EMT shortage not yet a liability for Village

By Mitch Maersch
Statesman Correspondent

Fire Chief Mark Groeschel said the village's emergency medical technician shortage isn't a liability yet but it could become one.

Groeschel has seen hours cut since last December. Some have moved out of the village and one retirement is pending, creating another hole.

Groeschel told the Village Board on Monday he has 24 EMTs, 13 of whom are active, meaning they sign up for shifts. Eleven are inactive, and he has a mandatory EMT meeting scheduled for May 10 to find out why and try to get them working again as summer becomes the most difficult time to fill slots.

"Memorial Day Weekend is basically wide open," Groeschel said.

Just getting people to sign up for anything has been difficult, even short periods of time.

"We've got people signing up for two hours at a time. It used to be 12-hour shifts," he said.

The village's EMT service covers Kewaskum, the town of Kewaskum and parts of the towns of Farmington, Wayne and Auburn. It is a user-based service that is not supported by taxes, but trustees Mike Berger and Kevin Scheunemann suggested looking into privatizing the service.

"I want to keep a volunteer EMT staff, but if we're to the point where we can't maintain that, then we have to look at other options," said Scheunemann.

Groeschel disagrees. "I don't think it's a wise choice. You've got to remember the ambulance service doesn't cost the taxpayers anything. It's a user-based fee," he said. When a call comes in, a couple of pages to EMTs and Groeschel said he hopes he gets a response. If not, he calls Campbellsport or West Bend.

Just before the discussion, the Village Board passed an increase in EMT on-call pay, from $1.13 an hour for EMTs to $1.50, and from 73 cents

Stautz takes the trip of a lifetime

By Judy Harlow

SHEBOYGAN FALLS - Many Americans cheer when April 16th rolls around. Tax preparation is over for another year.

Longtime Kewaskum resident Clayton Stautz will forever remember April 16th, but for a completely different reason. On that date, Stautz was among those on the Stars and Stripes Honor Flight to Washington D.C. Despite the fact it rained much of the day, there was plenty of pride and excitement among the 225 World War II veterans who received this honor along with him.

"Except for the weather, it was great," Stautz, who will be 85 in June, said about the recent trip, which certainly brought back a lot of memories for him.

Even before he finished Kewaskum High School — he was just 16 at the time — Stautz said, "I wanted to enlist, but my mother said to wait until after Christmas." He did, then signed on with the Army Air Corps, "That was before there was an Air Force," Stautz said, recalling how he was first assigned to Keesler Field base located near Biloxi, Mississippi, and after basic training moved on to Arizona where he attended an aerial gunnery school for B-17 airplanes.

"I graduated, then I was suppose to go to B-29 gunnery (school), but the school was full ... I had to wait, and then the war (World War II) was over," Stautz went on, explaining he had enlisted to serve until the end of the War and then six more months.

Men were still needed in the service, however, so "I reenlisted for another year. I went to (Bremen) Germany, and I worked in the carpenter shop over there."

While one might think being part of the Army Occupation would have been a rather frightening, being in Germany right after the War, Stautz said, "I had no problems in Germany. I felt safer there than I did than when I visited France. After the War, the Germans were friendly."

When Stautz's reenlistment was over, he came back to Kewaskum, working first at the West Bend Company where he met his wife, Aletta. Here they raised their two sons, Kevin and Stuart, and their daughter Joanne.

Stautz worked as a carpenter for the Department of Natural Resources for over 38 years before he retired.

Stautz was excited Elmer Hallen, Homer Schaub, Don Koerber and Don Seil got to go on earlier Honor Flights, and he said Hallen kept after him to send in an application to go.

"After Elmer went, he said, 'You've got to go,'" Stautz said, and finally he did send in his application to the Port Washington headquarters.

Several months ago, he received notice he was selected to make the trip to Washington D.C. on Alpha 2.

Derby evening held to raise funds for new cancer center

Attendees place their bets at West Bend Mutual's Prairie Center during last Thursday's A Kentucky Derby Evening fundraiser for the St. Joseph's Community Foundation. The event drew nearly 300 people ready and dressed to bet on pre-determined horse races, and it was expected to exceed its goal of $58,000 through admission price, betting, raffle tickets and a silent auction. The foundation supports the Kraemer Cancer Center at Froedtert Health St. Joseph's Hospital.

Stautz

"Everyone on the flight had a personal helper," according to Stautz, who said he drew a wonderful woman from Milwaukee, Mary-Todd Krueger, whose father was a World War II vet and whose son served one year in Iraq.

"She was a super person," Aletta Stautz said. "She was a nurse to begin with."

The day started early for Stautz, who rose at 3 a.m. to shower and get ready for his son Kevin to take him to the airport.

Decked out in his Honor Flight jacket, he and Todd-Krueger boarded the plane before 7, and it took off at 8 a.m.

Once in Washington, buses transported the veterans, both men and women, to a variety of Washington D.C. landmarks, including Arlington National Cemetery, the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, the Korean and Vietnam Memorials, the Iwo Jima Memorial, and the World War II Memorial.

Concerning his favorite, Stautz said, "The World War II Memorial. That's what the flight was all about. World War II veterans waited 60 years for their memorial to be built, and I am one of the lucky ones to see it."

Especially impressive to Stautz was the Gold Star Wall at the Memorial. The wall has 4,048 gold stars, each one representing 100 service personnel who died or remains missing. There were lots of tears when the men walked around the W.W.II Memorial, according to Stautz, who noted between 900 and 1,000 W.W. II veterans are dying each month.

After the tour was completed, two surprises still awaited the veterans, including the mail call in the plane and the large crowd that turned out to greet them upon their return to Mitchell Field.

"All of a sudden, they said you have mail call," Stautz said, proudly displaying letters he got from some of his five grandchildren, from school children and from perfect strangers.

Then came the welcome home, which was very impressive. "There were lines 10 to 12 feet on each side ... solid people. Little guys and girls were shaking our hands," Stautz said.

Among the memorabilia Stautz has from the trip are photographs from the day, a touching letter from Todd Krueger, and one of the signs displayed at the airport, which reads, "You mattered then, and you matter now," a fitting comment for service well rendered.

THANK YOU!

A big heartfelt thank you to all of the Town of Farmington residents, relatives and friends who sent me retirement cards and e mail notes over the past few weeks - I am just overwhelmed by all the well wishes I have received.

The party at the Town Hall after the April meeting was certainly a great surprise! There are so very many nice people who live out here and I'm glad I got to meet so many of you over the years. Thanks also to Mitch at The Statesman for the nice article in the paper - many people commented to me about it.

It has certainly been my pleasure to be your clerk for the past 30 years, and I know you will show the same kindness to our new clerk, Chris Schellinger, as you've shown to me.

*Thanks again,
Joanne Oneska, former Farmington Town Clerk*

To the Editor:

How many people know who Ayn Rand is? Up until about a year ago I never heard her name. During the midterm elections I kept hearing her name and a book called "Atlas Shrugged." It seemed that Tea Party members kept bringing her name up. Ron Johnson praised her book along with many others. And then over the past few months I've heard of other names praising her including Paul Ryan (who suggests that his staff read the book), Walker, Rick Snyder, Christie, Rick Scott, Michelle Bachman, Pawlenty, Ron Paul and his son Rand Paul (whom he apparently named after Rand). So I decided to learn as much as I could about her.

Here's what I found out;

She was born in Russia (early 1900s) moved to the U.S. during the Russian Revolution, wrote many different books and essays one which was entitled "Virtues of Selfishness." You can see interviews with her on You Tube (internet). Some were with Mike Wallace in 1959 and others with Phil Donahue in the late 70s. People called her a philosopher. She was a self-proclaimed Atheist. She believed in a very minimal government (only a police force and a military). She once compared John F. Kennedy to Hitler. She developed her own "religion" objectivism.

It is my opinion she was an egocentric sociopath. Ironically she ended up collecting social security and Medicare.

This current extremist group of Republicans that are driving this party are in many ways following the Hitler propaganda ideals of the 30s. The Nazis came out with a propaganda film entitled "Triumph of the Will" and now have made Rand's book "Atlas Shrugged" into a film. Their agenda right now of "privatizing" nearly all of government and suggesting this is good for you is completely twisting the truth 180°. I just find it incredible how many statements being made have been found to be false including emails, talk radio, and new reporting. If you have the internet, you can find some information on Factcheck.org. A guy like Paul Ryan (estimated wealth $3 million) inherited his dad's construction business after his passing when he was 16. He ended up collecting

Social Security to pay for college. If you look at Ryan's campaign donations (opensecrets.org) you will find many large insurance company and health care providers. Who exactly is Ryan working for when he asks seniors to purchase insurance with private insurers?

Our own Sensenbrenner voted in favor of Sensenbrenner's proposals. Sensenbrenner (whose estimated wealth is about $35 million) also voted in favor of reducing regulations on the Gramm, Leach, Bliley Act or Financial Services Modernization Act of 99. This act was directly responsible for the Wall Street mortgage banking collapse in 2008. We need to ask Sensenbrenner how he justifies this with his upcoming town hall meetings.

Jack and Bonny Ruelle of Jackson are lifelong residents of Washington County and both of their children were born at the New Life Center of Froedtert Health St. Joseph's Hospital. When nine-year-old Max complained of mild but persistent abdominal pain last September, Jack and Bonny realized that as a precaution, a visit to the Emergency Care Center at St. Joseph's Hospital was in order.

“We walked in about midnight,” Jack explains. “Max wasn't in severe pain, but he clearly wasn't himself. He kept saying, 'I'm fine, I'm fine.'" When the initial examination and X-ray didn't immediately identify the cause of Max's discomfort, a more detailed diagnostic exam was performed using the hospital's 64-slice CT scanner. The scan revealed a perforated appendix, a condition normally accompanied by extraordinary levels of pain.

“I remember the doctor saying to me, 'You've got one very tough kid,'" Jack says. “Max had emergency surgery shortly thereafter, and today he's doing great.”

The Ruelles are grateful for the high-quality care their son received at St. Joseph's Hospital. As Bonny explains, “It's incredibly important to have St. Joseph's emergency care nearby. The affiliation with Froedtert has just made it that much better. You always know that you're getting the best care possible.”

Village Board

per hour for drivers to $1, but Groeschel and Village President Andrew Pesch cited the same reason why that won't help staffing.

"I don't think the active ones are in it for the money," said Groeschel.

The increase bumps up the budget by $7,800 but won't impact taxes since users pay a fee for the service. It is the EMT first pay raise since 2003. The vote was 5-0 with Craig Garbisch abstaining and Harry Roecker absent and excused.

Groeschel said he and Village Administrator Mathew Heiser discussed raising the rate to support two part-time positions that wouldn't impact the tax rate. Now, the rate is $300 for village residents and $350 for non-residents. Groeschel said that could be raised to $350 across the board.

Groeschel said the average cost per call is $400 plus supplies and mileage.

Part-timers are available, but Groeschel said he isn't sure where they would come from. One woman from West Bend who is moving to Kewaskum contacted him about joining the EMT service, but she has no experience.

Garbisch suggested using the police officers as first responders like Campbellsport does.

Police Chief Richard Knoebel said he has no problem with the idea but training would be costly, and he warned that officers may not be readily available, given they may be responding to a crime or at the county jail.

First responder training includes 140 hours.

"Whew. You're talking a lot of time," Knoebel said.

Groeschel hopes to ease the situation within days.

"Hopefully, a lot of these problems we can get solved on the 10th of May," he said.

In the meantime, "You hope you don't get a call," he said.

EDWC, Chamber, Village to join forces to focus on economic development

The village wants more than just Statesman readers to know Kewaskum is indeed the gateway to the Kettle Moraine State Forest's Northern Unit, and the Village Board on Monday gave its blessing to setting up a task force to do just that.

Economic Development Washington County (EDWC) Executive Director Christian

Tscheschlok presented the EDWC's program and results so far on increasing economic development - jobs - in the county to an impressed Village Board.

Trustee Kevin Scheunemann, who said he heavily criticized economic development efforts in 2009, said he was impressed with Tscheschlok and the EDWC's work and he is now on board.

"This one is worth investing in," he said.

Village Administrator Mathew Heiser said Kewaskum's niche is the Gateway to the Kettle Moraine.

Village Zoning Administrator/Building Inspector Chad Cook provided some ways to get business and people to Kewaskum, including the tax incremental finance district, the Main Street project upgrade to go along with the state's road construction project in 2014 and the former Regal Ware plant covering nearly 500,000 square feet.

Cook is already working with the Chamber on a list of commercial space in the village and will give it to EDWC, which can help connect businesses to Kewaskum.

Chamber President Andrew Kuehl said the chamber would work on tourism marketing. One aspect being their website, kewaskum.org had 35,401 visitors, including a high of 4,421 in July last year. He also noted that Washington County ranked 23rd in 2010 for tourism revenue.

The village contributes $1,500 per year to the EDWC and Tscheschlok, Cook, Heiser and the chamber are looking for some contribution from the village toward the task force's effort, but not on Monday. They just wanted a general sense of the Village Board's interest in creating the task force.

Scheunemann said the goal should be to make the TIF solvent and he would like a more aggressive timeline than the one proposed to have the task force's work completed by budget time in fall.

Kuehl said before the task force starts pounding the pavement, he wanted to know the Village Board's opinion, namely on funding, though no numbers were mentioned.

"Economic development is not free," he said.

The board didn't take action but voiced general support. The next step is to determine what the board expects from the task force and the level of the task force's authority.

Hiring process for new chief to take four to five months

The Village Board on Monday dusted off its 23-year-old papers from the last time it hired a police chief in preparation of replacing Richard Knoebel.

The longtime chief and longer time police officer will retire July 1. Since the hiring process will take four to five months, the village is looking for an officer in command among the existing police force. The officer in command will head the department until a new chief is hired.

The board voted 6-0 to have an officer in command and discussed other job duties and qualifications. Harry Roecker was absent and excused.

The board seems to be leaning toward keeping the requirement of the chief to have a two-year degree rather than a four-year degree. Village President Andrew Pesch said a four-year degree holder could cost more money, and Trustee Kevin Scheunemann said someone with a four-year degree may use Kewaskum as a stepping stone.

Knoebel said requiring a four-year degree may eliminate some good command officers who have experience.

The board expressed support in keeping the residency requirement, meaning the chief would have to live in the village, and it supports allowing any existing Kewaskum officers being able to apply for the position, just like when Knoebel was hired.

Knoebel suggested changing one thing. In addition to chief, he is the emergency government director, which serves as command officer on the disaster scene.

That's too much for one person, Knoebel said. He recommends someone other than the police chief be emergency government director since during an emergency the chief will need focus on directing his officers. He said most communities don't have the police chief do that job.

"When you've got a disaster, everybody has their own jobs," he said.

Village Administrator Mathew Heiser said village staff recommends the position be advertised six to eight weeks.

Applications will come to the Police and Fire Commission. Staff will screen candidates and administer competency tests, then do preliminary background checks on high scorers. The Commission determines how many qualify, followed by more extensive background checks.

A panel of police chiefs outside the village will further screen the candidates, and the Commission will do interviews before recommending a candidate for the board to hire.

It is not yet known what happens if the board disagrees with the recommendation. Heiser said the Police and Fire Commission hires the police chief but the Village Board hires village staff. He said he is checking with a labor attorney on the process.

The hope, he said, is there is harmony in the hiring decision between the two bodies.

Bausch sets sights on 2014 Olympic games

By Mitch Maersch
mitch@kewaskumstatesman.com

Kewaskum's Olympic hopeful is ranked in the top five in the United States in her sport and will be training close to home this offseason.

2003 co-valedictorian Lauri Bausch will be living in Germantown and working specifically on sprints this summer with the possibility of making the 2014 Olympics in skeleton.

A sport similar to bobsled and luge, competitors start with an "explosive sled push," then dive onto their sleds on their stomachs, head first, and maneuver through the course at speeds up to 90 mph.

Bausch recently completed a busier season than most any of her competitors, competing in 24 races across the world, "an immense challenge to continually improve and peak that many times in the course of five months."

"I don't think any male or female athlete on the team raced half as many times," she said. "Needless to say, I was glad for the season to be over and get my mind focused on offseason training goals to prepare for next year."

Bausch started in Lake Placid, N.Y., then went to Park City, Utah, and Calgary. From there, she went to Europe for several stops: Cesana and Venice, Italy, Igls, Austria, and Munich, Winterberg and Altenberg, Germany. She came back to Lake Placid for the National Championships.

"This season was my international debut. After national team trials, I outranked what race circuit I was eligible for; I got to race on six tracks that I hadn't been on before - which was an incredible learning experience," said Bausch.

She had limited sightseeing time, but said the Italian Alps were "gorgeous."

After her fifth international race, she qualified to compete in the top two race tiers, Intercontinental Cup and World Cup, and earned a spot in the two Lake Placid Intercontinental Cup races based on eligibility and her national ranking.

The National Championships ended up being a test of will and perseverance.

"I had a rough first run in National Championships, when everyone else was setting significant personal best times. It pretty much came down to making a critical mistake in one curve of the track. That run put me in 10th place - even though 0.32 seconds would have moved me up to fourth place," she said. "After run two, I didn't close the gap enough to move up any spots. Day two was a fresh start for me - my first run is what jumped me up to sixth place, and consistency is what kept me there. Considering how physically and mentally drained I was, I was glad I could show the coaches I still had something left in me."

Bausch is now ranked fifth in the U.S. and 45th in the world, based on international ranking points.

Each country typically takes two competitors to the Olympics, but some qualify three based on world rankings. In the 2010 games in Vancouver, the U.S. men's team qualified three sleds and the women two. But in the past season's world championships, the women qualified three, "a promising step" Bausch said in having three make the 2014 games.

She knows how and where to shave off time to climb three spots by January 2014 to make the Olympics.

"Mainly, I have to get faster at the start. I'm one of the few 'non-sprinters,' so I'm trying to break bad sprinting technique to improve my push start by fractions of a second," she said. "It doesn't sound like much, but if I can improve my start by 0.3-0.5 seconds, the greater velocity would multiply down the mountain if I continued driving well. Also, if I can improve my 15- and 30-meter sprint times, I have the potential for some financial assistance by the U.S. Olympic Committee."

Bausch said she is excited that she became the first U.S. skeleton athlete sponsored by OSBE, a helmet maker that is supplying her with a custom helmet.

Custom helmet or not, Bausch has so far escaped serious injury in skeleton, despite some ugly looking wipeouts.

"A couple times I've sent out pictures after having a rough day of training, and now a few high school and college professors include my pictures in their sports injuries lectures. I played rugby in college though, so I feel like I was fairly prepared for taking the big hits that happen occasionally," she said.

Finances remain a challenge.

"I also need to raise enough funds to get more competitive equipment. But since I also had to afford travel, etc, and have to hire a sprint coach for this offseason, it's an added challenge to come up with enough money to buy a sled more costly than my own car," she said.

Bausch is planning another golf outing at Scenic View Country Club in Slinger for late summer, and may try to put together another fundraiser. Anyone interested in getting involved may contact her.

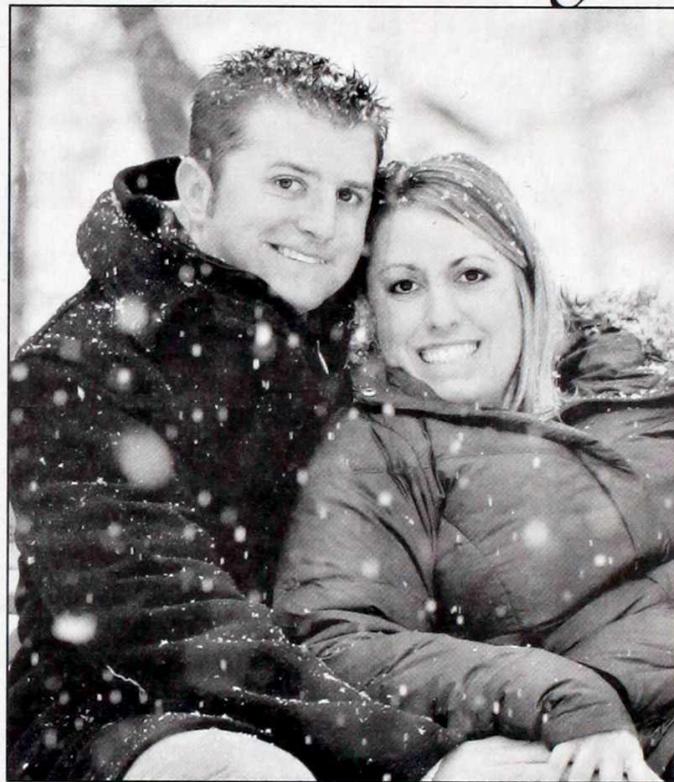

How Bausch ended up so close to home in the offseason has as many turns as a skeleton track itself.

On March 19, when Bausch left Lake Placid, she had a sprint coach, housing and a job lined up in Texas. She detoured through Canada, Upper Michigan and near Kewaskum to visit family before driving to Texas. Upon crossing into Upper Michigan from Canada, she said she turned on her cell phone to find out her housing fell through. By the time she got near Kewaskum, her job had fallen through.

Bausch drove back to the UP to take a temp job for a month and tried to land housing and work near a sprint coach as that is her top priority over summer.

This week, she found housing and a job in

Ramel - Weninger

Jeff and Peggy Ramel and Bruce and Carolyn Weninger, all of Kewaskum, are pleased to announce the engagement of their children, Sara E. Ramel and Justin D. Weninger.

Sara is a 1998 graduate of Kewaskum High School and a 2002 graduate of UW-Milwaukee.

Justin is a 2000 graduate of Kewaskum High School and a 2003 graduate of UW-Washington County.

The couple is planning a September 16, 2011 wedding.

Germantown. She said she will be doing some weight lifting and sled pushes at her alma mater.

Bausch said she may compete in the push championships in September before National Team Trials in October.

The 2014 games remain a possibility.

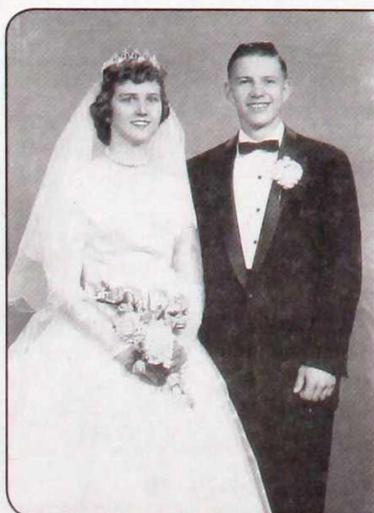

"I'll say 2014 is an ambitious, but not impossible goal for me," she said. "With more experience on international tracks, an improved push start, and investing in more competitive equipment, I ought to progress if I stay focused and prepare diligently."

Olympics or not, Bausch said the experiences she has had through learning skeleton are priceless, ever since she nearly had a panic attack at the thought of trying it in 2008.

"I still do it because I love it. Again, there's no fame or fortune in it, like other 'professional sports,' yet it takes full dedication, and lots of time, energy, and money," she said. "As a lifelong athlete, I like challenging myself physically and mentally, and raising my ideals of my own potential. If I made it to the '14 or '18 Olympics and didn't medal, or didn't make it there at all, I would still be glad I did this."

SPECIAL THANKS TO ALL OUR CONTRIBUTORS!

Legion selects Badger State representatives

Kewaskum High School has selected six juniors to attend American Legions Badger Boys State and Badger Girls State. This activity can be quickly described as a program which teaches the workings of government "by doing" and much more. It is a week long journey through a great many things that make us who we are: leaders, friends, athletes and most of all citizens of our respective cities, towns and our great state.

The students themselves will elect their own municipal, county, and state officials. As alderman or county supervisors they will frame, present and pass their own ordinances and laws; their own police and sheriffs will enforce them. As attorneys they will prosecute or defend, or as judges hear cases in their own courts. Through this program, this leader of the future should develop a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation.

It is a journey which has been described as the most challenging and most rewarding (and fun) experiences by those who have already participated in the program.

Badger Boys State will be held in June at Ripon College. Delegates are: Joseph Herriges sponsored by American Legion Washington County, Joseph Wollner sponsored by American Legion Post 193 Adell, Corey Frohna sponsored by American Legion Post 384 Kewaskum, and Taylor Toth sponsored by Bank of Milton.

Badger Girls State will be held in June at U.W. Oshkosh. Delegates are: Mikayla Kremer sponsored by American Legion Auxiliary unit 384 Kewaskum and Rae Monte Sponsored by Kewaskum Kiwanis.

A special thanks goes to those organizations who have financially sponsored these candidates and to the Kewaskum High School faculty for encouraging and selecting eligible candidates.

ELEANORE E. FISCHER

Eleanore E. Fischer, 87, of the town of Farmington, passed away on Monday, May 2, 2011, at Kathy Hospice in the town of Polk.

She was born on July 5, 1923, in West Bend, the daughter of the late Ignatius and Erna (Jacobson) Schneider, and on September 23, 1944, she was united in marriage to Howard Fischer at St. Boniface Catholic Church in Germantown. Howard preceded Eleanore in death on June 13, 1998.

Eleanore was a member of St. Michael's Catholic Church in St. Michaels. She was a devoted wife and loving mother. Eleanore will fondly be remembered as an awesome baker who prepared special birthday treats for family members, a wide variety of delicious Christmas cookies, mouth-watering tortes and cakes. She enjoyed crossword and word search puzzles and spending time with her girlfriends, whether it was going out for lunch or going on gambling bus trips. She will be deeply missed by her family and by all who knew her.

Those Eleanore leaves behind to cherish her memory include four children, Mary Beth Fischer of Waukesha, Michael (Patricia) Fischer of Jackson, Jayne (Tim) Duenkel of Fredonia and John (Patricia) Fischer of West Bend; seven grandchildren, Bruce and Bryan Hill, Michelle and Ben Fischer, Christopher, Matthew and Nikki Fischer, other relatives and friends.

In addition to her husband and parents, Eleanore was preceded in death by a brother, Lawrence "Rip" (Dorothy) Schneider.

A Mass of Christian Burial for Eleanore will be held at 7:00 p.m. on Thursday, May 5, 2011, at St. Michael's Catholic Church in St. Michaels. Father Jerome Rinzel will officiate and burial will be at 10:00 a.m. on Friday in the parish cemetery.

Relatives and friends may call at the church on Thursday from 4:00 p.m. until the time of Mass.

The Miller Funeral Home in Kewaskum has been entrusted with Eleanore's arrangements. Additional information and guest book may be found at www.millermartinfh.com.

25 Years Ago

March 21, 1986

After a month-long investigation and a two-day coroner's inquest, the circumstances surrounding the shooting deaths of Allen Guenther and Lee Luebke in the Town of Farmington east of Kewaskum are just as clouded and confused as the night of the incident. The inquest in West Bend Friday concluded with Judge James Schwalbach handing down an advisory opinion that he could not determine if any crime had been committed or whether at least one of the deaths may have been self-defense. Schwalbach also felt there was insufficient evidence to indicate that a 32-year-old man, who, according to witnesses' testimony shot the men, fired in self-defense. Testimony of several witnesses Thursday did little to clarify the events of that night as several witnesses testified they had been drinking before the incident occurred. After the inquest, District Attorney David Resheske indicated the case would remain open and the sheriff's department would continue the investigation.

A perfect 300 game was achieved by Al Toppel of Auburn Lake, who was bowling at King Pin Lanes in Campbellsport on March 6 in the Thursday night Businessmen's League. It was part of a 766 series. The games were 256, 300 and 210.

Opening with a strike-studded 278 game, Harry Roecker of Kewaskum, chalked up a high series of 725 in Weiland's Bowling Alley All-Stars in West Bend this past week, bowling 210 and 237 in his other two games.

According to a report in the most recent issue of the WIAA (Wisconsin Intercollegiate Athletic Association) newsletter, Kewaskum High School, which has been ranked as a Class A school, has been dropped back down to a Class B due to a decrease in enrollment. The change will become effective with the 1986-87 school year.

Kewaskum senior Jodi Yearling was the only member of the Kewaskum girls' basketball squad to be named to either the first or second all-conference teams. Yearling's play during the 1985-86 season earned her a spot on the second team in the balloting.

Both Kewaskum High

School track teams got off to a good start this Tuesday with the girls winning big over Plymouth by a score of 73-27 and the boys tying the Panthers at 59-59. Boys head coach Dave Drexler had high praise for two of the freshmen on his squad. Marty Schulties had a long jump of 17 feet, 3-1/4" which was a surprise for the coach from a freshman. Another freshman, Chad Schmidt, turned in a time of 13:07.0 in the 3200 meter run and earned Schmidt a second place in the event. The Indians have started the season with five returning letter winners: Jeff Newhauser (senior), shot put and sprints; Rick Dreher (senior), sprints; Cory Garbisch (senior), middle distance; Mark Johnson (senior), hurdles, and Miles Shaw (sophomore), long distance running.

What rust? Indians softball team rolling after extended break

Senior second baseman Jennifer Beiswenger rips an RBI double down the third-base line last Friday in a 10-0 win over Two Rivers in the first of a doubleheader. Beiswenger had a walkoff RBI single the following day against West Bend West.

Statesman Correspondent

Though exasperating, a two-and-half-week layoff didn't seem to hurt Kewaskum's fast-pitch softball team.

In seven games in a four-day stretch from last Friday through Tuesday, the Indians went 7-0, outscoring their opponents 54-12 with three different players hitting fence-clearing home runs and another with a walk-off RBI single.

On Tuesday at New Holstein, the Indians won 11-0 in six innings and 5-1. Sophomore flamethrower Jenny Reicher pitched both games. In the first, she allowed four hits, whiffed seven and walked four; in the second, she allowed one run on five hits, struck out nine and walked one.

At the plate, Reicher hit a two-run blast over the left-field fence in the first game.

"It was gone right away," said Coach Jeff Gosse.

Junior Michele Marquardt clocked a two-run bomb center-field in the second.

"You just heard the ping and you knew it was gone," Gosse said.

Conditions were perfect for hitting Prince Fielder-like blasts. Gosse said a light, maybe 5 mph wind was blowing out and it was cold with no humidity to slow down the ball.

"In this weather the ball just jumps off the bat," he said.

Players with two hits each in game one included Courtney Krueger, Caitlin Rinzel, Liz Schaller and Rachel Backhaus.

In the second game, Abby Amerling was 3-for-3, and Rinzel and Marquardt each had two hits.

"We did a pretty good job tonight zoning in. we hit a lot of balls hard in the outfield and just at people," said Gosse.

Last Saturday, Kewaskum went 3-0 at home in a round robin tournament. The Indians beat Port Washington, 8-5; West Bend East, 4-0; and West Bend

West, 7-6.

The West game carried the most drama after Kewaskum squandered a 6-1 lead.

Tied at 6-6 in the bottom of the seventh, Kewaskum started with a groundout, then a walk by Reicher. Amerling singled and courtesy runner Mallorie Kreis moved to third and Amerling to second on the throw to try to get Kreis. After a strikeout, the stage was set for Jennifer Beiswenger.

The senior second baseman lined the first pitch to left field for a walk-off RBI single to score Kreis.

Gosse is thankful his team was finally forced to execute in a close game.

"It was nice that we had to manufacture a run at the end of the game to win," he said.

Reicher allowed six runs on five hits, struck out eight and walked three.

Erica Chesak had a double and a triple, and the Indians got two hits each from Rinzel, Marquardt, Schaller and Beiswenger. Against Port, Marquardt allowed five runs on seven hits, whiffed three and walked three. Schaller had two hits.

Against East, Reicher whiffed seven and walked one. Krueger had two hits.

Last Friday at home against Two Rivers, the Indians took the field for the first time since April 12. The Raiders came in with a robust 30 runs in their first two games and left with a less robust 30 runs in their first four games.

Kewaskum won the first game, 10-0, in five innings and the second, 9-0.

Reicher put down the hammer. In game one, she allowed one hit in five innings, whiffed nine and walked two. In game two, she allowed four hits, whiffed seven and walked one.

"I felt good. I had a decent amount of energy again. I wasn't too worried about the doubleheader. I was ready for it so I prepared myself," she said.

At the plate, she was a combined 5-for-6 with two RBIs and five runs scored.

"Today I just came and said I'm going to hit the ball and I did. I got on base, which is what I wanted to do and I got it done," she said. "Looking at the first pitch, trying to hit the first pitch if it's good every time."

"She got up in the box tonight and she was very patient and laid back, and waited for the pitch to come to her," said Gosse. Amerling, the senior catcher and team's big bopper from last year, clobbered a two-run homer over the centerfield fence 210 feet away in the bottom of the fifth. It was the first home run of her career.

"It felt really good (off the bat)," she said. "As it was going, I kinda thought it, and I heard people in the field yelling, too, that it was going out."

Amerling tagged the plate with her teammates gathered nearby, anxiously awaiting congratulatory hand slaps and head taps.

"It was really exciting. Came home pumped," she said.

Amerling had a hot day, breaking out of an early season slump. She was 4-for-7 with a homer, triple and double, three RBIs and five runs scored.

She was just glad to be able to play.

"It's been a long two and a half weeks being inside. It feels good to be out here," she said. "We've been practicing really hard. We try to focus and make sure we keep our game on."

Gosse was impressed, especially after three outdoor practices all season at that point. The team had played four outdoor games.

The Raiders' combined 30 runs against Kiel and New Holstein caught Gosse's eye as Kewaskum last year beat Two Rivers in 10 innings and in the bottom of the seventh.

"They looked very good tonight. We knew that they like to bunt a lot. A couple of nights we worked on that real well. We've always played bunt defense pretty good," he said. "Jenny was on for the most part tonight. It wasn't until the last two innings they caught up to her."

Going forward, Gosse is concerned about overusing his star pitcher. He hopes his offense can score enough runs to get Reicher out of the game after five innings via the 10-run mercy rule.

Kewaskum is now 8-1 heading into Thursday's game at non-conference foe Elkhart Lake-Glenbeulah. The Indians play in the Weyauwega-Fremont tournament on the weekend, then host rival Campbellsport on Monday and go to Sheboygan Falls on Tuesday. The following Thursday they travel to defending conference champion Waupun for a doubleheader.

From May 5-13, Kewaskum is scheduled to play eight games. "It's going to be a lot of work and be tiring but we've just got to keep up the good attitude and spirit and keep hitting the ball good," said Amerling.

"We'll have to work hard at practice to keep everybody together and focused," said Reicher.

Plymouth continues to roll in EWC golf

By Judy Harlow

SHEBOYGAN FALLS- Umbrellas have been standard fare for the Eastern Wisconsin Conference golfers this spring. They still have not caught a break when it comes to the weather.

Playing two mini-tour meets in the rain last Thursday, Plymouth continued to dominate the league while Kewaskum struggled, even on its home Hon-E-Kor CC layout.

In the noon competition, Plymouth nipped Sheboygan Falls for first place 162 to 164, playing on the Red Nine at Hon-E-Kor. Kewaskum finished eighth with a 188 total.

Medalist honors went to Plymouth's Geno Kiela, who shot a 1-over-par 36, with Chris Bachmann of Falls just one shot back.

The Indians were led by senior Brad Nowack's 45. Nowack was tied for 19th place in the individual standings. Then came sophomore Mike Holt's 47, and the scoring concluded with a 47 from Tony Gonring and Adam Waala's 50.

In the afternoon, the teams moved over to Auburn Bluffs in Campbellsport, and Plymouth captured its third straight EWC meet, shooting a sizzling 153 in some pretty difficult conditions. Sheboygan Falls was second, but this time the Falcons were 16 shots back at 169. Kewaskum was eighth again, coming in with a 189.

Bachmann was No. 1 with an even par 36, then the trio of Plymouth golfers, Kiela, Tyler Siech and Marcus Gamoke, were all tied at 37.

Nowack was again the top Indians. He came in with a 43, which was tied for 16th overall. Dan Bohn, playing for the first time this season after serving a suspension, fired a 47, while Gonring and Alex Larsen, also back after a suspension, carded 49s.

"He's a senior and has been the steadiest golfer we've had so far," KHS coach Glenn Eichstedt said about Nowack.

"I thought the scores would be a little higher," Eichstedt went on, referring to the weather. He indicated Nowack was even or 1-over after five holes when he succumbed to the conditions.

Gonring was also doing well except for an 11 on the seventh hole when he hooked the ball out of bounds three times. "Then he parred Nos. 8 and 9," Eichstedt said.

"Dan Bohn is going to help us," Eichstedt said, optimistic about his top three players (Nowack, Gonring and Bohn), "but we're going to struggle to fine a fourth."

EWC at Hon-E-Kor: 1. Plymouth, 162; 2. Sheboygan Falls, 164; 3. Kiel, 169; 4. Campbellsport, 173; 5. Two Rivers, 177; 6. New Holstein, 179; 7. Waupun, 184; 8. Kewaskum, 188.

Schlice, relay teams produce bright spots for KHS boys; Stahl is lone lady winner

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

In a hotly-contested battle for the top spot, the Hartford Union High girls edged Slinger for the Washington County Track and Field Invitational title April 27th at Kettle Moraine Lutheran High in Jackson. Germantown prevailed over West Bend West in the boys contest, 151-144.

Where the ladies were concerned the Orioles amassed 129 points, 2.8 more than runner-up Slinger (126.2), and Germantown and West Bend West weren't that far behind with 119.2 and 117.4. Kewaskum, limited to one first place and one third, finished sixth overall with 55 points.

Ashlee Stahl was the lone Indians winner, taking the high jump crown after clearing a height of 4 feet- 10 inches (4-10). She also turned in a good effort in the 800-meter run, covering the two laps in a time of 2 minutes, 41.02 seconds (2:41.02) for seventh place, just .76 of a second out of fifth.

Stahl finished off the day with a good anchor leg in the 4x400 (Aly Backhaus, Tess Bandy, Megan Ringwell), helping the Indians to a sixth place with a time of 4:44.03.

The high jump title nearly went to the wrong girl, according to Gosa, who said, a jump-off was in progress when he was called to the high jump pit by assistant coach Jason Meinen. In checking the result sheet after Meghan Niemann of KML made 4-11 (following misses by both at 5-0), Gosa found that Stahl cleared 4-10 on her first effort, while Niemann made it on her second. He pointed this out to the person running the high jump, who saw her mistake and rightfully awarded the win to Stahl.

As expected, talented sophomore sprinter Mikkin Abfall did well, placing third in the 100-meter dash where she was clocked in 13.37. The winner of the race, Germantown's Sierra Thomas, hit the tape in a very quick 12.61.

Abfall had a busy afternoon, anchoring two sprint relays to fourth place finishes. In the 4x100, it was Tess Bandy, Natalie Bandy and Brittany Wagner combining with Abfall's anchor leg for a time of 56.62.

In the 4x200, Backhaus took Wagner's place in the third spot with the Bandys and Abfall for a time of 1:55.77. Slinger sizzled past the field with a 1:50.69 clocking.

Kewaskum claimed two other fourth places. Tess Bandy cleared 7-0 to finish fourth in the pole vault, while freshman Kate Schraufnagel's leap of 15-0 was good enough for fourth in the long jump.

Kewaskum's other scorers included: 1,600 — 8th by April Stern, 6:26.63; 100 hurdles — 7th by Val Hedlund, 18:30; 400 — 7th, Schraufnagel, 1:09.81; discus — 6th, Sienna Warnecke, 79-08; and 7th, Molly Potter, 78-02; and triple jump — Backhaus, 29-09.

Where the boys were concerned Germantown won five events and finished second in another six. Hartford and host Kettle Moraine Lutheran were the only other teams to eclipse the 100-point mark, scoring 115 and 107, respectively.

Kewaskum, behind wins in the pole vault and the 4x200 relay, earned 63 points, good for fifth in the eight-team event held in Jackson.

Multitalented senior T.J. Schlice earned the first 10 points of the competition, winning the pole vault, which was held in the West Bend High School complex. The word "in" is important here because officials made the decision to take the event indoors because of the rainy conditions outdoors.

So Schlice had one more chance to tie or set a new KHS record, but he missed by four inches. He cleared 13-feet (13-0) but couldn't make it over the bar in any of his three tries at 13-4.

Joey Wollner cleared 12-0 to add a fourth place, so the Indians had 15 points after the one event.

Schlice just missed a double win, taking second place in the high jump (5-10). He was also instrumental in the Indians' victory in the 4x200-meter relay. Running the No. 2 spot in the race, Schlice took the baton from Teddy Wollner and erased a small deficit and put the Indians in the lead. Joey Wollner and Eric Perkins were in the No. 3 and anchor spots and brought home the win in 1 minute, 36.80 seconds (1:36.80).

Gosa knew he was going to have three good sprinters for the two short relays, but the fourth spot was up for grabs, and Joey Wollner seems to be filling the bill. Joey is doing OK (for us)," Gosa said.

The same foursome took fourth in the 4x100 relay, with their 44.77 clocking, and Perkins (11.60) and Ted Wollner (11.88) placed fourth and sixth, respectively, in the open 100.

The long jump also competed in the 4.25 inches of the 20-foot mark, soaring 19-07.75 for a fourth place, with the best mark a 21-4.50 by West's Brandon Cowie, who also went better than 43 feet in the triple jump. When asked about the possibility of Perkins going better than 20 feet, Gosa said, "We're hoping."

Other KHS place winners in the top eight included: discus — 5th, Andy Doll, 123-09 and Travis Averill, 113-0; and high jump — 5th, Corey Burdick, 5-8.

As usual, a lack of hurdlers and distance runners hurt the Indians, who are also hampered by an overall lack of depth.

Washington County Track and Field Meet — 1. Germantown, 151; 2. West Bend West, 144; 3. Hartford, 115; 4. Kettle Moraine Lutheran, 107; 5. Kewaskum, 63; 6. West Bend East, 47; 7. Slinger, 46; 8. Living Word, 25.

Schlice, relay teams post victories in Pewaukee Invite

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

PEWAUKEE- Competing in two track meets in one week is never easy, but there wasn't much of a drop off in times and distances of the Kewaskum's able athletes in Friday's Altheimer Invitational in Pewaukee. In some cases, there were improvements and the participants gave good efforts, which pleased coach Jerry Gosa.

Mayville swept the event, with the boys piling up 161 points and the girls 122. Kewaskum placed fourth on both sides of the ledger, with the Indians' boys scoring 96 points and the girls coming in with 88 in the eight-team field.

Kewaskum's boys came in with five first places, two by T.J. Schlice, who cleared 12 feet, 6 inches (12-6) and 10-5 in the high jump.

In both events, the Indians had 1-2 sweeps, good for 36 of their points. Joey Wollner was the runner-up in the pole vault (11-6), while sophomore Corey Burdick was second in the high jump (5-6).

Schlice was also a member of the winning 4x100 and 4x200-meter sprint relays, along with speedster Eric Perkins and the Wollner boys, Ted and Joey. In the short race, the Indians clicked off a time of 45.86 seconds (46.86), and in the 4x200, their time was 1:35.00, an improvement of 1.8 seconds from their time in the Washington County meet.

Perkins also won the long jump (19-07).

The Indians also had two places in the 100, with Perkins third at 11.86 and Ted Wollner fourth in 11.92, and Andy Doll had a very good day, taking second in the discus (128.02).

The Ladies Indians also performed well in the sprint relays, posting a first and a second place and without Mikkin Abfall, who had to work.

The quartet of Tess Bandy, Aly Backhaus, Megan Ringwell and Natalie Bandy won the 4x100 event, hitting the finish line in 55.76, and the foursome of the Bandy girls, Ringwell and Aly Backhaus placed second in the 4x200 (1:56.58).

The high jump was a good event for the Lady Indians, with a 2-3 finish from Ashlee Stahl (4-10) and Brianna Jacak (4-8), and thirds came from Stahl in the 800 (2:38.70) and Backhaus in the triple jump (30-09).

Gosa was also thrilled to get a second from freshman Kate Schraufnagel in the long jump (15-02).

"She went over 15 feet on all of her jumps," Gosa said, noting Pewaukee is not the easiest place to long jump. He also praised Stahl who has been "working hard," which will result in further success.

The Indians are at the Vander Pan Invitational in Sheboygan Falls Friday.
