Drexel Donates $50,000 To Reigle Family Park

By Anne Trautner

Drexel Building Supply donated $50,000 to Reigle Family Park, which was created in the Village of Kewaskum in October 2017.

The donation has helped to cover the cost of excavating and grading, which was completed this summer, according to Dan Fischer, president of the Kewaskum Youth Soccer Organization (KYSO), one of the organizations charged with developing the park. The donation came on top of another Drexel donation to stock and maintain the two-acre pond at the park.

The Drexel team sees the importance of giving back to the community. They are not alone. The park, valued at about $2.1 million, is being funded through corporate and individual sponsorships. No tax dollars have been used on the park.

Julie Korth, chief financial officer for Drexel, recognized the work of volunteers who have given their time to organize and create the park.

"We'd like to thank many of those individuals behind the scenes that are making this a park for many generations to use," Korth said.

The park was created when the James D. Reigle family donated 31.5 acres to the village to help alleviate overcrowding at Kiwanis Park, where youth soccer and baseball players were sharing field space.

Kiwanis Park dates back to 1975, when the village purchased 34 acres. While the village was responsible for much of the park development there, the community assisted with that park as well. Kiwanis Park was dedicated in 1979, four years after its inception.

Join In The Great Turkey Giveaway

This week starts the Great Turkey Give-A-Way promotion at participating local businesses sponsored by the Kewaskum Statesman. This contest will give our readers a chance to win a $15 certificate towards the purchase of a turkey for the Thanksgiving holiday and a six-month subscription to the Kewaskum Statesman.

This giveaway will be in cooperation with several area businesses. The Kewaskum Statesman will be purchasing gift certificates for $15 toward the purchase of a turkey from local grocery stores and meat markets.

In order to be qualified to win a certificate, readers should stop in at the businesses listed on our Turkey pages and fill out an entry blank (no purchase necessary). One gift certificate will be given away by each business.

The promotion runs from today until winners are drawn, around November 15th. Winners will be contacted by participating businesses and will be published in the November 21st paper.

Businesses participating in The Great Turkey Giveaway in the area are Back In Action; Best Choice Cabinets; Bonne Belle Motel; Dairy Queen Restaurant; Gateway Cafe; Geidel's Piggly Wiggly; Goeden's Auto Body; Herriges Oil, Inc.; Hilltop Laundry; J-Stop-Kewaskum; Kettle Moraine Agency; Kettle Moraine Town & Country; Kewaskum Citgo; Kewaskum Frozen Foods; Kewaskum Statesman (Campbell-sport location); Kohn's Corner Mart; Kohn's Filling Station; Mike's Auto; Shumway Family Dental; Tennes ACE Hardware; and Wayne's Floor Covering.

Statesman's New Digital Platform

By Andrew Johnson
Publisher

Our mission at the Kewaskum Statesman is to inform, engage and entertain our local advertisers and readers through printed products and now with an expanded digital platform we quietly launched in July.

The use of this new platform is the biggest change in the way we do business since I became a newspaper publisher in 1988. Our intention is to be a relevant trusted vehicle that uses the latest technology customers expect, while keeping the tradition of being a local hometown newspaper.

We have been very careful to remain a local print/digital newspaper made by local people. Therefore, our future success will strongly depend on the number of subscribers and local advertising placements.

The new platform uses world-class technology made possible by a special partnership with member newspapers from the Wisconsin Newspaper Association and its digital partner, Tecnavia. Tecnavia archives Wisconsin member newspapers, as well as newspapers in five other states.

Tecnavia provides digital platforms for some of the largest papers (now referred to as multimedia companies) in Wisconsin, as well as in the U.S. It is incredible that this technology was finally made available for a small Wisconsin newspaper like the Statesman.

Washington County Tavern League Donates To Sheriff's Office

Washington County Sheriff Martin Schulteis and Resource Deputy Chris Parkinson graciously accepted a 9,000 dollar check on October 22 from Washington County Tavern League Executives.

The donation funded the purchase of the portable mapping equipment which can be utilized within our community to develop highly accurate, scaled maps and floor plans for schools, businesses and other community partners. These highly accurate maps and floor plans are a key component in the prevention, mitigation, and response to a crisis.

Washington County Safety Resource Deputy Parkinson said, "people often learn and remember things visually, especially under stress. This equipment will improve our ability to create graphical plans for both responders and building occupants for all hazards, especially Active Attacker incidents." This service will be provided to schools, businesses and other community partners at no cost.

Schulteis has made community preparedness and response during "active violence" and other emergencies a priority of his office. "This is not an issue that law enforcement can deal with alone, it takes an entire community collaborating together as partners to ensure proper preparedness."

Although Sheriff Schulteis is committed to funding the Safety Resource Program through his existing budget, community partnerships like this allow for the program to grow in ways that would not otherwise be possible.

"I would like to publicly acknowledge the Washington County Tavern League. Based on their generosity, we were able to purchase this technology immediately which will allow us to do our job in a more effective and efficient manner and without cost to the taxpayer," Schulteis said.

This donation by the Washington County Tavern League illustrates their continued commitment to public safety within Washington County. They routinely donate to local nonprofit organizations including the Washington County Dive Team. They are also the main sponsor to the statewide "Safe Ride" program which gives around 90,000 safe rides home from taverns each year. Working together to accomplish common goals with various local organizations is essential for a safe and prosperous community.

Questions regarding the Safety Resource Program can be forwarded to Deputy Chris Parkinson either by email Christopher.parkinson@co.washington.wi.us or by phone at 262-675-4456.

WASHINGTON COUNTY SHERIFF'S REPORT

Stolen Vehicle Investigation

A deputy stopped a vehicle displaying dealer plates for a moving traffic violation on Interstate 41 near State Highway 60 on Sunday, Oct. 27, at 5:22 p.m.

The operator, a 41-year-old Horicon man, did not have a valid driver's license and stated the car belonged to his employer. The driver told the deputy he was not certain if he had permission to use the vehicle. The deputy subsequently contacted the man's employer who was not aware the employee had the vehicle and did not give the man permission to have it.

During the investigation a pipe, marijuana and a heroin shooting kit were located inside the vehicle. Also inside the kit was a small capsule of a white powdery substance that likely contained heroin.

The man was arrested for felony bail jumping, operate a motor vehicle without owner's consent, possession of THC, possession of drug paraphernalia. Testing on the white power substance is pending and may result in additional charges. The man remains in custody at the Washington County Jail. He is also facing several traffic citations.

Motorcycle Crash

Two Campbellsport men, ages 31 and 42, were both arrested after the Washington County Sheriff's Office investigated an injury motorcycle crash that occurred on County Trunk D in the Town of Wayne on Sunday, Oct. 27, at 5:53 p.m. The 31-year-old crashed on the roadway for an unknown reason. He was arrested for first offense drunk driving (second violation). This occurs when a driver has a first offense drunk driving pending, and get arrested a second time, before a conviction of the first offense.

His riding partner, who stopped at the scene of the accident, was arrested for third offense drunk driving after deputies spoke to him about the first crash. After being arrested, the operator stated his motorcycle "magically appeared" on the side of the road and he did not drive it there. He later requested another friend remove his motorcycle from the scene and provided the keys that were in his front pocket.

Vehicle Pursuits

On October 24, within the time span of 57 minutes, Washington County sheriff's deputies engaged in two different vehicle pursuits.

According to Washington County Sheriff Martin Schulteis, "Pursuits are inherently dangerous for suspects, law enforcement and especially for unsuspecting innocent citizens that cross into the path of the pursuit. It is the policy of this office to ensure that emergency operation of police vehicles is done in a manner that provides a reasonable amount of safety to all."

The sheriff further stated, "Philosophically, there is a careful balance for law enforcement. We owe the public we serve to be as cautious as possible while also keeping in mind that the community justifiably expects criminal behavior is held accountable."

The first incident occurred on U.S. 45 near County Highway PV in the Town of Polk shortly after 10 p.m. A deputy stopped a vehicle for a traffic violation and the driver, a 31-year-old City of Milwaukee woman, did not have a valid driver's license. During the course of the stop the investigating deputy called for a tow truck to remove the vehicle. After the tow truck arrived on scene, the deputy approached the suspect's vehicle and asked the woman to step out. The woman refused, rolled up the window and fled. She proceeded westbound on County Highway PV/Pleasant Valley Road at a high rate of speed for about two miles before stopping on her own. She was taken into custody for felony eluding and obstructing. She was also issued a second citation for operating without a valid driver's license.

The second incident occurred at 11:17 p.m. when a deputy observed a vehicle driving erratically on Interstate 41 near the US 45 split. The operator initially began to pull over but then fled leading deputies on a 6 mile high speed pursuit reaching speeds of 120 mph. The pursuit ended in the suspect's driveway, where he was taken into custody. The driver, a 44-year-old Village of Slinger man, was taken into custody for fourth offense drunk driving and felony eluding. He was taken into custody to the Washington County Jail.

Kewaskum Schools And Police Respond To Possible Threat

By Anne Trautner

On Wednesday, Oct. 23, at approximately 9 p.m., an email containing a vague threat was sent to the Kewaskum High School junior class.

The Kewaskum Police Department was alerted of the incident at approximately 9:01 p.m. The cryptic message caused concern for the safety of our students and staff, according to Kewaskum Police Chief Tom Bishop.

"The Kewaskum Police Department and the Kewaskum School District take all types of threats very seriously. We cooperatively worked together very quickly and diligently to determine that there was no immediate, credible threat to our student body and that school would be in session on Thursday, Oct. 24," Bishop said.

James Smasal, superintendent of Kewaskum Schools, sent out a phone call to parents of students at Kewaskum Middle School and Kewaskum High School at about 10:45 p.m. to alert them of the situation. On the voicemail, Smasal told parents that the Village of Kewaskum Police Department was working in conjunction with the Washington County Sheriff's Office and the Sheboygan County Sheriff's Office, and had determined that there was no imminent threat of danger to students.

The following morning, on Thursday, Oct. 24, Smasal sent out a follow-up message to parents.

"It has been ascertained that someone accessed a student email account from outside school district buildings last evening to send a threatening message to the class of 2021. Law enforcement agencies were contacted last night to investigate. This includes the Kewaskum Police Department, Washington County Sheriff's Office and Sheboygan County Sheriff's Office. They have been working diligently and are in the process of doing a full investigation. They have determined that a real threat never existed. Instead, it was a misuse of technology," Smasal said in his message. "We take threats seriously and will continue to work with law enforcement. Most importantly, school administrators are working together to ensure that our schools are safe."

"Although we determined that no credible, immediate threat existed, we did still have an increased law enforcement presence this morning to ensure the safety and security of students, faculty and staff," Bishop stated on Thursday, Oct. 24.

The Washington County Sheriff's Office Detective Bureau was able to identify where the message was sent from and make contact with the juvenile party involved, according to Bishop.

The individual confirmed his involvement and that he sent the message. He stated the message was not intended to be taken as a threat and that he did not intend for it to cause the reaction it ultimately caused.

Charges are being referred by the Washington County Sheriff's Office to be reviewed by the Washington County District Attorney's Office in this matter.

"I would like to recognize the Washington County Sheriff's Office, the Sheboygan County Sheriff's Office and the Kewaskum School District for their assistance in getting this case solved quickly and assisting in ensuring the safety and security of our students, faculty and staff," Bishop said.

"We will continue to maintain a high priority of safety and security for all students and staff in our buildings. We ask that you be patient and understanding as law enforcement continues their investigation," Smasal said in his message to parents.

New Fane Kettle Riders Display Grooming Equipment

The New Fane Kettle Riders Snowmobile Club participated in the "Breakfast on the Farm" on June 8. The day was sunny and the crowd was large. Attendees showed a lot of interest as they stopped and looked at the snowmobile trail grooming equipment.

Most of the time, people see the groomer in the distance, but never this close up. Bob Kirst, New Fane Kettle Riders Club member, answered attendees' questions and allowed the children to get inside the Tucker. The farm tractors were next to the groomer, and most of the tractors had a small ladder for children to crawl up the ladder and beep the tractor horn.

So Mr. Bob Kirst had to lift each child up into the Tucker so the child could sit in the driver's seat. The children also got to blow the horn, which was very loud. One child got the horn button stuck and the poor pregnant lady in front of the Tucker almost had her baby right there on the spot.

Kirst must have lifted a hundred children up into the Tucker and helped them back down. Breakfast on the Farm is held annually, sponsored by the Washington County Dairy Promotion Committee, whose mission is to provide an opportunity for agriculture education and agriculture promotion by offering an "on-farm experience" and a tasty breakfast. Support raised at this fundraiser is used to promote agriculture public relations in Washington County, educate neighboring residents and positively influence agriculture curriculum within our schools.

Washington County Historical Society Seeks Director

The Washington County Historical Society announced that Patricia Lutz has resigned from her position as executive director.

Lutz has served as the executive director of the History Center for the last nine years. In that time she has worked tirelessly to ensure the collections, artifacts and buildings of the Old Courthouse Museum, Sheriff's Residence/Jail and St. Agnes Historical Sites were preserved to tell the story of Washington County to future generations.

The Board of Directors thanks Lutz for her efforts and wishes her well in her new position with the Luxembourg American Cultural Society and Center.

A search process is underway by the Washington County Historical Society Board of Directors to find candidates for the executive director position. In the interim, daily business matters will be handled by existing staff with assistance from the Board of Directors.

OBITUARIES

Joseph F. Melzer

Joseph Melzer, age 78, of Neillsville, WI died Wednesday, October 23, 2019 at the House of the Dove in Marshfield, WI.

Joseph Frank Melzer was born on September 4, 1941 in West Bend, WI the son of Herman and Elizabeth (Batzler) Melzer. He grew up in St. Kilian, WI and graduated from Kewaskum High School in 1960. After high school, he attended a technical college and earned a degree in Tool and Die manufacturing. He then began a long and distinguished career at Regal Ware Inc. in Kewaskum.

On June 29, 1968 he was united in marriage to Theresa Doll in St. Lawrence, WI. After they were married, they built a home near St. Kilian, WI. They adopted two children and Theresa stayed at home to raise her family. Joe retired from Regal in 1997 and in 2006, they moved to Loyal, WI while Lon Knoll was building their new home in Neillsville. They moved into their new home in May of 2007. Theresa died November 22, 2013.

Joe and Theresa were members of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Neillsville. He enjoyed being outdoors on his land and hunting in his younger years.

He is survived by two children, Jason (Dana) Melzer of Allenton, WI and Nadine (Fred) Tetzlaff of La Crosse, WI; three grandchildren, Emma and Jake Melzer and Fredrick Tetzlaff, and one brother, Robert (Janet) Melzer of St. Kilian, WI.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Theresa, his parents, and a grandson, Fredrick.

The Mass of Christian Burial for Joseph will be held at 10:30 a.m., Saturday, November 2, 2019 at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Neillsville. The Celebrant will be Rev. Varkey V. Joseph. Music will be provided by Vicente Cortez, organist and St. Mary's Choir. Interment will be in St. Mary's Catholic Cemetery.

Visitation will be from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m., Saturday at the Catholic Church.

A special thank you to the hospice nurses at the House of the Dove for the wonderful care and compassion given to Joe during his time there.

Online Condolences may be made at www.gescheff.com.

Drexel Donates $50,000 To Reigle Family Park

Reigle Family Park is ahead of that schedule. Despite delays due to heavy rain over the past two years, grass has been planted, and nine soccer fields are slated to open to the KYSO next fall.

"We are extremely happy that we were able to get grass seed planted this fall. It is looking very promising that we will meet our goal of playing on the fields there in fall of 2020," said Amy Uhlig, treasurer for the KYSO.

Autumn blaze maple trees will be planted on the front berm in the next week, and evergreen trees will be planted on the front berm in the spring. An entrance sign and flag poles will be installed this spring as well. In addition, a five-acre prairie will be planted on the northeast side of the park in the spring.

Playground equipment that was donated by the Kewaskum Elementary School PTO is being refinished and will be ready for use by next summer. Michels Corporation is donating 925 tons of screenings, which will be used to create walking trails through the park. A lighted walking trail that goes around the pond is slated to be finished by next summer.

Volunteers laid electrical conduit throughout the park, and electricity will be installed next year. Sewer and water laterals are also in place.

"The big plan for next year is to build a concession stand. The structure should offer storage and restrooms, as well as a shaded area for park visitors," Fischer said.

While that could complete the plans for next year, volunteers hope to do more. They hope to raise enough funds to build a "lodge," complete with a large enclosed gathering space as well as an open-air shelter.

"We have identified that a large gathering space is a real need in our community. We hope to be able to raise enough funds to build a very nice structure that people can use for reunions, family gatherings and large group get-togethers," said Aaron Laatsch, a volunteer who serves on the Reigle Family Park Committee.

For more information about how to donate to Reigle Family Park, contact Dan Fischer at 262-689-0478 or Aaron Laatsch at 262-343-1834.

DAYS GONE BY

5 Years Ago November 6, 2014

Village trustees learned Monday evening the Wisconsin Department of Transportation would re-open Highway 28/Main Street on Tuesday, Nov. 11. Village Administrator Matt Heiser stated he received word barricades will come down and the traffic lights will be turned on at the intersection of Main Street and Fond du Lac Avenue. The lights would flash yellow for three business days and then return to functioning as they did before the project.

With the departure of DPW Coordinator Chad Cook, Village Administrator Matt Heiser asked the board for direction on filling the position. Heiser advocated for promoting from within the Department of Public Works.

A lot had gone right for the Kewaskum High football team Friday night, but the Indians couldn't find a way to get in the Catholic Memorial end zone in the closing seconds, and their season ended in a heart-breaking 27-21 decision.

The Kewaskum Gridiron organization recently awarded $1,000 scholarships to Matt Ringwell and Brett Boegel, two former players.

Truman State University volleyball student-athlete Kayla Bastian earned the Great Lakes Valley Conference Offensive Player of the Week for matches running from September 8 through September 14. She is a graduate of Kewaskum High School.

Kewaskum School Board Approves 2019-20 Budget And Tax Levy

By Anne Trautner

The Kewaskum School Board voted 5-2 on Monday, Oct. 28, to approve the revised (original) budget for 2019-20 as presented for $27,744,875. School Board Members Timothy Ramthun and Doug Gorringer voted no on the budget. The board voted 5-2 to approve and certify the 2019-20 tax levy for all funds as presented for $12,035,373. Jim Leister and Gorringer voted no on the levy. Business Manager Julie Thoreson gave a presentation on the budget at Monday night's special meeting. This year the total tax levy went up 4.32 percent, but the equalized property values went up even more, so the total tax rate went down 9 cents from last year, ac-ording to Thoreson. The total tax rate for 2019-20 is 8.44, or a 1.06 percent decrease from last year. "That is phenomenal," School Board Member Mary Miller said.

Why Should I Forgive? Who Can Be Forgiven?

By Darlene Stern

Corrie ten Boom was a Christian Dutch woman when World War II broke out. Her entire family was sent to the concentration camp for harboring fugitive Jews in their home. Following her release from the camp, she became an evangelist for the Lord Jesus Christ, ministering all over the world about the love and forgiveness of God.

One day after the war, following her message on forgiveness in a Munich, Germany, church, she recognized a man coming towards her as the cruelest guard in the camp where her entire family had perished. He had committed unspeakable atrocities and was responsible for the death of Corrie's dear sister, Betsie, just days before liberation.

Corrie wrestled with the Lord as the man drew near. God was asking her to do exactly what she had been teaching these people to do — forgive as she had been forgiven.

Corrie wondered how she could possibly forgive this awful man. She was reminded that to forgive is an act of the will, not an emotion; it didn't matter whether she felt like it or whether he deserved it.

Corrie made the choice to respond to the man's plea for forgiveness as God had prescribed. In the process, she was set free from the great hatred she had harbored for years. Forgiving someone not only sets them free, it sets you free as well.

Elizabeth Smart, the young California girl who had been kidnapped, said something profound after facing her captors at their trial. She stated, "Forgiveness is for yourself, not for the other person. Even though bad things happen, that doesn't mean those things define us, destroy our lives and determine our decisions. Holding onto the past and the persons who injured us only gives them more power over us and allows them to steal more of our lives. The best antidote is to let go and be happy, live your life to the full."

The only individual you can possibly hurt by not forgiving someone else is yourself. Furthermore, choose to forgive yourself and God, as well as the person who wronged you. Choose to forgive even if you don't want to and let God do the rest. Then pay attention to what happens in your life.

Someone who had been a hit man for Pablo Escobar, the Colombian drug lord, asked a pastor one day whether he could be forgiven. He went on to describe the awful things he had done to people, even their children, while serving that drug czar. "Can I be forgiven Pastor?"

The pastor was sorely tempted to respond out of the whirlwind of his own thoughts on the matter. This man had done terrible things, killing and torturing people at someone else's whim. But then the pastor was reminded there is no one sin worse than any other in God's eyes and Jesus had taken the punishment of every one of them upon himself at the cross. The pastor knew God could forgive even this man.

If you're wondering whether God can forgive you for some not-so-good things in your past, the answer is YES! All you have to do is ask for him to forgive you and truly desire to get on his path for your life. His promise is that if you confess and repent, he'll forgive you and then forget it ever happened. What can be better than that?!

Karl McCarty Speaking At The Campbellsport Public Library

Everyone is invited to the Campbellsport Public Library on Wednesday, Nov. 6, at 6:30 p.m. as local historian and educator Karl McCarty will be presenting some of his research in a presentation titled: Reflections: What's been lost? What's changed? Karl McCarty will be sharing memories from interviews with residents from the Ashford, St. Kilian, Eden, and Campbellsport area.

McCarty currently teaches U.S. history, psychology and philosophy at Oakfield High School. Raised in St. Kilian, he has spent the past six years acquiring interviews, stories, quotes, pictures and memories of the past. This presentation looks at what has significantly changed in the area. This includes alterations in what used to be "on the map." As well as, common behaviors and the culture of the community in mid-19th century compared to now. In addition, changes in mid 1900s economy to now and even changes to the natural landscape will be presented.

McCarty will present for roughly an hour, then open discussion up questions and suggestions for further research. This is a free drop-in event. Refreshments will be served.

There are always great activities going on at the Campbellsport Public Library. Like us on Facebook or go to www.campbellsportlibrary.org for more information.

If you have any questions about any library program or service, please call (920) 533-8534 or email director@campbellsportlibrary.org. The Campbellsport Public Library is located at 220 North Helena Street, Campbellsport.

The library is open Monday and Tuesday from 9 a.m. until 7 p.m.; Wednesday, and Friday from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m.; Saturday from 9 a.m. until Noon and closed Thursday and Sunday.

The Rise Of E-Cigarettes

The tobacco industry is diversifying and offering new devices that appeal to a younger generation. However, despite how they might appear or how they are marketed, the devices are still just as dangerous and addictive as traditional tobacco products.

One new product that has been especially popular among young people are e-cigarettes, also known as vaping. Vaping has become a growing concern in high school and middle schools in our area. According to the Washington County Youth Risk Behavior Survey, 27.2 percent of Washington County high school students report using a vape product in 2018. That number was 11.2 percent in 2017 in Wisconsin.

E-cigarettes are battery-operated devices people use to inhale an aerosol, not vapor. They typically contains nicotine, flavorings, and other harmful chemicals. Often times they look like regular household items like an eraser or a USB stick and can easily fit in the palm of your hand. They can also come in customizable wraps or skins that help brains may result in greater vulnerability to addiction to other drugs as well.

Also, most people's brains aren't fully developed until the age of 25, so youth and young adults are uniquely at risk for other long-term, long-lasting effects of exposing brains to nicotine like mood disorders and permanent lowering of impulse control.

E-cigarette use among young people is also strongly linked to the use of other tobacco products, such as cigarettes, cigars, hookah, and smokeless tobacco. In fact, 60 percent of young people who use e-cigarettes also smoke traditional cigarettes.

In addition, researchers have identified several substances that are either harmful or potentially harmful to e-cigarette users, including heavy metals, ultra fine particulate, as well as a substance known as propylene glycol, which can cause dry mouth and upper respiratory infections. The repercussions of long-term exposure to chemicals found in e-liquids and produced by e-cigarettes are not yet known, since products have not

The Kewaskum Police Department, Elevate and Kewaskum Schools joined forces to offer a community conversation about the impact vaping has on teens and young adults on Wednesday, Oct. 23. conceal the devices.

Despite the misinformation that might convince young people that e-cigarettes are safer than traditional tobacco products, new research shows this just isn't true.

Exposure to nicotine among youth is dangerous since it has been shown to have an effect on key brain receptors, making young people more susceptible to nicotine addiction. There is evidence that suggests the effect of nicotine on developing been on the market long enough to study.

When talking to your child it is important to make it a conversation and not a lecture. Start by finding out your child's views on e-cigarettes and distinguish between myths and facts.

Knights Of Columbus Charity Fund Fall Dance Features The Downtowners

The Knights of Columbus Charity Fund of Fond du Lac is hosting the Fall Dance on Sunday, Nov. 3, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. with The Downtowners.

The dance is sponsored by Hometown Glass & Improvement, Inc. of Beaver Dam and Krail Jewellery of Fond du Lac. It is supported by Barnes Chiropractic Clinic and Steve's Auto Body of Mayville.

The dance will be held at the Knights of Columbus Hall, located at 795 Fond du Lac Avenue, Fond du Lac. The hall is handicap accessible. No carry-ins are allowed.

The Downtowners will bring back fond memories of old and new music reminiscent of the dance halls of the mid 1900s, complete with the fun and hospitality that abounds an old time dance.

One band member will be familiar to Campbellsport area residents. Dan Seidl, Campbellsport High School choral director, plays with The Downtowners.

Seidl is a master at the keyboard. He has played with the band since the early 1990s.

The Downtowners, of Fond du Lac, is a five-piece band specializing in a wide variety of musical styles — polka, waltz and foxtrot.

The band is led by Bob Shirek, who was a high school band director in Fond du Lac. During his high school years, Shirek organized his first polka band The Band-its and played regularly in other bands. In 1980 he formed The Downtowners, a house band that performed every weekend for six years at The Colony in Fond du Lac.

The band includes Bob's wife Janie, lead singer and trumpet. Janie is the little sister of famous polka band leader Don Peachey.

Drummer Greg Kilmer joined the Band more than 25 years ago and "hasn't missed a beat" since.

Paul Thelen rounds out the rhythm section, playing keyboard bass.

All band members are vocalists with the band.

At this dance, there will be cake served.

You do not need to dance, just come to socialize, play cards and listen to the great sounds of The Downtowners. You will be glad you did.

The 2020 Fond du Lac and Mayville polka dances will be starting in February with:

Mayville

FEATURE BUSINESS OF THE WEEK

Tuttle Creek Learning Center, Inc.

Tuttle Creek Learning Center, Inc. is proud to be in business for over 22 years. After purchasing the established center in 1997, Mike and Audra Beyer began molding the business, adding their own unique touches and continued the growing process to accommodate the communities changing needs. Over the past 15 years an infant, toddler and two year old room have been added to the already existing preschool room at the main site, as well as adding before and after school programs in Kewaskum Elementary School and Farmington Elementary School. They have been providing quality childcare for Kewaskum and the surrounding area for over 18 years, while continually improving and adding new features!

Audra brings 30 years of experience to the business and the Administrator, Crystal Hafemann, brings 21 years of experience. Along with them, there are 10-14 employees depending on the time of year. Mike and Audra Beyer are supportive of their staff going back to school through funding in conjunction with TEACH.

Thank you to all of the parents who have shared their precious children with us! We feel truly blessed to have met each and every one of you. We look forward to many more years of helping your children grow!

Kewaskum Plan Commission Approves School Maintenance Building

By Anne Trautner

The Village of Kewaskum Plan Commission voted 6-0 on Tuesday, Oct. 22, to approve a new maintenance building that is being constructed on the northeast side of Kewaskum High School. Plan Commissioner Chad Cook abstained from voting because he is employed as a basketball coach at the high school.

"I did not personally see anything in the plan that causes me any alarm or issue," Village President Kevin Scheunemann said about the 6,000-square foot maintenance building.

The issue first came before the plan commission on September 24. The commission at that time voted to table the issue until the Kewaskum School District submitted building plans.

Work had already started on the $300,000 building prior to the September 24 Plan Commission meeting. Even though the plan commission had not approved the building, the school district had received approval from the state and a building permit from the village's building inspection service in West Bend.

"From an ordinance perspective, I don't have concerns about the building itself. As we discussed a little bit at the last meeting, the site plan has changed since this body approved it back in August of 2017," Village Administrator Matt Heiser said at the October 22 Plan Commission meeting.

Scheunemann said he was taken aback by the fact that he had not known that the biofield had been altered when the school district built its athletic fields. He wanted to make sure that it was still compliant with MS4 permitting.

"I have been engaged in some discussion with the school staff about the biofield. Superintendent Smasal provided a variety of support material, but I would still like village engineers to confirm that the new biofield complies with our storm water ordinances and those elements of the DNR and the requirements that we are supposed to enforce," Heiser said at last week's Plan Commission meeting.

School Superintendent James Smasal said that the village's engineers had approved the stormwater management plan.

"I would like to point out to Mr. Heiser as well as the commission that I did deliver an email message dated October 1 from Kunkel Engineering which they have already approved the site and storm water management back on October 1, 2018, with the supplements that clearly show where the shed is located, where it currently is being built and it is clearly on the documents and the supplements that were approved," Smasal said. "I don't know why you would have to ask the engineer to approve something they have already approved."

Smasal gave an update on the issue at the Kewaskum School Board meeting on Monday, Oct. 28.

"We had a visit from the village administrator and the chief of police, and talked about a citation, and 20 minutes later, they left and said they had to do a little bit more research before they made a conclusion on anything," Smasal said at Monday's meeting.

Garage And Home On Birchwood Lake Damaged By Fire

A morning fire on Sunday, Oct. 27, destroyed a garage and two vehicles, and damaged a home on Birchwood Drive, near Dundee.

According to Campbellsport Fire Chief Craig Olson, at 10:36 a.m., the Campbellsport Fire Department was dispatched to a garage on fire at W726 Birchwood Drive in the Town of Osceola. The garage was attached to the residence.

A large column of black smoke could be seen while units were responding. On arrival, fire crews found the garage fully involved along with two vehicles in the driveway. It was also evident upon arrival that the fire had spread into the attic of the home.

Fire crews quickly knocked down the fire in the garage area and worked to control the fire in the attic.

Extinguishment of the vehicles was delayed because the electrical service line to the residence had burnt off and fell to the ground and was actively arcing. This also caused a delay in shutting down the propane service to the residence as the electrical service line was laying across the propane tank.

Fire in the living area of the structure was confined to the attic. The first floor of the living area received smoke and water damage.

One resident of the structure received minor injuries as a result of trying to extinguish the fire prior to the fire department's arrival. The individual was transported by Campbellsport Ambulance to St. Joseph's Hospital in West Bend. The individual's condition is unknown.

Campbellsport Fire Department utilized the MABAS system and was assisted by fire departments from Eden, Mt. Calvary, St. Cloud, Cascade, Kewaskum, Beechwood and the Rapid Intervention Team Districts 3 and 4. Lomira and Brownsville Fire Departments provided change of quarters to our service area.

The fire currently remains under investigation, but no suspicious activity is suspected.

Fall Back Safely This Weekend As Daylight Saving Time Ends

The first weekend of November marks the end of daylight saving time. As you change your clocks at home, ReadyWisconsin suggests also conducting safety checks.

"As you reset the clocks, take a moment to test your smoke and carbon monoxide detectors and check the supplies in your emergency kits," said Dr. Darrell Williams, Wisconsin Emergency Management administrator. "The few minutes it takes to make sure they are working properly and are fully stocked could help save your life."

Smoke detectors sound the alarm when there's a fire in your home, and it's important the devices are kept in good working order. The National Fire Protection Association says three out of every five home fire deaths occurred when smoke detectors were either not present or were not working properly. Detectors should be tested monthly and should be replaced every 10 years.

Now is also a great time to have your furnace or wood-burning stove inspected, before the colder weather sets in. Hire a professional to make sure it is in good working order and vents properly to the outside of your home. Any heating device that burns fuel produces carbon monoxide.

Approximately 500 people are treated at hospital emergency rooms across the state annually for carbon monoxide poisoning, according to the Wisconsin Department of Health Services. Health officials say many of these cases could be prevented by having working carbon monoxide detectors. Those devices should be replaced every five years.

Symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning include headaches, fatigue, dizziness, shortness of breath, nausea, and confusion. At high levels, carbon monoxide can cause death within minutes. If you suspect you or someone may be experiencing carbon monoxide poisoning, or your detector sounds an alarm, go outside immediately for fresh air and call 911.

For more information on carbon monoxide poisoning, visit: <https://www.dhs.wisconsin.gov/air/co.htm>

If you have an emergency kit at home, now is a great time to check for expired products or items that may have been borrowed for other purposes and need to be replaced. Pay attention to items such as batteries, first aid supplies, and food, which should be replaced regularly. Having a well-stocked kit is important, in the event you lose power or are stuck at home during a winter storm.

Daylight saving time ends Sunday, Nov. 3, at 2 a.m.

Scrapple From St. Kilian

By Karl McCarty

It must have been May 2017, nearing the end of the school year and Maureen Betz of the Byron Historical Society had a great idea — have students bring in a recipe and their family history. In the process, students could bring in food, have a nice party, and take pride in their roots and the stories they came across. And since then, I annually teach a unit in the junior U.S. History class at Oakfield High School rooted in ancestral history and food.

The project needed a demonstration the students could model, and I needed a recipe anybody could actually cook. Grandma McCarty had the answer and we had a date in her kitchen. She was recorded that night to get her perspective not only on the recipe, but old history of St. Kilian and Ashford.

I had just bought 1.3 pounds of ground pork. She did not recommend Italian Sausage, and said straight up pork sausage was best to use. For the purpose of this recipe, I would avoid flavored pork (but you might like Italian sausage and eventually want to try it). Besides the meat and water, you can count the ingredients on one hand: table salt, black pepper, Lawry's seasoning salt and flour.

The Recipe

- 1 and ¾ cup of ground pork
- 2 cups of water (perhaps more if you are looking for volume with the flour)
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 shakes of pepper. "Just shakes." We used McCormick black pepper.

per.
 • ½ teaspoon of Lawry's Seasoning salt
 • 2 cups of flour added to boiling pork and seasoning (Grandma's recipe said more than two, so if you can get more flour in as you mix, go for it, but it will thicken quick.)

• Loaf pan, and Crisco on the sides and within; just use butter if you don't have Crisco

The Actions

Cook the pork in two cups of water for about 10 minutes. Not fast, but eventually bring to a boil. It helps to mash up the meat as it reaches a boil. The construction of this final product takes no more than ten minutes. If you are new at this, take your time in bringing it to boil.

Then start adding the salt, seasoning salt and pepper while keeping the water and grease in the pot. In regard to the seasoning salt, Helen said, "we can always taste it" to check. Once the pork has lost its pink, it's good to start checking how much salt you want in it. Salt will be harder to evenly distribute once you add the flour.

Grandma added, "Bring to a boil, and that's when you add your flour." And after adding pepper and salt, really that's all you do as you wait to add the flour. It thickens quick, and a loaf pan should be greased and ready to go.

I made this for my class again this spring (2019), and I had just shy of two pounds of ground pork sausage from Loehr's. It worked great, just proportionately add more water and flour, and salt as needed.

Then you let the floured and salted meat sit in a pan for a day or two. On a nice morning when you are ready for something besides cereal, you bring this loaf out of the refrigerator, cut it up and fry it in the pan. You usually don't need to add butter when browning, as there is grease already in the pork loaf. In addition, the pork has already been parboiled, so you don't need to worry about a loaf's raw pork should you like the loaf pieces less browned.

The History of Scrapple

Helen Weiland McCarty was born to Art and Rose (Eilbes) Weiland in the early 1930s on the south end of Katzenburg Drive. Butchering pigs was a way of life, and almost like a seasonal sacrament necessary to surviving rural farm life. The context of this recipe is rooted in the small farms and sustenance that the land could provide a family.

Helen said you always took the meat leftover in the sausage process. "The reasons why we made the scrapple was for any sausages that broke.... we cleaned out all intestines with salt water. And those we used for sausage, and so if any of them broke, we put them in scrapple." She added, "You didn't waste anything."

Thus, the name for the food comes from the scraps of meat being utilized from boiled intestinal casings that broke. Besides boiling sausage in links, some pork was smoked and other was left raw, which "you put it away and froze it," to cook later. The nice thing with scrapple is the broken pork scraps were already parboiled by the time they were being collected for this leftover recipe.

In terms of the history of the family serving it, back in the 1930s, you would have cooked the loaf pieces in lard. Helen's mother would have used the lard made from the fat of butchered pigs. "You cooked the fat down... See at that time, you cut the fat off the meat... And they didn't leave it on." But they used the fat. "They rendered it." Rendering, she said, was a slow process that you had to be careful, "cause otherwise it would burn." Helen could not remember if they added salt to rendering fat.

Today one should use Crisco in the loaf pan so the loaf comes out easy. But one has to remember that back then the lard from butchering the pig was available and that's what they used for

Boil the sausage and add the salt(s) and pepper before you add flour, which thickens quickly. Pictured here is the first 10 minutes of the recipe.

Scrapple is easy to make. Just pork sausage boiled, filled with flour and dumped into a bread pan. It makes an easy, tasty breakfast the next morning. But the loaf itself isn't that attractive, looking more like uncooked meatloaf.

greasing the pan.

When we were done getting the pan loafed, I asked "Was denkst du?" and asked her what I said in German. She knew. "What do I think?" she said to me. Then she answered: "I think this is good." She's right, and so is the price, as the food is incredibly cheap for the volume it produces. In addition, most of the ingredients are already in your kitchen.

Rules for Scrapple

When students are expected to present their assignments, they can also present rules of thumb for their recipe to point out suggestions or hints to making it right. In this context, here are some tips Grandma had on her recipe.

•Leaner Meat. The stuff I bought was 16 percent fat/84 percent lean the night I made it with grandma the first time. Helen said this was good. You need a little fat for the process. Personally, if you don't know the percentage it probably won't matter. More fat will just add more flavor.

•Don't forget the seasoning salt. You can always add more as you taste during the boil. And you want to do this before flour. Once you have added the flour, it will be tough to evenly distribute the salt.

•Look for the change of color in the pork. Make sure the pork has browned. She recommended cooking the pork slowly. In a sense, you are almost par boiling it. When I lectured her not to eat the pork too early, she said "I'm tasting for the salt."

She later added, "You have to go by the look of it. Cause you don't want it raw." Whatever the case, it's nice to have the pork fully cooked so you don't have to worry about the loaf later in the morning when you cook it for breakfast.

•Prepare for a tough mash. When you add that flour, it will thicken very quick. With this in mind, be cautious of adding too much flour.

•Do not drain the fat from the meat. "Because it's going to work itself in," Helen said.

•Keep it cold. If you are serving it within 2 days, just refrigerate the loaf and cover it in saran wrap. Otherwise, freeze it. Cut the loaf when it's cold. "If it's cold, it will slice a lot better. And use a saw-tooth knife. Like a steak knife. And cut slow."

•Loaf cuts should be a heavy quarter inch. That's what Helen recommended. A generous quarter inch.

•Fry the loaf cuts in a pan slow. "You don't fry it in a hurry, you know. You fry it slow. But sometimes you have enough fat in there" to simmer the loaf cut itself. It's possible you won't need any type of rendered material or butter in the pan when cooking the slices. When I prepared this for my students, there is no butter required in the pan. However, grandma was right in not cooking it fast. It's easy to burn or singe.

•"Gotta have honey." A direct quote from Helen McCarty, who added, "I hope you have some honey. You gotta have honey. I put honey over mine. You know, when you fry it. Because you slice it, and then you heat it up, and then — just so it's a little bit brown." This opinion on honey has been seconded by students who sampled it and relatives who like the recipe.

Helen McCarty on her porch, a good image to remember her by. She would be looking south toward the property of Gene and Helen Rohlinger on Midland Drive in the Town of Ashford. It was on this porch were way back in the 1980s she would try to teach the grandkids to play Red Rover, a game from her school days in St. Kilian.

Here is Art and Rose Weiland's farmstead, which was located north of St. Kilian, but on the southwest side of the famed Katzenburg Hill. Most of their kids were born in the 1930s, and they farmed up until the 1960s, before moving to Campbellsport around 1975. A new house was constructed in recent years on Katzenburg Drive in the same area. It was this location which their daughter Helen McCarty recalled butchering pigs, and in the process of the sausages breaking making scrapple.

From Scrapple To Scrabble: Helen Weiland McCarty

By Karl McCarty

Helen Weiland McCarty was an amazing human being who died on April 21, 2018, at the age somewhere between 22ish and 86.

She was born on February 29, 1932, which put her in a predicament of only celebrating a "real" birthday every four years because of leap year. It was a heck of a nice party at King Pin Lanes when she turned 21.

Here are take away points and quotes from grandma, whom I was spoiled to have her in my life for 35 years.

•Document family and genetic health. She kept a notebook for listing all the ailments of relatives deceased and living. It was a good idea more families should do for documenting genetic trends of health concerns. She wrote them on a simple 3X5 inch notebook pad.

•I'm sorry. She had a tendency to upfront roast or criticism with an "I'm sorry" then say what bothered her legitimately anyways. For example, she once was complaining about someone who had a ton of equipment on their property exposed to the public. "I'm sorry... If you can afford the machinery, you can put it in a shed."

•From cabinets to a quarter century. When I asked her why she started working at Regal Ware, she said it was "to get new cabinets in the kitchen." She ended up staying 25 years, but could smile about the unexpected stay.

•Hello. She'd pick up the phone and always answer in the same tone that wasn't quite her natural talking voice. "Hell-low." It's a struggle to write it phonetically, but those who knew her well would know it if they heard it.

•Regrets are a waste of time. Once asked if she had any regrets, Helen shot back: "If I lived my life over again I'd make the same damn mistakes I made in the first place."

•"That's not right." It's the best way to summarize in her words St. Kilian's Cemetery policy of unbaptized babies mid-century. Her brother Richard was fortunate in the sense of being allowed in the cemetery. He was about a year old and already baptized when he died in 1934.

Other children were put in a precarious position, as Helen recalled where the unbaptized deceased children were laid to rest — and it wasn't in the boundaries within the church cemetery. This was a decision of the priest, and back then considered final. Now, considered disturbing in terms of the guilt and questioning it put on the surviving parents.

•You need to remember your family. Grandma had an impressive determination to make sure there was a marker for her parents, Art and Rose, in St. Kilian. Although she was not the one to make the metal marker, she went out of her way to check that it was up despite her 80 plus years.

There was always this distinct respect for Richard, even though she never "knew" him. In a sense, she modeled a respect for siblings. Brothers and sisters share a unique experience of being raised in a one of a kind family.

A few years back, when Helen sat down with her surviving siblings (Donnie Weiland, Sylvia Schaefer and Marilyn Brown) for an interview, it was neat to see all four embrace each other before they parted ways. A second interview never happened.

•Integrity. Psychologist Erik Erikson created his own life development stages. His last, for those over age 65, was "Integrity versus Despair." Erikson argues that if we as elders have lived a full life, those who are mentally healthy have a sense of pride for a life well lived despite the problems encountered by the "golden years" crowd.

Along those lines, what stands out is how great it was to watch her in those later years just watch her family. Nine kids. Over two dozen grandchildren. Thirty plus great-grandchildren. Thanksgivings consisted of six to eight man football teams. It wasn't so much as that Helen preached about the need for family, but rather her actions implied it. Families are not as connected as they used to be in the days of family card games on a Sunday in St. Kilian mid-century.

Helen discussed how "that is something that is missing" in the present. And by that, she meant when people did not work on Sunday, and used the day to visit family. Often Rose and Art took the kids over to Leroy to see the Eilbes side of the family.

She was disappointed in the lack of family ties of today. In terms of recent years some of the best memories of Helen is not really distinct, but generic: one in which she is sitting at her kitchen table for Easter or Christmas, watching her entire family and observing what she created.

•You might have visitors. One time my cousins Kelly Rybold and Jessie McCarty were having our sleep overs by Grandma after Grandpa had passed. We'd make pull taffy, divinity or check mix, only the latter which does not depend on the humidity. We threw in a few games of Yahtzee and Scrabble. In one of those sleepovers, Helen reiterated how at least once, she could feel, and I think see, her deceased mother over her bed.

•On Faith. The aforementioned meeting with Rose Weiland was just a simple observation. But deep, relaxing and certain. Silly one might say? But silly is in the eye of the beholder: is it the one who "saw" something. Or the hardened, cynic heart which can't?

When Helen was alive, it was neat to think she was gifted a visit by great grandma. Then again, maybe such visits are synonymous with faith. Perhaps it was Helen McCarty recalled trudging to school from Katzenburg to St. Kilian on "those hills" which are hard to imagine by today's standards. Here is a postcard (circa 1910) from somewhere in between looking towards the south at the church on what today is Highway W.

Helen who gave and therefore received. Her faith was hard to define, but what was certain was a mixture of Catholicism, respect for the Blessed Mother, and she liked Ave Maria. However, it was difficult to describe in the sense that faith should be private and hers was not pushy, so therefore it was a faith worth modeling.

It is amazing the more one talks to older people in the area, especially those preparing for "crossing the bar," and stories are shared on those oddities of post-mortem visits. Smells. Bird visits. That song that plays at the most peculiar time. The non-coincidental coincidence. Those seared moments of your loved one's death that actually was surprisingly beautiful. There are a lot of local stories from those who believe in spirit.

In the end, Grandma's story seems to be more comforting now for those who remain than for herself at the time she saw her mother. Such understanding helps us as more of our friends and family leave us with age.

•On Death. Helen McCarty was not one to wallow in sadness. In terms of elderly, some struggle with death to begin with, but the person passing is the one with the most control on the situation, because they have the steering wheel on how the family will take the approaching end. "She taught us how to live, and taught us how to die," said her granddaughter Amanda Paruch.

The last thing a family needs at the end of life is the loved one's bitterness, regret and self-pity. And Helen didn't do that. She braced for her passing, prayed, and was very calm and reminded others what a good life she had.

How could one cry when she had everything her brother Richard never got? It's like that line of the end of the film, The Green Mile: "We all owe a death." In her case, Helen owned it. We don't have a choice on the physical reasons we leave, but we have a choice in how we look at it.

•But there's one thing you can do without. Helen McCarty was sure to tell you it was better when there wasn't so much technology. Toys? Hell, in the old days you could give a kid a box and they'd have a good play time.

So she said, and therefore did quite well without an i-Phone. She wouldn't have said it so overtly, but it was offensive to be wired on your tablet when you were by her, and now that she's gone it seems repulsive one would even have that trash out in her presence.

Then again, I think of when we laid her ashes into the ground at Union Cemetery, how the sun was setting that April day, and the entire family was around the grave. How I wished I had taken my Samsung phone with me out of the car for a picture of the family that was all together in a semi-circle of remembrance. But, this moment too is just a memory, and some of the things which cross my mind when making her scrapple.

This sketch by Helen McCarty is of the old Ford Tractor her husband Dan owned. Somewhere in the 1960s, he purchased it from Virgil Buck on Cloverland Drive, what Helen remembered as the old "Brodzeller Farm" in the 1930s. Dan used it many times on his farm. The picture is particularly interesting because it is unfinished, much like the legacy of outstanding people whose character outstretches after their passing.

Helen (Weiland) McCarty lived to be 86; her brother Richard lived only a year. Here is his headstone in St. Kilian Cemetery on a fall evening in September this year. The metal marker honors his parents Art and Rose, who donated their bodies to science. One of Helen's stories was how Richard was fortunate enough to be baptized, as deceased children who were not (including stillbirths) could not be buried within the cemetery.

Arthur (Art) and Rose Weiland, probably around 1960. He was a descendent of the Weiland family who had settled north of the Katzenburg in the Town of Ashford in the 1800s. Rose was an immigrant from what became Czechoslovakia out of the Austrian Empire (but spoke German) and settled near LeRoy in Dodge County. An Eilbes by maiden name, it was a common one near St. Andrew's. Together they had five kids, four whom survived to adulthood and were schooled at St. Kilian Parochial School. They donated their bodies to science, but do have a memorial next to their son Richard's (1933-1934) head stone in St. Kilian Cemetery.

A Column By Kewaskum Librarian Lori Kreis

Happy Halloween and yes, the library does have treats for you. Of course, these treats are the new books coming out in November.

Let's start with movies this month. The Big Bang Theory's final season is released on DVD November 12. The Handmaid's Tale: Season 3 comes out the following week. The most recent Fast & Furious: Hobbs & Shaw will be seen on the shelves in November. A couple of popular films in theaters, Good Boys and The Art of Racing in the Rain will also be available in November. In children's flicks we will have Dora and the Lost City of Gold and The Angry Birds Movie 2. In new music there are CDs by James Blunt, Miranda Lambert, Hootie & the Blowfish and the Frozen 2 soundtrack.

For adult fiction we will have new books by several prolific authors. Alex Cross, Atlee Pine and Stephanie Plum all return while solving mysteries respectively written by James Patterson, David Baldacci and Janet Evanovich. Michael Crichton is back with The Andromeda Evolution, a fiftieth anniversary sequel to his The Andromeda Strain. Erin Morgenstern writes another fantasy novel that is sure to be as popular as her Night Circus. This one is titled The Starless Sea and is about a Vermont graduate student who recognizes a story from his own life before following clues to a magical underground library that is being targeted for destruction. We will have a couple of new Christmas books; A Christmas Gathering by Anne Perry and Richard Paul Evans, Noel Street. Look for new fiction by Elizabeth Berg; The Confession Club praised as a heart-warming tale about a group of friends in Mason, Missouri.

A few new cookbooks will be here in non-fiction. The Joy of Cooking is coming out ninety years after the original with more than 600 new recipes and redoes on many others. Tasty Every Day is a collection of recipes from the popular food social network, Tasty. Volume Control by David Owen discusses something becoming more rampant today, hearing loss. He demystifies the science of hearing while encouraging readers to get treatment as soon as possible and why that is so important. Iain MacGregor's Checkpoint Charlie provides an in-depth history of the famous military gate on the border of East and West Berlin. Bestselling author Mitch Albom comes out with a biography called Finding Chika. This memoir is a celebration of a young Haitian orphan.

Be sure to stop in soon to check out all our new releases which are located as soon as you enter the library. As always, there is usually high demand for new items so call us or stop in to get your name on the hold list. See you in the library soon!

Paula Carlton Recognized For Service To School District

Paula Carlton received the Kewaskum School District's Outstanding Service Award for 2019.

This Outstanding Service Award is given to any district resident or Kewaskum alumnus who has demonstrated longevity of service beyond the normal work day, shown positive impact on kids and has made contributions to the community.

Carlton, who has her

Ph.D. and is a nurse practitioner, has been instrumental in leading many community programs that benefit the health of the entire community. As a result, she has strongly impacted the lives of kids in Kewaskum. She has always gone above and beyond, even while working full time as an area physician.

Carlton has been essential in developing the following endeavors with the Kewaskum School District:

- Fuel Up to Play 60
- Collaborating with our Nutrition Services on nutritional benefits and facts such as "Taste Test a Rainbow" for our students.
- Organized "Driven to Better Health Night" events for the community.
- Assisted in developing a Community Garden Program.
- Organized and spoke at events for "Chix 4 a Cause," which benefits Cancer patients.

•Was a "Dancing with the Stars" participant to benefit locally developmentally disabled clients.

Carlton has helped lead, organize and participate in many more community events and activities over the years in this District and throughout Washington County.

For further information or directions contact the Ice Age Visitor Center staff at (920) 533-8322. The center's hours are Wednesday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., and on Saturday and Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Leaf Raking for Senior Citizens

Although the Fall leaves are beautiful on the trees, they can leave a real mess in your yard. The Kewaskum High School Key Club would like to help area senior citizens with this problem by offering free leaf raking on Monday, Nov. 4, Wednesday, Nov. 6, and Friday, Nov. 8.

Each year the Key Club members choose a quote to inspire them. This year's quote is by Mother Teresa. "I alone cannot change the world, but I can cast a stone across waters to create many ripples."

Raking seniors' leaves is just one opportunity to create ripples that make our community a warmer, more caring place to live. Any senior living within the Village of Kewaskum can request their yard raked by calling 262-626-3105, extension 4253.

Parental Involvement A Key Factor In Keeping Teen Drivers Safe

As part of National Teen Driver Safety Week, officials with the Wisconsin Department of Transportation (WisDOT) asked teen motorists to be safety-conscious — while reminding parents and adult sponsors about the crucial role they play in enforcing and modeling safe driving behaviors.

Last year (2018) in Wisconsin, 29 teenagers (ages 16-19) were killed and 4,342 injured in traffic crashes. Teenagers account for less than five percent of all licensed drivers in Wisconsin — yet are involved in nearly 10 percent of all traffic crashes.

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Association (NHTSA), motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death for teens 15 to 18 years old in the United States. In 2017, there were 2,247 people killed in crashes involving a teen driver (15-18 years old), of which 755 deaths were the teen driver — a three percent decrease from 2016. According to NHTSA, there were an estimated 93,000 teen drivers injured in motor vehicle traffic crashes in 2017 and 293,000 people injured in crashes involving a teen driver — accounting for about 11 percent of all those injured that year.

Factors Behind Teen-Related Crashes

Officials with WisDOT's Division of Motor Vehicles (DMV) and Division of State Patrol point to several reasons why teenagers are over-represented in traffic crashes:

- The main factor is they simply lack driving experience. They need time to learn about the various conditions and situations that can make driving a challenge.

- Teen drivers tend to take more risks. Speeding, failure to wear seat belts and impaired driving are among the risky behaviors. Teens often under-estimate driving dangers, and over-estimate their driving abilities. •Teens are easily distracted by electronic devices or other passengers.

Studies strongly support the beneficial role of parental supervision in reducing teen crash rates, instances of distracted driving and driving under the influence while increasing seatbelt usage.

WisDOT's DMV Offers Innovative Tools

The Wisconsin DMV offers several tools to help parents and guardians foster safe and responsible teen driving habits. The on-line Motorists Handbook provides a comprehensive understanding of the operational rules for the road and is available in a variety of downloadable formats.

DMV has partnered with West Bend Mutual Insurance to provide the Parent's Supervised Driving Program guidebook, an award-winning free resource, to students who receive their learner's permit. The guidebook discusses 13 important driving skills, includes a parent-teen driving contract and a Supervised Driving Log that helps parents tally hours behind the wheel.

Since most teens live on their phones, Wisconsin DMV offers several mobile apps:

- RoadReady™ mobile app provides parents and guardians a way to log the state-required supervised driving time with the click of a button.

- Wisconsin DMV Driver Practice Knowledge Test reviews driving laws to help drivers check themselves before taking the knowledge portion of the driving test.

Other online resources available 24/7 include:

- Driver License Guide which offers a checklist of what to bring to the DMV.

- DMV Locator to help find the nearest DMV for scheduling a road driving test.

- Guidelines for Motorists including important safety reminders if stopped by law enforcement.

- WisDOT YouTube videos on a variety of safety-related topics.

Wisconsin Addiction Recovery Helpline Marks One Year Of Service

—Hotline Connects Callers To Substance Use Treatment And Recovery Options

The Wisconsin Department of Health Services (DHS) and the United Way of Wisconsin announced that 5,594 people contacted The Wisconsin Addiction Recovery Helpline during its first year of operation.

This free and confidential service is managed by 211 Wisconsin under a contract with DHS. It connects individuals seeking help for challenges with alcohol, cocaine, heroin, marijuana, methamphetamine, prescription painkillers, and other drugs for themselves or a loved one to services in their community.

"Too often people delay seeking treatment for a substance use challenge simply because they don't know where to begin," said DHS secretary-designee Andrea Palm. "The Wisconsin Addiction Recovery Helpline is a good first step toward treatment and recovery."

The Wisconsin Addiction Recovery Helpline is available statewide 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Call 211 or 833-944-4673. People who may not be comfortable speaking directly to an operator can text their ZIP code to 898211 or use the live chat option at addictionhelpwi.org.

"Our operators are trained to listen to the needs of the caller and help them understand what services and supports may best address their situation," says Charlene Mouille, executive director for the United Way of Wisconsin, the agency that oversees 211 Wisconsin. "We can also help callers find the best option for their financial situation. Concerns over ability to pay should not prevent anyone from seeking help."

Operators facilitated 11,940 referrals in the first year, with assessment, detoxification, and residential treatment services the most referred resources. People can call the helpline more than once, and can be referred to more than one service.

The Wisconsin Addiction Recovery Helpline database includes information on 2,311 agencies in Wisconsin offering 5,357 different addiction treatment and recovery programs, including crisis services, detoxification services, assessment, counseling, day treatment, inpatient services, medication-assisted treatment, residential treatment, outpatient services, and peer supports. Operators also have access to 211 Wisconsin's database of thousands of community resources to help the caller address other health, social, and financial needs.

The Wisconsin Addiction Recovery Helpline began taking calls October 22, 2018.

Jerry Apps Returns To Second Saturdays

Second Saturdays — Journeys Into Local History, presented by the Sheboygan County Historical Research Center, continues its 19th season on Saturday, Nov. 9, with memories of winters past.

Perennial favorite, Jerry Apps will present his newest PBS special, The Quiet Season, Remembering Country Winters. In this program, we will screen and preview the program where Apps recalls winters growing up on a farm in central Wisconsin during the latter years of the Depression and through World War II.

Wisconsin winters then were a time of reflection, of planning for next year, and of families drawing together. Jerry describes how winter influenced farm families and suggests that those of us who grow up with harsh northern winters are profoundly affected in ways we often are not aware.

Jerry asks that attendees should come prepared to share some of their own winter stories.

This wonderful program begins at 9:30 a.m. at the Plymouth Arts Center, 520 East Mill Street, Plymouth. This and all Second Saturdays presentations are free and open to the public. Please join us.

Lady Indian Runners Make History; Next Stop Is Wisconsin Rapids

By Judy Harlow

The date October 25, 2019 will go down in sports history at Kewaskum High School after the Lady Indians finished second in the Division 2 sectional meet held on the Mayville Golf Course to earn the school's second-ever berth in the WIAA State Cross Country Meet.

It has been 42 years since the 1978 team was the first to qualify. (See separate story.)

New coach Eugene Peterson had an inkling the Indians might make it, and wishing became reality as the total scores were added up to determine final places. Kewaskum had 93 points to take runner-up honors and qualify for the "big show" at Wisconsin Rapids.

As expected, no one was going to catch powerful Winneconne, which came in with an impressive 46 points, starting with a one-two-three finish led by individual winner, Joey Perry, who toured the course in a time of 20:07.96.

Junior Alyssa Butz broke up the Wolves' monopoly, charging home in fourth place with a fine time of 20:40.12. Butz, who finished 126th (21:58.23) in the 2017 state meet as a freshman, has been steady all year with teammate Faith Mertzig getting closer and closer to her near the end of the season. Mertzig, who came out for the sport as a sophomore, finished sixth overall, hitting the finish line in 20:47.03.

Then came Andrea Butz, another of the Butz triplets in 13th place. (The third one, Nicole, is a middle blocker on the KHS volleyball team.) Andrea decided this fall to switch from volleyball to cross country, and looked like a seasoned veteran. Butz's time was 21:11.43.

The Indians were also helped by the improvement of sophomore Tierney Herman, who placed 31st with a time of 22:19.32, while Kendra Schmitt was the final counter, finishing 39th in 22:30.08. Courtney Zarda and Emma Penfield completed the Indians' field, placing 53rd and 86th in 23:02.93 and 24:51.28, respectively.

"The girls ran amazing races," Peterson said. "This team was told from day one that they had the talent to make it to the state meet. It all came together last week in Berlin (at the East Central Conference test), when Faith, Andrea, Kendra, and Courtney really stepped up and showed what they were able to do."

Peterson continued, "Going in (to sectionals) they were ranked second, based off of the hypothetical meet, which can lead to a lot of pressure when you haven't been in that position before. The girls handled the pressure amazingly and each did what they needed to do to stay grounded and run the races needed to be successful."

The coach went on to say, "When it was all said and done, Andrea, Tierney, Kendra, Courtney, and Emma ran great races as the chase pack to make a push to put a strong enough gap on Wautoma, Columbus, and Berlin."

The state meet will be held this Saturday, November 2 at the Ridges Golf Course. The D-2 girls will lead off the competition at noon.

"Looking forward, we are looking to run a strong race, with no expectations at The Ridges this week," Peterson said. "I am excited for this team and the future of the program after the first big test we have had and our ability to turn that corner from a decent team to a really good team."

On the boys' side of the ledger, Kewaskum's Isaiah Lubner missed qualifying as an individual by two places. Lubner, a home schooler, placed ninth with an excellent time of 17:12.76. The top five place winners, not from the two qualifying teams, get a ticket to state, but in this meet there were six individuals finishing ahead of any of the runners from Wautoma/Wild Rose, the sectional champions (87 points) and runner-up Winneconne (95).

As a team, KHS was ninth with 195 points. In addition to Lubner's ninth, junior Gannon Kreuser was clocked in 17:45.85, good for 19th in the field, while Lance Grosskoph and Clayton Kappler wound up 50th and 51st with times of 18:43.55 and 18:44.78.

"Isaiah and Gannon went out and put themselves in a position in the first mile and a half to have an outside shot. Both will be stronger next year to give them that push into individual state spot territories," Peterson said. "The pack ran well, but wasn't able to move forward as much as we would hope to make a real strong push at other teams' third runners, which is what we would have had to do."

The final counters were Logan Haydin and Adam Wells in 66th and 71st with times of 19:18.00 and 19:26.29. Grosskoph was the lone senior on the team, and Peterson applauded his efforts during the season.

Mayville Division 2 Sectional

Girls Team finishes: 1. Winneconne, 46; 2. Kewaskum, 93; 3. Wautoma/Wild Rose, 112; 4. Columbus, 140; 5. Berlin, 144; 6. Grafton, 159; KM Lutheran, 200; 8. Portage, 213; Omro, 223; Lomira, 244; 11. Waupun, 270; 12. Mayville, 271; 13. Ripon, 280; 14. Campbellsport, 327

Boys Team finishes: 1. Wautoma/Wild Rose, 87; 2. Winneconne, 95; 3. North Fond du Lac/Oakfield, 124; 4. KM Lutheran, 130; 5. Waupun, 146; 6. Ripon, 148; 7. Grafton, 151; 8. Campbellsport, 167; 9. Kewaskum, 195; 10. Berlin, 210; 11. Lomira, 283; 12. Portage, 346; 13. Columbus, 379; 4. Mayville, 398.

Race Was Shorter And At Different Site In 1978

By Judy Harlow

Kewaskum High fans would have to go back two score and one year ago to find the first and only time before this year that the school had a girls team going to state in the sport of cross country.

Back in 1978, the Lady Indians, led by the Wilson sisters, Barb and Laurie, and Julann Zemlicks, placed third in Class B in the state meet, which was held in Madison.

The coach of the team was Dave Drexler, who was early in his career at the school. Kewaskum was one of six schools to advance to state, along with Tomahawk, Slinger, Prairie du Chien, Athens and Amery.

Tomahawk won the Class B title with its top five runners finishing second, fourth, fifth, ninth and 12th for an impressive 32 points, Slinger finished second with 53 points and had the individual winner, Cathy Branta, who won her first of three state title with a time of 11:50, one second ahead of Tomahawk's Bev Renn and five seconds in front of the Indians' Barb Wilson (11:55.)

Zemlicka, now Zemlicka-Retzlaff, who currently resides in Mayville, placed 13th with a time of 12:38, with her teammate, Laurie Wilson, right behind her in 12:41. (For team scoring they were seventh and eighth, taking out several individual qualifiers.)

The other two KHS counters were Sherri Squier, who toured the course in 13:23 good for 33rd place while Mary Kougl (Kempf) was 36th in 13:32. Other KHS runners were Tracy Coulter and Brenda Fuller, who came in with times of 14:10 and 14:49, good for 41st and 45th places, respectively.

Pam Perkins, Darla Beder and Vicky Reif were also on the cross country team that fall.

"I remember going, but I don't remember being third," Zemlicka-Retzlaff, a sophomore at the time, said, indicating the meet was held at the Yahara Hills Golf Course.

Zemlicka-Retzlaff went on to UW-La Crosse, where she had a very successful career in track. Later she coached track and cross country at Mayville High School. Wilson also ran collegiately for Marquette University.

Zemlicka-Retzlaff said several years ago, the team members held a reunion on the day of one of the KEYS (Kewaskum Youth Scholarship) Runs.

Until 1993, the girls cross country races were 3,200 meters, then 4,000 meter races from 1993 until 2014 when the distance was extended to five kilometers.

The Kewaskum High School girls cross country team starts the race in Mayville on October 25. The team qualified to compete at state.

October 26
Kewaskum U7
Wolves 3

Slinger Cheetahs 2
The U7 Kewaskum Wolves ended their season on October 26 with a 3-2 win vs. The Slinger Cheetahs.

Aubrey Long played very well offensively and scored the first goal for the Wolves. Bentley Kuhfuss had several attempts at goal and connected with the back of the net for the next goal. Dawson Scheel had a nice shot on goal for the third of the game.

Oscar Cannestra, Veronica Goetzinger, Athena Perondi, Isaac Honeyager and Josie Whitfield all played very hard, and moved the ball well offensively and defensively. What a great end to the season for the Wolves.

October 26
Kewaskum U9
Rebels 4

Richfield Thunder 3
On October 26, the KYSO U9 Rebels played the Richfield Thunder for their last game of the fall season.

The game started out with McKinley Timblin scoring twice and Ryland Ciriacks scoring once in the first quarter. James Lawrenz had several key saves in the first quarter to give the Rebels a 3-0 lead going into the second quarter.

McKinley Timblin scored again in the second quarter and the Rebels went on to win the game 4-3 which gave the team an 8-1-1 record this fall season.

October 26

October 26
Kewaskum U8
Dragons 1
WC Arsenal 4

This week we lost 4-1. Carson Eilbes scored our goal.

Our team played very hard! The Arsenal got a couple good shots in, but the teams skill levels were pretty well matched. All of the kids played with aggression remembering to keep after and shoot the ball!

The Dragons have all grown so much this season and we can't wait to see what our next season will bring.

October 26
Kewaskum U10
Fire 10

Hustisford Avengers 0
On Saturday, October 26, Kewaskum U10 Fire took on the Hustisford Avengers. Kewaskum Fire definitely turned up the heat and won the game 7-0.

Leviathan Whitfield contributed five amazing goals throughout the game. Dana Jacobson connected with the back of the net and also kicked a sweet corner kick right to Carter Unger to blast one in.

Cameron Jones had some great saves, keeping the Avengers scoreless. Chayse Hall, Landon Scheel, and Ella Schmidt kept the ball out of Fire territory throughout the game.

Kewaskum Fire ended the season with one tie and 11 wins, leaving them undefeated this season! Way to go Fire!!!! You guys sure know how to play as a team!

October 26
Kewaskum U14
Hurricanes 3
Richfield 2

U14 Hurricanes played Richfield this past Saturday. They had beaten them before in the Erin tournament, however it was a shoot out there... so the teams were pretty evenly matched in skills.

Richfield came out determined to beat us... two goals in the first half.

Alexander Severance scored the first goal for Kewaskum Hurricanes.

Then a hand ball on Richfield.

Austin Janz took the penalty kick and scored! The game is now tied up... the teams are both fired up and determined to not end in a tie.

Kewaskum Hurricane goalie Xavier Chipman blocked a few attempted shots on goal...then with one minute left in the game the Hurricanes went hard down the field and took a shot, blocked and bounced out. Luke Grover was there to stop it and take another shot and scored!!!

3-2 Hurricanes win.

Wins In Games Four And Five Against Grafton Send Indians Off To Regional Finals

By Judy Harlow

After falling behind 2-1, the Kewaskum volleyball team caught fire just in time to knock Grafton out of the WIAA Division 2 regional and punch its ticket for the regional finale against No. 1-seeded Wisconsin Lutheran.

The Indians prevailed in five games over the scrappy Blackhawks, 25-18, 23-25, 15-25, 25-20, and 15-13. The rubber game was tied seven times, the last at 13-all before the Indians sealed the deal with a kill by Kiley May and Amayah Thomas' ace.

"A great team win. We struggled to get it going offensively and fought through that all night," KHS coach Laine Leitzke said. "(Nicole) Butz and (Carolyn) Stockhausen in the middle did a great job of grabbing control late in the fourth and fifth (games). (Brelynn) Scoles and (Holly) Henk each had some big swings at the end. It was a nice finish."

Thomas was thrilled she got the opportunity to end the game, saying, "I'm pretty excited! ... I was really hoping for a win, looking forward to taking on Wisconsin Lutheran."

Thomas admitted there were anxious moments for the Indians, like giving up 12 straights points, starting out 0-12 in game number three and looking a bit out of sync.

"We got down a little bit, but after game four, we were pumped up for the fifth game," Thomas, the 5-foot, 8-inch junior setter and defensive specialist, went on. Thomas wound up with three aces and tied for team honors with Amanda Miller in assists. Both contributed 16.

"Grafton's No. 5 (Josephine Gust) did a great job finding her hitter and No. 6 (Abby Proefrock) and No. 14 (Sandoval) were tough to stop," Leitzke said, "But we were pushing a defensive mentality throughout the match and using our defense to pick up our offense."

Stockhausen, Henk and Scoles led the Indians in kills with 11, 11 and nine, respectively, while Stockhausen had four blocks and Butz, three. Miller and Thomas led the team in assists with 21 and 19. The dig leaders were Mikaela Marquardt (16), Scoles (11) and Jillian Rettler (six). The freshman Marquardt was especially effective defensively, diving for balls all over the court.

In the first round, on October 22, the Indians had very little trouble getting past Milwaukee Vincent, easily winning three quick games, 25-3, 25-4 and 25-4.

Since the games were short, game statistics were lower in numbers than in conference matches. Henk and Scoles led the team in kills with five and four, respectively. Henk posted a season high 15 aces, and Thomas and Nora Sebo chipped in with eight and seven, respectively.

Nicole Butz was tops in blocks, with two, while Sebo, Thomas and Miller were credited with eight, six and five assists, respectively. The dig leaders were Marquardt, Courtney Duren and Henk with four, three and three.

October 26 Gridiron Results

This past Saturday, October 26 the eighth, seventh and sixth grade teams traveled to Whitefish Bay for their final games of the 2019 season.

The eighth grade team got off to a fast start but let Whitefish Bay back into the game right before halftime before finally pulling away in the second half for a 36-24 victory to conclude their season. The Indians defense forced a stop on the opening possession and then moved the ball down field with a nice run/pass mix. The drive was capped off with the quarterback Dawson Stahl finding wide receiver Bailey Ralph for a five yard touchdown pass. Mitchell Becker's two-point kick was good for an 8-0 lead.

On the ensuing kickoff the Indian's Oliver Voight recovered an on-side kick and two plays later Stahl found tight end Jayden Choy on a quick pass and Choy blew by defenders for a 43 yard touchdown. Becker once again converted the two-point kick for a 16-0 lead. Whitefish Bay got right back into the game with two long touchdown runs on their next two possessions, one from 42 yards and the other from 63 yards with only one second left in the first half. They made both 2-point kicks making it a 16-16 game at halftime.

The Indians took advantage of a bad snap on a punt that went between the punter's legs giving them the ball at the three yard line and Nicholas Deheck scored a couple plays later for a 22-16 lead. Early in the fourth quarter after a nice 54 yard run from Dylan Soyk, Stahl and Choy hooked up again for another touchdown pass to give the Indians 28-16.

The Indians finished off their scoring with another Stahl to Ralph connection for 48 yards and another two-point kick from Becker for a 36-16 lead. Whitefish Bay added a late score for the final of 36-24. The Indians offense was led by the running of Soyk who had 12 carries for 145 yards and the passing of Stahl who completed six passes for 120 yards and four touchdowns, two each to Ralph and Choy.

The Indians defensive effort was led by Deheck who was the leading tackler and forced a fumble that was recovered by Kaiden Naumann. Casey Schmidt also added an interception for the defense.

The seventh grade team finished their season in an offensive shootout that ended with a 40-30 defeat against Whitefish Bay. Indian's running back Corbin Dexter had a handful of long runs on the day and cashed most of those in for touchdowns as he ran for four in the game. The other Indians touchdown was scored by running back/quarterback Landon Daniel.

The Indians defense was led by Everett Donath who was the teams leading tackler and Karter Fell who made a couple of plays in the Whitefish Bay backfield.

The sixth grade team had a strong finish to their season with a dominate 44-0 victory over Whitefish Bay. The Indians played well in all facets of the game and that showed by the final score.

The touchdowns for the Indians were scored by Bryston Scoles who caught one from Anthony Coleman and also ran one in. Kingston Grisolono who returned a kickoff for a touchdown and also ran one in. Eli Ogi ran his in and Johnny Hooker who caught his from Coleman. Kicker David Brown was able to convert four of his two-point kick attempts.

The Indians defense as was normally the case this season was led by Gabe Halopka who again spent most of the day in the other teams backfield for many tackles for losses. Hooker also played a great game on defense with many tackles and Liam Stoffel had an interception for the Indians.

Indians Sail Through Playoff Opener; Face Catholic Memorial Next

By Judy Harlow

Scoring a pair of rushing touchdowns in the second quarter and using a bit of trickery to tack on a third TD via the air in the third quarter, the Kewaskum football team easily cleared its first hurdle en route to what the Indians hope will end up in a trip to Madison's Camp Randall Stadium in the Division 3 finals.

The Indians (6-5), who were much more balanced offensively, shut out visiting East Troy 23-0.

"They were who we thought they would be," KHS coach Steve Tennes said, using the infamous quote used by former Minnesota Viking coach Dennis Green after his team lost to the Chicago Bears years ago.

What Tennes meant in this case was the Trojans (5-5), who relied on a passing game in their 10-team Rock Valley Conference, were a little easier to defend because their running game was pretty anemic and because his Indians were ready for what the opponents threw at them.

"They ran a little to keep us honest, but passing was their bread and butter," Tennes said, adding, "I thought our defensive secondary played their best game of the season" with Bret Fahrenkrug, Trevor Degnitz and Dylan Maechtle all coming up with interceptions.

Neither team had much success moving the football in the first quarter, but the Indians got going in the second, eventually scoring with 7:50 remaining on a short run by Kannon Muckerheide. Andrew Bolek's successful PAT (point after touchdown) gave Kewaskum a 7-0 lead.

Sam Lemler scored the Indians' second TD, this one coming with :50 left before intermission. Bolek was successful on the extra point, making the score 14-0.

"Even though they were a passing team, they did a good job of ball control," Tennes said. "Possessions were limited in the first half," so scoring twice gave him some confidence.

Kewaskum's first drive in the second half "stalled in the red zone," according to Tennes, who called on Bolek to kick a 30-yard field goal. and it was true. "I think he's made four of five this year," he said.

The additional three points boosted Kewaskum's lead to 17-0. Later in the period, "We were able to use a trick play, a halfback option from 'J.J.' (Jermaine Thull) to Josh (Bocher)" for a 17-yard score. This time Bolek missed the PAT.

Lemler and Thull led the Indians in rushing with 82 and 80 yards, respectively. "I think they had about the same number of carries, too," Tennes said, with Thull getting the ball 17 times and Lemler 16. Next came Michael Daniel with 24 yards in his lone carry.

Daniel also completed 3x9 passes for 67 yards. Ty Cook got off six passes, completing three for 36 yards with one interception, while Thull was intercepted on his second pass when Tennes called for another halfback option.

Maechtle led the receiving corp with four catches for 76 yards, while Bocher caught three for 39 and Reagan Dricken one for 19.

East Troy crossed the 50-yard line a couple of times but never really threatened, according to Tennes, who said, "It was a pretty solid performance by the defense," limiting the Trojans to 27 yards rushing and 104 passing.

Lemler led the Indians with eight tackles, while Eli Bartelt had seven, Sam Amerling six and Muckerheide five.

Tennes tipped his hat to Muckerheide, who was playing with a heavy heart after his father, Chad Muckerheide, passed away unexpectedly on October 20. When asked if the team was trying to get the win for Kannon, Tennes said, "I'd like to think so ... I know Kannon tried extra hard ... It was remarkable the kid was able to get through that."

Kewaskum travels to Waukesha November 1 to play top-seeded and Division 3 defending state champion Catholic Memorial (8-2) in a 7 p.m. game that will be held at Carroll University.

"Obviously, Kewaskum is no stranger to CMH (Catholic Memorial High) ... They have a history," Tennes said, adding he has a little book on the Crusaders from his days at Germantown High.

"They are fast and physical," Tennes said, reporting the Crusaders quarterback (Luke Fox) is a lefty, "and he's talented," and has been the case for the past several years, they have a good right end, and "Their fullback and halfback are nothing to sneeze at either."

"They lost two games this year, so they are not invincible," Tennes went on. "We've got to play good football to beat them ... That's our challenge." Memorial won its first playoff game 66-0 over Milwaukee Obama.

Washington County Mountain Bike Team Finishes Strong Season

The Washington County mountain bike team's season has come to an end with the State Race at the Trek Trails in Waterloo.

With the course being muddy and technical, the athletes were excited to race. The race course was filled with fans, as over 850 riders slide up and down the slick hills and turns. The Washington County Trail Sharks did not give up as they raced to an 11th place finish for the season.

The team was led by these season medalists: Kendra Schmitt (Kewaskum), first place; Mike Spangenberg (West Bend), fourth place; and Anja Lanser (West Bend), first place.

Indians' Run Comes To An End Against Wisconsin Lutheran

By Judy Harlow

After winning its two final matches in the Easy Central Conference Tournament and its first two matches in the Division 2 regional tournament, the run of the Kewaskum volleyball team came to an end in the regional final against No. 1-seeded Wisconsin Lutheran.

Playing in Wauwatosa on October 26, the Indians lost in three straight games, 14-25, 8-25 and 18-25. The Vikings move on to the sectional tournament where its first opponent will be Kettle Moraine Lutheran. In the other bracket are St. Thomas More and Whitnall.

"Wisconsin Lutheran is a very solid team. They have two very strong outsides and a powerful left-hander on the right side," KHS coach Laine Leitzke said. "They kept us off balance most of the night."

Holly Henk led the team in kills with 10, then the numbers dropped off to five and four from Brelynn Scoles and Carolyn Stockhausen.

Henk and Amanda Miller each had one ace, while Stockhausen put up two blocks and Henk had one. The assist leaders were Miller and Amayah Thomas with 20 and three, respectively. Dig leaders were Henk, Miller and Scoles with 10, eight and five, respectively.

"When you play a solid team like that, as the underdog, you have to almost play perfectly. We struggled in serve receive, which put a lot of stress on our attack," Leitzke said. He added, "Our middles had great success, but we just couldn't get the ball to them consistently and our wings had to work all night on making shots."

KHS ended the year with a record of 28-9, finishing fourth in the East Central Conference. The Indians finished 4-3 in dual meets and won the consolation bracket of the tournament after being upset by Campbellsport in the first round.

The Indians won the Cedar Grove-Belgium Tournament, won the Gold Bracket in the Pulaski Tournament and the Silver Bracket in the Kettle Moraine Tournament.

The Indians will lose two key players with the graduation of Scoles and Stockhausen.

Leitzke praised both for their dedication to the team.

"Brelynn was a four-time varsity player and a big part of the success of our program. She has helped turn the culture of Kewaskum and she will be greatly missed," Leitzke said. "She has a strong presence on the court, both in practice and during matches, and her work ethic will hopefully take her far at the next level. It will be hard to see her 693 career kills and 845 career digs not be on the court next year."

About Stockhausen, the coach said, "Carolyn has been more of the lead-by-example player. She showed up every day and just got her work done. In her three years on varsity, she improved her hitting percentage and overall effect on the team each and every year."

Leitzke said Stockhausen went from .6 kills a set to 1.5 in her senior year. "She just continued to get better. She is the type of athlete you want to build your program around and she was a big part of our successes. She was just short of a 300 kill-300 block career stat-line at Kewaskum."

MELINDA MYERS

Holidays are a wonderful time to gather with friends and family, share a special meal and exchange gifts. Finding the perfect gift for those we love can be overwhelming and stressful. No need to fret; give the gift of gardening that provides seasons of joy.

It doesn't matter if your recipient is young or old, new or experienced, an avid gardener or one who just likes the benefits gardening provides. You can find something special for everyone on your gift list.

Small and large space gardeners will appreciate help keeping their tools handy as they work their way through their landscape. Give them a bucket, pair of gloves and a few tools to keep by the door for those quick planting, weeding and deadheading sessions. Or decorate an old mailbox and turn it into tool storage to be mounted in the garden. Their tools will be handy and they'll spend less time and fewer steps hunting down forgotten tools.

Or purchase a tool caddy. Look for one that's colorful and waterproof like the Puddle-Proof Tote that holds and keeps hand tools, gloves and seeds dry. Help them wrangle larger tools for easy transport from the shed to the garden and from bed to bed with a wheeled tool caddy that handles larger tools. The Mobile Tool storage caddy (gardeners.com) has pockets for small tools, secures large handled tools and provides a place to hold compost, cut flowers or vegetables. It's easy to maneuver, eliminates multiple trips to the shed and is perfect for gardeners of all ages and abilities.

Tools are always a favorite of gardeners. Newbies need to build their tool collection while experienced gardeners may need to replace broken or time worn hand tools. Consider giving a harvest basket, bucket or tool caddy filled with some basics. All gardeners will appreciate a new innovative tool that makes gardening easier or more fun. Look for ergonomic tools that are built to ease stress on joints and allow gardeners to work longer with less pain. Multifunctioning tools like the Golden Gark Rake that rakes, scoops and sifts helps save storage space and the need to haul around multiple tools.

Help your favorite gardener keep his or her green thumb in shape all winter long. Provide pretty pots, potting mix and seeds. Look for kits like the Galvanized Organic Kitchen Herbs Growing Kit that provides all needed to grow fresh herbs. Increase their indoor gardening success with supplemental lighting. You'll now find light stands that sit on the table, mount on the wall or attach to plant pots. Furniture quality Bamboo Mini LED Grow Light systems provide energy efficient lighting in a set up pretty enough for any room.

And for those that like the flowers but have limited time or interest in growing, give them waxed amaryllis bulbs. They won't need to water or fertilize. Beginning and experienced gardeners will watch in amazement as this plant bursts into bloom with no effort on their part.

Don't know what to send? Cut flowers, flowering bulbs and plants are sure to generate a smile in just seconds. Take care of special occasions throughout the year in one single order. Place one order for three, six, or 12 months of blooming beauty delivered right to your loved one's door, providing joy throughout the year.

Indoor herb kits keep gardeners growing all year, while providing fresh herbs for flavoring and garnishing meals. (Photo courtesy of Gardener's Supply Company)

So, break out your gift list and look for ways to give the gift of gardening. Your family and friends will appreciate your thoughtfulness all year long.
