Parade And Memorial Service To Be Held In Kewaskum On 9-11

By Anne Trautner

Kewaskum will host a parade, memorial service and fundraising event on Sunday, Sept. 11, to remember those who lost their lives in the terrorist attacks on Sept. 11, 2001.

Among those who will be memorialized will be Kewaskum High School graduate Andrea Lyn Haberman, who lost her life in the terrorist attacks 15 years ago.

The 9/11 memorial parade will begin at Kewaskum High School at 8:46 a.m., the precise moment that the first plane hit the World Trade Center, and end at the Kewaskum Fire Station, 1106 Fond du Lac Ave.

The memorial service and fundraising event will be held at the Kewaskum Fire Station from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The Cause

On the morning of Sept. 11, 2001, Haberman was on the 92nd floor of the North Tower of the World Trade Center, preparing for a work meeting.

Haberman had traveled there from her Chicago office for business. It was her first time in New York.

At 8:46 a.m., while Haberman was on the phone with a colleague, American Airlines Flight 11 crashed into the tower, striking the floors just above Haberman.

Haberman's phone disconnected. She was not heard from again.

Three more plane crashes occurred that morning:

At 9:03 a.m., United Airlines Flight 175 hit the World Trade Center's South Tower.

At 9:37 a.m. American Airlines Flight 77 crashed into the Pentagon in Washington, D.C.

United Airlines Flight 93 crashed near Shanksville, Penn., at 10:03 a.m.

Haberman, along with nearly 3,000 other people, lost their lives that day.

Parade

The Kewaskum 9/11 memorial parade will start at Kewaskum High School, go south down Reigle Drive, head west along Second Street and then travel south along Fond du Lac Avenue, ending at the Kewaskum Fire Station, 1106 Fond du Lac Ave.

A support I-beam recovered from a lower floor of the North Tower will be featured in the parade.

The 9/11 steel artifact will become the center of a permanent memorial park that is planned to be built in front of the Kewaskum Fire Station.

The parade will come to a brief halt at 9:03 a.m., the moment that United Airlines Flight 175 crashed into the World Trade Center's South Tower.

All Things Dairy To Be Featured At Early Farm Days This Sunday

By Anne Trautner

People can step back in time on Sunday, Sept. 11, at Early Farm Days in Kewaskum. The event will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at River Hill Park.

Sponsored by the Kewaskum Historical Society, the event dates back to 1975. As usual, the event will feature steam and gas engines, as well as threshing and antique farm machinery.

This year, though, there will be a special spotlight on All Things Dairy.

"It's a good get-together where people get more of an understanding of how Kewaskum came to be. It was a farm village and there is a lot of history around," said Bill Brana, Kewaskum Historical Society president.

All Things Dairy

Each year, the Early Farm Days features a different theme. This year's theme, "All Things Dairy," highlights things that made Wisconsin the dairy state from early on.

There will be old dairy items such as cream separators and old milking equipment, as well as information about a local cheese factory.

"We have all sorts of things from the dairy end of the line. However, I don't think we have a cow coming," said Ron Markus, who served for years as the Kewaskum Historical Society's curator.

Area Remembers 9-11 Attacks And Loss To Community

By Andrea Hansen Abler

It is one of those days where everyone remembers where they were when they heard the news. Some other events like this one in history would be the attack on Pearl Harbor or the assassination of President John F. Kennedy or, to a small some extent, the explosion of the Space Shuttle Challenger.

For many of us today, it would be the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001. With the 15th anniversary coming up this Sunday, many of us are remembering this more recent tragedy in our country's history.

This is especially true for the community of Kewaskum who lost one of their own on this terrible day. Andrea Haberman was a 1994 graduate of Kewaskum High School. She attended and earned a degree from St. Norbert College in DePere.

On that fateful day in 2001, she was on her very first business trip to New York. She worked for Carr Futures in Chicago. Her job would require trips to the New York offices of Carr Futures, which were located in the North Tower of the World Trade Center.

"It was going to be a rotating business trip," said Gordon Haberman, Andrea's father who lives in the

Andrea Haberman

Town of Farmington. "She was to leave on Monday the 10th. She got into New York late on the 10th."

A storm in New York on Monday, Sept. 10, 2001, had canceled the first two flights that Andrea was supposed to take out of Chicago but the third left as planned and she was on her way. She arrived at the Carr Futures office on the 92nd floor around 8 a.m.

Andrea Haberman's name can be seen above as it is listed on the North Memorial Pool of the 9-11 Memorial in New York City. She was one of the nearly 3,000 killed on September 11, 2001. The North Memorial Pool was constructed in the footprint of where the north tower of the World Trade Center once stood, which is the tower Haberman was in on 9-11.

SHERIFF'S REPORT

Animal Complaint

The Sheriff's Office responded to an animal complaint on Whitewood Drive in the Town of Farmington on Aug. 31 at 9:03 a.m. The caller and property owner, a 54-year-old man, reported that two dogs had attacked his penned-up chickens in his back yard. The caller, and his two sons, had gone outside to personally observe this occurring. The property owner then went inside his residence to retrieve a single shot pellet air rifle while the two sons attempted to chase the two dogs away.

When the father returned he gave the pellet gun to one of his juvenile sons as they continued to chase the dogs away. One of the dogs ran away, and according to the witnesses, the other dog circled back around the front of the house where the man's 6-year-old daughter was standing. According to the witnesses, they attempt to scare the dog away a second time, and started growling and acting aggressively while approaching the girl.

The father told investigators he was fearful the dog was going to attack his daughter so he instructed his son to shoot at it. The son took aim and shot the dog, and ended up killing the animal. The homeowner told investigators he thought the pellet gun would only injure the dog and cause it to retreat.

Investigating deputies reviewed Wisconsin State Statute 174.01, which reads that a person may intentionally kill a dog only if the person is threatened with serious bodily harm by the dog and other restraining actions were tried and failed, or immediate action is necessary. Investigators also consulted with the Washington County District Attorney's Office and concluded there was no violation. The deceased dog was turned over to the owners, who do not believe their dog would have acted in the described manner.

Personal Injury Accident

The Sheriff's Office responded to a single vehicle accident on Highway 33 near the West Bend Municipal Airport on Aug. 31 at 7:19 a.m. The driver, identified as a 36-year-old Colgate man, was east bound and traveled left of center for an undetermined reason. The man's vehicle, a red Chevrolet Cavalier, almost struck two westbound vehicles by traveling between them before going off the left side of the road. The driver then struck a driveway embankment, went airborne, and came to rest in the north ditch.

First responders located the driver partially ejected out the passenger side window and semi-conscious. The investigation determined he may have lost consciousness as he was attempting to exit the vehicle. The driver was transported to Froedtert in Milwaukee by Flight for Life. Driver condition may have been a factor in the accident and the case remains under investigation.

Kewaskum Police Chief Thomas Bishop poses with Cassie Wolter, a second grader at Kewaskum Elementary School, on the first day of school. Cassie found the hidden junior police badge in the police department's scavenger hunt in the Village of Kewaskum Information Center and received a ride to school on Sept. 1 in a police car.

The Plan will focus on creating trails and routes that provide accessibility to essential services, such as schools, commercial centers and major employment centers as well as creating a trail network that provides varied recreational opportunities that are enjoyable for all residents.

OWI Arrest

On Aug. 4, at 9:09 a.m., a driving complaint was called in on a vehicle northbound on Highway 45. Chief Tom Bishop was able to locate the vehicle on Fond du Lac Avenue at First Street and initiated a traffic stop on the vehicle.

The driver drove into the curb twice and ended up stopping the vehicle with the rear back tire on the curb. The driver was placed through Standardized Field Sobriety testing and was subsequently arrested for OWI. Due to the fact that the subject was under the influence of a drug and not alcohol, an officer from West Bend Police Department who is trained as a drug recognition expert assisted with the case.

Child Neglect

Charges have been referred for child neglect after the inspection of a home on Timblin Drive. A 3-year-old child was taken from the home to the emergency room after swallowing two Percocet pills that were left out by a friend who was staying with the family at the time.

The home was in entire disarray, with standing water in the tub and garbage strewn about, including a car battery and tobacco tins on the floor. Children were in the home eating from a rotting head of cabbage. Child Protective Services were involved in the case as well.

Campbellsport closed its doors Tuesday pending an investigation by Bank Examiner Thomas Herried of alleged losses on unprofitable investments said to have been made by F.J. Barber of Oshkosh who is its president and whose present whereabouts are still unknown. According to the statement of the Bank Examiner there is considerable shortage due to the losses on investments and that there may have been some misappropriation of funds. He stated also that the depositors would not lose anything as the deficiency will be made up by an assessment on the stock of the institution. Mr. Herried took charge of the bank's affairs on Tuesday and it is thought that it will probably be at least a month before it can be opened for business again. F. J. Barber, the president of the bank, was also secretary of the People's Building and Loan Association of Oshkosh which was recently declared in an unsound condition by the state banking commission.

Jos. Opgenorth, an employe of the West Bend Aluminim Co., had the first two fingers of his left hand crushed so badly on Tuesday afternoon while operating a stamping press at the factory that it was necessary to amputate the fingers. Mr. Opgenorth has been an industrious, sober and painstaking worker and his friends sincerely regret his misfortune.

The wedding of Nick Laubach to Elsie Laatsch of Boltonville was announced at St. Michael's Church.

HEALTH TIP

GOOD POSTURE

Proper body alignment can ease stress on our spine and joints; it can help reduce muscle strain, backache, neck pain and headaches. Posture can affect energy levels and the ability to generate positive or negative thoughts. Participants in a recent study who were upright felt happier, more self-confident and more energetic than those who slouched. Energy and productivity levels may be affected by posture because slouching reduces oxygen intake. High-power postures characterized by tall, wide stances, actually increased levels of testosterone and lowered stress hormone, cortisol. Low-power postures, contractive and closed stances, had the opposite effect.

On The Lighter Side

By Andrea Hansen Abler

I Remember

I bet every adult remembers what they were doing on September 11, 2001. I know I do.

On that morning, I remember I was getting ready for work and had one of the morning shows on the television in the background. As I was finishing up, I started hearing them talk about a plane that had hit one of the World Trade Center Towers. They were wondering how a plane could crash into this building — was it a pilot error or something intentional.

This piqued my interest, so I started watching it for a minute before I left for work. As I was sitting there watching, I saw the second plane hit the south tower live on the air.

There was no mistaking this one. This was something intentional and not good at all.

I wanted to stay home and continue watching this unfold, but I was working at our Mayville office at the time and it was a Tuesday so I had to get to the office to help put the paper together for that week.

While I was driving, I heard on the radio that another plane had hit the Pentagon in Washington, D.C. It was definitely going to be a day to remember.

As I got to work, everyone was buzzing about what was going on. One of my co-workers had already gone home to get her television so we could watch what was going on. This was before each of us had internet on our work computers, so we couldn't all sit and watch it on our computers. Plus this was when we still put the paper together manually by cutting each story and photo out of paper and waxing it to a large sheet the size of the page. We were all out in one big room together doing this every Tuesday.

As we were getting to work, the reports of the south tower collapsing were coming out. Then, a little while later the north tower collapsed and another plane crashed in a field in Pennsylvania.

It was quite a day. Add to that the stress of one of our employees. Her husband was flying to Las Vegas for work and this was the first time he had flown on a plane. She was panicking wondering where he was and where they would be landing his plane since all planes were being grounded by the FAA.

On top of everything, we were a newspaper. Granted we are a small weekly newspaper in Dodge County, which is far away from New York, Washington D.C. and Pennsylvania, but we still needed to figure out a way to cover the story and tie it to our areas of Mayville, Lomira and Horicon.

I remember driving to Lomira (my area to cover at the time) and taking a picture at Cole's Hi-Way Hop. The line of cars waiting to get gas was long, at least five or six at each pump. Everyone was panicking, they didn't know if we would be able to get gas the next day or the next week. No one knew what to expect in that first day.

We got the paper done, found a small way to cover what may be the biggest story in my lifetime and went home to continue watching what was unfolding in New York.

A Small Connection

This story probably captivated me a little more than it normally would have because of the timing of the attacks. No, I don't have any significant holiday, birthday or anything like that attached to September 11th.

I kept watching in astonishment because I had just been to New York about a month-and-a-half before this happened. I had taken a little vacation with a friend and her mom and sister to New York City. As part of our sight-seeing, we went by the World Trade Center towers.

We did not go up to the observation deck in the towers. We just walked around the buildings, took some cool photos looking up at the towers as they led to the sky. They truly were a grand thing to see at the time.

I had been to New York before this trip. During one of my previous trips, I had gone up to the observation area and taken some cool photos looking out from the tower and looking down onto the street.

So, there I sat that night watching the news reports and the live feeds from the area. I just couldn't believe what I was seeing. Those majestic towers that I had just been taking photos of not even two months earlier were gone. It was just unbelievable.

15th Anniversary

As we are coming up to the 15th anniversary of this event, I again found myself more personally involved in this area. During the second week in August, I took another trip out to New York City.

Before I go further, I have to say, I went on a bus trip organized by some ladies from the Eden area. They have done a few of these trips before and they have these New York tours down to a science. According to the tour guides on my bus, Tammy Halfman and Pam O'Brien, they consider themselves "Three Babes & A Bus (more like two buses)."

It was a great trip and I would recommend it to anyone who has a chance. You ride during the night on the bus and they have some activities planned that you can participate in if you want, or you can go your own way.

As part of our trip, we went on a tour of the area around the World Trade Center site. We met our guide, Hans, at the Staten Island Ferry terminal.

Hans walked us near Battery Park and told us about the area and the flooding that occurred with Hurricane Sandy. Parts of lower Manhattan are still not fixed from this flooding two years ago.

We went by Wall Street and around that area. He gave us great information about the area and the history of the area.

Then we went to the 9-11 Memorial Park. Hans told us about his experience with the terrorist attacks. He owned a business in one of the trade center towers, but was out of the office at a business meeting when the planes hit and the buildings fell. Hans told us he lost three employees in the attacks.

He told us about the Memorial Reflecting Ponds and how the design was decided upon. Hans gave us information about the buildings around the towers that were affected and showed us some of the area that has been rebuilt, is being rebuilt or there are plans to rebuild.

For myself, I asked how to find a name on the Memorial Reflecting Ponds. The names of each person killed in the attacks is etched in the bronze that surrounds each pool.

After our tour was over and we had some free time, I decided to find a name. I wanted to find where the name of Andrea Lyn Haberman was etched in the memorial. I knew she was from the Kewaskum area and I just felt the need to find her name.

Now, I am glad that I did that because I had the privilege of meeting her father, Gordon, last week. We talked for a long time along with my publisher Andrew Johnson.

Gordon told us about his daughter and how wonderful she was and how she had her whole life ahead of her. She was engaged and planning a wedding, had just bought a house with her fiance, was getting used to her job and was hoping to have a few kids in the future with her soon-to-be husband.

Andrea sounds like she was an amazing person. Her memory will definitely live on in her families' hearts and minds. I think I now know why I felt so strongly about trying to find her name on the Memorial, even before I really knew anything about her.

Next time I go to New York, I definitely plan to go through the 9-11 Museum. I will look for the items of Andrea's that Gordon told us they donated to the museum.

I may even go on another bus tour with the girls from Eden. It was a great time and a fun group to go with!

Women's Club Plans Round-Up

The Kewaskum Women's Club invites the community women to their "Back into Action" round up meeting for the 2016-2017 year. The meeting will be held at 5 p.m. Thursday, September 15 in the Kewaskum Municipal Building Annex, 1330 Fond du Lac Ave., Kewaskum.

The meeting begins with a "Back into Action" (1057 Fond du Lac Ave.), wellness demonstration by Eric Bebe, M.P.T. The topic will be on Balance and Falls with an emphasis on fall prevention.

KWC officers will serve a "light" supper after which the 2016-2017 schedule of meetings and function events will be presented.

The Kewaskum Women's Club extends this invitation to all area women to help serve "our" community as the club has been in "action" since 1913.

The Kewaskum Women's Club begins its 104th year of service to "our" community with their "round-up" meeting. They have only five meetings with short programs each year and have three fund raising events and brat fry at Piggly Wiggly and a chili hot dog booth at Party on the Pavement in June. The club does not meet in summer months.

The club needs to "round-up" new members with ideas to help support "our" community. KWC supports the Festival of the Arts Council with summer music concerts in the park, donation to the five area elementary schools, The Albrecht Free Clinic, the Girl Scouts, the Boys and Girls Club, The Kewaskum Public Library, village beautification projects and two KHS scholarships worth $100 and $300.

Hope to see you at our "Action Round-Up" meeting on Thursday, September 15 at 5 p.m. Any questions call 262-626-2777.

Continued From... Parade And Memorial Service To Be Held In Kewaskum On 9-11

Memorial Service

A total of 2,996 flags will be handed out during the parade.

Each of those flags will honor an innocent victim whose life was lost during the attacks 15 years ago.

As people follow the parade and arrive at the Kewaskum Fire Station, they are asked to place the small flags around the 2,200-pound steel beam.

The memorial service will include a bagpipe, several speeches, an honor guard salute and balloon release.

Fundraising Event

Following the memorial service, a fundraising event will be held on the Kewaskum Fire Department grounds.

The event will feature an acoustic guitar, food, beverages and a silent auction.

There will be a bounce house, and plans are being made to try to show the Packer game.

The event is being held to raise awareness and funds for the 9/11 memorial to be constructed in Kewaskum.

The Memorial

The committee that is planning the memorial is budgeting $200,000 for developing the memorial park, and would like to raise an additional $50,000 to be used for maintenance.

"We do not want this to become a burden for the village," said Dustin Melzark, a Kewaskum High School graduate and the architect for the memorial.

The hope is to create a 501(c)(3) organization to maintain the memorial, Melzark said.

The memorial is designed with the steel pointing toward the Kewaskum Fire Department and New York City.

The steel will be placed on a pentagon-shaped foundation in order to pay respect to the Pentagon, which was also attacked that fateful day.

"The actual shape around the steel is in the shape of a teardrop. The symbolism is that there were so many tears shed that day," Melzark said. Inside of that, the intent is to have some kind of crushed slate with a purplish hue because that was Andrea's favorite color."

Surrounding the teardrop shape will be a bench, featuring a blue mosaic that depicts the clear blue sky that many remember from that day 15 years ago.

The stainless steel piece that will hold up the steel beam transfers to the replication of the two towers, Melzark said.

The intent is for the memorial park to feature education.

"We would like the steel to be used for the education of students so they will understand the magnitude of what happened that day," Melzark said.

Four different learning stations are planned for the park. One will focus on the Pentagon, a second will feature the World Trade Center, another station will teach about the plane lost in Pennsylvania and a fourth will be about Andrea Haberman.

Melzark did not know Haberman, but feels privileged to be working on the project.

"This is something that is really an honor of really being able to give back in a way that I never thought I would be able to. It is one of the best things I ever did," Melzark said.

The memorial is already making an impact on the surrounding area. This summer, the piece of steel has traveled to the Washington County Fair, Deer Fest, Richfield Days, the Allenton Parade, Germantown Moving Wall Parade and a couple farmers markets.

"It is amazing the reception that it has had," said Gordon Haberman, Andrea's father. "This really is beginning to get national attention for Southeastern Wisconsin."

i4Learning Community School Holds Learning Celebration

The Kewaskum community is invited to join i4Learning Community School in a celebration of its first year as a project based/multiage learning environment and the exciting start of their second year in this innovative learning environment.

One year ago, i4Learning (formerly Wayne Elementary) started the school year as an instrumentality charter school within the Kewaskum District. The year was a great success with students completing projects in a variety of hands-on, real life experiences and developing critical thinking skills along the way. Multiage learning allowed students to grow at their pace, and they did. Large groups, small groups and one-on-one instruction helped meet the needs of each student at their level.

Join us for this first annual celebration of learning at i4 Learning on September 15, 6 to 7 p.m. All district parents, educators and any interested parties in the community are welcome to attend. Refreshments will be served, and childcare will be available. Additional information can be found at www.i4learning.org.

Boltonville Street Dance To Be Held This Saturday

By Anne Trautner

The picnic season started in May with the Boltonville Rain Days Firemen's Picnic. This Saturday will mark the end of the picnic season when the Boltonville Fire Department's holds its 21st annual Street Dance.

The event will be held on Saturday, Sept. 10, in front of the Boltonville Fire Station.

The evening will kick off when the grills are lit up to cook hamburgers and brats at about 5 p.m.

The group Rebel Grace will perform live music from 8:30 p.m. until 12:30 a.m.

In addition to food, beverages and music, the event will feature raffles and a silent auction. All proceeds will benefit the Boltonville Fire Department.

Street Dance Origins

The Boltonville Street Dance dates back to 1995 when the fire department decided to hold a fundraiser at the beginning of the fall, when the picnic season was done.

"The first year we had a heavy downpour rain, and it was still a fairly decent crowd. I can still remember people staying despite the rain," said Dennis Fechter, a volunteer firefighter and first responder who has been with the station for 40 years.

After that first year, the firefighters decided to try a themed event.

"We tried a Hawaiian night one year," Fechter said. "We brought in a couple truckloads of sand and dumped it on the end of the street. At the time, we thought it was a good idea, until people had a hard time walking."

The ladies, in particular, had trouble in their high heels, Fechter said.

"And then, of course, we had all the sand that we had to sweep off the road at the end of the night," Fechter said.

That didn't go over so well with all the volunteers, who typically don't finish working that night until 3:30 or 4 a.m., Fechter admitted.

But ever since it started, the street dance has been a hit.

"It is amazing. Every year it has gotten better and better," said Fechter, who has served on the street dance and picnic committee for at least 35 years.

For many people, the event is a reunion.

"A lot of people that you don't normally see will come out just to hang out with their friends that night. It's a social event that people look forward to every year," Fechter said.

Unlike many other organizations that have picnics that struggle to survive, the Boltonville Street Dance gets bigger with every passing year, Fechter said.

Part of the draw is that the fire department tries to serve quality food.

"I think we have a reputation for good sandwiches. We are not in a rush to make the food...we don't want to cut any corners. We want to make sure everyone is enjoying it so they want to come back next year," Fechter said.

The fire department uses local food suppliers, such as Kewaskum Frozen Foods and Noble View Cheese.

But one of the highlights is seeing the people in the community come together to support one another.

"When you are sitting in the firehouse and look out at the crowd, it's really cool looking. It's a nice atmosphere," Fechter said.

A Good Cause

All of the proceeds from the street dance benefit the Boltonville Fire Department, which is 100 percent volunteer.

The funds raised will go toward fire department equipment, training and gear.

"We are saving up for new fire gear, coats, pants and helmets. A lot of the equipment we get is only certified to last about 10 years," Fechter said.

The time is nearing when all that gear needs to be replaced.

A set of gear for each firefighter costs about $2,000, Fechter said. The department currently has about 38 active firefighters.

On Saturday night, the department will display the newer fire equipment that it has purchased over the last few years.

"We also have a sponsorship board, where we list area businesses that make a contribution for the event," Fechter said.

Those funds also go toward training and equipment to help protect the community.

Dodie provided licensed family childcare from 1983-1997 and opened the group center (Little Folks School House) in 1997 in the Town of Wayne. After outgrowing the Wayne building, they built a bigger center in Kewaskum which opened in 2006. There are five classrooms, three age separated fenced playgrounds, a coded secured entry and camera monitored classrooms. They also provide before and after school care at Little Folks and Kewaskum Elementary School. Little Folks also serves as a teaching center for Moraine Park Technical College. Students are placed with them every semester for their practicum experience where the Little Folks teachers mentor them.

Little Folks strives to form working partnerships with families. They respect the parent's insights and concerns and want them to feel comfortable leaving their children in their care, knowing they will be safe and nurtured as they help to develop and grow.

Continued From... Area Remembers 9-11 Attacks And Loss To Community

Bright Light

As Gordon will tell you, Andrea was a wonderful person who was just starting her life. She had been engaged for about five months and was busy planning an October 2002 wedding. Andrea and her fiancé, Al Kolodzick, had just purchased a house together and were in the process of filling and decorating it. She hoped to have a bunch of kids and was looking forward to her future with Al.

"Andy was a bright light," Gordon said.

September 11, 2001

It was at 8:46 a.m., eastern time, on September 11th when the first plane hit the north tower. According to reports, the plane impacted the 93rd through 98th floors of the tower, right above Andrea's floor.

"Andrea's fiancé called up frantically saying 'turn on the TV,'" Gordon said. "We didn't know where she was. Nobody knew her out there. We did not know what to do."

The Habermans watched the event happen on television and did not know what to do or who to call. Eventually, Gordon decided he had to do something.

"By late in the evening, I called the FBI," Gordon said.

Andrea had called her fiancé, Al, when she got to the offices. After that, she made a call to the Carr Futures offices in Chicago. She was on the phone with her co-worker in Chicago, telling him she was there and getting things ready. During this phone call, the call cut out at 8:46 a.m. The co-worker thought Andrea had pushed a wrong button on the phone or for some minor reason their call was cut off.

Help From A Stranger

Gordon and his wife Kathy decided they needed to do something to try to find out where Andrea was and if she had made it out. They asked some relatives to help them create a missing person poster and sent it out on the wire.

On the night of September 13, 2001,

Gordon received a phone call at 2:30 a.m. It was a woman from New York who told Gordon she had seen the poster and was looking for Andrea. Jessica Kraemer told Gordon she wanted to do something to help after the terrorist attacks and when she saw this poster and saw where Andrea was from, she knew she had to help.

"This young lady, it turns out, grew up five miles from us in West Bend," Gordon said.

Kraemer was just a few years older than Andrea. Kraemer made sure Andrea's posters were up and she visited some of the area hospitals looking for her.

After that phone call, Gordon knew his family couldn't stay in Wisconsin. They had to get to New York to try to do something and now they knew at least one person in New York who was looking for Andrea.

Onto New York

Gordon and Kathy, their daughter Julie and Al left for New York on the morning of September 13, 2001. Gordon talks in the book "Just A Few Sleeps Away" written by Mike Nichols about the fact that Al did most of the driving. He let Gordon drive for a short time but then took over again because Gordon wasn't going fast enough (Al was driving 85-90 mph to get there as soon as they could).

"Our hope was that once we got out there, we would find her," Gordon said.

As soon as they arrived in New Jersey, very early in the morning, they were some of the first people who were let through the Holland tunnel that leads from New Jersey into New York. It had been closed right after the terrorist attacks. As they came up to the tunnel, the Habermans could see the smoke and the fire from where the towers once stood.

"That's when my heart sank," Gordon said. "We ended up spending about two weeks there. It was frantic in New York. When I first saw the site, I knew no one was coming out of there."

They stayed at the Waldorf Astoria hotel. Carr Futures got them a room there and had a family room set up at the hotel for the families of their 69 employees who were in the office of the north tower when it was hit.

The Armory on Lexington Avenue in New York was set up by the NYPD as a command center for the families of those missing.

Help From Strangers Turned Friends

Gordon made a lot of friends on that first trip to New York and has made many more on the numerous trips he has taken to New York in the past 15 years. Many of these people helped them out immensely.

"Since then (September 11), we have received such kindness," Gordon said.

One family who became close to the Habermans is the Meehan family. The youngest boy in the family, Damian, was killed in the North Tower. He also worked at Carr Futures and was on the 92nd floor with Andrea.

Damian's three older brothers were the first people that Gordon met in the family room at the Waldorf. They walked in while Gordon was in there by himself. One brother is a policeman and two are firefighters in New York. All three had been out at the World Trade Center site in those first days helping with the recovery.

Mike, the police officer, and Gordon grew especially close. "He helped guide me through a lot of it," Gordon said.

As a matter of fact, Andrea has a memorial stone in the garden at the Church of the Good Shepherd in Inwood, New York. This is the Meehan family church and they helped Gordon and Kathy with a memorial stone in that location. It is a special memorial to victims of 9-11 and has a total of 25 stones.

"She's out there yet," Gordon said of Andrea and this location.

Trying To Find Out What Happened To Andrea

Gordon said his mission since 9-11 has been to find out what happened to Andrea on that day. His biggest worry and concern has always been the fact that Andrea did not know anyone at the New York offices. It had been her first trip there and the only person she knew had not arrived to work yet.

"There were 69 other people on the floor at that time," Gordon said.

He wanted to know if Andrea made it off the 92nd floor and was trying to get out of the building. Was anyone helping her or was she by herself. That question has haunted him.

The next step was finding Andrea. Ground Zero as it came to be known was a huge undertaking. Clean up and recovery efforts lasted for nine months. In the end, they were able to identify remains of 1,588 people. There are still 1,161 who have not been found.

On October 31, 2001, a death certificate was issued for Andrea. They had not found her yet, but the city of New York issued the certificate.

Then in May of 2002, the Habermans received the news that a piece of Andrea was identified. "I think it was May 25th," Gordon said. They found her on St. Patrick's Day — March 17th — and she was identified in May.

When the workers would find items, they would record the location using a grid they had come up with. This helped a little in trying to piece together what happened on that day after the planes hit and before the towers fell.

In September of 2001, the Habermans held a memorial service in Wisconsin. Then, after she was found, they held a funeral service.

"We actually had a funeral out there in 2005," Gordon said.

Members of the fire department, police department and honor guard attended this funeral with the Habermans, Al and some relatives and friends. It was held near Ground Zero.

Trying To Make Sense Of It

In an effort to find out as much as he can, Gordon has spent a lot of time in New York. He has made many friends through the years who have given him bits of information about all aspects of the attacks, the clean-up effort, the identification process and much more.

He has read the 9-11 Commission's report. This group investigated every aspect of the attack and our response. Gordon has also read as much as he can about al-Qaeda. He has traveled to trials of other terrorists from other attacks. He has gone to Guantanamo Bay in Cuba three times and will go again when the trials start for the 9-11 attacks.

Gordon considers his office at his Town of Farmington house his "war room." This is where he has amassed a large collection of books, maps and much more to help him understand what happened.

"What I have learned is that this hatred will not go away," he said. "They are dangerous and they will try to attack us again."

When Gordon refers to "they," he does not mean all Muslims. He is referring to a specific group that is far out of center in their beliefs.

The Book

In 2005, he also worked with Mike Nichols, who was a writer for the Milwaukee Journal at the time, to write a book about the Haberman's experience. The family did not want to talk to the media, so they developed a relationship with Nichols and he helped them come up with this book to provide their story in their own words for people.

"You had to protect yourself," Gordon said of the constant media frenzy.

It took about a year to research and write the book and the result is a great read about one family's journey.

"The book was a process," Gordon said. "We started talking about it back in 2005. Mike and I spent a year together going back and forth (from Wisconsin to New York)."

This book is for sale on Amazon and Barnes & Noble. You can go to www.justafewsleeps-away.com/index.htm to find out more about the book.

Gordon stated that some of the proceeds of this book are going to be used to help build the memorial in Kewaskum. A piece of steel from the World Trade Center was donated to Kewaskum in order to make a memorial for Andrea. To learn more about this memorial and to donate to it, check out <http://www.kewaskum-> www.kewaskum-memorial.com/.

Since 9-11

In the years since 9-11, the Habermans are learning to live with their "new normal." It is always difficult after a family member is gone to get back to life, especially in this type of circumstance. As Gordon said, their life has changed completely from what it was before September 11, 2001, and it will never be the same.

They are now taking their tragedy and trying to find good ways to use what they have learned. Gordon and Kathy are on the board of directors for many different organizations.

Gordon started a new organization with Charles Vitchers called Housing Our Nation's Outstanding Returning Soldiers (H.O.N.O.R.S.). It is a non-profit organization that provides adaptive and traditional home construction and remodeling services to disabled veterans.

Vitchers served as the lead superintendent for Bovis Lend Lease during the World Trade Center disaster recovery and clean up project. In that role, Vitchers managed and coordinated the numerous contractors, engineering firms and city and state agencies on a daily basis. This is how Gordon met him.

"He and I became buddies literally on Ground Zero," Gordon said. "We were standing down in Ground Zero wondering what could we do to help. This is one of the most rewarding things I've ever done."

Vitchers is also the author of Nine Months at Ground Zero, which chronicles the recovery and clean up efforts of the World Trade Center site.

Gordon also helped write the Justice Against Sponsors of Terrorism Act (JASTA) that has already unanimously passed in the Senate and now moves on to the House of Representatives.

Though some of these new ventures are very rewarding and exciting, the Haberman family would take it all back to have Andrea back in their lives. This might have been a national tragedy, but it is very personal for this Kewaskum area family.

The next time you see Gordon, Kathy or Julie just ask them to tell you a little bit about Andrea and you will probably see a spark in their eye and a smile on their face as they remember this "bright light" of their family.

Continued From... All Things Dairy To Be Featured At Early Farm Days This Sunday

One of the featured machines at this year's event is a milk can washer that came from the cheese factory in Beechwood.

Milk can washers date back to the early 1900s, Markus said. The washers transported milk cans upside down along a conveyor belt as steam was used to sterilize the cans.

"They hauled milk to the cheese factories in cans of that type for many, many years," Markus said. "They had to have some way of washing the cans out and sterilizing them, or the milk would turn sour."

The early dishwasher was vital to making cheese.

"The cheesemaker wanted to make the best cheese that he could so that he could keep the cans clean, that was half his battle," Markus said.

The milk cans were all numbered so that cheese producers knew which farmer they belonged to. The cans were originally transported by horse and wagon, and later on traveled in trucks, Markus said.

Old milk cans from Kewaskum will be one of the many items displayed during Early Farm Days on Sunday, Sept. 11. The event is sponsored by the Kewaskum Historical Society.

Early Farm Days
 Early Farm Days is the Kewaskum Historical Society's signature event that marks the closing of the society's museum and log cabin for the winter.

The two buildings will be open during the event so people can see things that date back to a simpler time.

Outside, some 40 exhibitors show off old equipment and machinery along the Milwaukee River each year.

Antique steam engines, gas engines, cars, trucks, threshers, sawed lumber and processed grain can be seen in all their former glory.

"It's a big neighborhood get-together. A lot of people show up and farmers come out for it. It's not just about equipment. It's people seeing people, so there is a little bit of everything going on," Brana said.

There will be music and food. Burgers will be available for purchase, as well as pies available by the whole pie or by the slice. And, of course, to go with the dairy theme, the pies can be served with ice cream.

The event also includes horse-drawn wagon rides and a petting farm.

"We shell some corn. We thrash. Usually a feed cutter comes and cuts some silage corn. It makes for a little bit of interest for everybody. It's an interesting situation as far as what happened years ago," Markus said.

And all of it is open to the public, free of charge.

An old-time fire pumper is usually on hand to spray water over the river.

"Again, I say we have a lot of good food, plus we have the museum building and the log cabin building to go through so people can look at some of the old-time stuff," Markus said.

Exhibitors come from across the region to the event.

"They like the show because it's a small show and everybody gets acquainted with everybody else," Markus said.

Last weekend, the Rock River Thresheree was held in Janesville. It was similar in nature, but was on a much larger scale. That show draws up to 30,000 people compared to Kewaskum's event that attracts several hundred, according to Markus.

Still, many prefer Kewaskum's Early Farm Days, he said.

"A lot of people come to our show because it is a small show and you can spend a whole day by us and see everything. When you go to the Rock River Show, you can spend three days there and not see everything. They probably draw 500-600 tractors at a show like that, plus probably in the vicinity of 20 steam engines, where we are content with one steam engine and maybe a dozen or a dozen and a half tractors," Markus said.

Anyone who would like to bring something to display at Early Farm Days is welcome to simply show

Kewaskum Pool Committee Considers Inflatable Amenities

By Anne Trautner

Two large inflatable pads filled Kewaskum Village Hall's community room on Tuesday, Sept. 1.

No one actually climbed onto the equipment, but members of the village's pool committee were able to get a feel of what the recreational modules were like.

Committee members are considering making a recommendation to bring that type of inflatables into the pond at Kiwanis Park in an effort to increase pond attendance.

At last week's meeting, Andy Berens, product sales manager for Commercial Recreation Specialists (CRS) in Verona, gave a presentation of what inflatable equipment is available.

Products range from slides to trampolines to play structures. Some of the equipment is modular so that individual pieces can be combined. The structures and climbing apparatuses are available for all age groups.

The setup can be switched around, so that pool patrons have variety when attending the venue.

At last week's meeting,

Berens discussed how long products last and how to maintain them.

The equipment could be used in all three swim zones at the Kiwanis Park pond: the zero-depth zone that goes from 0 to 4 feet, an intermediate zone where the pier is, and the deep zone where the diving boards are.

"We could essentially get something in each zone for $10,000," Village Administrator Matt Heiser said.

The products are markedly less expensive than some of the other options the pool committee has considered, such as constructing a pool for about $3 million or splash pad for around $200,000.

At last week's meeting, Berens also discussed splash pad options that CRS offers, such as the splash pad the company constructed in Regner Park in West Bend.

If a splash pad is built, it could use water from the pond, Berens told the committee.

Only two members of the pool committee attended last week's meeting, along with Heiser and village resident Lloyd Spaeth.

Inflatable play structures are located in a swim pond in Fond du Lac. The Kewaskum Pool Committee is considering something similar for the swim pond at Kiwanis Park.

-photo submitted

Spaeth contacted CRS after visiting the swim pond in Winneconne that utilizes CRS inflatable products.

Attendance at Winneconne's pond tripled after installing inflatable structures, according to Winneconne's Village Administrator Mitchell Foster said.

The CRS products also are used at the Fondy Aqua Park in Fond du Lac and at the Sheboygan Quarry Beach.

"The Sheboygan Quarry was a blight in the community that was being vandalized. They turned that eyesore into a money-generating park," Heiser said.

One factor that the pool committee has identified as a need at the Kiwanis Park pond is shade.

So, one of the things that Berens provided was information about shade structures that CRS offers.

The pool committee was formed after the Kewaskum Village Board became concerned with dropping attendance at the pool last summer. That, coupled with the $50,000 the village spends on maintaining the pond each year, made trustees question whether they should make changes to the pond.

The village contracted with Burbach Aquatics for $2,400 to explore options to help increase pond attendance.

Since March, the committee has considered a variety of options, ranging from replacing the pond with a pool to adding a splash pad or simply closing the pond.

The committee has solicited input from residents for the past several months. The feedback has been varied, but the overall consensus is that community members want to keep the existing pond.

The committee will meet at least one more time with Burbach Aquatics before making a recommendation to the Village Board in October.

The Sheboygan Quarry Beach sports inflatable play structures similar to the ones that are being considered for Kiwanis Park in Kewaskum.

The swim pond in Stoughton features inflatable play structures. Kewaskum's pool committee is considering similar products for Kiwanis Park. The average life span of the devices is three to five years.

Second Half Surge Helps Indians To Third Straight Win

By Judy Harlow

Scoring three touchdowns in a matter of eight minutes in the third quarter, the Kewaskum High football team turned a close game into a blowout on September 3rd, defeating host Winneconne 38-8 to start the East Central Conference with a win and move to 3-0 on the year.

Because of some execution issues, "We struggled a lot in the first half," KHS coach Jason Piittmann said about the contest. "Then we exploded" to the tune of a 28-point second half and 344 yards of total offense.

After stopping the Wolves on their opening drive of the second half, the Indians needed just a couple plays to score. It was Dalton Poole hooking up with Tony Steger for a 59-yard touchdown. "Dalton threw a pretty ball on that one," Piittmann said. "He hit Tony right in stride."

On the extra point try, the Indians used a bit of trickery with the holder, Gabe Christenson, passing the ball to Cade Peterson for two points and an 18-point lead.

"I had noticed in the first half they weren't adjusting to our extra point formation," Piittmann said about the call to go with the pass.

Kewaskum scored its second touchdown of the quarter with 6:09 remaining with Patrick Krier getting his second touchdown of the night on a one-yard run to successfully cap a drive.

"It was Patrick just getting those tough yards again," Piittmann said of the touchdown.

On the extra point, the ball went right through Christenson's hands, and Peterson tried to pass the ball, but it fell incomplete.

The Indians made it three scoring drives in a row at 2:38 when Cole Surprenant got into the act. Surprenant went 27 yards for the score, and this time the Indians did kick, making the score 31-0.

"Cole Surprenant ran really well in the second half. He ran with a lot of power," Piittmann said of the 5-11, 180-pound junior running back. "This was one of those powerful runs. He was running over people."

During the fourth quarter, Surprenant got a second touchdown on a 12-yard scamper.

Winneconne kept from being shut out by scoring with 1:29 left on the clock. Reserve quarterback Markus Fahrney, who came on in relief of Joseph Bissett, threw a 31-yard pass to Marshal Schneider for the touchdown, and Fahrney connected with Ryan Sailors for the two-point conversion.

Surprenant wound up as the leading rusher for the Indians, piling up 119 yards in 10 carries, while Krier got the tough yards again, gaining 45 in 11 tries.

Poole had his best game of the season, completing 15 of 23 passes for 198 yards and one touchdown. He completed passes to seven different receivers. Steger was his favorite target on this night, catching five balls for 84 yards, while Danny Kreis caught four for 37 yards.

Kewaskum's first points came on a 22-yard field goal by Peterson. "It was a good drive, but it kind of fizzled when we got inside the 10-yard line," Piittmann said. "Fortunately, having a good kicker like Cade, made the decision easier" to go for the field goal.

"The defense played lights out all night," Piittmann said. "I thought Alex Vogt and Scott Hiltunen did a super job" in the defensive backfield, and the linemen made things miserable for the Wolves all night. "They weren't able to get anything going at all."

Defensively, it was junior linebacker Faton Elmazi leading the team statistically with three solo tackles and seven team tackles. Defensive halfback Alex Vogt contributed four solos and four team tackles.

Winneconne turned the ball over once. Hiltunen picked off Joseph Bissett, who was 9x24 for 102 yards.

Kewaskum will be at home Friday to host a team that has been weak in recent years but won its EC opener. The Ripon Tigers, 1-6 in 2015, defeated Campbellsport 12-6 in the opening week of action.

"They (Tigers) struggled against Columbus," Piittmann said, adding

KHS Kickers Have Troubles Getting Started

By Judy Harlow

John Kenworthy is puzzled by the recent slow starts of his Kewaskum boys soccer team.

Last week, Kenworthy's Indians dropped a 4-2 decision to Campbellsport on August 30 and lost a hard-fought 2-1 decision at Winneconne on September 1, and in both cases the Indians played much better in the second halves than they did in the first.

"Both games, I thought we should have won," Kenworthy said. "We've just got to come out more aggressively."

At Winneconne, the Wolves scored one goal in each half, and on the second, Kenworthy was understandably upset because one of his defenders, Jakob Hrica, caught an elbow in the head. Funny thing, according to Kenworthy, the official claimed the player did not hit Hrica, but the Winneconne trainer said Hrica suffered a concussion, "and now he's going to be out for a while."

There's no question Kewaskum has gained ground on the Wolves and all the rest of the East Central Conference teams for that matter. "Last year when we went up to Winneconne, it was 11-1," Kenworthy said, but he doesn't just want his team to be better and lose. "To get better and to win is what we're after," he said.

With the team's leading scorer, J.J. Heberer, slowed by a groin pull and two other players out, Kenworthy had to juggle his lineup, and it ended up one of his freshman, Isaiah Cochran, scored KHS' lone goal. at 85:00.

"I told Isaiah we needed an effort right up the middle," Kenworthy said, and several minutes later, Cochran got the ball, and, "He put the ball down."

Cited for good defense in this game were Gavin Curtin, Alek Gerhartz, who moved from mid to defense, and Devin Buck. "That whole crew played very soundly," the coach said.

Against Campbellsport, the Indians were able to keep Sonny Johnson from scoring but other Cougars picked up the slack. "We played our normal defense," Kenworthy said, but, "We were conscious where Sonny was."

The Cougars scored twice in the first seven minutes, with Isaiah Fryman getting a ball past Conner Enright at 2:00 and Mason Manniner finding the net at 7:00. Owen Engel made the score 3-0 with a goal at 28 minutes.

Heberer got the Indians on the board with a goal at 31:00, then Engel's second goal at 44:00 pretty much iced the contest.

Will Jens' goal at 83:00 brought the Indians within two goals but they were unable to score again.

Kenworthy said Matt Krautkramer matched up with Johnson pretty well, and the coach is very pleased with the way Heberer and Enright are playing. "Connor, I think, is playing at a very high level," the coach said. "He gives 100 percent on every play he is involved in."

As far as Heberer is concerned, Kenworthy said, "Obviously, J.J. is playing extremely well to get that much scoring for us." In 2015, Heberer scored four goals and already this season he has a total of eight.

KHS, currently 0-3 in EC play and 2-5 overall, entertains Ripon this afternoon, beginning at 4:30 p.m.

KHS Volleyball Team Is Starting To Jell

By Judy Harlow

Slow starts have been costly for the Kewaskum High volleyball team, and that was definitely the case on September 1 against highly regarded Winneconne.

"There was nervousness at the start," KHS coach Laine Leitzke said about the East Central Conference match, which the Indians lost 0-3. "The first couple of balls did not go our way, and we were unable to get out of that funk in the first set."

After losing Game 1 9-25, the Indians started to loosen up, and they were very competitive in the second and third games, losing 20-25 and 21-25. "The second and third sets, the team showed up," Leitzke said. "We pushed a very good 7-1 team to the end. We continue to grow and came a long way from the Slinger game last Tuesday. We have to keep that momentum up over the long weekend."

Amanda Schaller had a good night, with a team-high seven kills and seven digs. Also, Sarah Butschlick was near the top in all areas of the statistics, with her four kills, nine assists and five blocks.

Elizabeth Lightner, a senior front line player, chipped in with four kills and contributed three aces, while Leitzke also reported some good play from the two Morgans on the team. Morgan Kappler had three aces and five digs, while Morgan Denlinger contributed nine assists.

KHS, currently 1-3 in East Central action and 1-4 overall, was at Mayville on September 6 and has a home match tonight (Sept. 8) against Ripon. Varsity action begins at 6:45 p.m.

Current EC Standings: 1. Kettle Moraine Lutheran, 2-0; 2. Winneconne, 3-1; 3. Plymouth, 2-1; 4. (tie) Campbellsport, 2-2 and Waupun, 2-2; 6. (tie) Kewaskum, 1-2 and Berlin, 1-2; 8. Ripon, 0-3.

On August 30, the Indians were swept by Slinger, still Leitzke said "progress was made from our quad."

The scores in the match were 17-25, 20-25 and 19-25 with Butschlick having a good all around game and the senior Lightner strong at the net. Butschlick contributed five kills, 14 assists, one ace and 1.5 blocks. Lightner chipped in with four kills and a team-high 3.5 blocks.

Schaller and Kappler were credited with four and three kills, respectively, and Kappler was the dig leader with 11, ahead of Brittany Williams, who was next with seven.

"Slinger outworked us, and that was the difference in the match," Leitzke said. "We were there each set, but they outthrustled us and those hustle points were the difference."

Young Indian Netters Come Close To Upending Waupun

By Judy Harlow

The Kewaskum tennis team needed just one more victory in its September 1 Eastern Wisconsin Conference match against Waupun but just fell short of the goal, falling to the Warriors 3-4.

KHS coach Peter Garcia called it "a real heart-breaker," pointing out his team was up 3-2 with two matches to go and lost both, one in three sets when Kallie Hoeft and Marissa Zarda "ran out of gas" in the third set, falling 1-6 after splitting the first two, 5-7, 6-4.

Garcia is thrilled with his No. 2 doubles team of Brandi Geldnich and Ariaahna Grossenbacher, who defeated McKenzie Rickerman and Halle Bradley, 6-3, 7-5 for their fourth win of the season and their third in EC play against one win.

This is the second year the two juniors have played together, and they certainly complement each other. "I guess I play back pretty well," Grossenbacher said, while Geldnich said, "I'm front, she's back. It's what we always do."

After winning the first set rather easily, the two struggled for a while in the second, falling behind 3-4. "I was sick for a while (in the second)," Geldnich said, but, "At the end, we were kicking butt."

And how. In the final two games, Geldnich had several smashes for points while Grossenbacher posted a winner with a perfectly placed ball down the line.

When asked what part of the game, they have improved this year, Grossenbacher said emphatically, "Everything."

Kassiday Lange and Hannah Preder won easily to go 2-1 in EC play and 3-1 on the year.

Morgan Wenzlaff picked up her first victory at No. 1 singles where she won in straight sets.

"The ladies lost this night but now, at full strength, continue to make progress and remain hopeful of finishing in the top half of the conference," Garcia said.

Waupun 4, Kewaskum 3

Singles: No. 1 Moran Wenzlaff def. Ashley Schmitt, 6-3, 6-4; No. 2 Ashley Martin lost to Erin Schmitt, 3-6, 1-6; No. 3 Emma Preder lost to Mei Champion, 3-6, 4-6; No. 4 Amanda Prolski lost to Janell Kounelis, 1-6, 5-7

Doubles: No. 1 Kassidy Lange/Hannah Preder def. Elyse Stessel/Madeline Keath, 6-2, 6-1; No. 2 Brandi Geldnich/Ariaahna Grossenbacher def. McKenzie Rickerman/Halle Bradley, 6-3, 7-5; No. 3 Kallie Hoeft/Marissa Zarda lost to Kayla Pemperton/Samantha Nummerdor, 5-7, 6-4, 1-6.

All Kewaskum players listed first.

On August 30, the Indians were shutout 6-0 by host Kohler, one of the perennial powers of the Eastern Wisconsin Tennis Conference. The good news was two of the Indians' doubles teams each won two or more games against their Blue Bomber opponents as did Emma Preder at No. 3 singles.

"Singles struggled," Garcia said. "Kohler's team was led by two (Horth) sisters, a freshman at No. 1 and the other senior."

Garcia continued to see promise in Emma Preder at No. 3 singles and said Hoeft and Zarda "continue to make a positive impression" against two Kohler seniors.

Singles: No. 1 Morgan Wenzlaff lost to Shelby Horth, 0-6, 0-6; No. 2 Ashley Marti lost to Lauren Horth, 0-6, 0-6; No. 3 Emma Preder lost to Molley Thomack, 3-6, 1-6; No. 4 Amanda Krolski lost to Luisa Nevner, 0-6, 1-6

Golfers Have An Up And Down Week

By Judy Harlow

Considering changes in the weather, the layouts of the different course and speed of their greens, high school golf may be one of the most difficult sports to maintain consistency. One day everything goes right, and the next they don't.

The girls golf team learned that lesson last week, doing well in Oconomowoc, then struggling on their own Hon-E-Kor CC course.

"We had a rough night along with many of the other conference teams," KHS coach Amy Uhlig said about the Sept. 1 meet. "The greens were playing tough and not holding a lot, which I think led to higher than average scores."

Beaver Dam, led by medalist Ashley Kulka who fired a 43, took first with a 187 to take a four-point lead on Hartford, which slipped to fifth with a 207. Oconomowoc was second at 202, followed in order by West Bend, 203; Watertown, 203; then Hartford and finally Kewaskum at 235.

Leading the Indians with a 55 was Alivia Wisnefske. Her only bad hole was number eight where she had an errant sand shot. "I think that rattled her a bit," the coach said.

KHS' number one player, Taylor Cook, "had two nines which really hurt her round," Uhlig said.

Larisa Lindsley came in with a 50, while Alyssa Dreher and Grace Kober both carded 61s.

At LaBelle Golf Club on Aug. 28, the Beaver Dam team set a couple of records while the Kewaskum/Campbellsport squad had its best team score to date, a 211, which had Uhlig beaming.

Beaver Dam's number one player, Ashley Kulka shot an even par 36 to set a WLT record for nine holes. The Lady Beavers also set a new team mark for the league, a 173, one shot better than Hartford posted in 2015.

The Indians were sixth again but had several individual highlights.

KHS/CHS junior Taylor Cook dipped under 50 for the first time in her career, firing a fine 47. She only had difficulties on the par-four 15th hole, where she had a nine. Otherwise she had four fours, a pair of fives and two sixes, and Uhlig said "She's making really good ball contact lately and playing with a lot of confidence."

Freshman Alyssa Dreher and senior Larisa Lindsley both had 54s, while Taylor Schmidt was two shots back with a 56.

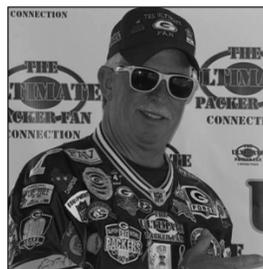

WLT Conference Standings: 1. Beaver Dam, 4 points; 2. (tie) Hartford and Oconomowoc, 8; 4. West Bend, 12; 5. Watertown, 13; 6. KHS, 18.

The Ultimate Packer Fan Picks

— Green Bay Packers vs. Jacksonville Jaguars

Sunday, Sept. 11, is the official start of the regular NFL season for both the Green Bay Packers and The Jacksonville Jaguars. To say it's exciting would be an understatement. As the Jaguars are emerging with a proclaimed high powered offense they are hosting their home opener against a favored Super Bowl contender and emotions will be running high at Ever Bank Field.

I'm not taking the fourth preseason game into consideration as many starting players never leave the bench. Therefore, throughout the last three preseason games, both Green Bay and Jacksonville have had impressive results from their offense. Passing: Jacksonville takes the lead with 576 total yards as compared to Green Bay's 538. The run game had been dominated by the Pack rushing for 444 yards vs. Jacksonville's 291. The Pack had also dominated total first downs with 56 compared to Jacksonville's 44. Green Bay's defense stepped it up holding their opponents to 29 first downs with Jacksonville more than doubling that with

I expect Blake Bortles to target WR Allen Robinson for big yardage down field. With the absence of TE Julius Thomas, out at least the first four games with a broken hand, Bortles will need help from his younger receiving corps. Running backs Chris Ivory and T.J. Yeldon will present a challenge facing our run defense. Hopefully the Packers' inability to stop the run is in the past.

If all goes per plan the Packers offensive line will provide Aaron Rogers with the time he needs to get the ball out. With the re-emergence of Jordy Nelson and newly acquired TE Jared Cook, I expect them to be two of Aaron's "go to" guys. A healed Jared Abbrederis, along with healthy teammates Randall Cobb and Devante Adam, should also prove to be solid targets headed into the end zone. The Jacksonville defense will need a good day if they're going to stop such a powerful offense but they should not be underestimated. A lighter but stronger Eddy Lacy and the experience of James Starks have put up some big yardage plays in the pre-season and show promise of a solid running game this season. Another weapon welcomed and desperately needed was the newly acquired Trevor Davis. He and veteran Micah Hyde should bring some excellent returns and produce a solid performance from Special Teams.

I'm predicting Green Bay comes away with its first win, 37 - 31.

KHS Runners 10th In Tough Kiel Test

By Judy Harlow

Finishing in the middle of the pack was just fine for the Kewaskum High boys cross country team, according to coach Kris Evans. After all, the Kiel Invitational draws a large field, one that includes many good D-2 teams from the eastern part of the state.

Kewaskum, led by freshman Andrew Carlton and junior Justin Reck, came in 10th in the 18-team field on Sept. 1, with a score of 230 points. Carlton was clocked in 18 minutes, 24.25 seconds (18:24.25) in the 5,000-meter race, good for 22nd place, while Reck finished 27th in 18:42.76.

Valders won the event with an impressive 42 points. Kettle Moraine Lutheran and Plymouth, which are in the East Central Conference along with Kewaskum, finished second and third, respectively, with 141 and 142 points.

Trevor Wenzel of Valders claimed the individual title, hitting the finish line in 16:50.36.

Other counters for KHS included: Kyle Toth, 45th in 19:42.67; Derrick Schraufnagel, 60th in 20:01.00; and Blake Miller, 86th in 20:47.14. There were 133 runners in the race.

Unfortunately, the Lady Indians had just four runners in the event, not enough for a complete team. Sophomore Maela Olla had another great run — she was a top-10 finisher in the season opener at Sheboygan Falls — touring the course in 17:10.31, which was good enough for 16th overall.

Haley Plachinski was next, placing 50th in 18:29.32, five places ahead of freshman Emma Penfield, who was 55th in 18:45.81, while sophomore Alaina Rosenthal, participating in the sport for the first time, was 120th in 23:06.86.

Plymouth won the girls title with 44 points and Kiel came in second with 73 points.

KHS coach Kris Evans did not return phone calls from the Statesman for comments on the meet.

Next up for the Indians is the annual Mayville Invitational this afternoon (Sept. 8).

Win #5 For Prunty As Blawat Edges Apel For The Title At Slinger

By Dan Margetta

Dennis Prunty drove to his fifth super late model feature victory of the season in the 100-lap Labor Day Weekend Special Sunday night at the Slinger Super Speedway while Chris Blawat edged Steve Apel by a mere seven points to earn his first career super late model track championship.

"I thought about slowing down a little bit to see if they could catch me but in the end I just decided to pull away and take care of business," Prunty stated jokingly from victory lane, after taking the checkered flag ahead of championship contenders Alex Prunty, Chris Blawat, and Steve Apel, "I was a little irritated in the heat race and didn't know if we would have the car but I guess we were okay."

Steve Apel and Mitch McGrath led the field to the green flag and Apel wasted no time in charging to the early lead as Dennis Prunty worked his way around McGrath for second. Prunty quickly tracked down Apel for the lead and was able to turn inside Apel's door off the second turn to take command of the race on lap five. Behind the top two, Gary LaMonte, Alex Prunty, and Chris Blawat all advanced their way into the top five by lap 20 with Blawat moving up the farthest from his thirteenth starting position. The first caution flag of the race waved on lap 23 for Dan Church's stalled car off turn four with Dennis Prunty leading over Apel, LaMonte, Alex Prunty, and Blawat. Prunty chose the high side for the restart and Apel went to the bottom in a choice that proved beneficial as when the green flag waved, Apel quickly went back out front. Two laps later however, Dennis Prunty had his car wound up and he once again charged by for the lead. Once out front Prunty began to pull away as Apel fell into a battle for second with Alex Prunty with the younger Prunty taking the spot with an inside move. The rear brakes began glowing cherry red on Apel's car and he fell into the clutches of Gary LaMonte who charged by for third. The next car in line to challenge Apel for position was Chris Blawat and the battle over fourth place soon became a duel for the track championship as the two entered the evening only five points apart. The two battled fiercely side by side over the position with Blawat nipping Apel for the spot just before the caution flag waved on lap 69 when Mitch McGrath's car did a half spin in between turns one and two. Once again Dennis Prunty kept the lead over Alex Prunty as the race resumed while Blawat raced into third as Apel became caught in a traffic jam and faded back to sixth. As Alex Prunty tried to challenge Dennis Prunty for the lead, Blawat held off Brad Mueller and Gary LaMonte while Apel began to work his way forward again. A caution flag on lap 75 for a tangle between Nick Wagner and Brad Keith off turn two tightened the field again. This time as Dennis and Alex Prunty raced for the lead, Apel chose the lane that advanced and he found himself in a side by side battle with Blawat for the third position. Once again the championship contenders battled intensely until finally Blawat was able to slide across Apel's nose off turn four to take the third spot just past the start-finish line. While Apel tried to retake the spot from Blawat, Dennis Prunty began to pull away out front. No one had anything for Dennis Prunty in the closing laps as he drove to his fifth super late model feature win of the season with Alex Prunty settling for a strong second. Chris Blawat held on for third just ahead of Steve Apel which was enough to claim the super late model track championship by a mere seven points. Brad Mueller finished fifth. Mitch McGrath finished sixth followed by Gary LaMonte and James Swan in seventh and eighth respectively. Nick

Wagner and Brad Keith rounded out the top ten. "It was a lot of fun and I thought we dug ourselves a big hole there starting 13th," An excited Blawat told the crowd after capturing his first ever super late model track championship, "I have a ton of respect for Steve (Apel), Dennis (Prunty), and these guys are a great group to race with...oh man...I love it!" "It's heartbreaking and we came up just one spot short, that's the way it goes," Apel stated, "it's been a heck of a battle and we didn't give up at the end, we just ended up one spot short and it was a great effort by everyone involved." "What a year we've had," said Alex Prunty, who finished third overall in the point standings despite cutting his point deficit nearly in half with his runner-up finish in the feature, "To come out here the first year in the super late and have the successes we had, I'm happy."

The Kewaskum Statesman is the official newspaper for the Kewaskum School District, published weekly on Thursdays. As the hometown newspaper, we feel it's imperative to publish news happening in our schools. Being a small family-owned newspaper, we don't have the resources to send a reporter to every event, so we ask for your help in sending us photos and information.

To get your news published in the Kewaskum Statesman, please have your items to us by Monday at 5 p.m. of the week you wish to see something published.

If you have story ideas or something we should look into, please contact our reporter Anne Trautner.

So It Goes

By Andrew Johnson

Rural Wisconsin is a special place. It is the heartland of America. It is a place many of us call home.

This coming Sunday will mark the 15th year anniversary of the terrorist attacks on our country. These attacks were devastating and significantly changed the way we live. The effects of the attacks touched our community and/or nearby communities in a personal way. The consequences of the day hurt several of our local families including mine. Despite these horrific events, our communities have remained strong. America has remained strong. It is still the land of the free and the home of the brave.

Background To The Story

The right thing to do this week is to honor and remember one very special young lady who gave up her life just because she was an American that just happened to be visiting the World Trade Center on the morning of September 11th, 2001. Her name is Andrea Haberman. She was a graduate of Kewaskum High School as well as St. Norbert College in De Pere.

It is important that Andrea's life is remembered and that her family's story is told or re-told for those who already know it. She was killed in the north tower, which was the first tower hit by a plane in New York. The Haberman family were among the only ones who lost immediate family in the World Trade Center Towers in New York that were from Wisconsin.

A few weeks ago, our managing editor, Andrea Abler, took a trip to New York for a few days of vacation. While visiting she took an amazing photo of the 9/11 Memorial that captured Andrea Haberman's name (it is in this week's paper). Andrea Abler showed me the photo and told me she planned on running it the week before the 15 year anniversary. I thought that was good idea.

Interestingly, I got a message the next day that Andrea Haberman's dad, Gordy Haberman, from the Town of Farmington, was going to attend the Father's Club that met in Campbellsport last Wednesday night, August 31st. This is a special grieving group for dads that have lost a child. Its members are from this entire area including Mayville, Lomira, Fond du Lac, Kewaskum and Campbellsport. I have been part of this group for two years.

I made contact with Gordy and he agreed to meet with me and interview with our editor before last week's meeting. We have a very special common bond. Gordy does not like to do media interviews. However, he does like to help other people when he can. I told him that his daughter's story needed to be told at the hometown level and the story would hopefully lead to something good. He agreed and met with me and Andrea Abler for a few hours to tell us about his daughter and the events surrounding September 11th from his perspective.

The news story is included with this week's edition of this paper. Gordy also went with me to the Father's group where I spent another three hours with him and learned more about this story. It was obvious to me that this story was not only about his daughter, but his life as well as his family. It was a story about a family's journey after the attacks took their daughter.

The detailed story of Andrea Haberman and her family's journey right before, during and after 9/11 are well documented in Mike Nichols' 2011 book "Just a Few Sleeps Away, A family's discovery of good and evil in the aftermath of 9/11." In my conversations with Gordy, he referred me to the book to get information or facts.

At the end of our meeting he gave me a copy of the book with his signature. I read it before completing this column. I was not really interested in just facts. Any one can get raw facts in today's digital world. I was more interested in his perspective after 15 years. I was interested in what this story means today.

Gordy and I meeting was very special and unique. I could sense immediately that he felt some kind of responsibility for my own son's death who was killed in Afghanistan. He told me that if his daughter Andrea had not died in the tower then my son would not have had to fight. I deeply appreciated his care and concern. Of course, he had nothing to feel guilty about. Andrea's life was taken from her and her family. My son David volunteered and knowingly knew he might have to give his life in the fight for freedom. However, no matter the reason, both are deeply loved and missed. Time passing does not change how much someone is loved.

Media Frenzy

Today, with the advent of immediate news coverage, much of the public is drawn to immediate and sensational news. The danger in media companies chasing these types of stories is knowing the difference between important stories and stories that are flashy and attract attention to the media outlet they are reported from. The complete facts of a story are not always available right away. Unfortunately, much of today's media headlines are "flashy" news items with little depth or importance.

At this paper, we have made an intentional effort to not get caught up with "tabloidizing" our newspaper in print or online. For this very reason, people like Gordy and me are very leery of sharing information about the deaths of our children and the related stories for fear of being hurt further.

I could tell that Gordy was at first hesitant about sharing his personal story with us. However, he realized he and I had a very special bond. It is a strange thing for both of us. Although we really don't know each other very well, we are now like family. I would trust Gordy with my life. He knows that and that is why he allowed us to share his story. Gordy also told us his story and perspective after 15 years so it could somehow help other people. One of the most import parts of this story is that it is not about people from some distant place, but about people that live here. There is no question that this column could not have been written if I was not a Gold Star dad. This column is about what the story means, not just a story.

Everything Was Going Great

In early September 2001, 25-year-old Andrea Haberman had everything going for her. She had graduated from St. Norbert College, met the love of her life, Al Kolodzik, was planning the details of her wedding, bought a house, and had a good job. She had a family that deeply loved her and supported her in whatever she was doing. Andrea did everything right and life was good. As Gordy told me this story I could sense that he could not have been prouder of Andrea.

The Day That Changed Everything

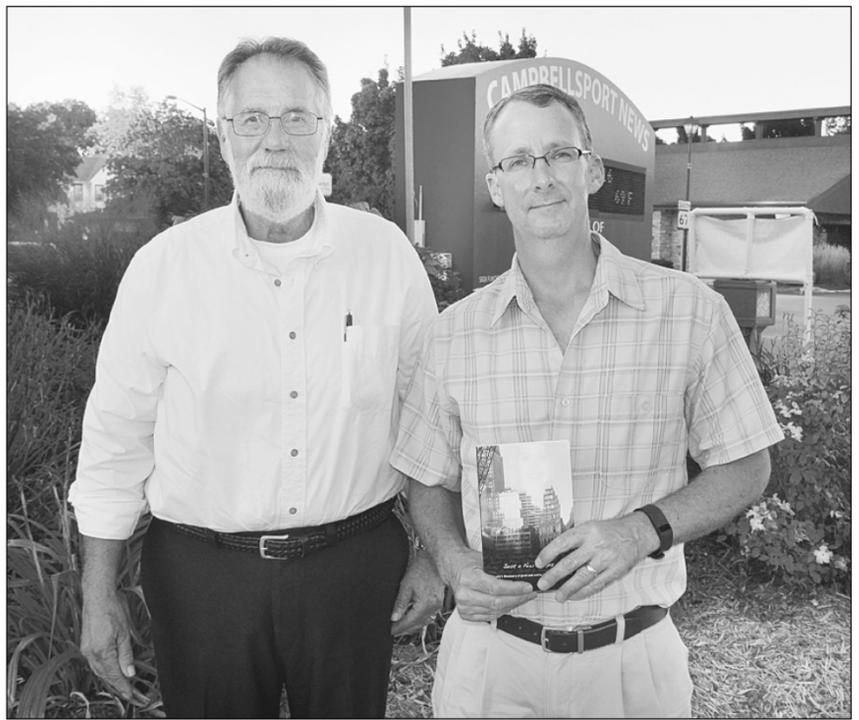

On the evening of September 10, 2001, Andrea took her first business trip to New York and stayed in a Marriot hotel only a few blocks from the World Trade Center Towers.

On September 11th, she made her way to the 92nd floor of Tower One for a business meeting that was suppose to start at 9 a.m. Andrea was on the phone with a co-worker in Chicago describing her view of the Statue of Liberty and at 8:46 a.m. the call was cut off. The unimaginable happened: An airplane traveling at 500 miles per hour crashed into the building right below where Andrea was working.

Today everyone knows the general story about the attacks that took place on 9/11. However, what is not as well known is the thousands of personal stories that accompany this tragedy. Fireman, policeman, rescue workers, people in the planes, and the people just going to work in the towers like Andrea or the Pentagon, lives (and their families) would forever change in a moment. Some lived and many like Andrea did not.

A further impact of this tragedy is the ripple effect on other friends, co-workers, and families like the Haberman's. The human emotional shock waves spread almost instantly across our country including to this area where the Haberman family live as well as around the world.

Even though it has been Gordy Haberman and Andrew Johnson, the publisher of the Campbellsport News, talked about their children last week. Haberman lost his daughter, Andrea, as a result of the 9/11 terrorist attacks at the World Trade Center. Johnson is holding the book written about the loss of Andrea.

15 years, many of the stories have yet been told and many of them are not done yet.

Pain Of Not Knowing

Within a few minutes of Tower One being hit, Andrea's fiancé, Al and the Haberman family sensed something was terribly wrong. They could not get a hold of Andrea. There was no way to get good information at that time. They did not know if Andrea was alive, injured or dead. Gordy told me that not knowing drove him nuts. Gordy had to do something.

He was able to get some posters made with a picture of Andrea on it to be put up in New York City. Gordy said it was increasable when he received a phone call about 2 a.m. on September 12th and on the line was a lady from New York who told him she saw the poster and would help find their daughter. It was a huge event for Gordy; someone actually cared.

He would soon find out that there were many people who helped his family including detectives from NYPD as well as many others too numerous to name in this column. The Haberman's have also made many close friendships with other surviving family members. He told me it is like having another family in New York.

Gordy realized that sitting at home would do nothing, so he got in his car with his wife, other daughter Julie, and Al and headed to New York City on September 13. They arrived at Ground Zero the following day. Gordy told me that the site looked like a nuclear bomb hit it. It was still burning and the destruction was devastating.

After two weeks of being in New York, he came to the unfortunate realization that he would not know the status of his daughter for some time. Not knowing caused him and his family great pain. Before heading home, government officials took DNA samples from Gordy and his wife. It was not until May 25th, 2012, that Gordy and his family would learn from government officials that a "find" or a body part of Andrea was found that was positively identified by DNA.

Gordy told us that there was a funeral for his daughter held at Ground Zero by New York's finest fire fighters. There was also a memorial service for her here in Wisconsin but without his daughter's remains. However, it is his hope that Andrea's partial remains which are in New York would come home someday. It has been 15 years and this family has still not buried their daughter's remains.

Changes In Survivors Lives

Gordy told me that he and his wife will be going out to Ground Zero/Trade Center Memorial this week to mark the 15 year anniversary. He said he has been going every year up until now, but this may be his last time for a while.

How does someone like Gordy Haberman move forward with his life? I am not sure if the words "moving forward" are a correct description of surviving the death of a loved one that has been killed by an enemy. Like me as well as the men in the local "Father Club," he does have Christian faith. The men in this group believe that although we may not understand the terrible loss, we will someday be united with our loved one's in heaven. This is the frame work that can give grieving people hope. Without hope, it is impossible to effectively live in the present.

Gordy's Response

This story ended up really being about Gordy Haberman's journey. He is brave, courageous and has faced this situation head on. This is really hard to do while also going through the grieving process.

He traveled to New York many times in order to continue his search to find out exactly what happened to his daughter Andrea. He has made it his life ambition to learn as much as he possibly could about the enemy who took down the towers, details about 9/11, and the efforts being made on identifying those lost on that day. He and his wife Kathy ended up selling a restaurant they ran for 20 years about a year after 9/11. It was too difficult for Gordy to work the 12 or 13 hours a day at a restaurant and continue the search for clues for Andrea. He did find out a lot more details in time. He also made an effort to help others who have lost children. He can offer a sense of understanding for others who have experienced such a loss.

As I reflect upon Gordy's life since 9/11, I can observe his great love for his daughter Andrea as well as the rest of his family. He would do anything he could to find his daughter and about the terrible events of that day.

As his journey progressed, he would continue to want answers about exactly what happened to his daughter. However, most importantly, his strong love for his daughter Andrea has never stopped nor will it ever as it should be.

Gordy is an outstanding dad to both his living daughter Julie as well as to Andrea. His faith is strong. Gordy does not just sit around, he continues to fight. He has traveled extensively in search for answers as well as offering help. He currently serves on several boards, is involved in the HONORS project that helps get housing for wounded vets, the Red Cross and Big Brothers and Big Sisters. He and his wife as well as Al have contributed to scholarships for Kewaskum High School and St. Norbert's College. He is also involved in the Kewaskum Remembers Project.

Gordy is a great example for all. In the end, I think this story is more about a local man who relentlessly and unconditionally loves his daughter Andrea as well as his family and continues to do so rather than that tragic event that happened 15 years ago.

State Point Media Crossword

Kremer's Korner

—Guest Editorial By 59th Assembly District Representative Jesse Kremer

Every Election Has Consequences

"As a firefighter, I am sick and tired of cleaning up fatal accidents on Highway 23." "I'm a 23-year-old single guy, why am I forced to purchase an absurdly expensive insurance plan that covers pregnancy?" "Why is Voter ID still in the courts?"

The answer? Unelected, federal judges have decided that they can write law and become "gods" in their own right. As James Madison once said, "As the courts are generally the last in making the decision, it results to them, by refusing or not refusing to execute a law, to stamp it with its final character. This makes the judiciary department paramount in fact to the legislature, which was never intended, and can never be proper."

Many courts have abandoned a purist sense of judicial review — the act of judging laws against the Constitution and nothing further. Instead, they have created their own reality and place more reliance on precedent, or prior court rulings.

Their revisionist tactics include plucking the words "wall of separation between church and state" completely out of context from a letter that Jefferson wrote to a Baptist group in Danbury, CT. In truth, the original intent of this phrase, as penned by the church, was to protect it from rulers like King Henry VIII during the reformation in 1500's Europe, not vice versa.

Even as I write this, the activist U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit has been attempting to usurp each state's 10th amendment right to resist the mandate that young girls be forced to lose their dignity and privacy by changing next to teen boys in school. The court ruled that we must defer to the "experts" — unelected, federal education department bureaucrats — to set policies and define reality for our children.

If we really want to take this country back, we have to ensure that unelected judges are not the be-all and end-all, but simply one of the checks and balances in our government. The only way to accomplish this is to ensure that we elect federal officials who will confirm judges that will not "play god," but will serve God and protect the sanctity of the Constitution of these United States.

Elections do have consequences.
