Kewaskum Student Arrested For Posing As “Scary Clown” – Student Could Face Terrorist Felony Charge

By Anne Trautner

A 15-year-old Kewaskum High School student was arrested Monday, Oct. 3, for making terrorist threats, a potential felony charge.

The girl allegedly posed as a clown on Facebook and said she would bring guns to different Milwaukee high schools for five consecutive days.

The Kewaskum Police Department determined it was a hoax and there was no credible threat to any of the schools.

The Facebook page, which featured a clown's name and pictures of a clown, contained threats against the following Milwaukee area schools: Riverside University High School, Messmer High School, South Division High School, Marshall High School and UACB (Universal Academy For the College Bound) High School.

“The Facebook page implies that this clown is going to shoot at the schools. It states going there with 40s, which implies .40-caliber weapons” Kewaskum Police Chief Thomas Bishop said.

An investigator from the Intelligence Fusion Center of the Criminal Investigation Bureau in Milwaukee contacted Bishop at about 2:30 p.m. last Monday after obtaining a search warrant on the Internet Protocol (IP) address that traced the Facebook page to the girl's residence.

“I called our school resource officer to see if there were any juveniles that resided at that residence, and it turned out that particular juvenile was not in school that day, either. That kind of put that piece of the puzzle together that person was home and able to post these threats online,” Bishop said.

Kewaskum police went to the girl's house, talked with her and arrested her. The girl was cooperative with the police.

“She did admit to doing it, and it was never intended to be carried out. It was a hoax just to scare people,” Bishop said.

Because the girl was excused from school that day, it is not a school district issue, Kewaskum School Superintendent James Smasal said.

It appears that the Kewaskum student has a friend who lives in Milwaukee who also was able to make posts on the clown Facebook page, Bishop said. The Milwaukee Police Department is following up on that person, he said.

The Kewaskum police requested that the Kewaskum student be charged with a felony for making terrorist threats. The juvenile case is currently in the Washington County district attorney's office, Bishop said.

The case comes at a time when a rash of “scary clowns” have been making headlines across the country.

“To have someone take and smash something that is supposed to be positive and special, and be a bright ray of hope for kids in hospitals or kids at birthday parties, is just bad. From a societal standpoint, it's always sad when something that is supposed to be positive has been turned into a negative,” Smasal said.

Other Clown Cases In The Area

On Monday, Oct. 3, a 12-year-old girl who is a seventh grader at Badger Middle School in West Bend posed as a clown and sent a number of messages to at least six different classmates.

In the messages the “clown” told the students where they lived and went to school. According to police reports, the messages included statements such as “If you see a red balloon just know I was there,” and questions like “Do you want to play?”

The messages alarmed and disturbed the students, West Bend police said. A father of one of the students receiving the messages was particularly alarmed because of the news regarding clowns throughout the country. The father then contacted police.

Combining Cultures To Build A Business

By Anne Trautner

Because of his Amish beliefs, Ray Yoder does not use electricity.

He uses an icehouse to chill his food. He runs his woodworking tools with a diesel motor, belts and shafts. And he shies away from using a calculator to figure out measurements.

But Yoder crafts kitchen cabinets to meet the needs of the most modern conveniences available.

An Unusual Partnership

About three years ago, Yoder met Mike Fideler, owner of Best Choice

Cabinets in Kewaskum.

At the time, Fideler's company sold exterior siding. The siding business faced challenges during the winter months because the weather made working outside difficult, Fideler said.

Yoder was having some difficulties with his woodworking business because he didn't have a showroom.

“He couldn't show customers what he was building, and he didn't have a computer program to design kitchens,” explained Fideler.

The two entrepreneurs decided to join forces.

Together they built a couple kitchens. Word spread, and before long they were making nine or 10 kitchens a year.

The partnership works well, both builders agree.

Orders are taken and kitchen plans drawn up at Best Choice Cabinets in Kewaskum. Yoder then builds the cabinets out of his home in the Dalton area, about 60 miles north of Kewaskum. When the cabinets are completed, Fideler and his crew complete the installation.

Fideler, whose business still sells exterior siding, had never worked with an Amish person before meeting Yoder. Over the years, the two craftsmen have worked out a system.

Because of his Amish religion, Yoder cannot have a phone at his house. But he is able to use a cell phone at a neighbor's house.

"When we first started, I would leave a message for him, and it was about a week and a half before he would get it," Fideler said.

Now, Yoder checks the phone every evening.

"I tried to teach him how to text, but that didn't go very well. So we are back to messages," Fideler said.

At first glance, Yoder's workshop looks like any modern-day shop.

"But there are no lights. His paint sprayers have to run off a gas motor. It's just different that way," Fideler said.

When cold weather arrives, Yoder heats his workshop with a wood burner. Still, production slows at that time of year.

"As winter comes, it takes him a little longer because the days are shorter. If it's dark, he can't work," Fideler said.

Occasionally Yoder uses a horse and buggy to deliver his goods. Usually, though, he hires a driver to deliver the cabinets.

"Then Ray picks up the next set of plans to bring back with him," Fideler said.

Creating Quality Work

Yoder builds his cabinets with different types of wood, including hickory, cherry, maple and oak.

He never uses any substitute, such as particle board or malamine.

"Even his lazy Susans are all wood, with no pole in the middle," Fideler said. "He will do any custom job. If you have a picture or drawing of it, he pretty well can make it."

The cabinets feature upgrades such as easy-close drawers, hinged shelving and adjustable components.

"He does really nice work," Fideler said. "There is not a lot of overhead, so the price is reasonable."

Building A Friendship

At home, the Yoder family speaks only in German. The children have learned English by attending the one-room schoolhouse that is located about a mile from their home. They attend school only from first through eighth grade.

Fideler admits that he can't always understand Yoder when he speaks his native German.

Still, the two share a sense of humor.

"I know you are talking about me, Ray," Fideler jokes when Yoder speaks in German.

Fideler has learned about the Amish culture as he and Yoder have developed their friendship.

When Yoder's daughter got married, Fideler was invited to the wedding. He was one of the few "English" people at the occasion.

"It was really neat to see how different their weddings are from ours," Fideler said. "For one thing, there was no photographer."

Fideler and Yoder appreciate one another and respect each other's cultures. And their customers applaud their work.

"I am so extremely happy. They did a fabulous job," said Jean Opitz, who recently purchased kitchen cabinets from Best Choice Cabinets.

Ask the Dentist

What Is Better To Replace A Lost Tooth, A Bridge Or An Implant?

Dr. Sara Klasinski

The answer to that question depends on the situation.

If the adjacent teeth have large fillings and need crowns (caps), then maybe a bridge would be better.

If the surrounding teeth are intact, then an implant is usually better.

Implants replace the whole tooth, root and all. They look, feel and are cared for just like your natural teeth.

Discussing your unique situation with your dentist is necessary to make the right decision.

WASHINGTON COUNTY SHERIFF'S REPORT

Intoxicated Operation Arrest On Railroad Tracks

The Sheriff's Office responded to the area of Hillcrest Road and Weiss Street in the Town of Addison on Saturday, Oct. 8, at 2:42 a.m. to investigate a report of a vehicle on the railroad tracks. The deputy arrived and observed a Volkswagen Beetle on the railroad tracks about 50 feet north of Hillcrest Road, with a stopped southbound train illuminating the scene.

The deputy made contact with the Beetle operator, a 21-year-old City of Appleton woman, who indicated she was on her way home to Appleton from Milwaukee and did not know why her vehicle was on the railroad tracks, or where she was. The woman was arrested for OWI first offense where a subsequent test indicated she had a BAC of 0.21.

The investigation further revealed the woman was fortunate the train was stopped at a local lumber yard in Allenton when the incident occurred, and the conductor actually saw the incident and called the Sheriff's Office.

Kewaskum Board Ponders Village Budget

By Anne Trautner

The Kewaskum Village Board took its first look at the proposed 2017 village budget at its meeting last Monday, Oct. 3.

The initial document proposes an overall tax increase of about 3 percent.

"There are some moving pieces to this that we won't know until the end, as always," Village Administrator Matt Heiser told the board during last week's meeting. "So the numbers are not final. They are meant to be kept fluid."

Final numbers won't be known until the state releases the total assessed value of the village. In addition, the board will not know the total increment or the shortfall of the Tax Increment Finance (TIF) district until the school district, the county and Moraine Park Technical College set their tax levies.

However, village trustees will continue reviewing the budget proposal at their meeting next week.

The board is expected to finalize the budget by the third week of November, Heiser said.

Village Board President Kevin Scheunemann expressed the need to include adequate funding for road projects.

"There has always been a consensus on the board up until now that the street projects need to get done, and we need to stop cutting the road budget," Scheunemann said.

Scheunemann is also concerned with the continued shortfall in the TIF district, which was declared distressed in 2012.

The TIF district was created in 2005, when the Village of Kewaskum invested $8 million to extend sewer and water services into TID 2, which is located west of U.S. Highway 45. The commercial part of the TID is between Badger and Hillcrest roads, and the residential part is the Nature Haven Estates subdivision west of Prospect Drive.

Since around 2011, the increment (revenue) earned by the TIF district has not been able to cover the debt payment, so the village's taxpayers have been lending the district money.

Last year, the village board created a utility district within the TIF district. The board could potentially levy a special tax in 2017 on any undeveloped properties within that utility district to help cover the shortfall.

"I would like to see the utility district taxed [to cover the TIF shortfall]," Scheunemann said. "I feel the general fund is done subsidizing this TIF."

Scheunemann suggested negotiating goals with individual developers in the TIF district, and refunding money to developers who meet their goals.

"It just gives us another tool to encourage tax increment for the TID to make it whole. From my perspective, I feel we should get this utility district moving, and we can negotiate individually with developers. You hit this benchmark, you get this refund," Scheunemann said at last week's meeting.

The proposed budget accomplishes the following:

- Proposes $30,000 for sewer storm outlay.
- Sets aside $10,000 for a new snow plow.
- Sets aside $3,000 for work in the Annex building.

-Sets aside $2,000 for work on the municipal building.

-Sets aside $3,000 for potential park expenditures.

-Proposes using $18,000 of tax money toward $36,000 in total work for updating the exterior of the firehouse.

-Sets aside $7,000 for updating the municipal code.

-Proposes changing squad car purchases from a 12-month cycle to an 18 month-cycle.

-Proposes a step increase for the police department's administrative assistant position.

Village committees have requested that staff follow up on or complete these things:

-Deny a proposal for body cameras for police.

-Discontinue the waste oil program.

-Investigate the impact of the interest charged to the sewer utility the village was borrowing from the general fund.

-Investigate replacing the village street lights on Reigle Drive with ones installed by WE Energies.

-Investigate if the village can reject storm water from property owners to the west of the village or charge the property owners.

-Follow up with the fire chief to determine how much time is spent between the rescue squad and the fire department.

-Bring up in a future board agenda the policy for the village's chipping service.

On Tuesday, Oct. 4, a number of students who received these messages notified school officials. In addition, numerous other students spread rumors regarding the "clown." This further disrupted the school day and learning environment at Badger Middle School and other West Bend schools.

The West Bend Police Department and West Bend School officials worked together to identify the 12-year-old student. On Tuesday, Oct. 4, West Bend police took the 12-year-old girl into custody for disorderly conduct.

The girl admitted sending the messages and said she did so as a joke. Though she now realizes the messages scared a number of classmates, the girl stated that was not her intent.

West Bend police determined there was no credible threat in the case. The 12-year-old girl was released to her parents, and a disorderly conduct charge was referred to juvenile authorities.

Disorderly Conduct, Underage Alcohol Violation and Park Code Violation

On Friday, Oct. 7, at 11:55 p.m., an 18-year-old Hartford woman reported that she saw a bloody shirt hanging from the exit sign for Regner Park in West Bend.

The woman then saw a person wearing a clown mask standing in the wooded area nearby, which frightened her, she said.

Responding West Bend

officers found only the shirt, which had fake blood on it.

Further investigation revealed that a 19-year-old West Bend male, an 18-year-old West Bend male and a 19-year-old Cedarburg male had placed the shirt in Regner Park, and one of them wore a clown mask while making a Snapchat video as part of the "clown craze" that has been going through the nation. The three men left the shirt on the exit sign because they reportedly thought it would be funny.

All three men were arrested for disorderly conduct and for being in the park after closing hours. The 19-year-old West Bend resident also was issued a citation for underage drinking.

Remote Device Sets Off Illegal Fireworks At Homecoming Game

By Anne Trautner

Kewaskum police are looking for the person responsible for illegally setting off fireworks at Kewaskum High School's homecoming football game on Friday, Sept. 30.

Before the game kicked off, a large firework lit the sky at the end of the national anthem.

"One of our auxiliary officers was 20 feet away from this unit, and it went off. He was expecting to see someone run away," Police Chief Thomas Bishop said.

Instead, the officer found a remotely detonated device hidden in the parking lot of Regal Ware behind some large trees.

"That scares me because I don't know where these people are detonating it from, but if they were inside the stadium, they would not be able to see this device. If that is the case, that is a huge problem," Bishop said.

Setting off the fireworks via a remote device is reckless on top of dangerous, Bishop said.

"By igniting them this way, the individual would have no knowledge if a child found the device and was actively looking down the chute as it was detonated, or if it was tipped over. Or what if our officer found it before it went off and was taking it out?" Bishop said. "The fireworks could have been lethal."

Someone could have found the device, which is bound by wires, and thought it was something else.

"It looks like a pipe bomb. If somebody thought it was a pipe bomb and called it in, we'd have a huge tactical situation. Then we would be clearing out the football field and the whole game would be canceled, all for a device because it looks like that," Bishop said.

The Kewaskum School District supports the police department in the investigation.

"If an investigation leads to a student doing this behavior, we would take action and there would be consequences. At this point we have no reason to believe it is a district matter," School Superintendent James Smasal said.

This was not the first time that police have searched for the person setting off fireworks during a high school football game. The problem started during last year's season, according to Bishop.

If anyone wants to set off fireworks legally, there must be a permit in place, Bishop said. Someone from the fire department must be on the scene, and it has to be structured so that it can be safe, he said.

"I like a celebratory firework just like anybody else does, but they have to be done safely and legally. If there is a legal way for the school to do fireworks at the game, I'm all ears to how we make that happen," Bishop said.

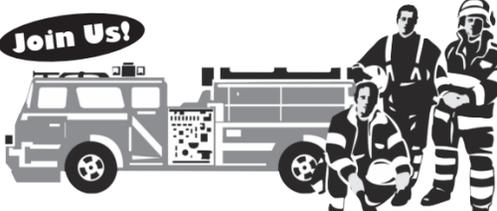

Fortunately, no one was hurt by the recent fireworks.

"It could have gone a couple different ways," Bishop said. "Somebody needs to be held responsible for it."

Anyone with information can contact Bishop at (262) 626-2323 or tbishop@village.kewaskum.wi.us.

Car Care Month

Although it may not feel like it, the calendar has turned to October. It's a busy month in Wisconsin; mowing the lawn one last time, prepping the garden and of course saving time to cheer on the Packers! But there is another important item that should be on your list before winter hits. October is Car Care Month for good reason, we all need our vehicles ready for winter too. Whether you're a do it yourself or someone that goes to your trusted local mechanic, now is the time to go down the checklist of maintenance items that need to get done before the snow comes. Here are a few tips on what's important to look at even if your car is not due for service yet.

1. Check all fluids. Antifreeze concentration is a 50/50 mixture of water and antifreeze, which should be good to about 30 below zero. If you don't have a hydrometer to test it you can pick one up at a parts store or have your shop check it for you. If the antifreeze isn't good it may be time for a cooling system flush and new antifreeze. This will get the antifreeze back to the proper freezing point and ready for winter. If the antifreeze were to freeze, it could cause the engine block to crack. The only repair for that is a new engine which is very expensive. Your average coolant flush is around $100.

Most of your other fluids such as engine oil, transmission fluid, power steering will get checked during your routine service intervals, so you probably don't have to worry about those. Unlike your engine coolant these other fluids aren't mixed with water so they should never freeze.

Washer fluid is one more to check. There are some brands out there that are made for summer. Those types of washer fluid are made to help get bugs off the windshield and based on the fluid concentration will freeze in winter. It should say right on the bottle what the freezing point is. Go ahead and look for the ones that say good to minus 30. Make sure to run most of the the summer blend washer fluid out before adding the winter blend.

2. Have your battery tested. (a low charge or a weak battery won't perform in cold and your car may not start... or what ever the effect would be). Make sure it's going to be ready for winter.

3. A new pair of wiper blades is always nice. Farmer's Almanac is warning us of a long, cold and wet winter - make sure you can see the road with new blades.

4. Check the air pressure and tread depth on your tires. When the air temperature drops outside, the air in your tires condenses. This will cause the air pressure in your tires to drop. Here's a neat trick to tell if your tires are balding - take a penny with Abe Lincoln's head upside down. Put it between the tread. If you can see his whole head it's time for new tires. There are always tire sales going on in fall. Just ask your local installer.

5. Floor mats. This is two fold. You need a good set of floor mats to keep the salt off your carpets and looking nice. Also when the floor gets wet the salt water can seep into the cars wiring and cause electrical issues.

These are just a few tips to help you get ready for winter. The policy in our house is that the cars are part of the family too. So we need to make sure they get that check up!

Weekly HEALTH TIP

TIPS TO PROTECT YOUR VISION

One of the first things you can do to protect your eyes is to wear sunglasses with protection against UV-A and UV-B radiation. Don't smoke; smoking raises the risk of macular degeneration and cataracts. Eat foods rich in lutein such as kale, spinach, Swiss chard, peas, romaine lettuce, zucchini and broccoli. Walk, bike or run; these exercises reduced the risk of cataracts. Keep blood pressure and blood sugar levels in the normal range. Lose excess weight. Get your eyes examined regularly by your eye care professional. Eye exams can spot certain eye diseases such as glaucoma that have no symptoms and are important to catch early.

Kewaskum Native Receives Clergy Renewal Grant

The Rev. Jeffrey Koth, pastor of St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church in Waukegan, Ill., was awarded a $43,000 grant from the Eli Lilly Foundation, Inc.

Koth went to grade school in Kewaskum and graduated from Kewaskum High School in 1973.

The $43,000 grant will subsidize a three-month sabbatical leave for Koth and his family.

The sabbatical will take place June through August 2017. During that time Koth and his family (wife Kris, and daughters Alexis and Anna) will travel to Israel (10 days), Germany (for the 500th anniversary of the Lutheran Reformation for 20 days), The Grunewald Guild (retreat center) in Leavenworth, Wash., (where Koth will study painting), and a week at the American Club Resort in Kohler, Wisconsin.

Koth has been a Lutheran pastor for 35 years and has served at St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church in Waukegan, Ill., for 20 years.

The grant was awarded through Christian Theological Seminary, in its role of administering the Lilly Endowment National Clergy Renewal Program. Grants were awarded to 146 congregations located in 37 states and the District of Columbia. The 2016 program allows congregations to support their pastors with the gift of extended time away from ministerial duties and responsibilities. Pastors use the respite from congregational leadership for reflection and renewal, which often includes travel, scholarly research and immersive experiences with different cultures and traditions.

Congregations awarded the National Clergy Renewal Program grants nominated their pastors to receive this honor. Pastors in the 2016 program represent a diverse group that includes Protestant, Catholic, Orthodox, and nondenominational congregations. In consultation with their congregations, the pastors determine how they will use the grants to replenish, restore and renew their ministries. Travel to domestic and international destinations and journeys into nature are popular activities for grant recipients. One pastor will investigate the origins of the Reformation during the commemoration of its 500th anniversary, while another pastor will visit his ancestral land of Korea in order to consider how preaching there is affecting the growth of churches.

In addition to travel as a form of renewal, some pastors will use their time away from congregational leadership to engage in new spiritual disciplines, focus on time with loved ones and study topics that renew their excitement for preaching and congregational leadership.

Since Lilly Endowment introduced the National Clergy Renewal Program grants in 2000, more than 2,300 congregations across the nation have participated in the program. Congregations in the 2016 program received grants totaling more than $6 million. The grants recognize the tremendous amount of energy, time and leadership that pastors invest in their congregations.

"Lilly Endowment intends for this program to enable pastors to live for a while at a different pace and in a new environment, in Sabbath time and space," said Dr. Christopher L. Coble, the Endowment's vice president for religion. "We can think of no better way to honor these hardworking, faithful men and women than to help them experience personal growth and spiritual renewal in ways that they themselves design and find meaningful. We regularly hear that these renewal experiences are transformative for pastors, their families and their congregations."

Christian congregations were invited to apply for program grants of up to $50,000. The application process was participatory in nature, involving congregations and their pastors in the design and development of the renewal experience. Up to $15,000 of the grant could be allocated to fund interim pastoral leadership, as well as renewal activities within the congregation. Pastors were encouraged to include their families in the renewal activities.

The Rev. Dr. Robert Saler, director of the Lilly Endowment Clergy Renewal Programs at Christian Theological Seminary in Indianapolis, noted that the National Clergy Renewal Program leverages the reciprocal dynamics of support, trust and encouragement reflective of healthy congregations.

"The program is designed to respect the innate human need for times of service and replenishment. It provides a means for congregations to express appreciation for their leaders' service and respect for his or her health and energy for continued ministry," Saler said.

Christian Theological Seminary's Center for Pastoral Excellence was selected in 2012 to administer the Lilly Endowment Clergy Renewal Programs. "At a time when society is experiencing unprecedented levels of change at ever increasing speeds, it is rewarding to offer programs that recognize the value of retreat and renewal," Saler said. "We are honored and privileged to work with Lilly Endowment in its support of congregational leaders."

Volunteers Unite For School Readiness

– United Way Of Washington County Kicks Off Annual Campaign With Community Volunteering Event

United Way of Washington County kicked off their annual fundraising campaign by uniting more than 400 local volunteers Thursday evening. The event, called United for Our Future, was held at the West Bend Mutual Insurance Pavilion at Washington County Fair Park.

More than 400 volunteers from 30 local businesses, school districts, and nonprofit organizations—united to create school-readiness bags for 2,500 preschool-age children.

“For the last three years, we’ve had tremendous success with our food packaging events, engaging more than 1,000 community volunteers and providing nearly 200,000 meals for distribution at local food pantries,” said Kristin Brandner, executive director of United Way of Washington County.

“This year, we’re building on that success and focusing on improving school readiness in Washington County.”

School readiness is determined by a child’s physical, social, emotional, language, and cognitive development during their first five years.

During the event, teams of volunteers went through an assembly-line process filling drawstring backpacks with storybooks, flashcards, learning games, a parent handbook, crayons, a USDA MyPlate, and more. Volunteers finished each Bright Start Bag by writing a note to the child who will be receiving it.

“These kits will give parents tools to help develop their child’s school-readiness skills,” Brandner said. “Research shows that ninety percent of children’s brain development occurs before kindergarten, so it’s important for parents and caregivers to encourage early learning.”

The event was sponsored by Aurora Health Care, Serigraph, Thrivent Financial, and West Bend Mutual Insurance Company. United Way’s strategic partner, the Volunteer Center of Washington County, helped recruit and coordinate volunteers.

The Bright Start Bags will be distributed to children enrolled in daycare and nonprofit programs across the county. 4C Family Center of Washington County will receive 100 of the school-readiness kits.

“We are really excited about this opportunity to give our families another tool for their tool kit,” said Kathy Bruni, Family Engagement Specialist at 4C Family Center. “It fits well with both our family education programs and our new literacy initiative, which is getting off the ground thanks to a new grant from United Way.”

During their annual fundraising campaign, United Way of Washington County encourages the community to Give, Advocate, and Volunteer. The funds raised benefit education, income stability, and health programs at 18 local nonprofit agencies.

Twenty-seven local companies have already started their workplace campaigns for United Way. Early Pacesetter reports show strong participation, including an 18% increase in employee giving at Maysteel in Allenton.

To learn how our community benefits from United Way programs, and to join the uniting force for good, visit www.UnitedWayOfWashingtonCounty.org.

United Way of Washington County’s mission is to improve lives and community conditions in measurable and lasting ways. United Way is a volunteer-driven organization that serves all communities in Washington County. It is governed by a board of community volunteers, dedicated to providing funding and community resources for health and human service needs in the areas of Education, Income Stability, and Health.

GREAT FUTURES START HERE.

The Kewaskum Boys & Girls Club is back in action! I'm happy to be back for my third year here at the Kewaskum Boys & Girls Club and look forward to the many great experiences that we will have with our members. It's my personal goal that we continue to drive the impact that we make on the youth of Kewaskum to be better than it was the year before.

On a day-to-day basis, we're challenging each other here to make a bigger positive impact than we did the day before. Impact is a word that we live by here at the Club. Each day is a new opportunity for us to help a child who is struggling at school. Each day we can help a child experience something new through our many different programs. Each day presents an opportunity to help our members gain new skills that will help them succeed in life.

At the Club, impact is all about making positive change and getting positive results out of our members. Whether it's a member completing all of their homework during our homework help time or helping a child make a better choice when it comes to their behavior, we aim to make these positive impacts.

As many of you may know, we now have the opportunity to serve middle school aged students at Kewaskum Middle School. Our partnership that exists with the Kewaskum School District opened the door to begin serving this age group. Right off the bat, we had a total that was just shy of twenty students join our program.

Our programs are running strong, our staff are well equipped and we are ready to take on the year with all the kids that we serve. As always, we encourage anyone in the community who would like to support our mission to do so. We're always looking for volunteers to come in to work on our youth, to share unique skills, and have fun!

I look forward to updating you all on the progress that we make in this new school year.

Kewaskum School District Releases Referendum Video

By Anne Trautner

The Kewaskum School District released a video last week about the upcoming referendum.

Voters will decide on November 8 whether the school district can take out $28.42 million in general obligation bonds to improve the district's middle school and high school facilities.

The new video explains why the district is currently seeking the building project at this time. It goes over facility needs as well as financial advantages of making the investment now. The video can be viewed on the district website, www.kewaskum-schools.org.

The referendum comes as a culmination of a four-year study of district needs.

The referendum question seeks to address the needs of educational spaces, aging facilities, safety and security concerns.

The project includes renovating tech ed areas, science labs and general education classrooms at the two schools.

In addition, plans are to upgrade systems to improve safety and security within the middle and high school. Infrastructure would be upgraded to add space for agri-science, special education and physical education needs.

The public is invited to the following open houses to provide information about the referendum:

Monday, Oct. 17, at 6:30 p.m. in the Kewaskum High School cafeteria.

Wednesday, Oct. 26, at 6:30 p.m. in the Farmington Elementary School cafeteria.

Wednesday, Oct. 26, at 6:30 p.m. in the i4Learning Community School cafeteria.

Kewaskum High School Plans Fiesta Fun Night

On Tuesday, Nov. 1, the Kewaskum Spanish Department and Spanish Club will host the third annual Fiesta Fun Night. The event will take place at Kewaskum High School from 6 to 8 p.m.

The purpose of Fiesta Fun Night is to give community members the opportunity to experience the Hispanic culture and see what students in our 4K-12 program have been learning.

"It's great to see the community come together to celebrate Hispanic heritage and learn more about what the students do every day," said Spanish teacher Anna Baltz.

This year, the theme is Día de los Muertos, which is a Mexican holiday. At this free event, attendees will have the opportunity to taste Hispanic food donated by Casa Tequila of West Bend and several other local businesses (while supplies last).

Children can construct craft projects while learning about traditions that take place during Día de los Muertos. There will be face decorating, and the West Bend local dance troupe "Ballet Folklórico" will perform from 7 to 7:30 p.m. in the high school gymnasium.

For more information, visit www.kewaskum-schools.org.

So It Goes

By Andrew Johnson

Election Letters

This year, we have changed our deadline for accepting letters to the editor to the week before the election. We are extending our deadline until Friday, October 28th for the November 3rd election.

Letters of opinion are an important part of the people's right to express their thoughts and ideas in a country that has a free press. Putting an opinion down in local print still has much more impact and credibility that just posting something online especially when it is about a local topic that would be of no interest to people who live outside this area.

We used to have our deadline two weeks before an election so there would be one more week to offer responses to letters. However, in light of the instant digital age, a week before the election makes more sense as a cutoff date.

There is a big difference between the statement of facts and the expression of an opinion about the facts. Facts are facts. A misstatement of facts is libelous in print and now in some cases online. Facts used within the context of a letter of opinion still need to be correct and backed-up with some kind of evidence. This is usually not a problem for most of the letters submitted to this paper. However, some letters refer to specific facts. Since our small paper has a limited news staff, we do not always have the ability or time to obtain verification of facts. We do ask that letter writers provide reference of facts if they are not well known or are very particular. Our insurance requires us to verify facts and the author of the letter or we cannot run the letter. Expressing an opinion about the facts is free and open about public figures and public referendums.

It is hard to get excited about this years presidential race. However, each vote is important and the long term ramifications of this election will certainly have implications that will affect us right here in rural Wisconsin.

There does not seem to be any real contested local races for this election. The school referendums in Campbellsport as well as Kewaskum are very big new items. The referendum in the Village of Campbellsport for funding of a village administrator is also a hot topic. Referendum elections are as close to democracy in action as it can be. The people deciding who and what direction the local government bodies will go is a very special part of our country.

Cancer Section

This week, we are featuring our first cancer awareness section in this paper. It is one of the most difficult sections we publish since the topic rings so close to home. This year we featured Isaiah Van Beek, one of our own staff's son. Isaiah is Becky and John Van Beek's son. Becky has worked for our paper for many years. She has worked in several different positions and has done just about everything there is to do to put out this paper. Her son Isaiah was a special little boy who has left a big impact on all of our staff.

We have another staff member whose spouse is in the final stages of life. We also have another long time mailroom staff member who is battling for his life right now.

Cancer affects almost everyone in some way. I want to thank everyone who gave money to the Cancer Research Institute by purchasing a ribbon in this week's edition. This week we remember those who fought, those who are fighting, and those who beat this terrible disease.

E-mail From A Friend

A friend of mine sent me an e-mail that included comments from Clark Hunt, CEO and Owner of the Kansas City Chiefs. My friend told me he immediately thought of me when he saw the comments. I thought it was very fitting I reprint these comments since I am a gold star dad as well as a small town newspaper publisher who makes his leaving by having a "free press."

Clark Hunt called a meeting with all of his coaches, players and field staff and firmly told them: "You are all simply paid performers on a stage and that field is my stage! You will stand, with your hand over your heart and with respect, when our country's National Anthem is being played or you will no longer be a Kansas City Chiefs or have any association with the Chiefs organization! I will immediately fire you, no matter who you are! You can make your political statements off the field, but when you're employed by me and I'm signing the your check, I demand that you make our fans proud and not embarrass them."

I truly appreciate Mr. Hunts willingness to exercise his free speech rights and stand up for what is right. I also like expressing my free speech rights in saying I support Mr. Hunt's respect for our flag. The American Flag is always deserving of our deepest respect. Period.

Boy Scouts Hold Food Drive

Earlier this week, the Scouts hung up bags on residents' doors.

This Saturday, Oct. 15, they ask that the bags be filled with nonperishable food items and be put on front porches by 9 a.m.

The Boy Scouts will pick up the donations and deliver them to the Kewaskum Community Food Pantry.

October Is Breast Cancer Awareness Month

– Health Department Event To Increase Breast Cancer Awareness

The Wisconsin Well Woman Program (WWWP) offers free breast and cervical screenings to low-income women ages 45-64 who are uninsured or underinsured. For women who are ages 35-44, screening services are also available if there are breast or cervical concerns and they meet the program income and insurance eligibility requirements.

More than 40,000 women die annually of breast cancer. October is the month to remember those lost, increase our efforts for those still fighting and spread further awareness of breast cancer. Early detection helps fight breast cancer. This is why regular mammograms are so important.

Please join the Health Department on Tuesday, Nov. 8 from 9 a.m. - 11 a.m. and to 1 p.m. - 3 p.m. in the first floor lobby of the Public Agency Center and learn more about WWWP for yourself or a loved one. This celebration will include breast health giveaways.

KHS Students Inducted Into National Honor Society

On Monday, Oct. 3, 21 new members were inducted into the Kewaskum Chapter of the National Honor Society (NHS), joining the 13 current members.

Each new inductee was welcomed by a staff member who noted how the inductee exemplified the four pillars of the National Honor Society - scholarship, service, leadership and character. This year's ceremony was filled with laughter, tears and everything in between.

National Honor Society advisor Luke Piwoni said, "Every year I am in awe of all the wonderful things our students are doing in school and in the community. It is wonderful to take some time to recognize the good the students are doing and encourage them to keep making a difference in the Kewaskum community. This year's inductees are a great group of students that will continue to make a positive difference in their community."

The Kewaskum Chapter of the National Honor Society was formed in 1964 with the same emphasis on scholarship, service, leadership and character. All Juniors and Seniors with a GPA of 3.5 or higher are eligible to seek membership in NHS. Students who exemplify all four pillars are then invited to become members at the induction ceremony.

CANCER AWARENESS SECTION

Isaiah Van Beek Showed Courage And Strength

By Andrea Hansen Abler

Little Isaiah Van Beek showed more courage in his three years than many of us do in a lifetime. He had battled leukemia for half of his short lifetime.

Isaiah, of Campbellsport, was diagnosed on December 26, 2006, with Acute Myeloid Leukemia (AML). It changed his family's life drastically in one day.

His parents, John and Becky Van Beek, had noticed that Isaiah was bruising fairly easily that December. They were curious, but not worried about it since he was a very active one-and-a-half-year old at the time.

At Christmas, he had what they thought was a cold or some type of bug. So, John took him to the doctor on December 26 for a check-up while Becky was at work. They decided to ask about the bruising too since Isaiah would be at the doctor anyway.

Becky received a phone call from John that they were taking Isaiah to Children's Hospital in Milwaukee for further testing. She left work in Mayville immediately to meet them for the trip to the hospital.

First, they were told that Isaiah's white blood cell count was low. Then, they received the shocking news that their third child had AML.

He started his first chemotherapy treatment a few days later on December 30. It was a whirlwind that the family did not expect.

"It takes a while to accept the fact that one of your own children has to deal with cancer at the young age of 18 months," Becky said. "This is the time they should be playing with their siblings and enjoying life, not stuck in a hospital room an hour away from the rest of the family."

The young couple had two other children at home at the time. Zach was five and McKenzie was four. They relied on family and friends to help them take care of the older two children while they were with Isaiah during the first weeks of his diagnosis and treatment.

Becky stayed with Isaiah at the hospital. John went back to work and took care of the older two children while still finding time to spend with Becky and Isaiah.

It was a balancing act, but the two struggled through it because that is what they needed to do. Their family was very supportive and helped with the older two children and a move to a new home that was purchased right before Isaiah was diagnosed.

Isaiah went through five rounds of chemotherapy. Each round was approximately 10 days long. He would then have three to five weeks off before the next round.

The little spitfire quickly got to know the nurses at Children's and became a favorite of theirs. He flirted with all of the nurses and made the best of his time in the hospital.

Of course, some of the days were rougher than the others. He had days where he was very tired from the chemotherapy, but he had days where he seemed like a normal kid.

He loved the week in between treatments when he could go home and play with his older brother and sister. If you didn't know what he was going through, you would have thought Isaiah was a normal, rambunctious bald little boy.

His mother was getting the education of a lifetime. Becky started a binder when Isaiah was diagnosed. She wrote down everything the doctors and nurses told her and kept everything they gave her.

Little Isaiah Van Beek enjoys some watermelon while at a benefit held for him in Campbellsport in August 2007. He was feeling better at this time and excited to be out and about.

She also did a lot of research on the internet. Any term she was unsure of or any medicine they talked about she would look up to find out exactly what it was or how it would affect Isaiah.

This not only helped her understand everything a little better, it put her at ease. Knowing what was going on and understanding everything helped her get through it all.

Another comfort for the family was all the family, friends and well-wishers who had come to their side. Many people helped the young family after that fateful day in December. Some people helped in huge ways by taking care of the children and others helped in small ways by sending cards and prayers or buying some groceries for them.

The Van Beek siblings were very excited to be enjoying some ice cream at the Fond du Lac McDonald's in January. As part of Isaiah's Make-A-Wish, they shopped at the pet store in Fond du Lac and then went to McDonald's where Isaiah made the ice cream cones for everyone. His main wish was a dog, which they received in December. Honey is still an important member of the Van Beek family.

"It was amazing how many people prayed for Isaiah and helped our family," Becky said. "I do believe that all those prayers and his never-ending spunk is what pulled him through... Well, Children's Hospital didn't hurt either. All his doctors and nurses were so wonderful and always made sure we knew what was going on and were comfortable with his treatments."

"I could never thank the great people who reached out to our family enough. Every little thing that they did will always be in our hearts."

As Isaiah responded favorably to the chemotherapy, it was clear that the next step would be a bone marrow transplant. This usually works best with a family member donating the marrow, so they were all tested to see who could be the best match.

Isaiah's older brother, Zachary, turned out to be a perfect match. On May 4, 2007, the transplant took place. They took enough bone marrow from Zach so they would have some extra in case they needed it in the future. Then, Isaiah began his transfusion that night.

After the bone marrow transplant, everything was going well. Becky was planning to help out at the Campbellsport News office during a maternity leave. The older two children were getting ready for a new school year at Holy Trinity School in Kewaskum.

At the time, the family was trying to settle back into a normal life style. They were also anxiously awaiting the birth of their fourth child, Elijah, who was born in December 2007.

"I feel stronger as a family now. We were apart for almost six months, so now we really cherish our time together," Becky said at the time. "I always find myself peeking at the kids playing together or with John and my heart just skips a beat. It feels so great to just be together."

But, they received the devastating news in September 2007 that the cancer was back and there was nothing more that could be done. They spent the next seven months enjoying their time with Isaiah and the family.

Becky's ob/gyn doctor and fellow doctors and nurses pooled money together to send the family on a trip to Disney World in Florida.

Through the Make-A-Wish Foundation, Isaiah realized his dream of owning a dog. The foundation helped him pick out his dog "Honey," took Isaiah to the pet store to pick out necessities and toys for Honey and took him to McDonald's and let him make his own ice cream cone.

On April 29, 2008, Isaiah courageously took his last breath after battling leukemia for so many months. He died in his sleep in his mother's arms, four days after his third birthday.

Though the family went through such a rough time in their life, they are still a strong, united family. Today they are enjoying time spent with Zach, now a sophomore at Kewaskum High School, and watching McKenzie, a freshman at KHS, play volleyball. Eli is now in third grade at Holy Trinity and he is helping them make more family memories with his easy-going personality.

Every year the family and their friends pull together to honor Isaiah by raising money for the Make-A-Wish Foundation. They participate in the Fox Cities Make-A-Wish Walk For Wishes every September. Their group is always one of the top fundraising groups and one of the largest team at the event every year.

"It is amazing to see over 35 of your family and friends gather together to celebrate your son's life year after year," Becky said. "People are so generous and have helped our team "Isaiah's Stars" raise more than $30,000 over the past nine years. The Make-A-Wish organization is an incredible group that is there for these wonderful kids during some of the hardest times of their lives. You cannot explain the difference their actions can make for a family that is struggling to keep just a small sense of normalcy."

Becky also encourages people to donate blood. This is something that saved Isaiah's life very early in his fight.

In that first night in the hospital, Isaiah needed a blood transfusion or he would have died. This has given the family a strong reason to support blood donation and all other types of donations.

"That first night was so scary," John said. "Isaiah could have died within hours if we didn't take him to the hospital and they didn't give him that first transfusion. The treatments he received during his fight caused him to receive many transfusions. They were all as important as the first. Blood donation can truly save a life. It's not just a catchy slogan, it's really the truth."

There isn't a day that goes by that the family doesn't think about Isaiah. They are just grateful that they were able to share those three special years with such a wonderful and strong spirit.

"Our lives have changed forever," Becky said. "We have grown and learned so much from Isaiah. He was truly a blessing and he will remain in our hearts forever."

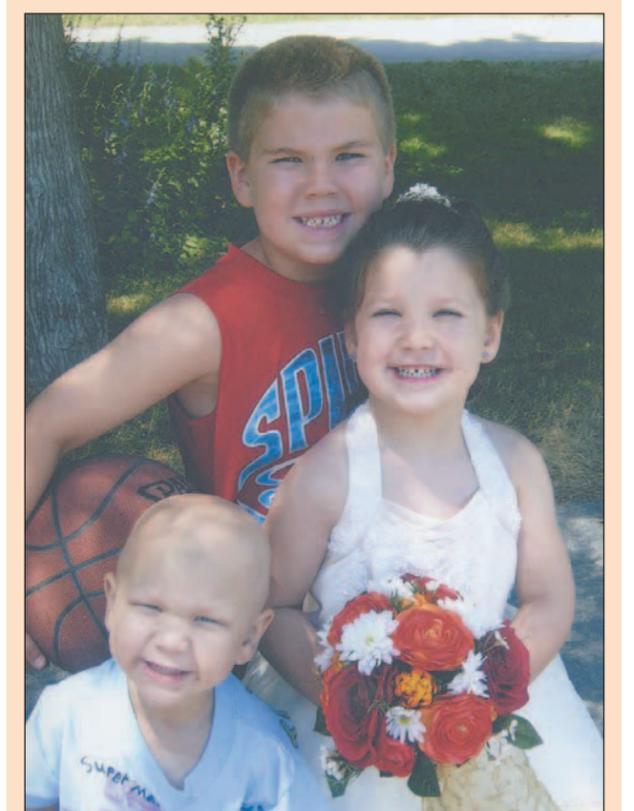

Isaiah Van Beek poses with his puppy Honey. Honey was Isaiah's Make-A-Wish, which he received in December 2007. After receiving the dog, the family was also taken to a pet store to obtain items for Honey as part of Isaiah's wish. The family continues to raise money for the Make-A-Wish Foundation.

– A Tribute To My Uncle Tom Kudek

By Marie Steinman

Writing this memoir means so much to me because it is a tribute to my Uncle Tom Kudek, 54, who died on June 25, 2016. He would love and cherish this memoir. My Uncle Tom was an outstanding man. He was everyone's favorite uncle, because he had a heart of gold. Uncle Tom put everyone's needs in front of his. He was like my second dad, that's how important this man was to me. I would do anything for him, but when God wants you to leave this world you're going to leave this world. Nobody likes it, but trust me I know the feeling, it's for the greater good. Uncle Tom was my best friend, until cancer struck his liver. Of course he's still my friend. My Uncle Tom and I are like a heart that can never be broken. I never appreciated him this much until I lost him forever, but he is still living in my heart.

After two and a half

years of treatment, he still hadn't gotten any better. Uncle Tom started to turn pale, and he had severe pain in his head, arms, stomach, and his legs. His pain was from the treatment. I couldn't bare to see my uncle looking like that. He lay in his bed for days sleeping, with ice all over his body to sooth the pain.

He used to own Auto Body Dynamics in Kewaskum. He owned the whole building. He had to sell the building in order to pay his medical bills. When we found out he wasn't going to make it to his birthday, April 1, our hearts melted in pain and sorrow.

I had gotten Uncle Tom a rubix cube and I made him a very big "Get Well Soon" card. He could have something to do in the waiting room or in his hospital room. He wouldn't get bored as easily at the hospital with the gifts I had given him.

Uncle Tom loved NASCAR Racing. He collected so many cars from NASCAR. He always lined his basement walls with his cars. He even made a little spot in his coffee table for them. After he found out he was dying, he cleaned out his belongings and either sold or gave them away. He gave his most valuable cars to my brother, Nathan.

My brother and I look up to him. He's our role model. Every day when I make a decision I look up to heaven. I see him watching over me like God would do. Not only do I see clouds in the sky, I see a giant golden gate that unlocks the door to Heaven. Just like Uncle Tom unlocks the door to my heart, laughter, tears, and my feelings.

When I was a little girl he always babysat me. He would always say, "Marie, you're my world. You brighten my day just like the sun."

"See You Again" by Charlie Puth and Wiz Khalifa, "How can we not talk about family when family is all that we got? Everything I went through you were standing there by my side. And now you're to be with me for the last ride. It's been a long day without you my friend, and I'll tell you all about it when I see you again."

Whenever I hear a certain song, I think of how I could have had one last ride with my Uncle Tom.

I'll have to ask him if he can take me for a ride one time, next time I see him again.

Fighting Cancer Together

– Kewaskum Resident Tom Knorr Relies On Family And Faith As He Battles Cancer

By Anne Trautner

Each week, Tom Knorr goes through the sales sheet and makes a list of groceries for the Kewaskum Community Food Pantry.

He has been doing that volunteer job for years.

But Tom, 73, no longer can do the shopping himself. He can't carry the heavy loads. And he can't be exposed to any germs.

Tom has cancer.

Diagnosis

One doctor's appointment can change a person's life.

Tom Knorr and his wife of 47 years, Barb Knorr, learned that in June 2011 when Tom had his yearly physical. It was then that they found out that Tom had an elevated PSA (prostate-specific antigen) level in his blood. A biopsy confirmed their worst fears: Tom had Stage 4 prostate cancer.

"We were numb. Hearing the big 'C' word knocked us for a loop," Barb said.

Tom's life was forever changed with his diagnosis. So was Barb's.

"She is going through it, too," Tom said. "The doctors, nurses, therapists...they all have been super. But Barb is more than super. She is my rock. I could not go through this without her; it just wouldn't work."

Surgery

After the diagnosis, Tom started on hormone therapy to keep his testosterone in check, as that is what feeds the cancer. Unfortunately, the hormone therapy caused terrible hot flashes.

"Several times over the winter, he would get a bad hot flash and end up standing in the garage to try and cool down," Barb said.

Doctors agreed the best option for him would be to have his prostate removed by robotic surgery. So in October 2011, Tom underwent the surgery. He came home feeling weak and had a catheter and bag in place. Barb learned how to take care of the catheter.

"I knew immediately that nursing was not my calling," Barb said.

Surgery produced more news the couple didn't want to hear. Cancer had spread outside the prostate. Radiation was recommended to kill any cancer that was invading Tom's body.

Radiation

Tom began radiation treatments in December 2011. In all, he received 40 radiation treatments over a course of eight weeks.

Each day, Tom and Barb drove the 80-mile round trip to Sheboygan during the dead of winter.

"We never missed a day for bad weather or roads. We felt God was watching over us those days. It either snowed before we left home or after we got back from Sheboygan," Barb said.

Tom needed to lie still during the treatments, which lasted about 30 minutes. Balloons were inserted into Tom's body to protect surrounding organs.

In the beginning, Tom had no pain from the radiation treatments. But as treatments went on, despite the balloons, the radiation burned through Tom's body and he developed burns similar to sunburn on his skin. Healing took a long time, and he suffered from gastrointestinal issues for many months.

After healing from radiation, Tom's PSA count stayed down. It seemed that life was returning to normal.

Chemotherapy

About a year after radiation,

Tom's PSA count started to rise, and his life once again became a series of blood tests, CT scans and bone scans. Tom was fighting cancer once again. This time the disease had moved to Tom's breast bone, spine and pelvic bone.

In July 2014, Tom started on a chemotherapy drug called Docetaxel. He received nine sessions of the drug given every three weeks through a port in his chest. Prednisone was given with the Docetaxel to combat some of the side effects of the drug.

However, Tom still suffered from fatigue, hair loss, loss of taste, swelling of hands and feet, and mouth sores.

"Losing all your hair is something. It started to fall out after the first couple treatments. First, it was like he was shedding, and then the hair came out in clumps. Luckily, we have a daughter-in-law who is a beautician and she shaved it off. Tom looked so different to us, but as time went on, we got used to seeing him that way," Barb said.

Around Halloween that year, Tom joked that he could be Uncle Fester from the Adams Family TV show.

Tom has always enjoyed food, so loss of taste was a hardship. Some foods tasted like metal, but most were simply bland. Barb asked him one day how his bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwich tasted.

"It tastes like two pieces of cardboard with another piece of cardboard in between," Tom replied.

After Docetaxel treatments ended in December 2014, Tom was on and off oral chemo pills through spring and summer 2015.

Radium Treatment

In fall 2015, Tom started Xofigo, a radium treatment developed in Norway that is primarily used to fight bone cancer. The Xofigo was injected into Tom's hand in the same way an i.v. would be done.

Tom was supposed to receive six injections, but had to stop after five because his hemoglobin and platelets were adversely affected. He received numerous units of blood and platelets.

Over the past year, Tom has been hospitalized each month due to fever, dehydration and low blood counts. Doctors have not been able to find the cause of the fevers.

In May 2016, Tom suffered a brain bleed and had a slight stroke because of bleeding on his brain. The brain bleed was caused by low blood counts and low platelets and from being on blood thinners.

After hospitalization and two rehab stays over the past summer, a CT scan showed that the brain bleed is now gone.

The other good news is that Tom's latest bone scan shows no new bone cancer.

Tom currently is taking Zytiga chemo pills and is once more trying to lower PSA. He still gets fevers each month, but his blood counts have been stable.

"Maybe Zytiga will help him – never give up hope. New treatments are always discovered. Maybe someday the big 'C' will be wiped out," Barb said.

Living Life

When Tom retired from his sales job for the West Bend Company in 2008, he had plans to travel across the country with Barb.

That hasn't happened. Instead, he appreciates the time he spends with her.

"Fifteen years ago, I don't think I said 'I love you' to her as many times a day as I do now," Tom said.

It has changed their perspective on life.

"We now live day to day. We get through one day and hope the next one is better. Sometimes it is and sometimes not," Barb said. "The little things we used to Barb and Tom Knorr, who have been married for 47 years, have been fighting cancer together ever since Tom was diagnosed with prostate cancer five years ago.

worry about are not so important any more."

The Knorrs draw a lot of strength from their faith.

"I do a lot of praying daily, and I attribute these five years to that. There are so many people praying for me. I'm on prayer lists at just about every church in town," Tom said. "It is just amazing."

Tom and Barb both continue doing volunteer work for the Kewaskum Community Food Pantry.

"I just love doing it," Barb said. "And I think it helps me with the cancer business too, because it gives me something different to focus on."

Many times Barb feels the people at the food pantry help her as much as she helps them.

The Knorrs realize they are not alone in fighting the battle against cancer.

"We are always so amazed when we go to Vince Lombardi Cancer Center and see how full the treatment rooms are. Young or old – cancer is not fussy who it targets," Barb said.

And always in their thoughts are their four children and seven grandchildren.

"They are rocks we lean on and reasons why we fight this cancer together," Barb said.

Tom and Barb Knorr have volunteered for the Kewaskum Community Food Pantry since it was formed in 2009. Here, volunteers gather for a five-year anniversary picture in 2014. # Olla Runs To A Top-10 Finish

By Judy Harlow

Its top runners did well again, but the Kewaskum High cross country teams could not match the depths of many of the others in the October 6 Cougar Invitational and had to settle for fifth place in the boys' competition and eighth in the girls.

Most of our kids ran pretty well," KHS coach Kris Evans said. "It's a tough year, you know. We didn't have any PRs (personal records). That was kind of the tenor of the day with that big hill." The meet was highlighted by the seventh place by sophomore Maela Olla and the 13th and 15th by Andrew Carlton and Justin Reck, who finished within 15 seconds of each other.

Olla was clocked in 21 minutes and 28.48 seconds (21:28.48) for the 5,000 meters, just two seconds out of fifth place.

"She was right there with her time. She's so steady," Evans said of Olla. "She spends the whole race passing people."

The individual winner of the race was Living Word's Kenzie Dorth, who hit the finish line in 20:52.69. Mayville nipped Sheboygan Falls and Living Word in an exciting race for the girls' team title, 72 to 76 to 77, respectively.

KHS placed eighth with 178 points. After Olla, who continues to show great promise, came senior Haley Plachinski in 30th place with 23:30.28, followed by Melissa Schneider, 43rd in 24:46.65. The other Indian counters were a pair of freshmen, Courtney Zarda, 46th in 25:03.92 and Emma Penfield, 52nd in 25:44.49.

A week ago, Evans had commented how he was hoping Carlton and Reck would be able to run closer together and they certainly did that with their respective times of 18:30.62 and 18:44.86. This comes just in time for the East Central Conference Meet, which will be held on Ripon's Tuscumbia Golf Course on Saturday, October 15.

"Both of them missed two weeks of training," Evans said, noting Reck dipped under 18 minutes at the end of last season and that was without any missed time.

The KHS boys had to settle for fifth place in the 10-team field. The Indians had 152 points.

The No. 3 runner for the Indians was Kyle Toth, who placed 38th (19:59.87), and the other two counters were Derrick Schraufnagel, 42nd, 20:23.14; and Blake Miller, 44th, 20:35.30.

Living Word was head and shoulders ahead of the field, coming in with 37 points, with Manitowoc Lutheran second with 58 and Sheboygan Falls third at 94.

Clark Otte of Sheboygan Falls was the individual champion, and the race wasn't close as his time of 16:17.50 was 1:36 ahead of the runner-up, Mike Axtman of Living Word.

About the upcoming conference meet, Evans said, "Given our competition in the conference, I don't have big expectations, but I told the kids (early in the season) if you are improving every race, I'm a happy camper."

Slow Start, Injuries Hamper KHS Effort At Plymouth

By Judy Harlow

The energy and offensive skills that helped the Kewaskum High volleyball team to a second place finish in the Cedar Grove Invitational were nowhere to be found on October 6 for the East Central Conference match against host Plymouth.

The Indians lost the first two games 10-25 and 12-25 before coming alive in the third game which they lost by a respectable 22-25.

With the loss, the Indians dropped to 3-6 in EC play and they are 12-13 in all matches this season.

"Well, it was not the match we were looking for at Plymouth. We were still coming back from some injury issues that affected us, and we were looking for a solid showing with the lineup change, but the first two sets, we just didn't play," KHS coach Laine Leitzke said. "All credit to Plymouth for putting the pressure on us, but we did not respond at all."

"We suffered another injury in the second set and changed the lineup again," the coach went on. "Going into the third set, we had a bunch of players out of position, but we knew we were going to compete. We came out and showed Plymouth a tough match. We made some late errors that ultimately sunk us, but we found a groove and showed we could compete with them."

Leading the Indians in kills for the evening was Amanda Schaller with seven, then the numbers dropped down to two by Elizabeth Lightner and Morgan Kappler. Schaller was also good scooping up the opponents' kill attempt, with a team-high 10 digs, while Hailey Hasenberg and Brelynn Scoles came up with six and three.

Lightner had a good night at the serving line, dishing up six aces, with Sara Butschlick next with three. Four girls, Kappler, Elizabeth Schicker, Lightner and Alexandria Burn, each contributed one block, while Morgan Denlinger and Butschlick had the most assists with six and five, respectively.

Leitzke is still trying to figure out how to win games the Indians play well in and said, "We need to find the ability to turn that switch at the beginning of the match.

Kewaskum is at Campbellsport tonight (October 13) for the final EC match of the season."

Current East Central standings: 1. Kettle Moraine Lutheran, 7-0; 2. Plymouth, 5-3; 3. Berlin, 4-3; 4. Winneconne, 5-4; 5. Waupun, 4-5; 6. Kewaskum, 3-4; 7. Campbellsport, 3-5; 8. Ripon, 0-7.

Lange And Preder Eliminated In D-2 Tennis Test

By Judy Harlow

Whether it was the aftermath of the long homecoming week or just nerves, Kewaskum High's Cassidy Lange and Hanna Preder were unable to win their first match in the Division 2 sectional hosted by Brown Deer on October 4.

The Indian No. 1 duo fell behind in both of their sets to a twosome from Two Rivers, Megan Sosnosky and Gabby Weier, losing 3-6 and 2-6, thus ending their season. They finished the year at 6-6.

"The girls did not have a good practice last night, and it seemed to carry over today," KHS coach Peter Garcia said after returning home from the meet at the Pleasant Valley Tennis Club.

"I think their placing third last year at No. 3 doubles was a driving force in their play this year. I think they wanted to come back to Pleasant Valley this year and advance even further," Garcia went on. I think they just wanted it too much."

Garcia said Lange and Preder fell behind 1-4 in the first set and it was just too big a hole to dig out of.

"They fell 2-6 in set two after again being down 1-4," he said, adding, "As is true in singles as well as doubles, if you can't hold your serve, you will not win."

Sosnosky and Weier, currently 12-5 on the year, placed fourth in the sectional and move on to the state tournament in Madison on October 13-15.

"All in all, it was still a good year for two great young ladies," Garcia concluded.

The tennis team was scheduled to hold its awards banquet on October 11.

Indians Climb Into A Tie For First After Knocking Off Plymouth

By Judy Harlow

The top rung of the East Central Conference football ladder got a bit crowded on October 7 after Kewaskum nipped Plymouth 10-7 in a battle between two bruising defenses.

The loss knocked the Panthers from the unbeaten ranks and threw the conference race into a three-way tie for first with Kewaskum, Plymouth and Berlin all at 5-1 with one game remaining.

All three are facing teams near the bottom of the standings in their finales, so it may be safe to say the second EC title will end in the three-way tie.

Considering the offenses of the two teams, KHS coach Jason Piittmann didn't figure the score would be this low. "Something more like 24-21 or 28-21, three or four scores apiece," he said about the game, which was Plymouth's Homecoming and a celebration of the 40-year anniversary of the Panthers' state title from 1976.

The Indians spoiled the party by scoring a touchdown on its second offensive series and getting the game-winning field goal by junior Cade Peterson late in the third quarter.

Kewaskum started its scoring drive on the KHS 39-yard line, moving 61 yards in eight plays. Key plays in the drive were an 18-yard pass from Dalton Poole to Bennett Seidensticker for 18-yards, a pass which first ricocheted off another player, and later a third down, 34-yard pass to Tony Steger, giving the Indians a first and goal from the Plymouth three-yard line.

On first down, 205-pound Patrick Krier was held to no gain, and on second down, there was a mixup on the quarterback-running back exchange, which ended in no gain.

Krier managed to pick up two yards on third down and on fourth, he plowed into the end zone for the touchdown, and Peterson tacked on the point after touchdown (PAT) for a 7-0 lead.

Derek Novotny came up with a good kickoff return but a holding call put the ball back on the PHS 29-yard line, and it was there the Panthers started an 11-play drive to answer Kewaskum's score. Cody Kuhn got the final call, gaining the final yard on third and goal, and quarterback/kicker Gavin Falk tied the game with his PAT.

The big plays in the drive were an 11-yard run by Novotny and a 23-yard Falk to Kuhn pass for a first down at the KHS 9.

The Indians had two more drives before half-time, but both of them ended with Poole getting intercepted. Falk picked off the first pass on a second down play at the Plymouth 48.

Just before the break, Kewaskum came up with a big, 32-yard pass play from Poole to Steger to move into the red zone. On first down from the Panther 19, Cole Surprenant battled for six yards to the 13, and after an incomplete pass, he gained two yards to the 11, but there the Indians were facing a fourth and two situation. Rather than try a field goal, it was Steger getting the call, taking a pitchout and gaining seven yards for a first down to the four.

Here's where things started to go in the wrong direction, with the Indians whistled for a motion penalty, then a holding call on a pass play, followed by another motion penalty. On second down, a pass intended for Danny Kreis fell incomplete, and on third down, Falk snared his second interception of the night.

"We shot ourselves in the foot there," Piittmann said. "If we could have gotten a score there, it would have been really big."

While the offenses had success in the early going, it got tougher to pick up yards in the second half. For Plymouth, it was a matter of not getting the ball. After the game, Piittmann said he was told Plymouth only ran 15 offensive plays in the second half.

The Panthers had three possessions in the third quarter, with two ending in punts and the other an interception by Brady Hanson, who had a whale of a game with seven solo tackles and nine team tackles. "He was all over the place," Piittmann said, adding, "Brady is very much a hybrid player for us."

After the pick, the Indians moved from midfield to the Plymouth 10 when the drive stalled and Peterson came on to kick the game-winning 27-yard field goal. "Cade kicked the heck out of the ball ... I think it would have been good for 40 (yards)," Piittmann said.

In the fourth quarter, the hosts picked up two quick first downs, then the Indians stuffed Novotny on two straight carries before an incomplete pass forced Plymouth to punt.

Kewaskum started at its own 20 and moved all the way to the PHS 18 when Krier got the call four times in a row for a final first down on the 8 when time ran out.

"That last drive used up seven and a half minutes and salted the game away," Piittmann said. "Patrick did a great job running at the end."

Krier ended up with 65 yards in 19 carries, while Surprenant got the call 21 times, gaining 122 yards for a 5.8 yard average. "He had a great game. He ran hard," Piittmann said, indicating Surprenant is learning how to read his blocks and determine whether to cut inside or go outside.

Kewaskum outgained Plymouth, 333 to 164. The passing game was inconsistent with Poole throwing eight straight incompletions at one point. He went 7x18 for 145 yards. Steger had three catches for 76 yards before going out of the game with an injury. Surprenant also went to the sideline in the fourth quarter, but Piittmann said his problem was just a cramp.

Novotny led the Panthers with 78 rushing yards. Falk gained 32 and completed 6x13 passes for just 43 yards. "The front line did a great job ... kept Falk uncomfortable back there," Piittmann said. Jon Leister and Dalton Espitia both came up with good games in the defensive line with Scott Hiltunen was stellar in the defestive backfield.

Kewaskum heads to Campbellsport Friday, and Piittmann said despite what the game looks like on paper, "Hopefully we'll be able to establish ourselves right away and take care of business."

On October 15, coaches from all the playoff qualifiers will go to assigned meetings to determine the playoff matchups.

Bikers Earn Medals

Finally, after a couple of cancelled races due to flooding and washed-out trails, the Washington County Trail Sharks mountain bike team was able to race again. This Sunday they were at Nordic Mountain, in Mt. Morris. The middle school and high school team did an outstanding job coming home with four medals. The morning started out at 27 degrees and turned into perfect weather for the team. As parents and teammates were running around the race venue cheering on the team, the athletes were able to make tremendous improvements with their times from the beginning of the season.

Middle schoolers included: Kendra Schmitt (Kewaskum) first, Skyler Schmitt (Kewaskum) fourth, Jan Lanser (West Bend) fourth, Quentin Willmas (West Bend) seventh and Mikey Spangenberg (West Bend) 18th.

Skyler Schmitt, an eighth-grader at Kewaskum Middle School, relaxes after finishing the final race of the Wisconsin Off Road Series. The final mud bath was held at Sheboygan's Quarry View & Evergreen Park. Skyler won his age group in the Category 3 Citizen's field of 20, ages 11-14, and took fourth overall out of the Citizens group of 86 riders (ages 11 through 66). The course was in itself an epic adventure - with gnarly tree roots slick with mud, gushing river crossings, multiple standing puddles, hairpin turns, mud-slicked climbs and slimy, slippery descents. In other words, 10 grueling miles of pure fun.

Kewaskum Youth Soccer Results

October 8 U8 Suns 4, Slinger Lightning 2

The U8 Suns and the Slinger Lightning played a tough match this past Saturday. It was a crisp but sunny day for some fall soccer and the Suns came out on top with a 4-2 win! The team had great communication and awesome team work, lots of great passes too! Annika, Grant, and Ranen all scored goals! Great job guys.

U8 Phoenix 10, Jackson Lynx 1

U8 Phoenix took to field on Saturday against the Jackson Lynx. The first quarter was filled with some great playing by the Phoenix. Oliver Grover scored two goals and Colton Rabe scored one goal. During the second quarter there was some good defense playing by Janya Dieringer, Kingston Grisolono, Malia Volesky and Micah Schneider. There were goals scored by Colton and Sawyer Tye. The third quarter continued to have some great team playing. Kingston scored two goals with one of them being assisted by Malia. Then they turned around with Malia scoring a goal being assisted by Kingston. The Phoenix continued to play hard during the final quarter. Janya scored a goal for the team along with Oliver scoring a goal from a kick from the goalie. Way to go Phoenix! Phoenix won 10 to 1.

U9 Kewaskum Twisters 1, Richfield Eagles 3

The U9 Kewaskum Twisters lost to the Richfield Eagles 1-3. Richfield scored first in the middle of the second quarter, followed shortly by Kewaskum's only goal, scored by Liam Stoffel. With standout defense, Haley Honeyager and Gabe Bestul worked together at the sweeper position to keep the Eagles away from the goal. Unfortunately, Richfield scored two quick goals in the 4th quarter to put them on top of the Twisters, bringing their record to 2-3-0.

U10 Venoms 5, Hartford Thunder Dogs 2

The U10 Venoms took to the field against the Hartford Thunder Dogs on Saturday. All the girls warmed up quick to some fast foot work happening on the field. Quarter one started off with some good defensive playing by Eden Korth and Alya Stucht. The girls continued to play hard into the second quarter with goals being made by Maddie Marquardt, Lidia Handke and Emily Melzer. During the third quarter the girls continued to play well as a team.

Mara Butschlick scored a goal for Venom. As the game closed with the fourth quarter Rowan Bell made a final goal for Venom. Great goalie work during the game by Brooklyn Grisolono, Caitlin Finger and Victoria Kenworthy. Great job ladies with a win over the Thunder Dogs 5-2. Correction from last weeks Venom article: goal was made by Maddie Marquardt instead of Rowan Bell. Great job Maddie.

U12 Spartans 3, Richfield 4

The U12 Spartans played a very competitive game against Richfield this Saturday. The final score was 3-4 with the win going to Richfield. The Spartans managed to hold out and even up the score until the very end. Denali Fellenz scored two and Diesel Fellenz scored one. Marie Buddenhagen and Kate Butschlick both proved to be determined on the offensive end helping to drive the ball forward. Hudson Curtin remained in goal most of the game and proved to be a tough wall for Richfield. Unfortunately, due to circumstance, what should have been a win ended in a loss due to two own goals made accidentally by the defense.

Eighth Grade Gridiron Defeats Thiensville-Mequon White

The Eighth Grade Gridiron Indians defeated the Thiensville-Mequon White Cardinals on Saturday, Oct. 8 by a score of 18-0 at Homestead High School to improve their record to 3-2 on the season.

The first quarter moved quickly as the Indians got a defensive stop and then moved the ball down field but the drive stalled due to a holding penalty and the Indians turned it over on downs. In the second quarter the Indians put a nice drive together and capped it off with a 20 yard touchdown run by Running Back Trevor Magray. Magray did it again later in the quarter but this time from 65 yards out using some great blocking from the Offensive Line to make the score 12-0. The Indians threatened again before the half until a pass was intercepted with under 20 seconds remaining to keep the score 12-0 at half. The Cardinals never really threatened on offense and the Indians forced two fumbles, both recovered by Defensive Lineman Blake Weisser.

The Indians received the second half kickoff and moved the ball with some nice running through gaping holes opened by the Offensive Line and some nice passing plays but again the drive stalled around the 20-yard line. The score remained 12-0 at the end of the third quarter. The Indians were able to punch one more touchdown in, this one a one yard touchdown run by Quarterback Michael Daniel to make the score 18-0. The Cardinals got one more possession and were driving the ball until Safety Mason Schulteis stepped in front of a deep pass to make the interception. The Indians ran out the clock for the 18-0 victory.

The Indians played a great game defensively in getting their first shutout of the season and the Cardinals struggled to move the ball throughout the entire game. The Offensive Line also played great in opening up large running holes and allowing the Indians to control the football for most of the game. The Indians next game is on Saturday, Oct. 15 at home against Oconomowoc Black with the game starting at 9 a.m.

The Ultimate Packer Fan Picks “Dak Attack” At Lambeau Field – Green Bay Packers 3-1 vs. Dallas Cowboys 4-1

The Green Bay Packers just beating (23-16) the New York Giants will host the Dallas Cowboys at Lambeau Field on Sunday, Oct. 16. Kickoff is scheduled for 3:25 p.m.

A healthy Aaron Rodgers coming fresh off a “bye” week lacked consistency and vision downfield. At times, his uncertain performance losing accuracy resulted in unsatisfactory completions. His vision downfield appeared to be tunneled. On several occasions receivers became wide open going unnoticed. Aaron had great protection allowing him ample time to throw the ball. Even with that he only completed a frustrating 23/45 passes for 259 yards. He had two touchdowns and was intercepted twice. His passing rate was just 87.7 percent against the Giants.

Randall Cobb had nine catches for 108 yards. Eddy Lacy had a superb running game until injuring his ankle, making him unable to play in the second half. Eli Manning finished ished the game with 18/35 completed passes for 199 yards.

The Dallas Cowboys come into Green Bay with the #14 ranked rookie quarterback, Dak Prescott. He has thrown for 1,239 yards while averaging 248 yards per game. His average passing rate is outstanding for a rookie at 101.5. Some of Dak’s favorite targets to watch are Cole Beasley. Cole is ranked 23rd, averaging 12.3 yards per completion along with veteran receivers Terrance Williams and Jason Witten. The Cowboys also showcase their star rookie running back Ezekiel Elliot. He has run for 546 yards and leads the league in rushing yardage.

Aaron Rodgers comes into this game ranked 29th in the league with only 876 passing yards while averaging just 219 yards per game. His average passing rate is just 87.7 percent. This year his passing rate for the second half of play is barely 69 percent. He has now gone just one in 15 games to achieve a passing rate of over 100 percent and that only time was against the Lions last week. Jordy Nelson is ranked 47, averaging 11.6 yards followed by Randall Cobb ranked at number 50, averaging 11.4 yards.

These teams have met 33 times including seven playoff appearances. Green Bay leads with 17-16-0. The last time Dallas beat Green Bay was on Sept. 21, 2008. I hate to admit it, but if Aaron Rodgers continues his trending performance you can expect Green Bay to drop this one in the loss column. I predict Dallas wins over Green Bay, 27-23.

MY POSTURE Wellness The Proof Is In The Picture
 Contributed by: Lori Bersch, Licensed Massage Therapist & Certified Posture Expert

They say a picture is worth a thousand words. That's why posture imaging is one of the most accurate assessment tools that I use in my practice. At my most recent interactive posture workshop, many participants reported that when looking at pictures of themselves it became clear that they had some posture issues. And after doing a full analysis, they started to understand where some of their pain was coming from.

Take a look at some photos of yourself and see if you recognize any bad posture patterns. For years I noticed my head was always tilted to the side in photos. Even when I would intentionally try to hold it straight it would still tilt to the side! Little did I know that it was years of muscular dysfunction that was causing this poor posture - and a lot of pain too!

A basic posture screen with postural imaging is a cost-effective, accurate, and visual representation of your body's natural posture. Postural imaging, when done correctly, gives valuable information into muscular dysfunctions, spinal instability, and balance problems. It is also a useful tool for accurate clinical re-evaluation. To ensure clinical accuracy the procedures for postural analyses are standardized and performed the same way each time.

Our posture can change for various different reasons over time. One example could be from an injury. When we get injured (such as an ankle sprain or back ache), we immobilize and stabilize the injured area, creating different movement patterns and muscle imbalances in other areas of the body to compensate for the injury site. We call these compensation patterns. Once the injury heals, we can be left with muscular dysfunctions which can lead to posture distortion, pain, and make us susceptible to further injury. Having an annual posture screen can help identify such issues before they start causing you major problems.

Most people are aware of the importance posture has on their health and well-being, yet many of us (or more like most of us) have never had a simple posture screen performed. Having a benchmark posture report is a great way to monitor our changing posture as we age. If we see postural distortion patterns arising we can do a more comprehensive evaluation, implement correction strategies, and re-educate postural habits.

The Posture Committee of the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons differentiates "good" and "bad" postural presentations. Good posture is the state of muscular and skeletal balance which protects the supporting structures of the body against injury or progressive deformity irrespective of the attitude (erect, lying, squatting, or stooping) in which these structures are working or resting. Under such conditions the muscles will function most efficiently and the optimum positions are afforded for the thoracic and abdominal organs. Poor posture is a faulty relationship of the various parts of the body which produces increased strain on the supporting structures and in which there is less efficient balance of the body over its base of support.

Posturology is a science, it is a method for analyzing the design of the body and how the body naturally aligns itself in relationship to the surrounding environment. Think of how your body naturally orients itself on a daily basis in response to its changing environment; being tense from shivering in the cold, or totally relaxed after a therapeutic massage for example.

Receiving regular therapeutic massage is a great way to maintain range of motion and joint flexibility when good postural health is present. But what if we already have problems due to poor posture? Restoring structural balance throughout the body with orthopedic massage allows us to focus on the rehabilitation of musculoskeletal dysfunctions caused by poor posture. Orthopedic massage involves range of motion assessment and comprehensive postural analysis, along with manipulation and movement of soft tissues to reduce pain and dysfunction. In my next two columns I'll talk about my favorite aspects of postural distortions.... FASCIA!

Curious to know if you have any postural distortions? Receive a FREE Posture Screening when you schedule a Therapeutic Wellness Massage appointment with me between now and October 31st! You can schedule appointments at www.my-posturewellness.com. # UW-WC Professor Discovers New Fluorescent Protein

— Dr. Wayne Schaefer's Lifelong Walleye Research Pays Off

Dr. Wayne Schaefer, Professor Emeritus of Biology at UW-Washington County (UW-WC) along with colleagues from UW-Sheboygan and the University of Iowa and the National Center for Biological Studies in Bangalore, India, recently announced, in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences, that they had discovered a new fluorescent protein in walleye fish from northwestern Ontario, Canada. The protein is blue in color and was first observed by Schaefer in blue colored walleye in the Papaonga River System near Ear Falls, Ontario, about 150 miles north of the US-Canadian border in 1992.

Schaefer, a fish biologist, started teaching at UW-WC in 1978. His primary area of research has been the biology of walleye in Ontario, Canada. While collecting samples near his cabin in Ontario in 1992, he began catching walleye that were blue in color rather than the normal yellow color. He noted that the blue color was located in the skin mucus of the fish. He realized that no other fish species in the world was ever reported to have color in their mucus, only in their scales. Schaefer initially hypothesized that the blue color was caused by a symbiotic micro-organism living in the mucus of the fish.

Specimens were brought back to the campus and an extensive effort was made to identify a bacterium or algae living in the fish mucus. Hundreds of students from the West Bend High Schools aided in an effort to identify a potential micro-organism. High school students in Paul DeChant's AP biology classes and Bob Clingan's AP chemistry classes worked evenings on the research in UW-WC labs for three years, before concluding that the color was not caused by a micro-organism. Mark Schmitz, Assistant Professor of Biology at UW-Sheboygan and a former student of Dr. Schaefer's, completed his Ph.D. at UW-Milwaukee by participating in extensive field research on this project concerning seasonal production of the blue pigment.

In further efforts to determine the source of blue color, Schaefer took samples of blue mucus to Dr. David Gibson at the University of Iowa who had previously engineered a blue pigment to be used to dye blue jean pants. Gibson was an internationally acclaimed microbiologist who happened to love fishing. He took on the project and quickly determined that the blue pigment was a new protein and was secreted by the skin of the fish and not by any micro-organism. The protein was named sandercyanin. Further the protein contained biliverdin, a small chemical caused by breakdown of heme in the blood.

Walleye in Wisconsin and Minnesota did not have blue color in their mucus; only walleye in Canada. What factor in Canada, and not the U.S., was causing this breakdown of heme into biliverdin? An answer was suggested by one of the high school students who hypothesized that the ozone hole over the North Pole may be related to the phenomenon. Ozone in the upper atmosphere protects the earth from harmful ultraviolet (UV) radiation. For the last 40 years, holes in the ozone layer over both the North and South Poles have been observed.

The cause of ozone depletion is an air pollutant (chlorofluorocarbon, CFC) found in older aerosol sprays that destroys ozone, thereby allowing UV radiation to more fully penetrate the earth's atmosphere over the Poles. UV radiation is known to cause the breakdown of heme into biliverdin. Perhaps sandercyanin acted as a sunscreen to protect walleye in northern latitudes from UV radiation. Schaefer published the hypothesis last year in the Canadian Journal of Fisheries and Aquatic Resources.

In June of 2008, while examining mucus from blue walleye under the microscope at the University of Iowa, Schaefer illuminated the mucus with UV light and observed bright red fluorescence coming from mucus cells containing sandercyanin. Interestingly, the red fluorescence did not fade with time exposure to UV light.

Several fluorescent proteins had already been discovered by 2008 but none fluoresced in red, a color better suited to deep tissue studies, and all faded rapidly with exposure to light. Fluorescent proteins are extensively used in modern biotechnology to study molecular genetics. They function as chemical tags for DNA and for cells. A Nobel Prize was awarded to researchers from the University of California – San Diego who discovered Green Fluorescent Protein in jellyfish. Sandercyanin has several important benefits beyond any other fluorescent protein discovered to date.

Although David Gibson retired from the University of Iowa in 2006, one of his colleagues, Subramanian Ramaswamy (Rams), continued to study the chemistry of sandercyanin in India where he became the director of a large research facility called The National Center for Biological Sciences. There Rams assigned a Ph.D. student, Swagatha Ghosh, to the project. She was successful in cloning the gene for sandercyanin and transplanting it into bacteria that now produce blue color. The University of Wisconsin has patented the gene and is seeking to license the patent to biotechnology companies capable of getting the product into labs around the world where sandercyanin will be used in medical research.

Schaefer, who retired this spring, taught thousands of UW-WC students over the years and also accompanied over 600 students to Canada to participate in his research. Dr. Schaefer will remain active at UW-WC working on blue walleye. It is with a great deal of pride that UW-WC acknowledges its contribution to medical research and to the accomplishments of one of its own professors.

UW-Washington County is located at 400 University Drive in West Bend. ### Prioritizing Ethical Research In Wisconsin

Wisconsin can become a biotechnology leader by prioritizing life-saving, ethical research utilizing umbilical cord blood. Like stem cells found in bone marrow, cord blood contains unique stem cells that can help repair damaged body tissues. Unlike bone marrow cells, cord blood is collected safely and painlessly after birth and has been used to treat over 80 conditions including Alzheimer's, leukemia, sickle cell anemia, diabetes, liver failure, spinal cord injury, stroke, autism, genetic diseases, immune deficiencies and many, many more.

If collected, cord blood is stored in either public or private banks. Public banks are often non-profit and receive blood from various donors. Private banks serve individuals who pay thousands of dollars to have their cord blood stored for private, family use in case of a future illness. According to an article published in the June 2015 edition of Bone Marrow Transplant, approximately six times more cord blood is stored in private banks than in public; however, public banks release approximately 30 times more units of blood to treat illnesses. With approximately 130 million annual births world-wide, cord blood is a largely untapped, plentiful source of highly specialized, potentially life-saving stem cells. Unlike embryonic stem cells, umbilical cord cells do not result in the taking of a life to research the preservation of life. Wisconsin's leaders and representatives in the scientific community should encourage the establishment of cord blood banks here in the state as well as promote the ethical, life-saving research in this promising field.

Stroebel's Notes

—Guest Editorial By 20th District State Senator
Duce Stroebel

Senator Stroebel Visits Every Public School System In 20th Senate District

During my time as an elected official, I have always attempted to never lose sight of the importance of the next generation. As the parents of eight children, my wife and I have an acute interest, as we all do, in ensuring Wisconsin offers first-rate educational opportunities for our youth. The next generation represents the future of this great state.

With this in mind, I embarked on an aggressive tour of every public school district and many private schools in the 20th State Senate District. I walked away from these tours inspired by many teachers that are preparing their students for success.

As I toured the schools in my senate district, I was happy to observe exciting reforms and learn about inspiring programs that are preparing the next generation of leaders. What all of the schools have in common is a laser-like focus on the local needs of students. What is working in one school district may not be the answer in another.

The New Holstein School District focuses on the future agricultural needs of the community. The high school features an impressive agriculture lab that prepares students for a future career in the agriculture business. The district has invested in cutting edge technology to better prepare students for the modern day farm, where centuries old techniques meet the modern day technologies that streamline tasks and incorporate much needed efficiencies.

In Port Washington and Plymouth, the districts have partnered with local manufacturers and foundries to expose students to careers in those industries. Similar to the agriculture business, today's manufacturers and foundries often rely on technology that requires a sophisticated understanding of not only the immediate task, but the software and engineering that makes the functionality possible. The importance of these partnerships is even more pronounced when one considers the skills gap many manufacturers face.

In West Bend, the school district has taken partnering with the local business community to a whole new level by creating an Education Committee of the West Bend Chamber of Commerce. The opportunities provided by the alliance include youth apprenticeships, state certified co-ops, and job shadowing. The high school now features a state of the art performing arts center thanks to the generous support of several key local businesses, in the process avoiding additional burden on the local taxpayers.

Finally, the Cedarburg School District continues to challenge its students to achieve some of the highest academic standards in the state. Newsweek ranked Cedarburg High School as the 180th top high school in the country on their annual "America's Top High Schools" list. Among the 17 Wisconsin high schools that made Newsweek's list, Cedarburg has the fifth-highest ranking in the state. The high school has consistently been a recipient of the Support Music Merit Award as part of the Best of Communities for Music Education program.

This is just a partial list of the numerous examples of forward-thinking, education innovations in our schools. I was thrilled to have the opportunity to tour the public school districts in our communities. For the past two budgets, spending on equalized aid has increased and K-12 spending represents over one-third of Wisconsin's spending.

Yes, there are challenges for education in Wisconsin. There are funding formula difficulties for rural schools and urban districts face increasing truancy. We must continue to find ways to increase parent participation and choice in our education system. This includes expanding school choice.

Additionally, the old mentality of pushing four-year college post high school must be reformed to encourage students to advance in the way that is best for them. Wisconsin manufacturers report a lack of qualified and skilled labor. As the legislature moves forward on education reform, I am committed to ensuring all students have the opportunity to succeed for many years to come.

Ideas For Parents: Easy Things To Help Your Child Succeed

Powerful Parenting the Asset-Building Way

It's easy to get scared as a parent. Watching the news, we see crime, drinking and driving, teen pregnancy, gang warfare, suicide. We wonder what's going to happen to our children.

In our fear, we may end up scaring our kids so that they live in fear as well. Or, we may look the other way, thinking that these things would never affect our families.

Whatever the approach, most parents feel uncertain at times. We would like to know the secrets of healthy parenting in a world that often seems very unhealthy.

The idea of "developmental assets," introduced by the Search Institute in Minneapolis, gives new sense of hope and practical direction for parents. Researchers at Search Institute have identified 40 assets that have a powerful, positive impact on young people. Children and teenagers who have a lot of assets get involved in very few risky behaviors – the kinds of problems we worry about like drugs and alcohol. And, when young people have a lot of assets, they are much more likely to do the positive things we value.

Assets do make a difference. By incorporating them into your parenting you can help your child grow up happy, healthy and responsible. Future columns will explain further and give practical information on each asset.

How To Start

Search Institute has identified eight types of assets that are crucial for helping young people grow up healthy:

- Supporting and loving your child
- Empowering your child
- Setting clear and realistic boundaries and expectations

- Helping your child use his or her time in meaningful, constructive ways
- Encouraging your child to develop a lifetime commitment to learning
- Instilling in your child positive values
- Developing social competencies in your child
- Encouraging your child to form a positive identity

This column is sponsored by Elevate, Inc., a Washington County non-profit whose mission it is to address the root causes of high risk behaviors through prevention, intervention and residential programming that focus on drug and alcohol issues, mental health and delinquency.
