Plan Commission Gives Nod To Proposed Sign Ordinance

By Anne Trautner

Over the past few weeks, progress has continued on improving the Doc Mitchell Athletic Complex at Kewaskum High School. Workers started laying artificial turf on the football field, and plans for the district's new 312-square-foot video scoreboard are moving forward.

The village's Plan Commission last week approved a new location of the new scoreboard. The plan is for the scoreboard to be situated on the north end of the field, rather than the northeast corner of the field as previously proposed.

"That makes more sense. Now people will be able to see it from both stands," Village Trustee Jim Hovland said at the July 24 meeting.

The electronic scoreboard is being donated to the school district by local companies Drexel Building Supply and Smith and Hatch Insurance. The school district plans to sell advertising on the scoreboard to raise funds to support upgrades to the athletic fields.

However, until the village's sign ordinance is changed, the new scoreboard will not be able to advertise for area businesses because the ordinance currently prohibits off-premises advertising.

That means as it currently stands, a sign can only advertise for the business or organization that is established on the property where the sign is. Businesses/organizations are currently not allowed to advertise for other businesses/organizations not located at that property.

"I love the idea of the school having a video board. We just need to update the ordinance so that off-premises advertising is allowed for other businesses as well," Village President Kevin Scheunemann said.

At last week's meeting, the Plan Commission gave its stamp of approval to proposals for an updated sign ordinance. The changes to the village's ordinance must be approved by the Village Board before they can go into effect.

Because the sign ordinance is part of the zoning code, a public hearing is required before changes can be made. State statute requires that notices be published for two consecutive weeks before the public hearing can be held, Village Administrator Matt Heiser reminded the commission.

Off-premises signs are currently permitted only on adjacent properties with proper permission from said property owner(s) and are subject to Plan Commission review and approval. In addition, official signs, temporary rummage sale signs and signs located at village boundaries identifying civic or other nonprofit community service organizations located within the village are currently exempt from the provision.

Something To Crow About

By Anne Trautner

It wasn't early in the morning, but there was a lot of cock-a-doodle-dooing going on last week.

Although they were content to crow for mere chicken feed, the top roosters were vying for title of best crower around during the Rooster Crowing Contest held at the Washington County Fair on Sunday, July 29. Rooster crowing contests had been held earlier in the week, narrowing the flock to the best squawkers in the lineup.

The group of five feathered finalists took their places in their cages, and when the contest started, the crowd cheered them on.

The roosters had 15 minutes to crow as many times as they could.

Skilled judges took a tally of each squawk.

Harold, a Rhode Island Red Rooster, was the favored contestant. During a contest held the previous day, Harold had crowed a whopping 32 times in 15 minutes.

This was the first year that Harold and his 11-year-old owner, Cameron Wetzel, had entered the contest.

Cameron arguably did the most and loudest cheering for his bird out of all the contestants' owners.

Washington County Fair Inspires Young Authors

By Anne Trautner

Thousands of people visited the Washington County Fair last week. They went on rides, looked at animals and ate lots of deep-fried food.

But on Wednesday, July 25, about 30 young people dressed in bright green shirts walked around the fairgrounds and observed. Then they sat and wrote stories about what they saw.

It was part of a writing marathon they were doing for a Writers' Camp. The two-week camp was held at Slinger High School, and culminated with the trip to the county fair.

The students hailed from Kewaskum and Slinger, and ranged in age from third grade through high school. In all, there were 32 youth in the program.

This was the seventh year the writing camp was held in Washington County.

Robyn Bindrich, who works as a literacy coach for the Kewaskum School District, and Paul Walter, a teacher at Slinger Middle School, started the camp as part of the Fox Valley Writing Project out of UW-Oshkosh.

Village Approves Sex Offender Ordinance

By Anne Trautner

The Kewaskum Village Board unanimously approved changes to an ordinance restricting the residency for sex offenders at its July 9 meeting.

The changes allow offenders to live within the village after 10 years without any offense and the completion of a sentence. Those already living in the village will not be required to move.

All offenders must remain 750 feet away from designated areas, such as schools for children, public parks, day-care centers, public libraries, public playgrounds, public athletic fields used by children, public swimming pools, facilities used for children's clubs, public aquatic facilities and specialized schools for children.

In 2016, the village board approved an ordinance that stated that no offender shall be permitted to reside in the village unless that person lived in the village at the time of the offense resulting in the person's most recent conviction for committing the sexually violent offense and/or crime against children.

That ordinance came into question in January when a registered sex offender who wanted to move to Kewaskum challenged it.

The Village Board has discussed making changes to the ordinance since May. The village's attorney, James Danaher, told trustees at the May 21 board meeting that the ordinance would not hold up in court the way it was written.

During that May meeting, Danaher said that a recent case, Hoffman v. Village of Pleasant Prairie, found that Pleasant Prairie's ordinance that restricted child sex offenders from living within 3,000 feet of a location was too restrictive.

"What it came down to was the court in that case determined that the village board in Pleasant Prairie did not consider any factual data or studies to support the reason for the ordinance," Danaher told village trustees in May.

At that May 21 meeting, Danaher gave Kewaskum trustees information about sex offenders and repeat offenders.

Danaher told trustees that they should read the information and come up with their own findings and recommendations for the ordinance. At that time, trustees also discussed the need to provide the opportunity for an individual review for cases, especially those involving teens who were close in age at the time of the offense.

As before, the village ordinance prohibits offenders from living within 750 feet of designated areas, such as schools and parks where children congregate.

"We believe the 750-foot restriction is reasonable," Danaher said.

The new ordinance allows offenders to seek exemption by appealing to the village's Protection and Public Safety Committee for an individualized risk assessment.

The ordinance is not intended to be punitive. Rather, the purpose is to protect "the public health, safety and welfare of the children and citizens of the Village of Kewaskum from the risk that convicted sex offenders may re-offend in locations close to their residences," according to the language within the new ordinance.

Police Chief Tom Bishop said residents should not be alarmed that the new ordinance allows offenders to live in the village after completing a sentence or probation and have not been convicted of a crime for 10 years.

"There are some statistics that say after that amount of time has passed someone who has a prior conviction for a sex offense is virtually less likely to reoffend than somebody who has never offended before," Bishop said.

Like the previous ordinance, the new language prohibits sex offenders from participating in holiday events involving children younger than 18, such as distributing candy on Halloween, or wearing a Santa Claus or Easter Bunny costume. Under the new ordinance, language has been broadened to prohibit offenders from wearing other costumes as well.

The Wisconsin Department of Corrections sex offender registry provides information about registered sex offenders in the state, including the names, photos, addresses and other information about offenders. The registry can be found online at <https://apps-doc.wi.gov/public>.

Enforcement To Begin In Washington County Parks

- Park Goers Encouraged To Pay Daily Fees Or Purchase Annual Stickers

This year, the Washington County Parks System has required park goers visiting the parks below to purchase a daily park entrance fee or an annual park sticker within seven days from their visit.

- Ackerman's Grove County Park, Town of Polk
- Glacier Hills County Park, Village of Richfield
- Heritage Trails County Park, Town of Polk
- Homestead Hollow County Park, Village of Germantown
- Leonard J. Yahr County Park, Town of Farmington
- Sandy Knoll County Park, Town of Trenton

License plate recognition cameras were installed throughout county parks to eliminate the acceptance of cash on site while allowing park goers the ability to pay up to seven days after their visit, similar to a tollway. Those who fail to pay their entrance fee will be subject to a $50 Notice Violation and have 30 days to pay. Failure to pay the Notice Violation within 30 days will result in the issuance of a $200.50 citation.

"We strongly encourage park goers to consider purchasing annual passes to support the park and trail system," said Parks Property Manager Eric Hyde, adding that "100 percent of the fees collected goes toward the maintenance and improvements of the County Park System."

State's First Ever Sales Tax Holiday Runs August 1-5

Going through Sunday, Aug. 5, Wisconsin shoppers can still enjoy a five-day sales tax holiday. During this time, they will not be charged state and local sales tax on a variety of items including clothing, computers and school supplies.

"Due to sound fiscal management and a strong economy, the state had almost a $400 million budget surplus," said Department of Revenue secretary Richard Chandler. "Governor Walker and the Wisconsin State Legislature have determined that some of that surplus should be returned to taxpayers in the form of a sales tax holiday."

During the Sales Tax Holiday, purchases of these items are not taxable:

•Clothing — sales price of each item must be $75 or less

•Computer purchased by a consumer for their personal use — sales price of each computer must be $750 or less

•School computer supplies purchased by the consumer for their personal use — sales price of each item must be $250 or less

•School supplies — sales price of each item must be $75 or less

•Many other items are also included. For a complete list check out www.revenue.wi.gov/taxholiday

The sales tax holiday will be particularly beneficial to families doing back-to-school shopping, but all taxpayers will be able to make purchases of eligible items without paying sales tax.

On October 1, Out-Of-State Sellers Will Be Required To Collect Sales Tax

The United States Supreme Court recently ruled in South Dakota v. Wayfair, Inc., a state can now require online and other remote sellers with no physical presence in that state to collect and remit the applicable sales or use tax on sales delivered into that state. Wisconsin will require collection beginning on October 1, consistent with existing Wisconsin statutes, which require all sellers to collect sales or use tax unless limited by federal law.

Standards for administering sales tax laws for online and other remote sellers will be provided by administrative rule. The rule will be consistent with the Court's decision in Wayfair, which approved a small seller exception for sellers who do not have annual sales of products and services into the state of more than $100,000, or 200 or more separate transactions.

Wisconsin businesses, especially Wisconsin small businesses, will no longer be operating at a competitive disadvantage to out-of-state competitors that will now be required to collect the tax.

More information about online and remote sellers collecting sales tax is available at <https://www.revenue.wi.gov/Pages/Businesses/remote-sellers.aspx>.

IN MEMORY OF DAVID ENGELMAN

Who passed July 31, 1993

I have so many questions, no answers to explain, 'Why'
I have trouble understanding, no matter how hard I try,
Why did God have to pick you, your little boys needed you too.
They say that there is a reason and that time will heal,
But neither time nor reason, has changed the way I feel.
No one knows the heartache that lies behind our smiles,
Or the many times we have broken down and cried.
The many times we wished to have you by our side.

When I was young, everyone told me how much I looked like you.
As I grow older people tell me how much I am like you.
How could that be possible, if you didn't see me grow?
Unless of course, you were there like everyone tells me so.
Not only in our heart but by our side, right from the start.
Two little boys were left behind, now we're two grown men, but we still miss you so.
25 years have gone, but you are not forgotten.

Love your son, Dillon Engelman

Town Of Auburn Referendum Questions To Be Part Of Primary Election

The Town of Auburn August 14 election ballot will have two referendum questions on the backside of the ballot. They will state, "Shall the person holding the office of Clerk in the Town of Auburn be appointed by the Town Board?" AND "Shall the person holding the office of Treasurer in the Town of Auburn be appointed by the Town Board?"

An explanation for why municipalities are going to appointed positions versus elected are mainly the degree of difficulty of the jobs.

These positions must be performed according to State Statutes. Parliamentary procedures, agendas, notices, meeting minutes, open records, financial statements, annual report, payroll including withholding taxes and payroll reports, accounts receivable, accounts payable, audits, budgeting, setting the tax levy, tax collection, fire dues report, open book, board of review, liquor and operator licensing, ordinances, and election administration all require extensive training and must be done effectively and efficiently or a town can be in jeopardy of fines or loss of grants.

In smaller municipalities, it may be difficult to find a qualified candidate to run for the position and they may need to look outside their community which would require an appointment of the position.

Training has been an issue in townships whose clerks/treasurers are elected and have decided not to run another term. Who will train the newly elected clerk/treasurer?

Many municipalities have to rely on neighboring municipalities volunteering their staff for proper training and mentoring. But, if appointed, a new clerk or new treasurer could start and be trained by the residing clerk or treasurer who will be resigning or retiring in the future. If it's an elected person, this is not possible due to the possibility of not knowing who will win the election if more than one candidate runs for the position.

There is always the fear of someone winning on popularity and not on who is most qualified. If appointed, there would be an interview process for the most qualified person for the job. This person would would serve for a term, not to exceed three years. After the term, the person may be reappointed or may be dismissed by the board, only for cause, as defined in s. 17.001.

State Statute 60.10 (1)(b)(2m) and 60.30(1e)(e) requires towns under populations of 2,500 to decide by a referendum question on the ballot whether or not the town clerk and/or town treasurer should be appointed. Towns with a population more than 2,500 can have the town board decide if the position should be appointed or elected.

The Town of Auburn's population is 2,386, hence the referendum question on the upcoming election. The Town of Auburn has discussed changing these positions from elected to appointed in years past but are now moving forward with the question on the August 14th Ballot.

The Town of Auburn is not alone in this situation. The Town of Springvale in Fond du Lac County passed the referendum question to appoint their clerk on the April 2018 ballot. The Town of Metomen in Fond du Lac County will be running the referendum question in this November's election. This is becoming a continuing trend statewide.

Fond du Lac County Clerk Lisa Freiberg, the Wisconsin Towns Association, and town attorneys are all in favor of having these positions be appointed. They feel this is in the best interest of townships.

The Town of Auburn wants to be proactive in always having qualified and well trained individuals in these positions, so please remember to vote on Tuesday, Aug. 14.

Who passed July 31, 1993

I was only five years old when you had died.
I didn't fully understand what it fully meant, but I still cried.
As the years have gone by I've forgotten a few things,
Like the sound of your voice and how your laughter would ring.
There have been thousands of times when I've wished you were still here,
To celebrate all of my joys and help calm my fears.
I've spent more of my life without you than with you.
I'm saddened to say but I want you to know that I still love you,
and think about you every day.
25 years have gone, but you are not forgotten.

DAYS GONE BY

5 Years Ago August 8, 2013

At 9 a.m. Saturday a cheer went up from curd connoisseurs as the door to Beechwood Cheese Factory opened and customers filed in to snap up a local delicacy. "There was word-of-mouth, and it exploded on us," said Jay Noble, owner of Noble View Creamery and a sixth generation dairy farmer. On August 2, Beechwood's former head cheese maker Mark Heise came out of retirement to help the brothers as they made their first test batch of cheese curds.

A daughter, Ava Marie, was born to Tim and Jill Kleiber of Waldo on May 24.

Marie A. O'Brien, (nee Erickson), 77, of Eden, passed away on August 2.

Chester J. Dombrowski, 30, a former Chicago policeman, was convicted of first degree murder last Thursday by a circuit court jury at Fond du Lac in the death of another Chicago man. Judge Jerold Murphy ordered Dombrowski held without bond. Consisting of seven women and five men, the jury deliberated about five hours before finding Dombrowski guilty of the murder of Herbert L. McKinney, 27, whose body was found last September 12 on a farm owned by Dombrowski and a brother in Fond du Lac County about two miles north of Kewaskum. McKinney had been badly beaten and there was a bullet wound in his head. More than 20 witnesses had been subpoenaed from Washington County in the murder trial of Dombrowski, including James Sparks, Mrs. Willard Klein, Willard Lynn, Anthony Vorpahl and Lawrence Galabinske. Others from the county included professional men, officials, sheriff's deputies and private citizens. The body of the murder victim was found following an investigation of an accident in which Dombrowski was involved on Highway 45 just south of the Fond du Lac county line in Washington County on the night of September 11, when his rented car left the highway. Dombrowski was charged with driving while intoxicated and held in West Bend, but the charge was later reduced. Dombrowski who was on leave from his job at the time, resigned from the police force while being held in West Bend. Sparks and Miss Betty Jean Naus of West Bend, also subpoenaed as a witness, came upon the scene of the accident, north of Kewaskum. They stated they brought Dombrowski into Kewaskum and urged him to report the accident. They said he refused, fearing arrest for drunken driving. Some of the other local witnesses also saw Dombrowski the night of the mishap. The defendant was later arrested at O'Hare International Airport in Chicago on March 26 after a grand jury at Fond du Lac indicted him in the McKinney slaying. During the final summations of the case Judge Murphy told the jury to disregard a statement by the prosecution that brought a defense motion for a mistrial.

Ellsworth Prost, 45, West Bend, a Washington County highway worker, was fatally injured Wednesday afternoon when a power road roller he was operating apparently flipped over and crushed him.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Luther Daniel, Kewaskum, on July 23. Mrs. Daniel is the former Cheryl Erdmann.

Maneuvers were held by 300 men of the 1st battalion of the 1st infantry regiment of the Wisconsin state guard unit of Milwaukee over the weekend in the Mauthe Lake area of the Kettle Moraine State Forest near Kewaskum. The state guardsmen passed through this village on their way to the lake Saturday morning in a caravan of about a half dozen Greyhound busses accompanied by an officers' car and supply truck. They returned to Milwaukee through Kewaskum again late Sunday afternoon and the caravan stopped off on upper Main Street for a few minutes attracting spectators. The officers were searching for one or more men from the unit whom they were to meet in the village. Many people of the community went to Mauthe Lake to get a glimpse of the guardsmen and see as much of the maneuver action as possible. The Mauthe Lake area rocked Sunday as the state guard unit used bangalore torpedoes to break down barbed wire entanglements during mopping up operations against the "enemy from the north" in a practice problem. This unit fought a successful delaying action against a "superior invader" in the maneuver Saturday and Sunday to give reinforcements time to reach the battle area and wipe out the hostile army.

Members of the St. Lucas Evangelical Lutheran Church held the dedication of the new parish cemetery Sunday. The cemetery is located southwest of the village on the Wayne road just west of the Kewaskum

The PIGNIC is wheelchair accessible, with a drop-off area immediately next to the pavilion.

Main Street Mania Coming To Campbellsport Next Week

It is just one week until Campbellsport's must-attend event. The sixth annual Main Street Mania is coming to Campbellsport on Thursday, Aug. 9.

It will be held on the west end of Main Street between Fond du Lac Avenue and Railroad Street. It will run from 10 a.m.-10 p.m. The road will be blocked off and you will be able to check out a number of different vendors for various items, listen to great music, check out some barbecue geniuses, sample some delicious local food, play some great games and much, much more.

The event is sponsored by the Campbellsport Area Chamber of Commerce.

Vendors from all over the area have been invited to participate in Main Street Mania. They will have a number of different items to check, some familiar brands and some unique items.

New this year will be the addition of Bingo and a polka band. Everyone can come out to play Bingo from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. Then, right after Bingo, listen to the sounds of the Ferd Buchel Combo from 2 p.m.-4:30 p.m.

Popular local band Liquid Courage will play from 7 p.m.-10 p.m.

Also new this year will be some inflatables for the young and old. A bounce house will be set up most of the day. An inflatable obstacle course will also be set up in the afternoon for a few hours.

A highlight of the day will be a barbecue contest. The judging will begin around 5 p.m. but many area grill masters will be on site much earlier than that cooking their favorite barbecue recipes for the competition. This is sure to be a mouth-watering event. You may even be able to sample some of the entries.

Bean bag contests will be held as well as a Duck Call contest. Both will be held in front of Ty's Place.

A dunk tank is scheduled to be at the event from 11 a.m.-5 p.m. Come and see who will be in the tank and try to knock he/she down. The Campbellsport High School dance team will be running the dunk tank.

Food and refreshments will be available throughout the day from Chamber businesses. Make sure you try some of their delicious food.

A corn eating contest will be held. Again this year, the contest will be run in a relay race format. Teams of three people will work together to eat the most corn the fastest. The first team member will start and then tag off to the next and then the next. It will be a great time!

Games for children will be set up at the event. King Pin Lanes will have a bowling game for kids to try. The Balloon Lady and a face painter will be on hand from 2 p.m.-6 p.m. This will give everyone in your family something to do at this event.

Mascots from Princess My Party will be on hand to meet area youngsters and have photos taken.

The Campbellsport

Cougar Club will have a playground area for the young and old. You will be able to stop by and play a game by yourself or with/against Campbellsport High School athletes. They will have things like basketball, soccer, football, etc, set up and will host some friendly contests throughout the day. It will be a great new addition.

The high school, middle school, Shining Stars and St. Matthew's School dance teams will all give a performance along with a kiddie clinic performance. You don't want to miss these energetic groups.

Area businesses will also be holding some free demonstrations throughout the day. B's Bells & Bootcamps will have a kid's obstacle course from 1 p.m.-4 p.m. and will do a workout with a group sometime after 4 p.m.

Essence will host a kids yoga class from 10:30 a.m.-11 a.m. and again from 6 p.m.-6:30 p.m. Owner Kim Keceli will also host an adult yoga class from 7 p.m.-8 p.m.

There is still room for vendors to sign-up for the event. Just check the Campbellsport Area Chamber of Commerce's Facebook page to download a registration form. If anyone would like to be a sponsor to help defer event costs, they would be gratefully accepted.

It will be a great day with lots of fun and events for the whole family. Stop down on West Main Street in Campbellsport on Thursday, Aug. 9, to check it out.

Wisconsin Tourism: Big Business For Wisconsin Communities

By Stephanie Klett
WI Tourism Secretary

STEPHANIE KLETT

When you're having fun, we're having fun — this sentiment is deeply rooted in our Midwestern hospitality and our sincere desire to make sure each visitor to our state has a memorable vacation. We call it Gemutlichkeit — a feeling of warmth, friendship and good cheer. And there's no shortage of it in Wisconsin.

Fun and hospitality are also big business for communities of every size across the state because the fun travelers experience in Wisconsin, results in a strong economy and quality of life. Last year, the millions of people who traveled around Wisconsin had a $20.6 billion impact on the state's economy and supported 195,255 jobs.

Over the last seven years, tourism generated nearly $10 billion in state and local taxes. This increase began when Governor Walker allocated additional funding for tourism marketing to bring even more travelers to Wisconsin.

Since then, the state has seen a steady increase in travel expenditures, jobs and tax revenues used to pay for schools, health care, roads, police and fire protection and other essential services.

This is only the beginning because tourism continues to grow in Wisconsin. In fact, the total seven-year growth of tourism activity is up more than $5.8 billion, a ing highly-skilled workers. With a booming economy, record-low unemployment this year, and more people working than ever before, it is all the more important that we have a strong talent development, attraction and retention strategy. By focusing on this strategy, we will see more people coming to our state.

Pride in tourism is at an all-time high, and tremendous credit should be given to the tourism industry and the innovative work they do to create the fun and exciting vacation experiences that rank Wisconsin number one in fun, family-friendliness, affordability, and a welcoming, worry-free atmosphere when compared to other Midwest states. Each year, more visitors are taking their hard-earned dollars and choosing Wisconsin as the destination to spend their precious time off with family, friends, and even their beloved pet.

Our tourism industry gives the gift of lifelong memories and, in turn, Wisconsin enjoys the benefits of a strong economy and a superior quality of life for its residents.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To whom it may concern,

About The Sand Mine On Ashford-Auburn Drive

Wisconsin doesn't have a tarp law to ensure the contents of a dump truck are covered during transport but the state does require that loads not spill or blow out.

Little known fact, State of Wisconsin Statute 348.10 (2) states: "No person shall operate a vehicle on a highway unless such vehicle is so constructed and loaded as to prevent its contents from dropping, sifting, leaking, or otherwise escaping there from."

Wow! What a concept and it will be followed.

I have a smart phone. Way above my pay grade, but true friends help me use it. It has a camera and a thing called Google. What a neat tool. It knows everything. More to come.

Tom Ertl,
Broadcasting Live
WERTL

Dear Editor,

I've been watching the 59th Assembly contest very closely. There are four prospective candidates seeking the Republican slot. In this heavily Republican district, the winner of the August primary will in all likelihood be our next representative.

In doing research on the four candidates, it has become very clear to me that there is one very obvious choice that is head and shoulders above the others. While I applaud all four of these folks for subjecting themselves to the rigors and scrutiny of a political race, one individual's accomplishments and character rise to the top.

One candidate is only 24 years old and has never held political office, I don't want our guy to be flying by the seat of his pants and learning as he goes. One candidate signed the Governor Walker recall petition, that is an automatic disqualification for me. One candidate is hand picked by the existing establishment to blindly vote the status quo.

By process of elimination the last person standing is clearly Tim Ramthun. Of the four, Tim is the most like President Donald Trump.

I've known Tim for many years, he will do what he promises, he is high energy, a great listener and wears his Christianity as a badge of honor.

Tim is endorsed by Wisconsin Right To Life and Wisconsin Pro Life. He will weigh each and every decision with a great forethought and go where his heart, conscience and common sense lead him, not where the majority voting block suggests. He is a dedicated family man along with a life time of accrued business acumen.

When you invest a little time to check out the facts and evidence, I believe you will come to the same conclusion. My family and I will be voting for Timothy Ramthun as our next 59th Assembly Representative.

Respectfully,
Tom Timblin

59th Assembly District,

On August 14th please vote for Timothy Ramthun. He IS the BEST person for the seat!

He alone has talked to thousand of people, so you can put a face with the name, he has personally put up his signs, so you can put a face with the name. He is a man with great passion, dignity, resolve, strength and knowledge. He will stand up for what is right and true for the people by the people. A man of great faith who has worked very hard to earn your trust and will exceed your expectations.

Please join me in putting the right person at this very important time into the 59th Assembly District seat, my husband, Timothy Ramthun.

Sincerely,
Carolann Ramthun

To the editor:

Tim Ramthun is not a "typical" candidate running for the State Assembly 59th District. He conservatively consults with various elected government officials to learn the correct knowledgeable requirements for this government position.

As a member of the Kewaskum Board of Education and also a past president, he consistently updates data and questions issues and procedures to have a more informed opinion to benefit the PEOPLE of Kewaskum. Tim is honest, sincere and personally committed in his opinions to serve in this government office (for the PEOPLE).

It is your privilege to make the right choice on August 14 and VOTE for Tim Ramthun our next representative for the 59th District in the State Assembly.

Gwendolyn Dreher
Kewaskum

Dear Editor,

After researching the candidates for the 59th Assembly district, I believe that Tim Ramthun is our best choice. A strong Conservative and a person with strong family values, the perfect fit for our District.

Be sure to get out and vote for Tim on August 14th.

Sincerely,
Dave from Hartford

To Those Who Don't Understand Mental Illness:

Please be patient. Like any other organ, the brain can get sick. When the brain gets sick, it is hard to know where it comes from and why. It is difficult to deal with and sometimes, we can tell that the way we function may be a little skewed.

When you have a mental illness, you are not in full control of your brain. When you have a sort of phobia, you have an irrational fear that can be crippling. When you are depressed, you could have the best things in the world, but that will not change that you have difficulty getting up in the morning. When you have severe schizophrenia, you see and hear things that are not there and usually medication is the only way to minimize your symptoms.

Mental illness can often be crippling. Along with the side effects of the illness itself, you have to deal with the side effects of how the world treats you. There is a stigma that faces mental illness and it makes it difficult for people to ask for help. Mental illness is viewed as something that people fake or that it is not life-altering and nobody really understands what it is like to live with a mental illness (or even multiple illnesses) unless you have one.

Please understand that this is not something that is easy. As someone who suffers from anxiety and depression, I understand that my thoughts are not accurate. I understand that my perception of the world is altered because of my mental illness, but that means nothing.

Please understand that, like any other disease, this is real and it is a major part of our lives. It is something we must deal with and it is crucial to have a strong support system to get us through our daily lives. We constantly deal with the stigma that we are faking it or that our illness is not serious, that we need to get over it.

When something is taking over your brain and changing how you behave, perceive the world, and feel, it is difficult to even understand yourself. I have trouble finding a time in my life where I did not suffer from any sort of mental illness. Mental illness severely alters a person's life and, some-

*A writer is allowed to write on a particular subject one time only, unless the editor allows additional letters.

*Candidates for office are not allowed to run letters during the election season. They will all be allowed a chance to get their points to the readers with candidate profiles the Kewaskum Statesman publishes before the election.

*Letters relating to the election will not be published in the issue right before the election.

*We do not publish letters of thanks or poetry.

*No mass-mailed letters or letters from far out of our readership area will be printed.

Send your letters to:

times, we just need you to be patient with us.

It is okay that you don't know exactly how it feels. If anything, be thankful that you don't. That does not mean you should write our illness off as something you don't need to worry about.

Encourage those close to you to worry about their mental health. Also, don't be afraid to worry about your own mental health. Anyone can suffer from a mental illness. For years, I questioned that I was living with multiple mental illnesses and I struggled to understand why. I didn't know any better and it affected the world around me.

Educate yourself about mental health. Understand what happens to a person when they suffer from a mental illness. Understand that, though every illness is different, they are all the same in that every single one is serious. We all need to start caring for ourselves more.

We lose loved ones to suicide every minute of every day. Suicide is too common of a side effect and without erasing the stigma and taking mental health seriously, we will only continue to lose more loved ones. They may not be your sister or brother, a parent, or a friend, but they are a person, a living being. As tragic as it is to lose someone because of cancer, it is just as tragic to lose someone because of mental illness. Not all who suffer from mental illness commit suicide, but the rate is still much too high.

We are not faking. We are not weak. We are strong. We just want to be understood and that mental illness is serious.

Let us know that you care. Take the time to get to know someone with a mental illness. It will be difficult but know that it is also difficult on us as well. Please be patient. Please be kind. Give those of us with mental illness a reason to hope. Hope is the basis upon which foundations are built. Let's build a stronger foundation together.

Respectfully submitted,

Now Is The Perfect Time To Get Student Physicals & Vaccinations Before School Starts

— August is National Immunization Awareness Month

The Wisconsin Association of School Nurses (WASN), representing nearly 300 members statewide, is reminding parents to check their child's immunization records and make appointments with their healthcare provider for updating vaccinations, check-ups and sports physicals in August, which is also National Immunization Month.

"We know how busy Wisconsin families are during the summer and now is really a good time to schedule all of the health visits and required vaccinations and physicals so there are no problems once classes start for the 2018/2019 school year," said Barbara Maley, RN and executive director of the Wisconsin Association of School Nurses. "A family doctor visit will help ensure your child is healthy and ready for the challenges of a new school year in a few weeks. Check-ups and vaccinations are not just for children, adult participation helps keep families healthy. Easily accessible vaccinations remain the best proven method of preventing disease and allow our school nurses statewide to better serve and keep student populations free from communicable illness."

Wisconsin school immunization law requires vaccinations for chicken pox, measles/mumps/rubella, hepatitis B, polio, diphtheria/pertussis (whooping cough) and tetanus. Vaccination waivers are also accepted for religious, personal or medical reasons. Health experts also recommend that children ages 11 to 12 be immunized against Meningococcal and HPV.

Yearly influenza immunizations are recommended for all students. Parents with college-bound students are urged to have them vaccinated against meningitis and its Type B strain, according to Maley. Two years ago, a Type B meningitis outbreak at UW-Madison resulted in more than 21,000 students being immunized.

Call your healthcare provider or the local health department now to receive the vaccines needed to keep your family protected. Parents can check Wisconsin vaccination records for themselves and their children online via the Wisconsin Immunization Registry at <https://tinyurl.com/q3jsy> and school district immunization rates at <https://tinyurl.com/y7373dku>.

The mission of WASN is to support and advance the practice of professional school nurses in Wisconsin to enhance the health, safety and educational success of students. For more information, please visit www.wischoolnurses.org.

Hearing Set To Reinstate Rules For Part-Time Open Enrollment

The Department of Public Instruction will conduct a hearing from 2:30 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 9, at department headquarters, GEF 3, Room P41, 125 South Webster Street, Madison, to take public testimony on proposed amendments to Chapter PI 36, restoring rules related to part-time open enrollment.

Part-time open enrollment allows public school pupils to attend a nonresident public school to take a course offered by the nonresident school district. The 2013-2015 biennial budget eliminated the program, then it was restored through 2017 Wisconsin Act 59. The emergency and proposed permanent rules reinstate procedures for efficiently implementing part-time open enrollment.

Written comments on the emergency and proposed permanent rules may be made via the department's form for submitting public comment, <https://goo.gl/forms/clUDCeucT89DGO53>. Questions or additional testimony on the proposed rules may be sent by e-mail to the department's administrative rules coordinator, adminrules@dpi.wi.gov, or by U.S. mail to Carl Bryan, administrative rules coordinator, 125 South Webster Street, P.O. Box 7841, Madison, WI 53707-7841.

Written comments received no later than Monday, Aug. 20, will be given the same consideration as testimony presented at the hearing. The text of the rules is available on the Wisconsin Legislature's Clearinghouse Rules site, https://docs.legis.wisconsin.gov/code/emergency_rules/all/emr1814.

VILLAGE OF KEWASKUM ORDINANCE NO. 18-04

AN ORDINANCE TO REPEAL AND RECREATE SECTION 62-150 RESIDENCY RESTRICTION FOR SEX OFFENDERS.

THE VILLAGE BOARD OF THE VILLAGE OF KEWASKUM, WASHINGTON COUNTY, WISCONSIN, DO ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. That Section 150 of Chapter 62 hereby be repealed and recreated as follows:

WHEREAS, the Village Board of the Village of Kewaskum, Washington County, Wisconsin, deems it a priority to act in the interest of public safety within our community, particularly in the interest of our children; and

WHEREAS, according to the U.S. Department of Justice, there are a record number of convicted sex offenders living in our communities¹; and

WHEREAS, all convicted child sex offenders have proven themselves to be dangerous²; and

WHEREAS, research in this area has established sex offenders are rearrested for sex crimes four times more frequently than non-sex offenders³; and

WHEREAS, the reduction of crime and criminal recidivism are inextricably linked to public safety within our community; and

WHEREAS, the creation of Sex Offender Residency Restrictions and Safety Zones by municipal ordinance around locations where children regularly congregate is a reasonable step toward protecting our children and deterring recidivism by reducing the opportunity for new offenses within our community; and

WHEREAS, the majority of the larger population centers in Washington County, including the Village of Germantown, the City of Hartford, the Village of Jackson, the Village of Newburg, the Village of Richfield, and the Village of Slinger have already adopted Sex Offender Residency Restrictions, which increases the likelihood that, barring the adoption of such an ordinance, an inordinate number of sex offenders could be placed within our community; and

WHEREAS, adopting an ordinance containing a specific domicile clause prohibiting residency of sex offenders who were not from the Village of Kewaskum at the time of their offense will reasonably limit Kewaskum's intake of sex offender residents to its own constituents; and

WHEREAS, adoption of this ordinance will not exclude all areas of the Village of Kewaskum from sex offender residency, nor will it serve to completely banish these offenders from residing within our municipality; and

WHEREAS, the Village Board having considered the proposed amendment to the Municipal Code to create residency restrictions for certain sex offenders and additional provisions to further protect the children of our community:

¹ Sex Offender Management Assessment and Planning Initiative, July 2015, "This includes offenders returning to the community upon release from incarceration as well as offenders who are serving or who have been discharged from community-based sentences."

³ Sex Offender Management Assessment and Planning Initiative, July 2015, Langan, P., Schmitt, E., & Durose, M. (2003). Recidivism of Sex Offenders Released From Prison in 1994.

NOW, THEREFORE, THE KEWASKUM VILLAGE BOARD, WISCONSIN DOES ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

CHAPTER 62, ARTICLE V – SEX OFFENDER RESIDENCY RESTRICTIONS

62-150 RESIDENCY AND SAFETY RESTRICTIONS FOR SEX OFFENDERS. The Wisconsin Statutes govern the punishment of individuals who commit sex crimes. Nothing in this ordinance should be construed to apply to an offender currently in compliance with all court orders issued under Chapter 980 of the Wisconsin Statutes or to a person providing housing to the offender in compliance with those court orders.

(1) PURPOSE. This ordinance is a non-punitive, civil regulatory measure aimed at protecting the public health, safety and welfare of the children and citizens of the Village of Kewaskum from the risk that convicted sex offenders may re-offend in locations close to their residences. The Village finds and declares that sex offenders who prey upon children are a serious threat to public safety and it is necessary for the Village to enact reasonable measures to reduce the opportunity and minimize the risk of re-offense by protecting children where they congregate or play in public places in addition to the protections afforded by state law near schools and other places children frequent.

Garden Your Way To Better Health

MELINDA MYERS

Break out the tools and garden your way to a healthier mind, body and spirit. Gardeners have always known it, but now research proves that gardening is a great form of exercise.

You'll work out all your major muscle groups when raking, digging and planting for an hour. Include gardening as a major component of your workout schedule. You'll stretch and strengthen muscles while promoting cardiovascular health and maintaining bone mass. A University of Arkansas study found that yard work as well as weight training more significantly maintained bone density than aerobics, dancing or bicycling in women over 50.

And for those of us trying to lose weight, add 30 minutes of gardening to your daily or weekly routine to help shed some extra pounds. A half hour of raking burns 162 calories, weeding 182, and turning the compost pile a whopping 250 calories. Gardening several times a week will help keep you and your landscape looking its best. Anytime I can receive double or triple the benefit from my time and energy, the more likely I am to complete the task.

Protect your joints and muscles while gardening. Warm up, just as you would for any workout, with a few simple stretches. Protect your knees by using a stool, kneeling pad or one legged kneel (keeping your other foot flat on the ground and back straight) instead of squatting.

And no matter what shape you are in, drink lots of fluids to stay hydrated during and after you finish gardening. This is especially important with the extreme temperatures we are experiencing this summer. Try gardening early in the morning or evening when temperatures are a bit cooler. And time your work in garden beds when they're blanketed in shade.

Protect both your eyes and skin from the sun's intense rays by always wearing sunscreen, a hat and sunglasses. And consider regular checkups with a dermatologist to monitor for skin cancer.

Pace yourself so you can enjoy the process and smell the roses, heliotrope, daphne and alyssum along the way. Gardeners have been into aromatherapy long before its recent rise in popularity. A few strategically placed fragrant flowers can create a delightful welcome home, soothing scent in your secret garden or aromatherapy as you weed and tend your landscape.

Include some edible flowers and fruit for you, the birds and the butterflies. Nothing beats the flavor or nutritional value of fresh-from-the-garden fruits and vegetables. Plus, watching the butterflies and hummingbirds sip on nectar from a fuchsia, coral honeysuckle, verbena or salvia as the finches feed on coneflower seeds will provide added beauty while the squirrels' acrobatic antics on giant sunflowers are sure to entertain.

If the task is too big or your time is limited, ask for help. Gardening can also be a great team sport. Or make it a round robin as you take turns gardening in each other's gardens. You'll all enjoy a day filled with gardening, conversation and laughter. What was once an overwhelming task suddenly becomes a chance to spend time with friends, enjoy the garden and create new memories. Sharing your knowledge, plant divisions or other talents like cooking or pet sitting may be the perfect trade for your friends' time and energy.

And as a wise person once said "Planting a garden is a way of showing you believe in tomorrow."

Melinda Myers has written more than 20 gardening books, including Small Space Gardening.

Heliotrope, nicotiana and other fragrant flowers can provide aromatherapy at the end of a stressful day.

Fall Webworms Start Making An Appearance

Web-like nests of fall webworm caterpillars, a common native pest active from July through September in Wisconsin, are beginning to appear in parts of the state.

"Fall webworms are rarely large enough to cause lasting damage to trees, but the presence of nests and feeding damage from caterpillars can greatly affect how the tree looks," says Todd Lanigan, forest health specialist for the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources.

The fall webworm

(Hyphantrea cunea) feeds on leaves of almost all shade, fruit, and ornamental trees and shrubs, except for conifers, throughout most of the U.S. and southern Canada. They typically form nests of loose webbing over the tips of tree branches.

"Trees typically recover from feeding damage on their own, but defoliation for more than two or three years in a row could make trees more susceptible to diseases and other problems," he says.

If intervention becomes necessary, one of the easiest ways to manage fall webworms is to simply tear open the nests with a rake or pole.

"Opening the nests allows natural predators such as birds and other insects to reach caterpillars inside the otherwise impenetrable webbing," Lanigan says.

A rake or pole may also be used to roll up nests and remove them from the tree. Detached nests should be placed in a container of soapy water overnight to drown caterpillars. One may also simply scrape the nests off onto the ground and crush them to destroy the caterpillars. These actions are best undertaken in early morning or late afternoon when caterpillars are gathered in their nests.

Never attempt to burn the nests off the branches. This action will almost certainly damage the tree and may result in an uncontrolled fire and injury.

On small trees, where webbed branches are within reach, nests can be manually pruned out and destroyed. This is only practical if the webs have not become too large and the aesthetic shape of the tree will not be affected by pruning.

On larger trees, pesticide treatments might be useful. Apply appropriate pesticides while caterpillars are inside the nest in the morning or late afternoon. Chemical treatments are most effective on small, young caterpillars such as those present in late July/early August. Larger, solitary caterpillars are harder to control with pesticides. When applying pesticides, it is important to make sure that the nest is completely penetrated. Always read and follow label directions for safe use of any pesticide.

For more information on fall webworms, visit UW Extension at hort.uwex.edu/articles/webworms or Michigan State University's Extension at msue.anr.msu.edu/news/the_rise_and_fall_of_the_fall_webworm.

KHS Students Experience St. Joseph's Hospital Health Care Careers Academy

Eight Kewaskum High School students recently completed the two-week Froedtert & the Medical College of Wisconsin St. Joseph's Hospital Health Care Careers Academy, in which they shadow and learn from professionals in various departments.

The academy provides qualified students entering their junior or senior year in fall with the opportunity to expand their knowledge as it relates to a wide array of professional health care career options. This experience provides each student with a well-balanced approach toward health care career exposure. This exposure assists with clarifying roles and responsibilities while motivating students and encouraging health care career choices. Through observation, hands-on experience, classroom discussion and research, students expand their awareness and interest in health care careers.

The students recently gave presentations about their experiences in the academy. Some comments they shared about their experiences included:

"Each doctor, each nurse, each tech plays as teammates to help the patient – the communication and the bond they make with the patient is just beautiful to see. Oncology just touched my heart. After these two weeks, it just backs up my decision to go into health care. It really helped me for the future."

"It was a beautiful thing to see a child be born. It gave me a better understanding of what I'm interested in. I've decided I want to be a NICU nurse. Being in the Birth Center helped me decide that. It gave me better insight of what a career as a NICU nurse would be like."

"The hospital isn't just doctors and nurses. There are so many others. They really care about their patients."

"It helped me better understand what it will take to be a surgeon. It helped me know that this is what I want to do in life. It's really cool to see how all the departments interact and mesh together. I have a new appreciation for how the departments interact."

"Being able to see the 'behind-the-scenes' was really helpful. It made me want to be in health care even more. It gave me more confidence to go into health care."

"I love the environment in the hospital – all the respect and communication."

Something To Crow About

"Come on, Harold! You can do it!" Cameron cheered loudly, clapping his hands.

In the next cage, Puffy, a large black rooster with a red comb, looked like he might catch up.

So much so that whippers of a crow-off started to make their way through the crowd.

But then Puffy showed how he got his name-sake. He took a deep breath, puffed out his chest and fanned his tail feathers, ready to strut his stuff. His crowing slowed way down, and he did not even make a peep.

Cameron saw this as a chance to pull ahead. He encouraged Harold all the more.

"Come on, Harold! Think of your girls!" Cameron coached loudly.

Harold seemed to understand the message and began fixing his feathers with his sharp beak, attempting to look his sharpest.

"Stop pruning yourself!" Cameron chided. "Come on, Harold, just a couple more crows! You can do it!"

Down at the other end of the line, 10-year-old Tessa Smith worked her Lemon Blue Old English Rooster named Lime.

Lime was much smaller than Harold, with a quieter voice, but he still could crow plenty often.

To encourage Lime to make some noise, Tessa blew softly at his head.

The soft breeze was not comforting to Lime. But Tessa was not trying to soothe him.

"It helps to make him angry. Then he crows more," Tessa explained knowingly.

As the timer continued counting down to 15 minutes, the roosters repeatedly crowed, as if someone kept hitting the snooze button.

As the contest neared a close, Cameron cheered all the louder, clapping and encouraging Harold.

It worked, and Harold pulled through with a couple more screeches, claiming victory with a total of 24 crows.

As Cameron accepted the trophy and $10 prize, he revealed the secret to helping a rooster win a crowing contest: "You have to encourage him and make him think of his girls."

Cameron Wetzel, 11, cheers on Harold as he competes in the Rooster Crowing Contest at the Washington County Fair on Sunday.

Horicon Marsh Holds Outdoor Skills Day

Archery, birding, hunting and fishing are among the fun things to be taught by Department of Natural Resources staff and expert volunteers during the free and family-friendly August 4 Horicon Marsh Outdoor Skills Day.

Horicon Wildlife Educator Liz Herzmann says no registration is required for the August 4 events for all ages. It will run from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

"There will be something for everyone at this hands-on, family-friendly event," Herzmann said. "Even if you have a pretty good idea of which activities appeal to you, it can be a great learning experience for anyone with an interest in the outdoors."

Versatile Dog Demonstrations

Join expert dog handlers with multiple breeds and see how they are trained for obedience and hunting. Visit the Friends of the Poynette Game Farm Trailer to meet the handlers and dogs as you watch them show off their skills.

How's Your Aim?

The Horicon Bowmen and the DNR are proud to offer the archery camp at this year's event. People of all ages can try archery using the National Archery in the Schools Program (NASP) equipment. Herzmann says this is the same easy-to-use equipment schools across Wisconsin use in their physical education programs.

Birds, Binoculars, And Safety, Too!

Members of the Wisconsin Trappers Association will have a booth with pelts, traps and information for anyone who is interested in learning more about regulated trapping. Certified Hunter Safety Instructors will be available with firearm action sets to demonstrate proper firearm use and safety. Practice your aim with laser guns as well. Climb into a harness and learn about tree stand safety.

Expert birders will be on hand to show the basics of binocular use. Then, you can put those skills to action on a bird scavenger hunt.

Cast A Line

Learn the basics of proper casting so that you can catch the big one on your next fishing excursion. Try your hand at tying your own fly. Be prepared and make your own para cord survival bracelet to take along with you.

Calling All Wildlife

Join experts in wildlife calls. Can you honk like a goose, quack like a duck or cluck like a hen turkey?

The Horicon Marsh Education and Visitor Center is located between Horicon and Mayville on Highway 28. For a detailed list of all Horicon Marsh Education and Visitor Center special events, please visit the Friends of Horicon Marsh website at www.horiconmarsh.org.

Allergies preventing you from enjoying the weather?

Have you tried allergy medications with no success?

ASK YOUR LOCAL KEWASKUM HOMETOWN PHARMACIST ABOUT NATURAL D-HIST!

Allergy season is upon us, and with about 50% of the population having allergies it is helpful to know your options on how to treat allergy symptoms for you and your family. Environmental allergies are often associated with specific seasons, such as spring or late summer, when trees and plants are spreading pollen into the air. Your allergies may even be year-round and be caused by dust, mold, or animal dander. No matter the time of year or the extent of your allergies, they can impact your daily living and quality of life. Symptoms often include itchy or watery eyes, runny or stuffy nose, plugged ears, sneezing, difficulty breathing, and coughing.

The most common treatments for various types of allergies are antihistamines. Antihistamines block histamine, which is a chemical that is released from the body when it comes into contact with an allergen, which leads to the typical symptoms associated with allergies. Some examples of these medications include: loratadine (Claritin™), cetirizine (Zyrtec™), fexofenadine (Allegra™), and diphenhydramine (Benadryl™). Antihistamines may not work for everyone and may lead to side effects, such as drowsiness or dry mouth.

There are numerous medications that can help you get symptom relief, such as nasal sprays, eye drops, or decongestants. If you have tried lots of products in the past or have to be on a number of medications in order to get relief, Natural D-Hist may be for you.

Natural D-Hist, made by OrthoMolecular, is a natural medication available only through health care professionals, and it's made locally here in Wisconsin. It works by clearing nasal and sinus passages, reducing mucus, aiding in respiratory health, and increasing immune function. Better yet, this medication prevents symptoms from starting in the first place and is found have less side effects than traditional allergy medications. Most individuals require only a 7 to 10-day course to help clear up symptoms and can then use Natural D-Hist as needed afterwards.

If you're wondering if Natural D-Hist is right for you, come into your local Kewaskum Hometown Pharmacy today. Our pharmacists are happy to help you find the right allergy medication for you and answer any questions you may have on other available natural products!

McMullen, Buhler, Yancey, Hansen, Boden Score PDTR A-main Triumphs

With a smooth and wide racing surface on which to showcase their skills, four former Plymouth Dirt Track Racing champions and a highly accomplished visitor tasted victory in A-main competition at The Plymouth Dirt Track at the Sheboygan County Fairgrounds in Plymouth on Saturday, July 28.

Reigning PDTR 360 Sprint Car champion Brandon McMullen of Oshkosh notched his second consecutive A-main victory in the Richard's of Dunbar PDTR 360 Sprint Car headliner. 2016 PDTR Late Model champion Tim Buhler of Greenbush turned in an impressive performance to collect his first Gasroots Project Late Model A-main victory of the 2018 campaign.

Sheboygan's Matt Yancey, who claimed the PDTR Grand National title in 2008, earned his second Klips & Tips Grand National A-main win of the season. Potent area frontrunner Travis Hansen of Brillion made the most of his first appearance of the 2018 season at Plymouth by notching his first career Cellcom B Mod A-main win.

Zach Boden of Madison, who picked up the 2016 PDTR Micro Sprint championship, scored his second consecutive Kristine Hartmann Pleasant View Realty Micro Sprint A-main victory.

In the 25-lap Sprint Car A main, cousins Tony Wondra of Campbellsport and Doug Wondra of Oakfield lined up on the front row with Tony Wondra rocketing out to the lead on the opening circuit.

Tony Wondra held a solid lead over the first five circuits as the leaders raced along the preferred high groove. On lap six, slower traffic began to come into play, which allowed 2010 PDTR Sprint Car champ Kurt Davis of South Milwaukee to close the gap significantly.

By lap 10, Davis had pulled to within striking distance with Doug Wondra and two-time PDTR Sprint Car champ Danny Schlafer of Sussex following closely in tow. However, one lap later disaster struck for Schlafer as he hit the turn three wall hard to bring out the first caution flag of the event.

Following the restart,

Tony Wondra bolted out to a big full-straightaway advantage over Davis until once again slower traffic began to come into play on lap 16. Davis moved into to challenge on lap 18 as slide jobs were being thrown for position throughout the field by multiple drivers on the extremely wide racing surface.

As the laps wound down, Davis powered past Tony Wondra briefly in turn two on lap 23 before Wondra turned back under Davis to maintain the lead. However, Brandon McMullen, who started eighth, worked the low groove to slip past both Wondra and Davis to take the lead exiting turn four on lap 23.

With McMullen holding a slight advantage over Tony Wondra and Davis, the caution flag flew again when Tyler Brabant of Waupun and Doug Wondra collided in turn two just as the white flag was displayed to the field, which set up a single-file restart with 23 laps officially complete.

McMullen used a great restart to power away from Tony Wondra and Davis as the rest of the field jockeyed for position over the final two laps. McMullen pulled away over the final lap to notch his 14th career PDTR Sprint Car A-main triumph and 19th overall Midwest Sprint Car Association main event victory.

Tony Wondra held on to finish second, Davis took third, Paul Pokorski of West Bend charged from his 10th starting spot to place fourth and PDTR Sprint Car point leader Justin Miller of Plymouth placed fifth after starting third.

Milwaukee's Jim Letizia and four-time PDTR Late Model champion and current point leader Brad Mueller of Random Lake led the 25-lap Late Model A-main to the green flag from the front row.

Mueller used the high groove to gain the early advantage before 2016 PDTR Late Model champ Tim Buhler, who started fourth, used an aggressive low move in turn three to slide past Mueller into the lead exiting turn four of the opening circuit.

On lap four, third starter Justin Schmidt of Cleveland utilized the low groove to move past the high-riding Mueller in turn four while sixth starter Jim Schmidt of Cleveland worked the high line to pass Mueller for third on lap 13.

Schmidt chipped away at Buhler's lead over the next 15 laps before attempting to dive under Buhler in turn two on lap 22. However, while attempting the move, Schmidt got sideways and spun in turn two to bring out the first caution flag of the race.

Buhler maintained his advantage on the ensuing restart followed by Jim Schmidt and Mueller before the second and final caution flag was displayed when Dave Jaeger of Slinger spun on the final lap.

Following the single-file restart with two laps remaining, Jim Schmidt jumped the cushion in turn two, which allowed eighth starter Kevin Baldry of Omro to assume second briefly before Mueller bolted past to gain the runner-up spot in turn four.

Meanwhile, Buhler raced on to post his 12th career PDTR Late Model A-main victory. Mueller was second, Baldry took third, Jim Schmidt placed fourth and Letizia rounded out the top five.

Outside front row starter Matt Yancey out maneuvered polesitter Darryl Traubel to lead the opening lap of the 25-lap Grand National A-main. After the low yellow flag of the race appeared on lap two for a spin involving Brad Weiss of West Bend, Yancey maintained the top spot along the low groove.

On lap four, fourth starter Kurt Davis, Traubel and Plymouth's Justin Erickson, who started third, duelled three wide for second place with Davis eventually gaining the runner-up spot in turn one on lap five.

Davis then gradually reeled in Yancey along the inside groove and closed to Yancey's rear bumper on lap 22. However, Davis was unable to make a move on the leader as Yancey held on to post his sixth career PDTR Grand National A-main triumph.

Davis claimed second, point leader Matt Loehr of Dotyville placed third, after starting 10th, Traubel was fourth and Plymouth's Steven Weber rounded out the top five after starting fifth.

Polesitter Rick Kretschmann of Sheboygan Falls led the opening lap of the 25-lap B Mod A-main before the first two of four caution flags for spins slowed the pace on lap two.

When the race resumed, third starter Travis Hansen made his presence felt as he worked the high groove to pressure the low-riding Kretschmann for the top spot. On lap four, Hansen cleared Kretschmann and proceeded to build up a full straightaway lead by lap 10.

As Kretschmann, second starter and current point leader Gary Glander of Sheboygan Falls and 2017 PDTR B mod champ Justin Green of Sheboygan Falls, who started fifth, mounted a heated duel for second, the third caution flag flew on lap 13 for a spin involving James Rautmann of Howards Grove.

Following the restart, Glander ducked low to claim second with Green following into third. On lap 21, Green ventured high to pressure Glander for second before the fourth and final caution flag flew to set up a four-lap dash to the finish.

On the restart, Hansen again bolted away from the pack while 11th starter Tim Sheppard of Beaver Dam mounted a huge charge along the high groove to power around Glander and Green into second place on the final circuit.

Hansen held on to post his first career PDTR B Mod A-main victory, Sheppard came home second, Green wound up third, Glander was fourth and Kretschmann completed the top five.

Polesitter Jake Dohner of Milton led the opening laps of the 15-lap Micro Sprint A main as fourth starter Jack Vanderboom of Dousman pressured Dohner for the top spot.

The first of two caution flags appeared on lap

Washington County Fair Inspires Young Authors

Walter had attended a similar camp for adults in 2010 as part of the National Writing Project, and Bindrich went to the camp the following year. The camp served as a writing institute about teachers teaching teachers.

After they had both gone through the summer institute, Bindrich and Walter came to a consensus.

"We have to do this with kids," they agreed.

And that was the beginning of the kids' camp.

Once again this year, Bindrich and Walter led the camp for students in grades seven through 12. This summer, the camp was expanded to include younger students as well.

Kelly DeLaura, a fifth-grade teacher at Addison Elementary, led the "Young Writers Camp" for the students in grades three through six. Nate Grimm, a teacher at Slinger High School, helped with the writing marathon held at the fair.

During the camp, students were exposed to different writing genres. Their work included memoir writing, fantasy writing, writing from an object, flash fiction, poetry and humor.

The young writers were given different prompts, and then they went on to complete a written piece. However, students were not forced to complete any assignments.

"We always say this is your time to write what you love to write about, this isn't school," Bindrich said.

Some students wrote stories based on the prompts offered at the camp. Others worked on pieces they had started before coming to camp.

"Some were really excited to try everything," Bindrich said. "I was really impressed with how many were willing to try the different kinds of writing."

Not all of the young writers completed all of their stories.

"That's OK," Bindrich said. "That's what writers do. They take different things, and they experiment and see what works for them."

During their writing marathon at the fair last week, the students worked off of different prompts.

When they were near the animal barns, the students wrote fantasy stories based on "Charlotte's Web."

When they were near the carnival rides, the students sat on the ground and penned scary stories in their notebooks about the rides.

And before they left, the students sampled some of the food. They took pictures of the fair treats and then wrote reviews about the tasty treats.

A total of 32 youth in grades three through 12 participated in a two-week writers' camp through the Fox Valley Writing Project. The camp culminated with a writing marathon at the Washington County Fair last week.

When they finished with the writing marathon, the group took a short break in a tent before leaving the fairgrounds.

"We all sat down, and then without us even asking them to, the kids took out their notebooks and started writing, which was clearly just incredible. This group of kids we had, they were just so willing to write, and they wanted to write and produce original pieces of work," Bindrich said.

The following are stories written by students during the Writing Marathon held at the Washington County Fair last week.

The Tilt-A-Whirl is one of the rides featured at the Washington County Fair. It sparked a creative story during a writers' camp that was held last week.

Tilt-A-Whirl

By Zoey Reysen, age 10
Farmington Elementary School, Grade 5

When two girls wanted a thrill, they rode around the tracks. Thinking and thinking what ride they should conquer next.

Then one girl spotted their thrill... only one ticket to ride. But she didn't care, they ran to the ride known as the Tilt-A-Whirl.

It spun them round and round again and again until the ride went out of control. People and carts flew off, destroying other rides. The girls' cart flew onto the Wacky Shack! It continued to fall through many floors until it hit the ground.

The girls hopped off of the cart and tried to stop the ride but it didn't work. They gave it their all but nothing that they could do helped! Someone stepped up that looked much stronger than them, so the girls made sure to step back. They looked at one another, wondering, "What might happen next?"

The guy fixed the ride and it worked again!

The girls were in shock. They felt guilty. They thought they should have saved the day. The guy's quick fix seemed too easy and simple. Would it last?

The ride started up again and the girls stepped up and pushed the man aside. All of a sudden the Tilt-A-Whirl started making a noise that made everyone's ears hurt. They tried to calm the ride by talking to it, dancing, even singing to it. It got a little bit calmer, but everything they did just wouldn't work completely.

They were confused, what did it want? Did it want food? They bought it corn on the cob and it relaxed a little bit. They kept buying food for the beast.

Little by little, with each corn dog, funnel cake, snow cone and ear of corn, the beast was finally tamed. The girls rode the ride first to see if it was back to normal.

The Tilt-A-Whirl was so full it got sick all over them, but they didn't mind because the ride was happy again. Then they heard the ride mumble "Payback for all the people that get sick on me."

Thankfully, the Tilt-A-Whirl worked great for the rest of the fair. Until next year....

Young writers could be spotted all around the Washington County fairgrounds last week.

As one of the deep fried pickles touches your tongue, you taste a sweet and sour taming of the deep fried pickle with the magical sauce. You see the wavy green little edges of the pickles. You taste the sweetness of the pickle and you can feel how many people have worked hard to cook it. The salt of the pickle completes it all and you know that you like it even if it sounds disgusting. So try it anyway.... You'll never know 'til you try!

Deep fried pickles are a delicacy that could be found at last week's county fair.

Inspiration Through Animals

By Abigail Walter
Slinger Middle School,
Grade 8

Wednesday morning, Our group of Washington County Fair-bound campers and facilitators spilled into Slinger High School vans, Too excited to grumble about how early we woke up.

Arriving, our Slinger Authors' Camp parade came streaming out of the four white vans,

Sporting bright green T-shirts reading: "Write the words you want to change the world."

The barns came as a bit of a shock to someone who has always shied away from animals.

I surprised myself, discovering that goats and pigs are fascinating.

An excerpt of Charlotte's Web read aloud may have felt completely normal to the incoming third-graders, but it brought the rest of us back to days of trapping our elementary school teachers in circles of heavily-worn carpet squares.

After writing stories where animals took on human traits, details lured a reader into the author's world, and adjectives predicted our futures, we headed for the Small Animal Barn where I shocked myself once again by stroking what easily could have been the world's cutest bunny.

So, if you ever find a story full of shockingly vivid details with talking goats, singing pigs, and adorable dancing bunnies, just know if they had to describe the fair in one adjective, They would choose: "Remarkable!"

Samantha Staffin, a Kewaskum Middle School student, is one of the writers who participated in the two-week writing camp this summer.

The proposed changes to the ordinance include the following exceptions to the restriction on off-premises advertising:

- Athletic venues, parks, memorials and other institutionally zoned facilities that are sponsored may display signs of the contributing businesses. Design and location of these signs shall require a sign permit mit and Plan Commission approval. Approval will be based on the compatibility of such signs with the adjacent land uses and the character of the neighborhood. Scoreboards and other facilities without commercial logos or advertisements at schools and parks are allowed in such districts and do not require a sign permit.

- Electronic Message

Centers (video screens). Electronic message centers are allowed and regulated in [village ordinance] 95-95. Electronic message centers must be permitted by the business occupying the parcel and cannot be on a vacant lot. Electronic Message centers may contain video advertisements for off-premise businesses.

Using special tongs, workers stretch rolls of AstroTurf across the Kewaskum High School football field. Once the turf has been glued down, workers will cut in hash marks, the school logo, letters and soccer lines before sand and rubber pellets are added.

Last week, workers began unrolling AstroTurf on the Kewaskum High School football field. To install the turf, workers cut the sides straight and roll in the sideline pieces with the sidelines already marked.
