KHS to receive new associate principal

By Andrew Kuehl
Managing Editor
akuehl@kewaskumstatesman

Kewaskum High School principal Christine Horbas was excited to announce at Monday's board of education meeting that a new associate principal has been chosen to replace John Wolfenberg. He will start July 1.

School officials have offered Thomas Fischer a two-year contract. Starting pay for the job is $58,500. For that salary, Fischer is required to work 205 days, which includes three paid holidays. He also receives 12 days of sick leave annually.

Upon signing the contract, Fischer will also receive 100% dental insurance, 95% major medical insurance, 100% of district group life insurance, 100% group long-term disability and $1,000 annually for continuing education.

"He (Fischer) did such a smooth interview, we wondered, could he be real? We found we had a dynamite person coming in to help move our building forward," said Horbas.

If Fischer decides to locate within the school district he will also receive $3,000 in moving expenses.

In addition to the associate principal tag, he will become the high school summer school coordinator. That title earns him $285 per day. He will work a total of 15 days or 30 half days. Fischer will also perform duties as curriculum and instruction assistant. In that capacity, he will also make $285 per day for up to 10 days.

Fischer is D.P.I. certified for English, grades 9-12 and holds a principal certification for grades K-12. He has seven years experience in the areas of high school English and math, and Dean of Students in the area of student discipline and school safety.

The former Dean of Students, Fischer comes to Kewaskum from Indian Trail Academy highly recommended. Indian Trail Academy is a choice high school located in Kenosha and serves roughly 1,100 students. He started his career there five years ago as an English teacher.

"You are going to find him to your liking. You will get a student centered Associate Principal who is very consistent and understands discipline," said Dick Aiello, principal at Indian Trail Academy.

According to John Wolfenberg, his tenure as assistant principal is over. He is helping out as a substitute in the summer school program. Right now, he is interviewing for different positions.

C-Sport announces finalist in superintendent search School Board officially announces Graczyk's retirement

By Andrew Kuehl

Kewaskum School Officials are still tight lipped on the events surrounding Wayne Graczyk's early retirement. A meeting to determine goals and a discussion regarding a timeframe for an interim superintendent was set for Monday, June 20 at 7 p.m.

School Board President, Gordie Dickman read a prepared statement at the meeting. "After consideration of continued differences between the board and superintendent with respect to education and leadership philosophy the board of education determined it was in the best interest of the school district to grant the request of the former superintendent to retire. The resignation of the former superintendent is not in response to any form of misconduct or disciplinary action."

Board member Neal Weare motioned to accept the resignation, and it passed unanimously.

Later in the meeting, Dickman announced that there will be a special workshop to discuss the accomplishments and achievements for the district as well as discussions on what the board would like to see in a permanent superintendent, a timeline for hiring that individual and finally, the procedure for hiring an interim superintendent.

Dickman stated that he had a few individuals who contacted him about the position already.

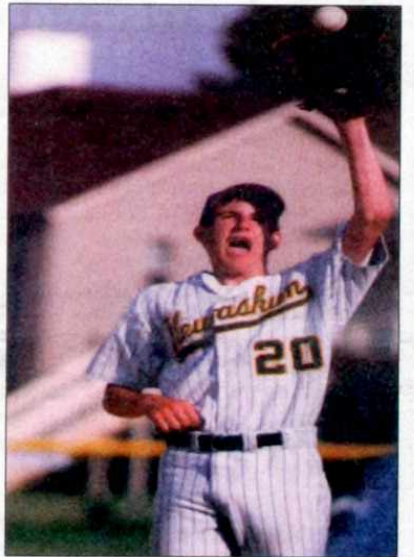

In an interview last week, former superintendent Wayne Graczyk recommended Kewaskum Elementary School principal Kieth Kriewaldt to take over his position. Unnamed sources have

Lt. Governor, others designate addition to Kettle Moraine Forest

Lt. Governor Barbara Lawton and Forest super Jerry Leiterman speak with Ray Schaeffer. In an address to attendees Lawton praised Schaeffer for his dedication to the land he farmed. TOWN OF KEWASKUM—It was a proud day for Ray Schaeffer and his family Wednesday after being visited by Lt. Governor Barbara Lawton and numerous other state dignitaries. Schaeffer sold 223 acres of his farm land to the state. That land will be turned into an addition to the Northern Unit of the Kettle Moraine State Forest.

A bonus to the addition to the state park is seeing a portion of the 31 mile segment of the National Ice Age Trail run through the property. Part of the Ice Age Trail will run along the one mile of Milwaukee River frontage.

According to Kathleen Wolski, public affairs manager for the Department of Natural Resources, the land is currently being farmed and will continue to be farmed until 2007.

The land was purchased in December 2004, with Knowles-Nelson stewardship fund. The Wisconsin Legislature created this innovative program in 1989 to preserve valuable natural areas and wildlife habitat, protect water quality and fisheries, and expand opportunities for outdoor recreation.

It is named for two of Wisconsin's most revered conservation leaders, Governor Warren Knowles and Senator Gaylord Nelson.

An interesting twist, Schaeffer's ancestors purchased the land from the state almost 100 years ago.

Wifler, will open its seventeenth season at the Buttermilk Performance Center with a concert on Wednesday, June 22 at 7:15 p.m. A food concession serving sandwiches, soda and desserts, will be available beginning at 6:00 p.m.

In a reprise of selections from the Band's spring pops concert, the Band will play Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2 by Liszt, Colonial Song by Grainger, St. Louis Blues March, and Blue Shades - a recent composition in the jazz idiom by Frank Ticheli. Other selections include The Saints - Hallelujah as performed by the Canadian Brass, Bugle Call Rag by Eubie Blake, and Pickles and Peppers Rag.

Soprano Inge Adelmeyer will sing the familiar Mozart Alleluia and Summertime by George Gershwin. The Holy City will be performed by band member and trombone soloist Dan Steward. Completing the program are two familiar marches: Bravura by Duple and Hostrausers by Chambers.

As resident ensemble and host of the Buttermilk Festival summer concert series, the Symphonic Band will also perform at Buttermilk Creek Park on July 13, July 27, Aug. 10 and Aug. 24. The Band's local summer appearances, which are sponsored by the City of Fond du Lac, will also include a July 4th Americana Concert at Lakeside Park preceding the fireworks on the lakefront.

While all Buttermilk Festival concerts are free of charge, free-will offerings are received to help defray costs. In the event of unsuitable weather, concerts will be moved to the Fond du Lac County fairgrounds and announcements made on local radio stations.

(Continued from page 1) commented on his new interest in district activities such as high school graduation and involvement of hiring. Kriewaldt could not be reached for official comment as he was attending a continuing education seminar.

While Kewaskum begins the search for their top official, neighboring Campbellsport School District has completed their search and a candidate has evolved. Campbellsport School Board President, Chris Candee announced Monday that former CHS principal, Dan Olsen is the finalist. A site visit and contract negotiations are the next steps in their process.

Olsen is currently principal at Ozaukee High School. He and his family are Campbellsport residents. Outgoing Superintendent, JP Campion's last day with the district is June 30, he will be moving to Georgia.

Details of Graczyk's severance package were not available at press time. Watch next week's Statesman for the results of the workshop.

Nine injured in weekend crashes

An accident Sunday evening, June 12, shut down County Road V from Sandy Road to Moraine Road. Two were injured and have since recovered. Statesman photo: Andrew Kuehl

By Andrew Kuehl
Statesman Managing Editor
Akuehl@kewaskumstatesman

TOWN OF AUBURN- Two automobile crashes on Sunday, June 12, in the Town of Auburn have left nine people injured, two of which remain in satisfactory condition at Froedtert Hospital.

The first crash occurred at 2:58 p.m. between two vehicles at the County Road GGG and S intersection. According to Sgt. Mike Nolan of the Fond du Lac County Sheriff's Department, that crash unfolded as Adam W. Breuer, 21, of West Bend was traveling west at a high rate of speed. Sgt. Nolan went on to say that Breuer failed to keep control of his car while negotiating a curve. He then hit a mini van stopped on County Road S.

The driver of that mini van carrying his family was James Brazeua, 38, of West Allis. Brazeua along with his 13-year-old daughter, a passenger in the van, were air lifted to Milwaukee hospitals. Brazeua was taken to Froedtert Medical Center and his daughter was believed to have been taken to Children's Hospital. However, Children's Hospital spokesperson Mark Whitney stated Tuesday that he was unaware of a patient by that name.

All other passengers in the van were taken to Synergy Health, St. Joseph's Community Hospital in West Bend and have been treated and released.

Breuer was also flown by Flight for Life to Froedtert Medical Center. A passenger in Breuer's vehicle, Scott D. Herman, 20, of Kewaskum was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital and later flown to Froedtert. Both are listed in satisfactory condition.

Kewaskum Fire and Rescue Squad were later assisted by Campbellsport Fire and Rescue Squad with transporting patients. Med Flight of Madison and Flight for Life of Milwaukee also transported victims.

"Alcohol and speed (on Breuer's part) are believed to be a factor in the accident. The accident remains under investigation by the Fond du Lac County Sheriff's office," stated Sgt. Nolan.

Later in the evening, at 10:20 p.m. Campbellsport Fire and Rescue was dispatched to a two-vehicle crash on County Road V, just south of Sandy Drive. The drivers of those vehicles were injured.

Chelsea Thorn, 18, of Allenton collided with Larry S. Sabish, 57, of Kewaskum. He was traveling northbound on County Road V and made a left turn into the driveway at N278 CTH V. Sabish failed to see Thorn traveling southbound and the two collided, head-on.

Sabish's vehicle overturned while Thorn came to rest in the southbound lane of travel, facing west.

Sabish was taken to St. Agnes Hospital in Fond du Lac and was later treated and released. Thorn was treated and released from St. Joseph's Hospital.

Meeting for commuter center in WB Tuesday

The Wisconsin Department of Transportation (WisDOT) will hold a public information meeting to discuss the possible construction of a commuter center at the northeast corner of the US 45/Paradise Road interchange in the city of West Bend.

The meeting will be held from 4 to 7 p.m. on Tuesday, June 21, 2005, in the City Council Chambers at the West Bend City Hall, 115 S. Main Street. The meeting will feature an open house format with a brief presentation scheduled for 6 p.m.

The commuter center would provide an indoor, sheltered waiting area and include a variety of commercial uses convenient for commuters at the beginning and end of the day. The state is currently studying the possibility of entering into a public-private partnership to construct the center.

All interested persons are encouraged to attend this meeting to view exhibits and discuss ideas with the project team. The West Bend City Hall is wheelchair-accessible. Hearing impaired persons may request an interpreter by calling the Southeast Region TTY line at (262) 548-8801 or through the Wisconsin Telecommunication Relay System by dialing 711.

Pridemore votes to ban frivolous gun lawsuits

State Representative Don Pridemore (R-Hartford) along with 62 other representatives voted along mostly party lines to protect gun clubs, gun manufacturers, and dealers from civil liability for any action involving an injury or death caused by a firearm.

"This bill holds the user of the firearm responsible for their actions, not the manufacturer," said Pridemore, "It is a victory for everyone who feels that personal responsibility equals freedom, and freedom is a foundation of the American way of life."

Pridemore added. Although the bill protects manufacturers from frivolous lawsuits it does not exempt any of these companies or groups from liability if the product is defective or if injury or death was caused by reckless behavior on behalf of the company or group.

Name change for Waupun Truckers Jamboree

With only two months to go before their nationally known truckers event the organizers were forced to change the name to Waupun Truck-N-Show.

Recently organizers received notice from a law firm in Iowa representing Iowa 80 Truckstop, Inc., who claims ownership of the "Truckers Jamboree" trademark.

The group is ordered to destroy all items with the name on it by June 17.

Organizers say it will be difficult but the show will go on for this year on August 15 and 16.

Steinerts open Hearth and Home Heating

Cal and Judy Steinert recently completed training with American Energy Systems and are certified to sell and install the multi-fuel stoves and furnaces. American Energy Systems is based out of Hutchinson Minnesota and has been manufacturing the stoves since 1973.

The Countryside Multi-fuel stove has the capabilities of burning a wide variety of fuels including, shelled corn - wood pellets - cherry pits - olive pits and a host of other fuels that normally would fill up our landfills as waste. The cost savings for burning these types of fuels is substantial over conventional means of heating depending on the area that you live in and the type of fuel available.

Shelled corn is the lowest cost alternative allowing you to save over 50% on your heating bills while burning the Farmers own friend. This helps the local economy and is renewable in a few short months.

The Countryside Multi-fuel stove is designed to be installed with a direct vent system so that you will save thousands of dollars on not having to put up a new chimney. The negative draft combustion allows you to open the door without getting smoke into the home.

Are you tired of hauling in pile after pile of wood and then carrying out the piles of ashes? Or are you just tired of paying the skyrocketing fuel prices to stay warm? Or just plain tired of having to turn the thermostat down to conserve heat, put on another sweater and still be cold!!!

"We are gearing up now for an extremely busy fall season. Anyone interest should call and have a stove or furnace installed now to be prepared for next winter."

Information can be obtained by calling Cal or Judy Steinert, Hearth & Home Heating at 262-692-9434.

Filzen's friendly, positive spirit will be missed at Holy Trinity

Gail Filzen, center joins fifth graders in a game of capture the chicken.

BY JUDY HARLOW
Statesman Correspondent
jharlow@kewaskumstatesman.com

The 160 children let out one harmonious groan when they heard Gail Filzen has decided to retire as physical education teacher, forensics coach and drama assistant at Holy Trinity Catholic School.

Matter of fact, the parents... and even some of the grandparents of the students are sad to see her go because of the passion she showed for teaching and her friendly demeanor.

Filzen, who grew up near Jackson and attended Slinger schools, was like a permanent fixture at H.T., a very important fixture at that. Still, if you ask Filzen about teaching at Holy Trinity the past 17 and a half years, she would downplay her role and say the job was a labor of love.

"It feels pretty bittersweet," Filzen said last week after finishing up her final day with the students. "It's hard to leave a place you love so much and get so much love back from the students, the staff and the parents."

To a degree, Filzen could extend her admiration of educational experiences to the public schools in the community since she taught for nearly a dozen years at the Kewaskum Middle School before her careers took two turns in the road.

"I've been around a while," Filzen said, explaining she came to KMS to be a teacher and coach after graduating from UW-La Crosse.

She had a good reason for leaving the middle school setting. "I was pregnant and had my first son," Filzen said, indicating she wanted to be a stay-at-home mom and did so for eight years, first for Ben and then for Nate.

After eight years, she received a phone call from Sister Phyllis Wirtz, the then principal at Holy Trinity. It seems that the physical education teacher at the school (Debbie Donath) also decided her children needed her to be home, so they reversed roles.

That was in Jan. of 1988, according to Filzen, who said it was a match made in heaven for her because she developed great friendships with some of her colleagues and was able to see her teaching efforts help students fine tune their athletic talents and their sportsmanship.

One teacher Filzen is especially close to is Terry Christie. They were "like sisters," Filzen finished a question concerning their strong working relationship. "I will miss that very much... I will miss her."

The two worked together in forensics and drama, and, "That was a lot of fun," Filzen said, explaining her work with drama enabled her "to reach out to the community and the children."

Filzen was the head forensics coach the past three years, and before that, she assisted with the program. "I had been helping her (Christie) with drama for 12 years," she went on.

Especially satisfying to Filzen was getting to see her students showcase their athletic talents in high school "and even in college."

"It's really meant a lot for me to see them go on and do well," Filzen said.

Another non-monetary perk of working at Holy Trinity was how well Filzen was accepted by the school, especially considering she is not a Catholic.

"My husband and children are (Catholic)," she said, indicating, the hesitancy of possibly not being accepted disappeared quickly as she found what she called "a place to grow in my faith and my career... I couldn't have asked for anything more."

Filzen is proud of the way the school's physical education department has improved over the years. "We were able to build a nice phy ed program with the equipment we had," she said, indicating she got a lot of support from the principal, June Gauvin, and as a result, was able to add a lot of new equipment.

The combination of the program and equipment, plus Filzen's teaching expertise, has helped the students in the school to perform well in national physical fitness testing.

"In 1989, we took the state away for our sized school," Filzen said, adding, this past year, 48 percent of the kids received national awards for physical fitness and 10 percent were at the higher presidential level.

"That's very good... that's over half the students," Filzen said, reporting the students were dedicated to attaining these goals, and, "I made 'em work."

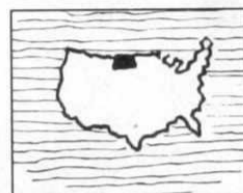

With all this in mind, why is Filzen leaving Holy Trinity? She and her husband, Dan, have always wanted to live near La Crosse when they retired. Dan retired from M&I Mortgage Corporation in Cedarburg in January, and they began making plans to move.

The couple built a new home in Onalaska and will be moving there this summer. Filzen said she definitely intends to do some substitute teaching there, and will also spend time on her hobbies, which include gardening, golfing "and fishing. We are going to do a lot of fishing."

With a lot of family still in Washington County, Filzen will visit the area a lot and she will have good memories from Holy Trinity and the students, especially from the scroll she received the last day with messages from all the students and a picture of the school, burned on a wooden board. This latter gift was made by computer teacher, Barbara Kamrath.

"It's just wonderful," Filzen said, noting at the closing program, the students sang "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You" to her. "It was so special... I was overwhelmed by the expression of gratitude."

Hill Climb is a good time for riders, spectators

BY JUDY HARLOW
Statesman Correspondent
jharlow@kewaskumstatesman.com

It's men (or maybe even some women) against the mountain Sunday as motorcyclists from southeastern and central Wisconsin gather for the 22nd annual Motorcycle Hill Climb at the Sunburst Ski Hill.

The event, which is directed by the Kettle Moraine Sport Riders Motorcycle Club, is slated to get started at noon, according to club vice president Mike Vrana, who said, "We're going to have opening ceremonies at noon sharp, and usually we got off pretty good" right after that.

Once again this year, there will be six classes in each of three divisions, including up to 250 cubic centimeters, 251 to 600ccs, and the Open Class, which is unlimited, according to Vrana.

Those finishing high in the stock classes will receive trophies, and those racing in the Modified Class are battling for prize money, Vrana said, explaining entries are taken on the day of the race.

"The riders compete against the clock or to see how many feet they go (up the hill)," Vrana said. "In each class, there's usually somebody who makes it over."

Vrana was not able to provide the actual hill record, then explained, "It varies every year because we have a different run every year ... riders try for the eight-second bracket."

There will again be an Antique Class for those riders owning older bikes. "It's usually just our club members," Vrana said.

Normally over 2,000 people show up to watch the competition, and Vrana is expecting another good crowd Sunday. Admission remains at $5. "You can bring the family ... for $5 what can you do for that?" Vrana said, indicating the employees of the Ski Hill will be selling refreshments, and, of course, there are no carry-ins.

Another rule the club plans to adhere to this year is no pets will be allowed on the premises, Vrana said.

Spectators can bring lawn chairs but no tents, unless they are put up near the back of the spectating area, according to Vrana, who said help on the hill is provided by the club members, and the Village of Kewaskum provides the rescue squad.

Some of the proceeds go to a charitable cause, Vrana said. "It's usually over $1,000."

Current officers of the Kettle Moraine Sport Riders are: president — Dave Murre; vice president — Vrana; secretary — Bruce Koenig; and treasurer — Larry Moses.

The Gift of Life

(ARA) - Fifty years ago, as Ronald Herrick waited to be wheeled into an operating room, he never imagined the impact he was about to have on history. Ronald, then 21, was about to become the first living transplant donor.

He was giving one of his kidneys to his twin brother, Richard, who was dying from chronic kidney disease. A team of physicians in Boston had decided to undertake a radical idea. At the time, a transplant from a living donor was quite controversial, both for its risky procedure and the new ethical questions that arose from the idea of performing surgery on a healthy individual.

Yet after lengthy discussions with clergy and medical experts, the surgeons decided to proceed. Because the Herricks were identical twins, they were considered the perfect candidates for breaking into this new territory. The organ would almost surely be compatible-- which it was, making the groundbreaking procedure a success.

Since that December day in 1954, the advances in transplantation have been astonishing. Evidence of that advancement can be seen in the yearly Transplant Games that Ronald himself recently attended. Held this year in Minneapolis, this sporting event celebrates the triumph and spirit of transplant recipients. "I looked out over a crowd of 8,000 people. It was such a sight. I stood next to the doctor who performed my surgery. It was a very proud day."

Herrick spoke to the crowd on furthering the success of organ donation and finding new donors. "Get yourself down to the DMV," he urges. "Make sure you have it listed on your driver's license."

"As much as we think of transplantation as a medical triumph, it's really a triumph of the human spirit," says UNOS executive director Walter Graham. "We all have the power to save lives by saying yes to organ donation."

Each day an average of 106 people are added to the nation's organ transplant waiting list. That list is maintained by the non-profit United Network for Organ Sharing (UNOS), based in Richmond, Va. Under contract with the federal government, UNOS maintains the nation's waiting list for deceased organ transplants and highly sophisticated computer programs to match organs with transplant candidates in the most equitable way possible. UNOS also provides patient and public education to support and promote life-saving transplantation. In fact, each year more than 25,000 people are saved through transplantation of hearts, livers, kidneys, lungs, and pancreata. This number includes nearly 2000 children under the age of 18.

But the tragic fact remains; there are not enough organs donated each year for the people who need them. And the number of people waiting continues to grow. "Each day an average of 17 people die while waiting for a suitable organ," says Graham.

He urges all people, no matter their age or medical history, to consider themselves as potential donors. It's also vitally important, he adds, to discuss your decision with your family.

"Fifty years ago organ failure was a death sentence. Today we can save lives at a rate we once only dreamed of. But only if the general public knows what a precious gift they have to give."

To learn more about organ donation visit www.unos.org.

BECAUSE HE'S YOUR

So Long Tube Socks and Ties -- Give Dad More of What He Really Wants

(ARA) - Fretting over Father's Day? Desperately seeking gift options that don't go in the underwear drawer or aren't as pungent as Old Spice? Well here's an intriguing and affordable alternative that may just give the dad in your household a lot more of what he really wants - time... away from the office and at home having fun with his family.

A lot of professionals spend countless hours entering new contacts and leads into critical business databases. It's a boring, mindless but important chore that unfortunately keeps Dad at the office, late for dinner or away from that big game. CardScan, the industry leader in business card scanning technology, has put together a special Father's Day offer that can help your dad reduce this tedious task from hours down to minutes.

CardScan's palm-sized hardware and intelligent software lets Dad scan business cards directly into his PC. The software accurately sorts the information and creates an electronic database.

An optional backup service saves a copy both on his PC and to a secure private web server. He can access this with a browser via password from anywhere in the world to view all records and card images.

Most important -- it's a secure and automatic backup of his valuable business contact data.

So here's the limited-time special deal that runs until Father's Day. CardScan Personal (touted as the smallest scanner ever) offers grayscale scanning, USB power, software that syncs with Outlook and his Palm Pilot, a one-year warranty, free tech support and a 90-day trial of some great optional services -- all for about $125. That's a $25 saving.

If Dad won't settle for anything but top of the line, CardScan Executive does all of the above, in color, faster, with multiple software user license options for his team, a secure backup service included and broader compatibility with other address book softwares -- all for about $250.

You can buy a CardScan online or find a retailer near you at www.cardscan.com -- and let Dad buy his own tube socks and ties this Father's Day.

Washington County Dental Auxiliaries support Habitat for Humanity

Dr. Stephen Van Ess, right, Kewaskum, presents a check for $1250 to Russ Wanta, Executive Director of Habitat for Humanity, Washington County.

Washington County dental auxiliaries used their spring banquet to benefit Habitat for Humanity.

Over 60 dental auxiliaries from Washington County dental offices met in early May at the KC Hall in West Bend for their annual spring banquet. This year's hosts, the staff of Dr. Stephen Van Ess, Kewaskum, chose Habitat for Humanity as the featured charity of the evening.

A presentation on the local Habitat affiliate explained its mission as a non-profit, ecumenical Christian housing ministry in Washington County. Current projects include a multi-family construction in West Bend and property in Hartford for a single-family home.

All monies raised through the evening were matched by Dr. Van Ess, for a total donation to Habitat of $1250.

Persons interested in learning more about Habitat for Humanity of Washington County should call Russ Wanta, Executive Director, at 262-334-1801 or visit www.blitzbuild.com

FES students participate in Toshiba's Exploration contest

Three second grade invention teams from Farmington Elementary School recently won honorable mention for their entries in Toshiba's Exploravision contest. Exploravision is a competition for U.S. and Canadian students in grades k-12.

The purpose of the competition is to encourage students to combine their imaginations with the tools of science to create and explore a vision of future technology. To prepare an entry, students had to work in teams of 3-4 students. They simulated Research and development teams like those that actually work at companies such as Toshiba. Each team had to select a present technology and explore what the technology does now, how it works and how, when and why it was invented. The students had to then project into the future what that technology could be like 20 years from now. Each team had to convey their vision to others through both a 1-10 page written description and five graphics simulating web pages.

Members of these teams will be receiving a certificate and a hooded jacket bearing the Exploravision logo. The winning teams include:

From Mrs. Witte's class-Jake Neuenfeld, Sami Kirst, and Caley McClyman for "The Pop Up Bed"

From Mrs. Dehler's class-Melanie Otten, Rachel Luedtke, and Max Vetter for "Automatic Bed Maker" and Elizabeth Kruschke, Benjamin Kelln and Kate Gibson For "Body Blow Dry Shower Heads."

All winners are posted on the Exploravision web site www.exploravision.org.

KHS special education teacher, Jason Last gives final remarks. In his address he told students, "GET A LIFE, a real life" not one focused on pay checks, material wealth, looks or who they are dating. He encouraged students to live a life with meaning. He closed by promoting the need to make good choices. KHS principal Christine Horbas spoke and honored the students who are going into the military. She told those in attendance that since setting foot in the high school, just prior to September 11, 2001 this class has seen many changes in the world.

Soapsuds

by Finola Hughes & Digby Diehl

If you've ever been at home during the day, you know how easy it is to get involved in watching the soaps. The first day, you figure you're only going to watch for a minute. No sense wasting time, right? The second day, you just want to check and see if that nasty character got her comeuppance. The third day, you need to find out if those two characters ever hooked up.

By the fourth day, you're hooked.

Reading the new novel "Soapsuds" by Finola Hughes and Digby Diehl (c.2005, Ballantine) is just like that. Three or four pages in and you're a fan.

London stage actress Kate McPhee has just landed a job on the daytime TV show Live for Tomorrow. This is good, because Kate left a broken heart, a cheating boyfriend, and a lying best friend back home, and she has no intention of returning there.

Kate's character, Detective Devon Merrick, is a car-accident survivor who narrowly missed being murdered and is now pursued by several men and a cult of blood-thirsty, vicious vampires. Because "Devon" is gay, everyone thinks that Kate is, too, which further complicates Kate's life. In fact, Kate's life is getting more and more like a... well, like a soap opera.

As you might guess, Hope Canyon (the fictional setting for Live for Tomorrow) is populated by a strange group of characters, but they're nothing compared to the real people who work on the show.

The Grand Diva of the soap is Meredith Contini, who joined the show thirty-some years ago and whose character is now "thirty-something". This soap-opera aging thing is exactly why Meredith is having a stand-off with Daphne del Valle, the show's producer. Daphne wants Meredith's character to "become" older. Meredith is throwing a hissy fit.

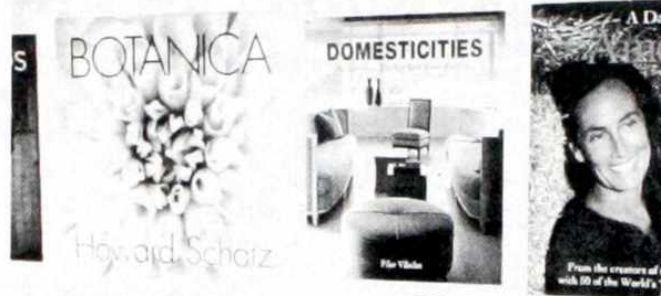

The man who plays Dr. Mason is always drunk, so he uses sticky note paper to remind him of his lines. There are several Barbie-doll look-a-likes on the set, each one more clueless than the last. Everyone gossips about everyone else. Eavesdropping is an everyday occurrence. And now Kate has a handsome new co-star on the set, and she's smitten but he's married. Will Kate ever find true love?

Tune in tomorrow.

Emmy Award-winning actress and author Finola Hughes used to be on General Hospital and All My Children, and fans of either of those shows are going to have a great time trying to figure out who the thinly-disguised characters are in "Soapsuds". Some of them are easy to spot and others appear to be composite co-stars, which made me wonder what Hughes' former co-workers think of this book. I also wondered how much is real and how much is fiction. Either way, "Soapsuds" made me laugh out loud, and I truly enjoyed it.

If you're looking for a bubbly-light read for daytime or if you want a good book to slide into for summer vacation, get "Soapsuds". It might not be the cleanest book you've ever read, but it sure is fun.

The Statesman's Bookworm slithers to the Big Apple

Kim Cattrall signing posters. She had been signing for about 1-1/2 hours and still had about 50 people waiting. Even though her time was up, you can see she was still signing.

Special to The Statesman

Question: What do you get when you mix a book geek with 1200 authors, 748 publishers and one Big Apple?

Answer: 250 pounds of books and a silly grin.

Last spring, when I asked Andrew, the managing editor here at The Statesman, if he would send me to Book Expo America 2005, I wondered if he had any idea what I was proposing. Did he know that he'd be turning me - The Biggest Book Geek in the World - loose in the biggest book conference in the country? Aha! But it was too late! He said yes! I was practically on my way.

My partner in crime / friend, Cathie, and I flew out two weeks ago, Thursday (I love flying!), arriving at Newark (which, I was informed repeatedly, is pronounced "noo-urk") with just enough time to snag our BEA badges and rush to the Javits Center to catch Billy Crystal for BEA's opening ceremonies. Billy has a new book coming out this fall, in conjunction with his Tony-winning play. Then, it was off for a quick dinner at Times Square and back to the room to prepare for the conference.

Friday morning, we hit the Center and started bookin' it. I saw lots of publicists I knew and I grabbed lots of catalogs and lots of books. I briefly thought about standing in line to see Kim Cattrall, but the wait was over 2 hours. I walked past Blair Underwood (who is about 45 times more handsome in person than on TV). I met Candace Bushnell. And that was only on Friday.

Saturday morning, we were back at it. I met Robert Sullivan and Lynn Johnston. Dr. Ruth was there, and I heard that Henry Winkler and Jack Klugman were there, too, but I missed all three. I met Barbara Ehrenreich and Delores J. Wilson and R.A. Salvatore and Brandon Massey. Oh, and... and... and... and there were so many authors I can't remember them all.

I saw old friends and people I wouldn't have recognized without their name badges. I met some stars and some star wanna-bees and I met some future stars who were just starting out with their first novels. And I saw one - just ONE - author who was too big for his britches, and who shall go unnamed.

Thoughts on New York City: NYC cab drivers are the gutsiest, most foolish people in the entire world. Suffice it to say that a herringbone gridlock and a dash down 9th Avenue at 60 mph (where stoplights were a mere suggestion) made me realize that I would starve if I had to make a living driving a New York City cab.

Times Square is just like on TV, only more crowded.

Walk / Don't Walk signs exist for pretty decoration and nothing more.

Whatever you've heard about New Yorkers being rude, nasty, and unhelpful, it's not true.

Be on the lookout for reviews on adventure books; a new book about pirates; Christopher Paolini's "Eldest" (due out in August); a whole lot of novels by first-time authors; and a book about a football player, coming out this fall (I'm sworn to secrecy, but I'm pretty certain you're going to want it for Christmas). And somewhere in those 250 lbs. of books I shipped home, is the Candace Bushnell book I waited in line for.

BEA 2005 is over, and I can emphatically say that, all in all, it was a most successful convention. Next year, it's in Washington, D.C., and I'm hoping Andrew forgets what he unleashed and he sends me again.

-Until then, I have 11 months to get that silly grin off my face.

Volz Daniels selected for distinguished social worker award

Wendy Volz Daniels

The Wisconsin Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers (NASW-WI) has selected Wendy Volz Daniels of Campbellsport for the 2004 Distinguished Social Worker award. Volz Daniels is currently a Clinical Associate Professor at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee in the Helen Bader School of Social Welfare.

The NASW WI 2005 Distinguished Social Worker award was formally presented to Ms. Volz Daniels on Friday, May 20, 2005 at the NASW-WI annual conference awards ceremony, which took place at the Madison Sheraton Hotel.

Ms. Volz Daniels was selected for her commitment to political action to achieve social and economic justice. Wendy has been an elected official in the Village of Campbellsport serving a third term as a Village Board Trustee. She co-chairs the Academic Staff Legislative Sub-Committee and UWM and has served on the Academic Staff Senate for the School of Social Welfare.

As the school social work liaison at the University of Wisconsin, she took a leadership role in assuring that the school social work program met the State of Wisconsin's Department of Public Instruction (DPI) requirements for a competency based educational program and has served on several state-wide committees, including the committee that developed the requirements for the Master Educator Pupil Services License. Wendy currently serves on the DPI's Early and Ongoing Collaborative Assistance Initiative-Institutes of Higher Education (EOCA-IHE) Work-group. This state-wide system change initiative is directed at promoting proactive collaborate planning, instruction and assessment in Wisconsin schools and aimed at reducing barriers to learning and enabling the success of all students. Wendy is also a member of UWM's School of Education Council for Professional Education which is responsible for having oversight of all professional education programs at UWM to ensure compliance with state and national accreditation standards. In addition, Wendy assisted in the development of a course on institutional racism, which is now a required course for school social workers licensed through UWM's program.

Wendy has been a court appointed special advocate volunteer with the Fond du Lac Conflict Resolution Center's Child Advocacy Program (CAP) for a number of years. In this role, she advocates in court and within the social service system for children involved with the juvenile court due to child abuse and neglect. This advocacy includes a commitment to spend quality time, weekly for the duration of the court order, with the child to whom she is assigned, getting to know the child and their needs. Wendy has also provided formal training to new child advocate volunteers.

Ms. Volz Daniels has served in many leadership roles with NASW WI. She has served as Chair of NASW WI's Political Action Committee since 2002 and helped rally social workers to support the election of fellow social worker Tamara Grigsby to the state legislature in the fall of 2004. She served as South Branch Chair and organized several highly attended conferences on the topics of racism and the child welfare system and the impact of violence on children living in the inner city of Milwaukee. Along with Tamara Grigsby, Ms. Volz Daniels wrote and presented a position paper on racial profiling for one of NASW WI's lobby days and testified on behalf of NASW WI regarding this legislation before the Senate Judiciary Committee. She has written additional position papers and submitted testimony to the state legislature including NASW-WI's response to legislation adding clergy as mandated reporters of child abuse.

As NASW WI's national advocacy liaison, she has written numerous letters to Wisconsin's United State Senators and Congresspersons on various social justice issues. Ms. Volz Daniels is also a tireless campaigner against racism and has confronted State Legislators and other Government officials regarding overt or covert racist comments, actions and policies.

The Wisconsin Chapter of the NASW is the largest organization of professional social workers in Wisconsin. It represents over 2,400 social workers.

The Kewaskum Board of Education wrestled with a bleak $4.5 million budget situation for the coming year at its June 9 meeting. No substantial cut-backs could be approved by the budget committee, and the rest of the board was admonished to look over computer printouts and come up with any possible suggestions for the next meeting on June 23. Prior to the main business of the meeting, the Outstanding Young Educator Award was presented to John Stephani, a fourth grade teacher at Kewaskum Elementary School, by John Meilahn, President of the Kewaskum Jaycees.

After almost five years in business in Kewaskum, Dennis' Family Shoe Store, 1269 Fond du Lac Avenue, is going out of business. The decision to close the store was made due to the economy and on overwhelming amount of shoe repair work at their Dennis' Shoe Repair in West Bend.

Each year the Kewaskum American Legion Post sponsors three junior girls from Kewaskum High School at Badger Girls State. The girls selected from this year's class are Patricia Sleger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sleger; Julann Zemlicka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Zemlicka, and Debbie Schlice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schlice. Alternates selected were Joan Hanrahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hanrahan, Mary Brenholt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Brenholt, and Barb Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wilson. The Legion Post and the Kewaskum Kiwanis Club are co-sponsoring two boys for Badger Boys State. The boys chosen this year were Ken Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Scott, and Mark Hupfer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Hupfer. Scott Klein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Klein and Mike Geidel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Geidel, are alternates. Ken Scott was unable to accept because of his AFS summer trip to England, so Mike Geidel, the alternate is attending in Ken's place. The other Alternate, Scott Klein, also has another commitment as he will be traveling to Mexico with a Spanish Club group during that time.

The Robert G. Romaine Post 384 of the American Legion recently elected the following post officers and executive board. Their term of office began at the regular meeting June 9. Commander, Daniel Schmidt; 1st Vice-Commander, Gilbert Seil; 2nd Vice-Commander, Gary Moody; Historian, Marilyn Haug; Chaplain, Gerald Wagner; Sgt.-at-Arms, Harold Boettcher; Assistant Sgt.-at-Arms James Korth. Appointed are Adjutant-Finance, Marilyn Haug; Service Officer, Joe Miller; Judge Advocate, Roger McKenna; elected to the Executive Board for three year term, Ervin Bonlender; moving to the 2 year term, Homer Schaub, and 1 year term, Otto Weddig. Clayton Stautz takes over from Mervin Thompson, who has completed his year as Past Commander on the board. Wes Kuehl has served as Finance Officer the past two years.

The Kewaskum Indians won two out of three games the past week, including a no-hitter, but also lost the services of their #1 pitcher. At Random Lake last Tuesday, the Indians avenged a 5-4 defeat the week before by pounding the Rams, 12-3, with some good pitching and solid hitting. Jeff Geidel, only a sophomore, pitched a five-hitter and struck out 13 Random batters and walked just three. This was his first varsity start after looking good in practice. Sophomore Dave Donath banged out a single, double and triple, just missing the circuit and got two RBIs. Junior Brian Larsen connected for a two-run homer in the fourth and junior Randy Heberer tripled in two runs. Henry Schilter had two doubles and two RBIs. Hosting Sussex Hamilton of the Braveland Conference in another non-loop contest Wednesday, Kewaskum was walloped 18-3 and lost not only the game but their ace pitcher, righthander Steve Muench, who may be lost for the season when he was spiked on the right arm. The cut required 40 stitches to close. After Geidel whipped Random Lake the week before, Coach Mike Theiler decided to use his soph pitcher again here Monday in the opening Scenic Moraine Conference game against Pewaukee. Geidel came up with a no-hitter as the Indians blanked the Pirates, 5-0.

A total of 73 UWWC-West Bend students were recognized for their achievements during the past year at the campus spring honors convocation on May 23. Katherine R. Kaiser, Mary Beth Kardos, Jean A. Scannell and Mark J. Tessar, all of Kewaskum, received Associate of Arts degrees. Carol J. Proeber, Kewaskum, received an Associate of Science degree.

Joan Amerling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Amerling, Allenton, and Laura Asch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Asch, West Bend, have been named recipients of the $100 National Honor Society Scholarships at Kewaskum High School.

Sheri Kumrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Kumrow, Random Lake, and Tom Rosenberger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rosenberger, Fredonia, have been named recipients of the $200 Kewaskum Jaycees Scholarships for 1980.

Christine Staehler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Staehler of Kewaskum, was among the recent graduates at ceremonies held at UW-Stout May 10.

The Wisconsin Public Radio Association presented the W.H.A. Kentzler Award for the Best Musical Production to the students of Mrs. M. Domasky's sixth grade class at Farmington Elementary School. Students who participated in the award winning production were: Tony Balistriere, Amy Bindrich, Leann Johann, Amy Kougl, Tom Strigenz, Adrienne Thull, and Kyle Vogt.

Ms. Janine Prost, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Prost, Kewaskum, was one of 350 spring 1980 graduates of Lakeshore Technical in Cleveland, Wisconsin. She received a vocational diploma as a Dental Assistant during graduation exercises June 6.

A daughter was born to John and Debbie Butschlick, West Bend, on June 3. A daughter was also born to Roger and Jo Anne Mielke, Campbellsport, on June 6, and a daughter was born to Robert and Katherine Bott, Kewaskum, also on June 6. The Bike Writer

Leaving Shawano

Starting my bicycle tour from Belle Plaine. It's about a mile south of Shawano, Wisconsin. I'm spending the night in a cabin sorting through my gear and trying to downsize one more time. The items not making the cut include my fourth biking shirt, socks, band aids, and my 'Boys Lie' t-shirt.

The stress of leaving friends, work and home has me in turmoil and tears. My walk to relax has found me at the corner tap in Belle Plaine. Furger's Breakaway. There's a Pabst sign out front with a flashing arrow that points to 'Tank up Tuesday's $1.00 shots.' Last time I drove past, the bar was promoting 'Midget wrestling.' The place had 'forget your troubles' written all over it.

Josh, the McCutie bartender, answered my prayers with a sweaty, long neck bottle of Pabst. I wander out back to watch horseshoes. Men's league on Monday night. Six courts and four men on each. One guy walks by and says, "Watch for wild shoes!" I asked him if that was his Indian name and he said "No... it's our team name."

Ron, the owner of the tavern stands behind me. He has owned the place for 11 years and has been debating about stitches on his body - he makes Frankenstein look pretty.

Richard has rounded shoulders. A grey t-shirt covers a barrel chest. His horseshoe throwing arm looks like a carpenter's angle iron. His elbow is covered in knots, like a bulging Popeye muscle. He wears peach colored ankle socks. His left knee resembles a 16 inch softball, complete with seams. "Knee replacement," he said.

I get up to go and Don the bar owner walks by with a hoe. Says he's going to plant flowers and I can ask his son the bartender for anything I want. I said, "Your son the bartender is hot!" Don says, "I gave the wife a double shot that night." That comment quickly puts a halt to my sing-songie rendition of 'Judy and Josh sittin' in a tree...' I just couldn't handle a father in law like that.

Wausau into Medford June 9, 2005

Found a church in Rothschild to stay. The Pastor at St. Peters Lutheran Church put me through the wringer with questions. "Not that I don't trust you, but can I see some I.D." he said. And, "Not that I still don't trust you but can I see some photo I.D." We talked for a while and ended up knowing Pastor Jim Ziesmer from Good Shepherd Lutheran in West Bend. That connection opened doors and built immediate trust.

Stopped Thursday morning for breakfast at the Mint Café in downtown Wausau. The place had mint green booths. The mint green chairs at the bar were tapered like the base of a lava lamp, nobody but me sat at the bar, probably because the height of the chairs was similar to those found in Mrs. Koepler's third grade class at Greentree School.

The menus had an art deco font with dancing coffee cups lining the left hand column. My waitress, Kathy said the restaurant had been around since the 1800's and the mint theme came from the business being built over a vault.

The special that day was pecan pancakes. With two sausage links the price was a reasonable $3.99. There were also ice cream specials listed in the corner. The days flavors were cinnamon, peppermint, vanilla and chocolate. Appetizing, if you like mixing your Wrigley's with your Borden.

Old menus hung in frames on the walls at The Mint. There were colored photos of a shrimp plate for $2.15, strawberry shortcake for 65 cents, and a Tenderloin steak sandwich for $2.45.

When I asked for directions out of Wausau, a man sitting in a corner booth came to my rescue. It was Chuck Gering's nature. Gering had just returned from a week's mission to Sri Lanka. The owner of an art and framing shop in downtown Wausau, he knew of the devastating December 26th tsunami and stepped forward to help. "It was part of the Mission of Mercy service trip," he said having traveled to Sri Lanka from May 9 to 17. His mission consisted of laying the groundwork for a group of missionaries who would build homes and an addition to an orphanage. Gering was assigned to take photos to outline the challenges for incoming work crews.

"The devastation was unbelievable," said Gering recounting the 30,000 housing units lost in the storm and the 8,500 bodies pulled from a lagoon.

"The cost of materials needed to rebuild has skyrocketed and the amount of illegal housing is overwhelming," he said. When questioned whether he felt his seven member team was able to make a difference Gering said he was encouraged by the children. "You see them in schools and realized they're the hope of tomorrow." He also said he wished more Americans would volunteer their time to help. "The lack of everything over there really puts into perspective all the things we take for granted."

Out of Wausau and on the road to Medford. Stopped at an Amish produce farm, Marten Gardens and took pictures and filled up my water bottles. Brad and Kim Grant were transplants from Ohio. "We had a calling from the Lord to move to Wisconsin," he said. Brad had a very red beard and his pants hung on his hips like barbed wire around a wood pole. Kim wore a black habit, similar to a nun. She also had a simple long, light blue dress. The couple had acres of flowers, vegetables and strawberries. "We thought you were with the annual Northwoods bike tour," said Brad. "We should be getting a hundred or so bicyclists in about a week. They stop and pick strawberries."

The Grants were packing up. They were trying to strap two canoes to the top of their VW van. "There's a good river between here and Medford," said Kim. I didn't want to ask if her dress would get in the way of her paddling.

Chased storms in to Medford and was taken in for the night by Pastor Paul and his wife Rebecca, and their six kids. Two, a six year old boy and girl were recently adopted from Haiti. I've yet to see or hear the children yet this morning, it's almost 7 o'clock.

Day 4 - Wausau into Medford

Pastor Paul and his wife Rebecca, from Immanuel Lutheran Church in Medford, adopted me for the night. They have six kids. Two, a brother and sister, were recently adopted from Haiti. "We were just looking to adopt a boy and save a soul," said Rebecca. "But when they said he had a twin sister, we decided we should take the pair."

Rebecca and Paul traveled to Haiti last October. They said the adoption process took three days. The children and their parents walked five miles and traveled another seven to make it to the orphanage for the exchange. "The normal life span in Haiti is 40 years old," said Rebecca showing me a picture of the kids, their parents and two of their relatives. "They all traveled to the adoption ceremony wearing their Sunday best."

The adults in the picture are thin. The man is in a crisp, short sleeved white shirt and the women are in bright red and yellow dresses. All are smiling. "The only one to cry when the children were handed over was Rebecca," said Paul. "It seemed the rest of the family had made peace with their circumstance, either they give the kids up for adoption or the children would die," said Paul.

Disease and lack of food and medicine are the primary causes of death in Haiti. Mackenson, the boy and Mackencia, his sister were two of 11 children. "Actually there were 14 altogether," said Paul. "But three died."

Paul said, once they got the children home they adapted well. They picked up English quickly and have started putting on weight. "They're going to be seven years old in a couple of weeks but they're about the size of my three year old," said Rebecca explaining about a disease children in Haiti often get that eats their intestine.

Paul and Rebecca are in their early 30's. He looks like the 'every man' and she has long blonde hair and speaks like the women from Charlton Heston's movie 'Moses.' "Thou must be weary from your days journey, please sit - eat - you are welcome in our home." I ask her where she's from and she says Fond du Lac.

A black baby doll was scattered amongst the toys on the floor of the bedroom I slept in. Rebecca said the children each got to bring one toy from Haiti. "It's a little hard finding black baby dolls in Medford, much less hair care products for the little girl." Rebecca gets her product through the mail from a woman in Milwaukee.

When questioned whether they would take any more kids, Paul said 'gladly' ... but his pocketbook says they can only afford six at this time.

Friday June 10th Medford to Ladysmith

My plan is to go from Medford to Ladysmith. 30 miles into the day I run into my first bike breakdown. My cable for my rear gears breaks. I had a lesson in bike repair from Kevin Schultz at Mountain Outfitters in West Bend. We covered a lot of things before I left, but not this.

Basically the break means my 21 speed is now a 3 speed. My gears consist of big, bigger and biggest. I can still pedal, but it's like losing the vowels on your keyboard. The process is a struggle.

I made it four miles into Cornell. There was no bike store, but 'Bob' at True Value Hardware said he would 'take a look see.'

Bob worked in the back. In what looked like a messy garage with lawn mowers, tools and grease on anything you bumped into. For the last 16 years it was home to Bob. He wore avocado green Vans tennis shoes. I liked him already.

"Got yourself a broken cable huh," said Bob with a stump of a smelly cigar in his mouth. He bends down to check out the situation. "That's quite a rig you got there."

Bob is interesting. He reminds me of the Uncle your parents forced you to hug. Your strategy was to do it with a pursed lipped smile and to hold your breath.

Bob has thick, square, black-rimmed glasses. Not Coke bottle, but close. His hair is slicked back like an Italian mobster. His hair product is sweat. He has the typical, flat man's no butt. His blue Dickies have as much shape as a pair of pants on a refrigerator.

Bob is breathing noisily out of his nose. He takes his smelly cigar stub and places it on the edge of his tool cabinet, with the rest of his cigar butt collection.

Bob starts wrenching away at my brakes and cables. There are other bikes in his shop and I figure he knows what he's doing. Within minutes I start picking up on Bob's catch phrases. "Oops" and "Gosh darn it!" Some noisy nose breathing and then "Boy, never seen anything like THAT before."

I'm rapidly losing confidence in Bob. "OOPS," he said

again and then confidently said, "Well, let's improvise!"

Bob is adorable in a way. He has good intentions but his sausage fingers just aren't working any bike magic. I am now breathing heavily out my own nose. I ask Bob where the closest bike shop is. A man behind me says, "Chippewa Falls. It's about 22 miles South." The silver fox goes by the name, Chuck. "Why don't you throw that outfit into my pick up and I'll take you there."

Chuck is a lifesaver. A guidance counselor at Cornell High School, he is already on summer break and the only thing on his Friday schedule was mowing lawn. He didn't mind putting that off for a quick trip to 'the city.'

Joe Wawrzaszek (common spelling), owner of Spring Street Sports in Chippewa Falls fixes me quick. He replaces the other cable for good measure and only charges me $10. He also gives me the name of Pastor Barry Boyer from First Presbyterian Church. I meet the pastor down the street. He makes a Xerox copy of my I.D. and gives me a key. "That'll get you in any of the church doors. Have a nice stay."

I love Chippewa Falls.

Eichstedt and Larsen top alternate shot field at HEK

BY JUDY HARLOW
Statesman Correspondent
jharlow@kewaskumstatesman.com

Player of the Year competition got underway at Hon-E-Kor Country Club on Sunday, with 16 men's teams and six mixed teams playing in an alternate shot format.

Leading the way in the men's 18-hole Championship play were Tom Larsen and Clark Eichstedt, who combined for a net score of 75.32 (with handicap), which is 5-over par. The former Farmington Elementary School administrator and former KHS golf and basketball standout finished two shots ahead of the team of Dan Gibbon and Larry Sterr, who came in at 77.6.

Taking third place was the team of Barry Bailiff and Dan Coulter, who shot a 79, then came Mike Herrick and Paul Herrick, who carded an 80.4. Dave and Mike Smith finished fifth at 82.2.

The Larsen-Eichstedt duo shot a gross score of 75, which was three shots ahead of the 78 by Sterr and Gibbon.

In the Men's First Flight, it was Carey Wolf and Dave Carey combining for a 76.6, beating the brother team of Gary and Tony Curreri, by a couple shots. The Curreris came in at 79.2, which was .4 of a stroke ahead of Whitey Cross and Butch Ritzman's 79.6.

The best gross score in this division was an 81 by Wolf and Carey.

The battle for the top spot in the mixed flight narrowed down to the Averills and the Kleinkes, with Carol and Rick Averill narrowly edging Diane and Jim Kleinke, 80.0 to 80.6.

Taking third place with an 83.68 were Joe and Roxanne Volesky, then came Kelly and Kevin Marquardt with their 85.96. (While most women sit in rocking chairs during the final weeks of their pregnancies, Kelly continues to play golf and is playing quite well, despite her altered swing for Baby Marquardt, who was expected to arrive this week.)

The best gross score was the 89 by the Averills.

All the top place winners received gift certificates and points, which are accumulated throughout the four tournament series. The next competition, a bestball, will be held Sunday, July 10th.

The defending champion in the Player of the Year competition is Roxie Volesky. Her husband Joe won the title in 2003, and the champ in the first year of this competition was Jim Kleinke.

Sparks finishes 22nd in NCAA discus field

BY JUDY HARLOW
Statesman Correspondent
jharlow@kewaskumstatesman.com

After experiencing a great deal of success this spring, former Kewaskum High track and field standout Charlie Sparks saw his season come to a bit of a disappointing conclusion.

At the NCAA Division 1 Track and Field Meet held last weekend in Sacramento, Calif., Sparks was unable to duplicate the effort he had in the recent Mideast Regional. As a result he failed to qualify for the finals of the discus event.

At the Regionals, which were held in Bloomington, Ind., Sparks' best throw sailed 181 feet, 6 inches (181-6), and in Sacramento, he had to settle for a toss of 173-3 in the three preliminary throws each competitor was given.

Sparks hit the 173-3 on his final toss to finish eighth out of nine in Flight I. There were 27 men who advanced to the NCAA meet in Sacramento, and Sparks' 173-3 put him in 22nd place overall.

Sparks' parents, Karen and Ben, traveled to California to see the competition.

Sparks will now return to Kewaskum for the summer. He has an internship to work for the C.G. Schmidt Construction Company in Milwaukee.

In the fall, he will return to Indiana State to complete work on his construction management major and business administration minor. And Sparks will have one more shot to return to the NCAA showcase meet and take aim at a top-10 finish.

A's hand Oaks their first loss; Ziegler sparkles in shutout effort

It was nearly a perfect week!

The Kewaskum Athletics home talent baseball team won two out of the three games it played last week. The A's only loss was a heartbreaking 3-2 decision to Clyman on Saturday in a game that went 12 innings. Surrounding the tough loss were a commanding 15-0 decision over host Plymouth in the Plymouth Tournament and a solid 7-0 shutout over previously unbeaten Oakfield in a Rock River game played Sunday.

"They were 7-0 going into the game," Jason Strobel, the player/manager for the A's said Sunday night, reporting Jim Ziegler pitched an excellent game for his team. In eight innings, Ziegler scattered eight hits and struck out eight Oaks. Strobel called on Bob Findlay to finish up the ninth, and he had no trouble closing the door on the Oaks, according to Strobel.

"He (Findlay) struck out a guy, gave up a single and then struck out the next two," Strobel said, happy the ninth went quickly because it was very hot and humid Sunday.

Kewaskum gave Ziegler good support, starting out with three runs in the bottom of the first. First, Cory Immel drove in a run with his single, then Strobel helped the cause with a big 2-run homer, and just like that, the A's were up 3-0.

Kewaskum had 16 hits in the contest, with Immel going 3x5, Josh Parrent 3x5 and Strobel 2x5.

Immel homered in the third, and the A's "kind of put the game away" with three runs in the sixth. Driving in runs in that inning were Parrent and Jake Spaeth (2).

Strobel said Immel is batting "well over .400" and now has three homers for the year. "As a team, we are hitting over .300, and Ziegler has gone 33 innings in a row without giving up an earned run. His ERA (earned run average) is 1.5."

In Saturday's Tri-County game, Kewaskum had seven hits but just couldn't put enough together to get the extra run it needed.

In the top of the 12th, Clyman started with a single, bunted the runner to second and scored when a ground ball hit a rock and bounced over the shortstop's head.

Kewaskum was not able to mount any threat in the bottom of the 12th.

Brandon Banton drove in one of the A's run and went 2x5 for the game. Mike Mueller of West Bend, who recently got cut by the Atlanta Braves, is joining the A's for Tri-County games. He went 2x5, with a double.

Findlay took the loss after going the final three innings. Jake Panzer started and gave up just three hits before being relieved.

At Plymouth on Wednesday, the A's got good efforts from all the hitters and from pitcher Jeremy Schmidt, who gave up just three hits and struck out six in six innings before the game was called.

"Everybody on the team got a hit," Strobel said, reporting Ty Schill, Parrent and Findlay each had three hits, and Immel also had three hits with a home run.

The A's connected for three dingers, including 3-run shots by Adam Sarauer and Banton.

With results from last week, the A's are 3-2 in Tri-County action, 5-3 in the RR, which puts them in a tie for third place, and 9-5 overall.

"We're playing well," Strobel said, reporting the team did not have a single error over the weekend.

The A's were scheduled to play Saukville in the Plymouth Tournament on Wednesday night, then they host Brownsville and Rubicon in what Strobel called "two very big games" on Saturday and Sunday. Both those games will be played at Kiwanis Park.

Parrent's grand slam is the ticket to extending Indians' winning streak

It's always good to have an experienced player behind the plate, and Kewaskum coach Dave Donath is confident in the efforts of Jon Olla, shown squeezing the ball after one of the Jets watched a pitch go by in one of Friday's games.

The combination of strong pitching and timely hitting is difficult to beat in high school baseball, and the Kewaskum High Indians have been displaying both in recent games, including their 6-3 and 9-5 wins over visiting Roncalli last Friday evening.

Matt Parrent was the man-of-the-hour for the Indians in the nightcap, with a grand slam home run in the bottom of the seventh with no outs.

"We were up 5-0, had things pretty well in command, and then it was 7-5 (in the Jets' favor)," KHS Coach Dave Donath said, reporting Parrent, who is coming off a broken leg he suffered during the basketball season, came through in a big way with a ball that curled around the foul pole in left field.

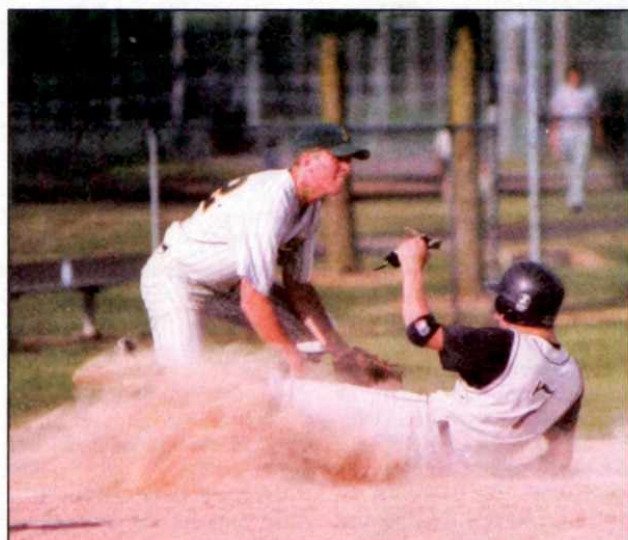

"It wasn't fair by much," Donath said, reporting the 6-4 sophomore outfielder/pitcher also had a triple to lead off the fourth inning and scored on a ground out.

Kewaskum used three pitchers to notch their fifth victory in a row. Jon Roskopf started and went three innings. "He was tired," Donath said, referring to the heat and the fact Roskopf pitched several innings in the first game.

Next Donath brought in freshman John Holt, who went two innings. "Then he got tired," Donath said, so he put Parrent on the mound for the first time this season. While Parrent was "a little wild," and gave up three earned runs, he was good enough to finish up and get the win, thanks to his homer.

Garrett Donath went 3x3 in Kewaskum High sophomore Dan Shea take a throw from the outfield, but the Roncalli runner is safe at third base in the seventh inning of Friday's first game of their doubleheader. The Indians won both games, the first one by a score of 6-3 and the nightcap 9-7.

the nightcap, and he had a pair of RBI.

Also, Dan Shea was 2x4, with a 2-run homer in the fifth. "That was his second one," Donath said, reporting the team currently has four for the year.

In the opener, Josh Meyer held the Jets in check and picked up the win after pitching 41/3 solid innings.

Kewaskum scored a pair of runs in the second and three more in the third to take control of the game. First baseman Ross Stockhausen and second baseman Garrett Donath both went 2x3, while Casey Scheel had two hits in two official trips to the plate. The Indians had a total of nine hits.

Donath wound up driving in three runs, while Stockhausen, Meyer and Parrent also came up with RBI hits.

Donath brought junior Jon Roskopf in to pitch the 2 and 2/3s innings. He had a little trouble in the seventh, giving up an RBI double by Chris Vogel and an RBI single to Jon Seier, then he got John Wolff to fly out to Parrent in left field for the final out.

With the two wins, the Indians are 5-2 in EWC action and 9-3 overall.

Indians take care of business, blast two EWC foes

BY JUDY HARLOW

Whatever the parents of the Kewaskum High baseball players were feeding their boys last week, coach Dave Donath wants them to continue ... and in double portions.

The Indians exploded for 25 runs in back-to-back victories on Monday and Thursday, including a 14-1 decision over arch rival Campbellsport and an 11-1 thumping of previously unbeaten New Holstein.

The Indians had two home runs against the host Campbellsport team, a 2-run shot by sophomore Dan Shea and a big blast by Ross Stockhausen in the same inning.

"Those two balls were well hit," Donath said about Stockhausen's home and the triple he hit in his previous at bat. Kewaskum ended up with 15 base hits, according to the coach's totals.

Shea had a perfect night at the plate, going 3x3, with 2 RBI, and the Indians' leadoff man, Josh Meyer, contributed two hits, which were good for 3 RBI.

Also, Matt Parrent went 2x3, with a double and an RBI, and Logan Staeger went 1x3, with three RBI. His single drove in a pair of runs in the fifth, and when he grounded out in the first, a run scored.

While the final score is very lopsided, the game was close for the first couple of innings when the game had all the markings of a pitchers' duel between Abe Foerster and the Cougars' Trevor Schill.

"I guess he (Schill) did something to his arm," Donath said. "When he left, it was 1-1 in the top of the third.

Cameron Salter came in to take Schill's spot on the mound, but he lasted just 1 1/3 innings, then two other Cougars pitched before the game was called via the 10-run "mercy rule."

Foerster went all five innings, scattering five hits, walking three and striking out three. The win was his third this spring against just one loss.

The win put the Indians' record in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference at 4-2.

* New Holstein came into Kewaskum riding the crest of a three-game win streak, and left with its first EWC loss.

Jon Roskopf earned the win, giving up five hits, while striking out four and walking four. Andrew Depies took the loss. He gave up five runs (three earned) in 4 and 1/3 innings.

Meyer was 3x4, with three runs scored, a stolen base and an RBI. Shea was 2x3, with a double, a stolen base and an RBI; Staeger had two hits and four trips to the plate with a double, stolen base and an RBI, and Casey Scheel was 2x3, with an RBI.

Meyer and Shea have just been hitting the cover off the ball, according to Donath, who said, "They're both right around .500, I would say."

This game was also close for a while. KHS led 3-1 going into the bottom of the fifth, then exploded for four runs in the fifth and sixth innings.

In the fifth, after a Nate

Steiner single, a sacrifice bunt by Garrett Donath and a walk to Jake Junk, Scheel, Meyer, Shea and Staeger also singled runs in.

Roskopf, a junior, stayed out of serious trouble, to improve to 3-0 in his first season on the varsity. "He's got a good fastball," Donath said, indicating Roskopf also throws a nice change-up and a curve. "He got behind on a couple hitters ... not too many though."
