Emergency drill is useful learning tool at KES

The Village of Kewaskum and School District of Kewaskum held an emergency drill at Kewaskum Elementary School on Tuesday, March 10. School officials simulated a fire in a stairwell, then evacuated the building and called the fire department. Over 20 fire department personnel took part in the drill. Also taking part was the Kewaskum Police Department. The drill included one school employee and student being injured for which Kewaskum EMS was summoned. Shown above is Kewaskum Assistant Fire Chief Mark Herriges, front right, leading a group of firefighters through the school looking for victims. Students evacuated the school and went to Kewaskum High School where a number of parents simulated student pick-ups. A story will follow on what worked and what didn't in next week's edition.

Harlow, Gundrum honored through KHS Alumni Achievement award

By Mitch Maersch
For The Statesman

Larry Gundrum left Kewaskum High School as a self-described average student 48 years ago. He returned this week as anything but.

The retired senior vice president of operations for North America for Kraft Foods graciously accepted one of two Alumni Achievement Awards. "It was both humbling and exciting," he said of hearing the news he was selected for the honor.

Gundrum said he graduated high school without a direction but with something more important.

"When I graduated, I didn't have a clear vision of where I was going ... but I had a good set of values," he said.

Those values - honesty, integrity, hard work - were instilled by his parents and reinforced at Kewaskum High School.

Gundrum grew up on a farm two miles west of Boltonville and two miles east of St. Michaels, the oldest of 11 children (10 were boys and all graduated from Kewaskum High). His farm experience drew him to science. Gundrum took all the classes the high school offered at the time - biology and chemistry. He also joined FFA, then known as the Future Farmers of America.

Gundrum studied biology at the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater and earned a bachelor's degree. Kraft hired him as a food technologist in 1966 and he was quickly moved into management when his boss became ill. By 1969, he was national sanitation supervisor. A year later, he became plant superintendent and five years after that, plant manager.

"People saw some potential in me I didn't know I had," Gundrum said.

Gundrum was promoted 16 times and held 17 different positions with the company in his 35-year career. That included a two-year stint living in Germany and Switzerland as director of operations.

When he retired, he was senior vice president of operations for North America, in charge of 18,000 employ-

Schools say 'auf Wiedersehen' to German, Spanish will be focus

By Mitch Maersch
For The Statesman

Kewaskum schools will be phasing out teaching German in middle and high school in favor of teaching Spanish in all 12 grades.

The Board of Education on Monday evening unanimously approved adding two Spanish teachers to elementary schools. One may be added at the middle school as well, depending on funding.

"We definitely have room in our budget for the two (elementary) Spanish teachers for next year," said Superintendent Michael Krumm.

German won't be taught at the middle school next year. The high school will offer German 2, 3 and 4 but not German 1. The following year it will offer German 3 and 4, and the year after just German 4.

Krumm said that phasing out allows high school students who started studying German the opportunity to finish it, at least at the high school level.

"We're honoring the kids we have," he said.

Krumm called Spanish "essentially the second language in the U.S." and said research shows the best time to teach foreign language is in elementary school.

Krumm said 15 percent of households in the country speak Spanish while less than 2/10ths of 1 percent speak German.

The school district does not have the means to offer two languages, Krumm said. Now, middle school students are taught some Spanish and some German, but nothing in depth. Krumm wants students to be fluent in a second language, not just familiar with one or two.

"We would rather do one language well," he said.

No school districts in the surrounding area offer Spanish at the elementary level, he said.

The high school German teacher is certified in English and will be making the switch as German phases out, Krumm said.

Hiring a middle school Spanish teacher depends on the amount of leftover money from what is spent on facilities and how much dough Kewaskum could get through the federal government's stimulus package, Krumm said.

Danielle Fleischman and Sara Lehnerz have been named recipients of J.O. Reigle Scholarships for 2009. Regal Ware's scholarship program was established in 1963 in honor of the housewares firm's founder, the late J.O. Reigle.

The award recognizes the outstanding scholastic achievements of one or more graduating seniors at Kewaskum High School, and is designed to assist the recipients in their pursuit of a college education.

Danielle, daughter of Anthony and Christine Fleischman of Kewaskum, will attend UW-Madison this Fall to study Animal Science, with the ultimate goal of becoming a veterinarian. She has worked with a local veterinary clinic as part of Kewaskum High School's school-to-work program. Additionally, she has participated in Band, Spanish Club, Spanish Travelers, Student Government, National Honor Society, and the spring play during her high school career.

Sara is the daughter of Paul and Lori (Marx) Lehnerz of Kewaskum. Her activities at Kewaskum High School include basketball, volleyball, National Honor Society, Spanish Club, Student Government, and Freshman Mentoring. She is involved with Youth Outreach through her church, and works part-time as a cashier at a local grocery store. She will study Middle/Elementary Education at Marian College in Fond du Lac.

To be eligible for the $18,000 J.O. Reigle Scholarship a student must have attended Kewaskum High School for at least the previous two years, and maintained at least a "B" average for the first 3½ years of high school. Each student will receive $4,500 per year for each of their four-year college programs.

Veterans may be able to earn KHS diplomas

Kewaskum High School is seeking American veterans who left Kewaskum High School to fight a war. Administration would like to honor these vets with their diploma.

In times of war, many young men left high school to fight for our freedom. Upon their return to Wisconsin, they did not return to school. They either helped their family with rebuilding after the war or they felt they were too old to return to high school. In either case, they never formally graduated high school.

If you know of a veteran who originally attended Kewaskum High School, please call Michelle Krueger at 262-626-8427, ext. 4125 with the veteran's name and contact information.

"Our hope is to honor these veterans this spring," stated KHS Principal Christine Horbas ees at 104 plants in Canada, Mexico and the U.S.

During his career, Gundrum stayed involved with FFA through the FFA Foundation Sponsors Board, the major fundraising arm of the organization. In 2001, he served as president and helped raise more than $8 million, then a record.

Gundrum has lived in Libertyville, Ill., the past several years - commuting distance to Kraft's headquarters in Northfield - with his wife. The couple have four grown children and nine grandchildren. Gundrum volunteers at church, works with the homeless and hungry in his community, and travels and skis.

Gundrum's high school class of 1961 was the first to go through the "new" high school for all four years. He accepted his award in the new Rose Library named for his principal. He played football and was taught chemistry by Ernie Mitchell, the school's first athletic director, after whom the football field and track are named.

Gundrum said he has gratitude for his old teachers.

"I didn't realize it at the time, they did help me a great deal," he said.

Upon returning to school, Gundrum noticed the improvements in technical education - the electronics and robotics.

"I'm very impressed," he said.

In a talk to students Monday, Gundrum used his story as an average student who lacked direction leaving high school.

"If my experience can serve as an example and inspiration for students, that's a nice way to give back," he said.

The reason Chad Harlow couldn't make it back to his high school to accept his Alumni Achievement Award in person provides an inkling to why he was chosen for the honor.

Harlow was working a fundraiser in New York City with Susan Lucci and other stars from ABC daytime TV.

Parents Joe and Judy Harlow accepted on the actor's behalf.

Chad is the youngest recipient of the award so far.

"There's a lot of deserving people in the award," Judy said.

Chad has performed in every state except Hawaii, his mom said. The 1993 graduate recently hit a milestone by joining the actors union.

"So he has an agent," Judy said.

Earning a living in live theater doesn't carry the lavish lifestyle of stereotypical actors, however. It's more of a feast or famine schedule.

Last year, Chad passed on some smaller roles early in the year in favor of leads and got discouraged when work was slow for a few months.

In May, he got a call to be in a movie, "When in Rome," a takeoff on 1954's "Three Coins in a Fountain." The movie has a scheduled August release.

"He got done with that at 4 o'clock in the morning or 5, went to the train station," Judy said.

It was off to the Catskills to perform in "Of Thee I Sing." Then it was off to Philadelphia for more work.

After not working for a few months, Chad's schedule was jammed from May through December, Judy said.

In Kewaskum, Chad performed under longtime musical director Dave Bertelsen. University of Wisconsin-Washington County play director Brad Ford steered him to Stevens Point, a strong acting school. Chad earned a degree in musical theater/dance.

While working on "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat," Chad met a lady who had a three-bedroom place in New York City who said she would give him a place to stay.

Chad went to New York and never left. He still lives in the apartment on the north end of Manhattan.

The woman has gone on to marry and have children, and appear in "Law and Order Special Victims Unit."

Judy said Chad received key help along the way, mentioning Bertelsen, Ford and elementary school music teacher Terry Christie. Though her schedule was full, she squeezed in Chad for private piano lessons.

"She just was real supportive of everything," Judy said.

The live theater business has its highs and lows like any other career, she said.

"You're never going to be rich," she said.

"But he's doing something he loves," said Joe.

Chad's career is in stark contrast to his parents' interests. Joe was a longtime teacher and football and golf coach, Judy a longtime sportswriter for two area newspapers.

"This opened up a brand new door for us," Judy said in accepting the award for Chad. "We appreciate that the arts are being recognized."

Farmington's Jay Road CLOSED

Known for its water problems and taking into account the recent rainfall and snow melting many residents of Farmington know to take a different route when it comes to driving Jay Road. However, due to safety concerns, Town Chairman Gary Schreiber announced the road will be closed to traffic effective immediately as a safety precaution. Schreiber explained the town will close the road at Camp Awana Road and Highway XX. Signs indicating high water and the road's closure have been stolen in the past, but Schreiber reminds those thinking about taking a sign to reconsider. The Washington County Sheriff's Department will be paying special attention to the area and anyone caught attempting to steal a sign will be prosecuted. Charges of endangering safety could also be considered due to the extreme safety issue with traveling on the road. Schreiber did not know when the road would be re-opened.

Grothman speaks on Indian mascot issue

By Glenn Grothman
Senator 20th District

While I've been spending most of my time on Wisconsin's current fiscal crisis, some Wisconsin legislators--almost all of the type who are quick to spend your tax dollars-- are trying one more time to force local school districts to change their nicknames if they could be deemed offensive to Native Americans. (Interestingly, I've recently met with several Native Americans on unrelated matters, and they refer to themselves as "Indians.")

This bill is a waste of time but is also wrong in a variety of ways. First, it is built on a lie and therefore an insult to our ancestors. The agitators who push this bill imply that the reason schools adopted Indian nicknames was to insult or demean Indians. Of course this is not true.

Some schools, like Kewaskum, chose the name Indian to honor a specific tribe of an individual in this case, Chief Kewaskum. Such schools probably spend more time than most in educating students about the Native Americans who lived in Wisconsin prior to the European migration. Other schools just choose the names Indian, Warrior, or Chieftans because they invoke general images of courage, independence, and nobility.

The second lie is that Native Americans find the name Indian objectionable. A Harris Poll done seven years ago shows that 75-percent of Indians do not find these nicknames contribute to discrimination. This is pretty impressive in that the popular culture and the intelligentsia keep telling Indians they should be offended. Not surprisingly, this shows the average Indian has more common sense than the average NCAA board member (which has tried to ban Indian nicknames). Over twice as many Indians (and 12 times as many Americans in general) like ethnic nicknames than dislike them (Celtics, Flying Dutchman, etc.) More Indians like the Tomahawk Chop (of the Atlanta Braves) than dislike it.

Finally, there would be a small cost to school districts. Whether new uniforms or legal fees paid to go through a process set up to appeal a department of public instruction decision, this would take money from school districts who claim they are short of funds.

In short, this bill insults our ancestors. It gives preference to a few angry Native Americans as to opposed to the more common sense of the majority.

As a member of the Senate Education Committee, I will vote against the bill and try to get the bill's authors Representative James Soletski (D-Green Bay) and Senator Spencer Coggs (D-Milwaukee) to focus on improving education in the state.

TOWN of BARTON- Expanding a business is always a goal. It is a lot tougher during these economic times, but Jim Otten, owner of Kettle Moraine Appliance & TV, has opened the doors to a new and bigger store.

"For growth. Just to get bigger. More displays and a couple more product lines," Otten said about the need for a bigger store.

The new store is 17,000 square feet, 5,000 square feet more than the original store.

K.M. Appliance now carries the Electrolux line. Otten said Electrolux is a European made, high end line product.

The economy has impacted K.M. Appliance, but Otten has adapted his business accordingly.

"Instead of if they had 10-year-old appliances and the stove would go out, five years ago they would replace the whole kitchen," Otten said. "Now they are replacing individual pieces."

Customers will get a better discount for purchasing a whole new set of kitchen appliances, but Otten said his salespeople would never try to sell something the customer does not want or need.

Otten said the new store has an actual parts department for the do-it-yourself crowd. He explained their parts sales have climbed substantially during the recent downward spiral in the economy.

The home theater area has also expanded with the new store. Otten said they started carrying a complete line of home theater products about four years ago. This was one area he thought needed to expand. K.M. Appliance exclusively sells LG electronic products and has a number of items in stock, but customers can special order any product they want.

Otten said buying a new appliance now might save money in the future. Customers can see the savings on their electric bill.

"A standard house with say, a family of four, by buying a front load washer and dryer can save between $300 and $400 a year," Otten remarked. "Their savings come in using half the water and half the detergent. The front load washers spin the water out better, so they dry faster.

"A lot of people will come in and ask for the cheapest washing machine or least expensive washer. Well, it ain't necessarily the $350 washing machine, it's probably the $699 front loader because of the amount that they will save."

K.M. Appliance offers a 12-month free financing package on all appliances and electronics.

Something new for customers is the live displays. Otten said customers can come in and see first hand how each appliance functions and they can listen to hear how quiet they are.

"They can actually get their hands on and feel how the actual machine will work in their house," Otten said.

K.M. Appliance will have their official grand opening March 26-28. They will be giving away gift certificates, a personal vending machine, a TV and offer complimentary food and beverages each day.

Otten assured customers would not be pressured into buying anything during the grand opening. He explained he wants people to come in and be able to see the new expanded store's offerings.

"You buy from us, you are-taken care of from the sales, delivery, through service," Otten said about what separates his business from competitors. "The service end of it is why you should buy from us. We service what we sell."

Otten said the new location off a U.S. Highway, was another perk for expanding. K.M. Appliance is located a mile off Highway 45 heading east off of the exit for County Road D. For more information about KM Appliance call (262) 334-1906.

Centenarian Sisters honored at Convent

Sister Vitalis Koester recently turned 104.

Sister Elka Becker recently turned 105.

CAMPBELLSPORT - Just recently St. Joseph Convent, Campbellsport celebrated two centenarians, Sister Vitalis Koester, 104 years old and Sister Elka Becker, 105 years old.

Sister Vitalis was born in Earling, Iowa. In 1923 Sister started her ministry of teaching at various schools in the Chicago land area; and in 1934 Sister began a long service at Alvernia High School in Chicago. She taught various subjects, served as attendance clerk and enjoyed a very active second career as Alumnae Director. Even when she moved into retirement at St. Priscilla Convent, Chicago, her activity with alumnae continued. Coming to Campbellsport in 2005, she still welcomes visits from those she served.

Sister Vitalis attends daily Mass and various activities.

She is rarely without her Word Search book, avidly pursuing this hobby.

Sister Elka was born in Howels, Nebraska.

In 1920 Sister started her long ministry of teaching in various schools in Illinois and Wisconsin. Then in 1946 she was sent to her home state of Nebraska to teach, spending over forty years in Omaha. In 1988 Sister returned to Wisconsin and performed various duties in active retirement at Marian Hall, Milwaukee. In 1997 Sister Elka decided to retire to St. Joseph Convent in Campbellsport, Wisconsin, where she has been a "senior" member.

While her physical activity is limited, S. Elka is anything but passive. Any time a Sister passes S. Elka's door, she usually finds Sister deep in prayer. Sister also attends daily Mass and various activities with the sisters. Sister loves visitors and at her recent birthday party, responded to each song sung for her with a very appropriate comment.

Adrift in Macao at UWWC

Monte Carlo benefit night March 26

WEST BEND - UW-Washington County's Theatre on the Hill will take its' audience to China - back in 1952. Everyone that comes to Macao, (pronounced mah-cow) is waiting for something - yet none of them know exactly what that is. Fortunately, they all hang around to find out. Adrift in Macao spins the tale of five quirky characters stranded in this Casablanca-type locale in the Far East. The musical comedy will be performed Friday, March 13 and Saturday, March 14 at 7:30pm and Sunday, March 15 at 1:30pm in the campus theatre, located on the second level of the campus at 400 University Drive, West Bend.

The cast of seven includes four UW-Washington County students: Andrew Helman of West Bend as Rick Shaw (the cynical Surf and Turf Nightclub and Gambling Casino owner); Christophe Jenkins of West Bend as Mitch (an American who is framed for murder); Halie Becker of West Bend as Jo; and Amanda Gresch of Fredonia as Daisy.

The remaining cast members include: Amanda Spreeman of West Bend as Lureena (a shapely blonde who finds herself alone and broke in a foreign city); Kristofer Holly of West Bend as Tempura (Rick's Chinese employee who has been "battered by life"); and Missy de Ireuste of Cedarburg as Corinna (a tough little gal who gets the boot when Lureena vamps her way into Rick's heart).

UW-WC Communications and Theatre Professor Brad Ford will produce and direct the one-act musical. Assistant director is Lisa Rowe of West Bend. Vocal director is Deanna Gibeau of West Bend and choreographer is Lisa Schnabel of West Bend. Musical coordinator is Tom Utschig who also plays the drums. Other band members include James Kishline (bass), Scott Currier (synthesizer), Jason Goldsmith (reed) and Deanna Gibeau (piano). The stage manager is Amy Kottke and the production crew includes: Halie Becker, Rebecca Frank, Amanda Gresch, Andrew Helman, Kris Holly, Dan Koenings, Katie Kottke, Keith Lester, Lisa Rowe, Ginger Starr, Diane Thomas, Jesse Wulf. The lighting designer is Kurt Schnabel and the lighting operator is Katherine Smith.

The book and lyrics were written by celebrated playwright, Christopher Durang, with music composed by Peter Melnick. The story can best be described as fun, and opens with the glamorous band singer, Lureena coming to the city of Macao in search of a job. Lureena stands on a street corner and tries to hail a driver: "Rickshaw! Rickshaw!" Out of the darkness, a tough-looking stranger appears: "Hello," he says, "I'm Rick Shaw." Later, Rick Shaw hires Lureena to sing at his nightclub. This sort of silliness along with a playful melodic score provides the frame-work for the play that is built on laughs more than plot and character.

According to The New York Times review: "The dames are sheathed in satin and attitude, the guys have secrets to spare, and the gags come slathered in soy sauce." Theatre Mania describes it as a "very appealing and surprisingly old-fashioned musical comedy." The musical numbers will have you humming on your way out, and include "Ticky Ticky Tocky," "Mister McGuffin," and "Mambo Malaysian."

For ticket sales, phone the main office at 262-335-5208 (Monday through Friday 8am-4:30pm). Tickets are $12 adults and $9 for seniors (over 62) or youth (under 18). It is perfectly appropriate to bring older children to the production. They won't understand all the jokes, but like their parents, should find the musical comedy a fun diversion.

UW-Washington County is located at 400 University Drive in West Bend. The theatre is located on the second floor. Free parking is available.

The second annual Monte Carlo Casino Night will be held on Thursday, March 26 at the Prairie Conference Center located at West Bend Mutual Insurance Company, the event will benefit the Alyce and Elmore Kraemer Cancer Care Center. Monte Carlo guests will enjoy an evening filled with a bountiful array of food stations and delectable desserts from local restaurants and vendors. Each ticket includes complimentary beer, wine and soda and $300 in fun money to play blackjack, craps, roulette and Texas Hold'em Poker. In addition, there will be silent and live auctions throughout the night.

The Alyce and Elmore Kraemer Cancer Care Center is operated by St. Joseph's Hospital and is the only comprehensive cancer care center in Washington County. The center offers state-of-the-art technology and offers chemotherapy and radiation therapy for all kinds of cancer. With over 10,000 patient visits annually, this center fills a need for patients to be able to stay in their community, near their families, while receiving cancer care treatments.

"Proceeds from Monte Carlo Casino Night will help with the purchase of a new immobilization system used during radiation therapy at the cancer center," said Bill Tustin, Director of Oncology Services. Radiation therapy is precise and requires that the patient not move during treatment. This system will allow for accurate treatment with a higher level of care, while ensuring patients' comfort.

"Last year's casino night brought in more than 200 people and raised $40,000 to benefit the Women's Breast Care Program at St. Joseph's Hospital. This year, we hope to increase our success and assist the cancer care center," said John Wundrock, Monte Carlo Casino Night Chair.

Tickets are available for $75 each ($25 of each ticket is tax deductible) and are available at the sponsor locations: West Bend Mutual Insurance Prairie Center, St. Joseph's Hospital lobby, West Bend Clinic, M & I Bank, Jeff's Spirits on Main, WBKV/WBWI Radio, or contact the St. Joseph's Community Foundation at 262-334-8254.

Comedy Sportz comes to Kewaskum Theatre, will benefit Fitness Center

By Patrick Neumuth
patrick@kewaskumstatesman.com

Kewaskum High School is bringin' back Comedy Sportz for a second consecutive year as a fundraiser for the KHS Fitness Center on Saturday, March 21.

"It's just a real interactive, sports-themed show, mostly for the kids in the community, and to get everyone involved," said Julie Craig, an organizer for the show. "It's really just a fun night to raise some money to keep some of the maintenance up and some of the small things we need."

What is Comedy Sportz?

Comedy Sportz is an improvisational style of comedy where the performers on stage play games based on audience suggestions. Audience members may be asked to stage to help assist the "actletes" on stage.

There are two teams of three, along with a referee and sound and music guy.

"Pretty much anyone they need for their skit at the time. They had six kids up at one time. They came out into the audience another time and they really get everyone in the audience involved as much as possible," Craig said about the show.

Who should come?

Craig said Comedy Sportz is fun for all ages. She said last year the audience was split between students and adults. Comedy Sportz is a family-oriented show. They challenge people for those who think "clean" is boring to come watch their show on their website.

"They are real good at keeping this "G" rated and make this grandma friendly and keeping everyone in line," Craig said.

How much is it?

Tickets are on sale currently and they can be purchased at KHS or at The Statesman office. Tickets are $10 for each seat. They also offer front row V.I.P. seats for $20. Craig said there are 15 total V.I.P. seats and about 12 left. Craig said the front row seats are for those who want to be "picked on." There are a total of 350 available for the show. Last year the show sold out.

The show will start at 7:30 p.m. and lasts about 90 minutes with no intermissions. Craig said the goal is to raise between $1,200 and $1,500 for the Fitness Center.

"It went over great (last year) and we hopefully sell out again. It's a good time for everybody," Craig said.

For more information about Comedy Sportz visit their website at comedysportzmilwaukee.com.

Booster Club will sponsor Dodgeball Tourney

By Patrick Neumuth
patrick@kewaskumstatesman.com

You don't have to have a name like Blazer, Tazer or any other name with "azer" to enter this dodgeball tournament. The Kewaskum Booster Club is sponsoring the first annual double elimination dodgeball tournament Saturday, March 28.

"We used to do a 3-on-3 tournament always the same weekend and last year the numbers were down for entries, so we decided to try something different this year, change it up and do dodgeball," president of the Booster Club Amy Ermer said.

There are three divisions for the tournament. There is a sixth through eighth grade division, ninth through twelfth grade division and an open 16-years-old and up division. Each division has a 20-team cap. Ermer said about 12 teams total have signed up already, some in each division.

Each team will have six members. The entry fee is $30 per team, or $5 per player. Admission for spectators will be $1. It is a co-ed tournament, but there is no rule about how many players from each gender is needed for a team. Ermer said their can be a team of all boys, all girls or mixed.

"It's not going to be a huge money-maker, but it's going to be something and something for people to do," Ermer said.

The Booster Club will use this money for many different sports. Ermer said they helped out the girl's bowling team this year. She said the trapshooting team has asked the Booster Club for money for shooting bags and girl's softball has asked for money for new equipment. Ermer said a lot of the softball equipment is out dated, especially at the JV level.

"It's everything to try and help out the kids at school with trying to keep fees down and help the kids get better equipment," Ermer said about the Booster Club's efforts with this tournament.

The concession stand will be open for the sale of food and drinks. The sixth through eighth grade division starts the tournament at 11 a.m. The ninth through twelfth grade division will start at about 3:30 p.m. and the open division will start at about 7:30 p.m.

Registration is due by March 20 to set up the brackets. For questions about registrations and how to get registration forms call (262) 626-4915 or (262) 707-6909. After the registration form is completed in full it can be sent to the KHS Booster Club at N537 Alpine Lane, Campbellsport, WI 53010.

St. Lucas students support the troops

Even children can support the troops. The St. Lucas Lutheran School children brought in items for the troops during the 2nd quarter. On January 23, 2009 the whole school joined in the gym to take a group picture. The students had made signs that said, "God Bless the U. S. A." The day was considered Red, White, and Blue Day to show patriotism. After the group picture was taken each student made a card and helped pack all of the items in boxes to be sent to the troops. A total of 17 boxes were sent to WELS (Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod) troops throughout the world. Friday mornings St. Lucas Lutheran School 'Drop Everything And Read' (DEAR). Since the whole school was together during DEAR time, Mrs. Derge read the book "A Picnic in October" by Eve Bunting. The story is about a family that visits the Statue of Liberty every year. St. Lucas Lutheran School children are thankful for what they have, and were really excited to be able to share with the troops!

IN MEMORY

In memory of Nick Vogt, who passed away four years ago on March 16, 2005:

A bouquet of beautiful memories, sprayed with a million tears, wishing God could have spared me, if just a few more years. It does not take a special day, for us to think of you.

Each Mass we hear, each prayer we say, is offered up for you. We can not bring the old days back, when we are all together.

Our family chain is broken now, but memories live forever.

We love you and miss you,

Your Family

ONE WOMAN'S HISTORIC BATTLE AGAINST EMINENT DOMAIN

LITTLE PINK HOUSE

A True Story of Defiance and Courage

JEFF BENEDICT

You never thought it possible. Your neighbors lost their home. Foreclosed, just like that. And then another, and another down the road. For-Sale signs sprout like dandelions on your block, and moving trucks wear down the pavement. Two streets over, same story. Maybe one of the foreclosures was yours. But forget about mortgage for a minute. Let's skip ahead and say you own your home. You've fixed it up, filled it with things you love. You know your neighbors and you like the neighborhood. You can live there as long as you want, right? In the new book "Little Pink House" by Jeff Benedict, you'll see how chillingly, frighteningly wrong you are. For most of her life, Susette Kelo had very little to call her own. Pregnant at sixteen, the mother of five by age 23, Kelo was on the edge of leaving a bad second marriage when she found a house in New London, Connecticut's Fort Trumbull neighborhood. Smitten with the ramshackle home, she bought it, updated it, and filled it with antiques. Within months, her "living nightmare" began. Pharmaceutical giant Pfizer, Inc. announced plans for a compound on waterfront property, near historic Fort Trumbull. The State of Connecticut got behind the project, as did the City of New London. There would be an upscale hotel and office buildings. The tax base would be greater and jobs would be created. To proceed, the City needed to buy properties from the homeowners in the area. And when that didn't completely happen, they proceeded with eminent domain. One of the homes they wanted was Susette's. In exercising eminent domain, the government appropriates private property for the sake of public use, for instance, as with a new road or bridge. Clearly, since the property was being taken for private use, this action would set precedents. As homeowners resisted and the project fell behind schedule, the organization in charge of implementation turned up the heat. Residents of the neighborhood alternately felt intimidated, fearful, and angry. Undaunted, Susette Kelo, her neighbors and supporters contacted the Institute for Justice (a public-interest law firm) and dug in their heels all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court. Property rights or property wrongs? You'll ask yourself that many times as you read this stunning, true legal narrative. As a rousing David-and-Goliath story, "Little Pink House" tells of legal maneuvers, politicking, and courage of conviction. It's a book that will make you want to keep tabs on city hall, just in case. It will make any homeowner terrified. Author Jeff Benedict says that he interviewed many of the key players in this drama, and his authentic presentation will snatch your interest by Page Five. Though Benedict offers both viewpoints in the argument, it will be hard for you not to pick sides. Deciding to bury yourself in this true white-knuckler is, however, an easy choice. If you can't wait for your favorite legal-thriller author's next book, fill in the empty time with this tremendous, don't-miss book. "Little Pink House" may have you seeing red.

Glenway Wescott, a native of Kewaskum, was recently named as the new president of the National Institute of Arts and Letters. Wescott was born on a farm near Kewaskum in 1901 and is an author of published novels (one won the Harper prize) and poems.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Adashun, Route 2, Campbellsport, on February 9. A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Wulff, Kewaskum, on February 17.

75 Years Ago

February 16, 1934

While Mrs. Ervin Ramthun, residing just east of this village, teacher of the Joint School District No. 3, of the Towns of Wayne and Theresa, six miles west of Kewaskum on Highway 28, was nearing her school Monday morning, she noticed smoke penetrating through the roof of the school building. Not stopping at the school, she drove speedily to the Mrs. Katherine Schmitt home a short distance away and telephoned for aid. The first call for aid was sent to the Theresa Fire Department who refused to respond unless an official of the district school board OK'd the call. Then a call was telephoned to Harry Schaefer, chief of the local fire department, who immediately sent the engine to the scene. The building was completely destroyed, only the brick walls remained standing but the damage to these were to such an extent that they will have to be razed. It was estimated that the loss will reach $5,000. The fire started in the attic presumably caused by a defective chimney. The cornerstone of the building has the inscription upon it of Mr. Opgenorth's signature and dated August 14, 1913.

Rumors are about this week that a Lomira man has developed an automobile engine which will produce about 200 horsepower and run a large car on one gallon of gasoline 300 miles. Not much could be learned of the new venture other than the engine is of an entirely new design, weighing only about 50 pounds and contains only three moving parts. Neither could anything be learned of the operating principle of the motor, but it is said that it does away with the back and forth movement of pistons.

The Senior Class of the Kewaskum High School is presenting its class play, "Treasurer Trove Tavern" Friday and Saturday. Members of the cast include: Earl Kohler, Robert Rosenheimer, Joseph Miller, Fred Klein, Ruth Kohn, Eleanor Hron, Florence Westerman, William Schaefer, Bernice Buddenhagen, Beulah Buddenhagen, Egidius Schoofs, Agnes Borchert, Edna Reysen, John Krautkramer and Edward Hawig.

The opening of the Carl Gruendeman and Blanke cheese factory in Boltonville was largely attended and enjoyed by all.

A Holstein calf with five legs was born on the farm of Richard Hornburg north of Waucousta on Highway 55 last week Monday.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Mehlos at Milwaukee on February 11. Mrs. Mehlos is best remembered here as the former Miss Vinelda Klein.

100 Years Ago

February 27, 1909

Aloysius Haessly, the 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haessly, living on the John Hess farm, met with a horrible death last Monday morning. The boy had been assisting his father in cutting feed and in some way his clothing got caught on the tumbling rod of the horsepower which whirled him to his death before the machinery could be stopped.

On account of the scarring of teams by locomotives, L. Rosenheimer has made arrangements so that potatoes can be unloaded at the west door of their warehouse.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zwaschka of Kewaskum on February 26.

W.B. Suns put baseball hopes in former Indian Heisdorf's hands

West Bend Suns' head Baseball coach, Mike Heisdorf, is shown with his son, Mike Heisdorf. A former Kewaskum Indian, Heisdorf will now lead the Suns.

Submitted photo

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

WEST BEND- Mike Heisdorf left his gritty, hustling trademark mark on Kewaskum High School athletics in the early 1980s, and now he is hoping to do the same as the new head baseball coach of the West Bend East Suns.

The announcement was made last week by East Athletic Director Jeff Rondorf that Heisdorf, who served as assistant varsity coach a year ago, had been selected from a list of 20 candidates.

Both sides were delighted with the outcome of the interviewing process.

"I know there were several reasons Mike stood out above the rest," Rondorf said. "First was his knowledge of the game of baseball, and then there was his experience, especially last year when he was assistant coach."

And Heisdorf, a 1982 KHS graduate who lettered in three sports, can hardly wait for May 15 to roll around so he can start what he hopes will be the continuation of a strong legacy in the sport at East, going back to the state championship years of Gary Perkins and Doug Gonring, currently the head coach at Kewaskum High.

While his predecessor, Brian Chesick, did not win a state title during his tenure, Heisdorf praised the work he did while serving as the Sun mentor and noted, "Brian was a good coach and is a super, nice guy."

Even though the parents of a lot of his former Little League players often urged him to move up, Heisdorf didn't really plan on going into high school coaching, but when Chesick asked him to help the Suns last summer, he decided to give it a try.

"I had a lot of support from my wife (Donna) and my daughter (Holly)," Heisdorf said, adding, "I did it for free, and I enjoyed it."

East finished with a mark of 22-10 in 2008, unofficially placing third in what is a highly regarded baseball conference, the North Shore Conference, which is comprised of teams from the Wisconsin Little Ten and the North Shore Conferences.

"I was in charge of the infield last year," Heisdorf went on, indicating that should be one of the team's strengths this summer because "We have everybody back."

Looking at the 2008 roster and the prospects for this year's squad, the new coach says, "We have to replace our catcher," and, "We need to develop some pitching," a situation which is an annual challenge for nearly all prep coaches.

"The whole conference is going to be tough," Heisdorf said, explaining Germantown is always strong, "Cedarburg has its program going, and (West Bend) West is always up there with (coach) Billy Albrecht."

And what will Heisdorf emphasize philosophically? "I want a lot of respect and hustle," noting he wants his Sun players to show respect for one another and he will stress that they "play hard and play the game the right way."

As far as his coaching style, the new Sun boss will take a wait-and-see attitude. "I'm going to play whatever I need to respond to what the situation gives you," he said.

A date Kewaskum fans and players might look forward to is July 3, when the Suns travel to Kewaskum to take on the Indians. Will Heisdorf be nervous about facing his old high school and the legendary Gonring, who coached his son, Josh, both at East and at Concordia University where he is currently a senior?

Heisdorf said he hasn't looked that far ahead to be nervous, but come May 26, East's opener against Plymouth, he admits "I'm sure there will be some butterflies. I'm excited."

Heisdorf's son Jared is a sophomore at East. "Bowling is his sport," Heisdorf said, noting Jared and the East team will compete in the state tournament this weekend. The younger Heisdorf son also enjoys baseball, while Holly Heisdorf, who attends the University of Iowa, loves dance.

Mike Heisdorf, a big fan of the Milwaukee Brewers and major league baseball, is employed by BesTech Tool Corporation where he is the plant manager.

Writer's note: Mike Heisdorf started for the KHS basketball team for two seasons, the best his senior season. "That was a good year for us," Heisdorf said. "We lost to Mayville, and they won the state title."

Others on the team were Dale Wodsedelak, Ric Leitheiser and Brian Larsen. The coach was Jim Westphal.

Heisdorf did well in golf, advancing to the sectionals with the 1980, '81 and '82 teams. Heisdorf was co-medalist in the '82 regional. Jim Rohlinger and Chris Harlow were two major teammates. The coach was Joe Harlow.

The Indians also did well in baseball with Heisdorf manning one of the outfield spots. He earned honorable mention in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference balloting. The coach was Mike Theiler.

The Kewaskum Gridiron Club

The Kewaskum Gridiron Club was formed in 1996 with the first game played in fall of 1997. Gridiron began with teams from sixth through eighth grades. A fifth grade team and cheerleaders were added a few years later.

Gridiron impacts approximately 160 kids from the Kewaskum community every season (players and cheerleaders). The mission is to teach the fundamentals of football and cheerleading techniques.

Kewaskum Gridiron has a strong partnership with Kewaskum High School football. In fact 13 of the 22 seniors on the varsity team this past fall played football all the way through; from fifth grade through their senior year. This group of 13 is eligible for two Gridiron scholarships ($1,000 each). These scholarships are made possible by the generous contributions of coaches, individuals and businesses. If you would like to become involved in the organization please contact Jim Korth at 626-2520.

The annual sign up will happen on Saturday, April 25 from 10:00 - 2:00 p.m. at Hon E Kor.

WE GOOFED!

In last week's edition, on this page we depicted Bo Seibel as his brother Cody in a photo of him at the State Wrestling Meet.

We apologize for this error and hope we can learn to better distinguish these two Kewaskum sports stars!
