Village will be $20,000 over budget on 2007 snow removal

Village may face a road salt shortage with continued heavy snow falls

By Andrew Kuehl

andrew@kewaskumstatesman

KEWASKUM- The village board got a state of the salt address from Department of Public Works Director Jerry Gilles at the first meeting of the trustees in the new year. He told trustees, "I am concerned about how much salt we have."

Gilles stated the DPW started the year with 300 ton of salt. The yard's salt shed is full, with 145 ton of salt. He did indicate that the village has a reserve 80 tons.

For the month of December Gilles reported his department used 270 tons so far this year.

The village contracts with the state on it's purchase of road salt. Gilles says this saves the village between 12-15 percent on it's cost. The drawback he says is he needs a crystal ball to tell the future to determine how much salt to buy.

If the 80-ton reserve is used, the only alternative would be to purchase a load of salt on the open market. The reserve allotted in the state contract is a percentage of what the village buys as its base. The more they purchase, the larger the reserve.

The last time the village came close to depleting their reserves was about 10 years ago. At that time Spring sprung just before a purchase on the open market was to be made.

Gilles said his last calculation saw the village $19,000 over budget for snow removal. This includes all fuel and maintenance on the fleet as well as wages and overtime.

That figure did not include the snow fall just before the year's end. He thought the village could see a deficit in the realm of $25,000.

He also indicated that crew members had their hands full with equipment repairs as well as actual snow removal. With each new snow fall arose "issues" for the fleet of plows and equipment. At the time of the meeting however, each piece of equipment was operable.

Spring Election takes shape

By Andrew Kuehl

andrew@kewaskumstatesman

Interest in local politics was again at the bottom of the to-do list for many local residents. Voters will only see one new name when they head to the polls in April.

That new name is James (Jim) Leister, a resident of the town of Wayne who threw his name into the hat for Kewaskum's Board of Education. Leister is a current member of the school district's building and grounds committee.

Board veteran Jean Goeden did not turn in papers or file for non-candidacy.

Current president John Kenworthy and clerk Sally Cochran will join Leister on the ballot for members of the board of education.

A salary raise for Village Trustees that was voted on early in December was hoped to generate some interested candidates for the Village Board, however that didn't pan out like Trustees thought it would. Current Trustees Harry Roecker, Steve Scheuenemann and Kevin Scheuenemann, will retain their posts on the Kewaskum Village Board.

County Board Supervisors Gerald Schulz in District nine, Dan Stoffel in District 10, Brian Bausch in District 11 and Richard Bertram in District 13 will all run un-opposed.

Washington County Branch Two Circuit Court Judge James Muehlbauer who was appointed last year by Gov. Jim Doyle to replace Annette Ziegler will not have any opposition and will retain his seat.

Information on two other races, a Wisconsin State Supreme Court Justice Court Of Appeals Judge in District two will also appear on the ballot for Statesman readers.

The Statesman will run information on the candidates closer to Election Day.

Kewaskum Aurora Clinic making rapid construction progress

Contractors at the site of the new Aurora Clinic being built on Fond du Lac Avenue in the village are nearing completion of the structure. Much of the exterior is complete with the exception of landscaping and some roofing items. Aurora Healthcare, who is publicly believed to be a front-runner in a partnership with West Bend-based SynergyHealth, who operates a larger clinic in the village, announced their plans to construct the 4,085 square foot structure in late July of 2007. The clinic is expected to have one general practitioner. Stodola Maas Construction is the General Contractor. Village Zoning Administrator Chad Cook stated the Aurora Clinic was designed by Excel Engineering and the project owner is the Hammes Company.

COMMUNITY

KSD to honor those who serve students Did Santa lose a deer?

Last year, the Kewaskum School Board suggested administration look into different ways the District could start recognizing those who have dedicated part of their life for the benefit of children. Principal Christine Horbas assembled a committee made up of community members, parents, students, and employees. They met for the first time in late August and worked throughout the fall developing a system to recognize past employees and community volunteers who have made an impact on students in the Kewaskum District.

The new award, which will be given out for the first time this coming fall, is called the Outstanding Service Award. Criteria were determined to be: longevity of service, impact on kids, and contribution to the District. Honorees will have their name, dates of service, and position(s) engraved and placed on the Wall of Outstanding Service.

The first three years, the Kewaskum District is looking to recognize many of those people who served students in past years, honoring up to fifteen people each year. In addition, posthumous nominations will be considered. After the three-year window, only three to five honorees will be chosen each year. All nominations will remain active and will be reviewed each year until they are accepted.

Nominations are now being accepted through May 1, 2008. To obtain a nomination form, go to www.kewaskumschools.org or call the District at 262-626-8427 and have one mailed to your home.

The selection committee will meet in late spring. Honorees will be notified by June 30th, and the honoring recognition will take place during the Homecoming Halftime Show on October 10, 2008.

The District gives special thanks to those who served on the design committee. We recognize: Karen Heberer, Clark Pearson, Larry Ammel, Dodie Sargent, Dave Rizzardi, Perry Koth, Eric Turowski and Jarod Heberer.

Either Santa forgot one of his deer in training or he left someone to watch over Kewaskum's children to see if they are naughty or nice. Ann Neumann snapped the photo the morning of December 24, on the corner of Western Avenue and Roseland Drive in the village. Neumann reported the deer came up Western Avenue from Brooklane Drive. "The deer stood a long time on the corner, then headed west on Roseland Drive. Santa must have been in the area, she stated.

Assistance available for former Regal Ware employees

MADISON - Governor Jim Doyle announced today the availability of additional reemployment services for all workers of Regal Ware, Inc.'s Manufacturing Plants in Kewaskum and West Bend who became totally or partially separated from employment on or after September 3, 2007 due to increased imports and a production shift overseas. The workers produce steel cookware, commercial food products, and water purification products.

"This additional federal funding will help these workers upgrade their skills and help prepare them for the highly-skilled jobs of the future," Governor Doyle said. "I am pleased we are able to offer additional assistance to these workers to help them get back into the workforce, so they can support themselves and their families and enjoy all that life has to offer in Wisconsin."

The services, administered by the Wisconsin Department of Workforce Development (DWD), are available through local Job Centers and funded through the federal Trade Adjustment Assistance (TAA) program. They include retraining and reemployment services tailored to meet the needs of individual workers. Major activities and services for which these workers may qualify for are:

Training for employment in another job or career Income Support, known as trade readjustment allowances (TRA) Job Search Allowance to cover expenses incurred in seeking employment outside normal commuting areas Relocation Allowances for approved relocations expenses to relocate to a new area of employment.

"This federal funding will help us serve workers in the area, as we reconnect unemployed workers to employment as quickly as possible," said DWD Secretary Roberta Gassman.

Affected workers are also eligible to apply for Alternative Trade Adjustment Assistance (ATAA), which is available to workers aged 50 or older who possess skills that are not easily transferable. Qualifying workers who obtain new employment within 26 weeks of separation can receive a wage subsidy to help bridge the salary gap between their old and new employment. The program was designed to provide assistance to workers for whom the retraining offered under the regular TAA program may not be appropriate.

The workers had previously been certified eligible for TAA benefits under a certification that expired on September 2, 2007.

Individuals interested in receiving reemployment assistance should contact a local Job Center or visit <http://dwd.wisconsin.gov/dws/programs/dislocated/default.htm>. The nearest Job Center location can be found by calling (888) 258-9966 toll free.

Brick by Brick for Tanzania!, Inc. names initial officers

KEWASKUM- Brick by Brick for Tanzania!, Inc. today announced the selection of its initial Board of Directors. The officers of the board include Karen Berg as President, Pr. Terry Berg as Vice President, Lori Beck as Secretary, and Greg Rinn as Treasurer. Also on the board are Russ Broussard, Susan Cowsill, Mercedes Loomans and Sandy Poenitsch.

John Kenworthy, Executive Director for Brick by Brick for Tanzania!, Inc. called the makeup of the board, "...a dream team of commitment. These are some of the best people I know. They come from different geographic locations, different faiths, different career paths - but they all share an intense passion for children and for justice. I am honored to serve alongside these great, great people!"

Brick by Brick for Tanzania!, Inc. was incorporated in October 2007 as a non-stock, non-profit corporation organized to increase educational opportunities for the children of Tanzania, Africa by building preschools.

According to its Articles of Incorporation, the mission of Brick by Brick for Tanzania!, Inc. is to offer young students an academic headstart; foster a safe, nurturing, healthy environment; and to encourage older siblings to remain in school by allowing mothers to work outside of the home.

As a participant in a similar preschool construction effort in 2007 with Trinity Lutheran Church of West Bend, Kenworthy saw the efficacy of the model first hand in Tanzania. He explained that by providing an acceptable alternative for the youngest children, Brick by Brick for Tanzania!, Inc. will enable mothers to supplement the family income with small jobs outside of the home which will allow older brothers and sisters to remain in school.

Presently, the average income for a family in Tanzania is approximately $270 USD per year. Because of this, older siblings often must join the workforce rather than attend school. According to Tanzanian government statistics, only 57% of all Tanzanian children attend primary school, while 7% attend secondary school. Less than 1% successfully complete the graduation examination.

The first projects for the Board of Directors and the newly formed corporation are to build two preschools in and near the Tanzanian village of Usa River in the summer of 2008. One is a public preschool called "Young Roses" and the other is a Lutheran school dubbed the "Malaika School" ('malaika' being the Swahili word for 'angel'), each building is designed to have two classrooms and to serve approximately 30-50 young students. Efforts are presently under way to find donor communities to help fund these and fifteen other targeted preschool projects. Estimates are that the total cost for each will be approximately $14,000 with portions coming from a covenant with the local Tanzanian community and the rest from Brick by Brick for Tanzania!, Inc. and its partners.

Kenworthy explained that each brick of the construction costs approximately $1.25. "Sometimes it is overwhelming to think of a project like this in the big picture, $14 thousand dollars is a lot of money... but a buck-and-a-quarter is well within the grasp for almost anyone. Even a small child can buy a brick and contribute something tangible - and essential - to help a child in a foreign land. That is very powerful in both a metaphorical and literal way!" For more information about becoming involved in Brick by Brick for Tanzania!, Inc. fundraising projects or to inquire about making a donation or purchasing bricks, contact Kenworthy at johnk@brickbybrick4tanzania.com.

THE DIABETES LINK

Is there a connection between the type of starch we eat and the connection to diabetes? Researchers followed more than 36,000 men and women for four years and found that those who ate more than 17 slices of white bread per week had the highest risk for developing diabetes. White bread and other foods that trigger a spike in blood sugar, including white potatoes, white rice, cakes and donuts cause the pancreas to process more insulin to handle the blood sugar. Over time, the pancreas becomes stressed and fails to produce insulin as efficiently or abundantly as before. Type II diabetes is often the end result. Choosing whole grain carbohydrates and, even more importantly, maintaining a healthy weight can help reduce diabetes risk.

New West Bend travel agency brings office to vacationers

Lynn Miller Travel LLC associates Lynn and Larry Miller and Brenda (Serwe) Roehrig discuss travel plans with a Kewaskum resident at The Coffee Corner in Kewaskum. The newly opened agency has thrived on a new concept where they bring their office to their clients.

By Andrew Kuehl
Statesman Managing Editor
akuehl@kewaskumstatesman

WEST BEND- It's getting to be that time of year, you're sick of the snow, cold and freezing rain. You're itching for somewhere warm maybe even tropical. You know you can find a great deal on the internet after hours of searching not to mention a few inkjet cartridges for your printer. You could visit a local travel agency, however, that means stepping out into the cold and snow. But, what if the travel agency came to you and offered the same great deals with the travel experience to back up whether that trip is a good buy or not.

Alas, Lynn Miller Travel

and travel associate Brenda (Serwe) Roehrig of Kewaskum. Roehrig excitedly says, "That's what we do!"

The former West Bend West High School educator spent years moonlighting as a travel agent and now has taken her career one step forward by opening her own agency. Roehrig recently said good-bye to her 9-5 career as a travel agent with a local firm and liked Miller's concept so much, she signed on as an agent.

Both have extensive experience in the travel industry. Roehrig was an airline customer service supervisor and took early retirement after September 11, 2001. As part of her retirement benefits she is able to fly anywhere in the world at no charge.

This amazing benefit allows Roehrig, to check out popular destination places and find resorts and attractions that will be enjoyed by her clients. "Our knowledge is based on resort visitations we have made within the last three years, focusing on the Caribbean and Mexico," she states.

Miller and her husband, Larry, also have many years of international traveling experience under their belts that enable them to also make informed decisions. "Often times the traveler and in some cases travel agents go on the word and photos of the resort. When the traveler gets to a particular destination they find something entirely different than what they expected. That won't happen when we arrange travel," stated Lynn Miller.

Lynn Miller advises travelers that before booking your next vacation ask the travel agent when the last time they personally visited the location you are interested in.

Miller and Roehrig both agree that in today's busy society people looking to take a vacation aren't able to schedule an appointment with a travel agent when it's convenient for the agent or during the agent's business hours. "Basically, you call us, schedule an appointment around your schedule and we come to you at work, at lunch or where and whenever it's convenient for our clients," says owner Lynn Miller.

Equipped with mobile phones and wireless broadband equipped computers,

Miller and Roehrig visit their clients and help them find the perfect vacation. "We bring our office to you," explains Lynn Miller. The trio also has all their equipment with them when they travel so that if problems do arise while on a trip, they can take care of their clients around the clock.

For more information on Lynn Miller Travel LLC or to schedule an appointment to meet with Brenda or Lynn and Larry please call (262) 626-2639 or her mobile number, (920) 948-6942 for Brenda or (262) 338-0530 for Lynn or Larry.

Smoke Signals Lead to Secret Ingredient

You've heard about them on TV cooking shows and read about their one-of-a-kind flavor in food magazines, but what's the big fuss over fire roasted tomatoes?

Distinct fire roasted canned tomatoes are a convenient offering in the tomato aisle. Muir Glen takes its award-winning organic tomatoes and roasts them using a proprietary blend of natural hardwoods in an open-flame searing and smoking process to blacken the skins and deliver a signature smoky flavor.

"Fire roasted organic tomatoes can be used in place of regular canned tomatoes in most recipes where you want to create a subtle yet rich, smoky tomato flavor," explained Jennifer Kalinowski, test kitchen expert for Muir Glen. "They're a flavorful, versatile option for chili, soup, salsa, pizza and pasta sauce recipes." Look for Muir Glen convenient whole, diced and crushed fire roasted tomato varieties at your supermarket or natural foods store.

KMS student places fifth at state 2007 geography bee

By Andrew Kuehl
Statesman Managing Editor
akuehl@kewaskumstatesman

MADISON- He's no world traveler but eighth grader Andrew "A.J." Reicher is considered one of the state's better young geography buffs. The young man was one of 100 state students who participated in the 2007 Wisconsin Geography Bee last spring.

"I started taking an interest in geography a long time ago," Reicher indicated. This prompted him to participate in the program that started with homeroom preliminaries with fellow sixth and seventh graders. From there the top winner in each homeroom partook in a school-wide bee. As one can guess he emerged unbeatable by 17 of his fellow classmates.

From the school bee, Reicher says he and each school winner around the state were required to take a 70-question test in which the top 100 scorers were accepted into a state geography bee, held March 30, 2007. "The test was challenging, I wasn't expecting to get past the school level. Being in the top 100 was exciting, but I was nervous," he boasts.

The statewide bee was held at The American Family Insurance World Headquarters in Madison. The morning consisted of a preliminary round, where the group of 100 was split in groups of 20, each went into a conference room where eight rounds were held. Reicher proudly explains he was one of four in the state who answered correctly in all eight rounds.

That afternoon Reicher then joined ten other students for the final round that went into double elimination. He finished in the middle, taking fifth place. "That day, I didn't think I would get in the final round. After I figured out I had gotten all of the questions correct, I started thinking of as many things as I could to try to remember the different geography things I knew," he explained.

Seemingly pleased with his performance, Reicher said "I really like geography, I also like to know where different countries are. Traveling is something I would like to do in the future."

Reicher is the son of Keith and Karen Reicher, of Kewaskum. At the time of the event, he was a student in Christine Dreher's class at Kewaskum Middle School.

Long Lake shoreline habitat project

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources is planning on placing approximately 25 mature trees along the east shore of Long Lake, just north of the Long Lake Recreation Area in the Kettle Moraine State Forest - Northern Unit, Fond du Lac County. The goal of this project is to partially restore woody habitat structure along the shore thereby improving the fish and wildlife biodiversity. Trees from the state forest will be cut and moved to the shallow water sites. Trees were selected by DNR Forester Tim Beyer and were either over-mature or hazards in the nearby recreation area.

To minimize environmental impacts, the DNR is partnering with the Army National Guard who will air lift the trees into place with a military helicopter. The trees selected for the project weigh in excess of 4,000 pounds. The project is slated to occur this month.

For further information or questions call Jerry Leiterman, Forest Superintendent, at the Forest Headquarters at (262) 626-2116.

DAYS GONE BY

25 Years Ago

December 31, 1982

Now people in this vicinity know what it's like to spend Christmas in Florida. Christmas Day here was a balmy, spring-like day with a temperature of 60 degrees and sunny with no snow on the ground. Even a few golfers were out Christmas Day making their round at Hon-E-Kor Country Club. The unseasonably mild temperatures set an all-time record, breaking the previous record of 55 set 87 years ago, on December 25, 1895.

Jacqueline Bartelt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bartelt of Kewaskum, has been selected as Kewaskum Community High School's candidate for the Wisconsin Society, Daughters of the American Revolutionary Good Citizen's Award, Mr. Clark Pearson, principal, announced.

Rosenheimer's of Kewaskum would like to announce the winners of the world's largest Christmas stocking give-away. They are Timmy Thorn, 3-1/2 years of Kewaskum, and Joanne Stautz, 11, also of Kewaskum.

A total of 32 students from this area have been included in the 16th annual edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students, 1981-82. Kewaskum students include Scott Buchel, Kevin R. Chesak, Jane Herriges, Sandra Kirchner, Melissa Koch, Debra Kurth, Jayne M. Laatsch, Ric Leitheiser, Amy Nigh and Jill Yearling.

Sylvan Learning's Helpful Hints for Student Success:

How parents can help their children hone study skills and life skills

By: Barbara Hampton, Center Director

Organization, time management, note taking, test taking and strategic reading are all essential study skills that are first introduced to young people in the classroom, but ultimately transfer far beyond school. To help your child develop these skills in a way that is meaningful to them - mainly applying them to their "job" which is school - Sylvan Learning Centers recommends tips that parents can follow:

Organization and Time Management

- Have students use a planning calendar to track daily, weekly and monthly assignments and responsibilities.
- Encourage children to breakdown large, complex tasks into manageable pieces.
- Have children prioritize homework and other tasks when they get home from school, then complete the tasks in that order.

Note Taking

- Don't panic if a child's notes look sloppy and disorganized. It's often just a sign of a student with an active mind who is organizing things in ways that work best for him or her.
- Encourage students to review their notes and even rewrite them, if necessary, to be sure they make sense.
- As they review their notes, have children identify the most important points and highlight them.

Test Taking

- Urge a student to study over a period of days or weeks instead of cramming the night before.
- Be sure students go into the test with the right equipment, whether that means a calculator, class notes, textbooks or simply a pencil.
- Encourage them to answer test questions they know first and then go on to the more challenging questions.

Reading

- Encourage young readers to use all the clues available to them while reading, such as headlines, pictures, captions, charts, tables and graphs.
- Urge them to read different types of writing, such as books of fiction and nonfiction, newspaper and magazine articles, letters and Web sites.
- Talk with kids after they read a book or article. Have them tell you what the story was about, why it did or didn't interest them and how it related to their life.

Studies show that the more involved parents are with their children's education, the better the children do in school. What the studies don't say is that this involvement is not just in the children's school, but in the children's lives. Because life is a balance of basic core skills (reading and math) and personal skills, such as communication and responsibility skills (organization and time management), parents need to nourish all of these skills, not just the ones that yield a grade.

Petty fears and petty pleasures are but the shadow of reality.

E-Seed course to be offered at Moraine Park Technical College

Developing an idea for a small business is complex, but not impossible. To assist prospective business owners, Moraine Park Technical College is taking registrations for the popular entrepreneurship training experience, E-SeedTM.

The 45-hour, 15-week course begins Wednesday, Feb. 13, at Moraine Park's Fond du Lac campus, 235 N. National Ave. Classes are held from 6-9 p.m. E-Seed will also be offered in Appleton, Waupaca and Oshkosh.

"Taking the E-Seed class is important for anyone considering starting a business or looking to expand their existing business," said Amy Pietsch, director of Fox Valley Technical College's Venture Center. "Students learn everything from selecting the appropriate legal entity to management and leadership, marketing and finances."

The classroom setting fosters networking and participation with both start-up and existing local businesses.

Guest speakers, including attorneys, bankers, accountants, marketing professionals and successful entrepreneurs, bring additional insight to the weekly classes.

Participants develop a comprehensive business plan to act as a road map for start-up and future growth. The business planning process dissects every aspect of being in business. Students learn to set realistic goals, establish a budget, identify their market and predict cash flow.

According to Lori Thiel, owner of Open Road Harley in Fond du Lac and a former E-Seed participant, "The E-Seed program gives a realistic approach to getting into your own business while aiding you with useful tools to become successful. I found the program beneficial for two reasons - you learn by preparing a thorough strategic business plan and by being able to interact with quality resources who are credible business owners."

The registration deadline is Feb. 8. The $1,000 fee covers tuition, materials and refreshments. Tuition assistance is available. For more information, visit www.morainepark.edu/eseed. To register, call 920-924-3449 or e-mail training@morainepark.edu.

The Ultimate CHEAPSKATE'S ROAD MAP TO TRUE RICHES

A Practical (and Fun) Guide to Enjoying Life More by Spending Less

JEFF YEAGER

READ BY THE AUTHOR

This is the year you're going to do it.

This is the year you're finally going to stop screwing around. Prices go up faster than income does, but you're going to buckle up, pay some bills, plan retirement.

But man, it's hard. You know there's room for improvement in your financial life, but - aside from brown-bagging and other no-brainer money-savers - how can you bank some coin, painlessly?

You can start by listening to "The Ultimate Cheapskate's Road Map to True Riches" by Jeff Yeager. Then, you can put Yeager's ideas to good use and put some serious money aside.

So the excess of the holidays is over and you've had your fill of shopping. Yeager says that's good. You've reached your Enoughasaurus. You won't feel deprived if you don't spend. Now you're ready to live within your means.

And that includes living with a less-than-palatial house. Yeager says that you should consider a cheaper, smallish home or buy a duplex and let your house pay for itself. Think twice before doing extensive, unnecessary remodeling. Learn to do repairs yourself.

Take a Fiscal Fast, Yeager counsels. Set aside a pre-determined time, usually a week, in which your goal is to completely avoid spending money. Pay bills before or after your Fiscal Fast so you aren't cheating, then get creative. Yeager even advocates doing without your car and without electricity, although he admits those efforts can be tough to employ.

And speaking of tough sacrifices, Yeager urges you to try living without your vehicle completely. Bike or walk to work, or take public transportation. Ask your employer if you can telecommute, or use a bicycle.

I really enjoyed listening to "The Ultimate Cheapskate's Road Map to True Riches", and I found plenty of easy-to-start, relatively pain-free ideas that really can save money. But there are three things you'll want to know about this audiobook.

First of all, there are words in this book that are not for little kids, so if you planned on listening to this CD while driving them anywhere, be aware that you might want to re-think that idea.

Secondly, author Jeff Yeager reads his own work on this CD, which makes it much more enjoyable but also means that formulas and ideas whiz by at 50 miles-per-hour. You're going to want to either write things down (impossible when driving) or consult the paper form of this useful book.

Which brings me to the third point: I found it highly ironic that it's cheaper to buy the paperback of this book about saving money than it is to buy the audio version.

Much cheaper, in fact. Like, less than half.

Still, if you're a multitasker who listens to audiobooks while driving, this one will make you slow down in more ways than one. If you don't need the CD, definitely get the book. "The Ultimate Cheapskate's Road Map to True Riches" could set you on a great new financial highway this year.

NOVENA TO ST. JUDE

O holy St. Jude Apostle and Martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles, near kinsman of Jesus Christ, faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need, to you I have recourse from the depth of my heart and humbly beg to whom God has given such great power to come to my assistance.

Help me in my present urgent petition. In return, I promise to make your name known and cause you to be invoked, say three Our Fathers, three Hail Marys and three Glorias. St. Jude pray for us, and all who invoke your aid. Amen.

This Novena has never been known to fail. This Novena must be said for 9 consecutive days, and publication must be promised.

Thank you St. Jude, for all favors from you.

R.S.M.S

IN MEMORY

In memory of Jeff "Sheisty" Sabish, who died January 8, 2000:

Friends may think I have forgotten
When at times they see me smile.
Little do they know the heart aches
That smiles hide all the while.

Beautiful memories are wonderful things.
That last till the longest day.
They never wear out, they never get lost and
Can never be given away.

To some you may be forgotten.
To others, a part of the past.
But to me who loved
And lost you...
Your memory will always last.

*Forever missed and forever loved
Dad*

...And All the Pigeons are Just Memories...

*I wanted (so, so much)
To be the one who could fill that hole in your heart
Or maybe
Maybe it's the other way around
(Oh, and by the way)
The city was littered with pigeons
But I couldn't find it in me to chase them
They're just skeletons now (All your memories are just skeletons
I'm sick and tired of skeletons
-I want flesh and blood and muscle-)*

CARIBBEAN TACO SALAD
Serves: 4

Shells:
4 10-inch whole wheat flour tortillas
Olive oil cooking spray
Salad:
1 20-ounce package JENNIE-O TURKEY STORE Extra Lean Ground Turkey
1 1.25-ounce package reduced-sodium taco seasoning mix
2 tablespoons water
1 mango, peeled, pitted and chopped (about 1 cup)
3/4 cup chopped red bell pepper
3 tablespoons finely chopped green onion
3 tablespoons finely chopped fresh cilantro
1 teaspoon grated lime peel
2 cups firmly packed spinach leaves

Preheat oven to 425°F. Invert four, 10-ounce custard cups onto 15- by 10- by 1-inch baking pan. Spray outside of cups and one side of each tortilla with cooking spray. Place tortillas, oiled side up, over cups. Bake 4 to 6 minutes or until lightly browned. In medium skillet, brown turkey until no longer pink and cooked through. Add taco seasoning mix and water. Cook over low heat 3 to 5 minutes or until thoroughly heated. Meanwhile, in medium bowl, stir together the mango, bell pepper, green onion, cilantro and lime peel to make salsa. Place taco shells on serving plates. Divide spinach leaves evenly into shells. Top with cooked turkey and salsa.

(Family Features) Whether it's fitting in time for exercise, packing tasty and nutritious snacks, or cooking a balanced meal at home, Americans are committing to healthy lifestyles in 2008. A recent survey conducted by Kelton Research found that as the new year approaches, health is on many Americans' minds - more than 50 percent of those surveyed are resolving to exercise or eat healthfully in the new year.

Kim Lyons, fitness trainer and star of NBC's "The Biggest Loser," applauds Americans' desires to commit to fitness and smart, nutritious diets. "There's no better time than the start of a new year to commit to an exercise plan or introduce healthier foods into your diet. Just a few small adjustments can help you stay on the road to a new self in 2008 and beyond," she says.

Lyons offers the following tips and tricks to help Americans keep their healthy New Year's resolutions.

Get moving: Feeling tired is not an excuse to sit on the sofa. Exercising actually gives you more energy because the body releases endorphins, "feel good" hormones, which result in a natural high. Try going for a 20 minute walk next time you are feeling sluggish.

Simple substitutions: Cut calories wherever you can. For example, swap whole or two percent milk for skim. Instead of ground beef, try JENNIE-O TURKEY STORE Extra Lean Ground Turkey, which has less fat and fewer calories.

A family affair: Make healthy eating fun for the whole family by getting the kids involved in mealtime preparation. Let the kids pick the menu from a few good-for-you meal options. When dinnertime rolls around they will be proud of their choice and will be excited to eat nutritious dishes.

Protein power: Your body uses more calories digesting protein than it does breaking down carbohydrates and fat. To optimize your metabolism and keep you feeling full longer, include protein choices like lean turkey, almonds or dry beans in meals and snacks.

Stay positive: Replace negative self-talk with inspirational mantras. For example, replacing "I can't do this" with "I'm getting better at this every day" will keep your mind motivated.

To remain on track, be realistic about your goals. It's more likely that you will commit to a healthy lifestyle by making changes gradually, rather than all at once. Try one new recipe each week, incorporating vegetables, lean meats and whole grains. Add exercise to your routine in a frequency that works for your life. If you can only start with one or two days a week, do what you can and work to increase your frequency gradually. Slowly but surely, these diet and lifestyle changes will add up and you will be on your way to a new you.

Jennie-O Turkey Store and Lyons have partnered to create a free downloadable brochure that features delicious, healthy recipes and practical tips to turn fitness and nutrition New Year's resolutions into a year-round healthy lifestyle. To download the brochure, visit www.jennieo.com.

Going back...
Last bow hunt is trip in time

Fog and rain offered a different kind of January setting Sunday as the writer said goodbye to the Wisconsin archery deer season. This creek was crossed on the log in the background to reach oak ridges and a swamp with fresh sign.

I'm really not sure if I pointed the old truck northeast Sunday afternoon in the heaviest of fogs to say a final goodbye to the Wisconsin bow deer season, or because the freezer is still empty of venison for the first time in 20 seasons, or just to journey back again a few decades. Probably a little of each. But I do know that when the Chevy rolled slowly past a bar that long ago was called 'Tilly's' in a tiny unincorporated town of Beechwood, Brooks and Dunn should have been playing Red Dirt Road.

I don't think Tilly's is really where I drank my first beer, as the song goes, although I know I tipped a few, once or twice with Grandpa, once or twice and then again when a first deer fell to an arrow on December 8, 1986 and the date was scratched in a bow limb. I know it's not where I found Jesus, although he was no doubt looking for me in there. But I know I tore up a vehicle or two on the promised lands of Kettle Moraine's northern unit. And I know too the good memories from long ago begin in Beechwood and continue on these country roads past familiar farms to the oak ridges and swamps where I learned to hunt.

The truck turned at the old cemetery on the outskirts of town with fog rolling over the tombstones and continued past the red barn where Grandma used to buy eggs from Elsa... the 'egg lady'. One more right turn and the farmhouse where my grandparents, Barney and Valeska, lived out their last years, grew out of the fog.

In the "old" days, my three brothers and I would drive up in the black of a predawn fall morning, have the guts to pound on a farmhouse door in the wee hours, and actually be handed 20 gauge and 12 gauge shotguns from the living room rack in exchange for nothing more than a "Hi grandpa". We'd spend the morning missing ducks on a God-painted swamp far back on the farm or chasing deer across the street where the public lands begin, and return only when hunger reminded us that grandma's eggs in butter and bacon were only a mile or so away.

In the early archery seasons of September or October when the sun spilled on the alfalfa fields and chased the morning chill, we'd scatter our bows and arrows and treestands about after a morning hunt and lay right down in the green grass to sleep. And we'd be ready again to hunt in the afternoon. On the eve of a November gun hunt, four brothers would light a wood burning stove in the bunkhouse, spread out sleeping bags and head to Tilly's for a beer while the shack heated up. And it was on one of those alfalfa fields just behind the farmhouse many Januarys ago where we rode the hood of a truck down the snow like a toboggan, and where my arm was pulled under that piece of heavy metal and broken. Somehow now, that's a good memory too.

Despite the warm temperatures and thaw Sunday, I had to put the truck in four-wheel drive and smash through a barrier of snow still high and bordering the county road to find the hidden parking space I knew could not have disappeared with time. Brooks and Dunn whispered, "I tore it all to pieces..." in tune to the ticking engine as I shut her down and gathered the equipment for one final hunt.

The walk was a long one, the snow still deep and the fog like soup. I would walk these ridges and swamps that change little over a man's life and not stop until I found the fresh deer sign that might actually make this last effort successful. No one else was out here. No trucks, no human prints, just melted out deer and turkey tracks. Sane hunters on a gloomy January Sunday would be on their couches, lost in two playoff games.

I moved down through pine stands and rolling moraine country to a creek that always offered fallen trees and a place to cross long ago. It did again, but I was more wary of being alone than I was in my youth and crossed the water and ice with extra care.

Across the creek I continued up the oak ridges. Too many coyote tracks and very few deer tracks crisscrossed the ridges from the bordering swamps and pine stands. I walked on until I stopped where long ago a ground blind had rested on the corner of the oaks.

I had separated my shoulder in a football game, couldn't sleep, rose in the middle of the night, found out I could pull the bow back and drove to Grandpas. After three hours standing in the ground blind in the cold, a doe had stood 15 yards away. I couldn't pull the bow back, and I drove home again. That's a not so good memory.

I left the high country and headed down into the swamp. Like the old days, the late season deer were there. Fresh tracks and droppings showed me exactly where to set the treestand. I climbed, hung the notched bow and camera, and waited. Two hundred yards and 22 Januarys away, I had dropped that first doe with a double lung shot in this same swamp. Or was that yesterday?

For two hours, I watched fog roll across the swamp and over me. Light faded slowly until time closed over another day, and another season. I worked the stand to the ground and packed my equipment in for another season. I had a long walk out. The flashlight beam cut a narrow swath through fog and black.

Nothing had moved. It had been eerily quiet. Somehow though, I had seen and heard so much.

Bindrich, Goeden and Luedtke successfully defend titles

13 local wrestlers take first in KIWC Tournament

Max Hardy applies a cradle hold to Derek Voigt. Both Hardy and Voigt are from Kewaskum.

The Kewaskum Indians Wrestling Club opened the 2008 season last Saturday with an excellent showing, which included twice as many championships as last year, its first year of existence.

A total of 316 wrestlers, representing over 40 clubs, came to the second annual KIWC Tournament, and 13 of those from the host club walked away with individual trophies.

Champions included: kindergarten to second grade — Eric Bauer, Luke Bindrich and Brent Goeden; Grades 3-4 — Brandon Wade; Grades 5-6 — Kurt Luedtke, LJ Pinchard, Alex Phillips, Zach Smith and Joey Seitz; Grades 7-8 — Mike Bier, Austin Goeden, Sam Olla and Lance Pinchard.

For three of those wrestlers, Bindrich, Brent Goeden and Luedtke, this was their second straight title at the Kewaskum tourney.

Bauer, Seitz, Luedtke, Lance Pinchard and Bier all posted three pins, while Wade, Phillips, Bindrich and Austin Goeden each had two.

The second place finishers were: K-2 — Adam Bruss, Kyle Bath, Caleb Reif; 3-4 — Zach Heberer, Dakota Peters Lawrenz; 5-6 — Max Maertz; and 7-8 — Derek Aupperle, Joey Wollner and Andy Doll.

Bruss, Peters Lawrenz and Wollner all notched one pin.

Those taking thirds were: Jadon Rhodes, D.J. Smith, Braden Maertz, David Barrett, Jon May, Keegan Gruss, Max DeRosier, Jacob Heberer, Sean Bruss, Danny Seitz, Trevor Cross, Erik Doll, Max Hardy, Nick Bier, Jake Hardy, Sawyer Buck, Alex Fechter, Teddy Wollner and Mac Donath.

Kewaskum had a total of 57 athletes in the competition.

According to Randy Dreher, who assisted with registration, Fond du Lac captured the team title, with Campbellsport, which is coach by Wade Roberts of Kewaskum, finishing second. The X-Factor Elite took third, and then came Port Washington in the fourth spot.

Once again, Stan Maertz served as tournament director for the event. Club officers this year include: Joel Dziedzic, president; Dennis Aupperle, vice president; Wendi Dreher, treasurer; and Jodi Aupperle, secretary.

"We think it ran really well ... small glitches, nothing major," Wendi Dreher, registration chairman said.

"We're very grateful for all the help we got," Dreher went on, indicating most of the people who volunteered to help last year were back, and, "Even kids who were former wrestlers came to help. It's nice when they all help to make the event a success."

Concerning the field, "We even had people from Luzernburg-Casco come down ... and the X-Factor from the Manitowoc area," Dreher said, adding people were complimentary about the way the event ran.

As far as the number of participants in KIWC this year, Dreher said, "We're way up. We have 67 kids in the club and will hit 69 by the end of the week. That compares with 55 a year ago."

Many of the KIWC wrestlers are planning to compete in the Campbellsport Tournament this Sunday.

Girls lose in heartbreak fashion

The Kewaskum Indians girl's basketball team went to New Holstein on Thursday, January 3rd with nearly two weeks of rest and looking for their third win of the season. However, they left New Holstein with yet another painfully close defeat. The final score was 59-58.

"We started out evenly and the game was going back and forth between New Holstein and us," said Kewaskum Coach Jeff Gosse. The young Indians team was down by just five points after the first quarter. The beginning of the second quarter belonged to the Huskies as they broke out with a big lead and appeared ready to pound the Indians behind their size and post game.

The Indians have "struggled against a zone defense all season," admitted Gosse, which the Huskies played against Kewaskum in the second quarter. That switch in defense forced the Indians to shoot from the outside where they have not shot well from on the season. Kewaskum did adjust near the end of the first half and trailed only 26-21.

The third quarter did not fare any better for the visiting Indians, who "forced the ball inside resulting in a lot of turnovers," said Gosse. The Indians did keep the game close, however, and were setting themselves up for the fourth quarter.

The Lady Indians started the fourth quarter with a vengeance. They had one of their highest scoring quarter of the year and caught up with the Huskies. Kewaskum actually had a couple of leads but "we just could not hold on to any of them," added Gosse. The Lady Indians did outscore New Holstein 24-18 in the final quarter.

Gosse said "Megan and Stephanie Rinzel played great defense and Anna Butler did a nice job forcing turnovers." Junior Jennie Wicklund led the Indians in scoring with 12 points, while Shaylah Haire added ten points and Butler chipped in nine. The Indians will next play Friday, January 11 at Campbellsport. In the meantime, Kewaskum will be working on execution on offense and taking care of the ball.

"We finish off January with West Bend East (home) on the thirty first," Aupperle said, eager to see what the next month, tournament month will produce in February, culminating with the WIAA State Meet in Madison Feb. 21-23.

In their last meet before the short Christmas break, the Kewaskum High wrestlers ran their win streak to 10 straight, knocking off Waupun by a whopping 60-19 score.

With the victory, Kewaskum is a perfect 4-0 against Eastern Wisconsin Conference opponents and 10-0 overall.

The Warriors, competing in the EWC for the first year, had to forfeit at six weight classes, giving Kewaskum 36 of its points. At the four spots where the Indians won, they did so via pin, so, "It was a very quick night," KHS coach Dennis Aupperle said.

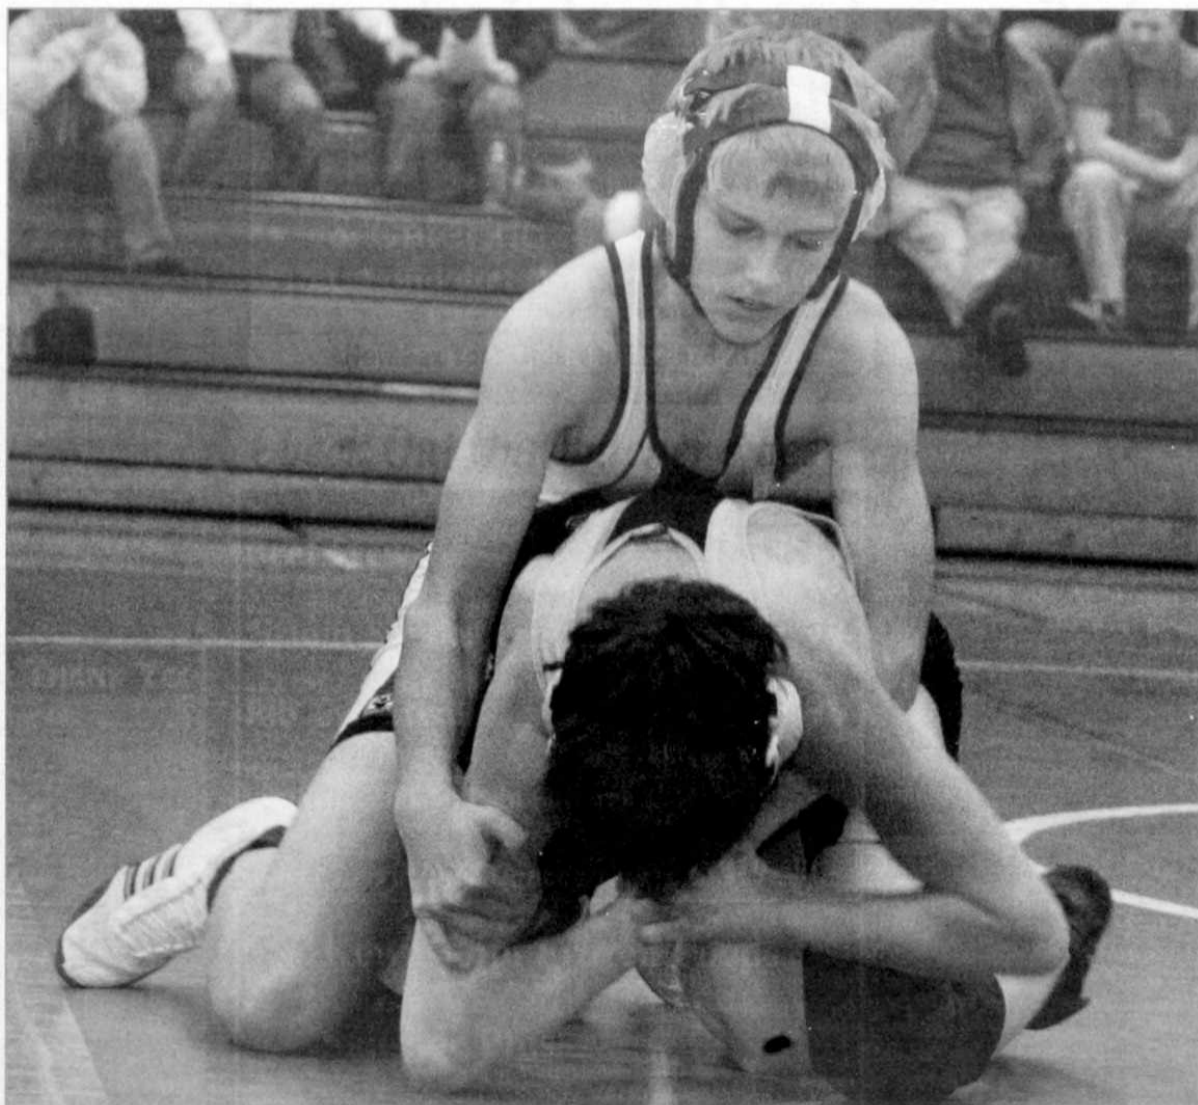

Those posting pins were sophomore Steve Kudek at 112 pounds, freshman Robbie Maertz at 119 who took just :59 to record his victory, Cody Seibel at 171 and powerful P.J. Krueger at 215.

"Cody Seibel beat a good kid," Aupperle said, reporting his sophomore standout put Keerin Pinch's shoulders to the mat in 3:55.

After having a week off following the intense, two-day competition at the On The Waters Classic, the Indians get back into action tonight (Thursday) at Two Rivers.

On Jan. 17th, the Indians will host Campbellsport, which has some excellent individuals but perhaps not enough overall strength to compete with its arch rival.

Five days later, Kewaskum will trek
