Curriculum Coordinator To Leave District Molebash Is New Principal At Farmington-Wayne

Janet Molebash

By Andrew Kuehl
 Staff Writer/Photographer

The Kewaskum Board of Education decided to use one of their own to fill a vacancy that was left almost two years ago when Farmington Elementary School principal James Botting decided to head north to Fond du Lac for a position at Evans Elementary School.

KHS veteran Physical Education and health instructor Janet Molebash picked up her keys Tuesday said Superintendent of Schools Wayne Graczyk. He stated Molebash has served the district well for 13 years.

Her two year contract was approved at Monday night's school board meeting. She will be half-time principal at both the schools. She will also take over as the summer school coordinator replacing Kenneth Soerens, Kewaskum Middle School principal.

In addition to her instructing she has served in the capacity of high school and middle school softball, volleyball and basketball coach.

By the end of this month she will have completed her course work for a master's degree in educational leadership from Fond du Lac's Marian College. She currently holds a master's degree in sports administration and a bachelor's in K-12 education.

The position at FES was filled this past year by returning administrators Clark Pearson and Tom Larson who came out of retirement to serve the district.

The director of elementary education, Kieth Kriewaldt had served as principal at Wayne. He officially presides over Kewaskum Elementary and will continue in a full time manner.

School officials expected enrollment at both schools to be 425 students.

Molebash will receive a salary of $64,000.

After serving the district for three years, Curriculum Coordinator Melinda De Coriolois will be leaving the district. She will continue to serve in the capacity of a district consultant according to Graczyk.

The district will be looking for an individual to fill the part-time position.

WB Man Dies Following Crash Here After Fireworks

Shown above is the smashed motorcycle that was driven by a West Bend man who died of injuries sustained in a four-vehicle accident just south of the village limits late Wednesday evening.

By Andrew R. Kuehl
 Staff Writer/Photographer

A Kewaskum man who stated he simply fell asleep was allegedly believed to have been the cause of a crash that took the life of a West Bend motorcyclist just south of the village limits after the fireworks Wednesday evening July 3.

According to a report released by the Washington County Sheriff's Department Michael M. Marsala, 23 of Kewaskum stated he fell asleep, crossed the centerline and collided with David J. Curran, 37, of Greenfield.

The motorcycle operator, Ronald B. Collins, 46, West Bend, was traveling behind Curran when he became a victim of the accident.

Curran's truck spun counter-clockwise and came to rest south of the scene. Marsala's vehicle came to rest in the southbound ditchline facing west.

Riding with Collins was Jeanie R. Kidd, 45, of West Bend. The two were ejected from the motorcycle and landed on the roadway.

Curran and a passenger were uninjured.

 Collins and Kidd both required medical transport and were taken to St. Joseph's Community Hospital in West Bend by Kewaskum Rescue Squad. They were later transported via Flight For Life helicopter to Froedtert Memorial Hospital in Milwaukee.

Collins died at Froedtert as a result of his injuries. He is the county's eighth traffic fatality. Kidd was listed in satisfactory condition at press time.

West Bend Intercept provided assistance to Kewaskum Rescue at the scene.

It was noted neither the motorcycle riders were wearing helmets.

Another accident took place also just out of the village limits on Highway 28 east at the Oak Drive intersection Sunday afternoon.

In this crash Robert M. Gonring, 37, of Campbellsport was driving a tractor-trailer semi westbound loaded with round hay bales. The load shifted and two of those bales separated the flat bed trailer as another driver Mark R. Weinreich, 19, of Fredonia was attempting to negotiate a curve.

Weinreich's truck avoided

LOCAL EVENTS

OINK! OINK! He's Back!

Hold on to your pork hocks Kewaskum! The Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce has decided to bring back our wet-snouted, pretty-in-pink, four-legged friend, just in time for the annual Kettle Kountry Kolors family fun festival.

And just like other years when the Chamber brought our own little "Miss Piggy" to River Hill Park from a friendly, neighborhood farm, getting there will be half the fun!

For those of you who missed Kevin Stautz of Hollywood's Portrait Studio chasing a petrified-to-actually-kiss-a-human pig around the beer garden in River Hill Park a few years back, please allow this writer to share a few "pigtales," if you'll pardon the play on words.

As a fund-raiser to help underwrite the cost of the Kettle Kountry Kolors festival, the Kewaskum Chamber of Commerce sponsored a "Kiss the Pig" contest... not once, but twice. The first time the Chamber was a little "green" at what makes a pig actually want to KISS a human. But by the second time the contest was run, just three short years ago, the Kettle Kountry Kolors committee had learned all the ropes about training a pig to perform the dasdardly deed.

The hard part was trying to talk adults into this game. As difficult as it was trying to talk the pig into kissing a human, getting community residents to volunteer their lily-white lips for the sake of raising funds was not an easy task. But, alas, the promise of fame and fortune, not to mention a t-shirt and some cheap prizes, lured many into this sordid contest.

The Chamber again expects to have a minor bit of a problem finding volunteers. Therefore, we have decided to let your so-called "friends" volunteer your lips for you. And who would be such a poor sport to absolutely, positively NOT throw their lips into the ring for the good of humanity.

Well, that may be stretching it just a bit, but the Chamber is promising a real treat in return for your participation in this contest. Part of the proceeds from this event, will, as in other years, go to fund this year's event. BUT, and here's the good part, folks... if this contest takes off (as only you and I can make it) the Chamber has agreed to put away part of the proceeds to bring back the popular lumberjack show in the very near future.

So how's that for a deal? Doesn't that just make you want to fill out a bunch of nominations to have about five or ten of your "closest" friends in the running to kiss our lovable piggy?

Now for some of the fine pigtales... er...I mean, details. The nomination form can be found at the bottom of this page. Please feel free to make copies and nominate as many people as you feel necessary. (Revenge is sweet, especially when it is anonymous!) You must include $1.00 for every nomination you make and you only have until July 31 to nominate. And, for even more fun, there will be separate categories for males and females.

After the nominations close on July 31, the 15 men with the most nominations AND the 15 women with the most nominations will go into the semi-semi-finals in August. In September the field will be narrowed down to the top 10 male and top 10 female candidates.

The last segment, which will begin on October 1 will consist of the top five male and top five female chosen few. On Sunday, October 13, at Kettle Kountry Kolors, the male and female winner will be announced, just prior to puckering up for a sloppy, wet kiss!

Now the rest is up to you! Send in those nominations... NOW! Let's start the fun! And remember, each nomination will also count as one vote. Later in the game, each additional vote will also cost $1.00 and you will be able to vote for some of your favorites in a variety of business places.

For now, nomination forms can be picked up and dropped off at the Kewaskum Statesman, 250 Main Street, or St. Francis Bank, 1225 Fond du Lac Avenue, or can be mailed to "KISS THE PIG" Contest, % The Kewaskum Statesman, P.O. Box 98, Kewaskum, WI 53040.

LET THE GAMES BEGIN! Don't depend on someone else to nominate your favorites. And if any of you really have no idea who to nominate... here's some helpful information from the last contest... Roy Garbisch of Silver Platter Restaurant was real disappointed when he lost out to Paul Becht who is still tasting the after-effects of "piggy's" bitter-sweet kiss.

A preliminary list of nominees will be published in next week's paper. Help us make sure it is a long list.

MADD Sponsors Open House Tour In Campbellsport Sunday

Needs work. Fixer. Handyman's Special. Ever wonder what becomes of these properties?

On Sunday, July 14, from 1 to 4 p.m. MADD offers an opportunity to see what one family did with a "fixer" at 217 East Main Street in Campbellsport.

In December of 2000, Hilary and Joann Schrauth purchased the Cottage Victorian. Some windows were broken, bare light bulbs hung from the 10-foot-high ceilings, door knobs were missing, and spider webs swayed in the breeze from the holes in the kitchen and bathroom ceilings where the melting snow dripped in.

With the help of their family and people with expertise who cared about saving older homes, the Schrauths set about making the house a practical home. The kitchen, downstairs bathroom and stairwell were gutted due to water damage. The downstairs woodwork was severely damaged and had to be replaced. One closet door and the original apron front farmhouse kitchen sink were saved as were the knotty pine and maple floors throughout the downstairs. They managed to repair the original plaster and pine woodwork throughout the upstairs as well as some of the plaster in the first floor rooms.

A cabinet-maker designed and built solid oak cabinetry around the old kitchen sink, as well as in the laundry/bathroom and a library. The cabinetry is eight feet high, topped with crown moldings. Original stenciling has been recreated in the library. Doors and windows in the library, dining and living rooms have 5-1/2 inch wide oak trim with rosettes and plinths. The kitchen and bath have matching trim in a smaller size. French doors open into the living room.

The front porch was opened up and treated to "gingerbread" trim, reminiscent of the Victorian era. Finally, the Schrauths' children and grandchildren painted the exterior of the home in light sage green, with olive, and burgundy trim. Almond was used on the fish scale peaks and white on the lattice trim which is set off with touches of lapis blue.

The lawn was repaired, a lily/fish pond with a waterfall was installed, and trees and flowers planted everywhere. Under a large shade tree in the backyard, there is a seating area accessible through the gazebo.

Several area businesses have contributed their talents to showcase the house for this event. This is not a historic restoration, but an example of what can be done with a well-built house that has been neglected.

All proceeds will go to MADD (Mothers Against Drunk Drivers), East Central Chapter #612. Ticket prices are $4 in advance and $5 at the door. Tickets are available at The Village Apothecary, Sheila's, and Bartoli's in Campbellsport, Wood's Floral in Fond du Lac, and Zahn's Trading Post in New Prospect.

For more information, contact: Joann Schrauth, (920) 533-8280.

K-TOWN SKAT WINNERS

Skat winners on Monday, July 1, were: Gus Giese, 21-1--20 net; Barney Strobel, 505 points; George Minz 64 high play.

The next skat will be Monday, July 15th at 7:00 p.m. K-Town Saloon.

Bud Schmidt to Participate In Great Circus Parade

BARABOO- Bud Schmidt of Potosi, formerly of the Kewaskum area will be part of the Great Circus Parade festivities for 2002. Schmidt will have four belgian horses to pull the Sells Floto Cage Wagon.

The 2002 Great Circus Parade and Festival started on July 5 when 75 antique wagons were loaded onto the Great Circus Train for the three-day trip to Milwaukee.

Next, follow the circus fun to Milwaukee's Veterans Park and the Great Circus Parade Festival from July 9-12. With four live shows daily including the Royal Hanneford Circus, Chinese Imperial Circus, Wild West Revue and Clown-A-Rama, the festival has the most entertainment ever.

On July 14 the week of circus fun concludes with a three-mile long parade through downtown Milwaukee that celebrates the magnificent circus street parades of yesteryear. The parade features over 50 historic circus wagons, 650 horses, 30 bands, 2000 costumed participants, 100 cavorting clowns and dozens of exotic animals.

Circus World Museum and the Great Circus Parade, Inc. present the Great Circus Parade. For more information about the

As I See It

By Rochelle Pennington

One Nation Under God

It's Sunday, July 7th. At the moment, I'm sitting in a church pew writing this column. I've not done this before, and perhaps shouldn't now, but I am.

A choir of men is singing what I do believe is the most moving rendition of The Star Spangled Banner I've ever heard, and I'm amazed.

Among them stands an aged grandfather in his eighties. Beside him, two of his sons are gathered and a son of a son. Three generations in all.

The organ is silent, as is the piano, but their voices are not. "Oh, say can you see, by the dawn's early light, what so proudly we hail," so sing these acappella voices, strong and powerful and pure.

Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord.

-Psalm 33:12

There is an American flag behind these men. This flag is beside the altar, and a cross is beside the flag. It's this flag, and our pledge of allegiance to it, that have come under attack of late. Perhaps you have heard. Specifically, those taking issue are troubled with the words "one nation under God." This puzzles me; especially now, at this very moment as I listen to this singing and look upon the flag.

To believe that our country achieved its greatness, or can maintain its greatness, apart from a recognition of God and an adherence to Godly principles is to fool ourselves. Nothing could be further from the truth. "America, America, God shed His grace on thee." Our "independence" was established by founding fathers who held dear to a dependence upon God. Such is our heritage.

Those who came before us set forth not only their hopes and commitments to freedom, but their warnings to those generations following them regarding conditions to keep it. Patrick Henry wrote, "It is when a people forget God that tyrants forge their chains. A decayed state of morals, a corrupted public conscience, is incompatible with freedom. No free government, or the blessings of liberty, can be preserved to any people but by a firm adherence to justice, moderation, temperance, frugality, and virtue."

From our first President who, in his Inaugural Address, wrote, "The propitious smiles of Heaven can never be expected on a nation that disregards the eternal rules of order and right which heaven has ordained," to our sitting direction.)

Benjamin Franklin, speaking at a Constitutional Convention in 1787, addressed his peers with the following suggestion: "I therefore beg leave to move that henceforth prayers imploring the assistance of heaven, and its blessings on our deliberations, be held in the Assembly every morning."

Proclaim liberty throughout the land unto all the inhabitants thereof.

-Liberty Bell inscription taken from the Biblical verse Leviticus 25:10.

And how about our Supreme Court? It was merely a hundred years ago that the highest court in the land stated: "Our laws and our institutions must necessarily be based upon and embody the teachings of the Redeemer Of Mankind. It is impossible that it should be otherwise; and in this sense and to this extent our civilization and our institutions are emphatically Christian." Emphatically Christian.

"You have the highest of human trusts committed to your care," wrote President Andrew Jackson. "Providence has showered on this favored land blessings without number, and has chosen you, as the guardians of freedom, to preserve it for the benefit of the human race. May He who holds in His hands the destinies of nations make you worthy of the favors He has bestowed, and enable you, with pure hearts, and pure hands, and sleepless vigilance, to guard and defend to the end of time the great charge He has committed to your keep-

It is a sacred heritage we are heir to, indeed, a "great charge committed to our keeping." And as "the guardians of freedom" we must not allow ourselves to forget freedom's foundation. It is faith. Should we fail to pass it on to the generations that follow, that which we believe in and that which we are dies with us. And so will our freedom.

I am convinced of this not by an American, but by a Frenchman. His name? Alexis de Tocqueville. He was a powerful man, a political statesman and judge from France who was sent to the United States in 1831 to study our society in an attempt to understand what made this new nation so great. He then recorded his findings in his classic book, Democracy in America. There we read, "I sought for the greatness of the United States in her commodious harbors, her ample rivers, her fertile fields, and boundless forests - and it was not there. I sought for it in her rich mines, her vast world commerce, her public school system - and it was not there. I looked for it in her democratic Congress and her matchless Constitution - and it was not there. Not until I went into the churches of America and heard her pulpits flame with righteousness did I understand the secret of her genius and power. America is great because America is good, and if America ever ceases to be good, America will cease to be great."

An aged grandfather, two of his sons, and a son of a son are singing. Three generations in all. "Oh, say does that star spangled banner yet wave, over the land of the free, and the home of the brave?"

They finish and are seated, but I hear their question hanging there in the silence beside the altar, in the silence beside the flag: "Does that star-spangled banner yet wave?" It is a haunting question, is it not? A question answered in the largely unknown second verse of the anthem, printed here in the hymnal on my lap on page 575. Its pages are worn, but its message is not: "And this be our motto: 'In God is our trust!' And the star-spangled banner in triumph shall wave, over the land of the free, and the home of the brave!"

Bob Wunsch, Miller Brewing Company's building and grounds supervisor and a Kewaskum resident, holds a 28-day-old baby falcon while it is being banded. The banding process will allow the bird to be identified throughout its life. Miller employees helped build a falcon nest that is located on top of the Milwaukee brewery. The nest was built in collaboration with the Peregrine Falcon Recovery Program at the Milwaukee Public Museum. Currently 19 nesting pairs of falcons live in Wisconsin, and the recovery program is working to increase that number. Falcons have been removed from the endangered species list nationally, but remain on the state endangered list. The baby falcon was named Miller.

Letter to
The EditorCONGRATULATIONS
KEWASKUM!

I want to congratulate the Village of Kewaskum for the fine display of fireworks July 3rd at River Hill Park. It was the finest display I have ever witnessed.

The Fire Department did a great job, in the terrific heat, selling burgers, brats and fries. The soda and beer booth also did a sterling job, all for our enjoyment.

I now want to offer a few suggestions that I believe could be implemented to insure that the people from Kewaskum all get to view the fireworks.

1. No picnic tables on the hill.
2. No laying of blankets, plastic or other materials to "stake out a claim" for later.
3. Absolutely no carry-ins of any kind.
4. How about a marked path for walking?
5. How about reserved seating area for donors?

I suggest these things for the following reasons:

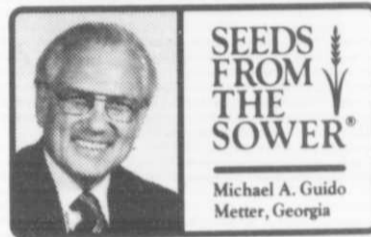

1. The Fire Department works to make money to purchase items for OUR WELFARE. Buy your food from them.

2. I saw a village employee with carry-in coolers, as well as strangers. (What an example).

3. Picnic tables block the view for all behind them. (Being behind a table with big people sitting on them, looking at big butts is no fun).

4. We saw much plastic staked down and no one ever came to sit there. (They had more panels laid out than we did for an air strike in WWII).

A little girl asked, "Mom, is Jesus a rose?"

"Not really," she answered, "why?"

"Because," said the girl, "I heard them singing in Sunday School 'He's a rose.'"

"No," corrected the mother, "you heard them sing 'He arose.'"

He died for us, but He's not a confined Christ. He's our living Lord.

He's with us in every time of perplexity to guide us, in every time of sorrow to comfort us, in every time of temptation to strengthen us, in every time of loneliness to befriend us, and He's with us in death to bring us home to heaven.

Aren't you glad He arose!

DO YOU HAVE REALISTIC MARKET EXPECTATIONS?

What kind of market returns do you expect in the coming decade? Will stocks bounce back to the high returns of the late 1990s, equal historical averages or slip below that? Will the returns you anticipate be enough for you to meet your personal financial goals? What will you do if returns come in below average?

Or are you uncertain as to what the market will do and not sure what to do next? Join the crowd.

One of the hot topics among investment experts today is not whether we'll see a return soon to the double-digit performance of the 1990s-most concur we won't-but just how much lower the market will perform in coming years.

Even a cursory review of the professional literature and overheard debates among investment advisors quickly reveals that the vast majority of experts anticipate yearly stock market returns in the single digits for at least the next decade, perhaps longer. Many certified financial planner professionals cautioned investors during the heyday of the late 1990s about the inevitable market decline, and that has come true. The questions today are, how low will returns sink and how long will lower returns stay?

Many experts expect annual total market returns (before adjusted for inflation) of seven to nine percent. That's not only below the lofty returns of 1995-1999, but below the historical average of around 11 percent for large-cap stocks and 12 percent for small-cap stocks.

These same experts estimate a modest risk premium-the extra return that stocks would earn above a risk-free investment, usually U.S. Treasury bonds-in the range of three to four percent. This, too, is well below recent risk premiums of six to seven percent or higher.

Some investment experts are even less optimistic, citing what they consider an overvalued market. One argued in a recent article in the Journal of Financial Planning that the future risk premium will be zero-essentially saying that stocks won't do any better than bonds in the coming years.

These viewpoints of future equity returns differ sharply with the far more optimistic view of the investing public. Although a poll by the Vanguard Group toward the end of 2001 found investors anticipating returns averaging only seven percent over the next year or two, these same investors were rosier about the long term. They saw returns averaging 15 percent over the next two decades-about the same as 1985-2000.(Computer file-investing returns) One-fourth predicted stock prices to average 30 to 100 percent annually, which is virtually impossible to sustain for that long, say experts.

Assuming the experts are reasonably accurate in their predictions-and one can never be sure when it comes to the stock market-what should you do?

First, be realistic. If the historical average for stocks is around 11 percent, why assume that stocks will return 30 percent for the next 20 years? Many financial planners assume a modest overall portfolio return (usually a combination of stocks, bonds, cash and perhaps other investments) of around seven to nine percent.

Don't invest backwards. Many people start by assuming the stock market will return a certain rate (often high) and then save and plan accordingly.

Instead, suggest many planners, start first by clarifying your personal goals-retirement, a college fund, money to start a small business. Next, determine how much money you will need to accumulate in order to achieve the goals, calculate a modest return on your investments, and then arrive at a figure of how much you need to invest each month.

This avoids the risk of under saving or having to save longer than planned, which is what happens when you assume unrealistically high returns. And should the market exceed expectations, you won't have to borrow as much for college, can take more vacations during retirement or even retire earlier than planned.

Diversify more. Don't concentrate on bigger single bets. If stock returns slow down, other types of assets such as bonds or real estate may pick up some of the slack. Higher net worth investors may want to explore alternative investments, such as private equity, commodities and hedge-funds. Remember, the object isn't to beat the market - it's to reach your financial goals.

Save more. This is the most reliable way to compensate for lower returns.

Watch taxes and fees more closely. It was easy to overlook them during the bull market, but they take a bigger bite when investment returns are lower.

OLD-FASHIONED OATMEAL CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIE MIX IN A JAR

1 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 tsp. baking soda
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/4 tsp. salt
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 1/4 cups old-fashioned rolled oats
1 cup mini chocolate chips

Combine flour, baking soda, baking powder and salt in a small bowl. Spoon into 1-quart wide moth canning jar. Layer remaining ingredients in order given, making sure to pack down each each layer firmly and clean inside of jar with paper towel after each layer. Decorate lid as desired.

Attach these instructions to jar: In a large mixing bowl, cream together 1/2 cup softened butter or margarine, 1 egg and 2 tsp. vanilla until everything combines. Slowly add contents of jar and mix well. Roll dough into 1-inch balls and place on greased cookie sheet. Using the back of a spoon, flatten cookies slightly.

Bake at 350° for 12 to 14 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes about 3 dozen cookies.

To bring one's self to a frame of mind and to the proper energy to accomplish things that require plain hard work continuously is the one big battle that everyone has. When this battle is won for all time, then everything is easy.

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of DARLENE ROHLINGER, who passed away four years ago, July 16, 1998:

God looked around his garden
And he found an empty place.
He then looked down upon this earth,
And saw your tired face.
He put His arms around you and lifted you to rest.
God's garden must be beautiful
He always takes the best.
He knew that you were suffering
He knew you were in pain
He knew that you would never get well on earth again.
He saw that the road was getting rough,
And the hills are hard to climb.
So He closed your weary eyelids.
And whispered "Peace be thine."
It broke our hearts to lose you
But you didn't go alone
For part of us went with you.
The day God called you home.

Loved and deeply missed by her husband, sons, daughter-in-law and grandchildren.

Free Informational Seminar for County Entrepreneurs and Business Owners

Entrepreneurs and business owners seeking to launch their businesses can attend a free informational seminar on how they can develop their business and get access to funding. The informational seminar, offered by the UW-Whitewater Small Business Development Center (SBDC), and co-sponsored by UW-Washington County, Germantown, Hartford, and West Bend Area Chambers of Commerce, as well as the Washington County Economic Development Office, will provide an overview of the "Fast Trac" Program. Fast Trac is a national curriculum, sponsored by the Kauffman Center for Entrepreneurial Leadership, focused on providing the skills so that individuals and companies can write their own business plans.

This program is focused on individuals and businesses that want to develop skills to get into business, obtain financing and/or to take their companies to the next level. The next sixteen week Fast Trac class will start in Washington County on Tuesday, August 20, 2002. The class is set up for anyone wanting to develop the skills needed for a successful business venture, including those individuals that are already operating a small business. Jenny Korbar, owner of Create It Ceramics, just recently celebrated her third anniversary in business and graduated from the Fast Trac class in June 2002. According to Korbar, who wishes the Fast Trac class had been offered in Washington County before she started her business, the course was "a must" for anyone interested in owning a small business. Create It Ceramics is a retail store located near downtown West Bend that specializes in gifts, ready to paint bisque and greenware, and offers a variety of classes.

Ralph Peters, also a recent Fast Trac graduate and operator of a home improvement business, R.A. Peters Home Improvement, agrees that the class is a must for anyone starting their business. Peters recently stated that "the Fast Trac program covers everything a business owner needs to know and where to go for help when starting a business". Peters also emphasized that the curriculum is appropriate for any type of business and could "save a lot of pitfalls" for any new business owner.

This free seminar will be offered at the University of Wisconsin - Washington County, 400 University Drive, West Bend on Tuesday, July 16, 2002 from 6:30pm to 8:30pm.

Please RSVP your attendance at (262) 521-5569. For further information, please contact Vic Grassman, UW-Whitewater Small Business Development Center Program Manager at (262) 521-5569 or e-mail: grassmav@mail.uww.edu. Village Board Meeting Minutes

Plan Commission
May 28, 2002
7:00 p.m.

The Plan Commission of the Village of Kewaskum, Washington County, Wisconsin met in the Council Room of the Municipal Building, 204 First Street. The meeting was opened with a Moment of Silence and pledge of Allegiance.

Chairman John Kenworthy called the meeting to order. Member Leeann Butschlick asked to be excused and was absent. Members present were Andy Pesch, Richard Schmidt, Frank Beesten, Theodore Meilahn, Andrew Kuehl Butschlick and Frank Beesten who arrived at 7:03 p.m. A quorum was present.

On a motion by Richard Schmidt, seconded by Andrew Kuehl and carried by the majority voice vote the Plan Commission approved the minutes as printed for April 30, 2002.

Discussion was held on the possible division of land by mites and bounds located at 900 Fond du Lac Avenue. The property is zoned B-2 General Retail and Service District.

On a motion by Andrew Kuehl, seconded by Andy Pesch and carried by the majority voice vote the Plan Commission concurred with the division of land. Theodore Meilahn abstained.

On a motion by Richard Schmidt, seconded by Theodore Meilahn and unanimously carried by voice vote, the Plan Commission recommended the temporary/permanent zoning classification of B-2 General Retail and Service District and R-2 Single Family Residential District to the parcels south and adjacent to 890 Fond du Lac Avenue.

On a motion by Andrew Kuehl, seconded by Richard Schmidt and unanimously carried by voice vote, the Plan Commission recommended the temporary/permanent zoning classification of B-2 General Retail to the parcels south and adjacent to 885 Prospect Drive.

A review was held on the request received for the rezoning of lot 18 from the preliminary plat for Homestead Hollow a proposed development in the northeast corner of the village. Mr. Brian Kober, one of the developers, is proposing to develop 23 single-family lots. The developers are requesting that the zoning be amended from R-1 Single Family Residential District to R-2 Single Family Residential District. The area adjacent to lot 18 is zoned R-2. Five area residents were present and were apposed to the rezoning, because they want the developer to donate the land to the Village for a neighborhood park. A motion by Richard Schmidt, seconded by Theodore Meilahn to send the matter to the Village Board for public hearing with a favorable recommendation failed for lack of a majority vote. The Commission was split with Richard Schmidt, Theodore Meilahn and Frank Beesten voting in favor and Andrew Kuehl, Andy Pesch and John Kenworthy voting against. The matter was further debated and on a motion by John Kenworthy, seconded by Andy Pesch and carried by the majority, the Plan Commission sent the matter to the Village Board for public hearing without a recommendation. Richard Schmidt voting against.

The Commission reviewed a concept plan for a proposed development from Gary Gavin for a parcel located on the southwestern side of the village on the south side of CTH H. the plan was similar to the land use plan. It is proposed that the area adjacent to Lin de Lane be zoned R-4 Multi-Family to promote the building of 4 or 5 four unit condominiums with attached garages. This would require the R-4 Multi-Family District zoning. No action was taken, but the Commission acknowledged a willingness to work with the developer.

On a motion by Theodore Meilahn, seconded by Andy Pesch and unanimously carried by roll call vote, the Commission adjourned to round table discussion with Mr. Rick Kania from SEWRPC to discuss the proposed zoning amendments.

Roll call vote was 6 Aye 0 Nay 1 Absent.

On a motion by Andrew Kuehl, seconded by Richard Schmidt and carried by the majority roll call vote, the Commission adjourned the meeting. Roll call vote was 6 "Aye" 0 "Nay" 1 "Absent".

Designated Driver Booth at County Fair

Sobering consequences of people drinking and driving in Washington County in the year 2000... 182 alcohol related crashes... 121 injuries... 12 fatalities.

The Washington County Fair and the Council on Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse of Washington County wants to make sure that everyone attending the Fair has an enjoyable and safe experience. Mary Simon, Executive Director for the Council on Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse, says, "We want people to have an alternative to drinking and driving. We're pleased to work with the Fair again this year in offering a Designated Driver Booth."

Individuals over 21 may sign up to be a Designated Driver and receive a wristband that will allow them to receive two free sodas while at the fair. These individuals are asked only not to drink alcohol and drive to or from the grounds.

If you chose to drink, pair up with someone who has stopped by the Designated Driver Booth and agreed to help make Washington County a safe place to enjoy the great County Fair. Wristbands are available daily from 1 pm - 9 pm.

Last year over 1,100 people pledged to be a Designated Driver and it is hoped to see that number increase during the Fair's five day run, from July 24-28, 2002, at the Fair Park in Jackson.

The tent is located outside the back door of the Pavilion as you exit to enjoy the carnival or animal exhibits. Hopefully, all of you will stop by and say hi and sign up to make this the most enjoyable fair ever.

If you would like to help out in the tent please contact Brian Bausch at (262) 335-6888.

News From The Capitol

American History Rewritten

As America faces a long-term struggle with international terrorism, it is important that our young people know and understand what we are fighting for. When judging the success of Wisconsin's schools, focus is understandably aimed at reading comprehension, mathematics, and scientific facts. A new report issued by the Wisconsin Policy Research Institute shows that in the area of world history many of our students would be better off if they skipped reading the textbooks altogether.

One would assume that in evaluating world history our students would learn to take pride in America and its values versus communists and other dictatorships. The curriculum would not interfere with personal belief such as a belief in Christianity that parents are trying to instill in their children. Finally, there should be no overwhelming political bias encouraging one set of unsettled beliefs over another.

This report analyzed seventeen world history texts used by ninety different school districts in the state of Wisconsin. About eighty percent of the school districts did not respond. It appears as though by the standards set above most of these books would receive an "F."

Insofar as American history is mentioned, great detail is given to the camps Japanese Americans were placed in during World War II, American slavery, and anything negative that can be drummed up about Columbus.

Atrocities by Japan in World War II are seldom mentioned. The evils of Communism including tens of millions of deaths, the forced elimination of religion, and material scarcity were not mentioned. Incredibly, quotes from communist constitutions about equality under the law and freedom for women were sometimes mentioned uncritically. Even today, the forced abortion policy in communist China is never mentioned and the impression is left that it is a wonderful country for women's rights. Other oppressive cultures including current Islamic dictatorships and African culture in which slavery is practiced to this day are presented in a very favorable light.

Christianity in particular comes in for harsh treatment with negative stories about the Inquisition highlighted. Expansion of western ideas is characterized as Christianity pushing its beliefs on others. Of course, even if one didn't believe in Christianity, one would have to look at the civil liberties in Christendom and compare it positively to other parts of the world. Once again, other religions are painted favorably with no negative comment out of fear of offending someone else.

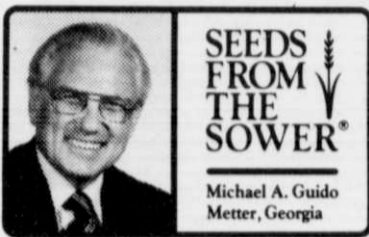

Controversial issues such as the urgency of population control and unsettled matters involving environmental issues are treated as fact.

Any child who accepts uncritically what is in some of these textbooks would probably feel the September bombers were justified in their attacks on the World Trade Center. They would also believe that the United States, which is almost solely responsible for the spread of democracy and human rights in the world over the last fifty years as well as the choice of destination for immigrants trying to get away from their homeland for three hundred years, is an evil country to which they should show no allegiance.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

Michael A. Guido
Metter, Georgia

A jockey lost his first race and his next 250, but he kept trying. And Eddie Arcaro became the most famous jockey of his day.

A ball player struck out 1,330 times. But he didn't quit. And Babe Ruth became the greatest home run hitter of his time.

A man failed 99 times on the same experiment, but Thomas Edison made it a success. And he became the world's greatest inventor.

Failure isn't fatal. It's a step to success. Keep plugging and praying. "Put God first," and the Living Bible says, "He will crown your efforts with success."

Dead Bluegills No Cause for Alarm

WAUKESHA
Concerned lake residents have been calling Department of Natural Resources offices reporting dead fish, most often bluegills, washed up on their shorelines. Questions arise about pollution, disease or other problems with the lake and whether it is safe to swim or fish.

"I've had calls from anglers and property owners on several lakes in Waukesha and Walworth Counties reporting bluegills and other sunfish collecting on shorelines," says Sue Beyler, Senior Fisheries Biologist for the DNR Waukesha area. According to Beyler, the bluegills are experiencing spawning stress and is a seasonal phenomenon, occurring in late May to mid-June.

"We had a cool spring, and then the water warmed up quickly. The fish are in the shallows trying to build nests and spawn and some can't take the quick change. They're already stressed just from the spawning itself."

A possible confounding factor can be recent heavy rains in the area, which can wash natural soil bacteria into the water. This bacteria can infect the fish when they are in a vulnerable state and make them more likely to succumb to the infection. Also, shallow quiet bays with a lot of plant growth can have low oxygen levels after several days of cloudy weather. At night the oxygen can drop low enough to be lethal to fish.

Generally, these seasonal fish kills will leave a few to several hundred fish along a shoreline or in a bay. Often, the fish will be the same species and about the same size, such as all bluegills between four and six inches long. Sometimes there will be a mix of bluegills and other sunfish such as crappies and pumpkinseeds.

Signs of trouble, says Beyler, are the presence of many fish species, including minnows and gamefish; a very large quantity of fish, such as thousands in a relatively small area; visible sores or lesions on the fish; or an odd color or smell to the water that might indicate a chemical or other toxin. "Although we appreciate people calling about any dead fish or other questionable conditions on lakes or streams, these are the type of fish kills we are worried about, and we will be out to investigate."

True North Adventure

The Cessna 180 is a common bush plane.

Hello friends,

Last week and this week, I am writing about a seven-day fly-in fishing vacation to Schultz lake in northwest Ontario, Canada. Five of us made the annual journey to Red Lake and then flew 65 miles to Schultz lake. As usual, we had a blast.

Wednesday, June 19
High 68, Low 53

Warm thunderstorms with lots of hard rain have become a way of life for the Canada Gang. Anywhere in the cabin that clothing can be hung to dry, there is shirt, seat cushion, towel or pair of pants.

The rain falls so hard that even the best rain gear still loses the battle. By day's end, everyone is soaked to the bone although lightning that comes with each storm causes more concern than wet bones.

Today, my brother, Mike, good friend, Bob "Bobco" Pearson, and I were fishing seven miles south of camp and chose to fish through the storms rather than running for the cabin. As always, our day was filled with interesting situations.

Bobco caught the northern pike for the day. He was eating a sandwich when the gator grabbed the night-crawler harness he had hanging over the side of the boat. It was a 35-inch, 13-pounder.

That same crawler harness landed a four-pound northern an hour later. That fish was obviously hungry. He grabbed the "BuckShot Jigging Spoon" I was using. On the fight in, we had us a reverse double.

I want to tell you about a few lures that are a must in your box for a Canadian vacation. The BuckShot Jigging Spoon made by Northland is awesome for vertical jigging. Tip it with a leech, crawler or minnow and prepare for action.

Northland also makes the Whistler Jig which is a fish killer. Put a twister tail on it as well as a stinger hook, then a half crawler, leech or minnow, and you're set.

We do a lot of trolling with Whistlers and crawler harnesses. With the jigs, we have better luck by using just a half crawler and at least double our numbers with a stinger hook.

When casting for big gators, the red and white Red Eye Wiggler, the black and white DareDevil or the Johnson Silver Minnow are great.

In this part of the world, there is good daylight until 11 p.m. This afternoon, we realized it was time for our afternoon happy hour. Today's social concoction was made in the cabin in a two quart cooler and enjoyed while casting for gators.

What made our situation even more interesting is that I fished in the hardest downpour I have ever fished in. The rain came down so hard that it filled our glasses faster than we could empty them. That is my new definition of a watered down drink.

Thursday, June 20
High 73, Low 51

Today was another perfect day! I fished with Roger Frank and Danny Gorman, who both live near my hometown of Poynette.

We started our day by vertical jigging with jigging spoons and had non-stop action from the get-go. If you're heading north this summer, put some in your box. Jigging spoons are fun and will make a better fisherman out of you.

I was on top of the world by day's end. I had caught what I thought at the time was a big walleye when a 27-incher grabbed my spoon and didn't let go until I released her.

Unfortunately for me, Danny beat me the next day by a half inch on a walleye that grabbed a nightcrawler harness.

For some reason, each member of the gang seemed to think this year's trip was one of the best ever.

My buddy, Pete Hagedorn, owns the only cabin on Shultz Lake and 10 other locations. He can be reached at (807) 727-2894.

Thanks, Pete!

2002 Spring Turkey Harvest Increases Slightly Over 2001

MADISON - Preliminary figures show that hunters shot 39,336 turkeys during Wisconsin's spring 2002 wild turkey season, a very slight increase over the spring 2001 wild turkey harvest of 39,211. Department of Natural Resources wildlife officials estimated the statewide hunter success rate at 25%, and adult tom turkeys made up about 72% of the kill.

"Even though the total kill was equal to last spring, it is important to note that overall, the success rate dropped by 1%," said Keith Warnke, Department of Natural Resources upland wildlife ecologist. "State-wide, 72% of the birds registered were adults. That is a positive change from the record breaking 79% last year," according to Warnke. "The increase in proportion of jakes in the harvest this year seems to indicate that recruitment in 2001 was better than we had anticipated. And, that's a good thing. We could really use another good recruitment year in 2002." Again this year, Warnke said, 1% of the harvest was made up of bearded hens.

Weather during this spring's hunt was generally not as good as previous years. Snow was part of the equation in several northern zones in the first two time periods after which extreme conditions of rainy cool days and oppressive heat seemed to be the rule.

"Weather was pretty crummy, snow in second period then bitter cold and wind. Despite all that it appears northern hunters did well," says Dave Evenson, DNR wildlife biologist in Cumberland.

Sources around the state say that the mild winter was easy on turkeys and resulted in some very large toms being killed.

"Bird weights were great," noted Tom Isaac, DNR wildlife biologist in southeastern Wisconsin. "A couple of monster toms were taken including one 28.4 pounder shot by a 12 year old first time hunter at Loew Lake, and we had several other 24-27 pound birds reported."

Hunters in southwest Wisconsin had similar experiences according to Tom Howard, wildlife biologist in Dodgeville. "Adult birds harvested this spring were unusually heavy - this could be the result of the combination of a very mild winter and a good acorn crop last fall. Where we have had a long time average of about 22.5 pounds for adult toms in the spring, we have had many birds being brought in that are over 25 pounds."

A total of 159,542 permits were issued throughout the 43 turkey management units open for the 2002 season. Approximately 19,021 second permits were issued. Permit numbers are evenly distributed throughout the six time periods to provide a quality hunting experience. Interference rates and hunter satisfaction data are gathered from annual hunter surveys sent out to 10,000 hunters after the spring season. These data are carefully reviewed when determining permit levels.

This year six hunting incidents were reported. Hunter misidentification was the leading cause of these incidents. Law enforcement officials also report that baiting is an increasing problem among turkey hunters. Hunters are reminding that baiting for wild turkeys is illegal and will result in a fine.

The fall 2002 wild turkey season runs from October 12 through November 10. Approximately 74,650 permits will be available. The deadline for fall applications is August 10.

Many Contests Contribute To KHS Athletic Scramble

In an attempt to raise supplementary funds for Kewaskum High School Athletic Programs, the Third Annual KHS Alumni Challenge/Golf Scramble will be conducted on Friday, August 2 at Hon-E-Kor Golf and Country Club. This fundraising event includes an 18 hole scramble, hole events, blind bogey, banquet dinner and prizes. Players have the option of participating in the Alumni Challenge, Skins Competition, Purchasing a Bag of Mulligans and Raffle Tickets.

Besides golfing, others can support Indian Athletics by sponsoring a hole or hole event, donating raffle prizes, purchasing raffle tickets, partaking in the banquet dinner and/or attending the awards program. All interested sponsors, donors and contributors should contact Mr. Scott Rohlinger, KHS assistant golf coach at 262-626-2332 for sponsoring forms or tax deductible donation receipts as well.

This year's event includes a competition to determine which graduation class/year contributes the most (hole sponsors, hole or raffle prizes). The class of 1972 leads to date with Craig Carr's Dentistry, Randy Nickel's H.I.S. Corp., Kim Rodenkirch's Blaze Insulation, Tom Theusch's Badger Mutual Insurance and Steve Weddig's Cousins Subs all contributing to the cause of supporting KHS athletics.

The banquet dinner and refreshments are open to the public for a donation of $20 to KHS athletics and to all hole sponsors ($50) too. The event concludes with an Awards Program where prizes will be presented to the winners of the Alumni Challenge/Golf Scramble, Hole (Flag) Events, Hole-in-One Contests, Skins Competition, Blind Bogey and raffles. The lowest scoring foursome(s) will receive engraved plaques, gift certificates and honorary golf team shirts.

The entry fee of $80 includes 18 holes of golf, power cart, refreshments, catered banquet dinner and prizes. This is a great opportunity to connect with, support and continue the athletic traditions at Kewaskum High School. If interested in playing in the 2002 KHS Alumni Scramble, please submit your entry fees and registration form, found within this publication, to Mr. Glenn Eichstedt at KHS or Dennis Butz at Smith Insurance Agency.
