Undefeated EWC season in jeopardy

Kewaskum's cardiac kids do it again

Joey Wollner dives back into first on a pickoff attempt in the second inning at Two Rivers Tuesday. Brad Boegel hit a two-run blast in the top of the seventh and Lucas Kopeschka pitched out of a bases-loaded, no-out jam in the bottom to seal a 4-3 win. The Indians finished the Eastern Wisconsin Conference undefeated pending a ruling on a possible pitching violation this week.

TWO RIVERS - Kewaskum's baseball team this week closed out its conference season with another of the Indians' patented dramatic finishes, though it might become a bit of anticlimactic moment.

Down 3-2 at Two Rivers in the final game of the Eastern Wisconsin Conference season, Kewaskum was down to its final out. After Mike Schladweiler struck out, Corey Burdick singled and Sam Olla flew to center. Up came Brad Boegel, a first-team all state player and one of the top power hitters around who is known for being clutch.

Two Rivers had a conference on the mound to determine how to pitch to him. Intensity peaked as players and the small crowd of fans progressively picked up the cheering enthusiasm on both sides.

Purple Raider pitcher Alex Nebel had kept the Indians at bay all game. Boegel was 1-for-3 at that point with a double to right center, strikeout and fly out.

In this at-bat, Nebel first tried to sneak a fastball by him.

It didn't happen.

The junior turned on the pitch, clobbering a towering shot to left field that perhaps NASA's last Space Shuttle crew may have picked up on radar. Kewaskum's players and fans exploded, knowing it was gone the instant it left the bat.

Boegel barely hesitated in confirming that may have been the hardest hit ball he's had all season. "Ah, uh, yeah, that's possible. Yeah," he said.

It represented a change in approach. Boegel had been going deeper in the count for days.

"Doug (Gonring) gave me the green light on the pitch, fastball down the middle. I just took it," he said. "It felt really good. We were getting into it with the other team a little bit, going back and forth with our cheers. It just felt good to get the momentum on our side there."

"I kind of gave him the green light pitch. It's the first time he swung at an 0-0 pitch in about a week," said Gonring. "I just figured this kid was going to try to grease one because they came out there and talked about the situation."

Nice timing, Gonring said.

"He took it and turned it loose. I kind of anticipated that pitch and I was hoping he could respond with that type of result. That's the one swing situation that I was hoping for," he said. "And he's missed a couple of them over the last week. I'm glad he picked it now."

Of course this is Kewaskum. The game wouldn't be complete until Two Rivers loaded the bases in the seventh with no outs.

A single, throwing error and failed attempt to get an out at second base on a bunt had Lucas Kopeschka in a big-time jam.

The Purple Raiders' top of the order came up only needing one to tie.

Kopeschka got the first batter to pop up in foul territory down the third base line. Speedy Sam Olla, Kewaskum's shortstop and leadoff hitter, ran it down for out number one.

Kopeschka got the next batter on a swinging strikeout. The third hitter flew to Tony Gonring in center and the Indians - again - survived another EWC nail-biter.

"Everything seemed like it was falling apart," said Kopeschka.

He said he knew he had to throw strikes since he couldn't walk anyone in, but he didn't want to toss meatballs so he tried to jam the Purple Raiders inside.

"I had to do everything I could to make sure they didn't get the bat on the ball," he said.

It spoiled a good outing for Nebel, who allowed seven hits, whiffed 13 and walked two.

"Nebel's a pretty good pitcher, probably the best we've seen all year. So we just had to make adjustments. Later in the game we finally caught up to it and

New principal named at KES

The School Board on Monday unanimously approved a contract for Jody Heipp, associate principal of Slinger Middle School and its summer school director.

Interim Superintendent David Ewald, after questioned by board member Troy Hanson, said the district interviewed six candidates and narrowed the field to five. Only three of those showed up for the next interview, but Ewald said the district was satisfied with the candidates.

Heipp holds a master's degree in educational leadership and policy analysis from the University of Wisconsin-Madison and a master's degree in special education from UW-Oshkosh. She earned bachelor's degrees in elementary and special education from UW-Oshkosh.

She taught in the Slinger School District from 2002-2008 before becoming middle school associate principal, and has held several leadership positions in the district.

Heipp replaces Darcy Budnik, who moved to director of curriculum.

Heipp lives in Kewaskum.

figured out what we had to do and took care of it," said Boegel.

For the Indians, Kopeschak (5-2) got the win, going the final four innings. He allowed two runs on four hits, whiffed one and walked one. Boegel went the first three innings, allowing one run on three hits and whiffing four.

The Indians completed two double plays in the game, both turned by Burdick at second. The first started with third baseman Garrett Yarb, the second with Olla.

But Gonring was concerned with his team's handling of bunts. Kewaskum sometimes tried to get the lead runner and another time had nobody at first covering.

"We practice getting one at one all the time and all of a sudden we try to turn one at three ... if you just get two outs you're out of the inning," he said.

The game finished the conference's first undefeated season, sort of.

Last week, Doug Gonring pitched Boegel 7 2/3 innings in three days, a violation of the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association rule. Players may pitch a player seven innings every three days with an exception to the rule that doesn't apply here.

WES combined class proposal moves forward

By Mitch Maersch
Statesman Correspondent

Fallout from combining first and second grades at Wayne Elementary School continued at Monday's School Board meeting, albeit with less people and intensity.

A month ago, many irate parents ripped the School Board for being told via a letter during the last week of school that they're children in first and second grades would be in a combined classroom next year. The letter offered a 15-minute meeting to explain the scenario the night before school started in fall.

Since then, Wayne and Farmington principal Janet Molebash held a meeting with interim superintendent David Ewald and concerned parents. While Ewald said not everyone was happy with the response, communication improved.

Ewald said the decision was based on numbers. Molebash made the decision to combine classes, and then Superintendent Mike Krumm approved it.

The first-grade class has nine boys in it. Combining with second grade brings the total to 24 students.

"We think the decision was based on good logic," said Ewald.

Second-grade teacher Anne Wheiland will teach students the entire day, aside from special classes like gym, etc., and 4K teacher Heather Collien will come in to help for half days during the afternoon, she said.

Ewald said student-teacher ratio became an issue in receiving $150,000 of Title I funding. Too low of a student-to-teacher ratio at Wayne would put the district at risk of not receiving that money, he said.

During the public comment session of the meeting, parent Janet Heino said she contacted a lawyer to see if anything could be done legally to change the scenario. She was told to go above Molebash or open enroll to another district. It was already too late to open enroll, and Heino said she and her seven brothers and sisters all went to Wayne and she wanted her children there.

Heino said she had less of a problem with the decision itself compared to how parents were told.

"We're not saying the teacher can't handle it. What we're saying is the lack of communication ... We could have been informed. We would not have been as outraged," she said.

As the district moves forward, she said communication needs to get "a lot better."

Knoebel honored for years of service

Kewaskum's former Chief of Police Richard Knoebel receives a commendation from Village President Andy Pesch during Knoebel's last village board meeting, June 27. Knoebel served the Kewaskum community for over 38 years starting as a patrolman and then becoming Chief of Police in 1988.

Modern Woodmen helps send military kids to camp

Modern Woodmen of America, with a local office in Kewaskum, recently announced a donation of $30,000 to send military kids to summer camp. More than 2,000 Modern Woodmen volunteers assisted with fundraising, collecting over $19,000 for the effort. Modern Woodmen donated an additional $11,000.

The National Military Family Association launched Operation Purple camps in 70 locations across the nation. Children of deployed military parents come together to make friends and experience the great outdoors.

Modern Woodmen members across the country sold patriotic window clings for $1 or a donation to help military kids get a break from the worries of war through a fun-filled week at Operation Purple summer camp.

"We are so thankful for our military and grateful for the opportunity to support their children while they are serving our nation," says Jeff Jaeger, Modern Woodmen representative in Kewaskum. "This donation is a way to thank them for their sacrifice."

As a tax-exempt fraternal benefit society, Modern Woodmen sells life insurance, annuity and investment products not to benefit stockholders, but to improve the quality of life of its stakeholders - members, their families and their communities. This is accomplished through social, charitable and volunteer activities. Annually, Modern Woodmen and its members provide more than $23 million and one million volunteer hours for community projects nationwide.

Former residents displaced after Madison fire

MADISON- Two former residents are homeless after fire forced them from their Historical Capitol Hill Apartment June 30th. Jacob Clayton of Kewaskum and Robert Keith of West Bend escaped without injury.

According to his mother, Clayton a student of UW Madison had been up writing a paper for school when he smelled smoke. He looked to the street only to find fire trucks and firemen staring back up at him. Clayton woke Keith and they made their way to the hall where they were met by firemen evacuating the building. Both men noted, not hearing any alarms.

The Historic building built in 1924 proved to be a challenge for the firefighters. It took more than eight hours to extinguish the fire, which left 27 residents from 24 units with nothing but what they were wearing when they left the building. The Underground Kitchen also fell victim that was on the ground floor of the building.

Fire investigators have not yet determined the cause and no estimate of loss had been given, but it appears the $1.3 million dollar building is a total loss.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor-

On Monday, June 27, I attended a special school board meeting that was open to the public but public input was not allowed.

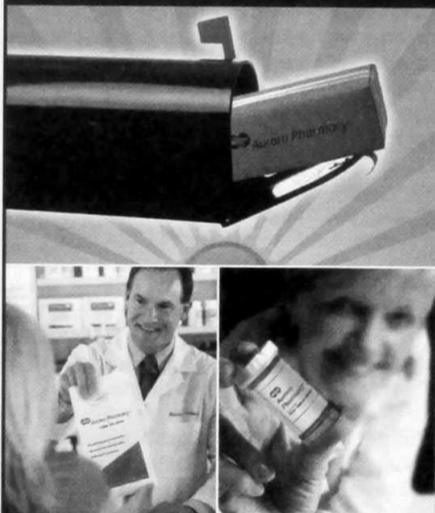

The board voted on health insurance and retirement benefits for our employees. A panel composed of administrators and teaching staff picked the insurance. No board members or taxpayer representation was on the panel. The board approved this plan and it is interesting to note that two of the members who voted for the plan have spouses who are retired from our district. If a different plan was approved, the district could have saved over a half million dollars.

Another topic that was voted on without public input was early release Wednesday program. Time and again we were told that early release was very important to our staff and administration. Some of us wanted more information about this program so an educated decision could be made before a policy is established. I find it somewhat disturbing that this policy was changed by our administration the Thursday before this meeting.

Again, things happen in our district and changes are made and our board is not informed.

God Bless & Go Indians,
Jim Leister

WEST BEND - Twenty-five years ago, the plan for Cedar Ridge Apartments was a joke.

Cedar Community CEO Steve Jaberg said he remembers being laughed at when he represented the organization at functions in Milwaukee.

Three-hundred senior apartments in West Bend was "the most ridiculous thing they ever heard," he said at the recent 25th anniversary celebration.

This month, 312 apartments and 420 residents later, Cedar Ridge is doing the laughing. And celebrating.

A quarter of a century old, Cedar Ridge is still going strong, after going against the grain of common sense business practices from day one.

Cedar Community was told to build rentable income units first to get cash flow going, then construct the amenities.

"We said no, this is all about purposeful living," said Jaberg.

So first came the lodge, exercise area, restaurant, open activities area and a swimming pool, though that last one carried a bit of confusion.

Community input showed interest in billiards. "Pool" was put on the plans, Jaberg said. The first ground dug on the site was for just that - a pool with water, not sticks and an eight ball.

The first couple to move in, Audrey and Phil Schowalter, were illegal. Cedar Ridge had no occupancy permit.

It also had no carpet, but it had dust everywhere and construction workers making noise at 6 a.m.

Within days, Cedar Ridge got its occupancy permit, and 21 more first residents called "pioneers" who made down payments based on blueprints on the wall of a pole shed wall. "You talk about faith ..." said Jaberg, "a real statement of trust. We thank you for your courage to move here."

For pioneer Alice Braeger of West Bend, the decision was easy. The former corporate secretary of the Ziegler Companies never married or had relatives to help take care of her. Ziegler provided funding for long-term care facilities.

"So when this became available I didn't even have to think about it," she said.

Braeger is fortunate in that she still drives and can take her friends to church and Bible studies. She knows one day she will rely more on Cedar Ridge for social interaction.

"It's been a very nice place. Lots of opportunities for service and lots of opportunities for activities," she said.

Pioneer Irene Kuechler from Allenton moved in because her husband couldn't take care of the yard anymore. She couldn't describe the best part about living at Cedar Ridge.

"I don't know how you would answer that because all your needs are satisfied here," she said.

The celebratory ceremony honored past resident councils, board members and other leaders who helped make Cedar Ridge what it was. Residents raised $160,000 in 25 years for the foundation which helps improve living.

Betty Christen, director of home and apartment living, was surprised with a special honor for her work the last 24 years.

"This will be a day that I will always remember," she said.

Christen started in apartment marketing and assistant management. After moving positions, she is now back doing what she started - convincing people to move in. She loves the work.

"The people, the opportunity to help people make a decision to make a change in their life and then seeing them bloom," she said.

Jaberg gave a little history on how the site was chosen.

Executive Director Rev. Louis Riesch had a dream to build senior housing, he said. The present location was almost passed by for a farmer's field along Highway 60.

"We came very close to building this in Slinger," Jaberg said.

Then the founders contacted David and Audrey Bohn, who had 50 acres available in West Bend. Upon arriving, officials were given red flags to place in the ground and imagine how the building would lay out.

The biggest concern was a lack of grass due to chemicals to help the corn grow, Jaberg said. Farmers assured them grass would grow back.

The site was next to a park, in the city and was already connected to sewer and water.

"Bottom line, this was the preferred site," said Jaberg.

The plan was to build in phases. It never happened.

"It filled so fast that we never did it in phases. We kept the construction crews here and did it in one phase," Jaberg said.

"A plan that got laughed at a lot turned out to be a perfect plan," he said.

Archaeology and Native American Heritage

The next program in the Kettle Moraine State Forest - Northern Unit's Summer Evening Events is "Archaeology and Native American Heritage in Southeast Wisconsin."

This evening is sponsored by the Friends of the Kettle Moraine. The program will be held on Saturday, July 23, from 7:00 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at the Henry S. Reuss Ice Age Visitor Center. The Ice Age Visitor Center is located off of Hwy 67 half mile west of Dundee. The program is free, but donations are always gratefully accepted. Come to be ushered back nearly 10,000 years just after the last glaciers retreated from Wisconsin. Get a glimpse into what life was like for the indigenous people of the Sheboygan Marsh area. Learn what tools they used to make their living off the land and water of the area.

Gary Henschel, the evening presenter, is the owner and curator of the Henschel's Indian Museum in Elkhart Lake. His family homestead was founded in 1849 on the north end of the Sheboygan Marsh. His ancestors shared the homestead with Native Americans until 1883. In 1996 a multiple burial site was accidentally discovered on the property. A Menominee Indian shaman performed the ceremony permitting the excavation of the sacred site pending the promise to rebury the remains. Learn about the sacred burial rites and view artifacts and tools discovered during the archaeological excavations by Marquette University and Milwaukee Public Museum. Gary will fit this discovery into the broader picture of ancient Native American history in Southeast Wisconsin.

For further information or directions to the Ice Age Visitor Center, contact the forest staff at the Ice Age Visitor Center. The staff can be reached at (920) 533-8322. The center is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., and on Saturday and Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Interested adults are encouraged to stop in and learn more by picking up information, talking to advisors or taking a campus tour. Advisors from four UW campuses - including UW-Milwaukee, UW-Oshkosh, UW-Platteville, and UW-WC will be on hand to provide information and answer questions. Information about the evening Washington Express degree program now available in both Hartford and Grafton, will also be available.

Campus advisors will include: UW-WC: Kim Schwamn and Laurie Kuehn;

UW-Milwaukee: Angie Runingen and Jim Klingbiel; UW-Oshkosh: Melissa Schmidt; UW-Platteville: Jennifer Foley.

Bachelor degree programs available at UW-WC include: UW-Milwaukee: Communications, Information Resources, Nursing, and Organizational Administration; UW-Oshkosh: Applied Studies; Liberal Studies with a Leadership Emphasis (accelerated evening program); UW-Platteville: Electrical and Mechanical Engineering.

Freshman and sophomore level classes in over 200 majors are also available at the West Bend campus allowing students to save considerably on tuition and then transfer during their junior year to a public or private institution. The Guaranteed transfer program helps ensure that all credits transfer.

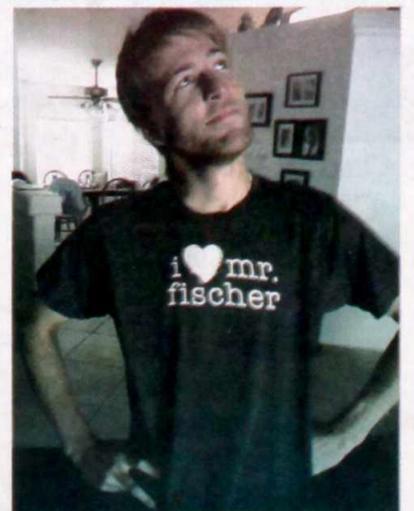

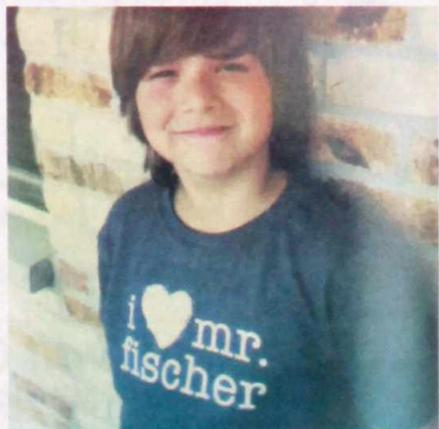

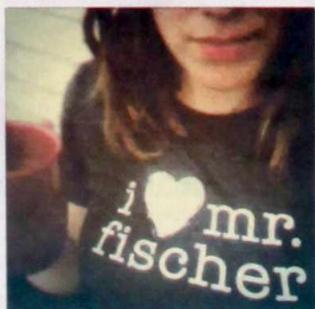

The UW Colleges specialize in providing a strong foundation for students. Statistics have shown that students who begin their studies at a 2-year UW Colleges campus have higher graduation rates than those who begin their studies at a 4-year campus.

Geology rocks

To wind up the school year, Mrs. Flaherty-Martin's second grade class presented a spring musical, Geology Rocks, written by Ron Fink and John Heath from Bad Wolf Press.

Poor Professor Rock was missing and students were searching for clues to locate him. They interrogated all sorts of landforms, mountains and volcanoes, valleys, deserts, and even the ocean shore. Of all the characters they interviewed the ferns seemed most suspicious. Being good detectives, at the end of the play the students returned to the ferns for deeper inspection and sure enough, Professor Rock had been their hostage. Professor Rock had been experimenting with alternative forms of fuel. That made ferns, otherwise known as oil and gas, nervous, so they kidnapped Professor Rock to keep his information a secret.

Scenery and costumes were created by the whole cast of characters.

Host families needed for exchange students

Kewaskum will be host to two exchange students from Spain and Venezuela this coming August. Area residents are encouraged to take advantage of the opportunity to experience their culture as host families.

Carrie Schulz of NARCEL Open Door is in charge of finding homes for the students and explains the students pay all personal expenses including school lunches, have medical insurance, and speak good English.

Arriving from Spain is a 15-year-old young lady who will be a sophomore. From Venezuela is a 17-year-old senior.

"They are adorable, and will be good students, and very involved in school. It is very hard for them since they don't have a family yet, and they are waiting. They will be happy with a family with or without children, young or old, single parent families, and single folks," Schultz explains.

For more information or to provide placement for one or both of these students contact Schulz immediately at (262) 544-1183, (414) 899-3890 or by e-mail schulzcarr@aol.com

Wings to set me Free

You must have been waiting, And got your wings today. I thought we heard singing As the angels led you away. Your time here was over, Jesus opened Heaven's gate. Somewhere way up yonder, We know your love will wait. And when our work is finished When everything's said and done

We too will be blessed The battle we will have won. So we will meet you some day, We will come without a fight. To your home far away, When we see the guiding light. So just remember dad, When you think of us, That we are only waiting For wings to set us free.

We love you and miss you, Mom & family

St. John Lutheran Church in New Fane has been named to the National Register of Historic Sites in Washington D.C. announced Pastor Charles W. Reehl. The Church has been a landmark in our area. It nestles in a beautiful valley formed by the Glacier in the Kettle Moraine. The building is made from the natural stone found in the area. Constructed in 1871, it is an outstanding example of the Celtic Gothic architecture found in Ireland and Scotland. It has the buttressed walls found in true Gothic architecture. The grounds surrounding the church and the cemetery are also included in the designation. The congregation recently celebrated its 125th anniversary since it was formed in 1859 when Wisconsin had been a state for just eleven years.

The M & E Restaurant at Hwy. 41 and 28 has been under new management since May 1. The business is operated by Joan Schnitzler of Theresa, who grew up in the area. She has been in the restaurant business for 15 years and was formerly employed at Meurer's Restaurant of Milwaukee.

Kemps Dairy Products of Kewaskum, a division of Marigold Foods, Inc., has been named winner of Quality Check Dairy Product Association's Irving B. Weber Award for Excellence in production and distribution of its products.

The Cookware Manufacturer's Association announced that it has elected Robert S. Zarling, senior vice president, sales, Regal Ware, Inc., Kewaskum, as its president at the association's annual meeting at The Greenbriar, White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia.

At the last regular meeting of The American Legion, Robert G. Romaine Post No. 384, Kewaskum, officers were voted in as follows: Commander, Mike Chesak; First Vice, Clayton Stautz; Second Vice, Dennis Kleinke; Chaplain, Al Dreher; Executive Board, Lloyd Teeselink; Sgt. at Arms, Harold Boettcher, James Korth; Judge Advocate, Roger McKenna; Historian, Marilyn Haug. Appointed were Merv Thompson, Adjutant and Service Officer; Pat McFadden, Finance Officer and Publicity.

The Kewaskum Jaycees are again planning a spendid event in the form of their Third Annual Pig Races and Pig Roast. The day's events are again scheduled in conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce's Dairy Daze on Sunday, June 22.

Many athletes from the area made it through the WIAA golf and track regionals last week in spite of the less than ideal weather. Hartland Arrowhead and West Bend East placed 1-2 in the seven school golf regionals at the Hartford Country Club. Eric Pearson, shooting a 79, qualified for individual sectional play at the Squires Country Club in Port Washington.

The week of May 22 saw another new team enter the Thiemerdome Thursday Good-time League. The Barrel Haus, managed by Kurt "Road Runner" Schmidt, who is the favorite son of Walter and Loretta, did a real con job on the league commissioner and indicated the Barrel Haus team would consist of overweight has-beens who were more concerned with the social aspects of post game elbow bending rather than actually playing the game. In reality, the Barrel Haus squad looked more like nitro-fueled jack rabbits as they blazed around the bases. On this young squad the only player who appeared to be past puberty was Derby "Methuselah" Rinas, the owner of the Barrel Haus, and all he did was crack a three-run homer which was the first home run in the league to this date. The league commissioner is considering a handicap system in which the players from the Barrel Haus will have to wear five-pound weights strapped to their ankles to slow them down. The Barrel Boys defeated Thornton's Bombers 15-5. In the second game, BJ & Company defeated the error prone Bartelt Insurance, 11-6. Next week is Mosquito Night. All fans are urged to bring a friend along free to feed to the mosquitoes.

Each year the Kewaskum Jaycees honor several area young people with awards for being outstanding in their community. Thomas McElhatton was chosen as this year's "Outstanding Young Person." "The Outstanding Young Educator" award for 1986 was presented to Dave Wietor. Both McElhatton and Wietor reside in Kewaskum.

Contestants for king and queen of June Dairy Daze to be held Sunday, June 22, have been announced. Representing the Kewaskum FFA are Keith Bartelt and Bev Schultz, representing Farmington 4-H are Randy Krell and Colleen Alsborg, representing Kewaskum 4-H are Bob Friedemann and Michelle Etta, and representing Wayne Crusaders 4-H are Brian Oelhafen and Carla Anderson.

The Kewaskum Indians started Eastern Wisconsin baseball action this week with a 4-1 pre-season record, even though ace left-hander Don Menzel will be out for a couple of weeks after breaking his right elbow in a physical education class recently. Kewaskum could be a contender for the EW championship this year with eight returning lettermen, including two first-team all-conference selections. Leading the veterans are the battery combinations of Menzel and Tim Dettmann, all-conference catcher. Dettmann batted a powerful .446 last year and Menzel established a 5-2 mound mark before coming down with mononucleosis. He also was the team's leading hitter with a hefty .538 average. Other lettermen include seniors Rick Staehler, Bob Yahr, Jack Aupperle, Jeff Newhauser and Tim Rohlinger, and junior Mark Schlosser. Other good prospects moving up are Troy Zimdars, Darryl Landvatter, Rick Krahn and Tim Bingen. Two sophomores, Jeff Miller and Mike Morell, also made the varsity.

Jeff Geidel, former Kewaskum High School ace, was the starting pitcher for UW Oshkosh's defending champions in the first round game of the NCAA Division III national baseball tournament Thursday at Marietta, Ohio.

A son, John Michael, was born to Daniel and Cindy Plzak, Kewaskum, on May 19. Sons were also born to William and Lisa Lickel, Kewaskum, on May 28, and to Peter and Laurie Winkels, Kewaskum, on June 1.

The heavy rainstorm Wednesday morning washed out 12 feet of rail on the main line of the Chicago and Northwestern road near Barton, delaying a passenger train. Water coming downhill on Highway 144 washed out the right-of-way at the highway crossing. The rainfall was the heaviest experienced for some time in this vicinity, a total of 2.41 inches having fallen.

Louis Bath of this village suffered painful burns on Tuesday evening of this week when gas fumes ignited as he lighted an acetylene torch to begin welding on an automobile in the Rimmel Manufacturing Plant. Before starting his welding work, Mr. Bath removed the gasoline and tank from the car to prevent such an accident. For further precaution he waited about 20 minutes before lighting the torch in order to give the fumes a chance to disappear. The car was standing over a drain pit in the shop, into which Mr. Bath crawled into to begin his work. As he lighted the welding torch, apparently there were still a number of gas fumes at the bottom of it which ignited with a sudden spirit of flame and severely burned him about his face and hands which were unprotected by clothing. By quick thinking he immediately turned off the torch and the flames vanished giving him a chance to escape from the pit and get away from the flames.

Knock Out ...Waterfowl load wins Wisconsin guide's confidence

Flyway Fowling Guide Service clients with a limit of ducks taken on the Mississippi River in 2010, all using double barrels and Remington Hypersonic shells.

One of the fringe benefits of outdoor writing is that new products are often offered for field testing at no cost. Manufacturers of outdoor gear want their products showcased. In 25 years in the field with camera and notebook, I could count with three fingers, or less, the number of these products I have accepted for field use from hundreds of offers.

When Remington made the offer with their new Hypersonic steel shotgun shells prior to the 2010 waterfowl season, I accepted on the condition that my friend and veteran Wisconsin duck and goose guide Todd Lensing would also field test the shells. First and foremost, any product that has the potential of decreasing the number of wounded animals or crippled waterfowl in the field will gain this column's attention.

Last season, this columnist hunted extensively for wood ducks early in the season in southern Wisconsin and for a variety of puddle ducks as the season progressed in northern Wisconsin. More importantly, Lensing, a dedicated and knowledgeable guide on Mississippi Pool 9 who already keeps detailed track of waterfowl statistics, including lost birds in the hope of improving on already high recovery rates, would be in the field every day of the 2010 season. He's that good, and in less than a decade of building his Flyway Fowling Guide Service, has earned the high return business of clients from throughout Wisconsin and the Midwest.

Lensing has over 30 years of duck hunting experience. He is a U.S. Coast Guard Master Captain, holds a Wisconsin Guide License, has training in hunter safety, CPR and is a National Registry First Responder and volunteer fire fighter. He has fulfilled all requirements set forth by the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service in order to guide on the Upper Mississippi Wildlife and Fish Refuge.

At times more than 75 percent of the continental canvas-back population, or 300,000 birds may be staging on Pool 9. Other diving ducks including bluebills, ringneck, redhead, bufflehead and goldeneye frequent the area. The shallow backwaters also attract mallards, wood ducks, wigeon, teal, gadwall and Canada geese. Lensing's clients harvest hundreds of waterfowl annually.

Lensing was given the product under no conditions. He was asked as the true waterfowl expert to use the shells extensively and report exactly what he witnessed while hunting off of Crawford Counties on the Mississippi. This column has no advertising contract with Remington and in fact, it was discovered last month that Remington changed the advertising agency from the agency that last year provided the Hypersonic shells to us for testing.

"As a guide, I am always trying to provide my clients with the best possible opportunity to harvest ducks," Lensing said. "It can be very frustrating when your clients spend good money to book a guided hunt, and then bring along the most inexpensive steel shot they can find. This has resulted in spending extra time chasing down 'cripples' rather than hunting. Don't get me wrong, I know money is tight for everyone and some of my clients can't afford expensive shells or just choose not buy them with the idea that a shotgun shell is a shotgun shell. I have never really pushed the issue because of those reasons."

According to Lensing, there were basically two steel shot options available; a lower end $.56 per shell or the high end $3.00 per shell. At approximately $.80 per shell, he called the Remington Hypersonic loads "a great new compromise that produces outstanding results."

"Now I am no ballistics expert, but as an experienced guide, I can share what I have observed with hunters using the Remington Hypersonic 12 gauge 3" 1700 FPS 1 1/4 ounce shot #2," Lensing said. "I tested 10 boxes and randomly chose clients to give them a try. According to my records, while shooting the Remington loads we had a total of 6 crippled ducks, and recovered all but one. Most ducks hit with Hypersonic were dead on the water. Many times I witnessed ducks doing complete summersaults when hit at ranges of 20 to 30 yards. The knock-down power was super impressive. More importantly was the fact that we were able to stay anchored and not have to chase and dispatch cripples. The average time to get the boat out or send the dog on an extensive handle is about 20 to 25 minutes, which adds up in a hurry to lost hunting time."

According to Lensing, the shells were used in semi-automatic, pump, and double barrel shotguns, with either improved or modified chokes, while hunting over decoys. His clients, he said, all were enthusiastically impressed.

"Each hunter felt that the shell is best suited for a semi-automatic shotgun to help reduce recoil, but all agreed that the increased hunting time made the recoil worthwhile," Lensing said. "The Hypersonic is a great compromise between the inexpensive and expensive shells and the results are incredible. I will be happy to recommend the shells to all current and future clients. Thank you Remington, your shotgun shell provides a dream come true for this waterfowl guide."

As for this columnist field results, we hunted more Wisconsin waterfowl than during any season in the last decade. The majority of our hunts took place in Sheboygan County in September and October and in Vilas County from October through the remainder of the season. Of approximately 30 ducks hit, only a wood duck in southern Wisconsin and a mallard in northern Wisconsin had to be recovered and dispatched. The knock down power of the Hypersonic shell is something I recommend to all Wisconsin waterfowl hunters. I've said this before: only an unacceptable percentage of unrecovered game could ever make me consider not hunting. That starts with the hunter's own ethics and preparation. But products that assist the goal of a high quick kill percentage are always welcome.

Brettingen returns to IWFL, finishes with perfect regular season and named to All Star team season. She and her teammates are certainly happy they did.

The Warriors sported the top-rated offense in the Country to finish a perfect 8-0 and claim the Midwest Division Championship and are now on their way to the first round of the playoffs.

"I wasn't going to play (this year), but then the owner (of the Warriors) hit me up on Facebook," Brettingen said, adding her boss made it possible to play when he arranged her work schedule around the football schedule.

"Our first game was April 1st, and the regular-season ended June 11th," Brettingen, who was the leading quarterback in the 27 women's football teams in the IWFL, said. The Warriors won their final regular-season game 44-0 over the Kenosha Indian Trail Academy. This was the Warriors' fourth shutout of the season.

"We've been blowing people out all season," Brettingen said. "Our offense is pretty potent. It's been fun being a part of it."

Brettingen threw for just over 1,200 yards this season, completing nearly 60 percent of her passes and tossing 19 TD passes.

When asked about her favorite receiver, Brettingen said, Abby Coons of Milwaukee, the slot receiver in the Warriors' spread offense.

"Our offense was ranked No. 1, and we had the No. 1 passing game in the nation," Brettingen, who sports No. 2 on her blue and black shirt, said.

Not only are the Warriors a power on offense, they sport a strong defense as well, giving up just 32 points the entire season, according to Brettingen, who will be 28 next month and is the first assistant at the McDonald's in Grafton.

The Warriors are now in the Western Conference finals and still undefeated. That's after surviving a thrilling battle against the Portland Shockwave on Saturday, June 25 by a score of 13-12. The game was played at the Indians Trails Academy Field in Kenosha. Portland had just two losses on its current record.

Brettingen's dad, Jeff, was in the crowd at the Indian Trail Academy Field in Kenosha, and said, "It went right to the end. They were going for the 2-point conversion. They were stopped ... I would say inches from the goal line. It was a barn-burner."

Brettingen threw one TD pass for the winners, hitting her favorite target, Coons on a short scoring strike midway in the second quarter. That made the score 6-6, and the Warriors surged ahead when Lesley Gittings was successful on the PAT kick.

Coons also scored the Warriors' other touchdown, but this time she was playing defense, picking off a Shockwave pass and running it back for a "pick-six."

The Warriors tried a run for the extra point, and they were stopped in their tracks.

Portland drove for its second TD in the closing minutes to close the gap to 13-12, and the Shockwave wanted no part of a tie, instead deciding to try for the 2-point conversion on a run.

The Warriors' defense made the big stop, and the rest is history.

Later in the day, Brettingen and her teammates learned that the California Quake defeated Sacramento 22-19 in the other Western Division playoff game and until Sunday night thought they would have to go California for the championship game. That is not the case, however, The Warriors later learned they would entertain the Quake on Saturday, July 16th in Kenosha on the Indian Trail Academy Field.

Brettingen and four of her teammates recently learned they would be part of the All Star team. Brettingen, who is 5-4 and weighs 130 pounds, was named as one of the quarterbacks. This game will be played on Championship Weekend in Round Rock TX, the end of July.

Brettingen is a graduate of Kewaskum High School.

The head coach of the Warriors is Scott Flood of Milwaukee. He directs the team offense. The Warriors have a squad of 22 women, with many coming from the Milwaukee area, four from Chicago and one from Green Bay.

The combination of an e-mail from the owner of the Wisconsin Warriors and the cooperation of her boss at the Grafton McDonald's allowed Brettingen to come back for the 2011 IWFL (Independent Women's Football League)

Even though she had been away from football for a couple of years, Kewaskum's Stefanie Brettingen never lost her zest for the game.

Chad Cook, left, representing the Kewaskum Athletic Association, receives a check from Scott and Patti Derge. The funds were raised during the annual Ben Derge Run/Walk/Bike on April 30. This year's proceeds also benefitted Susan G. Komen Walk for a Cure Foundation. The Kewaskum Joining Hands Committee consists of Chris and Steve Jung and the Derges. "Chris and Steve work very hard to make this event a success, it would not happen if it weren't for their efforts", said Patti. "This year we were able to raise $2,800 for the KAA. Money is slated for a new scoreboard at the northwest diamond in Kiwanis Park. "Our son, Ben, spent many happy hours at the park, so this is perfect," added Scott.

On July 5, Boegel went six innings at home against Two Rivers. On July 7, he went 1 2/3 against Campbellsport in a 15-9 win. A violation means the Campbellsport game would be forfeited.

"I made a mistake," said Gonring. "I thought I had all my innings."

Gonring said he will get the final word this week, "but it does not look good. It's my mistake. Nothing the kids did. It's totally on me."

Boegel didn't want to comment on the issue, but said, "We went undefeated in my mind."

If Kewaskum forfeits the Campbellsport game, it would be its second straight 17-1 EWC season and third straight title. The Indians last year lost, 3-2, at Sheboygan Falls in the third last conference game of the season.

Regardless, the Indians enter the playoffs 23-5 or 22-6 and on a 19-game winning streak not counting the possible forfeit. The last time the Indians lost was June 4 at Germantown.

Kewaskum takes on Slinger today in the season finale and hosts Oostburg (3-19) on Tuesday in the first round of the playoffs.

The winner of the Kewaskum-Oostburg game takes on the winner of No. 3 West Bend East (13-13) and No. 6 Ozaukee (9-13) on Friday, July 22, at Campbellsport.

Should the seeds hold, No. 2 Kewaskum would again face No. 1 West Bend West (20-5) next Friday on for a chance to go to state at Stevens Point.

"I think we're feeling pretty good. We're getting our confidence up," said Boegel.

"Winning games like these help. We've just got to get the mental aspect down and work a little bit harder."

"We've got a very high confidence level compared to last year. We're, like, rolling into the playoffs and that's something we need to do," said Kopeschka. Despite clutch power hitting, pitching has been the Indians' strength all season, both in depth and quality. Starters Boegel, Cody Nuernberg, Schladweiler and Kopeschka all have stifled opposition. And Tony Gonring, who hadn't pitched in a while, looked good in one inning of Tuesday's rain makeup at Two Rivers.

"We'll just play Thursday's game as is and try to get all the pitchers some work again. Surprised with (Tony) threw the ball really well. I was impressed with that," said Doug Gonring. "It's just our hitting. Good pitchers we try to swing too hard. We try to over-swing and out-swing the pitch instead of just trying to make contact. You know, Brad had a very relaxed swing. Look at what happens."

Kewaskum 13, Two Rivers 0 (Tuesday): The Indians took a 2-0 lead in the first inning July 6 before the rain-delayed game was finished Tuesday. Pitching: Nuernberg, 4 innings, 2 hits, six strikeouts, two walks; Tony Gonring, 1 inning, two strikeouts.
