Kewaskum High School Students Get Dose Of Hospital Careers

By Anne Trautner

Rachel Holt, a senior at Kewaskum High School, thought she knew what it would be like working in a hospital.

"I watch Grey's Anatomy," Rachel explained.

But it turns out the show isn't quite accurate, she said.

Rachel was one of 10 Kewaskum High School students who participated in a two-week Health Care Career Academy at St. Joseph's Hospital. Each student visited 10 of 16 departments at the hospital.

Rachel did have first-hand experience in some of the areas. For example, she had been through physical therapy for her shoulder and back.

But when she worked with physical therapist Willis McMillain, she saw that the world of physical therapy encompassed more than she had realized.

"It's really cool to see the interactions between him and the patients and all the different workouts for the different patients," said Rachel, who is now considering a job as an oncology nurse or physical therapist.

For senior Peyton Airaudi, the experience helped plan for the future. "When I was in the birthing center, it made me more certain of what I want to do. I really want to be a labor and delivery nurse," Peyton said.

But the experience did more than just open the students' eyes to the healthcare field.

"For me, seeing all the patients made me appreciate my family a lot more," senior Dinara Beth said. "Seeing the patients is hard, seeing what they are going through and having to be here all the time."

The Health Care Career Academy

St. Joseph's Hospital started the Health Care Career Academy last year, when it was offered to West Bend students. This year, the program was introduced to Kewaskum and Hartford students as well.

To become involved, students had to fill out an application. From there, students were selected to go through an interview process.

"It illustrates how seriously we take it because it is a privilege for them to have access with the patients behind the scenes. There is a large part of confidentiality that goes with it too," said Tim Olsen, manager of public relations at the hospital.

At the end of the two-week program, the students put together a final presentation.

The students didn't get any credit for attending the academy, but they said the lessons made the experience valuable.

"It will be really helpful in the long run helping me to pick out what I want to do for my career. It's already helped narrow it down for me," Hailey Herriges, who is thinking of going into physical therapy or oncology, said at the end of the first week.

"I love it. I like seeing all the different areas of the hospital," said Ariaehna Grossenbacher as she prepared to look at bacteria through a microscope.

Kewaskum School Board Considers $28.4 Million Building Project

By Anne Trautner

The Kewaskum School District's Long Range Planning Committee is recommending that the district goes forward with a $28.4 million plan to improve its middle school and high school facilities.

Clint Selle and Kara Dembinski of Bray Architects presented the plan to the Kewaskum School Board at its July 18 meeting. Board members are expected to vote on the recommendation on Aug. 8. If approved, the district will go to referendum on Nov. 9.

If the plan goes through, the impact on the mill rate is projected to be between 25 and 48 cents, and will most likely land around 36 cents, according to figures from the district's financial consultant from PMA Securities.

That means that taxes for every $100,000 worth of property would increase by $36, or $72 for a $200,000 home.

That is lower than what the committee had originally thought when it reached consensus on the recommendation in June.

"As of July 1, we had an update on our state aid that is projected for this coming year. It is projected that we are going to get about a 2.2 percent increase or about $150,000. Because of that, it changes some of the dynamics with the overall funding," Superintendent James Smasal said.

The district will not know until the middle of October exactly what its budget is for the school year that started on July 1. The district is currently projecting that its operating budget will go down because of the revenue limit by about $130,000, Smasal said.

Another variable is how much the district pays off on its current debt on the elementary school. Last year, the school board committed to start prepaying off some of the debt on the elementary school, without raising taxes.

United Way To Celebrate 80th Anniversary

- Seeks Stories From County Residents

United Way of Washington County is celebrating 80 years of improving lives and community conditions.

During this anniversary year, the organization plans to feature stories about local residents who've been involved with and/or benefitted from United Way programs. Right now, they are asking individuals and families to submit stories and memories for inclusion in their online Legacy Library.

"United Way is all about bringing people together to improve lives in lasting ways," said Lisa Jensen, Marketing Communications Manager. "Our Legacy Library will shine a spotlight on all of the kids, parents, and families whose lives have been touched by United Way programs over the years."

United Way of Washington County supports local non-profit programs that improve lives through Education, Income Stability, and Health. Some of their long-standing partners include: American Red Cross, Boys & Girls Clubs of Washington County, Big Brothers Big Sisters of Washington County, The Threshold, and Elevate (formerly Nova and the Council on Alcohol and other Drug Abuse).

In addition to clients and beneficiaries, United Way is also looking to recognize donors and volunteers.

"Over the last 80 years, our local United Way has been supported by countless individuals, businesses, and organizations," said Kristin Brandner, Executive Director. "We want to honor and recognize all those who have so generously given, advocated, and volunteered for their neighbors in Washington County. I urge anyone who has supported United Way to contact us so we can share your story!"

The Legacy Library will be a public collection of the community's photos and memories. To learn more, visit UnitedWayOfWashingtonCounty.org/80.

Our mission is to improve lives and community conditions in measurable and lasting ways. United Way is a volunteer-driven organization that serves all communities in Washington County. It is governed by a board of community volunteers, dedicated to providing funding and community resources for health and human service needs in the areas of Education, Income Stability, and Health.

Blood Drive In Kewaskum On August 9, Consider Giving

The Silbernagel Group encourages every business in Kewaskum to donate blood at the Blood Drive here in town at the Kewaskum Middle School on August 9. Over 50 percent of The Silbernagel Group has already signed up to donate blood. Jim Silbernagel the head of the business is leading the way.

When asked why this is important to him, Jim responded, "I want there to be blood available if and when needed for myself, my family and friends. 95 percent of us need blood in our lifetime. The demand for blood is constant. The supply is not."

In the U.S someone needs a blood transfusion every 2.5 seconds. Why is the need for blood rising? About four million people needed a blood transfusion last year. This figure is expected to increase annually due to: an increase in catastrophic events in our country; the aging population; the rising number of surgeries performed in the U.S. that require transfusions (such as open heart surgery, knee-replacement and hip-replacement surgeries) and the increase in procedures and surgeries, such as organ transplants that require numerous transfusions. A bone marrow transplant patient needs three weeks of transfusions and a person undergoing a liver-transplant operation requires 20 units of blood or more.

When you give blood at the Red Cross Blood Drive site, you will be benefiting yourself. You will receive a free mini-medical check-up. Donating blood is a fast and easy way of losing weight because you burn 650 calories every time you donate. Regular blood donation is associated with lowered risks for cancer including lung, colon, liver, throat and stomach cancers.

Donating blood can improve cardiovascular health. People who donate blood regularly over the years have an 88% lower risk of heart attack and a 33 percent lower risk of any severe cardiovascular event, such as stroke. When you give blood, you get rid of the old red blood cells and your body produces new red blood cells.

You might want to give blood because of what you have just read. You might have been asked by a friend or family member. Maybe you believe it is the right thing to do. There is no substitute for human blood. One pint of blood helps up to three people. Whatever your reason, the need is constant. Your contribution is important for a healthy and reliable blood supply. You will know that you have helped change a life. Call 1-800-RED-CROSS to make your appointment at Kewaskum Middle School for August 9.

Residents Pay Up And Water Stays On

By Anne Trautner

Property owners responded when they received notices that their water and sewer accounts were delinquent.

During the third week of May, the village sent out 230 notices to property owners warning that their water could be turned off if the accounts were not paid up.

The notices gave the residents and businesses until July 5 to either bring their account current or to sign an agreement, Village Administrator Matt Heiser reported at the July 18 village board meeting.

Most complied, but not all.

On July 8, village water utility workers placed 33 placards on homes notifying the owners that water would be disconnected on July 11.

"Payments and agreements came in all day on July 11, and by the morning of July 12, there were only two delinquent accounts remaining," Heiser said.

The Public Service Commission requires municipalities to make personal contact before disconnecting water, so village workers contacted the owners of the homes with outstanding accounts, and those two homeowners paid their bills, Heiser said.

"We contacted them and they paid up, so nobody ended up getting disconnected," Heiser said.

Of the 230 notices that went out, 200 are now current and 30 signed payment agreements.

On July 18, the village board approved an ordinance to repeal and recreate the municipal code's section on delinquent water bills. Now, for water bills that are due and not paid within seven calendar days of the due date, a late payment charge of 1 percent will be added.

The ordinance goes on to say that the utility customer may be given written notice that the bill is overdue no sooner than 20 days after the bill is issued. If the water bill is still not paid 10 calendar days after the past due notice was mailed, a disconnection notice will be attached to the front entry of the building. Unless payment or satisfactory arrangement for payment is made within 10 days after the disconnection notice was attached, service will be disconnected.

There is a $75 reconnection fee.

Deferred payment arrangements can be made. Failure to receive a water bill does not exempt consumers.

WASHINGTON COUNTY SHERIFF'S REPORT

OWI First With Minors In Vehicle

A bartender from a Town of Polk bar contacted the Sheriff's Office on Saturday, July 23, at 11:21 p.m. and reported a hysterical female was in the lot with three children in her vehicle. The complainant indicated the driver had obviously been drinking and was lost. Two deputies arrived and identified her as a 25-year-old City of West Bend woman. The deputies also discovered she had bruised knees and was covered in cake frosting.

The driver was evasive about what happened and deputies initially thought she was involved in some type of domestic altercation. Deputies were able to find a sober person at a relative's home who responded to the scene and took custody of the three minor children. Deputies also learned that there was a party at the house and part of the festivities involved a "cake battle". The driver was not involved in any type of domestic dispute. She was arrested for first offense OWI with a blood alcohol level of .17.

Personal Injury Accident

The Sheriff's Office responded to a two-vehicle accident in the 6900 block of State Highway 144 on Wednesday, July 20, at 3:58 p.m. The investigation revealed an 89-year-old City of West Bend woman was north bound on State Highway 144 when she crossed the centerline and struck a south bound vehicle operated by a 27-year-old Sheboygan man. The southbound vehicle struck a guardrail, and the north bound vehicle continued off road right and struck a building.

It is believed the northbound driver experienced a medical emergency that contributed to the crash as she was highly disoriented after the collision. She was transported to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Through a considerable amount of follow-up, the investigating deputy was able to locate family members in Whitewater, who in turn, were able to contact other geographically closer family members to respond to St. Joseph's Hospital. The investigating deputy also located red paint transfer on the northbound vehicle that was consistent with a hit and run accident that occurred in the City of West Bend less than 30 minutes prior to this accident.

A driver condition report was filed with the Wisconsin Department of Transportation to evaluate the north bound operator's ability to safely operate a vehicle. The southbound operator was not hurt.

Washington County's Most Wanted Updates:

Liridona Rrahmani (week of 04/04/16) was picked up by deputies on 04/05/16, however, she is on the run again and has several warrants.

Jacob Millay (week of 05/09/16) was picked up in Ozaukee county.

Kelly M Mieritz (week of 07/11/16) is believed to be hiding in a house in West Bend and assisted by family.

Anyone with information on this person's whereabouts should call the Washington County Sheriff's Department at 262-335-4411 or Washington County Law Enforcement Tip Line at 800-232-0594. Residents should not attempt to apprehend this suspect.

75 Years August 1, 1941

Burglars broke into the A.G. Koch store in this village some time during the night or early Monday morning and stole cash and merchandise valued at $100 or more. The robbery was discovered by Ervin Koch, one of the partners of the firm, when he opened the store for business. It appears that the burglars were hard up for cash, food and wearing apparel by the strange assortment of merchandise taken. Entrance was gained through the restroom on the west side. Evidently the thieves were in the store for a long time. Merchandise was strewn on the counters so they could pick out the items they desired. Apparently the men were in the store and scared out about 2 a.m. when an auto accident occurred directly across the street.

The Kewaskum fire department was called to the John Bremser farm about a mile north of St. Michaels at noon last Friday when a field fire threatened to destroy the farmer's oats crop. Mr. Bremser's son was burning weeds in the oats field when the fire got out of control. The flames spread to the shocks of oats which burned very readily in the dry weather. When the firemen arrived the fire was threatening an adjoining field of uncut grain but they succeeded in stopping the flames along the fence. Only about an acre of the shocked oats was destroyed.

After eight straight days of almost unbearable heat in this vicinity a thunderstorm Tuesday night and another light rain Wednesday brought some relief. The heat wave reached a peak on Tuesday when the mercury soared to 100 degrees in the shade and between 110 and 112 degrees in the sun.

100 Years July 29, 1916

Everything is in readiness for the Monster Firemen's picnic and dance to be held at North Side Park, Sunday, August 6th. If weather permits, Kewaskum will entertain the largest crowd of the season.

Edw. Spoerl, Town of Wayne, on Tuesday purchased the blacksmith shop and residence of Herman Marose of Knowles. Consideration $6500. Mr. Spoerl is a very ambitious young man and an experienced blacksmith. His business ability will surely insure his business success in his new venture. The transaction was closed by Jos. Kirsch, the hustling and popular real estate man of Allenton.

The village of Eden last week received their new auto fire engine which they purchased at a cost of $3100. Where is there another town the size of Eden which believes in protection more than to them.

Henry Keding of southeast of Wayne, had his nose badly smashed by falling from a milk wagon while delivering to the local cheese factory last Saturday.

Frank Guetter, while returning home from Wayne was kicked in the face by one of his horses. It required several stitches to close up the wound.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thull have moved onto their farm near Boltonville. They tendered a house warming Tuesday evening with a large number of friends and neighbors in attendance.

The mason crew commenced work on the new Farmers and Merchants State Bank Monday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Belger, Jr., of Boltonville on Wednesday, a baby boy.

The announcement of the marriage of Kathryn Straub, Ashford and Mr. Emmer of St. Kilian, was made Sunday. The wedding will take place in August.

Weekly HEALTH TIP

DRINKING WATER & LOWER HEART RISK

Heart disease continues to be the leading cause of death. A recent study found that participants who drank more water had a dramatically reduced risk of heart attack. The study followed 20,000 adults for 6 years. Those men who drank 5 or more glasses of water a day had a 54% lower risk compared to those who drank 2 or fewer glasses of water a day. Women lowered their risk by 41%. Researchers believe that drinking water may lower your risk because it prevents dehydration, which makes the blood thicker. Dehydration also increases cortisol and raises levels of a compound, fibrinogen, which is a clotting agent.

Microbiology was just one of the services Ariahna experienced in the lab.

"We rotate the students through every section of the laboratory. In addition, we get them hooked up with phlebotomists so they can go up on the floor and observe the patient experience and actually watch the blood draw," said Tim Block, laboratory supervisor.

The students learned how the blood is tested and observed how it divides into plasma and serum. They saw how compatibility testing is done if a patient needs a blood transfusion. And the students learned what the blood cells look like under a microscope.

"The students get to see all of that. We generally will sit down with them, and show them slides of patients who have sickle cell anemia and patients that might have leukemia. They get to see that experience, it is very hands on," Block said.

The students also witnessed the level of constant education that goes on in the hospital setting.

"It's not just the hands-on tasks that the nurses are doing, it is the whole patient and the whole family, and how that trickles down to all of the community. It's been really exciting for them to see," said Maria Jostad, manager of the hospital's birth center.

Program Benefits

The students are not the only ones who seem to benefit from the academy.

"I really enjoy it, and I think our staff really enjoys it. The staff is just as excited about being able to talk to the students and show them things, and the students reciprocate that excitement. It is really neat to see," Block said.

Jostad echoed that sentiment.

"It's been great for staff to see the kids ask questions and get to know some of the great things they are doing every day. It is really exciting and it kind of fuels our commitment and engagement for why we do what we do," she said.

One of the goals of the academy is to expose students to the hospital industry while they are still in high school.

"It is something that is actually critical for us today, because there are just not enough people to go into healthcare. We want to get young people excited about this work early in life so they already are tracking toward healthcare careers when they are ready to enter the workforce," said Kimberleigh Nash, human resource director.

"If they want to be a lawyer, a doctor, if they want to do exciting work in a laboratory, they can do all those things and be right here in healthcare."

By participating in the career academy, the students can get a taste of what the different jobs entail.

"They get to really see it and touch it and feel it and know if it is for them. But they also can find out what the alternatives are. They can come in thinking they wanted to do one thing, and they may find a whole different career, still in health care, because we have everything here. But they have the opportunity to really kick the tires and see what it's about," Nash said.

For example, after witnessing births, many students know whether or not it is a career they would like.

"A lot of girls and guys that we have had have decided either they love obstetrics or they don't," Jostad said.

Regardless of which field a student goes into at the hospital, it is often more than just a job.

"I think working in healthcare is a little bit more than a career, it is more like a calling," Nash said.

Continued From... Kewaskum School Board Considers $28.4 Million Building Project

"We are predicting, because of our increased state aid and loss in operating revenue, that if we keep the levy the same, we are going to have more money to pay off the existing debt without raising taxes," Smasal said. "That is the goal. It makes very good financial sense."

Another variable is the interest rate. The current projections are based on a 3.25 percent interest rate.

"There are multiple levels of conservatism going on here. The rate is 1.9 percent now," School Board President Troy Hanson said at the July 18 meeting.

The Kewaskum School Board formed the Long Range Planning Committee last summer to identify the district's most compelling facility needs. The committee was made up of 57 members, 39 of whom were community members, Smasal said. There were nine additional adjunct members who were not able to attend the monthly meetings, but were interested and stayed in communication with the committee.

"The committee got together and were handed a lot of things. We deliberated and did a lot of hard work. We listened very carefully to the architect, the financial people and the survey people before making a decision and bringing this to you. This wasn't something that was just thrown together. It was hard work and thought through very carefully," committee member Mugs McFadden told the board.

The recommended conceptual plan links the high school to the middle school. It expands the technology education space in the high school, adds a multipurpose learning space in the middle school and renovates many of the classrooms in the two schools. There is a new parking lot, bus drop-off area and greenhouse.

To develop the plan, the committee toured the district's facilities as well as school buildings in other districts. Committee members reviewed school finances and identified infrastructure, educational and facility needs.

Before reaching a final recommendation, the committee weighed community input that was gathered through a survey that went out to the general public in May. The survey identified nine categories that the building project would encompass and gauged community support for each of those areas.

Survey results revealed that the community supported improving the high school and middle school facilities, but thought that a price tag of $32.2 million was too expensive.

So, the committee approved a plan that pared down the plans for the categories that had the least support.

"I think our committee really listened to the community survey," committee Sarah Moris said. "I really feel a lot of people compromised what they were passionate about. I think it is a good fit for a lot of different areas."

Over the past year, the committee considered many plans, including building a new high school or middle school at a different site. That could have cost the district as much as $80 million. The committee continued reworking the plans until the cost was brought down to about $28 million.

In the state of Wisconsin, school districts are required to go to referendum if they want to borrow $1 million or more.

"It was a huge process, a long process, but a good process, and the community members had a huge learning curve. During this time, we learned, we listened to the community and what the community wanted," committee member Kathy Christenson said. "If we don't do it now, I really don't know when we would do this project."

County Looks To Become Member Of New Four-County Library System

The Mid-Wisconsin Federated Library System, representing Washington and Dodge counties, and the Eastern Shores Library System, representing Ozaukee and Sheboygan counties, are proposing to merge systems. The proposal is supported by all five libraries in the current Mid-Wisconsin System and was unanimously approved at the July 21 Administrative Committee meeting. A recommendation has been sent to the County Board for final approval at its August meeting.

Beginning in the second half of 2015, the Mid-Wisconsin Federated Library System engaged in an exploratory process to identify potential system merger partners. After identifying the Eastern Shores Library System as a potential partner, the two systems began discussions in February of 2016 about the feasibility of a partnership. A joint committee representing six individuals from each system was established to focus on key service and system topics that it determined needed to be addressed during the process.

After months of discussion, the joint committee voted to recommend that the two systems merge together to form a new four-county library system effective January 1, 2017. According to the joint committee report, a merger of the two systems will:

Improve services to patrons through easier and more efficient access to more resources. (The new shared catalog will contain more than 1.1 million holdings).

Save libraries approximately $98,000 cumulatively in system fees being paid by member libraries for shared services.

Improve the sustainability of and in key areas improve system services to libraries, including an increase in in-system continuing education opportunities for library staff, an improved technology support system, all the while maintaining the same level of delivery service to each library.

According to County Board Supervisor Kristine Deiss, a current board member of the Mid-Wisconsin Federated Library System, the proposed merger "aligns perfectly with the direction and core values of the County through its focus on increased efficiencies and shared services."

In order for the merger to become official, each of the boards from the four counties included in the system will need to approve.

Sky Hunters: Birds Of Prey

The Summer Saturday Evening Events at the Kettle Moraine State Forest - Northern Unit continues with the program, "Sky Hunters: Birds of Prey." The program will be held on Saturday, Aug. 6, from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at the Henry S. Reuss Ice Age Visitor Center.

The Ice Age Visitor Center is located off of Highway 67 half mile west of Dundee. Thanks to the support of the Friends of the Kettle Moraine, the program is free, but donations are always gratefully accepted.

On a warm day, you observe a large bird soar-ing and climbing ever higher into the sky and you wonder what bird it could be. It just might be one of the birds of prey doing some hunting. Because of these wonderful sky hunters, rodent and other small mammal populations are kept in check and thus from eating too much grain meant for human consumption.

Join Jeannie Lord, a longtime birds of prey rehabilitator at the Pine View Wildlife Rehabilitation Center, as she introduces us to buteos, accipiters, falcons, owls and vultures, which are all considered birds of prey. She will be bringing several live birds for you to meet and to examine close up.

She will also share insights into how these amazing high-flying hunters do their jobs, what their habitat needs are and what threatens their survival. It's sure to be a fascinating evening of discovery about Wisconsin's incredible birds of prey.

Kenseth Outduels Jones To Win His Seventh Nationals Crown

By Dan Margetta

Matt Kenseth outduelled Erik Jones in a green, white, checkered finish to win his record seventh SuperSeal Slinger Nationals presented by Miller Lite title.

After the NASCAR teammates took the final restart side by side, Jones slipped Kenseth a bit high off the second turn and gained the advantage heading down the back straightaway as he led at the white flag. However, a solid rap in the left rear corner from Kenseth in between turns one and two upset Jones' car enough to allow Kenseth to complete the last lap pass and take the victory. Jones regained control of his car in time to edge Travis Dassow for second place. Brad Mueller and Steve Apel rounded out the top five.

"I don't like winning races like that," an apologetic Kenseth told the crowd from victory lane, "to be honest with you, the first time he (Jones) caught me for the lead I got moved two or three times and got bumped into from behind so on the last lap I figured the roles were reversed so I kind of just returned the favor."

"Erik's a great race car driver," Kenseth continued, "We were having a heck of a battle out there, I wish I could've got by him on that final restart there and got by him clean and drove away to the win."

"I didn't think there was that much contact on the first restart but the next time by there was a lot of contact," a disappointed Erik Jones stated afterward, "It's unfortunate because I thought we had the race but it is what it is." "I don't know how we didn't wreck," Jones continued, "We'll just move on and try again."

"I thought we were getting lucky there at the end when they started beating and banging on each other," third place finisher Travis Dassow told the supportive crowd, "I thought we were going to get a shot at it."

The 200-lap main event got off to a strange start as pole-sitter Chris Blawat dropped out of the event with mechanical trouble on the pace laps and then Jon Reynolds Jr. erupted an engine on lap five to draw an early caution flag with Ty Majeski leading over Kenseth. Majeski and Kenseth battled fiercely for the lead on the restart as Kenseth pressed hard from the outside lane and Majeski refused to give up ground from the inside resulting in both of them spinning in front of the field on lap seven for the second caution flag of the race. Erik Jones inherited the lead as Kenseth and Majeski went to the rear of the field and he set the pace through the next caution flag on lap 17 when ninth place, Alex Prunty broke a right front spindle and came to rest in the pit exit. Jones maintained the lead as racing resumed and Dennis Prunty and Steve Apel sliced their way through the field into second and third respectively. Farther back, Majeski and Kenseth also began to pick their way forward as the stopped car of Dalton Zehr in turn four produced another caution flag on lap 52 with Jones leading over Dennis Prunty and Apel. Dennis Prunty took his turn at challenging for the lead on the restart as both he and Jones battled door to door for the top spot as racing resumed. Prunty used the outer groove while Jones kept to the bottom and the two made contact exiting turn four as both cars slid sideways before both drivers gathered up their rides as the scattering field necessitated a caution flag. Prunty jumped into the lead on the restart and paced the next 22 laps as Majeski and Kenseth continued to advance forward. Majeski tracked down Prunty for the lead on lap 76 and he locked onto the top spot through the halfway break on lap 101. Steve Apel also moved forward nicely in the first half and he found himself in second place at the half while Kenseth, Prunty, and Dassow rounded out the top five.

Majeski was the dominant driver in the second half of the race as he set the pace over Jones, Kenseth, Prunty, and Dassow. As the laps clicked by, Majeski's lead started to shrink and Jones caught him, taking over the lead on lap 151 just before Majeski's night ended when his rear tire went flat and he spun in turn three on lap 153 with Jones leading Kenseth and Prunty. Jones and Kenseth swapped the lead as the green flag appeared with Kenseth retaking the lead on lap 157. Jones kept Kenseth in his sights as Brad Mueller's car came in and he methodically pick off positions to advance to third. The caution flag waved on lap 191 when Ryan DeStefano had an issue and left debris on the speedway with Kenseth leading Jones and Brad Mueller, who appeared to have the fastest car on the speedway at that time. Kenseth and Jones continued their lead battle on the restart as Mueller found himself in a tussle with Travis Dassow and Steve Apel for third. Kenseth and Jones disputed the lead in the closing laps and Kenseth appeared to be on his way to victory when Jon DeAngelis Jr. and Dennis Prunty tangled in turn four just before the white flag was displayed. DeAngelis took responsibility for the incident and Prunty was allowed to keep his fifth position as racing resumed. Jones was able to wrestle the lead away from Kenseth as the white flag was displayed but then lost the top spot when he was rooted out of the way by Kenseth on the final lap.

Alex Prunty won the 30-lap super late model qualifying race over Dennis Prunty as they, along with James Swan and Rob Braun, raced their way into the main event. Jamie Wallace finished fifth in the qualifying race but then won the 30-lap super late model semi-feature to secure his spot in the main event. Casey Johnson finished second and claimed the final transfer spot to the main event while Natalie Decker, Ryan DeStefano, and Ryan Farrell completed the top five finishers in the super late model semi-feature. Eric Jones was the fastest qualifier of the 36 car field after turning in a lap at 11.221 seconds.

Ryan Farrell led flag to flag to win the 35-lap late model feature over Mike Held, Ryan Gutknecht, Steven Schulz, and Scott Ascher. Chester Ace won the Midwest Truck Series feature over Mike Meyerhofer and Todd Corvo. Kevin Knuese and Nick Egan rounded out the top five finishers.

Permanent Hoops For Temporary Court

By Anne Trautner

Permanent basketball hoops will be added to one of the four tennis courts at Kiwanis Park in Kewaskum.

The hoops will allow the court to be used as a basketball court during the summer months, while remaining a tennis court the remainder of the year.

Village board members approved the use of permanent basketball hoops at the July 18 board meeting. It is a slight alteration from a former plan to use portable basketball hoops, which the village board had approved on June 20.

The addition of the basketball hoops will enable basketball to be played on the court during the high school tennis teams' off-seasons.

"We've had a very difficult time finding a product that suits our needs and suits the needs for a long-term solution that is going to be durable and will stand up to the wear and tear of the elements, dunking or just day-to-day play," village resident Chad Cook said.

The permanent basketball fixtures that will be mounted into the ground outside of the tennis court that is located furthest west. The basketball fixtures will then extend over the top of the fence, which is 10 feet high. The backboard would hang over the playing surface, with about 6 feet on each side, according to the plan.

The arrangement is more cost effective than purchasing portable hoops and will not impede tennis activities, Cook said.

"It would not obstruct the court area at all with the permanent pole that we were all concerned about before," he said.

Jason Piittmann, athletic director for the Kewaskum School District, is on board with the solution, according to Cook.

The new basketball court will be longer than regulation. However, Cook did not think that would be a huge issue.

"It will benefit tennis to some degree because the lineage for the basketball court will be mostly outside the tennis court area. There won't be so much overlap because the basketball court is going to be much longer than initially planned," Cook said.

Court lines for the tennis and basketball previously would have been more in competition with each other, even though they would have been painted different colors.

Now, the plan is to place the basketball lines outside the tennis surface.

The idea of adding a basketball court originally arose because there is no lit basketball court at Kiwanis Park, which is open until 11 p.m. At one time, the board had considered a proposal to permanently convert the tennis court that is located furthest west into a basketball court, but that idea was not well received by tennis enthusiasts.

If the tennis court is needed during the summer because of a competition, the space could be converted back into a tennis court, Cook said.

In addition to the new lit convertible basketball/tennis court, Kiwanis Park is slated to get some basketball hoops that the Kiwanis Club of Kewaskum is donating to the park.

First Team NS Awards Go To Prochnow, Steger

By Judy Harlow

Who could argue with the West Bend West baseball team placing six on the all-North Shore baseball team? The Spartans had just one blemish on their 18-game NS schedule and won most games convincingly, a fact that didn't go unnoticed by the other coaches in the conference who gathered recently to vote for the teams.

West had four players on the first unit and another two on the second, with a seventh player earning honorable mention in the balloting.

The performances by several of the Kewaskum High players also drew attention, with senior Michael Prochnow named as first team designated hitter and sophomore Tony Steger included on the first-team outfield. Pitcher Cole Surprenant also was rewarded for his fine year by being named to the second team, and Jared Chesak received honorable mention as a catcher.

"For our first year in the league, I thought this was good," KHS coach Doug Gonring said.

Prochnow, a four-year letterwinner, was expected to be the team's number one pitcher when the season started, and his early shutout wins over Cedarburg (7-0) and Port Washington (2-0) certainly backed up that fact. When Prochnow wasn't on the mound, he was a big target for throws to first base.

All that changed when Prochnow came sliding into a base against Whitefish Bay on June 16. He injured his shoulder on the play, and, "It never got back into shape," Gonring said, adding, "Maybe it will get better in college." While playing some at first base and many times serving as designated hitter, Prochnow continued to bat and did so with authority, hitting a crisp .450 (27x60) in North Shore action.

"He was second in the conference in hitting, second in hits and third in RBIs (runs batted in)," Gonring went on about Prochnow's numbers. Prochnow wound up with 16 runs batted in, behind West's Anthony Schlass and Evan Albrecht, who led the league with 20 and 19. His 27 hits were behind only Cedarburg's Christian Kadrich, who had 30.

"There are always kids you hate to see go," Gonring said, and for him

Prochnow is one of those kids.

Prochnow was the only Indian among the top 10 in offensive statistics.

Steger "Improved tremendously from the start of the year to the end, moving up from number nine in the order to the leadoff spot," Gonring said, adding that move "completely ignited the offense."

After going 2x14 in his first five games, Steger finished with a .382 average with 21 hits in 55 trips to the plate.

Steger's improvement was also evident in the outfield. He committed some key errors early but got better as the year went on. "In our last game against Menomonee Falls, he did a great job at everything," Gonring said.

Surprenant, a sophomore fireballer, ended the NS season with a 4-2 mark. He gave up 32 hits, nine earned runs for an ERA (earned run average) of 1.44, ranking fifth in the conference. He had 59 strikeouts and 15 walks in 43 and 2/3rds innings.

"Cole had a great year for a sophomore," Gonring said. "He was behind a couple of great pitchers," including West's Nate Burns and Joe Pinella of Homestead, from the champion and runner-up teams. "That's the way things go ... Had we won three or four more games, I'm sure he would have been right up there."

"He came on like gangbusters," Gonring said of the sophomore Chesak, who didn't bat in two of the first three NS games, then was put in the lineup against Port Washington and went 3x3 and just kept hitting well so Gonring couldn't take him out of the batting order.

Chesak had 20 hits in 49 at bats for a .408, second best on the team.

"He stuck his nose in behind the plate and is a good team leader," Gonring said. "He's got a great future. The whole sophomore class has a bright future," even more so if they work in the off-season and learn more about different situations of the game.

Hon-E-Kor Golfers Come Close To Cut Mark

By Judy Harlow

None of the three Hon-E-Kor golfers made the cut in last week's Men's State Amateur Golf Tournament, but they did gain valuable experience in the event, which was hosted by the North Shore Golf Club in Menasha.

Sam Schlosser, Jason Jahnke and Jeff Anderson all played pretty well the first day but were hampered by their second-round scores and failed to be under the cut mark of 151.

The recent Kewaskum High grad Schlosser came in with a three-over-par (38-35) 73 in the first round and was tied for 40th place in the field. He struggled to post an 80 in the second round for a 153 total.

Anderson, who played for West Bend West in high school, fired 74 and 78 for a 152 while Jahnke had successive rounds of 75 and 77 for the same total.

The winner of the 72-hole event was Nick Nelson of Milwaukee, who played golf for Marquette University. Nelson fired a one-under-par 69 on the final day to finish with a four-under-276 total.

One other Hon-E-Kor member, Andrew Otto, did not make the original field. He shot an 83 at the River Club in Mequon.

Ethan Geidel, who belongs to the Fire Ridge Golf Club and also played his high school golf at Kewaskum, just missed being an alternate in the field after shooting a 78 at River Club. There were eight players who shot 78s, and after a playoff, two of them qualified for the tournament, two were named as alternates, and four, including Geidel, were eliminated.

Wisconsin DNR Wetland Invasive Species Control Project To Eliminate Populations Of Reed Mannagrass (Glyceria maxima), Throughout Southeast Wisconsin

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources will be conducting a wetland invasive species control project to eliminate populations of reed mannagrass (Glyceria maxima), throughout southeast from Dane to Milwaukee counties and selected areas within Calumet, Winnebago, Oneida, and Door counties. Reed mannagrass is a wetland invasive species that has limited distribution within the United States and records are limited to Massachusetts, Connecticut, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Washington state. This invasive species is constrained to very wet conditions and tends to be found in marshes, streams and drainage ditches. This plant poses a threat to Wisconsin's dairy industry, its wetlands and streams. This species can be dangerous to cattle when consumed and has been linked to cyanide poisoning of cattle in southern Australia, Tasmania and New Zealand. It can render flowing waters foul and make it unpalatable for cattle and impairs habitat for fish. When large populations decompose in streams, it can reduce the amount of available dissolved oxygen, leading to localized fish kills. It can slow flowing waters, increase siltation, and be a potential flooding hazard in low lying areas next to streams. This plant does not represent a direct and immediate threat to human health and is non-toxic unless eaten.

The DNR is currently conducting reconnaissance to find populations, map the extent of its current spread, and is soliciting help from affected landowners who have this species on their property. In 2016, the DNR plans to implement a herbicide application to test the effectiveness of glyphosate and imazapyr on controlling this species. Prior to treatment, the DNR is making available an environmental analysis, for public comment and review. Herbicide application will occur only on properties where the DNR has received written consent from the landowners, where all adjacent landowners have been informed of the project. Any questions related to this issue may be directed to Jason E. Granberg at 607.267.9868 or Jason.Granberg@Wisconsin.gov. To view the environmental analysis, visit <http://dnr.wi.gov/topic/invasives/fact/pdfs/GlyceriaMaximaControlEA07012016.pdf>. Comments will be accepted until Monday August 8th, 2016 and should be emailed to Jason.Granberg@Wisconsin.gov or mailed to Jason Granberg, DNR Water Quality, 101 S. VILLAGE OF KEWASKUM VILLAGE BOARD MEETING June 20, 2016 7:00 p.m.

The Kewaskum Village Board, Washington County, Wisconsin, met in regular session in the Council Room of the Municipal Building, 204 First Street.

President Scheunemann called the meeting to order at 7 p.m. Board members present were Richard Laubach, Dave Zehren, Kevin Scheunemann, James Wright and Jim Hovland. Richard Knoebel and David Spenner were absent and excused. Staff members present were: Mark Groeschel, Thomas Bishop, Dennis Aupperle, Ben Propson, Stephanie Justmann and Matt Heiser. Members from the community and the news media were also present.

Notice of the meeting had been posted at the PNC Bank, Kewaskum Post Office and at the Municipal Building on June 16, 2016. Notice was also forwarded to the Village Board, Village Attorney, Village Engineer and the News Media.

President Scheunemann opened the meeting with a Moment of Silence and Pledge of Allegiance.

Motion by James Wright to approve the minutes from the June 6, 2016 meeting, second by Jim Hovland. Voice vote, motion carried.

A public hearing was conducted to temporarily suspend collection of Impact fees under the Village of Kewaskum Code Section 86.14. The temporary suspension of Impact Fee collection will be for the period July 9, 2016 through July 8, 2017. The Village shall not collect impact fees that would be required to be paid under the Village of Kewaskum Code Section 86.14 in connection with applications for building permits for industrial, commercial and residential construction. Administration Heiser introduced the ordinance stating the moratorium is intended to spur construction. Don Weyer, a developer in the TID #2, stated he is currently building four homes and he has to be careful with how many homes the market can support. Suspending the impact fees allows for a better quality home to be built.

Motion by James Wright to close the Public Hearing, second by Jim Hovland and carried by roll call vote. Laubach-aye, Knoebel-absent, Zehren-aye, Scheunemann-aye, Spenner-absent, Wright-aye, Hovland-aye (5-0-2)

Mugs McFadden was on hand to report on the merger between the Mid-Wisconsin Federation Library System and the Eastern Shores Library System. The issues that have been addressed include the ILS software program, delivery of books, where the head library building will be located and the number of votes per library size. The County Boards and West Bend Library Board still need to vote on the merger. The merger will be beneficial for the Kewaskum Library.

Kristine and Colin Hartnett had a citizen request to allow the keeping, raising or possession of ducks within the village. President Scheunemann announced the rules for addressing the Board. State your name and address, preferred two minutes per person and don't repeat the issues. Kristine Hartnett presented information on the nutritional value in duck eggs, the importance in pastured eggs vs. store bought eggs and a list of municipalities that have an ordinance that allow for ducks. Theresa Young expressed she has been raising chickens for ten years. She is in the process of buying a house in Kewaskum. Ducks make great pets, provide food, are not noisy and 4-5 ducks produce the same amount of manure as one dog. She suggested to start a pilot program. Colin Hartnett said he is only asking for a few ducks. They are clean and only produce a minimal amount of odor. The ducks are very therapeutic for his daughter. There was no motion by the Board to place the item on a future agenda.

DPW Working Foreman Dennis Aupperle reported on the DPW activity:

Kremer's Korner

—Guest Editorial By 59th Assembly District Representative Jesse Kremer

Every Election Has Consequences

"I hate politics." "I don't like politicians." "I don't follow elections." "What I think doesn't matter."

Do these words sound familiar? I hear them all too often and it saddens me.

Until a few years ago, I had never been a member of a political party. I hadn't knocked on doors to discuss issues with folks or considered myself a viable candidate for office. While I didn't expect to win, I felt that even if I lost, at least my children would know the importance of engaging in the democratic process.

It was a challenge jumping headfirst into something that I knew little about; however, I believe that this is what the authors of the Constitution intended — representation by the people, not wealthy, politically connected elitists who could buy their way into office.

Our government was given to us by some of the brightest political minds to have walked this earth. While not perfect, our political process is important. There are bad actors in government just as there are in all walks of life, but we need not let that discourage us from our responsibility as citizens. The majority of electd officials are in office to serve, to stand up for the Constitution and to ensure that our freedoms are not trampled upon.

Good representatives take their constituent's thoughts and concerns to heart; I personally read every constituent contact. Elections do matter, and they will matter this fall. They should not be about who is the most attractive, who is the most popular or who will provide the most handouts; rather, they should be about who will preserve and protect our rights and freedoms today and for years to come.

3. The water and sewer dispute for 1160 Stark Street has been settled. The PSC rule is any water that goes through a meter is considered used by the consumer and should be billed accordingly.

Clerk Stephanie Justmann announced Congressman Sensenbrenner will be holding office hours at the Municipal Building on July 1, 2016 at 10 a.m.

Jim Hovland representative for the Plan Commission announced the next meeting is scheduled for June 27, 2016.

Motion by James Wright, second by Jim Hovland to approve the purchase exceeding $5,000 for the Main Lift Station Level Sensing equipment. Voice vote, motion carried.

Administrator Heiser introduced the ordinance for the collection process for delinquent water and sewer accounts. He reviewed the changes that will occur from the current code to the proposed ordinance. Consensus of the Board was to also increase the interest rate on the sewer overdue portion of the bill. The ordinance will be brought back for possible adoption in July.

Administrator Heiser reviewed the changes for the employee handbook. An employee can join the Kewaskum Volunteer Fire Department, all salaried employees must submit a time card, the call-in procedures that were omitted originally were included and the handbook numbering was updated. Motion by James Wright to approve the changes to the Village of Kewaskum Employee Handbook, second by Richard Laubach. Voice vote, motion carried.

Motion by James Wright to schedule one meeting on July 18th for the month of July, second by Jim Hovland. Voice vote, motion carried.
