Kewaskum Police Department Offers Safe Exchange Zone

By Anne Trautner

So, you bought or sold something to a stranger online, and now you are looking for a safe place to complete the transaction?

The Kewaskum Police Department now has a "Safe Exchange Zone" in front of the department building, located at 204 First St. in Kewaskum. The space is available for anyone to use.

A sign has been put up in front of the building, designating a safe place to complete transactions. A video camera is there recording at all times.

"Also, during business hours, feel free to use the Police Department lobby, as it is video and audio recorded as well," Police Chief Tom Bishop said.

When buying or selling items online, it is recommended to always meet the buyer or seller in a public place. It is also a good idea to bring a friend or family member with you. Always take your cell phone along with you and tell someone where you are going before meeting a buyer or seller.

To avoid being scammed, never give out any personal or financial information. Always deal in cash or use a secured form of payment such as PayPal so you don't reveal your credit information.

This sign is located in front of the Kewaskum Police Department. It designates a safe place to meet someone. The area is video recorded at all times.

Golfing For A Cause

– Cancer Survivor Golfs 135 Holes To Raise Funds For Cancer Research

By Anne Trautner

Josh Stangl golfed 135 holes at Hon-E-Kor Golf Club in Kewaskum on Tuesday, July 3.

Through the event, the 35-year-old cancer survivor raised about $2,800 to support cancer research at the University of Wisconsin Carbone Cancer Center.

The organization had helped him fight Stage 4 tongue cancer, and Stangl has been using his passion for golf as a way to give back. Stangl has completed a marathon round of golf each year, ever since his cancer diagnosis five years ago.

His golf marathons have raised a total of nearly $30,000 for cancer research.

This year's total of 135 holes was significant.

It marked five years since he was diagnosed. And on Sunday, July 8, the five-year anniversary of Stangl's surgery, he met a new milestone.

"This is a big one, five years," Stangl said. "Five years is when they consider me cured."

So on Sunday, July 8, Stangl went from being cancer-free to cured.

Fighting Cancer

In 2008, during a routine checkup, the dentist found some white spots on Stangl's tongue.

Stangl was referred to an oral surgeon to have a biopsy done. The cells that were removed were identified as precancerous.

A couple years later, in 2010, the spots resurfaced. Again, the spots were found to be benign.

Then, in May 2013, while on vacation with some friends, Stangl noticed that his tongue did not feel quite right.

Stangl could feel a firm bump beneath the tissue, and he saw some pink on the edge of it. He knew something was terribly wrong.

So Stangl made an appointment with his ear, nose and throat doctor, whom he had been seeing routinely every three to six months for checkups.

Once again, biopsies were taken, and in June 2013 Stangl, at the age of 30, was diagnosed with an aggressive form of Squamous-cell carcinoma of the oral cavity.

Because some of the tumor tissue started to make its way into muscles outside of Stangl's tongue, it was considered Stage 4.

Stangl, who is originally from Kewaskum, did not smoke or chew tobacco, and drank only in moderation. Doctors could not find a cause for the cancer.

Kewaskum Police Department Enforces Speed Limit

By Anne Trautner

The Kewaskum Police Department has created speed enforcement zones on Edgewood Road and Knights Avenue where “25 means 25.”

The section of Edgewood Road between Jefferson Drive and Knights Avenue, as well as Knights Avenue between Fond du Lac Avenue and Edgewood Road, are now considered “residential enforcement zones.”

Signs have been posted on the two streets to alert drivers of the new policy.

“Our officers will conduct increased speed enforcement in these areas and will conduct traffic stops and issue citations at a lower threshold than normal,” Kewaskum Police Chief Tom Bishop said.

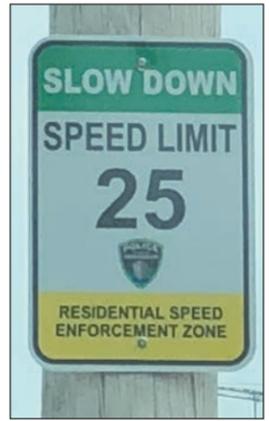

The focused enforcement has been added for a couple reasons.

“We experience a lot of complaints of speed violations in the area, and with the new black-top on Edgewood Road, I assume this issue will continue or increase without further intervention,” Bishop said.

Additionally, a lot of children live along Knights Avenue and Edgewood Road, so the added enforcement is intended to keep them safe. Also, Kiwanis Park is located in that area. The park brings a lot of pedestrian and vehicular traffic to the neighborhood.

“Our department always wants drivers to slow down, especially in residential neighborhoods. This is a concentrated effort to make sure drivers understand the speed limit is 25, and 25 means 25,” Bishop said.

Kewaskum Area Chamber Of Commerce To Hold Golf Outing

By Anne Trautner

The Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual community golf outing at Hon-E-Kor Golf Course, 1141 Riverview Drive in Kewaskum, on Saturday, July 21.

The event has a country western theme. Costumes are not required, but golfers are invited to dress up in their best cowboy boots, overalls and hats as they go through the course, playing fun games at the different holes.

"This is always a fun event," said Kate Mueller, who works at Hon-E-Kor and has helped plan past golf outings. "We love changing up the theme year to year."

Mueller is working with Joel Lawien of the Great Outdoors Supper Club to plan this year's event.

"Joel has done a tremendous job. He has a lot of great and new ideas that we are adding to this year's outing," Mueller said.

Games will be held throughout the tournament. For example, at one hole, players will use a golf ball launcher to tee off.

The more serious golfers can choose to golf 18 holes with more traditional games, such as prizes for those who hit the ball closest to the pin.

The tournament is an opportunity to network with business peers, as participants rub elbows and talk mulligans with decision makers in the Kewaskum area.

All proceeds from the event will go toward community projects.

It is not too late to join in the fun and help the community in the process. Many volunteers are needed to help make the event a success, so anyone who is willing to work on July 21 is welcome.

Hole sponsors are still being accepted. The cost to sponsor a hole is $100, or just $50 for those who volunteer to work the hole.

"It is a great idea for hole sponsors to come out and work the event that day. It really helps their business, plus it's a ton of fun," Mueller said.

Businesses are also encouraged to make an appetizer or donate a raffle prize.

The outing is a four-person scramble (men women or mixed). Registration/lunch will be held from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., followed by a shot gun start at 1 p.m. Cash bar and appetizers will be at 5:30 p.m. and the steak dinner begins at 6:30 p.m.

New this year will be a pre-golf games, a buffet dinner, late-night snacks at 10 p.m., a DJ and line dancing.

The cost to golf is $95 per person, or $65 for Hon-E-Kor members. The fee covers lunch, 18 holes with cart, course events, appetizers, two drink tickets, buffet dinner and pre-golf games.

Those who do not want to golf can enjoy the buffet dinner and raffles for $35 a person.

To register, stop by Hon-E-Kor or visit the chamber website at kewaskum.org.

Check out the Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce Facebook page for more information on the event. For more information about volunteering or participating in the tournament, call Kate at 262-689-0990 or Joel at 262-309-4511.

WASHINGTON COUNTY SHERIFF'S REPORT

Town of Barton House Fire

On Tuesday, July 3, at approximately 4:30 p.m., the Washington County Sheriff's Office was notified of a house on fire in the 4000 Block of Edelweiss Lane in the Township of Barton. Deputies and firefighters from the West Bend Fire Department were subsequently dispatched to the scene. Assistance was also requested from Newburg, Kewaskum, Jackson, Fillmore, Allenton and Kohlsville fire departments.

The first arriving deputy observed smoke emanating from the soffits. That deputy did enter the residence briefly to try and locate a family pet. Firefighters were able to bring the fire under control, but the interior of the residence sustained extensive damage. No one was injured as no one was home at the time, but two family dogs perished in the fire. It is estimated that the home sustained $100,000 in damage.

Edelweiss Lane was closed for approximately 2.5 hours to facilitate firefighting operations. The matter remains Sheriff's deputies, Slinger police and rescue personnel from Lifestar Ambulance were subsequently dispatched to the scene.

An on-scene investigation revealed the following: A mini-van operated by an 18-year-old male was northbound on U.S. Highway 41 south of County Highway K. Second Installment Of 2017 Property Taxes Due July 31

The Washington County treasurer would like to remind taxpayers that their postponed/second installment 2017 property taxes are due on or before July 31.

If you are paying by check, please make sure that the numeric and the written portions of the check are the same and that your check is signed otherwise the check will be returned, and this could result in interest and penalty charges, if postmarked after the due date. Post-dated checks will not be held and will be processed the day that they are received.

Checks should be mailed to the Washington County Treasurer, P.O. Box 1986, West Bend, Wisconsin, 53095. If you require a receipt, please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The county treasurer encourages mailing your property tax payments early and not waiting until the last week of July. Mailing your payment early helps make sure that the U.S. Postal Service postmark is timely and provides greater opportunity to correct errors before the deadline.

"The cost of missing the July 31 deadline is severe. Under state law, interest and penalty charges are 1.5 percent per month back to February 1, (10.5 percent in August for 2017 taxes) and continue to accrue until the taxes are paid in full. So, it is imperative to pay property taxes on time to avoid delinquent charges," Washington County Treasurer Jane Merten said.

Property taxes can also be paid online using a credit card or electronic check through Point & Pay. Please visit www.co.washington.wi.us, click on Departments, then County Treasurer, and Pay Real Estate Taxes Online. You will need your tax parcel number as well as the amount due. Please be advised that Point & Pay will charge a convenience fee of 2.39 percent of the amount for this service.

The Washington County treasurer's office hours are Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The office can be reached at 262-335-4324.

Homegrown Music Fest Brings Local Music to Regner Park

By Mitchell Bradley Keller

Nearly 1,000 people showed up at Regner Park on July 8th to celebrate Wisconsin musicians during the annual Homegrown Music Festival.

The festival, which started in 2015, serves as a showcase of local, original bands and musicians accompanied by the area's small businesses; from breweries and eateries to art galleries and sports supply stores.

Homegrown's mission statement is to bring "Wisconsin bands and singer-songwriters to an audience that rarely gets the opportunity to hear new, local musicians."

Previous artists to attend the festival include J.E. Sunde, Chicken Wire Empire, I'm Not a Pilot and Buffalo Gospel, and this year's lineup brought another heap-helping of homegrown talent to the Silver Lining Stage and grandstand.

The 2018 lineup showcased musicians from Appleton, LaCrosse, Madison, Milwaukee and Washington County, which could be enjoyed for a suggested donation of $10 for individuals or a special $20 family rate.

"The final financials won't be available until the end of the week," said Homegrown Music Festival founder and promoter, Michael Christian, "but we are anticipating making a nice contribution to the Washington County Historical Society from a portion of the proceeds."

Temperatures hovered in the mid-80s throughout the serene, cloudless day, but festival-goers took respite from the heat underneath shady trees and in the concession stands while enjoying the sounds of Driveway Thriftdwellers, Nickel &

Rose, Redshift Headlights, Faux Fawn, The Freques, Trapper Schoepp, and Them Coulee Boys. Some patrons even took to the Regner swimming hole to cool off, access to which was included in the family rate donation.

For the musicians, the afternoon was a perfect way to display their talents and connect with new fans in a not-so-far-away town.

"Festivals like Homegrown help foster community and bring people from all walks of life together," said performer Trapper Schoepp of Milwaukee, "Music is the glue, per se, and now, more than ever, it's important for people to come together and celebrate good weather, music and food. That's where Homegrown gets it right."

Providing some of that food and beverage was the West Bend Parks and Recreation Department with contributions from 3 Sheeps Brewery, Lakefront Brewery and The Fermentorium Brewery.

"Many positive comments including how wonderful the park is, how talented the musicians are, how perfect the weather was, and the nice mix of craft beer and great food," remarked Christian,

"Shout outs to West Bend Mutual, Steel Craft, Delta Defense, Shooting Star Travels, Homeward Bound Tattoo, Triple B Home Inspections, Greater Milwaukee Area Realtors, Time Investments CO., The West Bend Bombers Hockey Association, Tochi Ramen, and The City of West Bend Parks and Recreation Department."

With now four years of successful Homegrown Music Festivals under his belt, it will certainly be worth watching and listening to what Christian has in the docket for next year.

For Schoepp, West Bend is just one of many stops across the state as he plays his Bay Beach Amusement Park-themed "concept record" and newly-penned song "On, Wisconsin" (a co-authorship with Bob Dylan reviving Dylan's unused lyrics from the 1960s), and although he'll be everywhere from Wauwatosa to Minoqua when it comes to Homegrown: "It doesn't get much better than this!"

Kewaskum Statesman Makes Switch To Janesville Printer

By Karen Rouse

This edition of the Kewaskum Statesman is the second issue printed by Bliss Communications, publishers of The Gazette, in Janesville. The change was prompted by the current tariff on newsprint, causing prices to dramatically increase by more than 20 percent.

Andrew Johnson, publisher, said switching printing companies will help the local weekly newspaper continue to provide its timely delivery of news and events without raising costs to its readers.

Staff from the Kewaskum Statesman, The Campbellsport News and Dodge County Pionier, all published by Johnson, toured the Janesville printing facility on June 14 to see its two-story printing press in action and learn about its progressive processes.

The building housing the press was constructed in 2007. It operates 120 press runs per week producing 1.4 million copies, which are printed in 11-13 different languages.

The printing company employs approximately 100 people and operates 24-hours per day.

Staffers were informed printing of the Kewaskum Statesman would take approximately six minutes, approximately a third of the time it did before.

Because of the change, deadlines for advertisements and news submissions is now 2 p.m. on Monday, Newspapers will be delivered and in newsstands at the same time as before the switch.

Bliss Communications Vice President of Printing Operations Tony Smithson speaks to staff from the Dodge County Pionier, Kewaskum Statesman and Campbellsport News on June 14 about different types of newsprint the company uses. Most newsprint paper is created from hemlock and birch trees.

Matching Grant Available For High-Tech Small Businesses

UW-Extension's Center for Technology Commercialization (CTC) is offering a matching grant of up to $75,000 to provide additional assistance to companies in the process of completing a project in the federal Small Business Innovation Research (SBIR) or Small Business Technology Transfer (STTR) programs.

This is the 12th round of SBIR Advance funding dedicated by the Wisconsin Economic Development Corporation (WEDC) since SBIR Advance began in 2014.

"SBIR Advance allows business owners to take their companies and ideas to the next level, ultimately benefiting the Wisconsin economy," said Dr. Todd Strother, CTC Senior Technology consultant and SBIR Advance Program manager.

Deadlines are quickly approaching:

- Noon Aug. 2, 2018:

Brief Intent to Apply due, link found at <http://wisconsin.sbir.org/sbir-advance>

- Noon Aug. 16, 2018: Full application due, link found at <http://wisconsin.sbir.org/sbir-advance>

To be eligible, companies must have an SBIR/STTR project in either Phase I or Phase II of funding. All companies must be located in Wisconsin to be considered for the grant. Funds can be used for business and market development, customer validation, intellectual property work or other areas needed to speed product commercialization.

Applicants should also note these important dates:

- Aug. 31, 2018: Companies chosen for funding will be notified by this time.

- Sept. 3, 2018: Phase I Match awardees must be prepared to start the Lean Startup Program.

The course runs through December 13 and is administered by the CTC. It teaches companies how to incorporate their technologies into a validated business model and defines the best possible target markets. For more details on the SBIR Advance program, contact Strother at todd.strother@uwex.edu.

SBIR Advance is part of a Start-Seed-Scale (S3) initiative WEDC is pursuing with the help of the UW System and other business leaders throughout the state to remove barriers to high-tech commercialization. Under the S3 umbrella, WEDC and its economic development partners are implementing financial and operational assistance programs designed specifically to address Wisconsin's business startup and seed-funding challenges.

One such initiative — also a collaborative effort between WEDC and the UW System — is the Ideadvance Seed Fund, also managed by UW-Extension's CTC. Selected SBIR Advance participants undergo Ideadvance Lean Startup training that is modified to assist with their SBIR Phase II applications.

The Center for Technology Commercialization is a unit in the University of Wisconsin-Extension's Division for Business and Entrepreneurship. CTC provides one-on-one expert consulting to early-stage emerging technology businesses throughout Wisconsin. CTC has collaborated in acquiring more than $100 million in federal and other funding for clients. Learn more at www.wisconsin.sbir.org; follow @WisconsinCTC on Twitter.

The Wisconsin Economic Development Corporation (WEDC) leads economic development efforts for the state by advancing and maximizing opportunities in Wisconsin for businesses, communities and people to thrive in a globally competitive environment. Working with more than 600 regional and local partners, WEDC develops and delivers solutions representative of a highly responsive and coordinated economic development network. Golfing For A Cause

– Cancer Survivor Golfs 135 Holes To Raise Funds For Cancer Research

“The doctor told me I got unlucky,” Stangl said.

Doctors removed the tumor from Stangl’s tongue, and then used tissue from Stangl’s forearm to reconstruct the tongue during a 10-hour procedure.

Stangl spent about eight days in the hospital before going home to recuperate.

A month later, Stangl was back for an outpatient procedure to have a feeding tube inserted so he could go through radiation.

Stangl started radiation therapy the day after Labor Day in 2013. Every day, Monday through Friday, for six weeks, Stangl went to the Turtle Bay Radiation Oncology Center.

The radiation created numerous sores in Stang’s mouth and killed his sense of taste.

But the cancer was gone.

Stangl now has checkups every six months. His next visit with the ear, nose and throat specialist will be in September.

The Game Of Golf

Stangl did not keep score on July 3, but he feels he did pretty well.

“I almost hit a hole in one. It was on the 14 on the white nine. It was 125 yards, I hit a pitching wedge. It was looking great. It was rolling toward the hole, and it stopped short of it,” Stangl recalled.

That shot was pretty early in the morning, when the green was still wet.

“Who knows what would have happened if it was a little drier,” he said.

Stangl started golfing at 5:30 a.m. Throughout the morning, he golfed two balls at each hole.

His wife, Jenn, served as his caddy.

Jenn said she is happy to support him as he golfs, but admits that she has never golfed nine holes herself.

“I don’t have the patience for it,” she said.

Stangl’s goal was to complete 108 holes by lunchtime, which he did.

“I thought that the next 27 would be a piece of cake,” Stangl said.

He was wrong.

“It was really challenging, mentally and physically,” Stangl said.

With temperatures soaring around 90 degrees, it was hot.

“Thankfully there was a little bit of a breeze. So it was just a terrific day,” Stangl said.

Plus, he had the encouragement of other golfers. Some golfers that he met during lunch gave him a donation for the cause.

“I hope they know how much I really appreciate that,” Stangl said.

As Stangl golfed the last nine holes, his friends Josh Fohey and Vik Patel joined him. Then his father, Bill Stangl joined in the game.

“They really lifted my spirits. I was running out of steam. Having them really gave me the gumption to get through,” Stangl said.

The Future

Stangl said that this was his final marathon golf outing.

“It is just getting to be too much,” the 35-year-old golfer said.

Still, Stangl will continue golfing each week.

And he will continue living life to its fullest. That is something that cancer has taught him.

“It sounds really corny, but we are living life like there is no tomorrow, doing what we want to do, because there really is no guarantee,” Stangl said.

So he and Jenn are doing a lot of traveling and other things they enjoy.

However, Stangl is not done raising funds for cancer research.

“I’m looking to do some other fundraising avenues, like more formal golf outings. I’m not going to stop fundraising, for sure,” he said.

Jenn Stangl watches as her husband, Josh Stangl, golfs to raise funds for the University of Wisconsin Carbone Cancer Center.

Richard, Wayne & St. Kilian

By Karl McCarty

Richard was a Kern from the Town of Wayne who is no longer with us. A student and graduate of St. Kilian Parochial School, he eventually became a West Best resident. It was at least as far back as 1958 that he moved into his newly built house. Mr. Kern was still living there at the time of this interview in 2015.

After a nice fish fry at The Braising Pan, we decided to reminisce over old St. Kilian pictures. At home, Richard was walking with two canes. His gait was fragile but his memory was crisp.

After putting his leftover fish and potato pancakes in the fridge, we worked on getting the box of pictures out of his closet. We then sat on his porch on a nice Friday evening. It was a refreshing breeze that August 21st. Even more stimulating was the discourse and memories of the old days near the Washington County and Fond du Lac County border.

out on the road, I had my pelvis blown, broken in two places. So Dr. Edwards from Kewaskum took care of that. But later on we went to (Dr.) Langenfeldt in Theresa. The old man, and then his son."

Richard remembered getting hit by the pickup truck driven by Nick Beisbier. "Before I went to the first grade in St. Kilian, we had a little school quarter mile down," the road he grew up on, which is now Highway 28. "So I went there for a year, before I went to St. Kilian. Then one day in April, my sister Esther... she came down to pick me up from school, and we got a ride with the two teachers. And Esther got out and ran across the road. Made it. And I ran across, and didn't make it. I got hit. But I was okay by the time first grade was in St. Kilian."

He did not complain or ask for sympathy in the interview, instead Richard said his pelvis turned out fine. "It's okay. It's okay. We're talking 75 years ago."

Public Schools In Wayne

Richard explained how the one-room schools worked around 1940. "Okay. Years ago they had a public school, every two miles. This way and that way. There was a public school by Straub's on the corner, remember that?" Richard was referencing the one-room school house that is still standing on Rolling Drive in the Town of Ashford and Wayne on St. Kilian Drive.

Richard then explained the small schools in Wayne. "About two miles south of that (school in Ashford township) was that little school I went to." By today's map, Rolling Drive in the Town of Ashford continues to run south into the Town of Wayne. Richard said it was close but south of the Melzer Farm, and closer to the Amerling farm yet was on the northwest tri-portion of 28 and Rolling Drive.

The school might have been very close to a Beisbier farm, which must have been where Nicholas was coming or going with his truck. The 1892 plat map of the Town of Wayne indicates "J. Beisbier" owned land on the intersection of what became Rolling Drive and Highway 28. But before publication time, it could not

Childhood Outside St. Kilian

Richard Kern was born November 27, 1931, in St. Kilian to Joseph and Anna (Schmidbauer) Kern. Richard explained the birth order of the Kern kids: "Orville was first in 1923, Esther was 1925, Gladys was 1927 and I was 1931."

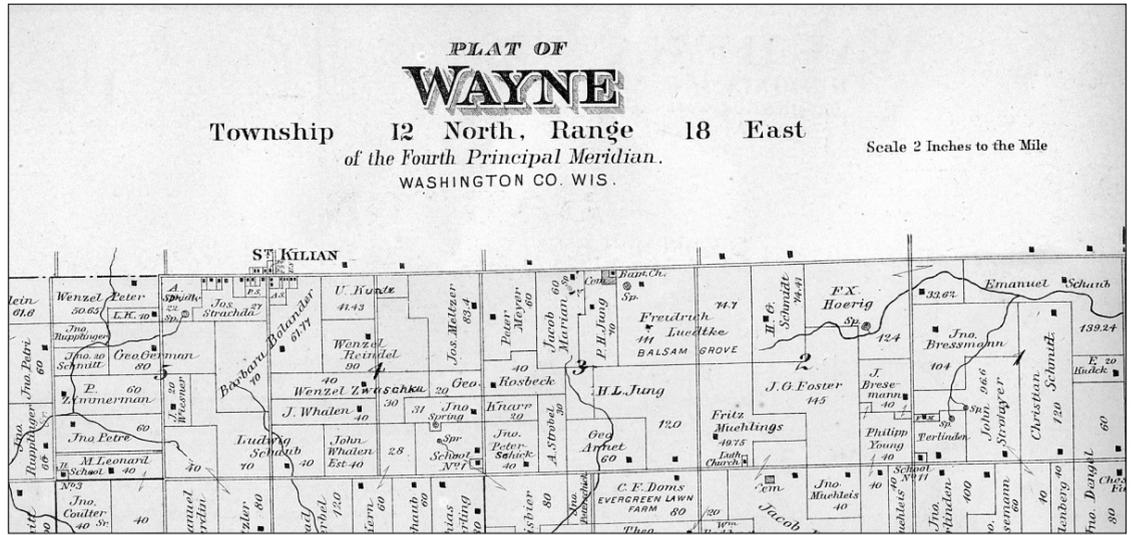

Orville was Richard's only and oldest brother. Orville was a WWII vet, meanwhile, "I was in the Korean war. I was a little later."

Richard spent much of his childhood on what is now Highway 28. It was just a "quarter mile" from the one-room school house on 28 that he briefly attended. His house was roughly between Wolcott Drive and Rolling Drive, but on the south side of Highway 28.

This house was built in 1933, so it was not Richard's first. "I was born a quarter-mile west of that, yet. And then my dad had 200 acres or so, and he took 60 and he built our farm and sold the others to Schaub." The farm house and barn where Richard spent most of his childhood still stands today, but there was one downside to the property: that place could be unsafe "cause there's a little knoll there."

Hit By A Truck

Richard said, "Just before the first grade I was hit with a pickup truck

In convenient fashion, the public schools in the northern third of the Town of Wayne were strategically and evenly placed apart. According to the ordinances (bills) passed in the Articles of Confederation, our first constitution in the 1780s, the country set up a grid system for future states' townships. As long as townships were not hindered by water bodies, they were typically six by six miles square, with 36 square miles gridded by acreage in each township. These ordinances also proposed the need for public school houses routinely spread out in each of these townships.

On this plat map of the Town of Wayne from the 1890s, one can see that the public schools on the top of the Town of Wayne started one mile into the township from both the north and the sides (both east and west), with a third public school smack dab in the middle of the township. If still standing, that middle one would have been north of the Amerling farm but west of Sabish Sales. It was a school that Richard Kern attended briefly before switching his education to the Catholic school in St. Kilian.

-Individual map from 1892 submitted by Karl McCarty be verified if Beisbiers still lived there in 1930s. This is an assumption.

In this context, there was a school two miles north of where Richard went to school in the Town of Wayne. He added, "And then there was another school two miles east. Another school two miles west."

When you drive Highway 28, you should keep this in mind. If Richard's small school was still standing, a school would be pinned intentionally every two miles on 28, starting with what became Mullen Lane to the West, then two miles east where Rolling Drive ends at 28, then in the northeast quadrant, where Lake Bernice Drive intersects Highway 28.

Uncle Art Schmidbauer

Richard loved to talk about people from the St. Kilian area. "My uncle had a blacksmith shop right in St. Kilian. We're trying to get pictures of him. Art Schmidbauer married a Kern. Brother and sister married brother and sister. That's what happened."

He thought it was an interesting and unique situation of his dad's sister being married to his mother's brother. Got it? Uncle Art Schmidbauer was Catholic, and is buried in St. Kilian.

Richard didn't remember much of the blacksmith shop in St. Kilian, but his memories of it (or the ones passed down) are important enough to date when it closed. Richard was born in 1931. He was asked to go back to his childhood, and whether he recalled the blacksmith shop was still opened? "I don't remember anything of it. It probably was when I was a year or two old. But how do I know?"

Richard Kern (1931-2017) married Barbara Coulter from "The Irish Corner." Indeed, when it came to that portion of the Town of Wayne, "It was all Irish people living there. McCulloughs, the Murphys, Clarks and, of course, some Darmonds. Richard thought this portion included what is now Highway 28 running west of County Road BB, County Road H west out of Wayne and then where County Road H and Highway 28 hit County Road W running south of St. Kilian. Richard thought "The Irish Corner" was probably three or four square miles." And included a lot of Coulter families.

This 1892 plat map portion shows Sections seven, eight, 18 and 17 of the Town of Wayne in the northwest quadrant of the Township. During the interview with Richard, he did not pin down specifically which corner was the "The Irish Corner." This plat map indicates many of those same family names Richard described.

Remember the road running north forming the border of section seven and eight is Highway 28 today, the road forming the east border of Section eight and 17 is essentially County Road W. After the interview with Richard, one could conclude "The Irish Corner" would be Highway 28 heading west in the Town of Wayne until you reach County Road W, where you should head South - until you reach County Road H/Mohawk Road. But with this map, the corner might have been running south a mile of St. Kilian on County Road W, and then the vicinity west and south from that point.

As a side note, Neal Straub (1924-2015), another source who vouched for the Irish Corner, said a lot of alcohol was known to have been consumed there. (Politely put).

-Individual map from 1892 submitted by Karl McCarty

Will your memories be there?

Will news clippings of your family's weddings, anniversaries and births be around a hundred years from now on Facebook? Maybe not. PROBABLY not.

We will publish it the old-fashioned way, so your friends and family can know about it now - and in the distant future.

Don't let your great-great-grandkids down when they try to find out about you.

Richard, Wayne & St. Kilian

What did he remember about Art? "Art. I remember he looked exactly like Jack Dempsey. In fact, somebody stopped him once in Fond du Lac and wanted to meet him."

"Well, I'm not Jack Dempsey," Richard said as if he were Art. "But he looked just like him."

Then Richard had to stop in the conversation, recalling that most of the younger generation doesn't even know who Jack Dempsey was. Richard explained that years ago Jack Dempsey was "big time, before TV and all of that — boxing was big." You had names like Dempsey and Joe Louis: "Not like now, you don't even know who the champion is nowadays anymore."

Richard and Art talked when he was young: "Yea. I talked to him. I met him at somebody's funeral. That was the only time you met anybody was at a funeral... The Kerns didn't visit. The Schmidbauer's did." Richard thought a lot of the Schmidbauers came from Leroy.

Richard guessed that Art may have still worked after his blacksmithing days. "I don't think he retired as a blacksmith. That was hard. I had three uncles that were blacksmiths. That was a big business years ago... You know, they shod the horses, fixed buggies and

There is a lot of military service in the Kern family tree, including Richard Kern (Korea) and his brother Orville (World War II). Their Uncle Art Schmidbauer served during World War I. wheels."

Aunt Ella Kern

Another relative of Richard's in St. Kilian was Ella Kern, who worked for Fr. Reichel, a priest who ran St. Kilian from 1920 to 1964, when he passed.

Richard recalled Father Reichel as an "old man" and "an old priest." Reichel would only have been in his late 50s when Richard was going through St. Kilian Parochial School.

Richard remembered that priests "used to wear those black hats with the three" corners back in those days. The priests "all had them the same way. They're out of style now."

Fr. Reichel's housemaid was Richard's aunt, Ella Kern: "My dad's sister. She never got married." He concluded she was a housemaid for "over 20" years at least, and probably there until Father Reichel died in 1964, and nearly the age of 80.

"Ella and Olive are sisters. Art Schmidbauer's wife Olive. My dad's sister Ella." Ella was known to be a quiet person, and Richard added, "But a nice lady, though." He doubted if she ever worked for any more priests. "And she didn't drive. But when Fr. Reichel died, my sister Esther taught her [Ella] how to drive. But first we had to teach Esther how to drive."

On High & Low Mass

Back in the 1940s, Richard said Fr. Reichel did not hold a Saturday night mass, which was later held in the 1980s and 1990s, particularly for farmers. Saturday's mass was still a daily one.

Richard said Fr. Reichel, on Sundays, had two masses. "The low mass was at 8 o'clock, the high mass was at 10 o'clock, and the high mass was in German." But he clarified that although the high mass was in German, the only thing about that mass in German was the homily, because "The entire mass was in Latin."

At the time, I didn't think of asking Richard about the songs and the language they were in (my apologies). But Richard was certain that the high mass homilies were in German.

The Kerns are German: "My folks (Joseph and Anna Kern) talked German." Yet the night of the interview, it was the Latin and the context associated with that Richard wanted to discuss. At that time, he still watched EWTN, the masses, "and sometimes they have it in Latin, and I thought, if you want to get people to come to church, that Latin sounds like we're way out of it. Nobody understands it."

Richard was told how some of the other older locals appreciated the old Latin, particularly because of the fact that one didn't know what was being said, so it sounded special. It's unclear if Richard was sold on the argument, but his answer was telling when asked if he served mass. "Yes I did. And all our prayers were in Latin. And I still know the first one," then Richard said it in Latin. And added, "But I had no idea what it meant."

He commented the "first" meant "The first answer, and then he'd (Fr. Reichel) say something and we'd answer, and he'd say something and we'd answer. And I don't remember the rest, but I knew them at the time. But I had no idea what I was saying, and that's not right. You know."

Richard said one of the most interesting things about those old masses was how starved the audience was. "The thing is, if you went to communion, you couldn't drink from midnight on. Or eat. If you went to 10 o'clock. And

Richard Kern was raised just outside and east/southeast of St. Kilian. According to his obituary, "Richard worked at Schroeder Dairy, Horlamus industries and was a long-time employee of the West Bend Company, retiring in 1995." In addition, "Following his retirement he spent his time gardening, woodworking, rummaging, playing games with his grandkids and spending time with his family."

In regard to the interview for this story, Richard added that he particularly loved to collect. "I like old board games. I had 1,200 of them. And I had games all over the place. I sold 1,100 of them. I kept the monopoly ones from way back. Games with a lot of metal pieces, and one had a dirigible. Like a hot air balloon game." Yes, he concluded proudly: "I do have a lot of games."

you got out of there at 11, you didn't have anything to eat or drink yet all day. And that was one of the good things that they changed."

Now you can drink water anytime, and "eat up to an hour" before mass. It's much more convenient now. Richard added: "Sometimes somebody would fall over in church 'cause they didn't have any food."

On Richard Kern

Overall, Richard was so great to talk to. Kind, calm and very inquisitive. He genuinely cared for those who he grew up with, and was intrigued to know where they ended up. Particularly impressive was how much he loved his family, and how little he complained.

Particularly neat was his subtle sense of humor. When he mentioned how St. Kilian parishioners might fall over from exhaustion or lack of eating at the late Sunday mass, he was laughing at the imagery rather than being irritable about the old rules of the church.

He was so non-intrusive when we went out to eat that he ordered what my Grandma (his St. Kilian classmate) ordered just to keep it simple. It was also neat how he could point out how the Kerns were very much intertwined with the people of St. Kilian.

He will be missed, but his stories valued. He'd be the type of person who'd work his way out to the St. Kilian Picnic this Sunday, July 15, if only he could.

This is not Art Schmidbauer. But a lot of people in Wayne and St. Kilian wouldn't have known much of a difference in 1930. The photo is actually Jack Dempsey, the boxer famous in the late 1910s and Roaring 20s. Many from the area who lived through the 1930s were well aware of how Schmidbauer resembled the heavyweight champion.

There has been great difficulty trying to find a good picture of the blacksmith of St. Kilian, and any images of Art Schmidbauer, or the old blacksmith shop in St. Kilian would be much appreciated.

Indians Outscore Two More North Shore Foes

By Judy Harlow

One big inning was all the Kewaskum High baseball team needed in its July 3 game against Nicolet, and the 6-4 victory ensured the Indians a share of the North Shore title.

The Indians scored six runs on five hits in the second inning, then survived a couple anxious moments in the seventh for their 20th win of the year and a 12-2 mark in the NS. Defending champions West Bend defeated Homestead and Grafton to improve to 10-4 and hold a slim chance to tying KHS for the title.

KHS was outthit seven to six by the Knights, but sent 10 to the plate in its big rally. It included singles by Andrew Neu and Luke Christenson, a two-run home run by Ryan Prochnow, his first of the year, a single by Brad Buechel, and an error, walk and a base-loaded double to center field by Jared Chesak, the only Indian with two hits.

Christenson got the win, going six innings while giving up two runs on two hits with a pair of strikeouts and three walks. Surprenant finished with the seventh, giving up two runs on two hits with a strikeout and a walk.

The defense was shaky at others but sparkled at others, turning two double plays.

July 2 Game

Having a healthy Andrew Neu has certainly been a plus for the Kewaskum this summer.

After missing all but two games with a torn meniscus in 2017, the senior southpaw has come back strong and taken on a key role for the Indians. Playing at Carl Kuss Memorial Field in Regner Park on July 2, Neu limited West Bend East to just five hits in six innings and helped his own cause with a two-for-for night at the plate toward a 5-2 victory that moved the Indians one win away from the North Shore title.

The win helped the Indians gaining a sweep over KHS coach Doug Gonring's alma mater and the school he coached at for over a decade.

After going down in order in the first inning, KHS sent six men to the plate in the second, scoring two runs on a leadoff double by Neu, a walk to Cole Surprenant, a sacrifice bunt by Luke Christenson, a fielder's choice by Kyle Bath, which scored the first run, and an error by the shortstop, which allowed the second run to come in.

The scored stayed at 2-0 until the fifth when Brad Buechel drew a walk, Tony Steger beat out a bunt for a single,

John May sacrificed the pair to second and third, and Jared Chesak's fly out drove in the first run.

Neu's single to right field gave the Indians a 4-0 lead.

KHS added a single run in the sixth. After the first two Indians made outs, Ryan Prochnow and Buechel were hit by pitches and then Steger drove Prochnow in with a single to left.

Neu, who struck out eight and walked none, had just one shaky inning until the sixth. In the bottom of the third, East loaded the bases on a single by Ben Seamen and two hit batsmen after two were out. Next up was Joey Michels, who struck out swinging to end the inning.

In the bottom of the seventh, Neu gave up singles to Cooper Schlosser and Mike Seamen when Gonring brought in Surprenant to put out the fire. The first batter he faced, Ben Nass, hit a chopper back to the mound, but Surprenant threw the ball away and one run scored. Geldnich singled to load the bases, then Surprenant struck out Seamen, got Blake Furlano to ground into a fielder's choice, scoring the second run, and struck out Nate Schubert to end the game.

Miller, Baldry, Scholten, Glander, Ruh Reign Supreme On PDTR Mid-Season Championship Night

A thrilling last lap pass and a pair of first-time A-main winners highlighted the evening as Plymouth Dirt Track Racing staged its annual Mid-Season Championship Night of racing at The Plymouth Dirt Track on the Sheboygan County Fairgrounds in Plymouth on Saturday, July 7.

In the extended 30-lap Richard's of Dunbar 360 Sprint Car A main, Plymouth's Justin Miller stole the lead from Sprint Car rookie Travis Arenz of Sheboygan on the final lap to post an exciting victory. Gasroots Project Late Model rookie Kevin Baldry of Omro notched his first career PDTR Late Model A-main victory in the 30-lap main event. Luke Scholten of Oostburg claimed the 30-lap Klips & Tips Grand National A-main victory in the Bender Racing entry, while Gary Glander of Sheboygan Falls collected his first career Cellcom B Mod A-main triumph. Defending Micro Sprint champion Preston Ruh of Elkhart Lake was victorious in the 15-lap Kristine Hartmann Pleasant View Realty Micro Sprint A main.

The Sprint Car A-main headliner began with Tyler Brabant of Waupun and Tony Wondra of Campbellsport lined up on the front row. Despite dry and slick track conditions, the race featured three different leaders and plenty of jockeying for position throughout the field.

After hounding Wondra for several laps, Arenz made his move on lap 16, taking the lead in turn one. Justin Miller followed suit in getting past Wondra to set up an exciting duel to the finish.

On lap 18, Arenz encountered slower traffic, which allowed Miller to close the gap considerably. The two duelled side-by-side briefly on lap 20 before Arenz pulled away after clearing the lapped car.

Miller worked the low line to perfection in the final five circuits to close within striking range. On the final lap, Miller shot underneath Arenz in turn one to seize the top spot. Miller then held on to claim his second career PDTR Sprint Car and fourth overall Midwest Sprint Car Association A-main triumph.

The next PDTR program will take place on Saturday, July 14, topped off by autograph night following the races. The racing program, which begins at 6 p.m., will be sponsored by Hopf Farms.

The Plymouth Dirt Track at the Sheboygan County Fairgrounds in Plymouth is located at 229 Fairview Drive in Plymouth.

Lucas Block, 14, who attended Kewaskum Middle School, and Avery Olson, 14, who attended Holy Trinity School, play on the State District team for the U-14 Junior division, which is part of the Great Lakes World Little League Baseball World Series. District tournaments started July 10 in West Bend. Winners will advance to the next level of regional playoffs, with a chance to go to the Little League World Series.

Late West Rally Ruins Kewaskum's Plans For Victory

By Judy Harlow

They already had claimed the Number One seed in the upcoming sectional and a share of the North Shore title, but the Kewaskum Indians wanted more on July 5 — to win the title outright and end the long drought against host and defending champion West Bend.

Although they made things interesting in the top of the seventh, KHS players were unable to overcome the Spartan's seven-run sixth and wound up on the short end of an 11-8 decision, ending an 11-game win streak, in a game coach Doug Gonring called "a stinker."

With the loss, KHS is 12-3, while West is a game behind at 11-4.

"We did so many things that were uncharacteristic (of us) tonight," he said. "We threw the ball around."

Yes, they did. The Indians committed three errors, all that allowed West to score runs. Then there were the three balks called on starter Cole Surprenant, who was pulled from the game after just the second inning in which he threw 54 pitches, including 33 in the first inning when he gave up two runs. It could have been four if left fielder Tony Steger had not made a circus catch, going back on a ball hit by West pitcher Gavin Hinckley.

Steger threw the ball back in to Lucas Christenson, who fired to Andrew Neu at first base in time to double up Logan Rupnow, who didn't think the ball would be caught.

KHS tied the game in the top of the third when it used a break to score its first two runs. After successful bunt singles by Steger and John May, Jared Chesak smashed a hit past West's third baseman, bringing in his two teammates.

The Indians might have taken the lead had Lucas Christenson not been call for being out of the box with Surprenant on second after singling and stealing second.

Blake Horning came on in relief of Surprenant in the third, and he pitched two good innings with a three-up, three-down third and a one-run fourth, coming on an error by Christenson on a bunt.

Christenson made up for the error with an RBI single in the top of the fifth for a 4-3 KHS lead after the Indians tied the score, when West catcher Logan Chesak hit John May in the back when he was caught in a rundown after Surprenant missed a squeeze call.

Gonring brought in lefty Cole Poole to pitch the fifth. The Spartans didn't know much about Poole since he had only pitched in non-conference games this summer. He gave up an unearned run in the sixth when Nate Block doubled to left-center and scored all the way from second on a bunt and throwing error by Neu.

Poole started the sixth easy enough, striking out Hinckley and getting Jimmy D'Angelo on a ground out. Then the roof caved in as Chesak got hit by a pitch, Weber drew a walk and the Spartans got hits by Nick Sterman (single), Evan Albrecht (dribbler up the middle), Lucas Broske (single), Logan Rupnow (bloop single to center) and Hinckley (double), coupled with a walk to Bock.

"Poole threw well," Gonring said. "We should have been out of the inning twice, but when you (umpire) don't call strikes the pitch count can kill you."

KHS didn't give up, not by a long shot, using back-to-back singles by Chesak and Neu to chase Weber off the mound, in favor of Albrecht (for the second time). He struck out Surprenant for the first out, then came up back-to-back, run-scoring singles to Lucas Christenson and pinch hitter, Kyle Bath before Ryan Prochnow struck out.

Brad Buechel kept the rally alive with an RBI single to the opposite field, then Steger doubled to the wall in right for runs number seven and eight before Albrecht got May to ground out to send to end the game.

"This one was a stinker," Gonring said. "You flush it down the toilet and come back tomorrow."

Indians Wrap Up Conference Title In Convincing Manner

By Judy Harlow

Sorry, West Spartans. The Kewaskum High baseball team wanted no part of sharing the North Shore title with you and do not have to after defeating visiting Whitefish Bay 10-5 in the regular-season finale played at Kiwanis Park on July 6.

The win gave Kewaskum a 13-3 NS record while West ended up in second place at 12-4.

Senior pitcher Andrew Neu (6-1 in NS) held the Blue Dukes to six hits in the 6 2/3 innings he pitched and helped his own cause with a two-run home run in the bottom of the first. The home run was Neu's third of the season, all in league play.

Each team had six hits, but Neu had a much better defense behind him on this day as the Indians didn't commit a single error, while the visitors committed five miscues so six KHS runs were unearned.

Only center fielder Tony Steger had more than one hit in the contest for the winners. He went two for three with three runs scored and a stolen base. With eight hits in the final four games, the future UW-Oshkosh student athlete improved his batting average to a team-high .425.

Jared Chesak (double) and John May each had two runs batted in (RBIs). Noah Jonas doubled for Whitefish Bay, and Patrick Nau had a triple in the fifth to drive in the Blue Dukes' first run.

After six innings, with a 10-1 lead and Neu's pitch count closing in the 80s, KHS coach Doug Gonring decided to finish out the game with relievers, Blake Horning and Carson Dogs. Both had trouble finding the plate, however, as Horning walked in one run and Dogs walked in three, making the score 10-5.

Neu re-entered the game with one out and the bases loaded in the top of the seventh. After taking a called strike and fouling off a couple pitches, Jake Fleming hit into a 6-4-3 double play to end the game, and the celebration began.

"Now that summer baseball is over, we are the last North Shore champions," Gonring said, during the Senior Night festivities that followed the game. "I'm proud of all of you."

Several seniors, including Neu, Cole Surprenant and Steger are four-year varsity starters. All were delighted to win the title after being in the second division the past two seasons.

"It feels amazing to come back and help my team," said Neu, who missed all but a couple games of the 2018 season because of an injury. "I don't feel like I had my best stuff tonight, but my defense was doing the work ... It's the name of the game."

"It's awesome ... It's been a goal for us all four years," Steger said. "For us seniors, It's a good way to go out. Now we've got to make a deep run in the playoffs."

May, a three-year starter, said, "Today, we had this game. We knew what we wanted to do, and everything fell into place. Our defense was great. Our offense was great ... It feels amazing!"

KHS, 21-5 overall, opened tournament play on July 11, hosting the winner of the July 9 Cedarburg-Homestead game. A win will earn the Indians a berth in the first round of the Germantown Sectional, a game that will be played at 10:30 a.m. on July 16. Another sectional semifinal will be played at 1:30 p.m.

The winners of the sectional semifinals will square off at 4:30 p.m. that day for the right to go to Kapco Park in Mequon on July 20 for what will be the final WIAA Summer Baseball Tournament.

Summer Care For Perennial Gardens

MELINDA MYERS

Keep your perennial gardens looking their best throughout the hot summer months with a bit of midsummer grooming and care. Investing time midseason means you'll be enjoying beautiful gardens now through the end of the growing season.

Start by deadheading, removing faded flowers, to improve the plants' overall appearance. It won't extend bloom time on all perennials, but will keep some like bergenia, lamb's ear, peonies, and perennial geraniums looking neat and tidy throughout the summer. Deadheading will encourage an additional flush of flowers on many perennials including bee balm, coral bells, daylilies, fringed bleeding heart, phlox, purple coneflowers, salvia, veronica, and yarrow.

Cut spent flowers back to the nearest set of side shoots with flower buds or healthy leaves on perennials like coneflowers, catmints, salvias, shasta daisies, turtlehead and veronicas.

On daylilies and balloon flowers, remove individual flowers on the flower scape (stem) as they fade. Once all the individual flowers have faded and been deadheaded, remove the whole flower stem.

Prune flower stems back to a rosette of leaves at the base of the plant on coral bells, hosta and lamb's ear to keep these plants looking their best.

Shearing a plant, also called cutting back, is a pruning method that removes large amounts of Removing faded flowers before they can set seed, also known as deadheading, encourages an additional flush of flowers on many perennials including daylilies. Submitted by: Melinda Myers, LLC plant material in one fell swoop. This method is useful for plants with an abundance of small flowers such as creeping phlox, rock cress and threadleaf coreopsis. Also consider digging and dividing threadleaf coreopsis every few years to promote continuous bloom.

Keep mums and asters pruned to six inches throughout June and stop the beginning of July. Complete pruning by the beginning of July on late summer and fall blooming perennials. Early season pruning encourages more compact growth and can be used to stagger bloom times. Manage flopping growth on plants such as Walker's Low Catmint (Nepeta) by cutting the plants back halfway. Cut back salvias and Veronicas after the second flush of flowers to promote compact growth and additional bloom.

Thin out overcrowded plants by removing some stems to the ground. This increases light penetration and airflow to the plants, reducing the risk of disease.

Use ground level pruning on bleeding heart and other perennials that dieback midseason.

Dead leafing, a technique used to remove or trim back discolored foliage, allows the flowers to remain the center of attention.

Stake plants in need of support to prevent perennials from flopping. This will reduce disease and increase beauty.

Although it's always best to put stakes and supports in place as plants emerge in spring, you can still add a bit of support mid-season. Use bamboo stakes and ties, twigs woven into stems or other attractive or virtually invisible stakes. Then mark next year's calendar to remind yourself to put stakes in place in spring as plants emerge.

Spread a thin layer of mulch such as shredded leaves, evergreen needles, twice shredded bark or other organic material over the soil surface. Mulching conserves moisture, suppresses weeds, keeps roots cool during hot weather and improves the soil as it decomposes.

Continue to remove weeds throughout the season to eliminate competition for water and nutrients. Removing weeds before they form seeds eliminates hundreds of weeds you'll need to pull in next year's garden. Weeding also reduces the risk of insects and disease in your garden since some weeds attract pests and serve as host for diseases that can damage perennials.

Plant perennials or annuals to fill voids or mask declining spring bloomers. Water new plantings often enough to keep the roots moist for the first few weeks. Eventually switch to thorough, less frequent watering to encourage deep drought tolerant roots. And don't forget to mulch the soil right after you plant to keep roots cool and moist.

Once your perennial gardens are spruced up, it's time to sit back and enjoy the beauty you've created.

Melinda Myers has written more than 20 gardening books, including Small Space Gardening. She hosts The Great Courses "How to Grow Anything" DVD series and the nationally syndicated Melinda's Garden Moment TV & radio segments.
