i4Learning Takes Virtual Field Trip

By Anne Trautner

Matthew Oelhafen's face filled with astonishment as he examined the inside of a hand warmer.

Other students in grades three through five gathered around him to see how the energy transformer worked.

The activity was part of a virtual field experience offered for the students on Wednesday, Jan. 20, at the i4Learning Community School in Wayne.

Students in grades three through five interacted with the Challenger Learning Center in Rochester, N.Y., without ever leaving their classroom.

It was a "kick-back, comfortable, exciting, hands-on, brain-stretching kind of experience," said Peter Robson, who has been a mission commander with the Challenger Learning Center since 2003.

Robson taught the students over the airwaves through a video conference program. Using technology similar to Skype, Robson and the students were able to see each other and converse with one another through TVs.

Robson used humor, along with technology, to hold the students' attention and teach about the different types of energy.

His technique seemed to work. When the lesson was done, the students were able to identify all seven types of energy.

When Emily Fedorski heard the noise of a baby crying, she became the spokesperson for Robson's favorite type of energy: sound energy.

"Emily, I need to share something with you about sound energy," Robson said. "The day my daughter was actually born and she made that noise, that was the most glorious day of my life. I had tears of joy flowing down my face."

"And four years later after she wouldn't sleep through the night, every time I heard that noise, I had those same tears. When you get home tonight, make sure you give Mom and extra big hug, OK, girl?"

Emily agreed, and the class acknowledged that they were starting to get the impression that sound energy is a very real form of energy that can be controlled.

After students learned about the different energy types, they completed various hands-on experiments.

Outside the classroom, it was hard to believe that learning was actually taking place.

"There's been a lot of laughter coming out of that room," school secretary Rachel Maas said.

Isabel Pamperin, a student at i4Learning Community School, conducts an experiment using light energy.

Learning About Manufacturing Careers

– Kewaskum Middle School Students Tour Kondex Corporation In Lomira

By Anne Trautner

Eighth-graders from Kewaskum Middle School listened attentively as Heather Baez, a project engineer, explained how farm equipment parts are designed at Kondex Corporation in Lomira.

"Usually what happens is that we will get a request from sales that one of our customers wants to make this new part, so they will send us a bunch of prints," Baez said. "For reading prints, you need to have a good idea of how things work in 3-D. You see it in 2-D, and think about how it works in 3-D."

Eyebrows furrowed as the students tried to envision a three-dimensional version of a black-and-white print Baez showed them.

"Oh my gosh," eighth-grader William Jens said. "Are you a genius?"

"No, far from it," Baez confessed, explaining how she learned how to design product by earning a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering.

Baez's presentation was part of a tour that all 141 Kewaskum eighth-graders went on last week.

Life Tour

Last week marked the first time Kewaskum Middle School students have visited manufacturing plants.

"It really was about exposing them to careers and some of the possibilities as they get ready to make some of their high school course selections," Kewaskum Middle School Principal Julie Skelton said.

The eighth-graders visited both Kondex, which produces farm equipment parts, and Maysteel, which manufactures metal enclosures in Allenton. Meanwhile, guest speakers visited Kewaskum Middle School and talked with seventh-graders about their occupations.

Kondex has hosted factory tours for students before, but until last week, tours had not included a comprehensive look at the various professions employed at the company.

Kondex staff worked with Brett Zimdars, Kewaskum Middle School's technology and engineering instructor, for several months to plan the event. Due to the number of students, tours were held over two days, with six groups being guided through the facility each day.

"Having kids see what manufacturing today is all about is important to us, and we want to make sure they are understanding there are great opportunities in manufacturing; it's not just standing around pulling a lever all day. There's a lot of technology, it's clean, it's safe, it's fun. You are making an impact in the world, and we're a great place to work right here in Lomira," said Diane Riley, a marketing representative for Kondex.

Students met with members from Kondex's marketing, purchasing, finance, engineering, human resource, and informational technology teams. In all, they made stops at 17 different areas, to witness and interact with the associates within the areas, and to learn about how each area comes together in the manufacturing process.

Riley likened the tour to "The Game of Life" because it introduced students to different career options.

"Like the game, Kondex offers two paths to potential candidates. There are opportunities available right after high school, or they can choose to pursue a degree and find a career path that fits their education," Riley said.

Students received information about the education and skills required for the various occupations.

While the tour helped students plan their futures, Kondex benefited as well, Riley said.

Public School Open Enrollment Application Period Begins Feb. 1

Wisconsin's public school open enrollment application period, which allows parents an opportunity to send their children to any public school district in the state, runs from February 1 to April 29 for the 2016-2017 school year.

Traditionally, children in Wisconsin are assigned to public school districts based on the location of their parents' home. Open enrollment is a tuition-free opportunity for parents to apply for their children to attend a public school in a school district other than the one in which they live. The state's open enrollment program is administered by the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction and began in the 1998-99 school year with 2,464 students transferring from their home district to a nonresident district. The program has grown over the years with 53,188 students transferring during the 2014-15 school year.

Under public school open enrollment, parents may apply during the three-month application period to the school district they wish their children to attend using the online application website. Application deadlines are firm. Early and late applications are not accepted. Districts will notify parents by June 10 whether their open enrollment applications have been approved or denied. Although an alternate application procedure allows parents to apply for open enrollment outside of the three-month application period, there are more restrictions associated with the alternate procedure.

Transportation to and from a nonresident school, in most circumstances, is the responsibility of the parent. However, some school districts may provide partial transportation.

Parents with questions should call the nonresident school district office to find out if any transportation will be provided. Reimbursement of a portion of transportation costs is available for families whose children are eligible for free or reduced-price school meals based on federal income guidelines. This is the first year provisions are in place to improve access to open enrollment for students with disabilities. Those changes include a new transfer amount of $12,000 for students with disabilities.

The regular education student transfer amount is calculated on a formula based on the prior year's amount. For the 2015-2016 school year, the transfer amount was $6,639 per student. Along with the higher transfer payment for special education students, resident districts will no longer be able to deny a student's open enrollment application for cost reasons.

To assist parents in submitting open enrollment applications, a directory of public school districts is available on the DPI website at <http://dpi.wi.gov/directories>. To find additional information on open enrollment, visit <http://dpi.wi.gov/open-enrollment>. More information also is available from local school districts or from an open enrollment consultant at DPI, (888) 245-2732 (toll-free), or openenrollment@dpi.wi.gov.

The Rainbow Bar north of Mayville on Cty. Trk. V, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Swarthout, former residents of Kewaskum, was the scene of a holdup last Thursday with two masked gunmen netting $225 and six bottles of liquor, according to a report by Dodge County Sheriff Robert Schultz. Mrs. Swarthout is a sister of "Bub" Korth, proprietor of Hon-E-Kor Country Club in Kewaskum and is also employed in Kewaskum as a personal secretary to L.N. Peterson at Regal Ware Inc.

Mrs. Patricia Schmidt, of Kewaskum, was contacted at her home by an agent of leading Hollywood writers and producers. He tried to convince her she was a natural born writer. He failed even after several visits and phone calls. To Mrs. Schmidt this was too unbelievable to be true. A year passed, she thinking nothing gained, nothing lost. Approximately a month ago Schmidt sent a play she is author of to a leading Hollywood production corp. Last week, she received a contract from this corporation to have her play (with her written permission) developed into a TV screen play and for use on radio, television and motion pictures. Mrs. Schmidt, the former Jean Elwing, of Campbellsport, is married to William R. Schmidt and the mother of three children.

Mr. and Mrs. Kilian Honeck, Kewaskum, have been informed by William Welti, academic dean of Lakeland College, Sheboygan, that their daughter Beth, a freshman at the school, has been cited for her academic excellence for the first semester of the 1965-66 school year. Men outnumber women at Lakeland but again the wily co-eds proved themselves smarter than the male students. Twenty-three of the 39 students earning places on the Dean's List were women.

Following Wednesday's snow temperatures dropped to 15 degrees below zero Thursday morning and stayed well below the zero mark all day. The severe cold was accompanied by 28 mile-an-hour winds, making the frigid air felt all the more.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Gene Prost, of Campbellsport, on January 23.

Herbert Justman passed away on January 22.

Mrs. Catherine Harter, a resident of this village many years, had the rare distinction of observing her 92nd birthday anniversary on Monday, Jan. 27, at St. Agnes Hospital, Fond du Lac, where she is confined. Mrs. Harter, more familiarly known as Aunt Kate Harter, has numerous relatives and friends in Kewaskum and vicinity who will join in offering birthday greetings.

Howard Schmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Schmidt of this village, seaman first class in the U.S.

Naval Communications Reserve, was ordered to report for active duty at the Naval Reserve Armory at Indianapolis on January 27. He was given a physical examination there on Tuesday but failed to pass some because of his eyes, which did not come up to the standard required by the Navy. Howard returned to Kewaskum and will remain at home for the present.

Otto Backhaus, local ice dealer, employed a crew of men last week to assist him in the annual ice harvest. The ice was cut on the Milwaukee River, just above the site of the old dam and was stored in Mr. Backhaus ice house. The ice is of pretty good quality this winter measuring 13 to 14 inches in thickness, although the weather has been mild. This week, Mr. Backhaus has men filling the private ice houses of Mrs. Wm. F. Schultz and George Kippenhan.

Warren White of Dundee broke his left leg playing basketball at Armstrong last Friday evening.

Miss Margaret Pesch, of Campbellsport, teacher in the Virgin Creek School, Town of Auburn, sustained a fractured right leg when the toboggan on which she was riding struck a gulley and capsized Sunday afternoon. Miss Pesch was tobogganing with members of her family and friends near Long Lake when the accident occurred. Other members of the party were bruised.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Puetz, of Elmore, are the parents of a baby girl born Friday.

Local friends were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Marx and daughter, Judy, Friday in honor of the former's birthday anniversary.

The Campbellsport depot for the second time within six weeks was robbed, this time during daylight on Thursday afternoon between 12:55 and 1 p.m. No trace of the thief or thieves has been found. The deed was done while baggage man Eugene Glass left for another part of the building to get a scuttle of coal. Carl Beck, the second trick man, was the first one to discover the robbery. Mr. Beck reports for work at 1 o'clock and upon entering the office found that the office door and cash drawer were pried open. He found that all the money in the cash drawer was missing which amounted to $84.90.

Last Monday, a peculiar accident happened to one of the men employed by F. Rose, who is digging a well for Louis Falk at Myra, Wis. Mr. Rose and his son were not present at the time, having left for their home near Kewaskum, during their absence. Eugene Haessly also employed by Mr. Rose and John Falk, a son of Louis Falk, proceeded to go ahead with the digging. Mr. Haessly directed the Falk boy to get a ladder in order to put up the tackle on the three pole, which stands about 12 feet above the center of the well. But regardless of what the boy was told he proceeded to climb up the poles instead of using the ladder as cautioned and in doing so lost his hold and fell into the well, a distance of 48 feet. The young man was taken from the well, it was found that he was uninjured, which seems remarkable considering the distance he had dropped.

On Friday morning shortly before going to press, the stork hovered over the home of the Editor and left an eight-pound baby girl. That the parents are happy with this addition to the family is a foregone conclusion.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Butzke, New Prospect, had a beautiful china closet built in their house last week by Will Molkenhine of West Bend.

On January 13, a gloom spread over St. Michaels when it became known that Gerhard Junk had passed the great divide. About two weeks before he was taken sick with the Grippe, but his condition was not considered serious until on the last day a paralytic stroke brought his earthy career to an end.

Holy Trinity Announces $1.8 Million Pledged in Lead Gift Phase Toward Its $2.5 Million Parish Center Capital Campaign

It's been a busy fall and winter for Holy Trinity Church, a 155-year-old Catholic community in Kewaskum.

With 840 families, Holy Trinity parish has been growing the last several years. For many years the parish and school felt the need for a gym or a parish center.

In the spring of 2015, an anonymous donor came forward with a gift of $750,000 to be used in the construction of a new gym and a pledge of $25,000 a year for 10 years in the maintenance of the gym. After some discussion with the donor and with the parish leaders, it was felt that the $750,000 gift could be capitalized upon by the whole parish to construct a brand new Holy Trinity Parish Center and to embark upon a capital campaign to mobilize the whole parish toward this effort.

In the summer of 2015, the Rev. Edwin Kornath, pastor of Holy Trinity-St. Michael's, named the chairpersons for its new We Believe Capital Campaign. The chairpersons named were Jim Wessing, Tony Fleischman, Brian Wildt and Jeff Butler. After their appointments, the four chairpersons recruited another 55 people to be team leaders for another 14 capital campaign teams. To date, more than 225 people have joined in the efforts of these 14 teams.

Holy Trinity has set three goals for itself: Goal 1 – Celebration Goal of $1.75 million; Goal 2 – Challenge Goal of $2 million; and Goal 3 –

Transformation Goal of $2.5 million. Goal 1 of the campaign would enable Holy Trinity to construct the Parish Center, create a small Emergency Fund and create a small Angel Fund (school scholarship fund). Goal 2 would make it possible for Holy Trinity to tuck point the church and make needed school curriculum updates. Goal 3 would enable Holy Trinity to finish all interior items in the parish center, and increase the Angel Fund and Emergency Fund.

On January 19 through 21, Holy Trinity held its four advance commitment gatherings. These gatherings are in preparation for its Commitment Weekends starting February 6 and 7. As of January 21, Holy Trinity had $1,830,000 ($750,000 anonymous gift and $1,080,000 in new lead gifts) pledged toward its top goal of $2.5 million. This means that as Holy Trinity prepares for its Commitment Weekends, two-thirds of its financial goal has been reached.

Mark Filips of VisionWorks Fundraising in Omaha, Neb., served as the lead fundraising consultant on Holy Trinity's feasibility study, which was conducted in the spring, and on their current capital campaign. Groth Design Group of Cedarburg is the architectural firm designing the Parish Center. CD Smith Construction of Fond du Lac is the general contractor.

Army Recruiters Pump Up Gym Class

By Anne Trautner

On Wednesday, Jan. 20, Kewaskum High School students worked out Army-style in gym class.

"They are exercising both upper and lower body muscles. The purpose is to target different muscle groups and work on those muscle groups. If you do those properly, then those muscle groups are going to develop," Staff Sergeant Brandon Williams said about the circuit-training workout the students completed.

Williams and Staff Sgt. Glen McKinney visited the high school last week in order to lead the students through the exercises.

They were not the first guests that have visited high school gym classes. For example, last trimester visitors from Hon-E-Kor introduced students to Jazzercise.

"Wednesdays are our cardio days where we try to push them a little bit more and work their bodies. We try to do different things," physical education teacher Mary Holfeltz said.

One of the things students are currently working on during their physical education classes is a plan similar to the "Couch to 5K Running Plan," Holfeltz said.

In past years, Army recruiters, as well as Marines, have come to the school before to help students exercise, Holfeltz said.

For Williams and McKinney, last week was an opportunity not only to help students get in shape, but also to introduce students to the Army.

"Recruiting is different than it used to be. We are shrinking overall, we have more people interested than we can take, so the standards are higher. As an example, I haven't made a phone call trying to find people who are interested in two years, my whole time I've been out here," Williams said.

It used to be that recruiters would call people's homes to try to get new recruits, Williams said.

"We don't do that anymore," he said.

Instead, recruiters attend events where they can talk to people and answer questions when people are interested.

"It's a little different than it used to be, and I think because of that, there's not so much animosity because we are not out there trying to find people to join the Army, we are just part of the population just answering questions when people are interested," said Williams.

Last week, there was a signup sheet for students to fill out if they were interested in learning more about the Army.

The state requires the Army to contact every person before they graduate from high school, and last week's class counted as a contact, Williams said.

Both Williams and McKinney are on a three-year assignment as recruiters. When they finish this duty, they will return to their regular fields.

Williams, who has spent time in Afghanistan, Korea, Texas, Utah and Missouri, is a military police officer. McKinney is a tank mechanic who has served in Kansas, Georgia, California, South Korea, two tours in Iraq and twice in Afghanistan.

Army recruiters Brandon Williams and Glen McKinney lead Kewaskum High School students in a plank exercise during gym class.

"The Army is a great stepping stone for whatever career you want to pick," said McKinney, who also has spent time riding a horse in one of the traditional Calvary units.

The Army emphasizes the importance not only on physical activity, but also on diet and trying to live a healthy lifestyle, Williams said.

To help others with physical training, Williams and McKinney, who work out of a West Bend office with three other recruiters, teach circuit training to 17 area high schools as well as local colleges.

The more that people practice the exercises, the better they will become at them, the recruiters stressed.

"The exercises are designed that you try to do it the best you possibly can, and form over intensity and repetition," Williams said.

Of all the exercises that the students performed last week, the one that is the most demanding is the eight-count pushup, Williams said. That exercise consists of doing two pushups and then jumping up as high as possible and then doing more pushups.

And what are the Army recruiters favorite exercises?

"I don't like any of them," Williams said. "I like to swim as a lower intensity cardio exercise, but that's kind of hard to do here in the winter. As far as all of these exercises, they are all kind of miserable."

McKinney, on the other hand, likes working out.

"I played soccer when I was a kid, so I had a lot of heavy core. So doing a lot of these exercises is second nature," McKinney said.

Long Range Planning Committee Meets About Kewaskum Schools

The Kewaskum Community Schools Long Range Planning Committee (LRPC) met on Tuesday, Jan. 19.

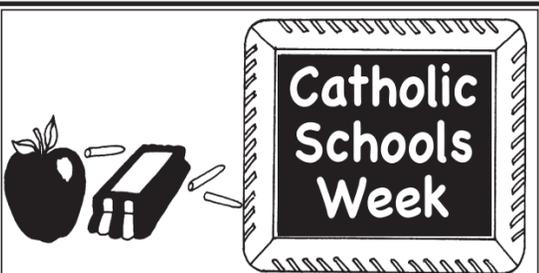

The purpose of the committee is to identify needs and determine possible solutions to facility and ground needs within the school district.

Attendees who toured facilities at Lomira and Berlin School Districts on January 13 shared their comments about the new and remodeled facilities. Observations included the use of materials used at each site, use of gym space, artificial turf, placement of classrooms, sound quality and acoustics, use of windows and skylights and the differences between a remodel versus a new construction.

Michelle Wiberg from PMA summarized her report on school finances. She noted that Kewaskum School District has one of the lowest percentages of outstanding debt as compared with other districts in the area. Interest rates are at an historical low rate as compared with the last 10 years.

The committee met in small groups to discuss the facility needs summary. Those present agreed the facility needs were accurately identified.

The second task of the small group was to review the option summaries and narrow the facility choices to a more manageable number. Those options will be reviewed more in depth at the next LRPC meeting on February 16.

1.9 Million In Lead Gift Pledges Toward Their $2.5 Million Parish Center Capital Campaign

Dear Friend,

As you may have heard, Holy Trinity and St. Michael Parishes are embarking upon a $2.5 million capital campaign to build a new Parish Activity Center, which will include a gym, a café/cafeteria, kitchen, and offices. With only 40 parish households contacted, we have over $1.9 million pledged — 77 percent of our goal!

And our Commitment Weekends are planned for our parishes on February 6 and 7.

First of all, we wanted to say we are excited about those of you from the Kewaskum-area community who are contacting us each day and each week about our Parish Activity Center.

We see this not only as a facility to foster the ministries and programs of Holy Trinity and St. Michael parishes, but even more we see it as a resource for our entire greater Kewaskum community.

We all know our

Kewaskum area is stretched when it comes to venues for various civic, school and family events. In an attempt to be a good steward of God's blessings to us, we look forward to offering this Parish Activity Center to the community for its needs and its use.

Secondly, because we cannot adequately respond to all the requests for information we are getting, we wanted to direct you to our Holy Trinity & St. Michael website. At our parish website, www.KewaskumCatholicParishes.org you will see links to our plans and videos, which will give you information about our new Parish Activity Center.

Lastly, we would like to recognize all our fellow community leaders, civic leaders and religious leaders who have been so helpful and supportive with their prayers and advice. This is the largest project we've embarked upon in at least the last 50 years, and without your interest and encouragement we could not have gotten it done.

Please continue to keep us in your prayers and please continue to forward your advice and questions to us, and we will respond as best we can.

By being united and working together we hope to make our greater Kewaskum community a better place to live!

Sincerely yours,
Pastor – Fr Ed Kornath - 262-626-2860
Chairpersons – Jim Wessing, Tony Fleischman, Brian Wildt and Jeff Butler

Dear Editor,

Please help Stop the Proposed sand-mine located in the Town of Ashford, W2545 Ashford-Auburn, just a short distance from Kewaskum! Why should you be concerned if you don't live in the immediate area of the proposed mine? One very obvious reason is the far-reaching impact this sand-mine will have on the Milwaukee River and its tributaries as the construction site of the mine will be located approximately 1,000 feet from the west branch of the Milwaukee River. The Milwaukee River flows through the heart of the Village and Town of Kewaskum. The concerning negative mining activities, such as poorly planned stockpiling, uncontrolled dumping at the site, and chemical/fuel spills has the potential of reducing the water quality, affecting the aquatic life and harming the vegetation within the river system via the watershed.

At this point, the Town of Ashford and Town of Ashford Appeal Board has not listened nor concerned themselves about the opinions of the constituents who vehemently oppose a mine in their backyards. Currently, there is an ordinance that exists, which the Town of Ashford voted on and approved. It reads as follows: "That the establishment, maintenance or operation of the special exception use of structure will not be detrimental of injurious to the use and enjoyment of adjacent properties or properties in the immediate vicinity." Isn't polluting the Milwaukee River Watershed, depleting our aquifers and causing us to ingest cancer-causing dust detrimental to all of us?

Here are a few facts we feel are very important:

1. The Town of Ashford hand-picked the members of the Town of Ashford Appeal Board.
2. One of the members previously worked for Batzler Trucking Company.
3. Two board members

Kremer's Korner

—Guest Editorial By 59th Assembly District Representative Jesse Kremer

Big Government Strikes Again

Throughout my first term in office, I have had the opportunity to participate as a member of the Assembly Health Committee. Over the past few weeks, the Committee has held hearings on administrative rules.

After a law is passed, the state agency that oversees the program creates rules to comply with the new law. During one of these hearings, we had the opportunity to listen to disabled adults and parents of disabled children tell their stories concerning prior authorization for physical, occupational and speech therapy in the Medicaid program.

When a person with a disability requires therapy, they must petition the Department of Health Services (DHS) as often as every three months — even if they are permanently disabled and have already gone through prior authorization and been approved by their for-profit insurance carrier.

Issues with prior authorization were targeted during a DHS audit in 2001; however, the audit findings were never addressed. This is big government at its worst for a number of reasons.

First of all, if the primary, for-profit carrier has already approved the therapy, then why waste tax dollars to go through the prior authorization process a second time at the state level?

Second, when the state denies a claim, they are not required to specify exactly why the claim was denied. This wastes weeks and even months before an individual receives the therapy that they require. If an appeal is made, legal teams are usually required to prove the need for therapy, with hundreds of pages of accompanying paperwork.

Finally, often times there is no one who has contemporary experience and the expertise at DHS to evaluate certain conditions, especially in children. In these cases, I will be requiring DHS to partner with outside therapists who are experts in their field. There are organizations that will provide these services at potentially little to no charge.

After listening to heart-breaking stories and realizing that this is a real problem, I began to work closely with the Wisconsin Physical Therapy Association, Wisconsin Occupational Therapy Association, Wisconsin Speech Therapy Association and Disability Rights Wisconsin immediately following the hearing. I would encourage anyone with a loved one who has experienced difficulty with Medicaid prior authorization to please contact my office and share your input and suggestions.

This is an issue that I am actively researching and one that I would like to introduce immediately after the next election cycle.

5. There is some skepticism and ethical concerns regarding the published minutes from the Town of Ashford meetings and the audio tapes from the meetings. They do not reconcile with each other.

6. Up until a recent change in the state statute, the Town of Ashford would post meeting agendas 30 minutes before the Town of Ashford dump closed. Once the gates were locked, the agenda couldn't be read. WHAT?

As we have described, many of the above-referenced actions have been unprofessional, unethical, and neglectful. These same individuals will be the ones responsible for inspecting and monitoring the activity at the proposed sand-mine. Obviously, these individuals haven't considered our well-being throughout this entire process. And, we're supposed to feel confident they are qualified and have the expertise to monitor this site in the future to protect the health, safety and environment for the public?

If you wish to prevent this sand-mine from irreparably harming our beautiful area, please make an anonymous donation as follows: www.gofundme.com, search STOP The Ongoing Mine Permit. Anonymous donations can also be mailed (check or money order) to: STOMP, UA, National Exchange Bank and Trust, 114 N. Fond du Lac Ave., Campbellsport, WI 53010.

We have had wonderful, concerned citizens who have contributed to our cause locally, state-wide, as well as those caring folks from Minnesota. The sand-mine opposition is heating up throughout the state in support of our position against this harmful construction site. Please join the discussion. We are legitimately concerned about the future health of our families should this sand-mine be constructed.

Dear Editor,

In 2015, I ran for a seat on the Kewaskum Board of Education with a desire to address many issues and to improve the school district. Support for me was good, as I received 974 votes, just missing out on the opportunity to serve.

My campaign enabled me firsthand to experience stories of disservice KSD was placing on its students and taxpayers. I was most pleased to know many agreed with my concerns and plans on how to address them.

Although there are many positives, such as teachers and support staff, several areas remain for needed improvement, including how they are treated. I feel we have an out-of-touch and overpaid administration that does what it wants, and not what the majority of taxpayers desire.

To me, policy is a mess and common core (CCSS) is still strong in our schools.

I have entered my name for this year's KSD School Board election because I believe, along with many, that I will challenge the status quo and bring back conservative leadership and values back we lost in 2014. The board needs a change, a new set of eyes with a vision.

This year, with your help, we will do better!

Chief's Corner

By Kewaskum Police Chief Tom Bishop

The Kewaskum Police Department, along with most agencies in Washington County, carry Narcan in our squad cars. Narcan, which is also known as Naloxone, is an opioid antagonist that is used to reverse the effects of opioids, especially in an overdose.

As police officers on patrol, we are generally on scene prior to EMS personnel and now have the ability to administer Narcan to a subject in those crucial moments after an overdose. On December 19th, 2015, our department was able to do just that to help save the life of a young man suspected of having overdosed. Many lives in our county have been saved by having this medication available.

On December 21st, 2015, I placed a press release on our Facebook page about the events from the overdose on December 19th, and to be honest, I was stunned to see a few comments from people who believe that we shouldn't try to save the life of a person addicted to heroin. I understand, to an extent, where that thought process comes from and the high probability that the person will return to their addicted ways, but I also believe that our position in society should focus on helping those with addiction.

Heroin addiction doesn't have a "typical user" to identify with, tragically, it can and does affect every walk of life. Our society is seeing a significant increase in heroin and opioid abuse.

For many of those people, it stemmed from an addiction to pain medications. Oxycotin, or Oxycodone are opioid pain medications that are basically the same chemical make up as heroin. Many addictions start with pain medication abuse. As that abuse grows, the availability and the cost of the medication becomes more challenging, whereas, heroin is a cheaper alternative and unfortunately easier to obtain.

Those with addictions at this stage will generally only snort heroin since, the old notion of "only junkies shoot up" allows them to justify their addiction. Unfortunately, the addiction demon is too strong to overcome and eventually intravenous injection is the only way to feed the addiction and an overdose is often inevitable.

Addiction doesn't affect just the user — it affects everyone in our society. Clearly an addiction will affect their loved ones, but the constant need for money to support the habit leads to an increase in property and even violent crimes. Home burglaries, gas station robberies, thefts from vehicles and other property crimes are usually being committed by addicts needing money to "feed the demon."

Washington County has seen an increase of those crimes coinciding with the increased use of heroin. Most addicts in recovery have stated that they knew that they were committing criminal acts, but their addiction was so great, their better judgment was compromised.

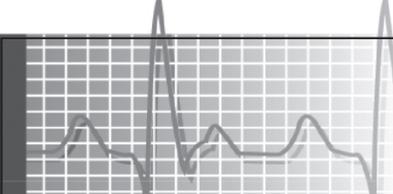

Those who say, "just let them die," may have never had an addiction hit close to home. They are right insofar that the use of Narcan may allow them to continue their drug use, but it may also be the wake up call they needed. I'm confident that the vast number of parents whose children are addicted to heroin just want one more chance for them to get clean. We, as first responders, are obligated to do everything in our power to protect life — to give them their one more chance.

Heroin addiction affects all walks of life regardless of family or socioeconomic status. I've heard from doctors and nurses who have had a child go down this ugly road. I have also had a personal experience within my family. My 24-year-old step-brother lost his life due to addiction. The addiction is everywhere and affects all of us. So instead of dismissing people who are addicted as worthless criminals who don't deserve our support, let's try to find actual solutions to help those who are addicted and prevent future abuse.

I'm not saying that those addicted shouldn't be held responsible for the criminal actions they commit, but they shouldn't be written off by society as being better off dead either. We have to believe that all lives truly do matter.

Thank you and have a safe month,
Tom Bishop
Chief of Police

Falls Are Common, But Can Be Prevented

One-third of adults over the age of 65 years old will likely fall this year, according to data from the Centers of Disease Control (CDC). Falls cause everything from scrapes and bruises, to broken arms, and up to 95 percent of hip fractures.

Unfortunately, many older adults develop a fear of falling, which leads to limiting activities. This decrease in activity and mobility can lead to an increased risk of falls.

There are several reasons and risk factors that can lead to falls. Some of these may include a history of previous falls, balance problems, leg weakness, vision problems and certain medications. Given the devastation that a fall can cause, it is important to take steps to prevent falls.

Some tips on how to prevent falls could include having your physician or pharmacist review your medications to determine if any have side effects or interactions that may cause dizziness or disturbed balance. See your physician or eye doctor once per year to check your vision and make sure your eye-wear prescription is up to date.

It is also beneficial to assess the safety in your home by eliminating trip hazards like throw rugs, long cords and clutter. Other safety measures would include keeping the walk ways well-lit, adding grab bars in the shower and next to the toilet to aid with transfers, as well as adding railings to both sides of the stairs. If you do feel as though you have an issue with balance, it is important to utilize an assistive device for walking, such as a cane or walker.

If you find that you have had a fall, or have a fear of falling, contact your physician or physical therapist for a consultation. He or she may recommend physical therapy to help work on strength and balance program, which can allow you to move about more safely and continue living your life.

If you have any questions regarding how physical therapy can help you, please call Back-In-Action at 920-922-7776.

Weekly HEALTH TIP

WHOLE GRAINS & LIFE SPAN

Older adults who eat a diet high in whole grains and cereal fiber may reduce their risk of premature death. A new study tracked 370,000 people ages 50-71 over a 14-year span. Researchers found that those who ate the most whole grains (about 34 grams for every 1,000 calories eaten) were 17% less likely to die as those who ate the least. The whole grain and fiber eaters were also half as likely to die of diabetes-related causes. Experts say whole grains and cereal fiber may be good for a person because they help reduce three things: overall food consumption, levels of "bad" cholesterol and inflammation.

Kettlebells For Life

By Brandon Serwe
Owner of B's Bells &
Bootcamps

One of the most common questions that I am asked is why I train myself and clients with kettlebells. The simple answer is because they work. Now let's expand on that answer a little bit.

I have been using kettlebells since 2007 and they have completely transformed my body. I was already an avid triathlete and a personal trainer for almost a year when I started to experiment with kettlebells. After just a few months with bells, I was leaner, stronger, had more endurance, and was more flexible than ever before. Once I began to see results with kettlebells, I became an addict and completely changed my training philosophy for myself and my clients.

Despite some sore muscles, callused hands, heavy breathing, and excessive sweating during class, I think most clients would agree that kettlebells are the answer to your fitness question. They come in a variety of weights to fit every client's needs. My bell selection ranges from 4 kg (8.8 lbs) to 48 kg(105.8 lbs) and covers every size in-between.

That means I can have a 10-year-old baseball player, 24-year-old gym rat, 36-year-old mother of three, and a 74-year-old grandma all doing the same exercise in class. With different kettlebell sizes and exercise modifications, I can have almost anybody perform the same workout.

With almost 10 years of training experience, I have trained people with many different conditions including: prosthetic limbs, cystic fibrosis, cancer, multiple surgeries on almost every part of the body, restrictive scar tissue, and countless other ailments.

Basically if the client is willing to work hard and give it a try, then I am too.

To have a successful weight loss program you need a proper diet and an exercise program that includes strength training to burn calories while you are at rest and cardio training to burn more calories during exercise. In my opinion, kettlebells are one of the most effective training tools because they combine both modes of training. Kettlebells are a combination of strength, cardio, interval, circuit, core, and bootcamp style training all wrapped in one hour packages.

The atmosphere is fun and every workout I teach is different so you never get bored. You may walk out the door a little sweaty and out of breath, but you will smile knowing that you are healthier than when you walked in an hour ago.

Some of Serwe's clients testified to the fact that kettlebells works for them:

"By far my most favorite work outs are here. Always fun and challenging and never the same. I no longer live in the area but still make the 20 minute drive from West Bend because I like it that much."

-Melissa S.

"I love this gym! It's a very positive and encouraging atmosphere. You get a great workout every time and the workouts are always changing, so no chance of getting bored."

"Brandon is a great trainer, always ready to explain an exercise or give you advise on which stretch to do. I've been going to B's Bells for over a year now and have seen some incredible results!"

-Sara R.

"I've been going to B's Bells for almost four years. (Was one of the first people to join when it opened) The classes are excellent! Lots of variety, great people and Brandon is an awesome instructor! I never thought I'd want to work out at 5 a.m. but that's the best class of all!!! Good job Brandon!!"

-April T.

"Great workout!! Great for young and old! Brandon does a great job catering to individual needs and isn't afraid to push one to be sure they accomplish what they have come to accomplish."

-Branden D.

"I started kettlebells for a two-fold reason. Number 1 - I was frustrated with myself. Getting married in June 2011 and although I walk, ride bike, yoga, some running, just couldn't seem to get rid of the chunky area around the middle, etc."

"Although I have a way to go and the chunky monkey is still there, I feel great. Probably better than I have felt in a really long time. And reason number 2 - saw a chiropractor for some back pain. To make a long story short, I thought I would take my back into my own hands. And kettlebells seems to be keeping pain away."

"It's obvious Brandon loves what he does. He's a very knowledgeable teacher. He makes sure I do the exercises correctly so as not to hurt myself. He knows what to do to meet my needs, works me hard and seems to understand when to push and when to back off."

Your Family, Your Health

By Patricia Hayes, PA-C

If you've ever tried to track your ancestors, you know that family history is a complex puzzle with many missing pieces. Constructing your family medical history is an even more complex process, but if you persevere and do it right, you can gain important information that can affect your own health and longevity.

"Many common diseases and chronic medical conditions such as hypertension, heart disease and diabetes are said to 'run in families,'" according to Patricia Hayes, PA-C, a certified physician assistant with the Fond du Lac Regional Clinic in Campbellsport. "That does not mean that they are directly inherited because families share many things — environment, lifestyle, traditional ways of cooking and behavior as well as genes."

If your father, grandmother and two of your siblings died of a heart attack, you too have an elevated risk — in part because you have inherited certain genes but also because of your family eating patterns and exercise behavior.

There are rarer conditions — such as cystic fibrosis, sickle cell anemia, hemophilia and certain types of breast cancer — that have a strong genetic component. Knowing that you have a family history of one of these disorders might lead you to avoid certain activities or to be screened more frequently or at an earlier age than individuals without this genetic risk.

"As healthcare providers, we can be greatly assisted by having specific, scientifically accurate information, spanning at least three generations," Hayes says. "However, it's unlikely that you or anyone in your family has that kind of information."

What you do know could be inaccurate or incomplete. You may have heard that your grandmother died of "heart trouble." But precisely what was the problem — atherosclerosis, high blood pressure, congestive heart failure, atrial fibrillation?

All American families are encouraged to learn more about their health history. And a web-based tool has been developed to aid the process (My Family Health Portrait: familyhistory.hhs.gov). The first step could be to go online and print out copies of the HHS Family Health Portrait or the AMA's Family History Form.

These forms ask for information about your own children and about your parents, siblings, grandparents, uncles and aunts — at least three generations. Fill in all the information that's in your memory, then pass these forms around at the next family gathering for corrections and additions.

"It's important to make note of family members with high blood pressure, heart disease, diabetes, cancer and stroke," Hayes says. "These are the major causes of death in the United States. An early age at the time of diagnosis is important information for your family health history."

Having a relatively complete and accurate family health history, however, makes it easier for you and your healthcare professional to determine your best strategies for staying healthy.

Keep Your Kids On The Move

By Rebecca Hoerth, APNP

You and your siblings snickered when your parents told you stories about having to walk three miles a day to school through a raging blizzard. You had no idea the challenge you would face many years later shooing your own children off the couch.

“Physical inactivity is a major health hazard in this country, contributing to a dramatic rise in the incidence of obesity and associated concerns such as diabetes and cardiovascular disease — among all Americans and particularly among children and adolescents,” according to Rebecca Hoerth, APNP, a nurse practitioner with the Fond du Lac Regional Clinic in Campbellsport. “We recommend that children and adolescents get at least 60 minutes a day of physical activity.”

Here are some steps that parents can take to help their children live more active lives.

“Even without prodding, most youngsters will find active things to do once the distraction of the TV or computer screen is removed,” Hoerth says. “Establish a screen-time budget with kids. Professionals recommend one to two hours or less daily of media time, a rule that might have to be implemented gradually for kids who are used to spending five hours or more online or watching TV.”

Parents can serve as a role model. Invite them to join you at a local fitness club, or take a walk or run with you.

“Families that play together stay healthy together,” Hoerth says. “After dinner, on weekends, vacation, parents can plan family outings that include hiking, canoeing, swimming or other physical activities. Take a walk together after dinner; schedule a 10-mile bicycle trip for Saturday. All of these activities, including your vacations should be planned together as a family.”

At all ages and skill levels, youth sports leagues are available in most communities — baseball, basketball, soccer, volleyball and more.

“Children who participate in these leagues gain skills of leadership, teamwork and strategy as well as improvements in fitness and coordination,” according to Hoerth. “Maybe most important, a young competitive athlete usually finds he/she has little time to sit in front of a TV set.”

Like adults, children need a mix of vigorous and moderate intensity exercise. They need to develop aerobic endurance, strength and flexibility. Children get these benefits naturally by playing tag and using the monkeybars. Adolescents playing youth sports such as soccer, basketball and lacrosse should get the comprehensive workouts they need.

“Physical activity sharpens the mind and can have an effect on mood and enthusiasm for learning,” Hoerth explains. “Even more important, it keeps cardiovascular circulation strong, builds bones and muscles and improves metabolism.”

Chiropractic Care For Headaches

It is very common for a patient with headaches to also suffer from neck pain and as a result it is very important to include treatment of the neck when treating headaches.

Two very common types of headache are called cervicogenic headaches, which means the headache comes from the neck, and myogenic tension headaches, meaning the headache comes from tight muscles. Both of these headaches have overlapping causes and symptoms and are commonly seen together, clinically.

Anatomically, the neck and head are intimately related, and so there are many anatomical reasons why headaches may result from issues with the neck. A very common reason is that there are many muscle groups that span from the shoulders and upper back, into the neck, and sometimes into the head.

For example, the accessory nerve is a cranial nerve that arises from the cervical spine and innervates some of these muscles. Therefore, injury anywhere in the neck may result in spasm and pain, which in turn may refer pain into the head.

Poor posture tends to put a lot of stress on your suboccipital muscles (muscles at the top of your neck), which can in turn cause "knots" and spasm and put pressure on the nerves that innervate them, resulting in irritation and pain locally and can often refer pain into the head.

When patients seek treatment for their headaches, a thorough examination of the neck, upper back, and cranial nerves is routinely performed for the above reasons. It is very common to find problems with cervical range of motion and issues with vertebral alignment in patients complaining of headaches.

Tender points located between the shoulder blades, along the upper shoulders, on the sides of the neck and particularly, at the base of the skull are commonly found. Pain often radiates from the tender point over the top of the skull when pressure is applied in the upper neck/base of the skull area. Tenderness on the sides of the head, in the temples, over the eyes, and near the jaw joint are also common.

Chiropractic adjustments applied to the fixated or misaligned vertebra in the upper neck often brings very satisfying relief to the headache sufferer. Exercises that promote movement in the neck, as well as strengthening exercises are also helpful in both reducing headache pain and in preventing occurrences, especially with stress or tension headaches.

If you feel that you are suffering from headaches that might be coming from your neck. Give Ogi Chiropractic a call at (262) 477-1040 to see if chiropractic can benefit you.

Massage Therapy Offered In Kewaskum

By Anne Trautner

When Lori Bersch was a child, she dreamed of becoming a dance teacher.

She had been dancing since about age 3, but by the time she was 13, she started having knee problems. Then she was in a minor ATV accident that affected her neck, and her dancing career ended.

"I was getting migraine headaches and stiff necks all the time. It messed me up," Bersch said.

So Bersch began going to a chiropractor. Over the years, she also went through physical therapy and has tried meditation and vitamins to alleviate pain.

"Honestly, I've been in pain for most of my life," said Bersch, who is now 42.

The pain led Bersch to begin exploring massage and cupping therapy. Bersch found those things so beneficial that she went through training to help others.

Bersch is now a licensed massage therapist, is nationally certified in therapeutic massage and is a certified cupping therapist.

Bersch, who ran a massage business for four years in Illinois, now operates out of her Kewaskum home.

Bersch still sees a chiropractor to manage her own pain. She also exercises and undergoes massage and cupping therapy to relieve symptoms.

"Now my approach is different. I take more of a preventative approach to my own care, which I didn't really do before. I've noticed a difference since I started working out and taking care of myself; I'm not as sore and I have more strength."

Massage Therapy

Bersch uses both massage and cupping therapy to relieve symptoms for clients who have chronic pain and soft tissue damage. Soft tissue includes muscles, tendons, ligaments and nerves, Bersch said.

"I do not diagnose. I do not cure. I do not actually treat specific diseases. I work on symptom relief," Bersch said.

One of the ways Bersch relieves symptoms is through orthopedic massage. Many of Bersch's clients are athletes and youth.

"I love working with kids," Bersch said. "Last summer during sports season, I had a lot of kids ages 12 to 18, mostly with sports-related injuries. One had a concussion, one had a bad shoulder, another had shin splints."

People do not have to partake in sports to get injured.

"It can happen sitting in a computer all day at work. Things that can become chronic because you've been sitting at a desk for 20 years every day. You get a lot of the forward head posture and the rolled shoulders. It can create a lot of tension in the neck, headaches, migraines and low back pain," Bersch said.

To alleviate that pain, orthopedic massage is used to manipulate and rehabilitate soft tissues.

Cupping Therapy

Bersch also uses cupping therapy by applying silicone or plastic cups that suction to the body.

She can suction them to the body and use a lubricant such as coconut oil to glide the cups across a person's skin. A person can also move while the cups are attached to loosen and stretch soft tissue, Bersch said.

"It's a negative pressure, it sucks the tissues up into the cup. It loosens adhesions and stagnation from deeper layers of the tissues," Bersch said.

This suction can help loosen scar tissue, release rigid soft tissue, relieve joint stiffness; drain stagnant blood and toxins, and bring fresh blood flow to stagnant areas, according to Bersch.

Cupping is a practice that dates back to ancient China, one that celebrities Jennifer Aniston and Gwyneth Paltrow have reportedly used.

Cupping therapy can leave circular marks on the skin.

"I can adjust the pressure of the cups when I have them on you, and then afterwards, like maybe the next day, it can be a little tender, but it doesn't actually hurt," Bersch said.

The marks are not bruises, Bersch said. They are caused by stagnant blood and fluid that come to the surface, she said.

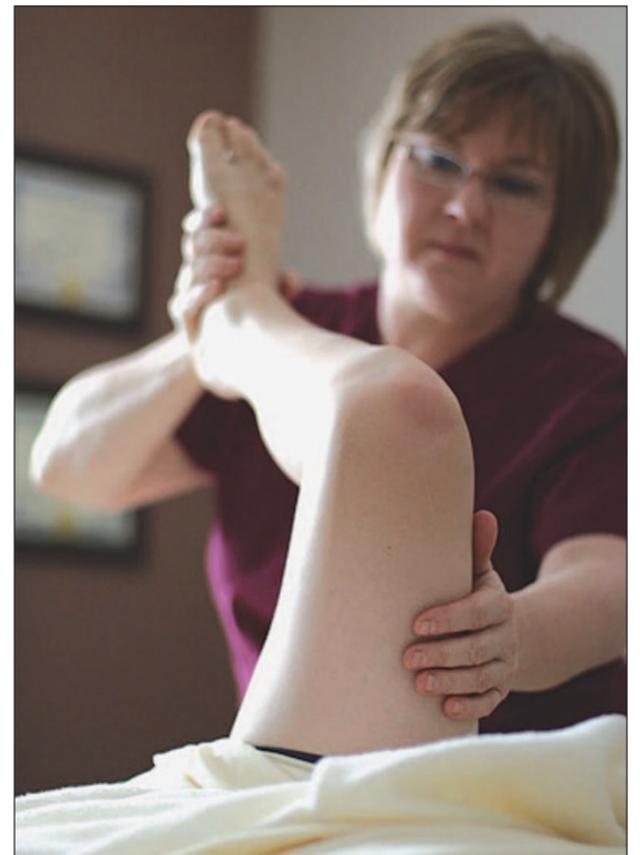

"Bruising is actually when capillaries get broken. These are not broken capillaries," Bersch said. "It increases blood flow. It brings fresh oxygen to the area, which encourages healing."

Bersch uses cupping on clients who suffer from sciatic pain, whiplash injuries and jaw pain.

Cupping can also benefit athletes, she said.

"I love to use cups on my athlete clients because it helps to increase the range of motion. Of course, it stimulates the blood flow, which helps to heal minor tears they can get from doing their impact sports and working out," Bersch said.

For more information or to make an appointment with Bersch for symptom relief, visit her website at www.kewaskum-massage.com.

Continued From... Learning About Manufacturing Careers

"As the workforce shortage grows with baby boomers retiring, Kondex has taken opportunities to encourage and educate students about the benefits of manufacturing careers – both in the plant and the office. We support national manufacturing initiatives and have helped our community Tech Ed programs by donating funds or resources to modernize their equipment," Riley said. "These career day events are another way to generate pro-manufacturing awareness."

Manufacturing Lessons

In addition to learning about jobs at Kondex, students learned about the company's manufacturing processes. They saw how individual parts are created and then assembled on the line.

Students also learned about how each part is inspected and how the process continues to develop.

In the metallurgical lab, metallurgist Casey Placek explained how blades for combines are examined to ensure they will not fail in the field.

After a section of metal is removed from the blade, it is impregnated into polymer resin and polished. The metal's structure can then be examined under a powerful microscope, which magnifies the surface to 1,000 times what the human eye can see, Placek said.

He explained how heat treatment and shape memory alloys work.

"We use heat treatment so parts can withstand being bent most of the time, and not break," Placek said. "Shape memory alloys are heat treated to remember a certain shape."

Most of the teens were not familiar with heart stents, which Placek used as an example of a heat-treated substance. Stents are heat treated so that doctors can make the stents into a flat line when they are at room temperature and insert them into arteries. Once the stents get up to body temperature, they revert to their bent shape in order to prevent blockages.

However, all the students could relate to the rubber toys that remember their original shapes after being bent.

Placek also introduced students to how laser-clad beams are used with carbide to help resist wear.

Mark More, a manufacturing engineer at Kondex, demonstrated how laser enhancing technology is used to apply material or improve the microstructure of steel or cast iron components in order to gain greater durability, improved wear and reduced product weight.

"It's a new process...It opens the door to a whole new range of products," More said. "We've had a lot of prototypes coming in for other parts that are going to hit the market in 2020, so we are doing a lot of development work. It's a fun challenge."

Career Decisions

As students toured Kondex, they realized that different workers were utilizing the things they have been learning in their business, technical education and computer classes.

For example, while meeting with Baez, they compared Kondex's drafting program to the one they had used in their technical education class to build stepstools. That assignment taught students how to take individual parts and put them together, a core skill for mechanical engineers.

With a strong base, students can more easily pursue a career doing the types of things they like.

"What got me into engineering is when I was around your age, I enjoyed being creative and making things. I like taking things apart and figuring out how they work, so engineering kind of fits in along with that," Baez said.

For those who like traveling, working in sales can be a good choice, Riley said.

"If you are in sales, you are on the road a lot. Our sales guys are off traveling and visiting customers all the time. So, if you like to go around and see new places, this might be something you would like. Last week, some of our sales people were over in Europe. So it's not just traveling in the United States," Riley said.

Those who enjoy working with numbers might like to work in the finance department, while information technology might be the path for those with strong computer skills.

For students Madeline Struebing, J.J. Thull and Madelyn Thull, the Kondex tour was beneficial.

"It was cool. All three of us want to work here when we are 16," Madeline said.

Narrowing a career down to one field was challenging, though.

"They said if you are an engineer you can do different things every single day, and I think that would be cool, because I hate doing the same thing constantly," Madelyn said. "Working in marketing and going to trade shows would be fun, too."

J.J., who after touring Kondex is now interested in pursuing a job in marketing or customer service, said the trip opened his eyes to new possibilities.

"It was great. It actually kind of inspired me," he said.

Washington County Sheriff's Office Reports

House Fire

On Thursday, Jan. 21, at approximately 4:19 p.m., a neighbor notified the Washington County Sheriff's Office of a house fire located at 3023 El Camino Drive in the Town of Jackson.

Deputies and firefighters from the Jackson Fire Department were subsequently dispatched to the scene. Assistance was also requested from the Germantown, Jackson, Slinger, Richfield, West Bend, and Newburg Fire Departments. Life Star Ambulance service was also requested. Upon their arrival, emergency responders observed flames coming out of the rear of the house.

While the fire was brought under control, traffic was limited on El Camino Drive. No residents were home at the time of the fire, and no firefighters were injured during the extinguishment. A dog was found in the residence and taken to a 24-hour emergency veterinary clinic for smoke inhalation. Unfortunately, a second family pet perished as a result of the blaze. Damage to the home and contents is estimated at approximately $232,000.

The exact cause of the fire is currently unknown and the incident remains under investigation by Washington County Sheriff's Office Fire Investigators.

Residential Burglaries

The Washington County Sheriff Office continues to investigate two residential burglaries that occurred on January 19. The burglaries occurred in the 900 block of Western Avenue, (Town of Jackson) and 3000 block of Jackson Drive (Town of Jackson).

The Sheriff's Office also received a report of a suspicious vehicle occupied by two black males that went to a residence in the 2000 block of Scenic Road, (Village of Richfield), asking for directions to Highway 41. Deputies are investigating whether these incidents are related.

The vehicle involved in the suspicion complaint was described as: an older gray Toyota Avalon, with a spare tire (black rim) on the passenger rear. The vehicle was driven by a black male driver. The person that went to the door was described as a black male, about 20-30 years of age, dressed for the weather, and "frantically" ringing the doorbell.

If anyone has information on this vehicle or these cases, please contact the Detective Bureau at (262) 335-4406 or (262) 335-4407.

Moraine Park Offering Chance To "Test Drive" Careers

— Workshops Will Offer Hands-On Opportunities For Welding, CNC Machinists

Reading and hearing about new career opportunities is helpful. But what if you actually could try them out as well? Moraine Park Technical College is offering a unique opportunity to do just that with its new "Test Drive" workshops for welding and computerized numerical control (CNC).

Three CNC machining "Test Drive" workshops are being offered. The first two will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 2, from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., and 4:45 to 6:45 p.m. The third session will be Thursday, Feb. 4, from 4:45 to 6:45 p.m.

The welding "Test Drive" workshop will be held in the evening only, from 4:45 to 6:45 p.m. on both Tuesday, Feb. 2, and Thursday, Feb. 4.

Each free, two-hour workshop will be held at Moraine Park's Fond du Lac campus. Both the welding and CNC "Test Drive" workshops will give attendees insight into these respective careers; chances to meet potential employers; and provide valuable, hands-on opportunities to try out these career areas. This hands-on experience will include actually working with machines and tools to make a part, which can be taken home following the event.

"Test Drive is a unique opportunity for attendees to do more than just hear about a job in CNC machining or welding and walk into the lab. It will let attendees get their hands on machines and try it for themselves to see if this might be the right career for them," said JoAnn Hall, dean of economic and workforce development.

"It's a fun way to give a new career a try, rather than just see it on YouTube or hear about it from someone else."

Moraine Park's "Test Drive" isn't just about the workshops, there will also be a job fair, noted Hall.

"Attendees can talk with employers — who have jobs to fill right now — about job opportunities. If it turns out to be something they want to pursue, we have the training program to get them there."

Participants who attend "Test Drive" will also be able to learn about Moraine Park's short-term training boot camp opportunities. These boot camps offer a unique training opportunity to potential candidates by providing entry-level skills as well as job experience from these 13- to 15-week sessions. CNC Machining and Welding Boot Camps begin in early March 2016.

Space is limited for the "Test Drive" workshops, and pre-registration is required. Deadline to register is Monday, Feb. 1, at 12 p.m.

For more details on "Test Drive" or to register, visit morainepark.edu/bootcamp, or call Eileen Rottscholl at 920-924-3334.

Governor Walker Announces $108 Million In Payments To Local Governments

Governor Scott Walker announced that payments totaling more than $108 million for General Transportation Aids, Connecting Highway Aids and Expressway Policing Aids (http://wisconsin.gov/Pages/doing-bus/localgov/astnce-pgms/highway/gta.aspx) have been delivered to local governments from the Wisconsin Department of Transportation (WisDOT).

Payments to Wisconsin's 1,924 local units of government include: $104,905,169 in General Transportation Aids; $3,015,875 to municipalities entitled to receive Connecting Highway Aids; and $255,975 to Milwaukee County for Expressway Policing Aids.

For calendar year 2016, local governments will share an estimated $419 million from the state transportation fund to build and maintain local roads and bridges, which includes Expressway Policing Aids to the Milwaukee County Sheriff Department for patrol of Milwaukee expressways. Quarterly payments for cities, towns and villages are sent the first Monday in January, April, July and October.

County payments are made in three installments, with 25 percent of the total annual payment on the first Monday in January; 50 percent on the first Monday in July; and 25 percent on the first Monday in October.

General Transportation Aids help defray the costs of constructing, maintaining, and operating roads and streets under local jurisdiction. Connecting Highway Aids reimburse municipalities for maintenance and traffic control of certain state highways within municipalities.

Communities also receive state transportation fund revenues for public transit, elderly and disabled transportation, and airport and harbor development. In addition, state and federal funds are allocated for specific highway and bridge construction projects.

Area municipalities are receiving the following in state aid: Washington County, $1,996,202.17; Town of Ashford, $137,074.50; Town of Auburn, $98,341.32; Town of Barton, $101,886.54; Town of Farmington, $143,394.24; Town of Kewaskum, $83,786.10; Town of Osceola, $94,047.42; Town of Wayne, $125,381.88; and Village of Kewaskum, $174,589.76.

A member of the Shining Stars dance team performs during half-time of the high school boys basketball game that pitted Campbellsport High School against Kewaskum High School on Tuesday, Jan. 19. ## Two Stroebel Bills Pass Wisconsin State Senate — Bills Have Direct Impact On 20th Senate District

Two bills authored by Senator Ducey Stroebel (R-Cedarburg) passed the Wisconsin State Senate today and will have a direct impact on the 20th Senate District.

Assembly Bill 362 – County Health Merger Bill

Washington and Ozaukee Counties have begun merging their respective health departments. This bill provides the pathway to do so and improve efficiencies within their counties. The department's name will be "Washington Ozaukee Public Health Department" and the Intergovernmental Agreement is anticipated to be signed sometime around late February. This merger has strong support from overwhelming majorities on both county boards.

"State legislators constantly talk about the need for more efficiencies, streamlined services, and smaller government. This bill accomplishes all of these laudable goals. It is encouraging to see local leaders stepping forward with creative solutions to the use of taxpayer resources. When such opportunities present themselves, the State should do everything it can to serve as a partner in such efforts," Stroebel stated.

The bill heads to the Governor's desk for his signature.

Senate Bill 463 – Alpine Sports Bill

The bill expands the Ski Safety Act to other Alpine sports including downhill mountain biking. The 20th Senate District boasts two ski hills (Little Switzerland and Sunburst). The bill creates uniformity and standardization and enhances the growth of this emerging sport for the industry.

The bill impacts summer mountain biking at Little Switzerland in Slinger. Last season, downhill biking was open for six days. Each event grew with more and more attendees culminating with over 200 people participating from all over the Midwest, including participants from every boarder state.

"The tourism industry is important to Wisconsin during all seasons. This bill helps some of our state's small business owners turn a once seasonal business into a year-round opportunity.

"As a legislature, we have allowed once seasonal businesses create a year-round business model that improves tourism for Wisconsin, the 20th Senate District, and Slinger," said Senator Stroebel.

The bill heads to the Assembly for consideration.

DWD Introduces New Job Center Of Wisconsin.com Enhancements

Wisconsin Department of Workforce Development (DWD) Secretary Reggie Newson announced additional improvements are now available on the recently redesigned JobCenterofWisconsin.com (JCW) website, the state's free online public labor exchange that connects talent with opportunity 24 hours a day.

"This second phase of enhancements builds upon the new design, advanced skills matching and improved usability that we rolled out last September on JobCenterofWisconsin.com," Secretary Newson said. "Now, the site offers even more tools that move JobCenterofWisconsin.com toward the ultimate vision of a best-in-class system that not only benefits job seekers and employers, but also connects parents, teachers, counselors, economic developers, workforce partners and others to the latest available labor market data.

"Users can easily explore careers, view occupational wage data, find jobs that are in-demand with great pay, and pinpoint locations in Wisconsin with skilled talent that employers need."

The second phase of enhancements debuting on this free, online resource includes:

•The introduction of MyLMI, which allows users to customize, access, and store searches of labor market information to explore careers and drive employment

Scholarship Opportunities Available Through The Wisconsin 4-H Foundation – Applications For Scholarship Awards Due March 15

The Wisconsin 4-H Foundation plans to award more than $10,000 in scholarships to outstanding Wisconsin students pursuing undergraduate degrees in 2016. To be considered for financial support, applications must be received by the Wisconsin 4-H Foundation by March 15.

Wisconsin 4-H Foundation scholarships are awarded to students based on demonstrated personal growth, development and leadership, academic performance, financial need and future educational goals.

"The generosity of our donors makes these scholarships possible," said Brenda Scheider, director of development for the foundation.

Changes have been made to the application process to make it easier and more efficient for students to apply. To apply, interested 4-H youth need to submit an application consisting of a resume, cover letter, list of 4-H projects in which participated and recent photo, preferably at a 4-H event or working on a 4-H project. Applications should be limited to three pages and, along with the photo, submitted to and received by the Wisconsin 4-H Foundation on or before March 15. All applications must be submitted by email to info@wis4hfoundation.org.

To be eligible for these scholarships, students must: have been a 4-H member for at least one year; have a grade point average of at least 2.5 on a 4.0 scale; be enrolled or planning to enroll in a university, college or technical school during the 2016-2017 academic school year.

"The generous support of our donors allows us to recognize and provide financial assistance to numerous students throughout the state," says Jim Reid, president of the Wisconsin 4-H Foundation. "Awarding these scholarships is one way the Wisconsin 4-H Foundation continues its mission to invest in positive development of 4-H youth by helping them obtain their long-term goals of higher education."

Two teams of youth development professionals will review the applications and select finalists. The Wisconsin 4-H Foundation then will assign available scholarships to the top-ranking applications based on individual scholarship criteria.

Applicants awarded scholarships will be notified by mail in May.

Energy Saving Tips From Appliance Gallery

As another frigid Wisconsin winter is upon us, many people are inclined to stay inside, turn up the heat, cook comfort food, and ultimately use more energy. With that in mind, Appliance Gallery, Wisconsin's premier appliance store, provides tips on how to save energy and money.

Refrigerator: Keeping your refrigerator and freezer colder than necessary uses an excess amount of energy. The recommended temperature for refrigerators is 34-40 degrees Fahrenheit.

"You can check the temperature by leaving a glass of water in the center of your refrigerator overnight. Then, measure the temperature with an appliance thermometer the next day," said Ralph DeNisco with Appliance Gallery.

Also, defrosting food the night before will also help cool down the refrigerator and reduce its power consumption.

Stove: Winter months are filled with cooking hearty meals to warm up after a long, cold day, resulting in more energy usage. To combat this, use lids on pots and pans to allow you to cook at a lower setting and use less energy.

"Make sure you are using a burner that is similar in size to the pot so heat isn't lost and wasted," DeNisco said. "It is also helpful to shut off the oven a few minutes before the food is done, letting the oven heat finish the job for you."

Microwaves are an alternative for smaller meals, as they only use one-third as much energy as conventional stoves.

Dishwasher: More cooking leads to more dishes. One way to achieve energy-efficiency is to load as many dishes as possible while making sure the dishes are not touching.

Skip the soaking and pre-washing of your dishes and simply scrape off large pieces of food instead. Modern dishwashers are highly efficient at removing food residue without needing to be soaked first.

Many newer dishwashers also have energy saving features, including those from Asko, Bosch, KitchenAid, Miele, and Whirlpool, which you will find at Appliance Gallery.

Washer/Dryer: Winter brings on extra layers that need to be washed. The dryer uses the most energy of all the appliances, so it is important to be conscious about how you utilize it.

"Nearly 90 percent of the energy used by your washing machine is to heat the water," said DeNisco. "Try washing your clothes in cold water with cold-water detergents whenever possible."

Make sure you clean the dryer lint screen after every use to maximize efficiency and reduce chances of fire.

When looking to replace or upgrade your appliances, look for the Energy Star label. Energy Star is the government-backed program that makes it easy to identify energy efficient appliances.

"For example, Energy Star refrigerators use 20 percent less energy than required by current federal standards," DeNisco said. "Dishwashers with Energy Star labels use 4.25 gallons of water per cycle, compared to the 10 gallons per use coming from dishwashers purchased before 1994. Clothes dryers that are Energy Star certified use 35 percent less water and 20 percent less energy than standard washers."

Energy Star appliances also reduce greenhouse gases and energy bills while still performing at high standards.

Wiskirchen Hits 28; Indians Start Second Round With A Win

By Judy Harlow

By successfully handling Ripon's pressure, the Kewaskum High girls' basketball team was able to avenge an earlier loss to the Tigers and start the second half of its conference season with a victory.

The first time around, it was Ripon winning in overtime 63-60, but this time, it was the Indians prevailing 48-42.

There was not a lot of difference between the two games, according to KHS coach Russ Thull, who said, "We actually controlled the first game for more of the game, as we held a 10+ advantage for the majority of it." This time, "We found ourselves in the same position, just over a minute left and up eight," Thull went on. The Indians kept their poise and did not give the Tigers any extra, easy opportunities.

Kewaskum jumped out front 12-1, but the Tigers fought back to get as close as six, 22-16, and went on a little run to close the half to within four points with eight seconds remaining. Then the Indians' Lizzy Bauer hit a long two-point bucket at the buzzer, her only points of the night, which gave Kewaskum some momentum back.

"I felt it was a big shot for us because we were stuck on 20 points for five minutes, and it allowed Ripon to gain some confidence," Thull said, pleased his team reacted well to some zone defenses in this game. "And we were finishing. I thought the girls really moved the ball well and showed some patience to find the look we wanted."

One look the Indians wanted was for Sammie Wiskirchen to get the ball inside, and she did, scoring 28 points, hitting 13x17 shots, going 2x2 at the free throw line and grabbing 18 rebounds.

"I could go on and on about Sammie Wiskirchen and what she means to our team on the floor," Thull said. "I am going to tell you that I could not be more proud of what she does on the court for us but Sammie's stat lines and season totals don't come close to what she means to this team off the floor. She doesn't ever take plays off, not in games, not in practice. She is a leader!! She is a great teammate! She sets the energy level of every practice. When you talk about trying to build a culture in our program of what we expect, she models it day in and day out."

Helping out in all areas of the game were juniors Mikayla Dogs and Hailey Herriges. Dogs had nine points, four rebounds, four assists and only two turnovers. "Probably one of Mikayla's overall best games," Thull said. "I don't think Mikayla gets enough credit at times for what she does on the floor. She has the hardest job offensively with handling pressure and getting us into our offense. She really played a smart game and kept us organized."

Herriges scored seven points and hauled in 10 rebounds. Hailey's stat line is minimal compared to her contribution. If you remember, she went out with a concussion last time we played Ripon. Partially the reason we struggled with handling pressure at the end of that game," Thull said. "She made a big difference for us as we were able to hold our lead and handle the pressure this time around. She also did a nice job on Marissa Bunge," holding her to 15 points, five under her average.

While all these stats were great, the one Thull liked the best was seeing his Indians have 17 assists. "I think this is a season high," he said, reporting Molly Schulteis had five, and Dogs, Bauer and Herriges each chipped in with four.

The win gives the Indians a 2-5 EC record, 6-8 overall. After a home game against Campbellsport on January 26, the Indians travel to Berlin tomorrow (Friday) night.

Kewaskum 41, West Bend West 38

The Indians gained a season-split with the West Bend schools on January 18, beating visiting West Bend West 41-38 and ending their four-game losing streak.

"We led for the entire game, minus West tying the game with four minutes left," Thull said.

The key to the victory, according to Thull, was slowing down Spartan ace, Alex Rondorf, who was held to 17 points. "Hailey Herriges was matched up on Alex Rondorf. Alex scored 17 points but had to earn every one of them," the coach said, adding, "Alex is an unbelievable talent ... her ability to shoot off ball screens, set shot, a step back is probably the best I have ever seen."

Thull liked the defensive efforts of his own player, saying, "I thought Hailey held her own. We did not give Alex many good looks. Hailey also hit some big shots for us," scoring 12 points, including two baskets from beyond the arc. Also chipping in with three-pointers were Bre Trepes and Molly Schulteis, whose lone three "put us up for good."

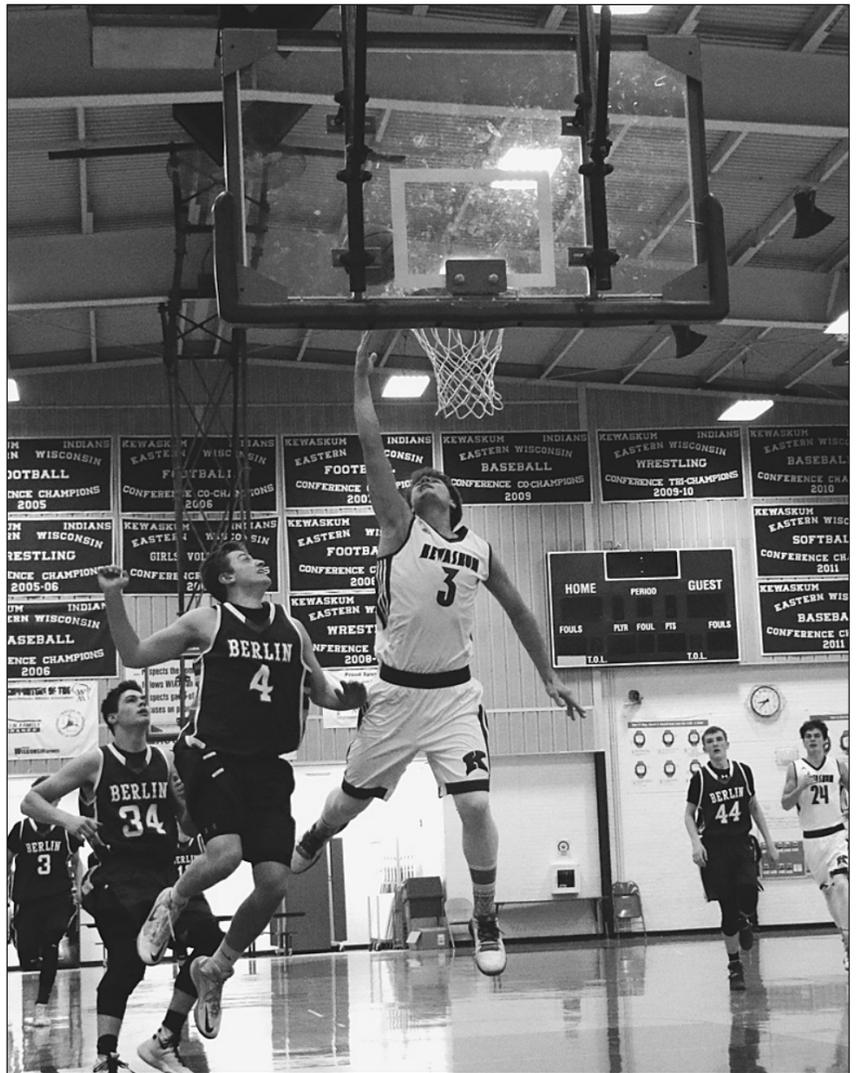

"It was encouraging to see the Indians shoot four of nine from three," Thull said. "We have struggled from outside, so it was good to see that a few fell tonight."

Wiskirchen, who drew plenty of attention from the Spartans, finished with a double, scoring 10 points while hauling down 11 rebounds.

Kewaskum Indians Pitch A Wrestling Shutout

By Judy Harlow

The Kewaskum High wrestlers closed out their East Central Conference dual meet season in grand style, crushing visiting Plymouth 76-0.

The January 21 match started at 195 pounds, and after Ben Watzig received his forfeit, three others Indians walked to the mat to have their arm raised indicating wins because the Panthers had no entrants at those weights.

So the Indians started out 24-0, then the avalanche continued as the next seven Indians won by pin or decision until there was another forfeit at 160. Eduardo Padilla and Eric Doll secured the shutout with wins at 170 and 182.

Freshmen Eric Bauer and Alex Deheck both came away with wins to improve to 6-0 in EW action and 33-1 and 28-5 at 120 and 126 pounds, respectively. Bauer wore down Will Birkholz, piling up seven points in the final period with a takedown and two near falls before pinning him in 5:59.

Deheck had more of a battle on his hands with Pablo Lopez. In the first period, he scored a takedown, then used a cradle for a 5-0 advantage.

Deheck chose the down position in the second period and could not score a reverse against Lopez, but Lopez managed to score a reversal in the third, so Deheck left the mat with a 5-2 win.

Probably the most exciting match came at 152 where Danny Seitz duelled Erik Ohman, one of few experienced wrestlers in Plymouth's lineup. Ohman got a takedown for a 2-0 lead, but Seitz selected the up position to start the second, quickly threw in a cradle and put Ohman to his back in 2:44, much to the delight of those who came to celebrate Alumni and Youth Club Night.

"That was going to be a tough match for Danny," KHS coach Scott Rhoads said. "I didn't anticipate he would win" but happy he did.

Rhoads also praised Eddie Padilla for his pin at 170. "He's doing a great job out there," the coach said of the freshman.

With the win, the Indians finished at 5-1 — there are just seven schools in the EC with wrestling programs — and now await the outcome of the Campbellsport and Ripon match. Should the Cougars win, they will finish the season unbeaten but if they lose to once-beaten Ripon, there will be three teams with 5-1 marks.

In the old Eastern Wisconsin Conference, there were plaques for the dual meet champions and the tournament champions but Rhoads wasn't sure how the EC was operating. "We get points for our dual meet placement," he said, thinking it was combined with the placement from the tournament.

KHS Athletic Director Jason Piittmann confirmed that is the format to be used, so if Campbellsport should lose to Ripon, the tournament champion would probably win the conference title.

The EC Conference Tournament is at Berlin on Saturday, Feb. 6. KHS enters the meet with six unbeaten wrestlers. Bauer, Deheck, Zach Heberer and all 6-0, while Mike Bryngelson is 4-0 and Cole Rahlf and Watzig (13-1 overall) are both 3-0.

Kewaskum 76, Plymouth 0

195 Ben Watzig won by forfeit; 220 Mike Bryngelson won by forfeit; 285 Riley Donovan won by forfeit; 106 Nathaniel Droese won by forfeit; 113 Adam Bruss def. Connor Schmidt, 8-2; 120 Eric Bauer pinned Will Birkholz, 5:59; 126 Alex Deheck dec. Pablo Lopez, 5-2; 132 Tanner Goeman pinned Kai Gahagan, 3:41; 138 Zach Heberer won by major decision over Josh Koll, 9-0; 145 Cole Rahlf pinned Ben Meyer, 0:30; 152 Danny Seitz pinned Erik Ohman, 2:44; 160 Sam Larson won by forfeit; 170 Eduardo Padilla pinned Kyle Schwibinger, 3:06; 182 Eric Doll pinned Jesus Guzman, 3:50.

Kewaskum Boys Even A Score With Campbellsport

By Judy Harlow

A report card for the Kewaskum boys basketball team's efforts against Campbellsport would look like this: team defense — A; passing — A-; free throw shooting — A; overall shooting — A; and three-point shooting — A+.

For their efforts, the Indians earned a 72-63 victory over arch rival and the team that knocked them out of the D-2 playoffs last season, a 68-65 overtime defeat that lingered in the minds of some of the KHS players, including Charlie Witek, who scored 30 points but missed a shot in the final seconds that would have tied the score.

"It's been in the back of my mind since last February," Witek said after the January 19 win in which he poured in 24 points and hauled down eight rebounds. "We came out and shot well," and that usually produces victories.

KHS had two big scorers in this game. In addition to Witek, junior Brady Hanson had a great outing, starting out with two long-range bombs in the first 2:30 of the game, helping the Indians jump out to a 15-5 lead.

The Indians only missed one shot in seven minutes as Witek, Hanson and Sam Schlosser scored nine, nine and five points, respectively, for a 23-12 advantage which they stretched to 43-25 at half.

And was Hanson thinking during warmups he was going to go on a three-point shooting spree? "Honestly, not really," Hanson responded, but once the game started, "The guys were giving me some good passes. I just had to finish them."

Campbellsport's big scorers, Koy Walsh and Tanner Ramthun, combined for 13 points in the first half while reserve Sonny Johnson put on quite a show, chipping in with eight. Still, being 18 points down was too tall an order for the Cougars who couldn't overcome Kewaskum's 60-percent from three-point land (9x15) and 58 percent from inside the arc (18x31). Kewaskum was also good at the foul line, only missing two of 11 tries.

The Cougars started the second half with a 6-0 run, but then Michael Prochnow scored on a putback, Witek added a free throw and Prochnow and Hanson hit back-to-back baskets — Hanson's was a three-pointer — and the Indians were out front 51-34.

"This is fun. It's good to get a (East Central) conference win," a smiling KHS coach Don Gruber said afterward. "Man the basket was big tonight, and everything looks good when that happens."

"Brady started out hot. Charlie followed with a couple of threes... I thought we played as a team tonight," the coach said.

The Indians also stepped up their defense. "Actually, I thought our defense was better in the second half (than the first)," Gruber went on, citing Devyn Zillmer, who is not much of a scorer, who led the charge. "Devyn played great defense, not letting guys beat him to their spots. He was beating them to the spots."

Another plus was "We did a good job stopping their curl cuts in their motion," Gruber said, adding his players are getting more excited about which man leads the team in assists after a game. "I love that attitude," he said.

After Hanson and Witek's 25 and 24, Schlosser chipped in with 13, Prochnow was next with eight points, and he contributed nine assists. Johnson topped the CHS with 18 points.

"A great team effort all the way around," Witek said. "It's a confidence booster." Hanson agreed. "I think so ... Ever since Kettle Moraine Lutheran, we've been on a roll," he said.

Kewaskum Boys Overcome Low-scoring First Half

By Judy Harlow

The Kewaskum High boys basketball team had a frustrating first half against Berlin last Friday night, but luckily the Indians had 18 more minutes to get their offense on track. They did just that and went on to secure a 51-44 victory.

Coach Don Gruber must have thought he was having a nightmare in the first half, which ended with Berlin leading 14-9.

Yes, three nights after scoring 43 points in the first half of action at Campbellsport, the Indians managed just nine points.

Things got a lot better in the second half ... a whole lot better in fact, to the tune of 42 points which helped the Indians get the "W" to move up to 3-4 in the East Central Conference and 6-7 overall.

"They played man-to-man and put three guys in the lane so we weren't able to get inside," KHS coach Don Gruber said about the slow start by his team. "We got some good shots in the first half but we didn't make many."

Gruber said the visitors didn't put anyone on Devyn Zillmer, who had several scoring opportunities but was only able to capitalize on one of them. Others didn't shoot much better.

At the start of the second half, the Indians passed the ball around, then found Michael Prochnow open in the wing, and, according to Gruber, "That kind of got the lid off (the basket)."

Kewaskum battled to take a 21-19 lead, then, Gruber said, Berlin tied the game, Kewaskum surged ahead 26-21, and Berlin came back a second time to tie it at 26.

The Indians shot out front again at 36-26, and this time, it was for good. Gruber reported Brady Hanson, Sam Schlosser and reserve Trent Griesemer all contributed key three-pointers, while Prochnow swished a traditional two-pointer in helping to break the game open.

"It was a hard fought game," Gruber said, adding, "We played really good defense. The guys really stayed at it."

KHS had three players in double figures, Hanson with 14, Prochnow with 11 and Schlosser 10. Schlosser was the sniper in the group, hitting three of his shots from long range. Hanson was the rebound leader with an even dozen.

Griesemer chipped in with six points, which were an important contribution to the victory. "Trent hit a big three to put us up by five points," Gruber said, adding the 5-11 senior hit three of four free throws down the stretch. The other Indians had troubles connecting on their free throws, making just four of 15.

Charlie Witek was held to a season-low five points. He was the target of the Berlin defense in the middle, and Gruber said he let Witek sit for a while after he picked up a technical for pushing one of the Berlin players, who had knocked Schlosser to the floor.

Gruber said Sam was trying to set a screen when a visiting Indian — both teams have the same nickname — "threw him to the ground," prompting the retaliation. While the KHS coach liked the show of loyalty, he said, "It's got to be done within the rules."

Berlin was led by Brady Polk and Peter Bruce-Allington, who combined for 29 points.

Kewaskum starts the second round of EC action tomorrow night while it entertains Plymouth, which is tied for fourth place with the Indians at 3-4. Plymouth had lost three of its last four conference games, including an 11-point decision to Berlin.

"I think we're playing better than when we played them the first time," Gruber said, confident his team will get the win this time.

Post Season Update On Kewaskum Football Standout

By Judy Harlow

A little update on Kewaskum High's football standout Brandon Thull ...

Thull, the Indians' all-time leading rusher who gained 2,161 yards last fall, underwent surgery on January 15 to repair his torn ACL and has already one session of therapy on the repaired knee.

"I'm doing pretty good right now," Thull said from his home on Sunday. "I'm recovering, and tomorrow (January 25) I go back to school."

Thull said the surgery took about an hour and a half, and the surgeon, Dr.

Carol E. Vetter, told him it went very well, and, "I should have a full recovery."

Thull was able to go home the same day as the surgery, and currently he is getting around with the use of crutches. "I should be on the crutches two to three weeks, maybe less," he said.

Last Thursday, Thull was taken to Milwaukee for his first therapy session. He said the therapist "did simple stuff," including stretching and leg risers.

While he was at home after the surgery, Thull said "A lot of them (teammates) came to visit. It was nice."

The National Signing Day is coming up on February 4, but Thull will not be committing to any school at that time. "No decision has been made yet," he said.

When asked if he was going to watch the NFC and AFC championship football games Sunday afternoon, Thull answered, "Oh, for sure!" And who was he rooting for? "The Panthers," he said with conviction, and about the AFC title game, hesitated a bit, then added, "Hmm, Denver."

Slinger Speedway Awards Banquet Closes 67th Season

By Fay Hendricks

Six Slinger Speedway champions were celebrated Friday night as the historic track ended its 67th year of racing.

Co-promoters Todd Thelen and Rodney Erickson greeted all and thanked everyone for another great season of racing. Awards and door prizes were greatly appreciated by those in attendance, and many basked in the warmth of friendship long after the ceremony ended.

Slinger can be proud of the fact that 19 of its champions have been inducted into the Southeastern Wisconsin Short Track Hall of Fame, as well as track owner Wayne Erickson and flagger Dick Witt. By earning his third consecutive super late model title, Steve Apel joined four other Slinger champions and Hall of Fame members by achieving that hallmark at least once.

Apel began by thanking his crew, "We were on our own for the first time and a lot of them stuck by me. My wife had our first child and having him with me is awesome."

Referring to the title that came down to the last race, Apel added, "The last night of the season was packed like it was Slamfest. Fans wanted to see who would win, me or Dennis (Prunty). These drivers push me to be better. My worst finish was ninth. This whole year wouldn't have been possible if the track wasn't still around. I raced four-cylinders here when I was 14, and I never raced before that in my life. To have watched Al Schill, Robbie Reiser, Conrad Morgan and Lowell Bennett earn three in a row is something I never thought possible."

Ending with thanks to his family and crew, Apel gave credit to Team 16 owners Dan and Sonya DelCamp for getting him started in the first place. Also taking home the Pepsi Challenge Series title, Apel told the audience, "We'll be back at Slinger every week."

Dennis Prunty achieved his goal of winning the elusive Slinger Nationals, but fell short of the track title with mechanical problems on the final night.

"Racing is like everything else in life. You learn from your mistakes. It was awesome to win that $1600 in lap money (in Slinger Nationals race), and I hope they do it again. Congratulations to Steve Apel. Everybody thinks we're enemies, but that's not true. I love Slinger Speedway, and I'll be there as much as I can," Prunty said.

Danny Church was Rookie of the Year, claiming, "Moving up to the super late models was going to be a tough time. I've been watching a lot of them since I was in high school. I kind of struggled. It was basically a learning season for me. This is my favorite race track. I've raced probably 25 different tracks, dirt and asphalt, and Slinger is my favorite."

Alex Prunty earned his second Late Model title at Slinger, and said, "What a year. I can't thank my dad enough." With thanks to his younger brother for helping all season, Prunty ended with, "See you next year."

Runner-up Mike Held provided a humorous moment by taking the podium.

"What can you say about second place? Second sucks. We had some bad luck and some good luck. To finish second to a Prunty isn't bad at all," Held said.

Jordan DeVoy earned top rookie honors and thanked everyone he could think of, the third-generation racer looking forward to better things.

Brian Holtz earned his first Midwest Sportsman title, stating, "Thanks to everybody for an awesome year. Giving a nod to his crew and sponsors, Holtz gave special thanks to one, "He came back from Florida just for this. That's awesome." Bob Hamel, probably the oldest in this division, was honored to be named Rookie of the Year.

Scott Goetzke earned an unprecedented eighth championship in the Figure 8 division, providing the shortest acceptance speech of the night, "Thanks." That was a lot for the taciturn racer.

Runner-up Ron Schmitt was more loquacious. "This was probably the worst year I ever had, and I finished second," Schmitt began, referring to wrecking often. "I had a guy come to my house every week to do welding on my car. That modified is gone."

The upcoming season will see Schmitt in a different mount and Goetzke return one more year.

Second-generation racer Nick Egan earned the Area Sportsman championship. Thanking his family, crew and sponsors, Egan added, "This is an expensive hobby to have. Even though some people don't think racing's a sport, they don't know. It's been a crazy year. I never thought we'd be in this position. We're a big group of friends, basically, even if it doesn't look like it. It was a great year. We're looking forward to more."

Andy Welter finished second in the points, claiming, "I had the most fun I ever had. I wouldn't trade it for anything." Scott Hoeft claimed Rookie of the Year honors, and all gave thanks to their supporters.

Tom Berens earned his first Slinger Bees title, stating, "It was probably my best season ever. I think last year there's been more close racing than ever. I wasn't the fastest car out there, but I had a lot of good finishes."

Young EJ Waldron claimed top Rookie honors, claiming, "I didn't have a very good year." With his voice changing this year, this was Waldron's very first speech. Joined by even younger brother, the youth movement has a way of making the others feel really old.

Other highlights of the evening came from the Super Late Model drivers.

Lowell Bennett received the Hard Luck Award from Rocky Rococo's on Brown Deer Rd and was grateful for the $500 bonus cash, saying, "This is a big surprise. I won this one during the season, too."

Finishing 10th in the point standings, Bennett later thanked the safety crew. "When you have a really bad wreck you know how good they are," claimed Bennett, adding, "I had a pretty bad year at Slinger, but a good one at Kaukauna (WIR). Next year will be my 40th race year."

The ageless Jerry Eckhardt told the audience, "It was quite an honor for the track to honor my fiftieth year in racing. I'm not done yet. I'm going to race at least another year."

James Swan stood in for friend Rob Braun, who couldn't make it, claiming, "We're all entertainers. I come here because we're all friends, too."

Conrad Morgan admitted, "I'm not really pleased with seventh in the points. I guess after all these years it averages out. I guarantee things will be better next year."
