"I like this community, the students are great. This is a great place to work," she stated while finishing up end of the year tasks in her classroom. "We have lots of changes coming at the high school, because I have been here and I have a good feel for the direction in which we're heading. We are going to continue to make this a better school. That is the direction we're headed," she concluded.

She will officially move into the position on July 1. Ignatowski and her husband reside in Wauwatosa, but are looking to move closer to the district soon.

Ignatowski will work 220 days and receive a $60,000 salary. Fischer received $65,700 during the 2006-2007 school year.

"Both Tom and Anne are highly qualified, and we feel fortunate that they are staying at Kewaskum Community Schools while advancing their careers," announced Superintendent of Schools Mike Krumm.

Outstanding health care can also be convenient. Just ask Donna Kork, a Washington County resident for more than 45 years. During a routine physical, her Aurora Health Center physician heard something odd when listening to her heart, and urged Donna to have further tests. The tests uncovered three separate, life-threatening aneurysms that surgeons were able to repair, thanks to her physician's thoroughness. She's glad that her doctor was so attentive, and that the surgical expertise she needed was just minutes away with Aurora Health Care.

Convenient, coordinated care. Specialized medicine. That's why Donna chose Aurora Health Care.

Here are just a few of the reasons why you should choose Aurora, too:

- For your convenience, our health centers are located nearly 15 minutes from where you live or work.
- Our physicians coordinate your hospital care with Aurora Medical Center in Hartford to provide you with leading diagnostic, surgical and treatment services.
- Our patients have access to Aurora St. Luke's Medical Center, offering breakthrough treatments, not available anywhere else in the state, in the areas of heart, cancer and neurological care.

County Highway Dept. eyes up Wayne eyesore

This home at the corner of Highways H and W in the town of Wayne is being considered for a vision triangle by The Washington County Highway Department.

By Andrew Kuehl

Statesman Managing Editor
akuehl@kewaskumstatesman

WEST BEND- Township residents might get some help from the county to rid itself of condemned property in the middle of the town. The Washington County Highway Committee met Tuesday, June 5, to talk about taking ownership of the home at the corner of Highways H and W. The home has back taxes owed to Washington County on it since 2002.

Washington County Highway Commissioner Ken Pesch wants to see the home demolished and the corner made into a vision triangle for the intersection. Town of Wayne chairman Scott Weiss and Clerk Chris Kuehn attended the meeting and offered the township's help in moving the process along.

The home is currently owned by Matthew Hildebrand and was reported unfit for human habitation in 2000. Currently the home has a mortgage balance of around $50,000 and taxes in the amount of around $11,000 that includes a special assessment from the town of Wayne.

After the family was removed from the home, the town of Wayne somewhat cleaned up the property. They left a $1,900 tab via a special assessment on the tax rolls for the county to collect. Weiss and Kuehn stated the town would forgive the assessment if the county took ownership of the property.

County Attorney Kim Nass told the commissioners that the property was available to be assumed by the county on back taxes. To start that process the highway committee needed to ask the finance committee to look into the matter.

From there the finance committee will review it and they could recommend that the county board take ownership of the property. During that time the highway committee would need to have an environmental study completed on the property so a demolition plan can be developed.

Nass did report that a California company held a mortgage on the property and has not made an attempt to regain the property. According to Weiss and Kuehn the structure on the property is reported to be lacking a proper septic system and a well. Asbestos is also likely and during an inspection that lead to the removal of the homeowners, traces of lead paint were found. On the bright side, evidence of an underground storage tank is unlikely.

Pesch indicated that after the vision triangle was constructed the County Clerk could sell a remnant parcel.

Local News IN BRIEF

Allenton man headed to prison for abuse

WEST BEND- A 25-year old Allenton man is headed for prison for his role in slapping a 19-month old boy last August. Washington County Circuit Court Judge Annette Ziegler sentenced Junior Weiss to three years and handed down an additional three years of extended supervision in a hearing held Wednesday, June 6.

Police say the child's face was swollen, he had bruises on his forehead and cheeks and found blood on the bed and wall of the home. Washington County Sheriff's deputies went to the apartment to investigate injuries to the boy's six-month-old sister, who later died from abuse injuries.

Weiss's roommate, 23-year-old Craig Tolonen, is charged with reckless homicide in the case involving the six-month-old but has pled not guilty.

Allenton man found not guilty of abuse

WEST BEND- After about an hour-and-45-minute deliberation, a jury found 44-year-old Todd Lawson not guilty of felony child abuse on Wednesday, June 6. The trial was heard in judge Andy Gonring's court.

Motorcycle clashes with dump truck, rider airlifted to Froedtert Hospital, in critical condition

TOWN of EDEN- Flight for Life Helicopter was called to the intersection of Highways F and K for a crash involving a motorcycle and dump truck on Monday morning, June 11. The driver of the motorcycle was airlifted from the scene to Froedtert Hospital in Milwaukee, where she remains in critical condition.

The Fond du Lac County

said about the trailer, which was empty.

Goeden said her mother and Wollner were having a conversation and did not see the crash. Because they were on the right side of the bus, they immediately knew something had happened because, "There was glass everywhere ... It was chaos."

The people from the left side were thrown onto the right side off the bus, on top of people sitting there, according to Goeden, who said her mom had two women land on her.

Soon one woman began to yell that she couldn't breathe, Goeden said, adding water was starting to come into the bus and the woman was afraid she was going to drown.

"My mother held her head above water and saved her," Goeden said, reporting Enright told her help was on the scene almost immediately and when the people unpiled, most were able to walk and talk, even though they were injured.

The exception was a man who suffered a serious back injury. "He is there with his wife and children," Goeden said, indicating there was an obvious concern about his condition.

Goeden said the first hospital the people were taken to had just three rooms, so some were transferred to other facilities with more medical equipment.

"Mom was treated and released," Goeden said.

While Joe Enright got a phone call from his wife, the family and Wollner's relatives had trouble getting information from the United States Embassy in Bosnia.

"They (Embassy personnel) weren't real helpful in the beginning, but they are getting better," she said, indicating Tuesday before noon she was awaiting another call from her mother.

All those released from the hospital were taken to the Hotel America, and Goeden said many of the employees there were helping the Americans find clothing.

Goeden did not know if the people were going to continue their trip or come home. "It's up to the Embassy," she said, adding her mom was still in a bit of shock when she talked with her, but "she seemed to be in good spirits."

The spiritual leader of the group is Fr. Rick Wendell, associate pastor at Holy Angels Catholic Church in West Bend. He was ordained in May 2006, and is known for his excellent homilies and his devotion to the Blessed Mother, who reportedly appeared to several children in Medjugorje over 20 years ago. He suffered a broken wrist.

According to Kathleen Hohl, communications director for the Milwaukee Archdiocese, MJJ Tours and Pilgrimages coordinated the pilgrimage. The group left Chicago Sunday, June 10, and was scheduled for a 10-day trip to Medjugorje. This was not an archdiocesan pilgrimage, nor was it a parish pilgrimage.

There were 34 people on the tour, one from South Dakota and the other 33 from Wisconsin. Of those 33, two people were from Green Bay, four were from Appleton, and the rest were from southeastern Wisconsin.

Upon her return, The Statesman will hear from Enright who will share more about her trip.

she said she'd get to some day. Her official last day is Friday, June 29. "The hardest thing will be turning the keys in and know that the next time I come I will just be a visitor. I'm confident the school will thrive. I think Catholic Schools are important today more than ever. It's the best way for parents to pass along the faith to their children," she concluded.

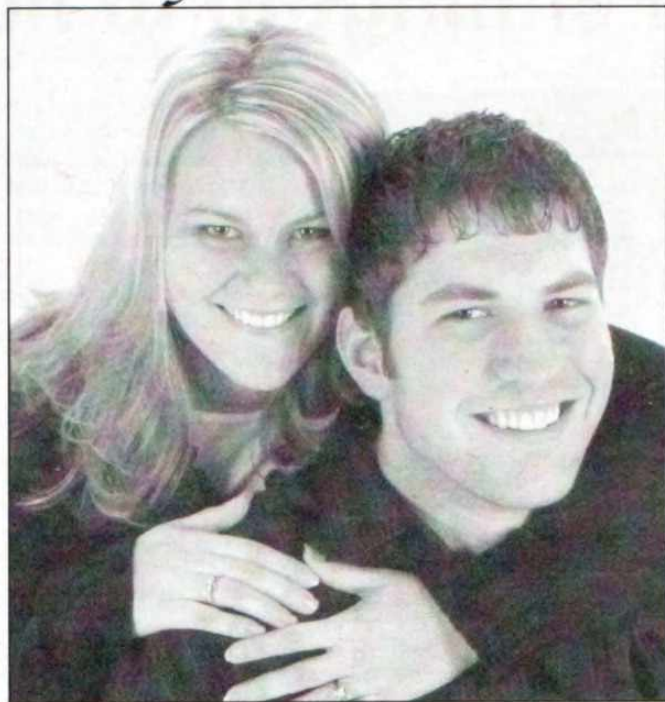

REPORTER'S NOTE: Mrs. June Gauvin was my grade school principal while I attended Holy Trinity. Thank you Mrs. Gauvin for four years of (at the time) unwanted leadership. Thank you for never losing faith in me and always believing that a stubborn teenager could one day achieve great things. I pray that God blesses your retirement with happiness and joy; if anyone deserves it it certainly is you. I look forward to our continued friendship and will certainly miss working with you.

KEWASKUM- It's the end of an education era at Holy Trinity Catholic School. After 19 years, principal June Gauvin will begin enjoying her retirement in the coming weeks.

Gauvin came to Kewaskum with her family in 1991 from River Falls. She says, she made the switch from St. Bridget Catholic School where she was principal for five years after teaching there for 14, because she saw Holy Trinity's school as a place she could make some contributions.

Just shy of 50 years in the Catholic education, Gauvin credits good health and energy as her factor in remaining a "good" principal.

During her tenure at Holy Trinity, Gauvin says she is proud of many achievements the school reached under her watch. "We added K5, that took a long time and now we offer K4, we put an addition on the building and through a grant, we improved our computer lab," she declared. "I think we have always been on the cutting edge, bringing in the new without dumping the basic things kids need to learn," she adds.

A surprise retirement party was held on Sunday, May 20 after Holy Trinity's 11 a.m. service. The liturgy beforehand was concelebrated by Fr. Ed Kornath (current pastor of Holy Trinity), Fr. Mark Jones and Fr. Tom Venne (who hired Gauvin). These were three of the seven pastors Gauvin worked for. She recalled that the event was a complete surprise.

After a bit of roasting and sharing of memories, Gauvin was presented with a new computer system from her current students and their families. Students also performed "The Mrs. Gauvin Song" song to L-O-V-E by Nat King Cole. A potluck reception ended the festivities.

She confesses that what she will miss most are the kids, "that is why you are there," she says confidently. She remembered a conversation with first grade girl who asked if she would come for visits. When Gauvin agreed to visit, the girl told her twice a month would be sufficient.

Gauvin has placed a lot of confidence in her successor, Sister Katie LaFond. "Sister Katie will be a great fit, she will do a great job," Gauvin assured.

As with many who retire, they are often busier in retirement than while they were working. Gauvin expects that will be the case with her too. She reported her daughter Kate is returning to school, so her days will be filled with being a grandma. She also reports "I'm going to do all the some day things" meaning all the things

Pennington to hold book signing June 16

Rochelle Pennington

Join author Rochelle Pennington at Fireside Books, 1331 W. Paradise Dr., West Bend, on Saturday, June 16 from 10:30 a.m. until noon for a book signing and presentation on her newly released title, The Endurance. The book details the extraordinary events surrounding one of history's greatest shipwrecks, a true story which has inspired generations over the past century, provoking management studies in leadership and motivation principles.

Journal entries penned by crew members who served on board the Endurance pay tribute to the unique and effective leadership style Shackleton used to safely deliver every one of his men from nearly two years of disaster and perils in the frozen world of Antarctica where danger threatened life, limb and sanity.

The group of 28 sailors and scientists on board the Endurance set out in 1914 to conquer one of the few remaining explorative feats which had not yet been accomplished by others before them - an on-foot crossing of the Antarctic continent. But their ship became trapped in the rapidly forming winter ice before it reached the continent, 100 miles off the coast of Antarctica. The crew, stranded 11,000 miles from home, waited for the spring thaw through nine long months of blizzards, gales and temperatures nearing 100 degrees below zero. With food scarce, the men watched in horror as their ship succumbed to the pressure of the frozen ocean, breaking to rubble and sinking to the bottom of the sea before the waters around it had a chance to melt. They were now alone at the end of the earth.

Their only hope for survival, after camping on the open ice for five months flowing their ship being "crushed like an eggshell," was to attempt an escape in three salvaged lifeboats across the most treacherous waters on the face of the globe.

Nearly two years was spent on ice and ocean, and the journey was recognized as "the greatest survival story in human history." Endurance was more than the name of a ship; it was the Shackleton family motto: "By endurance we conquer." Everyone on board the vessel had to believe those words were true, for the southern seas would show them no mercy.

The hardcover book is complemented by 35 remarkable, century-old, photographs documenting the journey. Frank Hurley, a professional photographer on board the Endurance, immortalized the events of the adventure "which were so extreme they would have strained credibility without the pictorial documentation." Hurley rescued the photographic glass plate negatives from the sinking ship. "The negatives were located beneath four feet of mushy ice," wrote Hurley, "and by stripping to the waist and diving under I hauled them out."

A leader among leaders, Sir Ernest Shackleton taught his men how to employ their thoughts to overcome every obstacle which persisted and to intentionally concentrate on victory. He refused to allow even the possibility of failure to enter his thinking. Success was the only option Shackleton would entertain, and if there wasn't a way, he would make one.

"I always found him rising to his best and inspiring confidence when things were at their blackest," wrote crew member Frank Hurley.

The story of Endurance live on today as an extraordinary example of perseverance against all odds, and Shackleton's "invincible optimist," as was observed by crew member Peter Wordie, was permanently bound to the success of the story.

Sir Ernest led by example, stressing equality, and also, as crew member Leonard Hussey wrote of it, "was quite willing to overlook the bad, and just remember the good in everyone." By choosing to downplay mistakes, and embrace achievements instead, Shackleton was able to bring out the best in his men.

The survival of the expedition's crew has become a timeless model of the knowledge that ordinary people, armed only with the simple power of attitude, can dive head-first into immense adversity and emerge victorious.

While conducting their research for The Endurance in England, the authors met and spoke with master sailor Steven Bull, who will make an attempt to re-trace Shackleton's lifeboat journey in 2008. He has built an exact replica of the rowboat Shackleton voyaged over 800 miles to South Georgia Island in after the Endurance sank.

Also in 2008, a team of divers from the United Kingdom will raise the wreckage of The Endurance.

In addition, the Door County Maritime Museum in Sturgeon Bay is planning to bring the Endurance exhibit from England in 2008, including several artifacts, and place it on display in their museum.

Pennington has authored two previous books, The Christmas Tree Ship and The Historic Christmas Tree Ship, detailing another famous shipwreck. Her new title makes a great gift for nautical lovers or persons interested in true stories exemplifying determination and attitude. The Endurance is co-authored with Rochelle's eldest son, Nicholas. Nicholas earned a Bachelor's Degree in Journalism from the University of Wisconsin - Whitewater and will receive his Master's Degree in Business Administration in the fall of 2007.

'Bye Bye Birdie' is theme for Kewaskum Chamber golf outing

The Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce is putting on quite the production this year for their annual golf outing. The cast and crew are hoping to raise funds for the new Kewaskum Theater being construction at Kewaskum High School.

Golfers and steak connoisseurs alike should make plans to attend the event Saturday, July 21 at Hon-E-Kor Golf and Country Club (HEK). Organizer Aaron Laatsch, who along with Kevin Bartelt and Mike Geidel, are taking on the role of producers and are hoping for community participation in the fundraiser.

In the past, the event has raised for Kettle Kountry Kolors Fall Festival and other Chamber activities such as the building of the kiosk along the Eisenbahn Trail, sprucing up the welcome to Kewaskum gazebo at the fire station and donating fireworks to the village's July 3 celebration. Because Kettle Kountry Kolors is not being held this year, Laatsch said he thought the event could help funds needed for the theater.

Entry flyers are already available for the event. They can be obtained at West Bend Savings Bank, Geidel's Piggly Wiggly and at HEK. The form can also be downloaded from the chamber's website www.kewaskum.org.

Laatsch said the outing includes 18 holes of golf at HEK, with selected holes featuring special events. There will also be numerous prizes and a delicious grilled steak dinner. Those not wanting to hit the links are encouraged to attend the steak fry for a great meal that will include raffles. The steak fry will begin around 4:30 p.m.

"It's going to be a scramble format again," Laatsch said, stressing, "The golfing is more for fun ... It's more of an outing than a tournament." Participants pick their own foursomes, couples may sign up together, and singles are welcome. They will be assigned a group, if they wish.

The cost is $75 for non-HEK members, $45 for those who are HEK members, and $15 for those who just want to come for the steak dinner. Golfing will start at 10 am, tee times will be available until noon.

Laatsch stressed the golf outing is not only open to chamber members. The chamber welcomes all who wish to golf and eat for a great cause.

Under the big top at FES

On Thursday, May 24, 2007, the circus made a stop at Farmington Elementary School (FES). It was quite the spectacle as dozens of lions, monkeys, elephants and other wild animals along with jugglers, strong men, tight rope walkers, tinkling dancers, clowns and more did a grand march and then took center stage under the big top.

The exciting spring concert was performed by all FES students grades 5K through fifth and coordinated by FES music teacher Terry Christie.

All circus decorations were created by FES students.

This major production was made possible thanks to all the teachers and staff at FES, parent volunteers and donations made by the FES PTO.

RIGHT: The FES 4th grade clown recorder band played a lively song mixed in with some dancing and silliness.

Happy Dad's Day

The new Dad: how the role of dad is changing

(ARA) - What kind of a relationship do you have with your dad? Gone are the days of the traditional mentor relationship such as Ward Cleaver and his sons Wally and Beaver.

"Fathers are taking a more direct role than ever in raising their children," says Karen Irvin, Ph.D., Program Chair for Marriage and Family Therapy at Argosy University and a licensed marriage and family therapist and psychologist.

"Dads are more aware from infancy, even from pregnancy, of their child's development and are more interested and involved than ever," says Dr. Irvin. In the past, fathers relied more on their children's verbal skills to communicate with them. Fathers now appear more interested in forming attachments earlier in their children's development. "Dads are no longer limited to teaching 'manly skills' such as survival, hunting, fishing and sports."

Like it or not, Dr. Irvin says, this is partly due to the beginning of a major culture shift driven by necessity. "With moms less available, dad is making up the difference," she says.

More often than not, the "traditional" mother no longer exists as she is employed either part time or full time. "The idea of a stay-at-home mom with a working dad is no longer the norm," Dr. Irvin says, on a break from her teaching responsibilities and clinical practice.

Fathers are more directly involved in day-to-day child care, in communication with day care providers and schools, and with health care providers. They are more likely to attend doctor and dental appointments than in the past. Fathers previously relied on mom to attend to these details and give dad the updates," says Irvin. Fathers' direct involvement in the details of their children's lives contributes to a greater feeling of closeness and empathy for the children, which increases the intimacy of father-child relationships.

"We are primarily seeing this as a middle class phenomenon right now," she says.

In the upper socio-economic level, there are still mothers who are able to be stay-at-home moms with the fathers working long hours outside the home. In the lower socio-economic levels, moms are still carrying the majority of the child rearing responsibilities, in some instances with minimal involvement from the father.

The range of subjects that fathers and their children are discussing and experiencing together is much broader today. Dads are teaching their children values, feelings and other things that were typically "assigned" to moms.

What's driving this?

Through Dr. Irvin's more than 30 years of clinical practice, she has seen more and more couples facing the challenges of divorce, and that the impact it has on a father's relationship with his children can be significant.

Happy Dad's Day

The Bookworm Sez

by Terri Schlichenmeyer
Books for Dads

Why is it that Dads are so darn hard to buy for?

Think about it: a month ago, when Mother's Day was imminent, you figured a card and flowers would make Mom smile and you were right. A nice pen set, a new gadget... heck, if you're young enough, you can give her a plaster cast of your handprint and get away with it.

But Dad? He's a toughie.

So why not make it easy? How about giving Dad a book for Father's Day? There are lots of books he'd love, and here are a few suggestions:

If Dad or Grandpa is a WWII veteran, he's going to love reading "Tales from a Tin Can: The USS Dale" by Michael Keith Olson (Zenith Press). It's a book filled with oral histories of a World War II destroyer. If Dad was aboard a Tin Can, he'll want to open this book right away. Zenith Press also has the story of a hero, "Omaha Beach and Beyond: The Long March of Sergeant Bob Slaughter" by John Robert Slaughter available. Dad-the-Vet will want that book, too.

Does your paternal unit have wanderlust in his heart? He might like "Dateline Mongolia" by Michael Kohn (RDR Books), then. This book is filled with adventure and tales of a place that few have traveled, and it's perfect for Dad-the-Armchair-Traveler.

I don't know of many Dads who don't like sports, so a book about his favorite pastime will make him happy. If he loves buckets, be sure to look for "Man in the Middle" by John Amaechi (ESPN Books), a biography with a touch of controversy and timeliness. For the father who likes to drown worms, give him "Beneath the Surface: A Natural History of a Fisherman's Lake" by Bruce M. Carlson (Minnesota Historical Society Press). For the dad with ideas of grandeur, he'll fight to read "The Gladiators" by Fik Meijer (Thomas Dunne Books). Filled with history, archaeology, and sport, it's also easy on the wallet, at just under fifteen bucks. If Dad is counting the days til football season, you can get him through this very trying time by giving him "The Best Show in Football: the 1946-1955 Cleveland Browns" by Andy Piascik (Taylor Trade). That's a book about a history-making team that Dad-the-Football-Fan will want to read more about.

If Dad is the cook in your house, then look for "The Oxford Companion to American Food and Drink", edited by Andrew F. Smith (Oxford University Press). There aren't any recipes in this huge, heavy book, but if Father is a foodie, it's going to give him hours and hours and hours of good reading. If recipes are more Dad's thing, give him "Panna Cotta: Italy's Elegant Custard Made Easy" by Camilla V. Saulsbury (Cumberland House). Either of these are great gifts for Dad-the-Cook. Just be sure to finagle an invitation to dinner and ask for seconds.

So you say Pops isn't much of a reader, but that he's good with his hands? Then there are lots of books for him! How about "Hot Rod Kings" by David Perry and Kevin Thomson (Motorbooks, International)? Or maybe "The John Deere Two-Cylinder Tractor Encyclopedia" by Don MacMillan (Voyageur Press). Or give him "Regional Railroads of the Midwest" by Steve Glischinski or "Long Island Rail Road" by Stan Fischler (both from Voyageur Press). Any of those books will drive Dad-the-Gearhead over the moon.

Ah, but you say, your Papa is more the quiet type. He's more of a novel lover. Then the good news is, there's an even bigger selection for him! Look for the mystery / adventure novel "The Blue Cheer" by Ed Lynskey (Point Blank Press). Author David Morrell just wrote "Scavenger" (Vanguard Press), and a gift certificate might just be the thing if Dad wants to read "Stalin's Ghost" by Martin Cruz Smith (Simon & Schuster, due out 6/12). There are lots of great fiction books available, and your local bookseller can help you decide on the best one for your Dad-the-Storyteller.

There.

See?

Father's Day doesn't have to be so hard. Wrap up a present for Dad that he'll enjoy opening up for hours.

Happy Father's Day and Happy Reading!

Dad's role

"Divorce has been a wake-up call for dads. When parents live together, they are accustomed to having access to their children day and night, weekend and weekday. Following separation or divorce, there is heightened awareness of missing the children and missing out on routines such as bedtime rituals. Fathers seem to be clearer about the need for time and intimacy with their children, and they are presenting those needs to mothers, mediators and the courts.

Today, dads are taking more time to learn how to be parents. "You used to have dads that got together and talked about sports or cars, and now they're also talking about day care and nutrition," says Irvin. Some fathers are attending classes with their young children, modifying their work schedules to be more flexible to accommodate children's needs and schedules.

On the positive side of all of this, having a better relationship between father and child means that kids are going to feel more grounded. Recent literature on children of divorce indicates that one of the variables for children's emotional recovery, social skill development and academic success is related to a consistent, stable relationship and time spent with fathers.

So are the days of Ward, Wally and the Beaver over? "Yes ... for both the good and the bad. How fathers assume their new role and take on added responsibility in the coming years will be critical."

Ivy Briefs

By Martha Kimes
Atria, $23.00 276 pages

So, did you hear the one about the lawyer who.....?

Oh, wait. Never mind.

Much has been said about lawyers in today's litigious world, but - love them, hate them, or need them - you have to give them credit. Jokesters target them. Joe Average scoffs at them. Even The Bard reviled barristers, but many young adults with penchant for detail flock to law school every fall.

One of those was author Martha Kimes. In her new book "Ivy Briefs: True Tales of a Neurotic Law Student," Kimes writes about getting into law school, trying to stay sane in law school and becoming a lawyer long after law school ended.

Growing up in small-town Wisconsin, Martha Kimes always longed for excitement. Like most teens, she couldn't wait to escape to the Big City. Upon graduation, she set her sights on Madison, but a honeymoon trip to New York made her fall in love with The Big Apple. Because stuffing envelopes back home wasn't exactly what she wanted to do with her life, she decided to set The Bar a little higher.

She applied to Columbia Law School.

Weeks later, Kimes was astounded to receive a skinny envelope with the word "Congratulations!" inside. She and her husband packed up and moved from Big City to Bigger City. And Kimes dug in.

Her first day was filled with intimidation. Kimes knew she'd have to catch up, academically, with more privileged classmates; people for whom an Ivy League education had always been a given. She threw herself into studying, second-guessing, and learning to "think like a lawyer."

But things got easier. Kimes discovered how to study for make-or-break tests without making herself - and her husband - crazy. She gained friends and set her sights on a specialty and on a firm to work for. By graduation, she had a job offer and a hefty school loan.

She also had one more test. Was The Bar set too high for a Midwestern girl?

In the not-too-distant future, thousands of lawyer-hopefuls will be packing up their bedrooms and moving to a dorm far away. "Ivy Briefs" should be boxed up next to the new towels and homesick remedies.

With self-deprecating humor, ditzy dithering, and gossipy bluntness, author Martha Kimes tells what it's like to be out of your (ivy) league. Don't think this is a mad-cap romp through the hallowed halls of academia, though. Kimes was serious as a judge about her studies.

My only complaint is that Kimes occasionally let her knowledge get away from her: she tended to meander into lengthy legalese. That's fine for a reader who is a fellow lawyer, but not so good for the rest of us. Feel free to skip happily over those paragraphs; they don't really have any effect on the rest of Kime's fine memoir.

If you're a Perry Mason fan, a real-life Judd for the Defense, or if you just want something different to read, here's a book to court. "Ivy Briefs" is one you'll want to adjourn with, and that's no joke.

A BANANA A DAY?

Banana's may be the fruit of choice when it comes to helping control high blood pressure. Recent studies show that potassium, present in abundance in bananas and some other fruits and vegetables, can reduce the dosages of anti-hypertensive medication needed by some patients with high blood pressure. In one study, high blood pressure patients who ate three to six daily servings of high potassium foods for a year were able to cut their initial drug dosage in half. The study reinforces the advice that doctors have long been giving patients with high blood pressure: eat a diet high in vegetables, legumes and fruits, and reduce intake of salt, alcohol, and saturated fat. Always let your physician know if you've made any major changes in your diet.

PERSPECTIVES

To the Editor:

The Washington County 4-H Leaders Association is again sponsoring the Silent Auction at the Washington County Fair, July 24-29. We need you to help it be a success.

The money is used for scholarships, trips, training and camperships for 4-H youth and 4-H leaders.

Bring items for the silent auction to the pavilion and our committee will put paper and pencil next to your items where bidders will put their name, complete phone number and the bid!

What to donate? Items for individuals, families, young and old are needed. Ideas are antiques, certificates for services, tickets, books, baskets of like items, strong potted plants and crafts too. We don't expect old, used items, just the ones that you would be proud to take home. Please check on the paper sheets next to the items to keep raising your bid.

On Sunday afternoon, the committee will end the bidding and total up the bids. An announcement will go over the loud speakers. Hopefully everyone will pick up and pay for their items before leaving the fair. Items not claimed at the fair will be delivered to the 4-H office and then the bidders will have to pick them up at the extension office.

So bid high and bid often!

Thanking you ahead of time!

Gratefully,
Marge Slaugher

To the Editor:

I need to tell this community what is happening every second and fourth Saturday during our Stand for Peace in West Bend. We hold signs such as "War is not the answer," or "Bring Our Troops Home." Unbelievable...absolutely amazing as far as the reaction of many drivers and passengers passing by.

The vast majority of people are supportive of our message and our presence. People are waving, smiling, giving thumbs up or peace signs or blowing horns or nodding affirmatively. A couple of years ago that wasn't the case. I really believe that people, young and old, are very tired of war.

Please have confidence to join us on the corners of Main and Paradise from 11:30-12:20 this coming Saturday. We have extra signs or you can make your own. It is an hour of hope...truly!

To the Editor:

I've been wondering if any of your readers find the concept of "Hate Crimes" as reprehensible as I do. An attack against the person or property of ANY individual is, obviously, criminal, and outrageous. But, I want to hear the justification anyone can make for being less concerned if the victim is German, French, Irish, Italian, English, etc., etc. that if it's a black or Hispanic! What happened to "equal under the hat?"

Think about the unmitigated arrogance of some of these political hacks who have assumed the God-like ability to read our minds, determine the REASON a hate crime was committed, and, for the identical crime, assess a penalty based on the ethnicity of the victim! Great balls of fire!

I don't know about you, but, to me, there is no questions their actions, to demonstrate their "compassion" for a specific group, is a thinly masked program to buy votes. Come to think of it, though, the most abominable group just might be the "conservative" wimps who know it's despicable but lack the guts to stand up and fight for what is right.

Letter to the Editor:

On behalf of the Wisconsin Department of Transportation and the entire state of Wisconsin, I want to thank the approximately 3,030 Adopt-A-Highway (AAH) groups across the state that help keep our roadsides looking clean and green.

While their work is most evident in the spring, AAH volunteers are asked to clean along their assigned two-mile segment of state highway three times per year. In the process, AAH volunteers pick up about 585 tons of trash every year. There is simply no way our department could meet its many responsibilities without the help we receive from local governments and groups including AAH participants.

I also want to acknowledge the county highway workers who do an outstanding job plowing and maintaining state roadways, while also picking up and properly disposing of debris gathered by AAH crews.

For those who'd like to get involved in the AAH program, there are still over 2,000 miles of state highway awaiting "adoption." Find out more by contacting one of our regional WisDOT offices or go to our department's Web site at www.dot.wisconsin.gov.

Picking up a season's worth of accumulated litter along roadways can be a difficult and thankless task. I want to take this opportunity to salute our AAH volunteers and county highway departments for all your hard work in helping make Wisconsin such an outstanding place to live and visit.

Goeden continues his hot streak

BY JUDY HARLOW
Statesman Correspondent

There's more good news from the Don Goeden racing camp.

In weekend feature races at Oshkosh and Wilmot, Goeden powered his No. 11 IRA Sprint car to a fourth place and another victory.

"I had a good weekend again ... it's going good," Goeden said Monday about his season, which has now produced four feature wins in six starts and vaulted him into sixth place in the IRA (Interstate Racing Association) standings, even though he is only competing in 75 percent of the shows this season.

On Friday night, on the Oshkosh one-third mile overall, about the only thing that didn't go well for Goeden was the time trials. When asked if he did well in the opening part of the show, Goeden said, "No, we didn't," mainly because he and the crew were making adjustments to the motor.

Whatever they did for the other races certainly clicked because the Kewaskum native finished second in the heat race, then put on a nice little driving show in the feature, moving up eight places, from 12th to fourth.

Another Kewaskum pilot, Mike Kertscher, was doing very well in the race until the halfway point. "He had steering gear and motor problems," Goeden said, reporting further that Travis Whitney of Minnesota came away with the checkered flag for the night.

Wilmot is becoming a favorite track for Goeden. He won a feature there several weeks ago, and he duplicated that effort on Saturday.

A total of 42 cars showed up to race on the quarter-mile at Wilmot, and Goeden turned in a time of 13.816 seconds in timing, which was good enough for 12th place.

Concerning the heat race, Goeden said, "We started fourth and won that."

And after that, was Goeden confident about the feature? Yes, he was. "We always do well there. We figured we'd be a top-five car," he said.

Goeden started the 30-lap event in the second spot and quickly moved into the lead. "There were six restarts, which kept us bunched up, but we led all the way and won," he said.

Mike Reinke of Sheboygan Falls finished second, while Brownsville's John Haeni placed third, and Goeden said, "That was a good race for him."

Kertscher's crew was reportedly unable to get a new steering gear installed in time and was unable to make Saturday's show.

"This weekend, we go to New Richmond for two shows," Goeden said. "They are having the Late Model Nationals ... It should be fun. We were second there last year."

According to the IRA website, Scott Biertzer of Kewaskum won a heat race at Oshkosh and placed 22nd in the feature. In the races at Wilmot, Biertzer drove his 4B car to a third in the heat race and 15th in the feature competition.

For the year, Goeden and Biertzer are tied for sixth place with 1,012 points. Leading the standings is Whitney with a 1,231 points, followed closely by Reinke, who has amassed 1,218. Steve Meyer is third with 1,188.

Kertscher, who has run into some bad luck in recent weeks, is sitting in the 24th spot with 569.

Second game features 5 home runs Indians double their pleasure vs. Two Rivers

BY JUDY HARLOW
Statesman Correspondent

Kewaskum High School baseball coach Dave Donath didn't see any flaws by his players Monday night, June 4, in their 10-0 and 13-1 twin win over Two Rivers at home in Kiwanis Park.

"The pitching has been solid ... they have given up just one earned run in conference," Donath said, adding, "The defense had been holding its own. We had just one error in the two games."

Then there was the offense. The Indians banged out 10 hits in each of the two games, and there were five home runs, yes, five, in the second game against the Raiders, whose pitchers were unable to stop the barrage.

In game one, which went just five and a half innings because of the 10-run "mercy" rule, Nick Ebert got the win, scattering five hits, striking out three and walking none. And there was plenty of offense behind Ebert. Leadoff man Casey Scheel went 2x3, Dan Shea went 2x3 with a double and an RBI.

"Those were the only two guys with multiple hits," Donath said, reporting the 3-run third pretty well salted the game away. In that inning, Scheel led off with a single, went to second on a passed ball and scored on a big double by Nick Olla. Shea followed with an RBI single, and junior Austin Petrin also delivered a single that scored a run.

Game two was a home run party for the Indians, who got two from Matt Parrent, a two-run shot to right field in the first and a three-run blast to left field in the sixth. In the sixth, Ebert led off with a solo shot, according to Donath. Then Scheel came through with another round tripper for back-to-back blasts, and later Parrent socked his second.

By the time the inning was over, Kewaskum had five more runs to add to its total, and this game also was shorted by one inning because the Indians were ahead by over ten.

"The other home run was hit by Petrin. It was a two-run shot to right-center in the fifth. In addition to the two homers and five RBIs by Parrent, Olla was 2x2 with two runs scored, and Shea was 1x2, was walked twice and scored twice.

Justin Krueger, the lone left-hander in the Indians pitching rotation, started and went three innings. He gave up one hit, fanned two and walked three. Garrett Barlow came in and went the next two innings to get the victory. His line showed three hits and one earned run given up, one strikeout and no walks. Petrin was on the mound for the final inning, giving up one hit and recording one strikeout.

With the wins, the Indians improved to 3-0 in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference and 6-1 overall.

Outdoor Tips & Tricks

by Dave Gowdey

Most of us use a clinch knot, or improved clinch knot, to secure flies and lures to our lines. This is a strong knot that is easy to tie, secures the fly or lure firmly to the line, and which works well in most fishing situations. However, there are times when fish are frustratingly selective, when they will follow a fly or lure closely but refuse to strike. In such circumstances, fish will sometimes take a fly or lure that is tied to the line with a loop knot that allows it to swing and work more freely. Either the perfection loop knot, or the nail loop knot can be used successfully in such circumstances.

Rust is the worst enemy of all firearms. In a short time, rust can pit the barrel of a fine rifle, destroying its accuracy, or eat into the barrel of a fine shotgun creating potentially dangerous weak spots. The best way to avoid rust is to clean firearms after every use, and, as the final step, to put a fine coat of quality gun oil on the inside and outside of the barrel and receiver. Use just enough to coat the metal - too much oil can attract dust and gum up internal actions.

Whenever I clean game birds I have shot, I always clip off the wings, cure them with table salt, and save them for dog training. A game bird wing tied with four feet of monofilament line to the end of a long fly rod or pole is an invaluable training aid. A wing flipped into higher grass where it is not visible can teach a young pup to locate birds by scent, and if "flushed" before the pup can grab it, can stimulate their pointing instincts. Used properly, it makes transition to live birds very easy. Wings taped to retrieving dummies can also increase the attractiveness of those dummies to your dog, help teach dogs to locate the dummies by scent, and get them used to the feel of feathers in their mouth.

If you have a tip to do with hunting, fishing or outdoor skills that you would share with other hunters and anglers, e-mail the tip to davegowdey@fastmail.fm. Credit will be given in the column to those whose tips are selected for publication.

Double error on play in the eighth gives KHS a 5-4 win Indians takes advantage of late breaks

A single by Barry Braatz helped Campbellsport score the lead run in the top of the eighth after the leadoff man walked and was bunted to second.

"Leadoff walks will kill you," Donath said, and so will errors, as the Cougars discovered in this contest.

With the victory, Kewaskum improved to 4-2 in EWC play and 7-3 overall, while Campbellsport is now 1-2 in the EWC and 5-4 overall.

After games against Roncalli, Plymouth and Cedar Grove on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the Indians are at home Friday evening at 5:30 p.m. to host West Bend West in a non-conference game featuring two solid teams.

BY JUDY HARLOW
Statesman Correspondent

On Friday night, the Kewaskum High baseball team was involved in its third one-run decision of the week, but this time it was the Indians coming out on top 5-4 in what had to be considered as bizarre an ending as coach Dave Donath has seen in several years.

With the game tied at 3-3 after seven innings, visiting Campbellsport picked up a run in the top of the eighth, and things looked real dismal for the Indians when Jordan Petrin hit what looked to be the third out on a pop up to right field.

"It looks like the game is over, and he drops the ball," Donath said Monday morning, reporting Austin Petrin, who had been on first base via a walk, scampered home with the tying run, and Nick Olla, on first via a single, alertly followed him to score the winning run on an overthrow.

"The kid (right fielder) threw it into the third base fence," Donath said. "It was a pretty ugly game. That was the finishing touch ... two errors on the play."

While the defense —

Kewaskum committed one error and Campbellsport had four — was not up to par, the two pitchers, winner John Holt and the Cougars' Austin Backhaus, put on quite a shot for the fans.

Both young men struck out a dozen in the eight innings, and Backhaus only gave up five hits, compared to the nine the Cougars had off Holt.

"The pitchers did well, no doubt," Donath said, noting a scout from UW-La Crosse was at the game to see Holt, who is getting some looks from college scouts. Already, Holt can throw a fastball 83 miles an hour, according to Donath, who said also, "He has good mechanics."

Holt had a bit of a shaky start, giving up three runs in the top of the first. "Only two of them were earned," Donath said, reporting the leadoff guy reached base on a strike-out and passed ball. "They did have three hits," the coach went on. They were singles by Austin Sarauer, cleanup hitter Tim Geiger and Backhaus.

Kewaskum got its three runs in the bottom of the sixth, when the Cougars booted the ball around a couple times. Dan Shea reached on an error and scored thanks to back-to-back hits by Matt Parrent and Logan Staege.

Then came an error on the shortstop, and now the score was 3-2, with Staege in scoring position at third. Olla promptly took care of that opportunity, hitting a sacrifice fly to score the third run.

Indians run into a snag in conference action

BY JUDY HARLOW
Statesman Correspondent

After smashing five home runs in one game, the bats went fairly silent for the Kewaskum High School baseball team in games against Sheboygan Falls and New Holstein last Tuesday June 5 and Wednesday June 6.

At Sheboygan Falls, the Indians managed just five hits but had no runs to show for it and wound up getting shut out 4-0.

"They scored four runs in the fifth," coach Dave Donath said, reporting the host Falcons had just three hits off John Holt but managed to get a rally started with the help of a walk, a couple passed balls, a "little base hit to left field."

Donath went on that three of the Sheboygan Falls runs were unearned. "We had the five hits but never really threatened," he said. With no outs in the third, Logan Staeger doubled and went to third when the Falcon outfielder missed the cutoff man, then Nick Olla was within one pitch of walking but after fouling a couple pitches off, he hit a hard grounder to third. "They ended up getting him (Staeger) on a close play at home."

The second and third outs came via a fielders choice and a strikeout.

It really was a good pitchers' duel between Holt and Bryan Mueller, according to Donath, who said, "going into the fifth we had one hit, and they didn't have any."

Garrett Barlow had a pair of hits for the Indians, while Dan Shea, Staeger and Nick Ebert all had one.

Back home on Thursday, June 7, the Indians were down 4-0 going into the bottom of the sixth when they rallied for three runs but couldn't come up with the one they needed to tie the game.

"Austin Petrin started and had some control problems," Donath said, reporting the Huskies went to work on Petrin in the second behind a leadoff walk, an infield hit, another walk and a second hit that didn't leave the infield.

Kewaskum's sixth started when Shea got hit by a pitch. After Matt Parrent reached base on a hit, Staeger followed with a fielder's choice, then Nick Olla hit a sacrifice fly to drive in the first run. Jordan Petrin followed with an RBI single, and Ben Butler smashed a single between third and short to score the final run.

With the loss, Kewaskum dropped to 3-2 in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference (EWC) and 6-3 overall.

Enright scores an ace at West Bend Lakes

BY JUDY HARLOW
Statesman Correspondent

The Thursday Nite League at the West Bend Lakes Golf Course had a bit of added excitement last week when Linda Enright got a hole-in-one.

The dramatic shot came on the 16th hole, which measures 110 yards from the women's tee, according to Enright, who said, "I used my 8-iron, and yes, this is my first hole-in-one."

Playing with Enright, who lives in rural Kewaskum and works for West Bend Mutual, were Jean Essinger, Donna Bichler and Carla Weinert. The entire foursome saw the ball hit the green and go into the cup.

"We've been golfing together for four or five years," Enright said. "We have a lot of fun."

Enright said she golfed her senior year in high school, which was 1975, and her coach was Joe Harlow.
