Village's Ice Skating Plans Slide To Next Year

By Anne Trautner

There will be no ice skating in Kewaskum this winter after all.

It hasn't been for lack of trying. In November, the village board had approved building a temporary ice skating rink in River Hill Park.

However, when staff went to build the rink at the designated spot, located on the east side of the river, on the lower side near Main Street, they found that the ground was not level.

"The practicality of actually building it became evident after that approval, and it came back before the board, with the staff looking for direction as to how much time do we invest into this facility?" Village Administrator Matt Heiser said.

Thinking Warm Thoughts

– Village Discusses Improvements For Kiwanis Park Swim Pond

By Anne Trautner

Although temperatures have been hovering around the freezing mark, the Village of Kewaskum's Park and Recreation committee is thinking about warm weather.

At their meeting last week, committee members discussed ways to improve the swim pond at Kiwanis Park. The committee discussed investing about $24,000 on shade structures and inflatable amenities for the swim pond.

The committee would like to spend about $11,000 on permanent umbrellas or other shade structures. Another $10,000 would be used to purchase inflatable climbing structures in the shallow end of the pond for young children, and about $3,000 would go toward inflatable rafts or sun decks for older youth.

Sunburst Snowboarder Competes In World Cup

By Anne Trautner

Katie Wilson grew up snowboarding at Sunburst Winter Sports Park in Kewaskum.

"Sunburst had amazing parks where I could quadruple my park runs compared to kids in the west or east coast. I was a well-known park rat. Racing to me was 'nerdy,' or maybe unrealistic, based on what I knew," Katie said.

However, racing has since become a reality for 19-year-old Katie.

She finished 27th in the World Cup Boardercross event and eighth in the team boardercross event during the World Cup competition held in Solitude, Utah, January 19-22.

The competition did not start out well for her. A winter storm was brewing in Utah, and as the women's snowboarding races began in the World Cup competition, the snow started falling.

By the time it was Katie's turn to race, about a foot of snow had fallen.

Junior Women's Club Celebrates 50 Years Of Service

By Anne Trautner

In 1967, a group of Kewaskum women got together and decided to form a club with a mission of helping the community.

The Kewaskum Junior Women's Club was born.

"Over the last 50 years, each and every one of us was a beautiful and unique piece of a much bigger and complete picture. All of your time, talent and donations have left the community better than how we found it," Club President Kristy Bishop told past and present members at a 50th anniversary celebration last week.

The Kewaskum Junior Women's Club has donated nearly $78,000 to the community and members have volunteered thousands of hours over the past 50 years.

Programs

The club has been behind the scenes for many events in Kewaskum over the last half century. Members held Easter and Christmas celebrations. There have been educational programs at schools, nature programs, recycling activities and story hour at the library.

Numerous scholarships, as well as the Helen Mears Art Contest, have been offered for area students.

The group sponsored letters to Santa and a parent block program for children, as well as donated books to the Kewaskum Public Library. The group held bicycle clinics, babysitting clinics and vision screenings at area schools.

In the early years, club members packed USO bags, wrote letters and sent Christmas gifts to the American military.

Club members wrote letters to their congressmen regarding the treatment of MIAs and POWs. They also lobbied the village to start a youth center, former member Ann Enright said.

In 2007, the state of Wisconsin, along with the General Federation of Women's Clubs came together to provide pediatric jump kits for fire departments and emergency services.

"These kits were filled with supplies in sizes for infants and children, in one organized and easily accessible location," said Kelly Goeden, a past member and former president of the club.

Prior to the kits, emergency personnel carried adult-size oxygen masks. Unfortunately, the masks were too large for pediatric patients. If an oxygen mask was placed on a child, much of the oxygen escaped because the mask was too large for the child's face. So pediatric bags were created.

The average cost of a pediatric bag was between $500 and $600. The Kewaskum Junior Women's Club successfully donated seven pediatric jump kit bags to area fire departments.

The club also donated playground equipment for Kewaskum parks. In 1977, the Kewaskum Junior Women's Club put in the first piece of equipment at Kiwanis Park.

Then in 2003 and 2004, the club held the Jungle Gym Jamboree, which featured music in the park, to raise money for new playground equipment. With a little help from the village and the New Fane Sportsman's Club, the club raised more than $20,000.

"Ironically, that year, when we started planning, there was a Santa letter that asked for some playground equipment in one of the smaller parks," said Karen Heberer, who helped plan the club's 50th anniversary celebration.

So the request was granted, and the old equipment was moved from Kiwanis Park to the village park on Knights Avenue.

Fundraisers

In addition to the park concerts, the Junior Women's Club has run countless fundraisers over the years to raise money for its many services.

Fundraisers ranged from bake sales to murder mystery dinners. A Tour of Homes was held for several years. There were bake sales, style shows and craft sales. And the group sold lots of cookbooks.

For six years, a major fundraiser was a craft fair, which netted between $2,000 and $3,200 a year, Janet Heberer said. Originally called Art in the Park, the craft fair was held at the Amerahn. Eventually it became known as the Kettle Country Christmas Craft Fair and was held at the high school and then the middle school.

Kathie Ramthun remembers the fundraiser that featured Green Bay Packers players playing basketball.

"I had to call a Packer and talk to him. His name was Doug Hart. That would be today like calling Jordy Nelson and saying, 'Would you come down to Kewaskum?' We were so excited," Ramthun said.

The basketball game was a highlight for the entire village.

"I don't even remember who the other Packer players were. All I remember is Doug Hart was the handsomest one there," Ramthun said.

Lasting Friendships

In honor of the club's 50th anniversary, the club held a luncheon at Hon-E-Kor Country Club on Sunday, Jan. 15.

"You should be really proud of all the accomplishments, of everything you have done over the last 50 years. As I was setting up the scrapbook, it was just amazing, what a group of women can do for a community," vice president Renee Wentzlaff said.

At the celebration, the group enjoyed a luncheon, talks and entertainment. They remembered past accomplishments and humble beginnings.

"When we started as a club 50 years ago, there were about 40 of us. Would you believe one gal was working full time, a couple maybe worked part time, but the rest of us were home. So Kewaskum Juniors was a great time to get out, a great time to meet new people," the group's Charter President Sherry Miller said.

Most of the members

Smokey the Bear attended the Kewaskum Junior Women's Club's 50th anniversary celebration last week. Smokey has worked closely with the club to educate the public about how to prevent forest fires.

stayed in the club as long as they could.

"I joined the Juniors in 1979, with my friend Clare Lehman. We did a lot of activities in the group and I enjoyed being a part of it all. But, in 1981, I turned 40 years old, and guess what? I had to leave the club. I was too old to be a member of the Juniors. It was a rule of the Federation of Women's Clubs," Jeanne Goeden said.

That is when she joined the Kewaskum Women's Club, which also volunteers for the community.

The friendships that were formed are perhaps what the women now treasure the most.

"We all had little children, diapers, and we just were eager to get out of the house. We made good friends. We still have them," Char Keller said.

"When I came to Kewaskum in 1981, knowing no one, Juniors quickly became my sisters of encouragement and affirmation. Through mutual interests we grew to become friends," Gayle VanEss said about the group.

Teresa Metz and Renee Wentzlaff are recipients for the 2016 Junior of the Year (JOY award). The JOY award is presented to Junior Women's Club members who have demonstrated outstanding volunteer service throughout the year. Some of Metz's and Wentzlaff's volunteer hours included organizing the chili lunch for Kewaskum Village employees, Mother and Daughter Spa Day, luncheon cleanup for the Women's Club, scholarship presentation for a graduating senior and many other volunteer hours that assisted in the accomplishments of the Kewaskum Junior Women's Club.

It is difficult to find words to express how thankful we are for your expression of love to our family during this time of loss. The outpouring of support for our family has been incredible. We are truly grateful to our family, friends, and community who have done so much for us.

Thank you to all who spent time with us in the hospital, brought food and clothing to us, and those who travelled to the airport to pick up Dani, Drew and Brandon.

Thank you to all who brought food to our home, stopped by to share kind words, and helped guide us in so many ways as we planned Ryan's services. Also, thank you to all those who provided desserts and salads for the funeral luncheon.

How truly grateful we are to have such wonderful family and friends and to live in such a caring community. Your love and support for our family has been very much appreciated during this time of loss.

WASHINGTON COUNTY SHERIFF'S REPORT

Community Notification of Sex Offender

The Washington County Sheriff's Office is releasing the following information pursuant to WI Statute 301.46(2m) which authorizes law enforcement agencies to inform the public of a sex offender's release when, in the discretion of the agency, the release of information will enhance public safety, awareness and protection. The individual who appears on this notification has been convicted of a sex offense.

STEVEN WIENKE

Steven Arthur Wienke, 62 was released from prison on January 24. He is moving into a residence located at 1725 County Highway NN in the Township of Jackson. Wienke was convicted of one count of First Degree Sexual Assault of a Child, one count of Second Degree Sexual Assault of a Child, and one count of Causing Harm to a Child. Wienke will be on Community Supervision (parole and probation) until 2024 and he will be monitored closely by WI-DOC Division of Community Corrections agents; he will have numerous rules and restrictions and will be under GPS monitoring.

This sex offender has served the prison sentence imposed on him by the courts. He is NOT wanted by law enforcement at this time. This notification is not intended to increase fear, rather, it is our belief that an informed public is a safer public.

Sex offenders have always lived in our communities; but it was not until the Sex Offender Registration and Community Notification Law was enacted that law enforcement was able to share this information with the community. More information and many general questions about community notification and sex offenders can be answered by going to the website listed below: <http://offender.doc.state.wi.us/public>

Hit And Run Accident

The Sheriff's Office is investigating a hit and run accident that occurred in the 4200 block of Badger Road in the Town of Kewaskum on Monday, Jan. 23, at 10 p.m. The suspect vehicle was west-bound on Badger Road when, according to a witness, the operator rapidly accelerated away from a stop sign and lost control of the vehicle, skidded off the roadway and struck a power pole. It was fortunate there was not an oncoming vehicle. The operator then fled the scene west on Badger Road. It is not known if the driver or any occupants were hurt.

The operator, in his or her rush, forgot to clean up the scene before fleeing. A side mirror, a Ford tube style running board and glass fragments were all left at the scene.

Anyone who sees a vehicle with damage consistent to this, or knows of someone that coincidentally has stopped driving their Ford truck (or SUV) vehicle to keep it out of the public's view, should contact the Sheriff's Office at 262-335-4378.

Dear Editor,

This week is "School Choice Week." Many have asked me how area taxpayers have benefited from school choice — particularly the Milwaukee program.

The Milwaukee school choice program is a unique and innovative initiative to provide alternatives to the failing track record of the Milwaukee Public Schools (MPS). The program gives poor inner-city parents the opportunity to enroll in private schools that offer opportunities for success. Moreover, the creation of the Milwaukee school choice program has had a positive financial impact on the residents of my senate district and across the state. While our students may not attend choice schools, our public schools benefit with more general aid because the program exists. In short, school choice saves property taxpayers money.

In a Legislative Fiscal Bureau (LFB) memo, the result of eliminating school choice programs would be a state aid reduction of nearly $4.9 million in school districts I represent. The reduction in state aid would necessitate a substantial increase in local property taxes to keep revenues at current levels for area school districts. In short, school choice efficiencies result in property tax reduction for area taxpayers.

This reduction in aid occurs because nearly 27,000 school choice students would be funneling back into Milwaukee Public Schools. State and local taxpayers spend over $15,000 to educate an MPS student, which is more than double the average school choice voucher, which is $7,353. The exodus caused by the destruction of Milwaukee school choice could result in nearly $272 million more for MPS due to the resulting higher enrollment. The money has to come from somewhere — in this case local school aid. In fact, the money MPS gains is more than Wisconsin spends on school choice state wide. Simply put, it costs state taxpayers more per pupil for a student to attend MPS than it does to provide a voucher to a choice student.

I have visited many of the voucher schools in my district and in Milwaukee. I am proud to represent multiple districts heralded by many including recently the Washington Post as the best in the nation. In Milwaukee, however, choice schools see better student outcomes when compared to their MPS counterparts. Because MPS is so inefficient with their state resources, school aid for local districts suffers.

We have known for years the Milwaukee choice program has had a positive impact on all students in the city. Now, we know without the program public schools would be impacted by lower aid. School choice provides an efficient cost saving alternative to public schools for Wisconsin taxpayers.

The efficiencies gained by the Milwaukee school choice program positively impact all Wisconsin students and public school districts. As a state, we must continue to find efficient ways to educate our children in a way that benefits all students and provides parents the opportunity of choice.

Kind Regards,
Duey Stroebel

Lifesaving Training Offered In Kewaskum Schools

Kewaskum High School and Middle School students will now be able to identify early signs of stroke and heart attack. The school district will use the American Heart Association's CPR in Schools Training program as part of the health curriculum in grades seven through 12. Upon completion of the training, students and staff will be more knowledgeable on how to put the lifesaving training to use within any setting.

District staff members, Laurie Beimborn and Kim Bocher, RN have been a driving force in making sure that students and staff are trained with proper CPR techniques. They applied for a grant from the American Heart Association (AHA) to bring the Mini Anne program to the school district. AHA's Youth Market Director, Jake Berg awarded the district with the Mini Anne's needed for classroom training. "On behalf of The American Heart Association, we give Laurie and Kim a huge thank you for all their hard work on making Kewaskum schools a safer place to learn and teach," stated Jake Berg.

A law which goes into effect with the 2017-18 school year requires CPR instruction to be taught to students between seventh and twelfth grade. Wisconsin is one of 31 states who have passed laws to require hands-only CPR training.

It has been a busy week for the fire department which was called out twice during a severe blizzard Monday night and answered a third call in sub-zero weather early Wednesday evening. Fire completely destroyed the farm home on the Furlong sisters farm about eight miles north of Kewaskum Monday night. All the homes furnishings were also destroyed and Mrs. Daisy Furlong and Lewis Bettendorf, the hired man, escaped with only what they could take with them. Cause of the blaze discovered at about 10 p.m., is thought to be an overheated wood burning furnace.

Earlier Monday evening firemen answered a call to Regal Ware Inc., where a buffing machine caused about $200 in damage. When firemen arrived the blaze had been nearly extinguished by the automatic sprinkler system.

A howling blizzard struck this area Monday with winds gusting to 60 to 70 miles per hour, piling the snow in huge drifts, blocking and closing streets and roads closing schools and endangering visibility. The storm was followed by a severe cold wave with thermometers registering from 17 to 27 below zero.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Backhaus, Campbellsport, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday, Jan. 22, at St. Lucas Lutheran Church parlors with an open house from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Regal Ware Inc. of Kewaskum, along with the West Bend Company, both lost valuable displays in fire which destroyed the McCormick Place exposition center on Chicago's lakefront early Monday. The new 60 foot, two-story high display of the West Bend Co., which was to be shown for the first time at the National Housewares Manufacturers convention was believed entirely destroyed with an estimated loss of approximately $35,000. The Regal Ware set up which was destroyed was also valued at $35,000.

Bruhn service station. A passing truck driver assisted the young man from the car and brought him back to town to summon a wrecker. McCarty suffered a bad bump over his right eye, and cut and bruised left leg.

Washington County Planning And Parks Announce Public Participation Meetings

The Washington County Park System is in the process of developing a financial sustainability action plan. This plan will assist us in progress toward our vision of becoming a sustainable park and trail system that is well-maintained and safe, improved and strategically expanded while being financially responsible and improving the quality of life for residents of Washington County.

In order to develop this plan, we are calling on members of the community to provide guidance and input around the work that our organization has already started. We are conducting this survey specifically around three of our guiding principles defining our priority parks, achieving financial sustainability of the parks through possible user fees and other revenue generating ideas, and creating partnerships that enhance our park and trail system.

PREVENT BLISTERS

Blisters make it difficult to exercise especially for runners. A new study revealed that surgical tape (sometimes called paper tape) may be a very effective and inexpensive solution for preventing blisters. Researchers worked with 128 ultra-marathon runners and placed surgical tape on one of each of the runners' feet. The tape was applied in a smooth single layer before and reapplied at times throughout the race. The uncovered areas of their feet served as a control. After the race, 98 runners had no blisters where the tape was applied and 81 got blisters in untaped areas. The tape reduced the blisters by 40%.

Immediate Need For Life-Saving Gifts From Washington County Blood Donors

Throughout the winter season, BloodCenter of Wisconsin continues to have a critical need for life-saving blood donations. Donors of all different blood types are needed, but there is an especially great need for O negative donors. O negative is the universal blood type that is used in emergency situations and is given to trauma patients and newborn babies.

Washington County blood donors can help patients at our upcoming blood drive Wednesday, Feb. 1 from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. at Hartford Senior Center, 730 Highland Avenue, Hartford.

Donors can schedule an appointment by calling 1-877-BE-A-HERO (1-877-232-4376), or visiting www.bcw.edu.

How Birds Fly

Journey to the Kettle Moraine State Forest on Thursday, Feb. 9, for the next program in the Evening with Nature Series - How Birds Fly. The program starts at 7 p.m. at the Ice Age Visitor Center. The Center is located off Hwy 67 half mile west of Dundee. This program is free, but donations are always gratefully accepted.

Humans need such things as airplanes, gliders, and parachutes to fly, but birds fly under their own power. Learn how nature solved the challenge of flight and how people had to unlock its secrets before they could leave the ground. Join in special demonstrations to help grasp the simple, but important physics of flight.

Paul Lupton, PhD, a retired student counselor, is a self-professed science geek, who particularly loves flying and other science related topics. He brings many years of aerospace education to his presentations. Dr. Lupton founded and directed a Summer Air Camp for teens for ten years. Be warned, he may just inspire you to take flight with the birds.

For further information or directions, contact the Ice Age Visitor Center staff. The center's phone number is (920) 533-8322 and is open in Wednesday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Each of the competitors was allowed two runs. Wilson fell in both runs.

Still, her time trial time was two to three seconds off of the actual qualifying time. Katie and her family were not sure if she was done competing for the weekend.

"We held our breath and hoped by the grace of God that she would be chosen to be in the team event. We hadn't heard anything, and then at 9 o'clock the night before the race, we got a call from her," Katie's mom, Dana Wilson said.

"I'm on! I'm on!" Katie's voice exclaimed over the phone line.

She had been chosen to be on one of the U.S. teams in the team event.

For her first run in that team event, Katie struggled on the top of the course, but made up some time as she went down the hill and finished third in that race.

She and her teammate, Nelly Steinhoff, advanced to the finals.

Unfortunately, Katie hit some ruts at the end of the run in the finals and crashed.

She and Steinhoff finished eighth in the event.

Still, Katie came away from the competition with some valuable learning experience.

"That was what she went for. She wasn't going to focus on results. Her goal was to get in there and get the experience and learn from the other girls," Dana Wilson said.

Training

In 2005, Katie moved with her family to Mequon. Because the closest USASA Series was so far away, Katie's mother, Dana Wilson, applied to USASA to start a new series in Milwaukee, the Midwest Best Snowboard and Freeski Series.

The Midwest Best organization began using Sunburst as its home hill. The Midwest Best team gave Katie a local training opportunity, and Sunburst became like a second home to her.

The ski park still follows Katie's progress as it trains other athletes.

"Sunburst is proud of Katie Wilson who grew up learning how to snowboard at the ski area and is now taking it to the national level of competition," said Rob Friedl, co-CEO of Sunburst.

"As a kid, my parents always had me signed up to compete in all six USASA events. My favorite events were slopestyle and rail jam, because of the rails and jumps I was most familiar with riding at Sunburst," Katie said.

Katie considered halfpipe to be a fun side event, but her real training for halfpipe only really happened at USASA Nationals before the event started, she said.

"Racing was something I did because my mom signed me up and my dad coached it and I didn't want to hurt his feelings; it was fun but I didn't take it seriously," Katie said.

For nine years, Katie trained with the MWB Team. After a strong boardercross showing at the 2013 USASA National Championships, she received an invite from USSA for Gold Camp, where she trained boardercross with the U.S. Team for a week at Mt. Hood, Ore.

"Over the course of that trip I realized that boardercross was my real passion. It combined elements of slopestyle that I loved with the excitement of going fast," Katie said.

In the summer of 2014, she was invited again by USSA to go to Gold Camp. For her senior year, Katie moved to Sugarloaf, Maine, to train and finish high school at Carrabassett Valley Academy. She trained with Mike Mallon and began competing in USSA/FIS NOR-AM events.

Katie returned to Wisconsin to finish high school and graduated from Homestead High School in Mequon in 2015.

Following graduation, in 2015-2016, she began racing in Europa Cups events in Austria.

Katie currently trains at the Carrabassett Valley Academy in Maine. She is one of four snowboard cross athletes that the school sent to the World Cup Boardercross event last weekend.

It marks the first time that multiple athletes from the school have qualified for the event.

"It's a big deal, both for the school and for these athletes," snowboard program coach Alex Tuttle said.

Prior to the World Cup event, Katie was ranked 10th in the country in snowboard cross.

Future Plans

Following the World Cup competition, Katie was invited to compete in the Junior World Championship in the Czech Republic.

Wilson hasn't decided for sure, but she may decline that spot in order to chase the North American Cup title this year. If she were to finish in the top five, she would most likely qualify for the World Cup competition next year as well as a shot Olympic trials.

"The Junior World is an amazing opportunity and it's a real honor to be invited to go, but she really wants to chomp at the Olympic trials for next year," Dana Wilson said.

Katie represented the United States in the 2015 Junior World competition, which was held in China.

Katie's parents, Dana and Brian Wilson, pay for their daughter's training, which costs $30,000 to $40,000 a season. Wilson works for a health club to earn money for travel, event and living expenses.

Despite the excitement of traveling around the world, Katie is always happy to return to Kewaskum.

"Every time she is home, every chance she gets, she goes over and rides at Sunburst. That is home to her," Dana Wilson said.

Move Better. Feel Better. Live Better.

By Lori Bersch, Licensed Massage Therapist at Integrative Orthopedic and Rehabilitation Massage, LLC

Integrative Orthopedic and Rehabilitation Massage, LLC provides the residents of Kewaskum and surrounding communities with massage for orthopedic-related pain and injuries. I'm Lori Bersch, orthopedic massage therapist, and when you come to see me for pain or an injury I take your therapeutic care to a whole different level. My clinical reasoning skills and ability to execute an integrative therapeutic program in collaboration with your doctors, orthopedic surgeons, physical therapists, and chiropractors is what sets me apart from a lot of other massage therapists. This combination makes a profound difference in the rehabilitation and recovery stages, enhancing the effects of your current pain management treatments and speeding up the healing process. I invite you to go to my website and read more about my services, view my bio, and read what my clients have to say at www.integrative-orthopedic.com.

I work hard to bring you highly sought after services that will change lives and encourage healing long after you leave my office. After years of long hours, late nights, and working with thousands of sore bodies, I have implemented a unique combination of three therapeutic phases that are critical to the progress of pain and injury recovery for any individual.

Last summer, I obtained Certified Posture Expert credentials from the American Posture Institute, qualifying me to assess for posture-related structural, functional, and neurological factors that contribute to pain. The Posture Analysis contains critical evaluations that I'm able to provide to your health care providers pertaining to your soft tissue conditions that may not be specifically tested for in a traditional medical setting. My knowledge of how to appropriately address postural distortions caused by musculoskeletal dysfunctions has been an enormous benefit to my clients. In one case, within a 12-week period, we reported a client's 25 percent improvement in forward head posture correction along with a great reduction in pain and increased mobility, without restricting the activities at work that progress the condition. That's incredible progress and we have pictures to support it!

In 2016, I also started implementing fascia therapy. This has been a game changer for my clients who suffer from chronic pain and postural distortions. Fascia, the connective web that envelops every muscle, organ and bone in the body from head to toe, can have a huge impact on your postural health. While implementing this type of work into sessions, my clients have reported pain relief, increased range of motion and joint mobility, reduction in adhesions and scar tissue, and improvement in posture.

The main reasons people seek assistance from health and fitness professionals is to relieve musculoskeletal pain so they can participate in exercise programs and enjoy daily activities. One of the things that I observe on a daily basis in chronic pain and injury clients is that a lot of them lack the basic foundation of injury prevention; healthy posture and a strong core musculature. If you've ever injured yourself trying to get tone or shed a few extra pounds you may be able to relate to this. As a casualty of this myself repeatedly over the years, I understand how frustrating this can be. Moving forward into 2017, I'll be introducing personal training for individuals who have been plagued by pain and injuries caused by musculoskeletal imbalances. I will provide you with the knowledge of how to exercise safely using correct posture, exercises to help you gain flexibility and balance in your body, and help you set the foundation for a pain-free exercise regimen.

For the past five months I've been contributing educational information through my bi-weekly posture awareness column in the Kewaskum Statesman. In the new year, my column will be focusing on how massage, fascia therapy, posture, and fitness help specific pain-related conditions. If you haven't been following my column, I encourage you to go to my website and view my blog for articles from past issues. You can find them at www.integrative-orthopedic.com. Then keep an eye out for them in the Kewaskum Statesman every other week.

If you or anyone you know suffers from chronic pain or injuries, I'd like to invite you to visit me at Driven to Better Health Night on Thursday, March 30th at Kewaskum High School to learn more and personally ask me questions about how massage can help transform your posture, fascia, and fitness, and possibly even your life. I'll be doing a drawing to give away a one-hour orthopedic massage session that includes a complete postural analysis and fitness screening. You can also purchase tickets for a chance to win one of two Therapeutic Wellness Massages in the general raffle. I look forward to seeing you at this event. I'm committed to continually customizing my services to enhance your healing so you can move better, feel better, and live better!

Seeing A Healthy 2017

Looking to make healthy decisions this New Year? Have you taken the time to think about the health of your eyes? Vision and eye health is something we all depend on yet far too often is taken for granted.

An annual comprehensive eye exam is not only important to make sure you are seeing the very clearest possible, but to make sure you are seeing equally well in the future. A thorough examination should always check your color vision, depth perception, eye pressure, peripheral vision, visual acuity, eye muscle teaming, pupillary reaction, your glasses and contact lens prescription, as well as the health of the front and back of the eyes.

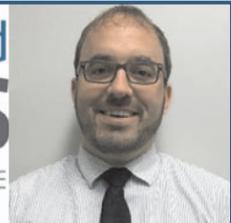

It is important to know that conditions such as glaucoma, macular degeneration, as well as changes from blood pressure, cholesterol, and diabetes often present with no initial symptoms at all. These problems unfortunately can go undetected until there is permanent damage to the vision.

Eye exams are important for children because their prescriptions are likely to change within a year. Undetected problems can lead to learning difficulties as well as psychosocial issues.

A prescription and lenses designed specifically for you should offer clear vision to help you enjoy your hobbies and succeed in your working environment.

Hoping for a clear and healthy New Year? Schedule your comprehensive eye exam at Advanced Focus Eyecare today to ensure you are seeing well in 2017 and beyond!

Chiropractic Care Is Much More Than Moving Bones

By Dr. Krysti Wick, Family Chiropractor
at River Shores Chiropractic

When I am out in the communities served by our practice, River Shores Chiropractic, I am constantly asked why we see so many children. People are familiar with chiropractic care for back and neck pain, but it has never crossed their mind that their child's body may also benefit.

As committed educators as well as chiropractors, we help people understand that chiropractic care is so much more than moving bones to alleviate back and neck pain. In fact, the main goal is removing subluxations in order to assist your body in reaching its optimal health potential.

When explaining chiropractic I often tell patients that many people think we are "bone Doctors" but we are actually nerve Doctors. We are highly concerned with the nerves that exit your spine as they are the information super-highways that allow signals to travel from your brain to all organs, tissues, and glands in your body. If there is an issue with spinal position and mobility, it can greatly impair the nerve adjacent to that area of the spine and therefore decrease connectivity between the brain and body.

Just like your cell phone, if your organs, tissues and glands don't have full reception it is very difficult for them to function at their greatest capacity. The body relies on the brain to operate all functions through the nervous system. Visiting a Chiropractor who can assess the function of your spine and nervous system and address any potential problems increases your brain's ability to control your body!

So why do we see children? Imagine that you have just undergone one of the most traumatic events in your young life – birth. That physical trauma can cause subluxations (spinal problems) that impair a child's development due to the lack of full communication between the nerves and the rest of the body. This impaired communication can contribute to problems such as poor nursing, reflux, colic and constipation to name a few.

We see children to promote their proper growth and development and to remove nerve interference that comprises their immune systems and digestion. Children under chiropractic care have the opportunity to maximize nerve and brain development (neural plasticity), which promotes proper perception and awareness of the world around them. This allows the child to function to the best of their ability in the classroom and extra curricular activities.

The families who come to River Shores Chiropractic tell us that they want to be proactive in terms of their child's overall health and wellbeing to assure them a life that is lived to the fullest, and that's why we take pride in being partners in designing health for your entire family's future.

Early Detection And Treatment Protects Your Vision From Glaucoma

Glaucoma impacts an estimated three million plus Americans (according to the Glaucoma Research Foundation), and yet, understanding and awareness of this detrimental disease remains low in the public eye. Because of a lack of early onset symptoms, many who are affected by glaucoma are unaware that they even have the disease. This is especially concerning, given the consequences of uncontrolled and untreated glaucoma. According to the American Optometric Association (AOA), glaucoma the second leading cause of blindness in the United States.

Glaucoma - "The Sneak Thief Of Sight"

Frequently, glaucoma attacks an individual's eyesight without the presence of early warning signs. "Glaucoma is often referred to as the 'sneak thief of sight,'" explains Dr. David P. Nelson, 2017 WOA President and Madison area optometrist. "By the time symptoms do appear, it may be too late to save those affected from suffering permanent vision loss." Vision lost cannot be regained, which is why it is so important to protect your sight by receiving a comprehensive, dilated exam performed by your eye doctor, during which glaucoma can be diagnosed early. Although glaucoma is not preventable and has no current cure, it can be controlled if diagnosed and treated early by a licensed eye doctor.

Glaucoma is a group of eye disorders that lead to progressive damage to the optic nerve. People with glaucoma can lose nerve tissue, resulting in vision loss. The most common form of the disease is primary open-angle glaucoma, which develops slowly and usually without symptoms. In primary open-angle glaucoma, the fluid pressure inside the eye increases. This increase in pressure may result in progressive damage to the optic nerve and loss of nerve fibers, causing possible vision loss. Untreated, glaucoma can cause significant vision loss and even blindness. The disease can accelerate quickly, and can affect patients at different stages of life. "A common misperception is that glaucoma only affects older adults when, in reality, it can happen at any age. In fact, it's most commonly detected in people in their 40s," acknowledges Dr. Nelson.

Risk Factors And Treatment

As in the case with many diseases, factors such as age and race can increase an individual's risk for developing glaucoma. According to the Glaucoma Research Foundation, glaucoma is six to eight times more common in African Americans than in Caucasians (<http://www.glaucoma.org/glaucoma/glaucoma-facts-and-stats.php>). In addition, at greater risk for glaucoma include those who have a family history of the disease, existing medical conditions, and adults over the age of 60.

Treatment for glaucoma includes prescription eye drops and medication to reduce pressure in the eyes. In certain cases, surgery may be effective in reducing pressure. Diagnosis is the first step in preserving your vision; however, and the only way to guarantee detection of this condition is through a comprehensive eye exam with your licensed eye doctor. The WOA recommends annual comprehensive eye exams for adults and children. Visit www.woa-eyes.org/members for a list of licensed eye doctors in your area. The early detection and treatment of glaucoma is crucial in saving vision.

About the Wisconsin Optometric Association

The Wisconsin Optometric Association (WOA) is a nonprofit affiliation of licensed doctors of optometry and associated businesses dedicated to the preservation and enhancement of the vision welfare of the people of Wisconsin. The WOA accomplishes its goals through: education and dissemination of information, organized governmental activity, legislation and regulation, mediation with consumer and public interest groups, and provision of collective benefits to its members. Approximately 630 doctors of optometry are currently members of the WOA, located in nearly every county in the state. All members must be licensed to practice optometry by the State of Wisconsin. For more information, visit WOA's website at www.woa-eyes.org.

Back-In-Action Pre-op Consult Benefits

What is the benefit of a pre-operative consult?

If you are scheduled for an upcoming total knee replacement or a rotator cuff repair, contact Back In Action to take advantage of our pre-operative consult.

While many hospitals and clinics offer joint replacement educational classes, at Back in Action you will be seen on a one-on-one basis during your pre-operative visit. During this visit a therapist will meet with you to discuss the typical rehabilitation process and expected healing timeframes following your upcoming surgery.

We will explain the surgical procedure in terms that are easy to understand, and will do our best to answer any questions you may have about your upcoming procedure and the rehabilitation that comes with it.

any precautions you may need to follow after surgery to protect healing tissues, as well as give you tips on how to get around the house easier, up and down stairs safely, or how to find a comfortable position to sleep after surgery.

Are there specific exercises for my therapy and what are my post-operative therapy options?

There are also common exercises that are initiated shortly after a knee replacement or rotator cuff repair.

Again, with your surgeon's approval, your therapist can instruct you in these exercises at your pre-operative visit to ensure that they are right for you, and that you are able to do them safely and correctly while protecting the surgical site.

We will modify these exercises to fit you specifically, as each person will have different areas of tightness or weakness, and by tailoring them to each patient individually the exercise is more effective at aiding recovery. With confidence that you are doing them correctly, it will be easier to begin them after surgery and to quickly start your road to recovery.

If your surgeon recommends a course of therapy after your surgery, we will make every effort to be sure you continue with the same therapist, thus ensuring continuity of care with a therapist who is already familiar with you and your injury.

Please call our Fond du Lac clinic at 920-922-7776 or Kewaskum at 262-626-6700 to set up an appointment or to ask any questions regarding consultations.

What precautions and exercises will help aid a quicker recovery?

Your therapist will conduct a brief evaluation to determine any specific areas of muscle weakness or tightness, or impaired joint mobility.

With permission from your surgeon, we can often then instruct you in some easy exercises you may begin prior to surgery to address these areas, which may aid in a quicker recovery after surgery.

We can instruct you in

There has been a breakthrough in anesthesia. A new product called Kovanaze has entered the market.

Kovanaze provides anesthesia only on the top teeth. It is administered through the nose in a nasal spray device. It works on children and adults and has shown excellent results.

The only drawback is the added cost. New medications always seem to have increased costs in their infancy to recoup costs of development.

If you would like to try this new product we now provide this service.

Essence Offers Many Services In Campbellsport

Essence LLC, is located in the Heart of Campbellsport. Kimberly Keceli (Bilgo), the owner of Essence and a native Campbellsportian, was instilled with the belief of compassionate touch from infancy as she received massage from her mother to help calm and ease her.

When asked why she chose a career in complementary medicine, Kim responded, "I know that touch can heal. I have seen it, and I have felt it."

When Kim is not running her busy practice, she is a volunteer coach of gymnastics for the Campbellsport Athletic Association. She also enjoys traveling throughout Wisconsin, across the country and internationally with her husband Tedi and daughters Elza and Elara.

Kim has been in the field of Massage Therapy since 2003. She is a graduate of the renowned Blue Sky School of Massage Therapy. Kim is also a graduate of the Midwest College of Oriental Medicine, (encompassing acupuncture and Chinese medicinal herbs) and holds a Bachelor of Science degree in traditional Chinese Nutrition. With Kim's strong background in traditional Chinese medicine, combined with her experience in massage therapy, she is able to customize a wide range and combination of services to best fit your health needs.

Acupuncture

At Essence, there are a range of services to help you find your own path to wellness. The services currently available at Essence are acupuncture, therapeutic massage, bio-feedback therapy and Reiki energy work. Essence also sponsors a free restorative yoga class every Saturday morning from 7 a.m.-8 a.m. in the Campbellsport High School cafeteria.

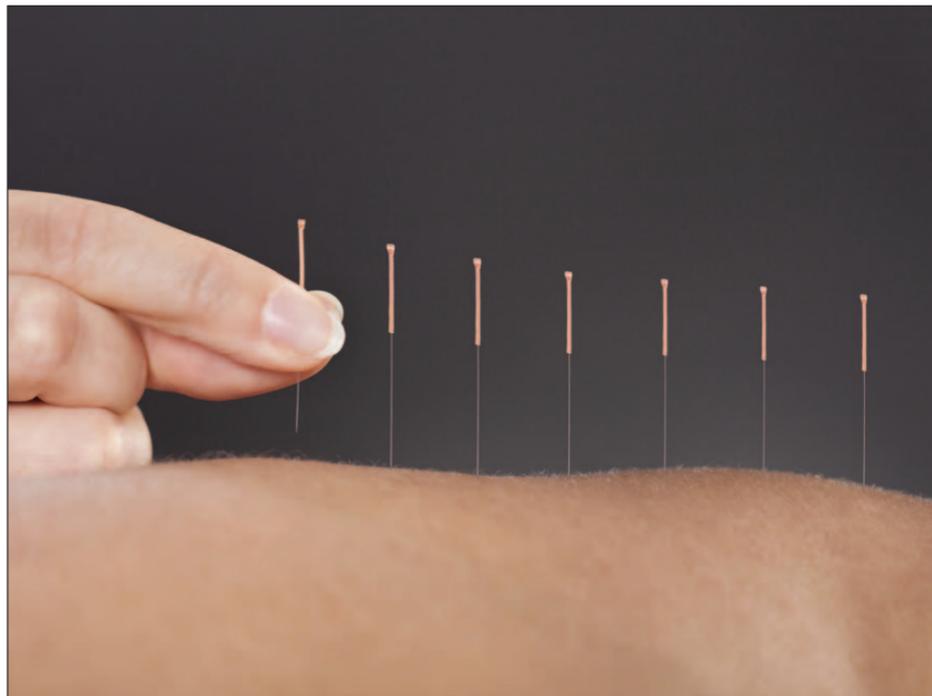

The most popular service at Essence is acupuncture. Acupuncture is a integral approach to health, focusing on improving the overall well being of a patient as it treats specific symptoms and problems. It can be used to treat a range of physical and emotional conditions including musculo-skeletal disorders, respiratory disorders and allergies, GI disorders, neurological disorders and the relief of chronic pain.

Kim provides one-on-one consultations with her patients, using her skills and knowledge to treat a wide range of health problems. The first consultation may last up to two hours to allow for a detailed case history to be taken before making a Chinese medical diagnosis and beginning treatment. Subsequent sessions usually take about one hour. A treatment plan varies depending on the severity of the problem, some patients require only a few sessions, others require a longer term course of treatments.

According to the National Institutes of Health: Acupuncture has been practiced in China and other Asian countries for thousands of years. Scientists are studying the efficacy of acupuncture for a wide range of conditions. Relatively few complications have been reported from the use of acupuncture.

It does more than simply relieve the symptoms. The aim of acupuncture is to treat the whole patient and restore balance between the physical, emotional and spiritual aspects of the individual. Many people also have acupuncture as a preventative treatment, which is the most important benefit of this medicine.

Kim prides herself on educating her clients. She holds a free public speaking event monthly at the Campbellsport, Public Library. The topics range but cover natural ways of achieving health. Come see her at the library on Tuesday, Feb. 21, at 5 p.m., the topic will be Kidney Health According to TCM.

Bio-Feedback Therapy

Bio-feedback Therapy is also a very sought after treatment at Essence. Tedi (Teddy) Keceli is the certified Biofeedback Therapist at Essence.

Biofeedback is a high-tech way to regulate your stress. With biofeedback, you're connected to electrical sensors that help you receive information (feedback) about your body (bio). This feedback helps you focus on making subtle changes in your body, such as relaxing certain muscles, to achieve the results you want, such as reducing pain.

In essence, biofeedback gives you the power to use your thoughts to control your body, often to help with a health condition or physical performance.

The INDIGO Biofeedback Program can retrieve 90,000 different signals that your body is giving out at any given time. Tedi can give you clues to what your body is telling you so you can begin to make necessary changes to adjust your lifestyle and get yourself back to the place you want to be.

There are hundreds of different training programs that may be used back-to-back in limitless combination's to obtain optimum results. Additionally, it is able to run up to four complimentary programs simultaneously for a highly synergistic and enhanced effect.

This machine in combination with Tedi's intensive training can give you that key to your body you are looking for. Tedi is currently taking clients on Saturdays from 8 a.m.-12 p.m. To schedule a very informative first visit, please call Essence.

KHS Girls Turn Up The "D" Post Two More Wins

By Judy Harlow

Fueled by the double figure scoring of its two senior leaders, Hailey Herriges and Mikayla Dogs, and freshman sharpshooter Maxine Paulowske, the Kewaskum girls basketball team overpowered visiting Ripon 50-30 in an East Central game played on January 19.

This was the start of the second rotation in EC games, but, because of recent weather issues, the Indians still have to play Plymouth and Waupun, which are currently 1-2 in the league, in first-round makeups on February 14 and 4.

The Indians, now 2-4 in the EC and 7-4 overall, started out the game on a 10-1 run and never looked back, with Herriges, Dogs and Paulowske combining for 34 points.

"Three in double figures ... That was awesome," KHS coach Russ Thull said, but he was even prouder of the improvement of his team's defense, evidenced by the fact his Indians gave up 64 points to the Lady Tigers in their first meeting, a loss, in the EC opener for both teams.

"We had some bad defensive games (early)," Thull said, but this time around, "We executed," and didn't let the Ripon players penetrate as much as in their first meeting.

Another positive, according to Thull was, "I really like the way we controlled the tempo."

Yes, the Indians did. One prime example came with 12:00 remaining in the first half when they scored on three straight possessions, passing the ball around until they got high percentage shots. The first was a six footer by Rachel Holt on the baseline, followed by a Holt layup and then a Herriges layup, giving Kewaskum a 16-6 lead.

On all three occasions, it was Dogs providing the pass, and her assists, eight of them, were very important in Thull's eyes. "We try to challenge her to get five assists a game," the coach said, and this is the second game in a row, she has surpassed that total. "She (Dogs) does a lot of good things." Along with the 12 points, she had four rebounds, two steals and blocked two shots.

The above-mentioned six-point spurt helped the Indians bring Ripon out of its zone and into a man-to-man defense, another part of Thull's game plan. It helped KHS to expand its lead to 25-12 at intermission.

In the closing minutes of the first half, it was the diminutive Paulowske — she stands right around 5 feet (5-0) — who kept the Tigers at bay with her two, three-point goals, and later she added another, plus a layup, toward her 11 points to go with one steal and four rebounds.

"I thought Max played an excellent game. She was taking the shots we were giving her," Thull said.

Also, Herriges was her usual, steady self, scoring 11 points, grabbing five rebounds, contributing one assist and two steals. "Everyone chipped in," the coach said, looking at the fact Bre Trepes had five points and seven rebounds, Holt added four points, and Schulteis three points, including the first bucket of the second half, which put the Indians up by 15.

Later, Dogs commented on what the victory meant to the Indians. "This was a big game for us," she said, admitting she and her teammates are a little disappointed with their 2-4 conference match. "(This will) Keep us in the mix."

Dogs reported the Indians have been working hard on defense, specifically boxing out, in recent practices. "It's really been helping us," she said, adding she loves her role as point guard, saying, "I think it's important to be a team player, help get them open and help them get a good shot."

And how did Dogs feel about this win? "I'm really proud of this win ... We really want this one," she said.

Kewaskum 33, Cedar Grove 24

Last Saturday, the Indians had a rare afternoon game, and again they played really tough defense to defeat host Cedar Grove, 33-24, in non-conference action.

"I have been preaching to the girls about defense ... we needed to improve on the defensive end if we want to continue to add up the wins," Thull said, adding, "The girls did not disappoint on the defensive end as we held Cedar Grove-Belgium to its second lowest total of the season."

Kewaskum jumped out to a 14-2 lead, but unlike the game against Ripon, the Rockets came back, as they were aggressive in their passing lanes and took advantage of several Indian turnovers.

What helped was patience in the early stages of the second half when the Indians moved the ball around vs. the Rockets' 2-3 zone and ended up getting a basket on a KHS three-ball by Mikayla Dogs.

"Freshman Maxine Paulowske again played a big role, leading us with nine points and hitting three triples," Thull said, also reporting, "Bre Trepes also stepped up big and hit two, key three-point baskets in the second half when CGB tied us up."

With the win, the Indians have win No. 8, which is one better than the entire last year.

Wrestlers Top Plymouth To Finish EC Season At 4-2

By Judy Harlow

Three Kewaskum High wrestlers, 106-pound Nathaniel Droese (24-9), 126-pound Braden Maertz (24-3) and 138-pound Alex Deheck (22-7), wrapped up perfect 6-0 seasons in the East Central Conference with wins in their matches at Plymouth on January 18.

The Indians defeated the Panthers 40-34, and neither team had a full field of 14. There were just eight actual matches, and Kewaskum won six of them, including pins by Droese, Adam Bruss (20-3) at 113 and Sam Larson (19-14) at 170.

With the win, KHS finished the conference season at 4-2 — Kettle Moraine Lutheran does not have a wrestling team — behind Campbellsport and Ripon, which are both 5-0 but are scheduled to square off tonight (January 26) at Ripon.

When asked if this is the record he thought his team would end up with, KHS coach Scott Rhoads said, "In the beginning of the season, when we had (near) a full team, I expected better." Now with from eight to 10 athletes, "It's astonishing we have a record over .500."

Still missing from action was sophomore Eric Bauer, who finished second in the state among D-2 wrestlers last season and is currently 27-0. Bauer, 5-0 vs. East Central foes and rated No. 2 among D-2 wrestlers, was injured in practice a little over a week ago and, according to Rhoads, it was recommended that he not compete in the Craig Belcher Invitational.

"He'll be good to go now," Rhoads said. "We didn't feel we needed him (for Plymouth), and we want him to be all healed for the more important events in February."

Rhoads cited Deheck and Tanner Goemen (19-13) for their efforts in the win. "They wrestled great right to the end," he said. Rhoads moved a couple wrestlers up a weight class, either to take a forfeit or fill in a spot where the Indians would have to forfeit. One of the freshmen replacements, 160-pound Reagan Dricken, ended up facing one of the Panthers' top wrestlers, Erik Ohman, who was moved up a weight class by his coach. "He (Dricken) got caught in a headlock" and pinned, the coach said.

Larson moved up from his usual spot at 160 and won a decision over Dennis Macheel to finish the EC schedule at 5-1.

The Indians now have until February 4 to get ready for the EC Tournament, which will be held at Waupun High. Because there is such a long break between matches, Rhoads said he and his staff are going to plan some creative ways to keep his athletes sharp until the tourney.

Kewaskum 40, Plymouth 34

106 Nathaniel Droese pinned Andrew Steinhardt, 2:49; 113 Adam Bruss pinned Jack Miller, 1:19; 120 Mason Pomeroy won by forfeit; 126 Alex Butler won by forfeit; 132 Braden Maertz def. Will Birkholz 9-4; 138 Alex Deheck won by major decision over Josh Koll, 11-3; 145 Tanner Goeman def. Joseph Mertes, 6-4; 152 KHS forfeited to Isaac Fintak; 160 Reagan Dricken was pinned by Erik Ohman, no time available; 170 Sam Larson pinned Dennis Macheel, 1:35; 182 Eduardo Padill lost to Forrest Spring by major decision, 11-3; 195 KHS forfeited to Kyle Scheibinger; 220 KHS forfeited to Jesse Schwarten; 285 KHS forfeited to Gabe Haun.

Scoring Drought In First Half Costly For Indians

By Judy Harlow

Midway through the first half, the Kewaskum High boys basketball team was staying close to host Berlin, but then a switch in defense by Berlin changed a lot in determining the outcome of this East Central game.

"It was a pretty good game the first 10 minutes. We were running a good defense," KHS coach Don Gruber said, reporting the hosts then went to a 1-3-1 zone defense and his Indians struggled against it. They fell behind 33-14 at half and, despite a valiant comeback attempt the second half, ended up losing 67-52.

With the loss, the young Kewaskum team is 0-5 against EC opponents and 0-11 overall.

"We were playing uphill basketball the rest of the way," Gruber went on about the 19-point half-time deficit. Still, he was proud of the way his Indians kept plugging away and cut the margin to 11 in the second half.

At this point, the Indians missed four free throws and had a fast-break turnover, according to Gruber, who said Berlin took advantage of those misses and boosted its lead back up to 18.

Once again, the Indians clawed their way closer to the hosts, but again it was mistakes that halted the comeback. "We missed two wide open layups" and committed a couple more turnovers, Gruber said, explaining the misses took a toll on the Indians emotionally.

Gruber is confident the Indians will do better the next time they face a 1-3-1 defense. "In the second half, we attacked the 1-3-1 very well," he said.

Once again, six-foot, six-inch (6-6) Brady Hanson led the Indians in scoring and for the sixth time this season, he eclipsed the 20-point mark, hitting 21, including four, three-point goals. Gruber said he could have hit 28 or 29 points had he not traveled on a three-point attempt and made his layups.

"He played good team ball," Gruber said of Hanson, who is averaging 20 points per game.

For the second game in a row, juniors Jordan Carlton and Jared Chesak hit in double figures, with 13 and 11 points, respectively. Carlton's total included a pair of three-pointers.

Kewaskum hit eight three-balls but made just four of 14 free throws, which was very costly.

Grant Miller and Justin Bartol combined for 39 of Berlin's points. "Berlin's not that big, but they have a lot of guys right around 6-1, and they shoot threes," Gruber said.

After playing a non-conference home game vs. North Fond du Lac on January 24, the Indians travel to Plymouth tonight (January 26) and are at West Bend West for a 3 p.m. game on Saturday. Gruber said all these games are winnable.

Wildcats In School Rivalries Highlight Busy Week

Due to increasing enrollment and the high engagement of students and parents, Holy Trinity School needed to create multiple teams at the same level this year. This creates friendly but competitive in-house rivalries.

The Holy Trinity Gold B girls played against Holy Trinity Blue B girls. It was a very exciting game with both teams playing their hardest. Gold came out on top, winning 31-17.

Macy Fleischmann stepped up with some great drives to the hoop for the Blue team and Sydney Wheaton did a good job crashing the boards and playing tough defense for the Blue team as well.

Emma Graf and Haley Butschlick stepped up as leaders for the gold team. Emma Graf scored 15 Haley Butschlick scored eight, followed by Brianna Schicker who has really stepped up as a great rebounder for the gold team.

The two Holy Trinity A-boys teams faced off against each other for the first time this year, with the Gold team scoring a 35-32 victory over the Blue team. The Blue team jumped out to an early 9-2 advantage and managed to hold the lead through most of the first half, but the Gold team rallied at the end of the half and went into the break with a 20-19 lead.

The lead went back and forth throughout the second half, with the no team leading by more than four.

After the Gold team tied the game up at 32-32 with back-to-back buckets in the paint, clutch free throws from Michael Daniel of the Gold team on their next two possessions added the eventual three-point margin. Daniel also had a steal on the Blue Team's second to last possession to help seal the victory. A long three pointer for the tie fell short for Blue as time expired.

Daniel led all scorers with 13 points, with all his points coming either in the lane or at the free throw line. Dawson Schuetz added 10 points and Tommy Ford chipped in six points for the Gold team. Max Melzer (nine points) led the balanced Blue team scoring effort, in which eight of their players scored. Sam Amerling (eight points) and Jackson Flesichman (six points) were also notable contributors to the Blue Team.

The Holy Trinity A-Boys Gold Wildcats played against the Washington County Home School Association (WCHSA) in their second game of the night, coming away with another victory, 36-33.

The Wildcats got off to a slow start, trailing 5-0 early, as both teams struggled to put points on the board in the opening minutes of the game. Holy Trinity then began to work the ball into the post, and forward Tommy Ford responded, scoring six of the Wildcats' first 10 points.

The Wildcats lead at the break was 21-16 after Dawson Schuetz hit a buzzer-beater three-pointer as time expired in the first half. After the break, the Wildcats continued working the ball down low and expanded their lead to 11 in the middle of the second half.

WCHSA would not go down quietly and went on an 13-2 run to knot up the score at 33. Point guard Michael Daniel drew a foul and made one of two free throws to give the Wildcats an uneasy one point lead with time running out.

On WCHSA's next possession, Schuetz got a steal and scored on a breakaway layup to push the lead to three with only seconds remaining. After an inbounds attempt, WCHSA got off a three-pointer to tie the game, but the shot fell short as the buzzer rang.

Tommy Ford led Holy Trinity with 14 points and seven rebounds. Michael Daniel also contributed 13 points in the victory with Ben Schellinger chipping in two points and two rebounds.

The A team girls had a bye this week.

Holy Trinity's mission is to spread the Gospel of Jesus Christ, to provide a high-quality education, and to guide children in living the Catholic faith. For more information you can visit their website at <http://www.htschool.net/>.

Focus On Habitat Rather Than Feeding To Help Deer Through Winter

Wisconsin residents should consider the impacts of wildlife feeding as well as potential alternatives that provide long-term benefits to help wildlife through a cold and snowy winter season.

"People want to see healthy deer on the landscape, but feeding is not the only solution," said Tim Marien, Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources wildlife health specialist. "Improving habitat can support deer and many other types of wildlife year-round."

Even a mild Wisconsin winter can cause concerns for those living alongside deer and other wildlife, but deer and other wildlife commonly seen in Wisconsin adapt both physically and behaviorally to winter weather. Animals with adequate fat reserves and good winter cover are more likely to survive in good condition.

"Deer start preparing for winter during the summer, when nutritious natural food sources are abundant," said Marien. "When winter arrives, they seek out shelter in stands of pine, cedar and fir that provide cover from snow and wind, and search for winter foods in the vicinity until spring."

However, some winters can overly stress individual animals, and this can reduce their chances of survival. Especially during hard winters, concerned citizens may turn to feeding to help deer through the winter. While this can benefit individual animals, feeding often occurs on a scale too small to affect the overall condition of the deer herd. Feeding can also have a negative impact on deer, as it draws them out of winter range that offers the best food and cover to help deer conserve energy. Feeding also increases the risk of disease spread and severe digestive issues.

CWD-Affected Counties

As a reminder, deer feeding is illegal in counties affected by chronic wasting disease. Where it is legal, regulations restrict how much food may be placed and where feeding sites may be placed. Feeding deer is also prohibited when elk and bear are using the site. For a full list of wildlife feeding regulations, visit the DNR website at dnr.wi.gov and search "feeding regulations."

"Feeding restrictions are in place to protect the health and safety of both humans and wildlife," said Marien. "In areas where elk and bear are present, feeding can present a safety risk when these animals acclimate to people. Also, elk are susceptible to several diseases that deer carry, which can weaken the elk herds that Wisconsin has been working to grow over the past few decades."

DNR staff do not recommend feeding deer, and the practice is currently prohibited in CWD-affected counties. For counties where feeding deer is allowed, the department provides guidance for feeding techniques at keyword "deer." To view current baiting and feeding regulations, search keyword "bait."

Citizens are encouraged to contact a local DNR wildlife biologist for additional information — contact information can be found at keywords "staff directory" — enter "wildlife biologist" in the subject line.

Improve Habitat To Help Deer Through A Tough Winter

Creating and improving habitat can give deer and other wildlife the resources they need during summer months and sustain them during the winter. Maintaining nutritious natural food sources, like oak, aspen and crabapple provides summer and fall food, while evergreen stands create winter cover and food for deer. Good habitat fulfills the needs of many deer, rather than individuals.

A variety of resources are available to help landowners improve their land for wildlife, including the Deer Management Assistance Program, Young Forest Initiative and the Landowner Incentive Program. More information on these programs and additional publications is available on the DNR website by searching keyword "landowner."

At that time, the board tabled it until the Village Park and Recreation committee could start deliberations to determine a new location.

Meanwhile, the Kiwanis Club and the Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce did not want to wait, and the Kiwanis Club attempted to build a temporary rink on private property located on Second Street in Kewaskum.

Unfortunately, the Kiwanians ran into the same problem as village staff had encountered: the ground was not level. That obstacle, paired with uncooperative weather, prevented a rink from being constructed.

So the matter returned to the Park and Recreation committee last Monday.

The committee discussed the feasibility of building a rink at Wildlife Park, which currently is an open area.

However, that would possibly require excavating some trees from the lower area and adding lights, Village Trustee Dave Zehren said.

Village resident Lloyd Spaeth, who was at last week's Park and Recreation committee meeting, suggested building a rink on a tennis court, but Dennis Aupperle, working foreman for the village's Department of Public Works, said that the ice could crack the asphalt.

In trying to come up with a solution, the committee discussed what other communities offer.

"Everybody that I talk to says you don't just fill a skating rink and then that's it," Zehren said.

There is constant maintenance required for an ice skating rink, Zehren said. When it snows, the ice needs to be cleared, and when the ice thaws, new ice needs to be made.

Because of the work that ice rinks require, Port Washington discontinued offering three ice rinks, Zehren said.

"I talked to the guy in Slinger that is in charge of them there, and he said it is actually more work than it's worth. The people don't really use their ice skating rink that much," Zehren said.

The City of Hartford rents a temporary structure from an outside company for about $4,000 a year, Heiser suggested.

"The only opinions I have heard from people is: If [people] want to skate, skate on the river. That is where we always skated before. Why isn't that good enough now?" Zehren said.

Offering skating on the river would save on some of the maintenance issues, Zehren said.

Cedarburg and Grafton both offer ice skating on the Milwaukee River, Zehren said.

Ice skating was held on the river in Kewaskum for years, until a snowplow fell through the ice some years ago.

If skating is held on the river, the village might need to put up some kind of shelter and light.

Before that work is done, the committee would like to gauge interest to see how many people want to ice skate on the river.

"We need some sort of civic organization that is going to promote ice skating, to develop some sort of communication of usage plan, to foster some sort of activity down there. I'm just concerned about us putting a light in and committing staff to do a bunch of maintenance and work, and then it just goes unutilized," Village Trustee Dave Spenner said.

"I guess I'm curtailing a lot of the bigger stuff for the older kids this year, and adding things for them in increments in the future," Village Trustee Dave Spenner said.

Before making a recommendation to the village board, committee members decided to get firm prices for shade structures. They would like see if there is a local manufacturer that could provide a quote.

Pool Committee

Last year, the village board started voicing concerns about dwindling attendance at the swim pond. The village currently spends about $50,000 to maintain the swim pond.

In an effort to increase pool attendance, the village board formed a pool committee to evaluate whether any changes should be made to the swim pond.

The committee met monthly over the past year to look at various options. The committee considered replacing the pond with a concrete pool and adding on a splash pad, with prices ranging from $500,000 to $3.5 million.

The committee even thought about closing the swim pond completely.

As the pool committee deliberated, it sought input from the entire community. While some people said they never use the swim pond, the overwhelming sentiment was that people were in favor of keeping the swim pond.

"I had one person tell me they drive up from Waukesha once or twice a year to meet with family and friends and really enjoy it because they don't have something like that down there by them, with an actual beach and sand,"

Pool Committee Member Kristy Bishop said.

When village resident Lloyd Spaeth heard about the possibility of the pond closing, he got involved.

"We live right behind the pool. We see that pool every day. We see the fun the kids have. That sand, people criticize that sand, but boy, you see those kids out there with their little pails and everything, building their castles and making their rivers run back down into the pool," Spaeth said.

Spaeth began researching inflatable structures that other swim ponds use and presented that idea to the pool committee last summer.

"Stoughton and Winneconne both tripled the attendance at their swim ponds from the year before the inflatables to the year they added inflatables," Spaeth said.

The pool committee liked the idea of inflatables, especially since installing them would be markedly less expensive than creating a whole new pool.

The inflatable amenities come in all shapes and sizes, and range from slides and trampolines to sun decks and obstacle courses.

Recommendations

After looking at a wide array of options, the pool committee gave a presentation to the Village Board on November 28. The pool committee recommended renovating the bathhouse, installing a 1,300 square-foot splash pad, putting up 15-foot umbrellas and adding inflatable amenities.

Those additions would cost about $403,000.

Perhaps the most critical issue the pool committee pinpointed was the lack of shade at the swim pond.

"There is not a whole lot of shade down there. There are a few trees that provide some shade, and there is the deck area, but in the middle of the summer, it does get pretty warm, so we are kind of moving around to stay cool," Bishop told the board in November.

Another current problem at the pond is the lack of concessions and amusements, Pool Committee Member Wayne Sargent said.

Therefore, the pool committee would like to upgrade the bathhouse and add a splash pad.

Sargent would like to see the village do all of the improvements at once to create a "wow" factor.

"In the scheme of things, I'd like to do everything at once, but I know that is not the reality. I would like to at least invest in the inflatables for next season and see what happens to attendance," Village President Kevin Scheunemann said.

Scheunemann said that he hopes that by adding the shade structures and inflatable amenities to the swim pond, the revenue will increase enough to cover the cost of a loan to renovate the bathhouse and build a splash pad.

He also hopes that a civic organization will help with the project.

"I'd like to go to the community and see if we can solicit help in terms of getting the inflatable aspect of it privately funded," Scheunemann said.

The village board proposed in November to break down the entire project into three different bid packages: the bathhouse/concession stand; the splash pad; and shade structures and inflatable amenities.

Callen Explores Siding Options And How To Choose Siding Colors

Siding allows you to add definition and color to your home. Nowadays, there are numerous options to help you create your desired look, and a great deal of consideration goes in to making an informed choice.

"While aesthetics are important, you will also want to consider durability, maintenance, and energy efficiency," said Christopher Wittmann, CR, a NARI Certified Remodeler, Senior Sales Representative, and Exterior Product Specialist with Callen Construction Inc. in Muskego, a full service and award winning remodeling company celebrating its 30th anniversary of serving southeastern Wisconsin homeowners. "From a functional standpoint, siding offers protection. From an architectural standpoint, it is common to utilize an array of materials to highlight particular features on a home." Keeping this in mind, Wittmann provides an overview of the six most popular types of siding available today.

"Insulated and non-insulated vinyl siding has become the most popular choice for homeowners in the United States," said Wittmann. Available in horizontal, vertical, and shake-styles, vinyl can either retain certain architectural elements of a house or dramatically change the overall appearance. "Although the 'plastic look' of certain vinyl siding products deters some design professionals and homeowners, the wide selection of colors and styles and its low investment price explains the siding's status.

If energy efficiency is desired as part of the upgrade, insulated vinyl siding reduces 'thermal bridging' where energies can transfer through the siding and framing materials, reducing the thermal insulation properties of the building."

Fiber-cement siding offers the natural look of wood, stucco, or shake. In addition, it's fairly low-maintenance, non-flammable, termite and woodpecker-resistant, and typically lasts at least 25 years or more. "Available in a range of styles and textures, factory painting or finishes are highly recommended," said Wittmann. "Since fiber-cement siding can experience moisture-related issues if not installed properly, special care is needed for certain areas on the house to ensure the materials remain sustainable."

Engineered, composite wood siding has gained popularity through the years. Like fiber-cement, this product also shares some of the same characteristics. One of the benefits of composite wood siding is that it is more impact resistant than fiber cement and vinyl. It's also lightweight and easy to install, which can lower labor costs.

"While more costly than vinyl or composite siding products both initially and long-term, wood siding offers a rich look and is quite durable when maintained properly," said Wittmann. When contemplating this option, note that it does require regular maintenance (painting or staining to prevent weather damage) and can be susceptible to insect and rodent attacks.

Depending on maintenance, wood siding has a varying life expectancy, lasting anywhere from 10 to sometimes 100 years. "Wood siding comes in clapboard as well as shakes and shingles. Western red cedar and redwood are known for being attractive and durable and are considered the best choices if real wood is desired," added Wittmann.

The final option is brick, stone, and stone-veneer siding. "Homeowners who prefer siding that adds texture and visual interest to their home are drawn to the natural beauty and durability of brick or stone," said Wittmann. Because brick or stone requires certain installation requirements and is more labor intensive, cost concerns should be taken into account. Brick or stone-veneer siding is more lightweight and less expensive than natural brick and stone and is available in both natural and synthetic materials. There are several styles available to help enhance a home's curb appeal. If properly maintained, these options can last a home's lifetime.

In terms of siding color, "Changing the color not only has the ability to affect how a person views their home, but it can impact the home's value as well," said Wittmann. If unsure about what siding colors to choose, Wittmann suggests contemplating the following questions to help in the decision making process:

1. What is the neighborhood like? Although you may want to put your stamp on your own unique siding color scheme, you also want to consider your home's location when making a selection.

2. What is the home's architecture style? The type of home can offer visual cues, but don't feel restricted to these when it comes to siding color selection. "For example, although Colonial homes are notably painted in a single color (usually white), unusual accents can offer a subtle, yet modern twist to a classic scheme. If you live in a cottage or country style home, you may have more freedoms when it comes to siding color," said Wittmann.

3. How big is the house? A dark color may look diverse and rich, but when painted on the exterior of a mid- to large-scale home, it could seem gloomy and overbearing. On the opposite spectrum, colors that are too light may cause a smaller home to blend in to its surrounding landscape, preventing it from standing out. "Keep this in mind: lighter colors neutralize features that you wish to de-emphasize, while darker colors draw attention to places you want to highlight," said Wittmann.

4. What color is the roof? Although siding colors have a varying lifespan, a roof will probably last from 20 to 30 years. As a result, roof color should be an element considered when choosing siding colors. "If your roofing material is dark, you may want to utilize a lighter color scheme for your siding," Wittmann said. "If you have a more neutral roof hue, this may give you a broader selection of color schemes from which to choose."

5. What landscaping style is in place or is planned? A contemporary landscape combined with a candy-colored exterior color scheme may not be the most complementary choice, especially in a conservative neighborhood. It's just one instance of how landscape plays an important role when determining siding colors.

6. What is the climate? The look of a particular siding color can change based on the weather. For instance, a siding color may look different on a sunny day than it does on a snowy afternoon. It's considered a rule of thumb that the intense sunlight during the summertime makes colors feel brighter.

7. How do favorite paint colors look at different times of the day? Apply sample swatches of the desired siding colors on different sides of the home and look at them closely in the morning, afternoon, and evening. Be sure to paint the swatches close to items on your home that won't change color, such as brick foundations.

8. Have you considered complementary colors? One siding color does not constitute a color scheme. A main hue requires lighter or darker accents. Choose two or three shades to update window trim, doors, and railings. "If you're unsure, pick one complementary color that offers a bright focal point and one hue that's a shade or two lighter or darker than your main siding color," said Wittmann.

"Once you understand all the siding materials and color options and you've weighed the pros and cons of each, you are sure to make an informed decision that you can be confident in and proud of," said Wittmann.

Recognizes Kewaskum Fire Fighters Association

By Anne Trautner

The Kewaskum Fire Fighters Association was recently honored by the Kewaskum Village Board with a proclamation read by Village President Kevin Scheunemann at a recent board meeting.

According to the proclamation, the Kewaskum Volunteer Fire Department was formed in 1884, which led to the creation of the Fire Fighters Association in 2006.

In 2016, the association purchased two thermal imaging cameras for $12,000 and voted to donate $26,000 toward a new tanker truck.

The proclamation states that the Volunteer Fire Department and Fire Fighters Association are composed of local residents who are devoted to the safety and well-being of their community. The village board wanted to recognize the association members for giving tirelessly to the community via contributions of time and effort over the years.

The Fire Fighters Association also has contributed via financial donations to the Kewaskum Fire Department, which relieved the taxpayers of the Village of these costs, according to the proclamation of commendation, signed on January 9. Over the years, the association has donated tens of thousands of dollars to purchase many pieces of equipment and improve the fire department's operations.
