After working for 15 years as the head librarian at the Kewaskum Public Library, Steev Baker will begin working as manager of circulation services for the Sun Prairie Public Library in January. Baker has not yet broken the news to William Shakespeare, a puppet that Baker has brought when he visits Kewaskum school students.

Kewaskum Librarian Prepares To Leave Local Library

By Anne Trautner

There are some 2,000 cardholders for the Kewaskum Public Library, and head librarian Steev Baker knows most of those people.

"You work at a place for 15 years and you get to know everybody in the community, at least everybody that uses the library," Baker said.

Baker will miss those people as he begins his new job as manager of circulation services for the Sun Prairie Public Library in January.

"I really enjoyed being part of the community here," Baker said.

When Baker started working at the library, the library had racks filled with VHS tapes in them.

"Everything that is in here that is not a VHS tape has been from me,"

Baker said as he looked around the library. "I feel like the year 2000 wasn't that long ago, but technology-wise...there were no computers here."

When Baker started ordering materials for the library years ago, he did a lot of research. He used to review comics, art books and biographies for a publication called School Library Journal.

"It used to be that you had to subscribe to trade magazines," Baker said. "But you don't have to do that anymore. You don't even need Publishers Weekly any more. You go online and there are a million bloggers talking about books. It is really a great environment right now because librarians are so tech savvy."

Kewaskum Plan Commission Approves Holy Trinity Building Project

– Project's Next Step Is To Go To Board Of Appeals For Setback Variance Approval

By Anne Trautner

The Plan Commission for the Village of Kewaskum approved site plans for a new parish center building for Holy Trinity Catholic Church on Tuesday, Dec. 22.

The approved architectural plans call for an approximate 13,400 square-foot parish center to house a gymnasium, cafeteria and parish offices for the church, located at 311 Main St. in Kewaskum.

The parish must now seek approval from the village's Board of Appeals to have a setback variance of about 12.5 feet from Prospect Street. The current school building already crosses over the required 25-foot variance.

Parish leaders also will request to use milled asphalt for a new parking lot to be placed on the south side of Prospect Street. They hope to use crushed asphalt that is removed from the existing parking lot to create the new southern parking lot.

Village code requires a concrete or asphalt surface to be used for off-street parking areas, Village Administrator Matt Heiser said. The code specifies that the parking area surface should be durable and dust-free and should be graded and drained to dispose of all surface water.

"There are a lot of efforts around the country to eliminate impervious surfaces, and there are other methods and new ideas and to eliminate the needs for storm water retention ponds, which just take up more land and reduce the amount of buildable areas. There are other products and solutions out there that might make more sense than just saying, 'No, it has to be concrete or asphalt,'" Plan Commissioner Chad Cook said.

Holy Trinity's existing parking lot offers a total of 81 parking spaces now. The building project will take over about 30 of those spaces, said Joseph Clarke, an architect with Groth Design Group, Inc.

However, plans are to add a parking lot on the south side of Prospect Street on land that the parish already owns, so the church will have a net gain of 20 stalls of what is there today, Clarke said.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

The bus just arrived out on Highway 144 to pick up my two teenage daughters and carry them off to school on the last day before Christmas break.

Santa Claus was behind the wheel! Yes, Santa Claus! In his velvet red suit, full beard, long white hair, hat, and boots, not to mention his round belly!

Normally, we have a nice, new lady bus driver whom is doing a fantastic job but today it was Santa!!! Through the thick fog Santa took control to safely get the kids to school today.

Johnson Bus deserves some recognition for doing an amazing job! I imagine it is not an easy one at times. This small gesture put a smile on my face and brightened the day of many children!

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!

Wisconsin Department Of Health Services Announces Renewal Of SeniorCare Waiver

The Wisconsin Department of Health Services received formal approval from the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) for renewal of the SeniorCare waiver through December 31, 2018.

SeniorCare, Wisconsin's prescription drug assistance program for Wisconsin residents who are 65 years of age or older, is designed to help seniors with their prescription drug costs.

The SeniorCare prescription drug assistance program is available to all seniors 65 years of age or older with income at or below $23,540 per year for an individual or $31,860 for a married couple.

Each month, SeniorCare serves about 60,000 seniors. Since its inception, more than 260,000 Wisconsin seniors have purchased prescription drugs through SeniorCare.

About 75 percent of Wisconsin seniors enrolled in SeniorCare are women, and 61 percent of SeniorCare members have been enrolled for five or more years.

Many seniors enrolled in SeniorCare also have some other type of prescription drug coverage (e.g., private insurance or Medicare Part D). SeniorCare coordinates benefits with these programs.

Kewaskum Police Department To Test Out New Load-Bearing Vests

Residents in the Village of Kewaskum recently started seeing Police Officer Luke Wilhelm wearing a new kind of uniform – one that has the weight of his gear off of his waist on onto his shoulders.

Many law enforcement agencies in the country have made the switch to load-bearing vests instead of traditional duty belts, Kewaskum Police Chief Thomas Bishop said. All professions will adjust certain aspects of their operations to improve safety and performance and this includes to a large extent law enforcement, Bishop said.

For example, almost all police cars have computers, automated external defibrillators, rifles and most recently, Narcan. Adjusting to the needs of the community increases the police department's efficiency for delivering services.

However, when it comes to uniforms and appearance, law enforcement has historically had a hard time transitioning from the "traditional" look to the more "modern" look that incorporates new uniforms and equipment which can increase an officer's safety, performance, comfort and long term health, Bishop said.

The assertion associated with load-bearing vests is that they look too "militaristic." This is true to a certain extent in that the military does utilize load-bearing vests, but for good reasons, Bishop said. Shifting weight from the lower back, as in a waist area duty belt, to carrying it up on the shoulders lessens the impact on a soldier's back. Many studies have been done on how police officers suffer from lower back problems in part because of the way they are required to carry the weight of a duty belt around their hips and waist, Bishop said.

The traditional police uniforms that we are familiar and comfortable with are from a bygone era where officers were simply issued a badge, revolver, night stick and a pair of handcuffs, according Bishop.

Today's officers are car-

Kewaskum police officers are testing out new load-bearing vests to help them more efficiently carry around their gear. The new vests are expected to lessen lower back pain among officers.

rying more gear than ever before and that trend is continuing to increase, Bishop said. Body cameras will soon be worn by all officers in addition to all of the equipment already carried by them, which includes: a sidearm, two spare magazines, two sets of handcuffs, OC spray, a Taser, an expandable baton, a flashlight, two sets of EMS gloves, a knife, a radio and body armor.

"All patrol officers wear body armor due to the nature of this profession and being able to utilize that armor to relieve some of the weight from the officers lower back is, in my opinion, a smart move," Bishop said.

Still, the new uniform is currently a trial program. Bishop is seeking input from the community as to how the community thinks and feels about a new look for the officers.

Bishop also will be obtaining feedback from the test officer on issues such as back pain, ease of use and mobility and any related issues of functionality.

To share thoughts on this type of uniform change, email, tbishop@village.kewaskum.wi.us, message the police department's Facebook page, send a letter or call the police office.

Kewaskum Police Officer Luke Wilhelm sports a new load-bearing vest. The new vests, which may become part of village police officers' uniforms, are designed to help officers carry more equipment while causing less back pain.

Baker appreciates the opportunities he has had by being a librarian in Kewaskum.

"Being the librarian has allowed me to do all sorts of cool stuff," he said.

He has been in the dunk tank for the Movie in the Park and Movie at the School. Baker also taught Junior Achievement at the elementary school and has given a presentation every year to fourth-graders about Chief Kewaskum.

Baker also has built up a treasury of Kewaskum history in the library. He has gotten all of the Kewaskum High School yearbooks scanned, dating back to 1942.

One of Baker's most recent projects was working with Aaron Laatsch of the Kewaskum Historical Society and getting historical photos digitized for Recollection Wisconsin. The historical photos are now part of the Digital Public Library of America.

"Hopefully the next person coming in will be willing and excited to work with Aaron and the Historical Society and get more of that stuff up there," Baker said. "Local history stuff is good."

New Challenges

Baker said his new job is going to be very different from what he has been doing for the past 15 years.

"For one thing, I have a cubicle and not an office," Baker said.

He will be in charge of things such as check-out policies, determining how long books can be checked out and how much fines are.

"They have four self checkout machines, so I would be in charge of whatever you do with those," Baker said. "There is a holds area that is self pulling, so the staff will go out and get the things and put a tag with the person's name on it, and you go up, grab your item and scan it. You don't even have to talk to the staff if you don't want to."

The Sun Prairie Library also has an automated book drop that scans books and sends them on a conveyer belt to a different department within the library.

"That is another thing that a lot of libraries are doing now to try to cut back staff's time, I guess. I will be in charge of that," Baker said.

Baker will also be doing various reports for the director.

"The director has a lot of other ideas that she hasn't shared with me yet. She told me, 'I have got a whole lot of Steev things. I can't wait until you get here,'" Baker said. "So it will be different. I've always wondered what a department head at a big library does all day."

Librarian Tips

In addition to keeping up with the historical data, Baker hopes that Kewaskum's new librarian, whoever it may be, will offer lots of programs for the community.

"Programming is really important. I hate that we don't have anybody to do story time right now," Baker said.

When Baker started working here, the only programs the Kewaskum Library offered were for children. Baker worked hard to promote adult programs as well.

He found that the most popular adult programs were hands-on activities like jewelry-making, beading and knitting classes. Baker's open mic nights have also been a big hit in the community.

"Computer classes used to be really popular, but since the advent of wireless, it's all one-on-one now," Baker said.

Still, it helps to have a tech-savvy librarian. Baker answers a lot of questions about Windows 10 or how to work an iPad or how to set up an email account.

"The culture is changing. Now that everyone has wireless devices, that has changed not only how they get their information, but how they spend their free time. So instead of reading a book, you've got people scrolling through a feed for two hours," Baker said. "Those types of things are changing, and in order for libraries to meet people where they are, libraries need to do a lot of changing as well. So I would hope the person coming in would be aware of all those trends and would be ready to fight for the library as a vital part of the community."

New Librarian, New Space

The Library Board has not yet selected Baker's replacement.

The new person likely will continue going forward with a building project of the library. About four years ago, the Library Foundation bought the land adjacent to the library so that there would be room to expand the library building, Baker said.

"The biggest thing we need is to offer quiet spaces because we don't have that right now. When there are kids here, you can hear them anywhere in the building. People come in and they want to chat at the desk, which is great, but then everyone at the computers can hear everything," Baker said.

The Pew Research Foundation has identified the number one thing that people want in a library is a librarian, and the second thing people are looking for is a comfortable space, Baker said.

"We have some tables here, if you want to do homework, but there is no comfortable space," Baker said.

It also would be nice to have space to create better book displays, Baker said.

"Right now the shelves are not patron friendly. You have to know where things are, you have to know how they are organized. Otherwise, it is just like some crazy person's garage," Baker said.

The main goal of the library building project is to create open areas, comfortable seating, study rooms and lots of technology, Baker said.

In August 2014, Kewaskum's Library Foundation presented building plans to the community. The drawings include study rooms, a new community room, handicapped accessible restrooms and storage space.

Still, with whatever space the new librarian works in, Baker hopes his replacement will be there for the community.

"I would like for them to be passionate about public service because that is really what we are here for. We are here to help people access information and also to provide the community space where everyone has access equally to everything," Baker said.

The main thing is that a librarian doesn't discriminate against anyone, and anybody can come into a library and feel welcome, Baker said.

"Treat people with kindness, first and foremost," Baker said.

There is space to extend that southern parking lot to add about 80 more parking spots, if additional parking is needed in the future, Clarke said.

The parish presented preliminary plans for the building project at a June village board meeting. At that time, the center was going to be situated on the north side of the existing school.

"The previous discussion that was had early on in this project was that the church was considering the northwest corner of the property for the addition of the parish center. That would have meant crossing over the setback from Main Street, essentially going all the way to the sidewalk to be able to fit a gymnasium of a decent size in there," Clarke told the plan commission last week.

Now, the new building will take over the western portion of the existing parking lot. The revised plans allow the parish center to be more central to the site, so that it can connect to both the church and the school buildings, Clarke said.

"I like this plan much better because it keeps it more open. It kind of fits in with what is down in that area," Village Trustee Jim Hovland said.

The new parking will not affect traffic flow for pickup and drop off for the school, Clarke said.

"The school already requires all car pickup in the back parking lot, so it's not going to change that at all. This actually will be better because it will be more clear," said Joel Fleischman, who serves on the parish's building committee.

Special care has been taken to design a parish center that coordinates with the colors and architectural details of the existing church and school, Clarke said.

There will be three entrance points to the building. A prominent entrance with a lobby will be placed directly off the back parking lot and will provide access to both the gymnasium and the cafeteria. Two smaller entrances will be located to the north, with one going into the school and the other accessing new parish offices.

"If the money isn't there on Day One to build the parish offices, those will just be shelled out. The exterior would look exactly the way it is intended to long term, but the inside spaces wouldn't be finished until the funds were available later," Clarke said.

The building will be connected to the school, but will be configured so that the parish center's gymnasium can operate independently of the school. That way, the school and parish offices can be locked while people are in the parish center.

The new building will not actually be connected to the church, Clarke said. Instead, a covered walkway over the sidewalk will link to the existing covered drop-off area of the church.

Plans are to keep the new building's roof line similar to the existing school's roof.

"We tried to match the pitch of the existing school and to keep the scale as low as possible so we didn't have an enormous gym looming up over the neighbors to the south," Clark said. "The final height for the ridge of the gymnasium space is about one foot higher than the ridge of the two-story school space right now. So that we feel is pretty sympathetic to what is already there."

A pitched roof will be over the front north portion of the new building facing Main Street to match the existing facade of the school.

"Other than that, it is a flat roof building. We tried to use the higher pitch roofs to screen any mechanical systems that will be going on the roof," Clarke said.

Plans for the Holy Trinity Parish Center began this past spring, after anonymous donors pledged $750,000 for the project.

Because Holy Trinity parish is part of the Archdiocese of Milwaukee, it must follow a set of procedures that the archdiocese has established for building projects. In April, Archbishop Jerome Listecki gave the parish approval to start the process by conducting a feasibility study.

For that study, interviews and focus groups were held to survey nearly 120 parishioners, said Mark Filipis, president of VisionWorks Fundraising in Omaha, Neb.

About 91 percent of those surveyed supported the plan for the parish center. The feasibility report showed that there should be enough support to raise between $1.8 and $2 million, said Jim Wessing, a Holy Trinity parishioner and one of the campaign co-chairs.

On August 13, the archdiocesan building commission granted approval for the parish to hire an architect. On October 8, the archdiocesan commission approved the architectural plans. The next meeting with the commission is scheduled for February 11. At that time, parish leaders will present final documents for the building.

Parish leaders are expected to announce results of how much money the "We Believe" capital campaign raised on April 16. They hope to begin construction on the new parish center in the spring.

The goal is for the new center to serve the entire parish community center, Wessing said. Input has been sought from the greater community, and St. Michael parish has agreed to join the "We Believe" campaign.

Holy Trinity parish was founded in 1861, and Holy Trinity School was established in 1880. With some 800 members today, parish membership is currently growing, parish leaders report. School enrollment has increased from 92 students in the 2013-14 school year to 113 students this year. Religious education enrollment has grown from 250 students in the 2013-14 school year to more than 300 students this year.

In April, as the parish neared the end of its fiscal year, parish leaders reported that Holy Trinity was debt-free, but had a $50,000 operating deficit for the past several years.

To help pay for operating costs of the new parish center, an anonymous donor has pledged to give up to $25,000 a year for 10 years.

Cook, who serves on the Kewaskum Plan Commission, abstained from last week's plan commission vote because he also is a Holy Trinity Building Committee member.

Will news clippings of your family's weddings, anniversaries and births be around a hundred years from now on Facebook?

Maybe not. PROBABLY not.

We will publish it the old-fashioned way, so your friends and family can know about it now - and in the distant future.

DPI Announces New Educational Video Series

The Department of Public Instruction is filling a void in the world of educational materials thanks to a collaborative project involving DPI staff and more than a dozen authors from around Wisconsin. The video series, called "Wisconsin Writes," features walk-throughs of the writing process by each author and a look at their typical work day.

Each author who agreed to participate appears in two types of videos. First, they demonstrate their writing process by moving forward on an actual piece they were working on. The second element, a straightforward interview, gives students advice on writing and a sense of what it's all about.

The DPI's Marci Glaus, an English language arts education consultant, visited writers in their usual writing spaces to provide an authentic look at habits, techniques, and environments of this group that has so much to offer students. Featured writers include two New York Times Best Sellers, the state's poet laureate, children's authors, writers of non-fiction, fiction, and other Wisconsin-based writers.

"For our students to graduate ready for career and college — no matter what they pursue — they need writing and other literacy skills," said State Superintendent Tony Evers. "I appreciate that so many of our state's professional writers share this sentiment and were willing to show their writing process and workspace. How better to learn these skills than from their fellow Wisconsinites who have built a successful career around them?"

"Wisconsin Writes" began this fall, with installments released approximately biweekly. Videos released so far feature the following authors (an example published title for each including):

•Silvia Acevedo of Greenfield, young adult fiction, "God Awful Loser"

•Molly Magestro of West Bend, non-fiction and fiction, "Assault on the Small Screen"

•Kimberly Blaeser of Burlington, poetry, Wisconsin Poet Laureate, "Goodbye to All That"

•Patrick Rothfuss of Stevens Point, fantasy, persuasive writing, New York Times Best Seller, "The Name of the Wind"

Numerous other writers from throughout the state donated their time to help students understand writing. Most of the following writers will appear in the series between now and the end of the 2015-16 school year:

•Moy Ahmad* and Jennifer Van Haaften* of Fort Atkinson, middle grade, young adult fiction

•Ann Bausum of Janesville, non-fiction, "Sergeant Stubby"

•Nickolas Butler of Fall Creek, fiction, drama, New York Times Best Seller, "Shotgun Love Songs"

•Micah Clarke* of Verona, children's books, young adult fiction

•Linda Godfrey of Elkhorn, non-fiction, "American Monsters"

•Patricia (P. C.) Hodgell of Oshkosh, fantasy, "The God Stalker Chronicles"

•Pernille Ripp of Oregon, educational non-fiction, "Passionate Learners"

•Karyn Saemann of Deerfield, non-fiction, children's, journalism, "Electa Quinney"

•Tasha Schuh, Doug Michaels, and Jan Pavloski of Ellsworth, memoir, "My Last Step Backward"

•Jennifer Zettel of Appleton, journalism, "Appleton Post-Crescent"

The series will also include at least one student and a select number of not-yet-published authors (denoted with an * in the above list) to help make the point to young viewers that one doesn't need to be a professional author to enjoy and value writing and the skills it sharpens.

Library Users Can Now Download And Stream Music

By Anne Trautner

A library card can now be used to stream or download music through Freegal, a digital music service that the Kewaskum Public Library now offers. "You log in with your library card number and they've got catalogs of small labels, plus all of Sony groups. That covers millions of songs," Library Director Steev Baker said. "So you can stream it or you can download tracks. Every person who has a library card gets three free downloads a week."

Freegal offers access to about 9 million songs and more than 15,000 music videos. The music collection includes songs from more than 28,000 labels with music that originates in more than 100 countries. "So you can download songs. You are not checking them out, you just download them and you get to keep them. You can stream stuff and you can put together play lists, and it is all paid for by the library," Baker said.

There is a three-hour daily limit for streaming music. Users can view a download counter and the streaming time remaining once they are logged in to the site.

Library cardholders can download a free MP4 file, and each video download counts as two of their weekly allotment.

The bigger a library is, the more expensive the service is. The Kewaskum Public Library is currently paying about $2,000 a year for the service, which is about how much it had been budgeting for music each year, Baker said. Beaver Dam has the only other library in Kewaskum's library system that also offers Freegal.

The Kewaskum Public Library is offering the Freegal service rather than purchasing new CDs each year. Often, CDs sit on shelves after the music loses its popularity, Baker said.

"We've got Justin Bieber's first album that nobody cares about any more. They want his new music because it's edgy. Pop music is so trendy that it doesn't pay to buy things, and we don't have any room to store it," Baker said.

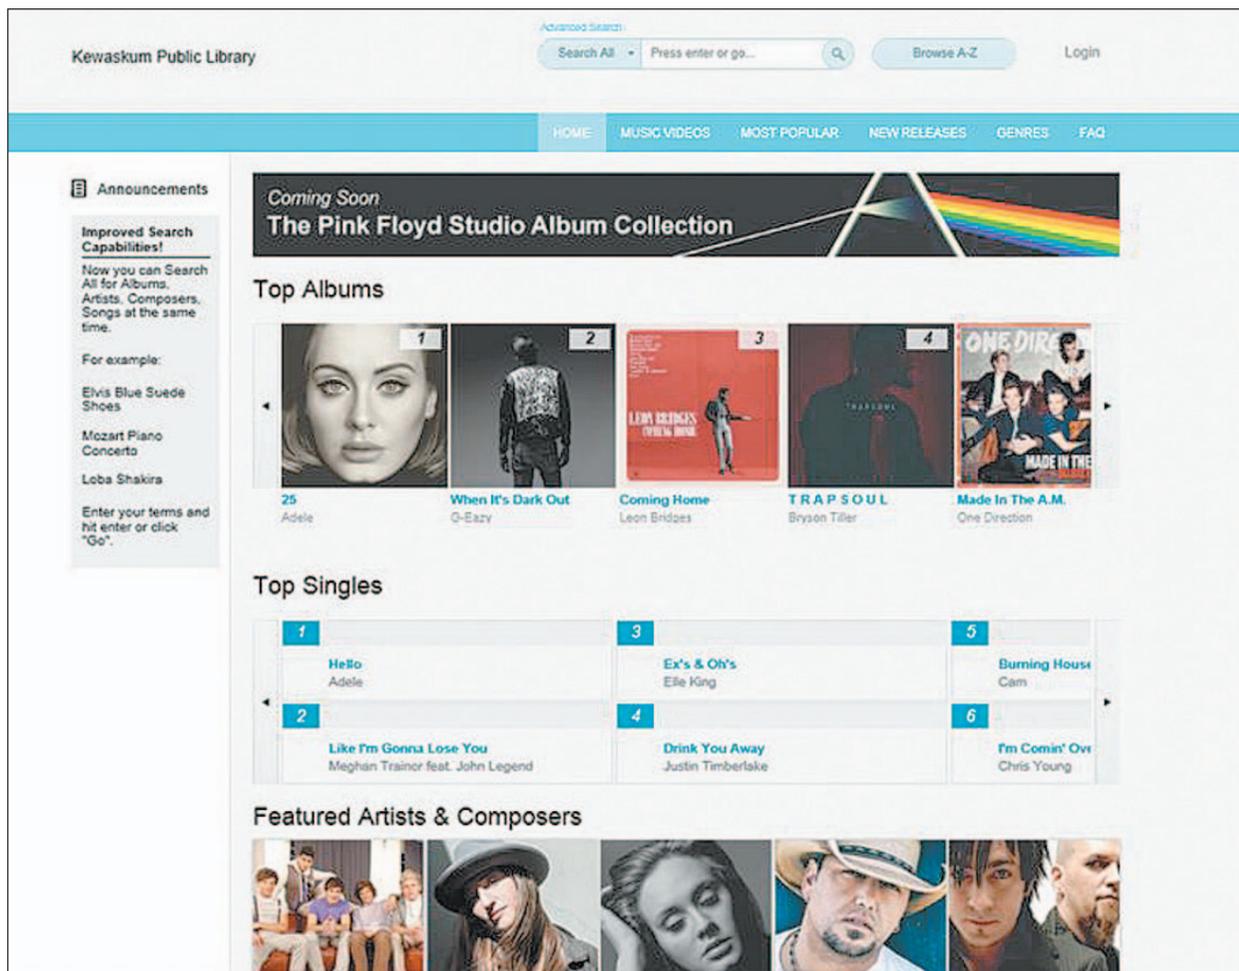

To use Freegal, there is no software that needs to be downloaded and there are no digital rights management restrictions. Access to Freegal is limited to patrons of subscribing libraries.

Users can browse or search for music or artists on the library's Freegal site. The site changes daily, but it features thousands of artists and tens of thousands of albums. New content is added weekly.

The music that is accessed through Freegal is for non-commercial purposes only. It cannot be duplicated for others or played in public, other than for the intended enjoyment of a normal circle of family or friends.

Users can back up songs downloaded through the app on iTunes, as well as delete songs from the app. The newest Freegal Music update for Android and Apple devices is in app stores so users can stream ad-free music at no charge.

To access Freegal, go to the library website at www.kewaskum.lib.wi.us and log on with a library card.

The Kewaskum Public Library website features free music from Freegal, a digital music service that offers millions of songs. Library patrons can use a library card to download three songs a week or stream three hours of music per day from the site.

Patrons Can Check Out Wireless Hotspots From Kewaskum Library

By Anne Trautner

The Kewaskum Public Library has two wireless hotspots that people will be able to check out for a week, beginning in January.

"I'm excited about this," Kewaskum Librarian Steev Baker said. "I've been wanting to do it for a couple years."

People will be able to bring a hotspot home and connect up to 10 devices wirelessly. The wireless hotspots offer high speed streaming, and there is unlimited bandwidth, so people can watch movies or download things off the internet, Baker said.

"There are a lot of people in Farmington and the Town of Auburn who can't get internet access, or it would be prohibitively expensive for a lot of these people," Baker said.

The hotspots are offered through the Sprint 4G network.

The Kewaskum Public Library is paying $37 per month per hotspot for unlimited bandwidth. Activation for the hotspots were free, and there is no contract required for the library.

The New York City Public Library has 10,000 of these Sprint wireless hotspots that people have been checking out for the last couple years, Baker said. The Chicago Public Library also offers the hotspots.

"The Franklin Public Library started offering wireless hotspots last month. I don't think there is anyone else in the state that is doing it at this point. It is very new," Baker said.

Moraine Park Health Programs Surpass National Averages

Moraine Park's health programs continue to exceed national board exam pass rates. On their first attempt, students from the 2014-15 graduating classes achieved pass rate averages that surpassed the national averages in many programs.

"I am very pleased with the scores," said Kristen Finnel, dean of health and human services. "Our two-year nursing and allied health program students receive the same licensure/certification credentials as a four-year program student graduate. I think it speaks to the quality of our faculty and the strength of our programs that our students continue to exceed national averages."

Students from four different health care programs not only exceeded the national average, but achieved a 100 percent pass rate. Those programs were Health Information Technology, Medical Laboratory Technician, Respiratory Therapist and Radiography.

The passing rates for Moraine Park students compared to national averages were as follows:

- Nursing 98 percent compared to 82 percent nationally

- Health Information Technology at 100 percent compared to 80 percent nationally

- Medical Laboratory Technician at 100 percent compared to 74 percent nationally

- Respiratory Therapist at 100 percent compared to 90.6 percent nationally

- Surgical Technology 75 percent compared to 61 percent nationally

- Radiography 100 percent compared to 89 percent nationally

- Medical Assistant 95 percent compared to 65 percent nationally

Albrecht Free Clinic Moving To New Location

– Firefighters And Area Businesses Assisting With Move

By Anne Trautner

Albrecht Free Clinic is relocating from its current location, at 1110 Oak St., West Bend, to a larger facility at 908 West Washington St., West Bend, as of January 4.

The move is being supported by a $300,000 investment in the clinic by Froedtert and the Medical College of Wisconsin health network to improve access to care for medically underserved people living in Washington County.

Albrecht Free Clinic provides free medical care to uninsured and underinsured residents of Washington County.

With the move to its new location, Albrecht Free Clinic will add dental care to its services, in addition to the medical services it already provides. It will also add a community health navigator position to expand community outreach. The new site will have three medical exam rooms and three dental exam rooms, a dental lab and digital X-ray. It will continue to offer medical services with two weekly walk-in clinics. Dental and other medical services will be provided by appointment.

Many local groups have assisted with the renovation and relocation of the clinic. Patterson Dental has been instrumental in the design and development of the AFC dental services and local contactors such as Design 2 Construct, Weske Painting, Crown Carpentry, Ron Albiero Heating, Gillitzer Electric and JL Business have donated both their time and equipment to the project. The West Bend Professional Firefighters Local 2025 helped with the physical move on December 21.

In 2015, the clinic served more than 650 patients and managed 1,260 patient visits. Approximately 70 percent of patients have chronic illnesses while the remainder visits the clinic for acute care issues. The clinic's health care providers, nurses, and volunteers donate their time and expertise, offering Washington County residents dependable, affordable access to health care services.

Comeback Kids Use Another Late Rally Toward Win Over Rams

By Judy Harlow

The Kewaskum High boys basketball team is starting to make a habit of falling behind early and then catching up in the late stages of games.

Against St. Mary's Springs, the Indians used a late surge to take the lead with four minutes to go and come away with a 53-47 victory.

On December 22, the Indians never led against Random Lake until the final 1:03 when Sam Schlosser's three-point goal put them ahead 53-51. A mental error in the final 15 seconds of regulation let the Rams back in the game, which ended in a 53-53 deadlock, giving the Indians a second chance to show their comeback skills and this time, they prevailed 58-57 for their second win in a row and their third in the last four outings.

Charlie Witek's longer three-pointer — it actually banked in — with 2:26 remaining in overtime gave KHS a 58-55 lead it would not relinquish.

"That was the Kentucky play. I called a play for him (Witek), and he made it," KHS coach Don Gruber said about what turned out to be the winning points, helping the Indians move back to the .500 mark at 4-4.

While Gruber was excited to see his team win, he was not pleased with the missed free throws, a few mental mistakes and some of the extra curricular activities that went on in what could be termed a very physical game.

"Emotions were getting out of control out there, and not on the positive side," Gruber said, adding, "I was a little frustrated with our basketball IQ at the end (of regulation)."

Random Lake led at half 26-22 and was out front 37-29 with 13:51 left in the game and 41-32 with 11:07 remaining.

The Indians started their comeback in earnest after Brady Hanson hit a second-chance basket following Witek's miss on a three-point shot with a little over eight and a half minutes to go.

Single free throws by Michael Prochnow and Hanson negated two made by the Rams' Zachary Risse, and a couple possessions later, Hanson aggressively made a drive from the right side, hitting the shot and also drawing a foul. This three-point play drew the Indians to within three, 44-41, the closest they had been since early in the contest.

Cody Holman answered almost immediately when he powered inside (46-41) for a layup, and after Schlosser threw the ball away, the Rams went into a four-corner offense to take some time off the clock and try to draw a foul, which they did with 3:50 left. Bryan Weiss was on target with both free throws, boosting the Ram's lead back up to seven at 48-41.

Would Kewaskum, which currently has just four experienced varsity players, have enough energy to come back one more time? Yes, they would and did, using a pair of Witek free throws and Schlosser's three-point bomb to close the gap to one, 49-48 with 2:25 remaining.

Random Lake went up by three again on Daniel Ruchalski's circus reverse layup that amazed fans from both schools.

Hanson scored again, making the score 51-50 and after Witek came up with a steal, passed to Schlosser, who let the ball fly from the right side again. It swished, and KHS led for the first time 53-51.

Prochnow had a chance to ice the game with two free throws with :38 left. Both hit the rim but bounced out, but Witek came up with another clutch steal, so the Indians had the ball and the lead. Instead of just passing the ball around to try to draw more fouls, Schlosser decided to try a drive but his shot was rejected by one of the Rams, who may have touched the backboard on the play. There was no call and the Rams quickly moved the ball up the court when Ruchalski drew a foul from Devyn Zillmer.

Ruchalski tied the game with his two free throws with 13.3 second left, Gruber took a time out to set up a final play. Schlosser inbounded the ball to Witek, who tossed it back to Schlosser and then back to Witek, who tried to drive, stopped and put up an off balance shot at the buzzer. It missed, so it was on to overtime.

Random Lake scored first in the extra four minutes on a pair of free throws by Evan DeBroux, then came Witek's three-pointer, followed by Hanson's drive, and the Indians played some good defense to stay out front in the final 1:32 for the win.

Witek and Hanson were responsible for 45 of Kewaskum's points, while Schlosser wound up with eight, including six in the final 2:25 of regulation. For Random Lake, Ruchalski led the way with 12, and DeBroux and Weiss each chipping in with 11.

Prochnow managed to score just four points, but he helped the Indians in other areas with his team-high 11 rebounds and two assists.

The Indians travel to Omro for a non-conference game on Tuesday, Jan. 5.

More Than 30 Candlelight Events Scheduled This Winter At Wisconsin State Parks, Forests And Trails

Mother Nature may be throwing a wrench into snow-based winter activities in Wisconsin, but most state park, forest, trail and recreation properties are adapting and planning to go ahead with the more than 30 candlelight events this winter even if there isn't snow for skiing or snowshoeing.

"Almost all of our properties are reporting that if there is not snow for cross-country skiing or snowshoeing, they plan to hold the events as winter hikes," said Paul Holtan, communications specialist for the state parks program.

This winter's candlelight events kick off January 2 at Blue Mound State Park west of Madison and Mirror Lake State Park southeast of Lake Delton and run on weekends through February 20.

Skiing, snowshoeing and hiking by candlelight have become some of the most popular winter events at Department of Natural Resources properties, with some events attracting more than a thousand visitors. Last year about 2,000 people showed up at the Horicon Marsh Education and Visitor Center for their candlelight event. This year the center has set up shuttle busses running from Mayville and Horicon between 4:30 p.m.-9:30 p.m. and is encouraging visitors to use them as parking at the facility is limited.

Some properties offer skiing, snowshoeing and hiking, while others offer just skiing or just snowshoeing and hiking. Most events begin around sunset and run until 8:30 p.m. or 9 p.m.

Many of the events include additional activities such as bonfires, and hot chocolate and other refreshments may be available for sale. Some events offer grills for cooking food or roasting marshmallows. Some properties have warming shelters that are open for the events. Many of the events are organized by the friends groups of the parks, which provide much of the volunteer labor for the events.

People can check on the details of each event by going to the Department of Natural Resources website, dnr.wi.gov, and searching keywords "get outdoors" and clicking on the "type" button and then checking only the "candlelight" box under listed activities. For more information on park or forest properties and locations, search for keywords "find a park." Regular park and trail fees apply for the events unless otherwise noted.

While most events will not be cancelled due to lack of snow, they still could be cancelled if conditions are icy, extremely cold or have severe wind chills, so people are encouraged to check the website and call properties directly to confirm the event will be held if threatening weather is in the forecast.

2016 Wisconsin State Park Winter Candlelight Events in the area include:

Saturday, Jan. 9

Kohler-Andrae State Park Candlelight ski, snowshoe and hike. Join us to hike, ski or snowshoe the two-mile, torch lit trail. Warm up with refreshments at the park shelter building. No sleds or pets allowed. 6 p.m.-9 p.m. Phone: 920-451-4080.

Don't have your own snowshoes? Snowshoes will be available to the public on a first come first serve basis at no charge. There is no guarantee; however, that they will be available when you arrive. Snowshoers may have to wait until a pair is turned in. There must be at least six to eight inches of snow on the ground to loan out snowshoes.

Leashed pets are allowed on the trails but not in the building. Shuttles from Mayville and Horicon will be available from 4:30 p.m.-9:30 p.m. Please visit the Friends website or Facebook page for shuttle locations and more information.

The Northern Cross Science Foundation astronomers will be on site to help you view the night sky through telescopes or to talk about the stars if it is cloudy. Members of the Horicon Marsh Bird Club will be on the trail conducting short owl talks and calling for owls. You can also learn about Wisconsin's mammals on the short "Family Loop" trail.

Warm beverages and light snacks will be available inside the center as well as a bake sale. Roast your own marshmallows or grab a hot chocolate outside in the new picnic shelter.

The event is sponsored and hosted by the Friends of Horicon Marsh Education and Visitor Center and Wisconsin DNR. The education center and new Horicon Marsh Explorium (fee charged) will also be open for people to learn about Horicon Marsh through these new interactive displays.

Admission to the candlelight event is free; however, please consider bringing a non-perishable food item or hats/gloves/mittens for our food drive and mitten campaign to be donated to local schools and local food pantries.

For more information, call 920-387-7893. The center is located at N7725 Highway 28, Horicon, between Horicon and Mayville. www.horiconmarsh.org, 5 p.m.-9 p.m. Phone: 920-387-7893.

VILLAGE OF KEWASKUM Special Village Board Meeting Minutes November 12, 2015 2:30 p.m.

The Village Board of Kewaskum, Washington County, Wisconsin, met in Special Session in the Council Room of the Municipal Building, 204 First Street.

President Kevin Scheunemann presided and called the meeting to order at 2:30 p.m. Board members present were Richard Laubach, Richard Knoebel, Kevin Scheunemann, Dave Spenner, James Wright and Jim Hovland. Dave Zehren was excused and absent. Staff members present were Matt Heiser, Janet Knops and Stephanie Justmann. Members from the community and news media were also present.

Notice of the meeting had been posted at the PNC Bank, Kewaskum Post Office, and at the Municipal Building on November 6, 2015. Notice was also forwarded to the Village Board, Village Attorney, Village Engineer and the News Media.

Jeremy Vanderloop, Madden Vanderloop Law Firm, was on hand to object to the Closed Session. He stated government should be transparent and felt $ 19.85 was outside of the exemptions allowed for litigation threats. Attorney Fenner responded and stated the exemption $ 19.85 (1) (g) was within the Village's exclusions.

Motion by Kevin Scheunemann to convene into Closed Session pursuant to Section 19.85 (1) (g) Wis. Stats. conferring with legal counsel for the governmental body who is rendering oral or written advice concerning strategy to be adopted by the body with respect to litigation in which it is or is likely to become involved sec. (1) (g) Wis. Stats. The purpose of the meeting is to review the Utility District #3. The Closed Session will be attended by the Village Board, Attorney, Administrator, Treasurer and Clerk, second by Richard Knoebel and carried by roll call vote. Laubach-aye, Knoebel-aye, Zehren-absent, Scheunemann-aye, Spenner-aye, Wright-aye, Hovland-aye. (6-0-1)

The Board convened back into Open Session at 3:45 p.m. Motion by Richard Knoebel to suspend the rules and bring up item 4 "Discussion and possible action on Joel Fleischman, 292 Silver Fox Drive North vacant parcel within the TID #2", second by James Wright and carried by roll call vote. Laubach-aye, Knoebel-aye, Zehren-absent, Scheunemann-aye, Spenner-aye, Wright-aye, Hovland-aye. (6-0-1)

Motion by Richard Knoebel to approve the waiver from the Utility District #3 for parcel V4-700-065-00B located at 292 Silver Fox Drive North, second by James Wright. Voice vote, motion carried.

Motion by David Spenner on the Order Creating Kewaskum Utility District #3 in the Village of Kewaskum effective January 1, 2016 to exclude parcel #V4-0700-065-00B and to include all buildable vacant parcels to recover the debt services for infrastructure completed in the TID #2, second by James Wright and carried by roll call vote. Laubach-aye, Knoebel-aye, Zehren-absent, Scheunemann-aye, Spenner-aye, Wright-aye, Hovland-aye. (6-0-1)

Discussion on Utility District #3 included: The Village Board will determine each year how much of the TID#2 shortfall to transfer as a tax to the Utility District #3. There will not be a tax to UD3 in 2015. The tax will only be on vacant parcels and will be removed when there is an assessed improvement value. There is an opportunity for the developers and builders to work out an incentive program or negotiate a contract with the village. Attorney Vanderloop expressed concern on levying a retro-active tax to recover costs. The vacant parcels represents a gerrymander map within the TID and it looks as though only certain parcels are being picked. He also stated that he felt having the Public Hearing in August 2014 was too long ago and another hearing should be scheduled.

Tom Engel, Hillcrest Builders, reported on the number of single-family building permits that were taken out over the last 10 years in the village. He proposed Hillcrest Builders, Alpine Development and Scenic Home Builders could guarantee 7 new single-family permits in 2016. Joel Fleischman, a resident, expressed he was at the Public Hearing where it was stated the bank was sitting on the land and the Village Board wanted to see building in the TID to increase the increment. Joel Fleischman stated that it worked there is currently very good activity happening in the subdivision. He didn't want to see the builders being rushed so a higher quality home was built to increase the overall assessment. Dan Gish stated it is still difficult to sell homes. Don Weyer expressed he wants to build houses and cannot afford the UD3 tax. Hillcrest Builders stated they want the time to build a high quality home to increase the profit margin. Attorney Fenner stated the order only creates the Utility District #3 and a tax is not being transferred to the district for 2015.

Motion by Richard Knoebel to adjourn at 4:50 p.m., second by David Spenner and carried by roll call vote. Laubach-aye, Knoebel-aye, Zehren-absent, Scheunemann-aye, Spenner-aye, Wright-aye, Hovland-aye. (6-0-1)

Snow Blower Safety Tips: Keep Best Practices In Mind This Winter

With winter snows arriving, homeowners, contractors, and business owners will again rely on their snow blowers to clear driveways and walks. The Outdoor Power Equipment Institute (OPEI) is offering tips for safe and correct use of snow blowers.

"Your indispensable winter friend, the snow blower is ready to be powered up and it's important to keep safety in mind," says OPEI President and CEO Kris Kiser.

Be sure to prepare and consider the following tips before you use your equipment:

Prepare Before It Snows

- Review your owner's manual and check your equipment. Check your owner's manual for safe handling procedures from your manufacturer.

If you forgot to drain the fuel last winter before storing your snow blower, drain the tank now. Adjust any cables. Check the auger (the snow blower should always be completely powered off when you are checking the equipment).

Know how to operate the controls. You should be able to shut off your equipment quickly.

•Prepare your fuel and handle it properly. It's important to have the right fuel on hand for your snow blower — movement and fuel availability may be limited during a snowstorm.

Be sure to use the correct fuel, as recommended by your equipment's manufacturer (for more information on fueling properly see www.LookBeforeYouPump.com). Fill up the fuel tank outside before you start the engine and while the engine is cold. Never add fuel to a running or hot engine.

•Be sure to clean the area you intend to clear with your equipment. Snow can sometimes hide objects that if run over by a snow blower, may harm the machine or people. Doormats, hoses, balls, toys, boards, wires, and other debris should be removed from the areas you intend to clear.

•Dress appropriately. Wear safety glasses and footwear that can handle slippery surfaces.

Operate Your Equipment Safely

•Key Safety Tip: Never put your hands inside the auger or chute. Use a clean out tool (or stick) to unclog snow or debris from your snow blower. Your hands should never go inside the auger or chute. Make sure the snow blower is in the off position before addressing any clogs.

•Turn OFF your snow blower if you need to clear a clog. If you need to remove debris or unclog snow, always turn off your snow blower. Wait for all moving parts to come to a complete stop before clearing any clogs or debris.

•Only use your snow blower in visible conditions. Never operate the snow blower without good visibility or light.

•Aim your snow blower with care. Never throw snow toward people or cars. Do not allow anyone to stand in front of your snow blower. Keep children or pets away from your snow blower when it is operating.

•Use extreme caution on slopes and hills. Use caution when changing directions on slopes. Do not attempt to clear steep slopes.

•Know where your cord is. If you have an electric powered snow blower, be aware of where the power cord is at all times. Avoid tripping. Do not run over the power cord.

More safety tips and information are available at www.opei.org.
