Governor Walker Visits Spiros Industries

By Anne Trautner

Gov. Scott Walker visited Spiros Industries in Kohlsville on Monday.

About 20 students from Moraine Park Technical College and area high schools joined Walker on the tour of the local plant. The event helped introduce students to the possibilities that the manufacturing world offers.

"My grandfather was a machinist for 42 years. That was a good job,"

Walker said.

However, the manufacturing field has completely changed since then.

"It is now a much different environment; much healthier, lighter, brighter, more exciting. It is really much more advanced and high tech," Walker said.

Spiros Industries was established as a springs manufacturer in 1994. It was then that Jim Maronde, David Loomans and Dennis Backhaus started the company with three machines, no orders and a dream.

Maronde and Backhaus are still with the company. Spiros Industries currently has 65 machines and employs 50 people. The company makes a variety of different springs that are used for things like lawnmower engines, house locks, hairclippers and fuel tanks in cars.

School Board Approves Spending $1.4 Million On Athletic Complex

By Anne Trautner

The Kewaskum School Board unanimously approved spending up to $1.4 million on upgrades to the Doc Mitchell Athletic Complex at the school board meeting on Monday, Oct. 9.

The project will include putting artificial turf on the football field, as well as resurfacing the track and adding bleachers to both sides of the field.

The project will be covered through the district's regular budget process. If needed, the district can borrow up to $1 million through its short-term borrowing fund without raising taxes, Superintendent James Smasal said. The project will not be funded through referendum money.

According to Smasal, the turf is more cost effective that maintaining grass over the course of 15 years. In addition, it adds a safety factor to the field because of the extra padding it provides, he said.

The board contended that the field will be more versatile because it can serve as a soccer field as well as a football field. Also, it should drain moisture away when it rains so that it can be used more often.

Two Library Board Members Asked To Resign

By Anne Trautner

Margaret "Mugs" McFadden has resigned from the Kewaskum Public Library Board, and Village President Kevin Scheunemann has asked Connie Zemlicka to resign from the library board as well.

"I have asked for and received Mrs. McFadden's resignation," Scheunemann said. "Also, on the 16th, there will be an item on the village board meeting agenda to remove Connie Zemlicka from the library board. I have asked her to resign, and she wants to defend herself before the Village Board," Scheunemann said.

McFadden, who was president of the library board, had served on the board for 21 years. Zemlicka, who serves as the library board treasurer, has served on the library board for at least 15 years.

Scheunemann contacted McFadden last Tuesday to request her resignation.

In Wisconsin, a village president can remove anyone from the library board and does not need to give a reason.

"It was outrageous, and I was very insulted," McFadden said. "I would have appreciated a heads up and a sitdown to find out what the problems are so we could rectify them."

Local Police Back Proposed Bill

— Measure Would Limit Public Access To Body Camera Video

By Anne Trautner

Kewaskum Police Chief Tom Bishop spoke at an Assembly committee hearing in support of a proposed bill that would create a state policy for when body camera video can be made public.

The bill, which was sponsored by State Rep. Jesse Kremer, would allow much of the footage would be withheld if the video is from a location where there is an expectation of privacy.

"Rep. Kremer and I have spoken on this topic numerous times over the last year or so. Body cameras are becoming more prevalent, and to some regard even expected to be worn and utilized by police officers throughout this county," Bishop said.

Kewaskum police officers use body cameras.

School Board Approves Spending $1.4 Million On Athletic Complex

The district plans to have the field completed by August 2018.

"It is really going to be used a lot. I think it is something that pushes our district. After we finish this project, along with our new school facility, I think it ties in with Kiwanis Park, I think it ties in with Reigle Park. What better district would you want to go to?" School Board member Jim Leister said.

Doc Mitchell Athletic Complex is just one athletic field space the school district is looking into improving.

Last month, the board unanimously agreed to take action on improving athletic field space at the Doc Mitchell Athletic Complex, the baseball field at Kiwanis Park and the softball field at Kewaskum Elementary School.

Since the September meeting, the district has started looking at baseball field space at Kiwanis Park.

"We met with the village to talk about some issues concerning the baseball field at Kiwanis Park," Smasal said.

The district offered to either build a baseball field or redo a baseball field at Kiwanis Park. In return, the district would like to have a 20-year agreement that during the school's sports season, the school will get first priority using that field.

"It's non-negotiable. If we are going to pony up to make the field right, then what we want is a 20-year commitment," Leister said. "We want to be able to have our baseball games when we schedule them. We want to have first priority."

Early estimates are that it will cost the school district $500,000-$600,000 to create a new baseball field at Kiwanis Park, Smasal said. The project would entail either fixing the current diamond at Kiwanis Park by rotating home plate into the right-field corner, or creating a new diamond across the creek to the north.

"We want to continue to partner with the village and see what they want to do. If they want to fix up a baseball field at Kiwanis, that's something we can work on, then great. If they have different ideas, then we will find out what they are. We will continue to explore," Smasal told the board Monday night.

The board discussed the growing trend among schools to switch to spring baseball. Kewaskum is not switching to spring ball this year, but is keeping an eye on how the trend develops across the state.

SHERIFF'S REPORT

Washington County Sheriff's Office Reports

OWI Case

On October 2 the Sheriff's Office responded to the area of Franklin and Congress streets in the Village of Newburg for a report of an operator of a silver SUV honking the horn due to the driver leaning forward on the steering wheel. The report was the vehicle was occupied by a young female, but prior to the deputy's arrival the vehicle left.

At 5:12 p.m. the Sheriff's Office received a second call that the silver SUV had crashed in the driveway of a residence in the 300 block of Main Street and the driver was "chasing" the caller in an attempt to give the caller $60 for the damages. The communications officer could hear the conversation in the background on the 911 line.

The deputy arrived to see the vehicle parked diagonally in the driveway pushed up against a second vehicle. The deputy identified the driver as a 17-year-old Town of Jackson female who thought she was in Jackson when questioned. The driver stuck a telephone pole adjacent to the home, a burn barrel, a well casing, a flight of stairs and a child's bike before striking another car in the driveway.

The female was arrested for drunk driving first offense and had a blood alcohol concentration over twice the legal limit.

Car Crash

The Washington County Sheriff's Office investigated a head-on collision that occurred in the area of State Highway 33 and State Highway 175 on Saturday, Oct. 7, at 2:56 p.m.

A 29-year-old Oconomowoc man was west bound on State Highway 33 when he crossed the centerline and struck a 61-year-old Town of Addison man that was traveling eastbound. Both individuals were transported by emergency medical crews. The exact cause of the accident remains under investigation.

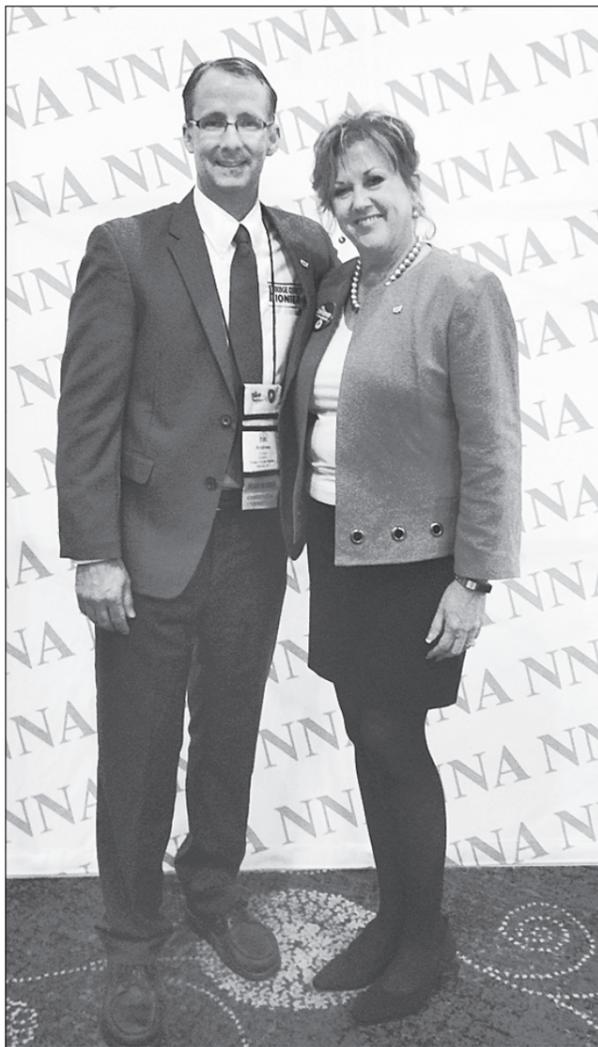

Sheboygan County Sheriff's Office Reports

Industrial Accident

On Monday, Oct. 9, at approximately 9:45 a.m., the Sheboygan County Sheriff's Office received a 911 call reporting an industrial accident at Lakeside Foods, 209 Allen St. in Random Lake.

A 30-year-old female suffered an amputation of an arm above the elbow. The Sheboygan County Dispatch Center, utilizing newly implemented Emergency Medical Dispatch protocol, led persons on scene through lifesaving procedures, until deputies arrived on scene and applied a tourniquet. The victim was transported by Random Lake Ambulance to Aurora Grafton from there she was taken by Fight for Life to Froedtert Hospital.

The Sheriff's Office was assisted by the Random Lake First Responders, Random Lake Ambulance and Orange Cross Ambulances. The incident remains under investigation.

Kewaskum Area Arts Council, Inc., Offers Programs For Community

The Kewaskum Area Arts Council was established in June 2009 and incorporated with the State of Wisconsin on January 26, 2010.

A small group of interested people began talking about what could be done to improve the arts environment in the community. With this beginning, the Kewaskum Big Band was established in 2008, which includes musicians from several area communities of all ages and musical abilities.

Upon seeing the success of this group, the Arts Council was formed. Along with the Big Band, two community theatre groups were formed. The Kewaskum Theatre Company produces excellent musicals over the summer months. And Gateway Community Theatre is currently in a holding pattern, waiting for a new director.

To date, the Kewaskum Big Band continues to perform six to eight concerts yearly. The "Music in the Park" series is going strong. This year, KAAC sponsored five free concerts with support from the village, local businesses and service clubs in Riverside Park on Tuesday evenings during June, July and August. The council hopes to have more groups play next summer.

KAAC also sponsors "At the Movies," hosted by Jim Westphal. Through this program, Westphal presents classic and popular movies, free to the public. Films are presented at 2 p.m. in the Kewaskum Theatre, located in Kewaskum High School.

The following movies are planned to be shown this month:

- October 18 - Vertigo, Alfred Hitchcock
- October 25 - To Kill a Mockingbird, Robert Mulligan

More dates and films will be announced at a later date. This is a great way for seniors or anyone to get out and enjoy the company of each other and see a classic movie. KAAC is a growing, vibrant art entity and will continue to provide artistic experiences to the youth and community of Kewaskum and the surrounding area.

The council is always looking for additional active members. All that is needed is a true desire to "promote the arts in the greater Kewaskum Area," along with attendance at meeting and functions.

For more information on the Arts Council or its entities, please visit the organization's website at kewaskumarts.org or email kewaskumarts@gmail.com.

School Sisters Of St. Francis To Hold Campbellsport Monument Dedication

This Saturday, Oct. 14, the School Sisters of St. Francis will hold a ceremony of dedication and blessing of a memorial monument for its former St. Joseph Convent in Campbellsport. The convent closed in 2015 and deconstruction of the buildings was completed earlier this year.

The half-hour ceremony will begin at 10 a.m. on Mill Street, where the convent stood for more than 140 years. Sister Mary Diez, president of the international congregation, will offer a message of welcome and Sister Carol Rigali of the community's United States Province leadership team will share words of gratitude.

The public is encouraged to attend both the ceremony and a coffee and bakery reception that will be held in the St. Matthew Parish Hall immediately following the dedication. A number of sisters who lived and ministered in Campbellsport will be in attendance. Parking will be available at St. Matthew Catholic Church, 419 Mill Street, which is across the street from the former convent grounds.

"Our congregation is deeply grateful for the love and support that the people of Campbellsport have shown our sisters from the day we arrived in 1874," Sister Carol said. "The village will always hold a special place in our hearts and in our congregation's history, and this memorial monument will be a permanent remembrance of our years of ministry here."

In case of rain, the dedication will be held in the St. Matthew's School gym. For more information, contact Sister Phyllis Wirtz at 414-385-5250.

5 Years Ago October 11, 2012

A lawsuit initiated in March by a group of Kewaskum School District teachers with the help of the state teachers' union over pay remains unsettled. An offer made by the district to the 14 still remaining in the suit was rejected last week.

Approximately 1,100 customers lost power in Kewaskum and West Bend when a tree limb knocked down some power lines and a transformer caught fire on Highway H near Oak Rd. Traffic lights at Highway 45 and Highway H/Badger Rd. were knocked out as well.

DAYS GONE BY

Weekly HEALTH TIP

"EVERY SECOND COUNTS: PLAN 2 WAYS OUT!"

The theme for Fire Prevention Week this year is "Every Second Counts: Plan 2 Ways Out!" In a fire, seconds can mean the difference between a safe escape or tragedy. Draw a map of your home, marking 2 exits from each room and a path to outside. Teach children how to escape on their own. Practice a fire drill twice a year, one during the day and the other at night. Make sure your house number is clearly posted. Close doors behind you as you exit; this may slow down the fire. Have a designated place to meet outside. Once out, stay out; do not go back into a burning building.

United Way Of Washington County Prepare 2,500 Kits

United Way of Washington County kicked off its annual fundraising campaign Thursday by uniting more than 400 volunteers from 40 local businesses, schools, and nonprofit organizations.

The volunteers assembled bags of health and hygiene supplies for 2,500 local residents in need. The event, called United for a Fresh Start, was held at Washington County Fair Park.

"Whether it's mental illness, job loss, or abuse, we know there are many circumstances that can lead to household and financial instability," said Kristin Brandner, executive director of United Way of Washington County. "We hope these Personal Care Kits will help people get a fresh start so they can get back on their feet."

During the event, teams of volunteers worked in assembly lines to fill tote bags with 15 items, including shampoo, soap, and toothbrushes. The kits were completed with notes of encouragement signed by each volunteer.

"Washington County is a really special place to live and work, and this event is an example of that," said Kevin Steiner, president and CEO of West Bend Mutual Insurance Company, and United Way of Washington County's 2017 Campaign Chair. "Community is more than just a group of people living in one area. It's coming together to improve people's lives. And that's what people in Washington County do."

The Personal Care Kits will be distributed through local churches, schools, homeless shelters, food pantries, and nonprofit organizations in Washington County.

Before they started the kit assembly, volunteers participated in an interactive simulation called Walk In My Shoes. Using United Way's new website, WalkWC.org, volunteers navigated a month in the life of a character struggling with financial instability. Throughout the simulation, volunteers were confronted with real-life situations and hard choices that impacted their budget.

"Walk In My Shoes is a powerful tool that illustrates the difficulties that many of our neighbors face on a daily basis," said Sarah Malchow, Director of Community Impact. "Financial hardships can easily lead to health issues, relationship conflicts, poor school performance, and household instability. United Way provides resources that empower people to overcome these obstacles, which creates a better community for all."

The event was sponsored by West Bend Mutual Insurance Company, Aurora Health Care, and Proforma Effective Solutions.

During the annual fundraising campaign, United Way of Washington County encourages the community to Give, Advocate, and Volunteer. The funds raised benefit education, financial stability, and health programs at 18 local nonprofit agencies.

To learn how our community benefits from United Way programs, and to join the uniting force for good, please visit www.UnitedWayOfWashingtonCounty.org.

CAMPUS NEWS

— Sarah Benz and the University Symphonic Band of Concordia University, Nebraska, will perform its fall concert at 7 p.m. on October 17, at St. John Lutheran Church in Seward, Nebraska.

The Wind Ensemble and Symphonic Band will both be playing throughout the evening. The program includes three marches: "Barnum and Bailey's Favorite," "On the Mall" and "Circus Day." Also featured will be Carmen Dragon's arrangement of "America, the Beautiful," Samuel Hazo's "Ride" and "Pirates of the Caribbean." "I hope that the concert will be engaging and entertaining as it has a mix of beautiful settings of beloved hymn tunes, great marches, and patriotic and programmatic music," said Andrew Schultz, conductor of the Symphonic Band.

The University Symphonic Band was formed in 1906 and is the oldest continuing musical organization at Concordia. The ensemble places emphasis on sacred, multicultural and contemporary literature, as well as traditional concert band repertoire.

"It is because of great teams like you who are here every day and encouraging others that it is going to make manufacturing not only a part of our history, but more importantly, part of our future going forward," Walker said to Backhaus and Jim Maronde.

State Sen. Duey Stroebel visited the plant with Walker on Monday.

One of the things that Walker noted as he toured the facility was the number of employees that had been working at Spiros over a long period of time. "People don't usually stick around a place of employment if they don't like it or if they are not treated well," Walker pointed out.

Retention rates are typically twice as long at manufacturing jobs than they are at other places of employment, according to Walker. Plus, manufacturing jobs are more likely to offer benefits like health insurance than other jobs, Walker said.

"More pay, better benefits, longer retention. Pretty compelling argument for people to consider manufacturing," Walker told the students. "It is a tremendous opportunity."

Continued From... Two Library Board Members Asked To Resign

According to Scheunemann, the problem stems from the fact that McFadden and Zemlicka together serve on both the library board and the library foundation board.

The Kewaskum Public Library Foundation, Inc., was formed in 2013 to raise funds for the library by three library board members: McFadden, Zemlicka and Teresa Meltz. Since then, library board member Sandi Radeztsky replaced Meltz on the foundation's board.

There have consistently been three library board members serving on the library foundation's board. That is, until last Monday, Oct. 2, when Radeztsky resigned from the foundation board.

There is no law that states that two library board members cannot serve on two separate boards together. However, the village board has been advised that there should be no more than one person serving on both the library board and the library foundation board.

"Our village attorney recommended one overlapping position," Village Administrator Matt Heiser told library board members at their meeting on Monday, Oct. 9. "If you have any number greater than one, you are in danger of people communicating outside the regular open meetings."

A total of seven people who serve on the library board. To pass a vote, a quorum of four people is needed.

A group of three people could form a negative quorum, which is any block of votes that could prevent formal action of the body that requires a super majority, or 66 percent.

Village Trustee Dave Spenner, who represents the village board on the library board, said the resignations are an effort to keep a diverse library board.

"We are interested in seeing a balance of different perspectives and interests reflected on the library board," Spenner said. "We are interested in working with the library foundation and supporting our library director as she is in the process of developing a more comprehensive strategic plan that will extend out over several years. We are looking forward to having some additional perspectives being reflected on the library board to help us develop that strategic plan."

In 2013, the Library Foundation, Inc., purchased the property just to the east of the library in order to expand the facility.

The foundation still owns that land.

About two years ago, the library received a bequest of about $380,000 from Bernice Trapp to be used for building a new library, expanding existing library building or remodeling the existing library building.

In recent months, the library board has discussed the possibility of starting a fundraising campaign to raise additional funds for a library expansion.

McFadden was appointed to the Washington County Library Services Board four years ago. She also was appointed to the new four-county Monarch Library System Board when it was formed in January.

"I want to thank Mrs. McFadden for her years of service," Scheunemann said.

Little Folks School House Turns 20 Years Old

By Anne Trautner

Little Folks School House is turning 20 years old.

The day care center, which is located at 1040 Milan Drive in Kewaskum, started out in a small building in the Town of Wayne.

"I had done family child care since 1983, a really long time. That was getting to be a lot of wear and tear on my home, and I got to a point where I needed more, so I opened a group center in the Town of Wayne," owner Dodie Sargent said.

The center started out in 1997 with two classrooms and a kitchen. The center was licensed for 30 children.

The following year, the center opened a before- and after-school program in what was at that time Wayne Elementary School, now known as i4Learning Community School. One year later, that Little Folks program was started at Kewaskum Elementary School as well.

The child care center continued to grow, in 2006 it moved to its current location after outgrowing its building.

The program is now licensed to care for 82 children 6 weeks through 12 years old. Little Folks houses five classrooms that are securely monitored.

Currently, Little Folks provides before- and after-school care at KES and after-school care at Holy Trinity.

The center has a long waiting list, with some children waiting for two and a half years before they get a spot in the center.

Sargent runs the program with her daughter, Jennifer Melzark, who started working for the program in 2000 as a co-op student.

"My favorite part about working here is probably watching our families grow. I am usually the first one who finds out if someone is pregnant because we have such a long waiting list. Sometimes I get that call before the dad finds out," Melzark said.

The center currently has 29 staff members. There are six staff members who have worked at Little Folks for over 10 years, and an additional eight people who have worked there for over five years.

Continuing education is emphasized through the center's accreditation process, and five of the employees have bachelor's degrees and eight have associate degrees. Five employees are currently working on earning degrees.

"Another thing that is cool is that we have been here so long, we have a handful now of people who used to come here and now they have all grown up and started their own families, and they bring their kids here, so we have some second generations coming through the door," Melzark said.

In addition, there are a couple teachers who attended Little Folks when they were children who now work at the center.

Children who attend Little Folks participate in an intergenerational program in which they visit residents at a nearby nursing home. They also grow a garden and visit various businesses and organizations throughout the community.

Each year Little Folks provides two main family events. In the spring, the facility holds a preschool prom. In the fall, a different special event is held. This year's festivity will be a birthday party in honor of the center's 20th anniversary.

Other special events are held throughout the year as well. For example, one year a mother-daughter spa night was held, and a child woodworking event was held last year. Little Folks School House gets special visitors like the Easter Bunny and Santa Claus each year, also.

For parents, the center provides care occasionally on Saturday evenings so that parents can have a date night.

"Parents can bring their children in their pajamas on a Saturday night, and we have staff volunteer that night and they have a pizza party, movies and popcorn. The staff will put the children down in their sleeping bags, at the children's normal bedtime, and then the parents come and pick them up," Sargent said.

"Parents get to leave their children with trusted people, and they don't have to bring any of the diapers or the diaper bag. Everything is already here. Parents really appreciate that, especially the parents who don't have a normal regular babysitter that they can call on," she added.

Sargent and Melzark appreciate the staff, and they try to hold things like parties and picnic for the teachers to show their appreciation.

"We are a good center because of the teachers we have," Sargent said. "There's a good harmony. The teachers respect each other, they respect the families. This is not their job, this is their career. They are not babysitters. This is their life."

Sargent said she enjoys working in administration with the staff. That is one of the main things that has kept her in the business for so long.

But her favorite thing about Little Folks?

"My favorite part of the job is the kids," Sargent said without hesitation.

Local Nurses Offer Hope For Cancer Patients

By Anne Trautner

Tammy Resop had not planned on being an oncology nurse. In fact, it was something she had never really considered doing.

She started her nursing career in 1992 working as a registered nurse on a hospital surgical floor in Stevens Point. That job required working all three shifts, and weekends and holidays. After she had her second child in 1997, she decided she couldn't keep doing that.

"I kind of started watching for jobs to post," Resop said.

She interviewed for a position in the hospital's outpatient area, and agreed to work in that department, as well as for a new oncology program the hospital was developing.

The oncology unit began slowly, with just one patient being treated a week. After about a year, the hospital decided to fully invest in the oncology program. Resop was asked if she wanted to stay with oncology or with day procedures.

"By that time I was hooked. I loved it. So I said I would go with oncology," Resop said.

The Work Of An Oncology Nurse

When Resop moved to Kewaskum in 2003, she continued working as an oncology nurse in Milwaukee. In 2006, she began working at St. Joseph's Hospital in West Bend when it started an oncology program, and has worked there since.

"There is so much to like about the work," Resop said. "Obviously, the first thing that got me was the convenience, the hours. Because after you work the crazy shifts that nurses work, the Monday to Friday shift was very appealing to me."

The staff that Resop works with is another favorite part of the job.

"It's a great group of people...everyone from the front desk through the technicians and the doctors and the nurses. We are all very supportive of one another, too, so we all kind of help each other through the day," Resop said.

"I think because of how emotional it can be, we are a great team. We are not catty or anything like that. We work well, together," said fellow oncology nurse Denise Herriges.

Like Resop, Herriges had not set out to become an oncology nurse. Both nurses live in Kewaskum and became friends at church.

Herriges was working as a registered nurse in inpatient care, and was thinking about changing specialties. She asked Resop what it was like to work in the cancer center.

"That got my wheels turning after she started talking," said Herriges, who has now worked in the infusion center for three and a half years.

"I love it," she said. "I love getting deep into the details of the specialty, but I also love the patients. That sounds so cheesy, but it's really true. You just have this compassion for someone who is so vulnerable."

Resop agreed. Without a doubt, her favorite part of the job is her patients.

The Patients

"It is just an incredible population to work with. I mean, honestly, they inspire me every day. The things that they do and the strength that so many of them have when they come here is just amazing to me," Resop said, with tears filling her eyes just thinking about her patients.

Resop works in the infusion area at the Kraemer Cancer Center at St.

Joseph's Hospital in West Bend. The infusion room has 15 chairs, with some in private rooms and others in a larger communal room.

Typically, Resop will care for four to six patients in a day. Each patient usually comes in and has blood work drawn before seeing the doctor to review how things are going. Then the patient typically comes into the infusion room, where chemotherapy is administered intravenously. Depending on the case, infusion can take anywhere from one to eight hours.

Some patients come alone. Some come with family. Some have people filter in and out during treatment.

"So you get to develop relationships with them and their families," Resop said. "We have really gotten to know each other. We share stories, so I get to know what's going on with their families and they know what's going on with mine."

Some of the patients Resop has had since she first started working in oncology. A number of them followed with Resop to the new Kraemer Cancer Center when it was built at St. Joseph's Hospital in West Bend in 2012.

"It's a very rewarding job. I think they give me more than I give them sometimes," she said.

Life Connections

"Cancer has become a chronic illness. People live with it. It's not a death sentence," Resop said.

Because of that, it is nice to be able to give patients hope while they are being treated.

Still, Resop admits that working in oncology is not always easy. The most difficult part is when there is not any more that medicine can offer. Then Resop has difficult conversations with patients.

"What are your goals?" she will ask them.

Sometimes the patient will just want to make it to a son's wedding.

"So you do that and you see that they are fulfilled with that. Then they are in a place where they are like OK, I don't have to try so hard anymore," Resop said. "It is quality of life versus quantity of life, and trying to respect the patient's wishes."

Although difficult, those conversations can be life-changing for nurses.

"There is something about being there for people when the end of life is staring them straight in the face," Herriges said. "It puts your whole life, and your priorities, in perspective."

The nurses find a way to cope with the difficult situations.

"I rely heavily on my faith, and so that sees me through a lot of things," Resop said. "And I have a wonderful husband who he knows that he doesn't need to fix anything if I just say I had a rough day at work."

The staff members lean on one another.

"We are a good support group for each other. There are days that you are just like we have to debrief after what happened here today. So I just can't say enough about the team that works here. It's just a great group," Resop said.

Still, good days outweigh the bad.

"There are enough good stories and success stories that it helps during those really difficult times," she said.

For example, there are two women who were pregnant when they started chemotherapy treatment. The two patients received chemotherapy for a while, then completed their pregnancies. They then returned after they had their babies, Resop said.

"Now we get to see the babies, and the babies are healthy and they are happy. You get to see the full circle of that, and so that is exciting," she said.

Seeing those positive things helps patients draw strength from one another.

"A lot of times people prefer to be in the communal room while they get their treatments, and they converse. So they get to be each other's friends," Resop said.

And the oncology staff offers more than just treatment for the patients.

"You are like my second family. You are my home away from home," many of them tell Resop and the other oncology nurses.

Krueger Using Alternative Methods To Help Fight Cancer Battle

By Andrea Hansen Abler

Karlene Krueger's 2016 Christmas wasn't quite what she had planned. On December 27, 2016, the Campbellsport area resident was diagnosed with stage four breast cancer.

Krueger's youngest child, John, was just a year old. She knew something was wrong so Krueger talked to her doctor and she had a mammogram.

"At first they thought it was a plugged duct," Krueger said. "They did a biopsy and that's how we found out."

Once she received the diagnoses, Krueger wanted to learn all she could to help her decide how to move forward with her treatment.

"I had to do a lot of research," she said. "My sister-in-law Jen has been really helpful."

It was suggested to Krueger that she try some of the alternative treatments to help her with this battle. "The longer I can stay away from chemo, the better," she said.

Right away, the doctor started Krueger on targeted therapy. She takes Letrozol and Ibrance every day to help stop the cell growth. "They're stopping the estrogen in me," Krueger said.

Then on June 27th, she had a double mastectomy.

In addition to these normal treatments, Krueger changed her lifestyle. She has gone more natural and has added shakeology and oils to her diet and treatment plan.

"I do a clean eating diet," she said. "I don't eat a lot of beef or pork anymore."

She mostly eats fish and vegetables. This is quite a change for the avid agriculture enthusiast who lives on a swine farm in the Town of Ashford.

Krueger grew up through the FFA organization in Marshfield, showing animals at fairs and other dairy competitions. She made history through the National FFA Organization when, in 2002, she was the first female to be named American Star Farmer. This honor then led to the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History asking her to donate her blue corduroy FFA jacket to their new exhibit about FFA history.

Today, she still helps raise the purebred Duroc, Hampshire and Spotted hogs on her farm along with the other animals on their farm. But, she is more particular about which types of food she uses to fuel her body.

Every morning, Krueger starts her day with a shake from Shakeology by Beach Body. The rest of the day could include another shake or two and healthy vegetables and fish.

"It's learning to balance your diet and I limit my sugar," Krueger said.

She explained that cancer cells feed on sugar, so she has cut most of the sugar out of her diet.

Another thing she has been using are special oils. "I do essential oils and I am on cannabis oil," Krueger said. "I think that makes things as good as they are right now. The frankincense oil is the big one I use. If I start to feel any swelling, I put on peppermint oils."

Krueger has many different essential oils that she uses. She either ingests them or puts them on her body and uses them in diffusers throughout the house.

"A lot of it was not recommended by my doctor (oncologist)," Krueger admitted. "I started on the clean eating and oils because of my sister-in-law. My oncologist is pretty optimistic."

She also uses all-natural cleaning products in her house now. This helps with the clean-living part of her treatment.

Every little bit she can do, Krueger does to help her stay strong. She talks with others who have gone through or are going through the same thing. Her goal is to fight as hard as she can and keep as many years as she can.

"I've met a few people who have had stage four for more than 10 years," Krueger said.

She knew on December 27, 2016, she wasn't just going to this win, she was going to fight as hard as she could. Krueger told her doctor that she had a one-year-old son, two girls (McKinley and Brooklyn) and a husband (Scott) at home who needed her.

"I said (to the doctor) there's always something we can do," Krueger said. "A big part of it is your attitude."

In addition to her attitude, is the wonderful support Krueger has been getting. Her family, friends and even strangers have rallied behind her to help in this fight.

"I couldn't ask for a better husband," Krueger said. "He has been awesome. The community support has been overwhelming. It just blows my mind."

A breakfast benefit for the Krueger family was held this past spring. It was put on by her FFA family here in Campbellsport.

"There were so many people there that day," Krueger said. "It took us 45 minutes to get from one end of the cafeteria to the other."

In May, the Main Street Philanthropy class that was held at Campbellsport High School raised money for the Krueger family. The Campbellsport 4-H Club, of which Krueger is the leader, donated the profits from their Ice Cream Social raffles to Krueger and her family.

So far so good for Krueger. She plans to continue with the clean eating and clean living and the essential oils. It has been helping her a lot so far in her battle.

"We just take it one day at a time," Krueger said. "My aunt said to me, 'as long as you are here, that's all that matters.'"

Cancer Terms To Know

A cancer diagnosis is often shocking. Once the shock begins to wane and patients and their families start examining their treatment options, it's easy to grow confused by the terminology physicians and their staffs use.

The following are some common cancer terms, courtesy of the American Cancer Society and Cancer.net, to help lessen confusion and ensure cancer patients and their families are as informed as possible.

•Ablation: Ablation, or ablative therapy, is treatment that removes or destroys all or part of a cancer. Ablation may also refer to removing or stopping the function of an organ, such as when ovaries are removed to prevent them from making hormones.

•Adhesions: Adhesions are scar tissues that form after surgery or injury. If this scar tissue tightens, it can bind together organs that would normally be separate.

•Alopecia: Alopecia is hair loss that, in instances where cancer is present and being treated, can result from chemotherapy or radiation therapy treatments.

•Bilateral: When cancer is bilateral, it is present on both sides of the body. This term may be used to describe the presence of breast cancer in both breasts.

•Biopsy: A biopsy is the removal of a small amount of tissue for examination under a microscope to determine if cancer is present.

•Bone marrow: Bone marrow is soft tissue found in the center of large bones where blood cells are formed.

•Cancer cell: A cancer cell is one that divides and reproduces abnormally and is capable of spreading throughout the body.

•Carcinogen: Any substance that causes cancer or helps it to grow. Tobacco smoke is loaded with carcinogens.

•Carcinoma: Cancer that begins in the lining layer of organs. The ACS notes that 80 percent of all cancers are carcinomas.

•Chemotherapy: A form of cancer treatment that employs drugs to kill cancer cells.

•Five-year survival rate: The percentage of people with a particular cancer who are alive five years or longer after diagnosis. Five-year survival rates generally improve the earlier the cancer is detected.

•Hemoglobin: The part of a red blood cell that carries oxygen and is often measured in complete blood count. That count can get very low in people who have cancer.

•In situ: In situ refers to cancer that has not spread from its point of origin to nearby tissue.

•Invasive cancer: Contrary to cancer described as "in situ," cancer described as "invasive" has spread outside the layer of tissue in which it started and can potentially spread to other parts of the body.

•K-ras: A gene that can mutate into a cancer accelerator and allow colorectal cancer to grow.

•Lobules: The milk-producing glands in a woman's breasts.

•Metastasize: The spread of cancer cells to one or more sites elsewhere in the body, often via the lymph system or bloodstream.

•Oncologist: A doctor who specializes in treating patients with cancer. There are various types of oncologists, including surgical oncologists and pediatric oncologists.

•Precancerous: Cells described as "precancerous" have the potential to become cancerous.

•Sarcoma: Cancer that develops in the tissues that support and connect the body, including fat and muscle.

•Stage: A way to describe cancer that may refer to its location, where it has spread and whether or not it is affecting the function of other organs in the body.

Wisnepske Cards A 93, Golf Season Ends For Kew-Cats

By Judy Harlow

Coach Amy Uhlig knew her combined Kewaskum-Campbellsport girls golf team would be facing an uphill battle in the WIAA Division-1 sectional with the likes of defending state champion Arrowhead and Homestead in the field.

While the Kew-Cats finished quite a ways behind the eventual leaders, Arrowhead was the winner with a 309 and Kaukauna captured the other state berth, finishing ahead of Homestead. They did break 400 as a team with a 399 and finished ahead of the combined Sheboygan North/South team which has a much larger enrollment.

"Our goal going into the meet was to beat our team score from regionals (397). We came up just short, but I was really pleased with our effort in that wind. It was about a 2-club wind that day, which required a lot of adjustments on each shot," Uhlig said about the effort on the Rolling Meadows Golf Course. "I thought making it to sectionals was a really great experience for the girls. It's been approximately seven or eight years since the last time we made it that far as a team."

Alivia Wisnepske, a senior from Campbellsport, finished her career on a high note, shooting a 43-50—93 good for a tie for 22nd overall. Wisnepske played beautifully on the front nine with three 4s, five 5s and just one six, which came on the par 4, second hole.

On the back nine, she had had one 7 and a nine on Number 17 that kept her from breaking 90.

Sophomore Alyssa Dreher was a bit off her normal game on this day, starting with a 48 and coming back with a 50 for a 98, to finish in the 34th spot overall.

The other two counters for the Kew-Cats were junior Ashley Trapp and senior Taylor Cook, who shot 52-49—101 and 51-56—107, respectively. Trapp again was very consistent with her nine hole scores, and her 49 was low for the team on the back nine. Cook played Number 1 for much of the season, then didn't count for the Kew-Cats in the regional, the North Shore Tournament or the Hartford Invitational.

Grace Kober's 110 was the non-counting score.

"I was happy that Taylor and Alivia could wrap up their high school careers by competing at this level," Uhlig said. "I'm very proud of the impact that our seniors had on the program. They are great leaders."

Fond du Lac Sectional scores: 1. Arrowhead, 309; 2. Kaukauna, 341; 3. Homestead, 349; 4. Cedarburg, 359; 5. Oshkosh West, 372; 6. Hartford Union, 373; 7. Kewaskum/Campbellsport, 399; 8. Sheboygan North/South, 402.

Powerhouse Tennis Teams Are Too Strong For Indians And Others

By Judy Harlow

To say the private schools dominated the Division-2 Brown Deer Tennis Tournament held at the Pleasant Valley Tennis Club on October 2 would be an understatement.

University School of Milwaukee advanced all four singles players and its three doubles teams to the sectional test, while Brookfield Academy advances three in singles and two in doubles, scoring 24 and 20 points, respectively.

The Kewaskum girls gave good efforts at most all of the seven positions but were unable to win a match as their season came to an end.

"The results were not what one would want, but they do not diminish the accomplishments we achieved this year," KHS coach Peter Garcia said. "The Brown Deer Sub-sectional was dominated by schools with historically strong tennis programs.

One of the top efforts came at Number 4 singles were Megan Krolski pushed University Schools' Number 1 seed, to the limit before losing 4-6, 5-7. "That girl had a 13-2 record," Garcia said, noting Krolski, only a sophomore, "was just phenomenal. She's unflappable."

Looking at the records of the two, Garcia said, "What everyone expected was another quick exit for a Kewaskum entry. What they witnessed however, was a remarkable effort by a young lady. Megan in her quiet way just played a strong baseline game and extended every point and every game."

Garcia said afterward he told Krolski, "Megan, Coach could not be more proud of you."

At Number 1 singles, there were six girls with winning records, and Grace Marchello drew Dominican's Alesandra Dujmic (10-8) in the first round. Marchello gave her usual solid effort but fell 3-6, 2-6 to end her year at 8-11 against the best players of the opposing teams.

At Number 2, Emma Preder played Megan Hand of Sheboygan Falls (11-4). The two had many long volleys but Preder struggled with unforced errors and lost 0-6, 0-6.

"The score did not reflect her effort as is often the case in tennis," Garcia said.

At Number 3 singles, Amanda Krolski was beaten by Erin Pellegrino, the Number 3 seed from Kohler. The score was 0-6, 1-6.

In doubles Number 1, Brandi Geldnich and Ariahna Grossenbacher went down fighting in their final high school match, dropping a match to Celia Buchband and Leah Schneck of University School. After losing the first set 1-6, the girls switched strategies and had their opponents frustrated.

Garcia said, "I suggested that they switch to a strategy where they mixed up their usual strokes with those that could best be described as "bloopers". This strategy is based on the idea that good players are used to receiving and returning hard hit topspin shots. Consequently, when given a dose of these bloopers they tend to overhit the return in an attempt to just hit winners."

The KHS duo led 4-3 before the Wildcats regained their composure and won 6-4. Garcia praised the grit of his two girls while voicing disappointment with the USM coach who, he said, displayed some bad sportsmanship during the match.

At Number 2 doubles, Sydney Donath and Kallie Hoefft were no match for their Shorewood foes, losing 1-6, 0-6, and at Number 3 Nikki Bruss and Nicole Brzozowski got a bye in the first round, then drew Number 1 seeded USM and "gave a great effort" but lost 0-6, 2-6.

Brown Deer Sub-sectional Team scores: 1. University School of Milwaukee, 24 points; 2. Brookfield Academy, 20; 3. Kohler, 18; 4. Shorewood, 8; 5. Kiel, 4; 6. Sheboygan Falls, 2; 7. (tie) Kewaskum, Dominican, Brown Deer, 0.

"Packed Up" for Minnesota

By Wayne Sargent

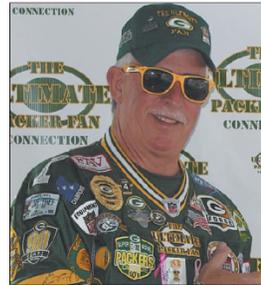

The Green Bay Packers (4-1) are coming off another terrific finish by Aaron Rodgers and Davonte Adams.

The Packers entered AT&T Stadium as the underdogs and came back from an embarrassing 21-6 lead going into the second half, beating the favored Dallas Cowboys (2-3) by a score of 35-31. The Pack started rookie running back Aaron Jones due to the injury of Ty Montgomery.

It seems like it has been forever since the Packers have had a solid threat of a great running game, but now with the addition of the promising young rookie Aaron Jones, it could be true. Jones proved against the Cowboys that he has the agility, speed, and great receiving talent that lead to comparisons of Ahman Green. Jones ran for an unprecedented 19 carries for 125 yards scoring one touchdown.

Upon Montgomery's return, the Green Bay Packers should have a respectable running game. This will provide some much-needed breathing room for Aaron Rodgers and his great core of receivers.

Some thought this matchup against the Cowboys would end early on, only it was a fight to the final ticks on the clock. I don't know how many "rabbits" Aaron Rodgers has in his hat but he seems to find them against the Dallas Cowboys! How exciting was that pass from Aaron Rodgers to Davonte Adams with 16 seconds left? That, my friends, is why we all love our Green Bay Packers.

Sure, there are odds, team records, and season records; all which mean nothing come gameday between these two. These two teams are so unpredictable together on the gridiron. They both play hard and each come to win.

Next up: The Minnesota Vikings (3-2) will host the Packers on Sunday, October 15th. The Vikings, along with the Packers, are also struggling with injuries. The Vikings lost Sam Bradford early in the third quarter to what appeared to be a recurrence of a knee injury obtained earlier in the season. Last week they lost their rookie star running back, Dalvin Cook, to a season ending injury.

The Vikings challenged the Bears on Monday night football. The Bears started their new rookie quarterback, Mitchell Trubisky, while the Vikings started veteran Sam Bradford. In the first half, both teams struggled; going into halftime with a score of 3-2.

Case Keenum replaced Sam Bradford in the third quarter and threw for three touchdowns in the second half. The Bears tied the game at 17-17 but nearing the end of the fourth quarter Trubisky, in typical Bears quarterback fashion threw a pick in the final seconds of the fourth quarter setting up the Vikings to score the game winning field goal.

The Vikings are now tied for second place with the Detroit Lions in the NFC North Division trailing only the Packers, (4-1).

These two NFC rivals have met for a total of 113 times. Green Bay leads the series at 60-51-2. These rivals first met on October 22, 1961, the Packers won 33-7. The largest victory also belongs to the Packers from back in 2011 when the Pack won 45-7.

This weeks "Ultimate Packer Fan" prediction has the Packers winning big, 38-17.

Congratulations to this week's winner, James Mielkie!

James' name will be put in the drawing to win Packers tickets for next season.

Each week that the Packers play, the Campbellsport News and Kewaskum Statesman are holding an Ultimate Packer Fan Giveaway contest. There is no charge to enter. Several KHS Runners Shine In Cougar Invite

These were just a few of the comments made to Kewaskum High cross country runner Justin Reck after he won top individual honors in the annual Cougar Invitational held at Columbus Park on October 4.

After following North Fond du Lac/Oakfield's Diego Charbonneau for the majority of the race, Reck had enough steam left to surge into the lead and win by less than a second.

“I passed him probably 200 yards from the finish line,” a smiling Reck said after taking a minute to recover. “I saw him up there. I thought to myself ... I think I can get him.”

This was Reck's third invitational win this season. “(I'm) Much better than I was last year,” he said. “I put in a lot of work in the summer.”

The only goal Reck didn't reach at Campbellsport was dipping under 17 minutes. “No, I missed it by a little bit,” he said about his time of 17 minutes, 25.35 seconds (17:25.35), adding, “That's my next goal.”

“He had a great finish. He's getting a taste for winning,” KHS coach Kris Evans said. “It was good race discipline for him,” running in second and then turning it on for the last mile.

Sophomore Andrew Carlton also turned in a good effort for the Indians, placing third with a time of 17:46.19. With a good stride and steady pace, Carlton is having a nice year.

Reck and Carlton give the Indians a good 1-2 tandem, and Kyle Toth continues to run well in the Number 3 spot. “It was a good race for our other guys, too,” Evans said. “Toth was right there where we want him to be” and nearly dipped under 19:00 with his time of 19:06.75 for 30th place.

The other KHS counters included Blake Miller, 46th (20:19.89), and freshman Gannon Kreuser, 52nd in 20:44.84. “We had PRs (personal records) by Kreuser, Lance Grosskopf (20:44.84), and Bryce Halvorson (20:59.90),” Evans said.

Behind 2-6-13-17-22 finishes, North Fondy/Oakfield won the meet with 60 points, three in front of Manitowoc Lutheran. KHS placed fifth in the meet with 132 points.

Maela Olla was right up near the front of the girls' race, placing sixth with a time of 21:31.91, two places ahead of freshman teammate Alyssa Butz, who finished eighth at 21:47.38.

The home-schooler Olla was fairly well satisfied with her time. “It's not horrible, but I've had better times,” Olla said, adding the first hill on the course was a challenge. “It definitely made my mile time slower,” she said.

In the recent Kewaskum Invitational, Olla was a little off her usual effort. “I had a side ache,” she said. Things went much better in this race, and she's hoping that will continue. “I want to go under 21 minutes” this year.

While Evans lauded his 1-2 finishers, he said, “A standout performance came from Erika Bolek, who was my fifth runner but PRed by 1:30. This is her first year out for cross country. Her first race she ran 30 minutes, and today she ran 26 (26:07.80),” he said. “Usually I give the runners high-fives at the end of the race. I gave her two of them because she became a runner today.”

The other KHS counters were Courtney Zarda, 34th with 24:11.91; and Emma Penfield, 43rd, 24:56.68.

Winneconne won the girls' title with 45 points. KHS finished in the fourth spot with 141.

Indian Spikers Handle Berlin But Manage Just Two Wins In Lodi Test

By Judy Harlow

Oh, the distractions of homecoming and how they sometimes affect athletic events that take place during that week.

Kewaskum High volleyball coach Laine Leitzke figured his girls weren't totally focused on their home match October 4 against Berlin and pointed to the emotions of homecoming and Senior Night as reasons the Indians weren't as sharp as they have been in other matches. Still, they came away with the win, going 3-1 with scores of 25-23, 25-14, 15-25 and 25-16 over seventh place Berlin.

With the win, KHS improved to 4-2 in East Central action and 19-5 overall on the season.

“We had a hard time getting in rhythm tonight,” Leitzke said. “We got the win, which is what we needed to do, but it was rough tonight and we rebounded well after we let that third set get away from us.”

It was Senior Night at the net, that's for sure as the quartet of Amanda Schaller, Sarah Butschlick, Elizabeth Lightner and Morgan Kappler had 14, 14, 13 and 10 kills, respectively.

In the block department, Butschlick and Carolyn Stockhausen put down five each, while Kappler had 3.5 and Lightner added three.

Aces were hard to come by in this match. Butschlick had four, and the next high was two, from Brelynn Scoles. Butschlick rounded out her night with 25 assists, one behind team later, Morgan Denlinger, and she had 17 digs.

Specialist Hailey Hasenberg was far and away the leader in digs, with 38, as Butschlick, Tara Theusch and Scoles provided the team with 17, 16 and 15, respectively.

“It was nice resilience from our team,” Leitzke said. “We will need to be able to get going a lot quicker this weekend in Lodi. Homecoming week, Senior Night and a win; a lot of emotions tonight.”

Kewaskum's final EC match of the season will be played tonight (October 12) at Waupun, then the Indians travel to Winneconne October 14 for the EC Tournament.

EC standings: 1. Kettle

Moraine Lutheran, 6-0; 2. Winneconne, 5-1; 3. Kewaskum, 4-2; 4. Plymouth, 3-2; 5. Campbellsport, 2-4; 6. Ripon, 1-3; 7. Berlin, 1-6; Waupun, 0-5.

In the Lodi Tournament on October 7, KHS (21-8) finished 2-3, defeating Madison LaFollette 25-23 and 25-15 and Lodi, 26-24 and 25-17 while losing to Cuba City 16-25 and 17-25, to Platteville 10-25 and 17-25 and to Richland Center, 20-25, 25-20 and 3-15 in the finals of the Silver Division.

“We had an issue starting matches off,” coach Laine Leitzke said. “Every team in this tournament was ranked ahead of us on MaxPreps. When you come in as an underdog, you have to fight for every point and every touch. In the matches that we started behind, we made a charge, but good teams like these do not let you back in that easy.”

Leitzke went on, “Even against Lodi and LaFollette, we win 25-23 and 26-24 but had given each of them a six- and seven- point lead, respectively. I need to do a better job getting them out of these habits.”

Kill leaders on the day were Elizabeth Lightner, Sarah Butschlick and Amanda Schaller with 21, 20 and 17, respectively, while Sara Butschlick contributed seven aces, and Lightner, Butschlick and Carolyn Stockhausen came up with 3.5, 3.0 and 2.5 blocks.

Butschlick led the Indians in assists with 41, while Morgan Denlinger added 29, and Hailey Hasenberg were the top diggers with 51 and 26.

“In the Silver Championship, we lost Scoles to a hard impact with the bleachers. Other players stepped up, but we lost focus and fell in the first set. We were able to gather ourselves and get the second set. In the third though, the emotion of the match overtook us and combined with a slow start, it doomed us,” Leitzke said.

Eighth Grade Gridiron West Bend West 24, Kewaskum 12

Eighth grade played a hard-fought game against the West Bend West Spartans. It was a scoreless first quarter. Kewaskum got on the board with a quarterback sneak by Matt Buechel. West Bend lead at the half 16-6. Kewaskum had many chances, but dropped passes stalled the offense. With the help of hard running by Max Melzer, Miles Surprenant was able to score on a 15 yard touchdown pass. On the defensive side, Zach Steinhaus had a sack, and Avery Donovan had many tackles for losses. The final score was West Bend West 24-Kewaskum 12.

Seventh Grade Gridiron West Bend West 47, Indians 6

Another tough day for the seventh grade as they lost 47-6. On the up-side, Carson Rolf caught a touchdown pass from Owen Parrish, Dillan Steger had 35 yard run, and Bradyn Donath had a 25-yard run. On defense, Ryan Cook had an interception and the defense held the Spartans on a couple of goal-line stances.

Sixth Grade Gridiron West Bend West 27, Indians 13

The sixth grade Indians started slow, but gained steam by the end of the game, but just could not pull out a win. They lost 27-13. Two big runs of 53 and 62-yards for touchdowns by Dyan Soyk were their two scores for the day. Great defense by Nicolas Deheck and Ashton Poppy kept the score close for most of the game. One big accomplishment for the team today was they are the only team that has scored on this West Bend team all season.

Fifth Grade Gridiron West Bend West 27, Indians 20

Close, but not enough was theme of the fifth grade game. Turnovers and penalties again plagued the team. Landon Daniel had touchdown runs of 35, 60, and 63 yards. On the defensive side, Corbin Dexter had another fine day, and Nathan Vlotho had a nice sack. David Zillmer also had a great day on defense with an interception and a deflected pass. The final score was 27-20 West Bend West winning.

This Saturday the Gridiron Indians will be playing in Saukville for the last game of our regular season.

In the end Thunder couldn't beat Thunder and the game ended in a 4-4 tie making the Kewaskum record 3-0-2.

from a corner kick from Gavin Schneider. Oliver Haydin was a pleasant surprise on offense contributing two goals from the left winger position. Nick Paul and Timmy Hafemann rounded out the scoring with one goal a piece. With 5-0-0 record so far and improving each week the U12 Aztecs are proving to be a force to be reckoned with.

U10 Kewaskum Twisters 4, Richfield Rush 4

Keep playing hard Cyclones.

U12 Warriors 7, Richfield Heat 1

U 12 girl Warriors beat Richfield Heat 7-1. Great defense was played by Brynn Bartel and Alexis Klahn. Lots of hustle and teamwork of passing the ball to help the Warriors score. Goals were scored by: Jadin Czuppa-3, Brooke Gruen-2, Ally Heipp-1 and Emma Schultz-1.

Leah Wilde Wins NACC Women's Golf Championship

Leah Wilde, a Kewaskum High School alum, recently won the Northern Athletics Collegiate Conference Women's Golf Championship at Concordia University Wisconsin. She was the medalist and a part of the team title.

Concordia Wisconsin saved its best golf for the final round, overcoming an eight-shot deficit to win the Northern Athletics Collegiate Conference Championship by 10 strokes on October 8 at Meadowbrook Country Club in Mount Pleasant.

In addition, sophomore Leah Wilde (Kewaskum) won the NACC Championship medalist honors after shooting a 54-hole total of 257. She entered the final round trailing teammate Maddy Zastrow (senior, Greendale, Wis.) by a stroke and ended the tournament with a four-hole stretch of golf in two-over par to come from behind to win.

The Basics

Course: Meadowbrook Country Club (par 71, 5,829 yards)
Team Leaderboard: first of 7 (368-358-351 - 1,077)
Falcon Individuals: Leah Wilde 257 (86-85-86 - 257), Maddy Zastrow (85-85-88 - 258), Molly Munding (97-99-86 - 282), Kayla Haen (108-89-91 - 288), Amy Carpenter (100-105-107 - 312)

How It Happened

Concordia Wisconsin trailed by eight strokes after the opening round of play and couldn't make up any ground on Aurora after the second 18 holes were concluded. However, Sunday was a different story as they counted four scores of 91 or lower to turn that deficit into a 10-shot victory.

The NACC Championship is the fifth in program history and first since 2013. They previously won league titles in 2013, 2012, 2010 and 2009. It also ended a stretch of three-consecutive championships won by Aurora.

Wilde found herself two shots off the top spot on the leaderboard at the turn, after shooting a 43, while Zastrow had 41 strokes. She made up ground on the 11th hole with a par, but gave those strokes back with a double on the par 4 14th. The sophomore regrouped and drained par putts on 15 and 17, to go along with bogeys on 16 and 18 to win medalist honors by a shot.

Wilde, Zastrow and freshman Molly Munding (West Bend, Wis.) all finished in the top-10 to earn All-NACC accolades.

Munding charged up the leaderboard with an 86 to tie for 10th place. She had five pars during the final round of action.

Junior Kayla Haen (Appleton, Wis.) fired a final round 91, which was the fourth scored counted, to help the Falcons win. She had a birdie, two pars and nine bogeys in the final round.

Freshman Amy Carpenter (Elk Grove Village, Ill.) finished in 20th overall with a 312 total score (100-105-107), which included three pars and 19 bogeys throughout the 54-hole event.

Head coach Greg Nikolai was named NACC Coach of the Year after coaching the team to the first title under his leadership.

Beyond The Results

The Falcons 351 total in the third round is the seventh lowest total in program history. As well, their 54-hole total of 1,077 is the second best ever.

Wilde's 257 total over the three-day event is the fourth-best in program history, while Zastrow's 258 strokes is the fifth best.

Wilde became the fourth golfer in program history to capture NACC Championship medalist honors.

Concordia Wisconsin had the most pars (60) and birdies (six) of any team in the tournament.

Wilde led all players in par 3 scoring average (3.53) and par 5 scoring average (5.33). She also had the most pars (21) and was tied for first with two birdies.

Zastrow sank 15 pars and two birdies, while averaging 4.93 on par 4s and 5.58 on par 5s - both ranked second.

Next On The Schedule

The Falcons will take some time to enjoy their title before starting to prepare for the spring portion of their season.

Schlosser Medalist At Conference Championship

Former Kewaskum High School athlete Sam Schlosser posted the lowest individual score at the Northern Athletic Collegiate Conference Tournament at Whistling Straits on Sunday, Oct. 8, and Monday, Oct. 9. He finished with the best two day total (147) while playing "The Irish" Course in Kohler.

His KHS teammate at Concordia, who was the conference medalist last spring, finished tied for 22nd with a 166 total. Concordia placed fourth overall in the Fall NACC Championship.

Schlosser, who has struggled throughout the fall season to break 80, found his game in time to record a one-under-par 71 on Sunday to lead all NACC golfers by at least two strokes. Unfortunately, Andrew Otto endured several penalties while recording a first round 86 score.

Schlosser, a sophomore at C.U.W. went out in Even Par on the Front Nine on Monday to extend his lead before he concluded with a 40 on his last nine for a 76 total. Otto posted back-to-back 40s to conclude his season with an 80.

Both former Kewaskum grads will continue their golf season in the spring when they play the second half (two more rounds) of their NACC Tournament in late April of 2018. Their ultimate goal is to qualify for the NCAA Division Three Men's Golf Championships. For more results go to their college website, www.cuw.edu.

Meet the spineless wonders at this year's Halloween Nature Hikes at the Kettle Moraine State Forest - Northern Unit.

The Enthused Naturalist waits to greet you as you begin your extraordinary evening adventure on Friday, Oct. 20, or Saturday, Oct. 21, from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. A menagerie of costumed characters including the stealthy praying mantis, the Duo of Darkness, mighty dragonfly, and bumbling black bottle fly awaits you and your friends as you stroll through the dark autumn woods.

The hikes take place at the Mauthe Lake recreation area, located off County Road GGG south of County Road SS near New Prospect (approximately 20 miles north of West Bend and 20 miles south of Fond du Lac).

Guided groups leave every six minutes with the last one going out at 8:30

Before or after the hikes, play exciting games and create clever crafts. The Friends of the Kettle Moraine provide free apple cider and popcorn for all the hikers to enjoy by a roaring campfire.

A Wisconsin State Park System vehicle admission sticker is required. A resident daily sticker is $8 per car. If you already have your park sticker, the event is free, but donations are always gratefully accepted.

"These cameras supplement our mobile audio and video cameras already in our police vehicles. We have been using cameras in our police vehicles for well over 15 years and they provide a wealth of information and aid our department in court proceedings and prosecutions, as well as personnel complaints and employee performance review," Bishop said at last week's hearing.

"Body cameras will enhance this even more, allowing judges and juries to see what has been, up to this point, unavailable to be seen with traditional fix mounted vehicle camera systems," Bishop added.

However, this bill would keep some places private.

"People's homes are also important to keep private from outsiders with ill intent. For example -- The nosy neighbor next door. Or someone with criminal intent who wants to see what valuables you may have inside your home. Or even a stalker, who police are unaware of -- they just need to fill out an open records form and now they now have video footage inside your home," Bishop said.

Other police from Wisconsin also spoke at last week's hearing in support of the bill.

Dane County Sheriff Dave Mahoney said that he was so concerned about protecting the privacy of people captured on body cameras that he chose to not equip his 400 officers with the cameras.

Kremer said that the goal was to protect the privacy of people captured on police body camera footage and to set statewide guidelines for law enforcement agencies.

However, some advocates for open records are opposed to the bill.

"The primary reason police officers are given body cameras is to increase accountability and public confidence in their actions, and the bill is contrary to those goals," said Bill Lueders, the president of the Wisconsin Freedom of Information Council.

The bill would require people in a private location to sign a release in before any video could be made public. Lueders said that could be difficult, if not impossible, if there were dozens of more people involved.

The bill would not require police departments to use body cameras.

Thirty other states have laws related to police body cameras. Of those, 18 address how data captured on the cameras are addressed under open records laws, according to the National Conference of State Legislatures. Under the Wisconsin proposal, all footage taken from a police body camera would be exempt from the open records law except for video involving injuries, deaths, arrests and searches.

But if footage was taken in a place where someone has a reasonable expectation of privacy, such as a home, police would have to first seek permission from any victims, witnesses and property owners before the video could be released to the public. If they don't receive approval, police could still release the footage if they determine it's in the public interest to do so.

The bill has not yet been voted on in committee.
