

Joseph Klahn, 32, has started a new life of sobriety with the help of Exodus House. The Kewaskum native, who began using drugs when he was 15, has been drug-free for over a year. This is the first part in a series about drug abuse and recovery.

Starting A New Life

By Anne Trautner

About 17 months ago, Joseph Klahn was a drug addict.

He was a convicted felon who had spent over seven years of his life in jail or prison.

He did not know how to go on. Three days in a row, he tried to kill himself with heroin.

"It didn't work, luckily, thank God," Klahn said. "But I was just so burnt out."

So he went to Alarus Healthcare and asked for help.

Two ladies there, Cheri Noll and Jayne Ours, listened to him. They tried to talk him into starting a treatment plan.

But Klahn left the office and returned home.

The ladies called him. And they called again. And again.

"They called me seriously 50 times," Klahn said. "I was trying to kill myself and they kept calling." Klahn said.

Klahn answered the call.

And then he checked into the Exodus House in Kewaskum for treatment.

Klahn, 32, has been drug-free ever since.

"I have a new life," he said.

The Beginning

Joseph Klahn started using drugs when he was 15. He was a student at Kewaskum High School at the time.

"I started using to fit in with other kids and stuff. I didn't even really like to smoke weed or anything at first, Klahn said.

But soon Klahn was using heroin, cocaine and crack. Before long, Klahn started selling drugs also.

"I got a rush out of that, too. So I was like addicted to selling, because you get a rush off of being important," Klahn explained.

By Anne Trautner

The Village of Kewaskum will hold its annual fireworks display at River Hill Park on Wednesday, July 3, at dusk, approximately 9:30 p.m. The rain date is Thursday, July 4.

To reserve spots to view the fireworks, spectators are allowed to lay tarps on the hill starting at 6 a.m. on Monday, July 1.

On July 3, the band "Shut the Front Door" will perform in the large shelter on top of the hill from 6:30 p.m. until midnight. Heberer Bros. Home Improvement,

In addition, the Kewaskum Kiwanis Club will sell popcorn and ice cream.

No carry-ins are allowed, and sparklers are prohibited.

Following the fireworks, cars parked on the west side of the Milwaukee River will be directed west on Main Street, and cars on the east side of the river will be directed to go east.

Once the River Hill Park parking lot is cleared out, cars parked in the grass lot on Prospect Street will be directed to go east on Highway 28.

Westbury Bank Opens Temporary Branch

By Anne Trautner

The new Westbury Bank temporary branch officially opened in Kewaskum on Monday, June 24.

"We are excited to be back up and running in Kewaskum," Branch Manager Kristy Vogt said. "The people in Kewaskum have been so understanding as we have gone through this transition."

Fire damaged Westbury Bank's permanent branch on Fond du Lac Avenue in Kewaskum on May 30.

The new temporary "Piggly Bank," located in the parking lot of Geidel's Piggly Wiggly on Fond du Lac Avenue in Kewaskum, will be used while the permanent Kewaskum branch is rebuilt. In addition to acquiring space from Piggly Wiggly, Westbury worked with the village to obtain proper zoning and electric permits for the temporary structure.

The temporary facility, which was constructed from two doublewide trailers, houses teller stations, four offices and restrooms.

Customer accounts, which are kept electronically, were not affected by the fire.

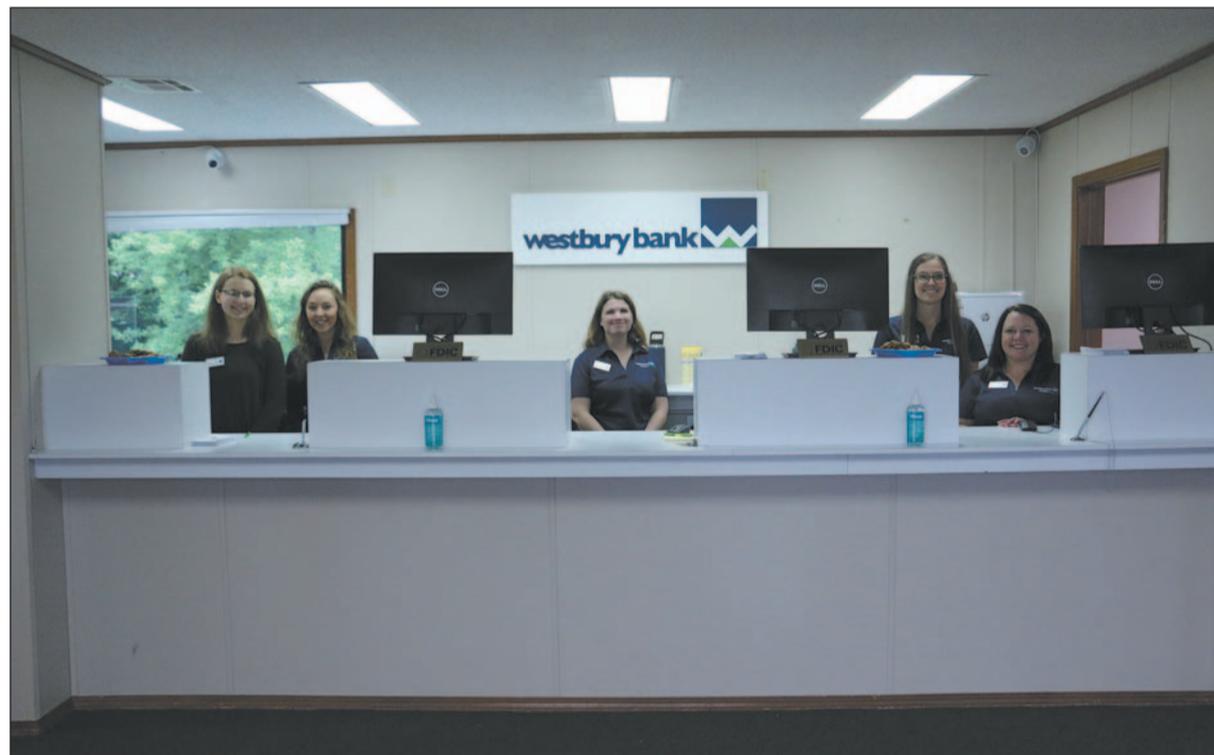

Reconstruction of the Westbury Bank branch at 1052 Fond Du Lac Ave. in Kewaskum is expected to be completed in nine to 12 months. Until the reconstruction is finished, Westbury's nearest drive-through and ATM services are at the bank's two West Bend branches at 200 S. Main St. and 2501 W. Washington St.

The cause of the bank fire is still under investigation and the extent of the damages is still being determined.

Sheriff's Office Implements Safety Resource Deputy Position

This month the Washington County Sheriff's Office implemented a full-time safety resource deputy position, with the specific mission of enhancing the safety and security of both public institutions and private businesses within Washington County.

The position will initially focus on increasing the coordination and consistency between Washington County schools in safety planning. The program will then expand the Sheriff's Office capability to assist in safety planning for private sector organizations such as health care facilities, day care centers, commercial/industrial businesses and churches. The program does not create a new position within the Sheriff's Office, but rather realigns existing personnel to address a specific concern.

According to Washington County Sheriff Martin R. Schulteis, "Those who would seek to bring harm to our communities do not care about the geographical location of the target structure, or which public safety agency will respond to it. They just seek to do harm. Law enforcement's responsibility is to take a proactive and collaborative approach with our community partners to heighten security measures for all different types of institutions."

Deputy Chris Parkinson, who has nearly 15 years of experience with the Sheriff's Office, began to serve the community in the Safety Resource role earlier this month. Sheriff Schulteis indicated that Parkinson has attended numerous trainings related to school safety and threat assessment development. He is also a certified instructor in active threat response.

"Deputy Parkinson's knowledge base and passion for community safety make him the ideal deputy to maximize the alliance between law enforcement and the community we collectively serve," Schulteis stated.

Oshkosh Corporation Donation Benefits Teachers, Students

—Company Donates $10,000 For CESA 6 Summit, Micro-grants

Thousands of area K-12 teachers will learn innovative new strategies to help their students grow and achieve, thanks to a generous donation by Oshkosh Corporation team members as part of their annual “Oshkosh Excellence Awards.”

The Fortune 500 company recently donated $10,000 to Cooperative Educational Service Agency (CESA) 6 in Oshkosh. The non-profit organization will use the funds to bring national speakers to a February 2020 educational summit, as well as provide micro-grants to teachers for additional professional development year-round.

“High-quality professional development is very hard for public schools to access,” CESA 6 CEO Ted Neitzke said. “We want to provide an affordable option to learn from top-notch educational leaders, right here at home.”

For just the cost of lunch, CESA 6 provided “Spring into Success,” a full day of learning with four keynote speakers and more than 50 breakout sessions held simultaneously at Neenah and Slinger high schools on Presidents’ Day 2019. The recent donation by Oshkosh Corporation will help CESA 6 grow the summit in 2020 to provide the latest strategies to more school districts and about 5,000 teachers.

“Why is this so important? Because great teachers with great skills and lots of tools can do amazing things for kids, which supports not just the public schools but the community and most importantly, the local economy and employers,” Neitzke said.

The Oshkosh Excellence Awards is an awards program unique to Oshkosh Corporation that celebrates the continuous improvement activities of team members by highlighting their initiatives in environmental responsibility, innovation excellence, delighting customers and people/culture development at Oshkosh Corporation locations around the world.

These team members led initiatives go through various phases of the competition before advancing to the global competition which was recently held in Oshkosh. Winners in the various categories of the Oshkosh Excellence Awards win money which they can donate to the charity of their choice.

The company competition drew more than 1,800 global applicants.

“This was a huge collaborative effort, spanning multiple departments in our organization, and even a few of our outside vendor/suppliers to achieve our goals,” said Michael Boedeker, accountant for Oshkosh Defense Operations.

Joining Boedeker for the May 30 presentation from Oshkosh Corporation were Cassandra Yustus, environmental engineer; Zachery Kovach, customer support and aftermarket sales; Nathan Grose, senior plant manager and Katie Wardinski, environmental intern.

Boedeker said they chose CESA 6 because the company values CESA 6’s efforts to serve all teachers and students, with diverse programming from alternative schools and autism support to strategic planning, continuous improvement and youth apprenticeship. He also was aware of CESA 6’s Individualized Youth Services program, directed by Jonathan Stone, that provides students with a community-based alternative to residential treatment.

“We appreciate what your organization does and the value it has statewide,” Boedeker said. “We understand how significant funding is for CESA 6 in order for you to continue to support the educational needs of not just this community, but for all the communities your programs impact!”

Klahn managed to graduate from Kewaskum High School. But the drugs stayed in his life.

Out Of Control

Klahn quickly became addicted to the feeling that drugs gave him.

"It is the best feeling ever. You feel invincible," he said.

That feeling became all that he wanted. The drugs became his world.

"A lot of times I would see people after we would go down to Milwaukee and get our fix. People would overdose," he said.

That became a routine occurrence.

"Like this one girl, she overdosed. I took her to the hospital and as they were reviving her, I'm in the bathroom shooting up. It's just insane," Klahn said.

He realized what he was doing, but he didn't care.

"All you care about is getting high," Klahn said.

When his daughter was born 10 years ago, she was born addicted to opiates because her mother was using.

"In the back of my head, I knew she was using, but at the time I was just focused on drugs," Klahn said. "And I sold pills out of the hospital while I was there, just to keep my habit."

Money Problems

Klahn worked a little through high school. But until last year, he had never worked a fulltime job.

"I never worked more than 20 hours a week. I kept losing jobs," Klahn said.

But Klahn had to get money from somewhere to keep up his habit.

"I would steal every day," he said.

It became his means of survival.

"It's like a fulltime job. You wake up in the morning. You steal. As you get money and go get your stuff, you are thinking about your next fix. And as soon as I would do that, I would go steal again. Every day, all day," he said.

"I stole from my family all the time. It is amazing that they even talk to me anymore," Klahn said.

Klahn didn't steal only from family members. He also stole from friends. And he stole from strangers

When he needed food, he would either steal something or call someone and make up a story in order to get free food.

He would sell drugs in order to make enough to support his own habit.

"It ranged from whatever I could get that day. Some days I spent $150 or $200. It was always roughly about $70 a day, at least. I spent every penny I had," Klahn said.

Klahn did a lot of pan-handling.

"I would go to gas stations and tell people I was out of gas. Everybody gives you a $5 bill," he said.

Before long, Klahn was not allowed at many stores, bars and gas stations in Kewaskum.

"It's not like I wanted to screw people over, but I screwed people over a lot," Klahn said.

Jail

By the time Klahn started spending time in jail or prison.

"After a while, people going to jail and overdosing was just normal. I didn't see anything wrong with it," Klahn said.

Klahn's life became a cycle of incarcerations. He sat behind bars for a total of seven and a half years between 2008 until 2017.

He still would find ways to get drugs. People would sneak them to him.

Then there was the time he tricked the system.

"I'm allergic to bees, so I purposely got stung by a bee so I could get out for an appointment. I knew the nurse was going to hit me with an epi pen and then have me go see my doctor. So that way, I could get out and get my fix," Klahn explained.

As soon as he was released from prison, the first thing he would do was go get drugs.

When he was released from jail the first time, he started using heavily.

"I started having bad stomach pains, but I knew it was just because of drugs," Klahn said.

His parole officer informed Klahn that it was time for him to go in for a drug test. Instead, Klahn made a doctor's appointment and said he had gall stones.

"So I had my gall bladder out to get on the prescriptions. There was nothing wrong with me," said Klahn, who said he had small stones that he could have lived with.

"I gave an organ just so I could have drugs," Klahn said.

DAYS GONE BY

5 Years Ago
July 3, 2014

Toward the end of June, Tammy Love, 47, of Wauwatosa has one thought in mind - heading to Kewaskum to meet other family members for the village-sponsored fireworks display. She along with many others more than double Kewaskum's population each and every July 3. After all, this has been a family tradition for nearly five decades. Tammy's grandmother, the late Dorothy Diedrich, lived in Kewaskum near Riverhill Park. Tammy's parents, Theresa (Vorpahl) and Jerry Brockman, were also Kewaskum residents but moved to Milwaukee before Tammy was born. However, her parents enjoyed Kewaskum's fireworks so much that they returned each July 3 to Riverhill Park with Tammy and her brother Tim Brockman.

Two individuals were injured after a Town of Barton crash Monday, June 30 at 2:22 p.m. The Washington County Sheriff's Office stated a 49-year old rural Campbell woman driving a Dodge Durango was stopped at the yield sign on the northbound off ramp from US Highway 45 to County Road D. She was rear ended by a 66-year-old West Bend man who was following behind in Buick Electra. The Buick started on fire as a result of the impact.

Off Shalom Drive in the Town of Farmington, lays a winding, tree-lined driveway leading up to a quaint retreat anyone would enjoy to get away for a relaxing weekend close to home. Hidden Serenity Bed and Breakfast opened in October 2013 and offers visitors a variety of amenities and activities. Sally and Chris Cochran built the home from scratch 17 years ago, but after an eight monthlong overseas trip, decided to pursue an old idea of opening a B&B. Farmington residents themselves, they desired to be more involved in their community.

The family of a Fredonia man caught a ray of hope as they were informed that the pickup truck of Steven Woelfel, 37, had been located in a parking lot of a Kewaskum apartment complex.

A few bikers from all over the country came to Kewaskum to spend the night Tuesday. The back of Kewaskum High School resembled Long Lake Campground but business owners and residents alike welcomed the group of 400 who took part in the annual Northwoods Bike Tour. The bikers were coming from a night spent in Waupun and enjoyed a beautiful day coming into Kewaskum. The tour originated in Baraboo. Starting at 9 a.m. pedalers arrived and took advantage of Kewaskum's small town hospitality. Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce provided shuttle bus service for the group who visited area restaurants and businesses.

Members of the Farmington 4-H prowled along Jay Road Swamp on a recent Friday evening, hunting for trash and found plenty. Many tires, including a tractor tire, a lamp, and a bowling ball were among the large items removed from the swamp, while bottles, cans and paper were the most common items filling the truck. The members chose this site for the clean-up, because it is nearby and is used by illegal dumpers. The swamp, along the North Branch of the Milwaukee River, is recognized statewide as a valuable ecosystem for birdlife by bird watchers and as an excellent habitat for frogs, whose numbers are diminishing.

Decedents of the Odekirk family, pioneers of the community, gathered at the old home-stand, which is now the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin J. Odekirk in the town of Auburn, on Sunday for the ninth annual reunion which takes place on Father's Day each year.

The telegram was received at St. Kilian, from where it was forwarded to Milwaukee. No details were given in the telegram. Sgt. Wahlen was in a bomb squadron. In a letter written to Aldolph Wahlen of Route 3, Kewaskum, about a month ago, S/Sgt. Wahlen wrote that he had completed his thirteenth mission in New Guinea and they were giving the little devils plenty of trouble. He was a star basketball player in high school and was a member of the Fox Tri-County conference and district tournament championship Kewaskum team a few years back.

There has been considerable discussion in the daily and weekly papers recently about the sale of distilled spirits, wines and fermented liquors after June 30, 1919. Retail liquor dealers and others concerned do not appear to understand the provisions of the Act of Noember 21st, 1918. This Act provides among other things that "after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and nineteen, until the conclusion of the present war and thereafter until the termination of demobilization, the date of which shall be determined and proclaimed by the President of the United States, for the purpose of conserving the manpower of the nation, and to increase efficiency in the production of arms, munitions, ships, food and clothing for the Army and Navy, it shall be unlawful to sell for beverage purposes any distilled spirits, and during said time no distilled spirits held in bond shall be removed therefrom for beverage purposes except for export." Any person who violates any of the foregoing provisions shall be punished by imprisonment not exceeding one year or by fine not exceeding $1,000 or both such imprisonment and fine. The fact that any person or firm has filed an application and paid special tax as a liquor dealer for the fiscal year commencing July 1st, 1919, and ending June 30th, 1920, will not carry with it any privileges and will not exempt them from the penalties provided for in the law.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keller of Kewaskum, an eleven and a half pound baby boy on Monday.

United We Stand

By Darlene Stern

This week we're celebrating the Fourth of July, honoring the founding of this nation. The history of God's hand in the founding of our nation is long, but much of it has been deleted from our memory banks in the history textbooks.

Secular authors of the new era have no confidence in a Divine Director involved in our affairs. They apparently do not give credence to the saying popularized by Harvard professor of philosophy, George Santayana, "Those who cannot remember the past are condemned to repeat it." As a result, America has repeated many historical errors, forgetting the examples that led to the demise of former empires across the world because fallible men and women thought they could do it all without God as their guide.

In the 1970s, Peter Marshall, Jr., and David Manuel set out to research evidence of God's hand in many aspects of the founding and history of America. They wrote of God's directive to Christopher Columbus to sail to the west and find an unknown land; of missionaries to the new world who gave up everything to share the Good News of Jesus' gift to them; how weather events changed the course of history; God's hand in the outcome of the Civil War; how good men and women seeking to do the will of God had an impact on the creation, establishment and history of this nation. The research became a trilogy of books, starting with The Light and the Glory.

Others have taken up the torch. David Barton, founder of WallBuilders, in Texas has made it his life's work to collect original documents from America's founding era, with an emphasis on our moral, religious and constitutional heritage. Known as "America's Historian", David has helped produce more accurate history textbooks now begun to be used in schools across the nation.

In Erasing America: Destroying Our Future by Erasing Our Past, author James Robbins speaks of the deliberate erasing of our history because it wasn't politically correct, or someone was offended by what transpired, or it did not fit the agenda designed by some for our future as a nation. He declares this process has changed the cultural, historical and spiritual bonds of our nation. Think about it.

America used to be called a 'melting pot' of different cultures and races. All were welcome here if they were willing to pledge allegiance to our nation as the founding fathers had established it. Many were drawn to this nation because it was the land of opportunity and we embraced all who would contribute to the vision of our nation. They understood the motto, "United we stand" and "Out of many, one," for which many of our founding fathers paid a costly price.

This is not the way it is today. The contemporary ideal of diversity is directly contrary to the established vision for our nation as recited in the Pledge of Allegiance "...one nation under God, indivisible..." Identity politics divide our nation today as dramatically as during the Civil War.

Different groups seeking to control everything about our lives work incessantly to take away our freedoms and pit us against each other. God warned us about what is going to happen if we don't get back on his track in Mark 3:24. The Good News Translation expresses it like this: "If a country divides itself into groups which fight each other, that country will fall apart."

Yet, this is not God's plan for America! He never intended for us to throw away our Christian heritage. He never intended for The United States of America to 'evolve' according to the plans of men always at odds with each other.

His plan always was for America to present a united front to quench any darkness trying to creep in. His original intention was for The United States of America to be a synergy of cultures, moving this nation forward in unity to accomplish his purposes. That objective has never changed.

Happy Birthday America!

Snapshot Wisconsin

The next Evening Exploration at the Kettle Moraine State Forest - Northern Unit is a program on the exciting new Snapshot Wisconsin Citizen-based Monitoring project. The presentation will be held on Thursday, July 11, from 6:30 to 8:00 p.m. at the Ice Age Visitor Center located at N2875 Highway 67, Campbellsport, which is a half mile west of Dundee. The program is free, but donations are always gratefully accepted.

Let's discover our state's wildlife together. Snapshot Wisconsin is a volunteer-based wildlife monitoring project utilizing a statewide network of trail cameras. The goals of the project are to improve the spatial and temporal resolution of wildlife monitoring used to make management decisions, and to include citizens, including educators and their students, in that process. The program expects to recruit thousands of volunteers to place and monitor more than 3,000 trail cameras across Wisconsin and help identify animals in images captured. These volunteers are indispensable to project success. The project recently launched statewide and wants you to get involved by hosting a trail camera or identify photos.

In addition to background on the project, Christine Anhalt-Depies, Dept. of Natural Resources Research Scientist, will share what the project has already revealed about our state's wildlife. She'll explain how trail camera pictures are used currently, and the hope for how to involve a wide array of citizens using trail cameras and identifying images in the future.

For further information or directions, contact the staff at the Ice Age Visitor Center. The staff can be reached at (920) 533-8322. The center is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., on Saturday and Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Fourth Brother Released From Hospital Following Car Crash

By Anne Trautner

Luciano Olla, 13, was released from Children's Hospital of Wisconsin after being injured in a single-vehicle crash on May 29.

Luciano suffered a severe injury to his head after being ejected from a 2003 Buick that had been traveling on Interstate 41 southbound, south of Holy Hill Road. According to reports from the Washington County Sheriff's Office, the vehicle was traveling at a high rate of speed, lost control and rolled several times.

A total of five brothers were involved in the accident. The driver, 16-year-old Giovanni J. Olla, along with 9-year-old Alessandro D. Olla and 7-year-old Vitale R. Olla were all treated and released from Children's Hospital. The fifth brother, Valentin V. Olla, age 15, died from injuries suffered in the crash.

The boys' parents, Tony and Fay Olla, have been updating the public on Luciano's progress through a GoFundMe page.

"'Real world' time doesn't seem to exist inside the hospital walls—days seem like months, weeks seem like years— but I do know that it has been 20 days since the car accident—around 14 days since the ICU—about six days since the feeding tube came out— something like five days since he took a few steps— a couple of days since he played the game Sorry— and 10 hours since Luc arrived home," Fay wrote on the page on Wednesday, June 19.

"With the help of an incredible team at the hospital—making phone calls and lining up all the details, Luciano is being allowed to finish his healing and recovery at home— where his brothers and sisters are— where his heart is. From the moment Luc started waking up he has not stopped scheming to get home. It has been the one thing on his mind. He will continue therapies and the weaning from meds at home," Fay posted on the page.

As of Tuesday morning, the page had raised nearly $194,000 for the family. The support has been more than financial. Friends, family and community members, as well as people from across the country who have never met the Olla family, have written notes of love and encouragement and have lifted the Olla family up in prayer.

"We are so very thankful for all of your continual prayers and support," Fay wrote last week.

To read the updates or to make a donation, visit the GoFundMe page, "Help for the Olla Family."

IN CONGRESS, JULY 4, 1776

The Unanimous Declaration Of ThThirteen United States Of America

When in the Course of human events it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. — That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, — That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. — Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his Assent to Laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his Assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other Laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of Representation in the Legislature, a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their Public Records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected, whereby the Legislative Powers, incapable of Annihilation, have returned to the People at large for their exercise; the State remaining in the mean time exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavoured to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the Laws for Naturalization of Foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migrations hither, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of Lands.

He has obstructed the Administration of Justice by refusing his Assent to Laws for establishing Judiciary Powers.

He has made Judges dependent on his Will alone for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of New Offices, and sent hither swarms of Officers to harass our people and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, Standing Armies without the Consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the Civil Power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his Assent to their Acts of pretended Legislation: For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by a mock Trial from punishment for any Murders which they should commit on the Inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our Trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing Taxes on us without our Consent:

For depriving us in many cases, of the benefit of Trial by Jury:

For transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended offences:

For abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighbouring Province, establishing therein an Arbitrary government, and enlarging its Boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these Colonies

For taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable Laws and altering fundamentally the Forms of our Governments:

For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large Armies of foreign Mercenaries to compleat the works of death, desolation, and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of Cruelty & Perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow Citizens taken Captive on the high Seas to bear Arms against their Country, to become the executioners of their friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their Hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavoured to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages whose known rule of warfare, is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these Oppressions We have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble terms: Our repeated Petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A Prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have We been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our Separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace Friends.

We, therefore, the Representatives of the united States of America, in General Congress, Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the Name, and by Authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these united Colonies are, and of Right ought to be Free and Independent States, that they are Absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as Free and Independent States, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which Independent States may of right do. — And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes, and our sacred Honor.

Check It Out!

A Column By Kewaskum Librarian Lori Kreis

The big months for book releases are April and October, but someone forgot to tell that to the purchasing side of my brain. I went a bit wacky ordering because of the great selections for July. That is not a bad thing though. Our readers will benefit from the abundance of new titles we will have next month.

We will see new titles from these prolific authors: Debbie Macomber, Nora Roberts, David Baldacci and James Patterson. The following is some additional fiction that will be released in July. The Chain by Adrian McKinty is filled with suspense. A parent receives a call from another parent panicked that both of their children have been kidnapped. The only way to get them back alive is to abduct another child. The Last Book Party is a debut novel written by Karen Dukess. It is a story of ambition and romance set in the 1980s and has been reviewed as one of the year's best beach reads. Janet Fitch's Chimes of a Lost Cathedral takes place just after the Russian Revolution and depicts a woman coming into her own as she cares for war orphans. J. Ryan Stradal, known for the delightful tale, Kitchens of the Great Midwest is back with The Lager Queen of Minnesota. Two sisters become estranged when their father passes away and leaves the farm to just one sister. With the money from the farm sale, the richer sister starts a brewery. The business is a success, but can happiness be measured by wealth alone; without family?

In non-fiction, Beneath the Tamarind Tree provides the account of the abducted Nigerian schoolgirls from Boko Haram. Isha Sesay uses first person insights from interviews with the 21 survivors in her book. Are you a fan of baseball? For the Good of the Game is authored by Milwaukee's own Bud Selig. He writes about his career as baseball commissioner and gives an intimate account of the sport that only he knows. I adore books that are focused on a subject so ordinary, you wouldn't think it would be interesting enough for several hundred pages. Semicolon by Cecelia Watson provides the history of this punctuation mark through examples of famous writings. It's a treat.

In children's literature, The Virtue of Sin is a young adult novel by Shannon Schuren. It has romance, challenges, teenage angst and dystopia. All winners for teens. For younger children, they can read the new book about Pete the Cat visiting the supermarket, the Pigeon having to go to school and the latest in the Magic Tree House series with Ben Franklin. You also might find new books for the little ones about unicorns, Simba and Otto.

This July, I hope you will enjoy long, hot summer days either on the beach or perhaps in a hammock in your shady backyard reading one of these new releases.

Hope to see you soon.

Sky Hunting Raptors

The Summer Saturday Evening Events at the Kettle Moraine State Forest - Northern Unit continues with the program, "Sky Hunting Raptors." The program will be held on Saturday, July 13, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Ice Age Visitor Center. The Center is located at N2875 Highway 67, Campbellsport, which is half mile west of Dundee. Thanks to the support of the Friends of the Kettle Moraine, the program is free, but donations are always gratefully accepted.

On a warm day, you observe a large bird soaring and climbing ever higher into the sky and you wonder what bird it could be. It just might be one of the birds of prey doing some hunting. Because of these wonderful sky hunters, rodent and other small mammal populations are kept in check and thus from eating too much grain meant for human consumption.

Join Jeannie Lord, a longtime birds of prey rehabilitator at the Pine View Wildlife Rehabilitation Center, as she introduces us to buteos, accipiters, falcons, owls and vultures, which are all considered birds of prey. She will be bringing several live birds for you to meet and to examine close up. She will also share insights into how these amazing high-flying hunters do their jobs, what their habitat needs are and what threatens their survival. It's sure to be a fascinating evening of discovery about Wisconsin's incredible birds of prey.

For further information, contact staff at the Ice Age Visitor Center. The center's phone number is 920-533-8322 and is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., and on Saturday and Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Challenge Academy Cadets Complete First Step Of New Journey

By Vaughn R. Larson

Cadet Taylor Nowinski of Abrams, Wisconsin, was expelled from high school and had no real options until Challenge Academy in Necedah offered her the opportunity to improve herself. During the early days of the 22-week resident phase, she said she was the candidate most ready to go home, counting down the days until A-Day, when at-risk teens either took the Challenge Academy oath and applied themselves to completing the resident phase, or left the program.

Her certainty about quitting turned into taking that oath. Many weeks later, she found herself giving a commencement speech as the Wisconsin National Guard Challenge Academy Class 42 distinguished honor graduate during a June 22 graduation ceremony at Necedah High School.

"Looking back now, I realize that having no choice at all saved me," she told her fellow cadets. "I could have stayed at home and taken the easy road to nowhere, but this was the time I needed to change, to do better in my life and do something my brothers and sisters would be proud of — and of course, my dad, too."

Since 1998, the Wisconsin National Guard Challenge Academy has offered an alternative education program to instill in teens at risk of not graduating high school the values, skills, education and self-discipline necessary to succeed in adult life. The academy is open to teens between the ages of 16 years, nine months and not yet 19 who are not on parole or adult probation and have never been indicted, charged or convicted of a felony. Cadets must also be legal residents of the United States.

There are two phases to the program. The first is a 22-week resident phase at the Challenge Academy campus at Fort McCoy, Wisconsin, where cadets live in a military-style environment with class uniforms, barracks housing, regimented schedules and assigned tasks, physical fitness training, and a strong emphasis on building values and life skills. The second, 12-month, phase begins after the resident phase, and the cadet navigates his or her life plan developed during the first phase — this could include completing high school, entering college, getting a job, moving out, or enlisting in the military — with guidance from the cadet's mentor.

Challenge Academy is a voluntary program, meaning cadets can opt out if they wish — which is why graduating the resident phase is celebrated.

"Cadets, we did it," Nowinski said. "But I want you to remember to be the person you are right now. Be strong. Don't give up. When you experience failure, it's all about the bounce back."

Brig. Gen. Robyn Blader, Wisconsin's assistant adjutant general for readiness and training, was the ceremony's keynote speaker. She congratulated the 101 cadets from across the state for this milestone.

"You've worked hard for this day," Blader said. "You've endured five and a half months of long, grueling physical and mental hard work to get here today. And you should relish today, because no one but you earned it."

Challenge Academy Cadets Complete First Step Of New Journey

She acknowledged the dedication of the Challenge Academy staff, and invited families and friends to applaud the cadets. Those in attendance responded with a standing ovation, punctuated with cheers and whistles.

"Five and a half months ago you made one of the most important decisions that you'll ever make in your lives — you made the decision to change course in your life," Blader told the cadets. "I can assure you, you will never regret making that decision, and we here today could not be prouder of you for making that decision.

"Continue stepping up," Blader continued, "and continue down the path that you are on."

Since 1998 the Wisconsin National Guard Challenge Academy has graduated 3,902 cadets. One of those cadets was Caleb Jones, an 18-year-old plumber laborer in Stoughton. Last year he wanted to enlist in the U.S. Marine Corps, but his school attendance record stood in the way.

"I had a problem with not really going, not really caring," Jones said.

But he began to care once he learned that his attendance would prevent him from entering the military. A school counselor recommended Challenge Academy. Jones was reluctant, but ultimately was persuaded to attend by his mother and girlfriend, and graduated Class 40 in the summer of 2018.

"I think it was the best choice I could have made," Jones said.

Beyond meeting the academic requirements to allow him to enlist in the Marines, he said he learned skills that helped him at boot camp — self-discipline, attention to detail, moving fast and such military skills as how to move while marching and how to stand in formation.

"It definitely helped a lot," Jones said. "It gave me a step above all the other recruits."

Jones is now an infantry rifleman in the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve, stationed at the Armed Forces Reserve Center in Madison, Wisconsin.

"If I could do it again, I would," he said of Challenge Academy.

Little League coach Randy Matteson of Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, a Challenge Academy mentor, was on hand to watch Cadet Juldan Aylesworth, also of Fond du Lac, graduate.

"This was a good step for him," Matteson said of Aylesworth. "He's changed a lot. He's learned a lot of respect. He didn't have the guidance in his life that he should have. [Now] he has a path in life, people that are guiding him in that path right now. And that's what this school is all about — the guidance. Somebody who is telling you what is right and what is wrong."

Applications are still being accepted for the next Challenge Academy class, which begins July 18.

Blue-Green Algae Bloom Season Is Approaching

Those heading out to lakes and rivers this summer are reminded to be on the lookout for blue-green algae, also known as cyanobacteria, on water bodies across the state. Some blue-green algae can make toxins that cause illness in people and animals who accidentally swallow, inhale, or have prolonged skin contact with the algae.

“Blue-green algae are in all lakes and rivers in Wisconsin, but they only become a problem when they grow to high levels, called blooms,” said Gina LaLiberte, DNR’s statewide blue-green algae coordinator.

Blooms tend to grow when there is a lot of sunlight, water temperatures and nutrient levels are high, and there is little wind. In Wisconsin, blooms typically peak from July through September, though can also occur in June or later in the fall if conditions are favorable. Actively growing blooms are usually green and have a “pea soup” appearance, but blooms may also appear as blue, white, red, or brown scums that may be foamy, streaky, or in mats or clumps.

While not all blue-green algae make toxins, the presence of blooms in lakes, ponds or rivers may indicate a potential health risk. Most beaches in the state are not currently monitored for blue-green algae, so it is important for the public to learn to assess water conditions for themselves.

“Choose the clearest water possible for small children and dogs, and avoid swallowing water that could contain other bacteria, viruses, and parasites,” LaLiberte said.

One easy way to identify potential risk from blue-green algae is for an adult to wade into knee-deep water. If they can see their feet clearly, the risk of acute illness is low to moderate for adults. If they can’t see their feet, keep children and dogs out of the water and consider having the whole family pursue another activity that day. If people have any doubts about the appearance of water, they should stay out.

Public health officials also encourage people to shower off with clean water after swimming in any lake, pond or river. Dogs should always be rinsed off with clean water to remove algae from their coat.

According to the Wisconsin Department of Health Services, Division of Public Health, common symptoms of exposure to toxic blue-green algae blooms include skin rash, gastrointestinal illness, and respiratory irritation. People experiencing symptoms that may be due to blue-green algal exposure should contact their health care provider or the Poison Center at 1-800-222-1222.

Animals have a higher risk of dying after exposure to blue-green algal toxins because they are smaller in size and may swallow large amounts of toxins from drinking lake, pond, or river water or licking algae from their coat. Symptoms in dogs can include lethargy, loss of appetite, vomiting, diarrhea or even seizures. If your animal shows any of these symptoms, contact your veterinarian immediately.

People are also encouraged to report potential algae-related illnesses in both people and animals to the Wisconsin Department of Health Services by filling out the Harmful Algae Bloom Illness or Sighting Survey or by calling 608-266-1120.

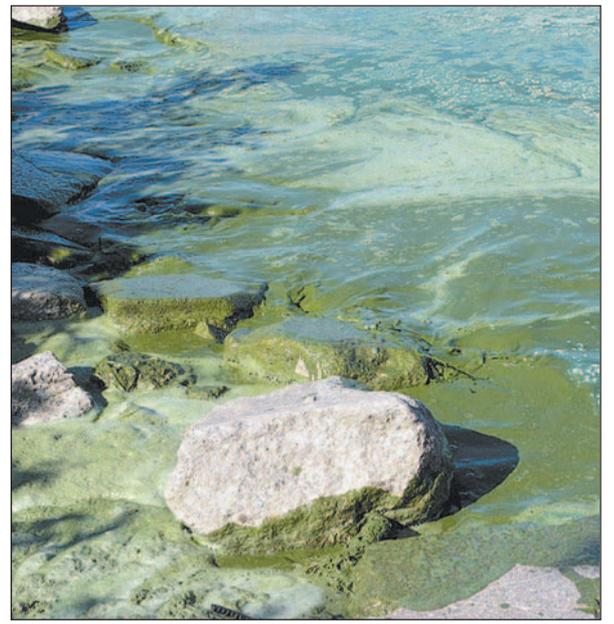

To help track the occurrence of blooms around the state, blooms may be reported to the DNR at DNRHABS@wisconsin.gov. We are particularly interested in reports of especially severe or unusual bloom conditions. Descriptions of bloom size, duration, location with lake, town, and county name, and photos for verification are particularly helpful.

The United States Environmental Protection Agency recently released final recreational guidelines for two blue-green algal toxins. The DNR is reviewing the guidelines and will consider using them to set state standards for swimming advisories, water quality criteria, or both.

The DNR continues to implement strategies to improve water quality in Wisconsin’s lakes and streams with support from Governor Evers’ Year of Clean Water. Water quality for Wisconsin residents and visitors is of highest priority for the DNR.

More information is available by searching the DNR website at dnr.wi.gov.

Motorists And ATV/UTV Riders Urged To Share The Road Safely — Stay Alert As The Weather Warms And Riding Conditions Improve

Spring and summer in Wisconsin are great times to take the family on a road trip or hop on an all-terrain or utility-terrain vehicle (ATV/UTV) for some outdoor fun. The Wisconsin Department of Transportation and Department of Natural Resources are asking everyone — no matter what they’re operating — stay attentive, patient and safe.

ATV/UTV registration grew 19 percent over the past five years, totaling 396,611 at the end of 2018. Motorists and riders could be sharing the road more frequently in some areas. State law allows municipalities to designate their roadways as ATV/UTV routes. In addition, a municipality may authorize the operation of ATVs/UTVs on any highway within its territorial boundary that has a speed limit of 35 mph or less.

Most Campbellsport area municipalities have approved ordinances allowing ATVs/UTVs to operate on their roadways. Many of these, including Ashford, Campbellsport and Auburn, have approved them in the past year.

“ATVs, UTVs, cars and trucks offer different driving experiences, but one factor holds consistently true — no matter what you drive, even a momentary distraction can create a tragedy,” said WisDOT Secretary-Designee Craig Thompson. “It’s important that we all look out for one another.”

WisDOT published a website for riders and local officials who are interested in learning more about the 2017 law changes and requirements to establish ATV routes within their jurisdiction. The website also contains a downloadable flier for anyone who’d like to encourage motorists and riders to share the road. The DNR publishes additional resources to assist ATV and UTV riders with safety courses, vehicle registration and knowledge of the law.

“Whether you’re behind the wheel or behind a set of handlebars - think safety,” said DNR Recreation Safety and Outdoor Skills Captain April Dombrowski. “ATV/UTV riding is among our state’s favorite recreational activities in the summer months. Whether you are riding for work or for fun, stay safe and be responsible.”

Safety tips for motorists:

- Watch for riders. Always eliminate distractions. Be patient and stay focused.

- When you approach an ATV/UTV on the road, slow down and be patient for a safe opportunity to pass.

- As ATV/UTVs are much wider than bicycle or motorcycle, motorists are likely to require space from the opposing travel lane while passing.

- Keep an eye out for ATV route signs and remember the law allows postings at territorial boundaries so motorists may not see additional signage along individual roads.

Safety tips for ATV/UTV riders:

- Stick to authorized areas. Most highways and roads statewide remain off limits. Check for ATV/UTV route signs or with local authorities to see if certain highways and roads are legally open.

- Travel at an appropriate speed and remain aware of your surroundings.

- Consider wearing high-visibility gear. As some drivers might not expect to be sharing the road with an ATV/UTV, it can help to be seen from afar.

- Riders are required to operate headlight(s) when on or around roadways.

- Helmets and protective gear save lives and are highly encouraged for everyone, but also are a legal obligation for riders and passengers under 18 with limited exceptions. Get the facts here.

- All UTV riders and passengers must have seatbelts fastened at all times.

- It is illegal for passengers to sit anywhere not specifically designed or intended for passenger use.

- Never consume alcohol or drugs before or during ATV/UTV operation.

KHS Trapshooting Team Has Winning Season

The Kewaskum High School trapshooting team finished the regular season with seven wins / two losses for varsity, and four wins / five losses for junior varsity.

“Going into the Conference Shoot, varsity was in a four-way tie for first place, but unfortunately our shooting at the meet was not our best. We finished in 10th place and ended the year in fifth for the Conference Southern Division. Our Junior Varsity ended up in fourth place in the conference after shooting very well at the final shoot with a third place finish. We hoped for a better finish overall, but we can be proud of our efforts. We saw great growth from our younger team members and look forward to them stepping it up next year. We really had an excellent group of students this year,” coach Brian Taylor said.

At the annual awards night, the coaching staff recognized the following shooters with Team Awards:

- Team High Gun (male) - Senior, Isaac Rohlinger with an average of 46.4 out of 50 possible.

age of 46.4 out of 50 possible.

- Team High Gun (female) - Sophomore, Kiley May with an average of 39.6 out of 50 possible.

- Most Improved Shooter - Freshman, Matthew Kempf with an improvement of 25 birds throughout the season.

- Rookie Of The Year - Senior, Nick Zangl with a 45.6 average out of 50 possible.

- Team MVP - Senior, Nick Thill with a 44.5 average, shot a perfect score of 50 at Fond du Lac, and had his score used in 6 of the Varsity Meets.

The Kettle Moraine Trapshooting Conference also recognized the following students as Academic All-Conference: Dustin Pick, junior; and Chloe Vetter, and Mason Schulteis, sophomores. Nominees for this award were required to have a GPA of 3.5 or higher. Other Conference honors included: Isaac Rohlinger, First Team All-Conference; and Chloe Vetter, Second Team All-Conference for the Southern Division.

The team appreciates the New Fane Sportsman Club (NFSC) for hosting the team and for all the support throughout the season. Special recognition goes to Marlene Heberer, who came to every practice and home meet to open the club for the team and run concessions.

This year the KHS team had 51 students, and without the support of NFSC and KHS, it would not have been possible to run the program successfully. With the club's sponsorship of the team raffle, the team was able to offer two $1,000 scholarships to seniors for the second year in a row. Congratulations to Dawson Bastian, who will be attending Moraine Park Technical College to pursue a degree in carpentry/civil engineering and design, and Chaz Dreher, who will attend Fox Valley Technical College for Mechanical Design.

“We wish them, and all our graduating seniors, the very best in their future endeavors,” Taylor said.

Thiel Survives Seven Cautions To Master SK Speedway

In a race that combined the varying elements of a hotly contested Sprint Car event and a survival of the fittest competition, Scotty Thiel of Sheboygan endured seven caution periods and turned back spirited challenges from a pair of highly accomplished veteran competitors to score a convincing victory in a Midwest Sprint Car Association 25-lap A-main event at SK Speedway in Unity on Friday, June 21.

The second MSA travelling event of the 2019 season drew a stout field of 27 MSA 360 Sprint Car teams and a robust and highly appreciative crowd eager to see the only Sprint Car race of the 2019 season at the SK Speedway third-mile dirt oval, known previously as the Spring Lake Speedway.

Behind the wheel of Randy Sippel's 39s machine, Thiel led the 22-car A-main field to the green flag flanked by outside front row starter Tony Wondra of Campbell-sport. The current Interstate Racing Association 410 Sprint Car Series competitor, who began his Sprint Car career as a regular with the MSA series, bolted out to a commanding lead in the early going on the smooth and slick track surface.

Just as Thiel was about to negotiate heavy lapped traffic, the first of seven caution flags appeared on lap nine when Josh Walter of Plymouth stopped in turn two. After a trip to the work area, Walter restarted at the rear of the field.

Thiel ruled the restart and again opened up a solid lead over Wondra and two-time MSA champion Danny Schlafer of Sussex, who had worked his way into third. The second caution flag flew on lap 13 when rookie Blake Wondra of Fond du Lac spun to a stop in turn one.

On the restart, fourth starter Tim Haddy of Waupun made a bold move to advance past Schlafer and Tony Wondra into second on lap 14. Haddy then quickly moved in to pressure Thiel for the top spot. Haddy used the high groove to pull even with Thiel in turn four on lap 15. However, the third caution was then displayed for a spin in turn two involving Robbie Pribnow of Lomira on lap 15.

The restart saw Schlafer get the jump on Haddy and slingshot his way into second while four-time MSA champion Kurt Davis of South Milwaukee, who started seventh, advanced into the top five on lap 16.

Another caution appeared on lap 17 when Will Ger-rits of Waupun stopped along the frontstretch. On the restart, Schlafer dove low in turn three and pulled off a daring slide job in turn four to briefly wrestle the lead away from Thiel.

However, Thiel battled back to return the favor by pulling off a similar move on Schlafer in turn one to regain the top spot. On lap 19, rookie Tyler Davis of South Milwaukee brought out the fifth caution when he spun his machine in turn one.

A ragged restart led to Schlafer getting bottled up and turning sideways in turn four as the field was about to take the green flag, which triggered a chain reaction accident, which resulted in Josh Teunissen of Waldo rolling his car over on its side in turn four to bring out the sixth caution of the race. The damage sustained in the melee forced Schlafer to become the first car to officially retire from the race.

Thiel rocketed away from Haddy on the next restart and appeared on his way to the victory. However, one more caution was displayed for debris in turn two just as the field took the white flag.

The seventh caution set up a green-white-checked flag finish, which saw Thiel execute another strong restart as he pulled away from Haddy to notch his 11th career MSA A-main victory in the 10th MSA race ever to be contested at the SK Speedway facility.

With the victory, Thiel joins 2018 MSA Rookie of the Year Travis Arenz of Sheboygan, who captured the first MSA Series travelling event of 2019 at Angell Park Speedway in Sun Prairie on June 2, as a 2019 MSA travelling race winner.

Haddy had to settle for second, Tony Wondra finished third, Kurt Davis placed fourth and defending Plymouth Dirt Track Racing 360 Sprint Car champion Justin Miller of Plymouth charged up from the 16th starting spot to place fifth.

Spyder Akright of Sheboygan Falls was victorious in the MSA B-main, while Al Schlafer of Sussex, 2005 MSA champion Lance Fassbender of Burnett and Kurt Davis earned heat race victories.

The next traveling MSA Series event will take place at the Dodge County Fairgrounds Speedway on Wednesday, July 3, prior to the first of two 2019 appearances at the TNT Speedway in Three Lakes later in the week on Saturday, July 6.

Davis, Schmidt, Kulow, Schultz Claim PDTR A-Main Hardware

Racers and fans arrived at the Plymouth Dirt Track at the Sheboygan County Fairgrounds in Plymouth amidst warm weather and clear skies for the first time during the 2019 Plymouth Dirt Track Racing season on Saturday, June 22.

Two drivers won for the second time this season, one for the first time in nearly a year, and another for the first time with PDTR. The four divisions of competitors would give the fans an evening of exciting racing on a well-prepared track, which provided two and sometimes three-wide racing.

The 25-lap Richard's Supper Club and Motel of Dun-bar 360 Sprint Car A-main saw 2010 PDTR 360 Sprint Car champion Kurt Davis from South Milwaukee take advantage of his outside front row starting position and edge ahead of polesitter Travis Arenz of Sheboygan on the second lap. Davis would show his 30 plus years of experience and drive to his 22nd win with PDTR and series leading 59th overall win with the Midwest Sprint Car Association.

In the Gasroots Project Late Model division, Jim Schmidt from Cleveland won for the first time since last August, besting a field of fast cars that raced hard. In the Klips and Tips Grand National A-main, Plymouth's Tyler Kulow took his second win of the season and sixth career checkered with PDTR.

Visiting driver Nick Schultz of Beaver Dam won for the first time with PDTR besting the field in the Cellcom B-Mod division.

In getting his second win in his last three races with PDTR, Kurt Davis had to take the lead away from a determined Arenz, who started on the pole. Davis used a wide track to pass Arenz on the outside early and survived several restarts to stay in front.

While Davis and Arenz stayed close until a caution flag waved on lap four, others were charging ahead. After the restart, 2017 PDTR 360 Sprint Car champ Brandon McMullen of Oshkosh would move into third coming from his sixth-place starting spot. Another driver on the move was Josh Walter from Plymouth, who came from his 12th starting spot to settle into seventh in the running order.

The second caution flag for a spin in turn three bunched the field again, but still Davis was too fast to be passed. At this point, Davis, Arenz, McMullen, Kevin Karnitz of West Bend and Glenbuelah's Jim Melis would be the front five cars.

Davis would eventually build a six car-length lead and would soon catch the back of the field. While Davis was weaving past cars high and low, last year's PDTR 360 Sprint Car Rookie of the Year, Arenz, would catch him with five laps remaining and make for an exciting finish, but again it would be 30-plus year veteran, Davis, the winner.

Finishing in the top-five behind Davis were Arenz in second, McMullen third, Melis fourth and Karnitz rounding out the top five.

For Jim Schmidt, who was making only his third start of the season with PDTR, despite starting outside the front row next to polesitter "Diamond" Jim Letizia of Milwaukee, the win was anything but easy. A high-side pass in turn four gave Schmidt the lead, but a caution would slow the pace after Joe Bongiorno of Milwaukee and Rick Scheffler of Waukesha tangled between turns three and four. Both drivers would make a quick visit to the pits and promptly return.

Back under the green, Tim "The Toolman" Buhler from Greenbush would move into second from his fourth starting spot before Letizia would spin on lap three, resulting in a flat tire and another caution. Defending PDTR Late Model champion Justin Schmidt of Cleveland would now settle into third and soon he would be in second, challenging his father. Justin's attempted inside pass was negated by Jim, who would stay in front.

Four-time PDTR Late Model champion Brad Mueller of Random Lake picked up several spots moving from sixth to fourth before racing side by side with Buhler. Meanwhile, last week's winner Justin Ritchie from New London closed in from his seventh starting spot.

After a restart when two cars tangled on the backstretch, Ritchie and Mueller would swap positions creating a lot of excitement for the fans. With 10 laps left, Jim Schmidt would enjoy a nice lead with Justin Schmidt and Ritchie behind. Then with six laps left, Oostburg's Charlie Schmidt would squeeze past Buhler for fourth.

By the final lap, Justin Schmidt would move in close to the leader, but the veteran Jim Schmidt would hold on for the win, which would be his 15th Late Model A-main victory with PDTR.

Rounding out the top behind the winner were Justin Schmidt in second, Ritchie third, Charlie Schmidt in fourth and Mueller rounding out the top five.

The Grand National feature, which was the first run in the program was also raced hard. Polesitter Josh Pierce from Fredonia would establish an early lead from the pole. On the second lap, three cars tangled and the yellow flag waved.

On the restart, Tyler Kulow who started in the fourth position, would be in second. They would stay that way until lap 10 when Kulow would make a pass coming into turn three for the lead.

J.J. Pagel of St. Cloud and Will Sorce of Franksville would run a number of laps side by side for third and fourth, but later they would get together bringing out a yellow. Oostburg's Luke Scholten, who started 11th, raced hard on the high side of the track, as did Dick Hed from Plymouth. With 10 laps left, Kulow would be ahead of Pierce, Steven Weber of Plymouth, Nick Schumacher of Eagle and Jess Muehlbauer of Elkhart Lake.

Sorce, after restarting at the back, would charge up to sixth by lap 20, where he would finish. With two laps left, Schumacher, Weber and Muehlbauer would show the fans some three-wide racing before the race ended with Kulow claiming the victory, followed by Pierce in second, Schumacher third, Weber in fourth and Muehlbauer rounding out the top five.

Nick Schultz would start on the pole of the B Mod A-main with Skyler Woods of Beaver Dam on the outside. The start was negated immediately when Justin Bauer and Gary Glander came together at the starting cone. Glander's car was done for the night. However, Bauer would restart at the tail.

The yellow lap would wave after one lap when two cars got together in turn two. Bill Edler of Howards Grove would restart in second with Woods in third and Elijah Koenigs of Beaver Dam ahead of Barry Maas of Cascade.

Schultz and Edler would race hard and on lap seven, making contact in turn one, but both were able to hold their positions. Meanwhile, Koenig would close in on both of them before a caution came out after Koenig and Edler, along with several other cars, would tangle in turn one. Tim Warner of Fond du Lac would go to the pits, but promptly return.

On the restart, Schultz would be followed by Woods, Barry Maas. Mark Hoepfner of Rubicon and Steve Lorier of Sheboygan. After restarting at the back, Bauer would make his way up to sixth where he would finish. With two laps left Hoepfner, Maas and Bauer would be three-wide.

At the finish line, it was Schultz leading the way, followed by Woods in second, Travis Schmidt of Waldo in third, Hoepfner fourth and Maas in fifth.

The 360 Sprint Car B-Main was won by Lance Fassbender of Burnett, while Marcus Hoepfner won the B-Mod B-main.

The next PDTR racing program, which will be held on Friday, June 28, will pay tribute to Late Model racer Russ Scheffler, who passed away in the fall 2017. To date, Scheffler has won more races with PDTR than any other driver. A reported purse of about $18,500 will be paid to the Late Model Division. 360 Sprint Cars, Grand Nationals and B Mods will also compete. The grandstand will open at 4:30 p.m. with hot laps at 5:30 p.m. and racing to start at 7 p.m.

On Saturday, June 29, there will no racing at The Plymouth Dirt Track and on Saturday, July 6, again there will be no racing in conjunction with the Fourth of July weekend.

PDTR Saturday night racing will resume on Saturday, July 13 and include a special "Remembering Randy Tracy" tribute in honor of the former Winged Super Modified racer, who recently passed away. Additional money will be awarded in the 360 Sprint Car division on July 13.

Flower Bed Maintenance Keeps Gardens Looking Their Best All Summer Long

MELINDA MYERS

A bit of grooming and care will keep your flower gardens looking their best throughout the hot summer months and into fall.

Remove the flower stems of salvias, veronicas and similar flowers as the blooms begin to fade. Use a pruner or sharp garden scissors and cut just above the first set of leaves or above the side shoots where new flower buds are forming.

Cut back flopping perennials like Walker's Low catmint, veronica and salvia that have finished their second flush of flowers. New growth will be sturdier, more compact and eventually covered with blooms.

Plants like daylilies and balloon flower require a bit different care. Remove the individual blooms as they fade for maximum beauty. Once all the individual flowers have bloomed out, you can cut the flower stem back at the base.

Keep coral bells tidy and many varieties blooming longer with a bit of deadheading. Remove the whole flower stem, once blooms fade, back to the leafy base where it arises from the plant. And cut a few flowers to enjoy indoors in a summer bouquet.

Remove faded flowers for a neater and tidier appearance, but no additional bloom, on peonies, lamb's ear and bergenia. Removing the seedpods of peonies as they form, back to a healthy set of leaves, helps keep stems upright and makes for a tidier plant throughout the summer.

Deadheading won't extend the bloom for columbine, but it will prevent reseeding if that's a concern for you. Prune the flowering stems back to their base in the foliage.

Removing spent flowers on perennials like bee balm, purple coneflower, salvia, veronicas, garden phlox and many others will encourage additional bloom. You may want to skip deadheading of any late blooming varieties. This allows them to form seed pods for a bit of winter interest.

Pruning your flowers can also impact the appearance, size, and flowering of plants. Prune Russian sage and upright sedums, like Au-turn Joy, subject to flopping back halfway in mid-June to encourage sturdy growth. Pruning coneflowers and other late blooming perennials once, early in the season, can result in shorter plants that flower a bit later. Pinch asters and mums back to six inches throughout June and into early July in southern regions for compact plants and an attractive fall display.

Further improve your garden's beauty by removing or trimming back discolored foliage with sharp scissors or a hand pruner.

Stake taller perennials in need of a bit of support. Use bamboo stakes and ties, twigs woven into stems or other attractive or virtually invisible supports. Then make a note on next year's calendar as a reminder to put stakes in place in spring as plants emerge.

Spread a layer of shredded leaves, evergreen needles or other organic mulch over the soil surface. This conserves moisture, helps suppress weeds and improves the soil as they break down.

A bit of pinching and pruning now as various flowers fade will extend the beauty and your enjoyment throughout summer and into fall.

Why the Kewaskum Area Chamber is important...

Over the years the Chamber has raised money to give back to the school auditorium, fitness center, Boys and Girls Club, Annex updates and more. How wonderful it is that a small community can give back in such a large way. It takes the whole community voluntarily supporting our town not just a few. The more help and support we can get the better our community will be.
