motion, cameras and color to cartoons. "The interesting thing I learned about Ub was that he also had a hand in about every major technical innovation that happened in cartoons for film or entertainment over the next seventy years."

While researching his book, Kenworthy discovered how even the people who work at the Disney studio had forgotten how many things Ub was involved in. Kenworthy said Iwerks was involved with all the color processes in film and even though he worked at Disney up until 1930 he also had his own studio. "At his studio he added color to cartoons, three years before Walt Disney did for 'Flowers and Trees.' Disney got all the credit but Ub had done it on his own."

Kenworthy said the same thing held true for the multi-playing camera. "The Disney studio announced in the press that they were going to build this new $70,000 multi-playing camera that was going to take up three floors of a building. Here Ub had already built one out of the back of an old car in the basement of his shop and it worked just as well." Kenworthy said Iwerks camera predated Disney by several years.

Another major accomplishment Kenworthy found impressive was Iwerks creation of the sodium screen, which was a process for combining live action with animation. "It's a take off on the blue screen only it uses the sodium set of colors which are more like yellows.

It was very effective for doing things like having Donald Duck dance with Aurora Miranda in Three Caballeros. There are several scenes in The Parent Trap where Hayley Mills is acting with herself, and that was all done through the sodium screen process." Kenworthy said there is also a classic scene in Mary Poppins that was created by using Iwerks sodium screen. "It's where Julie Andrews and Dick Van Dyke are in an entirely cartoon world and there are butterflies floating around them, behind them, and through their legs and it looks entirely realistic."

Ub Iwerks worked on about every film with the Disney studio from 1940 until his death in 1971. Kenworthy said it was interesting to talk to the people who worked with Iwerks because he found many are pretty dismayed by what is happening in today's cartoon industry. "There was a re-release of the film Snow White on video and Disney had taken to changing the entire color scheme," said Kenworthy. "By using computers and digitized technology, today's animators could go though and use a different pallet of colors then they used in 1937. Some of the old timers I talked to were just furious about that," he said about the change in traditional tones and classic colors. "The animators from the 1930's had a lot of beautiful earth tones that were chosen for a reason and now they've used a pallet of colors that were basically from Beauty and the Beast," mentioning a series of vibrant purples that were not in the original Snow White. "It still looks really great. The stories the same and the music's the same but it is different and I think the original artists were hurt by that."

Kenworthy said the thing that makes the changes seem fair, are the animators today who are studying Iwerks accomplishments. "There are people from George Lucas's into fireballs. People on the ground screamed and dived for cover as debris from the 1,250-foot towers rained down.

President George Bush put the military on its highest level of alert. Authorities in Washington immediately called out troops, including an infantry regiment, and the Navy sent aircraft carriers and guided missile destroyers to New York and Washington.

Bush was in Sarasota Florida at the time the attack took place. In Florida, Bush was reading to children in a classroom. He addressed the tragedy about a half-hour later. For security reasons, Bush was taken to air bases in Louisiana and Nebraska before returning to the nation's capital at dusk.

Much later in the afternoon television stations began broadcasting thousands of Palestinians celebrating the attacks.

Reports stated New York City Mayor Rudolph Giuliani estimated 2,100 people were injured in that city alone.

Kewaskum Native Waits Amidst The Crisis To Come Back Home

Among those trying to evacuate the lower Manhattan area was Kewaskum native, Brad Riekkoff who was competing in the International Natural Bodybuilding Federation's Naturalmania Nationals this past Saturday.

Riekkoff's mother stated Tuesday evening that Brad was staying in a hotel approximately seven to eight blocks from the trade center. Later he had taken a ferry boat to New Jersey and that his father left Kewaskum around 1:30 pm Tuesday to pick him up and hoped to return to Kewaskum on Thursday.

By evening, reports and news footage showed huge clouds of smoke still billowed from the ruins, obscuring much of the skyline.

Other evacuations were ordered at the United Nations in New York and at the Sears Tower in Chicago. Walt Disney World in Orlando, Fla., was evacuated, and Hoover Dam on the Arizona-Nevada line was closed to visitors.

Kewaskum Residents Panic As Rumor of Gas Price Hike Hits Here

Local consumers in Kewaskum lined up for a half hour or more to fuel up on gasoline fearing a price hike costing as much as $5 a gallon.

Rumors spread through Kewaskum like wildfire.

Residents feared supplies would be disrupted following the terrorist attacks.

Becky Strobel who along with her husband Myron own and operate Amoco of Kewaskum reported that they serviced approximately 900 customers from noon to around 10 p.m. At around 7 p.m. they completely ran out of regular unleaded forcing customers to fill up with mid and premium grade fuel.

Customers there lined up at both entrances to the station all the way out to Highway 45.

Kohn's Citgo on the east side of Kewaskum had customers line up Kewaskum Street as far back as Habeck Street.

Fears arose when people reported gas prices in Appleton at $2.95 per gallon for regular unleaded. Prices in Kewaskum have now remained stable at approximately $2.06 as of early Wednesday morning.

Another Kewaskum resident tried stopping in Lomira on her way home from work. She stated it was taking customers as long as an hour to get fuel.

Later in the evening the oil companies tried to reassure consumers that there was no need to stockpile gasoline.

News broadcasts coming from Milwaukee stated the American Petroleum Institute, the industry trade group, issued a statement reassuring motorists that there is no threat of a fuel shortage.

President Bush Addresses The Nation

At 7:30 p.m. President Bush addressed the nation from the Oval Office of the White House, in his address he stated,

"Today, our fellow citizens, our way of life, our very freedom came under attack in a series of deliberate and deadly terrorist acts. The victims were in airplanes or in their offices: secretaries, businessmen and women, military and federal workers, moms and dads, friends and neighbors."

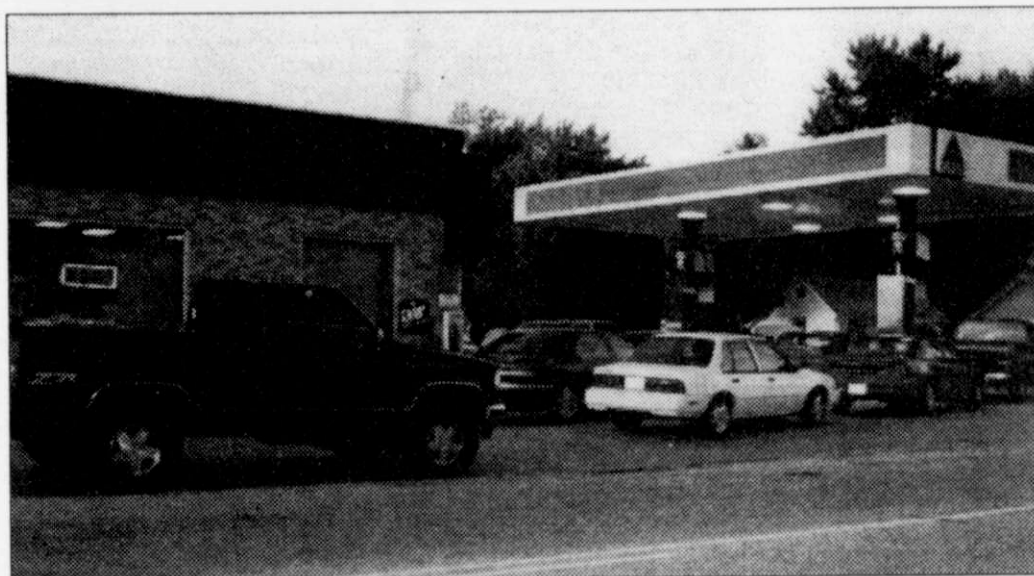

He further stated, "These acts of mass murder were intended to frighten our nation into chaos and retreat. But they have failed. Our country is strong. A great people has been moved to defend a great nation."

Bush assured that the functions of our government will continue without interruption. He stated the federal agencies in Washington which had to be evacuated would be reopening for essential personnel Tuesday night and will be open for business Wednesday.

He concluded, "America and our friends and allies join with all those who want peace and security in the world and we stand together to win the war against terrorism."

The address took no longer than 15 minutes but it gave reassurance and strength to Americans everywhere, and revived patriotism throughout the country.

Some Final Updates

Final updates received by the Statesman office early Wednesday morning before press time state that The Boston Herald reported that Massachusetts authorities had identified at least five Arab men as suspects in the terrorism attacks on the east coast.

The newspaper along with other news sources stated authorities found Arabic-language flight training manuals in a car in a parking garage, sources have told the paper.

The Herald reported that among the suspects are two brothers whose passports were traced to the United Arab Emirates, one of whom was a trained pilot. At least two other suspects flew to Logan International Airport Tuesday from Portland, Maine. Authorities believe the suspects crossed over from Canada recently.

The paper also reported that hijackers began killing flight attendants in order to lure a pilot from the cockpit and seize the plane. Sources say the suspects' weapons were plastic handles embedded with razor blades that were smuggled in on carry-on luggage.

U.S. officials have now begun piecing together a case linking nationally known terrorist Osama bin Laden to the attack Tuesday.

Law enforcement sources say that authorities are focusing some of their efforts on possible bin Laden supporters in Florida based on the identification of a suspected hijacker on one of the manifests of the four jets that crashed.

Sources say that the FBI is preparing to search locations in Florida.

Reports from the Pentagon early Wednesday morning say an estimated 800 people are believed to have been killed after Tuesday's attack.

What to Do If Declining Market Has Altered Your Retirement Plan

Column Provided By Donna Vogt, CFP, Raymond James Financial Services Inc.

Are you among the retirees or those approaching retirement who are thinking of altering their retirement plan because of the down stock market? Here are some suggestions for how you might manage a change in plans - or even keep your original retirement dream intact.

Is it as bad as it appears? It's natural for investors to focus on their biggest losers rather than on their overall portfolio. Investors in high tech stocks have particularly felt the brunt of the down market, in some cases watching those securities decline 50 percent or more in value. Yet because some of those hot stocks you were so confident about a year ago have nose-dived doesn't mean your entire portfolio has also plummeted. A well-diversified portfolio, with a mix of domestic and international stocks, bonds, cash and perhaps real estate, might be down only slightly, especially compared with where you were two or three years ago. Calculate how your overall portfolio is actually doing before changing retirement plans.

Ride it out. Let's assume that the market has hit your overall portfolio pretty hard. Certainly many people jumped on the high tech bandwagon, often late in its run, and are now looking at big losses. Many Certified Financial Planner™ practitioners are recommending that most investors not sell unless it's necessary, or if you've lost confidence in stocks. If you haven't already locked in your losses by selling, consider hanging on to your losers for now. The market as a whole - though not necessarily specific individual stocks or mutual funds - almost certainly will recover. The question is, how quickly?

Since 1949, the median bear market, from peak to valley, has lasted around 12 months, with a median decline of 23 percent, according to Dow Jones and Company. The longest decline during this period was 22.8 months, from 1973-74, with a 45 percent decline in value. The shortest was less than three months. The current bear market has run over 14 months, but there are signs that the U.S. economy is not as bad as many prognosticators feared, and the market itself has also recovered some of its losses.

Sell. The advantage of selling losers now is to cut your losses in the event the market and the economy are only taking a breather before dropping more. Selling also may bring your portfolio closer to the investment mix you originally designed, which will benefit you in the future. Selling, of course, locks in your losses, so consult with your financial advisor before selling.

Re-examine your portfolio. The fact that some people approaching or in retirement feel compelled to alter their retirement plans suggests they have the wrong investment strategy and a poorly diversified portfolio. Many financial planners believe retirees should stay in stocks in order to combat inflation, but they typically recommend keeping anywhere from two to five years of retirement assets in lower-risk investments, such as money market funds, short-term bonds and certificates of deposit. Retirees can draw on these cash equivalents for living expenses while the higher-risk stock portion of their portfolio recovers.

Revise your personal finances. Those approaching retirement may be able to compensate for some of the down market by cutting expenses and investing more between now and their original planned retirement date. Cutting expenses can be good practice for retirement, anyway, and if your current portfolio rebounds with the market, then you'll have that much more money to enjoy.

Scale back your retirement vision. A substantial real decline in your portfolio value may, unfortunately, require you to scale back your retirement goals. Those close to retirement may have to work longer than intended. This allows you more time to add to your retirement accounts (buying stocks at "bargain prices"), increases the size of your Social Security and pension benefits, and shortens the number of retirement years your nest egg must fund. Current retirees may have to return to work, at least part time.

An alternative is to reduce your planned retirement lifestyle. Scaling back also offers the possibility that your investments will recover substantially during the future market climbs, allowing you to recoup your original retirement dream.

Chenille Sisters to Appear at UWWC

WEST BEND - Singer Grace Morand, Ann Arbor, MI, one of the featured members of the famed Chenille Sisters singing act, knew her singing career was a reality when she and the other two members quit their day job.

"It blew us all away that we were actually doing this," Morand said. "We had a retirement party."

That was 15 years ago, and the three-member group - whose music has been compared favorable to groups like the Andrew Sisters prominently featured on national radio and television shows - is still going strong.

By popular demand, the trio is returning to perform at the University of Wisconsin Washington County at 7:30 p.m., September 21, 2001.

Audiences from coast-to-coast have discovered the honest vocal variety of The Chenille Sisters, labeling them "irreverent," "contemporary," and "down right fun." This unforgettable trio compares to sister acts named Boswell and Andrews, yet lifts performances to an originality all their own. Charyl Dawdy, Grace Morand and Connie Huber found their humble beginning at The Old Town in Ann Arbor, Michigan in 1985.

Less than a year later, the Chenilles caught their break, landing the first of several showcases on Garrison Kellor's Prairie Home Companion radio show. Doors opened, and the gifted singers' career skyrocketed. Nine albums later, the Chenilles have earned national critics' acclaim, appearances on NPR's All Things Considered and a busy performance schedule. The group has also produced two specials with PBS, one of which earned an Emmy in 1995 and still airs on several stations throughout the year.

The group has gained national acclaim for the precision of their intertwined harmonies, similar to earlier groups like the Andrew Sisters. Morand says there are differences, though.

"Well, for one thing, we're not really sisters," she says, laughing. "But after the first time we sang together, we noticed how well our voices blended together. We thought it sounded 'familial'."

In concert, their signature show offers an appealingly diverse repertoire of snappy originals and familiar favorites, all laced with the Chenille Brand of airtight arrangement and zany humor.

Morand says that humor stems from the members' goofy version of democracy, in which they sit around and discuss some of their original works, such as "Regretting What I Said," which features some of the awful wishes lovers can hurl at each other in anger without really meaning it. The song features verses in which one lover wishes the other things like a mauling by drug-sniffing dogs and crosstown bus crashes.

"We throw together things like, 'Hey, what if we got a guy to come up out of the audience for 'Pink Cadillac,' put a babushka on his head, and get him to dance with us," Morand laughs.

Tickets for the concert are $8 for adults, $6 for seniors and under 18. Reservations can be made by calling (262) 335-5208.

25 Years Ago

August 13, 1976

The annual chicken barbecue sponsored by the Kewaskum Lions Club will be held in the village park on Sunday, August 15. Added attractions will be the running of the "Kettle 20" foot race through the Kettle Moraine area. Beginning at 12:15 p.m. there will be bicycle races with classes for several age groups. A big feature of the afternoon, starting at 1:45 will be the midwest wrist wrestling championship tournament. In conjunction with our nation's bicentennial, the Kewaskum Historical Society will have an early American antique farm display beginning at 11 a.m.

All seven Scenic Moraine summer conference teams (Mayville did not compete) placed at least one representative selected by the coaches on the all-conference baseball team. Tom Rohlinger of Kewaskum was named at first base. Tom, a good all-around athlete, led the Indians in hitting with a .421 average. He also excelled on defense, playing the entire season without an error. Kewaskum's Leon Laatsch received honorable mention as a pitcher.

25 Years Ago

August 20, 1976

After 81 years, the Village of Kewaskum finally presented its first village flag by members of the Kewaskum Bicentennial Committee on Monday. It was made of green and white nylon flag material by Dorothy Martin, wife of Commissioner Bill Martin. She was authorized to do the flag by the Bicentennial Committee in 1975, after the results of a contest for a design was known. Robert G. Romaine Post 384 of the American Legion donated $100 for a contest to determine which entry would be the one selected for the design of the flag. As no entry could be selected as the winner, three were picked that were very similar in design and were combined into the final design of the flag. The contest was open to anyone living in the Kewaskum School District, but all three winners were grade school students from outlying schools. They were: Vicki Reif, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Reif of Beechwood; Jay Petermann of Farmington, and Jerome Bock, formerly of Farmington, and now living in Denmark, Wisconsin. All were advised by their art teacher Mrs. Mary Buddenhagen of Kewaskum. Other projects undertaken by the Kewaskum Bicentennial Committee include founding of the Kewaskum Historical Society, writing a Kewaskum history, presenting a pageant about Kewaskum's past by the Kewaskum Women's Clubs and finishing the flag, which is "making history" according to Village President Charles Miller.

St. Lucas Lutheran Church in Kewaskum will begin its Centennial Year with special services next Sunday. The birthdate of the parish was August 20, 1877. The special day will be celebrated in the worship services on Sunday, August 22, by means of song and sermon. Then, as part of the 9:30 a.m. service, the three teachers who will staff the new St. Lucas Christian Day School will be installed. They are: Orville Breitreutz, Principal and teacher of Grades 5-8; Mrs. Diana Guenther, teacher of grades 1-4; and Mrs. Paul Hoenecke, kindergarten teacher. After this service, the congregation will have a dinner-reception for the new teachers at the Kewaskum High School Cafeteria. The dinner will also be the kickoff for a year of Centennial activities in the congregation.

The Kewaskum Fire Department's new Snorkel Tele-Squirt 1,000 gallon pumper with 50-foot aerial ladder and 50-foot water-tower arrived on Wednesday morning of this week.

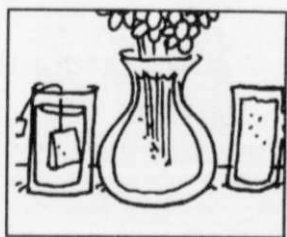

The bid of Washkovic Construction Company of Green Lake in the amount of $39,924.40 to dig the pond at the proposed Kewaskum Kiwanis Park was accepted by the Kewaskum Village Board on Monday.

Kiwanis Club of Kewaskum has announced that its 24th Annual Turkey Shoot will be held September 12. This event will be held at the Bar-N Dude Ranch, six miles northeast of Kewaskum on County Trunk GGG, the beautiful Kettle Moraine Drive.

August 30 will be the first day of classes for students in all schools in the Kewaskum School District.

Following a meeting with Ideal Land, Inc., the Kewaskum Village Board reversed its decision to refuse to grant building permits in Ideal Subdivision in a special session.

Sons were born to Paul and Mary Mamerow of Kewaskum on August 12, and to Steve and Linda Fellenz of Kewaskum on August 8.

Kenworthy

Industrial Light and Magic who, when they began to work on Star Wars, they asked permission to go back to Disney and research on their own how Iwerks did all these special effects." Kenworthy said they were given permission and their discoveries pay tribute to how advanced Iwerks was in the industry of animation. "It was really quite an eye opener to all these guys who are basically the cutting edge today, to go back and look at what Ub had done, basically by himself in this little studio. It's encouraging to note the things he designed back then are still being used today."

The first printing of The Hand Behind the Mouse, published by Disney Editions, consisted of 25,000 copies. Kenworthy said early sales of the $24.95 coffee table collectible have been going well. "We shipped 4000 copies the first month and that's the only number I've heard at this time." Kenworthy said he is hoping for the best, having racked up some fantastic phone bills while completing the hardcover. "I'm hoping it does well and I come out even-if not ahead," he said admitting it is a minor book and will realistically never make millions.

Kenworthy said writing a 256 page biography was different from the fiction he was used to, but he said he feels the book has made a difference. "I just went on a mini tour through Iowa and down to Kansas City and there are a lot of people in Kansas City who are real film buffs. The comments I received were encouraging because many history buffs said it was about time someone wrote a book on Ub Iwerks, who was so important to the cartoon industry but had remained such a mystery all these years."

Chairman of the Protection and Public Safety Committee Thomas Piwoni reported on the request of the Kewaskum School District to establish 2 hour parking restrictions from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. on school days on the east side Bilgo Lane. Mr. Keith Kriewaldt, the Elementary School Principal was present to answer questions. Richard Schlice, a resident from Bilgo Lane, was present and said everyone was in agreement with the 2 hour parking restriction on the east side of the street. However he indicated he disagreed with the no parking yellow line on the west side of Bilgo Lane. The School Administration has, since the inception of the new building, proposed the no parking area for bus traffic - loading and unloading. Mr. Kriewaldt stood by the school's position on no parking on the west side of the street. Mr. Schlice indicated no parking in the evenings, weekends and non school days will create a hardship for many people. Village President John Kenworthy informed everyone that there are two issues before the Board, the east side of the street and the west side of the street.

On a motion by Trustee Thomas Piwoni, seconded by Trustee Larry Ammel and unanimously carried by voice vote the Board approved the placement of parking restriction signs on the east side of Bilgo Lane, restricting parking to two hours between 7 a.m. and 4 p.m. on school days.

The parking issue for the west side will be revisited at the September 17, 2001 meeting. Mr. Kriewaldt will discuss the matter with the School Administration and bring information back to the Village Board.

Chairman of the Park and Recreation Committee, Mathew Heiser reported on the meeting held earlier this evening as follows:

1) Informed the Board that discussion took place regarding ball diamond improvements and placing the lighting of the SW diamond as a priority for joint action by the Village and School District.

2) General park improvements were suggested for the budget process for 2002.

3) A review of the proposed kitchen/restroom facility at the RHP took place with a time frame of two years for completion discussed. Also it was noted the Administrator and Director of Public Works should work with the engineers and architects to streamline the building and to try and reduce cost.

Board Representative for the Plan Commission, Trustee Andy Pesch reported that a meeting is scheduled for August 28, 2001 at 7:00 p.m..

Board Representative for the Library Board, Trustee Mathew Heiser reported on the Library meeting of August 13, 2001. The main discussion was the upgrading of the Libraries computer system. It was noted a grant for the initial cost was hoped for. However the annual maintenance cost would be $5,500 per year.

The dollars will be place in the budget proposal for 2002.

Administrator Daniel S. Schmidt reported that he filed a letter with the US Census Bureau regarding the population count missing on census block 3012.

Information was also sent to the Wisconsin Department of Administration regarding the 2001 count being off by the loss of census block 3012. A letter was already received from the DOA regarding correcting the population count following some action by the census bureau. The population count for 1-1-01 was estimated at 3,345, an increase of 71.

Action was taken on Resolution No.2001-20 A Resolution to place upon the present 2001 tax roll for collection, all accounts delinquent as of October 1, 2001 as attached hereto:

KHS Golfers Remain in First After Difficult Week

Indian golfer Crystal Dreher is shown making her way out of a sand trap in last week's meet. Dreher was the low scorer for the match.

The week was a bit more challenging as the Kewaskum High School girls golf team took a second and third place finish in two meets last week.

The girls still are in first place in the Little Ten and are looking forward to turning things back in the right direction as they face another busy week.

On September 4, the team returned to West Bend Country Club where they took second place against the seven conference teams. Crystal and Niki Dreher both posted 49s as the team totaled a 203 behind Hartford's 198. Samantha Wolf of Hartford was the meet medalist with a 43.

Thursday, September 6 brought all the teams to Hon-E-Kor Country Club in Kewaskum and the girls failed to cash in on their "home course advantage" on the white nine shooting a 210, their worst of the season.

Crystal Dreher was low for the Indians with a 48. Medalists were Kendall Egnarski of Watertown and Katie Schmidt of West Bend East, both with 44s.

Mayville Meet a Success For K-Town Cross Country

By Lauren Schultz
Correspondent

The Kewaskum Cross Country team is up to its fourth meet and already both teams are doing very well.

As Coach Drexler explains it, the top five finishers form the "core" of the team. "Josh and Bryan ran a good tactical race tonight, pushed each other along nicely..." said Drex of the two top finishing boys. "Rachel surprised me the most with her big two minute drop in time, which was helped along by her teammates" Coach Drexler commented on sophomore Rachel Shea's race.

Josh Meyer took a surprising 16th place, with a time of 18:54. Only two places behind, came Bryan Kraft, with a time of 18:56. Placing 40th with a time of 20:07, was Tom Ramthun. Josh Repovsch came up in 59th, with a time of 20:49. Next up came Andy Lickel, placing 61st, with a time of 20:50. Andy Bauer got a time of 21:03, and placed 65th. Adam Woebekking was the last to finish for varsity, with a time of 22:12, placing 80th. Great job to the boys varsity, placing seventh out of 15 teams.

The girls varsity fared well overall. Everyone got P.R.'s (personal records) and proved to Drex that the girls mean business. Although the overall girls placing wasn't as good as hoped, they all ran their best race. Becky Herriges coming in first for the girls got a time of 19:52, taking almost a minute off her previous time, and placing 56th. Finishing 64th and also taking off over a minute of her time was Mandi Will, at 20:09. Lauren Schultz finished 107th with a time of 21:16. Following right behind their senior leader, came Leslie Schultz and Rachel Shea finishing 108th and 109th, at 21:16 and 21:17 respectfully. The girls placed 13th out of 14 participating teams.

On to the boys JV squad, who are pulling through awesomely. Justin Kissinger placed 18th, taking over a minute off his time getting 22:37. Next up was Levi Spaeth, taking off a minute and a half with a 23:43, placing 31st. Scott Joers had a great first meet, placing 49th, getting a time of 26:19. Mike Neumann finished up for the JV's, with a time of 28:08, finishing 59th.

Congratulations to all those tough runners out there, who keep up the hard workouts. In the end, we know it all pays off!! Good luck to all the runners at next week's Ripon meet!

Golfers Third At Sheboygan Invitational

A new week brought some better scores despite the difficult conditions at Town and Country Golf Course on Monday.

The wind and pin placements were a huge factor in making for some tough rounds as the course tried to recuperate from the day-long rains of Sunday. Kewaskum posted a presentable 385, good enough for third place in the 15-team event.

First place went to Homestead with a 365 and second to Mukwonago with a 376. Host Sheboygan took fourth place with a 386. Medalist for the meet was last year's state girls champion, Abby Johnson, who had nines of 42 and 36 for a 78, while her state champion team with three of four members playing on Monday, only managed a fifth place total of 390.

Niki Dreher of Kewaskum posted a 43/47 - 90, to pace the girls, while Crystal Dreher shot a 96 to help the cause. Other counting scores come from the reliable senior pair of Courtney Timblin and Candi Heberer.

The girls look forward to a better week as they headed to Old Hickory in Beaver Dam for a meet on Wednesday and to Wina-gamie Golf Course on Saturday for a tournament.

Indians Sneak By Kiel

Much good fortune came to the Indian football team on Friday night, when they slipped by Kiel, 17-14.

From early on, the game seemed like it was going to be a blowout. Kiel fumbled on their first possession and with 9:12 left, Travis Kempf found Chris Canter in the left flat from ten yards out. Matt Hartmann's extra point attempt was good and the Indians had an early 7-0 lead.

After several penalties and a couple of turnovers, the scoring pace slowed considerably. The Indian defense played an outstanding first half and took the lead into the locker room, 7-0.

The second half was filled with much more excitement. The Indians were able to add to their lead on a 37-yard field goal from Matt Hartmann. The Raiders from Kiel, however, answered back with an 80-yard drive cutting the Indian lead to 10-7 with 4:25 to go in the third quarter.

The most interesting part of the night came with :48 to go in the third, when the game was delayed for approximately 90 minutes due to severe weather. The teams retook the field at 10 p.m. and Kiel continued with their momentum by driving 72 yards for the leading score with 6:09 remaining.

After a costly turnover, things did not look good for the hosts. Time was running down and the Raiders were driving once again. The Indians were able to stop Kiel and force them to try a field goal.

The kicker slipped and the kick was very low and blocked. Travis Cochenet recovered the ball and took it 76 yards for the touchdown. Matt Hartmann's kick was good and the Indians were once again back in the lead, 17-14, with only 1:59 remaining.

Kiel, however, was able to move the ball once again aided by a couple of costly penalties. The Raiders threatened by driving all the way down to the Indian 25 yard line, but it ended when Tom Ogi came up with a huge interception with just over one minute remaining.

The Indians were able to pick up one first down and run out the clock, and come away with a very fortunate victory.

Kewaskum travels to Sheboygan Falls on Friday, September 14, to clash with the defending Division III state champions at 7 p.m.

Kewaskum Boys Lose to Sheboygan Falls

The Kewaskum men's varsity soccer team hosted Sheboygan Falls on Thursday, September 6. The Indians lost 2-0.

The Indians did a very good job in the first half of the game, counterplaying the strong passing of Sheboygan Falls. The Indians were flat the second half of the game, dropping the momentum that had swung in their favor.

Kewaskum played an exceptional game moving the ball to the Sheboygan Falls goal. The defense did a very good job countering the strong forwards of Sheboygan Falls. Nick Luther, Lee Schacht, Kurt Cochran and Bradey Long did a superb job of keeping the offense at bay.

Andrew Olla, Justin Wessing, Bryan Becht and Josh Timblin did a wonderful job at mid-field.

Aaron Olla, Noah Olla, Justin Brockman, Tyler Hickman and Jason Rameriz played their best game at forward. Keith Boegel, Adam Hickman, Adam Gitter and Chris Baker did an admirable job in playing the backup role.

Keith Boegel had an excellent attack on the Sheboygan goal just missing a goal scoring.

Long sent a curving corner that rang off the far post just missing an ace. Justin Wessing sent a zinger off the far post in the game. Several breakaways by Jason Rameriz and Aaron Olla just missed their mark. An own goal (the Indians scored the goal) and one mistake on a breakaway cost the Indians the game.

Andrew Olla, Justin Wessing, Brian Becht and Josh Timblin did a great job at mid-field.
