Law enforcement continue to investigate fire at vacant Auburn home

By Andrew Kuehl
Statesman Publisher

TOWN of AUBURN- Fond du Lac County Sheriff's Detectives are continuing their investigation of a fire that occurred on Thursday morning, July 24. Five fire departments battled the blaze of the fully engulfed structure.

Chief Deputy Mark Strand of the Sheriff's Department stated Wednesday morning the fire is still under investigation and his office is waiting for information from samples taken from the scene sent to the state's crime lab in Madison.

Strand stated this is normal operating procedure because the property was foreclosed upon "awhile ago" and owned by a bank. He could not state when the property was foreclosed upon.

Records at The Statesman indicate the property was once the address of Sunshine Creek Financial, owned by Donna Vogt. The business closed in 2003 when she was terminated by Raymond James Financial.

In 2006 Vogt was charged with making misleading filings violating securities laws.

Strand stated investigators may have the information they need by Friday.

The Campbellsport Fire Department responded to N2147 Double D Road at 1:02 a.m. They Firefighters from Campbellsport, Kewaskum, Beechwood, Cascade and Eden were called to assist at the roaring fire above in a vacant home in the town of Auburn early Thursday morning, July 24. Video of the fire can be found at www.kewaskumstatesman.com found the structure fully engulfed in flames and quickly requested a full response from Kewaskum Fire Department. Water from Beechwood, Cascade and Eden Fire Departments were also requested.

Washington County GOP Endorses Rep. LeMahieu, McCarty protests

By Andrew Kuehl
Statesman Publisher
andrew@kewaskumstatesman

WEST BEND- The Washington County Republican Party has stated they will endorse all incumbents in this fall's election. This is not sitting well with self-proclaimed Republican challenger Karl McCarty who is looking to unseat Incumbent Assemblyman Dan LeMahieu who has held the seat in the 59th District for two terms.

In a press release, McCarty stated he went to the Washington County Fair to hand out his information at the Washington County Republicans' booth. Officials for the Washington County Republicans did not allow McCarty to leave his campaign information and lawn signs at the booth, because, of their endorsement of LeMahieu.

In his release McCarty stated was appalled, "Elections are about informing the people, and here the Washington County Republicans are blocking information from the people of Washington County and the surrounding area. What are they afraid of?"

On Thursday afternoon, July 24, McCarty showed up at County Fair and handed out literature next to the Washington County Republican booth. After a few minutes, McCarty was asked to leave.

McCarty stated The Washington County Republicans do not have McCarty's information or lawn signs, even though McCarty claims he is a conservative Republican.

Jim Geldreich, Chairman of The Washington County Republican Party stated "We do not allow challengers to our incumbents into our fair booth to campaign or distribute their literature. Our policy regarding candidates in our fair booth was explained to Mr. McCarty on Tuesday, July 22 by Washington County GOP Vice-Chairman Kathy Kiernan. For the record, Mr. McCarty never contacted us before the start of the County Fair requesting permission to appear in our booth. We pay several hundred dollars to rent the space for our booth, and our organization reserves the right to formulate policy with regard to who may or may not appear there. If Mr. McCarty wanted to distribute his campaign literature at the Washington County Fair, then he should've rented his own booth as Senator Glenn Grothman did in 2004 when he challenged an incumbent."

Shocked at the McCarty's unruly response Rep. Lemahieu stated, "I'm happy with the Washington County Republican Party endorsement. As a member of three county Republican parties and the Republican Party of Wisconsin I support their efforts to control spending and taxes, improve the job climate in Wisconsin and getting consumers more involved in bringing down the cost of health care."

Through an informal investigation this reporter could not find one County Republican organization who could confirm membership of McCarty.

Gateway Theatre to open with 'Trouble at the Talent Show'

By Nick Brettingen
Special to The Statesman

KEWASKUM- Gateway Theatre is the name of Kewaskum's summer community theatre company. It was recently established due to the success of the extremely popular, annual fall high school musicals and the newly well-received spring high school play, "Airline."

The next logical step was to get a summer theatre program started, so Jan Chilson and I decided to go with the flow and put on a summer show.

Gateway Theatre: Home of the Kewaskum Area Theatre Stars, will be giving their debut performance on Thursday, July 31, at 7 p.m. in the Kewaskum High School Theatre. They will also be performing on Friday, August 1 and Saturday, August 2 at 7 p.m. The debut summer performance is Eileen Moushey's "Trouble at the Talent Show."

Kewaskum High School is putting on a faux talent show but some of the acts have cancelled last minute. Therefore, the cast (Mark and Sheryl, Tiffs, Grungies, Regs, Jocks, Lunch Ladies and Maintenance Guys) improvise and interact with the audience.

Each group (Tiffs, Grungies, Regs, Jocks, Lunch Ladies and Maintenance Guys) shares an original, musical number on stage for their talent but something unexpected happens and the audience has to assist the cast.

Moushey's "Trouble at the Talent Show" is an audience-participation mystery that is part improvised, part scripted, part musical and a whole lot of fun. The audience will love the dynamic characters, original music and the fact that they are part of the show.

Tickets for "Trouble at the Talent Show" may be purchased for $5.00 at the door the night of a performance or at any of the following locations: Piggly Wiggly and West Bend Savings Bank, both in Kewaskum.

Performances are in the KHS Theatre.

Kids' Safety Column

Playground Safety

By: Don C. Keenan

The playground is probably most children's favorite place. When we let our kids loose to play, we want to know that they are safe. Consider the following statistics concerning playgrounds:

According to the Centers for Disease Control (CDC), more than 200,000 children 14 years of age and younger are treated in hospital emergency rooms across the United States each year.

Most accidents, nearly 70 percent, occur on public playgrounds. They are usually associated with climbing equipment, slides and swings.

More than one-third of all playground injuries are severe, with children incurring fractures, internal injuries, concussions, and dislocations.

Approximately 15 children die each year injuries sustained on a playground, about half of which are from strangulation and one-quarter from falls from equipment.

While these are troubling statistics, there are things you can do to protect your children while they play:

1. Check the condition of equipment before your child plays. Equipment doesn't have to be brand new, but it must meet basic safety standards. Check for broken parts, ladders, or swings. Make sure there is no rust or chipping paint on the equipment (paint on old equipment could contain lead; if the paint is chipping, it is easily ingested.) Look also for protruding nails, splinters, edges, or anything else that could snag a child's clothing or skin.

2. Equipment Tipping Risks. Make sure all the equipment is secured to the ground and doesn't pose a risk of tipping.

3. Check for dangerous gaps or spaces. Ladder rungs should be spaced in such a way that children can't get stuck in between. The space between the rungs should be smaller than 3 1/2 inches or larger than 9 inches to avoid trapping a child.

4. Check your children's clothing. As a general rule, any type of clothing that become tangled in the playground equipment should not be worn. Remember to remove any and all drawstrings or use clothing that does not require a drawstring. When the weather would normally require a scarf, choose another form of neck warmer. Also, some parents encourage their children wear helmets while on playground equipment for extra protection. However, doctors have advised against this, claiming they can be more of a danger than a preventive measure, as the helmet straps can become entangled and lead to strangulation.

5. Choose a playground that is age appropriate for your child. Young children should play in areas with smaller, safer equipment that require less coordination. Younger kids should not play on equipment designed for older kids. Similarly, older kids shouldn't play in areas designed for younger kids because of the danger they can pose to the younger kids.

6. Check the surfaces around the playground equipment. The area around the play equipment should be covered with a loose, soft surface (fall zone) such as sand, wood chips, or shredded bark mulch. These surfaces and others like them are more forgiving, which reduces the risk of serious injury. Also, make sure the surface is consistent throughout the playground. The fall zone should extend at least 6 feet from the equipment in all directions. The coverage depth of the surface should be around six to eight inches for the preschool playground and 12 to 14 inches on the main playground surface.

If you find any of the playground equipment or grounds to need repair, contact those responsible for the upkeep (municipal government, school, neighborhood association) and express your concerns. Follow up until the problem is addressed. With the help of parents and neighbors, playgrounds can be as safe as possible for our kids.

Don Keenan, child advocate and founder of the Keenan's Kids Foundation, has published a book on child safety titled, 365 Ways to Keep Kids Safe, which is available at www.balloonpress.com or at www.amazon.com. All proceeds benefit the Keenan's Kids Foundation.

Shop the Pig and Save...on gas

Piggly Wiggly in Kewaskum has launched Pig Points on Wednesday, July 30th. The exciting fuel discounts program allows customers to pay as little as one cent per gallon of gas!

"It's really easy to earn big savings on gas with Pig Points," said owner Mike Geidel. "Now customers can buy the items they already need and save money on gas too."

Customers earn fuel discounts by using their Piggly Wiggly Preferred Club Card when purchasing any specially-marked Pig Points products. There are approximately 1,000 participating Pig Points products throughout participating Piggly Wiggly stores. Pig Points items are regularly changing with new items being added on a weekly and monthly basis. Each item has a shelf tag indicating the number of Pig Points that will be earned and the savings per gallon on fuel. Piggly Wiggly in Kewaskum is offering an introductory bonus until August 26th which gives customers an additional two-cents-per-gallon bonus fuel discount every time they spend $60-$99 in an order. If they spend $100 or more in an order, customers will receive a five-cents-per-gallon bonus fuel discount.

The Pig Points and fuel savings add up on each trip and with every purchase of a participating item. Geidel gave an example that by purchasing just one box of Trix Cereal, two Banquet Brown & Serve Sausages, one Yoplait Gogurt 8pk, and one 3-lb bag of Yellow Onions, that a customer would earn a twenty-five cents per gallon fuel discount. Each time you check out your groceries at Piggly Wiggly, the cashier will give you a Pig Points statement showing your current fuel savings.

Piggly Wiggly in Kewaskum is also running a special Brewers Home Run promotion, where customers can earn 4¢ off per gallon of gas for every home run that the Milwaukee Brewers hit on Sundays. Customers receive the Home Run Bonus coupons by spending $50 or more between Wednesday and Saturday. Coupons can be redeemed on the following Wednesday through Tuesday.

Customers will be able to redeem their fuel discounts starting later this Summer at BP of Kewaskum. Customers can continue to accumulate their Pig Points until they are able to redeem their Pig Points there. Pig Points will only expire 60 days after the last use of your Preferred Club Card in a participating Piggly Wiggly, so as an active customer you will never lose your Pig Points.

The discount is good on up to 15 gallons in a single transaction so it is advisable to let your tank run low to take full advantage of your Pig Points fuel discount. Your Pig Points will continue to accumulate each time you shop at Piggly Wiggly in Kewaskum and will only expire if you do not use your Preferred Club Card for 60 days at a participating Pig Points store.

Geidel added, "It's important that the first thing you do when you redeem your Pig Points, is to scan your Preferred Club Card at the fuel pumps. Pig Points fuel discounts can only be given at the pump, when the Preferred Card is scanned at the beginning of the transaction. There are instructions at the pump, but if a customer has a question the first time they redeem Pig Points, they should ask the clerk at BP."

Pig Points is now running in 46 Piggly Wiggly stores. The first store to run the program was the Northgate Piggly Wiggly in Sheboygan, which began May 24th, 2006.

"The customer response has been tremendous," said Piggly Wiggly's Director of Loyalty Marketing, David Dickelman. "With over 1,000 Pig Points products to choose from, customers can quickly earn huge fuel discounts."

As part of the kickoff celebration, Piggly Wiggly in Kewaskum will be giving away 1,000,000 Pig Points to one lucky winner. This is enough Pig Points for approximately 9 fill-ups at less than one cent per gallon of gas. Customers can sign up at the store through August 26th and are automatically entered every time they scan their Preferred Club Card at Piggly Wiggly in Kewaskum.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor

Just so everybody knows, I really do like farmers. I think the Village Board is full of wonderful people doing a difficult job very well. I think that carpenters and roofers and tradespeople in general are hard-working, intelligent members of our community. I think that all people everywhere should be able to be involved in the democratic process—whether that means voting a few times a year during national, state and local elections or actually running for office.

What my previous letter to the editor was responding to was the idea, characterized by Mike Nichols in his column of 7/19/08, that only certain people are qualified to hold positions of power.

If Mr. Nichols had simply suggested that it was unethical to hire the village board president to be the village administrator, the conversation would be very different. Instead, he took the angle that the best people for local administrator jobs are people who have "fancy, incredibly expensive" degrees. He characterized Matt Heiser as a "computer geek" who has benefited, not by his own experience, skills or attributes, but by the "old boys network."

Mr. Nichols scoffed and said that village board positions are available to anyone who "strolls in." Rather than respond with a bunch of rhetorical questions or argue about the motives of Mr. Heiser or the village board members who hired him, I chose to respond with irony.

I'm truly sorry if I offended anyone with my remarks. I read and reread my previous letter and even added the ridiculous suggestion that we run all potential employees by Mike Nichols, to make sure he approves. I thought my letter was so over-the-top in tone that it couldn't possibly be misinterpreted. Obviously, I was wrong. Anyone who has spent more than 10 minutes in conversation with me knows that I would never intentionally disparage the work of farmers and that I fully believe in the idea that anyone, from any background, has the right to serve his or her country.

By satirizing Mike Nichols, I only hurt the community that I love and the people that I respect and for that I ask your forgiveness. I will not play Devil's advocate again.

Steven Baker
Kewaskum

Dear Editor

In response to the letter written by Steev Baker in the July 24, 2008 edition.

First, I hope that I am one of many who respond to the above mentioned letter. To have the Kewaskum Board Members criticized so bluntly is very disturbing. These elected individuals are to be commended and valued for caring enough to give the many hours of dedicated service they do to better our community. You question the competency of these individuals to serve in their positions. The "furniture salesman," who is related to me so I can attest to his credentials, is the co-owner of his furniture business. He is a very well educated young man who majored in accounting and spends a great deal of time researching items on the agenda so he comes to the table well prepared. I wonder if he weighs time and energy spent and questions if he might reconsider service to the community versus being able to devote more time to his young family and his business.

I would also like to address the slam on "A FARMER!" Most of us know, I think it is common sense, that to be a profitable farmer one has to be smart, educated, dedicated and willing to put in long hours in spite of the uncertainty of the weather and market price. How fortunate we are if we have these outstanding farmers in public office.

Steev Baker, you haven't proposed how we are going to come up with these, "career politicians with graduate degrees in public administration" and convince them to serve on our village board. You might add to your credential possibilities that those seeking the positions be, "thick skinned!"

Lastly, I hope I do and encourage those of you who, like me, often take our elected officials for granted, to make an effort to personally thank them for giving their time to make Kewaskum and Washington County a better place.

Isabelle Straub
Kewaskum

Dear Editor

This letter is in response to Steev Baker's letter to the editor in the July 24th edition of The Statesman.

Mr. Baker, does this town of small business owners, farmers, and computer geeks bore you? Is Kewaskum so under-stimulating that you felt the need to stir a little local controversy with your letter last week? Perhaps you'd be happier living in a town such as Madison which has more millionaires, lawyers and well educated folks that can politically lead the town in what you call a "forward" manner.

I know that you are entitled to your opinion, however arrogant, elitist and demeaning it may be to others who live here. But don't forget that you, sir, are a public servant and that it's not wise to so blatantly insult the many people that you serve.

If you feel the need to be publicly recognized by others as an intellectual or political guru, then please put these efforts into something that will positively affect our community instead of offending it.

Washington County to conduct user survey on Eisenbahn State Trail

The Washington County Planning and Parks Departments will be setting up "cooling stations" along the Eisenbahn trail over the next two months. The station will have water, shade and a survey for trail users to fill out and will rotate between six spots along the trail.

Throughout the months of August and September 2008, the Washington County Planning and Parks Department will be conducting a survey of trail users on the Washington County segment of the Eisenbahn State Trail. The survey will be conducted at various times of the day at six major access points along the trail. A cooling station will be located near the trail at the following intersecting roads: State Hwy. 28 in the Village of Kewaskum; County Hwy. H in the Town of Kewaskum; Lighthouse Lane in the town of Barton and State Hwy. 33, Decarah Road and Paradise Drive in the city of West Bend.

All trail users are encouraged to take part in the survey. While stopping at the cooling station to fill out the survey, trail users can help themselves to some water, view maps of the entire trail and fill out an entry card for a chance to win a free round of golf at the Washington County Golf Course.

Development of this multi-use seasonal state recreational trail is the first project of its kind for Washington County. The survey is being conducted to identify ways to improve the trail and to help shape the future of public trails throughout the county. This information will be useful as the Planning and Parks department starts an update to the Park and Open Space Plan for Washington County beginning in 2009.

The Eisenbahn State Trail extends from the Village of Eden in Fond du Lac County to Rusco Drive in the city of West Bend. The rail corridor was abandoned by Fox Valley & Western Ltd. in 1999 and is owned by the State of Wisconsin under a federal program which "banks" or preserves the corridor for potential future rail use, but allows the corridor to be developed for recreational uses at this time.

The trail grade is level and is an easy ride for bikers of all levels of experience. The trail passes through farmland, industrial and residential areas, and near scenic waterways affording a variety of experiences. Approximately five miles of trail within the city of West Bend has been paved with the remainder of the Washington County segment surfaced with limestone screenings.

Bicycling, hiking, dog walking on a leash and other non-motorized uses are allowed in the summer. The section of trail north of Lighthouse Lane is open to snowmobiles during the winter when conditions permit. The section south of Lighthouse Lane is open in winter for cross country skiing, hiking and snow shoeing as long as conditions permit. Trail rules are posted. There is no admission charge for use of the trail.

If you have any questions regarding the survey, please contact Debora Sielski, Assistant Administrator for Planning of Joshua Glass, Planner, at the Washington County Planning and Parks Department at (262) 335-4445.

Elder-Beerman to become Boston Store

The Bon-Ton Stores, Inc. recently announced that it will change the name of its Elder-Beerman stores and one of its Younkers stores in Wisconsin to Boston Store.

It has been nearly two years since The Bon-Ton Stores, Inc. acquired Boston Store, and in that time much work has gone on behind the scenes; from integrating systems and focusing the marketing plan to merging the merchandise offered to customers. As a step in the process of integrating the stores, this name change affords the opportunity to market more effectively to customers under one nameplate in this market.

Bud Bergren, President and Chief Executive Officer, commented, "We are making this name change to the two Elder-Beerman stores and the one Younkers store which are located in the same marketing area as the ten Boston Stores in Wisconsin. Our Elder-Beerman and Younkers customers will find the same quality brands, value and dedication to service that has long been our tradition once they walk inside their local store, it's only a name change."

The Bon-Ton Stores, Inc. operates 281 stores, including twelve furniture galleries, in 23 states in the Northeast, Midwest and upper Great Plains under the numerous nameplates, and three stores in the Detroit, Michigan area. The stores offer a broad assortment of brand-name fashion apparel and accessories for women, men and children, as well as cosmetics and home furnishings.

KEWASKUM- Forestview Tool & Die used to be a small operation out of co-owner Mark Herriges' shed at his house in the town of Kewaskum. The shed was about 2,000 square feet. Now, they have moved into the former Hardware Hank Hardware Store off of Fond du Lac Avenue that has been vacant for the last few years. Their new facility is 14,000 square feet.

"We outgrew (the shed) very quickly," said Herriges. "Big difference, a lot more room. We might look a little lost, but we have more stuff coming."

One machine Herriges said is coming in shortly, is a robotic welder.

Herriges said they are much more efficient in the larger building. The space allows them to move around better and get to the different machines quicker. He says their customers have noticed their increase in efficiency and like their move to the larger building.

While Herriges does a lot of the hands on work, Co-owner Rick Kiefer designs most of the tooling. Once Kiefer creates the die, the machine takes over to stamp out the part.

"Sometimes it may be a simple one foot die, that may be has one or two hits to it or it can be ten feet long that has 20 different operations," said Kiefer about the different variations each die can be.

They make different parts for many different companies across the state and nation. They have customers from automotive, electronic and medical industries.

Herriges said his customers do not have any problem with his place being in Kewaskum. He grew up in Kewaskum and loves the town. He also said when they get settled in, they can create more jobs in the community.

"We will be looking for a person to change parts with some machining background as far as being able to read a caliber and doesn't mind production work and someone with tooling experience," Herriges said about what he will be looking for in future employees in a few months.

Former Washington County detective helps priests in Nicaragua

Marie Joers is shown with some of the children from the Santa Ana parish in Nicaragua after she helped them make headdresses and taught them the song "One Little Indian."

Submitted photo

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

Like most Americans, Marie Joers always looked forward to her retirement. ... planning perhaps to do a little traveling, read books, dine out, go to movies and get involved in volunteer work.

Joers has in fact done some traveling since she left her position as a detective with the Washington County Sheriff's Department, but it's on a banana boat rather than a luxury cruiser, and her meals sometimes are cooked on an open fire.

Joers, who once was a member of Holy Trinity Parish and since has moved to West Bend, is a Catholic missionary, working in Nicaragua in Central America. After spending the last six months there, Joers is currently in Wisconsin for several weeks, preparing religious items, clothing, and medicinal needs to be sent to the 97 villages on the Coco River that are included in the parishes ministered by Fr. Elvis and Floriano.

That's right, 97 villages. The priests don't get there every week or even monthly, and when they do, the services might include Eucharistic celebrations, Baptisms, Confirmations, weddings and the sacrament of the sick.

Here's where the banana boats come in handy. Joers and one of the priests pack the boat with items needed for their trip and items which will be given to the people in the villages.

Joers and Fr. Elvis, "Padre Elvis" as he is known in Nicaragua, were the guests of Holy Trinity's Human Concerns

Committee on July 17. Last year Holy Trinity and Santa Ana parish in Nicaragua became "sister parishes," and the Human Concerns Committee has conducted several drives to collect hygiene kits and religious items which are sorely needed by the people in Santa Ana and in the river villages.

Joers told the group there are no schools like we see in the United States. Teachers might be young people who have successfully finished the sixth grade; there are few books, no computers, no backpacks with Batman or Hannah Montana pictured on them and many times, very few pencils and papers.

"They memorize everything," Joers said, indicating the children listen to the teacher and try to remember what he or she says.

And attention deficit problems? They simply don't exist there, according to Jo-ers, who said there might be large numbers of children in one room or area, and there are no behavioral problems or students who aren't paying attention.

Because space is limited in the boats, Joers told the group she might take a pack of papers, a dozen pencils and one crayon along for the 15 or 20 villages she and the priest visit on one trip. Those items go to the teachers who use them in place of chalk and blackboards.

This is one area where Holy Trinity will help out. At the end of the school year, students there donated pencils, notebooks and crayons to be sent to the children there. The parish also reached out to Santa Ana in another way.

Santa Anna, which is located in Waspam, Nicaragua, is in the process of building a new church, which will also be used as a school and shelter against the storms.

Men in the parish have forms which they are using to make the bricks to build the church, and, according to Joers, many times it is the children who carry the water needed to mix the cement to put in the forms.

The Human Concerns Committee donated $2,000 for the purchase of cement from an endowment it received from the late Bill and Lucille McCarty. Doing a little quick mathematics, the donation will be enough for the men to make approximately 5,600 bricks.

Last summer, Holy Trinity also designated a special collection for the new church in Santa Ana.

Joers may stay in Nicaragua for six months at a time, then she must leave the country, even for just a few days, before her visa will be good again. She and Padre Elvis plan to return to the country on August 6th.

On this next six-month trip, Joers said her goal is to learn the native language, Miskito. At the convent where she stays in Waspam, the sisters have put her in touch with a person who is willing to teach her for an hour each day while she is not visiting the villages.

Learning the language would enable Joers to be able to teach the children religious education.

Joers has another goal for her upcoming village visits, providing each with a crucifix, which the people in the village have asked for. Joers said certain crucifixes have not held up well in the tropical rains, but a specific kind made of resin are much better.

Should any families wish to donate a crucifix to one of the villages, the cost is about $150, including the cost of transportation to the specific village. People could contact Joers' mother, Faith Midden-dorf at 692-9210.

There were 16 Human Concerns members and guests at the recent meeting. All are very supportive of the "twinning" program, which matches a parish in the United States with one in a third world country.

"I was very impressed with her (Joers') knowledge of the area where she is (working), and her enthusiasm for the work," Midge Swanson said. "She has found a good ministry for herself."

What Swanson especially liked about the talk was Joers admitting she has experienced some very tough days there. "She was very human when she explained there have been times when she is frustrated and wished she was there ... She has adjusted to that."

Writer's note: After speaking at the Masses at Holy Trinity and St. Michaels this past weekend, Joers said she will not be returning to Nicaragua next week as she had originally planned.

"This past Thursday, I found out I have cancer," she said. "It's going to be a bit (before I return)."

All monies will be processed through the Kewaskum Booster Club as well.

However, the success of the previous eight scrambles has been largely due to the generous contributions made by area businesses and individual sponsors. Since 2000, the KHS athletic programs have benefited from the solid support and donations given by many area businesses and individual contributors from throughout the greater Kewaskum area.

The annual KHS fundraiser not only benefits the athletic programs but the school district and community as a whole. There will be three groups performing.

First up is James Creek Road, from 5 - 6:15 p.m. James Creek Road is a Midwest Bluegrass band based in Northern Illinois. This six-piece group features dobro, guitar, mandolin, banjo, upright bass, seasoned with great vocals. They will be performing some traditional bluegrass and their own original material. They have been a favorite at fairs, festivals, coffeehouses, camps and churches.

From 6:45-8:00pm "Living River" will take the stage. Living River is a gospel quartet featuring a rich blend of four-part harmony from Wausau, Wisconsin.

These four men present a Christ-centered message using a blend of contemporary praise, worship, gospel and a cappella styles. Much of the music that is sung has been written either by members of the group or friends. The group began in 1987 and has traveled as far as Florida and throughout the Midwest. They have produced 13 CDs over the years.

At 8:30-9:45pm "Chad James and Band" will wrap up the event. Chad James is a talented singer/songwriter that just won the 2008 Christian Artist of the Year WAMI Award. Being born with one hand, God has touched him in a special way to write songs and play guitar that pierce the very soul of all who listen.

He recently opened for well known artists Steven Curtis Chapman, Ginny Owens, Mark

Schultz, Kutless and this year he will open for Jeremy Camp on the main stage at the Wisconsin State Fair. Chad truly lives out, "I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me".

This event is completely FREE of charge and concertgoers are invited to bring their lawn chairs, blankets, and picnic baskets to the park. Door prizes will be given away and refreshments and pizza will be available.

Directions to Regner Park: Take Hwy 45, turn east on Hwy 33, turn left on 18th Ave, turn right on Park Ave. and enter the park on Park Ave.

Rain out location is the West Bend High School auditorium on the corner of Hwy G and Decorah Road. For more info or for posters, call 262-338-0205. Please visit our web site www.lighthouseconcerts.com

Antique power show Aug. 1-3

The 40th annual Dodge County Antique Power Show gets underway August 1-3 at the Antique Power Club's showgrounds near the village of Burnett.

The show is 1/2 mile south of Burnett on Highway 26, then 1/2 mile west on County B or four miles west of Highway 151 on County B.

The Antique Power Show is a working museum dedicated to preserving farm history and the machines and traditions that were a part of that history.

This year the show will feature the products of the Minneapolis-Moline Power Implement Co. While never a dominant manufacturer, Minneapolis-Moline was always well-known for its distinctive styling. Its yellow-gold and maroon paint schemes made their tractors and machines stand out from all other manufacturer's lines.

Formed in 1929 following the merger of three smaller companies, Minneapolis-Moline was eventually purchased by White Motor Company in 1963.

The 2008 Power Show will host the summer convention of the Minneapolis-Moline Collectors of America. Collectors from all over the country are expected to bring their prized Minneapolis-Moline pieces to the power show.

This is the first time the Dodge County Antique Power Show will host a collectors group's national convention.

As part of the Minneapolis-Moline feature, the Power Club is selling raffle tickets to give away a 1952 Minneapolis-Moline model BF tractor.

The power show's second feature will focus on the products of the Stover Engine Co. of Freeport, Ill. These old time engines are sought after by collectors and restorers.

The Power Club will also raffle a 1941 Stover model CT1 gas engine.

Along with the Stover and Minneapolis-Moline features, there will be several hundred antique tractors and gas engines on display at the power show.

Steam engines will power the sawmill and several threshing machines.

An antique tractor pull gets started at 11 a.m. on Saturday. The power show runs August 1-3, 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. Admission is $5 per person, children under 12 are admitted free with an adult.

Washington County Fair

Statesman writer, Neumuth shares his Styx/Boston experience at the Fair

By Patrick Neumuth
Statesman Staff
patrick@kewaskumstatesman

When my boss asked me if I wanted to cover something at the Washington County Fair, I immediately jumped on the opportunity to cover Saturday's Styx/Boston concert. Of course, I'm going to take full advantage of my newly acquired press position to get backstage.

Boston's PR rep Gail Parenteau was more than generous in getting me backstage and a time to speak with lead guitarist Gary Pihl before the concert. Styx publicist Terry Gibson got me in touch with Styx lead guitarist James Young on Monday after the concert.

Come Saturday I'm excited to see two great American rock bands up close and personal. I had a wedding to go to before the concert, so I had to hurry all day. Coming home from the wedding I was told by my boss Nicole parking was crazy, and it took her 45 minutes to get in at 2 p.m.

I would say crazy was an understatement.

I thought I was going to be slick and go to the back entrance thinking it would be the quickest. Let's say I was wrong. A guy with a radio talking to sheriff's deputies told me that there was an accident ahead on County Road P. I was told Tuesday by the West Bend Police Department the "accident" was a car in the ditch.

The guy gave me directions to West Bend Mutual Insurance to take the shuttle bus. Well, I was not going to be on the first bus and someone on a cell phone was saying the bus was having a tough time getting to the grounds.

So, I jumped back into my car and was going to try and find a spot to walk there. I turned onto County Road PV and there was nothing. I had to ride it out (again) to get to the fair parking.

By this time, Styx was playing. I could hear them playing from my car. I got into the parking lot at 8:18, about one hour and forty minutes of waiting.

I just kept on thinking: "I have backstage tickets for the first time ever and I can't even get to the concert."

Luckily, Styx went on a half an hour later than scheduled or I would have missed much more.

Sorry to Styx, I missed pretty much the whole concert. I reached the gate when they were playing "Come Sail Away" and got to the top of hill during "Renegade". At least these two songs are my favorite. "Renegade" is Young's favorite song to perform.

"I play the guitar solo on the original track. Tommy and I sort of do a trade-off guitar jam before hand," Young said. "In addition, that song has played a great role. Adam Sandler used it in a movie of his, Billy Madison back in '95, and Brad Pitt selected that song for the one television commercial he's done for Heineken and young Chris Daughtry sang it on American Idol for his own choice. It rocks big time. It is rock and roll at its core."

Young said without a shadow of a doubt Sandler has brought a younger crowd of Styx fans. He said in the movie "Big Daddy", there are three references of Styx, including the little kid saying "Styx is the greatest American rock band." He said it is the best type of free advertisement and they had to pay Styx to use their songs in the movies.

I have seen Styx perform before and they rock. In my opinion, they bring a lot of energy to the stage. When I got to where I was sitting they were getting off the stage throwing out beach balls, sticks and guitar picks.

Boston came out second playing the Star Spangled Banner. I didn't realize how good the band was at just jamming out. They would play their songs and intermingle jam sessions. Pihl had a really sick solo during Foreplay. Pihl learned how to jam from legendary guitarist Jerry Garcia.

"He was a very attentive, straight ahead guy. He showed us what we wanted to learn and it went very smoothly. It was down to business, completely professional," Pihl said about his lessons with Garcia.

One member of his band back then told him some guy, Garcia, was giving out lessons. Pihl said he was so young that his mom had to drive him to get the lessons from Garcia.

Creator of Boston Tom Scholz, made some really great sounds playing the neck of his guitar during "Peace of Mind".

For myself, I wanted to hear "Rock and Roll Band". I think it is an inspiring song. The fact that they went to playing in bars and sleeping in their cars, to a great American rock band is amazing. I sometimes get the chills listening to it. After listening to that song, I feel I can do anything. They followed "Rock and Roll Band" with "Peace of Mind".

Boston also had a tribute to the late Brad Delp. Delp was the original vocalist for Boston, who tragically committed suicide in March of 2007. He was referred to as the "nicest guy in rock and roll." Scholz said on stage this is the first time they have left Boston in four years.

The backstage area was a great experience. I got to meet most of the band and all of them seemed very down to Earth. I was one of the first backstage, most came in one large group. I first met Bassist Kimberly Dahme. She came up to me and three other guys and started the conversation. She said she couldn't believe the energy coming from the sea of people.

I spent most of the time backstage conversing a bit with drummer Jeff Neal. I sat down next to one of his college buddies from U-Mass who introduced himself to me as Bob with his girlfriend Erica. Bob and Erica were hilarious and that set the tone for meeting Neal. Neal has a great sarcastic sense of humor and was playing around with a fair worker that handed out t-shirts at the fair. She kept on snapping photos of him. Neal wanted a free t-shirt from her.

All and all the concert was great. I got to meet one of the greatest American rock bands of all-time. Everyone in the band was genuine. All of them commented on how large of a crowd showed up to see them and Styx.

The Washington County Fair hit record highs of over 40,000 for the day of the Styx/Boston concert and 110,000 total fair goers for the entire week.

"They rocked the entire two hours, man," said Jeremy Davis, 22, a fair goer from Milwaukee. "I was dancing up and down the aisles the whole time."

Thanks to you Styx and Boston for giving over 40,000 people a great time.

WALTER E. SEIDEMAN

Walter E. Seideman, age 75, of Oklahoma City, OK died unexpectedly on July 23, 2008. He was born January 21, 1933 to Raymond and Clara Seideman in Newburg. Walter grew up on the family dairy farm with nine siblings where he helped with farming and developed his strong work ethic. He later served his country as a sergeant in Korea with the U.S. Marine Corps.

Walter attended the University of Wisconsin majoring in Food Science. He later earned his Ph.D. from the University of Missouri with a degree in Poultry Science. He married Cathy Carnito in 1958 and they had three children, Russell Seide-

Ballroom dancing was an activity that Walter and Ruth greatly enjoyed and they never sat out a dance when the band was playing.

A consummate do-it-yourselfer, Walter never met a tool he didn't like and could usually be found fixing whatever was broken.

An important part of Walter's life was participating in the annual Seidemann family reunion at the homestead in Newburg, Wisconsin. This year marked the 75th anniversary of the reunion for the family which typically has drawn 300-600 family members from across the U.S. and Germany.

In addition to his wife Ruth, Walter is survived by three children, Russ Seideman and wife Miffie of Phoenix, Arizona, Keith Seideman of Oklahoma City, and Bonnie Seideman of Dallas, Texas; two grandchildren Christina and Travis; two sisters, Marion (Kenneth) Race of Woodruff, and Phyllis (Bruce) Naumann of West Bend; four brothers, Charles (Virginia) Seideman of Austin, TX, Roger Seideman of West Bend, Gerald (Joyce) Seideman of St. Germain, and Wayne (Rosemary) Seideman of West Bend, a sister-in-law, Margaret "Maggie" Seideman of West Bend; many other relatives and friends with whom he enjoyed exceedingly close relationships.

IN MEMORY

In memory of DAVID ENGELMAN, who passed away fifteen years ago, July 31, 1993:

We often pause and think of you and speak of how you died.

To think you could not say good-bye before you closed your eyes.

God took you home, its hard to know His reason for making you go.

But you did not go alone, part of us went with you the day God called you home.

Miss you Dad, your sons, Derrick and Dillon

Sadly missed by Mom & Dad and Mike & family

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of Ralph J. Raether, Sr., who passed away one year ago, August 3, 2007:

A life well-lived is a precious gift

Of hope and strength and grace

From someone who has made our world

A brighter, better place.

It's filled with moments sweet and sad,

With smiles and sometimes tears,

With friendships formed

And good times shared

And laughter through the years.

A life well-lived is a legacy Of joy and pride and pleasure, A loving, lasting memory Our grateful hearts will treasure.

Sadly missed.

Obsessions

By Marshall Cook

Bleak House Books $24.95 298 pages

... [T]he small-town environment and the writers'-conference milieu are carefully described and well integrated into the story, and Monona and Doug's relationship is nicely developed. A solid series for readers interested in character and ambience more than puzzle solving. —Booklist

At some point in your life, you made a promise to yourself. Chances are, it started out as "Someday..."

Someday, I'll travel through Europe. Someday, I'll track down that classic car I wanted in high school. Someday, I'll learn to ski / be brave enough to sing karaoke / master a tricky recipe in the kitchen / be somebody.

For Monona Quinn, her Someday Promise was to write a fiction book, maybe a mystery. In the new novel "Obsessions" by Marshall Cook, she won't have to look very far. Everywhere Mo goes, a dead body appears.

The peaceful pine country of Northern Wisconsin seems like a good place to hold a writer's workshop. At least that's what Doug Stennett thinks when he plunks down money to buy his wife, Monona Quinn a two-week workshop-in-the-woods. It's not like Mo needs to learn to write; she once was a columnist for a Chicago newspaper and now she's the editor of a small-town local paper. No, what Mo needs is a vacation and she and Doug need to work on their marriage.

Since no conference is complete without an author-in-residence, famous writer Fletcher Downs has been tapped to teach a class on mystery writing. His name, affiliated with this workshop, has pulled in people from all over the upper Midwest but Downs is a curmudgeon and very much a womanizer. He hates everything about the North Woods, and his classes show it. When they turn out to be self-promoting speeches about his books, some of the attendees are disgruntled. When Downs doesn't show up for his seminars, people are angry but no one is surprised.

They are surprised, however, by his death. Less than a week after the workshop started, Fletcher Downs is found down beneath a pine tree, the back of his head smashed.

Although Doug makes Mo promise that she won't play Nancy Drew, Mo can't help herself. She had a hand in solving three crimes in the past, and now her reporter's instinct is telling her that this might not be a single killing. The date of the murder rings a bell, and Fletcher Downs' death could be one in a chain of crimes. Now Mo's obsession to solve them all just might have unlocked the clues. Are you sick to death of violent mysteries filled with terror, blood, and gore? You won't find any of that here in this gentle, hometown-y whodunit.

Author Marshall Cook packs lots of characters into this book, but his main crime solver, Monona Quinn, is likeable and believable, as is the supporting cast for this novel. While I had the culprit figured out pretty early, the reason for the murder was a nice surprise, believe it or not, and getting there was a lot of fun in the meantime.

If you're looking for a cozy that won't make you want to turn on the lights or lock the doors, this is one to sleuth. "Obsessions" is a book you should promise yourself you'll read much sooner than "someday".

Samuelson Sez Beware of the food police

Stand by America! The Food Police could soon be knocking on your door at dinner time to see if you are eating the "right food". Another example of proposed legislation to protect ourselves from ourselves made its way into the news last week.

This is the latest one that caught my attention. Jan Berry, a member of the Los Angeles City Council, is spearheading legislation in that city that would ban new fast food restaurants like McDonalds and KFC from opening in a 32-square mile chunk of the city, including her district. The targeted area is already home to some 400 fast food companies and the reason she's introducing the legislation... to combat obesity which she says is exceptionally high in that area. She legally defines the fast food industry as having characteristics including a "limited menu" and "food served in disposable containers".

Ms. Berry apparently has determined that fast food restaurants are the main cause of obesity and the problem will go away if the law says no more can locate in that area.

I find it interesting that she says nothing about individual responsibility in food choice and exercise as being a possible solution to the obesity problem; lay it all on fast food restaurants and pass a new law. As a student reading the U.S. Constitution, nowhere did I see a sentence that says that Federal, State or Local governments should decide what we eat, how we eat and when we eat. I certainly recall a line in the Declaration that says we are all created equal; but what we do with our diet and body after that becomes our responsibility, not government.

Add to that the legislation banning trans-fats and requiring the listing of calories in every restaurant menu item in cities across the country; and then let me add yet another attempt at dictating my diet that I discovered when I visited Denver, Colorado a few days ago. Prior to the Democratic National Convention, a representative of the Democratic National Committee arrived in Denver to tell hotels and restaurants serving food to the delegates and visitors that they were to serve only organic meat and produce, and only locally grown in the Denver area.

That stirred a real fuss in the industry because restaurants and hotels had already ordered their food supplies for the convention. Finally, state officials told her it would be impossible. There simply was not that much locally-grown organic food available, so back off on that demand.

When will we stop passing laws and turning to government to make decisions that we as individuals should make? As my parents always told me "In this country we have the freedom of choice, make the right one and you benefit, make the wrong one and you pay the price, but whatever you choose, it's you and you alone". It was good advice then and it still is today. Let's stop turning to government to protect ourselves from ourselves.

My thoughts on Samuelson Sez.

Consensus of the Board was to award a contract to Heartland Construction for $23,900.00 at their July 21, 2008 Village Board meeting and to set a completion date for the project of October 1, 2008.

Dave Wagner, Ehlers and Associates, presented two financing options regarding funding of the Wastewater Treatment Facility modifications. Scenario 1: Total project cost of $6,927,169 with $6,788,625 to be financed with a single Clean Water Fund loan, with zero contribution from the T.I.F. district and an increase of the impact/connection fee to $3,939, and an anticipated 3% increase each year thereafter, with revenues being reviewed annually. Scenario 2: Total project cost of $6,927,169 with 6,788,625 to be financed in a 2 step process; $4,000,000 Clean Water Fund loan and $2,800,000 Bond Anticipation Note with zero contribution from the T.I.F. district and an increase of the impact/connection fee to $3,939, and an anticipated 3% increase each year thereafter, with revenues being reviewed annually.

Kari Dennis, McMahon Associates, presented the tabulation of bids received for the Wastewater Treatment Facility modifications and recommended awarding the contract to C.D. Judith Gottlieb, from the DNR, reiterated the inefficiency of the current Wastewater Treatment Facility and the need to bring the facility up to code. Goeden has right to be happy with weekend results

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

Talk about consistency. Kewaskum's Don Goeden visited two I.R.A. (Interstate Racing Association) tracks over the weekend and finished second in both feature events.

"We had a really good weekend ... a good car, good crew and good sponsors," Goeden said from his home Monday evening after racing in Arlington, Minn. and near Eau Claire on Saturday and Sunday evenings.

Saturday's event was held at the Arlington County Fairgrounds, a half-mile dirt oval located south of the Twin Cities, and it didn't take Goeden's crew long to find the right setup or for Goeden to run the right groove.

After finishing 11th in timing, Goeden powered his black No. 11 to second in the heat race, which set the tone for some exciting racing.

"I finished second to Kim Mock," Goeden said, indicating he started 13th in the 25-lap feature event but didn't stay there long.

"By lap five, we were up to third," Goeden said, reporting he found the outside of the track the perfect place to move up in a hurry. "It was faster up top for me. A lot of guys were backing up on the bottom."

Travis Whitney won the race with Goeden in second.

Concerning the crowd for the Saturday night show, Goeden said, "They packed the stands."

Sunday took the driver, hauler and crew to Jim Falls, which is just north of Chippewa Falls. The Eagle Speedway, which hosted the event, has a three-eighths mile track, so Goeden said, "We changed setups for the different track, and again it produced a good deal of success."

Goeden moved up in timing, finishing second among the qualifiers, and for the second night in a row, he was second in the heat race.

The 30-lap main was a thriller with Goeden and former World of Outlaw regular, Brook Tatnell, dueling it out for the top spot in the race.

"Brook and I were putting on quite a show for the fans," Goeden said, noting Tatnell was originally from Australia but now lives in Iowa. "We were going through lapped traffic, fighting for the lead."

In the end, it was Tatnell out front.

After the results from the weekend, Goeden is in fifth place in the IRA standings with 1,722 points. Billy Balog of New Richmond is the current points leader with 1,884.

Several other area drivers are currently in the top 15. Scotty Bierter of West Bend is sitting in 10th place, having earned 1,513 points, while Russ Borland of St. Michaels is in 13th at 1,313.

Mike Kertscher of Kewaskum has 801 points to his credit, good for 22nd overall.

Goeden is off for the next two weeks as the World of Outlaws head for Beaver Dam for a weekend show and the following week is the annual Knoxville Nationals in Iowa.

Athletics get back on track in a hurry

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

After a shaky weekend of baseball, the Kewaskum Athletics were happy to get back on track Wednesday, July 23rd, when they took out some of their frustrations against Tri-County Nite League opponent Monches, shutting down the host Irish by a score of 11-0.

There were plenty of stars for the winners in this outing, starting with pitcher Mitch Huffman.

"Huffman dazzled on the mound," according to Kewaskum player/spokesperson Jim Ziegler, who reported the right-hander allowed just two hits and struck out 11 in the seven-inning contest.

The win was Hoffman's sixth of the 2008 season, and gives the A's a mark of 28-6, 7-2 in Tri-County action. What was especially important about this victory was it clinched a berth in the upcoming Tri-County playoffs. Currently the A's are tied for first place with Brookfield in this league. Six teams qualify for the playoffs.

Kewaskum collected eight hits in the contest, with lead-off man Jon Olla, and Dan Shea, hitting in the No. 5 hole, each coming up with two hits. Olla went 3x5 with three runs scored, and he got the game started on a high note, with a single to lead off the game.

After Ty Schill got hit by a pitch, it was Austin Sarauer hitting a ground ball to second, which was booted by the Irish second baseman. Olla scored on the play, while Schill sprinted to third.

Jason Strobel's sacrifice fly put another run on the board for the A's, who added two more runs in the second and exploded for five in the third.

The second-inning rally came via three walks and just one base hit. Sarauer and Strobel each collected walks with the bases loaded for RBIs (runs batted in).

In the fifth, with two outs and the bases loaded, Sarauer walked to force in a run, then Strobel followed with a double to right-center that pushed two runs across the plate, and runs No. 8 and 9 came in when Shea's grounder to short was bobbled.

Although they had more than enough runs to win, the A's added two more in the bottom of the sixth, and it was Nick Whitty driving in one of the runs with a single.

Kewaskum came up with five stolen bases in the game including two by Olla and one each by Shea, Austin Sarauer and Adam Sarauer.

Strobel was responsible for four RBIs.

Kewaskum was scheduled to play Brownsville July 24th for the Plymouth Tournament championship, but that game was postponed for the second time. No new date has been set for a third try. Two other games, with the West Bend Benders and Port Washington, were postponed because those teams had to play league makeup games on the nights they had been scheduled to play the A's.

Kewaskum gold pony league team finishes great season

The Kewaskum Gold Pony League team finished their season with a convincing 10-4 win Friday over Oostburg, the East Division Champions. The team finished with a 13-1 record with their only setback being a 9-8 road loss to undefeated Eden. The pitching staff of Brad Boegel, Tony Gonring, Brett Nuernberg and Brandon Susen did an excellent job at the end of the season combining to throw two no-hitters against Newburg and Cascade.

The team's batting average was .438 with an On-Base Percentage of .564. They also averaged 13 runs per game while giving up just 3 due to good pitching, solid defense and timely hitting.

The team members consisted of Brad Boegel (AKA Bread Bagel), Dan Bohn, Brandon Chapman, Kenny Gigstead, Tony Gonring, Josh Hutchins, Billy Lawton, Mark Miller, Brett Nuernberg, Clayton Reif, Justin Steiner, Brandon Susen and Joe Wollner.

The players and coaches would like to thank the parents, grand-parents, family, friends, umpires and other spectators that made this season possible.

PAT'S PERSPECTIVE

By: Pat Neumuth
Statesman Sports Editor

Final thoughts on the baseball season

There is always a beginning, middle and end of everything and for the Kewaskum High School baseball team the middle was the team peaked.

I never would have thought the Indians were going to lose at home against Random Lake. But I was also surprised on how good Random Lake was. I'm not saying Random Lake was better, far from, but I was surprised with the talent of their team. Random Lake enrolls 363 students compared to the 674 at Kewaskum High. I never knew there were wood bat-only conferences.

When I took this job in late May I was told the baseball team had a shot to go to the state tournament. I thought I was the curse of the team's 0-5 start. The first two games at the Germantown tournament the team looked bad. I couldn't believe they lost to a team of home school kids.

The Indians hit their stride opening up conference play. Between their first win against rival Campbellsport on June 2 and a loss against New Holstein on June 24, the team won 10 out of 11.

The Indians only won two of their final seven games. One was against New Holstein and the other against Plymouth. The wins during this stretch were not pretty. A seven run third inning single handily beat New Holstein. The Indians shut out Plymouth, winning 2-0, off only three hits.

The downfall down the final stretch of the season was the hitting. It seemed when runners were in scoring position the bats cooled off. There were games where the Indians had only three hits and won. In their first game against New Holstein, the Indians struck out 15 times.

Nick Olla, Cody Seibel and Jordan Petrin were the most consistent at the plate. Petrin finished off the season batting .333, best on the team. Petrin was the only player on the team that looked more comfortable at the plate at the end of the season compared to the beginning. Gutjahr finished next best with a batting average of .325. Gutjahr's hitting seemed to trail off near the end of the season.

Only Brian Backhaus, Ben Butler and Michael Herriges are the only players to have their batting average increase from after game 12 to the final 27th game of the season. Out of those three, Butler was the only everyday player. Petrin and John Holt's average stayed the same.

Holt was phenomenal on the hill all season. He pitched 46 percent of the innings for Kewaskum, 82.1 innings out of 178.2. Holt's record was 8-4 and one save with an ERA of 2.47 and 102 strikeouts. He was clearly the team's ace.

Nick Ebert, Olla and Petrin were other haulers for the Indians. Ebert threw the most out of these three with 39.1 innings pitched. His record was 5-4 with a 2.49 ERA and struck out 31. Ebert and Holt were seniors. This means Olla and Petrin will be the only pitchers with significant pitching experience. Petrin pitched 27 innings with an ERA of 1.56 and Olla had an ERA of 3.50 in 26 innings.

All five seniors on the team played important roles for the team that need to be filled. Holt leaves a big hole at pitching. Ebert leaves with his pitching experience, but also a big arm in right field and power at the plate. Gutjahr's hitting power to the gaps will need replacement. Butler played the most innings out of any other player on the roster with 178 innings at the all important shortstop position. He also handled the bat well for contact situations. Justin Krueger made many defensive plays in centerfield. No catch was ever spectacular because he always made great jumps and took good angles to get to the ball.

All and all, it was a decent season. They were one inning away from New Holstein for a share at the conference championship. They couldn't shut the door in seventh inning of the second game of the doubleheader on July 11.

The Indians finished 15-13, or .536, overall and 14-4, or .778, in conference. This means Kewaskum was only 1-8 in non-conference games.

The team was young this year and has promise for next. Bo Seibel and Cody Nuernberg were everyday players as freshman.

Head coach Doug Gonring knows what it takes to form a championship team. Gonring did a wonderful job coaching this year. He knows his stuff, that's for sure. Kewaskum has the talent to stay on top and contend for next year's EWC title.

Another chance to strap up the pads

By Pat Neumuth
Statesman Sports Editor
patrick@kewaskumstatesman.com

For those who want another chance of the glory days on the gridiron semi-pro football can be the opportunity to hear the pads clash again.

Dave Lemke is starting up his third semi-pro football team that will call the Washington County Fair Park home. Lemke is the owner, head coach and cornerback for the newly formed Kettle Moraine Titans in the Wisconsin State Football League.

"It's pretty much a group of guys that want to put the pads back on again," said Lemke.

Putting together his third team has come with bumps in the road.

Lemke said getting the money together has been a pain. He said it is harder to recruit this year because of the state of the economy. Players have to pay a $150 player fee, plus about $600 in purchasing their own pads. Lemke said he has a few sponsors, but an $8 thousand sponsor backed out about four weeks ago.

"Pretty much me and another guy's pocket have been funding the team," Lemke said about the finances. "The league fee is one thousand bucks, per week for refs per team is $200, the field rental is $100 and their jerseys came out to $2,500."

The biggest bump in the road was the death of Anthony Raess. Raess was from Kewaskum and his life was cut short by a car accident back in January. Raess had dropped out of school when he was 15-years-old. Lemke worked with Raess and said he couldn't play on the team unless he gets his GED. Raess was in the process of attaining his GED when he died.

"I knew (getting his GED) would motivate him. His parents have been trying for all of these years and he finally went to Moraine Park to get his GED," Lemke said. "This team is not only for ourselves, we are helping other people. His parents thank the team all of the time. I work with his step-dad."

Most of the players on the team are from this area. Lemke wanted it to be a team mainly of Kewaskum players, but he said that backfired. He said he had six interested. Ben Boettcher is the only Kewaskum player left that committed.

"I guess I was a little bit surprised. You can tell most of the guys still go to the weight room. There are actually some pretty good athletes," Boettcher said of the team. "You're not play against 17- and 18-year-old kids, you're playing against grown men."

Boettcher was a runningback for Kewaskum High School last year. He said he is playing for the Titans to stay in football shape. He is still unsure were he wants to go to college. He recently visited Oshkosh for football and track.

"It will keep my mind with the game. Hopefully I won't lose anything by playing," Boettcher said.

The WSFL rules are congruent with the rules of the NFL. There are penalties for excessive celebrations and so on. One difference is the refs will run a five-man crew.

The WSFL is one of four semi-pro leagues in Wisconsin.

"I think it's the state. They love their sports and football," Lemke said. "Four, five years ago there probably were about 20 semi-pro teams. Now, it's over 50 some teams."

Their 10-game season begins this Saturday at home against defending champions Fox Valley Force. Lemke plays against his old team the West Bend Junkyard Dogs, Sunday Sept. 9. Admission is $2 and there are concessions at the game.

For more information about the team contact Dave at 262-353-8662 or check out the Titans website at kmtitans.org.

KPD to hold Hunter Education Class

The Kewaskum Police Department is sponsoring a Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources Hunter Education Class starting on August 16, 2008. Class size is limited and will be on first come first serve basis. Those interested in taking the class should call the Kewaskum Police Department between 8:00 am and 3:00 pm Monday thru Friday.

Anyone born on or after January 1, 1973 must have completed a hunter education course and show the certificate to purchase any hunting license in Wisconsin. Wisconsin law requires anyone under the age of 16 to be accompanied by a parent or guardian over 18 while hunting or using a firearm for any purpose. However, young people who complete the hunter education course and receive a certificate are eligible to hunt and use firearms without supervision at age 14.

The hunter education course instills in students the knowledge and skill to be a responsible and safe hunter. The basic course consists of 10 lessons during a minimum of 10 hours. Students learn how hunting accidents are caused and how they can be prevented. Hunter responsibility and safety are stressed throughout the classes, which consist of lectures, demonstrations, group discussions, practical exercises, and individual study and activity assignments.

Hunter education graduates receive a certificate that is accepted in every state, Canadian Province, and Mexico. For Wisconsin residents, a Wisconsin certificate is valid in lieu of a small game hunting license from the date of issuance until March 31 of the following year. Also, first time graduates may receive a free Special Antlerless Deer Carcass Tag.

For more information or to sign up for the class please call the Kewaskum Police Department between 8:00 am and 3 pm Monday thru Friday.

Sour ending to a good tourney run

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

In between two recent regular-season games, the Kewaskum Athletics also played two games in the NBC Tournament, topping Chaseburg/Coon Valley 8-4 to reach the finals where they were stopped by a hot-hitting Verona club. The final score in that one was 16-7.

This is the second time in as many tried the A's have fallen in the championship game.

"Verona scored early and often, staking themselves out to a 6-1 lead after three innings," player/spokesperson Jim Ziegler said, reporting starter Nick Whitty "battled on the mound, but everything Verona seemed to hit ended up getting through the infield for a base hit."

Verona finished with a staggering 24 hits off Kewaskum pitching, scoring three or more runs in the first, third, sixth and ninth frames.

The A's were not exactly lacking for base hits, amassing an even dozen, with Josh Stoffel going 3x5, and Austin and Adam Sarauer combining for five.

Kewaskum scored a single run in the third on an Austin Sarauer RBI single.

In the sixth, with the A's on the verge of being victims of the 10-run "mercy rule," they responded with a huge, five-run rally. With two outs and Ty Schill (single) and Austin Sarauer (error) on base, the Verona pitcher threw a wild pitch, allowing one run to come home, then after Dan Shea drew a walk, Stoffel delivered an RBI single to right to make the score 12-3 Verona.

Whitty followed with a double off the wall in center, scoring Shea and Adam Sarauer, and Ziegler followed with RBI hits.

Verona came back with a single run in the eighth and three more in the ninth, and that snuffed out the A's chances of a comeback.

In the game vs. Chaseburg/Coon Valley, Stoffel worked the first three innings on the mound, limiting the Blues to six hits and four runs. He struck out one and walked one.

Ziegler came on to finish up, and although he gave up four hits, he kept the Blues from scoring. He had one strikeout.

Shea had a great night at the plate, going 4x4, scoring two runs and driving in two. The only other Kewaskum player with more than one hit was Austin Sarauer, 2x4, also scoring twice and collecting two runs batted in.

Kewaskum wound up with 13 hits, and every starter but Jason Strobel had at least one base hit.

Kewaskum opened with a 3-run first, thanks to Ty Schill's leadoff single, an RBI single by Shea and Stoffel's double.

Whitty followed Stoffel with a single, but Stoffel was gunned down at the plate.

Strobel came up with a spectacular play in the outfield to keep the Blues from scoring more than two runs in the third when they took a 4-3 lead.

Kewaskum went ahead in the top of the fourth when they rallied for four runs. With the bases loaded (Adam Sarauer, single, Ziegler, infield hit and Schill, walk), Austin Sarauer took three straight balls, then hit a 3-and-0 pitch off the wall in right for a double to score two runs and give the A's a 5-4 lead. Shane O'Hagen and Shea followed with RBI singles, pushing the score to 7-4.

A sacrifice fly by Stoffel pushed the final run across in the top of the seventh.
