Sheep At Large In The Village Of Kewaskum

By Anne Trautner

On Tuesday, June 28, workers for the Village of Kewaskum sprang into action to catch a sheep named Tipper that had escaped from Kewaskum Frozen Foods more than a week earlier.

Tipper was one of four white sheep that had escaped on June 20 when they were being delivered to the meat market.

One of the sheep was captured shortly after escaping. Two more were caught later that evening.

Tipper remained at large.

As village residents spotted Tipper throughout the week, there were various leads as to her whereabouts.

She was fairly easy to spot, as she was the only white sheep running around the village. An added identifying marker was the fact that she was partially sheared.

Tipper's owner, Eric Fix, a farmer from Mequon, said that whoever caught Tipper would be rewarded. He would let the finders keep Tipper so they could have lamb chops for themselves.

Still, Tipper remained elusive.

Then, at about 8 a.m. on June 28, Tipper was sighted in the woods behind the Kewaskum Statesman building on Fond du Lac Avenue.

Dennis Aupperle and Gus Karoses of the village's Department of Public Works joined Kewaskum Police Officer Barry Granrath to try to capture the lost sheep.

There was no pulling the wool over Tipper's eyes, and she seemed to know that if she were caught, it would mean going back to the meat market. Tipper ran from the men, who were not armed with a tranquilizer and who had never gone through any sheep herding training.

Tipper headed south and onto the public works property. Ben Propson, lead plant operator at the village's wastewater treatment plant, locked the gate behind Tipper, confining her to the premises.

The crew went on to chase the animal, Propson and Karoses riding on a golf cart, while Aupperle chased Tipper in his red pickup truck, attempting to corner Tipper between the two vehicles.

Village employees Matt Thelen and Max Heiser left their posts in one of the Public Works buildings to assist with the chase.

Granrath did not have his radar gun on him, so he was not able to clock how fast Tipper ran, but the employees all agreed that Tipper was fast.

Finally, the long chase wore Tipper down, and she collapsed from exhaustion.

Karoses put a rope around Tipper's neck to hold her captive, and Granrath called in to headquarters to report that Tipper had been apprehended.

Fix was notified, and he was thrilled that his lost sheep had been found.

Fix decided that since Tipper had been through so much and had fought so hard for her life, he would bring her back to Mequon to live on his farm.

Donation Gives Breath Of Life To Animals Rescued From Fires

By Anne Trautner

When fire breaks out, animals instinctively look for a place to hide, even if that means finding a spot in a smoke-filled room.

"Farmers are well aware of that. Cattle panic and run back into a burning barn," said Dr. Jay Triick, a veterinarian at the Country Veterinary Clinic in Rubicon.

To help save those animals from smoke inhalation, first responders from the Allenton Fire Department have pet oxygen masks.

The pet oxygen mask kits were recently donated to the fire department from Invisible Fence® Brand as part of a program called Project Breathe, a national effort to equip fire stations across the United States and Canada with equipment to help save the lives of pets.

Although the U.S. Fire Administration does not have any official statistics, industry web sites and sources have cited an estimated 40,000 to 150,000 pets each year that die in fires; most succumbing to smoke inhalation, according to Christina Landwehr, spokesperson for Invisible Fence Brand. The hope is that the oxygen masks will help reduce that number.

"We are very excited about this program," said Jeremy Panizza, development and marketing specialist for the Wisconsin Veterinary Medical Association.

Panizza, along with Triick, recently visited first responders at the Allenton Fire Department to demonstrate how to use the oxygen masks, as well as to present additional pet saving tips to the first responders.

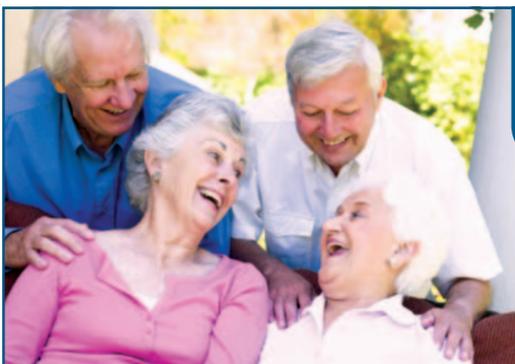

The first thing to do when helping an animal is to take precautions to not get bitten, Triick said.

TNT And Little Folks Work To Entertain And Inspire Healthy Habits

"Is Mr. Steven coming today?!?"

That was a question heard throughout the week from boys and girls alike attending Little Folks School Club Summer Program.

Steven Knuth from TNT Fitness Results in West Bend has visited the school-aged children several times this summer to teach them that fitness can be fun. He taught the children different exercises and games including an obstacle course to get their hearts pumping. He also taught a little bit about nutrition and healthy habits such as eating two fruits a day.

Knuth believes "it is important at a young age for children to learn to enjoy exercise, and to practice it correctly. It allows for children to develop new motor skills and control, and sets them up for success in their futures."

TNT Fitness Results is located inside the Kettle Moraine Ice Center in West Bend. They offer personal training as well as Functional Fitness classes utilizing kettlebells, battle ropes, TRX suspension trainers, and more. TNT is gearing up to run their "Kettlebell Kids" program.

Village Board Broods About Ducks And Chickens

By Anne Trautner

Village board members called fowl on the pet ducks that Christine and Colin Hartnett have been keeping at their home in Kewaskum.

The Hartnetts spoke at a village board meeting on June 20 to discuss the issue of raising ducks at village residences.

Current ordinance does not allow keeping, raising or possessing chickens or ducks at residences within the village.

The village plan commission discussed the idea of changing the ordinance to allow urban chickens in the village earlier this year, but decided against it.

The Hartnetts said they were not aware of the ordinance when they began raising ducks in May.

"Duck eggs are healthier than chicken eggs, which is why I wanted ducks. They have two times the nutritional value. They have more Omega 3, which help develop brains, and I have plenty of brains I have to grow," said Christine Hartnett, who is the mother of six.

Duck eggs also have health benefits for people with cancer, and people who are allergic to eggs can usually tolerate duck eggs, Christine Hartnett claimed.

Hartnett said that leftover eggs could be donated to the Kewaskum Food Pantry to help other families as well.

One of the biggest benefits of the ducks has been the impact they have had on the Hartnetts' 13-year-old daughter, Kayla.

"I find them to be very therapeutic for my oldest daughter," Colin Hartnett said. "Ever since we got these birds, her attitude has changed, her demeanor has changed she's more pleasant to be around."

In addition, the home-grown duck eggs are healthier than store-bought eggs, Christine Hartnett said.

The same is true for chicken eggs, according to Theresa Young, who is moving to the Village of Kewaskum in July. Young has been raising chickens for 10 years and would like to move her chickens with her.

Both chicken and duck manure make excellent fertilizer for gardens, Christine Hartnett and Young said.

The village could get money from permit fees, but there are many other benefits as well, Young said.

"They make great pets. They are very educational. The eggs are nutritious, they are cheap. They keep all the bugs out of my yard," Young said. "My hens are quiet and I don't have a problem with noise."

"I think they are great," Colin Hartnett said.

But all the clucking about the benefits about raising feathered animals did not persuade the board.

"I look at it this way. If you want to have chickens and you want to have ducks, you should be out in the country, not in the village," Village Trustee Jim Wright said.

Picnickers enjoy the swim pond at Kiwanis Park on Sunday, June 26. The village is considering replacing the pond with a pool and/or splash pad. The pool committee meets next to discuss the pond's future on July 12.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor,

It's that time of year - flowers are blooming, gardens are growing and bees and wasps are building nests. Every year, our carriers suffer painful and for some, potentially life threatening bee and wasp stings. While these insects provide a necessary function, nests in mailboxes increase the odds that a carrier will be stung.

The Post Office is asking for the help of all our customers. If you see a nest forming in your mailbox, please use caution, but remove it. Your mail carrier has spray to use on any nests in outgoing mail receptacles, but does not use it in your box to avoid damage to your mail. If you spray after you remove your mail, the box will be dry and ready for the next day's delivery.

Another way to help is to be sure that any plantings of flowers and tall grasses around your box are kept trimmed away from the receptacle.

We wish all our customers a safe and fun summer, and ask that you help us to have the same.

Sincerely,
Hope Lewitzke,

Volunteer Center Recognizes Kewaskum Resident

The Volunteer Center of Washington County awarded Kewaskum resident Nikki Busalacchi the "Power of One" award for singlehandedly creating change for the better through her volunteer efforts.

Busalacchi was cited for her positive attitude and compassion for families facing autism. Busalacchi's attitude is rooted in her own family's experience raising twin sons, Nate and Ben, who have autism.

To help, Busalacchi launched On the Spectrum, a support group based in Kewaskum. The needs of these families were further met when Busalacchi spearheaded the Autism Awareness 5K in 2015, an event with more than 525 participants in its first year. This event was so big that the this year's 5K had to be moved to the Washington County Fair Park.

The award was sponsored by the Prescott Family Foundation.

The vehicle then went across the road, ran into one tree, sheared it off and spun and struck a second tree. The right front door was wrapped around the tree and the vehicle was damaged beyond repair.

FIREWORKS SAFETY

If fireworks are legal in your area, please follow these safety tips. Adults should always supervise any fireworks activities. Never allow young children to ignite fireworks; even sparklers, which may seem harmless, can burn as hot as 1,800 degrees. Fireworks should only be used far away from homes, trees or any other flammable materials. Keep a hose or bucket of water nearby to extinguish faulty fireworks. Do not attempt to relight fireworks that fail; wait 20 minutes and soak them in water. When attending public displays, stay well behind safety barriers.

Hundreds Turn Out For Holy Trinity Open House

By Anne Trautner

More than 300 people walked through Holy Trinity's new parish center on June 25 and 26 to see the progress that is being made on the building, which is still under construction.

People made their mark on the building's studs, writing messages of love for the parish, as well as sentiments of hope for the community's future. The messages will be covered with drywall, but they will remain there in the support beams, holding the building up both figuratively and literally.

Some of the visitors drove to Holy Trinity after Mass at St. Michael's parish on Saturday, June 25.

Later that night, a heavy rainstorm came through the area. Because there is not yet a roof on the building, the floor was covered with water on Sunday morning.

Parishioners pitched in to brush the water into floor drains when they visited the building Sunday morning.

The new building encompasses 13,000 square feet. It will contain a gymnasium, restrooms, changing rooms, a cafeteria, a kitchen and parish offices.

The new gymnasium will hold side and full volleyball and basketball courts. The basketball court will be the standard size for a middle school gym, and the main basketball hoops will be able to be lowered to 8 feet to accommodate younger students.

"The We Believe campaign was too big for us individually, or the staff, or the steering committee. It was something that could only be accomplished with God's grace, with a big dose of confidence and belief, and with all of us working together," said Jim Wessing, a chairperson of the "We Believe" campaign.

The campaign, which the parish has been running for the last several months, had three financial goals: $1.75 million, $2 million and $2.5 million.

As of June 25, the parish had received more than $3 million in financial gifts, pledges and contributed goods and services contributed, Wessing said.

To date, $1,681,776 has been collected for the parish center. So far, the parish has not had to borrow any money.

Construction is on schedule, and the new building is expected to be completed by Sept. 9. That will be in time for the new school year.

Holy Trinity School enrollment has grown since three years ago, when there were 92 students. During the 2015-16 school year, there were 115 students at Holy Trinity, and there are currently 152 students enrolled for the 2016-17 school year, Wessing said.

Archbishop Jerome Listcki will dedicate the new building on Thursday, Sept. 29.

The Noteables: A Year In Review

The Kewaskum High School Show Choir, "Noteables," brought home trophies from three of the four competitions it performed in during the 2015-2016 season.

The group took second place at Burlington and Milton, and third place in Sauk Prairie. Serena Vetter, who was a senior at KHS, received an award for "Most Outstanding Performer" at the competition in Milton.

The group kicked off its season on Jan. 10 with "A Dinner and a Show." This annual event is the Noteables' main fundraiser. A spaghetti dinner and a debut performance helps the group raise funds that enable them to travel and participate in four competitions throughout the year.

The expenses of this competitive group have been graciously offset by generous donations and fundraising. In addition to the monetary support received from the community, the Noteables are championed by their families that volunteer their time and talents to help with the behind-the-scenes activities that contribute to the Noteables' success.

This group is led by Andrew Dalberg, director, and Lindsay Dalberg, choreographer. The Dalbergs have utilized their experience and talents to increase the quality of the Kewaskum High School's music program. Their efforts have enabled the Noteables to become a respected and increasingly competitive performance group.

Every year the Kewaskum Show Choir increases their success and fan base. The group consists of singer/dancers, band and stage crew. There are many "show choir parents" that help with planning, fundraising, costumes and other tasks that are needed to ensure that students are prepared to compete.

The Noteables will begin next year's season in August, when practices start up. The group practices every Saturday in fall and then will incorporate a Monday night practice once fall sports conclude.

The students have lengthy choreography weekends in the beginning of the season to learn the new routines. Their set is usually about 25 minutes and consists of approximately five numbers.

The general public is invited to attend performances in the 2016-2017 season.

"These animals are scared and they may, when they come to realize what is going on, they may panic. If they panic, don't get bit," Triick told the first responders at a training session on May 18.

Animals will panic in traumatic situations other than fires as well, Triick said.

"The same thing happens in a car accident. Even if it is a very friendly dog, like a golden retriever that has never bitten anybody, it is in pain and it is scared," Triick said. "I bet you 80 percent of the time people get bitten. The dog panics and it hurts, and they think you are hurting it, so they will bite you."

As soon as an animal is removed from a fire, the first thing that should be done is to tie the animal so it does not run off.

"Have a leash or a piece of rope so you can snap it to their collar so that when the pets come to, they don't take off running," Triick said.

For a larger animal, such as a horse or cow, a rope can be looped around the animal's neck, Triick said.

To keep from getting bitten, the first responder should grab a dog or cat by the big fold of skin behind the neck.

Then, once the animal is secured, the oxygen mask can be placed over the animal's face.

During the training session at the Allenton Fire Department, Triick demonstrated how to place the oxygen mask on a dog.

Another good way of securing a smaller animal is to wrap it in a blanket or towel so that all is sticking out is their nose.

The animals should be allowed to pant, and should be rolled from one side to the other about every five minutes, Triick said.

Animals that are rescued from a fire should be treated as soon as possible. Grafton has the nearest emergency pet clinic that is open 24 hours, Triick said. The animal should continue to be monitored, though, because if smoke gets into a pet's lungs, the animal's condition may deteriorate over the next few days, Triick said.

The kit that the Allenton Fire Department received includes three different sized masks that can be used on various sizes of animals.

The Project Breathe Program began in Michigan in 2007. Since then, more than 4,000 kits have been donated to fire stations across the United States and Canada. More than 160 pets have been saved with the kits, according to the Wisconsin Veterinary Medical Association website.

Many Wisconsinites Lack Safe, Clean Water

– Wisconsin Culligan Dealers Offer Free Water Test

In response to an in-depth report by the Wisconsin Center for Investigative Journalism, Culligan dealers across Wisconsin are urging residents to test their water and seek solutions if contaminants are present. Earlier in November, the Center released a study, which found that hundreds of thousands of Wisconsinites are at risk of consuming drinking water with contaminants, such as lead, nitrates, disease-causing bacteria and viruses, heavy metals and more.

Many of the contaminants are organically occurring compounds found in nearly every watershed, but can be dangerous when concentrations become too high. While municipal wells are tested regularly, evaluations for systems serving 25 or fewer homes are the responsibilities of the homeowners. This is the case for nearly 1.7 million Wisconsin residents who use private wells.

“According to the Center, only 16 percent of private well owners test their water each year,” said Bret Tangley, president of Water Quality Association and third-generation owner of Sterling Water Culligan, which has locations in Eau Claire, Stevens Point, Rothschild and Minnesota. “That’s a scary statistic because nearly half of private wells are estimated to be contaminated above health standards.”

Even previously tested wells may need to be retested. Some of the contaminants, such as nitrates, have no taste or smell, and are difficult to detect in water supplies unless properly tested. If high levels of these substances are left unchecked, it could lead to adverse health effects. Infants and the elderly often are particularly susceptible to high levels of contaminants found in water.

Culligan water experts across Wisconsin recommend regular testing of well water and using point-of-use filtration technology that is certified by the National Sanitation Foundation for the removal of certain contaminants. Reverse osmosis technology is also an option, since the filter membrane can filter particles as small as one micron. The state of Wisconsin has not certified all manufacturers for the removal of certain contaminants. Dealers with equipment certified by the state should be able to show written proof.

Through special arrangement with certified labs, Wisconsin Culligan dealers will test water for nitrates, arsenic, lead and coliform. The cost of the test varies from free up to $80 depending on the contaminant. Results are available within five business days.

For more information, call your local Culligan dealer.

Dancing On The Pavement In Kewaskum

By Anne Trautner

Dancers from Lancaster traveled three hours to perform at Kewaskum’s Party on the Pavement last Tuesday, June 21.

“We really enjoyed it. We loved having everyone cheer for us, and all of our different dance styles,” said Brandi Dreher, a dance instructor for the Gotta Dance Academy of Performing Arts.

Seven dancers from the dance company performed various types of dance, including tap, jazz, lyrical, contemporary, clogging and acrobatic.

“We were thrilled to be invited to the event, and we thought it was amazing when we saw all the pavilions and booths set up. All the local community support was just awesome,” Dreher said.

The students worked hard to prepare for Party on the Pavement, said Dreher, who has taught at the dance studio for five years.

About 180 adults and children attend classes at the studio, which offers dance and voice lessons.

About 35 of the Lancaster dancers are on a competition team, Dreher said. Some of the dancers that performed at Party on the Pavement are part of that group.

“Several of the numbers we performed in Kewaskum we are either intending to compete next year or we competed this year,” Dreher said.

The dancers will perform some of the dances at a national dance championship in Sandusky, Ohio, later this year. The girls appreciated the opportunity to perform those numbers last week in front of a crowd.

“Just to be invited to this kind of event is really good for the girls to get out and be exposed to different atmospheres and cultures,” Dreher said.

Last week’s performance had the challenge of being at an outside venue. “Performing on the pavement is always different, but the dancers were awesome. Any move that they were not able to perform on the pavement, they went ahead and modified as they were dancing,” Dreher said.

The dancers that came to Kewaskum range in age from eighth-graders to incoming college freshmen.

“They are together a lot,” Dreher said. “We support one another, we love each other.”

The car ride up to Kewaskum brought the group even closer. There was good conversation, movies and a lot of self-talking going on in the car, Dreher said.

“We are a family,” said dancer Erin Walker.

County Administrator Makes 2016 State Of The County Address

Washington County Administrator Joshua Schoemann delivered his annual State of the County address at the recent county board meeting. In his address, Schoemann reviewed the county's accomplishments from 2015-2016 and forecasted year 2016 and beyond.

According to Schoemann, the top 5 accomplishments of 2015-2016 are as follows:

- The property tax burden hitting historically low levels, including the lowest county levy in 12 years and lowest property tax rate in half a century.
- The Washington - Ozaukee Public Health Department merger.
- Completion of strategic planning and priority-based budgeting kick-off.
- Construction of Washington County Fair Park's Silver Lining Amphitheater.
- The Government

Center being renamed and dedicated to former County Board Chair Herb Tennes in appreciation for his 50 years of service to Washington County.

In addition, Schoemann listed the reduction of the County Board size (30-26) and the change in committee structures to provide efficiencies and compliment the shift from a county committee to county administrator form of government as other important accomplishments.

For 2016 and beyond, Schoemann hopes to continue to develop the county's comprehensive strategy to "Inspire a Shared Vision." In so doing, he outlined four goals for four years through the county's commitment to priority-based budgeting, shared services, and fiscal responsibility.

Schoemann's four goals in four years include:

- Reducing the annual budget deficit.
 - Replenishing the health insurance fund.
 - Creating the capacity for pay-plan study/implementation.
 - Holding or reducing the tax levy and/or mill rate.
- Staying consistent with those themes, Schoemann listed the 2017 budget goals to include:
- Maintaining the current tax rate.
 - Reducing or eliminating the need to access the fund balance to balance the budget.
 - Replenishing the health insurance fund balance.
 - A third consecutive pay-plan adjustment.
- Schoemann will be making his State of the County Address throughout the county in the coming weeks. For more information, call (262) 306-2200.

Kewaskum Indians Extend Win Streak To Three

By Judy Harlow

Behind one of their biggest rallies of the season, the Kewaskum Indians posted an 11-1 victory over host Nicolet on June 27, improving their North Shore record to 8-6, good for fourth place in the summer baseball conference.

The score was 4-1 going into the seventh when the Indians exploded for seven runs. They sent 11 to the plate against Knights' relievers, Aaron Trattner and Daniel Schiff. Michael Prochnow, who feasted on Nicolet pitching in this game, going 4x5, started the scoring spree off with a single, then five other hits by Andrew Neu (double), Cole Surprenant (single), John May (single), Zach Heberer (double), and Prochnow (another single), coupled with a hit batsman and a fielder's choice, and KHS led by 10.

The top three in the KHS order, Tony Steger, Prochnow and Neu, combined for eight of the Indians' 15 hits.

Surprenant pitched six innings, giving up one run on nine hits, striking out six and walking just one. He had a shutout going until the sixth when he gave up back-to-back singles and a sacrifice fly for the Knights' lone run.

Dalton Pool came on in relief, giving up one hit in the seventh, while striking out two.

In other NS games, West Bend West shut out Grafton 5-0 to improve its record to 14-1, while Homestead (14-1) routed Port Washington, 13-0, to maintain its hold on second place. Cedarburg (9-6) was beaten by West Bend East 4-1 but remains in third, 1/2 game ahead of the Indians.

Steger Is Hot At The Plate In 8-3 Win Over Warhawks

By Judy Harlow

After trying a couple others in the position, it looks like coach Doug Gonring has settled on his leadoff man for the Kewaskum High baseball team — sophomore outfielder Tony Steger.

"He's had his ups and downs, but he took advantage of the situation last Thursday," Gonring said, adding, little by little, he, and others, are gaining confidence at the plate.

In the Indians' last three games, against Grafton, Port Washington and Germantown, Steger has six hits with three runs batted in (RBIs). In the June 23 game against Germantown, Steger went 3x4, leading off with a triple, helping the Indians to a 3-0 start, which was stretched to 8-0 after two innings toward an 8-3 victory and a season sweep over the Warhawks.

"I was really happy for him," Gonring said about Steger, who has speed and power.

The win put the Indians' North Shore record at 7-6, 11-7 overall, heading into the stretch run of the season.

In addition to good hitting by Steger, Michael Prochnow was 2x4 with a pair of runs batted in, and his number three hitter, Andrew Neu, chipped in with a hit and an RBI.

In the first inning, after Steger tripled to right field, Prochnow drove him in with a single and scored on a sacrifice fly by Cole Surprenant. John May drove in Neu, who had walked.

The second inning was even more productive for the Indians, who got a single by Zach Heberer, a double by Steger, singles by Prochnow and Devyn Zillmer. Germantown's shortstop also committed an error, allowing the final run.

The senior Zillmer also played a key role in the Indians' win. With Prochnow still sidelined from his pitching chores and a couple others resting tired arms, Gonring called on Zillmer, who needed a good effort for the Indians to come up with a win. In six innings, Zillmer gave up three runs on six hits, walking two, hitting one batter and striking out none.

"We got a great pitching performance out of Devyn Zillmer," Gonring said. "He's been struggling to throw strikes," but in this outing, "He got everybody out with 85 pitches."

Zillmer was lifted in the seventh in favor of Andrew Neu, who gave up two hits before striking out Blake Kunz on four pitches and battling back from a 3-0 count to strike out Colton Thomas to end the game.

Gonring said the sparkling play of the game honors went to John May at third. "John May made a really nice diving play in the hole" on a ball hit by the Warhawks' Tanner Wagie in the top of the sixth.

Concerning when Prochnow might be ready to pitch, Gonring said, "I have no timetable... when he says he's healthy. He's hitting the ball real well but he's having a hard time getting his arm above his head."

Concerning the sweep over G-town, Gonring said, "Any time you win a ball game and get a sweep, it helps you for the (tournament) seeding," which is expected to take place July 5 or 6.

North Shore standings (as of June 25) 1. West Bend West, 13-1; 2. Homestead, 10-4; 3. Cedarburg, 9-5; 4. Grafton, 9-6; 5. Whitefish Bay, 8-6; 6. Kewaskum, 7-6; 7. Germantown, 5-9; 8. West Bend East, 4-9; 9. (tie) Nicolet, 2-11 and Port Washington, 2-12.

Kewaskum 7, Port Washington 6 In 12 Innings

At Port Washington on June 22, the Indians (6-6) started fast, scoring five runs in the first two innings, then the bats went silent and from the third to the 12th when they broke a 6-6 tie to defeat the host Pirates (1-12) by a single run.

To start the 12th, Port reliever Matt Wozniak got the first two outs when Devyn Zillmer popped out to the short stop and Cole Surprenant grounded out to the shortstop. Jerad Chesak followed with a grounder to short that was muffed by Tanner Orton, and John May followed with a single to right, moving Chesak 90 feet from home plate and the lead run.

Freshman Brad Buechel took the first strike looking, then slapped a single to short right for the go-ahead run, and Tony Steger, who pitched the fifth and sixth innings and then re-entered in the 10th, did the rest.

Steger got number nine hitter, Jake Huebner, to hit a pop fly to May at short. After walking a pinch runner and Zach Uselding, he got out number two when Kinzer popped out to Michael Prochnow and designated hitter Kale Knaub to fly out to Cole Surprenant who made a fine running catch to end the three-hour marathon and give Steger his first North Shore victory of the year.

Andrew Neu started and went two innings, giving up one run on two hits. He was relieved by May, who pitched two innings, giving up just one hit, while Zillmer gave up three runs, just one earned, and did not record an out. It was here Gonring called on Surprenant, who worked out of several jams in his three innings, which was all he could pitch because he pitched against Homestead earlier in the week.

In his five innings, Steger gave up two runs (one earned) on four hits, striking out five while walking six.

The hitting leaders were May, 3x6; Zillmer, 3x6; Steger, 2x5; Chesak 2x6 and Zach Heberer, 2x5.

After a road game against 2-11 Nicolet on June 27 and a home game at Grafton, the Indians will play at Regner Park this evening (July 30) against West Bend East.

Prunty Toughs Out Third Win Of The Season At Slinger

By Dan Margetta

Still feeling the effects of bruised ribs suffered in a hard crash a little over a week ago, Dennis Prunty toughed out his third super late model feature victory of the season Sunday, June 26, in the second round of the Pepsi Challenge Series at the Slinger Super Speedway. "They're still sore," Prunty told the crowd from victory lane, "I was trying to take it easy and not get into any altercations out there.

"I wasn't sure I wanted to race again," Prunty continued, describing the thought process of returning to the seat so soon after the crash, "I just thought I would get in the car and take a few laps and see how it goes. I guess I still want to race."

John DeAngelis Jr. and Mitch McGrath made up the front row at the start of the 60-lap main event and the inside lane advanced quickly as DeAngelis charged to the lead while third place starter Alex Prunty settled into second, leaving McGrath to battle with Grant Griesbach and Brad Mueller for third. DeAngelis paced the opening four laps before Alex Prunty was able to duck inside to take the top spot as behind them, Dennis Prunty began to slice his way forward through the field.

Dennis Prunty used the outside lane to pass by Griesbach and then dove to the inside to get around McGrath before pressuring Mueller for third while Alex Prunty continued to lead over DeAngelis. Dennis Prunty then swept to the inside of Brad Mueller for third place and a few laps later worked the inside again to snag second from DeAngelis.

A half spin off turn four by Grant Griesbach on lap 16 drew the first caution flag with Alex Prunty leading over Dennis Prunty, DeAngelis, Mueller, and McGrath. Alex Prunty chose the outside lane for the restart and Dennis Prunty took the low lane as racing resumed and the two fought alongside each other for the lead. Dennis Prunty's car turned very well and found grip off the turns which was enough to propel him into the lead off turn two as DeAngelis tried to fill the gap on the inside and challenge Alex Prunty for second.

Alex Prunty eventually prevailed over DeAngelis for second but their side by side battle allowed Dennis Prunty to edge away a bit. Behind the top three, last week's feature winner Chris Blawat and defending track champion Steve Apel joined Mueller and McGrath in a race over the fourth spot. The second caution of the event appeared on lap 31 when Duke Long's car went for a spin off turn two while racing with Rob Braun. Braun took the blame for the incident and "tapped out" allowing Long to regain his spot as the field lined up for a restart.

This time, Dennis Prunty chose the outside and left the inside lane for Alex Prunty and as the green flag waved, Dennis raced into the lead while Alex had his hands full with DeAngelis and Blawat for third.

Blawat was the driver on the move in the second half of the race as he used the outside to bypass both DeAngelis and Alex Prunty to advance to a second place attempt to track down Dennis Prunty for the lead.

The best battle on the speedway in the closing laps was over the fifth position between Mitch McGrath and Steve Apel as Apel handily worked over McGrath's rear bumper.

Dennis Prunty would not be denied in the waning circuits and he drove to his third super late model feature win of the season while Blawat had to settle for a strong second place run at the checkered flag. Alex Prunty finished a solid third and John DeAngelis was fourth while Steve Apel won the battle with Mitch McGrath to finish fifth. Brad Mueller crossed the finish line in seventh ahead of Nick Wagner and Ryan DeStefano in eighth and ninth respectively while Duke Long finished 10th.

During the intermission Ashley Cridelich was crowned Miss Slinger Speedway for the second consecutive season.

Kewaskum Athletic Association Holds Raffle To Benefit Kiwanis Park

By Anne Trautner

Logan Zak is excited to play T-ball.

When his parents tell the 5-year-old slugger that he has a game at 2, he is up at 11 the night before, claiming that it's only a few more hours until game time.

"We have to explain to him that it's in the afternoon," Logan's father, Jason Zak, said.

The games, which are run by the Kewaskum Athletic Association (KAA), give Logan a chance to spend time with his best friend, Bryson Headstrom. The two met in daycare, and the friendship has grown since then.

This summer, both of the boys' families look forward to going to Kiwanis Park in Kewaskum to cheer on the purple Piggly Wiggly team.

The T-ball is just one of the programs run by the KAA. The association also runs girls fastpitch, boys hardball, rubberball, volleyball and flag football programs, with more than 500 participants.

The program is run primarily through volunteers.

"We need a lot of volunteers," said Nathan Scheel, KAA president. "The more volunteers who are involved, the more efficient we are."

Volunteer jobs range from being coaches to helping sell concessions or maintaining the association's website.

It is a job that many enjoy. So much so that people such as Carmen Fox, Mary Lynn Ellis and Shirley Schlice are still volunteering for the program, even though their children have outgrown the program.

They believe in the KAA's motto of focusing more on having fun than on winning.

"Our main goals are to teach fundamentals and sportsmanship, how to be a good teammate," said volunteer Chad Cook.

Still, the program looks toward the future.

"Our second priority is that we are a feeder program to Kewaskum High School," Cook said.

In addition to producing quality athletes, the program has completed various projects to help the Kewaskum facilities, such as improving the baseball fields at Kiwanis Park. Those projects have benefited the high school teams, which use those fields.

KAA also helped with the construction of the garage at Kiwanis Park. The organization also put up the scoreboard for the high school field and donated money to the scoreboard on Field 2.

The organization would like to make other improvements in the future, including creating dugouts for fields 1 and 2, adding batting cages, putting concrete around Field 2, upgrading the backstop on Field 2, providing general fence maintenance on Field 2 and creating a new shelter to the north of the concession stand.

To make these improvements, KAA raises funds through registration fees, concession sales and a cash raffle.

This year's cash raffle will be held on Friday, July 8, at 7 p.m. at Kiwanis Park. There will be 50 cash prizes, with first place receiving $2,500.

Tickets can be purchased from any KAA coach or at the concession stand during games, which begin at 6 p.m., Monday through Friday.

In addition to the raffle, a bounce obstacle course and various games will be held at Kiwanis Park on July 8.

Hundreds Flock To Area To Learn About Organic Farming

By Anne Trautner

Dayton Denny had never been to an organic farm until he visited K.T. Organic Farms in Farmington on Saturday, June 25.

"I learned that cows eat a whole bunch of grass in a few minutes," Dayton said. "And organic farms don't use chemicals and the other ones do."

Dayton traveled with his family from their home in Green Bay to the farm, which was featured through Organic Valley's Farm Discovery program.

More than 650 people visited the farm on Saturday. Many traveled to the farm from Chicago, as well as Milwaukee and other cities throughout Wisconsin.

"This is the largest attendance we have ever had at one of these," said Sophie Leppanen, manager for the Organic Valley Farm Discovery program.

This was the third year that Farm Discovery has been held on a large scale, Leppanen said. K.T. Organic Farms is one of four farms from across the country that is being featured this year. The other farms are located in Pennsylvania, Washington and California.

The weather was hot on Saturday, but the crowd didn't seem to mind.

"We had a lot of cool milk for everybody," said Kara Benson, who was handing out organic milk to attendees.

In fact, some patrons wanted to stay longer.

"I don't want to go," one child said on the way out.

The day featured calf bottle feeding, crafts and wagon rides. Farm equipment was on display, and Gateway Cafe provided an organic lunch. In addition, there were presentations about calves, milking cows and pastures.

Attendees got to participate in hands-on activities, such as making butter.

"There are 21 gallons of milk in butter," Weylon Denny, Jr., noted after creating the butter.

Veterinarians and other organic farmers were on hand to teach about organic farming.

"In the summertime, the cows are left out in the pasture 20 to 22 hours a day. They go in for milking and that's about it," Dr. Guy Jodarski, a veterinarian from central Wisconsin, explained to visitors.

The length of time spent in the pasture, as well as what the cows are grazing, is what makes the milk taste different, Jodarski said.

Organic Valley started with seven farmers selling their produce in 1988, Jodarski said.

"They started out making cheese, and they sold cheese out of the trunks of their cars, like a farmer's market. Eventually, they started bottling milk, and it took off from there," Jodarski said.

Now the cooperative has 1,500 dairy farms, 1,800 farmers altogether, and sells produce, eggs, pork and other things, Jodarski said.

Kevin Thull bought K.T. Organic Farms, a 120-acre farm located on State Road 28 in Farmington, in 1988 from his parents.

Thull certified the farm organic in 1992 and became the 24th farmer to begin shipping organic milk to Organic Valley in 1993.

Thull and his wife Lynn were happy to have so many visitors come and learn about organic farming.

Even their dog, B.J., seemed to enjoy the activity - especially the chickens that were brought in from a different farm for the day.

"Usually, he stays in the barn all day. He has been out all day watching the chickens that were brought," Lynn Thull said.
