Habitat for Humanity embarks on first home building project in Village

KEWASKUM- The corner of Glacial Lane and Stark Street will be getting a new look this year. Soon machinery will be moving dirt, concrete will be poured by skilled laborers, and hammers will begin pounding. Every one of the workers on site will share a common goal—building the first Habitat for Humanity of Washington County home in Kewaskum.

"Habitat for Humanity is excited to be building in Kewaskum," said Gayle Van Ess, Habitat for Humanity of Washington County Board of Directors President and Kewaskum resident. "It's our first home built here, so we anticipate great support from businesses, churches, individuals and organizations in Kewaskum, not only through financial donations, but also through prayer, in-kind donations of services and materials, and on-the-job volunteer workers."

Van Ess added, "We are thankful that Dan and Phyllis Schmidt have been working with us to secure the property for the home."

Russ Wanta, Habitat's Executive Director in Washington County, explained the home would be an energy efficient, three-bedroom ranch home with an attached one-car garage.

"In keeping with Habitat's vision, the home will be one that is simple, extremely well-built, and affordable for hard working families who currently are living in inadequate conditions," Wanta noted. "We haven't selected a family to become the owners of this home as yet. We are accepting applications."

Habitat homeowners, or partner families, are selected if they: demonstrate need for better housing; are willing to partner with Habitat through the process, and are able to afford the home. Homes are sold to the partner families at no profit to Habitat. Interest is not charged to the partner family. The length of the mortgage is determined by the family's ability to pay. Partner families invest not only money in their homes, they invest time and energy. Each family is required to volunteer hundreds of hours on a Habitat home construction site and/or other Habitat projects.

"Habitat is not a 'give-away' program," Van Ess pointed out. "Our partner families are given a 'hand up,' not a 'hand out,' as they purchase these homes from us."

Homeowner families aren't the only partners the local Habitat affiliate has in this venture, Van Ess noted. "We are delighted to be building this home in partnership with Thrivent Financial for Lutherans. The Kewaskum home will be the seventh supported by Thrivent here in Washington County."

"This alliance between the two parent organizations brings $125 million, Lutheran congregations and volunteers into a relationship with Habitat partner families and volunteers throughout the country," Wanta added.

Habitat for Humanity was founded as a non-profit, ecumenical Christian housing ministry in 1976, as a way to serve others and share Christ's love with them.

Homeowner families, Thrivent Financial for Lutherans, area Lutheran congregations and members still don't complete the list of partners that will be involved in the construction efforts on the Stark Street and Glacial Lane build, however. Both Wanta and Van Ess are quick to point out that there are dozens of businesses and trades people and thousands of volunteers who participate in Habitat projects.

"On average, we have about 25 different trades and 60 businesses volunteering their services or supporting the construction efforts," Wanta com-

Gavin accepts offer on TIF district

By Andrew Kuehl
 andrew@kewaskumstatesman

KEWASKUM- The village should get ready for a serious case of déjà vu as developer Gary Gavin announces he has accepted an offer on 37-acres of the village's Tax Incremental Finance District. The buyer- Gregory Chmielewski.

Chmielewski made a similar offer to purchase the property in April of 2005. Later that year he presented a dream plan to the village's plan commission and village board called Village Lakes Center.

That plan called for a large upscale shopping center, hotel, professional office space along with a number of restaurants.

In the meantime, terms of the deal force Gavin to take the property off the market. He was forced to adhere to similar terms in 2005. When that deal fell through he was able to put the property back on the market in 2007. He stated that the deal is expected to close on July 13.

While off the market the village of Kewaskum spent approximately $8 million to bring the land and another adjacent residential district up to village standards.

Village of Kewaskum Administrator Jay Shambeau stated the only news he heard was there was an accepted offer advertised in a local advertising publication over the weekend. He stated he had not been in contact with Chmielewski recently.

"If this is legitimate, we are excited," Shambeau stated.

Additional details are expected to be released in time for next week's edition.

Village trustees set future goals

Village of Kewaskum Trustees along with Village Administrator Jay Shambeau and Village Clerk Stephanie Justman spent the morning Saturday, March 8 setting goals and formulating direction for 2008. Trustees also reviewed some of their greater accomplishments from 2007. Goals for 2008 include investigating a recreation department for the village, naming a sergeant inside the police department and making plans for the Highway 28/Main Street reconstruction in 2010.

Habitat builds here

mented. "Plus, on each home we build, we can count on over 500 different volunteers coming out to swing hammers."

"Our hope is that the members of this community will join in this exciting ministry which transforms lives," Van Ess added. "People can become involved by volunteering on site, which we anticipate will be on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays from 9 a.m.-3 p.m., once construction begins in late April or early May. Groups, churches and individuals are welcome. And if you'd like to support Habitat's efforts financially or donate construction materials, you can always visit the website at www.blitzbuild.com, contact the office at 1051 Fond du Lac Avenue, Kewaskum, WI 53040 or call (262) 626-4625."

"We wish to invite our neighbors in Kewaskum to be a part of this build," Wanta concluded. "People from any walk of life or background are welcome to participate in the building of this home. Professional construction skills are not required. Site leadership will work with all volunteers.

The only skill required is the willingness to help a deserving family in need."

Affiliated with Habitat for Humanity International since 1998, Habitat for Humanity of Washington County, WI, is a non-profit, ecumenical Christian housing ministry which builds simple, quality, affordable homes in partnership with the community and God's people in need. The Kewaskum project marks the 14th Habitat home built in Washington County.

Opinion: Protect our Great Lakes

The status of the Great Lakes is in danger. In September 2007 the levels of Lake Michigan and Huron, essentially one body of water united by the Straits of Mackinac, were two feet under their long-term average and five feet below their peak level in 1986. The US Government may not find a solution to the problem. In September 2007, a half dozen US senators called for a hearing on the Great Lakes water levels, two years after Canadian property owners did the St. Clair River study indicating a 1960s Army Corps of Engineering dredging project sped the rate at which water leaves Lake Huron. Congressional reaction to Great Lakes water levels has been slow at best. Their reaction to ballast water has been pathetic.

There are currently 180 invasive species in the Great Lakes system, including the zebra and quagga mussels native to the Caspian and Black Seas. Likewise, the round goby came from the same seas, and presently feasts on native perch eggs. According to the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel, the deadly disease of Viral Hemorrhagic Septicemia (VHS) entered the Great Lakes by a "likely pathway" of ballast water, which is taken at one port and used to stabilize a less than full cargo ship on its journey to the next port.

The US Congress has pushed away the ballast issue for years. Many invasive species, such as the mussels, came from ballast water. Quagga mussels were first detected in Lake Michigan in 1997 but their numbers have increased recently, and Lake Michigan's overall invasive mussel numbers increased 16-fold in the past five years. The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources deserves a lot of credit for recently supporting the belief that it has the authority to supervise ballast water. Conservationists like the Wisconsin Wildlife Federation agree. Still, our state legislature needs to do more.

Some say limiting ballast water will hurt the shipping industry. But not all ships carry ballast water because many carry fully loaded cargo. In addition, Wisconsin wouldn't be the first Great Lakes state to require overseas ships to install ballast treatment systems, as Michigan has already done so. Those from the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp. suggest the ballast issue is overhyped, considering saltwater flushing of ballast tanks just began. Whether saltwater flushing is the final answer is unclear. What is clear is the business sector itself is recognizing a solution is needed.

A good Great Lakes is great for the economy. No one has ever proved lake-front house values increase when water levels decline. Meanwhile, the fishing industry is getting nervous. The estimated biomass of prey fish (alewives, chubs, and smelt) in 1989 was about 450,000 tons, the estimated biomass in 2008 is 30,000 tons.

We must not forget that a great wildlife is a great defense. Increasing the quality of wildlife within the Great Lakes weakens the argument for regions of the country to divert water because they see the Great Lakes as merely a tub of water.

Urge the state legislature to pass the Great Lakes Compact, an agreement between the eight states surrounding the Great Lakes. Recently some in Madison have tried to alter the compact, primarily because Waukesha is out of the Great Lakes Basin and under the compact its need for Lake Michigan water would be beholden to other states in the compact. Waukesha's autonomy is a legitimate concern. However, the compact actually opens the doors to areas just beyond the basin line, provided that treated wastewater is returned to the Great Lakes; Waukesha should be okay. More important than Waukesha's autonomy is the autonomy of the entire Great Lakes region. Gov. Bill Richardson (D-NM) recently said Wisconsin is "awash in water." And the southeastern United States is looking for options to quench its thirst. Existing local rules governing diversions for Great Lakes waters are weak, and may not withstand court challenges. The compact is a non-partisan issue. The rules were drafted with input from business leaders, environmentalists, and political leaders from both parties. Whether we are Republican, Independent or Democrat, water is still the essence of all life. Protect it.

DNR teams up with National Guard on shore land project at Long Lake

A UH-60 Black Hawk Helicopter from the Wisconsin National Guard lowers a tree into place along the shore of Long Lake Wednesday, March 5 as part of a training mission that is hoped to improve habitat conditions along the lakeshore. Aviators lifted the trees from their natural habitat and then placed them along the lake. Photos and video from the event can be seen on The Statesman's web site.

TOWN of OSCEOLA- Wisconsin Army National Guard aviation soldiers joined hands with the Department of Natural Resources for a training and community service project on Wednesday, March 5 on Long Lake's east shore, just north of the Long Lake Recreation Area.

Pilots airlifted around 75 tons of mature trees to improve wildlife habitat in the Kettle Moraine State Forest's Northern Unit. The plan is hoped to create habitat for fish and wildlife, while creating a valuable training opportunity for National Guard air crews practicing essential military skills.

The use of helicopters to airlift the trees reduced damage to the environment that may have resulted if the trees were moved on the ground.

The aviation training mission employed a number of UH-60 Black Hawk helicopters. Soldiers secured trees to straps before lifting and moving them approximately 300 yards where they were lowered into position.

The aviators used the same techniques they might use to transport equipment on a battlefield or deliver supplies during a Wisconsin emergency.

Participating soldiers are members of the Wisconsin Army National Guard's aviation directorate in Madison; and 1st Battalion, 147th Aviation, also in Madison; and the 832nd Medical Company (Air Ambulance), and Detachment 1, Company B, 248th Aviation, both of West Bend.

A complete pictorial can be found on our web site.

More dead goats found in Farmington

TOWN of FARMINGTON- Fillmore Road is again the location where a number of deceased pygmy goats have been found. Washington County Sheriff's Department responded to the scene Sunday afternoon, March 9, after a walker's dogs found the animals.

This is the second time Sheriff's Deputies have handled a case like this in the township. Last year a similar story played out.

It is unknown how long the goats had been there as snow covered the corpses, however, because the walker and his dog are on the road regularly it is believed to have happened recently.

The Sheriff's Department did not report evidence of trauma to the goats and reported they did not have knowledge of any goat farms in the area.

Shersty to hold solo exhibit at MWA

The Museum of Wisconsin Art is proud to announce a solo exhibition of photography by Milwaukee's Naomi Shersty. Naomi graduated with a Master of Fine Arts in Studio Arts from the University of New Mexico in 2004 and is currently an Assistant Professor of Photography at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. The exhibition will run through Sunday, March 30th.

Naomi Shersty's artwork explores the formation of identity relative to familial, social, and geographic environments. Provoked by memory, Shersty investigates the interconnectedness of self, place, and intimate relationships, including residual issues of power, control, desire, and loss. Her photographic narratives incorporate both fact and fiction to address topics such as "promiscuous" behavior, the dynamics of family, and the myths of place.

Better Homes and Gardens utilizes collage and film stills to explore a complex and difficult personal history. Non-traditional family photographs of a hermetic mother, a flippant father, as well as self-portraits and recent snapshots are collaged with images of wounds, pets, houseplants, and domestic artifacts. A series of film stills juxtaposes ex-lovers' houses with the both painful and pleasurable surrounding southern landscape. Motivating this work are questions such as: What is nurtured? What is neglected? What is safe? What is dangerous? What is private? What is public? What is lost? What remains?

Shersty has exhibited nationally for almost a decade. Recent locations include: Altered Esthetics (Minneapolis, MN), The Museum of Fine Arts and the Center for Contemporary Art (Santa Fe, New Mexico), and at Hot Shops Art Center (Omaha, NE). Last year, she presented her work at the Art Academy of Cincinnati (Cincinnati, OH) and Savannah College of Art and Design (Savannah, GA).

Shersty received an MFA in Studio Art with an emphasis in Photography from the University of New Mexico, and a BFA in Creative Photography from the University of Florida. Examples of her artwork can be viewed at www.naomishersty.com.

The Museum of Wisconsin Art (formerly the West Bend Art Museum) is America's newest regional art museum housing the premier collection of Wisconsin art. Its Early Wisconsin Collection (1830-1960) is the finest anywhere and the work of Milwaukee native and artist Carl von Marr (1858-1936) is given prominence with his magnum opus The Flagellants (1889) at 14' x 26', listed as one of the must-see objects in the state. Contemporary art is regularly displayed through temporary exhibitions and the monthly One from Wisconsin solo exhibition series.

The MWA is open Wednesdays through Fridays, 10:00 am to 4:30 pm, Saturdays from 10:00 am to 4:30 pm, and Sundays from 1:00-4:30 pm. It is located at 300 South Sixth Avenue, West Bend, WI.

Homeschool Performing Arts Club

This is the inaugural year for the Homeschool Performing Arts Club, Inc. The group is a non-profit organization comprised of 24 homeschooled children, ages 5-16, from the Fond du Lac area. The children of the Homeschool Performing Arts Club have been working together for six months. From September to December, the children worked on their acting skills and learning theater terminology with the group's theater director, Mary Ritzema, and parent volunteers.

In October, they auditioned for parts in the group's winter plays, The Boxcar Children, and Winnie the Pooh. During the past six months, the children have been involved in all aspects of theater, painting the set, creating advertisements and artwork for the plays, and finding and creating costumes for the parts.

Now that the performances are right around the corner, the children are busy rehearsing.

On March 14 and 15, The Boxcar Children will perform first, followed by Winnie the Pooh. The group promises a fun-filled family event for all ages! Come and experience two heart-warming tales of family and friendship.

The group's performances of The Boxcar Children and Winnie the Pooh will be held on Friday, March 14 at 6:30 pm, and Saturday, March 15 at 1 p.m. All performances will be held at UW-Fond du Lac in the Prairie Theater, 400 University Drive, Fond du Lac. Admission is $4 per person; those under three will be admitted free. Tickets will be sold at the door.

For more information about this production or about joining the Homeschool Performing Arts Club during the next school year, please contact Kevin or Dawn Doll at 920-921-4565.

KEWASKUM- As part of a way to thank the community for their annual support, Kewaskum Firefighters and Emergency Medical Technicians will hold their eighth annual Soup Sampler and Open House at the fire station Saturday from 4 until 8 p.m. Attendees will also have an opportunity to see the department's newest piece of life-saving equipment.

Firefighter/EMT/Dive Team member Craig Garbisch, explained the popular event allows community members to get an up-close look at equipment and learn how the department responds to emergencies. To say thank you for community support, firefighters break out their best recipes for soup to serve to visitors.

This year's event will feature the Fire Department's new dive/rescue equipment trailer they recently took delivery on. Kewaskum Fire Department has three of its members on the Washington County Dive Team. The trailer and the equipment inside are estimated at over $25,000 according to Garbisch. The Kewaskum Firefighters Association purchased the trailer and turned it over to the village.

Garbisch, Paul Petri and David Kletti have been active the last five years the team has been in existence. In addition to these Kewaskum Firefighters, others from West Bend, Slinger and Richfield volunteer with the Washington County Sheriff's Department Dive Team.

The trailer contains all the gear used to perform water and ice rescues. Before the trailer, gear was kept inside the fire department garage and needed to be loaded into a truck upon being dispatched to a rescue. Having the trailer will allow a faster response time during a rescue. The department already owns a sport utility vehicle that can pull the trailer.

Local carpenter and firefighter Jim Schaub of Schaub Home Improvement built the cabinets and shelving inside the trailer while Garbisch organized gear into the cabinets so the trailer is ready for it's first rescue call.

Equipment for the trailer was purchased with funds from the Michael Mann fund. The fund's namesake drowned on Big Cedar Lake in February of 2003 after his snowmobile went through the ice.

The Washington County Sheriff's Department Dive Team got it's start in 2003 when the County Board allocated $45,000 to equip and train up to eight sheriff's deputies.

Over this past summer their efforts were put to work as they performed a rescue on Long Lake in the town of Osceola. Their first assignment was about three years ago after a car went over a guardrail and into the Kohlsville River.

Garbisch reported that three firefighters would soon undergo training. Each new diver requires $4,000 in gear; the department is currently seeking donations to help fund equipment for the new divers. They plan on taking up a freewill offering at the soup sampler on Saturday.

"All of the equipment inside the trailer has been purchased through donations from the community, we have not spent taxpayer dollars on the dive team," Garbisch established.

In addition to the new divers' equipment, the team also hopes to purchase radio gear that would enable divers to communicate with someone above water. That technology costs $1,000 per radio; each diver would require a radio.

Anyone interested in volunteering with the department is encouraged to attend the event and learn the important role the Kewaskum Fire Department plays in the community. For more information contact Garbisch at (262) 689-3722

Rare Condition Leads to Teenage Cataracts

For Campbellsport resident Cody Zielie, having cataract surgery at Aurora Medical Center in Hartford was a "life changing" experience. That's a good thing, because Cody has a lot of years ahead of him. A student at Campbellsport High School, Cody was diagnosed with cataracts, a clouding of the natural lens of the eye, when he was only 14-years-old.

Cody Zielie sees a promising future following cataract surgery.

"He was by far the youngest patient I ever had for cataracts," says Scott Moretti, MD, Cody's ophthalmologist at the Aurora Health Center in Hartford. "Cataracts are far more common after age 65," he explains. "In fact approximately 95 percent of people over the age of 65 have a cataract to some degree, and they are typically related to aging."

Cataract risk factors

Cody's cataracts, however, were the result of a combination of complications from a severe skin condition, along with side effects from its necessary medical management. "He had severe atopic dermatitis, a condition that in and of itself increases the risk of cataracts," explains Cody's mother, Jill. "To make matters worse, the only thing that can help the skin condition is a steroid treatment that further increases the risk of cataracts. So his risk for developing them was very high."

Still, Jill says she was "blown away" when Cody's optometrist actually diagnosed him with cataracts in both eyes. "One day Cody began experiencing bad headaches, dizziness and fuzzy vision. I took him to the eye doctor and knew something was terribly wrong because of the amount of time they were spending with him. When they told me Cody had cataracts, my first thought was, 'That just doesn't happen to kids.'"

"Cody's vision was monitored for over six months but it got so bad so quickly - to the point where he really couldn't see anything anymore," she continues. "At school, he had to have everything read to him or blown up on an overhead projector. His grades went downhill. He was frustrated; his teachers were frustrated. Cody was legally blind."

"It scared me," says Cody. "I used to be able to read, play paintball, work on my dad's car," he recalls. A personal passion for the young man and his father, that car is a 1978 Mustang T-top that Cody dreams of driving some day. His dad took it apart years ago, and he and Cody have been reassembling it in their garage. With nonfunctional vision, Cody was no longer able to contribute to the project.

Surgery replaces natural lens

In September, Cody was referred to Dr. Moretti for cataract surgery. "Essentially Cody's surgery was the same procedure we perform on adults," says Dr. Moretti. "It involves the removal of the natural eye lens by liquefying it with ultrasound and implanting a permanent artificial lens that can't ever cloud up again." Cataract surgery restores vision in 98 percent of all cases, he says.

After having the procedure done in both eyes in separate operations three weeks apart, "Cody was like a new person," notes Dr. Moretti. "His outcome was phenomenal. He went from 20/200 vision to 20/25 in each eye. And when his vision came back, Cody just seemed to blossom. He became much more confident and easy going."

"For many cataract patients, surgery can make a huge difference in their quality of life," says Dr. Moretti. "For Cody, it was more than just quality; it was truly life changing. He was able to function again, be a normal teenager in terms of his vision."

Signs and Symptoms

Although rare, cataracts can occur at any age as the result of eye injuries, certain health conditions and treatments.

Symptoms include:

- Cloudy or blurry vision
- Double vision
- Colors seem faded
- Problems with light
- Halo effect around lights
- Poor night vision
- Difficulty reading

"My dad and I are back at it on the car," says Cody, now a happy 16-year-old with visions of driving in his future. "That wouldn't have been possible before," notes his mother. "Before the surgery, he couldn't even see the screws he needed to work with on the car. Now the idea of having a driver's license someday is a realistic expectation."

"I'm happy for him," she says. "It was pretty rough there for a while, but thanks to Dr. Moretti, Cody's doing real well now." In his own words, Cody adds that he is seeing and feeling "fan-tas-tic!"

Sylvan Learning's Helpful Hints for Student Success: Confidence is critical to a child's success in school

By: Barbara Hampton, Center Director

For many children who are struggling in school, the problem may be self-evident - they may have poor study skills, they're not strong in math, or they don't spend enough time on their homework. In each of these examples, the problem could be solved with a more diligent and structured approach to schoolwork. For other children however, it may not be clear what is causing their grades to spiral downward. At the same time, they may withdraw from conversations about school and other aspects of life. What causes this? It could be a child's lack of confidence in his own learning ability.

Poor performance in school can drag down grades, but ongoing trouble can undermine a child's whole academic experience and his sense of self-esteem. Lack of confidence can lead to many problems - failure to participate in classroom discussions, failing grades and unwilling-ness to talk to teachers or parents are just some examples.

Sylvan Learning Center offers study skills training as well as specific subject tutoring for students whose lack of self-confidence begins to affect their learning ability. By improving studying and test taking skills, it not only benefits a child in all his or her subjects, it builds confidence as well.

Sylvan Learning Center bases its instructional services on a scientifically-proven method and the "mastery" learning concept. It starts with a Skills Assessment™, which identifies the child's unique set of opportunities. Sylvan's personal instructors then begin to develop those skills by reinforcing the child's existing skills and building on them until the new skills have been learned and mastered. Sylvan also builds confidence in students by offering rewards for performance and attitude. As a result, the child's level of self-esteem begins to grow, which helps build confidence in overall learning.

Sometimes, it may be necessary to go back years in the curriculum to get at the root of a problem, but the reward is seeing a child begin to understand what they're learning and their confidence begins to soar. Children who believe in themselves can take on the challenges they face everyday in the classroom.

When a giraffe is born, it falls from a height of six feet, usually unharmed.

KES hosts successful Bedtime Books

No, Kewaskum Elementary School Principal Tom Fischer was not making his students come back to school in their pajamas Tuesday night, March 4 for detention. Students with their parents came back to school that night for what has become a tradition every March, Bedtime Books. Students had books read to them by local celebrities and then closed the night with cookies and juice, the perfect before bed snack, ask any parent. Shown at the top left of the page is Kewaskum Police Officer Mark Steiner reading My Life as a Chicken. At the bottom of the page is student Carly Bartel, 5, and her mom Julie Bartel choosing a book. Each student who came was given a book to take home. Other celebrities reading were PFC Travis Knoeck, Kewaskum Firefighter Dan Powell and local VFW member John Kleinmaus.

Add some egg-citement to your Easter dinner table with these adorable, egg-shaped rolls. The colorful secret is a simple egg wash with added food coloring. These home-baked dinner rolls are a perfect activity for kids to paint and decorate for dinner. And, when you pull them out of the oven, everyone can claim their creations for the Easter feast.

Of course, if Easter eggs are hiding in the oven, Easter Bunny Buns are sure to be found in there, too. Made using frozen roll dough, these fun bunnies are done in a hop, skip and a jump! All you have to do is shape some rabbit ears and a soft cottontail, and they're ready to spring into the oven.

To enjoy a more traditional Easter roll, try this modern Cranberry Hot Cross Bun recipe. The addition of a cranberry-lemon flavor combination makes this simple recipe simply delicious.

Lemon also adds a zing to Spring in this luscious Lemon Pull-Aparts recipe. A tried-and-true classic for any special occasion, the tart lemon taste with a sweet citrus glaze is mouth watering. Expect a Spring shower of compliments from dinner guests.

Hopping right along to dessert, there won't be a crumb left of a beautiful Blueberry Cream Cheese Crumb Cake. Made with a whole cup of healthy blueberries. Baked right in, hungry hunters will anxiously wait for it to appear fresh from your oven. Or, you can easily whip up these amazing Almond Danish Bars made with cream cheese, almond paste, slivered almonds, AND sliced almonds. Within the first bunny nibble, this is sure to become a family favorite.

So enjoy a happy Easter egg-stravaganza with each of these recipes that are as excitingly fresh as the coming Spring season.

Egg-citing! Easter Rolls

Almond Danish Bars

12 Rhodes™ Dinner Rolls or 8 Rhodes™ Texas™ Rolls, thawed & risen
8 ounces cream cheese, softened
1 egg
1/3 cup sugar
1/4 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup slivered almonds
4 ounces almond paste
2 egg whites
3/4 cup sliced almonds

Combine rolls into a ball and roll into an 11x16-inch rectangle. Place on a sprayed 10x15-inch jelly roll pan. Combine cream cheese, egg and sugar until smooth. Spread cream cheese mixture evenly over dough. Place brown sugar and slivered almonds in a blender and blend until finely ground. Place in a bowl and add almond paste and egg whites. Beat until smooth. Spread almond mixture over cream cheese. Sprinkle with sliced almonds. Bake at 350°F 20-30 minutes or until edges are golden brown.

Easter Egg Dinner Rolls

12 Rhodes™ Dinner Rolls, thawed but still cold
2 egg yolks
food coloring

Flatten each dinner roll into an egg shape and place on a sprayed baking sheet. (The shape you originally create will fill out and distort while rising so make sure you emphasize the defining characteristics.) Cover with sprayed plastic wrap and let rise until almost double in size. Mix egg yolks with food coloring to get your desired colors. Remove wrap from rolls and paint risen rolls with colored egg yolk as desired. Bake at 350°F 15-20 minutes.

Lemon Pull-Aparts

12 Rhodes™ Dinner Rolls, thawed but still cold
2 lemon rinds, grated
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup butter, melted
Citrus Glaze:
1 cup powdered sugar
1 tablespoon butter, melted
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice

Mix grated lemon rind with sugar. Cut rolls in half and place in a 12-inch sprayed deep dish pizza pan or 9x13-inch sprayed baking pan. Drizzle 1/4 cup melted butter over rolls. Sprinkle with lemon rind/sugar mixture, reserving 1/2 of mixture to sprinkle on just before baking. Cover with sprayed plastic wrap. Let rise until double in size. Remove wrap. Sprinkle on remaining mixture. Bake at 350°F 20-25 minutes. Remove immediately from pan and place on cooling rack. Combine glaze ingredients and mix well. Drizzle over pull-aparts.

Blueberry Cream Cheese Crumb Cake

12 Rhodes™ Dinner Rolls, thawed
Filling:
1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened
1/2 cup sugar
3 eggs
16 ounces cream cheese, softened
1/4 cup cornstarch
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
1 cup frozen blueberries, thawed
Topping:
1 cup flour
1/4 cup sugar
pinch of salt
5 tablespoons butter, softened

Combine rolls into a ball and roll into a 12x17-inch rectangle. Cover with sprayed plastic wrap and let rest. To make filling, cream butter and sugar in a medium bowl until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs, cream cheese, cornstarch, and lemon peel. Uncover dough and place in a sprayed jelly roll pan (10x15-inch) to cover bottom and sides. Spread cream cheese mixture over dough. Top with blueberries. To make topping, mix flour, sugar, and salt in a medium bowl. Gradually add butter to flour mixture using a fork. Mixture should resemble crumbs. Sprinkle lemon topping over filling and blueberries. Let stand 15 minutes. Bake at 350°F 45-50 minutes.

Easter Bunny Rolls

Rhodes™ Dinner Rolls, thawed but still cold

Cut a small piece off of one roll for a tail. Roll remaining piece into a 16-inch rope with pointed ends. Twist top of rope together. Place on a large sprayed baking sheet and pull pointed ends apart for ears. Roll small cut off piece into a ball for the tail. Make an indentation with your finger at the spot for the tail. Moisten the tail with water and place in the indentation. Repeat the steps to make as many bunnies as desired. Cover with sprayed plastic wrap and allow to rise 30-45 minutes. Remove wrap and bake at 350°F 15-20 minutes or until golden brown. Enjoy with butter for your Easter Dinner.

Cranberry Hot Cross Buns

18 Rhodes™ Dinner rolls, thawed
12 tablespoons dried cranberries
Frosting: 1 1/3 cups powdered sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons lemon zest
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1-2 tablespoons milk

With scissors, cut 6 rolls in half. Press 1 1/2 rolls into a flat circle. Put 1 tablespoon of cranberries on roll and bring edges together, mixing berries into the dough. Shape into a round roll. Place on a large sprayed baking sheet. Repeat directions for additional rolls. Cover with sprayed plastic wrap and let double in size. Remove wrap and bake at 350°F 20 minutes or until golden brown. Let cool. Mix ingredients for frosting and frost rolls.

Legion's Easter Egg Hunt will go on without the hunt

By Andrew Kuehl
andrew@kewaskumstatesman

KEWASKUM- As the snow continues to cover the landscape of River Hill Park, the location of the American Legion Post 384's annual Easter Egg Hunt Legionaries have quickly devised a change to ensure the annual Kewaskum tradition continues.

On Saturday, March 22, Legionnaires will hand out Easter egg treats from 1 until 2 p.m. in the Holy Trinity Church parking lot. Participants are asked to enter the church parking lot from Prospect Street.

Treats will be handed out under the church's carport.

Drivers should then exit the parking lot at the east driveway and drive out east on Prospect to Parkview where drivers can get back on Highway 28/Main Street.

Those attending will also have the opportunity to visit with Mr. and Mrs. Easter Bunny as well. The couple greet visitors and have photos taken at the south end of the parking lot.

Member of the post, Clayton Stautz, stated that because of the tremendous amount of snow still in the park it was impossible to hold the hunt. He stated the Legion hopes to hold the event again next year.

Easter baskets for every personality

(ARA) - With the onset of spring comes the Easter holiday and the celebration is not complete without the traditional treat-filled basket. For those looking for a unique twist to this holiday ritual, consider customizing the Easter baskets you give your loved ones. Include a variety of trinkets and toys that match your little (and big) ones' interests to create a fun, personal Easter celebration.

Here are some ideas for every personality type:

The Sports Fan: Spring means one thing to the sports enthusiast: baseball season! Complement the traditional jelly bean and bunny-shaped confections with trading cards and stickers from their favorite team. Throw in a catcher's mitt and baseball and you will hit a homerun!

The Little Princess: Some girls' love of the color pink never fades, so bring a smile to the face of your "girliest" girl this Easter with a pink-inspired Easter basket. Costume jewelry, lip gloss and a beaded purse give her the perfect dress accessories. Customize the "basket" further by delivering the items in a pink duffel bag or carry-all, leaving her with a basket she can use year round.

The Practical Joker: The refreshing humor of practical jokes and silly toys never gets old. Consider designing a basket filled with gag gifts and funny items. Clever treats like the Hubba Bubba Cluckers, a wind-up chicken that lays tasty gum eggs, are a great basket centerpiece for that true comedian at heart. Finish the basket with classic "funny" items like a whoopee cushion, slinky, googly eyeglasses and a movie starring your loved one's favorite comedian.

The Intellectual Game Guru: Sudoku and crossword puzzles keep even the brightest of players on their toes. Keep brainteaser and puzzle fans guessing with a game-inspired Easter basket. Card games and mini board games provide hours of entertainment, particularly if your family is traveling over the Easter holiday or during spring break. Gift the items in a "basket" that can also be used to store the games once the season ends.

The Artist: For the creative one in your family, fill his or her basket with a small sketchbook, watercolors, paint brushes and a music CD. Add some colorful candy, like an assortment of jelly beans, to inspire their inner artist. You might end up with a new work of art for the refrigerator.

The Health Nut: Even the healthiest, most fitness-conscious folks don't want to miss out on the Easter basket tradition. Create a "wellness" basket with active lifestyle items like a jump rope, a training watch, a pedometer or an inflatable Pilates ball to keep your athlete on the move. Substitute traditional sweets with low-calorie alternatives like Extra sugar-free gum, which recently earned the American Dental Association's Seal of Acceptance for helping to improve dental health.

Date, location change for West Bend Easter Egg hunt

The 2008 West Bend Community Easter Egg Hunt will be held on Saturday, March 22 at the Washington County Fair Park Pavilion.

The morning hunt will take place at 11 a.m. and the flashlight hunt will be held at 1 p.m.

The morning hunt will be separated into three age groups in separate spaces within the Fair Park Pavilion and the flashlight hunt will be held in one darkened space, also within the pavilion.

The entrance Atrium of the Fair Park Pavilion will be an ideal staging area for all the children waiting for the hunts to begin, the Lions to distribute prizes after the morning hunt, and a great spot to meet and get photos with the Easter Bunny.

Organizers of the hunt wish to thank the Washington County Fair Park staff for their cooperation in their last-minute request that was prompted by the fact that Regner Park is still under multiple layers of ice and snow!

For more information, contact the West Bend Park and Rec. Department at 262-335-5080.

JOAN A. STROH

Joan A. Stroh, 71, of Eden, passed away at the Hospice Home of Hope on Monday, March 3, 2008.

Joan was born October 7, 1936, in Dickinson, N.D., a daughter of Carl and Rose Thomas Schmidt. On July 20, 1955, she was married to James Stroh in Dickinson, N.D.

After they were married, Joan and Jim moved to Fort Gordon, Ga., until Jim was discharged from the military, and they then moved to Wisconsin. Joan was employed with Friday Canning Company in Eden for 22 years. She was a wonderful homemaker, raising the family as she worked.

Joan greatly enjoyed working with her hands. She sewed, crocheted, built doll-houses and was an avid lover of puzzles. She used to enjoy her time with Jim on the snow-mobile.

Joan is survived by Jim, her husband for more than 52 years; three daughters, Debra Braun of Fond du Lac, Renee (Bob) Chyba of Dundee and Carla (Derek) Johnson of Cedarburg; grandchildren, Miranda (Craig) Amerling of Kewaskum, James Wiesner of Campbellsport, and Andrea Wiesner of Cedarburg; great-grandchildren, Mason and Reid Amerling; one sister, Jeanne (Ken) Kowis of New Berlin; one brother, Duane (Lori) Schmidt of Oakfield; nieces; nephews; other relatives; and friends.

Preceding her in death are her parents; two sisters, Lorraine Steckler and Theresa Hartman; and three brothers, Ralph Schmidt, Wilbert Schmidt and Edward Schmidt.

Cremation has taken place, and a private family memorial service was held at Shrine of Rest Mausoleum, Ledgewiew Memorial Park, on Thursday, March 6, 2008.

Memorials in her name may be directed to the Hospice Home of Hope.

Zacherl Funeral Home is serving the family.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF NICK VOGT

Dearest Brother, Uncle and Great-Uncle:

His Journey's Just Begun

Don't think of him as gone away- his journey's just begun, life holds so many facets- this earth is only one.

Just think of him as resting from the sorrow and the tears in a place of warmth and comfort where there are no days and years.

Think how he must be wishing that we could know today how nothing but our sadness can really pass away

And think of him as living in the hearts of those he touched... for nothing loved is ever lost- and he was loved so much.

Forever Loved, Deeply Missed by Linda, Nicole, Sarah, Michelle, Shawn and Jaydon

you, you did not go alone, for part of us went with you the day God called you home.

You left us peaceful memories, your love is still our guide. And though we cannot see you, you are always at our side.

Our family chain is broken, and nothing seems the same. But, as God calls us one by one, the chain will link again.

We miss you & love you, Your family

But that is nothing new I thought of you yesterday and days before that too, I think of you in silence I often speak your name All I have are memories and your picture in a frame Your memory is my keepsake with which I'll never part God has you in His keeping I have you in my heart.

Gone yet not forgotten, although we are apart, your spirit lives within me, forever in my heart.

In memory of SHIRLEY BACKHAUS, who passed away March 6, 1978:

It's been thirty years since that tragic day But we remember as if it was yesterday.

You were taken from us so suddenly, We didn't have a chance to say our good-byes. We've shed many tears since then, Missing you being part of our lives, But you are in our hearts,

On your family who has grown to quite a crowd, And we'll continue working hard to make you proud.

Gumbo Tales: Finding my place at the New Orleans Table

By Sara Roahen

Gumbo Tales

FINDING MY PLACE

at the

NEW ORLEANS TABLE

SARA ROAHEN

It's almost dinnertime, and your appetite has already decided on what it wants.

You jump in the car and drive on over to a favorite spot-in-the-road where the food is perfect, and as you pull into the parking lot, your stomach turns.

Your restaurant is boarded over. A "For Sale" sign hangs, lopsided, on the building. It's more than frustrating. It's appetite-destroying.

In "Gumbo Tales: Finding My Place at the New Orleans Table" by Sara Roahen, you'll read about restaurants gone, a city besieged, and a taste of home that brings hope flooding back.

When a born-and-bred Wisconsin girl, used to cheese curds and casserole, moved to New Orleans, home of gumbo and jambalaya, for the sake of her husband's education and future career, it wasn't love at first sight. Erl? Brawled? Dress a sandwich? What kind of culinary confusion had Sara Roahen landed in?

Later, as a writer for a local weekly newspaper, Roahen learned more and she fell in love with the food and the people who cooked it. She visited out-of-the-way eateries, roadside joints mostly known to locals, homes of people who built altars and fed strangers, and places that were famous for a specific, special dish.

Were. Past tense, in many cases. Several of New Orleans' beloved restaurants - many of Roahen's favorites - were taken by Katrina. But Roahen still remembers.

While most restaurants start you out with an appetizer, Roahen begins her book with gumbo and quickly moves to the bar with Sazeracs. On to dessert, and Sno-Balls (or Sno-Blizs) at Hansen's, where Roahen remembers the long lines and the pictures on the wall, pre-Katrina.

Roahen talks about smothered vegetables and z'herbes. She compares the goodness of po-boys, and differentiates them from the schooner-like oyster loaf sandwiches. She writes about the weirdness of turducken, getting the hang of crawfish eating, and lurching at a restaurant til dinnertime. And she remembers.

Are you on a diet? If you are, you can forget about it while you're reading this book, because the loving descriptions of food in "Gumbo Tales" are going to make you head for the kitchen about every half-hour.

Admittedly, I didn't like this book at first. Roahen jumps right into her narrative without fanfare and little-to-no introduction. Once I got past that, though, I was able to see this book as a love story to a bruised city, the people who are reclaiming their culture, and the food that brings them together.

The thing to know is this: "Gumbo Tales" is probably not going to make sense to someone who's never been to New Orleans. Roahen describes restaurants in detail, naming them with a breezy familiarity that non-citizens are unlikely to understand, particularly since many of these places are tucked away or are long gone.

Overall, I think this book will be a treasure to anyone who makes a living with food, or to anyone who lives in and loves New Orleans. Those readers will eat "Gumbo Tales" up. For non-denizens and non-foodies, though, this is a dish to pass.

75 Years Ago

March 3, 1933

At the administrator's sale of the Wells estate last Saturday morning, the Kewaskum Creamery was sold to the creditors. Only one bid was made, which was accepted by the administrator subject to the approval of the probate court. There is no question that the new organization will be an asset, not only to the village, but to the farmers of this locality as well.

On March 6, the former Otto Stark blacksmith shop on East Main Street in Kewaskum, will again be re-opened for first-class work at a reasonable price. Ernest Haegler, an experienced horse shoer, blacksmith and wagon maker, will be in charge.

The two stolen slot machines taken from the Simon Strachota general store at St.

Kilian last week were found in a damaged condition near the former Albert Buss farm in the southeastern part of the Town of Kewaskum on the Fillmore road east of the Louis Schaefer bridge the following day. Some of the other articles taken in the robbery were found on the highway north of St. Kilian.

Mr. and Mrs. Math. Heriges of St. Michaels had their infant daughter christened. She received the name Kathleen Ann.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Bunkelmann, Jr., Kewaskum, on February 27. A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Jake Schladweiler, St. Michaels, on Monday. A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Alex Peters of Keowns Corner.

100 Years Ago

February 29, 1908

Backhaus and Beisbier sold their saloon property located on the corner of Fond du Lac Avenue and Malt House Street last Saturday to Wenzel Zwaschka of Wayne for $3,500. The new proprietor will take possession about March 1. John Andrae has been conducting the place up to the present time.

Andrew Heilmann wishes to announce to his customers that he will commence to do his own baking again next Monday, but will not deliver around town at present. Parties wanting rolls in the morning can get them at the bakery.

The Philip Smith residence on Malt House Street was sold at auction last Wednesday to Robert Backhaus, the stock dealer, for $2,075.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Schmitt of St. Michaels, one day last week. A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Anton Wiesner of St. Kilian last Sunday.

Aurora physicians receive national recognition for diabetes care

HARTFORD - Aurora Health Care physicians Joseph Pfothenauer, M.D., and Edmund Fernandez, M.D., have been recognized by the National Committee for Quality Assurance and the American Diabetes Association for providing quality care to patients with diabetes.

The Diabetes Physician Recognition Program is designed to improve care for diabetes patients by recognizing physicians who deliver quality diabetes care, and by motivating other physicians to document and improve their delivery of diabetes care.

Dr. Pfothenauer, who specializes in internal medicine, cares for patients at Aurora Health Center, 1640 E Sumner St., Hartford.

Dr. Fernandez, who specializes in family medicine, sees patients at Aurora Health Center, 1640 E Sumner St., Hartford, and at Aurora Health Center, 1061 E Commerce Blvd., Slinger.

"The National Committee for Quality Assurance recognition demonstrates the willingness of these physicians to take the steps needed to ensure excellent care, which includes identifying appropriate patients, collecting and recording the right data, and following a system of care to assure that the best care is performed each and every time," said Bruce Van Cleave, MD, Aurora chief medical officer. "It is a way to help ensure that our diabetes patients in the Hartford area receive better access, better service and better results than they can get anywhere else."

To receive the recognition, which is valid for three years, the physicians were required to submit data demonstrating performance that meets key diabetes care measures. These measures include careful control of blood sugar, cholesterol, and blood pressure, and regular performance of diabetic eye and feet exams. When people with diabetes receive quality care as outlined by these measures, they are less likely to suffer complications such as heart attacks, stroke, blindness, kidney disease and amputations.

"For a person with diabetes, the right physician can make the difference between living with diabetes as opposed to suffering from diabetes," said Larry C. Deeb, M.D., president of medicine and science at the American Diabetes Association.

Samuelson Sez Embargoes Don't Work

During a campaign year there is no limit on issues that can be brought up by candidates. Last week I talked about my concern over the criticism of NAFTA by the Democratic presidential candidates.

This week I am talking about my concern over suggestions that we may have to change export policy. The reason, escalating commodity prices that cause higher food prices. Escalating commodity prices basically benefit the 2% of our population involved in producing the commodities, but higher food prices affect every consumer/voter in the nation, and with increasing complaints about inflation in food prices, there is now talk of having to do something about that growth.

A few days ago, Rob MacKie, President and CEO of the American Bakers Association, stopped by my office to talk about the "American Bakers March on Washington" scheduled for this month. The bakers will march to Capitol Hill to talk to Congressmen and Senators; then to USDA to talk to the Secretary of Agriculture; and finally, to the White House to talk with the President's agricultural advisor. Their message?...the baking industry cannot deal with record high wheat prices and need some form of relief from the government. He told me the cost of wheat flour has gone up 245% in the last year, and we are going to see sharply higher food inflation in 2008.

He then said "I don't want us to go back to the days of the embargo, but we need to rethink our export policy." Well, what else can you do on export policy than perhaps embargo our sales of wheat to foreign buyers because it is a combination of the lowest wheat stocks in 60 years and strong foreign demand that has driven our wheat prices to these record levels.

But, before we start talking embargo, I hope we have learned from history. In the late 70's, President Jimmy Carter embargoed wheat sales to the Soviet Union because of their Afghan invasion. That sent our farm prices into a tailspin and played a major role in the recession/depression of the 80's in rural America.

Before that however, President Richard Nixon, in an attempt to control food inflation, froze prices and banned soybean sales to Japan, our biggest soybean buyer. Japan reacted quickly, saying America would no longer be a reliable supplier, and they turned their attention to Brazil and provided huge amounts of financial assistance to get Brazilian farmers into soybean production. We know the results of that embargo; Brazil is now our biggest competitor in the world soybean market.

As I have said many times, embargoes don't work!...so let's not even think of going that way to "change our export policy."

My thoughts on Samuelson Sez.

On Wisconsin Outdoors

With the Dick Ellis Experts

STEELHEAD HEAVEN.... A mix of fishing, hunting in one

Randy Schumacher, Department of Natural Resources fisheries supervisor calls tributary steelhead angling "a mix of hunting and fishing tied together." Little wonder then, that the spring opener on the Bois Brule river from Highway 2 to Lake Superior set for March 29 and the spring "runs" set to begin any day now on Lake Michigan veins from Door County to Kenosha draw trout enthusiasts literally from across the country.

Drive along the roads bordering the Brule on any opening morning, regardless of the weather, or any Lake Superior stream like the Sioux, and count the plates from other states. There will be scores, with Minnesota apparently by the sheer numbers of visitors claiming annual squatter's rights to one of Wisconsin's most precious gems.

The Brule is a fertile, spring-fed spawning artery of the Greatest Lake. The river is not dependent on snow run-off or rain to initiate movements of trout upstream like Lake Michigan streams. It is a prolific river providing the best returns of fish of all the streams on the western basin of Lake Superior and certainly in Wisconsin.

During the first several weeks of the early season, according to the DNR website, the vast majority of steelhead caught on the Brule are fish that remained in the river from the previous fall run. Last fall, of 11,758 trout and salmon captured on video and literally counted during the fall review period at the Wehr barrier on the river as they moved upstream from Lake Superior between July 7 and November 26 to over winter, 6,345 were steelhead. Steelhead from 20 to 24 inches representing the 2003 and 2004 year classes dominated last fall's run.

Hundreds more of these Superior rainbows will make the journey inland to spawn when ice conditions at the mouth allow. These bright, spring-run fish usually begin appearing in April and continue migrating up through early May, according to the site. Water temperature dictates peak movement. Most fish are taken on yarn flies, spawn, large caddis fly imitations and various types of spoons and spinners. Deep runs and pools are favorite holding areas for the fish.

Regulations were changed in the recent past to close the season that had been open year-round and enforce a one-fish bag with a minimum size limit of 26 inches. The regulation virtually ensures that the steelhead will be given the opportunity to spawn at least once before being harvested. With more anglers fishing the Brule each season than there are fish, the regulation was imperative and has already paid great dividends. The large majority of these anglers release the wild rainbows anyway, regardless of size.

Without the necessary stream habitat for natural reproduction like the Brule, Lake Michigan tributaries are dependent on the state fish hatchery to raise and stock three different strains of rainbows that migrate up the rivers at different times each year. Still, the six-inch "smolts" imprint on their mother streams when released. And when the Ganaraska and Chambers Creek strains miraculously return as adults each spring to follow nature's command to spawn, regardless of how futile the act, the anglers also return as from far away places to fish again. Count the visiting plates all along the western shore of Lake Michigan too, and expect the number to surpass Wisconsin tags.

"Our group has friends come in from Iowa, Minnesota and Kansas when the steelhead run starts," said Jeff Scott on the ice of the Milwaukee harbor Sunday. "Usually down here March is a really good month to steelhead fish and last year we were already fishing in February. The rivers are starting to open up now, but this winter has been just too cold."

Scott doesn't wait. He watches the rivers for the ice-out and then for any "precipitation event," like melt-off or rain, that sends more steelhead up the river. But he watches now from the ice of Kenosha, Racine, Milwaukee, Port Washington, Sheboygan or Door County, where he's jigging through augured holes and catching the steelhead already feeding and staging for the cherished "run". On Saturday, March 8th, he caught a six pound steelhead leaking the milk that tells Scott that spawning time is near. He returned March 9 with Randy Rothenbueler and this reporter to try again.

While the rivers are beginning to thaw, we set up on 30 inches of ice within protected lagoon 200 yards from the Milwaukee. Scott will set tip-ups, but has only caught one fish this winter on tip-ups and devotes his energy to the more productive methods of jigging small spoons, rapalas or tinsel, hair or twister jigs.

"I'll also run waxworms with a marshmallow," Scott said. "Especially on the open rivers the marshmallow will float and hold up the waxworms. It works every bit as good as a spawn sac."

Steelhead fishing is indeed one of Wisconsin's great winter break-outs. Like the walleye spawning migrations from the Mississippi to the Wolf, or the earliest of six split turkey seasons, Great Lakes rainbows mean spring. State fisheries biologist Schumacher, an avid fan of fishing the run, asks a simple question

"How many chances do we have to catch a 10 to 15 pound trout in a small stream?" Schumacher asked. "To me, it's amazing that we have the opportunity to catch a 15 pound trout in the shadow of a downtown Milwaukee skyscraper or Miller Park, home of the Milwaukee Brewers.

Six KIWC members are state-bound

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

The Kewaskum Indians Wrestling Club will be represented at this year's Wisconsin Youth Folkstyle State Tournament by five of its young wrestlers.

After a long and rugged day of competition at a regional hosted by Lakeland College, near Howards Grove, last Saturday, Zach Smith, Lance Pinchard, Lucas Jon Pinchard, Alex Phillips and Kurt Luedtke qualified to go to Madison for the competition on March 21-22.

Luedtke had to battle through a nine-man bracket to gain a second place, while all the others were champions.

Smith, who is probably Kewaskum's best shot at bringing home a state title, posted three major decisions at winning the 94-pound title for those born in 1995-96. There were seven wrestlers in Smith's bracket.

L.J. Pinchard emerged from of an eight-man bracket to capture the 120 pound title (1997-98). En route to his title, the younger of the Pinchard brothers had one pin and two decisions.

Lance Pinchard won all three of his matches, one by pin and two by decision, to win the 140-pound crown (1993-94) which included four participants.

In Phillips' divisions, for 110 pounds (1997-98), there were three competitors, and he pinned both his opponents.

Luedtke, who came along way from the start of the season to now, had one technical fall and two pins on the day.

Kewaskum had a total of 29 wrestlers at Lakeland for Saturday's marathon session, which lasted for seven hours for some of the competitors.

The Indians' last two undefeated wrestlers, Joey Seitz and Brent Goeden, suffered their first losses of the season. Seitz, a sixth grader, lost a 6-4 decision in overtime, and even though he came back win after that, he had to settle for third place because the wrestler he lost to took second.

Goeden, a second grader, had reeled off 21 wins in a row and made it 22 with a 4-1 decision in the quarterfinals of his 11-man 57-60 pound bracket.

He then lost a 2-0 decision in the semis and a 10-2 decision in a wrestleback to end his first year of competition at 22-2.

Note: On Monday evening, Teddy Wollner got a call from Wisconsin Wrestling Federation, notifying him he will be going to state. Wollner had finished third at 150 pounds (1995-96), but one of the top two wrestlers at that weight pulled out of the competition after Saturday.

More information on third place finishers and final records will be included in a season wrapup.

More success on the mats

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

Kewaskum Indians Wrestling Club members traveled north, northeast and east to find their competition over the weekend of March 1 and 2.

Starting out in Chilton on Sat., March 1, 24 of the young Indians did well, coming home with 10 titles and another five, second places.

On a team where there are at least a half dozen successful brother acts, the Goedens, Austin and Brent, enjoyed the most successful outing. Competing in the seventh and eighth grade division, Austin Goeden was a perfect 3-0, starting off with a 16-0 tech fall, then posting a pin and receiving a forfeit in his third match.

Young Brent, a second grader, added three more pins to his list of 2008 accomplishments.

The other champions were: 7-8 division — Lance Pinchard and Joey Wollner; 5-6 — Trevor Kirst, Zachary Smith, Max Maertz, and Kurt Luedtke; 3-4 — Zachary Heberer and Alex Phillips.

Smith and Luedtke pinned all three of their opponents.

The second place finishers included: 7-8 — Teddy Wollner, Derek Aupperle; 5-6 — Cody Muckerheide; 3-4 Dakota Peters-Lawrenz; and K-2 — Caleb Reif.

Thirds were recorded by: 7-8 — Clayton Reif and Logan Dreher; 5-6 — Lucas-Jon Pinchard and Maxim Vetter; 3-4 — Jacob Heberer and Brandon Wade; and K-2 — Nathan Heberer and David Barrett.

On Sunday, March 2, 15 KIWC members were at Port Washington and five others went to Menasha.

In the event at Port Washington, Joey Seitz won a 5-6 title and continued his unbeaten streak for the season, while Kyle Bath and Eric Bauer were champions in the K-2 division.

Six young Indians claimed second places. They were: 7-8 — Nicholas Bier and Michael Bier; 5-6 — Derek Voight and Cody Muckerheide; 3-4 — Michael Boettcher; and K-2 — Luke Bindrich.

Those taking third were: 3-4 — Dylan May; K-2 — Kannon Muckerheide, Max DesRosier; and Keegan Gruss.

In a five-man bracket, Dan Seitz won one match and placed fourth.

At Menasha, four of the five KIWC representatives brought home titles, including: Austin Goeden and Logan Dreher in the 7-8 division; Zach Smith in the 5-6 division; and Brandon Wade in the 3-4 division.

D.J. Smith placed third in the K-2 division.

Zach Smith not only pinned all three of his opponents, but he was awarded the honor for the fastest pin on his mat, just 10 seconds.

On the other mat, Goeden earned the fastest pin trophy for winning in 13 seconds.

This weekend many of the wrestlers will be at Lakeland College for one of Wisconsin's regional tournaments, which determine the field for the state competition.

Benjamin Franklin thought the wild turkey-not the bald eagle-was the best choice for the national bird.
