Catching Fun In Kewaskum

BY ANNE TRAUTNER
JOURNALIST

About 115 people lined the riverbanks in River Hill Park as they fished during JAKE'S Free Fishing Day in Kewaskum on Saturday, June 5.

There were a lot of fish to be caught. Earlier that morning, volunteers from the Gateway Gobblers, a chapter of the National Wild Turkey Federation, stocked that portion of the Milwaukee River with 400 bluegills.

The fish were brought in from the Northstar Fish Hatchery in Montour, Iowa. Each of the fish measured 6 to 10 inches long.

When they finished fishing, prizes were awarded to children catching the largest fish in different age categories. In addition, participants were treated to lunch, and each child who was registered received a door prize.

It was the 30th year that the annual JAKE'S (Juniors Acquiring Knowledge, Ethics & Sportsmanship) Free Fishing Day was held in Kewaskum.

This year, representatives from the Riveredge Nature Center also were on hand to share information about wacky water creatures as part of the Community Rivers Program. It gave the young fishermen a chance to learn about some of the tiny creatures that live in the water alongside the fish.

The JAKE'S Free Fishing Day was sponsored by the Gateway Gobblers. Other organizations that donated to the event were: Campbellsport Sportsman Club, Fillmore Sportsman Club, Kettle

2021 Campbellsport Area Fire Association Picnic Is Back And Going Paperless

The 2020 Campbellsport Area Fire Association picnic was cancelled due to the Coronavirus pandemic, but that didn't stop the generosity of Campbellsport area residents. The department appreciates all the donations that were received throughout the past year.

The picnic is back again this year but will have a few small changes. One thing that has changed and may still change before the picnic is the parade route. With the road construction project on Main Street in Campbellsport, the route needed to be changed for the 2021 event.

Currently, the plan for the parade is to start in its normal spot (by St. Matthew's Parish) and travel south on Helena Street. It will then turn west on Spring Street to Poplar. The route will then go north on Poplar. It will then turn south

PUBLISHER'S LETTER

Enchiridion – A Handbook for Life

Dear Reader,

Epictetus, a widely-read Greek Stoic philosopher who died in 135 AD, reflected on how one should embrace whatever happens in life. Simply put, if it's out of your hands and you have no control over it, pass on by or let it pass you by. If you can affect an event or situation, then engage in some positive direction.

Epictetus's own life taught him some hard lessons. He was born a slave shortly after the death of Christ, around 50 AD, and gained his freedom sometime in his late teens or early 20s. He rose to prominence as a teacher of philosophy in his adoptive home, Rome. None of Epictetus's writings survived, but his student Arrian took notes that later became The Enchiridion (The Handbook), his most widely-read work, and The Discourses.

The Stoic philosophy of acceptance is relevant in these difficult times. We encounter conflict and divisiveness every day. Mental illness has crept into once pure, stable and idealistic thinking and poisons our interactions with others. As hard as it is right now, we need to dig deep and shift our paradigms. We need to pivot to kindness.

May the forces of goodness be with you.

Rural Writes

BY G.A. SCHEINOHA
CONTRIBUTOR

One of the things we appreciate the most out here in the countryside is our farms and the families, often multi-generational, who run them. Simple fact, none of us would eat if it weren't for them.

But as a source who has lived the life tells me, there are reasons for why that tradition is dying.

"The original farm bill, passed back in 1903 set prices at the cost of production." Unfortunately that hasn't remained the case. "Each farm bill since then has weakened the previous one." Including what the farmer gets paid. While, as everyone knows, the cost of production has steadily risen.

Equipment is just one example. The cost of a new tractor is prohibitive. Considering they, like almost everything else, are now computerized. Though this has made the farmer's life easier, at least as far as tracking his production and yields, there is a downside. A recent news story on NPR radio reported that the buyer owns the hardware, but the equipment manufacturer still owns the software. Resulting in equally expensive repairs.

My source says, "The Milk Marketing Board is out there selling like crazy." Enter the middlemen, taking a hefty cut.

What ultimately results, in the wake of these small farms going under is larger, industrial farms. And the accompanying ills.

"They're spraying too many chemicals on the land. Which the animals eat in the forage, then we eat them." Not to mention runoff contaminating the water table as well as our lakes and streams. "They are poisoning the land, the water, the air we breathe." Small wonder so many are getting sick.

While the situation looks dire, it isn't entirely hopeless. But a turnaround will require the average citizen, yep, that's you and me to pressure our legislators, from congressmen and senators right up to the president. This issue is that important. Both our nation's food supply and citizens health depend on it.

Wisconsin Publisher Releases New Book

Patrick Wood, CEO of Wisconsin-based Multi Media Channels (MMC), has released a new book to uplift and enlighten readers. He recently released "Dear Reader: Meditations, Musings and Moments in Time" as a beacon during our current challenges.

"Over the past few years, I've received many letters, emails and phone calls regarding my publisher's columns. Based on these positive responses and dialogues, it seemed worthwhile to compile some of their favorites into a book," Wood said.

"I believe that many of us are hungry for a hopeful and uplifting message during turbulent times. Through sharing my perspectives and insights, I have tried to activate the natural kindness and humanity of all of our brothers and sisters, at whatever stage of their life journey they may have reached. I see this as intrinsic to the stewardship of this newspaper and the communities we serve," he explained.

Wood added that the cover itself should be viewed as a vehicle of reflection. "It is a photo of Otter Lake, located east of Wabeno, Wisconsin. Our family has been connected to this tiny pristine corner of Nicolet National Forest for five generations and symbolizes, for me, the interconnections between us and all living things," Wood said.

"Meditations, Musings and Moments in Time" is available on Amazon.com. Wood is also the author of "Tapestry of Love and Loss," also available on Amazon. All profits from both books will be donated to organizations focused on eradicating homelessness in Wisconsin communities.

MMC traces its roots in community newspaper publishing to 1953 in Denmark under the leadership of founder, Frank Wood. Today, the company remains in the Wood family and manages 48 media properties, including 25 weeklies (including the Campbellsport News/Kewaskum Statesman), four magazines, and 19 digital channels, all serving the central, northern, and eastern portions of Wisconsin.

Ruth Hayward

Hayward, Ruth
25 Jan. 1924 -

24 Apr. 2021

Ruth Leone (Hoffmann) Hayward, Campbellsport born and raised, Marquette grad., was lured to Colorado by skiing and a nursing job in Denver, met Bob Hayward at Washington Park on ice-skating blind date; they married in 1949 and started a family.

Giving of herself to help others, a cheery outlook on life, family, friends, faith and church traditions were all huge parts of her being. Always active, she enjoyed swimming, hiking, biking, walking, running and camping. In her 60s, she won medals in both regional and national Senior Olympics. Her adept cooking, baking, canning and garden skills kept the family hale and hearty.

Excelling in community leadership roles included Cub Scout Den Mother, church cleaning/receptions, blood drives, Parish Council, PTA president, Lourdes choir and volunteer PE teacher for 5-8 grade.

She and Bob remained living in the family home (Bob still there). A stroke on 17 April was irreversible. Subsequent decline took her from us on the 24th.

Ruth was preceded in death by her parents, Dr. Leo and Lilly (Froeling) Hoffmann; step-mom, Lindy (Haack) Hoffmann; siblings, Art, Jane, Phil, Math.

She is survived by Robert, husband of 71.5 years; sister, Ann; sis-in-law Helena; children, Bruce (Karen, Lori), Dan, Greg (Pat), Phil (Yayoi), Terese (David); grandchildren, Amy (Clint), Kristie (Rob), Matthew, Philip (Danielle), Isaac (Mary); great-grandkids, Ben, Abbie, Alyssa, Kaylee, Lucy and Milo.

Sylvester F. McNamara

Sylvester F. "Skeeter" McNamara, 96, of Kewaskum peacefully joined Jesus and his family in heaven on May 27, 2021.

Born in Cleveland, WI, on April 7, 1925, to the late Francis "Frank" and Anna (nee Schneider) McNamara, he was the youngest son and one of seven children on the Campbellsport family farm.

On April 28, 1956, Skeeter was joined in marriage to Ruth L. Bur-ckardt of Milwaukee. Ruth preceded Skeeter on April 30, 2015.

Skeeter learned how to work hard and care for others at an early age and loved shadowing his father who was an agricultural leader of strip farming in the area.

Caring for others was at Skeeter's core. He cared about family and friends and what they were doing and how he could help. Skeeter worked for 42 years at Regal Ware where he was a foreman. He was also a member of the Regal Ware 25 Year Club. But Skeeter also knew how to have fun. A jokester and teaser, he was ready to get the laughter started and kept it going. It was during one of his adventures that he met the love of his life, Ruth. Engaged and married not long after they welcomed daughter, Mary Lynne, and two years later, son Tommy.

Gardening, playing sheepshead, helping family, helping the community, and a knack for conversing with anyone were his trademarks. Skeeter's garden lettuce and tomatoes were family favorites. He and other members of his home parish, Holy Trinity in Kewaskum, spent many an hour refurbishing, building, painting numerous churches, rectory, and school projects. Those that spent time with him or had the chance of playing Sheepshead with him knew laughter. But Skeeter's main focus in later years was his grandson, Tyler. Proud to his core, his "best buddy" meant the world to him.

Keeping Skeeter's love, warmth, and memory alive are his daughter, Mary (James) Wittmann; grandson, Tyler (Shae) Wittmann; great-granddaughter, Aoife; and many nieces, nephews, and cousins.

Welcoming him to eternal life is his lovely Ruth and son, Tommy - who has been patiently waiting for his daddy. Also waiting to greet him are his in-laws, Adolph and Agnes (nee Dieringer) Burckardt; his siblings and their spouses, Lucille (Gene) Stanchfield, Patrick (Sylvia) McNamara, Gordon McNamara, John McNamara, Alice (Glen) Taylor, and Betty (Leo "Whitey") Otten; brother-in-law, Thomas Burckardt; and sister-in-law, Ethel (George) Schommer.

Visitation will be held at church on Saturday, June 19, 2021, from 9 a.m. to 10:45 a.m. The family requests attendees wear masks.

A Mass of Christian Burial in remembrance of Skeeter will be at 11 a.m. at Holy Trinity Catholic Church, 331 Main St, Kewaskum, WI, with Fr. Jacob Strand officiating. Burial will be at St. Matthews Cemetery in Campbellsport.

The service will be recorded and found on the funeral home website for those unable to attend, and a picture collage will also be provided online.

The Wittmann families thank the exceptional care given to Skeeter at St. Joe's Hospital and Kathy Hospice - special thanks to Piper and Jenny. Words cannot express how invaluable their support and care have been.

Myrhum-Patten Funeral & Cremation Service has been entrusted with Skeeter's arrangements. Please consider signing our online guest book (www.myrhum-patten.com) to share your condolences with the family. Cards addressed to the family may be sent in the care of Myrhum-Patten Funeral and Cremation Service, 1315 W. Washington Street, West Bend, WI, 53095.

Music In The Park To Begin Tuesday, June 15

The Kewaskum Area Arts Council is excited to announce the beginning of the 13th season of Music In The Park, with the Goodtime Dutchmen kicking off the new season on Tuesday, July 15.

For the first time, the Music In The Park season will feature eight nights of music, with different performers each week. All of the concerts are free and take place in the large shelter in River Hill Park in Kewaskum from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The Goodtime Dutchmen formed back in the 1990s by Ralph Thull and is a pure polka band. With Ralph leading on accordion, the saxophone player, the pianist, one of the trumpet players and the drummer are all members of the Thull family.

Ralph was raised with polka music, being the son of Bill Thull, whose orchestra recorded a number of polka albums from the 1950s into the 70s. The Dutchmen themselves have recorded several compact discs and play nearly every weekend all over the state. The Goodtime Dutchmen always draw a big crowd at Music In The Park and get folks out of their seats to dance.

The rest of the lineup for this year's concerts include:

- June 29- Eclectic Fred and Friends (variety)
- July 6- Downtowners (big band and swing, 50s and 60s rock, jazz and blues)
- July 13- Sunrays (eclectic oldies)
- July 20- Scotch and Soda (acoustic and American rock, classic, pop and eclectic rock)

- July 27- Community Open Mic! (for more information, contact christieeric35@gmail.com)
- August 10- The Verdict (classic rock)
- August 17- WhiskeyBelles (vintage country, original)

The Kewaskum Fire Fighter's Association starts selling concessions at 5:30 p.m. and the music begins at 6:30 p.m. This week the Kewaskum Women's Club will also be serving cookies and bars in the shelter area.

The Kewaskum Area Arts Council is dedicated to providing a safe and entertaining night out for all who attend and encourages everyone to follow the current CDC guidelines. Some picnic tables are available for seating, but the Arts Council recommends that audience members bring their own chairs.

The Kewaskum Area Arts Council organizes the Music In The Park series every year. All private or business donations of any amount, either specifically for Music In The Park or the Kewaskum Area Arts Council, are greatly appreciated.

This year's sponsors for Music In The Park are: Geidel's Piggly Wiggly, Kewaskum Kiwanis Club, Kewaskum Firefighters Association, Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce, Drexel Building Supply and Gerhartz Studio.

Other donations to the Kewaskum Area Arts Council or Music in the Park are greatly appreciated and can be placed in our donation bucket the night of the event or sent to P.O. Box 605.

KMS Students Accepted To State Music Groups

Kewaskum Middle School had four students accepted into the Middle Level Honors groups (band, orchestra, and choir).

The following students made the honors groups: Dan Zeman (alto sax) in the State Honors Band, Grace Lehner in the State Honors Choir, Grace Last (horn) in the State Honors Orchestra and Isaac Michlig (percussion) in the State Honors Band.

This marks the first time seventh-grade band students have been accepted from KMS (Isaac and Grace Last). Dan is the first saxophone player to be accepted from Kewaskum.

Students prepared and recorded difficult solos or etudes, scales and sight-reading material. The best music students from around the state competed for spots in these prestigious ensembles.

These hard-working, dedicated students will perform in October at the state music convention.

onto Main Street and continue to Firemen's Park.

Another change for the parade will be the lack of semi trailers. The new parade route has sharper corners and smaller neighborhood streets that the semis would have a hard time navigating. So for this year, no semis will be allowed in the parade.

The department also wanted to make it easier for everyone to send in their donations for the 2021 picnic. Rather than sending out a letter about this year's events, they will be sending a postcard to everyone with all the information on it and a QR code which is linked to information about all the events that are taking place July 2nd, 3rd, and 4th.

The department created a donation button on its website and a QR code on the posters so you can scan it and see all they have to offer this year. When you visit the website, click on the donation button at the top or bottom of the page and you will be directed to a page called Givebutter. There you will be able to select any amount you would like to donate. When you submit your amount, you will be immediately emailed a receipt. As always, the department will still accept donations that are mailed in.

Please keep checking the fire department's website for more information about the picnic and other events that they have for the public this year. Thanks again for your continued support of the Campbellsport Area Fire Association.

This is the tentative parade route for this year's Campbellsport Fourth of July Parade. With construction on Highway 67, the route had to be altered this year. It will start at St. Matthew's Parish and move south on Helena, then travel west on Spring Street and then north on Poplar to Main Street. The parade will then proceed on its normal route, west on Main Street to Firemen's Park. PHOTO SUBMITTED

Washington County Sheriff's Office Reports

Community Notification

The Washington County Sheriff's Office is releasing the following information pursuant to Wisconsin Statute 301.46(2m), which authorizes law enforcement agencies to inform the public of a sex offender's release when, in the discretion of the agency, the release of information will enhance public safety, awareness and protection. The individual who appears on this notification has been convicted of a sex offense. Further, his criminal history places him in a classification level which reflects a low potential to re-offend.

Drew T. Jacobs was scheduled to be released from prison on June 8. After his release he will reside at 1725 County Highway NN in the Town of Jackson. In 2016, Jacobs was convicted of Possession of Child Pornography. Jacobs will be on probation until June 14, 2031, and will be monitored closely by Wisconsin Department of Corrections (WI-DOC) Division of Community. Jacobs will have numerous rules and restrictions to follow including wearing a live tracking GPS unit. The GPS monitoring unit will have exclusion zones setup alerting WI-DOC if there is a violation of the exclusion zones rules.

This sex offender has served the prison sentence imposed on him by the courts. He is NOT wanted by law enforcement at this time. This notification is not intended to increase fear, but rather it is our belief that an informed public is a safer public.

Sex offenders have always lived in our communities; but it was not until the Sex Offender Registration and Community Notification Law was enacted that law enforcement was able to share this information with the community. More information can be located at <https://appsdoc.wi.gov/public/faq>

Questions can be directed to Probation/Parole Agent Rose Marie Baranek at 262-335-5665, Sex Offender Registration Specialist Gina Carney at 262-335-5665 or Sgt. Michael Hennes at 262-365-5054.

From Rome To Home

BY KARL MCCARTY
CONTRIBUTOR

Love can be interesting, but sometimes how it starts is very different than how it ends. There is a lot that meets the eye in 2021 that was foggy to Judy Bennot in 1964. The next two articles on what happened a half century ago examines the consequences of those events, and cover these extremes.

A Whirlwind Tour

Judy Bennot came from North Fond du Lac, but her life was shaped by her time in Rome. This never would have happened if she had not spent a year in San Francisco. As a nurse in the City by the Bay, she spent her free time watching freighters at Fisherman's Wharf, then got the idea with her friend, Alice Finer, to go ride one of those ships to Europe.

After a brief return to Wisconsin in 1964, Judy traveled on a Yugoslavian freighter during the Cold War. Yugoslavia was a communist country, but her trip out of New York was safe — albeit a strange experience. At first she roomed with a traveler from Czechoslovakia (another communist country), then the captain asked her to tend to a drunkard until she got to Casablanca.

Morocco is where Alice got off to go to Madrid to follow a Spaniard. "So that's where we split up." Judy was on her own when she landed in Naples, Italy, and days later she was in Rome — alone, young, innocent and excited.

She also had 800 dollars with her. It may seem like plenty of cash, and maybe it is. Adjusted for inflation, it is close to seven grand, but don't presume she was rich. A former aspirant at the convent, and devout Catholic, it was her dream to get to the Vatican. She did it with hard work, frugality, determination and risk.

It was all worth that first day in Rome when she stood at the bottom of the Spanish Steps, which Judy labeled a "BIG time" tourist attraction. By the time she got to the top of the famous staircase, she was so out of breath Salvator Mundi is a prestigious hospital located in Rome. This postcard from mid-century illustrates the elaborate facility. Then-North Fond du Lac native Judy Bennot worked here in 1964, in which she tended to bishops and cardinals during Vatican 2, a significant council which changed many traditions within the Roman Catholic Church. The hospital was so big they had a wing that was just for room and board for these religious leaders. The postcard describes it as a "villa," which can be used to describe a country house for the elite. Judging by Judy's experiences at the hospital, this word is an accurate definition.

that she could barely process the majesty of the church at the end (Santissima Trinità dei Monti). Soon she met the man who changed her life.

Meeting Mario

It is hard to beat the setting of those first moments she fell in love with an Italian. "Everything closes down from one to three. And I was sitting in a park, eating grapes. And he came up to me and just..." Judy paused with no words to describe as she struggled to explain how good he looked. The young man had unusually light skin for an Italian, and an uncanny youthful face. Judy had also heard from others that a man must be good if he talks about his mother so kindly; Mario revered his mother.

That first day she saw Mario was straight out of a movie. He took her to the biggest attractions. "At three o'clock, the Coliseum opened. It was wonderful. He had such a love of Rome, and we would walk along the Tiber River."

On another day, they went to the Vatican. She was staying at a five dollar-a-day hotel at the bottom of the Spanish Steps.

Did he speak good English?

"Fair. Somehow I musta understood him. He was so beautiful. Oh God, he was good looking." Then walking along the Tiber River he sang Arrivederci Roma.

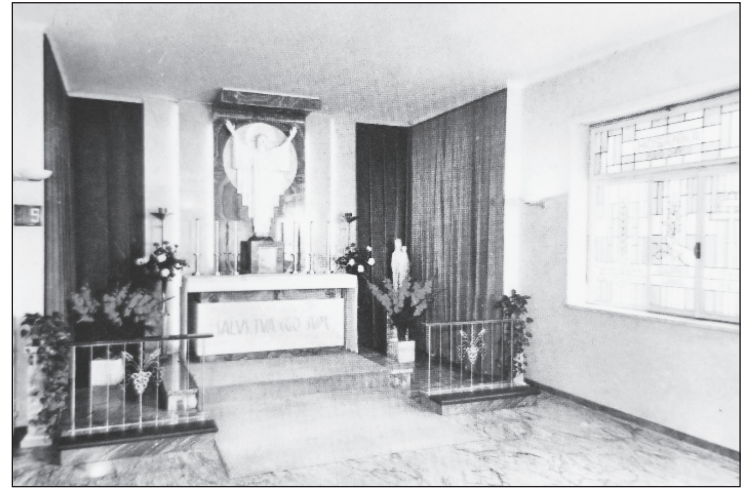

Then came the stern lecture in the interview. "Please tell me you've heard of that song?" I didn't know what she was talking about. After a disappointing "Awwhhh," in the middle of telling her love story, Judy admonished my lack of knowledge on Rome's hotspots. "St. Jude help this young man!" Arrivederci, Roma? "Arrivederci, Roma: very romantic."

So we got on the smartphone, and played Dean Martin's 1960s version on YouTube. "That's right when I was there." And as she listened to it play, the memories flowed.

And just like that we weren't in Rome and it was no longer 1964. I gave her my apologies when she didn't want to hear the music. "No. No. No," she said, as if she didn't need sympathy. "I don't know if he is alive yet. I hope that he is. Probably not. I'm gonna be 80."

But this part of the story focuses on the more pleasant memories of Rome.

Berlin To Salvator Mundi

"Salvator Mundi" has many meanings, but it always relates back to Jesus. Salvator Mundi's name stems from the Latin term for "Savior of the World." This includes iconic work of Jesus Christ depicted holding the earth in his hands. For example, the painting attributed to Leonardo da Vinci with the same name goes back to 500 years. Salvator Mundi is also the name of the hospital in Rome, whose chapel is pictured here.

When Judy met Mario, she was only in Rome for a few days. She went to Germany to check out the highlights, including Berlin. She had stability the whole time in Europe, she was safe, comfortable and traveling. Judy isn't sure how she retained communication with Mario while in Germany. But they connected in Venice. "Then I came back to Rome."

She soon found a job at Salvator Mundi International Hospital, which conveniently came with boarding. She was not a nurse, but rather answered to the beck 'n call of those who needed services. "I went back and worked with the cardinals and bishops from all over the world staying at Salvator Mundi during the second ecumenical council." She described her work as 'bringing 'em cokes.' The hospital wanted extra bodies to administer to Vatican II's religious leaders who stayed in a separate wing of the hospital.

She was now in a semi-permanent situation where she could work at the hospital, sight see in Rome and the Vatican, and connect more with Mario. It was during this second stint in Rome that she found out she was pregnant, courtesy of the excursion in Venice.

For background, understand that Judy's excitement for touring the area was surpassed only by the honor of working at the hospital in the mid-1960s. The cultural experience was surreal: the beauty of the city, the attractions uniquely closing mid-day, the historic architecture everywhere and the unique social norms like carafes of wine served with lunch. Then her job saw the intermingling of critical religious leaders that she tended too.

The timing was perfect. What better time to understand the international importance of Rome during Vatican II, which significantly altered traditions within the Roman Catholic Church. There are many leaders she met that endure in her recollections.

Vatican II Officials

One of those attending the council was a leader recently honored. Pope Paul VI presented this individual with a unique pastoral staff (Judy wasn't sure on the exact label of the honor) at a mass in Rome. This individual, who was not American but clearly in Rome for Vatican II, was boarding in Judy's wing of the hospital.

"He had his light on, so I answered it. And I saw the staff on his bed, and anyway — what I always remembered about him, was

This postcard (dated April 9, 1964) commemorates the Ecumenical Council meeting of 1962-1964. The council was opened in 1962 by Pope John XXIII to revamp the Roman Catholic Church. When he died, Pope John VI was chosen as his successor and oversaw the completion of what is better known as Vatican II. This image of St. Peter's Basilica shows where the leaders of the Catholic Church met.

Later in 1964, Judy Bennot saw the canonization of the Uganda Martyrs at this basilica. Using this postcard, she pointed near the vicinity of where she stood for the canonization (the left bottom corner of Pope VI's inset picture).

Because she tended to Vatican II attendees at Salvator Mundi Hospital, a leader in the Greek Orthodox Church gave her this ticket of a lifetime. "He loved me! He was the one that got me a pass for the canonization." She guessed because he was a leader of the Greek Orthodox that he was less interested in a Roman Catholic saint canonization ceremony. He got tickets because of his title, and he passed them on to her. It brings her back to her favorite saint Maria Goretti (canonized 1950). It was in books about her that Judy saw the only mother to see her daughter become a saint. "They show the mother sitting up in a booth, and then they drop a massive picture of the saint — of her daughter." In 1964, Judy experienced what such a ceremony was like.

JUNE DAIRY MONTH

Celebrate Wisconsin's Dairy Future This June

BY RANDY ROMANSKI
DATCP SECRETARY-DESIGNEE

In Wisconsin, June Dairy Month is certainly something to celebrate. Wisconsin's economic future and the long-term vitality of the state's dairy industry are intricately linked. Governor Tony Evers has made continued investment in our dairy industry a priority through his biennial budget proposals and a call for a legislative Special Session in 2020 to support dairy processing and increase dairy exports.

He has also encouraged the preservation of our rural communities through efforts like the Blue Ribbon Commission on Rural Prosperity. The Governor recognizes the importance of dairy to Wisconsin's heritage and economic well-being. I am proud of the Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection's (DATCP) work to serve as a resource to this critical industry as it looks to the future.

As we think about the future of our dairy industry, it's essential that we engage the next generation. In 2020, DATCP launched the Wisconsin Agriculture Youth Council. Each month, I had the opportunity to engage with the 15 council members as we discussed a variety of agricultural topics, including dairy. Their enthusiasm for agriculture and desire to advocate for the industry was continually inspiring to me.

I am also actively involved in the reinvigorated Wisconsin Agricultural Education and Workforce Development Council through the Wisconsin Department of Workforce Development. I am proud to serve alongside extremely knowledgeable and passionate members from across the agriculture industry, Wisconsin schools, and higher education as we discuss how to recruit and train agriculture's future workforce. The dairy industry, both on-farm and processing, contribute more than 157,000 jobs across the state.

Randy Romanski

There are many opportunities for these workers at Wisconsin dairy businesses, which are great contributors in their local communities and some of which are internationally known. The state has invested hundreds of thousands of dollars in dairy processor grants, which DATCP administers directly to dairy processing plants to foster innovation and improve profitability. Recognizing the important opportunities these grants provide, Governor Evers has proposed increasing the amount of available funding.

Wisconsin is also fortunate to be home to the Dairy Business Innovation Alliance (DBIA), a partnership between the Center for Dairy Research (CDR) and the Wisconsin Cheese Makers Association (WCMA), to develop and administer programs providing technical assistance as well as grants to dairy farms and businesses. Dairy-related businesses are benefitting from webinars, grants, and additional resources to contribute to their continuing success.

The future of Wisconsin's dairy industry also depends on research. The state is investing annually in the Dairy Innovation Hub, which was originally created in Governor Evers' 2019-2021 biennial budget. The Hub aims to support dairy research and development at the University of Wisconsin campuses in Madison, Platteville, and River Falls. By focusing on four priority areas of stewarding land and water resources, enriching human health and nutrition, ensuring animal health and welfare, and growing farm businesses and communities, the industry is well positioned to meet current challenges and take advantage of future opportunities.

Research through the Dairy Innovation Hub and the Center for Dairy Research will allow Wisconsin's dairy industry to develop new products to meet the demands of customers around the world. Just last year, despite the challenges presented by COVID-19, trade disruptions, and other factors, Wisconsin's exports of dairy-related products increased more than 10 percent to $263.4 million. Our dairy-related products are destined for countries around the world, and working together, we can meet the need of each unique marketplace.

While the past year has undoubtedly had a lasting impact on the dairy industry, I hope in June we can all look forward with optimism for the dairy industry. The entire dairy supply chain, from the farmer to the processor to the distributor to the point of sale, are all connected. During Dairy Month, I hope Wisconsinites across the state will take a moment to recognize the great contributions of Wisconsin dairy to our state's heritage, economy, and, most importantly, our future. Among the many things we have learned from the members of the Wisconsin Agriculture Youth Council, one thing is very clear: the future of Wisconsin agriculture is strong.

Visit DATCP's website to learn more about how the agency serves as a resource to Wisconsin's $45.6 billion dairy industry. Happy June Dairy Month!

Pull into the farm, roll down your windows and smell the country air as you travel through a special route on this modern dairy farm. This is no ordinary drive-thru event. It's Dairy Destination!

This one-of-a-kind tour will provide seven farm stations throughout the tour — including a drive down the middle of a 600 cow barn. Get a sneak peek in the milking parlor and see how this farm operates to conserve and protect soil and water. You will be greeted by the Sunset Farm Families while you hear their story.

Sunset Farms is located at 6600 Sunset Drive, Allenton. Dairy Destination is hosted by Washington County Dairy Promotion Committee and its many dairy industry sponsors.

Did You Know? The Origins Of Ice Cream

If the 1927 song "I Scream, You Scream, We All Scream for Ice Cream" by Howard Johnson, Billy Moll and Robert A. King is correct, then the world has been a noisy place for quite some time. Though the exact origins of ice cream are unknown, historians agree this popular treat has been around for a very, very long time.

The International Dairy Foods Association says the origins of ice cream may reach as far back as the second century B.C. Though he wasn't around back then, the fifth Roman Emperor Nero, who ruled from 54 to 68 A.D., might have been so fond of iced treats that he routinely sent runners into the Apennine Mountains to retrieve snow that he would then flavor with fruits and juices.

That tale might be apocryphal, but there's no denying ice treats have been enjoyed for a long time. And based on a 2018 report from Grand View Research, Inc. that projected the global ice cream market would reach roughly $79 billion by 2025, it's fair to say ice cream will remain popular for a long time to come as well.

What Dairy Does For You And Your Body

A balanced diet that's rich in nutrients is a key component of a healthy lifestyle. Nutritious diets include fruits and vegetables, but a truly well-rounded diet also includes dairy.

The Dairy Council notes that dairy products are good sources of calcium and vitamin D, giving them a well-earned reputation as nutrient-rich products worthy of inclusion in healthy diets. Dairy products are more than just milk. In fact, the United States Department of Agriculture notes that low- or reduced-fat cheeses and yogurts can provide a host of vitamins and nutrients for those who want to include dairy in their diets without pouring themselves a glass of milk.

The effects of dairy on the body are numerous, and the following are just some of the ways that the various nutrients and vitamins in dairy can have a positive impact on you and your body.

Calcium

Various dairy products, including low-fat milk, yogurt and cottage cheese, are rich in calcium. The USDA notes that the body uses calcium to build bones and teeth and maintain bone mass. That can help people lower their risk for osteoporosis, a potentially debilitating condition characterized by brittle, fragile bones that are vulnerable to injury due to tissue loss.

Vitamin D

Dairy products that are fortified with vitamin D can help to build and maintain healthy bones. Milk, soy milk and certain yogurts and cereals are among the products that may be fortified with vitamin D. It's important to note that people can overdo it in regard to vitamin D.

In fact, a 2010 study published in The Journal of the American Medical Association found that intake of very high doses of vitamin D among older women was linked to more falls and fractures. That's something to consider for people considering vitamin D supplements, which have become widely popular in recent years. Such supplements should be discussed with a physician, who may just advise those concerned about their vitamin D intake to consume more low-fat dairy products.

Potassium

According to the USDA, certain dairy products can be great sources of potassium. The organization notes that milk and yogurt have more potassium and less sodium than cheeses. Diets that include sufficient potassium have been linked to healthy blood pressure.

Fruits and vegetables may be the first foods people think of when crafting healthy eating habits. But dairy products also make great, nutrient-rich additions to any diet.

Did You Know? Which Ice Cream Flavor Is The Favorite

Foods don't get much more coveted than a scoop or two of delicious ice cream on a hot day. Ice cream comes in scores of different flavors. Just ask Baskin Robbins®, which has long touted its own 31 flavors — a different flavor for every day of the month of July.

Even though there seems to be a flavor for everybody these days, certain palate-pleasers remain more popular than others. According to an August 2019 survey conducted by ProdegeMR, a provider of people-driven insights for the market research industry, chocolate was consumers' preferred ice cream flavor in Canada, with 23 percent of survey respondents indicating it was their favorite.

The International Dairy Foods Association indicates that Americans favor a different flavor of ice cream. In the United States, vanilla is the flavor of choice, perhaps because vanilla goes with everything and can enhance so many other desserts and treats. As popular as vanilla ice cream is, cookies and cream is being scooped up more and more, and is the most popular flavor in 14 different states.

Check It Out!

LORI KREIS
KEWASKUM LIBRARIAN

We camped over the Memorial Day long weekend. For me that included real vacation time, so I planned to be out there six days instead of three.

The first day we spent was midweek and my husband took the day off with me. I was technically working, I had meetings and other work to get done but with the magnificent weather that day, it was not a hardship setting up my laptop on a picnic table outside in the warm sunshine. It was a perfect day, not only because of the weather but the campground was uninhabited, just a handful of campers were there. It was quiet and relaxing. And that was the end of that.

The next two days were forecast to be cold and rainy. We chose to go home when we woke; my husband went to work and I stayed a little bit longer to close down the camper and secure our belongings. When I got home, I realized that I left the awning out but figured it would be fine. It would keep the chairs under it dry. I did make sure the garbage barrel was zipped and secured under the camper. When we were there in April, our barrel had blown away, never to be found.

After a day and a half of a cold rainy vacation spent at home, I went back to the campground, hoping to set up, maybe start a fire, get ready for my husband to join me after work. The first thing I noticed was the lines of campers waiting to register. I had a car tag that let me fly through them, well at 10 mph. There were people, loads and loads of people setting up tents, leveling campers, riding bikes, walking, sitting at campfires. It was crowded and more were coming in.

The next thing I observed when I got to our site was the awning. Half of it was still hanging out with the other half smashed against the trailer. It was covering the entrance door, making it nearly impossible to get in and unpack my bags. If you know me in person, I am not a tall person and I could not easily reach the awning to move it out of the way. After several tries, I managed to prop the door a few inches and could get my bags in. I was even able to squeeze myself in, which was not easy. However, once I was in, I was not going to venture out while the door was still blocked.

It was a long two-hour wait for my husband to get there but when he did, he miraculously got the awning back out and it was not damaged. He said we should put a note on the door to retract the awning, but I know I will never forget. That was just the start of our unforgettable Memorial Day weekend of camping.

Hope to see you soon.

I've Got The Music In Me

This summer looks a little different compared to last summer when most things were shut down and live music was hard to find. This summer has an abundance of concerts and music festivals around the area and state. I compiled a little summer calendar for you with some of my favorite bands and venues.

This weekend there is plenty of bands at the annual Walleye Weekend at Fond du Lac's Lakeside Park. Friday night is the popular Boogie & the Yo-Yo'z, Saturday has a ton of good music including one of my favorites Driftwood. On Sunday one of Wisconsin's legendary bands Vic Ferrari will be taking the stage.

For the local readers you can catch Driftwood on June 19th at the Roadhouse in Dundee and Riding Shotgun will be performing at 2fer's Sports Bar in Eden on June 26th. Don't forget there's also music every Monday night at Buttermilk Park in Fondy including Liquid Courage on June 21st. On Thursday nights, you can head to West Bend and watch some great acts perform as part of their Music on Main series. The Thelma Center in Fond du Lac also has music every Thursday night during the summer, this is a great venue to take in some live music.

July is an action packed month for live music. On July 3rd, the band Nix will be performing at the Campbellsport Firemen's Picnic. The Hodag Country Music festival in Rhinelander is one of my favorite stops during the summer, their line-up this year is outstanding! Travis Tritt is Thursday, July 8, Brett Eldredge headlines Friday night, Darius Rucker on Saturday night, and Locash closes out the festival on Sunday.

The Fond du Lac and Washington County Fairs also provide some great music in July. Roots & Boots, Daughtry, and Chris Jansen are the big shows at the Fond du Lac Fair while Washington County in West Bend has a couple big country acts in Lanco (July 22) and Brantley Gilbert (July 24). A couple of other notable acts in July are The Mavericks on July 17th at the Thelma Center and Rocker on July 24th at 2fer's in Eden.

August starts with a bang as the Dweller's will be performing Friday, July 30, for the Eden Firemen's Picnic and Driftwood will rock the village the following night. Some big time concerts take place in Milwaukee with the mega-concert of Motley Crew/Def Leppard/Poison/Joan Jett at American Family Field on August 28. Maroon 5 will be making a stop to the American Family Insurance Amphitheater on August 9th.

The Wisconsin State Fair is loaded with great concerts this summer. Billy Idol on the 8th, Foreigner and Asia on the 10th, Brothers Osborne on the 11th, The Beach Boys on the 14th, and Hank Williams Jr. plays on the 15th of August.

One of my favorite venues to visit every summer is the Leach Amphitheater in Oshkosh as they host the summer series called Waterfest every Thursday night. On my hit list this summer is Hairball on June 17, America (celebrating their 50th year) on August 5, and on August 26th it will be the music of Boston and Journey with Road Trip opening up for them.

If you like wine and music, SoLu Winery in Cascade is your fix. on June 20th they have the band 33 RPM, Tony Rocker (an Elvis impersonator) plays June 26, the Love Monkeys perform on August 15 and 52nd Street (a tribute to Billy Joel) will be rocking on August 29th. A couple of miscellaneous concerts that I might have to check out are Alabama (celebrating their 50th year together) on August 27th in Madison and Hall & Oates in Milwaukee on the 28th of August.

Bucket List

I will admit that my column writing counterpart, Mark Peterson, inspired me to write this column. Thanks, Marko! I had not given a great deal of thought to a bucket list, but here it goes.

I would love to visit the Pro Football Hall of Fame, the National Baseball Hall of Fame, and the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame. I guess that could be considered three items, but for the sake of brevity, it is just one listing.

I would really enjoy visiting the historic cities of the northeastern United States. Washington D.C., Boston, Philadelphia and New York City. I am generally not a "big city" person, but would like to visit these and see some of the historical sites.

I would also like to visit the "left coast" of the United States. While I am not necessarily interested in Los Angeles, I would like to visit anywhere along the Pacific — California, Oregon, or Washington. The last time I was there, I was six months old. My memory is just a tad bit foggy on that experience.

Going back to the sports theme, I would like to see a football game in each Big Ten stadium. I can count these off my list — Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Michigan State, Purdue, Indiana and Minnesota. Minnesota was while they played in the Metrodome, so I would like to see a game at TCF Bank Stadium. Now to get to Nebraska, Northwestern, Illinois, Ohio State, Penn State, Rutgers, and Maryland. I am half way there!

Last, but not least, I would like to go to Europe and visit the family of an exchange student we had live with us 16 years ago. I have been to Europe once — the summer before 9/11 changed world travel. We did a tour of seven nations in 16 days. It was a whirlwind, but an experience I will never forget. I would like to see many of those places again, and experience more of their wonderful food.

I hope you all have not found these bucket list items too boring. I am not one to list an item like sky diving or bungee jumping. If I have not done those by this point in my life, I am probably not going to be looking to do them.

Thanks for your inspiration for this column, Marko!

that he wanted a Coca Cola. And I thought, 'You just got this magnificent thing from a Pope, and he's asking me for a damn Coca Cola! It just floored me. Everything did.'

Then there was this elderly monsignor from America. "And he asked me to darn his socks. And I darned 'em. And he put his light on, and he said, 'This is awful. I will show you how to darn.'" Judy described what became an obnoxious process. The monsignor had a hole in his stocking, and Judy's attempt to fix was a disappointment. It's not that he necessarily yelled at her, but he was a "pain in the butt."

There was another leader whose name she couldn't remember, but is at the top of her list of kind people. He was from the Greek Orthodox Church who also came for the ecumenical council and stayed at Salvator Mundi during Judy's tenure, "And he really, really liked me for whatever reason."

So we looked at pictures of Athenagoras I, who met with the Pope Paul VI in Jerusalem in 1964 to heal the divisions in the Roman Catholic and Greek Orthodox churches. We also looked at Archbishop Lakvos, the American Greek Orthodox leader who marched with Martin Luther King in Selma. Neither of these men were the Greek Orthodox leader Judy served in Rome, but this man at Salvator Mundi was high up in the Greek Orthodox Church and was "in that garb" of Athenagoras I and Archbishop Iakvos. Bishops, Archbishops and other leaders of the churches came upon Rome.

In the case of the "Greek Orthodox fellow," he was "BIG, BIG, BIG Time!" she said, noting they called him a patriarch. He really liked Judy, "And he had to have spoken English, because he brought me the ticket to the canonization." Judy was a former aspirant who always remembered the images of her favorite saint, Saint Maria Goretti, being canonized in 1950 and the banner dropped in honor of the new saint. Now Judy herself got to see a canonization for the Uganda Martyrs in October of 1964.

There is one person she could name specifically who boarded at the hospital: Rev. Jerome Hastrich. "I became real good friends with a bishop from Madison and young man that he brought from Wisconsin, who was studying to be a priest. They were living there also."

Judy connected with Hastrich over Wisconsin and age: "He was definitely younger than most of the bishops that were there. He spoke English, and I spoke English, and I waited on him." She recalls kidding with the Bishop, who even met Mario. "He took me under his wing and when he met Mario, he said 'oh, he looks so young.' And I said, 'Father, he's as old as I am.'"

Mario did have a baby face, Judy can't recall if she confided to the bishop that she was pregnant. Hastrich was the type that it probably wouldn't have mattered. When Judy came back to Wisconsin, she saw the young student's first mass as an ordained priest. Hastrich eventually moved and became a bishop in New Mexico.

Questions

This is where Judy's story gets difficult to process, because as Judy was taking in Rome this second time she had to contemplate how to handle her pregnancy. Thus, although her European travels were a highlight of her life, serious pressures surfaced.

Most important was her Catholic upbringing. Four years earlier she was an aspirant at the convent. What would people say when she got home? Should she marry this guy? And if so, should she stay in Italy? How was she going to tell her parents? And when should she tell them?

All of these questions were on her mind, besides feelings of whether she was ready for motherhood. On top of that is the consideration on whether she knew everything Mario claimed to be, or if she — in hindsight and over five decades later — was interpreting context clues correctly in 1964.

The Family Dinner

Here's an example of those mix feelings at the time of working at Salvator Mundi. A flashback jumped out while reflecting on Rome: there was Mario's brother, Judy Bennot sits comfortably at her home in Fond du Lac. Her life was largely shaped by her time in Europe in the 1960s. She would see Rome, go to Berlin, come back to Rome to work then marry. This was all before heading back to the US with a baby in the womb. The consequences coming out of that trip range from risk and reward to excitement and terror.

who was a Fascist that somehow got a hold of Judy and invited her to dinner. But the details were odd. "Mario was wherever. Maybe in a hospital? He was not around." Somehow Mario's brother picked Judy up at Salvator Mundi, but that brother didn't know any English. Actually, "nobody did" in the family, Judy said. A conclusion she figured out by the final destination of a small apartment in an apparent high-rise outside Rome.

Mario's mom was at the table; Mario's dad was not. She recalled other details of those quirky recollections which in life are unforgettable: "They did not have a refrigerator." And Mario's "magnificently, beautiful, two sisters were there, with their big chunky babies," who were given wine in a bottle. "That I observed," she was certain. That is how Judy met her future in-laws over an Italian meal. "The spaghetti was delicious."

Was she scared? "No." Really, never in Judy's Rome stories does she seem worried about her safety. But she goes back to Mario, who wasn't even there the night she met the family: "He musta been in the hospital at that time. I don't know where the hell he was. And I don't know why I don't know where he was."

The Spanish Steps (pictured here in an early 1900s postcard) is special to Judy because it reminds her of the first days she spent in Rome. Her hotel was nearby this historic stairway built in the 1720s. "I remember, I was alone at this time before I met Mario." She was out of breath by the time she got up the stairs, and then immediately went up to this church, but was so tired. "And I thought, 'oh my gosh, this is awful.'" Here she wanted to appreciate the beauty of the church known as Santissima Trinità dei Monti, but she was gasping for air. She also remembers standing at the bottom of the Spanish Steps with that feeling she had arrived: "Oh my God, I'm in Rome!" She had just checked into a five-dollar-a-day hotel, and was thrilled. This was a good price to pay in 1964, and adjusts to 42 dollars after 2021 inflation. Judy went to Europe with 800 dollars; she came back to the U.S. an expecting mother, 500 dollars, and eventually a husband.

Supposedly he was in the 'service stationed somewhere.' Did she believe that he was really 'stationed somewhere?' "I did then," she answers with resignation to the fact that Mario's background wasn't adding up. In hindsight, clearly he was not "stationed."

However, this is 1964 and Judy's an expecting mother. Apparently Mario's family knew it by then. "Anyway, we had dinner. The brother must have taken me back to Salvator Mundi, and then whenever I met up with Mario, we decided to get married."

The whole process to an outsider is concerning. It would have been nice for Mario to say something but he didn't even come dinner, his brother had to drive yet couldn't speak English, and dad must have approved of it but didn't even show up. And this was the family Judy was going to join — perhaps even stay to live with in Italy.

On the face, this might seem odd, but younger critics might not understand the social expectation of marrying the father of your baby in 1964, even if details were not adding up. Sadly, Judy recalls Mario's mother even asked her on the day of the wedding (November 27), if the baby was Mario's.

Back Home

Generally speaking, her first trimester was in Rome, the second trimester was in Florida, and the last trimester was in Fond du Lac. Judy did not fly over to America with Mario. "When I was working at Salvator Mundi, I had the opportunity to come back to the United States. A gal broke her hip in the Sistine Chapel, so I flew with her to Florida, and was her caregiver for a few months."

Judy spent time around a place called Hollywood, but her experience was anything but. Besides the stress of getting her husband to America and wondering what motherhood was going to be like, Judy had a bullhead to take care of. As it was approaching the 1964 holiday season, a neighbor of the patient was going to give Judy a Christmas tree. Judy's patient rejected the notion: "She never let her daughter have a Christmas tree; she sure wasn't going to let me have one."

The care was extensive: "I had to cook and clean and do everything for her, and she wet the bed often. Yea, I worked hard." When she got ready to leave, Judy recalled the patient said, "I will pay you when my accountant gets everything in order." And of course she never paid." Judy is sure she paid her own way home on the train to Wisconsin. That being said, Judy isn't bitter about the Florida woman. One gets the sense in her decades of caring for oth-

Fond du Lac had a history of being the hometown for its Congressman. John Race was a Democrat from Fond du Lac who unseated William Van Pelt (a Republican from the same city) during Lyndon Johnson's 1964 Democratic wave against Barry Goldwater. Race served one term from 1965 to 1967, and lost to William Steiger, who died of a heart attack and was replaced by Tom Petri. The current position is held by Glenn Grothman.

Race played a pivotal role in Judy Bennot's life. He worked feverishly to get Judy's husband Mario into America from Italy, and she credits the congressman's deliberate actions in making sure Judy and her daughter Marie could be united with Mario in Fond du Lac.

On the face of it, Judy said Rep. Race "did a good job." Mario was sent over, and it was a relatively fast procedure.

ers at their end of life, she is well aware that not everyone is gracious as their body deteriorates. That being said, the woman paid for her way from Rome to Florida. But she wasn't the friendliest: "She was a tough cookie."

Meanwhile, as she was serving this cold personality, Judy was wondering if her husband would see the birth of their child. In order to get Mario to come over to the United States, Judy wrote to her congressmen, John Race.

By the time the diplomacy and immigration papers were finished and Mario arrived to Wisconsin, her baby Maria was weeks old. She was born in Fond du Lac, and Judy lived with her parents as she tried to figure things out. When shown a picture of Rep. Race, Judy said, "Yea. He really did his work.

Probably too well. But he did his work." Mom and dad worked with him, Judy never saw the Congressman because she was in Florida. "I don't know if my mother and dad met him and talked, or if everything was over the phone." Judy paused and added, "Knowing my dad, I would guess that they met with him, but I am not sure."

She is appreciative, but it is ironic. Her comment "too well" might be a reference that Rep. Race worked very hard, but the resolution to the diplomatic problem was not the best looking back years later. At the time, Judy and her family were happy to get Mario to come to America. A year later it was a different story, because if the research would have been strenuous, U.S. officials would have concluded Mario should not have been allowed in the country.

After earning All Star-IRA fast qualifier honors with a top lap of 11.357 seconds and winning the first All Star-IRA four-lap dash, Bill Balog earned the pole position for the evening's 30-lap headline event.

Balog, who is competing in his first full season as an All Star Circuit of Champions regular this year, held on to collect his first career All Star Circuit of Champions A-main victory by a comfortable six-second margin in the caution-free race to claim the $6,000 winner's prize.

Ian Madsen of St. Mary's New South Wales, Australia, nipped Abreu for second, Rico Abreu of St. Helena, Calif., took third, Spencer Bayston of Lebanon, Ind., wound up fourth and All Star Circuit of Champions point leader Tyler Courtney of Indianapolis, Ind., who started sixth, came home fifth.

In the 25-lap PDTR 360 Sprint Car A-main, polesitter Kevin Karnitz of West Bend grabbed the lead on the opening lap with outside front row starter Tony Wondra of Campbellsport sliding into second in the early going.

Travis Arenz went on to claim his fifth career PDTR 360 Sprint Car main event triumph and 14th career Midwest Sprint Car Association A-main victory in the non-stop event. Brandon McMullen of Oshkosh placed second, 2011 PDTR 360 Sprint Car champ Ben Schmidt of Howards Grove, who started eighth, finished third, Karnitz wound up fourth and Wondra rounded out the top five.

Jordan Goldesberry of Springfield, Ill. won the 12-lap All Star-IRA B main and Will Gerrits of Waupun captured the 15-lap PDTR 360 Sprint Car B main.

The all-Sprint Car event, which was sponsored by JDL Automotive, drew a near capacity crowd of spectators, along with a total of 68 Sprint Cars, including 36 All Star-IRA 410 Sprint Cars and 32 PDTR 360 Sprint Cars.

PDTR action is scheduled to resume on Saturday, June 12 with action in the PDTR 360 Sprint Car, Late Model, Grand National and B Mod divisions. Grandstand gates open at 4:30 p.m. with hot laps at 5:30 p.m. and racing at 6 p.m.
