Doyle Takes Governor's Office LeMahieu Wins in Landslide for 59th District Assembly Race

By Andrew Kuehl
 akuehl@kewaskumstatesman.com

Voter turnout in both the Town and Village of Kewaskum exceeded expectations of officials.

Poll workers in the village never even got time to check out a magazine which is highly unlikely said was poll worker.

According to village administrator Dan Schmidt 1,017 of 1,872 registered voters cast votes in this election. A village record!

Results in the village are as follows: McCallum-554, Doyle- 305, Thompson-143, Young- 8. Lautenschlager- 366 and Biskupic 622. LaFollette- 414, Lorge-535, Voigt- 603 and Sass-53, Sensenbrenner- 757 and Raymond- 137, LeMahieu- 657, Levandowski- 53 and Lawton- 156.

Oostburg native, Daniel LeMahieu running for a 59th district assembly seat came away from Tuesday's fall election with 14,251 votes, Independent candidate Cathy Lawton received 2,664 votes and Libertarian candidate Rick Levandowski received 1,030.

LeMahieu, operates the Lakeshore Weekly, an advertising publication in Oostburg and is also Sheboygan County Board Chairman. He was unavailable for comment.

According to results listed on wispolitics.com Attorney General Jim Doyle and running mate Barbara Lawton have defeated incumbent governor Scott McCallum. This is the first time Democrats have had control of the governor's office from Republicans in 16 years.

Governor Elect

With 2,610 of 3,472 precincts reporting, Doyle had 658,270 votes, or 45 percent, while McCallum had 610,254 votes, or 42 percent.

Libertarian Ed Thompson had 146,290 votes, or 10 percent, and Green Party candidate Jim Young had 35,892 votes, or 2 percent, according to unofficial returns.

Mike and Deb Scheiber, who also own the "Curves for Women" in Juneau, attended one week of training in Texas before opening the fitness centers hoping to help the women in the area realize that staying healthy can be simple and convenient, even for the busiest people.

Kewaskum Statesman:
10/31/02

Dear Editor:

Thank you for running our letters regarding the missing Uncle Sam Sculpture. We wanted to follow up by saying that it has been returned to its rightful owners. We are happy to see it and hopefully, everyone will sleep better now.

Freedom of speech and of the press worked for us! Thanks for the help.

Sincerely,
Holy Trinity
7th Grade

Dear Editor:

The KES fourth graders and staff would like to thank Luedtke and Associates, a local financial company out of Beechwood, for graciously donating the money to pay for two buses and drivers for the fourth grade field trip to Madison. This trip brings together many things that fourth graders learn about Wisconsin and lets them explore something new about our great state. The Luedtke's generosity is greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,
KES Fourth Graders
and Staff

St. Lawrence Eager Beavers Mitten Drive

The St. Lawrence Eager Beavers are running a Mitten Drive for Washington County's needy families. They are asking for help from the community.

They would like, if possible, for people to pitch in and donate mittens. The mittens, however, must be new. They don't have to be anything fancy, just a simple pair from one of your local stores.

You can turn mittens into: Allenton Elementary, Hartford Elementary Schools, Hartford Central Middle School, Hartford Senior Center and Hartford Savings Bank. There will be boxes at other various places in the Washington County Area.

You can also bring them to the Hartford Holiday Parade, November 16, to the St. Lawrence Eager Beavers 4-H Club Float. If you have any further comments or questions you can reach Donna Gross at 629-5730. Thank you for your support and cooperation!

A bank is a place that will lend you money only if you can prove that you don't need it.

Chamber to Sponsor Tree Decorating Contest

The Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce will be presenting the Eighth Annual Village Christmas Tree Decorating Contest in conjunction with Winterfest Weekend which will culminated with the Christmas Parade at 5 p.m. on Sunday, December 8. The theme for 2002 is "Peace on Earth - Christmas Around the World."

The Chamber will provide an artificial tree and 200 lights for the 15 village cement flower pots located throughout the community. The 15 youth groups involved in the contest are from six local elementary and middle schools, two day care facilities, three 4-H groups, three Scouts and one Brownie group.

Cash prizes will be awarded for first, second and third places after the Eighth Annual Christmas Parade. The Aid Association for Lutherans Tree Lighting ceremony will be held after the parade at the Community Annex Building where all awards will be presented.

Special thanks are extended to Peggy Timm for organizing the computerized information sheets and to a very special group of Kewaskum High School FFA members, Lisa Beck, Melissa McKee, Jim Wulff and Matt Dwyer for their assistance in the setting up of the 15 Christmas trees in the flowerpots. Thanks also to Kohn's Citgo for the hot chocolate on a cold, windy day.

The Chamber would like to offer their salutations to all the participants in the Christmas tree decorating contest. The Chamber sincerely hopes that everyone in the community appreciates all the time, work and effort that is given to this project for the enhancement of our Village during the upcoming holiday season.

Radio stations WBKV (1470 AM and 92.5 FM West Bend), KFIZ (107 FM and 1450 AM Fond du Lac), WHBL (1330 AM and 97.7 FM Sheboygan), WTMJ/WKTI (620 AM/94 FM Milwaukee) and WISN 1130 AM/Channel 12 will be used to announce school closings. News stations will only announce a closing. If they do not announce Kewaskum, it means schools will be open. The announcement will be on the air as early as possible.

When school has opened but weather turns bad, it is recommended that parents listen to one of the above radio stations for a possible school closing announcement. The district is hesitant about closing school during the day but will do so if the safety of the students warrants it. Every effort will be made to announce school closings during the day at least an hour before we dismiss the students.

It should be remembered that if school has been cancelled it means that all activities for that day and evening are cancelled as well. Also, parochial school students and special education students will not be transported when district schools close. If school is delayed by two hours, morning early childhood and 4-year-old kindergarten programs will automatically be cancelled.

Holiday Decorating Contest Here

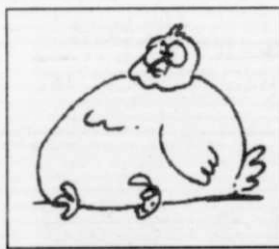

The Kewaskum Women's Club will be sponsoring a Christmas Home Decorating Contest in the village of Kewaskum with a total of five awards being presented.

The Club holds summer beautification awards for four homes each year with assistance from the Kewaskum Village Board.

The Club will now have their beautification committee judge what they deem the five most attractive holiday displays in the village. Awards will be judged only on total Christmas effect. First, second, third, fourth and fifth place plaque awards will be presented to the individual home owners.

Now is the time, while the weather is still a bit warm, to begin preparations for the Kewaskum Christmas Home Decoration Contest. The deadline is Sunday, December 15. Judging will be held thereafter and awards will be presented by Friday, December 20.

The Women's Club is looking forward to this beautification presentation for the "Peace on Earth" Christmas celebration in Kewaskum.

Every day birds eat half their own weight in food, so the phrase "eats like a bird" is hardly accurate.

The Kewaskum Junior Women's Club Nature Trail at Kewaskum Kiwanis Community Park has been updated with new markers and map.

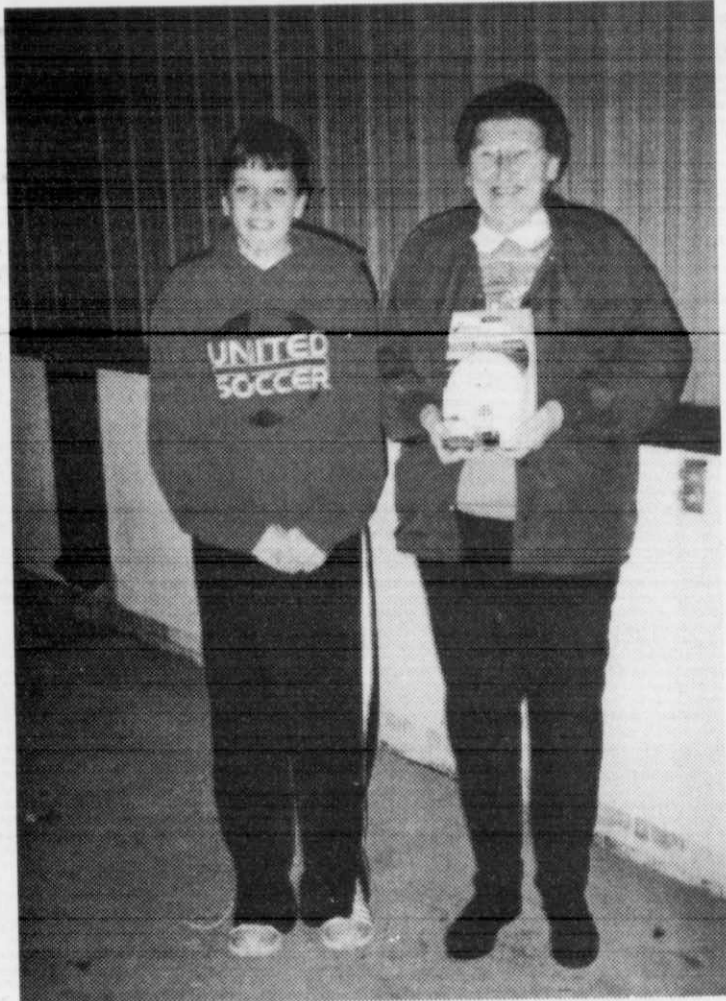

Michael Neumann, 15, of Kewaskum Boy Scout Troop 744, organized and helped mark the nature trail in an effort to earn the Eagle Scout rank from the Boy Scouts of America. With the help of fellow scouts, Michael's project was to remove the old rotted markers, identify trees, clean out dead branches across the trails, pick-up garbage and make a new trail map. The old map was outdated. It dated back to 1980.

Tom Clark of Tom Clark Tree Service and Stump Removal of Kewaskum, helped Michael identify the trees. Clark and Tyler

Stamm helped clear the trail making it easier to walk through. Saturday afternoon, October 19th, the new markers were put in. Maps are available in the mailbox located by the nature trail sign.

Thank you to the Kewaskum Junior Woman's Club for paying for the 32 timbers, numbers, copies of maps, and mailbox.

'The Music Man' Hosts KES First Graders On-Line Veterans Day Cards

Last week, Kewaskum School District Superintendent Wayne Graczyk invited the Kewaskum Elementary School first graders to the district officer for stories and music including guitar playing.

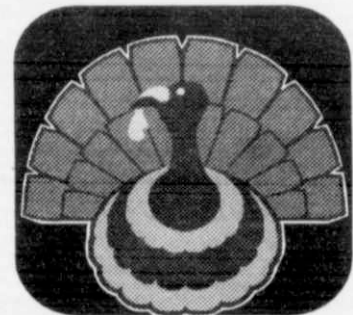

Veterans Day is November 11. Anyone who wants to use today's computer technology to say "thank you" to a favorite veteran can log on to The American Legion website at www.legion.org and send an electronic Veterans Day greeting card from the comfort of home.

The site offers e-mail cards representing each military service along with the service song that plays when the card is opened. Each card provides plenty of space to compose a personal message.

The free service is being offered for the fourth consecutive year. Cards may be sent now through November 12, 2002.

Greeting cards may be sent to active duty service men and women also if their military e-mail addresses are known.

The 2.8 million member American Legion is the nation's largest veterans organization.

Best Students Name Best Teachers

The brain is like a muscle. When it is in use we feel very good.

AUSTIN, TX - A select group of America's teachers are being honored by their toughest critics... their former students, in the seventh edition of Who's Who Among America's Teachers, 2002.

All of the approximately 114,000 teachers being honored were selected by the former students who themselves are currently listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students®, or The National Dean's List®, publications which recognize 5% of our nation's high school and college students respectively.

Parke Davis, publisher of Who's Who Among America's Teachers said, "there is no greater honor teachers can receive than to be recognized by former students for their excellence and dedication. In this publication we clearly have the best teachers in America selected by the best students."

The students were requested to nominate the one teacher from their entire academic career who "made a difference in their lives" by helping to shape their values, inspiring interest in a particular subject and/or challenging them to strive for excellence.

Many of the students commented about the enthusiasm and knowledge their teachers demonstrated in the classroom, and many praised their teachers for their ability to relate to youngsters on a personal as well as a professional level.

One student wrote about her teacher saying, "she made education something pleasurable, instead of a dreadful ordeal by letting me spread my wings and showing me the best way to fly."

Local educators honored in Who's Who Among American Teachers, 2002 include: Jean Ann Albrecht, Allenton Elementary School; Anne Sonnabend Ignatowski, Kewaskum High School; Mary Mertz, St. Mary's School; Janet Molebash, Kewaskum High School; Michael Schroeder, Kewaskum High School; Leonard E. Soller, Kewaskum High School; Janet Kane Uhlman, Kewaskum Middle School, and Barbara Ann Zaydel, Holy Trinity School.

The Little Folks And the Firefighters

Firefighter Aaron Martin and Skyler Schwengel of Kewaskum.

Young children are always excited and anxious to learn about firefighters. In the past year, they have been recognized as "hero's" more than ever before.

Because the children wanted to learn about the big trucks they drive and all about the gear that they are required to wear, members of the Kohlsville Fire Department were invited to the Little Folks School House to give a demonstration. They told the children all about how they fight fires.

The most important lesson taught was how to prevent fires before they start. The dangers of playing with matches and lighters were discussed. The volunteer firefighters dressed up in their gear as they explained each article.

All of the children were given an opportunity to try on the "real" helmet and all agreed that it was very big and very heavy. There was a question and answer period before the demonstration moved outside where the little folks were offered the chance to climb in, on and out of the fire truck.

The staff of the Little Folks School House wishes to thank the Kohlsville firefighters for volunteering their time to spend with the children. "Safety and prevention, in general, is one of our on-going lessons. Year round, we talk about safety from fire to strangers to seatbelts." A child can never have enough information.

Farewell to Rev. Wiederanders

Members and friends of the "Tri-Parish" of The United Church of Christ gathered at St. John's UCC in Boltonville at a 10 a.m. worship service on Sunday, October 27. The occasion was to honor and bid farewell to Rev. William Wiederanders on his retirement from the parish.

Wiederanders has faithfully served the three congregations of St. John's - Beechwood, St. John's - Boltonville and St. Paul's - Silver Creek as pastor and teacher for the past ten years. Rev. Thomas Bentz, Southeast Wisconsin Association Minister of the UCC participated in the special service, filled with music and song.

Dinner in the Boltonville Fire Department Hall was followed with a rousing sing-along. Members and friends had an opportunity to reflect on his time in the parish, and to express heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the loving pastoral care he has given to the members of the congregations and the community. Bill's gift of music, especially through his participation in the choir, will be greatly missed and long remembered.

Rev. Bentz commended Bill's participation in the larger church having served on various Southeast Association Divisions and Wisconsin Conference Commissions throughout his ministry. He is also an active participant in the West Bend Clergy District.

Clergy of the Random Lake Interfaith group were present to share in the festivities. Their appreciation for his deep theological insight during their study and discussions was extolled along with steadfast support of the Ecumenical endeavors of the group and their congregations.

As I See It

By Rochelle Pennington

We're Still Over-Fed And Under-Exercised

The statistics are in: Americans are over-fed and under-exercised.

When it comes to your health, I recommend frequent doses of that rare commodity among Americans: common sense.

-Vincent Askey

As a personal contributor to both of those facts, this information comes as no surprise to me. Besides, it is ditto to the statistics released last year, five years ago and ten years ago with the only "new news" being things are getting steadily (and alarmingly) worse.

We are under-exercised as a nation. We sit instead of standing, we ride instead of walking, we watch sports instead of playing them. Our existence deprives us of the minimal amount of physical activity essential for healthy living.

-John F. Kennedy

Taking into consideration popular restaurant requests ranging from "Give me the all-you-can-eat buffet" to "Would you super-size that, please" the "over-fed" statistic would have seemed inevitable, while the extensive expansion of drive-thru conveniences have no doubt contributed to the "under-exercised" portion of the study.

Consumers can now remain seated while doing everything from banking, eating or washing the car to picking up prescriptions, groceries and dry-cleaned laundry.

One should eat to live, not live to eat.

-Benjamin Franklin

The luxury of convenience - in both food and in service - is carrying an expensive price tag: the health of our nation.

The statistics are in. What are we going to do about them?

IN MEMORY

In memory of EDNA STANGE, who passed away one year ago, November 8, 2001:

In restful sleep our mother lies
But we need shed no tear;
For now she rests with him above,
Free from her labors here.
The Master above has called her,
To come to Him above;
Where he bestows His blessings,
On those who gave Him love.
And we shall meet her there one day,
Our joy shall be sublime;
For we shall be with mother again,
Be with her for all time.

IN MEMORY

A tribute to EILEEN KLEIN who passed away two years ago, on November 4, 2002:

Just because you are physically gone, mom, doesn't mean we don't think of you. Two hours, two days, two weeks, two months; in fact, I think it makes us think of you more.

Often we catch ourselves viewing something on the news or wanting to relay something funny the kids have said, and we hope in some spiritual, cosmic way, you can see or hear what it is we want to tell you.

I remember your hands with their poor circulation were always so cold... I wish I could warm them now.

Your grandchildren remember your cheek was always so velvety soft. They wish they could plant a kiss on it now.

Do you remember when I curled your hair and played "beauty shop?" Well, now my little Hannah does that to me.

We include you still in our prayers at night as the three kids kneel down to pray hoping their Grandma Klein will watch over others who need it the most.

They feel special knowing they have their own "extra" angel whom they know personally.

And that is what I believe we should all remember during our life's lowest moments.

We miss and will always be thinking of you, Mom.

Endearingly yours, Sandy

workout and running stations, users alternate between strength training and cardio training. Deb Scheiber explained "Curves' uses hydraulic-resistant equipment that works opposing muscle groups, including the shoulders, legs, abs, back, chest, hips, biceps, and triceps. The idea is to exercise as quickly as possible in the 30 seconds spent on each machine."

The convenience of the recommended every other day routine and the brief time necessary to get a proper workout, is well received by modern women trying to balance busy lives.

Mike Scheiber explained that in thinking of what he and his wife wanted to do with the rest of their lives, both concluded helping people was the way to go. "We love working with people," Mike said. "We are getting to know a lot of people and make a lot of new friends."

To get started with the program, you must make an appointment to speak with the Scheibers so they can talk with you, make a figure analysis, set goals and so you can test the machines.

After everything is set up, you may go in at your leisure to work out, not even an appointment is necessary. The program is set up for you to do the workout on your own, but someone is always there to help. "When you diet alone, 40 percent of the weight you lose is muscle," Deb explained.

"Muscles are the engines of our bodies that require fuel. If you drastically lower your body's energy needs each time you diet, you will always gain your weight back. The key to permanent results is lean muscle. When a woman loses 20 pounds with us, it is predominantly fat. Strength training protects and increases lean tissue while raising metabolism. The 'Curves' workout is strength training that women will do," Deb said.

Despite the rather long drive to work each day, the Scheibers enjoy their job a great deal. The pair tries to split up their time spent at the two facilities they own, so they can stay in contact with the people at both centers. "Seeing the success of others is so positive," Deb said. "Their success is our success."

The Kewaskum Statesman is a weekly newspaper serving the Kewaskum area of Wisconsin.

In Honor of All Veterans Air to Air Refueling

In my heyday, nearly fifty years ago, refueling other aircraft in flight was as challenging as flying explosives in four engine bombers. In my years of flying in the military service, I believe, flying tankers was the most rewarding.

An old pro flight engineer once told me, and he stressed this, that regardless of the required amount of fuel needed for a mission and return to base plug the standard reserve, always and he stressed always, have an extra reserve of 400 gallons of fuel aboard. He called it the flight engineer's reserve.

I had an experience where I was thankful I had followed his philosophy. We were flying non-stop from Biggs to Harmon Field, Newfoundland. We were scheduled to be in the next landing pattern. The aircraft behind us had an emergency and requested to land ahead of us. I can't recall what the emergency was, but most likely they were running short of fuel.

The big question was, did we have enough fuel to stay up longer? To make matters worse the weather conditions were not good and all aircraft had to make an ILS (instrument landing system) landing. It was a form of radar.

Our fuel reserves were short. An extremely strong North Arctic wind was using up a lot of fuel. Early weather forecasting was so inaccurate that we never relied on it. Per usual the weather men had not forecast the weather correctly.

My aircraft commander left the decision up to me because as the flight engineer it was my job to monitor fuel consumption. The Air Force called it long range cruise control. We were graded frequently on our calculations when we turned in our flight log after each flight to the chief flight engineer.

I checked my fuel figures and felt sure we had enough fuel remaining for half an hour tops. Fuel gauges were never trusted so never used. I told my aircraft commander that the other aircraft could go next. We would follow.

My aircraft commander radioed the other aircraft commander that we would let them land ahead of us but it better not be a go around. "Do it right the first time!" he told the other aircraft commander. An instrument landing was authorized. We didn't have the high tech instruments they have today but what we had was better than nothing.

We both landed safely. Guess what! The next day I dip-sticked each of our four engines' fuel tanks. I had slightly less than 400 gallons total, as each tank had slightly less than 100 gallons. The other aircraft landed on fumes.

Capt. Fendle, the chief flight engineer, called me in and gave me quite a tongue lashing until I was able to make him understand the whole situation. Thank GOD for that old pro who had flown during WWII and his advice. Maybe a better title for this story should be "Listen to Your Elders."

There are many variables to be considered in determining the fuel aboard your aircraft. One of these variables in the weather conditions such as we were experiencing on this particular mission. One could, for example, figure for 20 mph winds and run into 40 mph winds, which of course, used up more fuel.

If you ran into trouble in the arctic region there was no alternative air strip to land at. From above, everything appears white. I vaguely recall a young man from the Newburg area who went down somewhere in the arctic region and that aircraft has never been recovered to this day.

Other factors that could drain your fuel supply was a sick engine that required more fuel to maintain it, or overweight of the aircraft from severe icing. Icing spoils the airfoil or air flow over the wings and the horizontal and vertical stabilizers in the tail of the aircraft.

Then there was often the wind chill factor with thermometer readings of minus 70 degrees F or lower.

The whole 97th air refueling squadron of the 97th Bomb Wing was reassigned to temporary duty in Newfoundland for an approximate two week period. If I recall correctly, there were eleven planes in our squadron. Our tankers were flying in a single trailing formation not too far from each other as you could see the tail wing lights of the plane ahead.

At that time there were only about 30 air tankers in the whole United States. I was involved in its beginning and when we started out we went to the Boeing Air Craft plant to pick up and deliver a tanker where needed.

It was fun to fly a new tanker but not like a new car there were bugs that had to be worked out. They would particularly have a lot of electronic problems at first.

We could be sent anywhere in the world. It was very hard on the married personnel and their families. Because of so many divorces, later there was a six month rotation. In the very beginning a hose hose was used to fill another aircraft. The hydraulic boom was a Godsend.

The purpose of our temporary duty in Newfoundland was to refuel fighters returning state-side from England. We met them in the mid-Atlantic Ocean for refueling so that they could fly non-stop to their destination. We were doing this in the middle of winter.

As our boom operator made the hook-up on an F-84 single jet engine fighter I noticed immediately the drag on our aircraft. This F-84 was having an engine problem. The pilot of the F-84 did not want to bail out as he would only have at best five minutes to stay alive in the frigid ocean water even with his arctic gear on.

We made the decision to try and help him get to the closest air base, which was in the state of Main, if we had the ability to do so. The F-84 pilot nursed his engine along at reduced power.

Our boom operator locked the hydraulic boom to the fighter so that the fighter would stay attached to our aircraft. Using maximum power and a slow long range descent of 100 feet per minute from 35,000 to 12,000 feet we managed to get him utilizing his superior air-man-ship along with our aircraft commander's superior air-man-ship over the base at Bangor, Maine.

In refueling, the hydraulic boom isn't locked, only attached, so normally when the other aircraft is full the pilot pushes back and breaks off. There are three latches that are hydraulic operated by the boom operator so this is how we were able to stay attached to this F-84.

This F-84 pilot had several flame outs while we were hooked together which was a drag each time on our aircraft. Under normal conditions, the boom operator and the fighter pilot have to stay in what I call an envelope.

The boom operator and the aircraft commander work as one and the flight engineer gives more or less power as requested by the aircraft commander. Needless to say communication is one of the key ingredients to make it all work.

The long range descent at 100 feet per minute equals ten minutes per 1,000 feet or 230 minutes to 12,000 feet This represented a total of three hours, 50 minutes to reach 12,000 feet. I believe our true air speed was 400 mph.

Our total distance covered was nearly 1600 miles before we reached Bangor, Maine. If I recall correctly altitude and outside air temperature converted mph to true air speed.

At Bangor, Maine we released his and he landed safely. We also had to land at Bangor as our fuel was nearly depleted.

I can still recall high snow banks on both sides of the runway. From then on we received the nickname, which I might add we proudly accepted, of "Aerial Wrecker Service."

I firmly believe that flying in the arctic region is extremely dangerous primarily because you never know what you are going to run into.

I'd like to dedicate my personal experiences in this story form to all the veterans of all branches of service for their dedication and service to our Country and our flag for which it stands. This is my way to remember with pride and honor the living and dead on Veterans Day.

The Washington County Historical Society will hold its Bi-monthly Membership Meeting on Tuesday, November 19, at 7 p.m. in the Old Courthouse Square Museum.

A short business meeting will be followed by a program in which this year's recipients of the Century or Sesquicentennial Farm and Home Awards will be recognized.

This award program is a partnership between the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection, and the Wisconsin State Fair. These awards are given to families who can prove continuous ownership of their property for at least 100 or 150 years.

Washington County residents received four Century Awards and six Sesquicentennial Awards at the State Fair in August. The award consists of a certificate of recognition and a sign to post on the property. The certificates, a sign, and pictures of the properties will be on display at the meeting.

Jill Albanese, the Program Director for the State Fair, will be one of the speakers. She will describe the history of the program and its accomplishments to date.

The Society believes that recognition of the owners of these properties is an important part of Wisconsin history and is interested in expanding the program. They are asking for help from local historical societies and people who may know of a neighbor who may be eligible for an award.

Anyone interested in applying for an award can pick up an entry form at the Museum, 320 South Fifth Avenue in West Bend, or call 262-335-4678 for more information.

Fire destroyed the upper level of a barn in the Town of Wayne Thursday night. The lower level of the barn was saved and cows were milked in the basement the next morning. The fire was at the Leonard "Bill" Peter farm, 9179 County W, located between Hwys. H (Wayne) and 28. It is believed the fire started from spontaneous combustion of overheated hay. Peter said the barn will be rebuilt.

Foremost Farms Honors Quality Milk Producers

BARABOO -- Area dairy farmers were recently honored by Foremost Farms USA for producing quality milk during the calendar year 2001. Edward and Harvey Klumb, West Bend, were among those who received an Excellent Quality award for the production of quality milk during the cooperative's annual district meeting in September.

Every award recipient was an active member of the cooperative the entire quality award period. They received quality premiums on all milk shipped, and maintained an average somatic cell count (SCC) of 250,000 or less. The milk tested negative for antibiotics and added water and the standard plate count (SPC) was 25,000 or below. The cooperative presented two levels of achievement for quality milk production to local producer-owners throughout Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin.

"Superior Quality" awards were presented to 48 producers whose milk averaged below 100,000 SCC. "Excellent Quality" awards were presented to 900 producers whose milk averaged between 101,000 and 250,000 SCC.

"Quality milk serves as our foundation for producing, marketing and delivering milk and finished dairy products that consistently meet the needs and expectations of our customers," says Dave Myers, Foremost Farms director of procurement. "For us, quality means meeting, and then going beyond, accepting standards. Foremost Farms' commitment to quality from farm to final product helps build long-term relationships of trust and loyalty with our customers, and it helps build future economic returns for members."

Operating since Jan. 1, 1995, Foremost Farms USA employs 1,700 people at 24 facilities located in Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota. The cooperative manufactures and markets packaged fluid milk; juice; cheese; butter; sour cream; and whey-based ingredients. Foremost Farms USA owns brand identities that include Golden Guernsey Dairy® and Morning Glory™. The cooperative is headquartered in Baraboo, Wis., and is owned by 4,700 milk producers who farm in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota and Michigan. Their milk is delivered to the cooperative's plants by 175 contract milk haulers.

US Marine Says 'We Can't Get Enough'

FAYETTEVILLE, NC (Home of Fort Bragg and the 82nd Airborne) - "We know that U.S. troops across the nation and around the world appreciate the fan mail they receive," said G.B. Wiser, executive director of the campaign. One message from a young Marine read in part. "We are on our way to...fight the war against terrorism. One of my fellow Marines recently received a package from you filled with mail from...the states...Could you please send more of these heartfelt letters...We can't get enough of them."

Individuals and families all across the nation, in schools and churches, with campus groups, youth groups, veterans groups and auxiliaries, etc. all across the U.S. are already writing cards and letters to be sent to our military men and women at home and abroad in the Christmas 2002 Fan Mail for the Troops campaign.

All that mail is sent to Friends of Our Troops headquarters where it is first mixed thoroughly, then separated into well over 1,000 packages of mail to be sent out. "The packages range in size from just a handful for small units up to several thousand for an entire base or one of the Navy's large ships," said Wiser. "This helps to get an appropriate amount of mail to all those places and provides a tremendous morale boost."

As the continuation of the Vietnam Mail Call program established in 1965, there have now been more than 35 years of service to and support of our soldiers, sailors, Marines, airmen and coast guardsmen.

An overview of how the campaign functions has been posted in the online photo album, <http://www.troopfanmail.net/album.htm>. In addition, there are special pages for schools, college, churches, veterans groups, and youth groups, as well as a Catholic page. The top participants nationally (organizations, individuals, churches, military, colleges/universities, high schools, junior high/middle schools and elementary schools) are recognized on the "Top Friends" page, .../leaders.htm.

Special thanks to those who participated in the most recent campaign:

HARTFORD - Rossman School, led by Judy Ashby. They were the number two elementary school in Wisconsin. Teachers participating included Mrs. Ashby, Mrs. Astin, Mr. Broesch and Mrs. Weninger.

To learn how to help boost the morale of U.S. troops all across the U.S. and around the world, send your name and address to Friends of Our Troops, P.O. Box 65408, Fayetteville, NC 28306. Please be sure to mention where you read about this campaign.

P.S. Your military friends and loved ones can be the BMOC/BWOC (so to speak) when they receive a big package of mail to share with their fellow service members. Send their name and complete military mailing address - be sure the address is current and complete, along with your name, address, phone number and e-mail address, if any. You do not have to send in cards and letters to send names and addresses. All military names/addresses will be kept strictly confidential.

Industry Clusters: A New Way To Do Economic Development

WEST BEND - On Thursday, October 3 a "kick off" event was held at the Applied Manufacturing Technology Center - West Bend to unveil the Washington County "Cluster Councils." Cluster Councils are networks or people involved in specific industry areas. Wisconsin first began discussing cluster-based economic development in 2000 and Washington County quickly began looking at its local economy and industry clusters around the same time.

The October 3 event began with a review of the Washington County Summit process, which began over a year and a half ago. The panel discussion featured John Torinus, CEO, Serigraph Inc.; Dr. Joel Rodney, Dean, UW-Washington County; and Craig Johnson, Campus and Community Partner, Moraine Park Technical College, and was intended to provide background information to all participants on what led to the formation of "Cluster Councils." The Summit process included the identification of the four industry clusters (Manufacturing/ Materials/ Printing, Finance/ Insurance, Information Technology/Data Processing, and Agriculture/Ag-Related Businesses). After identifying the four industry clusters, discussions followed specific to how well these clusters were doing in Washington County and what initiatives could provide opportunities for the industry clusters to remain successful.

Mary Jo Waits, Associate Director of the Morrison Institute for Public Policy at Arizona State University and a national expert on cluster-based economic development, provided a presentation to the approximately fifty community leaders in attendance. The focus of Ms. Waits' presentation, "Advantages of the Industry Cluster Approach to Economic Development," focused on doing economic development differently.

Specifically, Ms. Waits emphasized that economic development needs to be more strategic and intelligent. Goals for economic development should be:

- competitiveness of business rather than the number of jobs,
- to think strategically,
- policies and programs should be industry driven,
- target industry clusters and not individual firms,
- provide a central location for all business needs, and
- must be accountable to private sector clients.

In addition to the goals for economic development, Ms. Waits stressed that the old ways of analyzing the economy are no longer sufficient. For example, rather than looking at number of jobs created, economic development should look at the number of quality jobs created. Furthermore, Ms. Waits pointed out that "There is no such thing as a high tech society, just high tech and low tech companies." Again, a different way of looking at industries and analyzing the economy.

Ms. Waits also stressed that place still matters. However, place now matters for a different reason. Place matters to businesses and clusters in finding local knowledge, relationships and motivation that distant rivals cannot match. Industries can no longer compete on cost but can compete by knowledge and established relationships.

In looking for a different way to do economic development, Arizona decided to invite company leaders from a variety of industry clusters to three meetings. The meetings were to include industry exporters, suppliers and key support institutions, such as universities and so forth. Both large and small companies were represented, as well as minority owned companies, so that the representation was diverse. The purpose of the three meetings were able to have each cluster complete a "map," which included information of workforce issues, quality of life, education, and so forth. The meetings were all industry led and after the three meetings were held industry leaders from each of the clusters provided a report to the Arizona Governor. What the business leaders found were that the meetings were useful and the clusters wanted to continue meeting. Hence, the Arizona clusters have now been in place twelve years, although some have been more successful than others have.

According to Ms. Waits, clusters should catalogue key components, articulate achievable vision, identify opportunities for growing the cluster, identify opportunity for synergy, and identify their needs. Ms. Waits stressed, though, that the clusters must focus on what can be done. For example, a cluster stating that they want to cut taxes is an issue not related to that particular industry. Also not specific to a particular industry is fixing a local K-12 system. The examples provided are "too generic and will not accomplish anything" according to Ms. Waits. In order to focus on what can be done, Ms. Waits suggested a continuum of collaborative activity:

- Jointly inform (i.e. newsletters, electronic links, cluster directories)
- Jointly learn (i.e. seminars, conferences, trainings)
- Jointly market (i.e. strategic plans for exports, cluster brochures)
- Jointly purchase (i.e.

buyer-supplier linkages)

- Jointly produce (i.e. bid on projects, joint ventures)
- Jointly build economic foundations (i.e. telecom, technology transfer, School to Work).

By working through the continuum as a cluster, all businesses with in that industry benefit. Furthermore, the community benefits by having collaboration among the businesses. Ms. Waits provided several examples from the Arizona experience throughout her presentation.

Following the presentation from Ms. Waits, industry leaders from Washington County led breakout sessions specific to each industry cluster identified in Washington County. After the breakout sessions, each cluster leader provided a brief overview to the event participants.

Jack Trzebiatowski, retired, represented the Agriculture/Ag-Related Cluster. No conclusions were made during the breakout session, although it had been determined that a meeting will be scheduled that is more convenient to those representatives in this industry cluster. Ray Lipman, West Bend Savings Banks, represented the Finance/Insurance Cluster. The Finance/Insurance Cluster Council has agreed to make some additional contacts for potential participants/leaders within the cluster and will meet at least one more time to determine the applicable need of having a County Cluster Council, as well as discuss outcomes of their contacts. Mike Kornelli, Bestech Tool Corporation, represented the Manufacturing/ Materials/Printing Cluster and reported that those industry leaders present felt the organization into clusters would be useful and agreed that they will definitely meet again. Finally, Ken Schuh, West Bend Mutual, represented the Information Technology/Data Processing Cluster. The representatives present determined that they would update a list of IT/Data Processing contacts in Washington County and would then pursue a meeting with those individuals invited to determine what the next steps should be.

Overall the event was deemed a success because it provided community leaders with an opportunity to learn more about cluster-based economic development which, as Ms. Waits refers to it, is a new way to do economic development. This "new way to do economic development" encourages open communication among the industry leaders and encourages them to work together, regardless of whether or not they are competitors. The collaboration will in turn make each organization a stronger company and in turn, will strengthen Washington County's economy.

DNR Poacher Hotline Works For Hunters and Wardens

Milwaukee -- Since 1982, law abiding hunters and other outdoor enthusiasts have been able to play a part in protecting Wisconsin's natural resources by reporting poachers, polluters and other people who don't play by the rules.

It was then that conservation wardens with the Department of Natural Resources unveiled their toll-free telephone hotline: 1-800-TIP-WDNR.

"With only about two wardens for every county, we saw this as a way to have more eyes and ears in the field," said Tom Solin, head of special operations and the unit that oversees the hotline. "We knew from experience that there were people out there who were fed up with the abuses they were seeing and we made it easier for them to report it."

"The tips help our wardens solve cases and people are satisfied that poachers and others who abuse our natural resources are being punished," Solin added.

A local warden recalls a case that took place in Walworth County.

"During deer season a couple of years ago, a guy shot a deer with a rifle, stuck an arrow in the bullet hole and registered the kill as an archery deer," says Southeast Region Conservation Warden Pete Dunn. "A friend tagged the deer for him. An investigation led to two charges, one against the shooter and one for his buddy. We were able to get them because a hotline caller overheard one of the men bragging about the kill and something in his story didn't quite add up," says Dunn.

Just over half of each year's tips come in during fall and early winter. Most of those happen during the state's various deer hunting seasons. Marilyn Jahnke, leader of the special operations support team, expects this fall will also be busy with tips, even though the hotline number was accidentally excluded from this year's hunting regulations brochure.

"After 20 years, most Wisconsin hunters know they can call 'TIP WDNR' to report poaching or other illegal activity," says Jahnke. "We don't want people to think we're not taking calls just because the number wasn't included in the booklet."

Jahnke also reminds hunters and others that the department also has a special toll-free number for US Cellular subscribers. Those with a cell phone and a US Cellular account can simply touch the pound (#) key then enter DNR (#367) to be connected to one of the department's trained hotline operators.

"The number of calls we get from people in the field has increased dramatically, especially in the last year since US Cellular provided the service to us," Jahnke says. "It's not that unusual for us to receive a call from someone who is watching a violation in progress. Most hunters are pretty savvy when it comes to our fish, game and other natural resource laws."

In the not-too-distant future, Wisconsin hunters traveling to many other states and some Canadian provinces or out-of-state hunters practicing their skills in Wisconsin will be able to turn in poachers by calling one national toll-free number. That call will automatically be connected to the hotline operated by each participating state or

DNR Begins Statewide Inspection of Deer Farms

MADISON, Wis. -- As part of the department's ongoing effort to control the spread of chronic wasting disease, conservation wardens across Wisconsin have begun a statewide inspection of all DNR-licensed whitetail deer farms.

The statewide inspection was to have started several weeks ago, but the discovery of CWD in captive deer on a game farm in Portage County put that effort on hold. That discovery led wardens and investigators from the Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection to investigate the origin and movement history of that CWD-positive deer. Doing so would help investigators determine what other deer herds might be at risk for catching the disease through contact with that deer or others.

Our wardens began the statewide effort and have inspected 69 deer farms so far," said Tom Harelson, Chief Conservation Warden. "Our goal is to inspect all 590 DNR-licensed deer farms in the state the end of the year."

province.

Jahnke says the national effort should be operational in a year or so, as private funding sources are secured. There are currently 33 states and provinces involved in the International Association of Natural Resources Crime Stoppers and Jahnke says that number will likely increase when other governments evaluate the success of the program.

additional wardens will be brought in to handle the bigger workload. Approximately 90 wardens participated in the inspections thus far.

"Many deer farmers owners were notified ahead of time that wardens would be inspecting their operations," Harelson said. "The vast majority appreciated the advance notice and welcomed the warden to conduct thorough inspections. No warrants have been needed to inspect any properties."

As part of the earlier investigations that arose after the discovery of the CWD-positive whitetail deer in Portage County, wardens obtained and served search warrants at three separate deer farms.

"A warrant is a pretty standard legal tool in any law enforcement investigation," Harelson said. "The document actually helps protect the Constitutional rights of the person being investigated by ensuring that only a limited search can take place."

"Some may view this as a violation of their rights, when in truth, it's exactly the opposite," Harelson added.

According to Harelson, it will take several weeks to complete the statewide inspection.

At each location, wardens inspected the structural integrity of deer pen fences an attempted to visually inspect each deer to see if they appeared to be healthy. Some operations were also asked to provide records of deer sales and purchases.

"Generally, we've received good cooperation from deer farm owners so far and we anticipate that cooperation will continue," Harelson said. "Everyone recognizes the importance of this investigation and what it means to help protect the state's wild deer population and maintain the integrity of the captive deer herd. We're grateful for the assistance we've received from the owners and operators of these farms."

Teams consisting of at least two or more wardens are conducting the inspections. In some cases - on larger deer farm properties -

Indians Unable to Break First Round Jinx in 35-10 Season Ending Loss

By Kyle Darmody
Student Reporter

Tyler Jandrin of the Luxemburg-Casco varsity football Team rushed for 104 yards and four touchdowns, as the Spartans pounded the Kewaskum varsity football team 35-10 Tuesday, October 29th, in Luxemburg, during a Division three, first round game. With the loss the Indians drop their fourth, first round playoff game in as many years.

The Spartans got on the board early when Jandrin scored on a 52 yard touchdown run in the opening drive. The extra point was good giving the Spartans the early 7-0 advantage.

The Indians answered however, with a very nice drive of their own. Then on the half yard line the Indians received a false start penalty which pushed them back. After several unsuccessful attempts at the end zone the Indians settled for a Matt Hartmann field goal, cutting the Spartan lead to four with the score at 7-3.

Jandrin, however, was too much as he came back with two straight touchdowns from 21 and 34 yards out. Both of the extra points were good and the Spartans then had a 21-3 lead.

The Spartans scored again, when after a long drive, Spartan quarterback Jeremy Deterville took it in on the QB sneak from two yards out. The extra point was good giving the Spartans a 28-3 lead.

The Indians were unable to get anything on the ensuing offensive drive. But then on the punt the Spartan return man got hit by the ball, and the loose ball was picked up by Kyle Rabuck.

The Indians would finally see the end zone when on the last play of the first half Indian Quarterback Travis Kempf hit Jake Wilson from three yards out. The Hartmann extra point was good and the Indians went into half time trailing 28-10.

Both defenses stiffened up in the third quarter as no team put any points on the board. But Jandrin would add his fourth touchdown of the night in the fourth quarter from eleven yards out, and after the good extra point the Indians then trailed 35-10 as they watched their season come to an end.

The Indians finish their season 5-4 overall and 5-2 in conference.
