Irineo Medina, an artist who lives in Kaukauna, paints a mural on the building at 143 Main St. in Kewaskum. The colorful painting is a Kettle Moraine prairie scene that features native plants and insects from the area. When completed, the painting will have a border that is based on a Potawatomi design as a tribute to the Native Americans who first lived in the Kewaskum area.

Mural Brings Happiness To Kewaskum

– New Mural Depicts Kettle Moraine Prairie Scene

By Anne Trautner

When the COVID-19 pandemic started earlier this year, many people began spending more time outside. Katie Fahney noticed that a lot of people had started walking on the Eisenbahn State Trail in Kewaskum.

It made her wonder if there was a way she could bring a little more cheer into the community. Maybe something bright, something for people to actually come to Kewaskum and look at. Perhaps a mural.

“I really like murals. I’ve taken pictures with my family in front of murals in different cities, and I always like checking them out,” Fahney said.

Her vision is now becoming a reality.

A giant mural is being painted on the side of the building at 143 Main St. in Kewaskum.

The giant, brightly colored scene is of a Kettle

Moraine prairie. The painting depicts native grasses and flowers, along with some insects found in the area, such as a Monarch butterfly and a dragonfly. On the far right side of the scene, near Main Street, is an abstract image of the sun and maple leaves. A border around the mural is based on a Potawatomi design as a tribute to the Native Americans who first lived in the Kewaskum area.

Allen Sentenced For Stabbing Incident

By Andrea Hansen Abler

James Allen, 34, was sentenced last week for charges related to a stabbing incident that occurred in Campbellsport on March 30, 2019.

Allen, formally of Campbellsport, pled no contest to first-degree intentional homicide and was sentenced on Friday, Oct. 16, by Fond du Lac Judge Peter Grimm to 22 years in prison. He will also have 20 years of extended supervision when the prison term is completed.

A second count of aggravated battery while intending great bodily harm was dismissed but read during the hearing.

On March 30, 2019, Allen stabbed his then-girlfriend multiple times while they were driving 55 mph on Highway V near Campbellsport. The Campbellsport Police Department was called to a house near Main and Jenny streets in Campbellsport that morning for a report of the woman bleeding from multiple stab wounds.

She was transported by ambulance to the St. Agnes Hospital helicopter pad where the ThedaStar helicopter picked her up. She was flown to Theda Clark Medical Center for life-threatening wounds.

Later that night, Allen was on foot when he flagged down a passerby and asked to use their cell phone. He used the phone to call 911 and turn himself in to authorities.

Kewaskum Police officers were dispatched near Highways 28 and 45 and took Allen into custody and turned him over to the Fond du Lac Sheriff’s Department without incident.

Owen and Wyatt Blevins stopped by the Campbellsport Public Library to take advantage of the free Wi-Fi and study space to get some homework done. The library is offering a safe place for students to study and to access Wi-Fi call (920) 533-8534 for details. Read more about this on page 3.

"Falling" Forward

Dear Reader,

The autumn is now in full swing as evidenced by the many colors of the foliage around us. The panoramic collage of tints and hues bring peace and quiet thoughts to us as witnesses. Many of the trees and flowers bloom and blaze their brightest prior to greeting a new winter which is right around the corner.

The passing of this particular season is bitter-sweet because each stage carries its own curious mixture of beauty and death. The holidays will soon be upon us and then the new year. Looking back, this year is probably one that we all want to put behind us as soon as possible for a multitude of reasons.

Still each day brings its own unique character so we should spend the effort in making the most of it.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

How will you decide who to vote for as our President? Will you base your decision solely on a candidate's rhetoric, tone, style, or likeability? Does that describe your thinking process?

"This is not a junior high or high school popularity/personality contest. I'm voting for the platform!"

"I'm voting for the second amendment, the next Supreme Court justice, the Electoral College, the Republic in which we live, for police law and order, for the military veterans who fought and died for this country, for the flag, for my right to speak my opinion and not be censored for it, for secure borders, for the right to praise God without fear, for every unborn soul that is at risk of being aborted, for freedom and the American dream, for good against evil. I'm not just voting for one person." (Anonymous)

"I'm voting for candidates who will exercise sound leadership internationally, for those who support Israel for those who will protect children from leftist curricula, for parental rights, for school choice and home education, for racial unity, to support "In God We Trust" and school prayer, for LIFE in all its dimensions, against euthanasia and physician-assisted suicide, for wisdom in handling the pandemic.

"With all respect, this election is not about you. It certainly isn't about me. It's about our kids and grandkids. It is about those who are yet to come, if they are allowed to live. It is about our Constitution and the immutable, God given rights it protects. It is about values, and truth, and greatness, and hope. That's why the notion of choosing a president based on frivolous personality characteristics is so unfortunate." (James Dobson)

So, get out and vote and vote for the candidates who will best uphold your values and convictions.

Mike and Joy Koepke

Dear Editor,

"Deja vu?"

The misinformation and racism continues. Jane Fonda had the right per the First Amendment to speak out.

Surprising enough her comments were right on! No it is not our duty just to blindly follow our government into oblivion.

That pesky First Amendment gets in the way again with comments about Reverend Al. He has no right to express his opinion?

Don't like it, turn it off. That's what I do with Trump. Those of us who took the time to understand the Black Lives Matter movement know it's not about the color of your skin. If you think it is you need to do some additional reading.

Lastly, the Democrats, and Joe Biden, do NOT believe in elective late term abortion. Abortion to the sixth month is legal in the U.S. Thank goodness and I hope it stays that way.

These beliefs should guide your life not those of us who don't agree. A vote for Trump is a vote for racism, unprofessionalism and more pandemic deaths.

Jeff D. Brandt

Dear Editor,

I live near Spring Green, in the heart of our state that Chronic Wasting Disease has hit so hard. CWD did not start in our state. Because it travels easily, it is a threat to deer herds not only in Wisconsin but many other states, as well. That is why we need national leadership and a national plan to get on top of this disease that threatens the health of our deer and prevents so many of us from enjoying the annual hunt and the year-long venison.

We need the federal government to work with states, research institutions and wildlife organizations to find an end to this awful disease. A comprehensive strategy to develop solutions to protect our deer herd is a must.

As both a hunter and retired conservation professional, I expected President Trump to move this ball forward. He has not. Joe Biden's belief in science gives me confidence he would do a better job.

Let's give him that job on November 3.

Sincerely,
Mike Degen

Check It Out!

A Column By Kewaskum Librarian Lori Kreis

I have had time to read recently, which in the past months has been rare. Between working and household responsibilities, it has been difficult to finish a book before it is due. Often, I check out books and barely open them before I need to return them to the quarantine area. It is also worth mentioning, that I have had a hard time concentrating on a book during the pandemic and I know I am not alone in that. Just a quick internet search for “unable to read during Covid” results in many articles devoted to this subject. However, I am now able to concentrate on at least one book at a time and would like to share some reviews of recent reads.

The Book of Longings is Sue Monk Kidd’s most recent release and I found it a fascinating read. Historical fiction is my favorite genre, and this novel incorporates history within a story beautifully. The primary character is Ana, who is a young teen at the story’s beginning. She is headstrong, highly educated during a period when women weren’t and eventually is married to Jesus. That fictional marriage is just a part of the novel; the essence of the story follows how Ana evolves into a woman of substantial character during the first century in Galilee, Alexandria and other ancient locales. There are familiar biblical characters throughout such as Herod, Mary and Judas, but Kidd also introduces us to some new intriguing characters. Ana’s aunt Yaltha is one of the many strong female figures featured in the novel. My take on this historical story is that yes, it is fiction, but also a book of feminism. If you like historical fiction with a smattering of women’s rights included, you need to check this book out.

Former NASA astronaut Terry Virts both entertains and informs us in his non-fiction book, How to Astronaut: An Insider’s Guide to Leaving Earth. I grew up during a time when space exploration was something every kid wanted to do. This book of essays was a fun read that allowed me to skip around reading different chapters. I find that is an effortless way to read non-fiction, especially if the topic is mundane. However, the work and life of an astronaut is exciting and Virts pulls you in from the very beginning. Some of the chapters I needed to revisit over and over as I put myself in the place of the writer. The section that described the earth from space was vivid and had me rereading it to continue to capture the scenery in my mind. I laughed quite a bit, especially during the portrayals of astronauts’ everyday lives in space. This book is truly a gem and I highly recommend it.

If you have a chance to read either of these new books, stop on in and let me know what you think.

Hope to see you soon.

Joyce was born on February 11, 1933 in the town of Auburn, Fond du Lac County, Wisconsin to Vilas and Evelyn (nee Schulz) Ludwig. She was baptized and confirmed at Trinity Lutheran Church in Dundee, Wisconsin. She worked at Regal Ware in Kewaskum until she met her future husband. On February 20, 1955 she married Lloyd Gatzke at Trinity Lutheran Church. This marriage was blessed with six children, five sons and a daughter.

Joyce was a devoted stay at home mother; and, together with her husband, raised her family in a loving Christian home. When Lloyd retired from Regal Ware in 1999, Lloyd and Joyce took an active role in the Builders for Christ Program of the Wisconsin Synod Lutheran Church. They were involved in this mission work for 19 years and worked on 24 different projects around the United States which included churches, schools, fellowship halls and parsonages. Among Joyce's other interests were square dancing, camping, window shopping, quilting and an abundance of volunteer work. Joyce was proud of her family and instilled in each of them the desire to volunteer and to help others. She was the perfect example of a loving Christian mother.

Lloyd and Joyce were devoted members of Good Shepherd Evangelical Lutheran Church in West Bend and were part of the altar committee for many years. Together, they cheerfully served their Lord to show their gratitude for their many blessings.

Lloyd and Joyce loved to travel around the United States and internationally. Together they were blessed to experience the people and culture of 12 different countries outside the U.S. Joyce's favorite trip was to Australia.

Joyce is survived by her loving husband of 65 years, Lloyd; her five sons and their wives, Robert (Debra), Kenneth (Diane), Terry (Corinne), Larry (Evelyn), Rodney (Sherry); and her daughter, Lora. Audrey M. Klumb Audrey Mae Klumb passed away on October 12, 2020 at the age of 82.

The youngest of five children born to Emil and Lena Klumb, Audrey lived her entire life at the family homestead on Highway D in the Town of Barton. At vocational school, Audrey learned the art of cake decorating. She then worked at Amity Leather in West Bend until her short stature made it too difficult to keep up with the pace set by piece work. Audrey dedicated the rest of her life to running the household for her bachelor brothers who ran the dairy farm, pitching in whenever needed outside, whether it be driving tractor or taking meals out to the field, always making sure the "boys" were home to do chores on time. The truth was she enjoyed the farm work more than the housework.

A lifetime member of St. Lucas Lutheran Church in Kewaskum, Audrey was active in the Ladies Aid. In her younger years, Audrey was active in the Farm Bureau and spent many hours working in the Bureau's stand at the Washington County Fair. Audrey spent many hours planting flowers and beautifying the property. She loved animals, particularly her cats, and their beloved beagles. A favorite pastime was driving around the farm on her gator with a beagle at her side. A close second was watching the Brewers play baseball. Audrey loved to laugh and was a very special aunt to her nieces and nephews.

Preceded in death by her parents, her brothers-in-law Eldon Wulff and Tom Fowler, and nephews Danny Fowler and Scott Wulff.

Audrey will be missed by her brothers, Edward and Harvey, her sisters Arlene Wulff and Esther Fowler, nephew Kevin Wulff, nieces Karen, Kathy, April, Nina, Cheryl, and Linda, their spouses and children.

The family would like to thank the caregivers that made her laugh and smile and feel loved.

Due to covid concerns, the funeral service will be private.

The Myrhum - Patten Funeral Home has been entrusted with Audrey's arrangements. Additional information and guest book may be found at www.myrhum-patten.com.

Charles H. Schultz

Charles H. Schultz, 87, life-long Kewaskum area resident, went to his Heavenly home on Monday, October 12, 2020.

Charles, Chuck, Charlie – whatever name you knew him by, he truly was one-of-a-kind!! Forever lovingly remembered for his wonderful smile, easy-going way and gentle soul.

Charles was born at home on the family farm, in the Town of Mitchell, to Arthur and Marie Schultz, on November 22, 1932. An only child and the light of his parents' eyes, he acquired his work ethic at an early age, living and working on the farm together with his parents, uncle, aunt and cousins. He attended grade school at Sunny Hill, the proverbial one-room country schoolhouse where he and his cousins walked "uphill both ways". In 1950, he graduated from Kewaskum High School.

His love of working with his hands and being outdoors evolved into a life-long career that spanned more than 50 years building quality homes, where many customers became lasting friends.

In 1953, Uncle Sam and the U.S. Army called Charles to serve in Korea where he was a Corporal (T) with the 181st Signal Depot Company, working as a Powerman. He was honorably discharged in 1955 and resumed building houses with his father, uncle Otto, cousin Robert, and, eventually, with his son-in-law, Mike.

On September 1, 1957, Charles was a groomsman for a relative's wedding in Sheboygan. As fate would have it, a chance encounter at this wedding would have him meet the love of his life, Beverly J. Plier. They were united in marriage on June 20, 1959 at Immanuel Lutheran Church in Sheboygan. The couple settled into a happy life in Kewaskum where they welcomed children, Debbie and David, ran a successful building business and were later delighted with the arrival of grandchildren, Brady and Gracie. A treasured circle of friends completed the picture enjoying travel, card playing, dancing, Packer parties and many good times spent with family and friends.

Charles and Beverly were married just short of 60 years when Beverly preceded him in passing on March 6, 2019. He was further preceded in death by his parents and two infant siblings.

A "Laugh Every Day" motto and Charles' twinkling-eyed grin accompanied him throughout his life, even through the many years of challenges he faced dealing with Parkinson's Disease.

Surviving and cherishing Charles' memory are his daughter, Debbie Nigh, son-in-law, Mike Nigh, son, David Schultz (Jennifer Gallun) and grandchildren, Brady Schultz and Gracie Schultz.

Further survivors include cousins, Robert (Edna) Schultz and Kenneth (Dolores) Jandre, a brother-in-law, Donald (Susan) Plier, nephews, other relatives and many friends.

The family would like to extend heartfelt gratitude to the doctors, nurses and staff at Froedtert West Bend Hospital, Horizon Hospice team, Dacy Reimer, APNP and the caregivers, staff and extended family at New Perspective Senior Living in West Bend, which Charles called home for the past 3 years.

Charles and Beverly were members of St. Lucas Evangelical Lutheran Church in Kewaskum for many years.

The family is being assisted by Myrhum Patten Funeral Home. Please consider signing our online guest book (www.myrhum-patten.com) to share your condolences with the family. Cards addressed to the family may be sent in care of: Myrhum – Patten Funeral and Cremation Service, 1315 W. Washington Street, West Bend, WI 53095. Memorials may be sent to the funeral home with designation for St. Lucas Evangelical Lutheran Church or Wisconsin Parkinson Association.

A graveside service and burial with military honors was held on Friday, October 16, 2020 at 1 p.m. at Lutheran Memorial Park, corner of Hwy. 45 and Hwy. H West, Kewaskum, WI 53040 with Pastor Timothy Henning officiating. A recording of the service will be posted later to the funeral home website.

DAD, we were all abundantly BLESSED to have had you in our lives and we will forever hold you in our hearts. We could not have asked for a better dad. Your work here on earth is done. Go rest easy in Heaven.

WE WILL MEET AGAIN.

Planning A Mural

When Fahney first came up with the idea of a mural, she thought the building at 143 Main St. in Kewaskum would be the perfect spot for some colorful artwork.

Fahney drives past the building often. The long brick structure, which currently houses Bootleggerz Saloon, is situated alongside the Eisenbahn Trail.

The building is owned by Gary Gavin, whose daughter just happens to be friends with Fahney. So Fahney contacted Gavin and asked him what he thought of the idea of having a mural painted on the side of his building.

"He loved the idea and basically wanted to approve the design before giving us the go-ahead," Fahney said.

Fahney started looking for volunteers to paint a mural. Then her cousin Joel Fleischman heard about the plan. He and his company, Drexel Building Supply, agreed to sponsor the project.

So Fahney began researching Wisconsin muralists. She contacted the Museum of Wisconsin Art in West Bend to get some ideas. She narrowed her search to six muralists.

After interviewing the artists, she chose Irineo Medina, an artist who lives in Kaukauna, to create the mural.

"One of the great things about Irineo is that he is involved with the Boys & Girls Club in the Appleton/Neenah area, and he really likes to get kids in the community involved. One of the things I liked was that if anyone was interested and wanted to help to paint, they could," Fahney said.

As the sponsor, Fleischman wanted the mural done before winter.

"We had a pretty short time frame to get it done," Fahney said.

So Medina started working on the mural on Wednesday, Oct. 14. He is expected to finish the mural this weekend.

Painting The Mural

To paint the mural, Fahney looked at a sketch he had drawn on a small piece of paper and then drew the giant design onto the brick wall by freehand. For the more intricate details, such as the outline of a monarch butterfly, Medina used a projector at night.

He used paintbrushes to apply some of the paint on the wall and spray paint for other portions.

About 25 people from the community came out to help. A Spanish class from Kewaskum High School is currently studying murals, so those students came and helped paint during the school day. An art class from the high school also came out a couple times to work on the project.

Young children helped paint the base coat. Several teens volunteered their time to paint some of the shading in the oversized blades of grass that are painted on the brick wall. A couple of artists from a local tattoo shop helped paint.

"It was nice to have so many people here. The whole point of this is to bring some happiness and community involvement," Fahney said.

When the sun went down each day, Medina used a bright light so he could continue working into the evening hours. Even the cold weather that moved into the area last week did not stop the progress on the mural. Medina continued working on the wall in the rain and even the snow that came through last week.

"As long as the wall is not saturated from the rain, it is all right," he explained.

About The Artist

As the mural was in the planning stages, Fahney gave Medina some ideas for the painting.

"We wanted it to be very Kewaskum, or a painting of the area. One of our ideas was to have something from the Kettle Moraine, the trees or plants or a water area. Another thing we wanted it to reflect was that Kewaskum is based on an Indian name. We didn't want to necessarily go full out with a picture of an Indian tribe, but we wanted to somehow bring Kewaskum into this mural," Fahney said.

Medina drew seven different sketches from the beginning, and the organizers narrowed it down to a few ideas.

"We went back and forth with a bunch of just 'Hey, can you add this, what about that?' He was real easy to work with," Fahney said.

Medina, who holds a degree in fine art from the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh, has painted other murals.

Usually Medina uses ladders and scaffolding to paint the murals. For the Kewaskum mural, however, he used a cherry picker truck that belongs to Dan Werbelow, who is purchasing the building.

"It was real nice to have this," Medina said about the cherry picker. "It saves my legs and my back. I would not be as far as I am without this."

The Kewaskum mural is reflective of Medina's other work.

"I have been into nature scapes and floral scapes for a while now," Medina

said. "I just did another mural that has a lot of floral/natural elements in it. Nature always kind of makes its way into my work in some way."

Earlier this year, Medina painted the mural on the Tap and Tavern building in West Bend. He currently is working on a mural at Appleton West High School.

For the Kewaskum mural, Medina focused on creating a nature scape and adding some floral elements and different pieces seen specifically in the Kettle Moraine. And, of course, the Kewaskum mural includes some Native American aspects.

"The sun is just a different element to break up the big green space a little bit. It gives it some light," Medina noted.

Maple leaves can be seen in diamond shapes below the sun in the painting, adding an abstract element to the painting.

"I have always been interested in putting pictures within a picture in some way," Medina said.

The best part for Medina, though, has been working with people from the Kewaskum community. Even comments Medina has received from passers-by have been encouraging.

"Everyone has been really welcoming. Coming into a community can be tough, especially in small towns, but I have received a very warm welcome here. People have been taking care of me, and it has been really good," Medina said.

Kewaskum American Legion Auxiliary Helps Children

By Anne Trautner

Several months ago, Ruthie Ewert brought her great niece, Alexya Ebert, to the Kewaskum Dairy Queen for lunch.

"She likes to go to Dairy Queen. She hardly eats anything, but she likes her ice cream — not in a cone, but in a dish," Ewert said.

Ewert, who is a member of the American Legion Auxiliary in Kewaskum, brought a special gift to the lunch for Alexya. Alexya noticed it right away.

"What do you have on the floor there?" Alexya asked before she sat down.

"Never mind, it doesn't matter," Ewert said. "You've got to eat your lunch and then we will see what's in the bag."

All during the lunch, Alexya kept asking, "What's in the bag? Can't you give me a little hint?"

"No," was Ewert's reply each time.

Finally, when lunch was finished, Ewert pulled out the bag.

Alexya's mother, Debby Ebert, prepared to take a picture.

"Why is she going to take a picture? What is it?" Alexya asked.

Ewert gave Alexya the first gift to open. It was a book that tells all about Josh the dog.

After Alexya had the book, Ewert pulled out the next gift and said, "OK, now you can open this."

Alexya opened the gift — a carrying case — that held a stuffed dog named Josh.

"The smile on her face said it all," Ewert said.

Alexya pulled the dog out of the carrying case and gave it a big hug.

"Aunt Ruthie, can I take this to school?"

"Yes, you can take it to school, but you have to carry it in the carrying case because that is what the thing is for, and then you tell all the kids at school about the book," Ewert answered.

The book is about Josh the dog and all the surgeries he had to go through.

American Legion Auxiliary

The book and stuffed dog were gifts from the Kewaskum American Legion Auxiliary Unit 384.

sented to children who have or are suffering from illnesses and have had to undergo surgeries. The dogs are soft and cuddly to cheer up the little ones.

The children also receive a book "I'll Be OK," which is about Josh the Dog. Through the words of the Golden Retriever who learns he is to have surgery, a child facing the fears of their own surgery can receive courage and hope.

Not only do the Josh dogs help bring cheer to children, but they help fund Children's Miracle Network hospitals.

The American Legion Auxiliary chose two children to receive the Josh the Dog gifts: Alexya Ebert and Bentley Dodge.

Bentley Dodge

On Wednesday, April 12, 2017, 4-year-old Bentley Dodge was at his grandparents' new house. His grandmother, Debbie Dodge, thought she saw something in Bentley's eye.

"I didn't think anything of it and went along with our day, but it put something in my mind, and I could not stop thinking about it," said Bentley's father, Ryan Dodge.

The following day, Ryan noticed something in Bentley's eye, and by Friday, his eye had gotten much worse. It looked as if there was a

On April 15, 2017, Bentley could not see out of his left eye. He went to the emergency room, and from there Bentley was sent to American Family Children's Hospital in Madison.

Bentley underwent some tests, and on April 17, 2017, at the age of 4, Bentley was diagnosed with retinoblastoma. The best way to treat this condition is to remove the eye.

"No words can describe the feeling you have when a doctor tells you this news. I had never in my life felt the amount of emptiness and sadness I felt that day. How do you tell your 4-year-old son that he is going to lose this eye? He has his whole life in front of him and he has to deal with something like this before he even really gets going," Ryan Dodge wrote in a blog.

Since his diagnosis, Bentley has had his left eye removed and has gone through chemotherapy.

Bentley is friends with Casey Fechter, Charleen Barutha's granddaughter who babysits Bentley. Bentley came to Barutha's home in Kewaskum one day with Casey.

When Bentley saw Barutha, he threw open his arms and said, "Grandma Charleen, I am cancer free!"

"This precious little boy calls me Grandma and we are not even related. So precious," said Barutha, who is a member of the Kewaskum American Legion Auxiliary.

her body, through her belly button. The deformity was part of a genetic disorder called gastroschisis.

She was soon diagnosed with another genetic disorder: neonatal Marfan syndrome, a connective tissue disorder that affects the digestive system, eyes and bones.

She has suffered from broken bones because of her low bone density. She wears silicone braces on her legs so she can walk because neonatal Marfan syndrome prevents muscles from growing.

Alexya gets an osteoporosis medication injection twice a year. It is a painful process, but the medication puts back important minerals into her bones.

Because Marfan syndrome affects her eyes, Alexya has had both lenses removed from her eyes. That is why she wears thick glasses with bifocal lenses.

Her heart is affected, so Alexya had one of her heart valves replaced and repaired.

But Alexya is doing well. Because of her health risks associated with the COVID-19 pandemic, Alexya currently attends sixth grade at Kewaskum Middle School virtually.

"Her health has been fairly stable, but she is really missing her friends!" said Alexya's mother, Debby Ebert.

Bentley Dodge received a stuffed animal named Josh from the Kewaskum American Legion Unit 384 Auxiliary. Bentley is pictured with Taylor and Reese Fechter, whose great-grandmother, Charleen Barutha, is a member of the Kewaskum Unit 384 Auxiliary.

At the October 12 village board meeting, the department of public works shared changes to the floodplain ordinance. The changes to the ordinance are required by the DNR to make it clear where the flood plain boundaries are due to changes that occurred with the Millpond Dam removal. Surrounding properties need to have the information for securing insurance.

Local Halloween happenings include the Halloween Caper on October 23, and trick-or-treat in Campbellsport and Eden on October 31.

On October 17, several students from Campbellsport High School traveled to US Air Raceway in Bonduel to test and learn about the Formula High School Project. The program gives students real-life simulation of what it takes to build, modify, set-up and race a performance-oriented vehicle.

Reigning over Campbellsport High School Homecoming festivities were King Juan Arroyo and Queen Leah Haebig. Jenny Zimdahl was crowned Princess and Seth Majerus was crowned Prince.

The approximately 40 uncooked steaks left from the Campbellsport Lions steak fry were donated to the Kewaskum Food Pantry.

According to the governor's office, households in the midwest which rely on natural gas to heat their homes can expect to pay nearly 61 percent more than last winter. About 75 percent of households rely on natural gas. Some Campbellsport-area residents have ideas to help with costs in addition to turning down the thermostat. The ideas include using the fireplace more often, wearing more layers of clothing, replacing worn weather stripping on doors, putting in new windows and doors, and installing a newer furnaces.

The Halloween Caper

is taking place October 27 at Columbus Parc.

A Halloween maze has been prepared in St. Matthew's school gym. Everyone is invited to explore the maze.

Members of Cub Scout Troop 3719 kicked off the new scouting year with a trip to the Campbellsport Fire Department, where they toured the fire station and learned what firemen do at every call.

Melissa Ketter participated in the Atlanta three-day Breast Cancer Walk held September 31-October 2. Her team, from Kappa Epsilon Sorority, finished the three-day, 60-mile walk. Ketter, an Eden native, surpassed her goal of $2,100 by more than $700 for the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation. The team raised more than $18,000.

Father Charles Wester knew he'd be moving to the Eden area after retiring from duties at Mayville and LeRoy parishes. Not only did he move to Eden, he is filling in as interim priest at Shepherd of the Hills Church. It is expected a new priest will be chosen in the spring.

A son, Jamison Grant Zook, was born October 17 to Jason Zook and Catherine Ziegler, Eden.

On the recommendation of Administrator Joe

Bertone, the Campbellsport School District Board approved the Annual Meeting tax levy of $4,198,100 and a new mill rate of 11.75. The mill rate change, which is .64 mills lower than the levy for last school year, is due to the increase in the October 1995 school district equalized valuation of $37,058,468.

The entire Flyway Conference is still in shock after the wild and crazy conference meet last week. Campbellsport pulled off a "miracle finish" of sorts when the Cougar boys captured the Flyway Championship on a hot day at the Mayville Golf Club. Campbellsport beat Markesan by five points. The girls came within a point of upsetting the Mayville Cardinals and sharing that championship.

It takes a lot of money to stop a war, which is the reason for the Victory Loan campaign, beginning October 29. This is the final appeal of the government to the people for assistance in financing the war. Each community has been assigned a small portion of the amount the government has set for the nation's goal. Area quotas include $19,594 for Campbellsport, $22,580 for Ashford, $17,120 for Auburn, $17,729 for Eden and $13,930 for Osceola.

Monsignor Joseph Lederer, who resigned as pastor of the St. Joseph's Church at Waukesha, has been appointed chaplain of St. Joseph's Convent here and will also serve as pastor of the St. Matthias Mission at Auburn.

The new 1946 Ford will be on display at Verbrick Motor Sales in Campbellsport beginning Friday.

The only outbuilding left on the Chas. Bleck property was a large barn after a fire on September 24. That barn was destroyed when a fire occurred Monday afternoon. An alarm was telephoned to this village for assistance, but the department felt it was useless to go to the scene as no water was available and the apparatus could not be used. Water was scarce at the previous fire as well.

An attempted burglary was frustrated early last Thursday morning and one would-be robber given the scare of his life by the prompt action of Mrs. Frank Hefling when an attempt was made to enter her home. Campbellsport Food Pantry

Since the COVID epidemic started, the Campbellsport Food Pantry, like other Food Pantries in Fond du Lac and Washington Counties, has continued to operate mostly on an appointment basis. Clients are still referred, and an appointment is arranged.

The Pantry has worked with Kevin and Kelly Harvey at Campbellsport Piggly Wiggly to help them distribute food and gift cards that have been donated at the store.

Through ads about distribution placed in the Campbellsport News and the continuing referrals from the Fond du Lac County agencies and pastors, the Food Pantry has been able to continue providing food to those referred and in need. If anyone knows of someone in need, who may not be connected with any agencies, please contact the Food Pantry at 920-602-3607.

Food Distribution

Another distribution of donated food items will take place on Wednesday, Oct. 28, at the Campbellsport Piggly Wiggly store from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. Information will be posted on the Piggly Wiggly website and in the store.

Drug Take Back Day Is October 24

Attorney General Josh Kaul announced that nearly 230 local law enforcement agencies will be participating in Drug Take Back Day across the state on Saturday, Oct. 24. Wisconsinites are encouraged to dispose of unwanted and unused medications at Drug Take Back and drug disposal locations.

"The opioid epidemic continues to impact families across Wisconsin. One step Wisconsinites can take to help fight diversion and addiction is to properly dispose of unused medications at drug drop boxes around the state," said Attorney General Kaul.

Drug Take Back Day provides a safe, convenient and responsible means of disposal, while also educating the community about the potential abuse and consequences of improper storage and disposal of these medications.

To find a Drug Take Back Location near you, go to: www.doseofrealitywi.gov/find-a-take-back-location/.

In Campbellsport, you can drop off at the Campbellsport Police Department or at Hayat Pharmacy. In West Bend, you can drop off at the Washington County Sheriff's Department, the West Bend Police Department, Walgreens or Meijer. In Fond du Lac, you can drop off at Walgreens (corner of Johnson and Main Streets), the Fond du Lac Police Department or at St. Agnes Hospital.

To keep everyone safe from COVID-19, please wear a mask and practice physical distancing when visiting a drug disposal site.

Unused or expired medicine should never be flushed or poured down the drain. Water reclamation facilities are not designed to remove all of them, and trace amounts of pharmaceuticals are showing up in rivers and lakes.

To ensure the success of Drug Take Back Day, the Wisconsin Department of Justice relies on assistance from the DEA, and the generous support of Fuchs Trucking, Covanta Energy, the Wisconsin State Patrol, the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection, Wisconsin Department of Health Services, Wisconsin Department of Military Affairs, Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources, the Indiana State Police, Waukesha County, Waukesha County Sheriff's Office, and all participating local law enforcement agencies.

Guidelines

- All waste pharmaceuticals must be generated by a household — no businesses are allowed.

- Bring: Prescription (controlled and non-controlled) and over-the-counter medications, ointments, patches, inhalers, non-aerosol sprays, creams, vials and pet medications.

- Do Not Bring: Illegal drugs, needles/sharps, acids, aerosol cans, bio-hazardous materials (anything containing a bodily fluid or blood), personal care products (shampoo, soaps, lotions, sunscreens), household hazardous waste (paint, pesticides, oil, gas), mercury thermometers.

- Participants may dispose of solid, non-liquid medication(s) by removing the medication from its container and disposing of it directly into a disposal box or into a clear sealable plastic bag. Plastic pill containers should not be collected. Blister packages without the medications being removed are acceptable.

- Liquids will be accepted during this initiative. However, the liquids, creams and sprays must be in their original packaging. Liquids without the original packaging will not be accepted.

- Illicit substances such as marijuana or methamphetamine are not a part of this initiative and should not be placed in collection containers.

CHILD DEVELOPMENT DAY

The Campbellsport School District will be screening children ages 3 years to 4 years old on Wednesday, October 28, 2020 at Eden Elementary School.

This screening is important because it helps us to:

- Identify children who may need special services prior to entering school.
- Provide parents with recommendations about preparing their child to begin school successfully.
- Offer your child a developmental screening to confirm the progress of, and to possibly identify, children who may show a need for follow-up assessment.
- Further educate families about child development and activities to promote early learning.
- Promote awareness of programs and services in the community that can assist families.

*This screening is for all students who will attend either Eden or Campbellsport Elementary School.

West Bend Theatre Company Cancels 2020 Production Of 'A Christmas Carol'

The West Bend Theatre Company regretfully announces it has canceled the 2020 production of "A Christmas Carol."

"It is with great sadness and disappointment the West Bend Theatre Company will be canceling the 2020 production of 'A Christmas Carol.' We had full intention of staging this year's show in a unique setting in an effort to adhere to health and safety guidelines set during the COVID-19 pandemic.

"We were going to offer 'A Christmas Carol' as a virtual, video on-demand option. Meaning we would bring the tradition of 'A Christmas Carol' to our supporters in the comforts of their homes, but with their favorite local performers.

"We were on track to accomplish that goal with the hiring of a director and a crew, as well as successful auditions and casting. Rehearsals started in mid-September and were done through video conferencing. But, unfortunately, challenges that have presented itself since this process started have become too difficult to overcome.

"We'd like to assure the public there was no COVID-19 positive test or outbreak amongst the cast and crew as the reason for canceling 'A Christmas Carol.' As previously stated on our website and social media, the safety of our cast and crew is of utmost importance to us. Given the recent escalation of cases and surrounding uncertainty of COVID-19, we therefore felt it was the best course of action to proactively cancel this year's show.

"Just to be 100 percent clear, to date no one involved with the West Bend Theatre Company's 2020 production of 'A Christmas Carol' has tested positive for COVID-19. To reiterate, this cancellation is a proactive measure.

"The West Bend Theatre Company is truly appreciative of the time volunteered and the efforts made toward the 2020 production of 'A Christmas Carol' by the cast and crew. We will be offering the roles and duties of those selected for this year's production to the same people for the 2021 production.

"We wish everyone a safe and healthy rest of 2020. We are confident we can get on the other side of this pandemic. When we do, we will be ready to perform for our supporters."

In addition, the West Bend Theatre Company and its board of directors have decided an alteration to the 2021 schedule, with the exception of "A Christmas Carol" set for December 2021, is also needed. Details regarding the rest of the 2021 and 2022 schedules will be announced at a later date.

Founded in 2010, incorporated in 2017, the West Bend Theatre Company is a non-profit theater entity presenting live theater, camps, workshops and special events. The mission of the West Bend Theatre Company is to celebrate, enhance, and inspire by producing excellent theatre and by giving back to our community.

Part 9: What Was Lost And Found

By Karl McCarty

Over the Kettle Moraine Region and Horicon Marsh, thousands of Native American artifacts have been found. Some are small, some are large, some are labeled, and others might be sitting in a shed waiting to be identified of its former purpose.

Stories range from finding an arrowhead to those who found bushel baskets of them on the edges of the Horicon Marsh. In the old days by Kekoskee, an excessive flood of the Rock River would leave arrowheads on the shore grass after the water receded.

The treasures were plenty in the area, but over generations, many of these finds can become misplaced, lost, discarded or mislabeled. There's even one story where the farm wife got so sick of her husband's Native American relic collection, she just buried them to put a stop to his obsession.

Of all the pieces of Old Native American lore, one of the most pertinent to share is that of Bernard Brown's Copper Point. When he brought out his artifact of Long Lake this past February, the relic was simple to explain, but profound in its lessons. Looking out towards the south end of Long Lake, Bernard explained his special find.

A Remnant Of The Brown Collection

Native American traffic ran through what became Dundee, Chintown and Long Lake. By the southwest end of the lake is where the Brown family farmstead goes back to the 1800s.

The 1893 plat map of Fond du Lac County, published by C.M. Foote & Co. out of Minneapolis, shows an "Aden Brown" with 150 acres combined on either side of the lake. However, Aden did not own as far south as the present mill. The farm house and buildings were on the west side of what today is Highway 67.

Bernard discussed how his family once had a huge pile of artifacts. "We used to find a lot of them here. My dad had a whole suitcase full of spears and some axes." Like a 100? "Oh yea." They went with a relative to another part of the state who wanted to bring them to school, "And they never came back to Dundee."

Today there are only a few left in his collection, and the leftovers include what Bernard likes to call a "copper arrowhead." A few years back he was digging outside his house, which is located closer to the lake's south west shores than the Brown farm.

His shovel got blocked as it ran into the artifact, just inches under the top soil. In all the findings he and the family had by Long Lake, he concluded, "I've never seen a copper piece." There are many questions that arise with the Brown piece of Dundee, which is less than three and a half inches, but in sturdy condition.

Where Do You Get Copper?

One major element to copper artifacts is the impressive origin. Many historians conclude that much of the ancient Native American use of copper in what became the continental United States and Central Canada branched out of what became known as the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

The U.P. has an excessive amount of copper, including vast deposits in the Keweenaw Peninsula, which encompasses the sister

This old postcard was titled "Milwaukee Public Museum Miniature Group — Aboriginal Copper Mine, Isle Royale, Michigan." The back described this exhibit illustrating how indigenous people used to get copper. "From the vicinity of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan, came in aboriginal times, practically all of the copper used by the Indians of North America. It was secured from small open pit mines by the laborious process of applying heat and then water to the solid rock, which was thus cracked and then broken away by means of hammer stones, until the green vein led down to the nodule of copper. This native copper was hammered into both implements and ornaments."

cities Houghton-Hancock and a nice drive to the tip at Copper Harbor. Houghton is named after Michigan's first state geologist, Douglas Houghton whose research laid the foundation of the copper mining industry after Michigan Statehood (1837), including the Quincy Mine Hoist which you can tour in Hancock. The peninsula's end at Copper Harbor has a neat lighthouse to tour, where on the shores of Lake Superior you can clearly see copper infused rock exposed for millennia.

From Copper Harbor, one can take the three hour ferry to Isle Royale, a vast archipelago and now National Park in Lake Superior a few miles off Thunder Bay, Canada. Here too, should you backpack or hike, you will find the ancient mine pits of indigenous people.

It is possible that the copper point of Bernard

Bernard Brown smiles at his table in Long Lake as he shows off one of the neatest finds of his life, a copper socketed point from the shores of Long Lake. The item could be older than the Great Pyramid of Giza, the oldest of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World.

Brown's actually had roots from the Keweenaw Peninsula or Isle Royale. This may seem unlikely, but copper from the above-mentioned areas is routinely tied to vast trading networks.

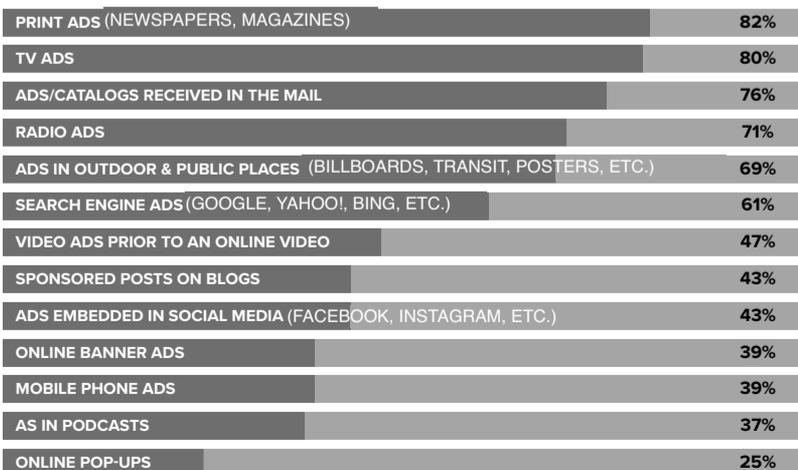

For example, northeast of present day St. Louis, there was an ancient city that became known today as "Cahokia." A thousand years ago, this was another place where copper from Lake Superior was used and traded to other parts of the country. If copper from the ancient U.P. was near present day St. Louis, it could reasonably be in Dundee.

Part 9: What Was Lost And Found

"Local" Copper?

If Bernard Brown's copper point at Long Lake didn't come from the U.P. directly by native trade, then it is possible that the copper came in the form of float copper, in which the rock and copper pieces found in the U.P. actually slid down with the glaciers. When the glaciers melted, these random copper-based rocks were dropped. This creates an interesting scenario on whether the copper point was actually taken from U.P. copper rocks glacially moved to the Dundee area, and then formed into the tool it became.

For those who think this is plausible, please see the Reisenweber piece of copper at the Ice Age Center in Dundee. Not only is it a huge and an impressive piece of copper, it is a reminder that natives did not necessarily need to trade for copper from so far away. The Reisenweber piece is so named for the owners of the land it was found on in Ashford Township.

It makes you wonder what it was like to find such a piece of copper. How did natives out of the U.P. (or here) know how to work with rocks that had copper in it? In addition, how many pieces of float copper exist in the local areas that farmers have found? Or, how many pieces exist that have yet to be found?

When Was It Made?

That is a question this article does not claim to answer. History is better told proposing options and arguments, rather than absolute fact. It appears copper was at its height about 4,000 years ago. But it depends on the text you read.

Through Indian Eyes (1995) by Reader's Digest implies that the height of Great Lakes copper was around 2,500 years before Christ (p. 26). The same book also implies the Native Americans known as the Hopewell Culture of indigenous people that came after Christ used copper too, and that culture is loosely defined to natives living on the eastern half that became the U.S. at that time. Many argue this Hopewell Culture goes back to at least 1,500 years ago.

In Wisconsin, A History, by Robert C. Nesbit, (second edition revised and updated by William F. Thompson, 1989) the Old Copper Indians are defined as one of the groups of people from about 5,000 to 500 B.C. that occupied the upper Great Lakes region. Nesbit's book describes them as "the first fabricators of metal, possibly anywhere."

In addition, "They worked raw copper in much the same way as they shaped stone, and learned to harden it by annealing — alternate heating and cooling. They did not smelt or cast the metal," (page 10). It appears that places of the Old World could smelt copper at a time when those here (New World) did not. The exact date or era smelting copper started on this continent could not be found in the sources used at the time of publication.

So just using two sources, it's possible that a copper object found in Wisconsin is somewhere between 7,000 years old (Nesbit's source), or maybe something more recent like only 1,500 years old (Reader's Digest). Maybe one of those is right.

A third option is the tool was reused. If it was easy for farmers to find arrowheads in woods and fields until the 1900s, it's probably a safe assumption for Native Americans in 1600, for example, to find previous indigenous artifacts too.

If the tools looked good, wouldn't they reuse them? One should consider just because the tool may have been made 3,000 years ago, it doesn't mean that it couldn't be used 400 years ago found by a later native. In this context, when Bernard Brown's copper point was made versus when it was used are two very different options.

Lastly, you have the problem with soil. Brown's piece was on the shores of Long Lake, which in a natural non dam state, likely flooded excessively some years. Wetlands soils can move. If the soil moves, can't a spear point? Maybe his finding of such a prehistoric point just inches below the soil is a reminder that we may never know the exact history of such an item, but that is okay.

What Is The Value?

Although one can see many examples of other copper tools found in Wisconsin at the Milwaukee Public Museum's website, one should recognize that copper points are rare.

Robert and Maryo Gard wrote My Land, My Home, My Wisconsin (1978) in a publication courtesy of The Milwaukee Journal. At the beginning of the book, the authors talk about how one of their ancestors found a copper artifact in the 1880s. "Grandfather saw an ad in a Milwaukee paper and sold the copper spearhead for seven dollars."

Using the Consumer Price Index calculator from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, it converted seven dollars from 1913 to over 180 dollars today. But given that the copper point was probably sold before that, if you adjusted the 1880s price for inflation it might lean towards a modern 250 dollars.

What Is Priceless?

Perhaps the most interesting dynamic to that Gard story is grandfather never found another piece like that, even though they kept looking. One rarely finds a copper artifact once. A second time? Almost unheard of.

Furthermore, selling an item away from where it came takes away from the relic. One should consider keeping such items found in this vicinity and in the family, or with the property where it was found (if the new owners would appreciate it and respect it).

Another problem with buying artifacts is the information you got from the seller. Hopefully it's true. But if you love history so much, why would you sell a local piece like that? The seller might have a tendency to lack authenticity to begin with, as their motive is money, not provenance — a fancy term for the background of the object.

The value of a Native American relic is that the person and the place where it was found (and probably lost) becomes just as much a part of the item's history. In some cases, the discovery is much more interesting too, because we know much more about the artifact's latest chapter compared to earlier ones.

When going back to Bernard Brown's copper piece on Long Lake, never did he talk about the price. It had no monetary value, because he knows the worth was not in dollars, but in its story. Hopefully this one will live on in the piece.

In the end, what was found on the south shores of Long Lake, even after he has passed, will still be Bernard Brown's Copper Point. We are lucky that he shared what he found. This is the honor we can give our elders, farmers, and landowners if their significant finds are thoroughly documented in our property and family histories.

So yes, it is sad that over 100 items of the Brown family collection over the decades is misplaced. However, clearly Bernard found and saved the best artifact.

Bernard Brown discussed his copper point, and explained how he was digging outside his house a few years back on the southwest shores of Long Lake. He recalled a tougher than expected dig. "Here I hit it with the shovel, and I couldn't get in the ground." Although he thought it was a rock and didn't want to go hard with his shovel, he eventually realized it was a Native American artifact much rarer than an arrowhead. The few unintentional slashes across the base of the point are Bernard's impact on this artifact's history.

This alternative shot of Bernard Brown's copper artifact gives the viewer a way to imagine how such a piece would have been faceted to a base for which this could be thrown by a person, or shot from a bow via arrow. No one was alive when this was made, so you are open to your own interpretations. One may want to check out the Milwaukee Public Museum's website on Native American copper artifacts. It has many pictures, including those of socketed points, to help others in the area learn about such pieces. It is the hope that if you are fortunate enough to find such pieces in the area, that you will document its story, and pass the pieces down to those who will value the item's meaning and history.

The most important aspect of history is to continually pose questions rather than report answers. In this context, one of the least interesting aspects of this piece is the dry fact that it is just over three inches in length.

This copper point found by Bernard Brown a few years back offers more questions than answers. For example, what on earth was this point used for? Was it used to kill animals on what became known as Long Lake? Compared to other Wisconsin copper points available to view online, this point does not have a sharp point, but does not appear worn or broken. Was this a frogger piece? Maybe the indigenous person who used this killed old bull frogs, as a piercing of its belly with this tool would do the trick. Then again, others might suggest that it was not a hunting tool at all, but rather a competition spear to throw. Other critics might laugh at that suggestion, and wonder why they would be throwing spears for competition so close to a marsh where reeds or grass would be tall. Another aspect of this shallowness of where it was found is the possibility that such a tool was made more recently than the era some historians suggest.

Yet another question is why was it so shallow? This piece was just inches underneath the soil. Would you ever be able to date this tool accurately? Some copper tools deteriorate with age. Why didn't Bernard Brown's?

Did Native Americans reuse prior tools? This question is very important in mentioning, as one might be able to figure out to use such a tool whether you found it in 2005 or five years after Jesus was born, or 2000 B.C. This potential behavior may alter the exact dating of such a piece. Indeed, when does a copper tool become outdated? Especially if that tool is still usable even by 2020 standards?

Just like a picture, a historical object can lead to 1000 words, or better yet — just as many questions.

Last Week Of Regular Season Brings Several Firsts For KHS Boys Soccer

After a challenging series of games, the KHS soccer team regained its previous form with two solid conference wins against Berlin 3-1 (away) and Winneconne 7-2 (home). The Berlin game featured top Kewaskum scorers Denali Fellenz and Ben Poschmann each scoring a goal, while senior captain Trevor Geldnich netted an assist and his first goal of the season.

Coach John Kenworthy responded to his team's overall effort in the East Central Conference rematch, "This time we didn't need last-second heroics from Denali to secure the win, which was nice. That being said, I thought we played just well enough as a team, but we can do better. We need to understand situationally that when we have a two-goal lead in a game, we don't need to be so frantic and assertive on the attack. I still want them to play our game and try to score, but in the context of the game at hand. Thankfully we have strong leadership in guys like Trevor who have worked so hard all season in a variety of roles. That guy has played so selflessly – honestly for all four years he's been here – that it was really fulfilling to the entire team that he could get a goal and share in the visible accolades a bit."

Two nights later, at home, the team performed even better earning a 7-2 win over scrappy ECC foe, Winneconne.

"That was our most complete game of the season," mused Kenworthy, ecstatic about the total team effort.

The scoring started early with Fellenz again finding a goal, followed by senior captain Luke Johnson scoring the first goal of his career off of an assist by Ryan Buchel.

"And then we let the Wolves back in." Kenworthy said. "That persistent challenge we have."

Two quick goals by Winneconne reset the game to level at 2-2. At that point, the Kewaskum squad dominated control of the game.

Poschmann scored a beautiful long shot from an assist by senior captain Hunter Koss to regain the lead, which was immediately followed by Koss crashing in and heading in a goal for himself off of a laser-beam corner kick from freshman Hayden Johnson.

"We've been blessed to have had a great sequence of corner kick takers these last few years. Hayden not only continues the tradition of that very precise skill set, but takes it to an even higher level. That is an absolutely fantastic weapon for us to have. Lethal," Kenworthy said.

The first half scoring came to a close when Fellenz was taken down hard in the box earning a penalty kick, which Poschmann neatly slid into the side netting.

After honoring the parents and the seniors (Geldnich, Johnson, Koss and Skyler Schmitt) at halftime, the team came out with what Kenworthy referred to as "k-ball to the max," "beautiful diagonal play in the final third" and "string upon string of patient, potent passing." In the second half, the scoring onslaught continued with Buchel earning his first goal of the season, followed by Tony Busalacchi smashing home his first goal of his career, both off of great non-stop efforts.

"I am so proud of the way we played as a team tonight." Kenworthy beamed. "That is how coach [Chuck] Grover and I have wanted them to play all season. It's never too late to learn and to find that pathway to success – and just in time for the playoffs! I can't wait to see us continue that effort in the next phase of this crazy season!"

With seven goals safely ensconced in the books, Kenworthy gave the seniors a well-deserved curtain call and then emptied his bench for the remainder of the game, thus earning varsity playing time for a slew of emerging young players who will comprise the core of the growing Kewaskum team over the coming years.

Sturgeon Spearfishing License Deadline Is October 31

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) would like to remind interested spearfishers that they have until Saturday, Oct. 31, to purchase a license for the 2021 Lake Winnebago sturgeon spearfishing season.

The spearfishing season for this prehistoric fish will open on February 13, 2021, for Lake Winnebago and the Upriver Lakes of Butte des Morts, Winneconne and Poygan, running for a maximum of 16 days or until any of the pre-determined harvest caps are reached.

"Every February, people migrate to the Winnebago System to take part in the annual lake sturgeon spear fishery," said Ryan Koenigs, DNR Winnebago sturgeon biologist. "This winter event is rich in tradition, and 2021 will be another year for spearfishers to uphold or create new traditions in pursuit of the fish of a lifetime."

Both resident and nonresident licenses can be purchased through the GoWild system or at any license sales location. Please visit the fishing license webpage for more information.

All license holders must be a minimum of 12 years old. Licenses for the Lake Winnebago spear fishery must be purchased before October 31, 2020, except for military personnel home on leave during the spearfishing season and youth turning 12 years old between November 1, 2020, and the last day of the 2021 spearfishing season.

While there are unlimited licenses available for Lake Winnebago, the Upriver Lakes fishery is managed by a preference point system and limited to 500 permitted spearfishers. Applicants authorized for an Upriver Lakes tag have until the start of the spearfishing season to purchase a license and cannot purchase one for Lake Winnebago.

The sale of sturgeon spearfishing licenses funds a variety of sturgeon management activities on the Winnebago system, such as successfully restoring lake sturgeon to the upper Wolf River in partnership with the Menominee Indian Tribe of Wisconsin.

Learn more about that effort at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=kybUIJGRwFM&feature=youtu.be>.

The DNR's involvement in lake sturgeon rehabilitation programs and partnerships with the Menominee Indian Tribe of Wisconsin and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service have positively impacted lake sturgeon recovery efforts across North America.

"This funding is the lifeblood of our management program. It allows the DNR to assess the population, implement habitat projects, conduct research projects and implement the best management for this world-renowned resource," Koenigs said.

More information on harvest trends and management for the Lake Winnebago sturgeon fishery can be found on the DNR's fisheries webpage.

Kewaskum Gridiron Youth Football Players Stand Out

All four of the Kewaskum Gridiron Youth Football teams were in action this past Saturday, Oct. 17, against the Cedarburg Dawgs, with the sixth and fifth grades coming away with victories.

The eighth grade offense had a tough time against a physical Dawgs defense throughout the entire game. The defense played well, keeping the Indians in the game with the half-time score being 16-0. The Dawgs added two more scores in the second half and the Indians weren't able to get on the board, resulting in a 30-0 defeat. Some standout players on the defensive side of the ball for the Indians were defensive linemen Karter Fell and Luke O'Krent, linebacker Charles Benning and safety Andrew Reichert.

The seventh grade team was stuck in a 0-0 tie late into the fourth quarter before the Dawgs were able to break free for a long 40-yard touchdown run with under a minute left to take a 6-0 lead. Indians running back Garon Brickner broke off a long run down to the 15 yard line to give the Indians a chance to score, but they couldn't punch it in on the last play of the game and the Dawgs held on for the 6-0 victory. The defensive line played very well for the Indians, with Gabe Halopka and Xane Kleinke making some nice defensive plays on the day.

The sixth grade team used some tough running by running back Kingston Grisolono and some stellar all-around defense on the day to come away with a 12-0 victory for both its second straight win and defensive shutout. Grisolono scored both touchdowns on the day for the Indians, while on defense Eli Ogi and Kyle Haim both had interceptions to help the Indians defense shut down the Dawgs offense all day long.

The fifth grade played a great game, not allowing a touchdown till the closing minutes of the game and coming away with a solid 20-6 win over the Dawgs. Running back Jace Wich-toski broke off two runs of over 25 yards for each of his touchdowns on the day, while the other score came on a 55-yard punt return for a touchdown by Marcus Fleischman. Fullback Nolan Marx was able to convert two extra point runs for the Indians. On defense, a lot of people made an impact with the standout players being Quin Dornacker, Ryland Ciriacks and Easton Sabish.

All four levels are scheduled to play at Grafton this coming Saturday, Oct. 24, with the eighth grade getting things kicked off at 9 a.m.

Members of the Kewaskum High School varsity cross country team start the ECC conference cross country meet at Campbellsport Elementary School on Thursday, Oct. 8. The Indian boys took third place as a team at the meet.

State Hunter Education Now Available Online For All Ages

—Temporary Change Pivotal For Those Under Age 18

As of October 15, students of all ages can earn their Wisconsin hunter education safety certification through a single, online-only hunter education course under a temporary change approved by the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

The temporary change allows those under age 18 to take the online-only course from October 15 through December 31. Those interested in taking the online-only course who are over 18 years of age may continue to do so.

As a result of the COVID-19 pandemic, the DNR reviewed the available methods for delivering hunter education. A survey of volunteer instructors showed support for exploring alternatives to the traditional in-person hunter education course.

Hunter education volunteer instructors often fall into higher-risk categories for contracting COVID-19. The online option addresses these concerns as well as issues with limited public facility availability for in-person instruction, personal protective equipment requirements, shortened courses and capacity limits for in-person classes.

"The temporary online-only certification option will provide additional hunter education opportunities to all customers affected by COVID-19," DNR hunter education administrator Jon King said. "The online option aligns our program with many hunter education programs in other states, which are facing the same challenges with their hunter education programs."

Students of the online-only course will be required to pay the approved online vendor fee plus the $10 state-required course fee.

Those interested in hunter education can learn more on the Safety Education webpage. Additionally, interested students can enroll in the online-only hunter education here.

Those under age 18 who take the online-only course for the remainder of 2020 will not be required to complete the in-person field day.

Traditional Hunter Ed And Mentor Courses Still Available

Traditional hunter education courses involving in-person instruction will remain available thanks to the dedication of volunteer instructors. A blended hunter education course coupling the online course with the required in-person field day will also be available.

"Last year, there were more than 750 traditional hunter education classes held statewide, in every county," King said. "We prefer the hands-on course with our outstanding volunteer instructors, who play a pivotal role in keeping hunting safe in Wisconsin. However, health and safety is our top priority."

"Our instructor group talked about holding an in-person hunter education class this year, but the logistics of keeping everyone safe were tough," said Jim Wipperfurth, a Sauk County hunter education instructor since 2010. "In light of COVID, online hunter education is the best opportunity to get certified."

Additionally, the mentored hunt program is available as an option for those who have not received hunter education certification. This program, which has been available for over 10 years, helps break down hunter education certification barriers for all ages.

Anyone can obtain a mentored-only hunting license and hunt without first completing a hunter education course through mentored hunting. They must be accompanied by a licensed hunter (mentor), hunt within arm's reach of the mentor and follow other rules. This one-on-one mentoring opportunity gives first-time hunters a chance to try hunting and enables veteran hunters to pass on their passion for the outdoors.

To learn more about DNR safety programs for other outdoor activities, visit the DNR's website.

The World Of Officiating

It seems that anyone who attends an athletic competition, whether or not he/she actually had to pay for admission, feels the right to criticize the officials of the particular sport. Officials know that some of that comes with the job, but more and more we are losing officials or not finding people to go into it, because of the type of criticisms they receive.

There will always be disagreements regarding particular plays, calls, etc. in a sports competition. One set of people are looking at things from one perspective — that of their team or child — while those with the other team or with children on it, are looking from another perspective.

The perspective that gets lost in the mix is that of the sports official. These individuals do their best to enforce the rules of the game so no one team is placed at an advantage or disadvantage by taking advantage of the rules.

I know that there have been times where I have probably been "less than cordial" with officials in certain situations. However, I have also had the proverbial shoe on the other foot. I have officiated a few different sports over the years and I know how difficult it can be at times. Before one gets too critical, he/she should put on the striped shirt, or wear the mask, or blow the whistle. There are many things to know and do — and apply them correctly.

Officiating is a challenge, but if someone enjoys being part of sports, it is a great way to continue being involved after your playing days are done. I think it is also great for coaches to do — even if it is not in their primary sport. It does take a commitment, but not the time commitment that it takes to be a coach.

One needs to know the rules. More importantly, one needs to know how to apply the rules in the various situations. Just when you think you've seen it all, a kid does something that makes you scratch your head and hope that you got the call right.

There is a need for officials at every level — youth, middle school, high school, and older. There is a shortage! It gets harder to find officials each year. Some of the veterans retire and we do not have younger people coming in to learn the ropes so they can advance to working varsity contests.

Officiating is fun. I have mainly officiated basketball, baseball, and softball over the years. I have enjoyed it, greatly. It is a fun way to stay connected with sports. It gives you a little extra money, also.

If anyone is interested in getting started in officiating, please do not hesitate to reach out to me at Kewaskum High School. I would be glad to help get some people started in the world of officiating.

Kewaskum Volleyball Claims Two Victories

The Kewaskum High School girls volleyball team 6-8 (2-2) defeated Rio at a home game on October 15 and Ozaukee in an away game on October 13.

Rio Match

Kewaskum claimed a solid victory in a home game against Rio on October 15: 25-13, 25-20, 21-25, 25-10.

"The seniors had a good night. All of them contributed to a good night. We were not very clean throughout the night, but we fought through our inconsistencies. As we go forward, we need to get our communication going earlier, so that teams do not run on us. We got away with a little bit tonight. Our defense made up for a lot and helped our offense through the match," said Kewaskum head coach Laine Leitzke.

Ozaukee Match

On October 13, the Kewaskum varsity team defeated Ozaukee 25-14, 25-13, 25-14.

"We tested our younger outsiders to step up in this match as our kill leader was injured. They responded very well. The team rallied around them and the setters were able to distribute the ball amongst the hitters well," Leitzke said. "Defensively, we were much stronger than we had been in the past, but our serve receive still troubled us at times. We were not exactly where we wanted to be, but we played at a high level and were able to get the wins comfortably."

The Autumn Wind

Usually around this time of the year, I tend to get football fever and slide one of my favorite CDs into the car for some listening pleasure while I drive — I know, my car has a CD player! The CD of choice for this time of the year with leaves changing colors, bow hunters out in the stands, and football on a nice crisp fall night is called "The Power and the Glory," it's the original music and voices of NFL Films.

This CD is packed with music from the phenomenal Sam Spence and the legendary voice of John Facenda. This CD takes me back to playing football as a youth in the backyard or over at McDermott Park on a Sunday afternoon after the Packer game.

The Friday night games at Fruth Field in Fondy used to bring chills to my spine running out of the locker room, crossing Ninth Street with a police escort and running down the ramp onto the legendary field. I got to live out that dream for another 20 years coaching football at Campbellsport

High School. There's just something about this time of the year that is so peaceful and traditional. I bought this CD about 20 years ago and pull it out of the collection every October and listen to it until the snow flies.

The music of Sam Spence is filled with loud horns, drums, strings and woodwinds, you name it, there's a different musical sound in every song. Spence was an American soundtrack composer hired by NFL Films founder Ed Sabol. Spence, the orchestral genius, turned football highlights into a Hollywood type film with his compositions.

John Facenda in his dulcet baritone voice was the perfect match for the highly dramatic nature of the footage he narrated. Facenda can paint a picture for you with his voice. Bob Costas called Facenda's voice "one of the most remarkable instruments in the history of broadcasting." His voice was so recognizable and unique, he earned the nickname of "The Voice of God." Hearing him talk about legendary players or describing a big game is just a few of the many talents this man had. I personally love the Vince Lombardi clips and the way Facenda made the game seem more important with his dramatic directness.

When you combine the work of Spence's music with Facenda's voice and throw in some vintage footage from Ed Sabol, you have created a treasure for all of us to share forever.

My five favorite songs from the CD are: The Linemen (#5), Up She Rises (#4), West Side Rumble (#3), Round Up (#2), and Cossacks Charge (#1). This CD is available and I highly recommend you put it on your Christmas list if you are a football fan. Heck you don't even need to like football, buy it for the music!

If you need a preview before you buy it, just YouTube a few of my favorites, I don't think you'll be disappointed. Just make sure you have a car that still plays CDs.
