County prepared to handle Wednesday snowstorm

Washington County Highway Commissioner Ken Pesch says his crews are ready to handle the up to six inches of snow predicted for Washington County Wednesday, December 14. Pesch says the highway department will have large crews of plows on the roads at peak travel times in the morning and afternoon. He reminds motorists to drive cautiously in the snow and to proceed with caution around plow trucks. "If you can't see the driver in his side mirror on the truck, he can't see you," Pesch warns. Wisconsin state law states that drivers must remain behind plow trucks at least 200 feet. Kewaskum's Department of Public Works director Jerry Gillies says he will have crews plowing until 3:30 Wednesday and then another crew will go out after the snow stops to clean up for morning saveles Kewaskum school officials ended classes at 1 pm due to curren conditions and predicted accumulation.

KEWASKUM- It looks like the Kewaskum Board of Education will get to use their new board member policy sooner than expected. Political newcomer Bill Kesting has won a special recall election 3-1.

Almost one thousand people turned out for the special vote and paper ballot results were official by 9:15 pm.

"I think it went better then we dreamed. I think 3-1 is definitely a statement by the school district that they want a change and that they want someone representing them that will watch their money so it gets spent in the right place," stated Kesting Wednesday morning.

Kesting will be sworn in to office on Tuesday, December 20. His first board meeting will be a closed session meeting regarding the hiring of a district superintendent of schools.

When asked what was first on his agenda, he stated, "First will be training, I have a lot of training to do, I have to learn what I can and can't do and what is expected of me.

Kesting said he was appreciative of all the voters who turned out Tuesday. School board vet-

2007 Bruce Braidigan, chairman of Northern Unit Kettle Moraine Citizens for Responsible Government who was responsible for the recall, stated "The people made a difference, they spoke and all the people who worked on the recall did a great job."

Braidigan says they will work on recalling board clerk, Jeanne Goeden, "She's the bigger fish in the pond," he said.

KEWASKUM- Village of Kewaskum Trustees decided to stick with what they have when it came to hiring a full-time paid fire chief. Volunteer fire chief Mark Groeschel was the board's final candidate. He will continue his duties, now with a paycheck, starting January 3.

Groeschel, who was the only applicant for the position, will be paid an annual salary of $41,936. He will receive health and life insurance benefits. Kewaskum Rescue Squad revenues will pay 20 percent of the hired chief's salary. This will be reviewed annually.

"In general, I am very pleased with how this went, I think the board did a good job in deliberating all the circumstances, I think the Fire Department did a wonderful job of adjusting in a period transition and I think the fire and police commission did a great job of working with our community. He (Groeschel) has served the community a long time and has done an excellent job at it," stated Village president, Mathew Heiser.

In late October the board advertised for the position and took favorable action on an ordinance dissolving the Kewaskum Fire Company, a nonprofit corporation as of December 31, 2005 and creating the Kewaskum Fire Department to take over on January 1, 2006. All individuals holding positions with the fire company will take over those same positions with the fire department.

Groeschel will be responsible for day-to-day administration, supervision and management of the Kewaskum Fire Department. The chief would plan, organize, direct and review all major activities of the Department, including fire suppression and prevention, emergency medical services, fire education, fire safety and inspections, support services, community development and emergency government coordination.

In order to help with the cost of hiring such an individual the Village has applied for a SAFER grant offered by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security. The purpose of the SAFER grant is to award grants directly to volunteer com-See: Kewaskum hires chief

Kewaskum man in critical condition after severe beating at dairy farm

By Andrew Kuehl Statesman Managing Editor akuehl@kewaskur

TOWN of KEWASKUM- The Washington County Sheriff's Department has requested two counts of felony reckless injury charges for a 34-yearold Kewaskum man for allegedly beating two Village of Kewaskum brothers. One of the two victims is in critical condition at Froedtert Hospital in Milwaukee, the other remains at St. Joseph's Hospital in the town of Polk.

Washington County Sheriff's deputies were called to the William Thull farm on Monday, December 12, 2005, at approximately 11:42 pm after they received a 911 call in regards to two male subjects who had been severely beaten at the dairy farm on County H in the Town of Kewaskum.

Upon arrival, deputies discovered two Village of Kewaskum brothers, Ramon Sanchez, 35 and Rosando Sanchez. 26, who had been struck several times in the head. Ramon was unconscious and bleeding profusely. Rosando was semi-conscious but also bleeding from a head wound. The brothers were both transported by Kewaskum Rescue to St. Joseph's Hospital in the town of Polk. Ramon was subsequently transported by Flight for Life to Froedtert Hospital where he underwent surgery and is currently in a neuro-intensive care unit. Rosando was treated and admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital.

It is believed at this time, that the brothers were engaged in milking cows when the lights suddenly extinguished in the milking parlor. At that time, Rosando went to an adjacent room to check the circuit breaker where someone then struck him on the head, knocking him to the floor. Within moments, Ramon entered the room and was also struck on the head knock ing him unconscious. Within minutes. Rosando was able to summon assistance from a third employee, Gabriel Sanchez, 28, their sister, who was working in a different area of the barn. Gabriel then ran to a nearby house and requested a rescue squad.

Sheriff's Deputies learned of two possible suspects who were interviewed in regards to the crimes. One of the suspects, a 34-year-old Kewaskum man, confessed to beating the brothers with a length of pipe. This suspect stated that he believed he was about to be fired from his employer due to statements the victims had made to their employer about the suspect. The second suspect was released and is not believed to have been involved.

Washington Assistant County District Attorney Mark Benson was expected to deliver charges to the Kewaskum man Wednesday, December 14.

Plan Commission sends nod on annexation, zoning advised

By Andrew Kuehl Statesman Managing Editor

akuehl@kewaskumstatesman

KEWASKUM- The Village of Kewaskum Planning Commission saw more growth for the village at their meeting, Tuesday, December 6. Commissioners reviewed a 53-unit apartment complex and concept plans for 190 acres being annexed to the village along both sides of County Road H west.

The three floor, 53 unit multi-family building pro-posal was presented to the commission over a year and half ago from J.B.J. Companies of Germantown but changes forced another review by the commission. The company will be building "The Courtney" at the corner of Courtney and Bonnie Lanes. Entrance to the building will come off of Bonnie Lane.

Their website says J.B.J. Companies has been in business for over 30 years. The company has residential, industrial and commercial developments in Washington and Waukesha Counties and specializes in rentals, condominiums and single-family homes

One of the developments in the 190 acres being brought into the village is at the corner of Kettle View Drive and County Road H also known as the Willard Prost Farm. In that parcel, 80 acres is being urbanized by Mensch LLC of West Bend. The development has 20 multi-family buildings with five units in each building, 80 single-family homes and 13 duplex units.

According to Village Ad-ministrator Dan Schmidt, the village board will act formally on the annexation and rezoning of the annexed land as favorably advised by the commissioners at the January 23 board meeting. The Plan Commission advised the board to rezone the land Residential-Multi-Family, Residential Duplex and Residential Single Family.

Gary Gavin will be developing the remaining 110 acres directly across from the Prost farm into a planned unit development (PUD). Commissioners approved a concept plan and advised zoning should be Residential Duplex.

An addition to Kiwanis Park, in the form of a soccer field will abut the Gavin development. Kettle View Drive will proceed north from County Road H to Kiwanis Park. There will also be additional parking for the park.

COMMUNITY Check out UWWC's Library

Did you know that the UW-Washington County open to the public? According to library director Marc Boucher the library is UWWC's best kept secret.

"Our library is open to the public, community members are welcome to come visit our library and can check out our library books. They just need to sign up for a library card which is an easy process," says Boucher

A drivers license and a short form are all it takes for the library card. Boucher says the process takes just a few Community memminutes. bers until the age of 18 need to have a parents signature on the form to be able to get a community card.

All users have access to the research databases which includes an extensive list of research tools including many full-text databases. "We en-courage high school students to become familiar with our resources and are happy to help them with their research needs," Boucher says.

Several programs are offered during the semester that are open to the community including a Poetry Series, a book discussion series, a literature lecture series and a fiction reading series.

The library is open during the semester Monday-Thursday 8 am to 10 pm. Friday 8 am to 4:30 pm. Sunday12:30-4:30. The library is closed Saturdays. During breaks the hours are posted on theirwebsite. Rep. LeMahieu continues fight for county nursing homes

A bill authored by Rep-resentative Daniel LeMahieu (R-Oostburg) and Senator Joe Leibham (R-Sheboygan) that could provide much-needed assistance to struggling county nursing homes passed out of the Joint Finance Committee yesterday on a 14-1 vote.

Thanks to the leadership of Representative LeMahieu and Senator Leibham, we are one step closer to providing desperately needed relief to county homes and to the property taxpayers," said Craig M. Thompson, WCA Legisla-tive Director. "We look forward to continuing our work with them, as well as with the entire Legislature, to ensure county homes are able to still provide care for our state's most vulnerable citizens."

The legislation, Assembly Bill 802, was authored on behalf of the Wisconsin Counties Association (WCA) and would ensure that county nursing homes around the state would be able to receive additional federal reimbursement dollars for their Medicaid costs

AB 802 would direct these unanticipated federal revenues for Medicaid residents in county nursing homes back to counties. These federal dollars are in excess of what was budgeted by the state. Currently, when these monies come back to Wisconsin, the state can use them for purposes other than reimbursing the counties that incurred the County nursing homes are currently struggling due to the fact that they saw no rate increase in the last state budget. This affects counties tremendously because they provide care for a greater percentage of residents on Medicaid than other non-county nursing homes. When the rates fail to cover the costs of care, the remainder has to be picked up by the property tax.

"All levels of government are facing budget difficulties and there are no easy answers," said Thompson. "While some may want to use this money for other purposes. Senator Leibham and Representative LeMahieu are committed to doing the right thing and returning these federal funds back to counties and to the property taxpayers. The residents of Sheboygan and all counties owe them a debt of gratitude."

COMMUNITY St. Matthew Parish's Father Neil puts the Christ back in Christmas with home decorating

The St. Matthew parsonage is shown decorated beautifully outside. The inside however is a site for those wanting a true CHRISTmas. Father Neil opens his home at 128 Helena Street in Campbellsport every Sunday for visitors.

By Amy Swanson

Statesman Correspondent aswanson@kewaskumstatesman

Hundreds of guests will visit Father Neil Zinthefer's house for Christmas. That's not usual. That's tradition.

For the past five years, Father Neil has invited the community to his house every Sunday in December for a Christmas open house that is truly a Christmas experience.

"Every year it gets a little more extravagant," said Fa-ther Neil, who started his open house tradition with his previous parish in Fredonia.

"You have to see it to believe it ... I enjoy having it available for people to come through. It's a great way to get into the Christmas spirit."

Father Neil, who does all the decorating for the open house himself, said he starts planning every January. This year, he had all his plans set by late summer because he was traveling in Europe and Israel in fall.

"I do the whole house," he said. "It's really something you have to see ... this year I have 200 fiber optic angels." Not to mention the 30 Christmas trees.

He said the focus this year is on putting Christ back into Christmas. "It's the real meaning of Christmas, not the holiday...It's very blatant Christmas. It's Christ-centered."

Nativity scenes and angels help guide the theme of the Spirit of Christmas through the decorated rectory.

There's something for evervone. "Kids tend to focus in on certain things, so I have a couple of mechanical things. Everyone seems to focus on something. They have different tastes. Everyone will find something they like."

'That's the reason I do To get everyone in the Christmas spirit," he said.

WE Energies to be on hand at all stores Sunday to give energy saving tips

Tennies Ace Hardware will be part of rebate program from WE Energies

By Andrew Kuehl Statesman Managing Editor

akuehl@kewaskumstat

David Tennies, manager at Kewaskum's Ace Hardware store says he is pleased that all three of his family's stores are participating in a special program from WE Energies. The rebate gives gifts cards for dollars spent on energy savings products purchased in their stores.

WE Energies says gas prices are increasing this winter because of increased demand, decreased supply, and the effects of recent hurricanes all have combined to significantly increase natural gas prices on the open market. Currently, the market price for natural gas is approximately 70 percent higher than one year ago.

The damage to the natural gas production infrastructure in the Gulf of Mexico from Hurricane Katrina is expected to continue to drive up costs in the future months. Natural gas price projections for the 2005-2006 heating season suggest retail prices will climb 40 to 80 percent above last year's levels.

HOME HOW-TO

Any WE Energies residential gas customer living in Wisconsin is eligible for the rebate. You can participate regardless of whether you rent or own your home. The products elibible for the rebates are: Energy-efficient (lowflow) showerheads

- Furnace air filters

- Attic insulation batts

-Caulking, weather stripping, and other duct/airsealing products

- Programmable thermostats.

See www.we-energies. com for a complete list of qualifying products.

The rebate be issued by mail. WE Energies will mail you a gift card when you complete an application with proof of purchase. The gift card will contain a value of roughly half of the purchase cost of approved products. The maximum you can receive is $50. The incentive structure is as follows:

· Spend $25 on qualifying products, and receive a $10 gift card to participating retailer.

· Spend $50 on qualifying products, and receive a $25 gift card to participating retailer.

 Spend $100 or more on qualifying products, and receive a $50 gift card to participating retailer.

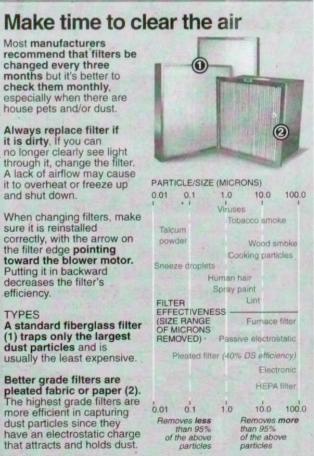

There a time limit on the promotion. Consumers must apply between December 3, 2005, and January 31, 2006. The rebate period may end sooner if rebate supplies are depleted before January 31, and applications will be received on a first-come, firstserved basis.

Tennies says for more information you can contact anyone at the Tennies stores

The WE Energies representative will be at all three of the stores from 11 am to 3 pm on Sunday, December 18. Please see their ad below for locations.

Systems share almost $15 million

Local library systems receive state aid

tions

MADISON-Wisconsin's 17 federated public library systems received the first of two state aid payments for 2006, totaling nearly $15 million, to support cooperative local, regional, and state efforts to share library resources and improve public library service statewide.

"Public libraries are the cornerstone of our democracy and an important component in the engine of economic development," said State Superintendent Elizabeth Burmaster in announcing the aid payments.

State aid to public library systems for 2006 operations totals $14,908,600 and is the primary state program sup-porting public library service statewide. All of the state's 387 independent public libraries are members of a public library system. The library systems assure that all Wisconsin residents have access to library services and help libraries provide higher levels of service while avoiding un-necessary service duplication. Each system's regional board develops plans for using funds to meet system needs.

Across the state, library system services include:

 Ensuring that system residents have complete ac-cess to all public libraries within the system area. State residents made 31.8 million visits to public libraries and checked out nearly 57 million items last year.

 Coordinating the loan of library materials among participating libraries to meet user needs. Annually, 4.8 million items are sent from one public library to another library in response to users' requests and are delivered by delivery system-supported networks.

· Providing training and continuing education for local library staff to help them provide the best possible service to their communities.

· Coordinating cooperative library technology projects. More than 80 percent of the state's public libraries now participate in shared computer systems, and all libraries provide public access to computers with Internet connec-

Mid-Wisconsin Federated Library System which serves Dodge, Jefferson, and Washington counties received $749,170.

· Eastern Shores Library System, which serves Ozaukee and Sheboygan counties received $574,518

 Winnefox Federated Library System, serving Fond du Lac, Green Lake, Marquette, Waushara, and Winnebago counties received $879,718.

Sex offender's addresses now available online

The Wisconsin Department of Corrections have added addresses of sex offenders listed on their website. Gov. Jim Dovle directed the Department of Corrections to list the addresses as part of a large initiative aimed at keeping an eve on sex offenders in the state

The online registry started in 1997 and lists 17,800 sex offenders who are required by law to notify the state of their whereabouts. Many states already list addresses on their sex offender registries.

The online registry can be found at http://offender.doc. state.wi.us/public

Three FDL County Board members not seeking re-election

Three Fond du Lac County Board supervisors have turned non-candidacy in papers. Timothy Baumhardt- District seven, William Sawyer- District 33 and Delores Ruedinger-District 19 say they will not seek another term.

Officials say that so far 23 supervisors have taken out nomination papers. Fond du Lac County has 36 supervisor seats on their board.

Two supervisors have already turned in their papers, Daniel Klawitter- District 24 and Richard Flood- District 30

Dodge County Sheriff moves to new office

JUNEAU— The Dodge County Sheriffs Department has moved to their new facility at 124 West Street in Juneau The new building is directly south of the former building. All operations have ceased at the old building on Main Street.

Visitors to the department should access the building off West Street and park in the courthouse parking lot behind the former Sheriff's Department building.

Though callers will find an automated phone answering system, all phone numbers have remained the same.

EVENTS

'The Promise of a King' Cantata Dec. 16 and 18

Participate in the sounds of this sacred season and experience the real meaning of Christmas with Promise of a King" cantata in Campbellsport. The cantata will be performed Friday, December 16, at 6 p.m. at St. Joseph Convent on Mill Street and Sunday, December 18 at 2 p.m. at St. Matthew Church at the corner of Main and Helena Streets. Joan Wuest is the director of the large choir and Joanne Silbernagel directs the children's choir. Members of the children's choir are Cassidy Erickson, Brett Flasch, Anna Gardner, Tessa Goulais, Emily Guell, Hannah Hartman, Lena Klumb, Brookes Martin, Jodi Newhauser and Jodi Schrauth, all students at St. Matthew School. Other choirs participating in the group are from Salem United Church of Christ in Wayne, Tabor United Methodist Church in Eden, Shepherd of the Hills Catholic Church in Eden, St. Joseph Convent, St. Matthew Church, United Christian Church of Campbellsport, St. Martin Church of Ashford and a Milwaukee church. Members have been practicing since October for this annual event. Many of your favorite carols will also be performed. This is a FREE concert, with a collection being taken for the local food pantry.

Kettle Moraine Youth Orchestra and children's choir concert Dec. 18

Share the joys of the holidays with the area's talented young musicians! The Kettle Moraine Youth Strings Or-chestra (KMYSO) and the Kettle Moraine Children's Choir (KMCC) will host a Holiday Concert on Sunday, December 18 at 3 p.m. in the Buth A Knoll Theater of the Schauer Arts and Activities Center.

The KMYSO, under the direction of new conductor, Eric Huckstep, prepares student musicians for advancement to a high school level orchestra program. "I look forward to presenting our music and our group to the Hartford community. This group is won-derful—I truly look forward to seeing all the students every week-to see and hear the results of all their hard work, patience and practice," he said. Huckstep is the Orchestra and Music teacher at Hartford's Central Middle School. According to Huckstep, the KMYSO will be playing tradi-tional holiday songs like "Still, Still, Still" and the "Christmas Quatrain," fun selections like "Fumble Fingers" and "Happy Strings", along with classical Strings," along with classical pieces from Handel.

The Kettle Moraine Children's Choir, under the direction of returning conductor Andereck, Susan nurtures young children in choral fun-damentals and provides opportunities for artistic, creative and personal growth through choral musical performances. "This is the biggest group we've ever had and everyone is really excited to be singing with the Orchestra," Andereck "This year, the Orchessaid. tra and Children's Choir will share the stage for the entire show, so it will be nice for the children to hear each other perform." The Choir will be singing a mix of music, from traditional to spirited, and will include the audience in a sing-along. A reception with complimentary holiday treats will follow the concert.

"What a wonderful way to hear your holiday favorites performed by the areas best young musicians and singers," said Thomas Robbins, Executive Director of the Schauer Center. "Playing in front of an audience is an important part of the learning process and something the kids really look forward to," Robbins added. Tickets for the event are $5 each and can be purchased at the Schauer Center. 147 North Rural Street in Hartford. Tickets are also available for credit card purchase by phone at 262-670-0560 ext. 3 or online www.schauercenter.org. Schauer Center Box Office hours are Monday through Friday from 11:30 am - 5:30 pm.

If your children would like to join the fun, both groups will hold auditions for the next sessions, which begin in January. The KMYSO will hold auditions on Wednesday, January 18 at 5:30 p.m. and the KMCC auditions will be held on Sunday, January 15 at 4 p.m. Both auditions will be held, by appointment, at the Schauer Arts and Activities Center in downtown Hartford. As part of the spring session, the KMCC is tentatively planning a weekend tour to Minneapolis and St. Paul in March as part of a cultural exchange. Last spring, a children's choir from that area visited the Schauer Center and performed with the KMCC in the Spring Concert. Please call 262-670-0560 ext. 6 for more information or to schedule an audition.

With the state-of-the-art Ruth A. Knoll Theater and the Suckow Family Art Gallery, the Schauer Arts and Activities Center is the Kettle Moraine's regional center for the arts, staging professional, touring performances, as well as performances by area schools and by its four resident groups: The Kettle Moraine Symphony, The Hartford Players, The Hartford City Band and the Hartford Community Chorus. The Schauer Center also offers classes for all ages in the visual and performing arts.

KMS band concert Dec. 19

It's time, once again, for the Kewaskum Middle School Bands to present their Christmas concert and for the parents of the new sixth grade musicians to see if their children really can make music on those instruments.

The concert will be held on Monday, December 19, at 7:00 pm in the KMS gym. All sixth, seventh and eighth grade band members will be performing in groups from small to very large.

The KMS jazz band will play a few "pop" tunes and the percussion ensemble will continue a three-year tradition of performing a unique rendition of a familiar song. The concert is free and all are invited to enjoy the spirit of the season.

PERSPECTIVES

The United States government has wisely refused to yield to pressure by other industrialized nations to enter into formal negotiations that would create new binding limits on so-called "greenhouse-gas" emissions to take effect in 2012. The government did, however, agree to engage in "open and nonbinding" discussions with 200 other nations on global warming and carbon dioxide emissions. The Bush administration

The Bush administration deserves enormous credit for resisting this thinly disguised attempt to disadvantage America economically under the pretext of environmentalism and the pseudo-science of global warming. Scientists cannot even agree on whether global temperatures are rising, falling or staying the same, much less find scientific consensus on what might account for any changes in average temperatures. The administration should use these discussions to unmask the hostile, anti-American agenda that lies beneath this nonsense.

According to Fred Singer, University of Virginia scientist and professor emeritus, the data on global temperature are ambiguous, at best. The climate clearly warmed between 1900 and 1940, long before modern industrial activity consumed much energy. Between 1940 and 1975, when industrial carbon emissions accelerated, the climate cooled and then warmed again for a brief five years. Since then, the most reliable data indicate the climate has been cooling just slightly.

has been cooling just slightly. "Certainly," Singer says, "it has not been warming ... and there is no evidence that man is causing the warming." The most persuasive data

The most persuasive data on global temperature changes point to variable solar activity as the driving force in cyclical temperature changes on Earth. All of the "evidence" pointing to global warming comes from surface-temperature readings that are contaminated by other factors, such as urban "heat-island" effects.

Britain's chief scientific adviser Sir David King bellows, "Global warming is a greater threat than terrorism" and "Antarctica is likely to be the world's only habitable continent by the end of this century if global warming remains unchecked." Yet the only basis for these claims - The Washington Post proclaimed that global warming constitutes "one of the world's most far-reaching problems" is a set of computer-model predictions.

The only problem is, the computer-model predictions are not backed up by independent data from weather satellites and balloons, which show no appreciable warming of the atmosphere. Worse yet, the same computer models that predict catastrophic global warming in the future also "predict" current climatic conditions almost the opposite of those that actually prevail. The computer models on which global-warming doomsayers rely insist the climate in the middle troposphere, i.e., above the surface, should be warming at the rate of about one degree Fahrenheit per decade right now.

If the models don't even square with what's going on now in the real world, how can any reasonable person place confidence in what they predict for the future, especially if taking action based on those dubious predictions means inflicting incredible damage on the economy and consigning people to a declining standard of living?

The calls for radical reductions in carbon emissions are a frontal attack on American global economic pre-eminence and a pretext for replacing the current international system of sovereign nation states with a global government possessing the far-reaching authority to engage in economic leveling and redistribution.

The best statement of this agenda can be found in a Harper's magazine article by Bill McKibben titled "The Great Leap." McKibben excoriates former President George H.W. Bush for announcing on his way to the international meetings in Rio that gave birth to the Kyoto Global Warming Accords that "the American way of life is not up for negotiation." That statement, according to McKibben, "defines a tragedy."

McKibben revealed the real agenda behind Kyoto and its progeny when he said, "The goal of the 21st century must somehow be to simultaneously develop the economies of the poorest parts of the world and undevelop those of the rich - to transfer enough technology and wealth that we're able to meet somewhere in the middle."

Global warming is not really about the global climate at all; it's about global government turning the whole world into Old Europe or stagnating Japan. This most recent round of eco-hysteria - along with its predecessors - is simply a thinly veiled effort to do by international treaty, and eventually global government, what Communism failed to do, namely define global prosperity down in the name of "equality." The Bush administration is doing the right thing by standing astride the rush to environmental extremism and calling "stop."

Lessons Learned at Village Board Meeting

Recently my daughter, Kerrie, for a high school homework assignment had to attend a local government board meeting. She chose to go to a Kewaskum Village Board meeting to see how local communities are run. I accompanied her.

Here's the lesson we both learned and took from this meeting. We learned you have to stand up for your personal property, rights and voice your concerns. No one else will do it for you.

We were both shocked and embarrassed by the actions, or lack of, by the village of Kewaskum board members.

A local family, Kurt and Debbie Schmidt were present to protect their personal property. The village of Kewaskum and their engineering company Reukurt & Mielke, have routed numerous storm drains on Prospect Drive to run onto the Schmidt's private property. Now their pond is being contaminated, and their backyard is at risk for flooding.

The village board members should be ashamed. They should have stepped up to the plate months ago and made Reukert & Mielke fix this problem they created. Who runs this village? Don't they have to answer to board members? Funny thing is, not one board member voiced a concern, asked a question, or shared their opinion. Not one word from any of the board members. No wonder the Schmidt family gets upset with them. They've been dealing with this kind of response for months. What an embarrassment and let down it was to see this village board in action. Or rather lack of action. Shame on you all!

Its sad how we are treating our local residents. Wouldn't it be nice if local developers and village administrators would

In the five years that I have worked at the library, there have been few people who have made me feel as welcome as David Stradtman. He was a constant source of encouragement, always with a kind word and insightful comments.

When he joined the library board a few years ago, he brought with him a passion for learning and progress that helped get us through some big changes. He brought a dedication to hard work and fairness that was inspiring. He also brought a sharp wit and sense of humor that helped us not take ourselves too seriously.

ously. When I heard of Dave's passing today, I immediately thought of his courage in the face of his suffering and how, even while he was very sick, he still made the effort to come here and shake my hand and ask how I was doing. Dave was a very rare soul a truly good man and he will be sorely missed.

I trust that Dave's life of charity, strength, and kindness will continue to effect all of those with whom he came into contact family, friends, students, and community members.

There is a hushed and awed silence in the crowded room.

Suddenly, from the back of the room, the quiet, nasal voice of an elderly woman is heard, "So what did you do with the money?

Kiwanis Students of the Month

Ashley Feucht

Alexander Waranius

Ashley Feucht and Alexander Waranius were recently named Kiwanis Students of the Month for the month of December. Ashley is the daughter of Victoria Feucht and Jay Feucht. She has played tennis for four years and was voted co-captain this year. She also represented the tennis team on the homcoming court. Ashley also played fast pitch softball and basketball for two years. She participated in FHA, Forensics, Spanish Club, Student Council and Peers 4 Peers. Ashley also participated in the musicals her freshman and sophomore years. Currently, Ashley is on the yearbook staff as head sports editor. After graduation, Ashley plans on attending UW-Milwaukee to study Graphic Design. Alex is the son of Sandy and Scott Waranius. He is the senior class president and has maintained a 4.0 GPA throughout high school. During his sophomore year, Alex represented his class at the Wisconsin Leadership Seminar at Marion College. He's been on the football team four years and enjoyed the successful season this year. He has also played tennis all four years. Alex also participates in Swing choir and has played trumpet in the jazz band. He is a member of NHS, Peers 4 Peers, Student Council and the German and HOPE Clubs. Outside of school, Alex is an active member of Boy Scouts, where he just attained the rank of Eagle Scout and he volunteers for Habitat for Humanity. After graduation, Alex plans on attending MSOE to earn a degree in electrical engineering. Students and their parents were honored at a recent meeting of the Kewaskum Kiwanis Club.

Clothing and fashion students attend seminar

Fashion design and beginning clothing students attended a sewing seminar at Hancock Fabrics. At the close of the demonstration, a drawing was held and the prize went to Miranda Franzen, above left, a Kewaskum High School junior. The $79.99 valued decorative holiday item was presented by Maureen Fahey, right, Decorating Consultant for Hancock Fabrics.

Schrauth inducted into Golden Key Honour Society

Mark Schrauth

Mark Lawrence Schrauth of Allenton has accepted membership in Golden Key International Honour Society and was honored during a recent induction ceremony at the University of Wisconsin - Milwaukee.

"It is only fitting that a top academic achiever like Mark be recognized by Golden Key," said Alexander D. Perwich II, Golden Key's Chief Executive Officer. "Our members are inspired and motivated not only to achieve exceptional academic accomplishments, but also to make a positive impact on our world through the Society's commitment to service."

GoldenKey International Honour Society is the premier college/university honor so-than 1.5 million members in 334 chapters in the United States, Australia, Canada, Malaysia, South Africa and New Zealand. The global nonprofit organization provides academic recognition to college juniors and seniors in the top 15% of their class as well as leadership development opportunities, community service, career networking and scholarships. Membership into the Society is by invitation only, to students in all fields of study. Golden Key was founded in 1977 in Atlanta, Georgia. The Society is a member of ACHS, the Association of College Honor Societies.

ciety in the world, with more

Mark is the son of Alton and Rosemary Schrauth of Allenton. He is a 2001 graduate of Kewaskum High School. Besides becoming a member of the Golden Keys, Mark has also been inducted into Phi Alpha Theta, a national honor society recognizing excellence in the field of history, as well as Phi Kappa Phi, UW-Milwaukee's honor society. At MSOE, Mark was also a member of Delta Sigma Phi, a social/service fraternity. Mark will graduate from UWM in the spring of 2006. He plans to continue his studies at the graduate level and pursue a teaching/research career at a college or university.

Fashion design students donate chemotherapy turbans

Students in fashion design classes at Kewaskum High School made chemotherapy turbans as a community service project. The turbans were received by Erica Gaulke, survivorship coordinator for the East Region of the Midwest division of the American Cancer Society.

Students learned about the importance of their volunteer donation of time and talent as it contributed to the 2005 goals of "measurably improve the quality of life for people with cancer."

The American Cancer Society is the nationwide community based voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives and diminishing suffering from cancer through research, education, advocacy and service. The ACS is currently providing funding for 818 grants totaling $411,678,147. In Wisconsin alone, there are 17 grants totaling $9,077,000.

Cancer preventative masures that Erica shared with students included eat wisely, stay physically fit, avoid tanning beds and use sunscreen.

Beginners learn from the master St. Matthew's School

Students in beginning clothing classes at Kewaskum High School toured Reliable Knit and Florence Eiseman before attending an Outerwear Fleece demonstration at Hancock Fabrics. The tour ended at the home of Vern and Betty Suhr, to visit with Esther Suhr, a lifelong sewer and quilter. Students had the opportunity to view her well-organized sewing center and view some of the over 100 quilts and other items she has made over the years. Sewing as a lifelong skill "keeps your mind sharp" as Esther expressed it to the students. Quliting is a means of allowing her to mathematically skillfully utilize even the smallest scraps of fabric. Her model of frugality presented new opportunities for students to consider. Pictured above are, front row, left to right, Katrina Luther, Mary Koch (teacher) and Esther. Standing are: Maybeline Garcia, Ann Espetia, Kelcey Alexander, Ashley GOnia, Karee Raether, Alyssa Jung, Shaylah Haire, Rachel Koch, Kayla Wilkum, Emily Niemuth, Erica Martin, Courtney Meyer and Justin Ethier.

The Board of Directors of the Wisconsin Religious and Independent Schools Accreditation (WRISA) announced at its fall meeting that St. Matthew School of Campbellsport, achieved accreditation has from the association. St. Matthew School and over 245 other non-public schools have attained this distinction.

"We applaud the accom-plishments of St. Matthew School and commend it for maintaining the high stan-dards of the association," said Beatrice Weiland, Executive Director of WRISA. WRISA standards cover school philosophy, school and community relations, administration and governance, professional staff, school climate, curriculum, instructional materials and resources, student services, physical facilities and planning and management.

WRISA is a member of the National Federation of Nonpublic School State Accrediting Associations (NFNSSAA) Other state chapters include Arkansas, Michigan, Minnesota and Missouri. "Any Wisconsin school is eligible to apply to WRISA for entry into the accreditation process, said Weiland. For more information, visit the WRISA website: www.wrisa.net.

IN MEMORY

DAVID.

It' a year since you left us. It went so fast

No time to say goodbye So many tears have fallen, Never a dry eye.

An angel in heaven, A bright, shining star God has you in His keeping And we know where you are.

> Loved you then and always will, A broken-hearted great-grandma

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of our beloved husband, father, grandfather and great-grandfather, LeROY SCHLADWEILER, who passed away two years ago, Dec. 20, 2003:

Little we knew when we

- awoke, The sorrow the day would
- bring. The call was sudden, the
- shock severe. To part with one we loved so dear.

You bid no one a last farewell Nor even said goodbye. You were gone before we knew And only God knows why.

It only takes a little space To write how much we miss you

But it will take the rest of our lives

To forget the day we lost you. Dearly missed by your wife, children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of ROGER KUEHL, who passed away 13 years ago, Dec. 17, 1992:

Like fallen leaves the years slip by But loving memories never die

A silent thought a secret tear Keep memories ever dear.

Sadly missed by his family.

IN MEMORY

In remembrance of Richard "Dick" Heisdorf, December 11, 1945 - December 18, 1999. Back Again

Time has taken me from you, Although not very far. I'll be watching through the sunshine And through the brightest star. I'll be watching all of you,

From the Heavens up above. So take good care of each other And carry all my love.

If you're ever wondering if

I'm there Here's where you can start. Take a look inside yourself Deep within your heart.

I'll always be your husband, Your father, your grandfather, your best friend. So anytime you need me,

Close your eyes I'm back again. Deeply missed by your loving family

Campbellsport Clinic opens at new location

Thomas Fabricius, MD, a family medicine physician with the Campbellsport Clinic, and Patricia Hayes, PA, physician assistant, are shown in the Medical Imaging (X-ray) room at the new clinic, 350 E. Sheboygan Street. The clinic moved from its Helena Street location in late November and started seeing patients at the new clinic on November 28. The new state-of-the-art facility offers enhanced medical imaging and laboratory services. It also features nine exam rooms, a spacious waiting room with a special children's area and expanded parking.

Mercury Marine to cut 75 positions

Fond du Lac County's largest employer, Mercury Marine has said due to productivity improvements, they are anticipating cutting 75 jobs from it's workforce in March. Early retirement will be offered to eligible workers starting January 1

If fewer than 75 workers take the early retirement option, layoffs could be possible. Mercury Marine employs over 3,000 workers. Mercury Marine says the cut is not due to the small engine production shift being moved overseas to China.

The gift of tradition

Jeff Jaeger, Modern Woodmen Representative 262-626-4139

From the sugar-cookiebaking party at Grandma's house to the way the ornaments adorn the tree, during the holidays many American families focus on tradition.

According to a recent survey conducted by Modern Woodmen of America, a fraternal financial services organization with offices in Kewaskum, 77% of Ameri-cans think it's very important to pass family traditions on to the next generation.

"Traditions are a direct reflection of a family's beliefs and values," says local Modern Woodmen representative Jeff Jaeger. "The holiday season often brings these to the forefront.

So who takes care of passing on family traditions? According to survey results, in most families the responsibility falls on the capable shoulders of mom or another female relative. "Definitely, women take the initiative in traditions in most families,' says Meg Cox, author of "The New Book of New Family Traditions: How to Create Great Rituals for Holidays and Everyday.

But there are some exceptions. "When a father, husband or grandfather is active in creating and keeping traditions, it often has a huge impact," says Cox. "For example, I am one of four children. When I was growing up, my father would take one of us every Saturday as he ran errands. We didn't care that we were going to the hardware store or to get the car fixed, the important thing was we were spending time with him. We'd always end the time together at the coffee shop where he'd buy us hot cocoa with whipped cream and a doughnut. For me, such a simple tradition that required very little effort from my father has made a lifetime memory.

According to the Modern Woodmen survey, 42% of Americans said that a mother and father equally share the responsibility of passing down family traditions to the next generation, while 34% said the mother took care of this role. Those who said the mother was most likely to pass down traditions were typically female, while those who said both parents were involved were married males between the ages of 25 to 44.

Regardless of who keeps the traditions, most families find that they must adapt beloved traditions to fit today's lifestyle. Cox has found many families that use technology to solve problems such as time and distance. She cites an example of one family that was too spread out to get together for Thanksgiving. "They couldn't get to-gether physically, but the weekend before Thanksgiving they have established a piemaking night," she explains. "Each household uses Grandma's recipe to make pies, and Grandma calls each house at some point throughout the night. It's a beautiful example of how you can adapt a tradition, as well as stay connected as a family.

This holiday season presents another opportunity to create family traditions. Mod-Woodmen's Gathering ern website at www.gathering. info offers tips and ideas for planning family gathering and encouraging tradtions with immediate and extended fam-

"Modern Woodmen developed the Gatherings webbecause helpign people achieve quality family life is at the core of everything we do," says Jaeger. "It helps us promote family togetherness by making planning family gettogethers simple and fun." Modern Woodmen representatives help more than 750,000 members meet qual-ity-of-life needs for their families and communities through financial advice and products, and fraternal programs.

Founded in 1883 as a fraternal benefit society, Modern Woodmen of America offers financial services and fraternal member benefits to individuals and families throughout the United States.

Village Board Meeting Minute

Village Board Meeting November 7, 2005 8:00 p.m.

The Village Board of Kewaskum, Washington County, Wisconsin, met in Regular Session in the Council Room of the Municipal Building, 204 First Street.

President Mathew A. Heiser presided. Trustee Derek Peterson asked to be excused all other Trustee Members were present. A quorum was present.

The meeting was opened with a Moment of Silence and Pledge of Allegiance

On a motion by Trustee Harry Roecker, seconded by Trustee Thomas Piwoni and unanimously carried voice vote, approved the minutes of October 31, 2005 as amended and printed.

Presentation of a Proclamation of Appreciation to Richard W. Schmidt for years of service was read aloud and presented as attached hereto:

Kurt and Debbie Schmidt were present to review additional NR 216 information on storm water flow, etc. and review proposal for water alternative feasibility study. The Village's Engineer Mr. Ken Ward, Ruekert & Mielke reviewed information reviewed with the Schmidt's; their Attomey, Mr. Jim Ritchie of the DNR and the Village. It was noted all proper DNR permits were approved and granted prior to work proceeding. The drainage basin was not changed to increase size or runoff. The analysis reflected a decrease of drainage basin size by 3.28 acres, the peak flows decreasing and the runoff volume decreasing. The Schmidts indicated they were concerned about the quality of the water. Mr. Ritchie of the DNR indicated there were no regulations pertaining to quality of storm water. Suggestions from the Schmidts as to try and help them were stated and the engineers were asked by the Village to prepare a proposal for those storm water alternatives feasibility study. Mr. Ward reviewed that proposal and indicated the cost for that study was projected to be $5,000 and that all five of the alternative suggestions would be looked at.

Kurt and Debbie Schmidt told the Board that they would not work with the Village on four of the five alternatives and would be filing suit against the village and closing the flow from the drainage basin. It was apparent further discussion would be non productive and the Village moved on to the next agenda item.

The Fire Chief Mark Grocschel presented the October 2005 report: Fire calls - 2 Year to date 25 Year to date 2 19 Jaws runs Rescue calls 28 Miles 801 Police Chief Richard Knoebel had nothing to report.

Director of Public Works, Jerry Gilles reported on the following:

1) Informed the Board he is working on the road report and that street mileage will be increasing substantially.

Prospect Road asphalt work as to the base coat has been completed. On a motion by Trustee Kevin Scheunemann, seconded by Trustee Andy Pesch and unanimously carried by voice vote the Board approved the issuance of an Operator's License for 2005/2006 upon proper payment of fees and documentation for the following as recommended by the Police Department:

Trustee Harry Roecker reported that bills were okay for payment and that the Administrator would check on a surcharge for fuel from Diamond F. On a motion by Trustee Kevin Scheunemann, seconded by Trustee Thomas Piwoni and unanimously carried by voice vote the Board approved the payment of bills as recommended by the Administrative Committee. The total of all claims as recommended are as	follows:

General	128,054.53
Sewer	66,578.00
Ck #28541 - #28758
Library Fund	12,134.85
Water Fund	31,758.80
TID 2 Fund	1,160,029.08
TOTAL	$1,398,555.26
Roard Representative for the Plan

: Plan Commission, Trustee Andy Pesch reported that a Plan Commission meeting was held on October 25, 2005, and that nothing discussed was before the Board this evening.

Board Representative for the Library Board, President Mathew Heiser reported that a Library Meeting was held on November 3, 2005. The primary discussion was on the proposed budget for 2006.

There were three members of the Library Board present as well as the Library Director, Steve Baker, Discussion was held on the proposed Library Budget for 2006. It was noted the village used preliminary budget numbers and the Library Board brought adjusted numbers in after the November 3, 2005 meeting. The budgets were about $4,000 difference. After discussion the Village President and Administrator worked up an alternate budget plan using the 5.3% levy limit as a guide. The Library Board's main concern was to bring the Library Directors pay up to what they feel would be more appropriate. It was noted that type of adjustment would require more time. The Board indicated they would be willing to work closer with the Administrator and Board to achieve this goal in the future and would appreciate any upwards efforts by the Board. On a motion by trustee Andy Pesch, seconded by Trustee Thomas Piwoni and unanimously carried by voice vote the Board directed the Administrator to use the alternate budget proposal for 2006. It was noted that an $868 difference would need to be made at the Budget Public Hearing in the General Fund as well as the Library budget.

Action was taken on Resolution No. 2005-24 A Resolution To Request Exemption From The Washington County Library System Tax Levy Under Provisions of Wisconsin Statutes 43.64(2) as attached hereto: The numbers will be adjusted to reflect the recommended Library Budget.

Administrator Daniel S. Schmidt reviewed all major accounts for the department budgets and then reviewed the budget adjustment process for 2006.

The Legislature and the Governor have imposed a levy limit freeze on Municipalities. They have determined that a Municipality may increase their levy by 2% over the prior years levy or by a percent as applied by the State taking into account net of new construction. That number for the Village of Kewaskum is 5.677%. The 2004 levy was $1,266,248. If you apply the 5.677% to that levy it equals $71,884 or a new levy of $1,338,132. The village of Kewaskum was informed that if we wish to continue to receive our Expenditure Restraint money, which for 2006 is projected to be $30,030, the Village might not exceed a 5.3% increase of the Levy. This would mean an adjustment of 5.3% applied to the levy would equal $66,984 or a new levy of $1,333,232; a loss of $4,900.

eral proposed budget. This budget reflected a difference of $231,658 in the red

After numerous adjustments, 13 on the revenue side and 10 on the expenditure side, the fourth such general proposed budget came in at $77,116 difference. The following sources of revenue were explored and are as follows:

On the revenue side of the budget, $9,500 is being moved from prior year fund balance and a total of $47,831 is being recommended to be moved from the Restricted Fund.

This left an un-funded balance of $19,785 going into the fifth general proposed budget.

The request for the additional person to the DPW for approximately 1/2 year equaled that identical amount on eight different accounts. With the removal of those dollars the village now has a balanced budget.

General questions and discussion took place prior to review of the Notice for Public Hearing on the 2006 Budget, scheduled for November 28, 2005.

It was noted an adjustment would take place at the public hearing meeting adjusting the changes as asked for regarding the Library Budget. The Water Department and Water Pollution Control Department proposed budgets for 2006 appear as discussed on October 31, 2005.

On a motion by Trustee Andy Pesch, seconded by Trustee Thomas Piwoni and unanimously carried by voice vote the Board, after discussion and review, the Board authorized the publication of the Notice for Public Hearing on the proposed Budgets for 2006. The Public Hearing and action is scheduled for November 28, 2005 at 7:00 p.m.

On a motion by Trustee Thomas Piwoni, seconded by Trustee Harry Roecker and carried by the majority roll call vote, to adjourn. Roll call vote was 6 "Aye" 0 "Nay" 1 "Absent" Trustee Derek Peterson being absent.

homeless family find shelter, you receive. 2. Simplify your gift giving. Instead of giving expensive gifts to those on your list, consider making a donation to a favorite charity in their name. (Check with them first or this suggestion might fall flat.) Or make a pact with them to keep gift spending to under $25 or $10. The holidays aren't about gifts after all, but about renewing ties with family and friends.

3. Invite your grandchildren to help you buy a gift for a poor child and then go with them to drop the gift off. Fire stations, grocery stores and Toys for Tots all collect toys annually. Check your newspaper for locations.

4. Forget about doing all your own cooking. While it's traditional to serve only home-prepared items for holiday meals, you don't have to. Compromise. Maybe you can cook the turkey or roast beef and mashed potatoes but buy the desserts. Let your guests contribute something, too.

5. Prune your card list. Many people simply have given up sending holiday greetings. Others send as many as they have time for.

6. Each week in December do something just for you. Call a friend and meet for a leisurely lunch. Go to a tearoom in midafternoon for a renewing cup of tea. You can do this either solo or with a teenage girl you know.

7. Maybe there is a handicapped child in your family or neighborhood you could make a play date with or take to "The Nutcracker Suite" or a Christmas movie. Or just for a walk to look at the holiday decorations in your area.

8. Make a pact with your spouse to forgo gifts and give the money you would have spent to a worthy cause. That's what we are doing this year. (Kate's cheating: she wants a new Stetson hat when we go to Arizona.)

9. Keep depression at bay by getting enough exercise and sun. Sun lamps work well for people with seasonal affective disorder (SAD). When the days grow short, they become depressed. Visiting a health club or YMCA for regular workouts or swimming is a proven tonic against feeling blue.

10. Don't overeat or drink too much. Doing so only compounds your sad feelings and dislike of the holidays. Instead, try hard to limit alcohol and eat moderately of all the wonderful food available.

11. Make a particular effort at holiday celebrations to accent the positive. Before attending, make a list of safe topics for conversation. If you have a relative who consistently ruins the atmosphere with diatribes or complaints, don't invite this person. Or be ready to head these spoilsports off at the pass, by interrupting them at the first sign of negativity.

12. Tend to your spiritual needs. Whether you meditate, go to church or synagogue services or read the Bible, spend more time doing so. This can soothe you and, at the very least, remind you of what the holiday is all about. Pick one Christmas classic to reread just before the holiday.

KEA and Kewaskum Board of Education

Joint Statement

On November 30th, 2005 after deliberating for five sessions, an agreement has been reached between the KEA and Board of Education for the 2005-2007 contract years.

The parties worked diligently to resolve a number of major issues, including salary and benefit concerns, to the satisfaction of both parties. The parties appreciated the candor and open dialogue that took place during each session and the ability of the parties to reach common ground in an atmosphere of cooperation and mutual respect.

KEA members voted 92-10 to accept the contract. At a Regular Meeting held Monday, December 12th the contract was approved by a unanimous vote of the School Board.

The Bookworm Sez by Terri Schlichenmeyer Are Men Necessary? When Sexes Collide By Maureen Dowd Putnam $25.95 338 pages

it's always a matter of he wants / she wants.

He wants to sow his wild oats / she wants to get married. He wants to watch the game with his buddies / she wants to do something together. He wants to be president of his own company / she wants to be President of the United States.

And then Maureen Dowd steps in and writes a book that really throws a proverbial wrench into the whole mess: "Are Men Necessary? When Sexes Collide". The answer may only perpetuate the Battle.

Men and women are different, sure, but just how different are we? Biologically speaking, a whole lot. Dowd talked to scientists who told her that the Y chromosome men possess is weaker and smaller than the X chromosome, and the trend is that it continues to weaken. It's possible, Dowd learns, that in 125,000 years – give or take a few months – men could be completely sterile; therefore, obsolete.

So what does that mean for men now? Dowd says that cloning and other ways of manipulating conception mean that fatherless fetuses could be a possibility in our lifetimes. One scientist said that he's surprised that it hasn't happened already. Strike Two for the guys.

And what about equality? Dowd indicates that it seems as if today's young women have reclaimed the dating rules of their grandmothers ("The man always pays for the meal.") with an everythingold-is-new-again twist on relationships ("If I please him, I may be able to keep him"). Plastic surgery allows for a homogenously beautiful ideal, Botox use is common, and a youthful appearance seems to be imperative for keeping a powerful husband. Did Gloria Steinem and her sisters fight for nothing?

for nothing? Maybe the answer lies in Washington. Dowd says that the Hill / Thomas proceedings muddied both Capitol Hill politics and office politics. Bill Clinton's dalliances didn't help the situation, nor did those of Gary Hart or Bob Packwood. Is the world ready for a woman in the White House? More importantly, can't we all just get along?

"Are Men Necessary?" is getting a lot of outraged press, and I can see why... but. Yes, supporters of the Bush Administration are going to be angered, but other administrations get their tweaks, too. True, male behavior is under microscope and there's little bit of "male bashing", but women get their fair share of bashing and female behavior doesn't escape scrutiny. There are some intriguing and thought-provoking questions raised in this book, but author Maureen Dowd offers equally thought-provoking answers in a flip and funny way. Yes, there are an awful lot of things we don't understand about one another, but there's still time to learn.

I was fascinated by this book and I think "Are Men Necessary?" is going to make you think differently about how you view the opposite sex in work, and socially. You'll see that the Battle of the Sexes is a war that may rightfully end in a draw.

Orange Five-spice Sugar Cutout Cookies

granulated sugar 2 large egg yolks

2 Tbsp. Chinese five-spice powder 1 Tbsp. finely grated orange zest

1/4 tsp. salt 4 cups all-purpose flour Decorative sugar

Combine butter and sugar in a medium bowl. Using an electric mixer or wooden spoon, cream together until light and fluffy. Beat in egg yolks, one at a time.

Stir in the five-spice powder, orange zest and salt. Then stir inthe flour. Continue to blend just until the dough comes together and is evenly mixed. Divide into three flattened balls and wrap in plastic wrap. Chill dough for at least three hours or overnight.

Preheat oven to 350° with racks in the lower and upper thirds. Butter two baking sheets.

Work with one ball of dough at a time; roll out to 1/8 inch thickness between sheets of lightly floured wax or parchment paper. Cut into shapes and place on cool, buttered cookie sheets. Work in batches and keep the remaining dough chilled until ready to cut. For the best defined shapes, chill the cookies on the baking sheets before baking.

Sprinkle the tops of the cookies with decorative sugar. Bake until the bottoms just begin to brown, about 8 minutes. Transfer to a wire rack to cool.

Salvation Army looking for help

The Salvation Army's Red Kettle Campaign is underway. At this point of the campaign they have reached approximately 22% of their total goal.

"We are excited with the enthusiasm we are experienceing at the kettles, while the weather has been less than ideal," says Tom Thuecks, Director of Service Extension. "We hope the look and feel of the season coming to life will spur on the donations of those who have supported us in the past. We also invite those who aren't regular donors to consider helping us help others."

You can assist by making donations at area merchants where you see the Red Kettles. Another way you can help is to volunteer a few hours of your time to ring the bells for The Salvation Army. "If a kettle site is left unmanned we usually see the donations are less. We are having more difficulty in getting volunteers to man these sites."

The Salvation Army relies heavily on mail appeal donations and has throughout its history. This form of fund raising remains the most cost effective way of keeping the public aware of the assistance being provided, while offering an avenue of giving.

"We ask you if you've reaceived an appeal to consider sending in a gift. Your donations goes directly to assistance in your local area and you can feel confident about making a difference," Thuecks. Donations savs may be made locally in the red kettles or may be sent to The Salvation Army, 11315 W. Watertown Plank Rd., Wauwatosa, WI 53226. Please remember, all donations go to serve those in need in your community including the donations mailed. May God bless you for your kind, giving spirit.

After falling way behind, Indians roar back to top Sheboygan Falls

Turowski saves the day for KHS mat squad

BY JUDY HARLOW Statesman Correspondent iharlow@kewaskumstatesman.com

If last Thursday's match against host Sheboygan Falls was an indication of what is to come, the Kewaskum High wrestlers are in for a very exciting season in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference.

Kewaskum won the match 36-34 thanks to four late pins and a solid 7-1 effort by junior Jacob Turowski, who erased a 34-33 Falcon lead with his win in the last bout of the evening.

ning. "We got some big pins where we knew we needed to," KHS coach Dennis Aupperle said. "They have a very solid team where we aren't as solid. I thought one of the biggest factors was we were in a little better condition than they were."

Talented freshman P. J. Krueger opened his EWC career in grand style, pinning 215-pound Josh Olson in a mere 2:29, giving the Indians a 6-0 lead. (In EWC matches, the teams draw to find out at which weight class the competition starts, and for this one it was 215 pounds.)

From then on to the 140pound match, it was all Falcons, who won seven in a row, including three by pin and one forfeit.

That put the score at 33-6, but the Falcons would win no more as junior standout Eric Ogi stopped the bleeding with a fall in 3:59 over Brad Klein at 140 pounds.

This was Ogi's first match after not making weight in the Lomira Team Tournament a week ago. It was also the season debut of Nick Bartley, who sat out the opener recovering from a knee injury. Bartley didn't have to worry about his knee in this match as he wrapped up Kyle Bronzeman and put him on his back in a mere 1:40.

Defending state champion Scott Rhoads was next and followed suit with a pin over Jesse Tenpas in 3:22, giving the Indians 24 points and hopes of overtaking the hosts.

Senior Dan Shileny kept the KHS win streak going, as he won an overtime decision over Tyler Albrecht. The score was deadlocked at 4-all at the end of regulation, then Shileny got a takedown in the extra period, making the score 34-27.

Jon Olla brought Kewaskum even closer with his pin. Olla needed just 1:32 to put away his opponent, and now the Indians and their fans were thinking about getting the "W" as it was 34-33.

Turowski knew what he had to do for his team and wrestled hard to gain a solid 7-1 decision over Ron Kohlmann, and Kewaskum left with a 1-0 mark in the EWC and a 4-2 record overall.

"Jacob scored on a takedown right away, got an escape in the second period and a takedown. Falls chose neutral in the third, and Jacob got another takedown," Aupperle said. "He was in control the whole time, always in good position and very fired up for it. He went out there aggressive and confident."

"I knew the dual would be close. They also have nine returning lettermen and some very tough kids," Aupperle said, praising young Krueger for his efforts. "He went right after him and pinned him."

Kewaskum was home Tuesday against West Bend East, and travels to Kiel tonight (Thursday) before heading to the Marty Loy Classic (named after Aupperle's collegiate coach at UW-Stevens Point) in Fond du Lac on Saturday.

"It will be a long week, actually a long two weeks. Next week is busy, too," Aupperle said.

215 Krueger pinned Olson, 2:29; 217 Bryan Theisen was pinned by Zach Kattner, 3:30; 103 Andrew Haugen was pinned by Josh Hammen, 1:08; 112 Stephan Kattar lost to Rvan Vallesky, 7-3: 119 Nathan Seitz was pinned by Jordan Williams, 3:42; 125 SF wins by forfeit; 130 Jon Hawig lost by major decision to Tony Johnson, 12-2; 135 Mason Smith lost to Nick Jens, 10-6; 140 Ogi pinned Brad Klein, 3:59; 145 Bartley pinned Bronzeman, 1:40; 152 Rhoads pinned Tenpas, 3:22; 160 Shileny won in overtime over Albrecht, 6-4; 171 Olla pinned Max Fischer, 1:32; 189 Turowski defeated Kohlmann, 7-1.

Young wrestlers come up big in JV Tournament

BY JUDY HARLOW Statesman Correspondent iharlow@kewaskumstatesman.con

Three Kewaskum High wrestlers had all pins, and five came away with perfect 3-0 marks in the annual JV Tournament held at the school last Saturday.

Out of 11 wrestlers representing Kewaskum, Eric Turowski, Jake Sabel and Matt Buker all posted three pins in winning titles. Joe Paulus and Tony Kudek also finished 3-0 in the event.

No team scores are held in the tournament. Instead four wrestlers are put in brackets and have matches against the other three to determine the champions of each class.

KHS coach Dennis Aupperle reported Cody Kerr, Max Paulus and Tyler Swanson all finished 2-1 to claim second places, while Blaize Lopez and Ray Wollner took thirds, and Jon Haugen placed fourth.

"This is a nice group of kids, with Eric, Matt, Joe, Cody, Ray and Jon all being freshmen," Aupperle said, reporting some of them will be at the Loy Invitation, while most will compete at Lomira in a JV tournament on Dec. 23rd.

Good first half by Indians not enough to earn a 'W'

BY JUDY HARLOW

Statesman Correspondent

Buoyed by the fast starts of forward Paul Gaynor and guard Zach Wollner, the Kewaskum High boys basketball team stayed right with defending Eastern Wisconsin Conference champion Roncalli for the first half last Tuesday night, but the powerful Jets dominated with 39 points in the second half toward a 65-44 victory.

Gaynor, who stands 6feet-5, had been quiet in the Indians' earlier losses to Slinger and West Bend. He broke out of the slump in this EWC opener, however, scoring an even dozen points, including four in the first quarter when he and Wollner scored 11 of the Indians' 15 points.

Wollner was held scoreless the rest of the way, Casey Scheel was limited to nine points (with five of them coming in the fourth quarter), and all-conference center Matt Parrent was held in check for all but the third quarter when he put in six of his eight points.

"I think we stopped executing our game plan which was to go inside," KHS Coach Glenn Eichstedt said about the contest. He was confident the Indians would do well against the Jets if they worked the ball in to Parrent and Gaynor.

Kewaskum led 15-13 when the first buzzer sounded, and it was more of a case of the Indians outscoring the Jets' sharp-shooting forward Chris Netzel, who hit eight of his 16 points at the start. Netzel got a bit of help from Greg Schrimpf (four points) and Alex Lewis (two) in the second as this trio hit 13 more points to move slightly in front of the Indians, 26-23.

The Indians played better offensively in the third quarter, using Parrent's three baskets, three more by Gaynor and a pair of free throws by Scheel to hit a total of 14.

The Jets came up with 18, and it was the 5-11 guard Shrimpf causing the most havoc for KHS. He hit three, threepoint goals, and Eric Pozorski added another as Roncalli moved out to a 44-37 advantage.

The Indians were still in the game but needed a spark down the stretch, a spark that never came.

Gaynor and Scheel were the only Indians to score baskets in the final eight minutes and the Jets got two more treys from Schrimpf, the team's seventh and eighth of the game, on his way to a solid 26-point effort. For his first three games of the season, Schrimpf has a total of 81 points.

"They (Jets) had been very successful shooting the ball," Eichstedt said, pointing to the six, 3-pointers in the first three quarters. "Then we started to overextend our defense, and they started to go backdoor, especially Greg Shrimpf."

Eichstedt praised Gaynor, saying, "He had a nice game, with 10 rebounds to go with his points. Paul is very good when he plays aggressively."

Unfortunately, the Indians could not match Roncalli's quickness and good shooting. "Their experience and basketball savvy took over (at the end)," Eichstedt said.

With the win, the Jets move to a perfect 3-0 on the season, while Kewaskum falls to 0-3, including two good efforts but no wins resulting from them. RONCALLI 13-13-18-21

Effort by Cain is another highlight for Indians

Parrent hits 23 but KHS boys fall short at Plymouth

BY JUDY HARLOW Statesman Correspondent jharlow@kewaskumstatesman.com

Outscoring host Plymouth 33-29 in the second half was not enough for the Kewaskum High boys team to erase the slow start they had in an Eastern Wisconsin Conference boys basketball matchup last Friday night.

The Indians found themselves down by nine at the half, and although they picked up the pace after that, they were five points short at the end, 67-72.

With the loss, KHS starts the EWC campaign at 0-2, and overall the Indians are 0-4.

"That game, we tried to go a little more uptempo," KHS Coach Glenn Eichstedt said, but because the Panthers like to push the ball, too, there wasn't a whole lot of defense the first 16 minutes of the contest.

"We gave up 38 points in the first half," the coach went on, reporting he changed strategies during the break, and, "We scored the first eight points of the third quarter, putting the score at 38-37

It was at that point the Plymouth coach took a time out, according to Eichstedt, who said, "Then they went on a run against us" to surge out front 52-44.

The Indians battled back one more time, according to Eichstedt, who said with 2:43 left to play, "It was a four-point game and we had two good looks at the basket," resulting in a miss and drawing a foul. Unfortunately, the first free throw attempt on the bonus try missed the mark, then it was Plymouth's turn to work the ball around and draw fouls.

Had the Indians converted one of the two shots or both of them, "We would have been in good position," Eichstedt said. Instead, Plymouth converted 10 free throws (of their 15, fourth-quarter points) in the final quarter. "They sealed it with free throws at the end."

"It was one of those games where whoever would get the last run would win," Eichstedt said.

The loss was especially disappointing because several Indians turned in outstanding efforts. Center Matt Parrent poured in a game-high 23 points in his best scoring outing of the season after being frustrated in a couple other games.

Parrent and the Panthers' Jon Isserloth both played AAU ball together last summer, according to the coach, but in this game they were going against each other.

They were both motivated and played very strong," Eichstedt said.

Isserloth wound up with 17 points for the winners.

Eichstedt was also thrilled with the effort turned in by reserve guard Eric Cain. "Eric came off the bench and gave us a real lift," Eichstedt said, reporting Cain not only hit three treys in the game (toward an 11point tally), but he shut down Plymouth's fine sophomore guard, Logan Dellger, who had nine points in the first quarter (on three 3s) and only scored three more points the rest of the way.

Third game of week is best for Lady Indians

BY JUDY HARLOW

Statesman Correspondent jharlow@kewaskumstatesman.com

With three games in one week, members of the Kewaskum High were probably exhausted by Saturday, but also happy because in Saturday's non-conference game against host Ozaukee, they scored a season-high 33 points.

That wasn't enough to win the game, but the Indians cer-tainly left Fredonia knowing they are improving. "They played much better," KHS coach Dave Kraft said about the 65-33 loss. "The kids are starting to realize the effort it takes (to win)."

With three freshmen in the starting lineup, learning to play together was a top priority in Kraft's practices, and now, he said, "They actually shared the ball a little bit and got into the flow.'

Kewaskum scored eight points in the second period and 23 in the second half after scoring just two points the first eight minutes

Freshman Jenni Wicklund scored eight points to lead the Indians, with the junior Sam Droese, freshman Kelsey Goetsch and sophomore Alyssa Jung all chipping in with seven points. This is definitely the most balance the Indians have had all season.

"The next thing is learning how to deal with pressure," the coach said.

Nicole Bundy had 19 points for the winners, according to Kraft, who said. "She's their center.

KHS, currently 0-2 in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference and 0-6 overall, was scheduled to play at Sheboygan Falls on Tuesday and has another road game Friday against New Holstein.

"He (Cain) did a nice job getting us back in the game," the coach said

Junior guard Casey Scheel was a third Indians to hit in double figures. he wound up with 11

Eichstedt said he was hoping to come out of the first two EWC games with a 1-1 mark. "We've made it real difficult on ourselves," the coach said about the upcoming game at new Holstein Friday. "We'll have to see if we're up to the challenge." PLYMOUTH 20-18-14-15

Faber takes down prize buck with one shot

BY JUDY HARLOW

Statesman Correspondent jharlow@kewaskumstatesman.com

One missed, then another and a third had a shot which was wide of the target.

After several of his hunting party had missed a beautiful buck, Brandon Faber took aim, and with one shot, dropped the animal

"I shot a 12-pointer the day before Thanksgiving," Faber, 17, and a senior at Kewaskum High, said last week about his prize 180-pound buck.

Faber has been hunting since he was 12 years old, and this was his second deer, and also his best.

"It was in Fond du Lac County," Faber said, indicating he was hunting with "a whole bunch of my friends," who were trying to drive deer that morning

When asked if he was nervous seeing such a big buck, Faber said, "I didn't really have a lot of time to react ... it happened so fast.

Faber recalled how several of them had a shot at the animal and all missed. "I had the last chance at it," he said.

There were no hard feelings shown by Faber's friends, who helped him drag the deer out of the woods.

One interesting sideline Faber shared was he is the nephew of Daniel Schneider of Kewaskum, who had shot a 15point buck on the opening day of the gun season. Like Faber's deer, it weighed 180 pounds.

The family certainly will have good memories of the 2005 season.

Lady Indians reach 20-point mark but fall to Port Washington

BY JUDY HARLOW Statesman Correspondent jharlow@kewaskumstatesman.com

Even though they were blanked the first eight minutes of the game, the Kewaskum High Lady Indians came up with their highest point total of the season last Tuesday when they lost a 57-21 decision to host Port Washington.

Led by junior Sam Droese, the Indians showed a lot of fire and spunk in the non-conference contest.

"Our youth was again our undoing. Teams press us, and we struggle because we aren't strong enough," first-year KHS coach Dave Kraft said. "Defensively, we are not vocal enough, and we fail to box out and rebound effectively."

These statements were obvious in the final statistics which showed the Indians with 26 turnovers and only 27 total rebounds.

What didn't show up, how-, was the way the Indians kept trying right until the end of the game.

"I was very pleased with the hustle effort. We never quit, and we actually played better in the second half," Kraft said.

In the last 16 minutes, Kewaskum scored 16 points, including 10 in the final quarter.

Droese was 3x10 shooting, made the only three-point shot she took, had a pair of steals and hauled down six rebounds.

and Shaylah Haire added five. Hedlund and Jennie Wicklund each chipped in with three points, while Kelsey Goetsch

Tiffany Hedlund led the added two and Melissa Hamteam on the boards, with seven, men one. This was the first of three games the Lady Indians played during the past week.

Veteran of the kitchen, Campbell enjoys cooking at home for the holidays

By Amy Swanson Statesman Correspondent son@kewasku

For nearly 30 years Ruth Campbell's sour cream raisin pie has given Kewaskum a taste of its own history. As owner of the former Campbell's Village Inn in Kewaskum for 24 years, Campbell's pies are still the talk of the town. "We had excellent pie," Campbell said. "We were known for our pies and homemade food...I baked many pies, and I don't even eat dessert

"I really started making sour cream raisin pie because it was my Dad's favorite. I think I'm the only one around here that ever made it," she said.

Her secret ingredient is generosity

"We used to have the most beautiful Christmases. We were known for having the nicest Christmas party a round. All of my help enjoyed the Christmas party. We had very good food and I usually tried to do it all. They wouldn't have to work and they all got a little something extra. Everyone enjoyed it.

"I just enjoyed the whole business," said Campbell, who is 80 years old and still enjoys baking. "We had a beautiful business with very good homemade food and I had just wonderful help....I had such good, young help and they made me what I am today."

"I have had a very full life. A wonderful life. I live in a beautiful new home, which my daughter bought, and I can do whatever I want to do. I definitely have it made. I have a lot to be thankful for.

Campbell looks forward to spending the holidays with her family. "I still cook for my family and make cookies and candy. We have Christmas here "I still cook for my at grandmas with about 15-20 people and will probably have

I love to do the cooking and the baking. It only takes me a day to take care of that. I don't have too much trouble. Sometimes I make the cookies the week before, maybe a big torte. They all love dessert, so we will have to have some kind of torte?

Campbell's two granddaughters also enjoy cooking, she said. "Somewhere along the way they must have been watching. At Thanksgiving, we had turkey with all the trimmings...I was really happy."

"I see my great grandkids almost every day," she said. "They like to check to make sure grandma is okay and see if I have anything good to eat."

Almond crescents are Campbell's favorite Christmas cookie and she says her grandchildren enjoy chocolate chip cookies the best.

"I enjoy just about everything about Christmas. I like trimming the tree and the whole idea of us all getting together. That's what makes it fun.

Campbell enjoys staying busy. Until recently, Campbell could be seen cooking at the Silver Platter Restaurant in Kewaskum, and occasionally treating customers to her famous sour cream raisin pie.

D Holiday Greetings Everyone!

I would take a moment to share some Christmas cheer. As I drive around the village my heart is warmed by all the wonderful decorations. We even got some snow. Kewaskum looks lovely.

And, as 2005 draws to a close. I would like to thank everyone for another wonderful year.

From my family to yours, we hope you have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

LOAD OF GLAD TIDINGS WE THANK YOU FOR YOUR PATRONAGE

Christmas Memories....

Mark Twain said there's three sides to every story, yours, mine and what really happened. Call it selective, or perhaps even revisionist memory. Each of us recollects things in our own 16.11

The facts are: my cousin Carl is several months older than I am. His father was a heavy drinker. Which probably accounts for his always being a bit more emotionally mature than me

But that Christmas came when we were both in the awkward, transitional stage; not yet an adult but no longer a child.

The snow lay heavy on the land with the first, frigid grip of winter. The cold chilled beyond the bone, straight to the marrow. Dad drove the empty station wagon up the steep incline of his sister's driveway off Riverside Drive. Sheer murder on suspensions which had torn more than one muffler loose.

The rest of us, my mother, brothers, sisters and I trudged behind. The stuffy heat inside the sprawling house touched noses and cheeks with a head dizzying flush of warmth. Caps, scarves and coats wound up in a huge pile in a side room while boots and four buckle rubbers did a silent march near a floor register, snow forming slushy puddles nearby.

Small talk among the adults soon led to urgings to "come into the parlor". We kids followed in a discreet, duck line formation. The centerpiece of attraction through an arched doorway of an adjoining room and beyond a long dining table, was, as in all homes during that season, the Christmas tree.

As rotund, full and fully decorated as any I'd ever seen. Every branch contained some ornament, store bought, or more often homemade by one of my cousins. When they switched off the overhead light and flipped up the tree lights, the long needled pine came ablaze with the glow of large bulbs shimmering through a snowfall of tinsel.

Our boots had scarcely dried during a hurried board game or hand of Crazy Eights than we dragged them back on and into the cold.

We skidded, skateless across the river, made shore on the other side, up the bank and through a back alley or two. It was a long, indirect, wandering, no place to go but less place to be, teenager's walk through town.

The freezing temps slipped between the buttons of my jacket, numbed fingers inside their thin jersey gloves. The return trip to Carl's house now became more of a drudge with every footfall. Ears and cheeks quickly smarted with their own reddened glory.

Carl, in a sudden burst of compassion, offered up his own thick, lined leather mittens, thrusting his hands deep into his pockets. If the cold was sheer misery, it also was an amazing conductor of sound. Cars on the street, the scrape of a shovel against sidewalk, the drag of our boots sang out heavily.

But nowhere near as sonorous, fragile or beautiful as the chimes of the Catholic church through the crisp air. Ears frozen as they caught every note. O Holy Night, It Came Upon A Midnight Clear, O Little Town of Bethlehem fell across the hush between us, and kindled me as no fire could ever do

We seemed to float those last steps, caught in, carried forward by that moment, but they passed just the same. Perhaps Carl recalls it differently. He's never forgotten an insufferable blunder, the mittens riding home with me and getting lost somehow over the years.

I owe him a whole lot more, a scattering of images; the tree, the bitter cold, the stirring of the carols, the fact that even in this family, pulling at the edge of its myriad threads, this was Christmas, and at least for one glorious day, there was a closeness and love shared by all.

Hallens reflect on wartime Christmas memories

By Amy Swanson Statesman Correspondent

aswanson@kewaskumstatesman

In 1946, newlyweds Betty and Elmer Hallen celebrated Christmas in July, enjoying a fruitcake that had traveled around the world.

Elmer, a World War I veteran with the 658 Amphibious Tractor Battalion, had spent Christmas in the South Pacific for three years with his unit engaged in 20 invasions, 17 major invasions, earning him three purple hearts.

"It was hard," said Betty Hallen of the time spent apart. "It was not fun. The last Christmas, we didn't know when he was coming home, so I got a package ready to send in August. We had no idea at that point in time when he would be coming home. The A Bomb had been dropped.... I had a fruit cake and poured wine that my father made all over it, sealed it up and sent it along with a Bottle Brush Christmas tree."

In January, Elmer returned home on the SS Albemarle without ever seeing the package.

"My folks and his folks kept their Christmas trees up with all the ornaments so we could celebrate," she said.

"When he got to Chicago, he called his folks to come and get him. He was standing at the station and saw his dad coming, but his dad didn't recognize him because he had lost so much weight over there. His father had him paged and even told Elmer that he was looking for his son, not knowing that it was Elmer he was talking to." She said it also took the family dog three hours to recognize Elmer, but Betty knew right away.

Betty and Elmer were married in February of 1946 and will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary next year. In July of 1946, the Hallen's received a tasty surprise in the mail. The fruitcake Betty had sent to Elmer nearly one year later had arrived at their door. It was unbelievably good," Betty remembers. "The fruitcake was pretty good having been sealed with all that wine for so long. It was really good."

Betty wrote Elmer letters every day while he was away. "We had a lot of pictures and sent a lot of letters for almost three years," she said. "We did a lot of writing, but they

Having a little fun in the South Pacific with fellow soldiers. Submitted photos

(Elmer's Battalion) moved so much, that they might get three weeks worth of letters when they would land and come back to the ship."

"Today they can email and phone. But in our day it was pretty much writing letters. Phone calls were not available. It's so important to keep in touch and stay happy because it is hard for (servicemen) to stay happy and keep their spirits up."

Elmer remembers one Thanksgiving, the cook fashioned a turkey out of Spam. Although the memories of holidays spent in the South Pacific aren't real merry, the friendships that Elmer made continue to bring him joy. Every year the 658 Amphibious Battalion gets together for a reunion. "They went in together.

They trained together and they went overseas together," Betty said. "They are all still close."

"I felt bad for them," Betty said. "Christmas over there was pretty much any other day.

"When they were in this country, they would try to do something special. They would print up a menu and do the whole business on the holidays. We even saved some of the menus."

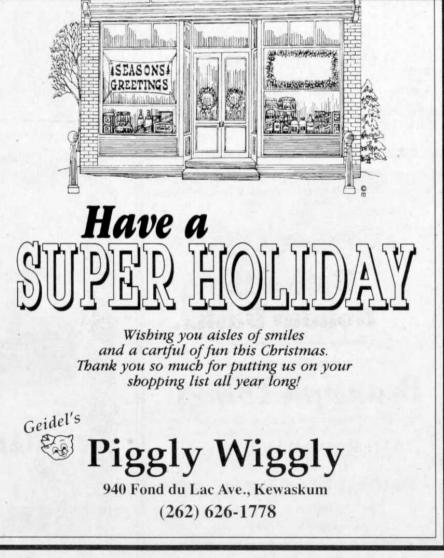

The Hallen's, who moved from Illinois to Kewaskum 20 years ago, celebrate the holidays with their children, Peggy, Terry and Kitty, along with their six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The secreat to great homemade desserts

'Tis the season to make memories with family and friends, when good food and drink abound. To make the most of your gatherings, special occasions and dinners, make sure you show up with a delicious treat that everyone is sure to enjoy! Don't forget about all the cookie swapping and recipe sharing that takes place, too.

Instead of making the same baked goods that you've made year after year, treat your loved ones to these unique desserts that will stand apart from the crowd. The secret to success is to offer your guests delicious holiday goodies made with time-saving ingredients. Here are some recipes you may want to try:

Apple Butter Cheesecake

Crust:

- 1 1/2 cups crushed ginger snaps
- 1/3 cup sugar 1/3 cup butter, melted
- Cheesecake:
- 2 pounds cream cheese
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup sour cream
- 5 medium eggs
- 1 1/2 cups Apple butter
- 3/4 cup butter, melted

Directions: In a small bowl, combine crushed ginger snaps, sugar, and melted butter. Blend well. Press the crust with a spoon into a 10-inch spring form pan. Make sure to cover the bottom and the sides evenly. Bake the crust at 350 degrees for 8 to10 minutes, and then let it cool. In a large bowl, mix cream cheese and dry ingredients until smooth. Add sour cream to the mixture. Beat in the eggs. Add apple butter and butter, and beat until smooth. Pour the mixture into the prepared ginger snap crust. Bake at 350 degrees in a water bath for about 2 hours.

Fruitcake Roasting on an Open Fire

By Amy Swanson Statesman Correspondent

aswanson@kewaskumstatesman

Charles Dickens, famous author extraordinaire of A Christmas Carol became probably the only Christmas link to Fruitcake when he said, "A fruitcake is a geological homemade cake".

That's it. There isn't much more history connecting fruitcake to Christmas, but for some reason, it has become as popular as Eggnog...but that's another story.

People who honestly enjoy fruitcake are as legendary as the fruitcake itself. Most likely, it was the English who deserve credit for the connecting Fruitcake to Christmas because they would pass out slices of the dense cake to poor women singing Christmas carols in the streets in the late 1700s. Making them not only poor, but also full.

Of course, the government stepped in - as they do with most good things - and by the end of the 18th century laws were on the books restricting the use of plum cake – dried fruitcake – to Christmas, Easter, weddings, christenings and funerals.

But, the fruitcake prevailed. It is still tradition in England for unmarried wedding guests to put a slice of fruitcake under their pillow at night so they can dream of the person they will marry.

The name "fruitcake" can be traced back as far as the Middle Ages. It is formed from a combination of the Latin fructus, and French frui or frug. However, the oldest reference dates back to Roman times with a recipe full of pomegranate seeds, pine nuts and raisins mixed into a thick barley mash. Crusaders and hunters of the Middle Ages added honey, spices and preserved fruits to the cake to make it last longer while they were away from home.

In Europe in the 1700s, a ceremonial fruitcake was made at the end of the nut harvest and then eaten at the beginning of the next year's harvest, to celebrate a -hopefully - successful harvest. So, the fruitcake is just as superstitious as throwing salt over your shoulder. However, if you throw a fruitcake over your shoulder you might injure someone, so make sure the coast is clear.

The Fruitcake fad really took off between 1837 and 1901. It was considered a staple at every Victorian "Tea" and even Queen Victoria once waited a year to bite into a fruitcake she received as a birthday present. She felt it showed, "restraint, moderation and good taste."

Fruitcake may even go back as far as Egyptian times. According to some food historians, Egyptian fruitcake was considered an essential food for the afterlife; which is probably the best place for it anyway.

Crazy as it sounds, there is an actual Society for the Protection and Preservation of Fruitcake, which offers fruitcake friends a place for support. Here is their basic recipe. Happy chomping!

Have a Very Merry Season!

Mix: 1/3 cup flour,  3 lbs seeded raisins, cut in pieces, 2 lbs sultana raisins, 1.5 candied citron, sliced thin and cut in strips, 1 lb currants, 1/4 cup chopped preserved lemon rind, 1/2 cup chopped preserved orange rind

Add to the batter

Add: 1 cup brandy, 4 oz chocolate melted

Fold in: 12 egg whites, beaten stiff

Just before putting the batter in the pans, add: 1/4 tsp baking soda, dissolved in 1 TB hot water

Fill the pans and cover the tops closely with aluminum foil. Set the oven at 250F. On the oven bottom place several shallow pans filled with hot water to a depth of one inch. Set the pans of fruitcake on the shelf above. Bake 3 hours, remove the pans of water and remove the foil from the cakes. Bake 1.5 hours to dry out the cakes.

There's a note on the original recipe "If your oven is too small to bake four large loaves at once, add half the soda to half the batter and bake two. Then add the remaining soda to the remaining batter and bake the remaining two loaves.

It's best to line your pans with parchment paper, and to turn on the oven partway through the mixing process so that you can start baking immediately.

Food for Thought

By Amy Swanson

It's the thought that counts

"Is there still a Santa Claus, Mom or are you him?" my 11-year old son asked me the other day while his eight yearold sidekick brother listened intensely.

"Dad and I certainly couldn't afford to buy you all of those presents. I mean, where would we put them all...certainly not in the closet, or under the bed or in the back room because you would surely find them. Of course, I am not Santa Claus, I'm just not that nice."

This may be the last year for my oldest son to believe in Santa Claus. I hope not, because then he will have to break the news to his father. It would, however give me a break.

Every year my husband and I make a commitment to have all of our Christmas shopping done by Dec. 1. Then the van needs repair, the furnace breaks, the water softener has gone hard, one child needs braces, we have to buy groceries...and I need a new pair of shoes.

So the annual Christmas Eve scramble for the perfect gift – or whatever is left – is on. We've got it down to only two stores and figure that's ok because Santa gets everything from one place at the North Pole. - Wal-Mart must offer great benefits for those little elves.

Because it's the eleventh hour, Christmas guilt usually sets in and I throw just about anything in our shopping cart. A friend once told me that she buys her child – an only child – three gifts because that was good enough for Baby Jesus.

I agree, but He isn't as selfish

as my children. Power sh

Power shopping gives me such an adrenaline rush and makes my husband turn practical, which is something I'm not used to. The first year we were married he bought me the dreaded Edith Bunker housecoat...I've already shared this story and thank you for all of the support you've given me. The next year he bought me $900 diamond earrings, which I took back the day after Christmas – a weak moment for us both.

We do put a lot of thought into our last minute shopping. A few years ago, we bought both of our boy's radios, for $4 each. It was the best gift. When they unwrapped them - 12 hours later - you would have thought we bought them an entire stereo system. They were so happy and it only cost us $8! Of course, 12 hours later one was broken and the other one was lost, but that didn't matter, it only cost us $8! My dad is threatening this year to get us all gift cards - even the grandkids - because he doesn't know - OR WANT - to go Christmas Shopping. My mom is trying to sway him, but it doesn't look good. It's already happened for birthdays.

Imagine how much fun that will be sitting around the Christmas tree, sipping hot cocoa and opening envelopes. Maybe mom will get a decorative mail opener to add to the excitement. It would, however, save on wrapping time.

We usually wrap our verythoughtful-last-minute presents at about 11 p.m. on Christmas Eve. I wake up my husband who has fallen asleep in his chair – how unusual - and ask him to bring in the presents from the car. I wrap. He arranges them under the tree. We kiss each other good night and three hours later we are awake and unwrapping the presents listening to Barry Manilow's Christmas cassette – yes, cassette!

Then we all pile in the van and go to my parent's house to unwrap.... envelopes from stores that aren't open for another 24 hours. That will be easy to explain to all three of our children. ..I hope Santa Claus is allergic to the envelope glue.

Middle School Christmas Concert Dec. 19

It's time, once again, for the Kewaskum Middle School Bands to present their Christmas concert and for the parents of the new sixth grade musicians to see if their children really can make music on those instruments.

The concert will be held on Monday, December 19, at 7:00 pm in the KMS gym. All sixth, seventh and eighth grade band members will be performing in groups from small to very large. The KMS jazz band will play a few "pop" tunes and the percussion ensemble will continue a threeyear tradition of performing a unique rendition of a familiar song.

The concert is free and all are invited to enjoy the spirit of the season.

Purchase a Christmas tree, help Habitat

Extra-Mile Landscaping of West Bend has always been a huge supporter of Habitat for Humanity of Washington County according to Russ Wanta, director for the agency based in Kewaskum. Wanta says owner of Extra-Mile Landscaping, Aron Rodman, has offered to make a donation to Habitat for Humanity of Washington County for every Christmas tree sold from his lot.

"Aron has moved gravel with his heavy equipment for us, removed dead branches and cleared Habitat lots. He serves as a Board member with us as well and I am excited to partner with him," stated Wanta In addition to his

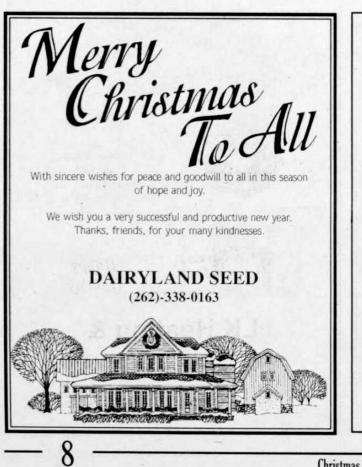

In addition to his partnership with Habitat, Rodman also donates numerous trees to low-income families in the community who don't have the means to purchase one.

Extra Mile landscaping is open seven days a week and located at 5387 South 18th Avenue in West Bend, south of Wal-Mart. They offer Balsam, Douglas and Frazier Fir, Scotch, White Pine and Blue Spruce in all sizes up to 16 foot. Local delivery is also available. Call 262-334-3011 for more information.

Christmas Memories....

While my turkey soup is simmering from the remains of this Thanksgiving bird, and looking forward to the Christmas Holiday, I reminisce of Christmases past.

My first recollection of such an event was while sitting in my Mother's lap as a child one Christmas Eve. A loud knock was heard at the door. A mysterious stranger entered, dressed in a reddish outfit, bringing a surprise for my sisters, brother and me. (He came through the kitchen door, because we didn't have a fireplace). I was ready to cry, but Mother's presence reassured me, not to be afraid.

Our Christmas tree was never put up until Christmas Eve. It was gaily decorated with cherries on a wire, candy canes and strings of candy beads. As we grew older, we made strings of popcorn and cranberries to adorn it. All these goodies shimmered in the light of the wax candles that were put in metal snap holders. They were only lit for a short time, so as not to cause a fire.

We eagerly awaited the day when Mother dismantled the tree and divided the goodies that still hung on the tree. Some take their tree down soon after Christmas, but Dad said we must wait for the Three Kings, Epiphany on January 6.

In a corner of the kitchen, we string a line to hang our long black stockings for Santa to fill. There was always an orange in the toe of the stocking and other surprises that Mother with her nimble fingers would fashion out of little or nothing. The aroma of ginger snaps or sugar cookies filled the air. She also made peanut brittle in a cast iron frying pan. The little red grinder with "coffee" on it would get a workout when grownups came to visit.

Of course, Midnight Mass was a must. We'd trudge up the road a few blocks to a white frame church (now we have a brick one). My sister played the organ while my brother and I joined in the singing. Grandpa, who lived with us, put his customary nickel in the collection box. Other less important days he put in a penny. You must remember the daily wage was $1.00 at the time. Before taverns closed on Christmas Eve, I recall a fellow who came to church, filled with the Holiday Spirit, and lay down in the pew to sleep.

Later years were kind of lean, as during the Depression, but the presence of love in our family took the place of presents under the tree. Once a box with my name on it contained a big doll, which I treasured for years. My brother got a kaleidoscope, which when you looked through it formed pieces of a church window.

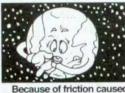

Without fail, a package came every year from Aunt Mary, my mother's only sister. It always said Don't open until Dec. 25th.

After we all left the roost, my folks would look for my husband and me to come for Christmas. The others had small children and could not get away so easily. The faded wreath in the window would greet us and peace and joy filled our hearts at the sight of our loved ones.

Soon familiar faces left the scene and all that remains are memories of Christmas Past.

Christmas Memories....

Phyllis Bade brought this article in to share with our readers. Published in 1910 in the Lake Mills Leader, when Don Harbeck was the editor, it is a story written by her greatgrandmother, Clara Joeckel.

As I grow older I think of Christmases past. I thought you might enjoy this telling of a "bygone Christmas." It was written by my great-Clara Joeckel grandmother telling of their first Christmas in 1857. (- Phyllis Bade).

An Early Christmas in Lake Mills (translated from German and published in 1910)

It is hardly possible for me, after a lapse of 55 years to give an accurate description of the subject in hand, for there is much that I have forgotten, having kept no diary in those early days.

My topic is an Early Christmas in Lake Mills and yet one must place one's self in those early times; before one can appreciate what such a celebration really meant.

I cannot say that the place "was without form and void" for in this town there were streets and paths and houses. There were dense woods and brush in abundance, beginning not far from the post office to the lake.

It was on a beautiful June afternoon in the year 1885 that Mrs. John Bruns and myself arrived here from Watertown in an open conveyance. At the same time our husbands came each with a wagonload of household goods. Our husbands had a few days previous been here to find a place of dwelling.

That first night, worn and spent with the days journey and the necessary task of putting to rights the little furniture we had, I lay upon my bed about to go to sleep, when the sweet tones of a maiden's voice, from the adjoining room reached my ears, singing bye-lo-babyby-low which song was entirely new and seemed very beautiful to me, for I was a stranger in a strange land. We occupied this home from June until the following spring and then built a small home, which is now known as the old Methodist parsonage. From our home to the lake, it was dense forest and my husband shot many a rabbit and other wild game upon which we feasted and replenished our larder.

The largest building on Main Street was the Fargo General store and there was also Faville's Grocery Store. There were two churches here, the Congregational Church and the Methodist Church. The Methodist preacher conducted prayer meetings, the volume of whose prayers was not confined to the four walls of the church, but were audible in the homes of near neighbors.

As there were but few

Blessings

of the Season

ou to the Germans here, we went to worship at nearby Newville. A little later on we held services in the little brick school house. At this time no Christmas celebrations had been held in the churches.

In the year 1857 we held our first Christmas Eve Celebration in our home. Andrew, my husband, felled a Cedar tree and secured it in a frame. I baked assorted cookies and decorated; these together with apples and candy were fastened to the tree; also wax candles and all sorts of little gifts for our two little children. As the tapers were lighted our eldest daughter, Mary, recited a Christmas piece.

Attracted by the glimmer of the lights streaming through the window, the neighbor's children came in. Later on the older people came to view our unpretentious tree. This was something entirely new to the community and one boy asked where such trees grew.

a number of German families having come, the first Moravian church was built on a hill near the lake. On this Christmas, a tree was erected in the church, decorated and lighted. The little children thought but few in number, recited Christmas recitations and sang carols. Each child received cookies, candies and apples passed to them in a large basket. Then, too, every child was presented with a lighted taper, symbolic of the Light of the World.

Oh, how shall I receive thee, How greet thee, Lord, alright? All nations long to see thee,

My hope, my hearts delight!

Oh kindle, Lord most holy, Thy lamp within my breast

To do in spirit lowly All that may please thee best

From this time Christmas always celebrated was in the Moravian church and occasionally in the Congregational and Methodist Thus our early churches. Christmas days passed, though not such luxury as now, yet happy hearts and with good will and good cheer to all men.

Madison - One of the hottest holiday gifts of last year will be available again this year when the second annual State Capitol Ornament is unveiled.

On Tuesday, former Secretary of Revenue, and Wisconsin State Treasurer, Cate Zeuske will be joined by Dr. Ellsworth Brown, Director of the Wisconsin Historical Society, to unveil the 2005 ornament was overwhelming, they were selling faster than we could get them made," Zeuske said, "This year, we doubled the order so hopefully we can raise even more money to preserve beautiful State Capitol our building." Last year's ornament was replica of the State Capitol building and raised more than $10,000 for the State Capitol Restoration Fund. Like last year, the 2005 Ornament is made in America by the Chemart Company of Rhode Island. Chemart also produces the annual White House ornament.

The ornament is inscribed with the year 2005 and will be a keepsake that can be passed on from one generation to the next," Zeuske said, "The proceeds from the sales will also make sure our future generations will be able to continue to enjoy the beautiful and historic state capitol."

The metal ornament is based on the State Capitol's most prominent statue, the gilded female sculpture atop the dome of the State Capitol. The statue is visible for miles around and has grown to symbolize the state's motto "Forward." The Capitol's statue was designed by famed sculptor Daniel Chester French. French also designed the statue of President Abraham Lincoln

Safety tips for your holiday shopping

This holiday season should be a time of great joy as we celebrate and share gifts with those close to us. Unfortunately, it can be a time when crime becomes more prevalent. I would like to offer these "Holiday Safety Tips" to help make your holiday season a safe and happy one. Please take some time to read them and share them with your family, loved ones and friends.

Be alert, walk confidently, with your head up, and stay in well-lighted and well-traveled areas. Pay attention to people walking in front of and behind you. Pay particular attention when you are in crowded areas, such as malls and stores that are filled with other shoppers. Places with large crowds are favorites for thieves and pickpockets.

If you carry a purse, keep it in front of you and close to your body. You can do this by covering the flap or clasp with your hand or forearm. Never leave your purse in a shopping cart or on a counter while you pay for your purchases. When using public washrooms, use extreme caution--try to avoid putting your purse on hooks or door handles. Remember not to carry open-weave bags or purses without zippers or flaps. Those items are easy marks for pickpockets.

Keys should not be carried in your purse. In the event of a purse snatching, the thief will have your address and keys to your home. Keep your keys in your pocket if it is possible. If you carry a change purse or wallet, keep it in your front pants pocket or in the inside breast pocket of your coat. Always be alert when opening your purse or wallet.

Try to shop with friends or relatives. There is safety in numbers.

When shopping with kids, teach them to go to a store clerk or security guard if you get separated.

Be discreet when shopping. Never display large amounts of cash in plain view of others. Whenever possible, use credit cards or checks instead of cash. When using credit cards, make sure that only one credit card slip is printed with your charge card. Also, be sure to tear up any carbons that may be used to complete the transaction. Credit card fraud can ruin your holiday season.

Thieves and pickpockets are more likely to be attracted by expensive clothes and jewelry. When you are out doing your holiday shopping, dress comfortably and casually.

Cars can be an easy target for criminals. Park your car as close to your destination as possible and in a well-lighted area. When you do your shopping, remember to store your packages in the trunk of the car and not on the back seat. Also, if you take packages to the car but plan to return to the store or mall, drive your car to a new location within the parking lot. Criminals can be on the lookout for unsuspecting shoppers who simply drop their purchases into the trunk and then return to keep shopping.

When returning to your auto (or home), have your keys in your hand, ready to open the door. The few moments you save may keep you from becoming a crime victim. Before entering your vehicle, carefully check the front and rear seats and floors for anyone that may be hiding there. Lock your doors immediately after entering the vehicle.

Secure your home: When you are out shopping, leave some lights on at home. If you plan to be away for a longer period to visit friends or family over the holidays, make sure to tell a neighbor or friend who can keep an eye on your house. Have them check periodically to make sure packages that may have been delivered while you were gone aren't sitting on your porch.

Most of all have a safe holiday season!!

Remember my birthday?!

As you well know, we are getting closer to my birthday. Every year there is a celebration in my honor and I think that this year the celebration will be repeated. During this time there are many people shopping for gifts, there are many radio announcements, TV commercials, and in every part of the world everyone is talking that my birthday is getting closer and closer.

It is really very nice to know, that at least once a year, some people think of me. As you know, the celebration of my birthday began many years ago. At first people seemed to understand and be thankful of all that I did for them, but in these times, no one seems to know the reason for the celebration. Family and friends get together and have a lot of fun, but they don't know the meaning of the celebration.

I remember that last year there was a great feast in my honor. The dinner table was full of delicious foods, pastries, fruits, assorted nuts and The decorations chocolates. were exquisite and there were many, many beautifully wrapped gifts. But, do you want to know something? I wasn't invited. I was the guest of honor and they didn't remember to send me an invitation.

The party was for me, but when that great day came, I was left outside, they closed the door in my face and I wanted to be with them and share their table. In truth, that didn't surprise me because in the last few years all close their doors to me.

Since I was not I decided to enter the party without making any noise. I went in and stood in a corner. They were all drinking; there were some who were drunk and telling jokes and laughing at everything. They were having a great time. To top it all, this big man all dressed in red wearing a long white beard entered the room yelling Ho-Ho-Ho! He seemed drunk. He sat on the sofa and all the children ran to him, saying : "Santa Claus, Santa Claus" as if the party were in his honor

At midnight all the people began to hug each other; I extended my arms waiting for someone to hug me and no one hugged me. Suddenly they all began to share gifts. They opened them one by one with great expectation. When all had been opened, I looked to see if, maybe, there was one for me.

What would you feel if on your birthday everybody shared gifts and you did not get one? I then understood that I was unwanted at that party and quietly left. Every year it gets worse. People only remember to eat and drink, the gifts, the that you allow me to enter into recognize the fact that almost two thousand years ago I came you, on the cross, to save you. believe this with all you heart.

in my great guest book. Only those on the guest list will be invited to the party. Those who don't answer the invitation, will be left outside.

Do you know how you can answer this invitation? It is by extending it to others whom you care for ...

I'll be waiting for all of you to attend my party this year ...

Ten tips for best holiday baking

Be Prepared. Before you begin baking, familiarize yourself with the recipe, its ingredients and terminology. Read through the recipe several times and assemble the necessary ingredients and equipment in your baking area.

Measure Up. Baking is a science - the more accurate your ingredient measurements, the better your end product. Sift or stir dry ingredients prior to measuring and then carefully spoon into the correct sized measuring cup, leveling off with a straight edge. Measure liquids in a clear measuring cup placed on a level surface. Bend over to read the amount at eye level.

No Substitutions. Do not use spreads, such as margarine or shortening or part-butter products, to replace butter in a recipe. Spreads contain less fat and more water than butter and will not perform the same.

Avoid Sticky Issues. Keep cookies from sticking to baking sheets by simply covering sheets with a layer of parchment paper or by greasing the sheets using a piece of paper towel rubbed with butter.

Embrace the Chill. For best cookie baking results, keep your dough chilled in between baking batches of cookies. For cut-out cookies, only work with one small piece of dough at a time, keep remaining dough refrigerated.

The Right Roll. For easy rolling and clean up, roll cookie dough between two layers of lightly floured parchment or wax paper. Cookie dough will roll evenly and remove easily, without sticking to the rolling pin or counter.

Quick to Cool. Cookies turn out best when the dough is placed onto cool cookie sheets (heat causes the cookies to spread immediately and too much). Accelerate the cooling process by running tepid water over the back of your baking sheets.

Well-Defined Lines. For crisp-looking, well-defined holiday cookie shapes, place

For the real taste of the holidays, count on dairy ingredients

From deliciously rich desserts to melt-in-your-mouth cookies and golden, flaky pie crusts, homemade holiday specialties define yule season celebrations. Real dairy ingredients create memorable holiday fare, and they're easy to find and use. Here are some tasty tips for adding flavor, texture and overall "real" goodness to your holiday recipes:

Whipped Cream Dresses Up Desserts. Dress up holiday sweets with a generous dollop of real whipped cream on cakes, pies and tarts. It can transform an old standby recipe into an enticing new creation. A simple turn of a piping tube can yield fanciful desserts full of appeal and deserving of praise. For a deliciously sweet sauce, drizzle sweetened whipping cream on cakes, brownies and pies.

Cream Cheese Improves Your Holiday "Spread." A delectable filling or spread for holiday bars and cakes, cream cheese is often overlooked as a holiday baking taste sensation. Cream cheese complements other real dairy ingredients, such as butter, to create light, fluffy icings or dense layers of sweetness. Simply soften and cream with real butter to create a rich, velvety spread.

Real Butter - the Real Deal. According to professional chefs and bakers worldwide, there is no substitute for real butter in baked goods. Smooth and creamy, butter ensures a rich, full flavor and tender texture in any baked treat. Butter also gives baked goods an appetizing appearance. For the flakiest pastry and pie crusts, use cold, hard butter, and for soft, chewy cookies use slightly softened, unsalted butter.

Buttermilk Gives the Gift of Surprise. Although low in fat, real buttermilk has a creamy consistency and assertive, tangy flavor that adds an unexpected lift to any recipe. When you use a buttermilk recipe for cake and quick bread batters, you can be assured your holiday goodies will be moist and flavorful.

Eggnog Adds Seasonal Flavor to Desserts. A popular holiday beverage, eggnog is actually quite versatile and delicious in many holiday recipes. Experiment with traditional eggnog, adding cinnamon, nutmeg, vanilla or different liquors for flavor. Use leftover eggnog to spice up holiday desserts - simply replace a portion of the milk or cream in a recipe with your favorite eggnog flavor.

Sour Cream Provides a Special Touch. Smooth, rich sour cream adds a special texture and delicate flavor to holiday baked goods. Silky smooth cheesecake is often the result of sour cream. and it also keeps cakes and bars tasting moist and delicious, plus gives frosting a creamy texture.

State Park, Forests Annual Stickers Now Available

The Kettle Moraine State Forest - Northern Unit is now selling the 2006 State Park and Forest Annual Admission Sticker and State Trail Pass. The sticker and trail pass allow entry into over 86 State Parks, Forests, Recreation Areas and Trails throughout Wisconsin. (Trail passes are required for bikers and horseback riders, age 16 and over, on designated mountain bike and equestrian trails in the state forest.)

According to Jerry Leiterman, Forest Superintendent, annual stickers and trail passes have traditionally been great holiday gifts. A complimentary park sticker gift enclosure with envelope is available with each gift purchase. The price for the annual resident sticker is $25.00; nonresident $30.00; and trail pass $15.00. The 2006 stickers and passes are valid from the date of purchase through December 31, 2006. Revenue from these sales directly supports the operations

- BROWNIES:
- 1-1/2 Tbsp. freeze-dried coffee
- 2 Tbsp. boiling water 1 package (21 to 24 oz.)
- brownie mix
- 3/4 cup sour cream 1/4 cup butter, melted
- 2 eggs
- TOPPING:
- 1 (8 oz.) container

Wisconsin Mascarpone cheese, softened to room temperature 1/2 cup whipping cream,

- whipped 2 Tbsp. powdered sugar
- 1/2 tsp. vanilla
- Cocoa, bittersweet

chocolate shavings or coarse sugar for garnish (optional)

For brownies, butter the bottom only of 9- x 9-in. baking pan. Dissolve freeze-dried coffee in boiling water in large bowl; add brownie mix, sour cream, melted butter and eggs; mix well. Spread batter into prepared pan.

Bake at 350°F for 25 to 30 min., or until brownies begin to pull away from sides of pan and center is just set (do not over bake). Transfer pan to a wire cooling rack; cool completely. For topping, stir Wisconsin Mascarpone cheese until soft; add whipping cream, sugar and vanilla. Continue stirring until the mixture is smooth.

Cut brownies into 3-in. squares and pipe or spoon Mascarpone cheese mixture on tops. Cover lightly and refrigerate until serving time. Garnish with optional cocoa, bittersweet chocolate shavings or coarse sugar.

Holiday Decorations Inspired by Mother Nature

The time of year when people are inspired to decorate their homes is upon us once again. You may have already put up a tree, hung wreaths on the walls and doors and garland on the mantle. That's a lot of green in the house, but it's easy to spice things up. Just add colorful flowers.

You may be thinking to yourself, "Where in the world am I going to find flowers? All the plants have gone dormant and it's snowing outside." Flowers may be in short supply in your backyard, but they are still growing in other places, and are plentiful at your local flower shop or floral department.

"Red roses and carnations are extremely popular around the holidays. So are blue irises and lilies, but decorating at this time of year doesn't necessarily mean you have to stick to the traditional colors of red and green, or for those of the Jewish faith, blue. I recommend that people look for flowers that will accentuate the hues in their home decor," says Jill Slater, the design spokesperson for the Flower Promotion Organization.

If you have yellow walls in your dining room, for example, she recommends you turn a gold Christmas ornament upside down, fill it with water, set it in a napkin ring and add a handful of yellow daisy mums. If blue is the dominant color in the room, Slater says to set up a vase of red roses intermixed with blue iris. To accentuate a room with pink walls, mix some pink carnations

This time of year, Slater travels the country reminding people that flowers make great complements to their holiday decorations. You may have caught one of her appearances on your local television station where she shared these "recipes."

Topiary holiday "tree"

For a simple yet festive holiday centerpiece that's easy to make, fill a holiday-inspired mug with a topiary Christmas tree of red Gerbera Daisies and tied with a festive holiday ribbon. Cover the foam with cranberries for a picture perfect look.

You will need: 10 red gerbera daisies, 1 red or green mug, one-half brick floral foam, 2-feet holiday ribbon, Fresh cranberries, 1 rubber band, flower preservative.

Directions:

Step 1 -- Fill container with wet floral foam (soaked in water and flower preservative for at least 30 minutes). Gather the flowers in the web of your hand (between thumb and other fingers), holding them just under the bloom. The flowers should tuck neatly into each other. If right handed gather the flowers in your left hand. Rubber band the stems together and bring the rubber band up just under the blooms. This will make the gerberas perky and straight.

Step 2 -- Hold all the stems of the flowers in a neat bundle, cut them about 1" from the bottom with a sharp knife or pruning shears or clippers. Insert the bunch into the center of the floral foam.

Step 3 -- Cover the floral foam with fresh cranberries. Using your favorite holiday ribbon, tie a bow around the rubber band. For trans-seasonal appeal, change the color of the Gerberas or try other flower varieties as Iris, standard and miniature Carnations, Chrysanthemums, Roses and Lilies. Be sure to match the container and ribbon color to the season.

Warm Up Wreath

Customize an evergreen wreath by accessorizing it with fresh cut flowers. It doesn't take a lot of effort or flowers to turn a regular green wreath into the star of your neighborhood.

Materials: One 12-inch evergreen wreath, 1 spool of narrow gauge wire, three to five 2-inch clay pots, 1 to 3 flowers for each clay pot (red roses look gorgeous), floral clippers, flower foam for each pot, flower preservative. Directions:

Step 1 -- Soak the floral foam in water and flower preservative for at least 30 minutes. Step 2 -- Run a 16-inch piece of wire through the drainage hole of the pot. Twist the wires together to hold the pot tightly.

Step 3 -- Place the wire pot on the wreath and thread the wires through the wreath to make a sturdy attachment. Twist the wires on the back of the wreath to permanently adhere the pot. Now do the same for the other clay pots. Scatter the pots throughout the wreath or as you desire.

Step 4 -- Fill the pots with floral foam, cut the flowers with a sharp knife or floral clippers, and insert short cut flowers. Each pot should hold 1 to 3 flowers.

Flowers can also give a big boost to the décor of families celebrating Hanukkah where blue and silver are the predominant colors.

Blue and Bold Bulbs

Materials: 1 trifle bowl, 1 brick of floral foam, 5 stems blue iris, 1 small bag of white decorative rocks, floral preservative and clippers

Directions:

Step 1 -- Soak the floral foam in water that has been treated with floral preservative for at least 30 minutes. Step 2 -- Cut the floral foam into a square that is slightly smaller than the bottom of the trifle bowl. The foam should be about 1.5-inches in height.

Step 3 -- Cut the iris to approximately 4-inches in length; then peel off the foliage on the iris to reveal its small narrow stem.

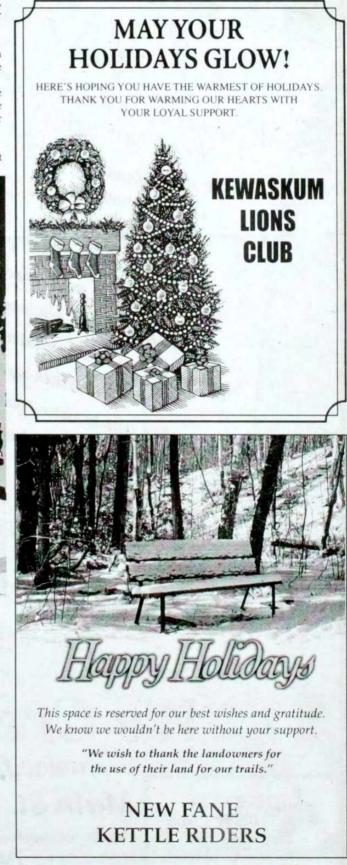

Step 4 -- Carefully cover the floral foam with the rocks and pour a bit of water into the bowl.

Step 5 -- Move the rocks aside and insert the iris evenly into the floral foam

"Even though it might be cold and dreary outside, Mother Nature is still being good to us. Her flowers make it possible for us to be inspired by a house filled with color all year long," says Slater.
