Spring Election Here Tuesday

School Board most contested race

By Mitch Maersch
Statesman Correspondent

At least two new members will join Kewaskum's Board of Education with a possibility of a third after next week's election.

Five newcomers and one incumbent are running for three seats on the board.

Incumbents John Kenworthy and Sally Cochran are not running for re-election.

Incumbent James Leister is running for one seat, joined by Troy Hanson, Timothy Ramthun, Sue Miller, Jessica Baker and Andrew Kuehl.

Miller, a regional branch manager at a credit union, said her expertise can help the district and that she is passionate about students being taught to manage their finances.

"I am running because with my financial background I think I can really help overcoming current and upcoming financial challenges," she said.

Beyond helping better manage its finances, Mueller said she can help maximize student potential and will continue to evaluate curriculum to make sure it's relevant.

"It's a constant. The world is just constantly changing," she said.

Baker, a piano teacher, said she is running to help her children and the community, and that education is important to her. She said it helps that she has children in the district and that she gets to know teachers and principals. She said she has visited all the schools and is willing to listen to teachers and principals.

"I want to keep the focus on the children. That's the most important thing. I'm fiscally responsible in my own life. I'm fiscally conservative. I want to keep in mind the main focus is the children and quality education," she said.

Ramthun said painting over the chief in the gym last fall revealed a "dysfunctional situation" between the board and administration. He cited his "robust experience in management and oversight" could help fix it.

A business management technology consultant, Ramthun said teaching children is the number one priority but there are problems with the business aspect of the district.

"I want to represent the student and their best interest, and the taxpayers in their best interest. I will get it done to meet and exceed their expectations. I will get it done collaboratively. People are having to choke on decisions made by individuals," he said.

Hanson, a certified public accountant, said he has children in the district and wants to make sure decisions made ensure quality education. He said he brings a level of expertise to "tricky finances."

"I've got fiscal concerns that are going on," he said.

He said he wants to balance spending too much and spending too little.

"You can only cut a budget so far before you lose a quality education. I also don't want to see gold-plated lockers in the school. There's a balance there," he said.

Leister, a service technician, said he is running, "Because we have challenges ahead of us that we must address to keep the school district moving forward."

He said he wants to continue doing a good job like he has in his three years on the board and deserves to be re-elected, "Because I believe I've done a great job representing the votes of the district."

Leister said he enjoys serving. "It's a privilege and it's an honor to be on the board. I don't have a hidden agenda or purpose. I just enjoy it," he said.

Kuehl said he is running because has one child in the district and will add a second in fall 2012.

Village President candidates have clear differences

By Mitch Maersch
Statesman Correspondent

The differences are clear between the two candidates vying for the Village of Kewaskum's top elected official.

Incumbent Andrew Pesch voted for the 2011 budget, including the contract agreements with both unions and for raises for non-union staff.

Trustee Craig Garbisch voted against all four.

The budget passed by a 5-2 vote, the other three motions by 4-3.

Pesch defended the budget.

"It was a balanced budget and it did lower our levy by 1.1 percent. So I thought it was a fair, economical budget and the right thing to do," he said.

Garbisch cited all the raises and that the budget didn't set any money put aside for future equipment purchases for his vote.

"The reasons I voted against it were due to the economic conditions happening not only in our village ... it's happening nationwide. People have had to make drastic changes in their lives because they may have lost their jobs, cut back on hours or maybe taken pay cuts. I felt we as a village needed to do that as well. We've got to look at ways to cut spending, even though this money was budgeted. A lot of people had to make sacrifices. I felt our village had to make sacrifices as well," he said. On the union contract votes, Pesch said the village got a good deal.

"I didn't feel that we would be able to gain a whole lot at that time with the unions any more than what we had. It was already passed by the union members so I thought it was a good deal. We wouldn't have gained anything by starting over, in my opinion," he said.

He said the non-union village employees usually get a similar deal, and they had salaries frozen before the

Change imminent for Kewaskum Town Board

By Mitch Maersch
Statesman Correspondent

The Town of Kewaskum Board will get a fresh look as four newcomers are running for two seats.

Glenn Goodearle, William Butzlaff, Scott Wollner and Michael Otten are vying to replace Daniel Schmidt and Allen Hron. Schmidt is running unopposed for town chairman as Ellis Kahn is not running.

Butzlaff, a farmer, worked for the town for about 10 years and has served on the Plan Commission for a decade. "I've got some experience being in the town, working for the town. I think I can spend the taxpayers' money wisely," he said.

Butzlaff said he would like to improve snowplowing and do some brushing in certain areas for safety.

"If people can't see off the side of the road they can't see if there's a deer crossing there," he said.

With likely funding cuts coming from the state, Butzlaff suggests trimming a little bit from everything.

"Not do something drastic where it's going to be a major thing," he said.

Wollner, a business owner, said it was time he started to be active in town government. He said he likes what the past boards have done.

"I need to keep taxes in line and kind of follow the footsteps of what they have done," he said.

Watching what the town spends is one of Wollner's priorities.

"We're going to have to go through on a case-by-case basis and start reviewing when we finally see what our budget needs are. I really believe we have to really watch what we spend. We're going to have to live with what we have, by our means," he said. "We need to look at our snowplowing budgets. We've done a real good job, the past board, on keeping them in line. We have to maintain safe roads

Board of Education election

"I didn't run for this position with an agenda. I ran because I've witnessed a great school system and I want to be a part of making a great school district the best school district," he said.

A newspaper publisher who has worked with the district for 14 years, he said he has the most experience of the candidates.

"There is going to be a definite need for someone who can hit the ground running and provide leadership and knowledge for the upcoming challenges facing the board," he said.

Superintendent Michael Krumm is retiring in June, and the School Board is going with an interim superintendent next year with the hopes of hiring a more permanent one for the following year. Candidates were asked the qualities they think the next superintendent should have:

BAKER: "It's got to be someone who is a good listener and someone who is qualified, someone who feels the same way I do that keeps the children as the focus and what's the best thing for them. I would want somebody who also feels that it's important that teachers continue their development and their education."

RAMTHUN: "Energetic, collaborative with the board as well as the community, respectful, financially disciplined and focused on quality education and how you get that done in a day-to-day operations environment."

Ramthun said he wants to explore certified in-house candidates and expand the search from there, but he wants to hire someone from within Wisconsin. He said he to be part of the discussion and interviews and wants people who will work with the superintendent to be part of the discussions, such as the district's administrative assistant. He said the person should have business management and financial experience.

HANSON: "I would be very encouraged to see some experience. I think that's a critical piece."

He said he would like to see someone from a similar district. He said he is yet unsure on in-house candidates.

He said he feels a "pretty strong disconnect" in the district. When he went to his first finance meeting, he was the only attendee. He said his first board meeting lasted 14 minutes. He hopes to find a "strong communicator."

"I think someone who is willing to communicate with the administration, teachers and public. I think that's critical," he said.

LEISTER: "I would like to find someone that can excel our school but still stay in tune with the local town."

Leister said he doesn't want a rocket scientist. "We still need to have a hometown feeling," he said.

He said he would look in house and externally. He said he would promote an in-house candidate but doesn't want to narrow the search to just that.

"You have to be flexible. You can't just tie yourself to do I want to stay inside the school district," he said.

He said if the candidate was qualified enough and this would be his or her first superintendent position, "I think we have a strong enough board to pull that off."

KUEHL: "I would like that person to take ownership in our community and continue items of community cooperation like Mr. Krumm did. I would also like to see someone who can hear everyone's ideas and input on issues facing our district."

MILLER: "I'm a big believer in hiring internally first if of course it's a fit and they qualify for the position. If they see somebody who's really growing for the school district already and it's a fit for the team, definitely give that person an opportunity."

Beyond that, she said she would like to have someone with experience.

"Number one they have to be experienced; being a leader in the community. I think that's very important to have that collaboration within the school and the community, too. And of course a role model, not just to the students, but the staff.

Candidates were asked if serious budget cuts were to be required if they would be willing to close Wayne Elementary School and move students and staff to the other two elementary schools.

RAMTHUN: "On the surface, I don't want to come in and close stuff."

He said Wayne has a "robust environment" and 128 students, compared to Beechwood's 40 when it closed about a decade ago.

Ramthun said the number he has seen have the district losing $1.6 million in state aid but saving more than that thanks to the Budget Repair Bill that has public employees contribute more to their pension and health care funds, so closing a school would not be necessary.

Without the Budget Repair Bill savings, Ramthun said the district was looking at 22 teacher layoffs. With it, those jobs are saved.

"Yes, they have to pay a little bit more, but they've got a job, benefits and insurance," he said. He said the bill allows the district to possibly grow. "I can see us expanding our curriculum programs and possibly our teacher base," he said.

HANSON: He said he would not only sit down and look at the financial analysis of loss and gain, but also the people effect, namely on parents.

"How much further are we going to have to bus these kids for extracurricular activities?" he said.

Hanson said he remembers closing Beechwood was not a popular decision. Before closing Wayne, he said he would have to find the balance of what the district is saving versus the impact.

"It would not be a decision taken lightly by any stretch," he said.

LEISTER: "We're going to have to run our facilities, our staffing and our organization to what our budget dictates. We've got to work with what we've got."

"I don't believe in cutting programs and I don't believe in eliminating staff unless our numbers are justified," he said.

Leister said the one year when district enrollment dropped by 40 students allowed for less staff.

"Enrollment is a big factor. If the enrollment in Wayne is so low that it costs the district money to keep that school open ... Student enrollment and the way the district finances are, are going to determine what happens with Wayne," he said.

KUEHL: "The closure of the Beechwood School decades ago has still divided our district so I would be strongly opposed to closing that school unless no other option was available to us."

Even if that was an option, Kuehl said he wants to hear from the public first.

"If we were forced with that option, I would like to see it brought to the electorate and voted by an advisory referendum," he said.

MILLER: "No. I think it's important for the community itself. I don't think it's good for the community for that to happen."

Miller said closing Wayne won't be necessary, anyway.

"I don't feel with the current budget that that's going to be the deciding factor with balancing it," she said.

BAKER: "I don't want to say either way because I don't feel that I'm well informed enough to make that statement. I'd rather hear more sides of the argument."

Candidates were asked to describe the biggest issue the district faces and how they would approach it.

HANSON: He provided a three-part answer, including hiring the right superintendent, changes in finance and bringing up test scores.

Hanson said financial issues are "near and dear to my heart because I know it really well" and that he has a strong opinion and can help make others understand the issues.

Hanson said test scores are not where he wants them to be. He suggests doing a better job of steering curriculum to state and federal standards. He said some of that work falls on the parents in helping prepare their children for school and making sure they do what they're supposed to do and do their best.

"The teachers can only do so much," he said. "I think what it comes down to Kewaskum School District has to create a quality product, and that product is well-educated, well rounded future earners and taxpayers."

LEISTER: "The biggest issue I see in front of us is the superintendent. School board decided to go with interim so the new board - it's their responsibility. That's why this board decided to do that."

Leister said the board did the same thing with teacher contract negotiations. The contract is up June 30 but the board wanted the new board to

Herriges challenges Klemme for Wayne Chairmanship

By Mitch Maersch
mitch@kewaskumstatesman.

A former town chairman squares off with the current one in the Town of Wayne on April 5. Leander Herriges is challenging incumbent Carl Klemme for his seat.

Two supervisors - Mike Samann and Robert Schulteis - are running unopposed for their seats.

Klemme said is running to continue the good work he has been doing. He said he is honest and will do the best job he can.

"I think I'm doing a decent job; the people seem to be happy with the job I'm doing," he said. Klemme said the town does crack filling and sealing every year and that he hears from other townships that Wayne's roads are some of the best in the county. He said the town is making allotments for a new plow truck and has started a salt shed fund.

"We're getting work done. I think everything is going smooth right now," he said.

Herriges said he is running per request.

"I was asked by several people if I would run," he said.

Herriges said one of his priorities would be returning a park fund to the people who paid it. He said the fund was built up over nine years as an impact fee for a park and it should have been returned to the people after seven years if no park was built. He said the fee total has come to $121,381.60 but the town never built a park.

Three years ago the people said they didn't want a park. But the board hasn't returned (the money)," he said. "It has to go back to the people who paid it in."

Klemme said Herriges' claims, not ones concerning the park fund, that the board has been hiding money are untrue. He said financial statements show where the money went and that the budget never reached the level Herriges claimed.

On a possible cut of recycling grant money, Klemme suggested raising the per-bag recycling fees to offset the cost.

"We would have to," he said. Herriges said he would talk to the two supervisors about how to handle recycling.

"That's up to the board. I'm only one person," he said.

With likely state funding cuts, Klemme said he does not want to raise taxes. He said he doesn't recall the town raising taxes in his 11 years on the board.

"We would have to work with what we got. I don't think anybody in the town would like taxes raised or anything like that," he said.

If need be, Klemme said one possible cut could be money for future projects like the plow truck and salt shed.

Herriges didn't yet know how he would handle a smaller budget, but he assumes cuts are on the way.

"Big budget cuts coming. It's hard to say how you're going to handle the cuts," he said.

"The staff and nurses in the New Life Center were absolutely fantastic."

- Kristin Armstrong

For Kristin and Keith Armstrong, proud parents of Gabriel Raymond Armstrong, there's no doubt about it: The New Life Center at Froedtert Health St. Joseph's Hospital is an extraordinary place. Especially considering the efforts that were made to unite the family shortly after Gabriel was born.

At the time, Keith was more than 6,000 miles away, completing his second deployment in Iraq with the U.S. Army. But thanks to a special Internet-based video connection from Kristin's room at St. Joseph's Hospital, Keith was able to meet his son only an hour later.

"Dr. (Angela) Breckenridge was great," Kristin says. "I couldn't have had better care. The staff and nurses in the New Life Center were absolutely fantastic. The hospital is gorgeous and they had a way of making it all really comfortable. I'd absolutely recommend it to others."

Angela Breckenridge, DO, sees patients at Froedtert Health West Bend Clinic - South, located adjacent to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Village of Kewaskum

while the unions' were not frozen.

"In the past have always kept the non-reps realistically the same raise as union members," he said.

Pesch said future equipment purchases may have to get pushed back "about as much as they can."

Garbisch said he would like to see money be set aside for the Main Street construction project, now slated for 2014.

With future budgets possibly getting tighter, despite the Budget Repair Bill that has public workers contribute more to their pension and health care benefits, the job of crunching numbers won't get easier.

Neither candidate wants to eliminate the police department and go with County Sheriff coverage, as Slinger and Jackson have considered.

"I like the job that our village officers are doing and before I would turn things over to the county it would have to get pretty desperate," Garbisch said.

"That would be a last resort. I sure would not push for that. I like our 24-7," said Pesch.

With inevitable budget cuts, Pesch said the fire and police department should be the last targets.

"Public safety is one of the most important things, in my opinion," he said.

Garbisch said he would look everywhere. He commends department leaders for their budgets and will ask them to look a little harder.

"That's going to be a tough question because everything is going to have to be looked at. Do I want to cut services? No, but somewhere along the line we're going to have to make some sacrifices, and hopefully it's for only a short period of time," he said.

While recycling grant money is eliminated in Gov. Scott Walker's budget proposal, both would like to see the program continue in the village. Neither wants to put the cost on the taxpayer in the form of fees.

"I would definitely push to keep the recycling program. That is only $15,000 I believe that we're getting in that grant," Pesch said. "Personally, I don't like user fees that much. I'd like to get it somewhere else. I don't know if that will work."

"If we lose the funds for it, we're still going to have to recycle - it all boils down to trying to find this extra money," said Garbisch. "It's not an easy job but I think it can be done. We may have to use some of that money to fund some of these projects."

Drawing business to Kewaskum's embattled tax incremental finance district (TIF) remains a challenge.

Garbisch first wants settle the lawsuit between the village and developer Gary Gavin, since it involves TIF property.

"If we can get buildings into that TIF district, it's going to benefit him; it's going to benefit the village. We need to look at some type of plan - I want to build in Kewaskum. We may have to offer them a little incentive to come here," Garbisch said.

Pesch suggests continued work with Economic Development Washington County.

"It's hard to get some economical development. I think other communities are expressing the same thing," he said.

Garbisch, with one year under his belt as trustee, said he is running for village president to help infuse new ideas to Kewaskum.

"I feel that sometimes it's good to make some changes. I can bring forth some new ideas and working with the rest of the Village Board, come up with new ideas to help revitalize the village," he said.

He said he hopes to keep spending down without raising taxes, especially given the increase in sewer and water bills the past few years to help pay for the new wastewater treatment plant.

"People in this economy can't take that anymore," he said.

Pesch, village president the last three years and trustee for eight before that, said he is running to continue a good thing.

"I think we've got a lot of good things going in the village and I just want to continue on and see if we can't continue," he said.

"I think I'm doing as good of a job as I can do," he said.

Both encourage everyone to vote.

Also in the Village, three people are running for three trustee seats - two incumbents and one former incumbent. Incumbents Norman Kufahl and Jim Hovland are running for re-election, and former trustee Kevin Scheunemann is running. Incumbent Tom Piwoni is not running.

Tornado simulated emergency drill to take place Thursday at KMS

Students at Kewaskum Middle School will take part in a real-life emergency training drill on Thursday, April 7, 2011. The drill is to prepare school employees and students, as well as, local response agencies.

The emergency being simulated is a tornado that touches down in at Kewaskum Middle School.

Students at Kewaskum Middle School will be evacuated to Kewaskum High School or a triage center. Parents will be notified by phone of the fake emergency. Some students will have pretend injuries that will require them to be transported to the hospital.

In a real situation, students would be held until a parent/guardian could pick them up. Since April 7th will be a simulation, parents will be able to notify the caller of their desire to have them released at 3:00 p.m. to walk home or take the buses.

KMS Principal Christine Horbas asks families of students to alert local relatives (grandparents and siblings) that this simulation will be taking place. "Emergency air waves will be utilized by the local response agencies, and we do not want any relative to think that one of their KMS students is in danger."

If you have any questions or concerns, please contact KMS at 262-626-8427.

Town of Kewaskum

for the taxpayers in the community."

Goodearle, a Grafton police officer, was a member of the West Bend Common Council for six years before moving to the town. He said one reason he is running is so people have a choice in the election. "I think I can bring that common sense, realistic and reasonableness," he said. "If something needs to be said, you say it. You've got to do your homework, too."

Goodearle said he wants the town to remain fiscally responsible and keep its rural character.

"I've told the Village of Kewaskum during a meeting one time - their sign may say gateway to the Kettle Moraine; The Town of Kewaskum is the Kettle Moraine. The whole heritage of town is being the Kettle Moraine - rural living," he said.

Goodearle said snowplowing must be a priority, and he supports the town allowing people to help clear roadsides of brush as long as its liability is covered.

Otten said he is running to keep the town's fiscal responsibility in its current state and to improve communication with the state representative that covers the town.

"I'm going to try and keep it simple or as close to the road repairs, brushing, snow plowing, etc., try and eliminate some of the permitting process for business/land owners," he said. Otten said maintaining Kewaskum's independence is important.

"Keeping the town's independence so the residents/constituents can keep their say ... not so it gets controlled or overtaken by the county and state," he said.

Otten said to stay strict on bids for road projects. While the lowest bid is important, he said to look closely to see what exact work is being done.

Three of the four didn't support last fall's referendum to borrow $200,000 for road repairs, and Butzlaff said he doesn't remember if he supported it or not. The non-binding referendum passed, 271-255 (51.5 to 48.5 percent), but the Town Board decided against borrowing the money given the slim margin.

"I believe we can be fiscally responsible without raising taxes. I'm not in favor of raising people's taxes at all. If we watch expenses on other issues in the town we should be able to keep up roads," said Wollner.

"That's a big figure for the town just to bite that off. We'll never catch up. Anytime government owns roads, you can never keep them in top-notch condition. We live in Wisconsin. You'll never have roads that are perfect," said Goodearle.

"There's a fair amount of taxes people pay right now. The economy's not strong. I don't think people need extra bills that can be avoided," said Otten.

Butzlaff said that kind of spending should be put to the taxpayers for a vote before the town approves it.

"I think if you're going to spend a lot of money I think things should go on a referendum," he said.

The four have some ideas on how to continue recycling despite the proposed funding cut in Gov. Scott Walker's budget.

Goodearle said he wants to hear from residents, but not through a referendum.

"Whether all the taxpayers should fund it or every time you bring something in, do you pay to have it recycled. To see what the citizens would be willing to do should be put in a forum," he said.

Otten is open to a user's fee and maybe looking at bids from a waste management service.

"The township will have to figure out in its budget what it will have to do to keep it in service," he said.

Butzlaff suggested cutting back on recycling hours to save money, maybe use money from the higher-priced for scrap iron or go to a cheaper vendor. He doesn't want to raise taxes to do it.

"I would like to continue it but we're going to have to make some changes. I'm not sure how we're going to change it," he said. Wollner said he doesn't want to raise taxes, either, and doesn't prefer a fee. He said outsourcing to a private company is a possibility.

"We're going to have to discuss it. We'll have to talk to residents on it and see what their opinion is," he said.

Kentucky Derby Evening will benefit Cancer Care Center

St. Joseph's Community Foundation is sponsoring A Kentucky Derby Evening to benefit local cancer care services. The event is set for Thursday, April 28, at 5:30 p.m. at the Prairie Center at West Bend Mutual Insurance Company. Previously themed Monte Carlo Casino Night, A Kentucky Derby Evening is St. Joseph's Community Foundation's annual Impact a Life fundraiser that supports the strategic priorities and initiatives of Froedtert Health St. Joseph's Hospital. Proceeds will be used to purchase an automated chemotherapy dosing system for patients receiving treatment at the hospital's Alyce and Elmore Kraemer Cancer Care Center.

Guests will enjoy an evening filled with Derby atmosphere including virtual horse racing, mint juleps, a hat parade, photo finish area as well as abundant food stations, signature desserts, music and live/silent/super silent auctions. Each ticket includes complimentary beer, wine and soda, a mint julep with souvenir glass and a photo of guests in their Derby attire.

"The three previous Monte Carlo themed events brought in more than 250 people each year. In as little as three years, just over $150,000 had been raised to benefit the cancer care center. This year, with our new theme, we hope to increase both of those numbers and truly make a difference for those dealing with a cancer diagnosis," said John Wundrock, event chair.

Tickets are available for $75 each ($25 of each ticket is tax deductible). For more information or tickets, contact St. Joseph's Community Foundation at 262-836-7828.

The Alyce and Elmore Kraemer Cancer Care Center is Washington County's most comprehensive cancer care center, offering medical and radiation oncology, and is a member of the Froedtert & The Medical College of Wisconsin Cancer Network. The center treats all types of cancer and is equipped with the area's only linear accelerator, the technology used to deliver cancer-killing radiation treatments. Medical College of Wisconsin radiation oncologists provide daily on-site radiation oncology services. The center fills a need for patients to be able to stay in their community, near their families, while receiving cancer treatments.

Are You Lyme Aware?

The Kettle Moraine State Forest - Northern Unit's An Evening with Nature series April program is "Are You Lyme Aware?" The program starts at 7:00 pm on Thursday, April 14. It will be held at the Henry S. Reuss Ice Age Visitor Center, which is located off Hwy 67, half mile west of Dundee. The program is free, but donations are always gratefully accepted.

Spring will soon be in full swing and that means more people heading outdoors to enjoy the warm weather. That also means ticks will be more active looking for a blood meal to complete their lifecycle, and they really don't care what warm-blooded animal meanders their way. The trouble for humans is that ticks can transmit a whole array of diseases including Lyme disease, which got its name from where it was first discovered in Old Lyme, Connecticut.

Lyme is often called a master of disguise because it can mimic so many other diseases making it very difficult to diagnose and treat.

Luke Tranel of Fox Valley Lymeade will share a video about Lyme disease and explain what is known about its spread, diagnosis, and treatment. He will help dispel some of the myths about this potentially deadly disease and offer ways how to protect yourself from becoming infected by a tick.

For more information or directions, contact the forest staff at the Ice Age Visitor Center. The center is open in March from Wednesday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., on Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., and on Sunday from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. Starting in April the center will be open Monday through Friday from 8:30 am to 4:00 pm, and on Saturday and Sunday from 9:30 am to 5:00 pm. To reach the forest staff, call (920) 533-8322.

Board of Education election

decisions, that those decisions are in accordance with the mission statement."

MILLER also mentioned objective and fair debate of whatever the district faces.

"I think a lot of it's kind of the unknowns. In my fin experience we're analyzing things and we're debating things - I think it's important to debate things to discuss things. Be objective. Be fair," she said.

BAKER: "Issues important to me is making sure that students that have difficulty with reading and learning disabilities in general that they have the help that they need. Above average teachers can provide that help but there's sometimes there needs to be other volunteers helping with that."

Baker said she cares about children who do not come from strong family support systems where the parents are not around or don't have much money.

"I'm just concerned about helping people, so school is a way that we can do that sometimes. That's the only way a child has," she said. Baker said a caring, qualified educator is someone "who can make a difference in that child's life."

She said keeping qualified staff is high on her list. She said her children have had positive experiences with teachers not only teaching effectively but showing they care about their children.

"I've been so happy with that I want to see that continue and not just for my own kids but other people's kids as well," she said.

RAMTHUN: "I think the biggest issue is the residual to the change from the Budget Repair Bill, and it's probably more psychological than real."

Ramthun said he has experience in both union and non-union workplaces, and he has experienced both switches from one to the other.

He said the hurdle of "fear and perception and mystery of bill" is up there with hiring the next superintendent.

He said the standard based grading program is another issue that may help 4.0 students do better on the ACTs and SATs. He said maybe it could help understand teaching methodology and "maybe teachers aren't quite doing it right"

He said seeks efficiency and he will examine the district's day-to-day operations and look to expand curriculum, staffing and facilities.

The Hard Times Bar and Grill on Highway 67, Town of Ashford, was destroyed during a fire early Sunday morning. John and Connie Corrao, who lease the building and operate the tavern had gone upstairs to their living quarters after closing the tavern. Corrao was awakened by heat and an odor. The Corraos escaped by using an escape ladder they had purchased just a few weeks earlier. The blaze was fought by the Campbellsport Fire Department with assistance from Lomira, Brownsville and Theresa. The cause of the fire was not determined, however faulty wiring was suspected.

Mother Nature again demonstrated her awesome power when she proved this past week, she can be a beauty and beast at the same time. As she went on a stormy rampage, bending and breaking almost everything in her path, she then, as to make up for her tantrum, dressed the countryside in millions of icy diamonds and crystal garments as of to apologize and cover up her destruction. By Friday, approximately 9,000 utility customers in southeastern Wisconsin had been out of service at some time during the week. It was estimated that between 4,500 and 6,000 people in the Kewaskum, West Bend, Random Lake and Port Washington areas were without power, some for more than three days. In the immediate area, people living in the north and east of Kewaskum seemed hardest hit with ice buildups ranging from 1/2" to one inch.

Beth Bartelt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bartelt of rural West Bend, and Ron Theusch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Theusch of rural Campbellsport, have been chosen as the Kiwanis students for the month of February.

Six foot forward Lisa Fusek led the charge here February 6, as the Kewaskum High School varsity girls basketball team romped over the Kiel Raiders by a score of 44-27. High scorers for the Indian varsity were Fusek with 12 points and Jodi Yearling with 10.

Daughters were born to Vernon Jr. and Mindy Jung, Kewaskum, on February 4; to Anthony and Donna Perrotto, Campbellsport, February 6; to Lloyd and Teri Cribb, Campbellsport, also on February 6, and to Richard and Lonnie Landrath, Campbellsport, on February 8.

NOTICE OF SPRING ELECTION AND SAMPLE BALLOTS

April 5, 2011

OFFICE OF THE WASHINGTON COUNTY CLERK

TO THE ELECTORS OF WASHINGTON COUNTY:

Notice is hereby given of a spring election to be held in Washington County, on the 5th day of April 2011, at which the officers named below shall be chosen. The names of the candidates for each office to be voted for, whose nominations have been certified to or filed in this office, are given under the title of the office, each in its proper column, in the sample ballot below.

INFORMATION TO ELECTORS

Upon entering the polling place, an elector shall give his or her name and address before being permitted to vote. Where ballots are distributed to electors, the initials of two inspectors must appear on the ballot. Upon being permitted to vote, the elector shall retire alone to a voting booth and cast his or her ballot except that an elector who is a parent or guardian may be accompanied by the elector's minor child or minor ward. An election official may inform the elector of the proper manner for casting a vote, but the official may not in any manner advise or indicate a particular voting choice.

Where optical scan voting systems are used, the elector shall fill in the oval next to the name of the candidate of his or her choice for each office for whom he or she intends to vote. To vote for a person whose name does not appear on the ballot, the elector shall write in the name of the person of his or her choice in the space provided and fill in the oval on the write-in line.

Where touch screen voting systems are used, the elector shall depress the button next to the name of the candidate of his or her choice for each office for which he or she intends to vote. To vote for a person whose name does not appear on the ballot, the elector shall type in the name of the person of his or her choice in the space provided for a write-in vote.

The vote should not be cast in any other manner. If the elector spoils an optical scan ballot, he or she shall return it to an election official who shall issue another ballot in its place, but not more than three ballots shall be issued to any one elector. If the ballot has not been initiated by two inspectors or is defective in any other way, the elector shall return it to the election official, who shall issue a proper ballot in its place. The elector may spoil a touch screen ballot at the voting station. Not more than five minutes' time shall be allowed inside a voting booth or machine. Sample ballots or other materials to assist the elector in casting his or her vote may be taken into the booth and copied. The sample ballot shall not be shown to anyone so as to reveal how the ballot is marked.

After an official optical scan ballot is marked, it shall be inserted in the security sleeve so the marks do not show. After casting his or her vote, the elector shall leave the booth, insert the ballot in the voting device and discard the sleeve, or deliver the ballot to an inspector for deposit. The elector shall leave the polling place promptly.

After an official Touch Screen ballot is marked, the elector shall leave the polling place promptly.

An elector may select an individual to assist in casting his or her vote if the elector declares to the presiding official that he or she is unable to read, has difficulty reading, writing or understanding English or that due to disability is unable to cast his or her ballot. The selected individual rendering assistance may not be the elector's employer or an agent of that employer or an officer or agent of a labor organization which represents the elector.

The following is a sample of the official ballots:

Letters to the Editor

Dear Residents in the Kewaskum School District

I wanted to let you know what you will get if you cast your vote for me in the upcoming school board election. You will get a parent, a CPA, a business owner, and an active civic leader. I have three sons in the school system and that gives me a vested interest in the quality of our schools. My career has taught me a lot about large businesses and complicated finances which gives me the necessary background to make good decisions for the future of our district. I am driven to make a difference in this community by using my time and talents to lead the district like I have led other civic groups including Rotary and the West Bend Area Chamber of Commerce.

Our school district faces challenges in the very near future that will require strong leadership to do more than just survive. If you vote for me you will get someone who has the necessary drive and skills to help it prosper. Advising my clients in their businesses and having employees of my own means I understand what it takes to run an entity as large as our school district. I create and work within budgets and find ways to increase revenue while eliminating unnecessary expenses. It is my job to make tough decisions regarding compensation, health insurance, buildings, financing, hiring, etc. That is part of running a business and that is what a school board member has to understand. Every business has a product so what is our district's product? It is turning our children into well educated, well rounded future earners and tax payers. My goal if elected is to create a quality product at a reasonable cost to the taxpayers.

The school board meetings I have attended and the conversations with board members, administration, teachers and community members have been very helpful in showing me what needs to be done here. The issues are manageable and every one of us can make a difference. Come to meetings, share your thoughts, and participate in making our district better. Open communication is something I promise if I am elected. I will listen and try to put those ideas into action. Please vote April 5th and please vote Troy Hanson for Kewaskum school board.

Troy Hanson

To School District of Kewaskum Tax Payers

If you are concerned about how your school tax dollars are being spent, now is the time to act!

On Tuesday, April 5th, I encourage you to go to the poles and vote for Kewaskum School Board candidate, Tim Ramthun. He fulfills all the requirements to be a good school board member. Tim is a former Kewaskum High School alumnus, a successful business person, and above all understands Kewaskum's heritage and pride.

According to a recent letter to the editor, you can see that Tim is very conscientious, easily accessible, and is willing to provide us, the taxpayers with creditable information. As American's, we should exercise our right to vote! I hope to see you next Tuesday at the polls.

Town of Farmington Taxpayer, Janet Steinert Hafemann

****

Dear Kewaskum School District Voters,

We are writing to suggest that you consider Sue A Miller for Kewaskum School board on April 5th.

Past performance has shown that Sue has the common-sense values that represent the people of our district and as a mother of two young students she also has a vested interest in insuring we provide the best education system possible.

Sue will consider all sides of the issues we face and will make decisions based on the facts. We have been proud to call her our wife and mother for over a decade and we ask that you consider voting for Sue on April 5th.

Andrew, Blake and

Letter to the Editor:

I am writing on behalf of my daughter, Sue Ann (Daggett) Miller, who is running as a candidate on the Kewaskum School District Board.

Many of you will recognize her as a frequent top runner in the KEYS Scholarship Run/Walk over the years.

Sue is a graduate of Random Lake High School. There she was one of Random Lake's top cross country, indoor, outdoor track stars. Through the 3 Ds; Desire, Determination and Dedication she went on to become one of Illinois State University's most valuable runners. She graduated from ISU in four years on an Athletic Scholarship. She majored in management. In 2005, Sue was inducted into the Illinois State University Athletic Hall of Fame.

Sue returned to Southeastern Wisconsin. She is the Regional Branch Manager of the Saukville and Grafton Kohler Credit Union Offices.

Sue Ann is married to Andrew Miller. They have two children. Blake and Amanda attend Farmington Elementary School.

I believe my daughter would make an excellent school board member choice. She has excellent management skill in dealing with the general public, customers, and community leaders in her line of work.

Sue Ann has a wide range of experiences to draw upon from working on the family farm to her schooling and love of running, to her job. Her vibrant personality would be a true asset and serve her well as a member of the Kewaskum School District Board.

Sincerely,
Wallace R. Daggett

Dear Editor-

A school board should be a diverse and experienced group of community members. That is why I will be voting for Jessica Baker on April 5.

She has over 10 years experience teaching private music lessons to a variety of age groups. Jessica has worked as tutor to college students with learning disabilities.

Jessica spent her college summers working at a youth camp, counseling teen girls. She even homeschooled our oldest son when he was in kindergarten.

Businessmen and accountants make for dependable board members, but we also need creative, independent and compassionate community members to serve. After all, a school is not a business, it's a place where our children learn and grow and the things that happen there effect the rest of their lives.

Jessica Baker has an interest in what happens at our schools, not just for her own three children who attend Kewaskum Elementary School, but for your children as well. I have three votes to cast on April 5, one of them will be for Jessica Baker.

Steev Baker,
Kewaskum

Dear Editor,

I've known Timothy Ramthun for 3+ years now and I can tell you he is a man of many attributes.

His focus on results is of the highest standards. He is dependable, loyal, trustworthy and disciplined. He is resourceful in finding solutions to any business challenge while maintaining tact and diplomacy throughout.

Tim communicates very effectively, ensuring awareness to all interested parties on the status of any issue. His passion for efficiency enables cost-effectiveness and quality standards that surpass expectations.

Mr. Ramthun would be a valuable asset as a member of the Kewaskum School Board and I encourage the district voters cast their vote for Tim.

Sincerely,
Rick Bode
(Fond du Lac Business Owner)

Dear Editor,

School board election time is here again and one must take the time to study the qualifications of the candidates.

There are two that have shown their efforts, time and dedication to school board business. One is a new candidate and one is already serving on the board.

Timothy Ramthun has attended several meetings for several months now and spent time to study the course a good working board must accomplish.

James Leister is a board member who is very dedicated to this job. He is one who knows the thankless job, as well as the good feeling when accomplishments occur.

Timothy and James are looking for what is best for the children who are the future of our community, country and the world. With the budget cuts coming to our schools the fiscal flow for a balanced budget will be just one of the many jobs before the school board. Decisions made by the school board that listens to students and parents help make a better and improved school district.

To be on the school board one must be a prophet or peacemaker and a part-time lawyer and as I don't fit the description I will go and vote.

Sincerely,
Mary Ellen McElhatton

Dear Editor,

My name is Dennis Janz and I am running for Town of Scott Chairman in the upcoming April 5th election.

Humbly and gratefully, I have had the privilege to serve as your Town of Scott Supervisor for the last three years. During my years of service, I have had the chance to contribute in decision making for the Town of Scott. I have been instrumental in reducing our current building permit fees by approximately 30% to reflect the adjacent townships rates. I have also taken part in the adoption of the Smart Growth Plan, in which I look forward to working with the re-codifications of the ordinances.

As your Town of Scott Supervisor, I have had the opportunity to help better our community in many ways, and I pledge to continue to help better the Town of Scott if elected as chairman. Whether this means providing adequate time to receive tax payments or having receipts returned more efficiently, these are only a couple of the issues I plan to address if elected as chairman.

I have been a citizen of this township since 1963 and a successful local business owner for 35 years. This township is where my wife and I reside, along with my parents, children, and grandchildren. Making sure the Town of Scott is in working order is a priority of mine. When something isn't right, I want to fix it and make it work. This is why I hope to have your vote. There are critical issues which need to be addressed and fixed within our township.

While serving as Town of Scott Supervisor, I was contacted by local residents with negative feedback regarding the town's responsibilities. Some of the issues of concern for local citizens were:

-Lack of communication in regard to DNR calls, in response to communications on sanitary district paperwork

-W-2 and 1099 tax forms for town employees had been sent out past the legal deadline

-Lack of follow through/receipt of absentee ballots

The most serious issue I am concerned with is the Town of Scott audits. By law, the Town of Scott needs to be audited on a yearly basis. The audit has been neglected for 7 years.

For the last 2 years, board members and citizens have requested copies of the audit. They have yet to receive an audit. After further investigation it was found that the Town of Scott is still waiting for the audits from 2004 through 2010.

If elected as Town of Scott chairman, I pledge to get our township back on track with yearly audits and punctual communication. Together we can make the Town of Scott more efficient and responsible.

Dennis Janz

Dear Editor,

A recent retiree, I am 67 years young. My wife - Marcia, and I have been married for almost 30 years. We have been blessed with 6 children and 8 grandchildren. We have lived in the Town of Scott for all 30 of those years. I was employed at the Kohler Company for over 29 years in the Information Technology Department. For 20 of those years, I held various managerial positions with budgetary responsibilities. While living in the Town of Scott, I have been a Cub Scout cub master and a 4-H leader. I was also the Town Chairman for several years.

If elected to the position of Town Chairman, I will address and accomplish the resolution of several issues currently facing the Town of Scott, as listed below. This information was gathered through discussions with current board members and my review of the Town Board meeting agendas and subsequently approved minutes.

We currently have a building inspector who does not have liability insurance - an issue that was raised a year ago. The town should take this opportunity to review the entire building permit process and related fee structure. After determining how the current process should be changed to better suit the town, I believe the Town should advertise widely for that position and hire the best person available. This issue should be resolved within three months of taking office.

The Town needs to be committed to the timely completion of the 'Smart Growth' 20 year land use plan. Wisconsin state law requires this work to be completed by the end of the year. Until last week, this issue lay dormant in the town hall for almost 18 months. Part of the agreed to communication plan has been eliminated because there isn't enough time to meet the state deadline. I will commit to the completion of this plan this year, by working closely with the county extension office.

The sanitary system in Batavia has been failing nitrate tests for several years - to the point where the WDNR has talked about fining the Sanitary District for non-compliance and non-action. The town board needs to take a leadership role in planning for the resolution of this problem. I reviewed the agendas and subsequent meeting minutes for the past year and found no discussion on this issue. An acceptable plan will be in place during my first term.

I also know that the Town Board should have more complete financial reporting at their meetings. The current reporting consists of bank account balances and a check register. Besides this documentation, the board should be seeing a statement of the entire budget - including up to date spending in each category. The board must be aware of their level of spending versus what has been budgeted, at all times. This issue should be resolved within a month of taking office.

I am asking you to vote for me because I am uniquely qualified to serve as the Town Chairman. I have served well in this capacity in the past. My career responsibilities of people and budget management are clearly necessary skills for the job. I have a history of community service. I have the time, energy, enthusiasm and ethics to do a very good job for the people in the Town of Scott. I will do my utmost to hold the line on spending and taxes. I am committed to the timely resolution of issues and open communication with the town board, town employees and the voters of the Town of Scott. I will insure that people who need to interact with the town will be treated fairly and with respect.

Remember - if you are inclined to vote for me, my name is not on the ballot. You will need to write/print 'MARTIN' in the write-in spot for town chairman on the ballot.

Dear Editor:

Please join me in voting for Justice David Prosser for the State Supreme Court on April 5th. It is well known that Justice Prosser is supported by Republicans and conservatives like myself.

It is not as well known that in addition to over 45 Republican Sheriffs, Democratic Sheriff David Clarke as well as Democratic sheriffs from out-state counties like Crawford, Douglas, Bayfield, Chippewa, Oneida and Dunn are also backing Justice Prosser due to his reputation for integrity and keen intelligence.

When I first got to the State Assembly, David Prosser was the Speaker and due to his kindly attitude was very loved by all who worked for him. We must not forget to vote for Dave Prosser on April 5th.

Sincerely,
State Senator Glenn Grothman
20th Senate District

To All Voters:

Get out and vote for Judge Prosser on April 5. For once we have leadership in Madison who is representing the taxpayer. Let's keep it moving forward. There's a lot more to come!

Make sure family, friends and neighbors vote for Judge Prosser. We need you. Let's repeat 2010.

No champs this year, but KIWC brings home 4 places

By Judy Harlow

MADISON- Members of the Kewaskum Indian Wrestling Club had difficulty repeating in the WWF Kids Folkstyle Tournament that was held this past Friday and Saturday at the Alliant Energy Center.

Although they gave pretty good accounts of themselves, Eric Bauer was unable to win his second straight state title; Lucas Jon Pinchard was unable to take runner-up honors; and others did not go as far as their coaches had hoped.

In the end, the Indians ended up with one second-place finisher, a pair of fourths, and one fifth.

Giant eighth grader Garrett Buth wound up taking second place in the 270-pound class for those boys born in 1996-97.

There were six athletes in this class, with Buth drawing a bye in the first round, then pinning Jon Lope of Sheboygan Falls in 2:22 of the quarterfinals.

Buth shut out Ellsworth's Nick Tallman in the semis, putting him to the finals against Kyle Polum of Cedarburg. Polum was dominant on this day, taking an early lead, then pinning Buth in 2:48.

Nathan Lawrenz had a good tournament, earning himself a fourth place in the 2002-'03 120 pound class. After receiving a bye in the first round, Lawrenz pinned Gabe Sporle of Mineral Point in 2:48, the last by pin in 1:32 to Fennimore's Colten Wall.

Lawrenz bounced back to win his first wrestleback, a tight 2-1 decision over Michael Nelson of the Wisconsin Wrestling Club, then in the consolation finals, he was pinned by Taylor Houghton Jr. of West Allis in 1:30.

Braden Maertz made the most of his first opportunity to wrestle in the state meet, going 4-2 to notch a fifth. Maertz started the event with a convincing 8-1 decision over Averi Tom of Black River Falls, then lost an overtime 4-2 battle to Rudy Detweiler of Stoughton.

As the day unfolded, Maertz would later find himself going up against Detweiler again. First he won a wrestleback by a score of 7-5, then he lost 4-0, putting him in the match to determine fifth and sixth places. The second time around, Maertz reversed the outcome against Detweiler, pinning him in :54. In round three he won by pin over Carson Wasieleski of Fond du Lac.

Bauer, who has had an excellent year, started off just fine on the road to a second title, defeating Maxwell Dasche of Cochrane-Fountain City 4-2. He lost his second match, however, when he was outpointed 4-0 by Tyler Nelson of Sun Prairie, the eventual fourth place finisher.

Bauer bounced right back with a 9-0 major win, but in his next match, he was pinned by Carson Trotter of D. C. Everest in :39, ending his hopes to at least take from third to fifth place.

Pinchard lost a tough 4-3 decision of Holmen's Charles Serauska, but came back with a win in 4:05 over Hunter Nelson of Milton. Then Pinchard was ousted when he lost 2-0 to Todd Fischer Jr. of Baraboo.

Other KIWC entrants included: Nathan Heberer, 2002-'03, 60 pounds; Brady Stern, 2002-'03, 66 pounds; Michael Daniel, 2002-'03, 69; D.J. Smith, 2002-'03, 95 pounds; Cole Rahlf, 1998-'99, 85 and Zachary Heberer, 1996-'97, 85.

Local wrestlers receive champion and fourth place

Also participating this past weekend at the meet Zach Smith of Kewaskum and his sister, Anja Smith.

Zach took first place in 96/97 age group 120#. He pinned his way to the finals and won the finals match over Joe Ziolkowski from D.C Everest 4-2. He finishes up his youth career with three state folkstyle titles, three Greco titles, four national titles, nine time all American in Greco, freestyle and folkstyle, as well as numerous other placements.

Zach wrestled for the Advanced School of Wrestling out of Madison and the Port Washington Piranhas. He also coached a small group of kids at his home under the Zach Smith Academy of Wrestling, this included his sister Anja Smith who wrestled in the girls' division at 105# 99-01 age group.

Anja took fourth place at the end of the tournament. She wrestled national champ Jaden Laurent in the first round and lost by a fall. She won her next match against Alex Hemker from Prescott by a tech fall 16-0. She then received an over-time win over Lizzy Bartaszewicz 8-6. In this match she avenged her loss to Lizzy at regionals. In the third place match Anja lost to Autumn King by fall, giving Anja fourth place spot.

Wrestling for the Port Washington Piranhas, Zach Smith, an eighth grader at the Kewaskum Middle School went a perfect 4-0 to win the 120 pound title for boys born in 1996-'97. Smith posted three straight pins, then won by decision over Joseph Ziolkowski 4-2 in the finals. Anja Smith, finished fourth in the girls 1999-2001 105 pound class. After receiving a bye, Smith was pinned in 1:00, but she battled back to win two straight wrestleback matches, the first a 16-0 technical fall, followed by an 8-6 overtime thriller.

In the battle for third, Smith was pinned by Mukwonago's Autumn King in 2:48.

Coming off of its best season in program history, Kewaskum's fast-pitch softball team returns five all-conference players this season and should be in the mix for the Eastern Wisconsin title.

Coach Jeff Gosse likes his team up the middle.

Sophomore Jenny Reicher and her big arm will be manning the mound, after being named all-conference honorable mention last season as a utility player. She went 5-3 with a 2.68 earned run average. In 48 1/3 innings, she allowed 30 hits, walked 25 and struck out 52.

Reicher replaces Ericka Heberer, who went 11-5 with an ERA of 2.48. In 102 2/3 innings, she allowed 94 hits, 52 walks and struck out 76 and was named to the All-EWC second team.

Junior Michele Marquardt, a second team EWC utility player, will pitch and play third base.

"Between the two of them they look really good," Gosse said.

He said a third pitcher, Taylore Kohn on junior varsity, also looks good.

Senior catcher Abby

Amerling and her big bat are back after being named to the EWC first team last season. Last year, Amerling hit .346, was tied for second on the team with 12 RBIs and led the team in slugging percentage (.615). Gosse said junior Caitlin Rinzel and sophomore Erica Chesak will catch some as well.

Liz Schaller returns for her senior season to patrol centerfield and hit leadoff, coming off of All-EWC honorable mention status. She replaces Ashley Faber, one of three team MVPs last season, along with Heberer and Monica Dehler.

At shortstop, Rinzel, a junior, moves from outfield to take over for Dehler, a first-team all-conference player who hit .439 with 18 RBIs, both team highs.

So far, Gosse said the transition is going "pretty smoothly."

At first base, All-EWC second team player Courtney Krueger returns as a senior. Last season, she hit .309 and had eight RBIs. Junior Emily Faber will back her up.

Gosse likes his bats.

"I think we'll have a good hitting team. We've got some great top of the order and a real solid, 3-4-5 spot with Jenny, Abby and Michele," he said.

Marquardt will also play third base, and senior Jenny Beiswenger will play second. Danielle Rodenkirch will back up Beiswenger.

Other outfielders include senior Olivia Gitter, junior Georgiana Haugen and senior Rachel Backhaus.

Though the Indians have good talent, it has inexperienced depth.

"Our depth lacks varsity experience, so that's somewhat of a concern of mine," said Gosse.

Versatility will be key.

"Some of these girls are going to be playing positions they did not play on junior varsity and won't play as seniors."

Gosse said he expects the conference race to be up for grabs, with Waupun, Campbellsport, Plymouth and the Indians as contenders.

"I think it's going to be a lot more wide open this year," he said.

Last year, the Indians finished 16-8, shattering the previous wins record of 12, and advanced to the regional finals of the Division 2 playoffs when they lost to Grafton, 6-2. The Indians went 11-3 in conference, second place behind undefeated Waupun.

Kewaskum is slated to open the season Friday at Cedar Grove-Belgium. The home opener is Tuesday against Howards Grove.

The Kewaskum Indians will certainly boast two of the top individuals in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference track circle this spring. The trouble is the Indians could use five to eight more athletes like senior T. J. Schlice and junior Eric Perkins.

"I have high expectations for both of them," coach Jerry Gosa said after his team had competed in a couple of indoor meets.

Schlice is capable of placing in the pole vault and the high jump in the Division 2 state meet. Already he has cleared 12 feet twice in the pole vault indoors, and Gosa fully expects he will go a foot or more higher.

"We're hoping he's going to go 13-6 or 14 (feet)," Gosa went on, noting the preseason bar is also high as far as his high jump mark.

Schlice went to state last June in the high jump but was unable to place. Gosa anticipates the experience of competing on the UW-La Crosse campus will help him in a return appearance.

Because there are barely two dozen boys out for track and field, many of the athletes will have to compete in three events, and Schlice is no exception. He is a top candidate to be in the 4x200-meter relay with two of the other returning strengths, Perkins and sophomore Teddy Wollner.

"He's (Schlice) been working with those kids," Gosa said.

Perkins is coming off a huge season in football and a stellar effort on the basketball court and is expected to have that success carry over to track.

"He's looking good," Gosa said, reporting Perkins will run the open 100, the 4x200 relay and also compete in the long jump. In last year's EWC Conference Meet, Perkins was part of the victorious 4x100 unit and on the second-place 4x200 relay. He also finished fifth in the long jump (20-1.50) and placed eighth in the 100 (11.89 seconds).

Among the four other returning letter winners are the Wollner brothers, Joey, a junior who is a pole vaulter and may run some relays, Teddy, will undoubtedly be a part of two relays and perhaps one of the open sprint races.

Joey Wollner has cleared 11-0 in both early meets, so reaching 12 feet this season is a definite possibility.

Other returnees include junior Andy Doll, who competes in the shot and discus, and sophomore Jordan Hanson, who is currently out on a suspension.

In a year or two, Hanson has the potential to be as good as Schlice and Perkins. "I'm hoping he'll continue to improve," Gosa said about Hanson, who is a 400 runner and may run one or two relays.

When it comes to team strengths, Gosa points to the pole vault, high jump and "hopefully the sprint relays." Last year this unit qualified for state but did not make the finals.

The major weaknesses come in the weights and distance events, according to Gosa, who said, "We're just short on numbers. It's pretty hard to compete in track and field when you have just 23 athletes."

Concerning which teams will be strong in the EWC this year, Gosa points to Kiel, Two Rivers and Plymouth. Kiel (159 points) and Two Rivers (151) finished 1-2 in the meet in 2010. The year before it was Two Rivers topping Kiel, 146.50 to 146 for the top spot.

The Indians were fifth last year, scoring 62.50 points, and it is hoped they will be able to better that points total, but for now individual improvement by the athletes will be the major focus.

Gosa announced the annual Indian Invitational will not be held this year. "It would have fallen on Good Friday," Gosa said, adding the meet will be back in the schedule for 2012. In a JV meet held in Sheboygan on March 25, sophomore Corey Burdick won the high jump with a meet record 5-10. He also placed second in the pole vault, clearing 10-6, which was a foot better than his previous best.

Indian track teams far off the pace

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

SHEBOYGAN - Lacking the depth and firepower of many of the other teams in the field, Kewaskum's girls track team had to settle for 14th place in the Sheboygan North Raider Invitational on March 18th.

The Indians, who were missing girls because of illness and family commitments, scored 11.66 points. The host Raiders won the meet with 86.66 points, then came Kiel with 68 points and Slinger with 61.

"We've got a lot of work to do," KHS coach Jerry Gosa said afterward, noting, "We're down this year in numbers," and, "There were some good (track) schools at this meet."

Kewaskum's best event was the high jump where Brianna Jacak tied for fourth place after clearing 4 feet, 8 inches (4-8), and Ashlee Stahl made the same height, but because of misses, finished seventh.

"Five girls cleared 4-8,"

Gosa said, indicating the places were determined by misses.

Val Hedlund added a sixth place in the 55-meter hurdles, posting a time of 10 and .40 seconds (10.40) in the finals.

Kewaskum had three relay teams entered, but when Gosa learned one of the four starters in one of them was ill, he did not have a replacement for her.

The girls in the 4x200 relay, Tess Bandy, Heidi Johnson, Natalie Bandy and Mikkin Abfall, did well, combining for a 2:35.04, good for seventh place.

Steph Grager, Hedlund, Britney Peterson and Britany Wagner finished 14th in the 4x160 relay with a time of 1:42.14.

Tess Bandy also added a point for her eighth place in the pole vault. She cleared 7-0.

The girls will travel to Oshkosh on March 29th for the annual Oshkosh Indoor Invitational held at the Kolf Field House on the UW-Oshkosh campus.

In the boys' competition on March 19th, Kewaskum scored 19 points, far behind the leaders, Freedom, 108 points; Oak Creek, 79.5; and Plymouth, 69.

The Indians were missing junior standout, Eric Perkins, and his absence was definitely felt. Perkins' back was sore after the meet at Oshkosh, so he was unable to run, according to Gosa, who said with him out of the lineup, the Indians could not field a relay team.

"The good news is T. J. (Schlice) won the pole vault at 12-0," Gosa said, reporting Joey Wollner again cleared 11-0, and that was good enough for fourth place.

Schlice added a fifth in the high jump after clearing 5-8.

Kewaskum is also struggling with its numbers, and among those who are out for the sport are a few who are currently ineligible.

Next up for the boys is the Plymouth Quad meet on April 12th.

Schlice and Perkins turn in good showings

OSHKOSH- T. J. Schlice and Eric Perkins are already off to good starts in the 2011 prep track season.

In the opening meet of the season, the two placed in the top eight of two events, leading Kewaskum to a 24th place finish (15.66 points) for the boys in the Division 2 section of the annual Oshkosh Indoor Invitational.

Schlice, who recently celebrated a birthday and the announcement he will be in the Wisconsin Football Coaches Association All Star Football Game in July, cleared 12 feet (12-0) to take second in the pole vault. The only athlete to go higher was Preston Perkins of Marinette, who was able to soar over the 13-0 mark.

Schlice also tied for eighth place in the high jump, with a height of 5-8.

The 55-meter dash always draws a big field at the meet, and after making it through qualifying with a time of 6 and .90 seconds (6.90), Perkins placed seventh at 6.94. The winner was Pestigo's Brad Neumann, who was clocked in 6.65.

The junior Perkins also placed eighth in the long jump, with a leap of 18-5.75.

Junior Joey Wollner added a place in the pole vault when he cleared 11-0 to take fifth overall. With Schlice and Wollner, it looks like the pole vault will be a strong event for the Indians this spring.

"Joey Wollner is also doing a nice job. That's his personal best," KHS coach Jerry Gosa said.

Kewaskum's other points came from sophomore Corey Burdick, who cleared 5-8 to tie Schlice and one other competitor for eighth place.

Kewaskum is normally strong in the relay events, but the 4x200 relay had to settle for 14th in the field, with a time of 1:43.38. Running in this event were Teddy Wollner, Schlice, Joey Wollner and Perkins.

The Indians did not enter a 4X400 relay.

the bank and gather anything that is gold. If a guest is not sure if something is gold, bring it anyways and the Roadshow staff will test it for free. Other gold items of interest include gold coins, gold ounces, gold proof sets and dental gold.

Other types of items Roadshow experts hope to see include old toys and train sets. Archie Davis, the Roadshow's toy expert, spoke about some of the top toys getting great offers. "Old tin wind-up toys from the late 1800's through the 1960's are in great demand right now," said Davis, "especially those that are character related. Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, the Flintstones or any other character toys are sought after. Old Buddy L toys from the 1920's to the 1960's are especially in high demand." Basically any toys made before 1965 are wanted. Train sets made by Lionel, American Flyer, Marklin and others have the potential to fetch a large sum.

When expert Tom Fuller was asked what he enjoyed most about working at the Roadshow, he was quick to answer, "Old coins and paper currency—for as long as I can remember, I have been fascinated with collecting coins. I would go through the change in my parents' grocery store, looking for rare dates and errors. Once, I found a silver quarter that I sold for $300. Not bad for an 8 year old."

Fuller went on to explain that any U.S. coins made before 1964 are the most sought after by collectors. Coins made before 1964 are 90% silver, and valuable because of either the silver content or even more valuable if one happens to be a rare date. Fuller explained, "We help people sort through their coins for unique dates. We buy all types of coins at the Roadshow—from wheat pennies to buffalo nickels, and from single coins to entire truckloads. See you at the Roadshow."
