Scouting Fun In The Wild West

BY ANNE TRAUTNER
JOURNALIST

The wild west came to Wisconsin this past weekend as a special Scouting event was held at Pioneer Village in Saukville.

"It's been great. The weather has been very cooperative; we are very fortunate. Pioneer Village is a beautiful site, and the staff has been wonderful," said Jess Medinger, who chaired the event for the Kewaskum Cub Scouts.

Altogether, about 140 Scouts came from across the area to attend the event on Saturday, June 19. There were 67 Cub Scouts and 74 Scouts from Scouts BSA who attended the Bay-Lakes Council activity. In addition, because Scouting involves the entire family, about 50 adults were in attendance as well, helping wherever they were needed.

With a "Wild, Wild West" theme, the Cub Scouts participated in fun "Old West" activities while the older Scouts worked on merit badges. They could be seen roping "cattle" made of wood, going through an obstacle course on (wooden) horses, competing in tug-of-war, branding leather and making ice cream. They even panned for "gold" and precious stones, although some found even better treasures.

"I see a little slug!" exclaimed Jonathan

Plans Set For Annual Campbellsport Firemen's Picnic And Parade

After a year off because of the COVID-19 pandemic, the Campbellsport Fire Department's (CFD) picnic and parade is back in 2021. The celebration will be held over Independence Day weekend — July 2-4.

This is a tradition embedded in most area residents' memories as much as the rolling hills that surround this quaint village. Fireworks, food, music, and the large parade are just a few of the traditions passed down from generation to generation.

People from all over the state flock to this area to celebrate the Fourth of July and to support the

Many of the great traditional events, such as the waterfights, the fine entertainment and the parade, will be back this year.

The events kick-off on Friday night, July 2, with a traditional Wisconsin Friday night fish fry. They will serve fish starting at 4 p.m., while supplies last.

Make sure you buy your ticket before the event or get their early before everything is gone. You can purchase your advanced tickets at National Exchange Bank, True Value, Kohn's BP, King Pin

Campbellsport Fire Association Changes Parade Route

The 2020 Campbellsport Area Fire Association picnic was cancelled due to the Coronavirus pandemic, but the picnic is back on in 2021. Members of the fire department are working on the finishing touches for the event.

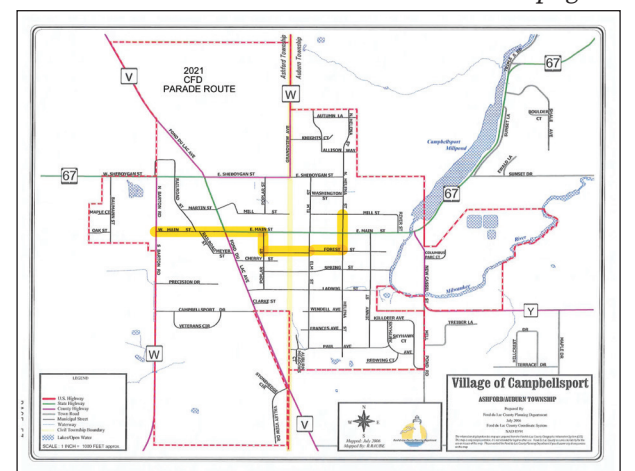

The biggest change to note this year is the parade route. With the road construction project on Main Street in Campbellsport, the route needed to be changed for the 2021 event.

A final parade route has been approved. The first alternative route that was planned was changed because of the hill on Spring Street. Some thought this might be a bit steep on a hot summer day for those walking in the parade.

The final plan for the parade is to start in its normal spot (by St. Matthew's Parish) and travel south on Helena Street. It will then turn west on Forest Street to Poplar Street. The route will then go north on Poplar to Main Street where it will turn south onto Main Street and continue to Firemen's Park.

Because of this alternative route, semi trailers will be not be allowed in the parade. The new route has sharper corners and smaller neighborhood streets that will cause semis to have a hard time navigating. So for this year, no semis will be

PUBLISHER'S LETTER

The Quest For Virtue

Dear Reader,

Recently I read a new edition of Marcus Aurelius's "Meditations," a collection of his private thoughts written to aid in his personal growth and self-discipline. Aurelius was a Roman Emperor and Stoic philosopher, or as Plato would have called him, a "philosopher-king." The book long has been a favorite of mine, so when a new translation by Robin Waterfield was released, I jumped on it.

"Meditations" continues to attract a broad readership, not least because of the glimpse it gives into Rome's golden era, but also because of the unmistakable sincerity and earnestness of Aurelius's journey to improve his self-discipline in word and deed. Aurelius wrote about his internal struggles with the many trials and distractions of his outward worldly life, using the tenets of Stoicism to help him determine what was truly important.

Our "command center," as Aurelius calls it, gives us control of our actions to do good or bad within this tiny flash of time on a microscopic dot in this very large universe. Striving for legacy is unnecessary since the immensity of time and the impermanence of all things do not allow for fame beyond a generation or two. Even the strongest memories fade, and renown is fleeting and evanescent. Instead, our happiness and peace of mind depend on fulfilling our virtuous potential in a God-guided world. To do this, we must take appropriate actions when necessary and remain indifferent to almost all else.

Though written long ago, Aurelius's thoughts are relevant to our choices in this modern world. Like him, we all are on a quest for virtue with varying conditions and challenges. At the end of the day, we have to make the best of our circumstances and not worry about things out of our control, seeking always to be a good steward of whatever we have materially and whoever we influence spiritually. The ongoing quest for self-perfection through virtuous acts is an elusive one seemingly achieved only by saints. But there is hope; as Oscar Wilde said, "...every saint has a past, and every sinner has a future."

Rural Writes

BY G.A. SCHEINOHA
CONTRIBUTOR

When you're a country kid, you don't need to actually live on a farm. It's enough just to hear the landlord's sons rumble by on a tractor, the snort of the exhaust, clomp of knobby tires stirring a cloud of dust on the driveway past to the barn.

Raised near agriculture, you quickly grasp reality. These are the crops of summer. Whether the tender leaves, blooming almost overnight into riotous green stalks; tall corn or the first of several harvests; stubbly as a five-day-shadow alfalfa shoots.

Riding across a patchwork country landscape, the golden squares of oat fields checkerboarded with soy, corn or alfalfa, there isn't any smell better than the waft of fresh mown hay. Never mind that a snootful will bring on allergies and sinus headaches.

Back in the day, this was the earliest employment for teens scratching for a few dollars. During the haying season, even a stayover visit to a friend's house spelled lending a helping hand.

Whether up in the loft, rising with each layer of stacked bales or muscling them onto the elevator for the ascent, it was sweaty, vigorous, arm wearying but satisfying labor.

No more. Nowadays, the hay is rolled into those huge round bales that are placed at field's edge and covered with plastic or giant squares too heavy for two men to lift, again left in tarpaulined piles outdoors until needed.

Another event from years ago is the reason why. Too green hay, not dried enough on the ground before storage meant barn fires. Destroying not only forage but also barns and often, livestock as well.

Still, I miss seeing farm boys working those wagons, the shoomp! of the baler hurling the squares, while driving by. Call it nostalgia, what you will.

Been there, done that. Besides, a lick or two of good hard work never hurt anyone.

A Complicated Stabbing

BY KARL MCCARTY
CONTRIBUTOR

Even Judy Bennot probably thinks she should be dead. Her husband stabbed her between 30 and 60 times on January 17, 1966. Thirty, because that's what the Fond du Lac Reporter published. Sixty, because that's what mom said.

The trauma of the event effects Judy's accuracy of the number. Her health status at the time was much more concerning than the details of the crime. The main event shaping Judy's life happened in Fond du Lac near South Street and the high school football field, but the scene today is a parking lot. Time has not paved over the confusion the event caused.

The Stabbing

It all started in their apartment, where the struggling family of Mario, Judy and their baby Maria lived. Mario was watching some detective show, and he had just lost his job painting.

"He started acting funny because my mother and dad wanted to find out what was going on with him. They drove us down to the Italian Consulate in Chicago on the 16th of January." Judy doesn't know what mom and dad found out: "I don't know. I can't answer of that. I wish I did." All came home to Fond du Lac, but the digging in Chicago got Mario wondering and worried.

There's one important coincidence to January 17th. This is because Judy came home the night before and she sat her hair in rollers. "Never in my life had I set my hair in rollers." The next morning, Chicago was on Mario's pressured mind and he was acting different. Judy was feeding Maria, "And he went into the knife drawer and got this unbelievable knife and he started, and I took her to the living room and sat on the floor, and she was crying. And they [stabs] just kept so much on my head — on these rollers." And that's the oddity of the stabbing: "The rollers protected me."

But Mario was "stabbing me on my head. That's where he started." Then he kept up the attack. "The face — which is still numb in parts today. The arm of course. Legs. Uterus." For some reason unknown, Mario avoided stabbing her chest.

Having set Maria out of the way, Judy went down herself. As she was leaning against the couch, she tried to get Mario to calm down. "I can remember it just as if it was five minutes ago. And, 'course I'm really bleeding, and I said, 'I'll be so proud of you if you go to the phone and dial 'O', and call for help.' And I kept repeating that."

As Judy was in shock with the loss of the blood, Mario took his knife, and "a couple of times, just superficially stabbed himself." Despite his own pain, Mario dialed for the operator. "In the meantime, I'm leaning there, and my little girl is crying, and I'm saying, 'I've got to make an Act of Contrition.' And I did. And I knew I wasn't going to die after that."

She paused and reaffirmed: "I knew I wasn't going to die."

She recited the Act of Contrition as she was taught in the 1960s. "Oh my god, I'm heartily sorry for having offended thee, because I dread the loss of heaven and the pains of hell, but most of all because they offend thee — my God, who are all good and deserving of all my love." There was a special feeling at that moment in January 1966. "Ooh!" she said, as if that energy came back during the interview. She can only define the moment of that spirit connection as one which "gives you strength." She remembers her intent of the prayer was not for Mario to call the am-balance. Judy was praying for her own soul, because at this point, "I thought I was going to die." But when she said her Act of Contrition, she realized she was going to live. She recalled that once Mario called the operator, "they must have asked who this is, 'cause I know he said it in Italian, 'To-da-ro.' That's all I remember is the Italian roll off his tongue."

How long the ordeal was is a guess. Judy's grandson Jack took the time to research and collect Fond du Lac Reporter articles on the crime. It appears there was a longer than usual lag time between the emergency run versus when the call was made because the city ambulance was occupied, so the county ambulance came. Soon a neighbor(s) came over and got Maria, and Judy's mom and dad were called. Judy never saw Mario again.

What was left is 55 years of reflection. Over the course of five interviews, Judy had few conclusions on the lessons of the tragedy, but she underestimates her intelligence. The following are some important takeaways from Judy's story.

Prayer Works

Ironically with the first point, one would think that the stabbing left Judy's to question her faith. In contrast, it strengthened it. Clearly the Act of Contrition worked. Just the fact that she lived could be a miracle. And she would conclude it was a miracle that she had curlers in her hair the only time of her life, a coincidence that saved her brain from being sliced.

Judy is the type of person that it is an honor when she says she'll pray for you, and you know the offer will be carried out. She is a big proponent of purgatory, and praying to those who have passed who could use a bump. Maybe this is the kind of bump she got in January 1966. "I really do believe in miracles," she said. And if you don't, it really changes how one sees life in general, as her story is more positive than others would conclude.

It should be clarified that her Maria was named after Saint Maria Goretti, a teenager who was stabbed to death. There was no damage to Maria on that day of the stabbing, itself a miracle. And Judy herself is named after St. Jude, who followers pray for impossible cases.

Even in healing Judy is grateful. After the stabbing, her wrist hung limply at about 90 degree bend, before Dr. McCormick did his works. The stabs had cut the tendons of the wrist she used to protect her face. "And you won't believe that: it was a brand new procedure, and within weeks after Dr. McCormick did this surgery, they pulled him. He was a renowned orthopedic surgeon, but he had Alzheimer's." Her story is a reminder on how the vocations of healthcare are fleeting in Judy posed for this picture in North Fond Lac on Easter as she and Maria were getting ready to go to Church.

What advice did Judy have for single mothers? "It's very difficult. Be sure you know who you are giving your child when you work. And be sure to get a job. Get some kind of insurance, so that your child will be taken care of medically. If you need to get on food stamps, do it. Love that child more than anything. Don't think about dating; just concentrate on the child. I did that for two years." Then Judy remarried, but warns single parents to put their children first before a relationship, which might compromise quality parenting.

the lives of their patients. They are there in our greatest moments of need, and are often removed from the story as quick as the tragedy itself.

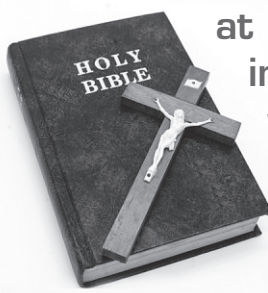

Moral Questions Are Hard To Answer

One of the obvious lessons of Judy's story is some elements of our life have no solid moral answer.

Judy spent a few days in the hospital, missed her Maria, and was allowed to go home. Then she had to come back to the hospital when she started to cramp. Judy was pregnant with her second child with Mario at the time of the stabbing. The hospital was made aware of this pregnancy after her first visit from the stabbing. Days after the uterus was stabbed, it appears the medical staff concluded the pregnancy had to be terminated.

Judy still wonders about that child. Even to this day one can't tell if the baby was already dead

OBITUARIES

Thomas Tellier

On Saturday, June 19, 2021, Thomas Michael Tellier, loving husband and father of six, passed away after a long battle with illness.

Thomas was born on October 16, 1940, in Milwaukee. He was the son of the late Ralph and Florence Tellier (nee Andres). He attended Pius XI High School and graduated in 1958.

Thomas was a jack of all trades and master of none, dabbling in a little bit here and there and always up for trying something new. He married Susan Josten, in October of 1966. Early on in their marriage, Thomas was in the National Guard, drove school bus for Johnson's Bus Company, Johnson Manufacturing in Kewaskum and worked as a mail carrier in West Bend. His occupations led him to meet and know a lot of people. It seemed he was well-known because no matter where you went someone would always say his name, "Tommy". Even though he and his wife worked diligently and had a house full of four children, he decided it wasn't quite enough, so they purchased a farm in Campbellsport in 1972 where they started raising beef cattle. Needless to say, after a few years, he still wanted more, so two more children and a dairy herd. Life continued to provide him with surprises but he ALWAYS had a story to tell and a laugh you couldn't forget! After many years of being both a mail carrier and farmer, Thomas decided to retire from the U.S. Postal Service and focus his remaining years on family, friends, the farm community, and time with his wife.

When he was able, he loved to be out on Big Cedar Lake during the summer, boating, water skiing, and just enjoying the water. In the winter, he'd be out snowmobiling. He leaves this passion behind in many of his children and grandchildren.

Those to cherish Thomas memory include his wife, Susan Tellier; his six children, Nadine (Joel) Urban of Campbellsport, Terrence (Becky) Tellier of Campbellsport, James Tellier of Campbellsport, Jean (Doug) Grotegut of Manitowoc, Bernadette (Tim Hove) Tellier of Valders, and Nicole (Curt Gilmore) Tellier of Pittsfield, NH; grandchildren, Justin, Jessica, Kip, Gavin, and Hunter; also by his siblings, Mary Tellier of Sun City, AZ, and Robert Tellier of West Bend.

Thomas was preceded in death by his parents.

A private family service will be held for Thomas, but we invite you to a Celebration of Life on June 26, 2021, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the Olde Cedar Inn, 5802 State Hwy 144, West Bend, WI 53095.

The Myrhum-Patten Funeral and Cremation Service has been entrusted with Thomas arrangements. Additional information and guest book can be found at www.myrhum-patten.com.

Vilas E. Ebert

Vilas E. Ebert, 96, of the Town of Osceola passed away peacefully on Wednesday, June 16, 2021, at the Hospice Home of Hope in Fond du Lac.

He was born on October 16, 1924, the son of Otto and Ida (nee Kutz) Ebert. On November 24, 1945, Vilas married Rosella I. Wagner at Immanuel Lutheran Church in Campbellsport.

He farmed in the Town of Osceola, drove milk truck for a number of years, and worked at Regalware in Kewaskum for 38 years. Vilas was a member of Trinity Lutheran Church in Dundee and the 25 Year Club at Regalware. He enjoyed hunting, dancing, and singing; and was a very social person, still flirting with the nurses at the Hospice Home. Most of all, Vilas enjoyed time spent with family and friends sharing stories and pictures with the people he loved.

Those left behind to cherish his memory include his children, Donna Schmidt, Norman (Mary) Ebert, and Russel Ebert; grandchildren, Eric (Tina) Ebert, Melissa (Chris) Kohnke, Bob Schmidt, Tammy Sodermark, Jason (Brooke) Ebert, Sherry Marchant, Travis Ebert, Christina (Ryan) Plummer, Stacey (Tom) Leach, Ashley Thoreson, and Russel (Danielle) Ebert, Jr.; 25 great-grandchildren, other relatives and friends.

Preceding Vilas in death were his parents; wife, Rosella, on August 25, 1981; son, Richard; daughter-in-law, Barbara; grandson, Keith Schmidt; and siblings, Walter, Malinda, Hilda, Leona, and Melvin.

Visitation was held Tuesday, June 22, from 1 p.m. until time of the funeral service at 3 p.m. at Trinity Lutheran Church in Dundee (W494 Elm St., Campbellsport). Pastor Bobby Oberg officiated. Burial followed in Trinity Lutheran Cemetery.

The family extends a special thank you to the nurses and staff of the Hospice Home of Hope for the loving care during Vilas' final months.

Music In The Park To Be Held Tuesday, June 29

BY ANNE TRAUTNER
JOURNALIST

The “Music In The Park” free music series continues, with Eclectic Fred and Friends performing at River Hill Park in Kewaskum this Tuesday, June 29, 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Eclectic Fred (Frederick Luft of Kewaskum) has been singing and playing music of many genres since the early 1960s. He performs music from the 17th century through today, as well as original compositions. Luft loves it all and enjoys making music with talented musician friends from the community. Beautiful harmony, and familiar as well as rare and unusual music, will be part of this special Tuesday night event.

“I guess I am eccentric as well as eclectic because I do a variety of music and don’t get stuck in any genre,” Luft said. “I play music from the 1800s, but growing up in the 1960s, I also play music from the ‘60s. British invasion and pop songs from 60s are some of my favorites because the songs are engrained in my neuropathways from my teen years.”

Luft has written about 100 songs that include church music as well as secular songs and music for children. Over the past year, during the covid pandemic, Luft performed approximately 30 concerts on Facebook live on Thursday nights, covering many different styles and types of music. The crowd on Tuesday will hear selections from those concerts that he plays on the banjo and guitar, while singing in his tenor voice.

Luft is a retired teacher who taught special education for 41 years. He has an undergraduate degree in music and recently worked as a substitute music teacher at Kewaskum Elementary School.

“My goal was to share my love of music with the kids,” said Luft, who taught the students songs in German, Spanish and Japanese. “I researched Beatles’ songs, and discovered the most popular songs for children were ‘Octopus’s Garden’ and ‘Yellow Submarine.’”

The concert on Tuesday night will include a medley that includes those Beatles’ songs. Kewaskum Elementary students are encouraged to come out and participate in the performance.

Performing with Luft will be area musicians he met at Open Mic nights. Eclectic Fred and Friends will play two sets of music; ACME Fiddle Company will play during the intermission.

“We look forward to playing our music and thank the Kewaskum Area Arts Council for having us. As someone who has been involved in the arts my whole life through community and church music, community theater, college and school experiences, and as an educator, I know the importance it has in the lives of people everywhere,” Luft said.

- July 13- Sunrays (eclectic oldies)

- July 27- Community Open Mic! (for more information, contact christieeric35@gmail.com)

The Kewaskum Fire Fighter’s Association starts selling concessions at 5:30 p.m. and the music begins at 6:30 p.m. This week the Kewaskum Women’s Club will also be serving cookies and bars in the shelter area.

The Kewaskum Area Arts Council is dedicated to providing a safe and entertaining night out for all who attend and encourages everyone to follow the current CDC guidelines. Some picnic tables are available for seating, but the Arts Council recommends that audience members bring their own chairs.

The Kewaskum Area Arts Council organizes the Music In The Park series every year. All private or business donations of any amount, either specifically for Music In The Park or the Kewaskum Area Arts Council, are greatly appreciated.

At the regular village board meeting on Monday, June 21, The Kewaskum Village Board unanimously approved a motion to name Bishop as the interim administrator. Bishop, who will continue as police chief, will serve in the role until a fulltime, permanent village administrator is hired.

trator was June 18.

Paint The Town Purple

In other action Monday night, the board approved the “Paint the Town Purple” event, which will be held to raise awareness of the Relay for Life that is scheduled to be held on July 10 at Regner Park in West Bend to raise funds for cancer research.

The “Paint the Town Purple” event will be held about a week before Relay for Life. Purple ribbon or tulle, along with information about the Relay for Life, will be tied around poles and trees on the main streets in the village in an effort to help raise money to find a cure for cancer. The event is also being held in West Bend.

WASHINGTON COUNTY SHERIFF’S OFFICE REPORT

Structure Fire

On Saturday, June 19, at 5:34 a.m. the Washington County Dispatch Center received a hang up 911 call that pinned to the area of Summit Ridge in the Town of Polk. by the second time she was at the hospital. “I just remember being in excruciating pain. Then they called Dr. Peters and he did a D&C.” Judy made a comment on this moral haze she was in then, and perhaps the present: “I was thinking last night... ‘They must have gotten permission from this Catholic hospital?’” There is this irony that they may have aborted a fetus at St. Agnes.

Other questions arise from the event. “I don’t know if they gave me a drug to abort the baby, because the uterus wouldn’t have held a fetus or child.” (Her words here imply the baby was dead or would have died.) However, the way Judy talks about includes a lot of guilt. Was the baby still alive before she went to the hospital? Is this an abortion? Judging by the coverage by the reports in the paper, it appears this pregnancy was not even apparent to the press at the time.

Legally this brings to question that her husband killed the fetus, and by definition was a murderer.

“Dr. Peters came in after he did the D&C, I said, ‘Was it a boy or girl?’ He said, ‘It was too mangled. I couldn’t tell.’ Mangled? I don’t know if that was meant that the fetus — I hate to use ‘fetus’ — but I will... I don’t know.” The jumbled quote symbolizes her trauma to the event, yet her power to talk about it, and her moral qualms on losing a child to what some might define as a forced abortion. To defend the hospital, if the baby was alive they wouldn’t have done it unless they were certain the baby couldn’t make it. And to defend Judy, it was Mario who put her in this position. However, being raised a devout Catholic and a lifetime spent as a loving mother, the loss of this child strains her, as does the stress of whether the fetus was alive at the time of the D&C.

Mental Illness Blurs Crime

In addition, Judy understands it’s difficult to blame Mario for the stabbing, because it happened because he was struggling with mental illness. Of the all the people tied to the event, it appears it is Judy who is the most forgiving. Indeed, this isn’t a clear cut story with a undeniable villain. It was determined that he was a paranoid schizophrenic, and was sent to Waupun’s mental health hospital for the criminally insane. The diagnosis included the analysis by a young psychiatrist, Dr. Darold Treffert, who decades later became world renown for his work with savants. It becomes murky on what behavior from Mario was malicious the day of the stabbing, versus a manifestation of a psychotic episode in which Mario lost his hold on reality. This all could have been initiated by what happened at the Italian Consulate in Chicago. (Mario knew Judy’s family was going to find out he had been institutionalized in Italy.)

Judy’s dad, Richard Hessel, worked the trains for the Soo Line as a breakman. Dad’s unconditional love and understanding of Judy was immensely important to her in the years after the stabbing. The best dads love their children despite imperfections, and he proves a fitting example as Father’s Day nears. PHOTOS SUBMITTED

When Mario was stabbing himself, he said, ‘This is the only way that we can be together.’ It was kind of like the ending of Romeo and Juliet. Was Mario’s theory that if Judy and him were dead, they’d be in heaven? “I suppose,” Judy reflected on that proposal. Even in the attempted murder, Mario may have still loved her. When I implied that Mario yelled the quote mentioned above, Judy corrected and said Mario merely said it. This additionally leads one to question even his demeanor during the stabbing, which may not have been really vindictive or malicious.

Mental Illness can be hard to read today, much less 1966. Judy’s judgment infers an understanding that this incident might be mislabeled by others. Rage? Premeditated? Murderer? All of those words are debatable in applying this to Mario’s actions.

In terms of relationships with men, was Mario the best love of her life? “Probably.” She never once in the interviews described Mario in a bitter tone. She doesn’t hate the man. Judy’s too wise to have hate in her.

Sunk Cost Fallacy

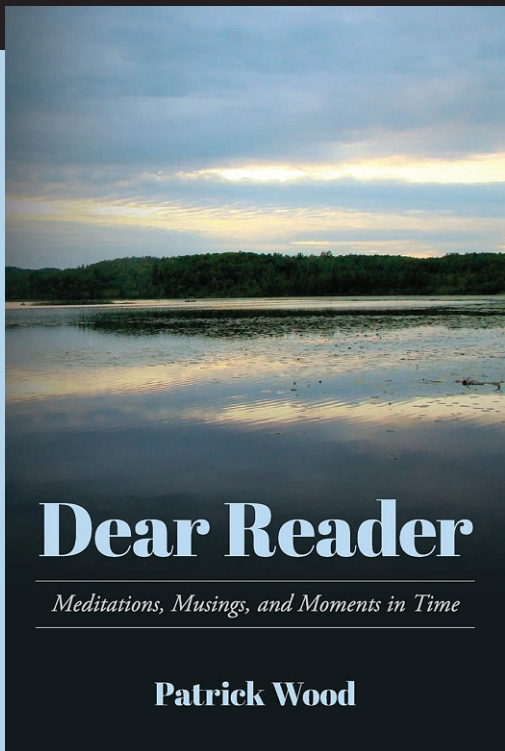

Another lesson is this story has good examples of the sunk cost fallacy, which is a psychological definition that a person will hang on to a bad idea because of the time, money or investment (including socially) that is already sunk into the lie or illogical situation. Here are some examples that may or may not cross over with Mario’s status on reality. There were some weird questions that came up in hindsight

Where did he live? While in Italy, Judy never saw a place where Mario really “lived” or called home. When she later met his parents, he wasn’t there because Judy thought he was prob-

“Over the course of his time at Kewaskum, Mr. Smasal provided excellent leadership and service to the educational experiences of the students of the district including significantly improving the educational outcomes in the areas of math and English language arts, increasing the Advanced Placement exam passing rate, passing a $28.4 million referendum, building a new Kewaskum Middle School and renovating the Kewaskum High School, improving and expanding the district's sporting facilities, and increasing the post-secondary school and career opportunities for all students,” Leister stated as he read the proclamation on June 10.

The board recognized Smasal for dedicating himself to the wellbeing and success of students through his many years of coaching, work with the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association, Wisconsin Association of School Councils, Boys and Girls Clubs of Washington County, KEYS Foundation, Washington County Workforce Alliance, United Way and partnering with many other organizations throughout his career.

“The Kewaskum Board of Education takes great pleasure in recognizing the significant professional achievements of Mr. Smasal, and expresses its gratitude for the contributions he has made to the district,” a press release from the school district stated.

Dr. Mark Bazata, who has served as the curriculum director for the past seven years, was promoted by the board to be the district administrator and will continue the work of striving for academic excellence for students and families of the Kewaskum School District.

The controversy surrounding the Town of Osceola Water Patrol, which maintains equipment, what policies of enforcement are being used and who enforces them, has developed into a very ugly situation in the Township. The June 10 meeting deteriorated into an out-of-control shouting match that bore little resemblance to a local government meeting and continued until nearly midnight.

On June 28, workers for the Village of Kewaskum sprang into action to catch a sheep named Tipper that had escaped from Kewaskum Frozen Foods more than a week earlier. Tipper was one of four white sheep that had escaped June 20 when they were being delivered to the meat market. One was captured shortly after escaping and two more later that evening. Although the owner, a farmer from Mequon, had said that whoever caught Tipper could keep her, he decided that since she had been through so much and had fought so hard for her life, he would take her back to live on his farm.

The Village of Kewaskum will hold its annual fireworks display on July 3.

Village board members called fowl on the pet ducks that Christine and Colin Hartnett have been keeping at their home in Kewaskum. The Hartnetts spoke at a village board meeting June 20 to discuss the issue of raising ducks at village residences. Current ordinance does not allow keeping, raising or possessing chickens or ducks at residences within the village. Plan commission members had discussed changing the ordinance, but decided against it. The Hartnetts said they were not aware of the ordinance when they began raising ducks in May. Joining the discussion was Theresa Young, who is moving to the village in July and has been raising chickens for 10 years. She would like to move her chickens with her. The benefits of raising feathered animals did not persuade the board; the ordinance will stay as is.

Steven Knuth from TNT Fitness Results in West Bend has visited the school-aged children at Little Folks School several times this summer. He is teaching them that fitness can be fun. He taught the children different exercises and games.

More than 300 people walked through Holy Trinity's new parish center on June 25 and 26 to see the progress that is being made on the building that is under construction. People were allowed to write messages on the building's studs. The messages will be covered with drywall, but they will remain. A roof had not yet been added, so the floor was covered with water Sunday morning due to a heavy rainstorm. Parishioners pitched in to brush the water into floor drains.

Organic Farms, a 120-acre farm, in 1988 from his parents. Kevin certified the farm organic in 1992.

When fire breaks out, animals instinctively look for a place to hide, even if that means finding a spot in a smoke-filled room. Beechwood Cheese stood out to the producer of Road Tasted because of Chicken Soup Cheese, created by Heise. Created four years ago, Chicken Soup Cheese seems to be the one that gets the most attention.

Rummaging To Make A Difference

BY ANNE TRAUTNER
JOURNALIST

For the fourth year in a row, Autumn Giese and Sarah Zeman sold their belongings at a rummage sale in Kewaskum in order to raise funds for a good cause.

The girls, who are both 12 years old, hung flyers up around the village to advertise their rummage sale. They reached out to area businesses to try to raise additional funds. During the sale, Autumn even dressed up in a blue Yeti costume and waved to cars, trying to attract attention as people drove past the house.

The efforts paid off. This year, the girls, who are both going into seventh grade at Kewaskum Middle School, raised $1,200 for the Children's Hospital of Wisconsin.

With that much raised, the two friends reached their goal of collecting more money than they had in past years. Last year, they collected $1,000 for the Children's Hospital.

While the girls raised money for Children's Hospital again this year, that hasn't always been the case. One year the funds went to Puppyland Humane Society in West Bend.

People were happy to help with this year's sale. Some donated items for the girls to sell. Some stopped at the rummage sale and gave donations even if they didn't purchase any items.

The sale was held over Memorial Day weekend, with the girls sitting outside, selling their wares, 10 hours a day over for three days. As in the past, the sale was held at Autumn's grandmother's house in Kewaskum.

Situated on Fond du Lac Avenue, the house is a prime location to hold a rummage sale. However, this is the last year the girls will be able to hold a rummage sale there because Autumn's grandmother, Kathy Giese, is moving to a condominium. The girls don't know if they will have a new location next year.

Sarah Zeman and Autumn Giese raise funds for the Children's Hospital of Wisconsin by selling their belongings at a rummage sale in Kewaskum. The girls collected $1,200 for the hospital at the sale this year.

"We can't go to my house because I'm not in a very open area," Sarah explained. "It is nice having it here because a countless number of cars go by each day."

"My house is in the country, so only 10 people go by a day," Autumn added.

Still, the girls were comforted by the number of sales they made this year.

The girls know how much of a need there is. Earlier this year, Autumn's stepbrother got ill and was admitted into Children's Hospital. And Sarah was in Children's Hospital for four days when she was 4 years old when she had a severe allergic reaction.

"So, this is really near and dear to both of them," said Kathy Giese. "I'm proud as punch of these two and what they are doing."

Although the girls have fun working at their rummage sale each year, they both agree the best part is being able to make a difference. When asked what their favorite thing is about holding the rummage sale, the girls both answered immediately: "Going to Milwaukee and handing a check to the hospital."

Fischer, 7, as he sifted through sand with the other young prospectors.

The "gold" nuggets that the Cub Scouts were finding were actually pea gravel covered in gold paint. While preparing for the event, Medinger learned that it takes about six cans of gold paint to cover 50 pounds of pea gravel.

As the Cub Scouts worked on their events, the older Scouts who are in sixth grade and up, participated in activities such as blacksmithing and woodworking. That older group had actually arrived at the site a day earlier and camped overnight in tents.

All of the Scouts got to take a turn down at the archery range as well. "Prospector" Pete Fogarty, a leader from Beaver Dam who helped Cub Scouts pan for gold, also helped give directions around the site.

"You know how to find the archery range at Scout camp? Follow the arrows," Fogarty advised with a smile.

This was the first year that the Cub Scouts and Scouts BSA joined forces for the event; in the past it was geared exclusively toward Cub Scouts. Medinger said that adding the older Scouts to the event was a success.

"It's fun to see today to see those little kids come and be so wide-eyed and to see these older kids working on their Eagle merit badges," she said.

Over the past five or six years, Medinger has chaired the event for the Kewaskum Cub Scouts.

"Every year the goal is to get the kids together and kick off the summer with some activities outside of their normal events. This year has obviously been very difficult for everybody, but particularly for Scouts in terms of getting together for activities, so being able to be out here and getting all these kids together is like the old (west) days," Medinger said.

This year, the day served as a promotional event as well, with people attending who are not yet Scouts.

"Scouting is all about is having fun," Medinger said.

Lanes and Blue Door Coffee Co.

Also on Friday night, the Firefighters' Auxiliary will open their ice cream and dessert stand. You can get a sweet treat from 4 p.m.-8 p.m.

The fun activities will continue on Saturday, July 3, at 1 p.m. There will be carnival rides and games for the kids and those who are young at heart. The rides will run all weekend.

At noon stop out for the always-popular children's waterfights. This has been a very popular part of the picnic in the past. Everyone has fun watching the youngsters enjoy themselves and get a little wet.

Teams of three to four children will compete against each other to see who can move the barrel the farthest. They will definitely get wet, but they always love every minute of it.

Firefighters will be on-hand to help the children get into the jackets and helmets and to help them during the competition. Parents are reminded to bring boots or other types of shoes that can get wet and maybe a towel to dry off.

The area fire department waterfights will follow. They will test their skills to see which department will come out on top. This event starts at 4 p.m.

It is a fun event, with good, clean competition. Area fire departments take the bragging rights of this competition very seriously.

End the night listening to music by The Nix. They will take the stage from 8 p.m.-12:30 a.m., with a short intermission for the fireworks show.

The huge fireworks display will be held at 10 p.m. This grand show will take place during an intermission by the band.

Food and beverages will be served all weekend. The festivities will be just as exciting on Sunday, July 4th.

The annual Car Show will begin at 10 a.m. For those interested in seeing some great vehicles, this is something for you to check out. Car enthusiasts will be displaying their unique and classic vehicles all day.

If you would like to enter a car in the car show, just show up at the park with your 1995 or older car between 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. to register, $5 per car.

One major change this year will be route for the July 4th parade. It will begin at noon. To be included in the parade, show up at approximately 11 a.m., entering on Sheboygan Street. The line-up will be scheduled from there.

Because of the road construction project on Highway 67 in Campbellsport, the parade route has been altered for this year. It will start near St. Matthew's Parish and travel on Helena Street south to Forest Street, where it will continue moving west. The parade will then turn north on Poplar Street and travel north to Main Street. This is where it will be back on its regular route, traveling west on Main Street to Firemen's Park.

Once the parade is over, enjoy some great music with the Doo-Wop Daddies from 1:30 p.m.-5 p.m. in the pavilion. The Doo-Wop Daddies will provide a high-energy performance of your oldies but goodies, and they encourage everyone to get up and dance.

Enjoy some great polka music with the Goodtime Dutchmen from 1:30 p.m.-5 p.m. on the Jaycee ball diamond. The Good Time Dutchmen also encourage everyone to get up and dance.

For a complete event listing, to offer your support, or for more information on all the events, go to the Campbellsport Fire Department's website at <https://www.campbellsportfire.com/events>. This page will give you the opportunity to click on a link to donate to the fire department. All proceeds will be used to purchase a UTV for the fire department.

These events offer real value for village and area residents. Many families make a long commute to work, leaving little time to get to know their fellow neighbors. The parade and picnic offer an opportunity for residents to get to know the person who lives across the street or shares the backyard. A laugh is shared, perhaps a beer is offered, and suddenly the residents of this quiet town feel a little safer and a little closer.

The CFD and all the people who help them out hope you spread the word about the annual Campbellsport Fire Department's Picnic and Parade now that it is back again. Let's help make it a huge success!

We have been campground free for a couple of weeks and my husband is becoming stir crazy. He is a self-acclaimed procrastinator and did not book trips in advance for us, so instead of two weeks on, two weeks off as we have been accustomed to, it is more like two weeks on, four weeks off this summer for us. We have reservations for early July and one in August. I thought after our Memorial Day excursion, he would be thrilled to have a month off, but he is ready to go back now.

The problem with the awning, admittedly all my fault, was not the only issue we dealt with over Memorial Day. It seemed that if something could go wrong, it did. As I recall, the weather was fair after the storm the day before so there were no complaints there. There were other fiascos that occurred that weekend besides the broken awning which my husband amazingly repaired.

My stepson, who usually camps in an adjoining site with his RV, had to bring his home during the week. Apparently, the floor broke through under the bed. It is a newish camper, not more than four years old, so that was surprising. Just like his dad, he is very handy and did repair the floor that week, so he brought it out Friday for the weekend. Another crisis averted.

Later that Friday, we noticed that one of our LP tanks connected to the camper was leaking. This was discovered when my husband moved it to the Blackstone grill to make dinner and it was nearly empty. My stepson saw a pinhole near the top of the canister. So, my husband and I had to drive to town and exchange the tank. By the time we returned, it was too late for dinner, so we didn't hook it up to the grill.

Later that weekend, my kids came out to spend the night. We had planned on a big breakfast on the grill, pancakes, bacon, eggs — all good stuff my family would gobble up. I mixed the pancake batter and brought out the food and realized the grill was broken. I think my husband said the regulator was not working.

That was it. With the broken awning, floor, LP tank and now the grill, I was ready to leave. My spouse is level-headed, and I was convinced to not give up. Besides, my kids were on their way up and I still had breakfast to cook. We did have an abundance of wood so they weren't fed raw bacon and uncooked eggs.

The rest of the holiday weekend redeemed itself with perfect weather, good food (the grill miraculously fixed itself) and an awesome golf cart parade with plenty of candy thrown to the kids. I am looking forward to our camping trip next month even though I am perfectly happy waiting more than two weeks in between.

Hope to see you soon.

ably “stationed,” in the military. “So you thought he was military stationed at the hospital?” I asked. “Yes,” she answered. “But it was possible that he wasn’t?” I asked. “Yes,” she conceded in hindsight and resignation.

Mario said he was stationed at this hospital, “which should have woke me up,” Judy said. Technically he wasn’t lying, but there was a difference between Judy thinking Mario was working for the military versus the reality that Mario was probably a mental health patient at the time. Records show there were times Mario was actually institutionalized in Italy, which led to his deportation from the U.S. after the stabbing.

What happened at O’Hare? The first concerns during marriage was of Mario when he first came over to the United States and got off the plane at O’Hare Airport. “I could see a change in him. And you are gonna think I’m insane. But he got off the plane [and] the impression — and it’s very vivid — as though ‘I’m in America, and I’m gonna show them I’m better than they are!’” She was at a loss for more description, but she was certain on that impression.

A painter? Problems continued after the O’Hare incident. “He was a pain in the butt to try to get him to work.” Judy’s mother screamed at him one time: “All you’re good for is to make babies.” It was a difficult time straining Judy’s relationship with her disappointed and reasonably frustrated parents.

It is possible Mario never had to work because he was institutionalized. Did he even have a job in Italy? “He said he painted with his brother. But when my mother and dad got him this job with this painting company, when they fired him, they said he couldn’t have been a painter, because a painter never leaves a can of paint uncovered.” And, among other things Mario “gave no indication that he knew anything about painting.”

Even when he was in Italy, he had no money. When Judy was still traveling Europe, specifically more Berlin, she met up with Mario in Venice. “And that’s where I became pregnant. I wanted to get a hotel room myself — and he couldn’t afford one. But anyway — that’s the scoop on that.” Seldom did Mario ever buy any-

I first met Judy Bennot (pictured above) at David “Nut-C” Conger’s funeral dinner at the VFW in Fond du Lac in September 2018. It began with his sister Deanna Haen talking about how Judy’s husband stabbed her 60 times. Somewhere along the lines of finishing my cheesy potatoes, Ms. Bennot gave much more than the meal spread. Judy explained that the stabbing was in Fond du Lac from her Italian husband. They met in Rome. Right away this was a sign on the frankness of Judy. What better place to talk about an attempted murder than a funeral dinner? Judy was smiling, and Deanna was laughing arguing Judy survived to drive her friends and family nuts. Having worked 15 years at Nazareth Heights with Judy, Deanna can say that. Judy laughed, and probably rolled her eyes at Deanna.

It was then that I asked Judy if her husband’s attempted murder was hard to talk about it. No, she said, and proceeded to explain how the heck she survived.

Once we did the interviews, she could even laugh at her own problems. Did the stabbing hit her brain? “I’ve questioned that. But no! My children would question that.” Her story of a near death experience is a good lesson on how to survive life: still talk about the worst parts, and laugh whenever you can. PHOTO BY KARL MCCARTY thing. This was probably because he didn’t have a job.

In Fond du Lac, Mario was leeching Judy’s bank accounts. She went to Europe with 800 dollars, but still came back with 500. Now with another baby on the way, “I was supporting him.” She can’t remember if he ever brought a paycheck home, and by the time of the stabbing the couple was no longer living with Judy’s parents. Judy also remembers that Mario still sent money home to his folks in Italy.

Was he cheating? Back in America, there was a woman that Judy went to grade school with who came to see Mario in the hospital after the stabbing. “She lived kitty corner from where the stabbing was. She stopped by on the way home from work several times and visited Mario.” Looking back, it brings Judy pause.

On the face of it, there are many reasons why Mario shouldn’t be trusted. But ‘hindsight is 20/20.’ Judy was committed to marrying this man in 1964. It’s only after time and combing all the problems that the then-blinded views become obvious. Therefore, Judy’s admitted naiveté, makes us reflect our own blinders. How far have we gone avoid the honest problems and censored our concerns? To defend Judy, coming back from Europe pregnant without a husband would have brought even more shame. Therefore, a lot of the above problems might have been hard to see, for she committed to marrying Mario despite what in hindsight are obvious faults.

Unconditional Positive Regard

Parents need to love their child for who they are, despite the child’s imperfections. Carl Rogers called this unconditional positive regard. Basically there is no love if it comes with strings attached (conditional).

Again and again, Judy’s parents were there for their daughter.

She had no insurance, and dad paid the whole hospital bill. “I started paying some toward it. He felt guilty. I was born, and ten months later my sister Janet was born. And my mother really held that against my father. And my father wrote me a letter while I was in Europe, and said ‘you maybe never felt so loved because Janet came so soon.” Mom and dad regretted having children back to back too quick.

“My mother and father, needless to say, took the stabbing very, very, very hard.” Her father worked on the railroad for the Soo Line. The morning of the stabbing, after her parents got Maria from friends, dad “called many Soo Line people to give blood for me, and my dad said there was actually a line to give blood for me.” Judy was so out of it she doesn’t recall getting blood, but “probably” had transfusions. The hospital insured Judy’s protection from Mario, who was on the same floor. Mom and dad were there all the time at the hospital, which had helped the surveillance.

After the stabbing, Judy lived with her parents. Judy concludes she should not have immediately seen Mario after the stabbing. “I don’t think so because I was so deathly afraid.” The PTSD was horrible, as Judy recalls sleeping with Maria when she stayed by her parents. At first, she slept upstairs next to Maria’s crib “and I took a hammer next to my bed.” After she graduated from upstairs, she still came down stairs and slept near mom. But “The whole time I slept upstairs I slept with a hammer.”

Once Mario was finally deported, he somehow called Judy’s parents. Mom couldn’t believe it. “It didn’t kill her, but she had a heart attack.” It was days after Mario’s call, but clearly the stress on the family put mom in the hospital. All of these serve as exam-

The department also wanted to make it easier for everyone to send in their donations for the 2021 picnic. Rather than sending out a letter about this year's events, they have sent a postcard to everyone with all the information on it and a QR code which can be scanned for the link to donate to the Campbellsport Fire Department.

The department also created a donation button on its website. When you visit the website, click on the donation button that is located at <https://www.campbellsportfire.com/events> and you will be directed to a page called Givebutter. There you will be able to select any amount you would like to donate. When you submit your amount, you will be immediately emailed a receipt. As always, the department will still accept donations that are mailed to the Campbellsport Area Fire Association, Inc., PO Box 511, Campbellsport, WI 53030.

Please keep checking the fire department's website or Facebook page for more information about the picnic and other events that they have for the public this year. Thanks again for your continued support of the Campbellsport Area Fire Association.

ples of the love Judy got from her parents, despite pressures from others who suggested or implied she deserved shame for the events with Mario.

On Serenity & Strength

Accordingly, the photos of Mario cease to exist. There are no images of Judy's Italian love affair. Mom decided to destroy them. All that is left are some hazy memories. But what is clear is Judy's love for her parents, and her love for Maria. What is also clear is her heart that seeks understanding from others.

Talking to Judy Bennot is a privilege. She is welcoming, honest, and uncensored. She left no details hidden, a position she conceded made sense, because God knows what we have done anyways. She is a great example of why people should be honest about their life, and that it doesn't pay to hide stories — even if they are painful.

The only thing to criticize Judy is for her inability to forgive herself, a point of view which has been shared with her. For anybody who had endured PTSD, this lack of self-forgiveness is just one of the many things one should reflect on. Why do we feel guilty about tragic events — even if they were not directly our fault? Hopefully Judy's story resonates for those who are their own harshest critics, including Judy.

However, the most important lesson of this story is that Judy Bennot is a strong woman. This is best said by her daughter. If you ask Maria, she and her mother have a bond that is unbreakable. She admires the courage of Judy Bennot.

"It was the mid-1960's, being from North Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, and having conservative Catholic parents — my mom found herself pregnant in Rome. Even back then, she could have chosen to 'sweep it under the table' and abort me. She chose life for me over the personal hardships for her that came with this decision. That's what I admire most about my mother."

HISTORIC SEASON COMES TO AN END

Kewaskum Girls Historic Soccer Season Ends One Victory Shy of State

New Berlin Eisenhower 3, Kewaskum 0 - Sectional Final

On Saturday, June 19, before a pumped-up crowd in Kewaskum, the girls soccer season came to an end at the hands of New Berlin Eisenhower in the Sectional final with a berth in the State Tournament on the line. The game took a turn early, when 3:30 into the game, New Berlin Eisenhower was able to net a goal off a collision that knocked starting goalkeeper Nicole Butz out of the game for Kewaskum. This was a double whammy as Kewaskum was now trailing 1-0 and without its starting goalkeeper, who stepped up her game in the playoffs to help carry Kewaskum to the Sectional Finals. Kewaskum rallied around sophomore goalkeeper Sydney Wheaton and kept New Berlin Eisenhower out of the goal the rest of the half to keep the game at 1-0 at the half.

The second half was a different story as New Berlin Eisenhower was able to score two more times to put the game out of reach ending with a final score of 3-0 and denying Kewaskum its first-ever trip to the state tournament.

“The game was very intense and physical, as you would expect with a trip to state on the line. I am very proud of the girls for battling the entire game. They left it all on the field. Unfortunately, every team ends its season with a loss except the state champion. We had a great run and beat some excellent teams along the way. These girls did something special that has never been done in Kewaskum soccer history. They should hold their heads up high and be proud of everything they have accomplished,” stated coach Luke Piwoni. “It is hard to go out with a loss like this, but hopefully this is the beginning of great things for Kewaskum soccer. We will miss our seniors Gwynn, Kennedy, Andrea and Nicole immensely, but they leave the program in a great place. They are all great leaders, and their fingerprints are all over this team and program.”

Kewaskum finished the season with a 16-3 record, won the Regional Championship, advanced to Sectional Finals for the first time in school history and took second in the East Central Conference with a 6-1 record.

“It was a historic season that we look forward to building on in the future. So many positives to take away from the season and lots to build on. It was a ton of fun and we can’t wait to see what the future holds,” Piwoni said.

Kewaskum 1, Shorewood 0 - Sectional Semifinal

On Thursday, June 17, the Kewaskum girls soccer team traveled to Shorewood for its Sectional Semifinal match with Shorewood. The Indians were victorious 1-0 and advanced to the Sectional Finals for the first time in school history. Both teams saw good scoring opportunities come up short time and again in the first half. It turned into a defensive battle the entire half with the score stuck at a 0-0 stalemate at the half.

Then at 52:19 Natalie Newman launched a 25-yard beauty into the upper 90 on the far side to put the Indians up 1-0. That was all the scoring Kewaskum would need as its defense was able to fend off a flurry of various attacks by Shorewood to keep them out of goal and secure the win. Nicole Butz recorded six saves in goal and came up huge in the final minutes to deny Shorewood the goal they desperately needed.

“Nicole has been playing phenomenal soccer. In the last two she has played her best soccer of the season. She is a big reason why we have had the success we had this year. I can’t say enough about how valuable she is to the team,” stated coach Luke Piwoni. “The entire team has come together, and everyone has elevated their game. Each game we play from here on out is more difficult and more of a challenge. It is great to see the girls rise to the occasion and gain confidence as they do so. They have worked for years for this opportunity. I am very proud of them. It is awesome to see them continue to grow and improve each game. This is a great moment for girls and Kewaskum soccer overall.”

Kewaskum Cyclones

Like the weather, the U14 Cyclones started the KMSL Tournament hot. Brooklyn Grisolono, Caitlin Finger (3) and Ayla Stuhrt combined to give Kewaskum a big win over Slinger in the first round.
 The Hartford Orioles were up next. An early goal by Caitlin Finger was followed by a short put-in by Mara Butschlick, and the Cyclones didn't allow a score. The Cyclones earned a spot in the championship game against rival Jackson Cheetas.
 Both spring season games against the Cheetas were hard-fought, but Kewaskum as out-scored in both. This day would be different. A first-hal goal by Caitlin Finger was the only score of the game and it was all Kewaskum needed for a huge win.
 All of the girls played outstanding, but the day belonged to the defense. Goalies Brooklyn Grisolono and Victoria Kenworthy combined for a shut-out day. Stellar play by defenders Emily Melzer, Elizabeth Erdmann, Elayna Lambrecht, Jadelyn Stolzmann, Alexis Klahn and Ava Sciller earned the Kewaskum Cyclones the U14 championship.

Pony League

Team 1

June 8 - "Uh oh, I don't think this one's got the distance." Kewaskum-1 was on the road this week to Eden and battled not only a tough team but sweltering 90+degree heat.

Ebert, Hooker, and Cook pitched well for Kewaskum.

Defender of the game goes to Parker "Parky" Gruen with three right field catches. Borrowed gloves make the best catches.

Final score for the game was Kewaskum 2, Eden 13.

Team 2

Pony League Team 2 lost to Campbellsport 1 with a score of 3-7.

Matthew Eischen went 2-4 and Austin Reichel went 1-4 with a hustle triple in the sixth.

The bats were hot on the ball and Marie Brucker, Sydney Bayer, and Tammy Kunath each went 2 for 2 with Kunath using her running skills to stretch a single into a homer to win the game for the Indians.

Great team work and fielding were major contributing factors as well: among others, Isla Rabuck pitched four strikeouts; Lacey Krejcarek had two good plays while at pitcher and second; and the play of the game happened when the pitching coach couldn't get out of the way in time but pitcher Sydney Bayer stayed focused throwing to catcher Taylor Popelier, who put the tag on the lead runner holding NFDL-Orange to 0-runs.

Minors

KAA Indians Minors watched the game slip away early and couldn't recover in an 11-1 loss to Oakfield on Thursday.

They struggled to put runs on the board and had a tough time defensively containing Oakfield, giving up 11 runs.

Na Na Na Hey Hey Hey Goodbye Mr. Parker

Mr. Kurt Parker officially retired from Campbellsport High School last week. He didn't want all the hoopla and a big party although he certainly deserved it. I'm going to give the big man my own personal send off as every great teacher and coach should get.

Kurt taught at Campbellsport High School for 30 years, 38 years of teaching total (two years at Unity, two years at Whitewater, and four years at Kickapoo). He was the head football coach at CHS his first six years and then became the school's Athletic Director for the next 15 years. He returned to coaching football 12 years ago and still plans on coaching football at CHS during his retirement.

Parker was a legend on the football field, he played quarterback for his dad Gary at Neenah High School. During college, Kurt was an all-conference defensive end for the powerhouse Lawrence University teams in the early 1980s.

As the head football coach at Kickapoo High School, he led the Panthers to the state championship game in 1989, losing to Augusta 12-6 in overtime. At Campbellsport, Parker led the Cougars to their first ever WIAA playoff appearance in 1992.

Mr. Parker was also a legend (in his own mind) in the classroom, teaching a variety of different subjects during his 30 year span in the Campbellsport School District. No matter what subject he was teaching, he made it fun, and he always added some humor with his classic "Parker-ism's." If you had Mr. Parker for a teacher, you probably remember him saying "You don't know" or "Big fish small pond" a few times in the classroom. His personality will certainly be missed in the halls of CHS.

I met Kurt when he first arrived at Campbellsport as a member of his football coaching staff. We instantly became friends and hung out a lot on and off the field. Coaching parties at his house, football clinics in Madison, and our traditional Friday fish dinners before games were just a few of the great times we shared together.

A few years ago, we reunited on the football field coaching the freshmen team together. The man taught me so much about coaching football that I turned into a "football guru" like him.

Kurt's wife Kerry is also planning on retiring this summer after working 30 years for the hospital in Fond du Lac. They plan on traveling A LOT and visiting their three children and grandkids.

So as the "Stallion" rides off into the sunset, let's not forget all the wonderful things this man has done for our school district and the great legacy and memories he leaves behind. If you see him and Kerry out for dinner some night, buy him a drink because he's got "short arms and deep pockets."

Kewaskum Boys And Girls Track And Field Athletes State Bound

Last week Thursday, the Kewaskum High School boys and girls track and field teams had a phenomenal day participating in the Sectional qualifying meet at Waupun High School. Of the over 40 participants, 26 athletes from Kewaskum qualified for the state meet that will be held on June 25 in La Crosse.

"It was an incredible day with school records again being broken and athletes giving their all throughout the course of the competition," coach Jason Last said.

The competition began late due to storms that included thunder, lightning and some hail. The athletes endured the weather and remained in good spirits. On the girls side, the 4x800 relay team of Alyssa Butz, Avalon Olla, Miranda Bastian and Abigail Gerhartz (Hannah Frase, Brielle Scoles alternates) broke its own school record by four seconds with a qualifying time of 10:06.85 to finish in fourth place. Madilyn Dogs continued her excellence by winning the 100 hurdles by almost two sets of hurdles with a time of 16.58. In addition, Natalie Newman qualified in fourth place in the 100-meter dash (13.52) in a very tough field. Abigail Gerhartz continued her fantastic season with a second-place finish in the 1600-meter run with a strong time of 5:24.62. The girls 4x200 meter relay team of Julia Steger, Brenna Meidl, Madilyn Dogs and Natalie Newman (Bella Hooker, Josey Curtes Alternates) qualified for state with a first-place winning time of 1:48.78. Alyssa Butz qualified fourth in the 3200-meter run. Running into a strong head wind, she ran a time of 12:50.79. In the field events, Brenna Meidl jumped a phenomenal jump in the triple jump, 35'2", to earn herself a third-place qualifying finish. The girls 4x400 relay team of Josey Curtes, Julia Steger, Madilyn Dogs and Brenna Meidl (Miranda Bastian, Hannah Frase alternates) ran its best time of the season to finish a close second with a time of 4:11.20. The girls had five individual qualifiers and 12 total to finish second in team standings to a very strong Shorewood team.

"Way to go, ladies! I can't remember the last time we finished sectionals in second place," Last said.

On the boys' side, all four relay teams qualified for state for possibly the first time in Kewaskum track and field history. The boys 4x800 relay team of Clayton Kappler, Isaac Schmidt, Gannon Kreuser and Isaiah Lubner (Justin Toth, Bruce Penfield alternates) also broke its school record and finished .01 seconds behind the first team with a time of 8:20.10. Ben "GFT" Poschmann qualified in the 200-meter dash in third place with a 23.77. The boys 4x200 relay of Braden "I dominate in Bags too" Gruen, Benjamin Butler, Kyle Reichert, and Max Melzer (Poschmann, Andrew Bolek Alternates) ran a time of 1:35.80 to qualify in fourth place. The 4x100 relay team of Max Melzer, Carson Rolf, Benjamin Butler and Ben Poschmann (Kyle Reichert, Andrew Bolek alternates) competed well finishing second with a time of 44.89 seconds. Damareyon Taylor blazed through the 300 hurdles with a great time of 42.58, winning the sectional. Lightning Lubner also qualified individually in the 800-meter run, finishing second with a time of 2:03.14. School record holder Jason Hanson was there to cheer him on. To finish the day, the interchangeable 4x400 team of Isaac Schmidt, Gannon Kreuser, Max Melzer, Isaiah Lubner, Damareyon Tayler and Carson "I can run the 400 too" Rolf finished in third place with time of 3:33.13 to qualify the final relay team for state.

"The boys finished fourth overall for another incredible day! The boys had three individual qualifiers and 14 overall. Way to go gentlemen!" Last said.

CORRECTION

At the Regional track and field competition on June 14, Braeden Gruen of Kewaskum High School advanced to compete in the 200-meter dash at the sectional meet and Brielle Scoles of Kewaskum high School advanced to compete in the 1600-meter run. Their names were inadvertently left out of the writeup in last week's paper.
