Christmas Parade Draws Large Crowd

By Anne Trautner

Hundreds of people lined the streets of Kewaskum to watch the Kewaskum Christmas Parade on Sunday.

"The streets were crowded and it was an amazing turnout for the parade," said Mike Geidel, general manager of Piggly Wiggly and coordinator of the parade. "The weather was great, everything went great."

With about 50 entries, the crowd watched as floats, marching bands, cars, trucks, horses, cows, llamas and four-wheelers went by. The parade ended with the evening's VIP, Santa Claus.

"I think the floats were exceptional this year," Geidel said.

The Kewaskum Youth Soccer Organization took first place for its two-piece float, which featured moving parts and a giant, illuminated soccer ball.

The Kewaskum Cub Scouts and the Holyland Snowflyers tied for second place. The two organizations will split the proceeds from the second and third place prizes.

The Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce, which sponsored the parade, will contact the winners to award them their prizes.

The theme for this year's parade was "Kettle Moraine Country Christmas." Gino Giudice of Bonne Bell Motel and Kevin Stautz of Hollywood Homes, LLC, assisted Geidel on the parade's planning committee.

Lana Kuehl and her family were honored as this year's parade marshals. The Kuehl and Harbeck families ran the Kewaskum Statesman since 1916, until the newspaper changed ownership earlier this year.

Kuehl also was one of the founding members of the parade 26 years ago.

Kettle Moraine Carriages carried the parade marshals through the parade route, while Regal Ware transported Santa through the parade.

The Wacky Wheeler, an aerobatic stunt man traveled from Madison to perform in the parade. Music groups included the Kewaskum High School band, Lomira High School band, Downtown Harrison and the River City Christmas Brass Band.

Kewaskum Schools Market To Potential Home Buyers

By Anne Trautner

When local realtors show homes in the Kewaskum area, they now have a folder about the Kewaskum School District to present to their clients as well.

The folder contains information about all of the Kewaskum public schools and what they have to offer.

"We have to be active in our promotion. Talk about blatant self promotion, yes, this is it," School Board President Troy Hanson said. "The market in Jackson and West Bend, is really, really tight. Sometimes people need a reminder that it is only seven minutes from West Bend Elevator to Dairy Queen. And there is never any traffic, either. Watch for deer and pheasants, but other than that, we have no cars."

The folder highlights the Kewaskum School District and how it engages students in their learning.

"Educating the whole child is vitally important to us, our families and the communities we serve," one of the high-gloss papers reports inside the folder.

Each green folder contains 12 inserts that highlight things such as each of the Kewaskum schools, the curriculum department, pupil services and special education, and the 2015-2016 school year calendar.

There are contacts and phone numbers that potential new families can use to look into the school system.

In addition to providing an excellent school district, the Kewaskum area is vibrant and offers different business opportunities, School Superintendent James Smasal said.

"It's very exciting where we are at, not only with the school district but as a community," Smasal said.

The schools can draw people to the Kewaskum area, Smasal said. When people look for a house, especially when their children are younger, one of the main things they ask is: What kind of school system do you have?

"We do have the website, and we have the video, and we will refer people to that, but one of the things we heard loud and clear from our meeting with realtors back in 2012 is that people like to be handed something as well. So we put these folders together," Smasal said.

The cost is about $1.50 for each folder and its contents.

"It's $1.50 that we will spend to hopefully attract people that are looking for a school district or a place to live," Smasal said. "Even in today's technological world, people still like to get something in their hands. They like to be handed stuff, they like to be able to take it home, and be able to look it up at a later time."

The folders are available at different realtor offices in the area, as well as at each school.

"They are available for people who are looking to buy a house and relocate in Washington County. Compared to other school districts, we are pretty proud of what we are doing," Smasal said.

Michelle, Nick and Damarion Walters receive cookies at the Coffee Corner during the Christmas Cookie Hunt in Kewaskum on December 6. It was the first time the Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce sponsored the event.

Chief's Corner

By Kewaskum Police Chief Tom Bishop

The holidays are a wonderful time of year. It is an opportunity for everyone to be "merry and bright," spend time with family and give thoughtful gifts. It is also a time when we should stop and reflect on everything we have to be thankful for in our lives.

On Thanksgiving, I was considering all that I was thankful for such as family, friends and good health. Another thing also came to mind, I am truly thankful to have the opportunity to be the Chief of Police in such a great and supportive community.

When I was attempting to get into law enforcement, I applied and interviewed at various agencies hoping someone would give me an opportunity when, at the time, it was a very competitive market. I received the phone call I was waiting to get from Chief Knoebel offering me the position as a patrol officer with the Kewaskum Police Department.

I didn't realize it then, but the job rejections at other departments were truly blessings. Today, we own a home, have a family and I have been promoted to Chief of Police.

Our family is extremely happy and thankful to be a part of this community and we are proud to call it home. Had my career taken me to a different community; I may not live in a neighborhood with such great neighbors, my children may not attend a school where they love their teacher and my wife would have never joined the Kewaskum Junior Women's Club, let alone, be elected to the current position of president! Further, I may have never had the opportunity to get to know so many great people.

My appreciation is largely due to the support that this community has for its police officers. In this day and age, the support and respect for law enforcement seems to be diminishing, of which I have written about on a few occasions.

Furthermore, police work lends itself to dealing with citizens who may not be pleased with our presence. They rarely compliment us for performing our duties as required by law and expected of us by the community.

In an era of protests and riots against the police, I am fortunate to work in a community where I hear, "Thank you for your service" when I am grabbing a cup of coffee at the gas station or in response to a post on our department's Facebook page. Residents have dropped off cookies and doughnuts for our officers to enjoy as a way to show their appreciation. (Yes, I am aware of the irony of doughnuts and cops, but they're so tasty!) This show of gratitude is appreciated and proves why we are lucky to be working in such a great community.

During that summer after college when I was applying and interviewing for police positions, I prayed that a department would choose to add me to their roster. I feel blessed that my prayers were answered and I landed in Kewaskum.

This Christmas Season, remember the true reason for the season and celebrate everything good in your life. Give to those less fortunate, help someone when the opportunity arises and pray for those who are in need.

Have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!
Tom Bishop

Five Tips For Staying (Almost) Stress Free During The Holidays

The calendar doesn't lie and already you may feel the stress starting to build. The holidays are approaching, bringing with them a flurry of must-accomplish tasks such as baking, shopping, entertaining, traveling and dealing with eccentric family members who arrive ready to renew decades-old arguments.

So how can you endure without all those stress-inducing moments ruining your health and sapping your holiday spirit?

First off, don't stress about the fact you feel stressed, says Dr. Donna L. Hamilton, author of "Wellness Your Way: The Short and Sweet Guide to Creating Your Custom Plan for a Happier, Healthier Life" (www.wellnessyourwaybook.com).

"Stress is pervasive," Dr. Hamilton says. "Stress is a fact of life. And stress isn't even always bad. Some people need a certain amount of stress to function optimally."

At its core, holiday stress is just like any stress, only with burnt sugar cookies and interminable waits at the retail-checkout line involved.

Dr. Hamilton offers these five tips to help you feel less stressed as you navigate your way through holiday hassles.

•Connect with the spirit of gratitude that marks the season. Research shows that expressing gratitude can help improve mood, increase energy levels, relieve stress and increase motivation, Dr. Hamilton says. So look for reasons to be grateful during the holidays, whether it's being thankful for good health, a rewarding career, a loving family or some other positive in your life.

•Pause for a moment. Remember to take a few deep, relaxing breaths throughout the day no matter how you are feeling. Even positive emotions like excitement and enthusiasm can create stress in the body, just like typical stress emotions such as anger and frustration do, Dr. Hamilton says. That's why it's important to periodically do something that promotes relaxation during active times.

•Make sure you get enough sleep. Your body needs its rest and a lack of sleep makes it more difficult to deal with the stressful situations you might face through the holidays. With parties to attend, travel schedules to plan and gifts to wrap, it's easy to trim back the amount of time you normally spend sleeping. Be careful not to let that happen, Dr. Hamilton says.

•Take a walk after you eat. This works two ways for you. It helps relax you and is good exercise. "A nice walk is a good way to separate yourself from the pressures you might be feeling," Dr. Hamilton says.

•Dance and laugh often. They both burn calories and help lift your mood. "We probably can't do enough of either of these," Dr. Hamilton says.

Many people feel the need to do something for others during the holiday season, but Dr. Hamilton says it's important to remember as you bake pies, wrap gifts or hang decorations that you also must pay attention to your own physical and mental needs.

"You can't give from an empty cup," Dr. Hamilton says. "Self-care is a necessity, not a luxury."

OBITUARIES

Steven R. Beine

Steven Roland Beine, age 51, passed away unexpectedly on Tuesday December 1, 2015.

Steven was born to Ervin and Lorraine (nee Theusch) Beine on July 21, 1964 in Hartford, WI. He graduated from Hartford Union High School in 1982.

Steve was employed at Pace Industries-E S T Division for the past 30 years. He enjoyed riding his Harley, playing poker and watching the Green Bay Packers.

He is survived by his daughter Candace who graduated nursing school and is currently working as an RN in Nashville, TN. He is also survived by his son Mitchell who is currently studying in his second year at Marquette University. In addition to his children, Steve is also survived by his mother, Lorraine Beine; former wife, Caroline Beine; four sisters, Cheryl (fiancé Jonah Shoaf) Beine, Kathleen (Dan) Tessmer, Diane (James) Kelly, Mary (Emmett) Miller; brothers, Dennis (Sharon) Beine, Dale (Diane) Beine, and Godsons: Derek Beine and Michael Shortt. He is further survived by aunts, uncles, nieces and nephews, other relatives and friends.

Steve is preceded in death by his father, Ervin.

Those that attended Steve's visitation, were welcomed to dress casual or in their favorite Harley Davidson attire.

A Memorial Service was held at 6 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 4, at The Phillip Funeral Home Chapel (1420 W. Paradise Drive, West Bend, WI), Father Rick Stoffel presided.

Visitation was held at the funeral home from 3 p.m. until the time of service. Inurnment was at the St. Lawrence Cemetery on Saturday, Dec. 5.

Wisconsin Governor's Business Plan Contest

— Open For 2016 Entries Through January 31

The 13th annual Wisconsin Governor's Business Plan Contest is accepting entries online for the 2016 competition until 5 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 31, 2016.

The contest is designed to encourage entrepreneurs in the startup stage of tech-based businesses in Wisconsin. The contest links up-and-coming entrepreneurs with a statewide network of community resources, expert advice, high-quality education, management talent and possible sources of capital. It also leads to valuable public and media exposure for the top business plans and helps spur economic growth in the state. Finalists will share in more than $100,000 in cash and in-kind prizes.

For their initial entries, contestants will submit a 250-word (or 2,000-character) idea abstract online at www.govsbizplancontest.com. That's where contestants will also find business plan templates and other information, such as the Entrepreneurs' Toolkit. The toolkit provides business startup information and assistance, networking contacts and technical resources.

Contestants who advance to subsequent contest rounds will expand their plan in stages. More than 70 judges drawn from the finance, sales, marketing, research and technology sectors across Wisconsin will score the entries and provide feedback on submissions.

To get started, contestants will need to create a simple account at www.govsbizplancontest.com. All entries are submitted through the website. Contestants use their account to gain access to mentors throughout the process, as well as review the judges' comments and feedback.

Since its inception in 2004, more than 3,100 entries have been received and about $2 million in cash and services (such as legal, accounting, office space and marketing) have been awarded. Contest categories are Advanced Manufacturing, Business Services, Information Technology and Life Sciences.

Wisconsin residents 18 years old and older are eligible, as are teams from Wisconsin-based businesses and organizations. Businesses or teams from outside the state are also eligible to compete if they demonstrate intent to base their business in Wisconsin. Entrepreneurs may also enter multiple ideas, though each idea must be separate and distinct.

Companies or individuals that have raised less than $25,000 in private equity for their plans in a current form are eligible to enter. Generally speaking, private equity refers to angel and venture capital.

As with past contests, the 2016 competition will take place in stages: In Phase 1, which is open until 5 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 31, 2016, the contest will accept idea abstracts on the website. Entries should be roughly 250 words (or no more than 2,000 characters, including spaces) and will be graded by the pool of BPC judges. The top 50 idea abstracts will advance to Phase 2.

In Phase 2, which runs from Feb. 22 to 5 p.m. March 14, 2016, the top 50 idea abstracts will submit an executive summary. The top 20 executive summaries will advance to Phase 3.

In Phase 3, which runs from April 4 to 5 p.m. April 25, 2016, the top 20 executive summaries will prepare full business plans. Judges will review the plans and pick three finalists from each of the four categories to advance to the final presentation round.

The top 12, or "Diligent Dozen," will square off with oral presentations during the Wisconsin Entrepreneurs'

Conference on June 7 at the Alliant Energy Center in Madison.

Past finalists have launched companies that have raised more than $160 million in angel, venture, grants and venture debt over time — all while creating jobs and economic value for Wisconsin. The contest's major sponsors include the Wisconsin Economic Development Corp.

The 2015 grand prize winner was bluDiagnostics, a Madison startup company whose device is aimed at helping women struggling with infertility. Category winners in 2015 were Intelligent Composites (Advanced Manufacturing), Hunt Butler (Business Services), 65 Incorporated (Information Technology), and bluDiagnostics (Life Sciences).

Cookie Hunters Find Area Businesses

— Chamber Of Commerce Event Promotes Kewaskum Companies

By Anne Trautner

Eisley, Ranen and Hadley Enright sat on a bench on Main Street in Kewaskum on Sunday, munching on cookies.

The three children had walked to Kewaskum businesses to get the treats as part of a Christmas Cookie Hunt sponsored by the Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce.

"It was great!" Eisley said with a wide, cookie-crumble smile.

Sunday was the first time the chamber held the event. The general public was invited to participate by coming to "Christmas Central," located at 127 Main St. in Kewaskum. For a $2 suggested donation, participants received a box for cookies and a "passport," with all proceeds benefiting the Kewaskum Food Pantry.

Cookie hunters visited participating businesses on Main Street and received a cookie and a stamp on their "passports."

"We had no idea of what to expect for the day, with this being the first time we did the event," said Kristy Vogt, president of the Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce. "We sold 178 boxes. And we had 200 that we had purchased, so we were very close to what we thought our absolute max would have been. We were very happy with that number."

The crowd started arriving at "Christmas Central" as soon as it opened at 1 p.m. About 30 boxes were sold within the first half hour, Vogt said.

People came from near and far to hunt for cookies, Vogt said. There were people of all ages from Kewaskum, Campbellsport and West Bend scouring Main Street in search of cookies. Many of them found more than just sweet treats...they discovered more about what Kewaskum has to offer.

"Everybody seems to be having an awesome time," said Lori Maske, owner of Kewaskum Floral. "They are finding out that Kewaskum is a treasure."

For some of the people, it was the first time they had stepped inside the Kewaskum businesses.

"Some people said they had never been in here before," said Sharron Miller, who works at Miller's Furniture on Fond du Lac Avenue. "It was a good idea. People are going to places that they never knew existed while they wait for the parade." "I didn't realize The Candy Tree sells so many gifts and beautiful scarves," one lady said as she stepped out of the shop.

"The people that are new to town, they really liked it because they have been able to go into all the businesses," said Monica Klippel, who works at The Candy Tree in Kewaskum.

One of the things that Klippel noticed during the Cookie Hunt was how well-mannered all the children were who came into the store.

"The kids were all so polite, and they were all saying 'Merry Christmas.' They all said, 'Thank you.' It was fun," she said.

When people finished collecting cookies from the 20 participating businesses, they returned to "Christmas Central" to be entered into a drawing for prizes.

At the "Christmas Central" headquarters, cookie hunters could watch a free Christmas movie, and children could create free crafts. Santa was on hand, and photos were available for a $5 fee. In addition, refreshments and snacks were available for purchase.

"It is a great event. It brings families together, and I would like them to continue to shop local. The Kewaskum Chamber can't thrive if people don't shop local because people won't join the chamber or keep a business here if people don't shop local. That is why we are here," said Wendi Dreher of Hair on Main and Mary Kay Cosmetics.

The mild weather contributed to the event's success, Vogt said.

At Sam's Creative K9 Cuts, Samantha Bush said that the Cookie Hunt was a great way to get to know people when they came into the downtown stores. She was the only business on Main Street to get a peculiar request.

"A lot of people asked me if I was giving out dog treats instead of cookies. Maybe next year," she said.

At PJ Magoo's, youngsters Holden Serwe and Nina Schmidt helped hand out cookies and restaurant menus to visitors. The two young workers admitted they snuck a couple cookies while they worked.

"It's been fun," Holden said.

The following businesses took part in Sunday's Christmas Cookie Hunt: Miller's Furniture, General Store Antique Mall, PJ Magoo's, Limping Coyote, Coffee Corner, Silbernagel, Sam's Creative K9 Cuts, Kewaskum Floral, Brenda's Flowers, Players Sports Bar, Bootleggerz, Alter Ego Tattoo, Jaeger Sewing, Hair on Main, The Candy Tree, Michaleno's, J.O.'s Restaurant, Shade Tree Massage, Mike's Automotive and Kohn's Corner Mart and Bait. In addition, Scentsy, Norwex, Mary Kay Cosmetics, Mische, Pampered Chef, Signature Home and doTERRA were all represented at Hair on Main.

Winter Clothing Drive For Kewaskum Area

Even here in Kewaskum, there are many families struggling to meet their basic needs. Statistics say five percent of Kewaskum residents live in poverty. Some families are not as fortunate as others. By donating clothing or boots for winter weather, you are relieving the burden of poverty and bring the gift of happiness to people in our community. Basic needs are a real struggle for some families. Warm winter clothing gives a child newfound freedom to play more, learn more and do more. Warm winter clothing gives an adult a new sense of worth, dignity and the courage to keep moving forward.

Health experts report that even a two degree drop in body temperature results in reduced heart rate, loss of coordination and confusion. Adults cannot work effectively and children find it difficult to learn. A warm winter coat is considered an extra by someone living in poverty. Average winter temperature last year was from 37 degrees fahrenheit to negative four degrees fahrenheit in Kewaskum.

The Silbernagel Group along with the Kewaskum Community Food Pantry is sponsoring a collection for winter jackets, coats, fleece blankets, throws, mittens, hats, scarves, sweaters in good condition and new winter boots in all sizes for females or males, infant and up. The drive is being held October 12, 2015 through January 15, 2016. Check your closets and drawers for spare winter clothing.

Items can be dropped off at either the Kewaskum Community Food Pantry or the Silbernagel Group office.

The Food Pantry is open on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 4:15 p.m. to 6 p.m. and is located at 1504 Reigle Drive.

The Silbernagel Group office is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday for drop offs in the lobby and is located at 114 Main Street. Clothing and new winter boots collected at the Silbernagel Group office will be taken to the Kewaskum Food Pantry for distribution to Kewaskum area residents.

Area residents were all smiles as they practiced for the annual ecumenical Christmas Cantata. The Cantata will be held on Saturday, Dec. 19, at St. Matthew's Church. An organ recital by Father Tom Lijewski will start at 6 p.m. with the Cantata starting right after that, around 6:30 p.m. This year the service will be "Were You There on That Christmas Night" by Lloyd Larson. It is sure to be a wonderful addition to your Christmas season.

Wade House Offers Lessons On 19th Century Christmas Celebrations

By Judy Harlow

Looking for a weekend family activity before Christmas? Something that is fun and educational at the same time?

May I suggest a trip to the Wade House in Greenbush, which is several miles west of Hwy. 23. After spending several hours there this past Saturday, I will personally vouch it is a very worthwhile venture ... yes, it was fun and educational, too.

By chance, I purchased tickets to the Wade House in a silent auction this past summer. Recently, I looked at the details of the tickets and found there was a Christmas celebration on the weekends of December 5-6 and 12-13. What a perfect weekend to use the tickets was my thought.

The brochure promised horse drawn sleigh rides, and of course, that was not possible with our recent week of seasonally warm weather. Wade House employees and volunteers did deliver on horse-drawn wagon rides, however, along with songs and crafts for children and plenty of information about the 165-year old home, which is now one of 12 historic sites and museums owned by the Wisconsin Historical Society.

The welcoming committee set the tone with their period clothing and down home friendliness, as did our wagon boss, who even let one of the young boys sit up front with her. He urged horses Kelly and Kim to move along the half-mile trail from the visitors' center to the 27-room stagecoach hotel, which was built by Sylvans and Betsy Wade, who left Pennsylvania with their nine children — the 10th had just gotten married — to settle in Wisconsin and run a sawmill business there.

Wade had tried three times previously to move and find a suitable area for his plans. Wisconsin was his fourth try, and he and his wife were finally successful in purchasing property and building the three-story home with the Mullet River a short distance from it. The river was going to provide the power source for the mill.

When they began the project, the area was a wilderness, but a couple years later, the young Greenbush community included two stores, a school, the mill, a wagon shop, a blacksmith and a doctor.

Greenbush was the perfect place to settle, the Wades found, because it was the halfway point between Sheboygan and Fond du Lac. After riding in the stagecoach for several hours, many of the people were hungry when they reached the Wades, and Mrs. Wade and her several daughters were ready to serve them a hearty meal.

Not only that, there was a bar room in the home, with its own private door, and only men were allowed to enter it, according to our guide, who was a walking encyclopedia on the Wade House. The bar had a wooden usual chairs and tables, complete with checker boards for those who were interested in playing a friendly game and newspapers, for those who wanted to keep abreast of the goings-on in the area. There was also a spittoon on the floor.

The cost for beverages, beer or whiskey, was three cents a glass in those days, we were told, and this fact drew more than just a couple chuckles.

Entertainment was provided in one of the first floor parlors. A gentleman and lady, with banjo and flute, played Christmas tunes as one of the volunteers lit the candles on the Christmas tree. The home also featured Yankee and German Christmas traditions, including fresh evergreen garlands.

One can well imagine the family's dining area was also used for games and cards, and it was used for this purpose again for the Wade House Christmas. Children were busy making paper flowers and cardboard bodies, which they attached to a pencil and string and spun around like a gymnast performing tricks.

In the meantime, there was a wonderful aroma coming from the "summer kitchen," where one of the volunteers was brewing a tasty hot cider and making a Christmas plum pudding, with the recipe coming from Godey's Lady Book, December, 1863 issue. The pudding had to be cooked for four hours over boiling hot water. (Remember ladies, there were no ranges or microwaves back then)

Tasting the cider and pudding certainly added to the visit.

Following the tour through the house, people had the opportunity to visit the mill and see logs being trimmed in an "up and down saw," one of only a few that are still operable thanks to a water-powered generator.

We decided to ride the wagon back to the Center where we checked out the Wesley W. Jung Carriage Museum, which houses the state's largest collection of carriages and wagons. Several I found interesting were the wagon used by the employees of Benno Schmalz Meat Market in nearby Allenton, which had a cooling bin for keeping the meat fresh.

Also catching my eye was the wagon owned by the Kingsbury Brewery, which had breweries in Manitowoc and Sheboygan, and the variety of bob sleds and cutters on display. A nearby picture showed a group of boys going down Pickney Street in Madison on their 10-man bob sled. None would qualify for the Olympics, that's for sure, but the boys looked like they were having a great time.

From the Museum, we inadvertently found our way into the cookie decorating area where children could ice and decorate their own gingerbread cookies. Sampling was definitely an option the children enjoyed.

Our foursome gave the entire experience an "A," and the Wade House Christmas continues this Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. For a family of four, the winter admission is $19 and includes wagon rides and all tours.

In January and February, the Wade House hosts Sleigh Ride weekends, except for February 27-28. Other annual events, including a Civil War Weekend, Dairy Days, and Historic Base Ball, are sponsored by the staff.

Free Radon Test Kits Available

The Washington and Ozaukee County Health Departments are encouraging citizens to test their homes for radon this winter. Currently, both Health Departments are offering free radon test kits to residents (one per household) while supplies last. Kits will be distributed on a first-come, first-serve basis.

To receive a free radon test kit, visit the Washington County office, Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at 333 E. Washington St., Suite 1100, West Bend, 53095 or the Ozaukee County office, Monday through Friday between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. at 121 W. Main St, Room #246, Port Washington, 53074.

If you wish to have a kit mailed to you, send the Washington County or Ozaukee County Health Department a check for $4 with your written request. Please make sure to include your name and address and a kit will be mailed to your home. The kits are simple to use with easy testing and mailing instructions.

Radon is the second leading cause of lung cancer, causing an estimated 20,000 lung cancer deaths per year in the United States. By taking action now to prevent exposure to harmful radon gas, you can help to assure your future health. Radon is an odorless, colorless gas and each building is unique, so testing is the only way to know if you have high levels of radon in your home.

More information as well as a list of Certified Radon Mitigators can be found at www.lowradon.org. Additional information can also be found on the Washington County website at www.co.washington.wi.us/chn and the Ozaukee County website at www.co.ozaukee.wi.us. Trained environmental health personnel are available at 262-365-5878 to answer your radon questions.

Workers Gut Foreclosed Home On Washington Avenue

By Anne Trautner

Last week, workers in hazardous materials suits started clearing out the moldy contents from the vacant house at 639 Washington Ave. in Kewaskum.

"With zero communication from the bank, they began their abatement last week," Village Administrator Matt Heiser said. "They are removing all of the moldy elements, which should leave probably just an empty shell."

The house has been unoccupied and in disrepair since it was foreclosed nearly two years ago. After a pipe burst last winter, the house's interior became filled with mold.

Since then, the village has struggled with trying to get someone from the bank that took over the house to respond to the mold issue.

By Saturday, though, most of the drywall had been removed from inside the house.

However, no one had applied for a building permit from the village to work on the house.

The village's building inspector has been in contact with the person who is managing the project, who will acquire building permits so that the village can inspect the building and ensure the house is fully clean when work is completed on the house, Heiser said.

It will be up to the bank to decide whether it wants to sell the building as a shell at a reduced price or if it wants to invest money into it and put it back to original condition.

If the bank wants to tear down the house, it would need to get a different permit from the village.

"They didn't tell the building inspector that they were going to pursue a raze permit, so my understanding is they are just going to clean it up, so they are going to have to remove all the drywall and probably the flooring," Heiser said.

Troubles with the house started about two years ago, the person who had a mortgage on the property was evicted, and Deutsche Bank out of Pennsylvania repossessed the house. The bank hired a property maintenance company based out of Georgia to care for the property.

But when the maintenance company started neglecting the property, the village began maintaining the property's lawn and levying the cost onto the parcel's tax bill. That way, other taxpayers have not footed the bill for any of the work done on the property.

Earlier this year, the village billed Deutsche Bank for the time it took to remove a pool and fire pit from the property's backyard.

Members of the Kewaskum Women's Club gather at the American Legion Hall for a December meeting on Saturday, Dec. 5. Members enjoyed a holiday lunch and games at the meeting.

Twohig's & Drexel Agree On Flooring Acquisition

Twohig Furniture Store and Funeral Home and Drexel Building Supply announce that they have agreed to terms to collaborate on flooring starting December 31st, 2015.

Drexel will be bringing in flooring displays to their Campbellsport store that align with what they already offer in their Brookfield location. Additionally, the products will partner well with the quality products that Twohig's has offered since 1949. Twohig's will refer customers to Drexel starting the first of the year.

Both Drexel Building Supply and Twohig's feel this strategic move will benefit both parties. Derick Schanen, of Campbellsport, will be the leader of the flooring division in Campbellsport. Derick has been an installer for over a decade and is excited to keep the strong service side of the flooring business that Twohig's are known for.

The Twohig family will continue to serve the area with funeral services and limited furniture business.

"Our team of experts are really excited to continue to assist and fulfill customers' wishes by providing a large selection of installed carpet, tile, and hardwood in the Campbellsport area. We have big shoes to fill. Twohig's has a great name in flooring locally, and we hope to carry on that tradition," said Joel Fleischman, owner of Drexel Building Supply.

Pesticide Application Certification

Washington and Ozaukee county agricultural producers will have the opportunity to become certified or recertified as applicators of restricted use pesticides at two scheduled programs.

The first Pesticide Applicator Training Session is scheduled Friday, Jan. 8, in West Bend. The second session is scheduled Tuesday, Feb. 9, in Port Washington. Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. The program begins at 9 a.m. and will finish about 3:30 p.m.

Individuals planning to attend must register at least one week in advance at either the Washington or Ozaukee County

UWExtension Offices. The cost of the program is $45 if materials are picked up and $50 if mailed. These programs are designed for private applicators, not commercial applicators. A self-study option is available as well but requires a higher passing grade.

Call or stop at either the Washington or Ozaukee County UW-Extension offices for registration forms or information. Registration forms are also available at <http://washington.uwex.edu>

Tips For Handling Skids And Other Safety Reminders From AAA Wisconsin

As much of Wisconsin prepares for a return to winter weather, AAA is issuing a reminder to motorists that snow and ice can create dangerous driving conditions that demand extra caution and modified driving behaviors.

According to a recent AAA Consumer Pulse™ Survey, 82 percent of motorists in Wisconsin report being concerned about losing control of their vehicle in poor weather conditions. "Skids most often occur while braking or turning, so the best way to avoid them is to reduce your speed and increase your following distance," said Nick Jarmusz, director of public affairs for AAA Wisconsin. "You should also avoid using cruise control in wet conditions, and remember that having four or all-wheel drive does not assist in braking."

If you do find yourself losing traction, AAA advises you to follow these steps:

- Continue to look and steer in the direction you want the front of the vehicle to go.

- Avoid slamming on the brakes. Although this is a natural response, it will only further upset the vehicle's balance and make it harder to regain control. Instead, ease your foot off of the accelerator and gently brake if necessary.

- Once the wheels have regained traction, slowly resume acceleration and gently steer to avoid a counter-skid.

In addition to slowing down and increasing distance, AAA also offers the following tips for motorists to stay safe during winter weather:

- Take time to remove the snow from the entire car — not just the windshield and windows. Snow from your hood and roof can blow onto your windshield or the windshields of other drivers. Make sure your mirrors, lights and wipers are completely cleared as well.

- Ensure that you have an adequate supply of windshield washer fluid in your reservoir.

- Turn on your low-beam headlights, even during the day.

- Watch for icy surfaces on bridges and intersections, even if the rest of the road seems to be in good condition.

- When changing lanes, avoid cutting in front of trucks, which need more time and distance than passenger vehicles to stop.

Additional winter weather driving tips are available in AAA's How to Go on Ice and Snow booklet, which can be downloaded at <http://exchange.aaa.com/winter-weather-content/uploads/2012/09/How-To-Go-On-Ice-and-Snow.pdf>.

AAA also advises motorists to prepare an emergency kit for their vehicle, which should include the following: Cell phone and charger, jumper cables, warm gear for all potential passengers (boots, hats, gloves), blankets, flares, flashlight and extra batteries, extra food and water for all potential passengers, general first aid kit, non-clumping kitty litter, ice scraper, snow brush and shovel, and extra windshield washer fluid.

During severe winter weather AAA receives a high number of road service calls, and members should be aware that priority service will be given to those who are stranded or in a dangerous situation. The most efficient way to request Roadside Assistance is through the AAA Mobile app on your smartphone. AAA recommends that if you become stranded, it is best to stay with the vehicle. If you can start your engine, run it only long enough to keep warm. Make sure the exhaust pipe is snow-free.

A group of people were honored at a special event that was held at the Wisconsin Veterans Museum in Madison on Thursday, Nov. 5, to remember those who were killed in the war and to thank volunteers throughout the state who submitted photos. Wisconsin Vietnam Veterans Photo Project Honors Volunteers, Announces Traveling Exhibit Plans

The effort to find a photo for every Wisconsinite listed on the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Wall in Washington, D.C. reached a milestone on Memorial Day this year when the final image from the official Department of Defense list of 1,161 state veterans was found by Rachel Maidl, a journalism student at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

Now Maidl, along with six others, has been honored by Wisconsin's public broadcasters and the Wisconsin Newspaper Association (WNA) for her part in their A Face for Every Name project. A special event was held at the Wisconsin Veterans Museum in Madison on Thursday, Nov. 5, to remember those who were killed in the war and to thank volunteers throughout the state who submitted photos. The images they found will help tell the story of the men and women who are listed on the Wall as part of a new education center planned for the National Mall.

Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs (WDVA) Secretary John A. Scocos, along with UW-Extension Chancellor Cathy Sandeen, leadership from Wisconsin Public Radio (WPR), Wisconsin Public Television (WPT) and the Wisconsin Newspaper Association, was on hand to honor the project partners and volunteers.

"We must never forget those who sacrifice on our behalf," Secretary Scocos said. "Putting a face to every name of every Wisconsin service member killed in Vietnam goes a long way in remembering their ultimate sacrifice."

UW System President and Vietnam Veteran Ray Cross noted in a prepared statement that he was particularly proud of the project's partnerships.

"Like so many who served and many more who lost someone they loved, I was inspired to participate in this project by WPR and WPT," he said. "As a veteran and as a colleague, I'm so proud of their work building a coalition of partners around Wisconsin to help make this project a success."

In addition to honoring UW-Milwaukee student Rachel Maidl, the event honored WNA board member and Gold Star father Andrew Johnson, publisher of the Campbellsport News and Kewaskum Statesman; former teacher Bryce Kelley of Medford; Brown County Library Local History and Genealogy Librarian Mary Jane Herber of Green Bay; Vietnam Veteran Don Jones of Madison; WPR Green Bay Regional Manager Ellen Clark of Appleton; and Veteran Terry Kramer of Baraboo.

The partners in A Face for Every Name — including WPR, WPT, WNA, Milwaukee Public Television and Milwaukee Public Radio — also announced plans to build a traveling exhibit of all the photos in collaboration with the Wisconsin Veterans Museum. Dubbed "Wisconsin Remembers: A Face for Every Name," the exhibit will be available to local libraries, historic societies and schools throughout the state in mid-2016.

Wisconsin Department Of Justice Urges Wisconsinites: If You See Something, Say Something

In light of recent events in San Bernardino, CA, we encourage you to remind your family, friends, audiences and colleagues about the "See Something, Say Something" resource WiWATCH at <http://milwaukee.gov/wiwatch>.

The Wisconsin Statewide Information Center (WSIC) is operated by the Wisconsin Department of Justice. It is one of two fusion centers in Wisconsin where local, state and tribal governments gather, process, analyze and share information and intelligence relating to all crimes and all hazards.

The WiWATCH site offers more information on the role of Fusion Centers, and also has information including what exactly is suspicious behavior and provides various methods to report suspicious activity online or by phone.

Tips To Prevent Bathroom Mold Before It Becomes A Problem

Is mold in your home? Mold spores can be found anywhere from a small apartment to a luxury home because buildings make the perfect breeding ground for mold with two essential elements: moisture and nutrients.

Mold gets its nutrients, or food, from anything that was once, or still is, alive: dirt, skin cells, cotton, cardboard, dust, hair, paper, wood. Once a mold spore has become embedded in a nutrient, all it needs is moisture to grow and that creates a perfect storm in your bathroom if you are not diligent about moisture control.

While mold is not always a health hazard, it can aggravate asthma, cause allergic reactions, and irritate the eyes, skin, nose, throat, lungs, and skin.

To help raise awareness, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) had dedicated September as National Mold Awareness Month. Callen Construction, Inc., a full-service remodeling company serving southeastern Wisconsin since 1986, offers tips for keeping mold out of your bathroom:

•Turning on the bathroom exhaust fan during and after taking a shower or bath will help to circulate the air and reduce steam while the water is on and help to dry the bathroom faster. Let the fan run between 20 and 30 minutes afterwards.

•If you don't have an exhaust fan, install one. Make sure your exhaust fan is venting to the outdoors, not to the attic, where moisture will surely cause mold and wood rot in the roof framing and roof sheathing.

•Check that your vent fans are working properly by holding a piece of paper under the fan. If it's not being pulled towards the fan, the equipment may be faulty.

•Fabric or plastic shower curtains attract mold and mildew, and are hard to keep clean. Consider installing easy-to-clean frameless bath doors. Bonus: glass makes your bath seem more spacious. If glass isn't an option, use a mildew-resistant shower curtain, and wash or replace it frequently.

•Open windows when possible to let fresh air in to reduce moisture and leave the bathroom door open when you are not in it.

•Use dehumidifiers to help remove moisture in the air of your home and keep the humidity level below 50 percent. By adjusting the heater or air conditioner (depending on the season), you can also reduce the amount of steam produced.

•You can control moisture in the bathroom, but it will always be there, so make sure you are cleaning and dusting regularly using an all-purpose cleaner or white vinegar, which is known to prevent mold. Make sure your product is safe to use on painted walls or wallpaper. Don't forget to wipe down any bottles, jars, and other bathroom accessories to prevent any clean surface to be recontaminated with mold and bacteria.

•Slightly more labor intensive, but a good thing to do is to paint your bathroom using a semi-gloss paint. It's more resistant to stains, is easier to clean, and creates a harder surface that is more resistant to mold growth.

•There may be less visible signs of mold in the bathroom. Check behind the toilet and the back of the pipes in your vanity for leakage. If you do notice any leaks or issues, you will need to call a plumber to fix the situation.

•Also, it's important to have your heating and cooling system checked regularly to make sure it's operating properly.

•Make sure outdoor rain gutters are moving water away from the home.

Forest Fire Protection Grant Recipients For Forest And Wildland Fire Suppression

There are 221 local fire departments in Wisconsin that will receive a total of $493,014 in grants this year for equipment, prevention, and training to enhance their forest fire protection and suppression ability, according to the Department of Natural Resources.

"These grants will enable local fire departments to increase their level of preparedness and ability to respond and protect their communities," said Chris Klahn, DNR cooperative fire control specialist. "Throughout the year, DNR and local fire departments work cooperatively on numerous wild-fire suppression efforts. It's an effective partnership and these grants help make it possible."

Local fire departments and county or area fire organizations received funding by applying for grants, which were established in 1997 to strengthen local fire departments' and county or area fire organizations' capabilities to assist the DNR forestry staff in suppression of forest fires.

The grant program provides funds for the purchase of forest fire suppression equipment and training, including: personal protective equipment, forest fire training, forest fire prevention, forest fire tools and equipment, communication equipment, dry hydrant installation, rural fire mapping, and off-road all-wheel drive, initial-attack vehicles.

A complete list of 2015 grant recipients is available on the DNR website.

The Forest Fire Protection Grant program is one of over 30 grant programs administered by the Bureau of Community Financial Assistance. To learn more about these programs search the DNR website for "grants."

Run Of Pins Tips Scales In Cougars' Favor

By Judy Harlow

The Kewaskum vs. Campbellsport season-opening wrestling meet or the Green Bay Packers vs. the Lions?

That was the choice facing area parents and high school wrestling fans. A lot of people chose the wrestling meet and still got home with plenty of time to watch the late heroics by Aaron Rogers and Richard Rogers, giving Green Bay the win on the final play of the game.

As far as the wrestling was concerned, Kewaskum High started the night with two victories and finished with three straight victories, but in between visiting Campbellsport had the upper hand, taking seven out of nine matches. Including five by pin en route to a 39-29 victory over the Indians.

Considering he was missing four regulars from a year ago and had six freshmen in his lineup, KHS coach Scott Rhoads was not disappointed in the loss and vehemently stated afterward the situation will be reversed by the end of the season.

Rhoads said that the Indians would have won had they been at full strength, indicating, "We will (win) when the conference tournament comes around. In a way, we proved tonight, we can beat them."

According to Rhoads, Mike Bryngelson and Danny Seitz have not passed the Hydration test and could not wrestle, while two others are suspended for athletic code violations.

Others who had to fill in were just second year wrestlers, according to Rhoads, who said, "They fought their guts out to stay off their backs ... I'm very proud of them."

Rhoads was also happy with the performances of freshmen Tanner Goeman, Eric Bauer and Alex Deheck, who all looked impressive, along with sophomore Adam Bruss and senior Zach Heberer, who only wrestled 15 matches a year ago when he was sidelined by a head injury.

Goeman got the Indians going at 132 pounds with a 13-3 decision over Paul Guelig, then Heberer followed with a pin in 1:43 over Bennet Marchant.

"Tanner pulled out a big win in the beginning," Rhoads said, noting Goeman was pretty solid in KIds wrestling but was a little fearful of making the jump to high school, still, "He just went out and beat up on that kid."

Heberer had been beaten by Marchant in the past but not this night. Heberer maintained good position and dominated before recording the pin. "What a big win for him," Rhoads said. "He needed an energizer like this to take him through the season."

The Cougars built a 39-16 lead until Bruss took the mat at 113 pounds and piled up 21 points to finally win by tech fall.

"He's just an absolutely powerful kid," Rhoads said of Bruss. "We're going to work with him on sharpening up his technique. We have big hopes for him."

Then came Bauer and Deheck, who both were victorious, Bauer with a 15-0 tech fall in his first high school match vs. Cade Heisdorf. "Alex Deheck and Eric Bauer are die-hard wrestlers. They deserve to win," the coach said.

"I thought we were a bit rusty coming out of the gate, winning coach Mark Peterson said, quick to add, "A win over Kewaskum, I'll take it any day," especially considering Kewaskum, Ripon and his own Cougars are tabbed to be the top contenders in the new East Central Conference.

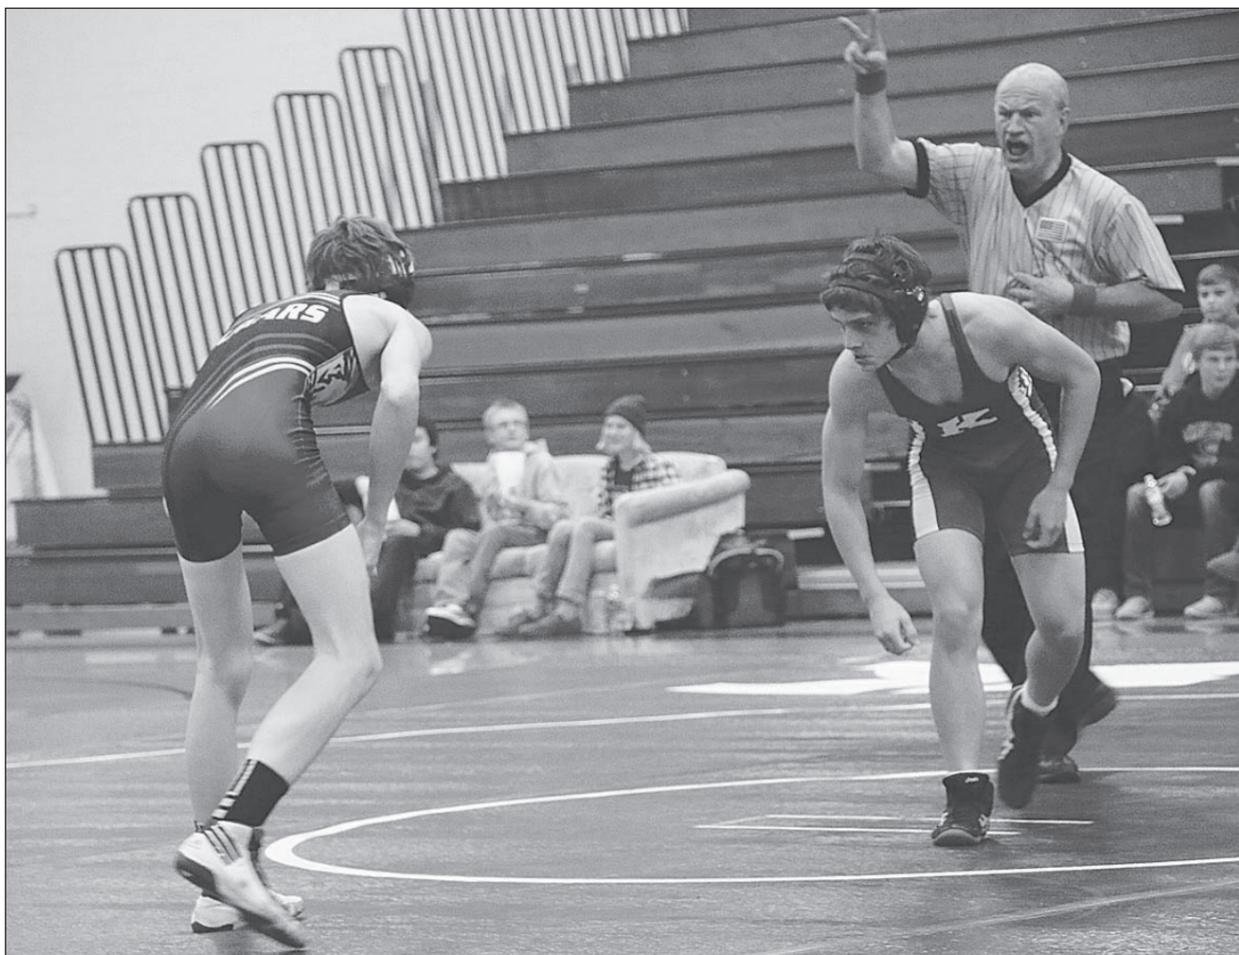

"We've got some things to clean up," Peterson went on, pleased with the pins by Dominic Wetzel, Joe Lindsley and Mason Ksioszk and encouraged by the showing of junior Austin Narges, who batted hard against the veteran Eric Doll, who won the match 11-5. "This is his first year out, and he's going to be a good one," Peterson said of Narges. "He's one of the best athletes in the school."

Bauer Has A Perfect Day; Indians Seventh In Gunslinger Meet

By Judy Harlow

Behind a championship and a third-place finish by two of its freshmen, the Kewaskum High wrestling team finished in the middle of the pack last Saturday at the annual Gunslinger Invitational hosted by Slinger.

Kewaskum, which had wrestlers in 11 of the 14 weight classes, scored 125.5 points to take seventh in the 12-team field. Burlington piled up 258.25 points to bring home the team trophy while the host Owls were just 14 points back with 244.25, and Muskego was third with 227.0

Eric Bauer, one of seven freshmen in the Indians' lineup, captured the title at 120 pounds, going 5-0 in his first varsity tournament, while Alex Deheck placed third at 126. Three others, Nathaniel Droese (119), Zach Heberer (138) and Eric Doll (182) all placed fifth in their weight classes.

Bauer's (6-0) day started with a bye in the nine-man bracket, and then he posted a 15-0 tech fall over Brandon Miller of West Bend East and then notched a quick 1:43 fall over Anthony Purpl of Johnson Creek. Next he posted a pin over Slinger's Chris Melius in the final round of the pool.

In the finals, Bauer drew junior Tom Winheiser of Muskego and defeated him by a score of 4-2.

"He's just wrestling awesome right now," Rhoads said about his champion, reporting Bauer is participating in two clubs in addition to high school practices.

Rhoads said the finals was an exciting match, with Winheiser scored first on a takedown after Bauer slipped on a move.

Bauer chose down in the second period and reversed his opponent, who chose the neutral position in the third period when Bauer came up with the winning takedown. "Eric dominated all the other guys," Rhoads said.

At 126, Deheck opened with a 16-13 loss to Luke Iverson of Burlington, the eventual runner-up, but then he got on a roll, pinning Conrad Shilling of South Milwaukee in 1:34, pinning Greyden Wright of Oshkosh North in 3:11 and taking care of Muskego's Tyler Huckstorf in a quick :50.

In the battle for third place, Deheck, now 5-1, shut out a West Bend East wrestler, Cooper Schlosser, 7-0.

"Alex was right in there," in the first match, Rhoads said, reporting the win over Schlosser shows how much Deheck has improved because the two split last season in middle school action.

At 106, Droese bounced back after a 14-2 loss in the opening round to Cameron Heeson of Slinger to win two straight matches via 6-5 decisions, over South Milwaukee's Elijah Heller and Byron Simons of Delavan-Darien. He then got pinned by D.J. Allen of Oshkosh North in 1:41, sending him into the match to determine the fifth and sixth spots.

In that match, Droese faced off with Cal Sholtus of Homestead and pinned him in 5:03.

Zach Heberer, one of three KHS seniors in action, started with a forfeit win before taking back-to-back losses, a 14-4 major decision loss to Kyle Schwatz of Oshkosh North and by pin in the quarterfinal round, lasting just 1:59 against Evan Sinda of Muskego.

In the consolation round, Heberer (4-2) caught a break when he received a forfeit win over Johnson Creek's Weston Wichman, who had 40 plus wins a year ago but was injured earlier in the tournament.

In the match for fifth place Heberer defeated Emmanuel Garrison-Hooks of West Bend East by a score of 10-3.

Doll had a very good day, going 4-1, starting with a bye in the first round. In Round 2, he defeated Zach Ben-Ismael of Oshkosh North, 8-4, then pinned West Bend East's Nathan Brockman in 2:58.

In the semis, Doll (5-1) was nipped by Martin Luther's Matt Bremer by a single point, 5-4, but he came back to defeat Bennett Connolly of Slinger by a score of 8-6.

"Eric's situation was really weird," Rhoads said, reporting in the scramble format, his only loss sent him to the fifth place match. "He belonged in the finals," the coach said.

The other KHS athletes and their records on Saturday are as follows: 113 pounds, Adam Bruss, 2-3, 8th place; Tanner Goeman, 132, 2-3; 145, Jared Rix, 3-2; 152, Danny Seitz, 2-3; 160, Sam Larson, 3-2; and 170, Eduardo Padilla, 2-3. The Indians had no wrestlers at 195, 220 or 285.

"The last round was awesome," Rhoads said. "We passed three teams in the last round of the tournament."

After a dual meet at Limira on December 8, the Indians go to the Amherst Duals this Saturday.

Ice Cold Free Throw Shooting Proves Costly

By Judy Harlow

Progress is being made, but unfortunately it is not showing up in the win-loss column for the Kewaskum High girls basketball team, which lost two East Central games in the past week playing without one of its top scorers, Hailey Herriges.

With the two losses, Kewaskum is 0-2 in EC play and 2-3 overall.

Herriges suffered a concussion battling for a loose ball after one minute of play in the game vs. Ripon on December 1, and the Indians wound up losing 63-60 in overtime.

On Friday, the Indians were very cold at the free throw line in the first half, hitting just eight of 21 tries and ended up on the short end of a 52-36 decision.

"We hit our free throws, and it's a whole different story," KHS coach Russ Thull said after the loss to the host Cougars.

Campbellsport's press in the first half was effective, forcing numerous turnovers, but the Cougars also were whistled for foul after foul, sending the Indians to the line in the bonus with 11:59 to go in the first half and the Cougars holding a slim 10-6 lead.

Molly Schulteis hit both of her chances to narrow the gap to two points, but from then on KHS was six for 15 at the line as the Cougars slowly moved out to a 10-point, 28-18 half-time advantage.

CHS coach Steve Hamm changed his strategy during halftime, spreading out his offense to work some clock. "They were going Five Out with no one inside the paint," Thull said, and the move led to several easy layups by Samantha Jandre and Autumn Thoma as the hosts began to stretch their lead with its 12-3 run.

Kewaskum had a little 4-0 spurt midway in the half, with Rachel Holt scoring back-to-back baskets from the post, but Tiffani Anderson was becoming a force inside for the Cougars — she had 10 of her game-high 16 points in the second half — and CHS was hitting its free throws. In the final, three minutes, Campbellsport was five for six at the line to stay comfortably ahead.

None of the Indians hit in double figures. Mikayla Dogs led KHS with seven points with three baskets and one (of seven) free throws. Dogs was definitely the Indians' top defender, coming up with seven steals, but she also had six turnovers.

Holt wound up with six points and two rebounds, while Lizzy Bauer, Sam Brown and Schulteis chipped in with five points apiece and Melissa Schneider added four. Bauer scored her two buckets in the first half, and Thull said, "She's really stepped up in the last two games" after seeing limited action before that. "She's making us put her on the floor."

Thull also liked the effort he saw from Holt, especially considering, "She was out almost all week with food poisoning. We've been facing some adversity here."

Schulteis is another player who showed improved play. "Defensively, she does a lot of good things for us," Thull said, also happy she was driving to the basket, "something we've been harping on" with the girls.

Also cited was Schneider, who was a spark in the second half with her hustle. When she was in, the Indians were using a 1-3-1, and, "She got a lot of touches," according to Thull, who said, "She is one of the greatest teammates I have ever coached."

About Herriges' return, Thull said, "She's progressing," and he's hoping she can play Dec. 10 (tonight) in the home game vs. Berlin.

Sammie Wiskirchen, the Indians 5-11 post player, was also in street clothes for this game, and when asked about her return to the lineup, Thull said, "Not sure. I'm not going to say much about it."

Ripon 63, Kewaskum 60

About the tough loss to Ripon, Thull said, "Sammie was a force inside," with a season-high, team-high 24 points and 15 rebounds. Wiskirchen hit 11 of her 16 shots for a sizzling 68 percent.

Dogs chipped in with 19 on 7x16 shooting (43 percent) two-points and one for eight from three-point land. She also contributed six assists.

"We had a chance to win it with one second left," Thull said. "We tied it with a (Dogs') and one, but she missed the free throw."

Kewaskum led by eight points with four minutes remaining. "They pressed us. We're young. We didn't handle it very well."

Ripon was led by Marissa Bunge's 27 points. The Lady Tigers were a perfect 19x19 at the free throw line.

Kewaskum Boys Lack Firepower Of Falcons And Owls

By Judy Harlow

A slow start, a lack of depth and the quickness of visiting Sheboygan Falls resulted in a 61-42 loss for the Kewaskum High boys basketball team last Saturday night in non-conference action.

Ten of the Falcons' 11 players scored, led by Austin Madden and Ross Krist, who popped in 13 and 11 points, respectively. The visitors jumped out to a 33-17 lead at the end of the first half, and the hole was too deep for Kewaskum to dig out of.

The Indians battled hard right in the second half, but the closest they came to the Falcons was 16 points (51-35) after Michael Prochnow drained a three-pointer from the left corner with just under seven minutes to go in the contest.

"It was a tough game," new coach Don Gruber said afterward. "We've run up against teams that have a solid offense and are quick." At times, the Falcons were a step faster against the Indians' man-to-man defense, but Gruber is convinced using this defense is the way to go to build a team.

"We're going to stick with that man-to-man until we get it right. Then we can always go to a zone," Gruber said, discouraged with the end result but encouraged with the effort he got from his players.

"I've got to give the kids credit. They stuck it out. We started to swing the ball better (in the second half)," Gruber said. "It's just a process. That's the way I see it."

Prochnow led the team in scoring with 17 points, and he got his share of rebounds. "Mike's a smart player. He knows what I want," Gruber said, indicating, "He probably leads us in assists, too."

Brady Hanson, a six-foot, seven-inch junior also had a good stretch after getting into foul trouble in the first half. Hanson swished three long baseline jumpers for nine of his 11 points and was very aggressive defensively. "He's been working hard," Gruber said, noting Hanson picked up three fouls in the first half and had none in the second.

Charlie Witek, Kewaskum's leading scorer, was limited to seven points and fouled out with 8:10 to play. Gruber really couldn't take Witek out of the game after he picked up his fourth foul because he needed Witek on the boards.

"We needed more patience," Gruber said about the fact the Indians forced some early long shots and the misses were rebounded and led to fast breaks by Sheboygan Falls.

The second half was better. "I saw a lot of good things in the last 10 minutes," Gruber said.

KHS, 0-1 in the East Central and 1-3 overall, was at Plymouth on December 8 and are home December 10 against Winneconne.

SHEBOYGAN FALLS 33-28—61

KEWASKUM 17-25—42

Kewaskum: Sam Schlosser 6, Mike Prochnow 17, Charlie Witek 7, Brady Hanson 11, Nick Buchel 1; three-point goals—Schlosser (2), Witek (2), Hanson (3). FTs—3x7. Fouls—not available. Fouled out—Witek.

Sheboygan Falls: Haris Avdic 3, Austin Madden 13, Clark Otte 2, Ryan Schmitt 3, Trey Hake 6, Ross Krist 11, John Vanderploeg 3, Jared Petrie 8, Jared Tenpas 4, Alex Antonie 8. 3-point goals—Madden (3), Schmitt, Antonie (2). FTs—13x25. Fouls—12.

Slinger 73, Kewaskum 41

On December 1, host Slinger roared to a 36-21 halftime advantage and never looked back, handing the Indians their first defeat of the season by a score of 73-41.

Just 6:30 into the first half, the Owls led by eight 23-15 when Brady Handy picked up his third foul on the charge, and he departed to the bench.

Over the next 10 minutes, Kewaskum was outscored 10-2 as Slinger took command.

Prochnow led the Indians with 13 points, including one three-pointer. Witek was double teamed much of the way and had to settle for 12 points.

After scoring 21 points in his debut, Schlosser was held to one three-point basket.

All but two of the Slinger players scored, led by Tyler Reinhardt's 15 points and 11 by 6-8 Derek Sabin.

Before the contest, Gruber told the Statesman he has been informed four of his players were being disciplined for athletic code violations.

SLINGER 36-37—73

KEWASKUM 21-20—41

Kewaskum: Sam Schlosser 1, Michael Prochnow 15, Charles Witek 12, Devyn Zillmer 1, Nick Buchel 2, Brady Hanson 7, Nick Beine 2; FTs—9x17. Three-point goals: Schlosser, Prochnow.

Slinger: Tom Noltner 2, Tyler Evans 4, Jacob Rothenhoefer 2, Colin Schmelebeck 2, Tyler Reinhardt 15, Luke Peterson 2, Jesse Bellefeuille 5, Max Merkes 10, Tyler Ritger 9, Josh Weatherall 5, Derek Sabin 11, Chris Evans 5; FTs—11x18. Three-point goals—Reinhardt (2), Bellefeuille, Merkes (2).
