School Board Votes To Bring High School Students Back Five Days A Week

By Andrea Hansen Ablter

After many comments by parents at two separate school board meetings, the Campbell-Sport Board of Education has decided to bring high school students back into school five days a week starting Monday, Feb. 1.

At the last board meeting, close to 100 area residents were in attendance to show their support for bringing the students back into the schools full time. This time about 50 residents were at the meeting to again plead with the board to bring the students back.

During the school year, elementary and middle school students have been in-person five days a week. The high school was running on a co-hort or blended model. This meant that half of the students were in-person on Monday and Tuesday and the other half were in-person Thursday and Friday. Every Wednesday and the two days students were not in-person were virtual learning days for the students.

“As a staff member, I am excited about the possibility of having our students come back full-time,” said teacher Stephanie Waldschmidt. “I am excited about having your kids back in the classroom. Having your kids back in the classroom is what makes it fun. You also have to be aware that there is no way, at least in my classroom, that the students will be able to be six feet apart.”

Multiple Reasons To Remember The Class Of 2020

By Anne Trautner

The Beine, Brzezinski and Bocher families all have multiple ties with one another.

With two sets of twins (Andrew and Elizabeth Beine, and Taylor and Madison Brzezinski) and one set of triplets (Joseph, Joshua and JohnMark Bocher) the three families all have children who were part of the Kewaskum High School Class of 2020.

The multiples attended school together since beginning kindergarten at Wayne Elementary School (now known as i4Learning Community School). There, the three families made up nearly one-third of the class of 24 students.

“We all were really close friends. I think the class as a whole was really close,” Madison Brzezinski said.

Graduation marked the last time all of the multiple sets of twins/triplets were together. Since then, the three sets of siblings have adapted to life after high school.

Andrew And Elizabeth Beine

For the first time, Andrew and Elizabeth Beine are not living under the same roof.

Andrew Beine is currently attending St. Mary's University in Winona, Minnesota, where he is majoring in philosophy and music, and is a seminarian at the Immaculate Heart of Mary Seminary.

Aaron Rodgers — One Of The Good Guys

Dear Reader,

How well can you know someone — especially a celebrity? Often we form impressions based on a passing story in the paper, a sound-bite on the news, a story at the water cooler or, these days, on Zoom. From these small scraps we form our views, which most of the time boil down to a judgment: Good guy, or bad guy.

So, what do we know about everyone's favorite quarterback — Aaron Rodgers? Let's look at the record. I'm not talking about his record-breaking stats, which are plentiful and paint a picture of the man all by themselves. No, let's look at the record of his words and deeds off the field.

Two games into this season, Aaron told Rich Eisen of the Rich Eisen Show, "I'm completely at peace with where I'm at with my career. And that's what's freed me up to get to this comfort level is the peace that sometimes surpasses your own understanding." That's an interesting choice of words, reflecting Philippians 4:7: "The peace of God, which passes all understanding."

Around the same time, Aaron said on the Pat McAfee Show, "I have just a new and increased love of life and I have made decisions and changes and habits that put me in a lot better headspace. There's just a lot of things that have come together in my life over the last few months that have really been enjoyable and reminded me, given me perspective in life and in football to view things through the most positive lens I possibly can. And that's why I'm having so much fun and it starts with love. And you surround yourself with people that you really enjoy."

"Perspective in life and in football;" "view things through the most positive lens;" "and it starts with love." I submit to you that this is a side to Aaron that doesn't get a lot of attention. But it should, because in his thoughts and words he is showing us an example of what it means to be a well-rounded human being — one who not only leads on the field, but off of it in the strength of his character.

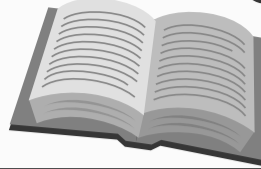

Lest anyone think this is "a new leaf" for Rodgers, we should remember his words and actions back in 2013, when he and the Packers extended the olive branch to Brett Favre, helping mend fences with another Packers great after those final difficult years in Favre's career. Aaron led the way by appearing with Brett at the NFL Honors Show and advocating for retirement of Brett's number before Brett was inducted in the Hall of Fame. Given Aaron's own difficult years on the bench before Brett was traded, these actions reflect greatness of spirit and a willingness to forgive.

Aaron Rodgers has been an example of talent paired with hard work all his life. He is emblematic of the best aspects of the Packers, and really all of us in Wisconsin. Aaron doesn't depend on our approval, or anyone's, since he is deeply comfortable, relaxed, and centered in his understanding of himself and what he has to contribute to the world. But if anyone else asks, our response is: Aaron Rodgers, one of the good guys.

Check It Out!

A Column By Kewaskum Librarian Lori Kreis

Are you the type of person that must finish a book, even though you do not like it? Or are you like me, if you don't like it, you move on to the next. I am a member of some online book clubs and the groups discuss which is the preferred way to read. Some are quite adamant about this style where heated discussions have occurred. It does not matter to me life is short, there are multitudes of awesome reads, so I choose to not spend time on ones I do not care for.

I realize that I may not be in a place to enjoy a really good book, so picking it up later can change my thoughts about it. I listen to recommendations from friends, family, patrons and members of my book groups. Some books they have endorsed repeatedly to the point of coercion with words such as, "You are a librarian! How can you not enjoy this book?" Here is a secret, sometimes they are right.

A Gentleman in Moscow by Amor Towles is one novel I tried to read twice and gave up on it but am so glad I gave it one more shot. This book from 2016 had high rated reviews from the start. It has become not only a book club favorite but is also hard to keep on the shelves four years later. I picked it up again last summer and immersed myself in the story of Count Alexander Rostov who was sentenced to house arrest in a hotel across from the Kremlin gave me a respite from troubling current events. The writing is beautifully crafted, the scenery brought to life and I became very involved with the characters. It was one of those rare treats for me, where I delayed finishing it because I didn't want it to end.

I just returned The Silent Patient by Alex Michaelides. This was a book I checked out a few times, started, never finished and returned so it would not be overdue. Three of my good friends were discussing it on social media last week so I gave it another try. This time I could not stop reading and stayed up late to finish it. This suspenseful novel follows the story of a famous painter who is locked up in a psychiatric hospital for killing her husband. A new therapist works with her, trying to get her to speak, something she has not done since the murder. There are plenty of twists and turns to keep the reader guessing.

Whether you read books all the way through the first time, put them back if they are unsatisfactory or sample them a few times until they taste perfect you are still a reader and that is all that matters. Be sure to sign up for our Cozy Winter Read program for all ages that ends on February 28.

Hope to see you soon.

Plus, the Library will periodically be providing free take home crafts and cooking suggestions throughout the next five months that support a tranquil lifestyle. Watch Facebook for these release dates.

Reading is an amazing way to learn and relax. This winter's reading program allows participants to set their own reading goals for each month. The log gives some inspirations for different types of goals you can set for yourself. Be creative when setting your goals and make sure your goals are achievable.

The reading program asks participants to build a journal about four new activities they tried each month on their journey to find peaceful moments. Plus, participants should have reached their monthly reading goals.

Monthly logs should be turned into Library by June 7 for a chance to win one of many prizes. Winners will be drawn in a random drawing by ages.

A bookbag with a log and instructions can be picked up at the Library at any time or a log can be printed off our website. If you have any questions about the contest or if you need reading suggestions, please contact the Library.

Gov. Evers Announces Launch Of Mobile Vaccination Teams

Gov. Tony Evers announced the Wisconsin Department of Health Services (DHS) and the Wisconsin National Guard (WING) launched the Mobile Vaccination Program on January 19. As additional vaccine is allocated to Wisconsin, this initiative will accelerate vaccination efforts and expand accessibility to all corners of Wisconsin by supplementing local partners with staffing support and resources.

"It has always been our goal to get folks vaccinated as quickly, safely, and equitably as possible," said Gov. Evers. "These mobile vaccination teams are going to help us do just that by continuing to expand vaccine distribution across our state, leveraging partnerships and our best resources to meet folks where they are in their own communities."

Local and Tribal health departments (LTHDs) are leading the coordination of the vaccination of police and fire personnel as well as EMS and unaffiliated health care providers in their jurisdictions. LTHDs that identify gaps in vaccine access or have exceeded local vaccination capacity will be able to request support or assistance from Wisconsin's mobile vaccination teams. The teams will work closely with LTHDs to meet the unique needs of each community.

"This pandemic has amplified health inequities throughout the state — we have seen how differences in opportunity, resources, and access to quality health care have exacerbated this public health crisis," said secretary-designee Andrea Palm. "That is why this program is an especially critical tool in Wisconsin's vaccination rollout. The Mobile Vaccination initiative will help close gaps in accessibility and ensure that every Wisconsinite will have the opportunity to get protected against COVID-19."

The Mobile Vaccination Program is a collaboration between DHS, WING, and local health partners. At launch, the program will deploy nine mobile vaccination teams with the intention to scale up the program in order to support vaccination of Phase 1A, Phase 1B, and beyond. Mobile clinics will be staffed by WING and pharmacy or nursing student volunteers through a partnership with the University of Wisconsin System. All volunteers will be required to complete safety trainings and necessary instruction modules.

"Making vaccines available to the public is an all-of-Wisconsin effort that requires collaboration across state government," said Maj. Gen. Paul Knapp, Wisconsin's adjutant general. "Our Citizen Soldiers and Airmen in the Wisconsin National Guard have been an integral part of the state's response to the COVID-19 pandemic, and we're honored to continue serving our fellow citizens in this way."

The University of Wisconsin System is also expanding a $500 tuition credit for students that help during the pandemic to eligible students who volunteer to do vaccinations.

"UW nursing and pharmacy students can provide critical help Wisconsinites get vaccinated," said UW System President Tommy Thompson. "We are pleased to offer this tuition credit and appreciate the partnership with Gov. Tony Evers as we once again demonstrate the Wisconsin Idea at work — where there's a problem facing Wisconsin, UW System is part of the solution."

As the state continues to expand vaccination efforts, COVID-19 has not gone away. Wisconsinites are still encouraged to mask up, stay physically distant, and wash hands frequently to help stop the spread of COVID-19 and keep communities safe.

For information, resources, and data related to Wisconsin's COVID-19 vaccination program, visit the COVID-19 vaccine page.

For up-to-date information about Wisconsin's COVID-19 response, visit the DHS COVID-19 webpage. We encourage you to follow @DHSWI on Facebook, Twitter, or dhs.wi on Instagram for more information on COVID-19.

Rose Ann Johnson

Rose Ann (Isselman) Johnson, 89, of West Bend, passed away on Friday, Jan. 15, 2021 at Healthpark Medical Center in Ft. Myers, FL after a brief illness.

Rose was born October 25, 1931, the third of four children to Florent and Mayme (Nejedlo) Isselman.

On May 8, 1954, she married Charles H. Johnson, who preceded her in death in August 2019.

Rose was raised in Newburg, graduating from West Bend High School in 1949.

She first worked in the family business at The Newburg State Bank, and next had the best job ever as an Executive Secretary at Grob Inc, in Grafton, that is, until she became Chief Operating Officer of the Johnson Family.

Having celebrated 65 years of marriage with Chuck in 2019, Rose was also a dedicated mom to her brood of eight children – all born in a 10-year span. The house was always abuzz with activity, shenanigans and neighborhood kids. Her love of birds, blooms and nature was a constant and she never passed on an opportunity to learn or do something new – stargazing on the Shawano Lake pier, whitewater rafting the Snake River with Cathy, musky fishing in Canada with Dan, Elderhostel trips and hunting the elusive morel mushroom with all the kids.

In West Bend

Builder's Supply's early days, Rose was the power behind the throne—working from the kitchen table while truck drivers came and went delivering their loads of aggregate, while supporting and encouraging Chuck through the trials and tribulations of the gravel pit and school bus businesses. She cheered her kids on every step of the way, managing to keep them all grounded, committed to family and community, and felony-free. The subsequent gaggle of grandkids and great-grandkids were a great joy to her.

In later years she was always up for a game of Spite and Malice, cribbage, dominoes or a Keshena trip for blackjack. While generous to a fault, she was also a stickler about paying up - win or lose.

When not in West Bend, her best days found her sitting on a porch and enjoying the view - either wintering at Ft. Myers Beach or at the Shawano Lake cottage in spring, summer or fall.

Rose is survived by her children, Rita (Chuck) Kandel, Steve (Terry), Cathy Spies, Dan (Shelly), Judy (Bob) Holzmann, Paul (Barb), Nancy (Ted) Sanders and Dave (Kris). She is further survived by 22 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren; all her siblings - brother, John (JoAnn) Isselman, sisters, Marge Grotelueschen and L. Polly Schmidt, along with many nieces, nephews and other relatives.

Special thanks to "downstairs" Steve and Kathy for their kindness and watchful eyes on our parents at the beach house these last few years, and especially for Kathy's medical advocacy for Mom before her passing.

A private funeral service for the immediate family will be held at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 23, at St. Francis Cabrini Catholic Church. Private interment will follow at Washington County Memorial Park.

As much as Rose loved flowers, in lieu of a funeral bouquet she'd be tickled pink if you enjoyed a martini and supported these West Bend causes: Roots and Branches (1115 S. Main St.), St. Francis Cabrini Catholic School (529 Hawthorn Dr.) or the West Bend Library (630 Poplar St.).

DATCP Awards $750,000 In Grants To 30 Producer-Led Groups

The Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection (DATCP) has awarded $750,000 in producer-led watershed protection grants to 30 farmer-led groups. Grants support producer-led conservation solutions by encouraging innovation and farmer participation in on-the-ground efforts to improve Wisconsin's soil health and water quality.

"Our partnership with DATCP's producer-led program is one of our core assets," said Chris van Someren of Jon-De Farm and the Western Wisconsin Conservation Council, a producer-led group. "The cost-sharing part of the program is extremely helpful in motivating our members to experiment with and implement practices that protect soil and water health. Beyond the capacity for funding, the program brings the added benefits of education, communication, and collaboration between farmers across the state. This kind of cooperation between government and farmers will be a critical part of Wisconsin's conservation efforts moving forward."

New to the grant program this year is a conservation benefits tracking component. DATCP will use this to measure the water quality benefits associated with the conservation practices implemented by participating farmers throughout the state.

This is the sixth round of grant awards since funding started with the 2015-2017 state budget. During the first year, 14 producer-led groups submitted applications totaling over $242,000. In response to an increase in applications and interest in the program since its inception, Governor Tony Evers increased the annual program funding to $750,000 in the 2019-2021 state budget.

Two area groups receiving a grant include:

•Sheboygan River Progressive Farmers: $35,000

•Dodge County Farmers for Healthy Soil & Healthy Water: $39,093

For more information about current producer-led projects and contact information for groups, visit https://datcp.wi.gov/Pages/Programs_Services/ProducerLedProjects.aspx.

At the same meeting, village board members heard they are to expect the village's population to nearly double by 2007. Currently, the village's official population is 3,689. Village Administrator Dan Schmidt estimated by the time the newly annexed land is developed, Kewaskum's population could be 6,063.

A 32-year-old Kewaskum man accused of breaking his two-month-old son's legs and arm has been charged with physical abuse of a child. Jason Bozich made his second appearance in Washington County Court on January 23 and waived his right to a preliminary hearing.

The number of lives he touched will never be known for certain, but former educator and library board member David Stradtman's contribution to the community has not ended despite his passing on December 10, 2005. Dozens of donations poured in from all over the country for his memorial, which was stipulated should go to the Kewaskum Public Library. The checks totaled more than $3,000. The library board will discuss at its February 13 meeting how the Stradtman Memorial can best be used by the library.

Supervisors in the Town of Kewaskum met January 20 to determine how to fill the vacant position left abruptly by former clerk Sandra Stern on January 15. The board decided to accept letters of intent for the position that pays $1,500. The individual would finish Stern's term that expires April 2007. If the individual chooses, he or she could run for a full term after that.

Multiple Reasons To Remember The Class Of 2020

"Being a seminarian is different from being a regular college student— we are up before everybody," Andrew said.

Andrew, who was the vice president for the KHS Class of 2020, gets up each day around 5 a.m. He joins other seminarians at 6:30 a.m. for Mass and morning prayer before attending classes at 8 a.m. Andrew says he has adjusted to the new schedule.

"It has been good," Andrew said. "It was just getting used to it, but especially getting used to being away from my sister after 18 years. It's different when you don't have her around everywhere."

Elizabeth Beine is attending the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh.

She is considering declaring either English or sociology as her major.

She sees the Brzezinski twins regularly at UW-Oshkosh, but she really misses seeing her twin brother each day.

"It feels weird when I come home and Andrew's not here. We rely a lot on each other," Elizabeth said.

"We are close. That is what you get with twins," Andrew agreed.

The two stay in touch, though, and call each other at least three times a week.

Taylor and Madison Brzezinski

Although many people don't believe them, Taylor and Madison Brzezinski are not identical twins.

"The doctor said we are fraternal twins," the twins explain to most people they meet.

Taylor was born one minute before Madison on February 9, 2002. They have been best friends since.

The two girls currently attend the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh. Madison, who was the president of their high school class, is majoring in secondary math education, and Taylor is majoring in art education.

They are not room-mates, but they live down the hall from each other in a dorm.

"We live separately but we hang out all the time together," Madison said.

They also see friends from high school while at school. Both are rooming with friends from Kewaskum, and they get together with Elizabeth Beine regularly at school.

Joseph, Joshua and JohnMark Bocher

Joseph Bocher was born right before midnight on June 19, 2002. His brothers, Joshua and JohnMark, who are twins, were born shortly afterward, on June 20, 2002.

All three newborns were tiny, JohnMark weighing only about one pound, and Joseph and Joshua each weighing a little over two pounds. The babies, who were adopted by Kim and Mark Bocher, spent the first few months of their lives on oxygen.

All three boys have loved basketball since they were young. They played the sport together through high school. Their coaches have noted that the three brothers always seemed to know what the others were going to do on the court.

They have received numerous awards and honors for basketball. Last year, they were featured in the Milwaukee Bucks "Senior Spotlight" and were noted for their outstanding character and good sportsmanship.

The triplets are currently living with their family in Kewaskum, and all three are working part-time in the area.

The three brothers were hoping to be away at college and playing college basketball this year, but with the pandemic, they decided that virtual learning is not the best way for them to learn. They hope to enroll in classes in the fall.

All three have been keeping in contact with their AAU basketball coach and have been working with a basketball trainer to keep improving their basketball skills.

Joseph, Joshua and JohnMark Bocher graduated from Kewaskum High School in 2020. The triplets have been close friends their entire lives. photo submitted

Maedke Elected To Represent LAA

Fond du Lac County U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Farm Service Agency (FSA) announced that JoAnn Maedke of Eden was elected to represent her local administrative area (LAA) during the recent county committee election.

Julie Grahl-Cooper of Mount Calvary will serve as the first alternate.

"County Committee members are a critical component of the day-to-day operations of FSA," said Jacob Vande Berg, county executive director. "They help deliver programs at the county level and work to serve the needs of local producers. All recently elected county committee members will take office in January 2021 and will be joining the existing committee."

Every FSA office is served by a county committee made up of local farmers, ranchers and foresters who are elected by local producers. Other members currently serving on the FSA county committee include Joseph Thome and Kurt Krohn.

County committee members impact the administration of FSA within a community by applying their knowledge and judgment to help FSA make important decisions on its commodity support programs, conservation programs, indemnity and disaster programs, emergency programs and eligibility.

County committee members provide a service to local producers through their decision making and help shape the culture of a local FSA office. They also ensure the fair and equitable administration of FSA farm programs in their counties and are accountable to the Secretary of Agriculture.

Members conduct hearings and reviews as requested by the state committee, ensure underserved farmers, ranchers and foresters are fairly represented, make recommendations to the state committee on existing programs, monitor changes in farm programs and inform farmers of the purpose and provisions of FSA programs. They also assist with outreach and inform underserved producers such as beginning farmers, ranchers and foresters, about FSA opportunities.

For more information, visit the FSA website at fsa.usda.gov/elections or contact the Fond du Lac County FSA office at (920) 923-3033, ext. 2.

DHS Announces Weekly Newsletter To Keep Public Informed Of COVID-19 Response And Vaccine Progress

The Department of Health Services (DHS) announced a newsletter the public can sign up for to get direct information about the COVID-19 response and vaccine rollout. Every Friday a COVID-19 update newsletter will be sent via email to people who sign up to receive it. Registration is now open, and archived copies of the weekly newsletter will also be available.

"Throughout this pandemic, we have remained committed to keeping the residents of Wisconsin as informed as possible," said secretary-designee Andrea Palm. "The more quality information we have, the more effective we can be in making healthy and safe choices. That is why we have regularly updated data dashboards and science-based guidance on our website, and it is also why we want to add a weekly newsletter to our communications toolbox."

In addition to an update on vaccine eligibility and the number of vaccinations administered in Wisconsin, the newsletter will include key updates from the previous week, as well as COVID-19 resources and links to where Wisconsinites can find more detailed information.

Currently, the federal government only gives one week notice on the number of vaccines available for that week. The current allocation of 70,000 first doses is inadequate to meet the growing demand for vaccine across the state. Due to this short notice and instability of allocation, eligible populations change quickly. The newsletter will provide new information about eligible populations for vaccinations along with other communications updates about the COVID-19 response.

For up-to-date information about Wisconsin's COVID-19 response, visit the DHS COVID-19 webpage or register for the weekly update email. You can also follow @DHSWI on Facebook, Twitter, or dhs.wi on Instagram for more information on COVID-19.

There is a dropbox outside Campbellsport Piggly Wiggly and Geidel's Piggly Wiggly. You can put your payments or articles in the dropbox instead of driving to our new location in Theresa or mailing the items.

DHS, Laboratory Partners Identify Variant Strain B.1.1.7 Of SARS-CoV-2

On January 12, the Wisconsin Department of Health Services and laboratory partners identified a variant strain of SARS-CoV-2, the virus that causes COVID-19, in Wisconsin.

The particular variant, referred to as B.1.1.7, was first discovered circulating widely in England during November and December of 2020. Based on epidemiologic and modeling studies, researchers believe that this new strain spreads more rapidly and easily than the original strain of SARS-CoV-2. However, there is no evidence that the new strain causes more severe illness or increased risk of death.

"We already know that COVID-19 is easily transmitted through respiratory droplets, and with this new variant appearing to be even more infectious, taking preventative measures like wearing a mask and physically distancing are even more important," said DHS secretary-designee Andrea Palm.

In Wisconsin, the strain was identified through ongoing surveillance and whole genome sequencing, a routine practice since the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic. All viruses, including the virus that causes COVID-19, change through mutation, and new variants of the virus are expected to occur over time.

"Mutations among viruses are very common. It's not unusual — in fact, it's expected. As time goes on in the pan-demical and the virus continues to replicate on a large scale, the genetic sequence of the virus will change," said Chief Medical Officer Dr. Ryan Westergaard.

DHS, the Wisconsin State Laboratory of Hygiene, and other laboratory partners regularly work together to ensure whole genome sequencing is performed on a small proportion of tests collected. This routine analysis of genetic sequence data assisted in identifying the new variant strain in Wisconsin.

Now in the second year of the COVID-19 pandemic, molecular surveillance of SARS-CoV-2 will increase in importance to quickly identify and understand new variants. DHS and laboratory partners continue to analyze genetic sequence data to stop the spread of COVID-19. With emerging mutations of SARS-CoV-2, and those that may be more infectious, it is critically important to follow best public health practices, including wearing a mask, staying home, maintaining physical distance, and washing hands frequently.

For up-to-date information about Wisconsin's COVID-19 response, visit the DHS COVID-19 webpage. We encourage you to follow @DHSWI on Facebook, Twitter, or dhs.wi on Instagram for more information on COVID-19.

K-B Lettering

Karen Breitzman is ready to meet all your lettering needs through her business K-B Lettering. Karen has been in business for more than 35 years now. She has an associate degree in commercial art from Milwaukee Area Technical College.

Karen does lettering, both hand-painted or computer generated vinyl lettering. The recent purchase of a 54" printer allows her to do digital printing also. If you want to personalize your vehicle, she can custom pinstripe it for you too.

The start of her business was after making a sign for her husband Bill to use at the high school where he taught. Another coach suggested Karen go into business for herself.

As word of mouth spread, the business picked up and became a full-time job. She worked out of a shop behind their home in Campbellsport until 1996. The Breitzmans then moved to St. Kilian where Karen was able to put up a bigger shop. This allows her to fit semis inside.

She specializes in vehicle lettering and graphics, pinstriping, signs, banners, decals and whatever else you may need lettered. In the past, Karen has painted race cars for Al Unser, Jr., Bobby Unser, Jr., and Alan Kulwicki.

"I was very fortunate to have my business by our home as the children (Becky and Rick) were growing up, Karen said. "It allowed me to be there for them. I've met many wonderful people and strive to give them a job they will be proud of. I thank God for the talent and abilities He has given me to be in this profession."

School Board Votes To Bring High School Students Back Five Days A Week

Waldschmidt also commented that she hopes the lines of communication that have been open lately with the students, teachers and parents will continue in the future. "I hope we can keep communication as a key," she said. "If we want to go from good to great, we need to keep this up."

Many of the parents mentioned their disappointment after the last meeting at what they feel is a lack of communication. They thought the board members understood all along that the parents and students wanted to be in school full-time and that they felt there were problems with the virtual portion of the blended model.

"Like many parents, I disagree with continuing with the co-hort," said Cindy Hodny. "The Campbellsport School District needs to move forward and acknowledge that there are issues in social distancing in this school. But this is no longer acceptable. Is social distancing really our priority. I urge you to demand full-time learning for every student in this district."

Hodny also stated that she felt there has been too much blame going on and that everyone needs to just move on and do what is best for the children. "Blame is a distraction," she said.

Teacher Mike Meilahn explained to the board that the students are ready to come back to school five days a week. He explained that students in his class knew that they might be coming back full-time and all of them seemed excited about the idea.

"We really are in this together," Meilahn said. "This last week I had a student come up to me all excited (about the thought of being back in school together). I think it says something that kids are smiling about coming back five days a week."

Michael Weir added, "I understand frustrations on both sides. I get that you have to come back safely. What I'm saying is you can find a way to balance it. You need to get back in your STEM programs and get those kids learning. I would like the opportunity to keep my daughter here and finish her years here.

None of us here (business owners) had all summer and all fall to figure this out. We had to just do it. They have to be back together. I think you can find a happy medium."

Before starting their conversation on the topic of bringing the students back full-time, Patrick O'Connor, high school principal, was asked to address the board. He explained that his teachers and staff were ready for whatever the board decided to do. If they wanted the students back five days a week, stick with the co-hort or come back in some other way, he and his staff have contingency plans ready to go.

"I have taken feedback and data while managing best practices," O'Connor said. "I will not stop trying to adjust practices as it has to do with student learning. I fully admit that I truly thought that we would be in the co-hort model only a short time. I do understand that there is a lot of communication to follow. Our teachers have the technology to live stream and some are live streaming.

"I want to reiterate that the staff is extremely flexible and ready to do what it takes. Staff and I have been working on many different environments and many different levels."

Administrator Paul Amundson reiterated his concern about social distancing. Some classes at the high school level will not be able to space students six feet apart. Many may only be three feet apart.

"We do not anticipate that the school is going to have to be shut down and we will have to go to e-learning," he said. "We have limited space for alternate spaces. The media center is used pretty heavily by the middle school. We can set a timeline that is reasonable and gets us moving."

He originally proposed to the board that they bring the students back four days a week and see how that goes. Amundson didn't give a specific time to go to four days, but said they needed time to get ready.

"I am throwing it out there because I have heard things and have had questions," said

Danielle Neitzel. "Wouldn't it be feasible that we could go on February 1st and be all five days. I think if we are going to do this, then we need to do this. To only go four days a week if we are going to do this, to me is ridiculous."

Amundson replied, "It's whatever you choose. We will make it work. We do need to be sane about it though."

Keith Peters questioned whether there might be issues with the district's insurance since students will not be able to properly social distance. "We have to be financially responsible," he said. "Other districts, I think, have opened themselves up to legalities and I don't want to do that."

Neitzel's only concern and request was that the district allow families to be able to make a change to virtual learning. Some students are already opting to be completely in virtual learning this school year. Neitzel wanted families to be able to either come back to school full-time from virtual learning or switch to virtual learning if they don't feel comfortable going in-person five days a week.

Sharon Gazzola made the motion to bring high school students back five days a week starting February 1st and Peters seconded the motion. Board members approved the motion unanimously.

In other business, the board also approved a gift from Tom's Quality Millwork. The Ashford company donated 10 pallets of wood to the district for the STEM classes to use on student projects.

"They have supported us by donating lumber," Amundson said. "They gave us 10 pallets of really decent wood. We're very fortunate. With that amount of wood, that's a lot of money."

Choral students from Campbellsport High School were asked by the Cougar Club to sing Christmas carols on Saturday, Dec. 19, at Blue Door Coffee Company. Because so many students wanted the opportunity to sing, they were spread out on the balcony, in front on the sidewalk, inside and in the back entrance. Additionally, several students walked around town and caroled at other businesses and private residences. A great time was had by all.

The Various Health Benefits Of Yoga

Health-conscious individuals can do many things to improve their overall health. As medical researchers continue to uncover new things about how to achieve optimal health, one practice dating back to ancient times remains a highly effective way to take care of the human body.

Though there's no written records regarding the origins and invention of yoga, the practice is believed to date back to ancient India. The earliest written record of yoga is "The Yoga Sutra of Patañjali," a collection of aphorisms that historians believe was compiled sometime between 500 BCE and 400 BCE.

Despite its age, yoga has not been studied extensively by medical researchers. According to the National Center for Complementary and Integrative Health, many studies looking into the health effects of yoga have included only small numbers of people and have not been of high quality. As a result, the NCCIH can only say that yoga shows promise in helping people manage or overcome certain health issues, but not that it has been proven to do so.

Though yoga may need to be studied more closely and extensively, many people who include it in their regular health care routines report feeling better both physically and mentally for having done so, and that may not be a coincidence. A 2004 comprehensive review of yoga's use as a therapeutic intervention published in the Journal of Physiology and Pharmacology indicated that yoga targets unmanaged stress, which has been linked to chronic disorders like anxiety, depression, obesity, diabetes, and insomnia.

In addition to that review, the NCCIH notes that research has suggested yoga can:

- Relieve low-back pain and neck pain

- Relieve menopause symptoms

- Help people manage anxiety or depressive symptoms associated with difficult life situations

- Help people quit smoking

- Help people who are overweight or obese lose weight

- Help people with chronic diseases manage their symptoms and improve their quality of life.

It's important that anyone considering making yoga part of their health care routines recognize that there are various forms of yoga, some of which are more physically demanding than others. So it's best if individuals speak with their physicians before trying yoga so they can find the type that aligns best with their current levels of fitness.

Physical Activity Guidelines For Children, Adolescents And Adults

Staying healthy is a full-time job for people of all ages. While it might not always prove so easy to exercise or eat right, the benefits of healthy living are undeniable.

According to the Partnership to Fight Chronic Disease, "prevention" refers to helping people avoid getting sick or identifying diseases early so treatment can begin. Immunizations and disease screenings are two vital components of preventive care, but children, adolescents and adults can take more active roles in preventive care by embracing physical activity.

The Department of Health and Human Services notes that physical activity fosters normal growth and development and can help people feel better, function better, sleep better, and reduce their risk for ices include advising smokers to quit and offering medication or other assistance to help them and providing flu shots for people age 65 and older.

In recognition of the role exercise plays in preventive care, the DHHS recommends children, adolescents and adults follow these physical activity guidelines.

Children And Adolescents

The DHHS recommends that children and adolescents between the ages of six and 17 should get 60 minutes or more of moderate-to-vigorous physical activity every day.

•Aerobic: Most of the 60 minutes or more per day should be either moderate- or vigorous intensity aerobic physical activity and should include vigorous-intensity physical activity at

Adults

The DHHS advises adults to make a concerted effort to move more and sit less throughout the day. Some physical activity is better than none. Adults who sit less and do any amount of moderate-to-vigorous physical activity gain some health benefits.

For substantial health benefits, adults should get at least 150 minutes to 300 minutes of moderate-intensity, or 75 minutes to 150 minutes a week of vigorous-intensity aerobic physical activity each week. An equivalent combination of moderate- and vigorous-intensity aerobic activity can serve as a substitute. Ideally, aerobic activity should be spread throughout the week.

Adults should do muscle-strengthening activities of moderate or greater intensity that in-

Dental Check Ups A Must

Visiting a dentist regularly is key to maintaining not only a healthy mouth, but also a healthy body. Our mouth is the portal by which healthy foods bearing essential nutrients enter into our digestive tract. Dental care is very important for this reason, and many other.

Regular checkups by a licensed dentist including diagnostic radiographs help prevent tooth decay, periodontal (gum) disease, and helps to eliminate disease causing bacteria. Regular visits also help lead to a more attractive smile resulting in greater self confidence.

Many people are hesitant to see a dentist as their teeth generally feel fine, but several dental problems can exist without people knowing or any outward symptoms. Generally speaking, cavities will not hurt or cause any pain until it may be too late and more costly treatment is required to repair or replace the tooth. Periodontal (gum) disease is typically silent as well and requires radiographs to help diagnose.

It is currently recommended that children, teens, and adults should see a dentist for regular checkups at least once every six months. At home it is currently recommended to brush your teeth twice per day and floss at least once. We should always be using a fluoridated toothpaste that works to strengthen the outer tooth surface of the teeth, which is called enamel.

Avoiding food and drinks with a lot of sugar will help to prevent cavities as well.

At Kewaskum Family Dentistry we pride ourselves in delivering patient-centered care and treating the entire family. We welcome new patients and work hard to ensure our patients are satisfied with the care they receive. If you have any questions or dental concerns. Please give us a call 262-626-2119.

a large number of chronic diseases. Reducing risk for chronic disease keeps people out of the doctor's office, or even the hospital, and it also can help save considerable amounts of money.

One report from the The Milken Institute estimated that high chronic disease and obesity rates are responsible for more than $1 trillion in lost productivity in the workplace every year. In addition, the National Commission on Prevention Priorities notes that increasing the use of five preventive services to 90 percent can save more than 100,000 lives in the United States each year. •Muscle-strengthening: As part of their 60 minutes or more of daily physical activity, children and adolescents should include muscle-strengthening physical activity at least three days a week.

•Bone-strengthening: As part of their 60 minutes or more of daily physical activity, children and adolescents should include bone-strengthening physical activity at least three days a week. Parents can consult with their children's physicians to determine age-appropriate muscle- and bone-strengthening activities for their youngsters.

involve all major muscle groups two or more days a week, as the DHHS notes these activities provide additional health benefits.

These guidelines also apply to older adults, but older adults also should incorporate balance training into their exercise routines. In addition, the DHHS urges older adults to consult with their physicians about the appropriate level of effort for physical activity relative to their level of fitness.

People of all ages should include physical activity in their preventive health care routines. More information about exercise is available at www.health.gov.

Exercise Is Good For People Of All Ages

There are many benefits of following a regular exercise program. This is true even for people who have joint pain, back pain, arthritis or osteoporosis. And it's true for people who are recovering from an injury or from surgery, such as joint replacement or arthroscopy.

"Exercise has also been shown to help people of all ages by lowering blood pressure, lowering the risk of falls and serious injuries (such as hip or wrist fractures), and slowing the body's loss of muscle and bone mass," according to Amy Zangl, PA-C, a family medicine provider with Agnesian HealthCare's Fond du Lac Regional Clinic in Campbellsport.

Exercise also helps to do the following:

- Increase flexibility
- Tone muscles
- Build stronger bones
- Improve mobility and balance
- Boost self-image
- Relieve insomnia
- Relieve tension and stress
- Offset feelings of anxiety and depression
- Improve thinking ability
- Improve balance
- Stay at a healthy weight
- Enhance cardiovascular fitness
- Increase HDL ("good") cholesterol levels
- Reduce the risk of chronic diseases (such as type 2 diabetes and certain types of cancer, such as breast cancer and colon cancer)

- Provide fun and enjoyment
- Live a longer, healthier life
- Reduce joint and muscle pain
- Exercise guidelines for older adults
- It's never too late to start an exercise program," Zangl says. "With today's medical technology and scientific advances, more people are living longer. And with longer lives, people are looking for a higher quality of life. Greater importance is placed on independent, healthy living. Exercise is a great way to keep older people active."
- The CDC lists the following physical activity guidelines for older adults:
 - Move more and sit less. Some activity during the day is better than none.
 - For significant health benefits, do at least 150 minutes (two hours and 30 minutes) of vigorous-intensity exercise a week.

- Gain additional health benefits by doing more than 300 minutes of moderate-intensity physical activity a week.
- Get even more health benefits by doing strength training that involves all major muscle groups on two or more days a week.

Exercise should be approached carefully. "It doesn't have to be vigorous to be helpful," Zangl explains. "Even a walk around the park can be positive for any age body and mind. And so can 30 minutes of working in the garden. You also don't have to do 30 minutes of exercise all at one time. Research now suggests it's just as effective to do three, 10-minute periods of exercise spread out over the day."

Talk with your health care provider if you have an existing health condition, have had a recent surgery or you are just starting an exercise program. Your provider can help make sure the exercise program that you choose is designed with your health and wellness in mind.

Carbs Count When Managing Diabetes

Making smart choices about what you eat and drink is important for managing diabetes. Counting carbohydrates ("carbs") is one way to do that.

To count carbs, you add up all the carbs you consume in foods and beverages. "The goal is to keep the total for a meal or snack within a goal range, which you've set with your diabetes care team," says Patricia Hayes, PA-C, a family medicine provider at Agnesian HealthCare's Fond du Lac Regional Clinic in Campbellsport. "On a day-to-day basis, this can help you better manage your blood sugar levels. If you take insulin, it may also help you decide how much to take."

Looking at the big picture, better diabetes control can help you stay healthier for longer. So, although it may take some time and effort to learn how to count carbs, the payoff is well worth it.

Why Every Carb Counts

Carbs are one of the three main nutrients found in food, along with proteins and fats. Inside the body, carbs turn into blood sugar. So, carb-rich foods affect your blood sugar levels more than other foods do.

Foods and beverages that contain carbs include:

- Grains and grain-based foods, such as bread, pasta and rice
- Starchy vegetables, such as potatoes, corn and peas
- Fruit juices and fruits, such as apples, oranges and bananas
- Legumes, such as dried beans and lentils
- Dairy products, such as milk and yogurt
- Sweets, such as cakes, cookies and candy
- Sugary drinks, such as sodas, fruit drinks and sports drinks

"The amount of carbs you need depends on your weight, activity level and diabetes medications," Hayes explains. "Work with a registered dietitian or diabetes professional to set a carb goal that is right for you. As a general rule, most women with diabetes should get about 45 to 60 grams of carbs per meal. Most men with diabetes should get about 60 to 75 grams per meal."

It's Easy(ish) As 1, 2, 3

To count carbs, follow these steps before a meal or snack:

Determine how many

servings of a food or beverage you plan to consume. Look at the food label to find out how much one serving is. For foods without a label, use an app, web site or book as a guide.

Determine the grams of total carbohydrate per serving. You can also find this information on the food label (or in the app, web site or book). Multiply the two numbers. This tells you how many grams of carbs you will get if you consume the amount you had planned. If the number is too high, you can always adjust your eating plans as needed. Why bother?

"Better blood sugar control reduces your risk for diabetes-related concerns, including heart disease, stroke, kidney disease, blindness and foot amputation," Hayes says. "So, the effort you put into counting carbs really counts for something."

To learn more, contact the Fond du Lac Regional Clinic, 350 E. Sheboygan Street, Campbellsport, at (920) 533-8361.

Snowshoeing For Everyone!

By Jackie Scharfenberg
Forest Naturalist

More than six inches of snow covering the ground? Would you rather slog through the snow or float on the top? If you prefer to float, then snowshoeing is for you! It's also a safe COVID-19 activity to do with your family outdoors this winter.

Snowshoes date back to more than 10,000 years ago. As people moved east from central Asia to North America, they developed snowshoes for all kinds of terrains from the long Alaskans for wide-open areas to the small round bear paws for maneuvering in thick forests or on steep hills.

These snowshoes were made with wood frames, raw-hide decking, and leather bindings. Today's modern snowshoes constructed with aluminum tube frames, neoprene decking, and secure bindings still use the basic design of those first snowshoes.

Don't be intimidated by snowshoeing, because if you can walk, you can snowshoe — really! The gear you will need includes:

- Layered winter clothes to keep you warm and dry. Wicking materials are best!
- Sturdy, warm winter boots.
- Snowshoes!
- Poles, to keep you steady, are optional.

If you want to purchase a pair of snowshoes, pick a pair based on the type of walking/running you want to do and your weight. You may want to rent snowshoes for an outing before you purchase a pair. Attitude Sports in Fond du Lac, and Mountain Outfitters in West Bend rent snowshoes at reasonable rates.

Get bundled up and once outside on the snow securely strap on your snowshoes. Now walk normally. If you do have a narrow stride, you may need to widen your stance just a bit. To make a turn, either make a series of small steps or do a snowshoe flip of one foot followed by the other. For going up or down a steeper hill, side-step instead of trying to go straight up or down the hill. If you fall, get your bearings and feet under you and just stand up. It's that easy.

In the Kettle Moraine State Forest - Northern Unit, snowshoers are welcome on any trails except those trails groomed for cross-country skiing at Zillmer and the Greenbush Recreation Area. But the great thing about snowshoes is that you do not need to stick to a trail.

Try following a series of deer tracks or exploring a wetland that is too wet in summer. Just remember to tell someone back home where you plan to go and to bring some snacks and water. It may be cold outside, but snowshoeing burns a lot of calories and water.

For more details about snowshoeing go to <https://www.snowshoemag.com/snowshoeing-for-beginners-the-first-timers-guide/>.

Snowshoeing in the Kettle Moraine State Forest is a great activity to do during the winter months and during the Coronavirus pandemic.

Kewaskum School Programs Meet Student Needs

By Anne Trautner

Since the beginning of the 2020-21 school year, the Kewaskum School District has offered both in-person and virtual classroom instruction because of the COVID-19 pandemic.

The two programs seem to be equally effective, based on test scores for ninth and 10th grade students. To determine learning growth, the district compared fall and winter test scores for the two grades.

“When we compared the KVP (Kewaskum Virtual Program) students and the in-person students, we found that there was very little difference between the growth between these two groups. Generally speaking, our students are learning at about the same rate whether they are learning in person or through our virtual program,” Dr. Mark Bazata, curriculum director for the district, reported to the Kewaskum School Board on Thursday, Jan. 14. “I’m going to say the reason for that is we have some really great teachers who are really pouring a lot of time and energy and effort into those kids to make sure they are learning.”

The district currently has about 191 students enrolled in the virtual learning program, a net increase of about 11 students since the beginning of the school year, according to Bazata.

Students can opt to attend virtual classes at any time during the school year. When students are quarantined, they attend virtual classes. The majority of students return to in-person instruction when the quarantine is completed, according to Bazata.

“The board is very pleased and excited that our administration and teachers are meeting all the challenges of COVID, and keeping our test scores up, keeping the schools open and keeping the kids wanting to return to school,” School Board President Jim Leister said.

For the Kewaskum Virtual Program, teachers use Google Classroom/Meet to work with students. Through the technology, students receive instruction as they participate directly with the classrooms. The virtual students complete schoolwork at home and submit assignments for feedback.

The district provides district Chromebooks and hotspots for students if needed.

Other grades in the district will be screened in February to compare progress between students receiving in-person classroom instruction versus virtual instruction.

In-Person Instruction
The Kewaskum School District has offered in-person instruction throughout the entire 2020-21 school year, something that many school districts have not been able to do. The key to keeping schools open when teachers are quarantined has been hiring paratemps to oversee classrooms while teachers instruct from their homes, according to District Administrator James Smasal.

“We are very thankful that the board chose to approve the recommendation of adding a paratemp. It has been a godsend, especially this last week or so. The spike as you hear across our nation and our state is at an all-time high right now, and we are experiencing some of those same difficulties. The paratemps have come in and literally rescued us and kept us able to keep the boat floating in the right direction and keep our doors open,” Smasal said at last week’s school board meeting.

Many of the paratemps have been college students who have been home during winter break in December and January. As the students return to school in February, the district plans to hire new paratemps to replace them.

“But it has been a win-win for those [college] kids. It has been a win-win for us. I had an opportunity to walk around the district earlier this week and see them in action. Farmington, for instance, is battling a lot of absences right now, and seeing those young folks handling the classrooms has been just wonderful,” Smasal said.

Administration plans to present a report of the cost associated with the paratemps in February.

Herb Kohl Award Nominees
The Kewaskum School District has one principal, three teachers and two students who have been nominated and will be going on to the state competition for Herb Kohl awards.

Julie Skelton, principal of Kewaskum Middle School, has made it through the regional level and to the state competition for the Principal Leadership Herb Kohl Fellowship.

▪Assessment and Report Card Waivers- Under this proposal, during a pandemic or other emergency, state law requiring assessments to be administered annually would not apply and the Department of Public Instruction would be prohibited from publishing school and school district accountability reports the following school year.

▪School District Mascots, Logos and Imagery- Under this proposed resolution, mascots, logos, imagery, practices or processes that may create a hostile, divisive or unwelcoming school environment for all students, regardless of their race, ancestry or ethnicity, would be retired.

Residents Learn About Highway SS Project

By Andrea Hansen Abler

Town of Auburn residents learned about a road project for the reconstruction of County High SS between Highway 45 and County Highway G.

This was the first preliminary meeting about the project. It is expected to be completed in 2023-2024.

According to Fond du Lac County, the existing pavement is in poor condition and the existing pavement width, shoulder width and vertical curvature are all substandard. This project will bring these items to "minimum design standards." The proposed pavement width will be 24 feet, it is now 22 feet, and shoulders six feet wide, currently two feet.

"It is a very large stretch and it is very narrow," said Tom Janke, county highway commissioner. "Our goal is not to totally rebuild the section, but pretty close to that." Ryan Sommer, county highway engineer, explained that the biggest change will be the intersection with Double D Road. "We will be putting a bigger radius there," Sommer said.

They are trying to make that intersection more safe to navigate. In that same area, they will be moving the road a little bit from Double D to County Highway G, along the state forest.

Another intersection that will be changing a bit is the one with Highway 45 at the beginning of the project. This intersection will be made into more of a 90-degree than a 45-degree intersection. This will make that area a little safer.

The one impact this project will have the most on property owners will be a loss of trees. To widen the roadway will mean taking some land from the properties along the roadway.

"Out here, obviously, one of the largest impacts is trees," Janke said.

Sommer added, "There's many trees close to the roadway."

Since this was the first meeting on the project, Sommer and Janke hoped to work with some of the property owners to limit the impact as much as they can. But in the end, they have to do what they can to improve the roadway and make it safer.

Part of the reason this project is on the horizon is because of upgrades by the utility company that are scheduled next year. Since the utilities were being redone anyway, it was a good time to have them moved to accommodate a larger roadway.

Once this portion of Highway SS is completed, the plan is to reconstruct the next portion after the County Highway G intersection. The final design will be done in 2022. The utility relocation will be done in 2022 and road construction is scheduled to take place in 2023 on this portion of the project.

In looking back, Sommer estimates it has been about 30 years since the last time this roadway was paved.

"You'll have a wider road that better meets the standards," Janke said.

They are looking for feedback on the plan from property owners along the project. A comment form was given out at the informational meeting. Those forms need to be turned in by Monday, Feb. 1.

Anyone who wasn't at the meeting can contact Sommer at ryan.sommer@fdlco.wi.gov or call 920-929-3408.

Kirsten Johnson Appointed Milwaukee Commissioner Of Health

By Anne Trautner

Milwaukee Mayor Tom Barrett on January 14 appointed Kirsten Johnson, the director and health officer of the Washington Ozaukee Public Health Department, as commissioner of health for the City of Milwaukee.

As the director and health officer of the Washington Ozaukee Public Health Department, Johnson led a multi-county coronavirus pandemic response, mobilized partners to create multi-sector community health coalitions, represented the health department nationally through media engagement and public speaking and led the effort to implement and manage programs with a health equity lens.

"The appointment of Kirsten Johnson is an excellent selection for the City of Milwaukee. Kirsten is a tough, innovative, intelligent leader who is passionate about her work and the people she serves. Johnson was instrumental in the success of one of my first projects leading the consolidation of the Washington and Ozaukee Health Departments, a move that saved tax dollars and ultimately positioned us with a more robust health department to combat the challenges of public health such as the COVID-19 pandemic," Washington County Executive Josh Schoemann said.

"Kirsten will bring a wealth of experience and knowledge in continuing to assure access to testing, contact tracing and vaccine distribution while addressing health disparities and providing access to basic services for residents of Milwaukee and the region," Schoemann added.

Johnson will continue to serve in her role with Washington/Ozaukee County through the end of February, respecting the City of Milwaukee's appointment process and timeline.

The commissioner of health has an overall responsibility for public health assessment, policy development and quality control activities associated with the preservation of the public health in the City of Milwaukee. The commissioner of health provides strategic leadership and direction in assessing community health needs, as well as developing and implementing a community health improvement plan, including addressing root causes of poor health and health disparities, preventing and controlling communicable and chronic diseases, promoting reproductive health, healthy child development and school readiness, reducing illness and injury related to the home environment and promoting healthy behaviors and access to health services for all residents.

"In her role as commissioner, Kirsten Johnson will bring experience, knowledge, and commitment to the Milwaukee Health Department," said Barrett. "Kirsten has an extensive history of leadership and service in the field of public health. Her expertise will strengthen the efforts of our health department as we continue to navigate the many challenges of the COVID-19 pandemic."

Johnson has over 20 years of experience in complex local, state, national and international organizations. Prior to serving as director and health officer of the Washington Ozaukee Public Health Department, Johnson served as a health policy fellow and advisor for the U.S. House of Representatives, offices of Rep. Ron Kind (WI-3), where she analyzed, developed and wrote health policy for the senior member of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Johnson received her master of public health from Tulane University of Public Health and Tropical Medicine and holds certifications as a public health professional and certified education specialist.

She has received numerous awards and recognitions, which include the Public Policy Forum's Intergovernmental Cooperation Award and the Lloyd D. Gladfelter Award for Government Innovation.

Johnson serves as a member of Columbia St. Mary's Hospital's Community Benefits Advisory Board, Medical College of Wisconsin MPH Program Advisory Committee, National Association of City and County Health Officials, Wisconsin Association of Local Health Departments and Boards and the Wisconsin Public Health Association.

Barrett expressed his gratitude to Interim Commissioner of Health Marlaina Jackson, who has led the department through most of the current pandemic. Jackson will resume her role as a deputy commissioner for the Milwaukee Health Department.

Johnson's appointment as commissioner of health is subject to the Milwaukee Common Council confirmation.

Parking Studied As Village Plans For New Municipal Building

By Anne Trautner

Over the course of two weeks in November, the Kewaskum Police Department conducted a study of the municipal parking lot located behind the Annex Building, between Main Street and First Street.

Kewaskum Police Chief Tom Bishop shared the results of the study with the Village of Kewaskum Shared Facilities Committee during a meeting held on Tuesday, Jan. 12. The committee, which was created about two years ago, is planning facility upgrades for the municipal building that houses Kewaskum Village Hall, the Kewaskum Police Department and the Kewaskum Public Library.

"When putting this into perspective with a new facility, it is safe to state that having 20 to 25 parking stalls in the downtown parking lot would be sufficient for daily use, based on current use. However, we must also understand that on a daily basis, the current municipal building has eight to 12 cars at any time for employees or village vehicles. This should adjust our total spot to be in the 30-35 range for adequate parking for daily and employee use," Bishop reported to the committee.

At last week's meeting, Doug Barnes, an architect with Zimmerman Architectural Studios, presented the latest conceptual drawing to the committee.

The drawing has the municipal building located where the municipal lot is currently located. If the village builds at that site, the plan is to raze both the Annex Building (located on Fond du Lac Avenue) and the current municipal building (located at 204 First St.) Part of the existing municipal parking lot would remain, and a second municipal parking lot would be added where the current municipal building stands.

The village currently has 112 stalls in the existing municipal lot. Under the proposed plan, the village would have 80 stalls in that location, plus 72 stalls in the new lot on First Street, a net increase of 40 stalls from what currently exists. The committee discussed making some changes to the drawing that was presented, which would add another seven or eight spaces to the existing municipal lot.

The conceptual drawing that was presented last week features a new two-story, 21,590-square-foot building. The library, lobby and police department would be located on the first level and the village administration and a community room would be situated on the second floor. The plan has a price tag of $8,570,416.

The committee requested that Barnes make a few changes on the drawing that was presented. One change is that the committee would like to see a plan in which the police garages face First Street. In addition, the committee would like the community room to accommodate 70-80 people.

Once the committee agrees on a conceptual drawing, committee members would like to present the drawing to the public in order to get feedback before bringing the plan to the Village Board.

The Shared Facilities Committee will meet next on Friday, Feb. 12, at 9 a.m.

BBB Scam Alert: Think Twice Before Buying

Social media advertising is an effective way for small businesses to get the word out about their products. Unfortunately, the same goes for scams. BBB Scam Tracker (BBB.org/ScamTracker) has received thousands of complaints about misleading Facebook and Instagram ads. In fact, the 2018 BBB Scam Tracker Risk Report found that online purchase scams were the most common cons reported to Scam Tracker and the category with the most victims.

How The Scam Works

Look out for these common scams reported to BBB Scam Tracker:

Products That Claim to Support Charity: As you scroll through your Facebook or Instagram feed, you see an ad from a small business selling adorable jewelry, t-shirts, or other merchandise. The best part? Some of the proceeds from the sale will go to a charity that helps rescue animals, foster children, or support another worthy cause. Some consumers even report getting direct messages from sellers promoting the products and asking them to spread the word to friends and family.

You make your purchase. But when your merchandise never gets delivered, the doubts start to build. When you contact the company about your purchase, they are suddenly unreachable or reply with an autoresponder. In reality, the product never existed. It was all a ploy to get your money.

Free Trial Offers: Many of these misleading advertisements tout celebrity endorsements and promise a trial of the hottest new skincare or nutritional supplement for the minimal investment of shipping fees. What consumers report is that once they agree to the terms and conditions of these offers, they realize they have agreed to multiple monthly shipments for products in excess of $70-$100 each.

Before you sign up for these "limited time offers" research the company online, see if there are any other consumer complaints, read the terms and conditions you are agreeing to carefully, and if you can't find any terms and conditions, that is a red flag. Watch out for pre-checked boxes and make sure that you know who and where the company is that you are purchasing from.

Counterfeit Merchandise: Name brand goods are prime targets for unauthorized duplication, from sporting goods to designer apparel and handbags. If you purchase any of these products you may run the risk of not only receiving a poor quality product, but it may not meet environmental and safety regulations either.

Look out for red flags. This includes items that are priced significantly lower than what other retailers are charging, spelling and grammatical errors in the advertisements, and poor quality images. These are all signs that the advertisement may be for a counterfeit product.

Engaging Ads, Poor Customer Service: This category covers a broad spectrum of complaints that BBB receives, from ads for beauty products to trendy clothing to kids' toys. The advertisements look great and the products are often inexpensive. This means that consumers purchase without doing any research on the website or the company behind it. However, weeks pass, and the products never arrive. When the buyers reach out to customer service, they get a vague answer or they don't hear back at all.

Before buying, do a quick online search. Google the website name with the words "complaints," "reviews," and "scam" to see what other customers are saying. Check the "About Us" or "Contact Us" information on the company's website to see if they contain actual contact details for the business. If the only way to contact the company is through a form this is a red flag.

Apps of Unknown Origin: While scrolling through your feed you may feel compelled to download the latest "free" app. Beware! By downloading this app, not only are you opening up your device to these unknown entities, you could possibly be signing up for recurring subscription fees. Victims report being charged fees as high as $99 every seven days.

Before you enter your username and password, read the reviews. Also, read the description of the app carefully and look for spelling and grammatical errors. Check that the developer's website is a working website and read the terms and conditions carefully ($99 every seven days adds up quickly).

How To Protect Yourself From Social Media Scams

Do your research. Before making a purchase, do a quick search for the business in question. Do they have valid contact information? Don't be fooled by professional photography or consumer reviews on their website. These can be lifted from other sites. Check BBB Scam Tracker to see if others have been duped.

Search for previous complaints. Do a Google search of the business name followed by "complaints," "reviews," or "scam" and see what pops up. If you find other people have been cheated by this business, steer clear.

Use good judgment. Many con artists play on consumers' desire to help those in need. Keep this in mind and use your head, not just your heart, when supporting charitable causes. Go to Give.org to research organizations before giving.

For more ways to protect yourself from social media shopping scams, see BBB.org/ShoppingOnline. You can also find more general tips at BBB.org/Avoid-Scams.

If you've been the victim of a social media ad scam, share your experience at BBB.org/ScamTracker. Your report could help other consumers avoid falling victim to similar scams.

Wisconsin Waterfowl, Turkey And Pheasant Stamp Funding Project Applications Due

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) will distribute more than $800,000 in funding to support wildlife conservation throughout the state in the new year.

This conservation funding comes directly from hunters purchasing turkey, waterfowl and pheasant stamps that support the restoration and management of critical habitat for Wisconsin's wildlife. Government and nonprofit conservation organizations are encouraged to apply for this next round of biennial funding by Friday, Feb. 5.

For many years, Wisconsin's wild turkey, pheasant and waterfowl stamp programs have provided wildlife and habitat management opportunities, with efforts directed toward key species. With each stamp purchased, hunters, stamp collectors and conservation enthusiasts contribute funds directly to restoration projects that recharge groundwater, store floodwaters, reduce invasive species and restore critical habitat across the state.

"Hunters and wildlife viewers can be confident their dollars contribute directly to improving wildlife habitat for the enjoyment of hunters and wildlife enthusiasts throughout the state," said Jason Fleener, DNR wetland habitat specialist. "The department and conservation partners work together to ensure these dollars are invested efficiently and paired with external grants whenever possible."

Stamp-funded habitat projects also benefit a multitude of other wildlife and the general public by improving soil and water quality, restoring wetlands and helping to control invasive species in wetlands, grasslands and forests.

These stamps bring in hundreds of thousands of dollars annually for species management, including habitat management, restoration, education and research projects. Every other year, at the start of each fiscal biennium, there is an opportunity for nonprofit, conservation and non-government organizations, along with local, state and federal government agencies to apply for stamp funds.

The DNR's species advisory committees and Wildlife Management program's leadership select winning project proposals through a competitive process. Funding will be made available for winning projects during the DNR's 2022-2023 biennium, beginning July 1.

Eligibility information, project selection criteria, application guidance and further information is available at <https://dnr.wisconsin.gov/topic/WildlifeHabitat/stamps.html>.

Coach P's Corner

Cheers!

Whether it's just letting go on a Friday night after a long week or drowning your sorrows in a stiff martini, there are many country songs that deal with the subject of drinking. Some of these songs can be uplifting, party songs, while others are lonesome about a jilted lover. The best country songs that are about drinking are often the most enjoyable and fun-loving because they are relatable.

I wouldn't consider myself a huge country fan but I like a good old country song with some fun lyrics and a good twang sound to it. So many country artists have written songs pertaining to drinking that it has become popular in our culture. Country music certainly has a life-long love affair with alcohol. It has been a staple of many songs since its origins dating back to the 1920s.

I recently sifted through my country music collection to come up with my top 20 favorite drinking songs... bottoms up!

Lady Cougar Bowlers Lose Tough Match To West Bend East

The Lady Cougars bowlers had their second and last home meet of the season on Monday, January 11. It was also Senior and Parents Night, honoring both. The squad had decided to dedicate the night to senior classmate Alexis Feucht and they were all wearing Alexis' Defenders t-shirts.

The match was against last season's defending Division 2 State Champions, the West Bend East Suns. Earlier this season the Cougars had faced West Bend East and lost the match in the last game. The Cougars were hoping that this match-up would have a different ending.

The Cougars started out hot opening with 171 and 192 games to the Suns 154 and 124 to take a two game lead. The next three games the Cougars spare shooting struggled and they only posted games of 136, 142 and 120 to find themselves down 2-3. Game six saw the Cougars making a comeback with a 193 to the Suns 157. The match was now tied 3-3 — anybody's ball game.

The Suns quickly proved why they are the defending State Champs. In game seven, they put out a 204 game to the Cougars 170. The Cougars still had a chance but they needed to win the last two games to win the match.

In game eight, the Cougars once again struggled picking up spares, bowling an under par game of 117 to the Suns 165. Game nine saw the Cougars ending with a respectful 195 to the Suns 198. The final score was Cougars three and the Suns six with the win. The Cougars now have a 4-3 record for the season.

Amber Thompson led the squad throwing a total of 15 strikes and filling 15 of 18 frames. Brianna Thompson chipped in filling 13 of 18 frames and Paige Jordan finished filling 11 of 18 frames.

Stats for the match were as follows (strikes-spares-total frames): Brianna Thompson 9-4-18; Hannah Thelen 4-4-18; Paige Jordan 6-5-18; Kylie Zehren 1-5-18; Amber Thompson 12-3-18.

College Football Bowl Games

The 2020 college football season ended last night with Alabama beating up on Ohio State in the College Football Playoff championship game. That ends a season that can easily be described as unique for the football bowl subdivision schools.

Every year at bowl season, I think about whether or not we are better off having the championship playoffs or if there was something special about the mystique of having the Associated Press and United Press International polls determine the national champion, as was the norm for decades.

The conferences were not the "mega-conferences" they are now. The Big Ten actually had 10 schools. The South West Conference was a power with Texas and Arkansas. The Big Eight was often decided by the Oklahoma-Nebraska game at the end of the season.

The conferences had tie-ins for their champions to go to certain bowl games and that became "your bowl of choice" if you were a fan of one of those schools. In Big Ten country, the Rose Bowl is special. Even with many years of dominance by Michigan and Ohio State (in my youth), it was THE game for me. "The Granddaddy of them All!"

New Year's Day games were more special, in my opinion. There were not nearly as many. It seemed like there were still a good number of bowl games, but they stretched from Christmas to New Years. There were not games after New Year's Day. We also did not have the corporate names on every bowl game, as there are now.

While my past few articles, including this one, may have you thinking that I am pining for the past, which is not the case. I have just found that having this avenue to express myself has led me to look back at how things used to be. Sometimes I think they may have been better, or sometimes not.

I enjoy remembering the debates we had about the rankings and national championship. The wall-to-wall sports world of 2021 with ESPN covering every detail has made it so much different. I am just glad to have had the experiences I did to compare things from before to how they are now.

Wisconsin Walleye Management Plan For Calumet, Fond du Lac, Outagamie And Winnebago Counties Virtual Public Meeting Planned

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) will host a public meeting to discuss updating the Wisconsin Walleye Management Plan for Calumet, Fond du Lac, Outagamie and Winnebago counties.

The meeting will be held via Zoom on Tuesday, Jan. 26, at 6:30 p.m. Anyone interested in walleye management for Calumet, Fond du Lac, Outagamie and Winnebago counties and who would like to participate should contact Max Wolter at Max.Wolter@wisconsin.gov or 715-634-7429. Pre-registration is required.

The current walleye management plan serves as a guide for one of the most sought-after fish species in Wisconsin and outlines seven goals and strategies for walleye management. The updating process will include a review of the existing plan, an analysis of available data and trends and significant public input on angling and management preferences.

The DNR is seeking public feedback on stocking priorities, regulation acceptance and agency resource allocation. The public is invited to give input on the process through:

- Comments on walleye management preferences and issues via this public input form

- Detailed random mail/online surveys of fishing license holders (both resident and non-resident) to scientifically gauge angler attitudes about management options

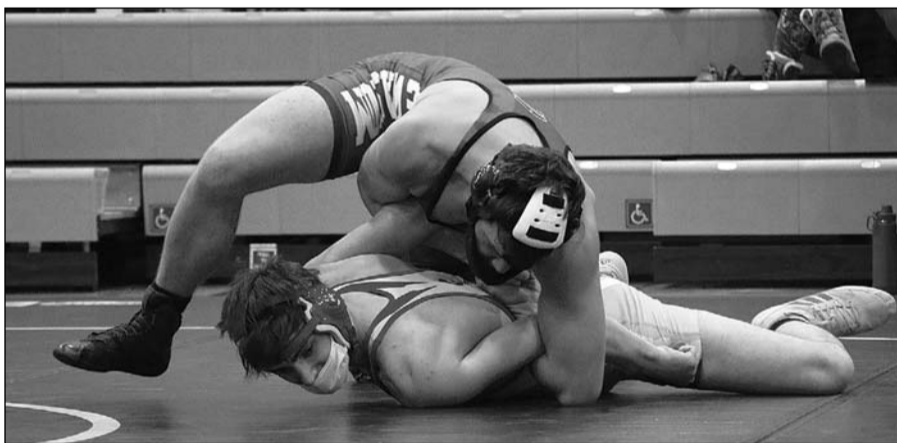

- Regional virtual meetings with stakeholder groups and individuals to discuss local management issues and partnership opportunities

- Future walleye meetings for other counties are available on the DNR's public meetings calendar.

The DNR will host a virtual public meeting to discuss updating the Wisconsin Walleye Management Plan for Calumet, Fond du Lac, Outagamie and Winnebago counties on January 26.

2021 Sturgeon Spearing Season Updates

—DNR Offers Drive-Thru Registration Stations; Season Opens February 13

Every year, thousands flock to Lake Winnebago and Upriver Lakes to participate in the sturgeon spearing tradition. With the 2021 sturgeon spearing season fast approaching, the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) reminds both seasoned pros and first-timers that there are some important changes to this year's registration process.

The 2021 season on the Winnebago system begins February 13 and runs a maximum of 16 days or until any pre-determined harvest caps are met.

For the upcoming sturgeon spearing season, the DNR is implementing a contactless registration process at registration stations. To ensure the safety for the public and staff during the COVID-19 pandemic, all DNR registration stations are now drive-thru only and have been relocated to boat landings, city parks and government building parking lots for the 2021 season.

To help with the new registration process, the DNR is asking spearkers to place harvested sturgeon on tailgates or in an easily accessible location and remain in their vehicles throughout the registration process. This change allows the DNR to collect the critical data necessary to effectively manage the Winnebago system sturgeon fishery while keeping spearkers, spectators and staff safe.

Data collected from harvested fish help implement the harvest cap system and set caps for future seasons. The DNR remains committed to returning registration station locations to local businesses for future seasons following the pandemic.

The 2021 season will also be the first year where spear size and tine arrangement will be restricted. A new regulation limits the maximum spearhead width to 18 inches, and tines can only be arranged in a single plane. Additional information can be found in the 2021 sturgeon spearing regulations.

Home to one of the world's largest, self-sustaining lake sturgeon populations, Wisconsin's Winnebago system has an estimated 42,000 adult lake sturgeon. Approximately 12,200 sturgeon spearing licenses were sold for the 2021 season. Harvest caps for the 2021 Winnebago system spearing season are set at 430 juvenile females, 950 adult females and 1,200 males.

The deadline to apply for an Upriver Lakes sturgeon spearing permit was August 1, 2020. Spearing licenses for the fishery on Lake Winnebago needed to be purchased before October 31, 2020.

Spearkers must carry a paper copy of their sturgeon spearing license while spearing. A receipt of purchase, driver's license or GoWild card will not be accepted as proof of a spearing license. Any harvested sturgeon must be presented by the spearker at a DNR-operated registration station by 2 p.m. on the day the fish was speared.

To help stop the spread of COVID-19 and keep our communities safe and healthy, spearkers and spectators are reminded to wear a mask, wash their hands, carry hand sanitizer, and stay six feet apart.

More information on the 2021 Winnebago system sturgeon spearing season is available at <https://dnr.wisconsin.gov/topic/fishing/sturgeon/WinnSysSturgeon-Spear.html>. Learn more about the DNR's response to COVID-19 at <https://dnr.wisconsin.gov/covid-19>.

For specific information regarding COVID-19, we encourage the public to frequently monitor the DHS website for updates, and to follow @DHSWI on Facebook and Twitter, or dhs.wi on Instagram. Additional information can be found on the CDC website.

Campbellsport Village Board Approves Crosswalk Configuration Near Columbus Parc

By Andrea Hansen Abler

With the road reconstruction project on Highway Y in the Village of Campbellsport this summer, the village board had to decide where a crosswalk would be installed near Columbus Parc. They decided, during their Monday, Jan. 11, meeting, on the specific location of this crosswalk.

They were given a couple options and decided to go with the option where the crosswalk is installed to the north side of the intersection of Highway Y/New Cassel Street and Columbus Parc Court. Then, a gravel pathway will be added along Columbus Parc Court. Another crosswalk will then be put in to cross over to the playground area.

"We'd have two crosswalks," said Mark Gruber, DPW director. "One on New Cassel Street and one on Columbus Parc Court."

The gravel pathway and the crosswalk will be at the village's expense. The crosswalk on New Cassel Street/Highway Y would be part of the road project and covered by a grant received by the county for this road project. Costs for the village portion will be reduced a little because it will be bid and constructed with the street project.

Flashing pedestrian lights will be included with the crosswalk on New Cassel Street/Highway Y.

"I think something needs to be done with that intersection," said Police Chief Tom Dornbrook. "As long as we're doing it, let's make it safe. I think you have an obligation to make it safer now that you are upgrading that area."

Village president David Krebs agreed, "I think that would be a nice improvement to the park. It would make it safer and it would be nice looking."

In other business, Charlie Kudy, village administrator, asked the board to approve a revision to the ordinance regarding alcohol licenses. He asked them to consider adding to the "continuation of business" part of the ordinance.

He explained that the village is only allowed five Class B liquor licenses for establishments.

"I had heard there were some concerns on the best use of those licenses," Kudy said. "The village already had a policy to have a continuation of business in the policy. The only thing it didn't have is a number of hours that it would have to be open to keep that license."

Kudy told the board that he researched the ordinances in village across the state that are similar in size to Campbellsport. According to Kudy, most of the them require an establishment to be open to the public a minimum of 1,000 hours per calendar year. This would be about 20 hours a week.

The Campbellsport ordinance did not list minimum hours to be open, but does mention continuation of a business. A business has 90 days after the license is issued to open its doors to the public. This gives new establishments or those that changed hands time for the transition.

Kudy explained that under extreme circumstances, like COVID-19, the board could make some exceptions.

"Obviously, there are certain accommodations that could be added because of COVID," Kudy said. "They have the discretion of the board if there is a circumstance, they could come to the board."

"It wouldn't go into affect for the current period of licenses, but the next one to give them some notice that this is going into affect. That is what I have seen as the standard across other communities that are similar to our size."

When the establishments obtain their renewals this year, the time frame would start. So in 2022 when the establishments come in to renew their licenses, the hours open to the public would be looked at before renewing the license.

Kudy explained this is an attempt to encourage businesses to be open and bring business to the community.

"It's not really a negative thing," said Mark Re-seburg. "It's really encouraging them to open up."

Raina Jefferey, co-president of the Campbellsport Chamber of Commerce, added, "I don't think it's a unnecessary pressure to put on a business. We have businesses who want to come in and they can't because there are no licenses available. Anything I think we can do to keep things competitive is good."

"We need people to spend money in this town," said Beth Ginard, co-president of the Campbellsport Chamber of Commerce.

Board members approved the change on a 7-0 vote.

Police Cameras

Dornbrook reported to the board that the new body cameras for the police department have been received and are in use.

"Our body cameras did come in," Dornbrook said while pointing to the one on his uniform. "The only issue we have to work on yet is to get a redaction software. That software costs $5,000, but I found out from the company that we can share that with another department."

Because of privacy and the new Marsy's Law in the state, departments need to blur victims' faces in the videos before they can release it to anyone. This software will help the department to easily do this. More than one department can share the software and reduce the total cost to each department.

Dornbrook is currently working with a number of departments, including Ripon who has already been using it, to share the cost.

"Hopefully we can get that done sooner than later," he said. "When I've talked to Ripon, it has been helpful for them."

Columbus Parc Trees

It was reported to the board that the fire department had started burning the large piles of brush that were leftover from the clean up of the walking trail area. The best time to do this is over the winter months when it is colder and wet in that area.

Highway 67 Project

Someone questioned when businesses and residents along Highway 67 in the village would be getting information about the road construction project starting this spring. Highway 67 is being completely redone throughout the village along with new sewer and water piping along Fond du Lac Avenue and Main Street.

According to Gruber, the work is scheduled to begin around the end of February or early March and should be completed in October or November.

"We were going to have (informational) meetings originally in this room (village meeting room)," Kudy said. "Now we've checked into larger venues and the state has not gotten back to us on that. They are now looking at doing that virtually. The DOT is having their own issues on how to handle getting information out on this project."

Kudy and Gruber were hoping to get in touch with DOT officials and try to get some type of informational meeting set up soon for area residents.

NFPA Urges Added Caution When Using Home Heating Equipment

The National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) is urging the public to use added caution when heating their homes this winter. Home heating equipment is the leading cause of U.S. home fires during the months of December, January and February, when nearly half (48 percent) of all U.S. home heating equipment fires occur. January is the leading month for home heating fires.

“Clearly, the coldest months of the year is when we see the largest share of home heating fires,” said Lorraine Carli, vice president of outreach and advocacy at NFPA. “It’s critical that people understand when and where home heating fires tend to happen so that they can take the needed steps to minimize those risks.”

According to NFPA’s latest heating equipment statistics, an average of 48,530 fires home heating fires occurred each year between 2014 and 2018, resulting in an estimated 500 civilian deaths, 1,350 civilian injuries, and $1.1 billion in direct property damage.

Space heaters were most often responsible for home heating equipment fires, accounting for more than two in five fires, as well as the vast majority of associated deaths and injuries. Fireplaces or chimneys were involved in approximately three in 10 home heating equipment fires. Other leading types of home heating equipment fires included central heat systems and water heaters, with each accounting for approximately one in 10 heating equipment fires.

A failure to clean equipment was the leading cause of home heating equipment fires, with creosote build-up in chimneys representing a particular issue. Fires in which a heat source was too close to combustible materials caused the largest shares of civilian deaths, injuries, and direct property damage.

“While home heating equipment does present potential fire hazards, the good news is that the vast majority of these fires can be prevented by making sure heating equipment is in good working order and monitored carefully,” said Carli.

NFPA offers these tips and guidelines for safely heating your home this winter:

- Heating equipment and chimneys should be cleaned and inspected every year by a qualified professional.

- Keep anything that can burn at least three feet (one meter) away from all heating equipment, including furnaces, fireplaces, wood stoves, and space heaters.

- Always use the right kind of fuel, as specified by the manufacturer, for fuel-burning space heaters.

- Create a three-foot (one meter) “kid-free zone” around open fires and space heaters.

- Make sure space heaters are in good working order and used in accordance with the manufacturer’s instructions. Turn portable heaters off when leaving the room or going to bed.

- Fireplaces should have a sturdy screen to stop sparks from flying into the room. Ashes should be cool before putting them in a metal container, which should be placed outside at least 10 feet away from your home.

- All fuel-burning equipment should be vented to the outside to avoid carbon monoxide (CO) poisoning.

- If you smell gas in your gas heater, do not light the appliance. Leave the home immediately and call your local fire department or gas company.

- Make sure smoke and carbon monoxide alarms are located throughout the home; test them monthly to ensure that they’re working properly.

NFPA offers a wealth of home heating safety tips, information, and resources to help better educate the public about ways to safely heat their homes. In addition, NFPA’s “Put a Freeze on Winter Fires” campaign with the U.S. Fire Administration works to promote a host of winter safety issues, including home heating.
