New State Treasurer, Eden's Schuller, tightening Wisconsin's belt

By Sue Mroz
Statesman Correspondent

Village of Eden resident Kurt Schuller, 55, Wisconsin's new State Treasurer, is making history for the state.

He believes he is the first Wisconsin Treasurer to have run for the office in the hopes of eliminating the position. The son of Wolfgang Carl and Arline June Schuller, he believes that by abolishing his office and that of the Secretary of State, taxpayers could save several million dollars.

His contention supports the findings of Wisconsin Representative Scott Suder (R), Abbotsford, who in 2003 introduced a proposed amendment to eliminate the Secretary of State and State Treasurer's offices.

"The position of Treasurer is a needless waste of our state's financial resources," Schuller affirmed. "My pledge to the people of Wisconsin is to work with the new Republican Governor [Scott Walker] and the State Legislature to pass a constitutional amendment to remove the elected positions of both the Treasurer and Secretary of State."

Schuller pointed out that passage of the proposed amendment would take four years, because it would require adoption by two successive legislatures and ratification by voter referendum, before becoming law.

Suder's proposed amendment refers to both the offices of State Treasurer and Secretary of State as "ceremonial" and "functionless." Passage of his proposed amendment would transfer the limited duties of both offices to the Department of Administration.

"It makes no sense for taxpayers to maintain functionless state offices," Suder wrote. "State government will certainly not come to a screeching halt without either office."

The current salary for both positions is about $68,000.

Schuller noted that under Suder's proposal, the State Treasurer's and the Secretary of State's duties of serving on the Board of Commissioners of Public Lands would be abolished by the amendment. The board requires three constituent officers. The amendment presently being drafted would replace the two offices eliminated with the Lieutenant Governor and Superintendent of Public Instruction.

A self-proclaimed "staunch conservative," Schuller discovered Suder's proposed amendment last fall, while he was considering a candidacy for the State Treasurer's position.

"This was a light bulb moment," Schuller said. "I agree with Rep. Suder. We are mired in a tax-and-spend, over-bloated and out-of-control government here in Wisconsin, that is no longer the consent of the governed. The Tea Party movement has inspired average taxpayers to change the government both from within and from the grassroots. With the mood of the electorate that the government was no longer listening to them, I thought this was an idea that would resonate with the voters."

Schuller attended a Tea Party rally this past Sept. 21 on Milwaukee's lakefront. That rally was the catalyst for him to run for office.

Upon researching various political positions, "I decided to run for the office of Treasurer after coming across Suder's proposed amendment and also realizing that the treasurer's office is a low-profile office and would not require a lot of money for a campaign," he said.

He had another reason to seek the Treasurer's position. He was deeply dissatisfied with two issues he termed "egregious," regarding the office of the former Wisconsin Treasurer, Dawn Marie Sass.

"It involved the political partisan hiring of Megan Perkins to a Civil Service position," Schuller explained. Perkins, a former aide to former First Lady Jessica Doyle, was hired as Sass' political aide and then as Director of EdVest, the state's college savings program, allowing parents to open tax-free savings accounts for their children's higher education.

Schuller pointed out that John Lease, Sass' Deputy, a former aide to former Governor Jim Doyle and Lt. Gov. Barbara Lawton, rewrote the job description to fit Perkins' background. "Civil Service positions should be free of politically motivated considerations," Schuller affirmed.

Schuller also read articles in 2008 and 09 editions of the Wisconsin State Journal, regarding politically motivated hires in Sass' office. The articles pointed out that Perkins was selected over a field of qualified applicants that included an asset manager, a tax lawyer, an estate planner and EdVest's

Village non-union employees get raises in re-vote

By Mitch Maersch
Statesman Correspondent

Village non-union employees are getting raises and step increases after all.

The Village Board on Monday after a contentious debate voted 4-3 to give the non-union employees a 1 percent raise on Jan. 1 and another 1 percent on July 1, one month after they were frozen on a 4-3 vote.

Step increases were made retroactive to 2009 when they were frozen.

The total cost of the raise package is $21,535 and was already in the 2011 budget when the board approved it last month.

Voting for the raise package were Harry Roecker, Norman Kufahl, Tom Piwoni and Village President Andrew Pesch. Voting against were the newest members of the board, Craig Garbisch and Mike Berger, elected in spring 2010, and Jim Hovland, elected in spring 2009.

Before that motion, Hovland moved to resume step increases in 2011 but not make them retroactive to 2009 and to not give raises. That motion failed, 5-2. He and Berger were the yes votes.

Last month, the board voted 4-3 to freeze pay and step increases. Voting against were Pesch, Piwoni and Kufahl.

Roecker said he requested the issue be brought back to the board because he called December's vote to freeze raises and step increases was a "hasty decision" as that was the first time the issue was on an agenda. He compared it to the issue the Village has with the Town of Kewaskum on easements that the board tabled on Monday to take time to read detailed material and better understand it before making an "important decision."

According to the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, a member of December's majority vote had to bring the issue back for discussion and possible action. Roecker was that member, and it required a majority vote to again put the issue up for discussion and possible action.

Village Administrator Mathew Heiser, one of the nine non-union village employees, argued that step increases were offered as a condition of employment to village staff barring a performance problem, which hasn't happened. Step increases had already been frozen since 2009 while unions never had them frozen.

Non-union employees also had their salaries frozen in 2009 and 2010. Union employees received a split 2-percent raise in 2009 (2 percent in January and 2 percent in July) as the second year of a two-year contract. In 2010, salaries were frozen but in 2011 union employees receive a 1 percent raise in January and another 1 percent in July.

"At some point I think it's important to reward employees for the work they do," he said.

Heiser also voiced concern for equity among employees, noting the 1/1 split raise the unions are receiving this year.

Hovland explained his motion to bring back step increases but not raises, citing the economic times. Step increases impact five of the nine non-union employees: administrator, fire chief, building inspector, library director and clerk/deputy treasurer.

"Because we have hard times you're just going to place it on five people?" said Pesch.

"But there are people out there who have been laid off," Hovland said.

Police Chief Richard Knoebel, one of the nine non-union employees, said he understands the wage freeze but not giving step increases could risk losing employees - good employees that could have prevented the tax incremental finance district mess several years ago.

Roecker agreed, and argued for raises as well.

"I believe these guys have done their jobs and deserve their raises," he said. "These are good people and we need them here."

Roecker suggested finding another way to cut the budget. Kufahl said he agreed.

Berger disagreed. "There are a lot of people in this town suffering," he said, mentioning a two-year Social Security freeze.

He said he was voting "not because I don't think these people deserve it but in interest of village residents."

The board in two separate meetings last fall approved two, two-year union contracts.

One was a with the American of State County Municipal Employees (AFSCME) impacting 10 village employees, including department of public works, the wastewater treatment plant crew, water utility, library assistants and one clerical position.

The other was a contract with the Labor Association of Wisconsin, which covers six full-time and two part-time employees of the police department, but not the chief or one office assistant.

Both contracts were discussed in closed session and then approved in open session. Both votes were 4-3, with Roecker, Garbisch and Kufahl voting against.

The contracts include a wage freeze for 2010 and a split raise for 2011. Employees receive a 1 percent raise on Jan. 1 and another 1 percent raise on July 1.

The health insurance plan switches from Anthem to the state plan, with some changes. The health reimbursement account is discontinued, meaning employees now pay their own deductibles. Rates are $500 for single and $1,000 for family.

Deductibles used to be $1,000 for single, $2,000 for employee plus one and $3,000 for family, but the village paid them. Not anymore.

Heiser said the switch results in lower premiums from the village and a lower contribution with a flex plan.

The contracts save the village a combined $75,000 in 2010.

Non-union employees receive the same changes in health insurance coverage.

Kenworthy will not seek re-election, Goodearle missed in Town announcement

Kewaskum Board of Education President, John Kenworthy announced Wednesday that he would not seek another term on the Board of Education. The deadline for candidates to file was extended because Kenworthy missed the deadline. In announcing the candidates for the town of Kewaskum, we missed Glenn Goodearle who will seek a supervisor position.

This leaves the Board of Education with six candidates. Troy Hanson, Timothy Ramthun, Jessica Baker, Sue Ann Miller, James Leister and Andrew Kuehl. A primary is not needed so these six advance to the Spring Election, April 5.

Kenworthy submitted the following for publication on his choosing not to seek re-election:

Dear citizens-

After much deliberation, contemplation and thought, I have chosen not to seek election to a third term as a member of the Kewaskum Board of Education. I am making this decision for the simple reason that I believe I have failed in my quest - as well-intended as it may have been - to help stimulate a thriving academic environment in this wonderful district.

Because I believe so very strongly that public servants should be held accountable for their actions, outcomes and results, I hold myself even more ardently to those selfsame standards of governance. To put it bluntly - I am firing myself.

It is not for want of trying. For six years I have earnestly tried to help inculcate a culture that motivates, enlivens and enhances the academic experience within a fiscally-sound infrastructure that prepares our students for the world in which we live. And there truly have been successes in that regard to be sure.

However...

...recently I have felt that a gaping disconnect has grown between the board, the administration, the staff and ultimately the community at large. In good faith, time and again, the board and myself have raised concerns and made pronouncements regarding various matters such as drifting WKCE and ACT scores, standards-based grading, safety in our schools, and even the Indians mascots. Each time, and for various reasons (individually and infinitely debatable upon their own merits), those changes/suggestions/declarations have not been enacted upon in accordance to what I personally believed to have been clear direction. That being so, I can do no else than to bear my own responsibility for my part in that failure to engage those discussions accordingly.

I know that there are a great number of good people in this district - and in my opinion there are no villains here at all. It has been my cherished honor to serve here. Truly so. I have such respect for so many people who are striving likewise to serve, each in their own way. In today's age it is all too easy to simply say 'no' to those in positions of authority, but it is much more challenging and ultimately life-affirming to say 'yes' in a supportive way that bolsters collaboration and co-operation. My hope is that the new board will take that positive approach.

It is my sincere desire that my not running for re-election will send a clear message to the district that we need to do better. We can do better. And I have faith that we shall. For me personally, I leave with my head held high and my eyes wide open. Which is not to say that I am simply fading away from public service - as the poet William Blake so elegantly stated, "I will not cease from mental fight; nor shall my sword sleep in my hand..." It is merely that a time for change has come, and my fervent hope is that it will be all for the good.

Always for the good...

John Kenworthy

Enchantment in the Park collects 40,000 food items

Over 8,700 vehicles and almost 36,000 visitors enjoyed the true spirit of the Holiday Season by visiting Enchantment in the Park and spreading the gift of giving to hungry families in Washington County.

The primary mission of Enchantment in the Park is to feed the hungry with donations from families who enjoy the enchantment of the holiday light show, The Silver Lining Ice Castle and Santa's Village. This year, visitors to Enchantment donated almost 40,000 non-perishable food items. Non-perishable food items were distributed to six food pantries throughout Washington County: The Full shelf Food Pantry, St Boniface/St. Gabriel Food Pantry, Kewaskum Community Food Pantry, Hartford Food Pantry, Slinger Community Food Pantry, and the Jackson Food pantry.

This year's success came from the continued support of the four Rotary Clubs of Washington County and thousands of volunteer hours to support the event. Over 500,000 LED lights, 30 miles of lights, powered by more than 1,000 extension cords all combined to provide a great holiday experience for Washington County families.

Eden's Schuller sworn in as State Treasurer

Wisconsin's new state treasurer Kurt Schuller of Eden, is sworn into office by Chief Justice Shirley S. Abrahamson during the inauguration ceremony at the Capitol Rotunda on Monday, January 3.

In 2008, Lease admitted to the Wisconsin State Journal that he rewrote the EdVest job description before hiring Perkins, to emphasize management and marketing over expertise in state-sponsored college investment programs. As a result of the newspaper's findings, Perkins submitted her resignation, and Lease later resigned his position.

One of the Treasurer's duties is to maintain custody and records for unclaimed property. Schuller said his second objection to dealings in Sass' office is related to this responsibility.

"There was a crisis in the Treasurer's office with a backlog of unclaimed property," he noted. "During this time, Dawn traveled to a National Treasurers' Conference in Dana Point, Calif.

"Now, there is nothing wrong with attending these conferences, but the fact she did this in spite of the backlog is what I object to," he said. "She should have put her office in order at that time instead."

He provided a personal analogy for this situation. Schuller co-owned and operated

Restaurant in Sussex from 1996-05. "Now, if I opened at 7 a.m., I should have been able to leave at 5 p.m.," he said. "But if there was a line at the door at 5 p.m. and half my staff was sick, I would have stayed there until things were right."

A creative thinker, Schuller has a unique marketing plan for dealing with unclaimed property. He learned about this technique from a former Nebraska Treasurer, Republican Shane Osborn.

"I will have someone in my office compile a map by media markets," he said. "We will identify eye-catching unclaimed-property amounts in those media markets and proactively search them out. I will then visit those individuals at their homes and present them with a check like the Publisher's Clearing House does. Television viewers will then see their surprised reactions."

Schuller also will propose to librarians throughout the state that they designate one computer in their facilities to contain a database of unclaimed property. "There would be a sign at those computers to 'Check here for unclaimed property,'" he said.

His creativity surfaces in another venue -- creative writing. In 2003, he wrote and self-published his first novel titled "Except for these Chains: The Trials and Triumphs of Paul." This paperback is a work of Biblical fiction.

"I wrote it in the cinematic style and it flows like a screenplay," Schuller said. "It is an action and adventure story that is both entertaining and enlightening."

He is halfway toward completing his second novel -- "The Tishbite: The Untold Story of Elijah."

A Milwaukee native and graduate of Concordia College, Mequon, Schuller earned an Associate of Arts degree in management and communications. After leaving Wolfendale's Restaurant in 2005, he was employed by Buffets Inc. He spent 18 months as the service manager of Old Country Buffet in Fond du Lac, and then was service manager for Old Country Buffet in Brown Deer. Last year, he was promoted to kitchen manager there.

After winning the primary election last fall, Schuller resigned from his restaurant position and began campaigning on a full-time basis. He is married to Peggy Hammen Schuller, has two daughters from a previous marriage and three step-children and recently became a grandfather.

Presently, he has work cut out for him and has already rolled up his sleeves and dug in. He plans to fulfill the platform promises he made to voters:

"First and foremost, I will operate and manage the duties of the office of Treasurer in an efficient and fair manner. I will not travel on the taxpayers' dime, hire my friends and relatives, vacation during a crisis, or charge the taxpayers for mileage I am not entitled to. "Second, I will work with the legislature and use of the office of Treasurer to lobby for its elimination.

"Third, I will observe from Madison the behind-the-scenes backroom dealings at the Capitol and bring them out into the light of day through my personal (not state-supported) blog."

When his term is up, Schuller hopes to run for an Assembly or Senate seat. "My goal is to do my best to bring us back to the principles of Lincoln's Gettysburg address -- government of the people, by the people and for the people," he said.

"I think there are a lot of voters today who do not feel that is how our current system is operating, and I want to serve the people of Wisconsin by returning us to those principles."

SLEEPING BEAUTY - a Rock 'n Roll Fable for the ages. This is definitely no sleeper!

Carrie Newcomer in concert at UWWC

WEST BEND - Nationally known folk singer and songwriter, Carrie Newcomer will be performing at UW-Washington County on Friday, January 28 at 7:30pm in the campus theatre. Newcomer plays the guitar and will be accompanied by Gary Walters on the piano.

Describing Newcomer as a singer-songwriter is a little like saying Noah was a boat builder. One of the definite voices of the Heartland, the Indiana native sings of the small joys and pains in life, emphasizing the little moments that are often taken for granted. Overall, she is not afraid to take on serious subjects, and does so with a healthy measure of good humor and self-awareness. For her, "songwriting is not about being clever, flashy or fancy, it is about telling a compelling story in language and music with elegance and clarity."

Her music has been praised in Rolling Stone, The Village Voice, USA Today, The Wall Street Journal, Acoustic Guitar, Performing Songwriter, Paste Magazine and other outlets. The Associated Press noted, "Newcomer combines a rich voice with equally rich lyrics to weave a tapestry of life and hope." She's toured with Alison Krauss and Union State in Europe and the U.S. and recorded the title track of her 2002 The Gathering of Spirits album with Krauss. Her latest release, The Geography of Light is about navigating and exploring the appearance of light and shadow in our lives. In a world that encourages us to move faster and think bigger, Newcomer invites the listener to slow down and reflect on the small things that make life worthwhile.

In addition to playing with Carrie, Gary Walters also performs both solo and with several other jazz ensembles. He recently released a new solo album, Moments in Time, which has been receiving wonderful reviews.

Tickets for this concert are $12 for adults, and $9 for seniors (over 62) or youth (under 18). Free parking is available in the student lot. Reservations are suggested and can be made by phoning the campus at (262) 335-5208 during normal business hours (Monday through Friday from 8am to 4:30pm) or purchase at the door (while supplies last). The University is located at 400 University Drive (off Hwy. 33 West) in West Bend.

Wins just keep piling up for Kewaskum mat quartet

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

KEWASKUM - What accelerated from zero to 400+ in just a short time? No, it's not some kind of new fancy racing car. It's four senior members of Kewaskum's wrestling team who have combined for a current total of 437 victories during their careers.

Brad Bentz, Bo Seibel, Rob Maertz and Jared Koffke are the newest members of the elite 100-win club, and they have at least seven more weeks to build on their totals.

Of the four, Bentz, who started at Laconia High School but transferred to Kewaskum his sophomore year, has the most wins in a single season — 43.

Ironically he set this mark when he was a freshman and finished sixth at 119 pounds at Laconia, finishing 43-7. That mark could have been even better had not there been an incorrect weight written down for Bentz in the conference meet, forcing him to have to wrestle up one weight class for the state series.

"I was rated No. 1 all season (at 112)," Bentz said about the situation.

Bentz also received high acclaim his sophomore season (33-6) when he finished fourth in Division 2, despite having to compete with an injured shoulder in Madison.

Bentz's bad luck continued last season when he injured his shoulder just before the Eastern Wisconsin Conference Tournament in his only loss of the season. Bentz wound up at 24-1 and had to watch from the sidelines as six teammates advanced to the state.

Everything is progressing just fine this winter, however, as Bentz is 19-1 with a perfect mark in the EWC and a Marty Loy title to his credit.

His goals. "From this point on, obviously trying to win state," the muscular senior said, and beyond that, he's keeping the door open to wrestle collegiately.

"I'm probably going to end up at Oshkosh to wrestle for Scott (Rhoads, Kewaskum's only two-time state champion who is an assistant coach at Oshkosh)," he said.

And Bentz's all-time favorite win? "That would probably be Oshkosh (finals) last year," Bentz, said, referring to his 5-2 win over Jordan Rooso of Mosinee.

Bentz said wrestling is a perfect fit for him because, "You have to work hard and be disciplined. Not everyone can do that."

Koffke qualified for the state tournament his freshman and junior seasons, helping him toward the 89-win mark to start this year. Tack on 17 more wins this year, and his total stands at 106.

Koffke's history in the sport began as a kindergartner, and he said, "I started wrestling with the West Bend Wildcats."

What sparked his interest in the sport was, "My family was always into wrestling," plus, he enjoys the "adrenaline rush" when he experiences success.

Concerning his top win, Koffke said, "In high school, it would probably be my first conference championship as a freshman," when he defeated Collin Rortveldt of Plymouth, 5-2.

Koffke doesn't have just one goal for the remainder of his career. He has three, including "Winning conference ... qualifying for state, and placing high at state."

Should Koffke win another EWC title, it would be his third, which is quite a feat.

Maertz finished up with 28 wins both his freshman and sophomore seasons before hitting the 33-win mark as a junior when he made his first state appearance. He hit the milestone at the On The Waters tourney when he pinned Mitch Cole of Ashwaubenon in 4:38 on his way to taking third place out of 49 competitors at 152 pounds.

And did Maertz believe this goal was reachable when he arrived at KHS? "Oh yeah, I thought so after my freshman year," he said, noting how important it is to make the varsity lineup at a freshman.

Maertz said he has been wrestling since he was a kindergartner, starting in the West Bend Wildcat Wrestling Club with Craig Melstrand and Joel Schellinger as his first coaches.

What was it that Maertz enjoyed most about the sport? "It was fun, a contact sport, and it's individual," he said. His future goals? "Make it to state ... I want to win state," he said, adding yes, he plans to wrestle in college, at either UW-Stevens Point or UW-Oshkosh.

As far as he best of his 100 wins, Maertz points to his 1-0 win over Brandon Schisel of Valders for second place in the 2010 sectionals. "That gave me a better seed (in state)," he said.

Seibel's comments on reaching 100 were included in the Jan. 6 edition of the Statesman.

Indians post third EWC win over Plymouth

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

KEWASKUM - Even with a pair of starters on the sideline, the Kewaskum wrestlers had little trouble beating Plymouth last Thursday evening. Behind three pins, four forfeits and a couple decisions, the Indians rolled 49-27 to a victory, their third of the season in Eastern Wisconsin Conference action.

Senior Bo Seibel posted another of his under-a-minute pins, putting Geno Kiela's shoulder to the mat in a brief 57 seconds (:57), but sophomore Logan Dreher was even quicker on this night, ending his match with Tanner Neils in :28.

With his win, Seibel is 4-0 in the EWC and 19-1 overall. Dreher improved to 3-1 and 9-6.

Cole Roberts had the third pin, but there were anxious moments before he gained the upper hand. Roberts' opponent caught him in an early throw, so he fell behind 5-0 before fighting off his back for an escape at the end of the period.

In the second period, it was Roberts doing the throwing, and he didn't let the Panther up. "When he got out, I knew he was going to hit something," KHS coach Dennis Aupperle said.

Joey Wollner picked up his first win in conference by besting Tim Edwards 7-1. Wollner, a junior who has run into a lot of good competition this season at 145 pounds, is now 1-3 in EWC action and 5-11 overall.

Missing from Thursday's lineup were 125-pound Brett Scoles and 130-pound Jared Koffke. "They each hit heads with others at Oshkosh (On The Waters)," Aupperle said. "Then they hit heads with each other the other night in practice."

Taking a cautious approach on the matter, Aupperle held both of them out of the meet. "They both seem a lot better today," he said, adding, "February is pretty important, and it's not that far off."

Aupperle was pleased with the two freshmen who filled in for the regulars. "Andy Pryor did a nice job stepping in there (at 125). Cody Muckerheide too," Aupperle went on.

Pryor got caught in a head throw in the early stages of his match against Dan Uribe but refused to be pinned. He ended up losing 9-2. Muckerheide fell victim to a pin to one of the Panthers' top wrestlers, Collin Rortveldt.

Kewaskum, currently 3-1 in EWC action and 6-4 overall, hosts Kiel for Parents Night on Thursday (tonight). In the latest state poll, the Indians are rated seventh, right behind Campbellsport.

Indians put up fight against Raiders in thriller

Brett Nuernberg drives the lane in the first quarter against Kiel last Thursday. The Indians lost, 72-69, in a thriller.

By Mitch Maersch
Statesman Correspondent

It's hard to say there are good losses, but the Kewaskum boys' basketball team still took a step forward in last Thursday's 72-69 thriller against Kiel.

The Indians were a buzzer beater away from going to overtime with one of last year's state tournament teams. An open look from Eric Perkins bounced off the rim.

"I'd take that shot every time. It was a good look," said Coach Quinn Heintz. "It didn't go in but I think it was probably the best game we played all year."

He didn't think the Raiders would allow it.

"I really thought they were going to foul us and make us shoot free throws," he said.

But Perkins dribbled up the court mostly unimpeded. Brett Nuernberg was spotting up and so was Lucas Kopeschka.

The Indians, down the entire game, battled back from a 54-47 fourth-quarter deficit to tie it at 67-67 with about 1:40 to play on a Brad Boegel layup. Brett Nuernberg had zoomed to the hoop, drawing the defense and opening the inside.

Kiel then made a jumper, Kewaskum missed a shot and the Raiders got the rebound and called timeout with 59.9 seconds left.

The Indians blocked a Kiel shot and Boegel saved it from going out of bounds. But the ball went right to Raider Derek Meyer, who turned and hit inside while getting fouled. Meyer missed the free throw for the three-point play but Kiel was up 71-67, with 38.8 seconds left.

"It comes down to one or two possessions at the end of the game, they kind of get a bounce on a rebound that goes right to him, and he gets the foul. What can you do, both teams are going hard. It happens," Heintz said.

Perkins was fouled and calmly sunk two free throws like he always does in the fourth quarter to cut the deficit to 71-69 with 34.5 seconds left.

Kiel almost lost the ball on the inbounds pass but called timeout just before the ball squirted away and rolled down the floor.

Kewaskum ended up fouling, and Raider Sam Moehring hit one of two free throws to make it 72-69 with 10.8 seconds to go, setting up the Indians' last chance.

"I thought it was a great game, one of the best high school games I've seen in a while," Heintz said.

Kewaskum moved to 3-2 in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference, 7-3 overall. Kiel is 4-1 (7-2).

Perkins ended with 19 points and Nuernberg 17 in what Heintz called the junior forward's best game of the season. Hunter Flanders scored 11.

For Kiel, Burris, a second-team all-conference player last year, scored 24. Isaiah Herzog scored 15.

Heintz said a game like this can go a long way in building the program.

"This is a team coming back from a state tournament run and we're a team that hasn't played in a lot of big games before," he said. "Sometimes in the beginning of the big games we're a little timid, not too aggressive. It takes just a little while. In these games you need some experience and we don't have it, and we're getting it right now."

The Indians were down 18-15 after one quarter and 38-29 at half, thanks to a Herzog three-pointer in the final seconds.

But like in so many other games, the Indians' make a fourth-quarter run. Late last month, they destroyed Horicon, 37-16, in the fourth to win, 71-59, and doubled up Hustisford, 20-10, for a 59-47 victory.

Last Thursday, the Indians had a 22-18 edge. Heintz said it was because the Indians outrebounded Kiel. But a few elements play into the Indians' impressive closures.

"I think it comes down to a couple factors of our guys kind of have a no-quit attitude. Even if we get down they still play hard all the way through the game. We rebound so well we get more possessions in the fourth quarter. We limit teams to one possession," Heintz said. We shoot free throws so well that we get a lot of points in the fourth quarter off of that."

Against Kiel, the Indians were 5-for-6 at the line in the final eight minutes. Kiel was 4-for-8.

While Kiel subbed in more players, Kewaskum never got outran, and it wasn't because the Indians slowed down the tempo.

"We didn't really want to run with them the whole game but we didn't really have a choice because they were giving us the layups. And we were getting great shots, it got our offensive in rhythm," Heintz said. "I think tonight we didn't wear down as much as they thought we would."

The Indians now come off of a week of practice before another raider invasion. On Friday, the undefeated Two Rivers Purple Raiders (5-0 EWC, 9-0), invade Kewaskum's field house with one the seventh-ranked team in the state, according to a wisports.net coaches poll.

The loss, Heintz said, "will make our guys practice a little harder knowing they were so close and they can compete with anybody in the conference."

As far as Two Rivers, he said "the good news is we get a week to prepare for them."
