St. Lucas students aim for world record

Students at St. Lucas Lutheran School in Kewaskum recently participated in a worldwide event, aimed to break a world record for most people reading aloud simultaneously in multiple locations. Fifth and sixth graders from Karen Yittri's classroom were among 547,826 readers in all 50 United States and 28 countries. Lori Long assisted in organizing the event where students read a passage called "salutations" from Charlotte's Web. According to Guinness World Records™, the current record for the largest number of people reading the same piece of literature aloud, simultaneously, in multiple locations is 155,528 students from 737 schools throughout the United Kingdom. They read William Wordsworth's poem "Daffodils" on March 19, 2004.

There is a strong feeling of comradeship amongst those serving in the Military. Since Robert (Bob) St. Mary was also in the military service I feel compelled to write about his life. He served in the United States Air Force as a gunner on a B-26 bomber during the Korean War. I never had the opportunity to personally meet him. I can only repeat stories I've heard about him from family members or from reports I've seen of him from the Defense Department, Washington, D.C.

Bob was nineteen years old in September 1952. He was twenty-four years younger than his oldest brother, Ray St. Mary. Bob was my wife, Joan's uncle. They both attended Glen Valley School and Campbellsport High School together.

I'm told that Bob was a great guy and was an exceptional athlete. He earned two letters in football, two in basketball and four in baseball. In his high school records he earned the Fox Valley Tri-County All-Conference award more than once. He graduated from Campbellsport High School in 1951.

Bob joined the Air Force in the fall of 1951 during the Korean War. He took his basic training in Texas. Bob went to aerial gunnery school in Colorado and flight training in Virginia. He went through Escape and Evasion training at Stead Air Force Base in Nevada before being sent overseas. In Nevada you were taught how to live off the land and avoid being captured

Farmhand sentenced for 2005 murder

The town of Kewaskum man who pled guilty to killing a co-worker while working on a town of Kewaskum farm has been given a life sentence. The man also is said to have bludgeoned the victim's brother at the same time, just a little over a year ago.

Anselmo Gonzalez-Castillo was sentenced Wednesday, December 20, by Washington County Judge Andy Gonring, who ruled the 35-year-old could petition for extended supervision after 27 years. Gonzalez-Castillo pleaded guilty September 21 to first-degree intentional homicide.

Washington County Sheriff's deputies were called to the William Thull farm on Monday, December 12, 2005, at approximately 11:42 pm after they received a 911 call stating two male subjects had been severely beaten at the dairy farm.

Upon arrival, deputies discovered two Village of Kewaskum brothers, Ramon Sanchez, 35, and Rosando Sanchez, 26, who had been struck several times in the head. Ramon was unconscious and bleeding profusely. Rosando was semi-conscious but also bleeding from a head wound.

According to a criminal complaint, the Sanchez brothers were milking cows when the lights suddenly went out in the milking parlor. At that time, Rosando went to an adjacent room to check the circuit breaker and was struck on the head, knocking him to the floor. Within moments, Ramon entered the room and was also struck on the head knocking him unconscious.

Gonzalez-Castillo later told authorities he believed he was about to be fired because of statements the victims had made to their employer. This led him to the brutal attack on the brothers.

As part of a plea agreement, a charge of aggravated battery with a deadly weapon was dismissed. However, the charge was read into the court record.

Gonzalez-Castillo is not a legal U.S. citizen.

Kewaskum man wins contest, has dinner with Packers' Kampman

One local Packer fan won the opportunity to meet and dine with Green Bay Packer Aaron Kampman at Culver's of Green Bay. Ron Phillips of Kewaskum won the grand prize by correctly answering a Culver's Classic Quiz question. Questions were presented on the radio prior to each of the Green Bay Packers home games. In addition to winning the grand prize, Phillips also took home a four-pack of Culver's Value Basket Certificates, and later had his name drawn as the grand prizewinner for the dinner with Aaron Kampman. Kampman is widely recognized as a leader on the team and is enjoying his most successful season in his five-year NFL career. Phillips also received autographed Packers memorabilia.

Missing in Action - Prisoner of War? Killed in Action

by the enemy.

Bob flew with the 17th Bomb Wing of the 37th Bomb Squadron out of Pusan Air Force Base, Korea. This base was located on the southern tip of Korea. I can recall flying over this base or near it many, many times.

On February 23, 1953 Bob was reported Missing in Action. He was on his 11th mission. He had volunteered to fly on this mission. A year later he was declared Killed in Action.

The B-26 is a small two-engine bomber used for low-level front line support. Its crew consisted of a pilot, navigator and a gunner.

Approximately four months after that fateful mission of February 22, 23, 1953 the Korean War ended. It was the hope of the St. Mary family that Bob would be amongst the prisoners of war being exchanged but he wasn't.

In a final report just recently declassified, using Air Force jargon, the B-26 he was a gunner on was called Dutchboy 94, on that mission, and the aircraft in the area of their target assisting them was a C-47 called Newport 52. Newport 52 had experienced some difficulty making radio contact with Dutchboy 94; however, contact was made at 0215 hours on February 23. Newport 52 dropped five flares, one of which was a dud.

Dutchboy 94 had located a live train with ten boxcars approximately 67 miles from the Chinese border moving south in North Korea and about a quarter of a mile east of the Sea of Japan.

Dutchboy 94 made several passes without dropping his ordinance. Dutchboy 94 advised Newport 52 that they were having some trouble releasing their bombs but the pilot, Lt. King, thought he had located the difficulty. He then dropped two firebombs three miles southwest of the train.

Dutchboy 94 made several more runs without dropping bombs. Dutchboy 94 then made two strafing runs on the train. At this time, Newport 52 questioned the pilot of Dutchboy 94 as to whether he knew the location of the train. King advised, "Roger boy, we got this one cold turkey."

Dutchboy 94's pilot, Lt. King, asked the Newport 52 pilot if he knew Lt. Clemens at K-14. Newport 52's pilot advised Dutchboy 94's pilot that he did, and he asked Newport 52's pilot to say hello for him and Newport 52's pilot said he would.

Flares were observed dropping about ten miles south, sw of their target site and Dutchboy 94 requested information from Newport 52 about the flames.

Newport 52 advised King in Dutchboy 94 that they had no information but would attempt to contact the aircraft dropping the flares.

Calls were made by Newport 52 on several frequencies with negative results. Dutchboy 94 was advised of this.

Dutchboy 94 acknowledged this information and King, the pilot, of Dutchboy 94 stated that he would make some more bomb runs.

Newport 52 acknowledged and advised that they would stand by to take bomb damage assessment photos. These are bright photo flash bombs to again light up the target at night and are bright enough that photos can be taken of the target site.

On a few runs it was possible for Newport 52 to observe Dutchboy 94 and its' shadow which appeared very close together and about the same size leading Newport 52 to believe that Dutchboy 94 was making its' bomb runs at a very low altitude, maybe 150 feet.

After ten minutes Newport 52 attempted to reach Dutchboy 94 without any results. Newport 52 tried all common frequencies with negative results. After another thirty minutes Newport 52 assumed Dutchboy 94 had more radio trouble and had returned to their home base. Newport 52 considered the possibility that Dutchboy 94 might have a crash of some type, however, Newport 52 had been observing the target area very closely and had seen no sign of a crash. At 0300 hours Newport 52 left the target area and returned to home base. Newport 52 monitored channel D (VHF) open to all friendly aircraft in the area, another 5 minutes before Newport 52 left the area with negative results.

The following night, Newport 52, having learned that Dutchboy 94 had failed to return to home base, again searched the target area of the night before with the aid of flares and listened to radio frequencies in that area. However, Newport 52 observed or heard nothing to indicate Dutchboy 94 might have gone down. Considering that the target was less than a quarter of a mile from water Dutchboy 94 could have gone down in the Sea of Japan. The Navy patrolling the area saw nothing and observed nothing on their radar.

Other aircraft in the area attempted to contact Dutchboy 94 also with no success. No parachutes were found and no Mayday distress signal picked up by any aircraft or Navy vessels working in that area. Air-Sea Rescue located nothing after a full day search. Dutchboy 94 was nowhere to be found.

Col. Clinton Wasem, USAF, Wing Commander, sent

a long letter to Bob's parents, Edward and Ellen St. Mary in Campbellsport expressing his sympathy on their loss and relating to them how popular Bob was with the men and that his interest and natural ability in athletics helped make him a real leader among men. It developed in him a sense of fair play and a competitive spirit, which was demonstrated even in his work...His sterling character was an inspiration to the men who worked and lived with him.

The only information available to the St. Mary family was in Col. Wasem's letter in which he states, "Knowing that you are anxious to receive what information we have concerning Robert's disappearance, I will relate to you the known circumstances surrounding his last mission. Late at night on the twenty-second of February 1953, your son was assigned to the job of destroying vital rail lines over North Korea. Their flight went along very successfully as they reported along the way to many radio check points in their course. At 2:35 in the morning of the twenty-third they reported that they had observed excellent target for their bombs and that they were going to carry out their prescribed mission. No further report was heard from their plane. When they were overdue at the next reporting point all rescue planes and facilities were sent out on the search but it was to no avail. They could not find the aircraft or any of the crew members."

Bob had already earned his third stripe in less than two years and that is quite an accomplishment. Col. Wasem stated he was an excellent gunner in his letter.

The above-mentioned letter from Col. Wasem was the only information the St. Mary family ever received regarding Bob for over fifty years.

Col. Wasem in a report, (now declassified), writes that circumstances strongly indicate that personnel listed in this report (King, Culbertson and St. Mary) could be prisoners of war, since they could have successfully bailed out of the aircraft. He recommends that the status remain missing in action. However, February 24, 1954, Bob is presumed killed in action.

At that time, in 1954, Ed and Ellen, Bob's parents, received a letter from the Department of the Air Force, Washington D.C., from Emmett O'Donnell, Jr., Lt. Gen., USAF, Deputy Chief of Staff that he was transmitting to them the Purple Heart certificate at the request of the Secretary of the Air Force. The Purple Heart had been awarded posthumously to Airman First Class Robert St. Mary. In addition he was forwarding the accolade awarded by President Eisenhower, which is our Nation's highest token of appreciation for valor.

When Richard St. Mary, one of Bob's brothers, went to Washington D.D. this past summer, 2004, he had high hopes of learning more of Bob's whereabouts at a meeting for relatives of veterans killed or missing in action in a war. Unfortunately there is no closure for the St. Mary family. There are more questions with little hope of ever finding the answer of what happened to Dutchboy 94 and her crew. Richard and his son, Jeff, were given conflicting stories regarding the flare ship but Newport 52's report seems the most acceptable account of what happened. In fact, Richard and Jeff had the distinct feeling that there still was information being withheld.

Ed and Ellen St. Mary (Bob's parents) are both deceased now. They never knew what happened to their youngest son. Unfortunately over fifty years later we still have no knowledge of what happened in the wee hours of February 23, 1953 to Dutchboy 94 and its' crew.

Richard St. Mary informed me that Edward watched Bob play in the various sports he participated in with great pride and when Bob was presumed killed in action it became his fondest memories of his son.

Richard St. Mary had been in contact with the regular gunner, Airman Sanderson, whose place Bob had taken that night. I've been told that this was the last mission for King and Culbertson and I assume Sanderson so I question why he wouldn't have finished the last mission with his crew. He says he wasn't ill so apparently this was strictly a volunteer mission and he chose not to go.

The declassified information Richard received tells us that there were Navy vessels offshore from the bombing site. At the time of Dutchboy 94's disappearance no unusual explosions or Mayday calls to any aircraft or Navy vessels working in the area were reported. They had seven miles of visibility yet Dutchboy 94 simply disappeared.

I firmly believe, from the maps given to Richard St. Mary, the range of the aircraft Bob was in was at its' maximum limit of fuel and still Dutchboy 94 spent approximately 30-40 minutes attacking this locomotive without releasing its' bombs. From Newport 52's account of what happened I can detect no concern that the bombs wouldn't release. I fail to understand why they didn't use their salvo switch to get rid of their bombs.

There are two maps in the information packets Richard received from the Defense Department. One indicates Dutchboy 94 is by the village, Kimch'sek and other indicates Dutchboy 94 was at least fifty miles further south of this village in North Korea.

Why didn't Newport 52 check out what was happening approximately ten miles away, when Dutchboy 94 questioned what was going on, rather than us attempt to radio the aircraft over there?

Was Dutchboy 94 on a photo mission too? The lack of concern regarding the non-release of the bombs after repeated dives and strafing attacks for such an extended period of time seems to me to be the only logical answer. We do know that the AB-26 can be fitted to carry a large camera in the bomb bay. Unfortunately nothing tells us what type of B-26 Bob was in.

I'd like to be able to question the Navy regarding the tracking of their radar on Dutchboy 94 and at what point they lost this aircraft and in what direction it was in at that moment since China and Russia are to the north and the Sea of Japan to the east and south of their target area.

Bomb damage assessment photos were never included in the packets Richard received from the Defense Department that had been taken by Newport 52. Newport 52's report indicates that both Dutchboy 93 and Dutchboy 94 had negative results on their target. I would like to see those photos. Dutchboy 93, another B-26, was headed back to home base from the target area as Dutchboy 94 was headed for the target area.

There are over 8,000 military personnel missing in action in the Korean War. Out of that vast number excavations in North Korea, 1996 through 2003, have resulted in the recovery and repatriation of remains of only over 180 U.S. servicemen. The effort to recover remains of the missing is expected to continue. In 2003, our recovery operations in North Korea took place in Unsan County and the Chosin Reservoir area. The North Koreans have not yet allowed us access to their side of the DMZ. Several requests were made to the Communists by the United Nations Command at Panmunjom but they have provided no information. North Korea is again a real threat to the Free World so any hope of ever finding our family member will, most likely, go unfilled. There will never be closure for all the families that lost a loved one in this brutal war.

Strachota will chair assembly committee

MADISON- Representative Pat Strachota (R-West Bend) was named the Chairperson of the Assembly Jobs and the Economy Committee recently by incoming Assembly Speaker Representative Mike Huebsch (R-West Salem). Strachota's committee will lead the Assembly Republican efforts on economic development and job creation in the upcoming legislative session.

"Creating good paying jobs for working families in Wisconsin will be a top priority for the Assembly," Huebsch said, "Pat Strachota will help put our state's economy into overdrive."

I am honored that Speaker Huebsch trusts me to lead this important committee," said Strachota. "Our country is in the middle a strong economic rebound but Wisconsin has not mirrored this national trend in terms of economy or business development. I look forward to working with both Republicans and Democrats to get Wisconsin's economy back on track.

The primary responsibility of the Assembly Jobs and the Economy Committee will be business development, increasing employment and improving the corresponding economic indicators. The committee will focus on bills that will attract more high-paying jobs; encourage our students to stay in Wisconsin to work and raise families; and remove barriers that prevent Wisconsin businesses from expanding and growing.

The Legislature needs to work together to drag Wisconsin out of the bottom end of the economic rankings and set a course for prosperity for all the residents of our state," said Strachota. "The Assembly Jobs and the Economy Committee will ensure that Wisconsin is ready to achieve that goal in the near and long-term future."

One of the first issues the committee will study is the recent Legislative Audit Bureau review that found Wisconsin has 152 different economic development programs, 135 development zones, 26 councils that coordinate and oversee projects and 248 full-time equivalent employees spread over eight different agencies. From fiscal year 2001-02 through FY 2004-05 these programs awarded $180.9 million in grants and loans, $56.3 million in targeted tax credits, $240.4 million in bonding authorization, and $64.4 million in loan guarantees.

"The audit clearly shows that we need to streamline and consolidate our state's economic development programs to maximize the dollars spent," said Strachota. "We are spending hundreds of millions of dollars on attracting good paying jobs to our state but we still lag behind in per capita income, saw only 15 new manufacturing plants in 2005, and attract a mere 0.08% of the nation's venture investments. So, just how is this money helping Wisconsin's economy grow?"

Strachota will be starting her second term when the legislature reconvenes in January. She was also elected to serve as the Assembly Republican Caucus Vice-Chair.

Darlene Stern shares her inspiring story of a mission trip to Ukraine

Darlene Stern is shown standing to the right praying with an unidentified woman during ministry time. This was in Kharkov, the first city on her mission trip.

Submitted photo

By Darlene Stern
Special to The Statesman

The hymn on the Sunday before I departed for a ministry trip to Ukraine was most appropriate. "We All Are One In Mission" speaks of everyone having a gift from God that is destined to be united with the gifts of others.

Our team was multi-national, with members from London, England; the Netherlands; Austria; an American YWAM (Youth With A Mission) missionary from Bosnia; Ukraine; and the United States.

The twenty Ukraine team members were fully aware that we were no more holy than the people of the churches we would serve in. Our gifts would meld with those of the church to enhance what the Holy Spirit was already doing there.

Our scheduled itinerary

ence in their lives. Each teaching was sprinkled with stories of how the Lord revealed himself in the lives of those who had positioned themselves to be used as a vessel Christ could work in and through.

The concept is called impartation. On one hand, it is the presence of the Lord in one person's life given, or imparted, to another person. On the other hand, it is God giving himself to a person who is hungry and thirsty for more of him.

Keep in mind that all the teaching and sharing in these conferences was done through an interpreter, so it had to be pointed and concise. Often one session built upon what had been taught at the previous sessions.

One session in each city was set aside to minister to pastors and leaders. They can often become exhausted and lose their focus with all the details of ministry they are expected to fulfill. Opposition of hearts hardened to the Word of God can also cause pastors and leaders to despair. We felt it was necessary to impart renewed hope and expectation to these leaders so they could continue to obey the Lord's calling on their lives.

Ministry time followed worship, teaching and sharing. At this time the entire team would pray for the needs of individuals (with the help of an interpreter). Many times the most appropriate prayer was not something the interpreter would understand, so we would have to revert to simpler language. Thus, we reverted to the familiar, "Just pray!"

The Ukrainians weren't necessarily looking for words of knowledge, discernment, or someone who could pray in Russian. They were looking for someone who cared enough to take the time to pray with them for their needs. Tears and emotions unleashed were the evidence of his presence, as were smiles, laughter, and healings.

Many of the team members were accustomed to praying into the wee hours of the morning at conferences we attended in the United States. This was not the case in Ukraine. Most of the churches rented performance halls.

After every event all materials and people had to be cleared out. It was not unusual for prayer to continue out into the parking lot until our bus was ready to leave. One evening prayer began in the parking lot before the doors to the building were open for the service.

One key component of ministry was intercession time. During every session in every church a number of our team would spend the worship and teaching time in the intercession room with some of the sponsoring church's intercessors. We tried to have an interpreter present in these times so we could share with the Ukrainians what the Lord was revealing to us regarding his intents and purposes for these meetings.

With the interpreter, they could likewise share with us what they were receiving from the Lord. I had not planned on doing much as far as intercession, but after the first experience I was hooked.

The Ukrainian intercessors were extremely submitted to discerning the mind of God and praying it into being for the meeting going on in the main auditorium. The way what was received in the intercession room was revealed during the teaching and ministry time was quite exciting. We had no advance knowledge of what was going to be taught or prayed. By our submission to intercession, He gave us what was about to be released so we could pray protection around the message that those who heard would receive with believing hearts.

Darlene Stern's account of her mission trip will continue in the next edition of this newspaper.

THANK YOU to all who purchased Memorial Holiday Lights

The Friends of Kewaskum would like to extend a special thank you to all the generous people who purchased lights on the community's holiday memorial wreath.

The proceeds from this annual tradition will be used to fund community events and fund-raisers.

The lights were placed on a live wreath which hangs in front of The Statesman at 240 Main Street where the wreath has been on display during the holiday season. A "Merry Christmas from Heaven" circular sign hangs from the center of the wreath.

This year the names of all those who had lights dedicated to them were laminated and placed under the wreath on The Statesman's outside railing. With the list of names, hangs a poem which reads: "I Love You All Dearly, Now Don't Shed a Tear, Cause I'm Spending My Christmas, With Jesus This Year."

This is our small way to remember all the "angels" who were not on earth to help us celebrate the past holiday season. May their memory live on forever in our hearts at Christmas and throughout the coming year.

DAYS GONE BY

25 Years Ago

December 25, 1981

Railroad crews finished installation and testing of the new overhead signals on the Main Street crossing last week, along with the removal of the old signals. One crew man joked, "they're the railroad's Christmas present to Kewaskum, but of course, your tax money paid for them."

Due to unusual weather conditions, the Village Board has officially stated that anyone ice skating on the river will be doing so at their own risk. Public Works Superintendent Augie Bilgo said his crew has not cleared any area for skating as the ice depth has not been sufficient for skating. Bilgo noted any cleared areas had been done by the skaters themselves. He noted the shoreline is more treacherous since the water is very high and pressure on the ice is causing water to seep through. Trustee Don Mlodzik stated, "to be safe, no matter how thick the ice is, we should put up signs stating, 'Skate at Your Own Risk.'" The board unanimously agreed with Mlodzik's suggestion and the signs will be put up.

Janice Mary Campbell and Russell William Oelhafen were married October 16 at Holy Trinity Catholic Church, Kewaskum. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Campbell of Kewaskum. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Mary H. Oelhafen of Kewaskum.

In a wrestling meet at Slinger last Tuesday, the rival Owls and Kewaskum went at it with the Indians blowing out their opponents in a one-sided 48-5 victory. The Indians won every match except for one loss and one draw as their experience made the difference. Kewaskum's three seniors all came through with victories. Wayne Boudreau won a 7-4 decision after falling behind in the first two minutes by a 4-0 margin. Both Don and Dave Goeden won at 132 and 145. The win was Don's sixth against one loss and Dave also hiked his record to 6-1 with a fast first period pin at 1:57. The Indians are now 0-2 in the Eastern Wisconsin and 2-3 overall.

The Kewaskum Indians rolled over Chilton here Friday night in a 75-47 mismatch. The victory left the Indians with a 5-1 record going into the 1982 portion of the season. Their only loss thus far has come at the hands of West Bend West. Following baskets by Ric Leitheiser and Mike Heisdorf, Brian Larsen went on a solo spree to score nine straight points. It was 17-2 with over two minutes still left in the first quarter. At this time Coach Jim Westphal began to substitute and continued to do so throughout the remainder of the game. The 6-2 Larsen, who was the leading scorer with 22 points, played a good game and hit the boards hard. Center Dale Wodsedalek, 6-5, who had been averaging 24 points a game, scored only 11 against the Tigers, but took only seven shots, making five of them.

The program will be held on Thursday, January 11, starting at 7:00 p.m. at the Henry S. Reuss Ice Age Visitor Center. The Ice Age Visitor Center is located off of Hwy 67 half mile west of Dundee. The program is free, but donations are always gratefully accepted.

There has been a lot of news lately about our most distant planet Pluto. Is it really a planet or a sub-planet? It is actually an ice dwarf planet of the Kuiper Belt. There are more ice dwarf planets than the rocky (Earth, Venus, Mercury and Mars) and gas (Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune) worlds combined. But, there has been no spacecraft sent to a planet in this class.

New Horizons is a historic mission of exploration to a new whole class of planets in the farthest zone of our solar system. The United States made history by being the first country to reach every planet from Mercury to Neptune with space probes. Now, the New Horizon mission to Pluto and the Kuiper Belt, the first NASA launch to a "new" planet since Voyager nearly 30 years ago, will allow the United States to complete its reconnaissance of our solar system.

Join Kevin Koski of the Plymouth Stargazers as he takes you on a journey through space to the most distant planet Pluto and beyond. He will share a 50-minute video and then lead a discussion about the New Horizon mission. After the inside presentation, telescopes will be set up outside for some great winter night sky viewing (weather permitting), so come dressed for the weather. This program is best for adults and youth over ten years old.

For further information or directions, please contact the forest staff at the Ice Age Visitor Center. The center phone number is (920) 533-8322 and is open Wednesday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. and on Saturday and Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Farmington Elementary School 4K teacher, Mrs. Bergmann, helped a few students design gingerbread houses to be used as decorations at their Christmas program. FES 4K classes helped friends and family celebrate the holidays a few days early with their own special program December 20. The program included a few nursery rhymes, handmade decorations, holiday songs and then ended with their own rendition of "We Wish You a Merry Christmas."

Show us the Money

By Matt Pommer

Bipartisan ethics reform unveiled recently in the State Capitol is long overdue. But it's just a small first step.

It would merge the Elections Board and Ethics Board into a single body with a panel of retired judges sitting on the new board. This new board would have access to unlimited funds for investigations of alleged misdeeds. Under the old system legislators, who may have been the target of the probes, had to approve the money for an investigation. They often had little enthusiasm to fund the plea.

Criminal prosecution would be handled by the district attorney in the home county of the official being investigated. Now most of the prosecution occurs in Dane County.

The new plan, expected to be passed overwhelmingly in a special legislative session in January, is receiving high praise from watchdog groups. It remains to be seen if additional reform steps are taken on the financing of election campaigns.

Wisconsin desperately needs a system of public financing of election campaigns. That will be far more difficult to enact than the creation of the new, merged committee. It will be far more difficult to change how Wisconsin political campaigns are financed.

The current system favors incumbents and makes legislative leaders more powerful than they were 35 years ago. It also makes life easier for the monied special interests.

Legislative leaders created campaign committees to raise the money for candidates of their party. The special interests like the concept - they would donate to the campaign committees and allow the leaders to distribute the money. Under that system the legislative leaders often get to pick their candidates.

Five former legislative leaders were convicted of actions related to this focus on raising campaign monies. The special interests like the system because their donations gave them the ability to lean on legislative leaders to enact their bills. The special interests only had to convince the legislative leaders to win passage of their ideas.

Rank-and-file legislators found life a lot easier. Their leaders raise the campaign money and then do the thinking on legislation. The leaders also provide staffers - of course on leaves of absence from the state payroll - to run the re-election campaigns.

This system can be changed only if public tax dollars, not the special interest money, are the main ingredient of election campaigns. It even could be less expensive for the public in the long run to have tax dollars financing campaigns. The special interest legislation often is expensive.

Reform? Show us the money.

She made a mistake, however, when she accused George a new member, of being an alcoholic after she saw his old pickup parked in front of the town's only bar one afternoon. She emphatically told George and several others that everyone seeing it there would know what he was doing.

George, a man of few words, stared at her for a moment and just turned and walked away. He didn't explain, defend, or deny. He said nothing. Later that evening, George quietly parked his pickup in front of Mildred's house, walked home... and left it there all night.

Don't ya just love of George?

More than $1.8 million available for children and family dental

The Department of Health and Family Services today announced that it is requesting proposals from counties, organizations, and oral health care facilities to expand dental access to low income individuals. The Department has more than $1.8 million in one-time dental access grants to award to programs that will increase dental access for Wisconsin children and families.

The Joint Committee on Finance approved the Department's plan to provide approximately $4.08 million in one-time grants to expand access to oral health. While some awards have already been designated, the Department now has more than $1.8 million available to counties, organizations, and oral health care facilities with qualified proposals on a first-come-first-serve basis.

Awards will range between $25,000 and $500,000 to expand or create successful local programs. All grant recipients must show that the programs will continue to provide dental services once the grant funding is spent.

The grants that have already been awarded to expand or create successful local programs include:

* Scenic Bluffs Dental Clinic, Cashton, La Crosse County, $350,000

* Madre Angela Dental Clinic, Milwaukee, Milwaukee County, $140,000

* Brown County Oral Health Partnership, $341,000

* Marquette University School of Dentistry, Milwaukee, Milwaukee County, $1 million

* Family Health La Clinica, Wautoma, Waushara County, $75,000

IN MEMORY

In memory of WILBERT WAGNER, who passed away five years ago, January 3, 2002:

This month brings with sad regret.
The day, the hour, we will never forget.
To see your face and watch your smile,
To sit with you and talk awhile,
To be together the same old way,
Would be our greatest wish today.
Only a cluster of memories sprayed with a million tears.
Wishing God had shared you just a few more years.

Deeply missed by your family.

Forty Acres and a Fool

By Roger Welsch

Voyageur Press $21.95 326 Pages

You are sick of the Rat Race.

Crowded neighborhoods, crowded stores, and crowded schedules make you claustrophobic. Rush hour ruins your day before it even starts and you're so overworked that you don't know what relaxation is any more.

This year, you've made a resolution to slow down and savor life a lot more. In fact, you're thinking you might just move the family somewhere else, maybe to a smaller town. A place that's quiet and unhurried.

Before you sell the condo or notify the landlord, pick up a copy of "Forty Acres and a Fool" by Roger Welsch.

Forewarned is forearmed.

So you've got your eye on a little parcel of land a few miles out of town. You can just picture yourself with a few cows and maybe a horse in the field. There'll be a tractor in the shed and a cookstove in the kitchen behind the big porch. It'll be bucolic. Peaceful. Serene. "Green Acres", only better.

And full of surprises, Welsch says. Do you really want to do this? Examine your reasons why and then remember that it's going to be a lot different than city-living.

First of all, Welsch says, you need to consider buildings. If there's already a house on your land, that's great. But you're going to need other buildings, too. Will you start from scratch or will you utilize something that's been moved in from elsewhere? Welsch offers advice on acquiring, setting, and moving buildings, including the best advice of all: let an expert do it.

So you've got the land and you've got ideas, but you have no idea how to make this work. You're not alone, Welsch says. Help is there for the asking. All sorts of local "experts", expert wanna-be's, and County Agents are happy to offer advice and assistance.

And what about those people in the community? Welsch says that you should always remember that you are the outsider and you should move slowly. It's not your community - yet - but, given some time, you'll be glad when it is.

"Forty Acres and A Fool" is very much a 326-page love letter to small town life but as much as author Roger Welsch enthuses about his small Nebraska community, he's also careful to discuss nasty parts of country living: things like neighborly feuds, not-so-fresh country air, trespassers, and eccentric townfolk you'd just as soon not know. Welsch does also tend to repeat himself, which isn't off-putting but it is noticeable, even if it does underscore the points he's making.

When offering advice for newbie countrymen (and women), though, Welsch is dead-on; in fact, if you're a long-time farmer or small-towner, you'll want to keep copies of this book at the town hall or local tavern just so they're handy for newcomers to read.

If you've had it with The Rat Race and that little five-acre parcel just out of town looks more and more appealing, pick up a copy of "Forty Acres and A Fool". To miss this book would be just plain foolish.

Falcons hit their free throws to turn back KHS boys

BY JUDY HARLOW
Statesman Correspondent

One game after its big win over New Holstein, the Kewaskum High boys basketball team went right back to its old ways of having a quarter where points did not come easily and ultimately determined the outcome of the game.

Kewaskum stayed right with Sheboygan Falls for the first half Monday night, then the Indians couldn't buy a basket, scoring just four points the next eight minutes, which led to a 45-31 defeat in Eastern Wisconsin Conference play.

"It was tied at half, then they hit a couple of threes," coach Bobby Bannasch said about how his Indians were in the game at the halfway point and only down by six until the last three or four minutes when they had to foul. "They (Falcons) made all their free throws. They made 88 percent of them," the coach said.

The loss dropped the Indians' record to 1-2. All their first three games were against conference foes.

Casey Scheel was the lone player to hit in double figures for Kewaskum. The 6-foot-1 senior guard popped in a season-high 19 points, a total that included a pair of 3-point aerials.

"Casey had a couple threes. He was five for five at the free throw line. He took the ball to the basket," Bannasch said. "We need him to do that. We need him to be aggressive."

From there the scoring dropped down to eight by 6-4 post player, Matt Parrent, who wound up with eight.

What was a bit puzzling about this game was the Indians being called for 22 fouls, compared to just six for the Falcons, who made hay at the free throw line, going 21x24. Against New Holstein, it was Kewaskum getting whistled for just six fouls.

"There was a lot called on us ... it was lopsided. It was very lopsided," Bannasch said. "It just wasn't a clean game they called, not as far as we were concerned."

Jacob Juedes led the winners with 15 points, and Pribek added 14.

Indians treat mat coach to a big victory

Looking for a great senior season, 189-pound Jake Turowski is certainly off to a good start. Turowski, improved to 12-1 after a win over Kiel's John Dineen. Turowski is showing rising to his feet before reversing Dineen and pinning him in 2:49.

It was a nice Christmas present for coach Dennis Aupperle.

The Kewaskum High School wrestling team gift-wrapped a 50-28 victory over Kiel last Tuesday night with seven pins and one technical fall.

With the victory, the Indians end the 2006 portion of their dual meet season with a 3-0 mark in Eastern Wisconsin Conference action and improved to an impressive 7-1 overall.

"We did all right," Aupperle said after the team's first home meet. "They're (Raiders) solid at 140 and 171 (pounds)" against Mason Smith and Ben Boettcher. Boettcher actually was subbing for Eric Turowski, one of three Indians who had to sit out Tuesday because of skin disorder, and Aupperle said, "We kind of ran out of gas there ... Other than that, there were quite a few pins."

Posting pins and contributing six points to the team total were: Stephan "Bud" Kattar, Nathan Seitz, Eric Ogi, Ray Wollner, Cody Seibel, Jake Turowski, and P.J. Krueger, and four of those pins came in the first period.

Adding five points for his technical fall was 103-pound mighty mite Andrew Haugen, who put on quite a clinic, scoring takedowns and near falls.

"Bud and Seitz got it started off well for us," Aupperle said, noting Seitz has been wrestling well but having difficulty outpointing his opponents. In this match, against Greg Kometzke, the score was tied at 4-all when Seitz applied a pin hold the Raider could not squirm out of. The pin time was 1:47.

"I think Ray Wollner (at 152) did a nice job," Aupperle went on, indicating the sophomore athlete is really starting to show his potential in the sport. Wollner has excellent strength, which he displayed when he got out of a precarious position and put Eric Freitag right to his back.

Eric Ogi at 145, Jake Turowski at 189 and P.J. Krueger at 225, all rebounded from their first losses in the finals at the prestigious Marty Loy Invitational last weekend.

Ogi improved to 11-1 with an excellent and quick effort, a pin in 1:53 over Chad Plagemann. Turowski was way too strong and talented for John Dineen, pinning him in 2:49, to also improve his record to 11-1. Then it was Krueger's turn, and he didn't disappoint, pinning his foe in 2:52.

"P.J. does a nice job for a sophomore," Aupperle said. "He moves well. He has decent balance, and he looks stronger than he is."

The KHS coach also praised Cody Seibel for his work on the mat. "He looked a little hesitant on his feet, but once he got going ... he said, referring to the pin by the freshman wrestler.

About the only thing Aupperle wasn't pleased with was how his athletes worked from the down position. "We didn't come out as well as we should have," he said, but there will be time to work on that until the Indians compete in the On The Waters Classic at UW-Oshkosh on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 29-30.

"That's a tough two days," Aupperle said about the event, which draws about 40 teams. One team that won't be there again this year is Luxemburg-Casco, which chose last year to switch to another event. Arch rival Campbellsport will also not be in Oshkosh. "They got out of it this year," Aupperle said, recalling how SPASH (Stevens Point Area High School) was near the top of the standings in last year's tournament.

Good effort by Indians falls just short

BY JUDY HARLOW

The 1-3 record doesn't look very impressive, but there have been signs of encouragement shown by the Kewaskum High boys basketball game early in the 2006-07 season.

Last Friday night's Eastern Wisconsin Conference contest against Two Rivers was a good example. Playing at home, the Indians fell behind by two points a couple times but regained their composure and had a chance to tie the game in the final 13 seconds.

Unfortunately Matt Parrent's 3-point try did not connect, and the Raiders eventually won with a 56-52 victory.

"It was one of those games, first-year head coach Bobby Bannasch said. "Two Rivers is a good team. They played Roncalli three nights earlier and took them into overtime. They ended up losing by three points."

Bannasch and his staff looked at the results of those games and decided it would be wise to try to limit the Raiders' 3-pointers, one of their strengths.

The final statistics showed the Indians did just that, giving up just three long range baskets, but the defensive effort was not matched at the free throw line where there were just four of 10 tries for 40 percent.

The Raiders did well at the free throw line, going 11x12 and also turned in some tough defense, especially on guard Casey Scheel, who was limited to just six points after hitting a game-high 19 in the loss to Sheboygan Falls.

Matt Parrent, a four-year varsity player, and Jon Holt, were the stars for Kewaskum in this game. Each had 16, prompting Bannasch to laud their strong efforts.

"We had a chance at the end. With about 13 seconds left, Matt took a shot, and he missed, We fouled, and they made the free throws."

"The big thing is we got some point production from Dan Shea, Jack Breese and Dan Parker," Bannasch went on, indicating he has been urging those players to start contributing more scoring.

"They did a nice job responding to that," he said, looking at the fact Shea added six points, Breese chipped in with four and the junior Parker added four.

"We're going to be in every game. It's just a matter of how we get over the hill," Bannasch said.

The Raiders were paced by Noah Timm's 18 and an even dozen from Jon Coogle, who is probably one of the better shooters for Two Rivers.

Kewaskum outrebounded Two Rivers 12 to 17. "They are not a big team but a quick team," the coach said.

Kewaskum, currently 1-3, will play in the Mid Moraine Cage Classic tonight and Friday.

The Indians open tonight at 6:45 p.m. against Winnebago Lutheran Academy, which, Bannasch said, just recently lost to Roncalli in a non-conference clash. "They only lost to Roncalli by three points," Bannasch said, going on that the tournament included two rated teams, namely Brown Deer and Wau-pun. "It's a good tournament to see where we are."

A win over WLA puts the Indians in the championship game at 6:45 p.m. on Friday. A loss means the Indians play at 2:15 p.m. in the consolation game.

Two Rivers: 16-10-19-11 — 56
Kewaskum: 9-14-14-15 — 52
Kewaskum: Shea 6, Breese 4, Parrent 14, Scheel 6, Holt 16, Parker 4. 3-point goals—Scheel (2), Parrent (2). FTs—4x10. Fouls—14.

Two Rivers: Timm 18, Coogle 12, Ja Franko 2, Ju Franko 4, Fischer 3, Schramm 9, Sinkula 6, Kakes 2. 3-point goals—Fischer, Timm, Coogle, FTs—11x12. Fouls—12.
