High School To Perform "Grease"

– Friday's Show Depends On Football Team's Performance

By Anne Trautner

Kewaskum High School students have been working on the musical "Grease" since the beginning of the school year.

For months, show dates have been scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 13-15.

However, if the high school football team wins this week's football game and moves on further in the playoffs, then the musical moves to Plan B, which the school won't be able to determine until Saturday.

Tickets will go on sale on Saturday morning and show times will be dependent on the football schedule. Possible show times include Friday, Nov. 13, at 7 p.m.; Saturday, Nov. 14, at 2 and 7 p.m.; and Sunday, Nov. 15, at 2 p.m.

"Not all shows are guaranteed but please bear with us and keep the weekend open to see this classic show. We know it is a difficult situation, but we are doing our best to support our multi-activity singer/athletes," Director Andrew Dahlberg said.

"It is a double-edged sword, I guess. We don't want the football team to lose, but I also would like to have four shows," Dahlberg said.

So, are the performers still rooting on the team?

Village Of Kewaskum Seeks Answers From County

– Village Board Needs To Know County's Tax Policy Before Approving 2016 Budget

By Anne Trautner

The Village of Kewaskum has scheduled its 2016 budget public hearing for Nov. 16, but the village board wants to know before then how the county will handle unpaid taxes in Utility District 3 (UD3).

"Normally, if somebody doesn't pay their property tax, the county makes us whole for that year and they do the collection. What we are trying to get out of county in the clarification is if they are going to do that for UD3. Then we don't have anything to worry about it. I wish the county would comment one way or another so we know where they are. We need to try to get that in writing," said Village President Kevin Scheunemann.

"Until we get a determination from the county, we can't make a decision. We need to have that," Village Trustee Richard Knoebel said.

Kewaskum's utility district (UD3) was formed in August 2014 to help pay for the cost of various public improvements within the district's boundaries and to take the burden off village taxpayers.

Faces Project

In January of 2013, I became aware of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund (VVMF) Faces Project. The VVMF is the group who built the black wall memorial on the mall in Washington D.C. It is the goal of the project to get a photo for every one of the 58,307 services members listed on the Wall to ensure future generations never forget our heroes of the past.

There was a fire in St. Louis in 1973 that destroyed more than six million military records so finding the missing Vietnam Veterans photos is a challenge. In January of 2013, approximately 33,000 of the photos were found nationally. One state, New Mexico, was the only state that found all of their photos. There are 1,161 names on the Wall from Wisconsin. They were still missing about 450 photos at the time I joined the effort.

As a small newspaper publisher and a member of both the Wisconsin Newspaper Association board and the National Newspaper Association board, I thought it would be a good project for the newspaper to lend their help and they did. I am happy to report to you that since newspapers from around the country have assisted the VVMF in the effort, all of the photos in Wisconsin have been found as well as all of the photos in six other states.

More than 10,000 photos were found in the last year and 10 months. However, 15,000 more from across the country need to be found. Newspaper people from across the country continue to provide assistance in finding the missing photos.

Why did I help on this project? The VVMF will be building an Education Center near the Wall in Washington D.C. Currently in the fundraising stages, construction on the Center is expected to start in 2018. Once the center is open in 2020, the photos will be part of a two story digital display. The photos are currently displayed in the VVMF's virtual Wall of Faces (www.vvmf.org/wall-of-faces).

Since Congress will not allow a memorial to be built for the current war until 10 years after the war is over, the VVMF offered to project all of the nearly 8,000 service members killed since September 11, 2001, at the Education Center, including my own son, Lt. David Johnson, KIA, January 25, 2012. So I will do anything I can to assist in this effort.

I thought it was important that our Kewaskum readers know about this effort even though we are done in Wisconsin. The effort is a big part of my life and the three weekly newspapers my wife and I publish.

Veterans' Day

Veterans' Day is next Wednesday, Nov. 11. It is a special day when all Americans should honor all past and present people who have served in the United States armed services. The only thing that keeps us free and protects from the rest of a very dangerous world is our armed services.

To our veterans: I deeply appreciate your love for our country and way of life as well as the many sacrifices you have made for me and my fellow citizens. I am so very appreciative of your service. I am very aware that I would not be able to live the free life I enjoy without your protection and service. What you have done highly motivates me, as it should every citizen, to live the best life I possibly can as a United States citizen. Thank you a million times.

Horicon Marsh Wounded Warriors

In this week's edition Gayle Rydstrom wrote a story about the sixth annual Horicon Marsh Wounded Warriors veteran appreciation weekend that was held on October 23-25. It is amazing these 57 wounded warriors came to the area from all over the country. I want to complement Kari Voy and the host of volunteers that made the special weekend possible.

As a gold star dad, it is sometimes difficult for me to interact with wounded warriors since my son did not come back from combat. It is also sometimes difficult for the wounded warrior to see a gold star dad.

After careful consideration, I asked Kari if my daughter and I could help serve dinner to the wounded warriors and volunteers on Saturday evening of the event. The veterans were all coming in from hunting on the Marsh so it took about two hours for all of them to come through the dinner line.

I wore gold star markings and a photo of my son so there was no question as to who I was. Every veteran was so polite, warm, and friendly to us. A couple of them looked me square in the eyes and said "thank you" and I knew exactly what they meant. A couple of the wounded warriors looked at me and immediately looked down because it bothered them.

It felt so good to be with our service men, both young and old. My son joined the service and because of his sacrifice, I am now and will always be part of the big Army family. Again, I want to thank all of the volunteers and businesses that made this special event possible.

Kewaskum Statesman Publisher Andrew Johnson stands by the Vietnam Wall in Washington D.C. He led the charge to find photos of all the Wisconsin soldiers who were killed during the Vietnam War. These photos will be used in a new exhibit that will be built by the Wall.

War, Sacrifice And America's Veterans

By Dale Barnett

While we can all rejoice this Veterans Day that the steady flow of U.S. casualties in Iraq and Afghanistan has slowed to a trickle, we must never forget the incredible sacrifice that America's defenders continue to make on our behalf.
 Such is the case of Master Sergeant Joshua Wheeler, who died leading a Delta Force rescue mission of ISIS hostages held in Iraq on October 22. A veteran of 14 combat deployments, his sacrifice is shared by four boys who are now fatherless and his wife, who became a widow far too early. But another important part of his legacy are the 70 hostages who were spared brutal executions by an enemy that is as ruthless as any that America has faced.
 The willingness to face pain and death so others can be spared isn't unique to just the fallen. Consider the case of two American veterans and their long-time friend when they bravely stopped a terrorist attack aboard a train bound for Paris this summer.
 Airman First Class Spencer Stone, Army Specialist Alek Skarlatos and Anthony Salder could have run from the danger when a heavily armed gunman boarded the train.
 Instead, Specialist Skarlatos said, "Let's go," as the men ran toward a future that could have easily meant instant death or maiming for them and all of the other innocent people within range.
 Fortunately, this story is remembered not for the horrific tragedy that nearly happened but for the heroism that did. Even after enduring serious stab wounds that were inflicted as he disarmed the gunman, Airman Stone administered life-saving first aid to a passenger that was shot.

 The terrorist was carrying 270 rounds of ammunition. But because of the actions of these three young Americans, and two Europeans who assisted them, the death toll aboard the train was zero.
 There is also the incredible story of Chris Mintz. As others were understandably fleeing from a mass shooting at Oregon's Umpqua Community College on October 1, the 30-year-old former Army infantryman bravely confronted the gunman at a classroom door, as he attempted to save others who were inside. Mr. Mintz survived the attack and continues to recover after being shot five times.
 These stories are inspiring, but certainly not surprising to me. As national commander of The American Legion, I meet veterans all of the time who have demonstrated tremendous heroism yet blend in our communities without fanfare.
 There are many ways to thank the men and women who have served in our Armed Forces, but I cannot think of a better method of showing gratitude than to hire one. Employers who make this smart decision will usually benefit from the discipline, skills and loyalty that are found abundantly in today's military.
 Isn't it likely that people who have survived fire-fights in Afghanistan can handle whatever tasks are thrown their way at the office without too much stress?
 My old classmate, C. Hughes Clark, summed up the humble nature of most veterans. "I can say without regret that I wouldn't have done anything different through it all, simply because it has given me a sense of accomplishment that I couldn't have accomplished any other way."

IN MEMORY OF ZACHARY STOFFEL
 5/23/55 - 11/11/14

You can shed tears that he is gone.
 Or you can smile because he lived.
 You can close your eyes and pray that he will come back.
 Or you can open your eyes and see all that he has left.
 Your heart can be empty because you can't see him.
 Or you can be full of the love that you shared,
 You can turn your back on tomorrow and live for yesterday,
 Or you can be happy for tomorrow because of yesterday.
 You can remember him and only that he is gone.
 Or you can cherish his memory and let it live on,
 You can cry, close your mind, be empty, and turn your back.
 Or you can do what he would have wanted, smile, open your eyes, love and live on.

Slinger Man Dies After Falling From Hunting Stand

A 50-year-old Village of Slinger man died after falling from a tree stand in the Town of Erin near 1209 Saint Augustine Road on Oct. 29.

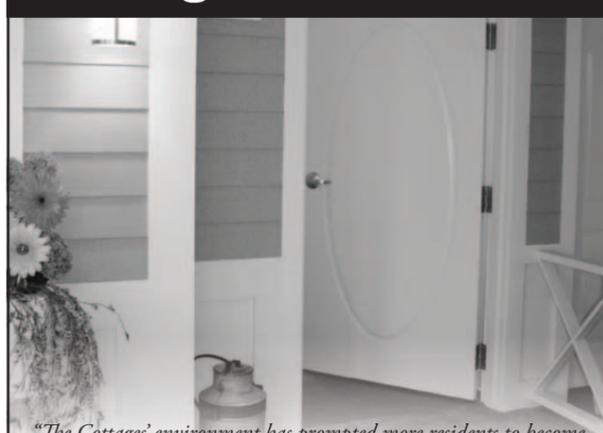

The Washington County Sheriff's Office received a 911 call at 9:33 p.m. reporting that a hunter was found unresponsive at the bottom of his tree stand. The caller was the victim's son who had gone out to look for his father after he had not returned home after dark.

Richfield Fire/EMS workers were dispatched to the area along with sheriff's deputies. The emergency personnel located the victim deep in the woods and began life-saving efforts. Lisbon Fire/EMS was also requested to the scene for advanced life support and their utility terrain vehicle. Flight for Life out of Waukesha was requested to respond to the area; however, it was canceled just prior to landing because the man was pronounced dead at the scene.

The incident does not appear to be suspicious in nature, according to the sheriff's office report. It is believed that the victim fell approximately 20 feet out of the tree. The case remains under investigation by the Washington County Sheriff's and Medical Examiner's offices.

Senior Citizens' Thanksgiving Dinner

On Saturday, Nov. 21, the Kewaskum Key Club, in conjunction with the Kiwanis Club of Wisconsin, will be holding its annual Senior Citizens' Thanksgiving Dinner.

The menu will include traditional holiday favorites such as turkey, dressing, mashed potatoes, vegetables and dessert. This is an opportunity for seniors in the district to come and enjoy a good meal in the company of other local seniors.

There is no cost for this outing, and no reservations are needed. Just come as you are and enjoy a pleasant gathering.

The meal will be served from 11 a.m. to 12:30 a.m. at the Kewaskum High School cafeteria, and all seniors are invited to attend.

Moraine Park student veterans and military students helped recognize the College's recent naming to "Best for Vets." ## Moraine Park Ranks In Top 10 Among Best Technical Colleges For Vets Moraine Park ranked ninth in Military Times's Best for Vets: Career & Technical Colleges 2016. The list, comprised of 20 schools, recognizes career and technical colleges for their commitment to educating and providing opportunities to America's veterans.

"This Best for Vets designation validates the proactive work Moraine Park has been doing, not only in providing above and beyond services to our military students and student veterans, but also in educating our staff in serving this unique sector of our student population," said Scott Lieburn, Moraine Park's dean of students. "This is one more positive step on our journey of moving beyond military friendly. As a veteran myself, I couldn't be prouder of Moraine Park and this designation."

Colleges and universities across the country were invited to fill out a rigorous survey, comprising well over 100 questions, about their operations involving current and former service members and their families. Schools that identified themselves primarily as career and technical institutions were evaluated in five categories: university culture, student support, academic outcomes/quality, academic policies and financial aid.

Moraine Park offers a number of programs approved for VA benefits and courses with a variety of flexible scheduling that is attractive to student veterans and military students alike. Student veteran specialists and advisors provide one-on-one attention in a culture that supports and understands the challenges veterans can have transitioning into college life. In addition, student veterans can become a member of the Student Veterans Association on campus.

The Military Times digital platforms and newweeklies are source for independent news and information for service members and their families. ## Community Announcement - Project Gratitude 2015

"Project Gratitude" started 10 years ago when First Weber decided to provide all of the food necessary to prepare a hot Thanksgiving meal at home, to the families of members of the Washington County Boys and Girls Club.

The project has grown from 10 families being provided baskets in 2005 to 300 in 2014. This year's goal remains the same even though the need is increasing. Food is ordered, picked up and delivered to each of the club locations on Monday, November 23rd. There are over 2,300 members of the Washington County Boys and Girls Clubs with locations in Jackson, Kewaskum, Hartford and West Bend. The cost to provide each family with the food is approximately $40.00. Every dollar raised goes directly to feeding the families.

Anyone wishing to help with this important project may send a check made out to the Washington County Boys and Girls Club and mailed to Terri Fredrich at 1720 Clarence Court West Bend, WI 3095 or contact Terri at 414-588-0116 for further information.

Continued From... Village Of Kewaskum Seeks Answers From County

- Village Board Needs To Know County's Tax Policy Before Approving 2016 Budget

UD3 is located within Tax Incremental District 2 (TID 2), which is located west of U.S. Highway 45. The commercial part of the TID is between Badger and Hillcrest roads, and the residential part is the Nature Haven Estates subdivision west of Prospect Drive.

Village leaders created TID 2 in 2005 to encourage growth, and the village invested $8 million to extend sewer and water services into the area. TIDs freeze the values of their land for all the entities except the village, so the other jurisdictions have been taxing that land at 2005 values.

The village has received the tax increment, which is the difference between the amount of property tax revenue generated in a TIF district before and after the TIF district was created.

In 2008, the nation went into a recession and building stopped in Kewaskum. Like many other municipalities across the state, Kewaskum's TID was declared distressed in 2012.

Meanwhile, the village's debt payments on the $8 million have been increasing every year. Starting around 2011, the increment (revenue) earned by TID 2 has not been able to cover the debt payment, so the village taxpayers have been lending the district money.

By creating UD3 last year, the village board hoped to encourage development in the area.

Beginning in 2016, undeveloped properties within UD3 will be taxed. That money will be used to pay off TID's debt.

Starting next year, UD3 properties will an additional mill rate of about $80.62 per $1,000 of assessed value to generate the TIF's $171,849 shortfall, Heiser said. UD-3 contains 54 parcels on it, with a total assessed land value of $2,131,600.

That means that one vacant lot in UD-3 that was assessed at 56,000 will be taxed an additional $4,514.72. A parcel valued at $31,200 will be taxed an additional $2,515.34.

To avoid the new tax, UD3 property owners simply need to develop their properties.

"Right now the county attorney is exploring whether they agree with [the village attorney] that it is a special tax. The county makes the village whole on unpaid taxes, not assessments or special charges. They have not made a determination on that yet," Heiser said.

If the county does not rule in Kewaskum's favor, the village would be short $171,000 if none of the property owners pay the UD-3 tax in 2016.

Village trustees decided Monday night to try to schedule a meeting with the village attorney before the public hearing to find out if they are on solid legal ground as they make a decision about the budget.

Because of the uncertainty of UD3 funds, Village Administrator Matt Heiser presented two budget proposals to the village board Monday night.

In the best-case scenario, the county reimburses the village for unpaid UD3 taxes. In that proposed budget, the village mill rate goes down two cents. This year's mill rate is $6.42 per $1,000 of property value, and in 2016 the mill rate would go down to $6.40 per $1,000.

That budget, which relies on $171,000 from UD3, raises salaries for the police chief and the police lieutenant, as well as adds one full-time officer. It accomplishes one street project, a $93,000 contribution from the village in support of the TIF shortfall and provides a one percent increase for village staff compensation as a result of performance evaluations. Some money is set aside for traditional capital purchases and for negotiations with the police union.

The first budget, which spends $20,000 from reserves to balance, takes into account a 3 percent increase in utility rates, or $10 per quarter on an average household, Heiser said.

Because the county tax levy is not yet known, that number may change.

The second budget summary that board members considered was drawn up as if UD3 did not exist. The village did not reap the $171,000 in brand new revenue from UD3.

"That summary accomplishes the same things. What that does is adds that $171,000 shortfall to our debt service, which is what we have been doing in the past to cover that shortfall. The mill rate would go from $6.42 to $6.91, which for a $200,000 home would be $112 increase in property taxes," Heiser said.

Village Trustee Dave Spenner voiced concerns over the increased spending in the police department.

"If we see a reason to adjust the compensation levels of the police chief and the police lieutenant, how is that going to impact our parody with all the other department heads? It seems to me like we will be coming back here in the middle of the year next year to say now that we've done this for these people, everyone else is out of sync. It's kind of like this cascading effect of how we're constantly sliding salaries, when it seems like we should have some plan that everyone gets into once and for all, and then we make these adjustments correctly for everyone," Spenner said.

Spenner also questioned spending more money to replace a part-time police officer position with a full-time position.

"We have to look at the fact that we are losing people. We are spending $21,000 to train new officers. If you keep losing people, it's going to cost you that much money every year then," Knoebel said. "If you have a part-time officer, they are not in the office all the time, you don't have control over them. We've been trying to do this for years."

Village Board Members To See Pay Increase In 2017

By Anne Trautner

Beginning in April 2017, Kewaskum Village Board members will get a raise.

"This actually came from the administrative committee. In comparing the board's compensation for their time to other communities, Kewaskum is pretty far behind," said Village Administrator Matt Heiser.

The annual pay for each trustee will be raised by $700. The pay for each trustee will go from $1,000 to $1,700 a year, and the village president's pay will increase from $1,500 to $2,200 a year. The per diem rate will increase from $30 a meeting to $40 a meeting.

"The reason we brought this up is because several years ago we dropped the compensation for everybody by $500," Village Trustee Richard Knoebel said.

"We are restoring it to the 2011 compensation levels," Village Trustee Dave Spenner said.

Village President Kevin Scheunemann was the lone dissenter in Monday night's vote for the pay increases.

Remembering Otto C. Straub Of St. Kilian

By Karl McCarty

There are many Straubs buried in the St. Kilian Catholic Church Cemetery in St. Kilian. Otto C. Straub is not one of them.

In addition, historical analysis often leads many to conclude facts and fixed conclusions. The same cannot be said when researching Otto Straub's past, as it leaves one with more questions than answers.

As Veterans Day approaches, one should keep in mind the origination of the holiday: Armistice Day — a remembrance of the peace after World War I. The following is a compilation of what one is left to ponder about this World War I veteran.

What We Know

Otto Straub was the son of Casper and Susan (Engel) Straub. He grew up east of St. Kilian. According to family historical documents, his grandfather Kasper Straub (1819-1874) stayed in Germany to finish learning his trade as a shoemaker. He followed to America in 1845 and at Hanoverton, Ohio, met his cousin Agatha Straub (1824-1897). They were married, and in 1846 settled in the woods a mile east of St. Kilian, Wisconsin. From them the St. Kilian and Marathon County [Wisconsin] Straubs descended.

Kasper and Agatha had many children, one of them was Casper, who ran the farm in St. Kilian by the 1880s. For the purposes of this article, the spelling of Casper refers to the second Casper Straub, as Kasper refers to the first generation settler outside St. Kilian. However, varying sources spell both first and second generation with a "C."

Otto, one of Casper's children, was the third generation on the farm, which dated back to Wisconsin's statehood. He was born on November 4, 1890. The 1910 census records suggest he was still on the farm around age 20. He wound up serving in World War I and attained the rank of private in the U.S. Army.

Compared to fellow soldiers, Otto was relatively older when he entered the war. The United States didn't join the effort against Germany, Austria-Hungary and the Ottoman Empire until 1917, when Otto was approaching 27. There were very few people in recent memory known to have seen Otto Straub. It appears Neal Straub (1924-2015) was the last living person in the area to vouch for meeting the veteran. Otto was a brother to Neal's dad, Hugo Straub.

We know Otto was injured in World War I, then stayed the rest of his life in the San Francisco area, but he did not marry. At least once he visited St. Kilian. He died on May 17, 1957, in what was described as "an old-age home," while his death card notes his passing "At Veterans Home." He then was interred in Golden Gate National Cemetery.

What Is Less Certain

Despite Otto's service to our country and his prestigious place of rest, very little is known about the man. The following is where the facts bring more questions than specifics.

For example, what exactly happened to Otto in World War I is unclear. He was gassed while serving in World War I, probably in France. And the exact battles he served in are presently unknown.

The German Impact

Otto's parents Casper (1852-1933) and Susan (1858-1930) spoke German. Only German. Even Otto's younger brother

Hugo didn't speak English routinely until he had children who were starting to go to school (late 1920s). It's safe to assume Otto had a language barrier going into the Army. This is important to keep in mind as there were many stereotypes German-Americans had to overcome as the nation questioned the patriotism of so-called hyphenated Americans.

Anti-German attitudes were rampant. For example, in 1915 former president Theodore Roosevelt said in his Columbus Day speech that, "There is no room in this country for hyphenated Americanism," adding "...The one absolutely certain way of bringing this nation to ruin... would be to permit it to become a tangle of squabbling nationalities, an intricate knot of German-Americans..." and other ethnic minorities supposedly remembering their mother country before America.

By the time the United States entered World War I in 1917, President Woodrow Wilson had viewed "hyphenated Americans" with suspicion too, particularly with German-Americans in that Germany was the US enemy in World War I.

Such fear was transferred into war propaganda. As PBS's American Experience website on Woodrow Wilson notes, "Publicity campaigns for the Treasury Department's Liberty Loan bonds produced some of the war's most compelling — and gruesome — posters. Many posters promoted 'German hatred,' such as the 'Beat Back the Hun with Liberty Bonds' advertisement, showing a blood-thirsty Hun looking over war-torn Europe and across the Atlantic Ocean

Casper and Susan Straub around 1900. He was the son of a German immigrant and likely named after his father. She was an Engel from Ashford, the daughter of John and Margaret (Clemens). They married at St. Martin's Church in July of 1880. Together, Casper and Susan Straub farmed outside St. Kilian before and after the turn of the century.

By the 1920s, they retired to St. Kilian after building another house from the wood of the original Straub farmstead's forested lands. Today, their final home is Susie Batzler's house on the Town of Wayne side of St. Kilian. In the late 1920s, it was an ideal place for the grandchildren to stop after Sunday mass in St. Kilian.

Casper and Susan spoke German. Casper apparently had a sense of humor, as he would joke that he would cut his grandson Neal's ear off if he didn't behave. "Schneid die ohren auf," Casper said with the knife he always carried in his pocket.

Casper and Susan's children spoke thick German too, leading one to wonder how their veteran son Otto dealt with criticisms of German-Americans during his service in World War I.

to America. The racism worked and the Liberty Bond campaign rose more than $20 billion.

Now back to Otto. One is left to wonder if he was useful to the American military because he spoke German. How well could Otto speak English when he went to fight in Europe? Perhaps he was mistrusted by his peers for his Germanic ties.

When I asked Otto's nephew if there was a lot of anti-German hostilities in St. Kilian, the answer was a clear no. Granted, Neal could only vouch for a decade after World War I. Still, St. Kilian (southern town of Ashford and northern town of Wayne) was primarily Irish and German. These two races were the most hated in America in World War I, as Ireland's Catholics opposed the U.S. ally of Protestant Great Britain. Meanwhile the Germans were blamed for starting World War I in the first place.

It is likely Otto didn't experience anti-German-American hostility until after he left home to serve, if at all. Either way, one is left to wonder how his heritage molded his wartime experience.

How Was The Visit Back Home?

It's also unclear what exactly happened when Otto came back to St. Kilian long after World War I. Neal met his Uncle Otto at least once as a child, perhaps as early as 1930, but more likely around the middle of the Great Depression.

What did Neal remember about that visit to St. Kilian? Otto could walk despite his ailments. He was not crippled, a word common for the time.

One could talk to Otto. However, the veteran was not in the best health as he clearly had trouble breathing. His parents (Casper and Susan Straub) were likely deceased by then. Still, it is possible that Otto came back home for his mom or dad's funeral.

Whatever the occasion was, Neal remembered that Uncle Otto stayed with other relatives in St. Kilian. After all, St. Kilian in 1930 was basically a Straub haven. This was a time when there were at least four houses in St. Kilian that had a Straub living in it, including Casper's sister Ursula, a bachelorette who lived in one of the last houses near the east end of the unincorporated area. Otto's sisters also occupied two of the houses, which were close to his parent's retirement house.

More specifically, John Kleinhans in St. Kilian may have footed the bill for his brother-in-law to come from San Francisco, as Otto didn't have much money seeing as the veteran was disabled. Perhaps Simon and Marie Strachota helped too, as Otto likely boarded at their house across from their general store. Marie, Otto's sister, lived just north of her father Casper's final home. The Strachota house was on the intersection of what today is Highway W and St. Kilian Drive.

Otto visited the original Straub farmstead east of St. Kilian when he returned home. I wonder what he felt when he returned to the land he was raised on, knowing the likelihood he would not see it for a while or ever again. In the end, it appears once he left St. Kilian in the 1930s he never returned.

Service And Peace

Certainty in history is more often an emotion rather than an actual fact. Finding records of his injury and battles still remains difficult. This uncertainty comes with the many questions that come to mind in the story of Otto C. Straub. Was Otto happy in San Francisco? Did he want to come back to live in St. Kilian?

And who attended his funeral?

Still, such uncertainty is outweighed by two important facts. Otto C. Straub served and represents the many veterans associated with St. Kilian Catholic Cemetery from the towns of Ashford and Wayne. And secondly, his earned spot in Golden Gate National Cemetery is one amidst a tranquil row of white headstones pointing to the Pacific.

Golden Gate National Cemetery is deceiving. It is not near the Golden Gate Bridge nor is it in San Francisco. Instead, the peaceful grounds lay 12 miles south in San Bruno close to San Francisco International Airport. Still, it is often confused with San Francisco National Cemetery in the Presidio of San Francisco, which was closed to new burials in the 1930s after city residents banned new cemeteries within their limits. Golden Gate National Cemetery opened in 1941 as a response to providing burial opportunities to cities with large veteran populations. It has well over 100,000 internments but is now closed to new ones. The vast majority of veterans include those from the Spanish-American War, World Wars I and II, Korea and Vietnam. Even Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, a commander of the Pacific fleet in World War II, is buried in Golden Gate National Cemetery. So too is Otto C. Straub of St. Kilian.

This picture appeared in the 1971 "Pictorial Atlas" of Fond du Lac County. It was labeled, "The original house on the Casper Straub farm, 1848." Technically this is the house that was built in the late 1840s, rather than being a picture from exactly 1848, near the time Kasper Straub came to the Town of Ashford. Otto Straub would have been one of the rare Straubs to have lived in both houses that ever existed on the farm (late 1840s-present). He spent his first decade in this original homestead before switching to the new and improved version his father built.

The old house was not immediately removed, as it must have lasted almost another half century as Otto's brother Hugo took over the farm into the 1930s. Hugo's daughter, Sr. Audrey Straub, remembers that building's conversion into the "chicken house" by the 1940s, as it became home to more than 100 roosting birds instead of Straubs. It was near this original house that mulberry trees were planted. These mulberry trees were significant, as descendants were told the tree seeds came from Germany and made the journey to America. They had remarkably big fruit, topping two inches a berry. Perhaps the tree in the image is one of the old mulberry trees, which exact species no longer exists on the property east of St. Kilian.

Above are Casper Straub and his wife Susan as they hold the porch railings of their newly finished house at the turn of the century. Their farm was located just east of St. Kilian on what today is Hillside Lane (east off Rolling Drive but south of Highway W). Not only did Casper build this house, but he was one of the many who built St. Kilian Church in the 1890s.

Catholicism and farming necessitated a large family. Records indicate Casper and Susan had at least 11 children. Two apparently failed to make it to adulthood (Salome and Mike). The youngest of the children, Alphonse (1900-1957), was likely too young to be in an outside picture or was not born yet.

The remaining children are identifiable, but some more clear in the picture than others. The couple had at least six boys: Mike, Otto, Gregor, Hugo, Leo and Alphonse. The standing boy is Otto Straub, as he was older than his younger brothers by a half dozen years. Born in 1890, Otto appears to be around 10, dating the picture near 1900. Gregor, Hugo (1897-1967), and Leo (1898-1962) were all born in the second half of the 1890s and are the children surrounding Otto.

The couple had five girls: Salome, Marie, Adelaid, Helen and Rose. Neal Straub (1924-2015) indicated that his aunt Salome died young. Birth records indicated Marie was older than Adelaid, then came Helen and finally Rose (b.1894). Because Otto was older than Rose and no girl looks a few years younger than him, it appears that the three girls in the picture are Marie, Adelaid and Helen. Why Rose would not be in the picture is unclear, and the three girls in the picture remain individually unidentified. Marie Straub (1884-1971) married Simon Strachota (1877-1940), who owned the general store in St. Kilian. Helen Straub (1888-1960) married John Kleinhans (1888-1979), who ran the St. Kilian Cheese Factory.

Many banks are issuing new debit and credit cards with an embedded chip for additional security. The new chips are meant to reduce fraud, but the hype around the new cards is having an unintended side effect... fodder for scammers.

How the Scam Works:

You receive an email saying that your new credit or debit card with the chip is on the way. But first you need to update your account. The message seems to be from your bank or credit card issuer. It may have the company's logo and even the reply email address.

All you need to do, claims the message, is reply and confirm your personal and banking information. Or, in another version, the message instructs you to click on a link to continue the process.

Don't do it! If you share personal information, the scammer can use it to commit identity theft. If you click on the link, you may download malware to your device. Scammers use malware to steal your personal information, send spam and commit fraud.

Tips to Spot a Phishing Scam:

- Be wary of unexpected emails that contain links or attachments. Do not click on links or open files in unfamiliar emails.
- Consider how the company normally contacts you. If a company usually contacts you by phone, be suspicious if you suddenly start receiving emails or text messages without ever opting in to the new communications. Banks and credit card issuers have secure communications channels that require you to log into your account before you can read the message.

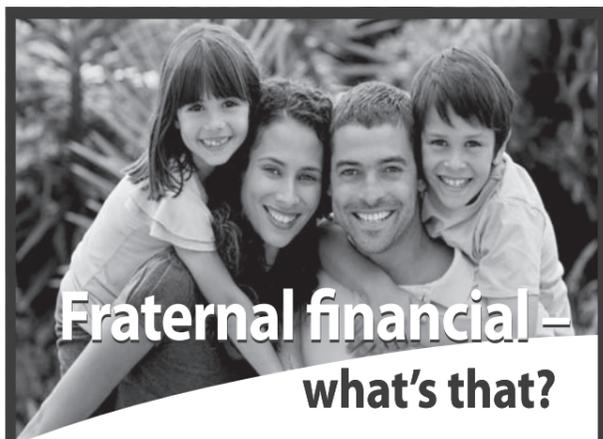

•Don't believe what you see. Just because an email looks real, doesn't mean it is. Scammers can fake anything from a company logo to the "Sent" email address.

•Check the company's website or call them. If something sounds suspicious, confirm it by checking with the bank or credit card issuer. The customer service phone number will be on the back of the card. If you want to look on the company's website, look for the URL on your statement or do a web search. DON'T click on any links in the message you suspect is a scam.

•Be cautious of generic emails. Scammers try to cast a wide net by including little or no specific information in their fake emails. Always be wary of messages that don't contain your name, last digits of your account number or other personalizing information.

“PayQuick With eWIC” – A Convenient, Speedy Way For Families To Purchase WIC-Approved Foods

The Wisconsin Women, Infants & Children (WIC) program recently announced they will distribute monthly benefits to their clients through an “eWIC” (or electronic WIC) benefit system in Wisconsin. The official rollout of eWIC in SE WI began during the week of September 21, 2015.

WIC food packages provide supplemental foods designed to meet the special nutritional needs of low-income pregnant, breastfeeding, non-breastfeeding postpartum women, infants and children up to five years of age who are at nutritional risk.

Previously, benefits were distributed via monthly checks, and over time, proved to be challenging for families.

Shopping could be difficult and if checks were lost, reissuing them was not guaranteed and time consuming, creating hurdles for families to get the help they needed.

“Over the past few years, WIC has seen a decrease in the number of eligible families using our services, which may be due to the inconvenience of paper checks,” says Angie Wilks-Tate, WIC Project Director at MLK Heritage Health Center. We hope that the convenience of the new eWIC card will encourage families to return to WIC.”

WIC’s new “PayQuick with eWIC” initiative gives families a convenient and speedy way to shop for WIC-approved foods using an eWIC electronic benefit card. Specific benefits of the eWIC card include:

- Safe. No more paper checks
- Simple. Hassle-free checkout.
- Convenient. Only buy the food needed each time.

“We are very excited about our new eWIC system,” says Wilks-Tate. “Now, mothers can “Just Swipe it” (eWIC card) when they go to the store, giving them a convenient way to shop for WIC approved foods. eWIC ensures families continue to receive foods which are healthy and support them and their children’s growth.”

WIC food packages provide moms with choice and variety. Foods, such as: milk, eggs, iron-fortified cereals, whole grain bread, tortillas, brown rice, and fruits and vegetables, provide WIC nutritionists flexibility in prescribing culturally appropriate food packages to mothers and their children.

“At WIC, we are Here for You (clients),” says Wilks-Tate. “We continue to strive daily to make sure that the families we serve have the best, most convenient access to healthy and nutritious foods.”

Since the rollout, WIC has experienced great amounts of positive feedback from their clients. They anticipate the number of participants in the program to rise substantially. Interested mothers can contact 1-800-722-2295.

Kewaskum Property Owners Harvest Trees Harvested For Logging

– Property Owners Hope To Make Wooded Parcel More Marketable

By Anne Trautner

Neighbors couldn't help noticing the logging that was going on in the 31-acre wooded lot that is for sale on Edgewood Drive in Kewaskum.

Even after a truck had hauled some of the logs away, hundreds more logs, each about 10 feet long, were piled up on the property.

"We are trying to make it more saleable by cleaning it up a little bit. It needed a trimming," Shorewest realtor Al Luedtke said. "Nobody can build a house with trees on it, anyhow. The time was prime for harvesting."

The property owners, Dr. Charles Ogi and Jim Reigle, sold the pine trees to a logger.

Listed at $495,000, the wooded property has a pond and island, and borders Kewaskum Creek. The land has been on the market since July 3, according to the online listing.

A pathway had already been cleared through the woods a number of years ago when a sanitary sewer line was installed.

"If [developers] don't want to change the pitch or the direction of the pipe, it's ready to go for sanitary sewer," Village Administrator Matt Heiser said.

That pathway will be the most likely spot for a developer to build a road, Luedtke said.

"So it's ahead of the game. It's ripe for a developer, but I haven't found one yet," he said. "We're just trying to make it more beautiful and enhance it into development into residential housing."

The village board has conceptually approved the land for residential development years ago, Luedtke said.

The property is currently zoned single family residential. To build anything else on the land would require a change in zoning, which would warrant approval from the plan commission and the village board.

"This is for development into single family homes or side-by-sides, whatever the village is willing to permit there," Luedtke said.

For more information on the property, contact Al Luedtke at aluedtke@shorewest.com or (262) 338-2648, extension 120.

– Car Show Beneficiaries Express Gratitude For Donations

By Anne Trautner

Tom Kudek and Barry Hobelsberger were surprised and grateful when they learned they would benefit from the Grand Larsony Car Show that was held in Kewaskum on Sept. 20.

"It means a whole lot to me. It was a surprise – I didn't know anything about it. These guys put their heads together and decided it was my turn," said Kudek, who has liver cancer.

Hobelsberger, who is battling kidney cancer, wasn't expecting any help either.

"My sister and her husband-to-be are avid car show people, and it just happened to me at the time. Luck of the draw, I guess," Hobelsberger said.

Richard "Kissy" Kissinger has organized the Grand Larsony Car Show for the past 15 years. Over the years, the event has helped people in need throughout the community.

This year's event, which was the largest ever, raised $14,000. Kudek and Hobelsberger each received $5,000 from the proceeds. Mark Allar, who was injured in a motorcycle accident, received $1,500.

Modern Woodmen of America matched $2,500 for the show's beneficiaries.

"The balance went into the savings account. We have about $5,900 in the account that we use to help people throughout the year," Kissinger said.

Money from the savings account has been used to purchase a minivan for a veteran and a ramp for a local man who lost a leg. The funds have benefited cancer patients and people who have lost a home in a fire.

"That's what the savings account is for, so we can use it when somebody needs something," Kissinger said.

Kissinger, who is an avid car collector, promotes the Kewaskum benefit show throughout the year.

"That's how it's been going for the past 15 years. We started out with 90 cars, and ended up with 438 this year. So, nice finish," he said.

Kissinger, who turns 65 next year, does not plan to organize any more car shows. He hopes that someone from the car community will take over and continue the annual event. He said there are a couple prospective organizers.

"I want to thank these people and all the people that were involved in the community that supported this car show," Kudek said.

Kudek, who runs Auto Body Dynamics in Kewaskum, is known in the community for his work with youth sports. He coached football for 14 years. He also coached girls baseball and was the first president of the Kewaskum Baseball Athletic Association.

Both Kudek and Hobelsberger expressed their appreciation for the support.

"It means a lot," said Hobelsberger, who also works as an auto mechanic.

"Barry was in pretty bad shape after his kidney cancer. He ended up getting blood clots. We almost lost him. I had the fun of taking that ride and driving him to Hartford, and it was pretty rough, so he's lucky to be here," said Hobelsberger's sister, Sandy Wiskirchen.

During the entire ride to the emergency room, Hobelsberger did nothing but complain about how bad Wiskirchen's suspension was.

"She needed shocks. I had to let her know," Hobelsberger said.

Organizers of the Grand Larsony Car Show, as well as a representative from Modern Woodmen of America, present Barry Hobelsberger with checks worth more than $5,000 to help with medical bills incurred from cancer treatment. # Wisconsin Graduation Rate Among Tops In The Nation —Gaps Persist For Too Many Preliminary data from the U.S. Department of Education shows Wisconsin's 2014 public school graduation rate (88.6 percent) is among the highest in the nation.

Wisconsin ranked third nationwide; tied with New Jersey. Iowa was first with a graduation rate of 90.5 percent, followed by Nebraska at 89.7 percent. The preliminary data also showed that 36 states, including Wisconsin, saw increases in their overall four-year graduation rates, while six states had declines and another eight states had no change since 2012-2013. Wisconsin's 2014 graduation rate was six-tenths of a point higher than the prior year.

"Our 2014 graduates and their teachers deserve our celebration and praise," said State Superintendent Tony Evers. "It is their hard work, along with support from parents, school staff, and the community, that make educational success, and especially high school graduation, the goal for every student."

While the state's graduation rate for all students ranks near the top of the nation, gaps persist among racial subgroups. According to the preliminary data from the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES), Wisconsin has the biggest gap between white and black students nationally. Rates have increased for all racial and ethnic groups between 2013-2014 and 2009-2010.

"Last year, I presented the recommendations of my Promoting Excellence for All Task Force, comprised of educators who have demonstrated success closing achievement gaps in their local communities," Evers said. "This fall, we added more strategies that educators and families can use to help close gaps thanks to the work of my Parent Advisory Council."

"Closing achievement gaps remain my top focus, but it is a trend that cannot be reversed overnight. The work we do on important social issues like this are a labor of love that require family and community involvement supported by targeted investments in what works. But the bottom line is that as the diversity of our student population continues to grow, we can no longer afford to see gaps between our white and non-white students."

The NCES is expected to release final graduation rate data for the class of 2014 — including the nation's newest graduation rate — in the coming months. The nation's 2013 graduation rate was 81 percent, the highest rate ever.

Since 2010, NCES has required all states to use an adjusted cohort graduation rate. Under the federal graduation rate definition, each student is assigned to a cohort when entering high school, the 2010-2011 school year for the class of 2014. The cohort is adjusted for students who transfer to another state or nonpublic school, emigrate from the United States to another country, or die during the timeframe. The graduation rate is based on students who earn a regular high school diploma in four years.

Wisconsin's adjusted cohort graduation rate for the class of 2014 was the highest it's been since using that method for computing the four-year graduation rate. The state also calculates five-year and six-year graduation rates to account for students who, by state and federal law, have additional time to complete their high school education.

For the 2013-2014 school year, the five-year graduation rate was 91.3 percent and the six-year rate, 91.5 percent.

UW-WC Announces Auditions For "Fools" —Cast And Crew Needed For Spring Production

UW-Washington County (UW-WC) will be holding auditions for the spring production of Fools on Tuesday, Dec. 1, beginning at 6 p.m. in the campus theatre. Written by Neil Simon, the cast includes ten actors. Area residents, ages 18 and up, as well as UW-WC students are strongly encouraged to audition. Accents are fun, but not required.

This comic fable set long ago in the Ukraine, was first presented in New York City in 1981 at the Eugene O'Neill Theatre. Fools will be directed by Rick Ponzio, senior lecturer, communications and theatre department.

Volunteers are needed for the stage and costume crews. Work includes set building, staging, technical work, costumes and make-up. Volunteers are also needed for ushering and poster distribution. College credit can be earned for performing or doing behind-the-scenes work for the show.

Taking foolishness to new heights, the story takes place in the town of Kulyenchikov which has been cursed with stupidity. Leon, a young schoolmaster, has 24 hours to teach Sophia something, which will break the curse. If he fails, he will also become stupid. Complications ensue when Leon falls in love with his pupil.

Male cast members include: Leon Tolchinsky, the idealistic school teacher; Snetsky, the sheep herder who keeps losing his sheep;

Magistrate, the judge, lawyer and mayor; Dr. Zubritsky, Sophia's father who hasn't been to med school and Gregor Yousekevitch, the count with the curse.

Female roles include: Yenchna, the vendor who confuses flowers and fish; Sophia Zubritsky who has just learned how to sit down; and Lenya Zubritsky, Sophia's mother who has trouble with doors.

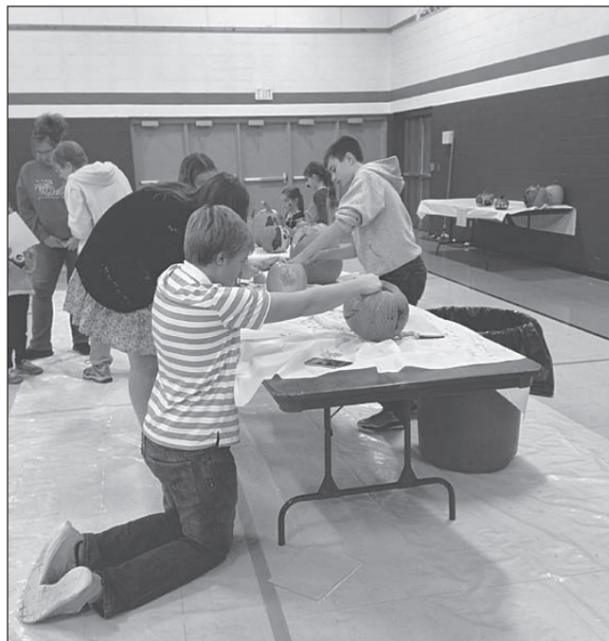

Two roles can be either male or female and include: Slovitich, the butcher who sweeps dirt into the shop and Mishkin, the postmaster who saves important letters.

Candidates for audition do not need to bring prepared material. Everyone will be given numerous opportunities to audition for a variety of roles. Candidates are asked to bring a photo (any size), acting resume (if available) and wear comfortable clothing and shoes that allow free movement.

Three performances of Fools are planned for Thursday, Friday and Saturday evening, March 10-12 at 7:30 p.m. All performances will be in the campus theatre, located on the second floor of the campus. The play is approximately two hours in length with intermission and is appropriate for ages 13 and up.

Scripts are available for perusal from the University library. For more information about auditions or behind the scenes work, email Professor Ponzio, rick.ponzio@uwc.edu.

Big Second Quarter Propels Indians To 35-12 Win; Next Up Catholic Memorial

By Judy Harlow

If the Packers' Aaron Rogers would have watched the scoreless first quarter of the Kewaskum - Whitnall D-3 football game Friday, he would have probably said "R-E-L-A-X," (ala Green Bay's 1-2 start in the 2014 season), professing his confidence the No. 1 ranked Indians would soon find their stride.

And find their stride they did, scoring four times in the second quarter en route to a convincing 35-12 over the Falcons, whose season ended with a 6-4 record.

Kewaskum improved to 11-0 and now gets set for a showdown with an old nemesis Waukesha Catholic Memorial, which handed the Indians a heart-breaking 27-21 loss a year ago.

"The kids have done what they had to to give themselves a chance," KHS coach Jason Piittmann said afterward. Concerning his team being the favorite via its No. 1 seed, Piittmann said. "It might be a horse apiece. They're (Crusaders) pretty good, and we're pretty good too. "We've got the No. 1 vs. No. 2 matchup."

The Indians got the ball first, and their fans were looking for them to score on the first or third plays, which they had done in their previous wins over Plymouth and Delavan-Darien.

Kewaskum did pick up a couple of first downs, but their first drive stalled at the Whitnall 48 after a third down pass by QB Michael Prochnow was too high for Charlie Witek to haul in.

All state candidate Brandon Thull only carried the ball twice in the first series for five yards and three times in the second for nine yards as the Indians had to punt for the second time.

About the slow start, Piittmann said, "They were messing with us a little" defensively, with no down linemen, so he went to the pass more. "We probably could have had 14 points had we caught a couple of them."

The Falcons' offense did have some success the first 12 minutes, gaining 65 yards, but things were about to change, right after a punt by Francisco Perez came off the side of his foot and traveled just 21 yards, rolling out of bounds at the Kewaskum 17.

Going back to one of its successful running formation, Thull started with an 11-yard burst, then Steve Nurkala electrified the crowd with a 67-yard jet sweep, breaking a couple tackles and running away from several other Falcons until the safety tackled him at the Whitnall 5.

"That opened things up for us," Piittmann said.

Thull didn't waste any time scoring, taking a first-down handoff and blasting his way into the end zone. Cade Peterson's PAT kick was perfect, and the Indians had a 7-0 lead.

Peterson's kickoff went out of bounds, but rather than take the ball at the 35-yard line, the Falcons decided to have him kick over, and this time, Marcus Arteaga had trouble handling the ball and was tackled back on the Whitnall 23.

The Falcons used a 34-yard pass from Kyle Radavich to Nick Clarizo to move into Kewaskum territory, but two plays later, Josh Baker made a beautiful interception at the Indian eight-yard line to give the ball back to the KHS offense.

This drive took just five plays, culminating with a 67-yard pass by Prochnow that Witek caught in stride and just kept running until he found the end zone. Now the Indians were up 14-0.

Kewaskum next forced Whitnall into a three-and-out, and its offense was quickly on the field again. Drive No. 3 took just 1:02, including four plays, three by Thull, who ripped off runs of six, 11 and 11 yards. His final carry was another patented Thull run ... with a broken tackle, a move to the outside and another six points, his 34th touchdown of the year.

While 21-0 looked to be a pretty comfortable lead, 28-0 was even better, and the Indians added the last touchdown by going 72 yards in seven plays, with Thull getting the call from the 1 with only 44 seconds left on the clock.

Kewaskum's defense certainly stiffened in the second quarter, led by seniors Sam Fechter and Ben Watzig. "Sam was everywhere in the first half. He was all over their quarterback (Radavich)," Piittmann said.

Kewaskum scored on its opening drive in the second half, so it scored on five straight series. This time, Thull needed just three plays to move the ball 59 yards, going 53 on another of his displays of power and quickness.

Thull wound up with 222 yards rushing in 21 attempts for a 10.6 yard average. For the year, he now has 2,154 yards rushing and 36 touchdowns.

This final touchdown gave the Indians a 35-0 lead, and the running clock started for the rest of the contest.

Radavich and starting running back, Andrew Mallmann, never returned for the second half after sustaining injuries. Arteaga took Mallmann's place and was limited to 38 yards rushing by the Indians, while Flores, a five-foot six-inch sophomore, took a pounding early but came back to throw a pair of touchdown passes, both to Austin Brault, the first covering 14 yards and the second a 68-yard bomb. Runs on both PAT tries were stuffed by the Indians.

Piittmann had inserted many of his reserves in the lineup early in the fourth quarter, but after the first of two fumbles, the second which was recovered by the Falcons, he had apparently seen enough and went back to the starters who finished up.

Nurkala put up some good numbers, gaining 95 yards in four carries, catching two passes for 10 yards, returning one kickoff for 28 yards and credited with three gang tackles.

The Indians limited Whitnall to 63 yards rushing. Sixteen different players had two or more tackles, led by Zack Thull, who had three solos, eight assists and a quarterback sack. Fechter came up with five tackles, including three solos, and he had a pair of sacks.

"I think we were all pretty fired up," Fechter said. "We wanted to get to (Catholic) Memorial. To get there, we had to get through these guys ... We kind of had a chip on our shoulder."

About his two sacks, Fechter said, "It's definitely a bonus being able to get the quarterback."

And was the 245-pound lineman tired after going both ways in another big game? Fechter nodded his head no and said, "We condition about every practice, Coach Piittmann makes sure we're in good shape for the season."

Kewaskum will host the game against the Crusaders, which will be played Friday at 7 p.m. Piittmann has announced the tickets will be $5 for this Level 3 contest. In the other D-3 bracket Friday, No. 4 seeded Mount Horeb/Barneveld nipped top seeded Monona Groove, 34 to 28, while Reedsburg (No. 3) topped No. 2 La Crosse Logan, 45-34.

Goeden Joins Elite Company As Hall Of Fame Inductee

By Judy Harlow

If Donny Goeden starts daydreaming Saturday night before the induction ceremony at the Wisconsin Short Track Hall of Fame banquet, one can only guess he will be thinking back on:

•How as a youth, how he would go racing with his dad, Willie "The Rabbit" Goeden six nights a week;

•His first race in an open-wheel sprint car in 1987

•His first A-Main feature win on May 25 of '87

•Championship seasons in the Eastern Wisconsin Stock Car Association in 1992 and '93.

•Getting back into racing with Bob and Dawn Hood in 2013 and winning back-to-back titles with the #10W car in the Plymouth Dirt Track Racing Association in 2014 and '15.

Then when he comes down from the cloud, it will be with the realization he and 10 other drivers are being added to the elite fraternity of short-track race car drivers in southeastern Wisconsin.

"It's a great honor," Goeden said Sunday about being selected, but even without it, he said there are so many things to enjoy about being involved in sprint car racing, a career which began in 1985 after growing up with the sport.

"My brother Dave and I were always working on my dad's car, and we would go racing six night a week. We washed the cars and did the maintenance," he said.

This was the racing classroom for young Goeden, who said, "I learned a lot," about set up, about scaling cars (weighing them), about tire compounds and shock packages.

Concerning the actual driving of a race car, Goeden said, "My dad would say keep the car straight and you will get faster the more nights you get under your belt."

And did his dad pressure them into being race car drivers? "He was OK with any decision we made," Goeden said, and at age 21, he decided he wanted to try his hand at it.

"I bought it (my first car) from Butchie Hafemann," Goeden said. "It was a car built by Etchie Biertzer," a West Bend driver who had a great career in the sport.

Goeden doesn't remember much about his first race but everything about his first A-Main win. "I started on the pole and won that race," Goeden said, recalling how his dad was in the hospital at the time after suffering a serious racing accident three weeks before.

"We had tears in our eyes" after winning, Goeden said. "I dedicated my race to him."

Since that May night in '87, Goeden has added 130 feature victories to his credit, driving on the Wilmot and Plymouth tracks in the state and several others during the 10 years he traveled from '95 to 2005.

Goeden has five championships to his credit, including the two in the EWSCA series, one on the IRA (Interstate Racing Association) in 1999, and the last two at the Sheboygan County Fair Park oval.

It's self understood being a race car driver isn't for the faint of heart. "We hit speeds anywhere from 80 to 130 miles an hour," Goeden said. Plus the sport demands split-second decisions, and sometimes no matter what a driver does, there are crashes, which are definitely part of the sport.

For Goeden, it's not too hard to pick the scariest moment he ever experienced while driving. "It was crashing in Knoxville, Iowa (in the Knoxville Nationals). Three times Goeden flipped, and then, "I went upside down and then caught fire." Quick action by the track safety crew helped Goeden escape without serious burns or injury.

And what has changed in the sport over the years? "They're getting tighter, more restriction rules, pretty much putting everyone on the same playing field," he said.

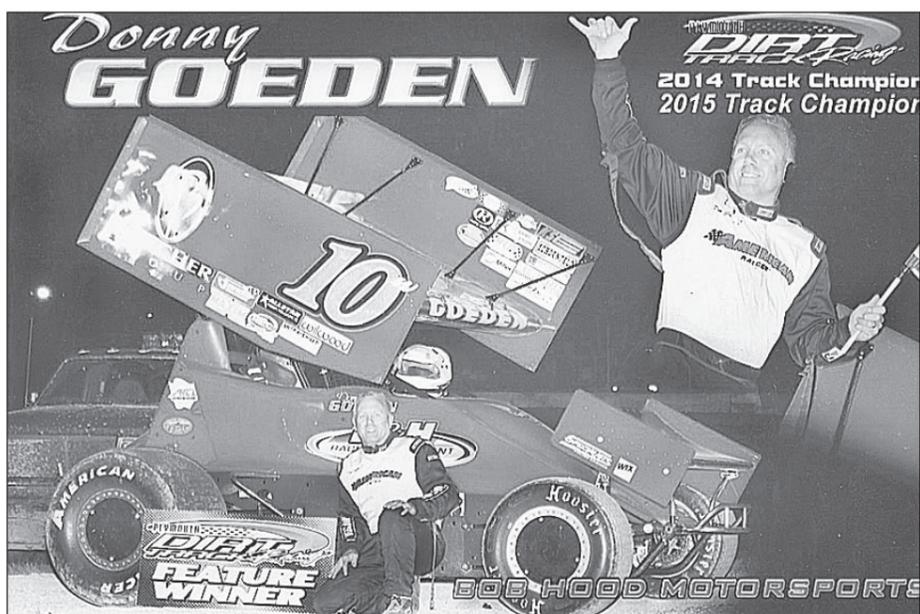

For a time, Goeden drove on a part-time basis, and then "Three years ago, Bob and Dawn Hoods called me to drive their car," he said. "We have two championships with them."

What has been the secret to their success? "I have a good crew. We have a good team," he said. "We keep the car straight and we win a lot of races."

Along with the actual racing competition, Goeden said he enjoys interaction with the fans. He has sponsored coloring contests for children who follow racing and said, "Last year for Fan Appreciation Night, we had a ice chest filled with ice cream bars from Bill Lehmann."

Saturday's dinner at the Schauer Center in Hartford will be very special for Goeden, who enters the Hall with 10 others, including Pete Ostrowski from Plymouth and Dave Moulis from Wilmot. He will then share the honor with his dad, who was inducted in 2007, the first year of the Hall of Fame. Being in the Hall with his dad "is amazing," according to Goeden, who said, "I'm happy to have dad there to see it."

While Goeden has a reputation as a smart and talented driver, he realizes winning is a team effort. "Meeting great people, having great car owners and crew members and a great family is how I got to this point," he said.

Donny Goeden is being inducted into the Wisconsin Short Track Hall of Fame on Saturday, Nov. 7, during an induction ceremony at the Schauer Center in Hartford. Goeden has been racing since he was 21 years old.

Wilde, Cook Honored By GCAW

By Judy Harlow

For their efforts on the golf course and in the classroom, Kewaskum High's Leah Wilde and Taylor Cook have been named to the Golf Coaches Association of Wisconsin's 2015 All-Academic team.

Students are nominated by GCAW member coaches if they meet the following criteria: 1 - cumulative grade point average of at least 3.25; 2 - participation in at least 75 percent of their team's varsity matches; and 3 - have reached their sophomore year in school. These young students athletes provide great example to others.

Wilde, a varsity golfer for the past three years and a second-team all-Wisconsin Little Ten golfers in 2014 and 2015, averaged in the low 40s during her senior season. She hit a season-best 41-45-86 to finish fourth in the WIAA D-2 regional at the Broadlands Golf Course in Waukesha to advance to the sectional tournament.

Cook missed several meets early in the year due to illness, then gradually improved in her first season on the varsity, with her best score a 64-54-118 at the WLT conference meet.

The coaches association is proud to announce that 307 girls from 89 high schools have been honored this year for maintaining high academic standards in the classroom while competing in varsity golf. In fact, the average cumulative GPA of this year's honorees is an exceptional 3.800.

The GCAW was formed by high school golf coaches in 1986.

Eighth Graders Win Season Finale

The Eighth Grade Gridiron Indians closed out their season with a 24-6 victory over Pewaukee in cold and wet conditions this past Saturday to secure a winning record of 5-3 on the season.

The Indians scored on their first possession of the game with the touchdown coming on a five yard run by running back J.J. Thull. The touchdown was set up by a nice 50 yard punt return by Thull. Both the Indians and Pewaukee added touchdowns in the second quarter with the Indians touchdown coming on a 54 yard run by Thull. The score at halftime was 12-6 in favor of the Indians.

The Indians received the second half kickoff and didn't waste anytime with Thull taking the second play of the half 60 yards for an Indians touchdown. The Pewaukee offense couldn't get anything going against the Indians defense in the second half with the Indians forcing two turnovers in the half. Thull added one more long touchdown run in the fourth quarter, this one covered 63 yards to give him four touchdowns on the day.

The Indians offense was led by Thull with the four rushing touchdowns along with the offensive line for paving the way by opening up some nice running holes for the running backs. Defensively the Indians played a very nice game as a unit. Defensive lineman Nathan Lawrenz provided a great push, helping to stuff the run and defensive backs Thull and Toree Ralph each had an interception.

All of the eighth grade coaches thank the players and parents for a great season. It was a season that had its ups and downs but no matter what the kids continued to play hard and were able to have a winning season, but more importantly we believe each player showed good development throughout the season.

Kewaskum Youth Soccer Results From October 31st

Kewaskum Youth Soccer Organization completed the fall season this weekend. We would like to recognize all of our participants, parents, volunteers and especially coaches for another successful season. We look forward to seeing everyone this spring.

U7 Phoenix had a great game on Saturday beating the Slinger Lynx 9-2. Colton Rabe scored a double hat trick with six goals, Oliver Grover had two, and Izzy Lang had one. The Phoenix ended the season with a record of 7-2-1. Season stats: Colton Rabe – 35 goals, Janya Dieringer – 10 goals, Oliver Grover – nine goals, Isabella Lang – five goals, Elijah Mays – four goals, Annika Kreuser – three goals, and Camilla Kreif – one goal. Great season Phoenix!

U7 Suns won their last game of the season 7-1 against Hartford Panthers. Grant Rasmussen scored two, Kingston Grisolono scored three, Marisol Gurrola and Scarlett Reis both scored one during the game. All players played a wonderful game with great effort. We are all very proud of a great season these U7 Suns players played.

U9 Flash won their last game of the season 7-3 against Slinger Mavericks. Maddie Marquardt, Eden Korth, Casey Schmidt, Nathan Vlotho, Riely Kuehl, and Caitlyn Finger all scored for the Flash. All players played a great game. Hats off to all the players of the U9 Flash team for a great fall season.

The U9 riptide finished the fall off with a two to one win against Hustisford. Tyler Kehres and Mara Butschlick came thru with goals. Luke Okrent and Lidia Handke had the best game this fall. It was a wet and cold game but lots of fun to watch.

The U10 Spartans were victorious this weekend with a 7-3 win over Slinger. Play started slow with the Spartans down by two in the first quarter but the players were able to overcome the nasty weather and being outnumbered to come out on top in the end. Timmy Hafemann and Dawson Stahl each scored two goals. Calla Kreuser, James Martin and Adam Deppert also scored. Meghan Clausing and Wyatt Tye showed awesome teamwork, helping to make the win a possibility. The team ended the season with a 6-2 record. Teamwork, passing and dedication to the game contributed to an amazing fall season for the Spartans.

U10 Girl Warriors finished the fall season in the cold and windy rain with a 2-0 win against the Slinger Storm. Goals were scored by Jadin Czuppa and Abby Gerhartz.

U12 Fury was unable to pull off a close game this last weekend losing 6-1 against the Hustisford Cyclones. Hudson Curtin came away with the only goal, but Sarah Okrent, Kaidan Dieringer and Carter Curtin all came close many times. The Fury ended their season with a record of 1-9. Season stats: Kaidan Dieringer – four goals, Carter Curtin – two goals, Hudson Curtin – two goals, Callum Fischer – one goal, Marie Buddenhagen – one goal.

U14 Girls Fusion Lost. The U14 Knights took on Juneau. The game started with six players from the Juneau team which is an automatic win for the Knights. However, we still played a great game with Isaiah Cochran scoring four goals for us. Keeper Andrew Carlton did a great job defending our goal box.

I would like to say that we had a great season and recognize all the parents for being very supportive. I would also like to say that I am proud to coach these great kids: Hunter Koss, Tayllor Fischer, Kaylee DuCharme, Colin DeYoung, Emma Penfield, Andrew Bolek, Gannon Kreuser, Elena and Emma Vlotho, Isaiah Cochran, Andrew Carlton, Mark and Brett Moran, Trevor Geldnich, Skylar Schmitt, Austin Gatzke, and Lucas Becker.

Hayden Koralewski goes for the ball during a Kewaskum soccer game earlier this season. The team had a rocky start this year but ended their season well.

Steven Nurkala moves the ball up the field for a 67-yard gain for the Indians in a playoff game against Whitnall on Oct. 30. Kewaskum won the game, 35-12, and advances to a level 3 playoff game against Catholic Memorial on Friday.

UW Study: Concussion Rates Way Down After New Rule In High-School Football Practice

New research shows that limiting the amount of full-contact tackling during high school football practices can have a big impact on reducing the number of concussions among players.

A University of Wisconsin-Madison study examined sports-related concussion rates among Wisconsin high school football players after the state's interscholastic athletic association limited the amount and duration of full-contact activities during team practices. The rule, which first went into effect for the 2014 season, prohibits full contact during the first week of practice, limits full contact to 75 minutes per week during week two, and caps it at 60 minutes thereafter. Full contact is defined as drills or game situations when full tackles are made at a competitive pace and players are taken to the ground.

Findings show that the rate of sports-related concussions sustained during high school football practice was more than twice as high in the two seasons before the rule change as compared to the 2014 season, said Tim McGuine, senior scientist in the department of orthopedics and rehabilitation at the University of Wisconsin School of Medicine and Public Health.

The study was presented Oct. 24 at the American Academy of Pediatrics national conference in Washington, DC.

"This study confirms what athletic trainers in high-school football have long believed about the association of full-contact drills or practices and the likelihood of concussion," said McGuine. "This is probably also true for other football injuries such as sprains, fractures and dislocations."

The study used data from the Wisconsin Interscholastic Sports Injury Research Network, which has recruited and enrolled more than 16,000 adolescent athletes from 103 high schools and sport venues across Wisconsin. They serve as subjects for cross-sectional, cohort and randomized control trials.

The study's findings suggest that limiting full-contact high school football practices may be a no-brainer, McGuine said. "Educating high school coaches about limiting the amount of full contact would be an effective and economical way to help protect students from head injuries," he said.

Drivers Log More Than 60 Billion Miles On Wisconsin Roadways Last Year

Drivers travelled more than 60 billion miles in Wisconsin last year, an increase of more than 550 million miles compared to 2013. Traffic forecasters with the Wisconsin Department of Transportation (WisDOT) attribute the increase in vehicle miles travelled (VMT) to growth in commercial vehicle traffic and the state's population.

Over the last 45 years, Wisconsin's population increased about 30 percent (from about 4.4 million in 1970 to 5.7 million today).

Over the same period, Wisconsin VMT has more than doubled (130 percent increase) from 25.9 billion miles travelled in 1970 to 60 billion miles today. The 60 billion miles motorists travelled on Wisconsin roadways last year is equal to about 322 round-trips between the earth and sun. Last year, the average Wisconsin resident traveled 10,430 miles. Wisconsin has about 4.2 million licensed drivers.

VMT is a commonly-used measure of highway use that assists in transportation planning. It provides a broad or aggregate picture of overall travel and is calculated by combining data on statewide fuel consumption, average vehicle gas mileage and traffic count information. WisDOT incorporates data from about 28,000 traffic count locations across the state.

Traffic forecasters can also estimate current and future Annual Average Daily Traffic. AADT is used to help plan and design a specific highway, intersection, or bridge improvement.

Over the next few months, there will be an increased emphasis on charity — church members will increase their offerings, organizations like the Milwaukee Rescue Mission will feed the homeless a Thanksgiving dinner, church and community food pantries will be filled and toys will be collected for children.

It is important for us as a society to realize that people fall on hard times and are in need. This next week, the Wisconsin State Assembly will take up four bills, including one of my own, to ensure that safety nets and social programs managed by the state will continue to help those who are truly in need.

Kremer's Korner

—Guest Editorial By 59th Assembly District Representative Jesse Kremer

Government run programs are usually begun with good intentions, but all too often they balloon, lose their focus and become breeding grounds for fraud, waste and abuse. I took an oath to be a good steward of every dime of taxpayer money that enters the state coffers; this includes shining a spotlight on inefficiencies, repairing problems to maintain integrity in state and jointly-run federal programs.

In an effort to ensure that our state FoodShare and Unemployment Insurance (UI) programs are being run efficiently, the Assembly will vote next week to place photos on FoodShare EBT cards; purge unused dollars on FoodShare accounts inactive for one year; restrict UI benefits for seven years after two acts of benefit fraud and enact a four-card limit on the number of replacement EBT cards that can be issued in one year.

As the author of the bill to add photos to FoodShare cards, I realize that there are costs associated with administering these changes. However, I feel that maintaining the integrity of these programs now will be a benefit to taxpayers in the long run. Thus, I look forward to supporting each of these measures with my vote on the Assembly floor.

Want To Go?

– Kewaskum High School Presents "Grease"

Tickets will go on sale on Saturday morning and show times will be dependent on the high school football schedule. Possible show times include:

- Friday, Nov. 13, at 7 p.m.
- Saturday, Nov. 14, at 2 and 7 p.m.
- Sunday, Nov. 15, at 2 p.m.

$10 general admission

Tickets are available at Geidel's Piggly Wiggly in Kewaskum or in the Kewaskum High School office. On Wednesday, Nov. 11, the show will be performed for middle school students. On Thursday, Nov. 12, there will be a free senior citizen performance at 1 p.m.

"Definitely! Every Friday night," said Maddy Lehmann, who plays Sandy in the show. Not to mention, five of the show's actors are on the football team. Actually, many of the students are in other sports and activities, which makes it challenging to work around everyone's schedules.

"We had a choir concert on Monday so we lost a night of rehearsal. Last night we had four kids gone that were sick. Tonight we are missing Rizzo," Dahlberg said last Thursday. "All these kids are involved in so much in our small school. A lot of them are stretched to the max. It's trying to play that game to make sure they don't get burnt out and make sure they are having fun while still having to be disciplinarians."

Juggling activities and schoolwork in order to be in the show is worth it, the students said. They enjoy the camaraderie that has formed because of the show.

"We're basically a big family. We all have different personalities and it all mixes in. It's interesting at rehearsals because we are all laughing at stupid stuff. But it's fun," said Lizzy Bauer, who is in the chorus and portrays the radio voice in the show. The students said that they like taking part in a show that is familiar to them.

"I just liked the fact that my mom always liked Grease, so I watched it a lot. I think it's kind of cool to actually get to perform in it," said Andrew Neu, who plays Vince Fontaine. The show is different from the movie, though. The story line varies slightly from the movie, students said.

"You have this big scene, and people will be like I remember that from the movie, and then there are certain scenes, and they're like when did that come up? How did this even make sense in the story? But I promise you, everything makes sense in the story," sophomore Destiny Kudelko said.

To clean up some of the language, Dahlberg rewrote some of the lines in the script. Still, the show is probably rated PG-13, he said.

To save money on music rights, two of the movie's songs, "You're the One That I Want" and "Sandy" have been replaced. Because the composers of those two songs did not write the musical, it would have cost extra to include them in the show, Dahlberg said. The rest of the songs from movie are in the show, he said.

Because the musical is trademarked, the school spent about $3,300 for the rights, the rehearsal track and the logo pack to produce the show, Dahlberg said.

"We have quite a small budget compared to other high school theater companies to the south of us. We don't really have a budget. They pay for the rights, but that's pretty much it, so we run everything off donations, which we don't get a ton," Dahlberg said.

For Jared Chesak, who plays the lead role of Danny Zuko, the most challenging part of acting in the play has been learning how to get into character and becoming another person.

It is Jared's first time in a leading role, and his family was surprised when he landed the part.

"I didn't really tell them right away, they kind of figured it out. They kept asking me who got the lead," Jared said.

Maddy, who plays the leading female role of Sandy Dumbrowski in the production, said her family is excited to see the show.

"Especially my little brother. He comes to every show, every year," she said about Billy Lehmann, who is a sophomore at Kewaskum High School.

A number of the students have been in shows for years.

"I have been doing this since I was four," said Destiny, who plays Jan, one of the Pink Ladies. "The first year I tried out, I didn't make it. The next year, I kept going, and I kept going, and I kept going, and I finally got one, and it was the most exciting moment of my life. Little four-year-old me was up on stage in costume. I was so happy."

"Grease" is proving to be one of Destiny's favorite shows.

"This show is bright and quirky and upbeat, and the entire time you want to laugh and smile. You can't, though, because you have to act," Destiny said.

Tickets cost $10 and can be purchased at Geidel's Piggly Wiggly in Kewaskum, in the Kewaskum High School office or from any cast member, beginning on Saturday.

Senior citizens are invited to come to a free performance on Thursday, Nov. 12, at 1 p.m.

"It will be a fun one to watch. We do a lot of cool things in the show," said freshman Matthew Krautkramer.
