Four-year long dream becomes reality for Butzlaff

Tyler Butzlaff, 10, performs with Geoff Landon during Café Sourette's open mic night last week.

WEST BEND

Four years ago, Tyler Butzlaff asked his favorite country singer to sign his guitar and vowed he would learn to play it.

Last Thursday, the town of Kewaskum 10-year-old showed he is making good on his word, playing a set at Café Sourette's open mic night with that very singer.

Butzlaff and Geoff Landon received a warm reception at the bar, packed with many of Butzlaff's family. Butzlaff had asked Landon to play with him at Café Sourette after Landon and the Wolfpack performed at Music on Main, which lasted 30 minutes longer than scheduled at the request of a 1,000-strong crowd.

Butzlaff walked around with his face stuck in an ear-to-ear smile after playing with Landon. He could only describe the experience as "fun."

The Kewaskum Elementary School fifth-grader isn't afraid of crowds. He has played at open mic night before and has sung at Port Washington's Fish Day and Country USA in Oshkosh. Landon brought him on stage once there.

Town ordinance could ban grooming machines

By Mitch Maersch
mitch@kewaskumstatesman.com

TOWN OF KEWASKUM- The Town of Kewaskum in seeking to maintain its roads is considering an ordinance that local snowmobilers say could close their trail and take a chunk out of local tourism dollars.

The ordinance, to be discussed Monday, would not allow snowmobile grooming machines to operate on town roads, shoulders or right-of-ways. Violators would be required to reimburse the town within 10 days for any damage caused.

The bill already sits at $6,500 from last winter, but snowmobile club members don't think it was their equipment that did the damage.

Town Chairman Ellis Kahn said the town made $70,000 of improvements to resurface a town road last September and damage occurred when the snowmobile trail opened.

Two years ago, the trail had to be moved as one town resident stopped allowing snowmobiles on a half-mile section of trail on his property. The resident owns property on both sides of the road, but state statutes allow the use of road right-of-way to travel from one part of a trail to another, said Craig Sanborn, a town resident and past president, trail boss and groomer operator of the Kewaskum Sno-Chiefs.

Sanborn said the road in question, Kettle Moraine Scenic Drive south of Highway H, is not where the groomers travel. Besides that, he said groomers weigh 10,000 pounds and drag 4,600 pounds of equipment behind them. Heavier vehicles like school buses and snowplows could have contributed to the damage.

"I don't think they can point the finger at us for all the damage," he said.

Sanborn said the asphalt overlay on the existing road would only temporarily hide existing cracks. Those would still come through, he said.

Kahn said crossing the road hasn't been a problem. The town's concern

Grooming

is the groomer traveling on the shoulder or the town road itself for nearly a mile.

"We do know we can't have that machine scraping down our roads. It's a big concern," he said.

He said once the trail moved there was an issue with damage from the first day trails opened and it got progressively worse as the season went along.

"The whole thing is a mess," he said. "We didn't design the trail."

He said the town is on too tight of a budget to pay for the repairs.

"We really didn't have any money to throw around on a snowmobile deal," he said.

Sanborn said his club picking up the cost out of pocket would be difficult, especially since many members are retired. He said everyone who damaged the road should pay, including farmers and loggers. The town, he said, hasn't looked into that.

Sanborn's bigger concern is the ripple effect the ordinance could create for other clubs and other trails across the state.

"The danger is it may set a precedent. We don't want to pay the town for crossings," he said.

If the trail is shut down, Sno-Chiefs members say local businesses would lose out on tourism dollars, from gas stations to restaurants, snowmobile dealers to Kewaskum's lone motel. Bonne Bell Motel owner Gino Guidice has a petition at his business with more than 70 signatures. Others are circulating as well, and the Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce is encouraging members to sign them.

Guidice said his motel draws people from Illinois and other states in the winter because of the snowmobile trail. He is afraid of losing business.

"We're going to try to plead our case and ask them to reconsider," he said, adding he is asking the town for a "reasonable solution."

Sno-Chiefs member Bob Kirst estimates the loss of revenue to be in the $20,000 to $25,000 range.

"It's major," he said. "I don't want to close the trails but if we can't groom them we can't open them."

Monday's Town Board meeting starts at 7 p.m. at the Kewaskum Community Center, 9019 Kettle Moraine Drive.

Drivers can now access the Washington County Courthouse East Parking Lot directly from Schmidt Road or from East Washington Street. "Courts Parking" signs were recently added to call attention to these new entrances. Exiting is still encouraged via Rolfs Avenue, for a safer approach to East Washington Street. The East Parking lot was constructed to serve the Justice Center addition, which houses the Circuit Courts as well as offices of the Clerk of Courts, District Attorney, and Child Support Agency. Those who park in the old West lot have to walk through the entire Government Center on the first floor to reach the Courts addition.

Beechwood Cheese employee 'passes it on'

BEECHWOOD - Two Beechwood Cheese employees will be featured on Milwaukee television station WITI's Pass it on segment. Film crews from Fox 6 Milwaukee visited the cheese factory and surprised 20 year employee Joan Schneider.

Schneider was nominated for the program by her coworker Sarah Westerman.

Fox 6 Anchor Nicole Koglin visited Beechwood Cheese to surprise Westerman and Schneider and film her segment, Pass It On, on Wednesday, July 7.

Westerman e-mailed Nicole to ask for consideration to pass the $300 along to a fellow employee who's been here over 20 years, Joan Schneider.

"It was orchestrated so that Sarah was surprised first, in being chosen, and then she marched out to the store and handed Joan three $100 bills to 'pass it on,'" Store manager Kris Heise reported.

The Pass It On story featuring Beechwood will air Thursday, (July 15th) during 9 p.m. news; Friday (July 16th) during Wakeup, between 7:30 - 8:30 a.m. and Friday (July 16th) during the 11 a.m. news. You'll also find it on Fox 6's website... www.Fox6Now.com

Koglin explains, "Pass It On is a weekly franchise at FOX 6. We've been doing it for more than a year now. We receive hundreds of nomination emails from viewers."

Once a nomination is chosen, "We show up surprising the nominator with $300 cash. That person then has one hour to pass it on to the person they told us about," Koglin said.

Local youth show their hearts

By Mitch Maersch

mitch@kewaskumstatesman.com

They paid $300 to do physical labor for a week in the heat of summer, and they'd all do it again in a heartbeat.

Most of the teen Catholic Heart Work Campers and chaperones were brought to tears just talking about the six-day spiritual experience last Sunday at St. Michaels Church. They hugged each other repeatedly and didn't want to let go during a reception after Mass.

Thirty-four teens and nine adults, including Father Ed Kornath, attended this year's Catholic Heart Work Camp in Rockford, Ill., helping residents and community organizations with home repairs and maintenance work like painting, cleaning and gardening. In return, their own spirituality perhaps received the biggest upgrade.

"I really got a lot out of the program," said Joe Kurer, 15, a camp rookie. "I always thought that I was spiritually inclined but after going I really wasn't as much as I thought I was. It gave me a stronger sense of being and morals and values."

"It's like a charger for your spiritual battery. It's a type of situation that you wish most of the church could be there to see," said Alex Benzing, 22. He has gone on the trip for six years and now goes as a chaperone.

Rockford has been heavily hit by the manufacturing slowdown and has a steady unemployment rate of 17 percent, said Mary Feind, group leader. The teens fill a huge need whether it's for elderly residents or for the YMCA and homeless shelters.

"Our mission is not only to do the physical work but to make friends with the residents," she said.

It wasn't always easy. Some residents were a little standoffish to start but were won over quickly. For others, the bond was nearly instant, like one who told a teen she loved her after 20 minutes of window washing.

Kate Winkler described her 71-year-old resident as a "very sweet" widow whose husband died three years ago. She is recovering from a double knee replacement and her garage and shed needed to be painted.

When the handful of teens arrived, the woman asked if they could paint her entire house and the trim as well. The group didn't bat an eyelash and got the job done in three and a half days with high temperatures in the mid-80s and humidity not much lower. It was more than worth it, Winkler said.

"I don't even know the word for it," she said.

The teens served as much more than painters. The woman doesn't talk to her family but wouldn't stop talking about her grandchildren and great-grandchildren to her new friends. She cried when they left.

"It was as life changing for her as it was for us," Winkler said.

Campers shared countless similar moving stories in front of the group as they held a Cross from the holy land and described where they saw God during the week. Benzing said his resident lost five husbands yet took the opportunity to share her strength and faith.

"What an awesome faith that must be," he said.

Benzing's eight-person team accomplished an awesome feat itself, moving 3,000 pounds of gravel in 12.5 minutes with three, five-gallon pails "without a wheel barrel." Only the two guys in the group could pick up a pail by themselves.

Sawyer Buck was part of a group that laid mulch for a playground and did a mass mailing seeking sponsors for a poor Catholic school that had 45 students and one janitor who worked for free.

"It was very rewarding and I got closer to God," the sophomore said.

After eight- to 10-hour workdays and sometimes longer, teens returned to the retreat house for spiritual workshops and programs like Adoration in which the Consecrated Host is placed in an elaborate holder and everyone acknowledges Christ's presence through an hour of silence on their knees.

Many talked about four corners, a night of candlelit prayer in which teens would approach adults and ask them to lead a prayer. The four corners represent self-healing, reconciliation, faith and others. Confession followed.

Besides Kewaskum,

teens from across the country converged on the camp. Bonding and mutual trust was almost instant as people from different backgrounds shared information with each other they wouldn't necessarily tell their best friends.

"I have friends now from Texas, Indiana, Michigan. Everyone's so accepting, non-judgmental," said Kurer, who also made new friends in Kewaskum as he attends St. Mary Springs Academy in Fond du Lac.

Even among 300 self-motivated, Christian teens, the Holy Trinity St. Michael's group stood out.

Benzing said the group cleaned out the building in 20 minutes because it was double booked and it had to leave sooner than expected. Camp organizers were amazed.

On Sunday, the group thanked the church and its "stockholders." A donation of any amount received a stock certificate in the "faith future of our youth," Feind said. A reception afterward wrapped up the mission trip. Fundraisers are held throughout the year to raise the $300 to attend, but the teens are still working for it.

"They're still paying to go help people which to a lot of people is unheard of and crazy," Feind said.

But not after spending any time with this group of teens. At the end of the reception it seemed they didn't want to leave as many stood arm in arm in a circle around a small table, swaying back and forth and singing.

"It's always so hard to come home and put it in words and perspective so people can understand," Benzing said.

"No one goes away untouched," Feind said.

To donate to next year's mission trip, contact the church secretary at 334-5270.

Participants will be able to provide written or verbal comments to the project staff during the meeting.

Citizens who are unable to attend the meeting, or would like more information, should contact Gary Metzger, WisDOT project manager at (262) 548-5685 or gary.metzer@dot.wi.gov. Written comments regarding the project can be mailed to Gary Metzger, WisDOT, 141 NW Barstow Street, Waukesha, WI 53187. St. Andrew Lutheran Church is wheelchair accessible. In addition to St. Joseph's Hospital, Community Memorial Hospital in Menomonee Falls has also joined the Cancer Network.

"Expanding our cancer care services is an exciting growth opportunity for St. Joseph's Hospital and our service area," said Michael Laird, president and chief executive officer of St. Joseph's Hospital. "Through the Cancer Network, we provide the most advanced, coordinated care for our patients and their families, right here in our community."

Medical College specialists including radiation oncologist Mark Macedon, MD, have been practicing since last summer at the Alyce and Elmore Kraemer Cancer Care Center of St. Joseph's Hospital. St. Joseph's Hospital physician Ijaz Arshad, MD, provides medical oncology services at the center. Medical College urologic oncologist Peter Langenstroer, MD, and Medical College plastic surgeon John LoGiudice, MD, have been available on the hospital campus since 2009 and will be joined in July by gynecologic oncologist William Bradley, MD. Additional Medical College cancer specialists will be added through the Cancer Network.

Care through the Cancer Network is provided in the community hospital setting whenever possible, and Medical College cancer specialists collaborate with community physicians to develop treatment plans and ensure continuity of care. If patients need specialized treatment, connections to the Froedtert & The Medical College Clinical Cancer Center are coordinated through the network. Patients can return home for follow-up care at their community hospital. Medical records are accessible electronically, so providers at any Cancer Network site can retrieve patient information quickly.

In addition to specialty care in their own community, cancer patients also have streamlined access to clinical trials, second opinions and an array of supportive services, including cancer genetic screening and counseling, cancer rehabilitation, nutrition counseling, social services and educational programs.

Patients can reach any Cancer Network site by calling a single phone number: 866-680-0505.

Butzlaff

"You just get up on stage and sing a couple of songs," Butzlaff said. "I did it so many times."

But he hadn't sang and played at the same time with Landon. He admitted to being a "little nervous" before the performance. Landon proved to be a soothing presence.

"He's still nervous, but that just broke the ice," Landon said. "He was excited and for me that puts a big smile on my face."

Butzlaff picked up guitar after telling his dad he wanted to play when he was 6. Bill Jr. played electric guitar years ago and got him started with lessons that continue to this day. He quickly learned guitar keys and confidence.

"Then when you know you can do it you just have fun with it," he said.

Butzlaff's mother, Debbie, an accordion player, said music comes naturally for Tyler.

"He's not afraid to go on stage. He's not afraid to sing," she said.

Butzlaff tries to practice twice a day in the family's music room in the basement.

Landon, a Big Falls native who often performs in the area with his top-40 country band, has become a mentor to Butzlaff, who Landon said is well ahead of his pace since he already played at a live venue.

"I told him he's already 20 steps ahead of where I was at 10 years old," he said. "I didn't do that until 18."

Thursday was a big step,

Landon said.

"He doesn't have to feel like he can't," he said, describing that as a "great feeling."

He remembers the little 6-year-old telling him he would learn to play guitar and is impressed he is following through.

"He had enough drive to do it on his own," he said.

Landon said giving back to somebody like that is easy, "somebody who's basically there for me."

The two fittingly closed with the song Butzlaff sang with Landon at Country USA, "All My Friends."

That's just what they are.

On February 4, 2010, the Kettle County Kids 4-H Club held a baked goods auction to raise money for the Kewaskum Food Pantry.

Carrie Rohde had a great idea to hold an auction of baked goods. Members of the club brought in baked goods or store bought treats and after the February meeting, we had an auction.

Carrie Rohde was our auctioneer, she did a great job. There were many treats, the most popular were the cherry cheese cake and the puppy chow.

We raised $114.75, the money was donated to the Kewaskum Food Pantry.

Gruber wins gold medal in national art contest

Kewaskum art teacher Mary Forstner and gold medal winner Dru Gruber with his award at Carnegie Hall in New York City.

It was a full house at Carnegie Hall on June 9 with a record-breaking 600 students in attendance from across the nation celebrating and recognizing the accomplishments of the 2010 Scholastic Awards national award winners. Teachers, parents, friends and donors applauded as these young visionaries took a bow, thankful for the recognition that the program provides.

In attendance was Kewaskum's own Dru Gruber who received a gold medal for art.

To celebrate the accomplishments of the 2010 National Award winners and to honor the impressive legacy of The Scholastic Awards, the Empire State Building was lit in gold on the evening of June 9. In addition, Mayor Bloomberg officially proclaimed June 9, 2010, as The Scholastic Art & Writing Awards Day.

YMCA Family Adventure Pool receives contribution from West Bend Mutual Fund

WEST BEND: Recently, the Kettle Moraine YMCA received a gift from the West Bend Mutual Insurance Company Charitable Fund in support of the Family Adventure Pool addition planned at 1111 W. Washington. The Visionary Gift represents a significant step in the fundraising efforts of the YMCA. Visionary gifts are in the amount of $150,000 and above, and this gift serves as the second largest gift towards this project.

"We believe this Family Adventure Pool will be of real benefit to children, families and adults of all ages. It is important for us to give back to the people in our community," said Kevin Steiner, President and CEO of West Bend. "We also feel it is important to invest in the YMCA because of its proximity to downtown and the commitment to keep that area of our city vibrant."

The YMCA Family Ad-

venture Pool will be an 11,000 square foot, warm water pool with play apparatus, a lazy river and a pair of enclosed flume slides. The new pool will provide recreational opportunities in addition to therapy and rehabilitation. The YMCA will also be able to expand its swim lessons, lap swim and water fitness classes. Since the closing of Badger Pool, the YMCA has experienced increased need for its already heavily programmed pools.

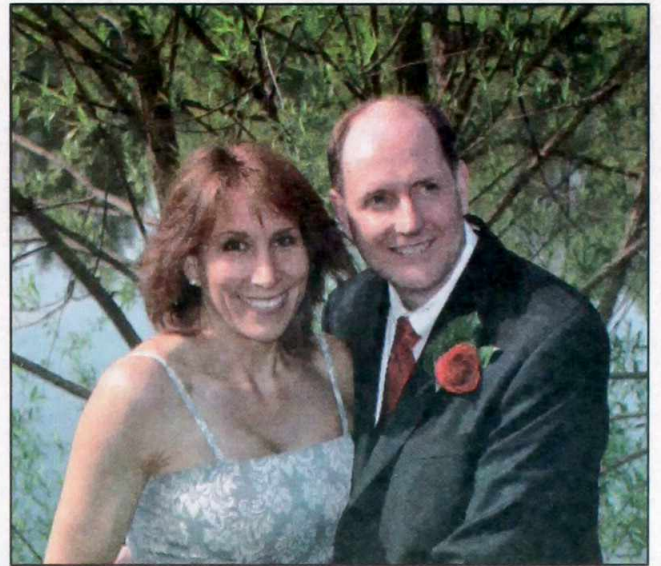

"We believe that this addition will expand program offerings to help support community participants in their pursuit of health and wellbeing. This facility enhancement will allow the YMCA to meet the growing demands from the community, and we know that working with other non-profits to make the facility available to everyone is going to be critical to our success," said Rob Johnson, Executive Director of the YMCA.

The Kettle Moraine YMCA will continue to offer day passes for a family rate of $15. The Family Adventure Pool will be included in YMCA members' dues at no additional charge. The gift from the West Bend Mutual Insurance Company Charitable Fund propels the YMCA's fundraising efforts to over $2.5 million pledged toward the $4 million project goal. The project will not break ground until the fundraising goal is met.

More than 80 individuals, corporations and foundations have pledged to the project already. If you would like to know more information on how to be involved through volunteering or by making a contribution to the Family Adventure Pool, contact Sandy Luft, Financial Development Director at 262-247-1011 or sluft@knymca.org.

The Washington County Fair, set to start its annual six-day run on Tuesday, has a couple of new draws this year. The fair is thanking those serving in the military past and present with a free day.

On Wednesday, July 21, a military ID card allows free admission to the fair along with one guest. In addition, service members and their guests will receive a voucher for a hamburger or hot dog with fries for $1.50 at the American Legion stand.

"I thought boy, what better way to say thanks," said Sandy Lang, fair manager.

Wednesday is Military Day at the fair as flag folding ceremonies at noon and 6 p.m. will explain the history of flag folding and how the process came to be. A Blackhawk helicopter may land at the fair as well, and Lang said she is working on bringing in other military equipment to the fair. Lang said next year the fair plans to have a full-fledged military element.

Among other new things at this year's fair is an additional ticket booth. Another admission gate at gate 1 will allow for easier access to the fair for those parking on the east side of the grounds near the horse barns, Lang said.

At 1 p.m. Saturday, the fair will hold its first spelling bee at the Devenport Family Stage sponsored by the Washington County Lions clubs. Washington County schools were sent a mailing and asked to send one representative from grades five through eight. Thirty schools responded, Lang said. The winner receives $100.

"I think it's a good start for the first time we did it," Lang said.

Another new attraction this year is a cheese sculpture. On Thursday, fair goers may check out the work in progress in the Pavilion and then bid on it at the livestock auction that night. What the sculpture will be remains a mystery.

In advertising news, Bob Fish GMC upgraded from a day sponsor to overall presenter of fair, Lang said. So the fair is known as the Washington County Fair presented by Bob Fish GMC.

Gates open at 5 p.m. on Tuesday with a reduced admission price of $3. The Fairest of the Fair will be crowned beginning at 6 p.m. in the Farm Progress Arena, the 10th annual Battle of the Bands will be held at 5:30 in the Entertainment Tent, and a fireworks display begins around 8:30 p.m.

Gates open at 9 a.m. the rest of the week. Wednesday and Sunday's admission is $7 for teens and adults, $3 for children ages 9-12. Thursday-Saturday admission is the same until 3 p.m. After 3, teen and adult tickets cost $12.

Wednesday's highlights include pot belly pig judging at 1 p.m., the annual lip sync contest at 6 p.m. at the Devenport Family Stage and the farm tractor pull at 7 p.m. at the Main Stage.

Country act Little Big Town with special guest Julianne Hough take the Main Stage on Thursday at 6:30 p.m.

On Friday, the first round of the rooster crowing contest kicks off at 10 a.m. in the Small Animal Barn, and 1980's rockers Cinderella, Dokken and Jackyl take the Main Stage at 6:30 p.m.

The cat show runs from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Pavilion.

Hilarity ensues on Saturday as mortified llamas take to the Farm Progress Arena for the annual llama costume show at 4:30 p.m. Fairest of the Hares begins at 6:30 in the Small Animal Barn, and the Moo-Trials run from 4-7 p.m. in Ag Adventure Land. Main Stage entertainment starts at 5:30 p.m. and includes Kenny Loggins, Dennis DeYoung with the music of Styx and Starship starring Mickey Thomas.

Sunday's highlights include the rabbit hopping contest at 10 a.m. in the Small Animal Barn, followed by the rooster crowing contest finals at noon. The best of the fair goes on display at noon in the Farm Progress Arena with the livestock parade of champions. The annual truck pull starts at 2:30 p.m. at the Main Stage.

4-H members show off modeling skills

Fair-goers are invited to celebrate with 4-Hers as they exhibit their sewing and modeling skills at this year's 4-H Style Show. 2010 4-H Clothing Revue participants will show off their fashions at this year's Washington County Fair on July 21st beginning at 6 pm on the Pavilion stage. All members were judged in May and those receiving blue ribbons were eligible for judge's choice awards. A first-year clothing 4-H member will receive the Anna Lhotka Memorial Award. The Teep Choice Awards are selected by the participants. Both awards are kept secret until the style show announcements are made.

4-H clothing members construct garments for this event, but judging concentration is less on garment construction than on the selection of pattern, fabric, accessories, and how the garment looks on the individual. Of course the garment construction must provide the right "fit" to prevent wrinkles in the wrong places and assure that the garment is not too small or too large.

Becky Gutzman judged this year's event. Marilyn Nadelhoffer and Susan Jahn, 4-H volunteers and Marma McIntee, Family Living Educator organized the event. Two older youth are selected to represent Washington County at the Wisconsin State Fair Clothing Revue in August. The 2010 State Fair delegates are Cassie Mayer of the Hi-Lite Happy Workers 4-H club and Vanessa Schellinger of Bender Badgers 4-H club. State Fair Alternates are Holly Troeller of the Hi-Lite Happy Workers 4-H club and Elorine Klockow of Jackson Explorers 4-H Club.

Other 4-H members participating included Alexandria Wand of Thompson Irish Settlers 4-H club; Ashley and Mariah Mihm of Hartford Helping Hands 4-H club; Kim Reinders, Emily Schulz, and Jacque Simays of Hi-Lite Happy Workers 4-H club; Alyssa Frey of the Good Luck 4-H club; Katie Martin of Badger Boosters 4-H club; Jillian Bingen, and Kayli Thull of Wayne Crusaders 4-H club; Amanda MacDonald of Bender Badgers 4-H club; and Olivia McClain of Myraneers 4-H club.

Congratulations to all for doing such a great job!

Raising animals is a family affair

By Mitch Maersch

mitch@kewaskumstatesman.com

The few minutes fair goes spend looking at the animals at the Washington County Fair is nowhere near indicative of the time it took the creatures to get there.

For Kewaskum's Hunter Flanders, who regularly wins top honors for his steers, work begins in October with the choosing of a steer.

Once it's home - for Flanders that means his great-grandmother's farm 10 minutes from his - he has to halter break the animal "so it gets used to you and it's not wild. It has to be able to trust you."

In winter, Flanders feeds his steer twice per day. In spring, he brushes it three to four hours per day to get out the old hair. The main work, he said, starts in June.

Flanders moves the steer into an air-conditioned room so it will grow hair and look impressive for judges. He washes the steer at 6 a.m., then puts it in the "cooler" kept at 55 degrees, combs it for an hour and uses a big hair dryer to take out all the water, "a good two hours of work."

During the day, he stops by to make sure the animals have food and water.

At night, the bathing process repeats itself and the steer is kept outside over night.

"So it's a lot of work," said Carey Flanders, Hunters' mother. "He never went out for baseball because you can't do both. He's given a lot up for this but he's done well with it." Fair week makes all the commitment worth it.

"The big thing is the excitement at the fair, all my friends," Hunter said. "All the hard work's been paying off and this is the week you've been thinking about all the hard work you've been doing and the excitement of the fair." In the past six years, Flanders won grand champion once and reserve champion three times. He knows what it takes to show an award winner.

"Mainly it's where you pick out the steer from. You have to pick out a right one from the start," he said.

Flanders picks out a wide top that allows more capacity for meat. He can tell how a calf will mature, but there's more to it than size. It has to walk correctly and be a nice-looking animal, he said.

From there, it's in the exhibitor's hands.

"You could spend all the money you want on an animal but if you don't put the work" it doesn't matter, he said.

Flanders sells his steers at the annual livestock auction and uses the proceeds to pay his family back for feed, supplies and electricity.

"I could never do it without my family's help," he said.

The rest goes into the bank for college. The high school sophomore wants to become a teacher or chiropractor.

If you see him at the fair, wish Flanders a happy birthday. He turns 16 on Wednesday.

Carey's other son, Keaton, 12, shows several animals including the champion rate of gain chicken four years in a row. His heaviest was 13.5 pounds.

This year, Keaton is showing chickens, three ducks and one goose.

Hunter and Keaton's great uncle, Perry Etta, used to show steers. He lives next to their great-grandmother's farm. Carey used to show sheep.

"It's been a big tradition in our family for years and years and years," Carey said.

So has leaving soon after. As soon as the fair is over, the family heads up north for two weeks to squeeze in a vacation before Hunter starts football.

Fairest of the Fair contestants

Alexandra Boden: The daughter of Peter and Nancy Boden, Alexandra is a 2008 graduate of Slinger High School. Currently, she works as an assistant teacher in the four year old kindergarten room at the Kiddie Kampus Day Care. Alexandra is heavily involved in community activities having participated in M&I Bank Community Day, Bowling with Big Brothers Big Sisters, Washington County Christmas Open House, and Pioneer Kids Days. She's also been heavily involved in 4-H throughout her life. As a member of the St. Lawrence Eager Beavers 4-H club, Alexandra took part in the many of club's activities; as an adult she has continued working with 4-H as the general leader for the Hartford Helping Hands 4-H club. Alexandra believes being Fairest of the Fair "means to be a strong representative of Washington County and to be a good role model to community members not only the youth but others as well."

Teresa Dietenberger: Teresa is the daughter of Eugene and Marianne Dietenberger of Hartford and is a veterinary technician core student at Moraine Park Technical College. As a 4-H member Teresa has been an exhibitor, assistant, and food stand worker at the Washington County Fair. She has also taken part in the Washington County 4-H Leaders Board, Washington County 4-H Ambassador Board, and St. Killian Work Camp. In the future Teresa hopes to graduate from MPTC and pass her national certification exam to become a certified veterinary technician. She also hopes to move out west to work with large animals. "I feel that being Washington County's Fairest of the Fair is being able to not only represent the county fair, but the entire county and everything that makes it so great and has to offer. Being Fairest of the Fair [would] provide me an opportunity to be a role model to all youth involved in 4-H."

Kaylyn Krebs: Kaylyn is a 2008 graduate of Hartford Union High School and is currently a sophomore at St. Norbert College. She is the daughter of Russel and Sheilah Krebs. While at St. Norbert Kaylyn works as an M3C AmeriCorps Intern where she leads a group of ten, first-year students and two, second-year student mentors on their journey to completing 300 hours of community service in the current calendar year. Also at St. Norbert Kaylyn has participated in Relay for Life, Step it Up, St. Norbert Concert Band, Residence Hall Association, Madeline-Loriane Hall Council, Inter-Residential Olympics, and has received the 2010 Norbertine Leadership and Service Student Life Award. Kaylyn has been actively involved in 4-H and has participated in the Washington County Fair, Celebrate Families, and Breakfast on the Farm. Kaylyn believes that "Being Fairest of the Fair is being a representative of not only the tradition of what the fair has been in the past, or what the fair is now, but of what the fair will become in the years to come."

Julie Martin: Julie is a Rubicon native who is currently a senior at the University of Wisconsin-Madison where she is actively involved in both campus and community events. At UW-Madison Julie has been involved with Habitat for Humanity, the Wisconsin Association of Volunteers, the Association of Women for Agriculture, F.H King Students for Sustainable Agriculture, Saddle & Sirloin, Collegiate FFA, and the National Agri-Marketing Association. Julie has also been actively involved with the Washington County Fair predominantly through the dairy project with the Hartford FFA. In the future Julie hopes to become a successful business woman within the agricultural marketing and communications career field. "As a citizen of Washington County, I want to give back to the county that has given me so much. Serving as Fairest of the Fair would be a great step forward in helping me achieve these goals."

Noelle Reinke: Noelle of Richfield is the daughter of Todd and Vicki Reinke. She is very involved in 4-H where she acts as the vice president of her club. Through 4-H Noelle shows horses at the fair and enters projects in the junior class. In addition to 4-H, Noelle also participates in many community service activities. Currently she works at Weix Farm where she tends horses and helps with the general farm upkeep. In the future she wants to go to college, earn a business degree, and manage a horse farm. Noelle believe that being Fairest of the Fair means "to be in charge of promoting attendance and participation at the fair."

From the desk of the Fair Manager...

As seasons change, so do fairgrounds as they are magically transformed into short-lived wonderlands each year. For just a few days each year, amazing opportunities are lurking through the gates. For 6 great summer days, amazing opportunities await. Everyone in the community is invited to participate, compete, congratulate, ogle, play and make memories. The Fair is a place for all ages to enjoy.

It takes a community full of heart, valuing tradition and pulling together to bring all the pieces together year after year to make a fair a success. Keeping this tradition alive is a lot of work.

There are tough decisions to be made by the Fair Board... how do we keep sponsors motivated; where can the budget be cut or stretched; where do we find those most important volunteers that keep the fair's gears rolling and which entertainment will give us the best bang for our buck.

Volunteers give their time to this tradition. It is their opportunity to give of their talents. Each and every volunteer is priceless.

Fair atmosphere is unique. Families are on a mini-vacation from reality. Fairgoers enjoy the once a year funnel cake or cotton candy. Friendships rekindle on the benches in the shade of familiar trees. Memories of experiences at the County Fair with friends and family are held dear. Sights, sounds and smells are forever embedded in memories. Through the cycle of life, the younger generations are encouraged to get involved and thus, create new memories.

I enjoy the tradition of my daily visits with fair patrons, concert fans and various food vendors. I enjoy the extremely rewarding stops in the animal barns, visiting with the exhibitors. There is nothing better than seeing that judge give direction to the young exhibitor, hopefully guiding them to their future.

A Fair is a business with a lot of great people where everyone comes together to create something unique. It gives opportunities for all members of our community, young and old, to showcase their talents and achievements.

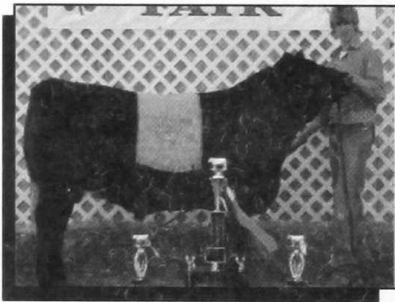

Every Fair has a story. Ours is family tradition. I think tradition is the magic word. There is a blue ribbon tradition; a specialty food tradition; a community-oneness tradition; a sharing the magic tradition.

This is why I do what I do...

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of ROBERT "GABBY" GAVIN, who passed away 15 years ago, July 20, 1995.

To the living, I am gone.
To the sorrowful, I will never return
To the angry, I was cheated
But to the happy, I am at peace
And to the faithful, I have never left.
I can not speak, but I can listen.
I can not be seen, but I can be heard.

So as you stand upon a shore
Gazing at a beautiful sea-
As you look upon a flower
And admire it's simplicity-
Remember me.
Remember me in your heart,
Your thoughts, and your memories.

Of the times we loved,
The times we cried,
The times we fought,
The times we laughed.
For if you always think of me,
I will never have gone.

*We love you and miss you,
Mom & family*

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of RAY KLUG, who passed away 35 years ago, July 18, 1975.

As years roll on
And days pass by.

A memory is kept,
Of one we loved
And will never forget.

25 Years Ago

May 24, 1985

Retiring Kewaskum School District teachers, Earl Buswell, Harold Doss, Mrs. Jean Backhaus Moe, and Mrs. Iona Schmidt were guests of honor during a reception held last Wednesday in the high school library.

On Monday, May 27, Memorial Day will be observed nationally. In honor of the 60 Kewaskum young men and women who served their country during World War II, a large billboard honor roll was posted on the former H.J. Lay Lumber Company property on Main Street (now the site of the village community parking lot, across from Grand Larsony, Tan-talizer, B&B Productions, Art Central and The Scrapnook) during the war, listing the names of the 60 servicemen and women. The sign as seen in the Memories column during this week was in the shape of a huge V and had a wooden banner across that read Village of Kewaskum. In the center of the giant V was a placard that read: HONOR ROLL Proudly We Pay Tribute to Those Who Answered the Call to the Colors. The 60 names were listed on both sides of the V. Twelve of the men lost their lives in the war, namely Delbert R. Backhaus, Raymond Budenhagen, Hilary Justman, Lester Kuehl, Raymond Rosbeck, Robert J. Rosenheimer, Walter E. Werner, Sylvester H. Harter, Walter F. Kohn, Allen C. Mertes, Lester Uelman and Robert G. Romaine, who was the first young man from Kewaskum to lose his life, after whom the local American Legion Post was named.

For only the third time in 30 years, the Lakeland College "Athlete of the Year" award has been won by a woman athlete, namely Julie Koepke of Kewaskum, a three-sport letterwinner as a freshman. It is the first time that a freshman woman athlete has received the award.

100 Years Ago

June 11, 1910

William Klein of New Fane, who has been to Milwaukee to have his eye treated which he had injured in a dynamite explosion, returned here Monday to make his home with his brother, Hubert, and family in the Town of Kewaskum. Mr. Klein is getting along fairly well but has not yet regained the sight of his only eye that he has left.

The St. John's congregation will celebrate their 50th jubilee in the near future. It is 50 years that the church in New Fane stands.

A barn dance was held at William Schaefer's place in the Town of Barton Monday evening. A large crowd was in attendance. Honeck's concertina band furnished the music.

Joseph Schlosser had a new soda fountain placed in his restaurant and confectionery store and is now prepared to serve all kinds of ice cream sodas and soft drinks.

The local fire department reported for practice Monday evening to try the fire pump at the mill.

A ten pound baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Hausmann last Tuesday.

June 18, 1910

High School commencement exercises were held at Groeschels Opera House last Friday evening. The following classmates received their diplomas: Olive Oppenorth, Martha Staats, Joseph Corbett, Olive Haug, John Schmidt, Herman Krueger, Edna Guth, Adela Dahlke, and Lillian Kocher.

The picnic and dance given by the Swiss Military Band of Milwaukee at the North Side Park last Sunday was well attended, especially in the evening. The crowd was composed most of the people from this vicinity. Only about 50 people, including the band, came out of Milwaukee.

Peter Brodzeller returned from the northern part of the state last week where he bought a 240 acre farm near Plainfield for $6,000. He exchanged his Campbellsport property as part payment. The Campbellsport property was figured at $3,000 in the deal.

Charles Groeschel, proprietor of the South Side Park, has engaged the Gibson Harp Orchestra to furnish music for a dance in his hall on July 31.

Several of the young people enjoyed a potato and marshmallow roast at the North Side Park Monday evening.

June 25, 1910

Mrs. Arthur Kraetsch of the Town of Farmington, 1/2 mile north of the village of Fillmore, was fatally burned by the explosion of a can of wood alcohol which she was using in starting her oil stove. Mrs. Kraetsch came home late and was hurrying to get supper ready. She filled a cup on the oil stove with alcohol and lit it but failed to set the can away which exploded, scattering the alcohol all over her clothes and enveloping her in flames. She rushed out of the house and met her husband who had just returned from the store. Mr. Kraetsch at once, began to tear the burning clothes from her body but she had already been so badly burned that she died at midnight.

Julius Urban, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Urban of this village, had the misfortune of breaking his leg below the knee Tuesday afternoon. Julius was loading some butter onto a wagon at the local creamery and in trying to prevent a tub from falling from the load, he slipped and fell from the wagon. In falling, his leg caught in the wheel of the wagon and broke it between the ankle and knee.

The thermometer showed 94 and 96 degrees in the shade Wednesday in St. Kilian.

A.G. Koch had electric lights installed in his residence last week.

On Monday, July 4, a grand picnic and ball will be held at the North Side Park with a brilliant display of fireworks in the evening. Music will be by the Kewaskum Quintette.

An eight pound baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Herman Meilahn last Saturday.

TOWN OF AUBURN TOWN BOARD MEETING NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Town of Farmington Zoning Board of Appeals will conduct a hearing for an appeal filed by Gordon and Kathy Michaels in July of 2008. The hearing will be held at 3:30 pm on August 4, 2010, at the Farmington Town Hall, 9422 Hwy 144 located in Boltonville.

As I remember.....

By Marvin Martin

The following is the continuation of an article written from the memories of the late Marvin Martin, a lifelong resident of the Village of Kewaskum, entitled, "As I Remember." Marvin has since passed away and we came across it among the pages of our archives. We thought many residents would like to read this story once again and was worthy of reprinting for another generation of Kewaskum residents.

The track was not done until after our second school building was built, and there was no formal football. We did play football of sorts, but never really had enough players to make up a team and didn't know enough about the game to play it. What we played was more or less a tag type football game.

Later on, we had several automobile dealers. The first one, A.A. Perschbacher, was located to the north of the Miller Furniture Store. The Overland was sold by John Schaefer, whose dealership was two doors south of Main St. in the area of the Historical Center. Mr. Schaefer later went into plumbing and trucking.

William Schaub was where DTS Transmissions (across the street from Herriges Oil) is now located. That was the Essex Garage, which later became Honeck Chevrolet. George Kippenhan had the Studebaker dealership which was in the area of what is now Kewaskum Mobil at the corner of Clinton Street and Fond du Lac Avenue. Mr. Kippenhan was also the distributor of Storks Beer of Slinger.

We saw automobiles very rarely and it was probably in the late teens that we actually had any in the village.

It has been said the first settlers in Washington County was in the 1600s. Washington and Ozaukee counties had one county seat which was moved between West Bend and Port Washington. The records were in Port Washington. A group of West Bend businessmen were there one night and brought them to Washington County where they have remained ever since.

Kewaskum was first known as North Bend, and the area near the east side of the river, where most of our village was at that time, decided they would like to be called North Bend Center. This was in the mid 1840s and they finally persuaded the town fathers to use this name. In 1895 the name was changed to Kewaskum after an Indian Chief who camped in this area.

In 1878 the railroad came through and moved the village more to the west.

I was born June 7, 1907 and these are my memories. I saw the scars of two brick factories which were no longer in operation. The Miller Brick Factory was on the northern edge of Kewaskum between Highway 45 and the railroad track. You can see the flat level of the land with the creek running through it. The other was the Buss Brick Factory which made bricks and ornamental clay products. This was located where what we now know as Riverview Dr.

We had three doctors, two dentists, three veterinarians, 13 taverns, four blacksmith shops, three grocery stores, two barbers, four churches, two millinery shops, two furniture stores, two shoe shops, a flour mill, two grain elevators (Koch and Rosenheimer), a malt house and three schools (public, St. Lucas Evangelical Lutheran and Holy Trinity Catholic.

My home was at 501 Main St. Going east from there, our next door neighbor was a book and candy store, at which the children often times, would stop on their way to school.

The next building was owned by a woman who kept boarders, primarily school teachers. There was one more building on that street, and that was the end of the street. Directly to the north of my home, on the northeast corner of Riverview Dr. and Main St., was the Val Dreher Cigar Shop and home.

Directly east of that was an open spot and then a blacksmith shop, which closed quite early.

The grade school and high school were located on the northeast corner of Main and Stark Streets, and the St. Lucas and Holy Trinity cemeteries were beyond that point. At the east edge of Holy Trinity cemetery, there was a road going south known as Slaughterhouse Road. At the end of that road was the Stellpflug Slaughterhouse where slaughtering of animals was done.

From 501 south on Riverview Dr., on the east end of the street, the next building to the south was the Kean Shoe Shop and next door to that was the Odd Fellows Hall.

At the top of the hill which would now lead you to Hon-E-Kor Golf & Country Club was a gate on the east side of the road and another gate on the west side of the road that went into South Side Park. South Side Park had a dance hall which had a swaying floor and when people danced it looked like waves on the floor. The dance hall had a bar and facilities to provide meals.

Coming back from South Side Park, on the west side of Riverview Drive, directly across from the Odd Fellows Hall, was the German Methodist Church.

Going north on Riverview Dr., on the east side, the next place was the Opera House. This was a place that had a hall where we had shows, later movies, and was the recreational center of Kewaskum. We played basketball there.

Again, starting out from Main St., going north on Riverview Dr., was an ice house and a stable for horses. Most of the taverns or saloons, as they were called in those days, had a place to put up horses while people shopped, etc.

The flour mill was located between Riverview Dr. and the river on Main St. There was an area between Main St. and the Mill where people could go into the river and out again on the other side. They did this with their wagons so they could tighten up the irons on the wagon wheels.

On the northeast side of the bridge, before you got to the river, there was a water tower. This was used for watering the streets and washing the ice. Directly across the street was a store which was already closed in my time. This is in the area where pump house #2 is now located (along the Milwaukee River).

Going west on Main St., after crossing the bridge, the first building was the Stark Blacksmith Shop. Next there was a long building that was used for a wagon shop and later as a pocketbook factory.

On the southeast corner of Parkview and Main Streets, was the Dr. Driessel residence and hospital. Directly across the street, going west was a scale at which the farmers would stop to weigh their full wagons and again their empty wagons. Next to that was the Schaefer Tavern.

Next was the Koch building (where LK Heating is now located). It was a grocery store and both the east and west side of the building were used for the post office at one time or another. The Koch Implement Store was located where the post office now stands.

Continuing west, we have Holy Trinity Catholic Church and school. Just beyond that was a private home and dentist office which is now home to Hair on Main.

The next building was used in different ways. It was used as a bakery shop. Next door was a tavern (now Nutty Squirrel) and between the tavern and village hall (now Smith Insurance) was a jewelry store which later became a tailor shop. These buildings are now long gone and the tavern parking lot has since taken its place.

The first Village Hall also housed the fire department and the upstairs was used as an exercise room (had dumbbells, exercise bar, etc.). About 1913 the library was started in the upstairs of the building by the Kewaskum Women's Club. Next was a flagman and gate tender building at the railroad crossing.

Crossing the tracks, the first building was a bank building which was used as a post office. I never knew it as a bank, but on the steps, it said "bank." Later on this became the IGA Store. The next building housed the Marx Grocery Store, the telephone office and the Marx tavern this building is now Players Bar.

Next was a barber shop and then a furniture store. The upstairs was used as a dance hall at one time (this was before becoming a furniture store). The next building was a millinery shop (now Art Central). Where The Scrap Nook is located lived a lady who took in boarders.

Next was McLaughlin Meat Market and next to that was another jewelry and piano store. Then came the Republican House (a boarding house where meals were served and a tavern) on the corner, now Victoria's Cornerstone Inn.

Back to the river, on the north side of Main Street, the building right next to the river was used as an office for the mill, and later on the pocketbook factory moved there.

On the east corner of Parkview Dr. was a barber shop and next was a home and then a tailor shop. On the northwest corner of that street was the Bilgo home, then an open lot, the Miller Pharmacy which later became a picture studio and appliance store. Directly west was a furniture store, which burned down and was replaced by a home.

Continuing, the next place was the tin shop, later used for a shoe shop and a flower shop. This has also been destroyed by fire. On the northwest corner of Peace Church parking lot was Joe Eberle's tavern and bowling alley (two lanes). This was known as Eberle's Alleys.

Next, on the west side of that alley was Gary Wright's Paint Shop. He was an artist and painted wagons and other decorative things. It later became a shoe shop and now is home to Michaeleno's Pizza.

Next was the Ziegler Tavern which later became an electric store and then was the Gambles' Store. This is now home to The Statesman.

Then came the Mayer Shoe Shop, followed by a home and the telephone office (Candy Tree). Then another home.

The Hepp Building is next. It was a shoe shop, later a delicatessen and eventually became the post office. The building next to that (Jaeger Sewing) was the Stellpflug Market and next to that was the Central Hotel which was later the Barrel Haus tavern which was destroyed by fire in 1992. Once razed, Timblin Trucking built a new office building and Prairie Gardens Realty now occupies the space. A bakery shop was on the east side of the Central Hotel.

Crossing the street and going down the line was the Lay Lumber yard and just beyond that was the Bank of Kewaskum. These buildings now make up the downtown parking lot, but prior to that was home to Geidel's Sentry grocery store that has since also been razed.

There was a tavern on the northeast corner of Fond du Lac Ave. with horse barns. This later became a drug store and pharmacy (now Coffee Corner).

Coming back to Parkview, the only building on the north side of Parkview was St. Lucas Evangelical Lutheran Church, school and parsonage.

First St., then known as Wilhelmina St., from Parkview going west was Bilgo Ln. This was used for moving cattle to and from the fields to the barn which was on Parkview. The entire residential area that also is home to the Kewaskum Elementary, High and Middle Schools was open fields. The road was also used to go to the McLaughlin Slaughter House which was on the river close to the northeast corner of what is now Regal Ware's main office.

Then there was a sawmill on the west side of Bilgo Ln. and to the south of this was the United Church of Christ.

On the north side of First St., and just slightly northwest of the church was the Rimmel Foundry where casting was done once or twice a week. The Rimmel Manufacturing Company was situated on the southwest corner of Railroad and First Streets. This is now an apartment complex. A dairy was where Engelhardt & Sons is now located. Prior to that, Kemps was located there.

On the northwest corner of First St. and Fond du Lac Ave. was a harness shop owned by Val Peters. Where the former Regal Ware factory was North Side Park. This had a dance hall, a cook shack and a bandstand. Excursions were run from Milwaukee to Kewaskum to this park. The train came in the morning and returned in the evening.

Across the track, on the north side of Second St., was the Kewaskum Malt and Grain Company. This was supposed to be the best in the midwest. They manufactured malt. It also was used to generate electricity and provided heat for several businesses in Kewaskum. Directly south of the malt house, on First Street, was the Rosenheimer Mill. Both buildings have since been destroyed.

On the corner of Fond du Lac and Second St. was a tavern. Then proceeding north, the Legion building, which was the Lay home at one time. Just beyond that was Dr. Hausmann's home and a small building housing his office.

On the west side of Fond du Lac Ave., starting south of First Ave., from North Ave., was the Rosenheimer home and continuing southward were several open lots and then the Perschbacher home and the Perschbacher blacksmith shop. This was later the first Chevrolet dealership in Kewaskum.

Next was the Miller building, which was a furniture store and funeral home which burned down but was later rebuilt.

On the south side of Forest Ave. and Fond du Lac Ave. was the Rosenheimer Store and behind that was their implement building. There may have been one or two more buildings after that. This building is now home to The General Store Antique Mall.

Continuing south on Fond du Lac, there were some tall steps leading to the first Statesman newspaper office. Then there was a tavern and next to that was a millinery shop, which later became a barber shop. Next was the Ramthun Hardware and Tin Shop (now Kettle Moraine Electric). He built many tin boats. South there was a tavern and beyond that was a livery barn (where Herriges Oil now stands). Then there was a road leading to the Rosenheimer farm.

Next came Dr. Brunk, who was a veterinarian and the office next door was that of George Brandt Jr., who was the Chief of Police for Kewaskum for many years. Then Dr. Morgen Rothe and that was pretty much it. The village ended at what was known as Minnow Creek. That area is near the Meadow Creek Apartments.

Falcons end Indians' perfect season

Cody Seibel catches a foul ball in left field in the third inning against New Holstein July 9.

By Mitch Maersch

mitch@kewaskumstatesman.com

SHEBOYGAN FALLS - Kewaskum's goal of an undefeated conference season ended Monday night in a dramatic, one-run loss at Sheboygan Falls, but the Indians bounced back in a big way on Tuesday.

Entering Monday, the Indians were undefeated in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference with three games left. No team has gone undefeated in the conference according to records dating back to 1984, and the Indians set this goal before the season started.

They almost pulled it off.

Junior pitcher Devin Christianson held the Indians without a hit until the fifth inning. The team got its patented, late-game rally going in the sixth. This time, though, with the bases loaded and one out, the Indians couldn't plate a run and entered the seventh down 3-1.

The comeback kids loaded the bases again and Coach Doug Gonring called for a suicide squeeze. It scored one run but wasn't quite executed "exactly right" and the game ended at 3-2 and the Indians' winning streak at 17.

"We didn't have our seventh inning magic. It was going to bite us sooner or later if we didn't get some hits," Gonring said. "We just couldn't get that big hit in the seventh inning. We only had three hits. Just the way it goes."

For Kewaskum, Cody Nuernberg allowed one earned run on three hits and three walks. He whiffed eight.

Gonring won't make excuses, but he said the team was missing starting senior outfielders Cody Seibel and Brandon Zolp who were at a football all-star game.

"It did change the psyche of the clubhouse," he said.

The Indians took out their frustration at last-place Two Rivers on Tuesday, sweeping a doubleheader, 11-0 in six innings and 16-1 in five. They finished 17-1 in the EWC and are 26-4 overall.

Sophomore sensation Brad Boegel hit one home run in each game to bring his team-leading total to 15 for the season.

In the first game, Boegel (6-1) got the win. Sam Olla had two hits as the Indians scored five runs each in the fourth and sixth innings.

Michael Schladweiler got the victory in the second game, and Steve Kudek had two hits, including his second homer of the season, doubling last year's total. Schladweiler was 2-for-4 and Boegel was 1-1 and scored four runs.

"I think we had more drive time than we had play time," Gonring said. "We did things correctly throughout the day here. We pitched well. We played very well and fast today."

He was happy to see some life return to the offense, after only garnering three hits in each of the two games before. "The bats weren't alive. Today we changed the image completely," he said.

On Saturday at Milwaukee

Marquette, Kewaskum used its three hits and two groundouts that produced runs in a 3-1 win over one of the top-10 teams in the state.

"It was just fundamental baseball," Gonring said. "Our pitching was just excellent. We held them at bay."

Lucas Kopeschka started and pitched three innings, Schladweiler two and Seibel and Brett Nuernberg one each in holding Marquette to six hits.

Falls ended a magical run for the Indians that included clutch home runs and three wins on consecutive Fridays in the last at-bat, 16-15 over Falls on June 25, 5-3 over Plymouth on July 2 and 6-5 over New Holstein on July 9.

Against New Holstein, Kewaskum lacked enthusiasm all game, not even allowing a Cody Nuernberg homer to ignite the bench, and entered the seventh inning down, 5-3. Enter the rabbit-out-of-the-hat trick again.

Olla led off with a walk, Zolp singled and Cody Seibel bunted and the second baseman covering first didn't have his foot on the bag when he took the throw. The bases were loaded with nobody out.

Cody Nuernberg hit a sacrifice fly to make it 5-4 and Boegel popped up to center but the ball was dropped. New Holstein's coach then made his second trip to the mound of the inning which by rule means the pitcher must be pulled. The ump's didn't catch it but Gonring did.

That forced in a new pitcher and silenced a spirited bench and opposing crowd. The new pitcher, a righty, faced Schladweiler, who bats lefty. He hit him to bring in the tying run.

Bo Seibel, who had an RBI single the inning before, did it again. He smacked a line drive to left field for the winning run.

"I knew he was going to come with a fastball. Bases loaded, he's not going to throw it in the dirt," Seibel said.

"I just never gave up when I played and I don't think I can allow the kids to give up until the last out is secured," Gonring said.

Against Plymouth on July 2, Boegel blew a 3-0 lead in the seventh inning but dominated in extras and won his own game in the 10th with a two-run blast to left field.

"I made sure I timed him up before I got up to the plate during warm-ups. I looked fastball and hit it," he said.

It served as redemption after blowing the lead.

"Never keep your head down. Just always keep it up. There's always more chances. I wasn't about to give up on the mound," Boegel said.

Schladweiler started and went four-plus innings and allowed no runs on five hits and three walks while striking out three. With two men on in the fifth, Boegel came in and dominated most of the rest of the way, aside from the seventh. He allowed three runs on five hits, whiffing 14 and walking one.

Kewaskum clinched sole possession of the conference title on July 8 in a 7-3 win over Campbellsport. Per usual, the Indians scored three runs in the sixth, turning a close game into a more comfortable lead. Olla was 3-for-4 with a double, Cody Nuernberg 2-for-4 with a double and Cody Seibel 2-for-4.

Kewaskum old timers plan reunion

KEWASKUM- Kewaskum baseball alumni will meet for their annual reunion/game on Saturday, July 31 at Kewaskum Kiwanis Park.

Organizer Ron Theusch says even if former players of the various leagues aren't interested in playing, they are invited to the reunion for fun and camaraderie.

Those interested in an over 50 game, at a relaxed

Schladweiler allowed two runs in five innings. Cody Seibel and Kopeschka each pitched one inning in relief.

On July 6 against Oostburg, Kewaskum racked up 12 hits in a 16-0, five-inning win. Kudek hit a two-run home run to left field, Boegel had three hits and two RBIs, Cody Nuernberg went 2-for-3 with four RBIs and Cody Seibel 1-for-2 with a double and three RBIs. Some newcomers got into the act as Trevor Kohn was 2-for-4 with an RBI - his first two varsity hits - and Joey Wollner got his first varsity hit.

Kopeschka pitched the first two innings and allowed four hits and no walks while whiffing one. Brett Nuernberg pitched the final three, allowing no hits and one walk while whiffing seven.

Against Nicolet on July 3, Kewaskum dominated, 16-2, in five innings. Boegel hit a home run on the first pitch he saw - the second in two straight pitches going back to the game before - and Cody Nuernberg hit a home run for one of his two hits and had four RBIs. He pitched four innings and allowed five walks while striking out three. Brett pitched the fifth.

Kewaskum plays at Port Washington on Friday in its final regular season game. The Indians, seeded No. 2 in the sectional, don't play again until July 23 at Random Lake. A Tuesday game against Cedar Grove-Belgium was canceled because the Rockets dropped out of the season due to not enough players. Two wins at Random Lake and the Indians head to the state tournament in Stevens Point.

pace are to be in the park by noon for batting practice. The game will begin at 1:30 p.m. Another game will follow for all ages immediately following the over 50 game.

Food and refreshments will be served all day.

WIAA makes changes to basketball divisions

By Mitch Maersch

mitch@kewaskumstatesman.com

Basketball season will be run a little differently this year after the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association (WIAA) Board of Control approved a couple of changes last month.

The board approved switching to five divisions in basketball to "create greater enrollment balance within divisions."

Division 1 will have schools with 1,200 or more students and Division 2 will cover schools with 600 to 1,200.

Divisions 3 and 4 will cover enrollments from 200 to 600, with the larger half in Division 3 and the smaller half in Division

4. Division 5 will cover schools with less than 200.

"We have always been a solid Division 2 school before. Now we may be a smaller Division 2, to possibly a Division 3 school, depending on how our enrollment changes," said Kewaskum Athletic Director Jason Piittmann.

Another change to basketball includes each division bringing four teams to the state tournament. In the past, Division 1 brought eight teams and divisions 2, 3 and 4 four each. Now, each will bring four.

"Wisconsin was one of a very small minority of states to have more state teams from one division compared to the others," Piittmann said.
