Premier Auto Center Gets Approval for Sign, Sublot

By Andrew R. Kuehl
Staff Writer/Photographer

The Town of Kewaskum Planning Commission opened their February meeting by reviewing a sign and sublot plan for Premier Auto Center who, at the last meeting expressed interest in moving his dealership from Prospect Drive (behind Roger & Dan's Auto Service) to the former Henry Timblin Trucking truck lot next to the Amoco station.

Bob Hackbarth, owner of Premier Auto Center received a favorable nod from the town board and it's planning commission at it's previous meeting in January.

Hackbarth's plan for now is to get a sign erected and put some cars on the property in form of a sublot. He received a favorable recommendation from the commission and later during the town board meeting it was approved.

In speaking with Hackbarth after the meeting he stated the sign is scheduled to go up by the end of March at which time he will begin parking cars on the lot.

Hackbarth will have to come back to the commission and zoning and building inspector Gordon Hoffmann to produce a landscaping plan along with a plan to identify drainage.

The next order of business was to review a site plan from Bill Heberer for the expansion of his storage facility on Sandy Ridge Road.

The main topic of discussion was Heberer turning his three parcels into one parcel. Heberer plans to sell a portion of one of the properties and convert the rest into a storage facility similar to the ones that exist now. Hoffmann and the commission advised he will need to come back to the plan commission at a later date with a CSM for the project.

The commission also dis-

Kewaskum Fire Chief Mark Groeschel, Firefighter of the Year Rick Maki, and Assistant Chief Mark Herriges.

The Kewaskum Fire Department has selected their 2001 Firefighter of the Year. The firefighter chosen for this year's award is Rick Maki.

The department not only looks at overall accomplishments from the past year in choosing their recipient, but also what he or she has contributed over the past several years.

Maki joined the department in 1997. Since joining, he has served on many committees, attended numerous classes, and is present at meetings and training nights regularly. He is a driver on the rescue squad and is currently serving as the department's First Lieutenant.

Because of his medical background, he has spent many hours not only on training nights, but also on his own time, fixing or repairing the department's fleet of vehicles. He has also spent countless hours taking care of fire inspections and prevention duties for the Kewaskum department.

He was honored at the Kewaskum fire department's annual banquet.

POLICE REPORTS

Suspicious Vehicle

A Washington County Sheriff's Deputy was dispatched to a resident on Stoney Creek Drive in the town of Farmington on February 15.

The homeowner reported an unidentified vehicle in his driveway, he thought possibly it was a visitor so he turned on some lights and upon doing so the vehicle quickly left the residence.

CB Antenna Stolen

A Kewaskum police officer was dispatched to a theft complaint at a Highway H residence on February 16.

The complainant stated that between the hours of 7 p.m. on February 15 and 7 p.m. on February 16, someone had stolen his CB antenna of his red 1991 Chevrolet Cavalier. The model of the antenna was a K40, it is five to six feet in height and the base is black with red letters. The antenna is valued at $50.

Answering Machine Message Raises Concern

A resident on First Street asked to have a officer stop at her house in regards to a message that was received on her answering machine. The message in question was about a company wanting to consolidate her loans at 1.5%.

The complainant was very concerned because her mother received the same call within a half hour. The officer advised if she was interested to call the number and receive information by mail to determine if this could be done.

Obscene Phone Call

A Kewaskum police officer was dispatched to the Rustic Inn restaurant in the village for a complaint of a obscene phone call on February 20.

Allegedly a female party called the restaurant and used obscenities with the owner after finding out his smelt fry was not all you could eat. The owner of the restaurant thought they should not be using the phone for those purposes and wished to file a complaint.

The caller's phone number was obtained using caller ID so the officer called the caller and he stated the owner was rude to his wife and that is why she said what she said.

Identity Theft

A Washington County deputy was dispatched to a resident on Covey Drive in the Town of Farmington on February 21. The complainant was concerned over receiving a call from a collection agency about a credit card that they never received and carried a balance of $5,500.

Apparently the card was used only once after it's May 25, 2001 activation date. That being a jewelry store in Decatur Georgia. There was a payment made on the card in November 2001.

The residents decided to call the credit card issuer and resolve the matter with them but wanted the report on file.

Trespassing Complaint In T. of Wayne

A Washington County deputy was dispatched to Farm Lane in the Town of Wayne on February 23 for a trespassing complaint.

The complainant stated that there was a vehicle parked in his farm access lane on the north side of Highway 28 just east of Highway H. He stated he and his father rent the land and this is not a place for public vehicles to park. He did state that do allow Washington County Highway shop vehicles to park there.

The owner of the vehicle could not be reached so the deputy left a note. The owner of the truck later called the deputy and was instructed not to park there.

Car Stereo Equipment Stolen

A Washington County deputy was dispatched to Badger Road in the Town of Kewaskum on February 23 for a theft complaint.

A resident there stated stereo equipment valued at $670 was stolen from his unlocked vehicle.

The owner of the equipment and his mother noted no suspicious activity around the time when the equipment was stolen. A set of tire tracks were seen just south of the home and it appeared that at least one or two vehicles pulled off the roadway near the driveway and one or two subjects may have exited the said vehicle or vehicles. Several wire tie terminal lugs and connectors wrapped in bubble wrap were left in the vehicle. These items were taken into evidence and were dusted for prints. A cell phone was also in the vehicle but left untouched. There was no damage to the vehicle itself.

If anyone has information on any of the complaints, contact the Kewaskum Police Department at 626-2323 or the Washington County Chief's Tip Line at 1-800-232-0594. All calls are confidential.

The next meeting of the planning commission will take place March 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the Kewaskum Town Hall located at 9019 Kettle Moraine Drive. To be placed on the agenda please contact Sandra Stern, town clerk at 626-2566.

Blood Drive Here Mar. 6

On Wednesday, March 6, the Kewaskum High School Student Council and the Community Blood Drive coordinators will join efforts and host a blood drive at the High School in the choir room from 1 to 5 p.m. Parking will be available in the front and back of school.

More than 600 units of blood are needed each day to meet the needs of patients in 34 hospital sites in ten counties. There is no substitute for blood. If people lose blood from surgery or injury or if their bodies can't produce enough, there is only one place to turn... volunteer blood donors.

When you donate blood, you give a second chance at life to all kinds of people, young and old -- a chance to recover and a chance to live. This is your opportunity to help others who might find themselves in need. Organizers of this blood drive are hoping to reach a goal of 80 or more donors.

Donors must be 17 years old or older, weigh at least 110 pounds, be free of symptoms of a cold, sore throat, flu or allergies on the day you donate and not have had hepatitis.

All donors are asked to provide their social security number and must present some form of identification when making their blood donation. Acceptable forms of identification are a picture I.D., blood donor I.D. or identification with a signature.

The actual donation of a pint of blood takes approximately seven minutes. Plan 20 minutes prior to the donation to give medical history and to have your temperature taken and 10-15 minutes after the donation for some refreshments. The whole process takes about one hour.

You will feel special for having done something so important. You may help a total stranger or someone in your own community.

Reserve an hour on Wednesday, March 6. Those you help will be grateful you took the time to give such a precious gift. To make an appointment, please call 626-8075.

Don't Depend on Inheritance To Fund Your Retirement

Baby boomers depending on an inheritance to help fund their retirement may be putting their retirement at risk, warn many financial planners and other retirement experts.

The headlines have been enticing for baby boomers. A 1993 study by two Cornell University economists estimated that $11 trillion ($14 trillion in 1999 dollars) would pass to baby boomers between 1995 and 2045. Two Boston College economists upped the ante to $41 trillion dollars spread over 55 years, and other estimates have ranged as high as $36 trillion! With money like that waiting around the corner, why bother to save for retirement?

The reality is, baby boomers need to concentrate hard on saving for their own retirement because large inheritances are not likely to materialize for most boomers, say many retirement experts. They cite a variety of reasons for their conclusions.

First, what inheritances do pass on will be highly unequal, and will be spread out over decades. The Cornell economists estimated that the average estate passed on would be worth $90,000 - hardly enough money to pay for 20 years of retirement. But that's just an average. Some heirs will receive considerably more, many will receive considerably less. Experts estimate that 37 percent of the nation's wealth is controlled by five percent of the households. A study released in 2000 by the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland calculated from a 1998 federal Survey of Consumer Finances that 92 percent of those people receiving inheritances received virtually nothing, while a mere 1.6 percent received more than $100,000. Yet a study for AARP found that over half of the "leading edge" of baby boomers expects to receive an inheritance that will help fund their retirement.

Another factor likely to limit the amount of potential inheritances is that today's older generations are living much longer than previous generations. You may be well into retirement before receiving a bequest. Furthermore, older generations are spending more of their accumulated wealth, not only for basic expenses but for a more active retirement that might include such activities as travel or entertainment. Longer lives also increase the likelihood for long-term care, whose expenses can quickly eat into an estate.

The study by the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland also contends that a significant portion of the wealth is annuitized - that is, it is being paid out in regular payments for retirement. Many of these payments will end when the annuitant dies. Social Security benefits account for part of this, but current retirees also are more likely than baby boomers to receive retirement income from employer-sponsored defined-benefit plans. Payments from these plans will stop when the annuitant dies. Baby boomers, on the other hand, rely more on defined-contribution plans, whose accounts can be passed on when the boomers die.

Furthermore, says the Federal Reserve study, though the dollar amounts passed on may be larger than in previous generations, the inheritances don't represent a greater share of the boomers' economic resources than the inheritances their parents received. That is, relative to their earnings, boomers are receiving only slightly more than their parents did.

Experts also argue that today's retirees, especially wealthier ones, are less inclined than previous generations to leave substantial wealth to their heirs. Billionaires such as Warren Buffett have made it clear they will give most of their money to charity, often in the belief that their children should "earn" their wealth.

What will be your specific situation? Financial advisors recommend that children talk over potential inheritances with their parents. This can be a delicate subject: older people often don't like to talk about their finances and children may not want to appear greedy. Bringing in an outside financial advisor to provide an objective third-party perspective can be helpful.

Examine strategies that can minimize the financial loss on an estate. For example, some baby boomers are buying long-term care insurance for their parents so that expensive at-home or nursing home care doesn't drain their estate.

Furthermore, despite the possible repeal or reduction in estate taxes, tax planning will still play a role in estate planning.

But the real key, say financial planners, is to not rely on an inheritance to fund your retirement. It may not be there when you need it.

To Dave Nordeng and the KHS Varsity Boys Basketball Players,

I would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank Dave Nordeng, the Kewaskum Indians Varsity Boys basketball coach, for his dedication over the last few years in organizing the Sunday night basketball clinics for the elementary school boys of our district.

These clinics have created a fun, yet educational way for introducing our children to the game of basketball. Not only did these clinics provide an introductory version/rules of basketball, it was a perfect way to get our younger generation an opportunity to learn teamwork while giving them something to look forward to on Sunday nights during the winter months.

Second a BIG thank you goes to the varsity basketball players who unselfishly gave up their Sunday nights to help out at the clinics. It is great to know that high schoolers are willing to spend part of their weekend helping our children enjoy the game of basketball.

Our children look up to you as much as they look up to professional athletes. Believe it or not, you are the role models of the future. Your parents should be very proud of all of you along with your coaches and/or teachers. Keep up the hard work and dedication and good luck with whatever your future shall bring.

Dear Editor

Right now there is a critical legislation (AB-546) that would stop the flow of your state tax dollars to pro-abortion organizations.

The U.S. Supreme Court has consistently ruled that state may make policy decisions favoring childbirth over abortion when it comes to use of tax dollars. Assembly Representative Mark Gundrum (R- New Berlin) and State Senator Roger Breske (D-Eland) have introduced this bill.

The Heart of a Champion

Salt Lake City, Utah. Thursday night, February 21, 2002. The women's Olympic figure skating competition was about to begin. Who would walk away with the gold?

TIME magazine - in their Olympic preview issue of February 11 - chose a cover shot of a 16-year-old skater, largely unknown, named Sarah Hughes from Great Neck, NY. Hughes had not even shown up on the world skating scene until about a year ago or so. More than a few people wondered who she even was. The world may not have known Hughes before Thursday, but they sure do know her now. She's the Golden Girl of the 2002 games, The Odds Beater.

The greatest test of courage on earth is to bear defeat without losing heart.

-Robert Green Ingersol

TIME's cover proved to be a bit prophetic. On it, cover girl Hughes is shown skating in the air on top the world, floating there, suspended in a blue sky above snow-capped mountains in the clouds. Well, come Thursday night, float she did...right up to Cloud Number nine. Her dreams took flight when she did.

How did it happen? Hughes told reporters afterward, "I thought there was no way in the world I could win so I just went out and let it go. I always go out and get worried about whether I do this jump or that, whether I'm going to skate fast or spin well, and I just went out and skated." She "just went out and skated." Yes she did, right into the history books. Never before had a woman landed seven triples in a single routine, including two "triple triples," nailing them one right after the other - wham, wham, wham. By the seventh, her announcers were speechless. What was there to say? Scott Hamilton, Olympic figure skating hero and commentator during Hughes' performance, simply burst out laughing when Hughes connected with her final, fantastic feat. He was wowed. And so was the crowd, on its feet, roaring and applauding thunderously. Hughes' airborne performance was magical, and nobody needed to wait for the judges to tell them so. By the close of her program, no one - including Hughes - could even hear the music she was suppose to be skating to.

We cannot tell what may happen to us in the strange medley of life, but we can decide what happens in us - how we take it, what we do with it - and that is what really counts in the end. How we take the raw stuff of life and make it a thing of worth and beauty - that is the test of living.

-Joseph Fort Newton

She had just skated the performance of a lifetime and she had done it at the most amazing moment of her life: when all the world was watching. She told reporters later, "I've never skated that well in my whole life. If there was any place to do it, this was the place." Boy, was she right. It was a good place. As good as gold.

Sarah Hughes was the champion who took the crowd's breath away last Thursday.

So was Michelle Kwan. The crowd gasped when Hughes soared into the air, and gasped when Kwan fell out of it.

Kwan had been favored for the gold at Salt Lake City, just as she was back in 1998 when she finished with a silver instead. Thursday night, she left with the bronze. The 21-year-old sweetheart of skating, always a crowd favorite, had won every honor available to skaters but the Olympic gold - including six US Champion titles and four World Champion titles. She had also been awarded more perfect 6.0 scores than any other woman figure skater in history. On February 21, she was hoping for the missing medal in her collection, but she fell short - literally - during the four minute program she had worked for four years to deliver.

Afterwards, she, too, had something to say to the reporters waiting, and it was this: "I made a few mistakes. I rushed and landed badly. It just wasn't meant to be tonight." That's humility. "Well, I didn't skate very well, but I have to shrug my shoulders and go on." That's honesty. "I'm happy I didn't fall apart in the middle of my performance. I've got to remind myself to keep my head high." That's courage. "It's ok, it's ok. The color of the medal doesn't matter. The important thing is my family is here to support me, it's going to be ok." And that's priority.

Her father was waiting for her when she left the ice and was there to hold her hand while she listened to her scores. He was also by her side with the rest of the family when she told reporters later how happy she was that she persevered after her fall and was able to finish her program, adding, "It's been a wonderful journey the past four years."

How does one find the strength to use words like "happy" and "wonderful" when everything you've hoped for, worked for, and reached for has just slipped through your fingers in only four short minutes? I suppose her ability to do so is one of the many reasons why she is so loved. I suppose it's why the press refers to her as "elegant" "of immense popularity" "as polite as advertised" and "the most respectful, least self-involved superstar athlete you've ever met".

Michelle Kwan, National Champion, World Champion, and a Champion of the Heart. She may have fallen on the outside, but she is standing on the inside. It's crystal clear. Like ice.

Stabbing at Apartment Leaves Sheriff's Deputies With Hands Full

By Judy Steffes

The Washington County Sheriff's Department has had their hands full lately, trying to piece together a stabbing at an apartment in the Town of Addison. The tough part about the case is one of the victims is also apparently the one who initiated the fight.

Washington County Sheriff Jack Theusch said the stabbing occurred February 18, during a fight at a Town of Addison apartment. Early reports indicate four men went to put some hurt on another man as payback for an incident that occurred last fall. Authorities said those accused of instigating the assault include Keith L. Wiedmeyer, 23, Jamie Mapes, 21, David Koenig, 21 and David Barribeau, 18. Investigators contend that at least three men were armed with beer bottles when they allegedly broke into the apartment and started attacking David Jensen.

The plan went awry when the foursome found Jensen was not alone. Authorities said another man, Anthony V. Phillips, 21, was at the apartment and he got into the mix, allegedly stabbing Wiedmeyer and Mapes. Sheriff Theusch said even though the stabbing occurred on Monday, they got wind of the incident a day later when doctors at St. Joseph's Hospital in West Bend called police.

"It was the hospital that initially tipped us to the stabbing when Wiedmeyer first walked in to be treated," Theusch said, at the time Wiedmeyer refused to say anything and at that point it was difficult to determine whether he was a victim or a suspect. "You always assume the person injured is the victim, but that's not true in this case," said Theusch. "In this incident he was the victim of a stabbing but he was also (allegedly) the aggressor who helped kick down the door and was beating up on somebody."

Doctors had to operate on Wiedmeyer, who had some internal organs knicked after being stuck in the gut. While Wiedmeyer recuperated, details on the case started to shake out and authorities arrested three men. The suspects appearing in court last Thursday were Mapes, Barribeau and Koenig and all were charged with being party to the crime of burglary involving a battery.

The scenario then took a bad Cagney and Lacey, spin, when Wiedmeyer pulled his IV's out of his arm and walked out of the hospital. "He was not charged at the time because we did not have enough information to go talk to him yet," said Theusch about Wiedmeyer who was not being watched when he booked out of the building. "We obviously knew he was there and part of something, but until we have that information we couldn't arrest him," he said.

Wiedmeyer ended up returning to the hospital because of his injuries and that is when investigators felt they had enough information to arrest him. "We've been guarding him since last Friday," said Theusch admitting the case has been difficult to crack. "We were having trouble because nobody was talking," Theusch said, what made it worse was the man who allegedly started the melee was also the victim. "People say, look at the poor fella who got stabbed, but the fact of the matter is it happened when he broke into somebody's apartment. The other thing that made it difficult was there were several players in the case and nobody was overly cooperative."

Since the stabbing Wiedmeyer has been charged with burglary and simple battery. If convicted he could face more than 60 years in prison. Phillips has also been charged with two counts of reckless endangerment. He is the one accused of slitting Wiedmeyer up the middle and also stabbing Mapes. During an appearance before Washington County Judge Annette Ziegler, Phillip's attorney argued that his client was merely defending himself during the attack. If convicted Phillips could spend 20 years in prison.

POLICE REPORTS

Phone Harassment

A Washington County Sheriff's deputy responded to a St. Anthony Road resident on Friday, February 22 to speak with a female complainant about harassing phone calls she had been receiving.

The woman stated she has been receiving calls from a man she met while a patient at a Fond du Lac hospital. It was noted the man received her phone number from a friend. The man called her and told her he wanted to take her away and treat her better than another male friend she had. She stated she did not want this and he should not call her any more. Deputies were unable to speak with the man and they have been unable to locate him

Allenton F.D. Holds Awards Banquet

By Judy Steffes

Quite a few volunteers from the Allenton Fire Department were recognized in an awards ceremony this past Saturday night at the Addison Town Hall.

Long time department treasurer Albert Wolf was honored for his 36 years of service. Wolf received a certificate of commendation from members of the Badger Firemen's Association. Wolf was recognized for his years of commitment and contributions to making the Allenton area a safer and better place to live and work. Wolf was presented with the award by fellow fire fighter Ron Naab. "Albert's leadership and mentoring skills have helped many individuals become better people," said Naab who touted Wolf as a vital member of the Allenton and Washington County communities.

"One of the great things about Albert is he never purchased a piece of equipment that would only satisfy current needs, but he said the Allenton department should invest in equipment that would be dependable an useful over the next ten to twenty years." After serving as a long time volunteer with the Allenton Fire Department, Wolf has finally hung up his helmet and retired.

Wolf was also recognized by the State Assembly and State Senate, guest speakers included Hartford representative Mickey Lehman and Mary Panzer of West Bend.

Long time volunteer John Breyer received the 2001 George H. Moser Firefighter of the Year award. This was the second time Breyer has received the department's Most Valuable Player Award. During the presentation Breyer was recognized for going out of his way to help people in emergency situations and participate in continuing education classes during the past 18 years he has been with the department. Breyer was named department Captain in 1987 and in 1990 he was elected first assistant chief.

Other awards handed out at the banquet went to Jerry Krans for his 51 years of service. Allen Konrath was recognized for 46 years of service and those who have at least 35 years volunteer with the department include Ron Naab, Jerry Shelling, and Chief Ray Wolf. About 120 family members and friends attended the Saturday night banquet.

Early Trout Season Opens Saturday

MADISON -- The warm winter's been a bust for snowmobilers and cross country skiers, but it should benefit anglers venturing out for the March 2 opener of Wisconsin's early catch-and-release trout season on most inland waters.

"There certainly should be more streams open physically and not iced over since there's been such warm weather," says Larry Claggett, Department of Natural Resources cold water fish expert. "And the lack of snow means there's not a big snowpack so there won't be a lot of runoff. Streams will be running low and clear."

Such conditions mean anglers should be able to see fish more easily, and, if weather continues to be unseasonably warm, there may be some early hatches to really stir up the fishing action, Claggett says.

The season opens at 5 a.m. on Saturday, March 2, and runs until midnight April 28 on most inland waters. Some streams in northeastern Wisconsin aren't open for fishing because of concerns that these sensitive streams could be damaged.

Other exceptions include Lake Michigan tributaries, major Green Bay tributaries, all other tributary streams, rivers and ditches to Green Bay upstream to the first dam or lake -- all of which have an open season all year.

Lake Superior tributaries are not open for the early season except the White River and its tributaries from the White River Dam upstream to Pikes River Road Bridge and the Iron River and its tributaries upstream from the sea lamprey barrier at the former site of the Orienta Dam.

A full listing of the streams open for the early trout season can be found in the 2002-2003 "Wisconsin Trout Fishing Regulations and Guide" now available at DNR Service Centers and license sale outlets. The list is also found on DNR Web site. From the DNR home page <http://www.dnr.state.wi.us/> click on "Outdoor activities," then "fishing," and then look under "regulations."

Anglers must release any trout they catch immediately, and can use only artificial lures with barbless hooks while fishing for any fish species on a trout stream.

On those inland streams open for the early season, there will be plenty of fishing action, particularly in western and central Wisconsin streams, fisheries biologists say.

"Trout anglers can expect very good trout fishing in Western Wisconsin," says Heath Benike, a DNR river fisheries specialist.

"Snowfall amounts are currently low throughout the area. The warmer weather conditions this winter should also increase trout activity especially during mid-day. Trout populations are strong and anglers should find plenty of hungry trout as spring approaches."

Surveys in Pierce, Dunn and St. Croix counties show wild trout populations in the area continue to improve, and stocked brown trout streams in Pierce County have also shown improvements. So anglers should find some of the best trout populations in recorded history, according to Marty Engel, a DNR fisheries biologist stationed in Baldwin.

In southwestern Wisconsin, a combination of factors have come together to produce the best trout populations on record for this part of the state, according to Bradd Simms, a DNR fisheries biologist stationed in Dodgeville.

Increases in the amount of hillsides protected from grazing or taken out of tilled cropping has led to a significant increase in precipitation soaking into the ground instead of running off, leading to a considerable increase in spring discharge and subsequent increases in stream base flow and the length of trout streams, Simms says. (A story describing these changes is featured in the February 2002 Natural Resources Magazine.)

Trout hatched from wild parents under DNR's wild trout stocking program and introduced into these improved streams have thrived. Fish hatched from wild parents, however, are significantly different than their cousins hatched from domestic stock were, and anglers should be ready for this difference.

While there are significantly more fish in the streams, these wild fish are significantly more wary than their domestic cousins were, so anglers need more skill to get one on the end of the line. The wild fish are smaller and have a much thinner, racy build that's better suited to survive and reproduce in the wild.

Benike advises anglers to fit their fishing to the time of the year for the best results.

"In March, anglers can expect the best activity to occur during the warmest weather and increased solar radiation," he says. "After spring runoff has occurred and daylight increases, water temperatures will warm earlier in the day and anglers can expect the best trout fishing from around 9 a.m. to 5 p.m."

In late March through April, fly fishermen can expect decent nymph and dry fly fishing on area streams and anglers who spin fish can hook into some quality-sized fish when water conditions are slightly turbid especially after spring runoff when water temperatures are warmer and trout are more aggressive.

Moms in Motion Exercise Class

Moraine Park's West Bend Campus Installs Defibrillators

Thanks to the determination and initiative of Electricity Instructor Mike Melaney, College Health Nurse Mary Alsteens, and the Student Senate, Moraine Park Technical College's West Bend Campus is a safer place.

During the recent holiday break, two automatic external defibrillators (AEDs), one in the Electricity Program lab and the other near the front office, were installed at the West Bend Campus.

"With the Electricity Program on campus, we really felt strongly about the need for an AED in the lab," said Melaney. "An accident dealing with electrical shock could be fatal and the immediate use of an AED could change the outcome. Hopefully, we'll never have to use it, but it's a good feeling to have it if we do."

Research on the costs for different units, as well as the cost of staff training on the AEDs, was done by Alsteens. The West Bend Campus Student Senate donated the money for one AED; the other was paid for by the College.

"It's great to have these units on campus, but having people properly trained to use them is just as important," said Alsteens. "Day and evening staff at all three Moraine Park campuses have already been trained, so someone is always available to operate the defibrillators in the event of an emergency."

Defibrillators for the Beaver Dam and Fond du Lac campuses have been ordered and are expected to arrive sometime in March. The Student Senates at the respective campuses donated much of the money for these units.

Students Use 'Hands On' Approach in Computer Class

Clark Stamm

Amanda Bunkelman

The eighth grade students at Holy Trinity School use a "hands on" approach in computer class. The project, published four times per year, is the school quarterly reader called "The Wildcat Tribune."

It contains literary works submitted from students of all grades and updates on school sports and activities. The students work independently in class to make this project possible. They literally do all of the work from ground zero to completion.

The students are responsible for creating data, obtaining submissions from other students or staff, proof reading, editing, graphics arts and designing.

This approach enables the students to be creative, set goals, and meet deadlines, while enhancing critical thinking skills. In the end, they have a product for the students, made with pride, by the students.

At Holy Trinity School, all classrooms are equipped with computers and are utilized daily. Students, however, begin computer instruction in the lab at the first grade level. The computer lab holds 15 computer stations, necessary programs and equipment, in addition, to a full time instructor, Mrs. Kamrath.

The curriculum she teaches is integrated with the technology, offering students optimum learning. They learn keyboarding, word processing, spreadsheets, desktop publishing, and web page design and production.

The students gain a wealth of knowledge. In fact, students are exempt from courses offered at the high school level. When students graduate from Holy Trinity School, they are computer literate in every facet of computer technology.

Ice Anglers Should Consider Removing Shanties Early

MADISON -- With ice conditions on many Wisconsin bodies of water deteriorating rapidly, state Conservation Wardens are urging caution among wintertime outdoor enthusiasts who venture out onto ice-covered lakes and rivers.

Anglers with ice shanties may want to consider removing them from the ice before the appropriate deadlines in the northern and southern parts of the state. Snowmobilers and other users should be wary that ice conditions change quickly and will vary from day to day given this year's unseasonably warm winter weather.

"Statewide, the temperature has been about eight degrees warmer than average during the past three months," said Bill Engfer, chief of recreational safety for Department of Natural Resources.

"A number of lakes -- especially in southern Wisconsin -- are beginning to open up and ice is quickly disappearing from the shorelines of many other bodies of water. Now is certainly the time to be careful if you're thinking about heading out onto the ice."

Under state law, ice shanties located south of Highway 29 must be removed no later than March 5; shanties located north of Highway 29 must be removed from the ice no later than March 15. Failure to remove a shanty by either of those deadlines could result in a forfeiture of $208.40. Additional costs may be incurred if the shanty breaks through the ice and must be removed.

"Even thick ice can fail to support a significant amount of weight given our current weather conditions," Engfer said. "While the ice may be several inches thick, it has become porous and "honeycombed" due to repeated melting and freezing cycles."

"Make sure you know the most up-to-date ice conditions of the lake you're enjoying and give some thought to removing your ice shanty early. Better safe than sorry," Engfer concluded.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER®

Michael A. Guido
Metter, Georgia

In a lecture on snobbishness a father said to his daughter, "Remember, Alice, we're all made from the same mold."

"You're right," she answered. "But some are moldier than others."

But the Bible says, "There is no difference: for all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God."

In the sight of others, a person may be down and out. But no one is ever down so low that the Lord can't help him out.

One who had been down and out testified, "I'm an old man. My memory's failing me. But there are two things I never forget: I'm a great sinner, and the Lord Jesus is a great Savior."

CPR Course For Adolescents, Young Adults

Young adults in middle and high school can learn how to provide CPR to adults, infants and children who experience life-threatening emergencies by taking CPR for adolescents and Young Adults, a course sponsored by St. Joseph's Community Hospital of West Bend.

Participants ages 12 to 19 will learn how to recognize the life-threatening emergencies, the warning signs of heart attack and stroke in adults, and breathing difficulties in children.

The American Heart Association CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) course is being offered Saturday, March 16, from 8:30 a.m. to noon in the hospital's fourth floor east conference room. The fee is $20.

The course is designed to help young adults learn rescue skills in CPR and the relief of foreign-body airway obstructions to help their loved ones, friends, or neighbors at home, school, or in the community.

The course presents information about the adult and pediatric Chain of Survival and signs of heart attack, cardiac arrest, stroke, and choking in adults. It also helps participants to recognize the signs of choking in infants and children, prevention of sudden infant death syndrome, and prevention of the most common fatal injuries in infants and children.

"These are good years to learn about CPR and the Chain of Survival. Many young adults care for neighbor children or care for younger brothers and sisters, so it's important for them to recognize dangers. They may save a life of a child, or an adult," said Mary Theisen Faber, hospital educator and a course instructor.

25 Years Ago

January 21, 1977

Reverend Darrell R. Joiner was formally installed as pastor of Peace United Church of Christ in Kewaskum on Sunday evening, January 9.

People, cars, power lines, water pipes and garages who were swamped with calls were affected by the extremely cold temperatures felt here last week and over the weekend. The mercury here sank to from 15 to 17 degrees below zero again Sunday morning with a wind chill factor of 55 degrees below zero. The cold caused a power outage in the Kewaskum area Saturday night and people were without light or heat for over an hour when a main feeder line snapped due to the cold.

The deadline has passed for candidates interested in filing for election to the Village Board. The following candidates have shown their intent to run for village positions. Charles Miller, Incumbent President, will be unopposed for another term in office. For Trustees, Daniel Schmidt is seeking his third term; David Nigh is seeking his second term, and seeking a first term are Mark Kral, Oscar Knoeck, who ran once previously, and Roger Schmitt, who also has tried unsuccessfully before to obtain an office. The third incumbent, Trustee Roger Strack will not seek reelection.

The Kewaskum Indians came very close to winning their first conference game here Friday when a last second basket gave third place Germantown (4-2) a narrow 62-60 victory. In non-conference action here Tuesday, the Indians ripped another Flyway loop team, Horicon, 84-71. Leon Laatsch, top scenic scorer, set a single game scoring record of 38 points as the Indians rolled up 84 points, their most of the season.

A daughter was born to Larry and Rosalie Williams, Kewaskum, on January 12. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams of Allenton, and maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Heisdorf of Route 2, Kewaskum. A daughter, Bridget Lynn, was also born to James and Ethel Gnacinski of Pearson, Wisconsin. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Mike Gnacinski of Antigo, former Kewaskum residents.

Sons were born to Allan and Carol Walters, Kewaskum, on January 13, to Peter and Mary Schneider of Kewaskum, on January 14, and to James and Linda Kletzine of Kewaskum on January 16.

January 28, 1977

Fire completely destroyed the upper portion of a 136 by 40 foot barn on the Henry Oppermann farm on East Auburn Ashford Drive, west of New Fane, about three miles north of Kewaskum Monday night. Kewaskum firemen were called to the scene about 10 p.m. Also reported damaged was a Harvestore silo and the milk house. The roof of the milk house was burned off but the equipment was saved. The lower portion of the barn used for milking was also pretty well intact. The Oppermanns had retired for the night when the fire was discovered almost at the same time by their son, Ronald, who resides on the next farm west, and a passerby, who stopped to alert them. The Oppermanns then called the Kewaskum Fire Department and Mr. Oppermann went to the barn and was able to save all the livestock, which included over 60 milk cows and several young calves. The cause of the fire was not immediately determined. The Oppermann's farm, Silver Leaf Dairy, is located within a half mile of two other barns that have been destroyed by fire in the last two years.

The Kewaskum Historical Society met on the 18th of January and elected a new slate of officers for 1977. The new president is Marshal Reysen; Vice President Allyne Rodenkirch; Secretary Clifford Stautz, and Treasurer Gloria Rodenkirch. Daniel Schmidt was elected to a three-year term on the Board of Directors.

Fond du Lac County will get still another tourist attraction. A $680,000 building, the Ice Age Interpretive Center, will be constructed near Dundee to assist visitors and help them understand the history of the national scientific reserve. The structure will be at the junction of State Highway 67 and County Highway G, a short distance southwest of Dundee. Work on the center will start in spring and a completion date is scheduled for late 1978.

Three candidates for Town of Kewaskum Treasurer will be narrowed to two by electors at a town caucus on February 5. William Bruhn, the incumbent, is not running and the three who have told the caucus committee they intend to run are Marilyn Haug, Dolores Prost, and Allen Koepke. Mervin Thompson, incumbent Chairman, is being challenged by George Allman. Barbara Hinz, Clerk, is unopposed, but three are running for the two supervisor positions. One is incumbent Jerome Herriges and the other two are David Dorn and Daniel Stoffel. James Andre, the incumbent is not running for re-election.

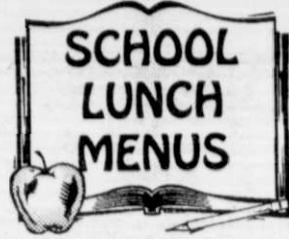

A daughter was born to Kim and Sherry Rodenkirch, Kewaskum, on January 24.

Sons were born to Vernon and Jacqueline Wiedmeyer of Kewaskum on January 22 and to Joseph and Beth Stoffel of Campbellsport, also on January 22.

Village Board Meeting Minutes

Regular Meeting
February 4, 2002
8:00 p.m.

The Village Board of the Village of Kewaskum, Washington County, Wisconsin, met in Regular Session in the Council room of the Municipal Building, 204 First Street.

President John D. Kenworthy presided. All Trustee Members were present. A quorum was present.

The meeting was opened with a Moment of Silence and the Pledge of Allegiance.

On a motion by Trustee Andy Pesch, seconded by Trustee Larry Ammel and unanimously carried by voice vote, the minutes of the January 21, 2002 were approved as printed.

President John Kenworthy welcomed Representative Glen Grothman and Daniel Stoffel, the Villages County Board Supervisor. Both men were present to talk about the proposed budget reform bill of the Governors. Representative Grothman informed the Village Board that hopefully the proposal would change. He also indicated all agencies, departments and units of government need to be looked at equally. The Village Board expressed their dismay in reference to being called big spenders when in reality only 14.6% of each dollar distributed by the state is being shared by the counties, cities, villages and towns equaling 1,921 units of government. That leaves a balance of 45.1% of each dollar distributed by the state going to 442 school entities.

Fire Chief Mark Groeschel presented the January 2002 report:

Fire calls 4 Year to date
4
Jaws calls 3 Year to date
3
Rescue calls 28 Miles
468

Chief of Police Richard Knoebel had nothing to report.

Director of Public Works, Jerry Gilles reported as follows:

1) Reported that the DNR approved the Village of Kewaskum well-head protection plan.

2) Reported on the developments of the Whispering Willow Condos and the installation of the utilities.

On a motion by Trustee Robert Stoltzmann, seconded by Trustee Thomas Piwoni and unanimously carried by voice vote, the Board approved the issuance of an Operators License for 2001/2002 upon proper payment of fee and documentation for the following:
Klahn, William L. Kewaskum, WI.

Note: the Police Department had no objection to the application.

Administrator Daniel S. Schmidt reviewed the following with the Board:

1) Review of League and Taxpayer bulletins.

2) Review tax collection process for 2001/2002. Collection was ahead of 1/31/01. The delinquent dollar amount is down in comparison to 2001 by $10,107.93.

On a motion by Trustee Larry Ammel, seconded by Trustee Thomas Piwoni unanimously carried by voice vote, the Board approved the payment of bills as recommended by the Administrative Committee. The total of all claims as recommended are as follows:

SKUNK CABBAGE

by Ami

Early insects are attracted to the heat, the purple color and the unmistakable odor of decaying flesh and fly inside the hood looking for food. In the process they pick up pollen and pollinate the tiny flower in the hood. Flies, like the carrion fly, think they have found a hunk of decaying meat in which to lay their eggs, never realizing they've been hoodwinked by an imitator into a vegetarian diet.

The heart-shaped two by three feet leaves unfurl in summer...the plant is relished by bears. Some Indian tribes crushed the dried leaves of the cabbage and inhaled the fumes to treat headaches. Others cooked them and ate them like spinach, however, they had to be boiled several times to remove calcium oxylate which burns the mouth if eaten. Boiled roots were used to treat asthma and coughs, and were also fiery on the tongue.

I encourage you to step out and peer into the melting snow of wetlands. The "eye of spring" is sure to be up, melting the snow in a circle around its hood. Its appearance tells you that the lovely trilliums, anemones, and spring beauties can't be far behind. Washington County has an abundance of wetlands which present hundreds of skunk cabbage beautiful green living leaf - bows!

Home on the Ice

Kevin Dushek enjoying life on Little Bay de Noc.

Hello friends,

This week, my stepson Kevin and I set up our 12x8 foot shack on Little Bay de Noc. This allowed us to enjoy life on the frozen waters of Lake Michigan for four days while trying to catch walleye and northern pike.

Friday, February 15
High 38- Low 26-

I have a couple of important announcements to make. First, my golden retriever Pearl, has fallen in love with Max, another golden retriever. Pearl and Max have decided to have a family. The pups should be born mid-April. Several people have contacted me in the past five years wanting a pup from Pearl. If interested, I can be reached at (608) 565-3005.

Just as important to the new additions to the family is the fact that my '84 Jeep Eagle, which I bought back in '94 for $2000, has just been replaced with a 1993 extended cab 4x4 GMC. My quality of life has taken a big step forward. With a truck and trailer load of gear, humans and dogs, Kevin and I hit the ice just north of Gladstone, Mich.

This would be my fourth trip in as many years fishing and camping on Little Bay de Noc. The last two trips have produced an 18-pound northern, a 10-pound walleye, and three eight-pounders.

Throughout the humidity and mosquitoes of summer, Little Bay de Noc is where I escape in my dreams while sleeping and awake.

Kevin and I had the major chore of building camp and setting out four tip-ups with two hours of sunlight left. An hour after dark, camp was complete, and we had our first flag.

It was Kevin's tip-up, and like an old pro, he caught our first fish of the trip, which turned out to be a 22-inch walleye.

Saturday, February 16
High 35-, Low 28-

This week's trip is just the start of a major camp, which will include 12 people and three shacks next weekend. The majority of our deer camp will be winter camping on the ice. Hopefully, we will also catch some trophy fish.

About 50 yards away from our camp is a major expansion crack that is allowing only four-wheelers and snowmobiles across it. Last Saturday, two pickups tried and got wet.

Other than Kevin's flag last night, we had no action today. That is until my old buddy, Jeff Moll, with his five and seven year-old boys, Nate and Ross, showed up pulling Jeff's new home away from home, an 8x8 foot shack.

It was at that time that Kevin's other tip-up went up. After a very smooth fight, Kevin iced a 30-inch northern pike.

Jeff and his boys were staying for the night, an unexpected bonus. This also meant we would have six more lines to put out, significantly increasing our chances of landing a whopper.

In talking with several fishermen today, I heard of a couple of 42-inch and 44-inch northerns, as well as a 27-pounder being caught. In the walleye catch, I heard of a 30, 29 and two 27's. The action is extremely slow and scattered. Patience, big minnows and the ability to ice a trophy are all required.

Sunday, February 17
High 38-, Low 24-

My good buddy, Mike Shirk out of Rapid River, showed up for a visit this morning. He had some disturbing news. Apparently, I have placed this year's camp about 300 yards from last year's honey hole.

Jeff and I knew we had to move camp, and it was a big job. We tried pulling my shack, which is just wood screwed together. Unfortunately, we pulled the walls apart. After a one-hour rebuild, we pulled her with my kind of new pickup and had hopes for big action.

We lost a big walleye and caught two northerns. It was then time to head back to Necedah for a 72-hour home visit, well aware that the Red Brush Gang was coming to camp to catch some extremely large fish.

Be prepared.

Indians Tie for Third in EWC

Kewaskum took on New Holstein on February 25 in an Eastern Wisconsin Conference game. The Indians came out ahead 54-49, leaving them 7-7 in the conference and tied for third place.

"(MVP) Tony Fitts played an all-around good game, defensively and offensively," stated coach Dave Nordeng. "After building a 10 point lead in the third quarter, Kewaskum withstood the physical plays of the taller Huskies."

Fitts scored 14 points for the team. Kyle Rabuck was the assist leader with four. Travis Kempf led the team in rebounds with 11 and Brian Cotter followed with 10.

State Wrestling Tournament Action

Kewaskum suffered some tough luck and even tougher opponents at the 59th Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association division two state wrestling tournament that were held this past weekend at the Kohl Center in Madison.

Kewaskum's Alex Charland wrestled in a tough 152 pound weight class. He wrestled Adam Dorner (39-3) of Luxembourg-Casco, the eventual state champion and lost by fall in 1:22.

"Alex finished the year at 23-10, and ended an excellent athletic career at KHS," stated coach Dennis Aupperle.

Senior, Justin Rhoads, lost to another solid competitor from Luxembourg-Casco. Jacob Schoenebeck (36-6) decisioned Justin 9-3. Rhoads finished the year at 28-8, and finished his career as a two time state qualifier for the Indians.

Junior Marty Harris drew Robert Borem of Tomahawk (34-9) and had a very close match before getting caught and pinned in 5:58. Harris finished the year at 28-9. Coach Aupperle is depending on Harris to provide another year of solid performance next year as senior.

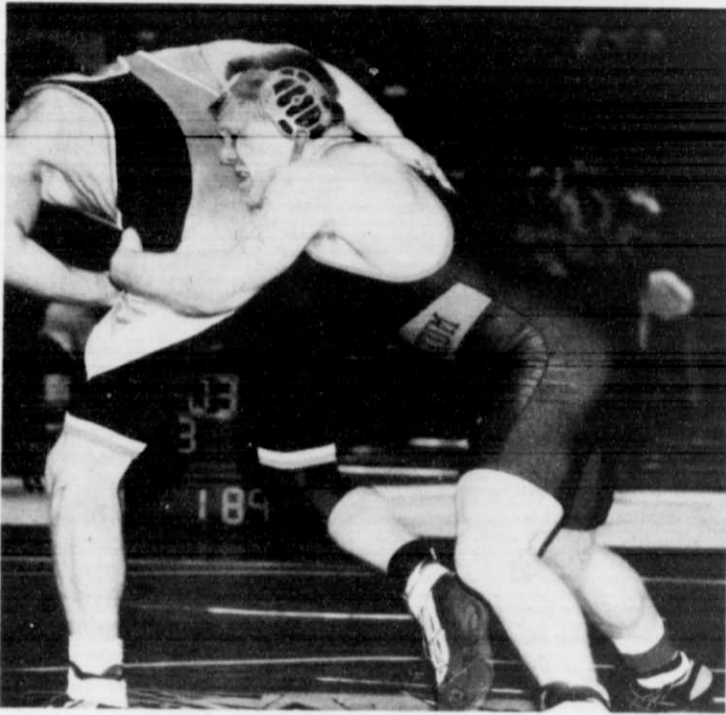

Rival Campbellsport Cougars on the other hand walked away from the meet with a different story.

Freshman, Justin Schmidt, 125 lbs., walked away a champion in his class. Schmidt is the Cougar's first freshman title holder. He ended his first year at 39-3.

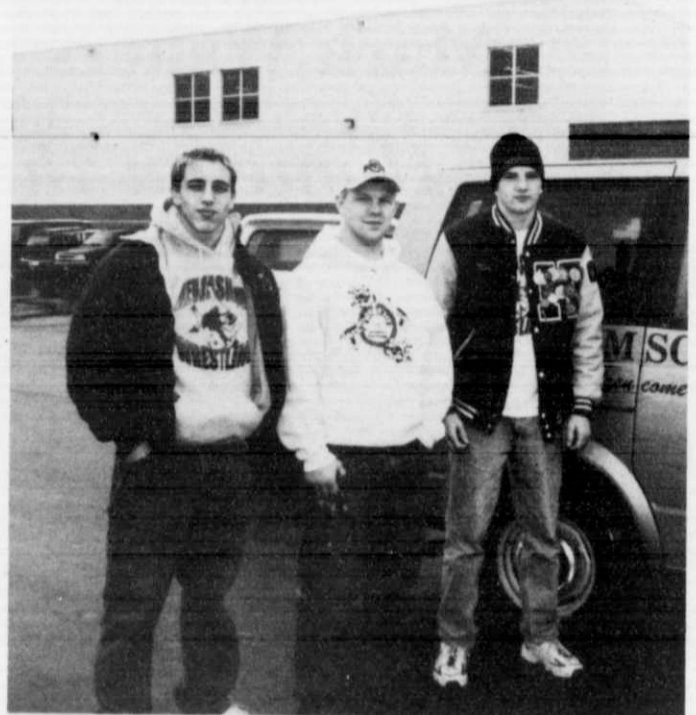

Schmidt defeated Berlin junior, Ben Selsing 7-5 in the final round of competition. Selsing walked away from the finals at (38-4).

Senior Brian Bowe, 119 lbs., was bumped in the final round by Prescott's senior, Willy Holst. Bowe walked away from the meet 41-1.

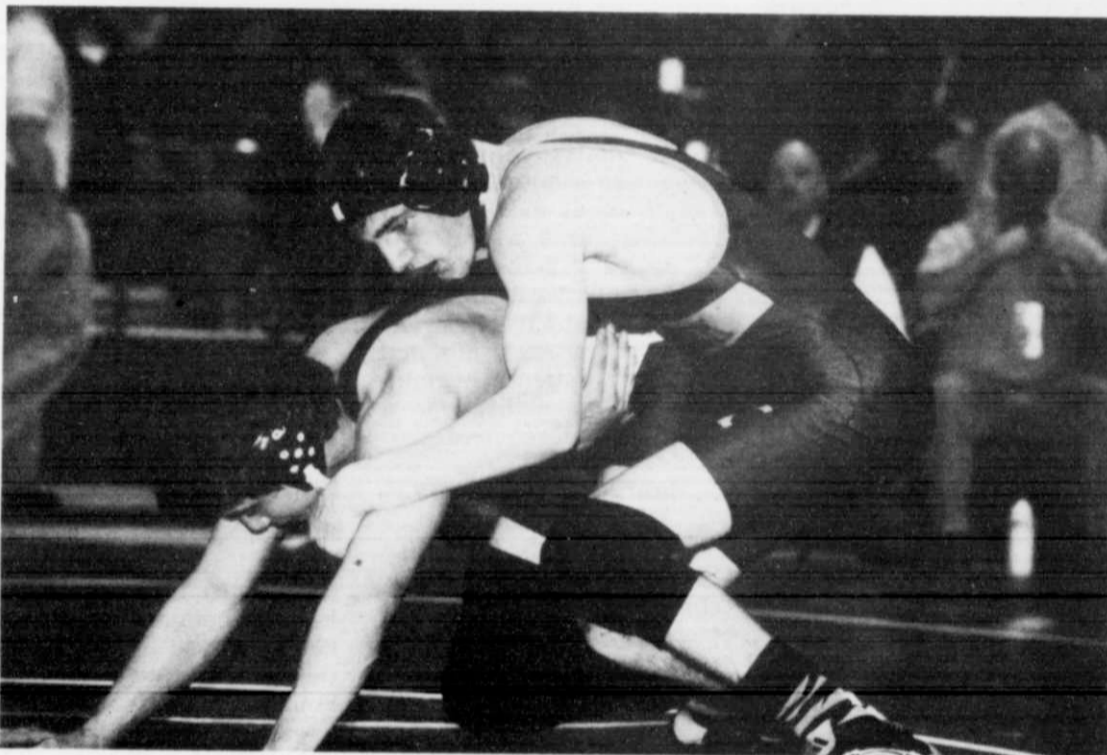

Junior Tim Rowe, 160 lbs., also held tight to the finals. He won 6-5 in his opener Friday. In double KHS senior, Justin Rhoads, attempts to take down his opponent.

On their way to Madison are Alex Charland, Justin Rhoads and Marty Harris.

Marty Harris looking for a pin in his match Saturday at the WIAA state tournament.

over-time action against Dominic Caminata of Lake Mills-Johnson Creek Rowe took a victory 2-1.

A knee injury almost ended it all right there for Rowe but after ice treatments he was allowed to compete in the evening final.

In his final match Lancaster's Zach Hamilton proved to be more than Rowe could handle and he ended his season 38-4.
