Up and over.... Dickmann clears 16'

Hometown Pharmacy to open here

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

By his own admission, former KHS track standout Jake Dickmann was in "a one-month slump" at the start of the track season, but boy did he break out of it in a big way at UW-Platteville Invitational on April 13.

Vaulting for UW-Oshkosh at the start of his final outdoor campaign, Dickmann cleared 16 feet (16-0), bettering his personal best by seven inches.

Jake's dad, Pete Dickmann, even had him repeat the number on the telephone when he called home with the good news. "My dad asked, 'One six?'" for the 16, Jake said last week from his residence at UW-Oshkosh, where he is majoring in biology and ecology.

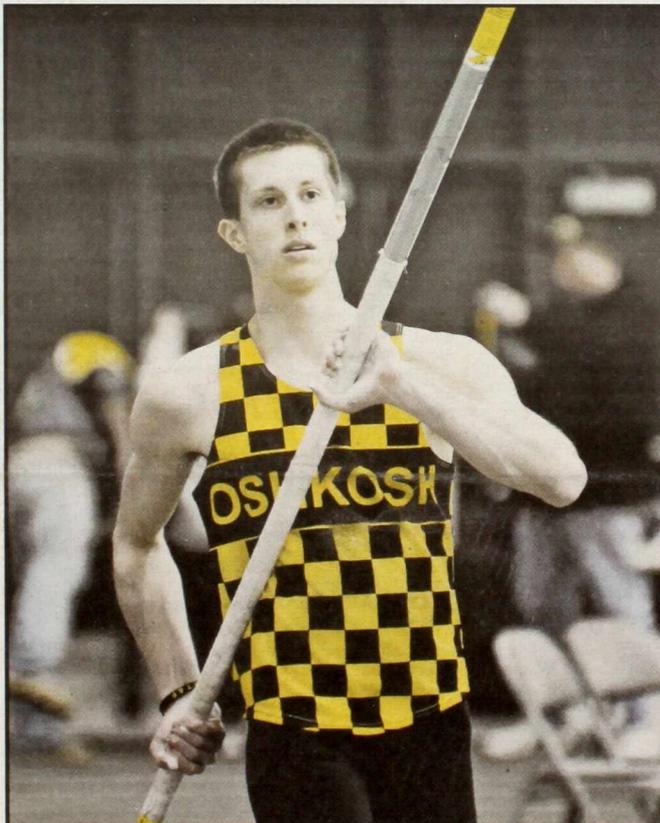

With that effort, Dickmann, a 2009 graduate of Kewaskum High School who placed second as a senior in the Division 2 state meet, has jumped up to the top five among NCAA III vaulters.

"So far, I'm seeded fourth," Dickmann said, indicating the top 20 qualify for this year's NCAA III Track and Field Championships.

Dickmann cleared 16-0 on his second try, and he said, "This was a real good vault ... (I had) a couple inches to spare."

WEST BEND- Kewaskum is the newest location for the Hometown Pharmacy chain. The company's website listed the location on Tuesday.

Village of Kewaskum Building Inspector Chad Cook stated this week that Hometown Pharmacy has taken out a permit for interior renovations. The permit lists the former Video Plus portion of the Kewaskum Mall as the location of the pharmacy.

Hometown Pharmacy operates a pharmacy in West Bend near the West Bend Clinic at the corner of Paradise Dr. and 18th Avenue. The company operates 26 other pharmacies in the state. As far north as Neenah, as far south as Sussex, as far west as Middleton, two in Oshkosh and also Watertown.

According to their website, in addition to the pharmacy services, they also have a wide variety of over the counter products, natural health and beauty products, vitamins and supplements and durable medical equipment. Each store has school supplies, greeting cards, giftwrap, home decor items, inspirational gifts, Willow Tree, Jim Shore, Yankee Candles, Woodwick Candles, gifts, frames and seasonal items.

Hometown Pharmacy is headquartered out of Rio, WI Their website states they have been serving their communities since 2003.

Kewaskum has been without a pharmacy since Aurora Pharmacy abruptly closed their Kewaskum Mall location over a year ago, March 28, 2012. Customers of the pharmacy had their prescriptions transferred to Walgreens Pharmacy in West Bend. That space has since been taken over by Advance Auto Parts, who is set to open on May 16.

Renovations have not yet started to take place in the former Video Plus location that closed about five years ago.

Man hunt continues for known sex offender in State Forest

By Andrew Kuehl
andrewkuehl@icloud.com

TOWN of KEWASKUM- The Washington County Sheriff's Office continued their hunt for a wanted sexual offender Tuesday night and came up empty. Area residents were alerted of the situation late Tuesday afternoon even though deputies have sought the man since Saturday evening.

On Saturday, April 20 at 7:51 p.m., a vehicle was found abandoned on a snowmobile trail in the Kettle Moraine State Forest about 100 yards south of the E. Moraine Dr and N. Mill Rd intersection. The vehicle was discovered by a hiker who reported the situation to the Sheriff's Office.

Larry James Arnold

38, 5'10" 160 lbs., blonde, blue eyes

The last known operator of the vehicle was identified as Larry Arnold. The owner of the vehicle and Arnold have resided together in the Boltonville area for the past year. Arnold had permission to use the vehicle, but the owner had no idea why it was left abandoned on the trail. Arnold was last heard from earlier in the day on April 20.

Because of the suspicious circumstances, the vehicle was removed and the area was searched by Deputies using an ATV and handheld FLIR (infrared) devices. A tracking dog from the Sheboygan County Sheriff's Office also assisted in a search of the area, however Arnold was not located. On April 21-22, cadaver sniffing dogs from Great Lakes-Search & Rescue were also deployed to the area without success in locating Arnold.

who made 16-0 had the bar pushed up to 16-4, and he felt, "My last two (tries) were pretty good."

So how did Dickmann suddenly kick the 14-8 to 15-0 habit and make such a big jump? For starters, Dickmann gives credit to the new vaulting coach at the school, Al Tappin, who was a 17-foot jumper at UW-La Crosse.

Also part of the progression comes from "a lot of drills in practice," along with speed work, and Dickmann said, "I think visualization was the biggest thing that helped me."

Dickmann said normally the vaulters jump on Mondays and Wednesday, participate in speed work on Tuesdays and Thursday, and Friday go through a pre-meet warmup.

With this breakthrough performance, Dickmann said he is eager to compete again and will go into future meets with a great deal of confidence, confidence that is building because "Now that I know things that I have been doing in practice are showing up at the meet."

Dickmann and the Titans, who won the title at UW-Platteville, were scheduled to compete on April 20 at various sites. Several athletes were heading for meets in California, but Dickmann was scheduled to vault in the Phil Esten Challenge at UW-La Crosse.

Speaking of UW-La Crosse, the school will host both the WIAC (Wisconsin Intercollegiate Athletic Conference) Track and Field Championships and the NCAA III Championships.

"It will be kind of cool to end my college outdoor career where I ended by high school career," he said.

Campbellsport Convent to close

The School Sisters of St. Francis have announced that the religious community will close St. Joseph Convent in Campbellsport by December 31, 2014. The April 22 announcement was made by the three-member leadership team of the international congregation's United States Province and the province's treasurer.

The decision was reached after nearly a decade of research, strategic planning, surveys, and ongoing consultation with the convent's residents and staff, the congregation's members, and the Campbellsport community. In its announcement, the community leaders stressed that the care of the sisters was first and foremost on their minds throughout the process.

"Our primary goal throughout this time is to ensure the continued quality care of our sisters within our facilities," they said.

The continuing cost of maintaining the facility was another important factor in the recommendations that were endorsed by the community's Provincial Assembly in 2007, which affirmed the choice to begin a process with the clear intention of closing the convent.

"While developing the 2013-2014 province budget, and with the reality of vacancies at all our other retirement facilities, it became evident that the time for closing [the convent] is imminent," the leadership team said.

The sisters established their first permanent presence in the United States in Campbellsport in 1874, and for six years it was the community's motherhouse. The facility was expanded over the years and today is home to 90 sister residents. The convent has 125 full- and part-time employees.

"We assure you of our care and support for each sister and staff member during this time, and ask that we walk together with each other while keeping our sisters in Campbellsport in prayer," the leadership team concluded.

Thanks for the comments last week. I had two readers contact me about my comments regarding sewer overflows at MMSD. I wanted to share their perspective.

Since 2002 the MMSD and its member communities have been under a stipulation agreement between the Department of Justice and the DNR related to sewer overflows.

Since that time the District has spent millions of dollars on capital improvement projects. Member communities have additionally spent tens of millions of dollars upgrading their own systems. All under the oversight of the DNR.

It's nice to know that MMSD is being mandated to do something. However, I think it's concerning that last week, member communities of MMSD dumped 524.9 million gallons of untreated wastewater from sanitary and storm sewers into waterways and the DNR is looking to mandate small communities like Kewaskum to curb phosphorus pollution when they haven't gotten the problem of mixed sewage into our waterways.

A 21-year-old town of Barton man who allegedly broke the arm of his two-and-a-half week old daughter waived a preliminary hearing at an April 16 appearance in a Washington County court.

Jesse J. Byers will be arraigned on May 23 for felony child abuse, court records show.

If convicted, a criminal complaint against Byers states he could face up to 40 years in prison.

The incident occurred Nov. 15 last year and when the baby was brought to St. Joseph's Hospital more than 24 hours later, a doctor said the reason given for the injury - that the child's arm had been tangled in a blanket - was not consistent with the severity of the fracture, according to the criminal complaint.

When confronted by an officer about the truthfulness of his statement, Byers said in the early morning hours of Nov. 15, the baby was crying. He got frustrated and forcefully drove her arms into a bed while rotating his hand upward until he heard a "pop" coming from her left arm and the baby began to cry, according to the complaint.

The complaint states he knew what he had done was wrong and woke the mother, but admitted to an officer that when he talked to woman, he lied about what had happened.

Arnold is currently wanted on outstanding felony warrants issued in 2010 by the Wood County Sheriff's Office. The warrants are for bail jumping and contempt of court after he failed to make court appearances in a disorderly conduct case in Wood County.

Arnold is a known drug user and is currently registered as a sex offender in Wisconsin. He was convicted of Second-Degree Sexual Assault of a Child in 1995. He is not currently on supervision for that offense, but he is not in compliance with meeting registration requirements with the Sex Offender Registry Program. Arnold has a criminal history including charges of disorderly conduct, causing injury by OWI, eluding, resisting and obstructing and possession of drugs and drug paraphernalia.

Arnold has not made any recent threats to harm himself or others. He is not known to be armed at this time. The Sheriff's Office wishes to locate him for questioning and to take him into custody on the outstanding warrants. Due to his criminal history, the public should consider Arnold potentially dangerous.

The Washington County Sheriff's Office released Arnold's information late in the day Tuesday and were immediately alerted to area residents who believed they had seen Arnold near their homes. If you believe you know the whereabouts of Arnold or observe suspicious activity in the area of the Kettle Moraine State Forest in Washington County, please call the Sheriff's Office at (262) 335-4411.

Hammen and Boxkar gaining prominence through Hard Rock Cafe's Rising 2013 contest

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

For four years in the late 1990's, a tall, floppy-haired kid named Matt Hammen strolled the halls at Kewaskum High School, dividing time between studies, his music and high jumping for the track team.

Now 33, high jumping — he finished third in the state as a senior — is a fading memory, but the music goes on. Hammen, who resides in Appleton and works for the Heid Music Company (in Oshkosh and Appleton) by day, is on the verge of a possible world tour with his band, Boxkar, after they advanced to the finals of the Hard Rock Rising Global Battle of the Bands competition.

Originally, Hammen was planning a career in computer science when he left high school, earning an associate degree from UW-Washington County before attending UW-Milwaukee for two more years.

Music proved to be his big love, however, after playing in the Concert Band, the Trombone Choir and the Pep Band at UW-Milwaukee.

Taking a break from his studies, he first was part of a West Bend band called "Sledgehammen." I played base," Hammen said in a recent interview, indicating other members of this group included his dad, Jim Hammen, cousin, Jim Hammen, along with Paul Ley and Mark Bailey.

"We played some smaller places around West Bend and Slinger," Hammen went on, and during this time he happened to attend a concert in the Appleton area and talked with members of the group afterward. That band was looking for one new member, so Hammen eventually auditioned with them in 2003, and "It ended up to be Boxkar ... I've been with them every since."

Boxkar got to play for the presidential inauguration in 2005 after President George Bush's daughters had heard them play in Appleton. "We were the only unsigned band" at the event, which drew between 15,000-20,000 people "It was a pretty big event. The rest (of the bands) were national bands you see on MTV."

Boxkar also has appeared in a variety of Midwest states, and, "We played L.A. a couple of times ... in the VIP Room," Hammen said.

Still, nothing is as exciting as the Hard Rock Rising competition. "Twelve thousand bands entered the competition," Hammen said. Boxkar won the final round in the Chicago Hard Rock Cafe competition, so, "We're one of 96-bands that are left" and that includes bands from, in addition to the United States, Europe, South America and the Caribbean islands.

After being judged by a panel of three individuals, who are managers of national acts, Hammen said, "I thought they were going to take care of it (picking the winner) right away, but we didn't find out until a week later."

The next step, and it's a big one, will be determined by a vote on Facebook to determine three finalists, who will again be judged by experts in the music field. All people in the Kewaskum area — they must be over 13 years of age — will be able to vote. The voting began Monday and concludes Wednesday, May 1st at 4 p.m. CT.

"We'll have a link (for voting)," Hammen said about the <https://www.facebook.com/boxkarmusic> site. "They'll have to download our song for free" to have their vote count.

The Boxkar fivesome, Hammen, vocalist Chris Szebeni, guitarist/vocalist Tom Thiel, drummer Matt Gieseke, and guitarist/vocalist Brian Saunders, are shooting to make the top 25. The grand prize includes a recording contract. "Basically it's like a world tour, including London, Toyko, Sydney, Australia, Hong Kong, along with New York and Chicago.

Hammen's father still lives in West Bend, and mom, Amy Gessner, works at the Kewaskum Post Office, and Matt says she is his biggest fan.

Boxkar is using the song

Pass on By for the global judging. "We're excited about it," Hammen concluded.

May concerts planned by UWWC Music Department

The Music Department at UW-Washington County is planning two spring community concerts to be held in the campus theatre. A combined Washington County Youth Orchestra (WCYO) and Moraine Symphonic Band (MSB) concert is planned for Sunday, May 5 at 1pm in the campus theatre, while the Moraine Chorus concert is scheduled for 2pm on Sunday, May 12. The campus theatre is on the second floor of the campus, located at 400 University Drive (exit from Hwy. 33) in West Bend. Admission is free to both concerts, with free will offerings encouraged. No reservations are necessary.

According to MSB and WCYO Director Dr. Daniel Ackley, the May 5th concert is in honor of the 200th anniversary of the birth of two of the greatest Romantic composers: Giuseppe Verdi and Richard Wagner. The MSB will perform Director Ackley's arrangement of the "Dies irae" from Verdi's "Requiem" and "Ride of the Valkyries" from Wagner's "Die Walkure." Arrangements from Wagner's "Götterdämmerung" will also be performed, including two small arrangements of Dr. Ackley's. Musicians in the band are a combination of UW-WC students and adults from the community. Any area musicians who want to continue playing their instrument and performing are always welcome to join the MSB.

The Youth Orchestra will perform the opening to R. Strauss' "Also Sprach Zarathustra," a suite from "Tannhäuser" by Wagner, "Caro nome" from "Rigoletto," by Verdi, and the "Die Meistersinger" overture by Wagner. Although named the Washington County Youth Orchestra, participation in the orchestra is not limited to students living in this county alone. The WCYO has members from many surrounding counties, including Fond du Lac Dodge, Milwaukee, Ozaukee, and Sheboygan counties. Participation in the WCYO is by audition.

UW-Washington County's Moraine Chorus annual Mother's Day concert will include a madrigal, some folk-song arrangements by Brahms and Mendelssohn, and several "Spirituals," according to Musical Director, Dr. Peter Gibeau. The concert will also feature several UW-WC students who are majoring in music. Mallory Mercier will perform the first movement of Brahms Violin Sonata in G, with Professor Gibeau. In addition, soprano, Moriah Michalak and tenor, Eric Stein will perform a duet from Donizetti's opera Elixir of Love.

The Moraine Chorus meets at UW-WC weekly to practice. UW-WC students as well as community members are welcome to join the Chorus. For information about membership in any of the musical organizations, contact Theresa Mattek at 262-335-5259 or email: theresa.mattek@uwc.edu.

mer Cancer Center, a member of the Froedtert & The Medical College of Wisconsin Cancer Network.

Guests will be able to enjoy an evening with a Derby atmosphere, including virtual horse racing, Derby punch, a hat parade, photo finish area as well as food stations, desserts, music, and live, silent and "super silent" auctions. Auction items include a one-week stay in Denmark, a one-week stay in the Cayman Islands, a trip to Lambert's Bridge Winery in Sonoma County, Calif., and a two-night stay at The American Club in Kohler that includes golf and round-trip transportation in a Rolls Royce.

"In the previous five years of this event we have raised more than $275,000 locally to support the St. Joseph's Hospital Kraemer Cancer Center," said Amy Dahlberg, event chair. "The Kraemer Cancer Center is a tremendous resource for area residents dealing with cancer, and this event helps the hospital continue to serve those in need because of a cancer diagnosis."

Event tickets are available for $75 each and include food stations, desserts, complimentary beer, wine and soda, Derby punch with souvenir glass and a photo of guests in their Derby attire. For more information or tickets, contact St. Joseph's Community Foundation at 262-836-7828.

The Kraemer Cancer Center fills a need for patients to be able to stay in their community, near their families, while receiving cancer treatment. School speech contest helps students develop skills

Local students from Holy Trinity School recently gained the opportunity to demonstrate their speaking skills and take pride in personal accomplishments. On March 22 the students took part in a speech contest sponsored by Modern Woodmen of America.

Students competing in the contest, which was held at Holy Trinity shared their presentations on this year's topic, People Who Have Overcome.

The winners were Katie Kurer, first place; Morgan Wenzlaff, second place; and Shania Etta, third place. Each of them received a trophy and a gold award pin and their names will be engraved on the school's speech contest plaque. Gold award pins were also given to the next ten ranking finalists: Michael Boettcher, Angel Eichstedt, Nick Ellenbecker, Jack Felten, Zach Geidel, Kelsey Herriges, Justin Limberg, Jacob Loehr, Blake Lorenz and Sydney Rosenthal. All participants received certificates of participation for their hard work.

Modern Woodmen's School Speech Contest is one of many free Youth Educational Programs Modern Woodmen offers to schools nationwide. More than 100,000 students compete in the contest each year.

As a tax-exempt fraternal benefit society, Modern Woodmen sells life insurance, annuity and investment products not to benefit stockholders but to improve the quality of life of its stakeholders - members, their families and their communities. This is accomplished through social, charitable and volunteer activities.

IN MEMORY

In memory of
JANINE ALVAREZ,
12/28/64 - 4/22/07

Neen,
Remember when we were young,
so innocent and free.
We played together, fought like hell,
and forgave each other endlessly.
Then we grew up,
went separate ways,
but always loved each other.
Now you're not here, I miss you tons.
And think of you often.
So, as I say goodbye to you,
I need to let you know,
until we see each other again,
I'll never let you go.
I Love You Always!!

Your sister,
Nell

A message from Dad.
Fill not your hearts with pain and sorrow,
but remember me in every tomorrow.
Remember the joy, the laughter, the smiles, I've only gone to rest a while. Although my leaving caused pain and grief, my going has eased my hurt and given me relief.
So dry your eyes and remember me, not as I am now, but as I used to be. Because I will remember you all and look on with a smile. Understand, in your hearts, I've only gone to rest a little while.
As long as I have the love of each of you,
I can live my life in the hearts of all of you.

25 Years Ago

March 11, 1988

While the year 2000 seems in the distant future, the fact is that it is only 12 years away. On that basis, the Kewaskum Village Board, last week, approved a revised extended sanitary sewer service area which is taking into account the possible need for expanded service to the village and land bordering its boundaries during those next 12 years. At the public hearing Monday evening, Bruce Ruben, Chief Land Use planner for SEWRPC provided a service area map as requested from the village. The village's new area is more than double in size than its original plan. The new map covers 3.8 square miles, which includes the original 1.5 square mile plan and it also designates primary and secondary corridors which would not normally be considered appropriate for development such as wildlife areas and marshes. While there is no specific plan, request or mandate to extend sewer service in the area, requests for such service would be looked on more favorably by the DNR because they have been included in the area.

Patti Lynn Aupperle, daughter of Ronald and Darlene Aupperle, of Kewaskum, has been selected to be a state contestant in the Miss Wisconsin U.S. Teen Pageant at the Red Carpet Hotel in Milwaukee, on April 18 at 8 pm. The Miss Wisconsin U.S. Teen Pageant is the official state finals to the Miss U.S. Teen Pageant. Contestants from all over the state will be competing for the title of Miss Wisconsin U.S. Teen. The girls will be judged on scholastic achievement, service to community and school, personality, poise, grooming, and similar factors. Patti is a Kewaskum High School freshman, and has served seven years in the Indian Princess Twirlettes, is president of her freshmen class, secretary of the FBLA, a member of AFS, Spanish Club and Wrestling Club, a cast member of "Grease," in 9th grade, and "Happy Days" in 8th grade, and a member of Key Club, Forensics, Girl Scouts, and has been a high honor roll student since 7th grade.

On Sunday, March 6, the Girl Scouts of Kewaskum started Girl Scout Week by attending the church of their choice. The scouts that received the "I Live My Faith" award were Maureen Leitheiser, Jenny Strobel, Heather Amerling, Jenny Straub, Carrie Stoffel, Laura Fleischman and Andrea Bonlender. The scouts that completed the "Family of God" award from Holy Trinity this year were Nicole Reindl, Becky Heisdorf, Sarah Bonlender, Jamie Gafke and Ann Bodden.

A daughter was born to Lorraine and Richard Long, Kewaskum, on February 27. A son was born to Cynthia and George Eggert, Kewaskum, on March 4.

In a major real estate transaction completed recently, Walter and Marie Dei sold their Kewaskum Opera House tavern and hall and adjoining delicatessen and living quarters to another Kewaskum couple, Lawrence and Adeline Galabinske. The new proprietors moved into the opera house this week to take over the business on March 1. Walter and Marie had conducted the business for the past 15 years and four months.

Ours Cleaners of Kewaskum will offer budget coin-operated dry cleaning beginning March 7, according to Bob Ours of the firm. This new service will be possible, he said, because of the firm's recent purchase of Fashion Care coin-operated dry cleaning equipment.

Don Ritger of Kewaskum speared the largest sturgeon landed by a fisherman from this area in a long time last Friday at Lake Winnebago. Don speared a 108 pounder, the largest catch reported in this area to date.

Edwin H. Klug, 79, prominent Town of Scott farm resident, passed away at his home on February 28.

Judith Loof, Route 1, Kewaskum, will be among the practical nursing students who will receive diplomas from the Milwaukee Institute of Technology at commencement exercises on March 1.

Miss Joan Marie Lehmann, West Bend, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lehmann, exchanged wedding vows with Lawrence E. Nischke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nischke, Kewaskum, on February 23.

March 8, 1963

It was "Joe Eberle Night" at the Kewaskum Kiwanis Club's meeting Monday night as the club paid tribute to Joe for the many years he has spent raising some of the finest beagle hounds in the country and for the favorable publicity he and his dogs have brought to Kewaskum. Joe, who has served as president of the Association of Beagle Clubs of Wisconsin since 1929, has been raising prize beagle hounds for 55 years. He has won national recognition as one of the most outstanding figures in this field. Joe has judged many beagles in many parts of the country throughout the years. His latest and probably greatest honor was obtained during the past year when he was invited to visit the World's Fair in Seattle, Washington by the American Kennel Club to judge beagles entered at the fair. But Joe turned down the offer. Joe is the proud possessor of 62 trophies and hundreds of ribbons which many of his prize beagles won for him.

One of the Kewaskum High School students will be crowned "Dairy Queen" at the fifth annual Dairy Day event to be held on March 23 at the high school, sponsored by the Kewaskum Business Association. The girls, representing each class, are required to live on a farm and are selected by the FFA of the school. The dairy princesses include Diane Vetter, Judy Truebenbach, Carol Reindl, Rogene Klug, Judy Hohlweck, Kathy Hawig, Dianna Krahn and Lucille Kirchner.

For a number of years now, deer have been moving into the southern part of the state and now bear seem to be following suit. Loran Backhaus Sr. of Route 2, Kewaskum, reported seeing two black bears near Kewaskum last Sunday morning. Loran was picking up milk at the Albert Stange farm about 1-1/2 miles east of the village on Highway 28, when to his surprise and wonderment he saw the two big black bears on a hill in a nearby field.

Mrs. William Wunder, 71, well known resident of New Fane, died suddenly March 7 of a heart attack brought on by shock and excitement caused by a chimney fire at the Wunder home.

Orval E. Behnke of Kewaskum has been named a member of the Million Corps by Equitable Life Assurance Society, it was announced. He has been awarded a plaque in recognition of his "outstanding production record during 1962."

If you've been thinking of Spring, forget about it! This area was busy Wednesday morning digging themselves out of a March snowstorm, which fell most of Tuesday and continued through the night. An estimated eight to nine inches of new snow was dumped on the ground before it ended Wednesday afternoon.

At a meeting of Scenic Moraine conference coaches held at North Fond du Lac, an all-conference basketball team and second team were selected. Al Koepke of Kewaskum, his team's leading scorer, was selected to the first team. Mike Coulter, also of Kewaskum, was selected to the second team. Honorable mention was given to Mark Kral of Kewaskum.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Murray, Green Bay, on February 28. Mr. Murray was formerly agriculture instructor at Kewaskum High School. Daughters were also born to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Volm, Route 2, Kewaskum, on March 1, and to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sleger, Route 2, Kewaskum, on March 2.

State cash is flowing into local treasuries this month as checks totaling over $4,000,000 are sent out to county, town, city and village treasurers, the State Highway Commission of Wisconsin announces. These represent the state's annual contribution to localities for the maintenance of local roads and streets. State Highway Commission figures show Washington County will receive a total of $35,316.56 of which Kewaskum will receive $99.50.

The K-Wayne Five orchestra, formerly under the management of Sylvester Terlinden of Kewaskum, has reorganized following the resignation of the latter and Sylvester Harter. Three new members were added in their places and the orchestra is now composed of six pieces, namely: Paul Flasch, sax; Sylvester Volm, accordion; Ulrich Guntly, piano; Rudy Hoepner, drums; Frank "Bush" Guntly, violin, accordion and clarinet and Leo Wietor, violin.

Another death which shocked this community occurred on March 17, when Mrs. Fred Bartel, 73, nee Wilhelmina Schultz, venerable resident of the Town of Kewaskum, who resided just south of the village limits on Fond du Lac Avenue, was called in death at St. Joseph's Hospital, West Bend.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Art Ruplinger of St. Kilian on March 22.

A special meeting of the Kewaskum Advancement Association, which was held in the village hall last Tuesday evening, the enterprise investigating committee, consisting of D.M. Rosenheimer, A.A. Perschbacher and Nic. Rimmel, reported that they have secured an option from Mr. Rimmel, for the purchase of his entire business, machine shop, foundry and hardware business, and recommended that the concern be turned over to a stock company with a capitalization of $40,000. All present at the meeting were very enthusiastic over the affair and at the present time indications are, that no trouble will be met by raising this amount. A corporation of this kind not only would be a paying proposition, but also a good help to the village. In a course of time, a large number of men could be employed. It is also the intention that in time a corporation is formed that the hardware and tinware business will be discontinued and go exclusively into manufacturing. The machine shop will be run in connection and repairing done as heretofore.

Articles of incorporation of the Campbellsport Co-operative Association were filed in the office of the Register of Deeds. The Campbellsport company is similar to the one that the farmers in this section of the county are endeavoring to form. The capital stock of the new concern is $20,000 of which there are 200 shares of $100 each. The purpose of the company as stated in the articles of incorporation is to conduct any agricultural, dairy, mercantile, mining, business on the co-operation plan. The principal place of business will be at Campbellsport where the cooperative store will be located.

The Franklin Medicine Company will hold a free show nightly at Groeschel's Hall in Kewaskum for three weeks beginning March 4. Come and bring the folks for an evening of instruction and good honest fun. The Franklin Medicine Company will do all kinds of dental work, including complicated and difficult extractions and removing, absolutely without pain, teeth and roots that all other dentists have failed to remove. Publicly this grand man will demonstrate his marvelous skill in extracting teeth free from any pain, as each night he will extract, free of charge, a few teeth on the stage before the audience. $100 for any tooth he cannot successfully extract.

March 8, 1913

At about 3:30 am Tuesday morning, Boltonville village people were awakened by the ringing of the church bell, to find the school house in flames. An attempt was made to enter the building, but was abandoned on account of the dense smoke. Nothing was saved and had it not been such a quiet night, nothing would have saved the nearby buildings. It was thought at one time that Mr. Stautz's residence would catch fire and all furniture was removed, but it was saved by the heroic efforts of the townspeople. J. Kraetsch was the first to see the fire and awaken the neighbors. It started in the southeast corner of the lower department and the origin is unknown.

The lion like actions of March, which were in evidence Saturday and which, according to all rules and traditions, means that March will depart in a meek manner, were further intensified in savagery Sunday when the temperature flopped to 14 degrees below zero and a real blizzard swept over the state. The blizzard swept over the state. The blizzard made its appearance on Saturday and raged throughout the night. As a result snow was piled into deep drifts. A "cut" on the main line of North Western railroad one mile from Campbellsport became choked with snow Sunday morning and as a result traffic between here and Fond du Lac was tied up for over five hours.

William Emmer, St. Kilian, last week Friday, sold his 70 acre farm to Frank Day of West Bend for $8,500. On the following day, Saturday, Mr. Day sold 50 acres of the farm to Phil Faber for $7,500 and the remaining 20 acres to Fred Hundertmark for $1,600.

Golf getting off to a slow start

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

The Kewaskum High golf team didn't have much of a chance last Tuesday (April 16) in a field that featured some of the top Division 1 teams in the state along with the defending Division 2 state champion and runner-up.

Playing at the Hawks Landing Golf Course near Madison, the Indians finished 13th of 16 teams with a 386 total.

Madison Memorial captured the title, firing 324 total, which was eight shots ahead of Edgerton (332), the defending Division 2 state champion, and nine ahead of Verona (333).

Some coaches asked if they were going to suspend play after nine holes, according to KHS coach Glenn Eichstedt. He noted it was just 40 degrees at the start of play, and then the wind and the rains started pelting the players the remainder of the meet.

Peter Web of Madison Memorial took medalist honors with a 3-over-par 75.

"The surprise of the day was that freshman Sean Murray tied (senior) Mike Holt for the low score, 94," Eichstedt said, reporting Adam Waala came in with a 97, and then came Nick Banks at 101.

"It was a tough haul," Eichstedt said about having a meet with very little practice and challenging conditions.

The Indians got in nine holes Thursday at the re-scheduled Sheboygan Invitational, but that meet was cancelled after lightning was reported.

For the original date, April 10, 24 teams were expected. That number dropped to 16 for the second date, and only 12 eventually appeared to play.

Eichstedt was pleased Holt, Murray and Banks shot 44, 46 and 46, respectively. Waala carded a 50.

Chaz Dreher shot this turkey on April 6, 2013. It was 21.5 lbs., had a 10" beard and 1" spurs. Chaz, a sixth grader at Kewaskum Middle School, is the son of Kris and Chucker Dreher.

The maintenance of the banner poles on Fond du Lac Avenue was addressed. One option discussed was to have civic organizations responsible for repairing or replacing the poles. Building Inspector, Chad Cook suggested a short term fix for the area would be to grade and cement the poles to prevent the poles from leaning into the highway. The long term fix should be an engineered stable structure that would promote the Village and community events. The poles need to be longer and installed with proper excavating. A cost should be established for stable aesthetically pleasing poles. Motion by Kevin Scheunemann to table the decision on the maintenance of the poles on Fond du Lac Avenue, second by Mike Berger. Voice vote, motion carried. (Craig Garbisch recorded as nay.)

Motion by Mike Berger to approve the request by Administrative Assistant Bakken to receive a payout of her remaining vacation days including personal time and comp time, second by Norman Kufahl. Voice vote, motion carried.

Motion by Craig Garbisch to adjourn into Closed Session at 8:58 p.m. pursuant to Section 19.85 (1) (g) Wis. Stats. The purpose of the meeting is to confer with legal counsel who is rendering oral or written advice concerning strategy to be adopted with respect to litigation in which it is likely to become involved as authorized under §19.85(1)(g), Wis. Stats. Specifically to be discussed are development issues in Nature Haven Estates II (PUD). The Closed Session will be attended by the Village Board, Administrator, Clerk/Deputy Treasurer, Director of Public Works, Zoning Administrator, and Legal Counsel, second by Kevin Scheunemann and carried by roll call vote. Garbisch-aye, Knoebel-aye, Berger-aye, Pesch-aye, Kufahl-aye, Scheunemann-aye, Hovland-aye. (7-0-0)

Better depth should mean improved track results

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

Will the addition 10 athletes equate to a better boys track team this spring at Kewaskum High School?

Long-time coach Jerry Gosa is pretty certain it will, especially considering several of the those who reported for practice will fill holes in the distances and other events which have been weak for the Indians in recent years.

"We'll be more competitive. We have good potential in certain areas," Gosa said in previewing the squad, which is currently comprised of 39 candidates.

Eight letterwinners return from a team that finished seventh in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference a year ago, although one, Jordan Hanson, "is out indefinitely," according to Gosa, who reports the sprinter/long jumper was injured in a snowmobile accident.

Ted Wollner is back to run the 100-meter dash and sprint relays. Wollner finished fourth in the 100 in the 2012 EWC meet and helped the Indians qualify for The WIAA Division 2 State Meet in the 4x100 relay. The quartet had the fastest time in qualifying but never finished the race in the finals due to an injury sustained by Eric Perkins, who is now on the football team at North Dakota State.

"Teddy will hopefully provide us with good leadership for the younger athletes," Gosa said.

Corey Burdick returns in the pole vault and perhaps the long jump, while sophomores Brandon Mikolajczak is a returning sprinter/400 runner and Tristin Marx is a promising pole vaulter.

Gosa said Mikolajczak "worked out hard during the winter" to prepare for the season.

Junior Andy Buelow lettered last year after being the team's top 800 runner. "He got down to about 2:08 in the 800," Gosa said, confident he can trim several seconds off that time this season.

Juniors Casey Steinman and Joey Seitz could provide help in the 200, 400 or relays.

Gosa was pleasantly surprised when a trio of seniors, Nick Bier, Jared Sanborn and Nate Krupp, indicated they were interested in running. Bier and Sanborn like the long distances races, while Krupp, who, Gosa said, "is a very good athlete," could score solid points in the 200 and the relays.

Other promising newcomers included juniors Greg Rate, coming off a good basketball season, and Matt Ringwell (triple jump). Gosa also said he has four talented freshmen, including Ben Watzig, Brandon Thull, Charlie Witek and Jason Hanson.

"It's not every day you get a (freshman) guy consistently going 40 feet in the shot," Gosa said about Watzig, adding Thull will be in the relays, and Witek "is going to be able to help in the high jump and sprints, too."

Jason Hanson is quite versatile and may be the team's top 1,600 runner, can high jump and run relays.

When it comes to top contenders for the EWC crown, Gosa said, "You always look to a school like Plymouth. They have a good tradition," along with Two Rivers.

The team's strengths will be the pole vault, sprints and relays, according to Gosa who has been the head coach since the early 1990s. He will be assisted by Josh Parent (pole vault), Randy Backhaus (distances), Matt Gundrum (weights), Jim Brock (hurdles and high jump) and volunteer coach Mike Debelak, who is replacing Jason Meinen, who will coach middle school track this spring.

With hard work, "the sky is the limit," for this group of athletes, Gosa said, indicating some of his athletes are trying to recruit others to come out because, "They want the track team to be successful."

Next week's newspaper will have a team photo.

KHS teams struggle vs. EDWC powerhouses

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

The Sheboygan Falls girls track team served notice last week it has plenty of talent and depth.

By winning 10 of 16 events, the Lady Falcons easily won the annual Eastern Wisconsin Conference Relays. They scored 127 points, with Plymouth next at 104.

The boys' competition was a lot tighter, with Plymouth nipping Two Rivers for the team title, 95 to 89, with Waupun, an up-and-coming program, in third with 81.

Kewaskum's girls team wound up sixth with 56 points, while the Indian boys, minus a few talented performers, finished eighth with 43 points. Neither team had any first places.

KHS coach Jerry Gosa was aware his teams lack of depth would hamper their efforts, so while he was not disappointed with their finishes, he was upset with the way the meet was run at Sheboygan Falls.

"There were errors on top of errors on top of errors," Gosa said, reporting his JV boys 4x100-meter relay team ended up running against the varsity teams.

Looking at the positives from the outcome, Gosa said, "Individually we had some very good performances, namely senior Ashlee Stahl clearing a personal best 5 feet (5-0) in the high jump and freshman Ellie Debelak leaping 14-11 in the long jump.

The girls' best finish was a third place in by the Sprint Medley (200, 100, 100, 400) relay. Debelak, Megan Ackatz, Kristina Lepp and Abby Reysen, all freshmen, turned in a 2:05.81.

As far as the boys' best finish, it was also the Sprint Medley. Ted Wollner, Brandon Thull, Brandon Mikolajczak earned six points with their 1:43.27. "(They) just missed second," Gosa said, noting Wollner injured his leg during the race.

In the 4x200 relay, freshman Ben Watzig was inserted in the lineup for Wollner. "He did real well," Gosa said about Watzig, and reported Casey Steinman might be lost for the season because of an injury.

KHS was at Slinger Tuesday for the Washington County Invitational. They are at Pewaukee Friday for the Altheimer Invitational.

Weather could hamper Lady Indians' progress

By Judy Harlow
Statesman Correspondent

This was a year when Kewaskum High girls track coach Jerry Gosa could have used warm spring conditions. His team is young, and additional outdoor practices would have been very beneficial. We all know, however, Mother Nature has had other ideas.

"Wednesday (April 3) was the first day we got on the track," Gosa said, indicating he can't remember another time when the team was unable to practice outdoors in March.

Still, the Indians did what they could inside, and hopefully that will be enough for them to be more competitive in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference where they finished sixth a year ago.

Nine letterwinners return to form the nucleus of the team, although one is suspended for the entire season for an athletic code violation.

Ashley Stahl (high jump), April Stern (distance events) and Kelsey Phillips (long jump and 100) are the senior returnees, but at this point none of the three is at 100 percent.

Stahl, who finished third in the EWC Championships in 2012, tore her ACL in volleyball, has done extensive rehab and managed to clear 4-feet, 10 inches (4-10) in the team's appearance at the Oshkosh High School Invitational on March 26. She finished ninth and just missed placing.

"For her (Stahl) to come out and jump 4-10, that's pretty good," Gosa said, noting her best effort all last season was that same height. He had hoped Stahl would be a part of the sprint relays this spring.

Phillips garnered a second in the long jump in the conference a year ago and helped the 4x100-meter relay to a fourth place, but, "She hurt her back in volleyball. We don't know what will happen to her."

Stern turned in a 6:27 in the 1,600 at Oshkosh, far back in the pack, but Gosa is hopeful when she gets outdoors, there will be a big drop in her time.

Gosa has three junior letter winners, including Stephanie Henk (weights), Jessie Nurkala (pole vault and 800) and Kayla Oelhafen (long jump). Henk being in position to place high each meet after continued improvement in the discus where she had a personal best of 99-1 in the regional. "She's very promising," Gosa said, adding Nurkala is the team's lone pole vaulter at this point.

The sophomore letter winners are Jenny Fisher and Amanda Plachinski, who both have experience running the open 400 and the distance relays.

Gosa is also pleased with the return of junior Heather Johnson, who did not come out for the sport a year ago. "She's a sprinter ... has good potential," the coach said, adding, senior Anna Aycock is also out and will try the high jump and another newcomer is sophomore Caley McClyman, who had a very successful cross country season and will help the team in distance races.

"The good news is we have a very good group of freshmen," Gosa said, referring to the nine rookies on the roster. Heading the list are Abby Reysen and Ellie Debelak. Reysen turned in a time of 1:06.27 in the 400 at Oshkosh, putting her in 12th place out of 50+ runners.

"She's (Reysen) the real deal, a hard worker and a real nice kid," Gosa said. "At this point, she's our best 400 runner."

Debelak is a sprinter and will compete in the sprint relays. Krystina Lepp is another freshman sprinter, and Gosa figures all three, and possibly another freshman, will make up the two sprint relays. "I think both can be very competitive," he said.

Next week's newspaper will feature a team photo.

tied for second with 3-1 records.

Sophomore Mitch Engelman has been a real contributor this year, ranking number 5 in the Division with an average of 44.25 after 4 weeks of competition.

"We have three more tough division meets and then the conference shoot before we know the results for the entire conference," assistant coach Brian Taylor said.

Working out the kinks in opening tournament

Kayla Kirst gets physical in Saturday's tournament at Oostburg. The Indians, 0-3, played Oostburg, Fox Valley Lutheran and Palmyra.

By Judy Harlow

After seven cancellation/postponements, Kewaskum's girls soccer season is finally underway.

The Lady Indians participated in the 10th annual Jamie Veldboom Memorial Tournament (April 20) in Oostburg, finishing 0-3 but coming close in the first game, losing to Palmyra by a score of 1-0.

In the other games, a 6-2 loss to Fox Valley Lutheran and a 4-0 loss to Oostburg, the Indians' inexperience was evident.

"Although we did not come home with a win it was great to finally play some games and learn from the experience," coach Luke Piwoni said. "I am very encouraged by what I saw at the tournament and am looking forward to the rest of the year."

"Palmyra scored at the 18-minute mark when they got behind our defense and won the foot race to the goal," Piwoni said. "I thought Ana Gerhartz played well in goal. She looked comfortable and made all the plays a goalie is expected to make. Mollie Werner had a great game on the left side of the defense as well."

In game two, the Lady Indians fell behind 4-0 and then the offense came alive.

"Our offense started finding openings and began putting the pressure on them. Finally we broke through and converted a penalty kick at the 23:09 mark," Piwoni said, noting "Jeray Riffel was taken down in the box and awarded a PK which she converted."

In the second half, Kewaskum scored again.

"Shannon Miller scored at the 32:16 mark on a very heads up play," Piwoni said. "We were awarded a direct kick after the FVL goalie stepped out of the box after picking up the ball. FVL was scrambling to get set, and Shannon noticed this so she took the kick quickly and put it in the net."

"Heather May played very well in her second game at defense. She is new to the position but has picked it up quickly," Piwoni said.

KHS also fell behind Oostburg early, then rallied with more inspired play. "Sarah Boettcher really picked it up at forward and started to put pressure on their defense. Her play in this game was exceptional," Piwoni said. "The defense hung in there but they were exhausted by the end of the game. Olivia Krautkramer played well all day as the only returning defender from last season. She worked well with Kaila (Kirst) in trying to build up trust and communication. The tournament was a good learning experience for them and the entire team that we will build off of."

The Indians are at New Holstein tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. and at West Bend West Friday afternoon at 6:30 p.m.

McFaddens: Being relevant and active is an understatement

By Gay Griesbach

Statesman Correspondent

Margaret "Mugs" and Patrick McFadden, known around Kewaskum as Mugs and Pat, believe the secret to staying relevant as you age is to keep body and mind active.

When it comes to the couple, the word "active" might be an understatement.

Mugs, 68, has been a runner for the past 40 years and the couple can often be seen bicycling around town.

Talking to her one recent dreary spring morning, she said Pat left the house at 4 a.m. to drive for Interfaith Caregivers of Washington County, a network of volunteers that provides assistance that helps maintain the independence of county residents age 60 and over.

His route took him from Kewaskum to St. Joseph's Hospital and back again before heading to Aurora Medical Center in Hartford and Froedtert Hospital in Milwaukee. It's a routine that gets him out of the house two or three times a week, Mugs says.

Pat, 69, says he enjoys his job as volunteer chauffeur, adding, "Someday I'll be on the receiving end."

He also mows lawns and shovels snow for clients of Interfaith.

"This winter, I looked out and saw (Pat and Mugs) shoveling my sidewalk," says neighbor and friend Larry Ammel.

Ammel says Mugs has been a member of the Kewaskum Area Arts Council since he founded the organization in 2008.

"She believes the arts have a very important place here and wants to make sure it keeps doing well," says Ammel.

Last year, Mugs joined the arts council board as secretary and Ammel says she's involved in the Gateway to the Arts Festival, doing activities with children.

Pat, who serves as the festival photographer, credits Ammel with getting him into driving for Interfaith.

When he cut his arm about 12 years ago, it was Ammel, who was a driver for the Red Cross at the time, who took Pat for stitches and waited at the hospital with him.

"I came back the next Monday and signed up. When Interfaith took over, I stayed with them," says Pat. "It's nice to be able to do something for people that can't anymore; I'm fortunate enough that I still can."

The couple has three grown children and eight grandchildren and has lived in Kewaskum for the past 30 years.

Pat graduated from Arrowhead High School before entering the United States Air Force and while stationed in Colorado Springs, he met Mugs, who was born and raised there.

When Pat got a job as photographer at West Bend Company the couple settled in Kewaskum.

In his free time, Pat coached little league and basketball teams and when he retired in 1997, he kept his camera handy – taking photos for the KEYS Run and Art Council events.

"I don't consider it volunteer work – I'm happy to help out," says Pat.

"They are deeply compassionate, hard working, honest, and have a great sense of humor," says Peace United Church of Christ Pastor Eric Kirkegaard.

Mugs is most visible as the church organist, something she's done for the past 30 years, but she also helps with the choir, organizes Sunday School Christmas programs and has served as president and vice president of the congregation.

"Mugs has got as much energy as three people put together. She wears every hat and has been that as long as I've been here," says Pastor Eric. "Anything we're doing, she's a part of it."

Kirkegaard says Pat also makes himself available, visiting members of the congregation and using his talents as photographer at the church.

"Anything that needs to be done, he's willing and he's always there," says Kirkegaard.

Pat chaperoned groups from Peace to Habitat for Humanity trips in Kentucky and around the East Coast in the early 1990s.

"It was something for kids to do outside the community," says Pat. "We'd load up the vans and take a couple women for cooks. We slept on the floor in a church and had a good time."

Mugs is always willing to share the benefit of her musical talents with others.

She's a member of the Musical Masquers, served as president of the Kettle Moraine Symphony Board from 2001 to 2008 and was the symphony's acting executive director from 2005 to 2008.

Mugs gives piano lessons out of her home and belongs to the Moraine Private Music Teachers Association. On Friday mornings, she accompanies the Washington County Senior Center choir in West Bend.

Mugs is also the current president of the seven-member Kewaskum Library Board.

"She really has a passion for reading and literacy," says Kewaskum Library Director Steev Baker. "Mugs really believes in the library as a lasting institution that has a place and a goal in the community."

Baker says Mugs isn't just a figurehead, she's a great grassroots supporter.

"That's something we need; someone who is willing to talk and spread news in the community about what is going on here and what's available. That's invaluable," says Baker.

They feel the same about community service, but Mugs puts it best, saying, "As much as I give to the community, it gives more back to me."

"Hi, I'm The Wheelchair Guy" is a friendly greeting that owner Kevin Cantrall turned into a business.

Before starting the store in 2005, Cantrall regularly serviced durable medical equipment and got to be known by therapists and clients as "The Wheelchair Guy."

But The Wheelchair Guy – the store – has more than wheelchairs in its home medical and rehabilitation equipment inventory. The 5,000 square foot warehouse, service center and showroom carries a full line of assistive devices, from lift chairs and scooters to hospital beds, patient lifts, ramps, walkers, canes, crutches, bath safety equipment and more.

A corner of the showroom is devoted to those little niceties, like bags that hang over walkers and handmade clothing protectors.

"If we don't have it, we can get it," says Office Manager Barb Calbow.

The Wheelchair Guy receives referrals from hospitals and nursing home rehabilitation units and assists those who might find themselves not as mobile as they once were.

"The idea is to keep people in their homes," says Cantrall.

The Wheelchair Guy not only assists those who use lifts, stair gliders and transfer-assist devices, it also helps spouses and caregivers who may not have the physical strength to help out as they'd wish.

What gives The Wheelchair Guy an edge over other Southeastern Wisconsin medical and equipment businesses is service.

Cantrall is a hands-on, certified ATP (assistive technology professional) who doesn't believe in one-size-fits-all solutions. In-home estimates and evaluations are available and Cantrall says The Wheelchair Guy's full-service repair department includes repairing wheelchairs from other outlets.

In addition to accepting Medicare, Medicaid and private insurance, The Wheelchair Guy offers delivery and free in-home personalized fittings with fast, professional and compassionate customer service.

Equipment at The Wheelchair Guy is available for rent and purchase.

The Wheelchair Guy, a.k.a. Kevin Cantrall, carries a full line of home medical and rehabilitation equipment at its River Road showroom. In addition to sales and rental, the store offers full-service in home repairs. Pictured here are owner Kevin Cantrall, Office Manager Barb Calbow and Support Specialist Dawn Flasch. Not pictured are Service Manager Pete Galasinski and Billing Specialist Lorry Walker.

The showroom and full service department is open Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. or by appointment.

The Wheelchair Guy is located at 3800 S. River Rd. (Hwy G) Unit A in West Bend, WI. Phone: 262-353-3260.

New book highlights Wisconsin supper clubs

Those seeking a guide to an old-fashioned tradition in Wisconsin should be delighted to know the producer of a documentary on the state's supper clubs has released a book on his findings.

Supper clubs are a beloved Wisconsin tradition, popular both with locals and with the vacationers who flock to the state. Ron Faiola's Wisconsin Supper Clubs profiles more than 50 establishments that are found throughout the state. Through interviews with proprietors and loyal customers, Faiola takes readers deep into the world of this authentic upper Midwestern experience.

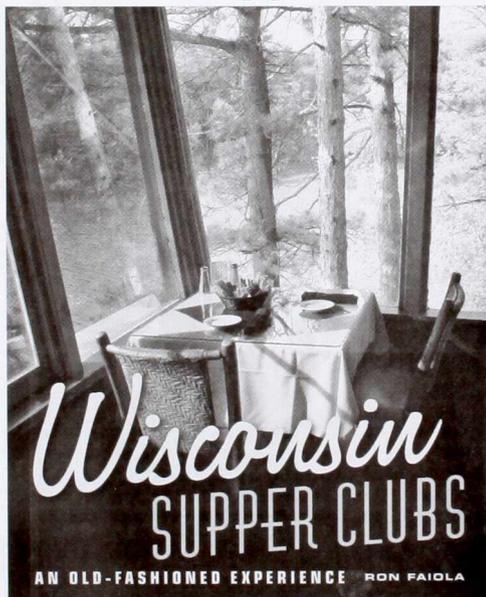

Faiola also took the book's full-color photographs, which highlight each club's distinctive character, owners, and classic dishes, as well as the settings in which the different clubs can be found.

The book is organized geographically, which makes for easy browsing for those planning a trip. Each chapter focuses on one supper club, detailing its history and the family or families involved in running it. Faiola describes the customs and traditions of each, details its particular culinary specialties, and concludes each section with "My Take," where he recounts his own experience at each supper club.

Most supper clubs emphasize food made from scratch, and often feature homemade recipes for dressings, sauces, and desserts that have been passed down through generations. Wisconsin Supper Clubs highlights a variety of regional specialties, ranging from popovers in the northern part of the state to shrimp de Jonghe in the south.

One Northwoods supper club even serves fry bread, a traditional Native American dish not often found on restaurant menus.

Supper club dining is having a resurgence as people seek out more authentic culinary experiences and regional foodways, and this book is an entertaining survey of this world. Wisconsin Supper Clubs is sure to appeal to readers who enjoy discovering these kinds of traditional experiences.

The 225-page book is available for $35 in most bookstores under the travel/restaurant category.

Faiola is a filmmaker and author who has produced and directed numerous critically acclaimed documentaries, such as Wisconsin Supper Clubs and Fish Fry Night Milwaukee. He is the president and founder of Push Button Gadget, Inc., which has been specializing in audiovisual and business theater production for nearly 20 years.

Lake Superior Scenic Byway becomes fourth scenic byway

The Wisconsin Department of Transportation (WisDOT) today announced the approval of the state's fourth scenic byway. The "Wisconsin Lake Superior Scenic Byway" is a 70-mile route of WIS 13 from US 2 to County H in northwest Wisconsin.

The Wisconsin Lake Superior Scenic Byway delivers stunning views of Lake Superior combined with forested areas. The route provides access to the Apostle Islands National Lakeshore, Northwest Wildlife Refuge lands and the Chequamegon National Forest. The route includes the cities of Bayfield and Washburn; the Red Cliff Tribal lands; the towns of Barksdale, Bayfield, Bayview, Bell, Clover, Cloverland, Orienta, Port Wing and Russell; and the unincorporated areas of Cornucopia, Herbster and Port Wing.

"The individuals, local governments and organizations that supported the designation of WIS 13 as a Wisconsin scenic byway are to be commended," said WisDOT Secretary Mark Gottlieb, who officially designated the scenic byway. "Their vision, initiative and perseverance will help promote a treasure found right here in Wisconsin."

Wisconsin's Scenic Byways Program is a cooperative effort between local communities and WisDOT to identify, promote and enhance some of the most scenic and historic state highway corridors. Communities along the route are now eligible to apply for National Scenic Byway designation for additional recognition at the national level, including the ability to compete for federal grants and create marketing materials to promote the scenic byway.

For more information about the Wisconsin Scenic Byways Program, visit www.dot.wisconsin.gov/travel/scenic/byways.htm.

Retire on Your Own Terms

By KARYL RICHSON

Social Security Public Affairs Specialist in Milwaukee, WI

Most Americans are aware that they need to save for retirement. It is a topic that is easy to brush aside to a later date because although the subject is important, it may not seem urgent. But the longer you put off some basic retirement planning, the harder it will be to catch up later.

Now is the perfect time to give it some thought, as National Retirement Planning Week takes place in April. We'd like to share with you a few important items about Social Security retirement benefits.

When you decide to retire, the easiest and most convenient way to do it is right from the comfort of your home or office computer. Go to www.socialsecurity.gov where you can apply for retirement benefits in as little as 15 minutes. In most cases, there are no forms to sign or documents to send; once you submit your electronic application, that's it!

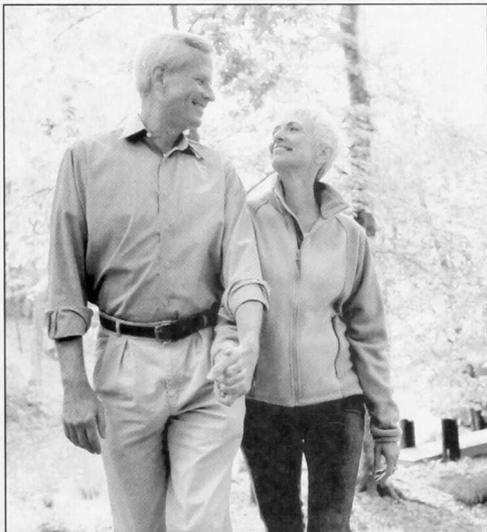

In addition to using our award-winning website, you can call us toll-free at 1-800-772-1213 (TTY 1-800-325-0778) or visit the Social Security office nearest you. Either way you choose to apply, be sure to have your bank account information handy so we can set up your payments to be deposited directly into your account.

Your age when you start to receive Social Security makes a difference in your benefit amount. The full retirement age (the age at which 100 percent of retirement benefits are payable) has been gradually rising from age 65 to age 67. You can retire as early as age 62, but if benefits start before you reach your full retirement age, your monthly payment is reduced. Find out what your full retirement age is by typing in your year of birth at www.socialsecurity.gov/pubs/ageincrease.htm.

You also can choose to keep working beyond your full retirement age to take advantage of a larger payment. Your benefit will increase automatically each year from the time you reach your full retirement age until you start receiving your benefits or until you reach age 70.

The decision of when to retire is personal and depends on a number of factors. To help, we suggest you read our online fact sheet, When To Start Receiving Retirement Benefits, available at www.socialsecurity.gov/pubs/10147.html.

You may want to consider your options by using our Retirement Estimator to get instant, personalized estimates of future benefits. You can plug in different retirement ages and scenarios to help you make a more informed retirement decision. Try it out at www.socialsecurity.gov/estimator.

You'll also want to take advantage of our latest and extremely popular service by setting up an online my Social Security account. You can use my Social Security to obtain a copy of your Social Security Statement to check your earnings record and see estimates of the retirement, disability, and survivor benefits you and your family may receive. Visit www.socialsecurity.gov/myaccount.

Another great website for financial planning — whether for retirement or other financial goals — can be found at www.mymoney.gov. The website features information about how to plan for a host of life events, such as the birth or adoption of a child, home ownership, or retirement. The site also provides money management tools, including a financial savings calculator.

To learn more about Social Security retirement benefits and options, please read our publication, Retirement Benefits, at www.socialsecurity.gov/pubs/10035.html.

You can retire on your own terms, and we're here to help.

The Wrong Widow

By Renée Henning

Recent widows and their children are vulnerable. After losing a spouse, many women are treated poorly. They need a champion with expertise in estates, contracts, competency, or other legal subjects. As explained below, this area of law is effectively a wrong widow practice.

For centuries numerous people have profited from the death of a colleague, friend, or relative at the expense of the decedent's wife. Many of the horror stories involve a partnership. One partner tried to cheat the widow by closing the company, making her half interest virtually worthless. The next day he opened another company at the same address, with the same employees, and for the same clientele - but under his sole ownership.

In a less formal commercial arrangement, a young lawyer referred a matter to another attorney to handle in court. They were buddies from law school days. Their arrangement to share the attorney's fee was not their customary split, because the first lawyer had devoted so much work to the case. Days later he died suddenly, leaving a wife and two little sons. Seizing the chance to earn more at the widow's expense, the law school chum tried to revise the deal.

Frequently the stories involve greedy relatives. In one case a dying man was the chief stockholder in a family funeral business. Millions of dollars were at stake. For several years after his death, his brothers delayed settling with the widow to force her to accept a pittance for his share. The woman, increasingly desperate, began showing up daily and sitting quietly in the funeral home. The police refused to remove her, so the partners asked a judge to issue a restraining order against her.

The problem of wronged widows is worldwide. For example, in some African countries a new widow may lose possessions to property-grabbing relatives.

A recent example of the treatment of women acting alone concerns a life insurance policy with a death benefit of about $200,000. In 2004 my husband, Richard Henning, Jr., bought the key-man policy from his law firm during his transition from partner to "of counsel." Battling cancer, he wanted this additional insurance to help protect our minor children and me.

In 2010 my dear husband died while still working for the law firm. He had been a partner and friend for years with the people with whom I later dealt, Joe and another attorney. My spouse and Joe had been pals for 35 years. In 1976 Joe was in our wedding party. In the 1980s the two men co-founded the firm, and the two families jointly purchased a vacation apartment. My children called him "Uncle Joe."

My husband said I was the beneficiary on the insurance policy. Thus, I was shocked after his death at his employer's claiming the proceeds.

I requested a meeting. It never occurred, leaving all communications in writing. For several months the two partners avoided telling me if they would keep the money. They were supposedly unable to decide anything concerning the proceeds. I suggested they give me the money, as my husband wanted, for the good of our family. They did not reply.

After further work on my part, they announced their decision. According to the E-mail, I was not designated as the beneficiary of the policy "whether by design, mistake or error." They ruled out sharing because of a mistake by anyone else, including my husband and the insurance company, despite serious questions about that company's reliability. In short, both men decided to keep every penny.

I made a blunder by pursuing without a lawyer justice for my children, now college students, and me. Sadly, many people make this mistake. No wise woman lets her divorcing spouse decide how to split their assets, since the less she gets, the more he keeps. For the same reason and because business is business, a widow should not let her husband's colleague determine the equitable division of money or property.

She may think she cannot afford an attorney. However, a lawyer can represent her on a contingent fee basis. He would receive a specified percentage of what he recovers for his client. She should collect significantly more money with an attorney than without one, even after deducting the legal fee.

Unfortunately, the widow's adversary has many ways to cast itself as the injured party and her as the wrongdoer in their dispute. For example, it may lie or may declare itself insulted when no insult was intended.

A woman representing herself should expect the other side to take offense regardless of whether she presents her case in writing, orally, or silently. As to written communications, "Uncle Joe" and his partner objected to my "tone." As to oral communications, the opposing side may accuse the widow of yelling, misunderstanding business, or much worse. As to the silent vigil discussed above, the surviving partners objected to the very sight of the woman, even seeking an order barring her from the premises. Therefore, the widow should adopt a fourth approach, i.e., pursue justice through an attorney.

Many students entered law school wanting to help those in trouble. They can realize their goal and make money by aiding bereaved women and their children. In fact, the mere presence of an attorney can make a difference. It serves as a warning to people hoping to take advantage of a grieving wife - they picked the wrong widow!

No backyard? No problem - the new trend of yardless gardening

(BPT) - Backyard or back patio, it's time to get planting, no matter where you live. The number of American households engaging in do-it-yourself lawn and garden activities rose by more than 3 million in recent years, the National Gardening Association's National Garden 2012 Survey found. That can include you, even if you don't have an actual yard.

Yardless gardening is a popular alternative for people short on green space looking to flex (or find) their green thumbs and the garden gurus from The Home Depot are here to help you do it.

Make a container garden

Small back patio? Window sill? That's all the space you need for a yardless garden. "You can enjoy a garden, no matter your space or place," says Certified Nursery Consultant Nick Blassman. "It's an easy project to take on in a weekend and can make a big difference in your home."

Step one: pick your plants

Edible plants like basil, oregano, parsley, thyme and rosemary are great choices because they're heavy producers and easy to grow in small spaces. The Home Depot's Bonnie Organic herbs are healthy options to have on hand when you're chopping, dicing and using fresh herbs in the kitchen. These herbs come in peat pots made of biodegradable material so if you plant outside, just drop the entire pot in the dirt - there's no plastic to throw away. Love tomatoes (or ketchup)? Heinz introduced Heinz tomato varieties this spring, which can be grown in a container or trained to grow up a wire cage or teepee of bamboo.

Step two: choose your vessel

A couple factors to consider when you're looking for pots and planters. First, make sure your plant is going to have enough room to grow and develop roots. A good rule of thumb is to use smaller pots for herbs and larger pots for fruits and vegetables. Next, flip the pot over - does it have a hole in the bottom? Planters should have drainage holes so your plant doesn't get waterlogged. For stylish options, consider metal planters like Home Depot's Medley Square Copper Planter or natural wood finishes like the Western Red Cedar Large Square Planter. If you have no idea what you're doing, well, you're not alone. And there's a place to find the experts - The Home Depot's Garden Club.

Step three: gear up

Big tools in a small planter equal a potentially disastrous situation. Make sure you've got the right gardening tools for your job - a small spade, trimmers, gloves and a watering can or hose. For less than a dollar each, pick up a couple Fiskars Garden Tools. They feature maneuverable, short handles to make it easy to navigate smaller areas without making a big mess.

Step four: fill 'er up

You want the fertilizer or potting mix that's going to nourish and help your herbs thrive. "Choose a potting mix with ingredients like sphagnum peat moss, vermiculite or perlite, and aged compost products to help retain moisture and control the release of water into the plant's roots," says Blassman.

It's that easy. You now have a container garden to enjoy, no matter the weather or season. For this and more project inspiration, check out The Home Depot on Pinterest. For more information on planting or anything related to the garden, sign up for The Garden Club which provides regionalized information, forums and deals.

Three tips to make your hospital stay safer

Each year, millions of Americans seek hospital care to treat a wide range of medical problems - from accidental injuries to chronic or life-threatening illnesses. While the majority of patients have positive outcomes, it is imperative to remember patient safety should be a top priority for everyone.

In fact, the World Health Organization (WHO) notes patient safety is a serious global public health issue. Even in developed countries such as the United States, as many as one in 10 patients may be harmed while hospitalized. Injury rates are even higher in developing countries, making patient safety a high priority around the world.

You can take steps to help ensure your safety whether in the hospital for a planned or unexpected circumstance. Here are three things to keep in mind to make your hospital stay as safe as possible:

Reduce infection risks:

Hospital infections are a top concern, especially for surgical patients. According to WHO, hand hygiene is the single most important measure to reduce health-care-related infections. Patients should keep hand sanitizer at their bedside and use it often. Additionally, the National Patient Safety Foundation (NPSF) recommends:

- * Reminding your care team about hand-washing before any direct interaction.

- * Keeping an eye on intravenous catheters and wound dressings, and notifying your health care provider right away if something looks wrong.

- * Taking charge of health problems such as diabetes, excess weight and smoking, which can increase infection risk in the hospital.

- * Following doctors' directions about breathing treatments to avoid lung infections.

Understand anesthesia:

Over the past century, anesthesiologists have advanced patient safety through innovative research, science and technology advancements. Whether in the operating room, procedure room, intensive care unit or pain clinic, anesthesiologists are committed to patient safety. Today, anesthesia-related fatalities only occur in less than one in every 200,000 procedures.

To help ensure the highest quality and safest care, anesthesiologists lead Anesthesia Care Teams to supervise non-physician providers during the administration of anesthesia to make critical life decisions when there are only seconds to make them. According to the American Society of Anesthesiologists (ASA), anesthesiologists have more than 10,000 hours of related medical training and education to diagnose, treat and respond to any medical complications that may occur.

In addition to making sure a physician supervises your anesthesia care, it is important to follow all pre-operative instructions from your doctors and get plenty of rest before surgery. Also, be sure your anesthesiologist is aware of your prior anesthesia history and any medications you take. For more information about anesthesia and preparing for surgery, please visit LifelineModernMedicine.com.

Be aware of setbacks:

While unpredictable progress in recovery is not unusual, it's important to minimize the risk of avoidable setbacks such as falls and readmissions.

Tumbles are a major concern for the elderly, but even younger patients are at risk of falling in the hospital. NPSF often points to research indicating more than 500,000 falls occur in U.S. hospitals each year, causing 150,000 injuries. Muscle weakness, medication-related impairment and age can increase a patient's risk of falling. Follow your physician's directions and the hospital's procedures for surer footing.

Before you leave the hospital, make sure you understand the doctor's after-care instructions to reduce your risk of readmission. Bring any questions or suspicions of complications to follow-up appointments to help your physician assess your recovery.

Health care is incredibly intricate and complex, and while medical science has made great strides for patient safety, patients need to play an active role in their care. With diligent research and advocacy for their own health, patients' collaboration with their care team can make them informed and, most importantly, safe.
