Weekend Crashes Leave C-Sport Teen in Critical Condition, Random Lake Man Dead

BY ANDREW KUEHL
 STATESMAN MANAGING EDITOR
 akuehl@kewaskumstatesman.com

An 18-year-old Campbellsport Man remains in critical condition at Froedtert Memorial Hospital in Milwaukee for head trauma he received after being involved in a one-vehicle rollover accident that occurred in the Town of Ashford early Friday morning.

Shane Dreher was the passenger in a Chevrolet pickup truck driven by David Allar, 19 of St. Cloud. Allar was driving his truck southbound on Rolling Drive and failed to stop at a stop sign at the intersection of Rolling Drive and CTH W. Allar's truck then struck the ditch and became airborne. Both men were ejected after the car rolled over.

Dreher was transported to St. Joseph's Community Hospital in West Bend by Campbellsport Rescue Squad but was later transported to Froedtert via Flight for Life helicopter.

Campbellsport Rescue Squad also transported Allar to St Joseph's Hospital, but his condition was unavailable.

According to Fond du Lac County Sheriff's Department alcohol and speed may have been determining factors in the crash.

Campbellsport Fire Department and EMS assisted the Sheriff's Department.

A Random Lake man is dead after allegedly losing control of his vehicle and striking a tree on Saturday, March 13 in the Town of Scott.

Mark G. Neuenfeld, 33, was driving his Ford Ranger pickup truck on CTH HH when he entered the west ditch line one quarter of a mile south of Brazelton Drive. Upon driving into the ditch line he struck a tree.

Sheboygan County Sheriff's Department officials stated Neuenfeld was not belted and speed and alcohol may have played a role in the crash.

Batavia First Responders, Beechwood/Batavia Fire Department, and Random Lake Jaws of Life and Ambulance assisted at the scene.

An obituary for Neuenfeld can be found in this edition.

Town of Scott Listens to Referendum Information, Fire Department Reports

BY BERNETTE MONDLOCH

Representatives from the Kewaskum School District addressed the Scott Town board and the twenty or more residents attending the March board meeting recently.

The group was there to acquaint residents with the upcoming non-recurring referendum which will be on the April 6 ballot. The referendum will be requesting authority to exceed the revenue limit in order to raise an additional $778,000 for each of the next five years. The money is needed for textbooks, maintenance and technology.

If approved, the additional money will provide $180,000 per year for the next five years for textbooks and supplemental instructional materials. $321,000 would be allotted for maintenance projects, and maintenance of equipment and vehicles. The remaining $277,000 per year will be used for technology including audio-visual equipment, computers, software and staff training.

The estimated increase in the tax rate if this referendum is successful would amount to 88 cents per $1,000 of property value. A home valued at $130,000 would pay an additional $113.40 per year for the increase in the budgets for textbooks, maintenance, and technology, or about $9.53 per month.

Supervisor Ira Weber questioned the term "non-recurring?" It was his concern that once a tax is imposed, "it never goes away." He was assured that if after the five years, conditions dictated that additional funding was necessary, it would have to go before the people in the form of another referendum.

Questioned on the decline in student enrollment, the answer was that with the opportunity of students to chose their school, families are moving up from West Bend and other areas of high property taxes, but transporting them back to the schools who have more advanced equipment.

It was explained that today's students need to be computer literate, and must have the tools necessary for a successful educational experience. The district is trying to catch up because it is behind due to technology.

Residents seeking additional information are urged to call 262-626-8427 or send an e-mail to wgraczyk@ksd.k12.wi.us.

Beechwood and Batavia fire departments are working together on ISO issues with plans to be ready for the ISO test by October, 2004. The siren in Batavia is in need of repairs or replacement. Due to high cost of a new siren, plans are to consider repairs before considering purchase.

The Batavia First Responders and Fire Department are seeking volunteers for both organizations. During the past month, the Batavia First Responders answered three medical calls, held one practice and one meeting. The Batavia Fire department responded to one fire call, held two practices, one work detail and one meeting.

Beechwood Fire Department had one fire call, one practice, one work detail and one meeting. It will be sponsoring a Smelt Fry at the Scott Community Center on Friday evening, March 19th.

Building Inspector Frank Mayer reported 10 permits for the month of February, one for a house. Three houses have been built this year as compared to three homes in all last year.

Supervisor Ivan Kumrow reported that on February 13th, sometime in the evening, a person or persons, "with a warped mind," dumped a one ton truck load of hard snow in the middle of the Maple Tree Road/Brazelton Drive intersection and another on Valley View and Maple Tree Road intersection.

Highway workers are busy repairing the floats on the pier at Beechwood Lake. Two will need to be replaced at an estimated cost of $228 including freight.

Inspection of roads indicate that crack filling will be necessary on Cranberry, Riverview, and Crooked Roads, Highway D to Brazelton Drive, Tower to County SS, Forest View and Crooked Lake Drive. In the Batavia area Jones Street, Western Avenue, School Street, and Hillside Drive.

Kiwanians to Continue Renovating Riverhill Park

The Kewaskum Kiwanis Club has agreed to continue their work in renovating the buildings in Riverhill Park. Last year saw the club razing the kitchen and building it new from the ground up.

This year's project will be the ice cream stand. The project is expected to cost up to $6,500. This project like the last one will add roll-up window enclosures. Sewer cleanout/installation is also planned.

Please support your local Kiwanis club at their upcoming events so projects like this can continue for our community!

Boltonville Memories
Part Two: Irish Stories of Boltonville

In Honor of St. Patrick's Day, we celebrate the Irish heritage of Farmington

We continue this week with the story of the Irish settlement in Boltonville and excerpts from the memories of Catherine Riley "Aunt Kate," daughter of Matthew and Catherine (Strong) Riley. Catherine Riley wrote the following in 1934; these excerpts are taken from a much longer document.

"People in those days had to work hard for a living. Father built what they called an Ashery and made Potash and Black Salts and hauled it forty miles to Milwaukee to sell it. He also built a lime kiln (sic) and sold lime to the settlers as they were coming into the settlement.

"I remember the first horse my father bought... He tied one end of a stick in the horse's bridle so I could walk in one row and the horse in the other. Before we got horses, my sister Ann and I drove an ox team to drag the grain in as they called it then. Father sewed the wheat by hand out of a strong factory sheet after washing it in a weak lye and drying it with lime. We carried it to the field in bags a half bushel at a time.

"When the corn was cut in the Fall it was hauled into a barn and the next fun would be a husking bee. A farmer would not have more than three or four acres. Candles were used in lanterns which would be hung up where all could see. Of course the boys would hurry their work so as to be ready for their pumpkin pie that the women would have baked for them and also for the dance which would follow.Uncle Ed Riley, Father's brother, was the fiddler. He played left-handed and was a dandy at it. Sometimes he sang with it. His favorite tune was "Old Dan Tucker," when he wanted them to dance lively.

"We had no chairs. Father made our table and benches and also our broom, washboard, and baby cradle. My sister Ann, next younger than me, was the first white child born in the town of Farmington and was rocked in a sap trough. When Father had time, he made a cradle. As he was so handy, he got lots to do and made ax handles, ox yokes (4) and ox bows. He made a rig out of wood to bend the bow to fit an ox's neck by steaming a young hickory sapling about three or four inches in diameter and shaping it on the rig he made. He had very few tools to work with."

Ann's baptism is recorded in the records of Holy Trinity, Newburg, where Father Casper Rehrl recorded life events. A hand carved ox yoke remains in the family, likely carved by Matthew.

"We were all very happy until the Civil War broke out and then lots of our good times came to an end when so many of our school boys, neighbors, and relatives were called on to go to war from 1861 to 1865. ...Just as the War was ended and the soldiers, what was left of them, were returning home, Father took a notion to sell and come to Iowa.

"In 1890 Mother died. I never left home until after her death when an old school mate of years gone by came to see if I would like to go back to Wisconsin with him to live. So I took him at his offer and we were married January 12, 1897. We lived a year in Milwaukee, then went to Chilun, Wisconsin where we lived near his farm until his death July 6, 1912. I then came back to Iowa to live with a brother and sister. ...I have two sisters left, one in Algona (Iowa) and one in Minnesota.

"I am the oldest of my parent's family of fourteen children and am writing this now on the 30th of August 1934 at the age of 89 years and nearly six months so I think I'll quit."

Catherine Riley Laughrin

C-sport Fire Department Celebrates 100 Years

Campbellsport Fire Department Chief Randy Zielieke and former chiefs, Joe Thelen and (partially hidden) Phil Hahn watch as Don Stoffel uses an antique fire axe to cut the CFD 100th anniversary cake. Stoffel is chairing the centennial celebration activities that will culminate in the July picnic, parade, and huge fireworks display. Stoffel is also a past CFD chief.

The cake commemorating the 100th Birthday of the Department. The cake was served at the March CFD meeting.

The Campbellsport Fire Department (CFD) members celebrated their 100th birthday anniversary with a birthday cake at their March meeting. The public will have a chance to celebrate with them in July.

The CFD had its beginning on March 14, 1904 when a group of local men started the department with little but their own manpower. After a time, they purchased a second-hand horse-drawn pumper, a hose cart and 1000 feet of hose. Water was carried by a bucket brigade.

Presently, the department has approximately 50 members, both male and female, who operate eight fire trucks and two ambulances. They are Certified firefighters and Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs).

Cedar Community Plant Sale

Cedar Community is hosting their annual Plant Sale on Thursday, May 6, from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. or while supply lasts! All are invited to come see the best-quality plants around. Shop early for the best selections. A wide variety of bedding plants, patio gardens and flowering baskets will be available. This cash and carry sale will be located in the Cedar Community Pole Shed at 5595 County Road Z, West Bend.

The sale is sponsored by the Staff Visionary Committee to raise funds to support staff and resident activities. Cedar Community is a not-for-profit, church affiliated provider of health care, education, rehabilitation and senior housing.

The biggest and most important change in the CFD is the Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs).

The public celebration will take place in Campbellsport on July 2, 3 and 4. As in the past, the parade will begin at noon on July 4. In addition to the traditional fireworks, hamburgers, brats, beverages, games and rides, there will be souvenir tee shirts, a mini water fight for kids, and the biggest, best Fourth of July Fireworks display that Campbellsport has ever seen.

A commemorative coin, making the anniversary continues to be available from CFD members and at the Campbellsport Village Hall. The cost is $5 with proceeds used to build a practice fire tower.

The Campbellsport EMS/Rescue serves the Villages of Eden and Campbellsport, the townships of Eden, Osceola and Ashford and a portion of located to be near 9,000.

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of ALFRED C. "SONNY" VOIGT, who passed away eight years ago, March 18, 1996:

I am home in Heaven, dear ones;
All's so happy, all's so bright.
There's perfect joy and beauty
In this everlasting light.
All the pain and grief are over,
Every restless tossing passed;
I am now at peace forever,
Safely home in heaven at last.

Vote April 6th!

COMPUTERS/ TECHNOLOGY/LABS

I will continue reviewing the School District referendum question that will be on the April 6 ballot. As I continually mention to people that I come in contact with, this information is presented to help residents make an informed decision on April 6. Last week I reviewed the Textbook question. This week I planned to cover maintenance/capital improvements. However, after hearing of some resident questions and misunderstanding on the Technology/Computer question, I will cover this one instead and cover maintenance/capital improvements next week.

The part of the referendum question pertaining to technology/computer reads: "...acquiring audio/visual equipment, computer hardware and software including related training costs." This part of the question asks that the district budget for technology be increased by $277,000 per year for five years. One concern expressed was why were we going to spend over a million dollars for computers at a time when they are so much cheaper today at Best Buy, etc.

I would like to examine the question and the dollar amount as it relates to students and years in effect. The estimated $277,000 each year for the next five years comes out to spending about $140 per student on technology/computers in the district, each year, for five years. Put another way, the $277,000 figure breaks out to roughly $55,000 per school building, for each year. The point I wish to make is this: The $277,000 isn't all going "to buy computers", even over five years. We do have a 5-year replacement cycle planned for all computers in the district. What this means for our children that at the end of the five years computers that our children are using, will have been replaced and updated.

A key emphasis of the technology question is access to computers by all students, not just some. With the successful elementary referendum that passed a few years ago, the three elementary buildings computer lab needs were addressed. In the April 6 referendum, the high school and middle schools would be addressed. The high school would be able to add three computer labs while the middle school will add two mobile wireless computer labs, an increase of five labs for our student. Currently the high school students do not have access to computers because we basically have only one lab for students. We have a business room and tech education room, but these have limited access since classes are going on in them most hours of the day. The middle school has a single lab in the library, but there are no other rooms available for a second lab, even if we had more computers. As a solution, two mobile, wireless labs would be purchased for use by our 6th, 7th and 8th grade students. Using wireless technology, students would have access to computers, without leaving their rooms. Both high school and middle school students would have expanded opportunities to use computers in their respective buildings, which is the purpose of the technology/computer part of the referendum.

I'll close with comments from two high school teachers regarding computer accessibility in their building: "Presently in my classes we are in the midst of a research unit on various countries and cultures. Because we share the computers in the library with the rest of the school, we are often not able to go when needed. I find myself hunting for an open computer class. As a result some of my students are in the library, some in one computer class and some in still another class. Someone else shouldn't have to look after my students."

"With large class sizes and a limited number of computers in the library computer area, we do not have enough computers to accommodate an entire class, thus leaving students unable to complete assignments with the rest of the class. When a class is on the library computers, individual students from study hall and other classes are unable to use our computers to complete class assignments or pursue library research. Students without home computers are at a distinct disadvantage as the library computers are often booked for weeks in advance by classes that are struggling to find computer time for their students to complete assignments."

Once again I hope this information clarifies a few misperceptions of what the computer part of the referendum is asking. I also hope that it helps people in their final decision-making. Be an informed voter, then take the time to vote on April 6. If you have any questions about the referendum or the process, you are welcome to call me directly at 626-4487.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

The April 6th election nears so I will attempt to convince the residents of the Kewaskum School District of its importance. Every one in the district should know by now that there will be a school referendum question requesting extra money for the purpose of school material and maintenance equipment purchases for a period of five years.

Whether or not we believe that property taxes should be used to finance schools; it is. Until this responsibility is changed we must accept the fact that children's education is the most important item in our budget; therefore I believe this referendum should be approved.

It's true that several years ago money had been appropriated for roof maintenance, then used for something else, isn't the question. The question is: "does the district now need extra money for much needed school material and maintenance?" The answer is a definite yes.

The Kewaskum School District voters should approve the referendum I believe, then contact members of the school board and administration and demand that the money be used only for the purpose listed in the referendum, be used wisely and be maintained properly.

If we value the welfare of the children in this district we will vote April 6th and vote for approval. It is imperative that there be a large turnout, so see you at the polls.

Thank you,
Lloyd A. Koch

Cover artwork by Peter Mendelsund

Years ago, a picture of a sharecropper's wife was taken during the Depression, and it's come to represent the anguish of the time. You know the picture. There she sits, her hand on her cheek, and the look on her face is one of complete numbness and loss of hope. Certainly you've read of the Depression; maybe you've even lived it. If you were there, you probably remember that life wasn't easy. It was harder still, if you were the New Law in a town full of corruption.

Carrie Lynn Jones, known as Sunset because of her red hair, has just shot her husband, and in "Sunset and Sawdust" by Joe R. Lansdale (c.2004, Knopf), that's the first of her problems. Minutes after Pete lay dead, a storm rages through, tearing down the house, leaving a floor, some boards, and a few papers that Pete, former Town Constable, had filed. Dazed, bruised, and nearly naked, Sunset makes her way to her mother-in-law's house to tell Marilyn what she had done to her son.

While Marilyn is grief-stricken over her son's death, she believes that Pete, who cheated on, beat, and violently had his way with Sunset, got what he deserved. This notion gives Marilyn the courage to kick her own no-good husband out of her house and appoint Sunset as Town Constable. Marilyn owns a chunk of Camp Rapture, Texas, and the sawmill that employs most of the town's residents, including Clyde, a squalid, dirty man who could think on his feet, and Hillbilly, a too-handsome-for-his-own-good drifter who's hiding a murderous past himself. Sunset deputizes Clyde and Hillbilly, and sets up office on the open floor of what's left of her house. But Sunset finds that she has a lot to learn.

Before his untimely exit, Pete had filed a report on a dead baby found on a sharecropper's farm, and now another body has been discovered, covered in oil. This body, however, belonged to Pete's mistress, and people think Sunset killed her out of jealousy. As Clyde and Hillbilly vie for Sunset's affections, Sunset has to figure out who killed Pete's mistress, before her badge is taken away. But where did the oil come from? Why was Pete so hasty in burying the baby's body? And who is McBride, a man whom everybody knows but nobody sees?

Author Joe R. Lansdale writes like people talk, with folk-isms and real-sounding conversations, and I liked his style. "Sunset and Sawdust" is part western, part mystery, a little Dirty Harry sprinkled with a dose of John Wayne. Bearing in mind that this book is set way before the Civil Rights years, there is some racism in this book that might make you squirm. It's also funny, violent, rowdy in a take-the-law-into-your-own-hands sort of way, and somewhat foul.

I loved it.

While it's not for the sensitive, delicate reader, I think if you're looking for something very different - and you don't mind the language - you can't go wrong with this book.

Wisconsin Women for Agriculture Host Annual Ag Legislative Brunch

In celebration of National Agriculture Week, the Wisconsin Women for Agriculture, WWA, hosted their annual Ag Legislative Brunch March 10. This year's event was held in the Senate Parlor at the Capitol in Madison. The brunch featured commodities grown in Wisconsin and representatives of various agricultural organizations joined WWA members to talk about their involvement in agriculture. The event provides an opportunity for legislators to taste the variety of products Wisconsin agriculture has to offer and to meet those who produce them. National Agriculture Week will be celebrated this year March 14-20. Wisconsin Women for Agriculture is an affiliate of American Agri-Women, an organization of individual members as well as 52 state and commodity organizations that has been recognized by the Business Women's Network as one of the top 12 business women's organizations in the United States.

George Stanchfield Prepares for His 26th Fair as Fair Board Member

George Stanchfield

FOND DU LAC - George A. Stanchfield is gearing up for his 26th year of service to the Fond du Lac County Fair.

When Ervin Roehl of Campbellsport decided not to seek another term on the fair board, George ran for the position. Elected to the Fond du Lac County Agricultural Society in the fall of 1979, George got directly involved with the planning of the annual event for a reason.

"I always worked with the fair. I was involved all my life. I decided I wanted to be involved more with the fair - the planning of it. I was approached (to run for the position) and was asked if I was interested," George said.

That first year on the board, George worked along side fellow board members Erv Jonas, George Ottery, Clarence Boyke, Bob Springborn, Ray Puddy and Paul Ruedinger.

When George first got on the board, the fair didn't have big name entertainment like it does today.

"We just hired small shows like ventriloquist, magic shows or a circus. Usually one night, we'd have a car show where cars would jump over other cars, and another night, we'd have the tractor ing built, followed by the small animal barn and the Expo Building. The Recreation Building was completely renovated in time for the 2002 fair. The project included a new fair office.

He remembers one year when the Recreation Building was condemned because of asbestos, and everything had to be moved out of the building and put into the Cow Palace and tents.

"It rained and rained that year. It was a mess," George said.

He also remembers the 1980's, when the overhead power lines would glow because of the power being used during the fair. Since that time, Fond du Lac County buried the power lines and increased capacity.

George has served as treasurer of the Agricultural Society the past 17 years. He's witnessed some changes through the years.

"It's a lot bigger operation now - the budget is a lot bigger. We have a lot more people working for the fair because we have probably tripled the attendance," he said.

Other changes George has seen through the years include having service clubs handle the gate entrances and parking, and not charging fairgoers for parking their cars on the grounds, or being able to see the grandstand shows.

With the cost of hosting the fair on the rise, and also looking for a way to bring more people through the gates, the fair board began hosting national acts on the grandstand in 1985.

"As times change, we had to give people what they were looking for. We went out on a limb and hired entertainers," he said.

The weather cooperated that first year when Janie Fricke, Conway Twitty, Tom Green and Jerry Reed were the national acts. Good crowds turned out, so the board continued to bring in the entertainment in the years that followed.

George said the number of exhibitors is down in recent years, but said the count runs in cycles, along with project areas the youth are interested in.

"Hogs at one time filled the livestock barn. Now, we have about 120 being shown, because of animal health concerns and a lack of purebred breeders than any other county in the state," he said.

Show horse numbers are up, but the total horse numbers are down, beef numbers continue to increase. Entries in the small animal barn are down, sheep exhibits are down, and goat numbers are up.

In the early 1990s, when George Ottery retired as secretary, George began to assume some of the managerial responsibilities. He's enjoyed all the challenges along the way.

"It's a learning experience every year - something different. I enjoy it. I guess I mostly enjoy the people and the kids. I like to see the competition with the kids - watch them grow up. And, I enjoy working with the entertainers," he said.

Seeking out new ideas for the Fond du Lac County Fair, George and his wife, Carol, have attended every Wisconsin Fairs Association Convention every year he has been on the board. He has also attended most of the Zone Four meetings and the National Association of Fairs conventions. In one year, they have attended as many as 40 fairs held in Wisconsin.

"We average about 20 fairs a year. We go to get ideas to bring back to help our fair," George said.

The fair experience runs deep in the Stanchfield family. George's great-grandfather was also a member of the fair board. Fond du Lac County now owns the fairgrounds, but in those years, the Ag Society owned it. George and Carol also watched their four daughters' exhibit hogs and other projects at the fair. George and Carol's grandchildren are the sixth generation to exhibit, with third great-grandson beginning the seventh generation.

George said the fair gives youth the opportunity to show projects they have worked on, and gives them the opportunity to compete and work with other youth in the area. The fair also gives youth a chance to meet new friends and learn something new every year.

ATV Riders Responsible for Knowing Where They Can Ride

MADISON -- With warmer weather approaching, many outdoor motor sport enthusiasts are thinking about putting away their snowmobiles and taking the covers off their All Terrain Vehicles to enjoy Wisconsin's ATV trails.

Before hitting the trails, Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources recreational safety specialists caution ATV riders that they are responsible for knowing where they can legally ride their machines, as well as making sure they have machines properly registered.

"We want riders to have a safe and enjoyable ATV season," says Karl Brooks, snowmobile and ATV administrator for the state Department of Natural Resources. "But to ensure ATV riders continue to have places to ride their machines, we also want to make sure they know the rules for where they can and where they cannot legally operate ATVs."

For instance, Brooks says, most snowmobile trails in Wisconsin are not open to ATV operation unless they are officially designated as being open to ATVs. Most snowmobile trails cross private lands for which the landowner has granted an easement for the trail. In general easements only allow snowmobiles to use the trails when there is adequate snow and frost in the ground to protect the trail surface.

"Future ATV riding opportunities depend on ATV riders' commitments to riding ethically and responsibly," Brooks says. "Trespassing and riding without regard for other people's views and rights are the quickest ways to have areas closed down to ATV use."

ATV riders should also not automatically assume the public lands, such as county, state or national forest lands, are open to ATV use. Riders need to check with the appropriate authorities to find out what if any public lands are open to ATVs. ATV riders should contact the county where they plan to ride and request an ATV map.

Similarly, it is not legal to ride ATVs on most Wisconsin roadways, including along ditches and right of ways. Only roadways identified with route signs (green signs with a white ATV silhouette) may be used and only then if not posted closed.

Information about some of the trails and lands that are open to ATV use can be found on the DNR website. Currently the site lists winter trails, but after April 1 the site will list locations of spring and summer ATV trails and contact numbers for maps.

Brooks also reminds ATV riders of these other rules:

*Ensure your ATV is registered. All ATVs must be registered and must display registration decals. A public use registration is required for all ATVs operated on public areas unless the rider is riding an ATV from another state, then the ATV must be registered in that state. ATV riders from states that do not formally register ATVs (i.e. Michigan and Illinois) must be registered in Wisconsin. Public areas include trails, frozen surface waters, designated open county lands, etc.

In Wisconsin, an ATV requiring registration is an engine-drive device that has a net weight of 900 pounds or less, has a width of 48 inches or less, is equipped with a seat designed to be straddled by the operator and the machine is designed to travel on three or more low-pressure tires. People who have questions about ATV registration in Wisconsin can contact a DNR service center to find out if an ATV can be registered or used on trails in the state.

*Get certified to ride. All children at least 12 years old, but under 16 must be certified to ride an ATV on public riding areas. Adults are encouraged to take a course too. Make it a family event and take a class with your child or with a friend.

*Muffle ATV exhaust. ATVs are prohibited from emitting loud and excessive noises. A bill in the Wisconsin legislature is being considered and if passed, ATVs cannot be louder than 96 decibels. Factory exhaust systems should easily meet this proposed requirement.

In addition, safety specialists recommend ATV riders follow these safety precautions:

*Do not consume alcohol (or drugs) before or during your ride. The chances of injury or death greatly increase when riders do not heed this basic safety rule. Last year alone, nine fatal victims didn't think it would happen to them.

*Wear a helmet, this includes passengers. Almost all ATV fatalities involve a person who was not wearing a helmet. By law, all children under 18 are required to wear one, even if they are a passenger.

*Stay clear of ice. Ice conditions are quickly turning from bad to worse now that warmer temperatures are here.
