To stay or not to stay

Dear Reader,

There is a struggle inherent in many love relationships. It is a struggle for dominance, to decide who will be in charge.

During the courtship, there is a delicious mutual attraction of mind and body, and a feeling of having met that special person who completes us. But it doesn't last. Eventually there is friction when one asks or demands, and the other doesn't like being bossed around or disagrees. Sometimes it gets nasty, with increasingly angry and bitter dialogues. For others, it is a gradual drifting away until there is nothing left.

Sadly, for all too many the outcome is a separation and divorce. Some then start over with some other true love who will supply what was missing the last time. Yet often, instead of finding that the grass is greener on the other side, we discover the same old conflicts and problems have followed us into the new situation. As so many have learned, no matter where you go, there you are, and when it comes to relationships, we repeat our old patterns in new settings with new partners.

Having lived through decades of commitment with all of its joy and strife, my counsel would be to stay the course if possible. There is depth and breadth of devotion and allegiance based on a foundation of love having grown familiar over time, especially when there are children in the mix. The best gift sometimes is to stay together and give the children a happy childhood.

If you realize you both have moved into other unrelated worlds and don't have much to talk about anymore, start with basic respect. Communicate, be transparent, let the other know about the path you are embarking on, and try to understand and even embrace the new path they may be taking as well. Be aware, focused, and listen to their thoughts, even when they are "volcanoing" through one issue after another. Process it; wait a while without instantly reacting. When it comes to personal preferences, it's not a debate, and conflict is not a productive option.

You may end up hitting a fork in the road with that "forever someone" who becomes a "once upon a time someone." It's good to remember that swell of innocent, mutual liking that eventually transformed into a loving bond. Hopefully, you can handle your stage left exit in a noble manner, gracefully and without acrimony. It can be a split with memories to be cherished of a past delightful partnership, as you both move on in peace to the next phase of your journeys.

Rural Writes

BY GA SCHEINOHA
CONTRIBUTOR

Maybe you know what I'm talking about. Does this put you in mind of a television commercial? I'm not a real journalist. I just play one in print.

Leastwise, that's what real thing, reporters and editors who actually work in newspaper newsrooms, probably think of us undegreed freelancers who dance at the edge of the Fourth Estate's ballroom floor. We didn't pay any admission; do the schooling or the time in the job, laboring to get the facts right and get them out under a tight deadline to a not always grateful public.

Especially if our "work" appears in a small to the point of no stoplights, one horse village paper. And so an accurate review of Rural Writes might go. Like the frills of society pages or a gossip column, it has no newsworthy value.

Those who know the author might wonder:

what's up with the folksy person who writes it? Mark Twang he ain't. So why the quaint if a bit dated speech? Giving the impression of being phony as a two cent piece. More importantly, the opinions and the words are spot on.

This is a country guy who never lived in any town, village or city with the minor exception of the once hardly bustling but now thoroughly inert eyeblink quarry hamlet he's known for most of his life. A fellow who's used the term young'un for an infant since his teens and has called a creek a crick. Besides giving somebody a holler and going out to fetch the mail. Hey his plain swap for good morning or hello.

So forgive the far from high falutin', telling his truths through a simple, straight up style. As Desiderata II says, even a fool has a story. Doesn't mean anyone wants to hear it though. Hmm, hadn't figured on that one.

"The Clothes Closet is open to everyone, no matter what your income. There is no limit on how many items people can take because we want you to take whatever you need," said the Rev. Ruth Hansen, pastor of Salem UCC.

The idea of creating a free clothes closet was born in late February 2021, when Salem UCC Youth Ministry participants talked about ideas for using the vacant 100-year-old schoolhouse that is located on the church property. In the past, the building had been used for Sunday School, confirmation classes, Vacation Bible School and storage space.

It was the youth who came up with the idea of creating a free community clothes closet, offering "gently used" clothing items in all sizes (men, women, plus, junior, youth, toddler and infant), according to Church President Amy Lynn Gauthier. After researching demographic data, it was determined that such a resource would benefit people in Washington and Fond Du Lac Counties.

"When the youth realized the potential in the schoolhouse building that had been used for storage for many years, they were energized by the possibilities, coming up with the name and designing the logo," Gauthier said.

The logo depicts a shirt in the center of a heart, surrounded by children and adults holding hands, representing all different kind of family units. After the youth presented their vision to Salem's governing board, they shared it with the congregation, explain the project and the steps needed to bring it to life.

"The enthusiasm of our young people caught on and members of all ages have been engaged with their prayers, donating clothes and money, cleaning out and renovating the schoolhouse, soliciting and sorting clothes, setting up the Clothes Closet space and promoting it in the wider community. Jesus tells us to give food and water to the hungry and thirsty, clothe the naked and tend to those who are sick, imprisoned, and marginalized. With so many struggling from the economic effects of the pandemic and other life situations, we are grateful for yet another opportunity to share Jesus' love through serving our neighbors," Gauthier said.

In May, the congregation received a $2,500 Catalyst Grant through its Wisconsin Conference UCC. That grant was matched by donations from Salem UCC members. The funds have been used to pay the costs of building repairs, painting, clothing fixtures and other startup expenses.

With new paint, the interior of the building resembles more of a fancy clothing shop than a free clothes closet.

couldn't before. It is so nice to be ,," said John Henry C. Coulter-Vorpahl, a member of the congregation. "It is so nice to be able to use this building after all these years."

"This has been such an exciting endeavor, with many learning experiences for the kids and congregation," Gauthier added. "Many of us have been through times in life when we could use a helping hand. No matter who you are or where you are on life's journey, you are welcome at the Salem UCC Clothes Closet! We look forward to serving the community for years to come," Gauthier said.

Salem UCC is always accepting donations of gently used clothing items. Donations can be brought to the church while the Clothes Closet is open, or placed in the dropbox located in front of the clothes closet.

‘Tis The Season For Class Reunions

BY DARLENE STERN

Normally summer is the time of year chosen for class reunions because people are freer to travel and vacation midyear, and because the graduation being celebrated was held in early summer.

There are different reasons for attending a class reunion. In the early years, the desire to attend may be governed by wanting to catch up with old friends or to brag about the golden job that has been scored. By this time, most classmates have completed the higher levels of education. Some classmates may have already settled down in their first home with a new spouse and their children are quite young.

About 20 years down the road, incentives to attend a class reunion might not be as drawing. This is about the time when those who walked across the stage a score of years or more ago are thinking they're stuck in a rut. Nothing new or exciting to report; life is humdrum. Children are consuming a lot of time with all their extracurricular activities, family vacations take priority, the work schedule is demanding. In addition, many high school friendships have fallen by the wayside with not much in common anymore.

New Conceptual Drawing Of Kewaskum Municipal Building Presented

BY ANNE TRAUTNER
JOURNALIST

The latest conceptual drawing of the Kewaskum municipal building is a one-story building that is located at the current location on First Street and extending into the vacant lot located just to the east of the existing building.

Representatives from Zimmerman Architectural Studios presented the drawing to the Kewaskum Village Shared Facilities Committee on Tuesday, Aug. 3. The drawing is of a new construction of the municipal building that would house the village's administrative offices, police department and library.

The proposed building carries a price tag of just over $8.8 million, according to Village Administrator Adam Gitter.

The proposed drawing would not require Railroad Street to be closed, but it is possible that the building could be expanded slightly to the west, in which case Railroad Street could be made into a one-way road, according to Doug Barnes, vice president of Zimmerman. No underground utilities would need to be moved to create space for the building, as planners had previously feared.

The proposed building calls for the library to be situated on the west side of the complex, with administrative offices in the center and the police station on the east side of the building, along School Street. The police department would encompass approximately 6,600 square feet, while the library and village administrative offices would cover about 14,600 square feet.

After reviewing the 20,200 square-foot proposed building, village employees voiced concerns more space be required for storing village records.

To provide the additional space, the committee talked about adding a basement. Not only would the basement provide needed space, but it could serve as an emergency shelter in case of a tornado, Village Trustee Jim Hovland pointed out.

The current cost of constructing a basement is currently $80 to $85 per square foot, according to Barnes.

The new building would replace the existing municipal building, a two-story building that measures 10,555 square feet, not counting the basement, which is about 750 square feet. The conceptual drawing shows the new building extending across the current 0.496 acres where the current building is, as well as the 0.19-acre vacant lot located directly to the east of the existing building.

The Shared Facilities Committee is scheduled to meet again on Tuesday, Aug. 17, at 10 a.m. to review space needs for the building. The committee will relay its findings to architects, who will then come back with an updated drawing.

Developing The Plan

The Shared Facilities Committee was created over two years ago to determine the space needs of the public library and village municipal building.

A facility analysis showed that due to water infiltration occurring on the brick walls of the existing building, the brick during freeze/thaw cycles is causing the brick to split and water to penetrate into the walls. There are numerous areas in the current building that are not ADA compliant, including the elevator and restrooms. The police department's vehicle storage bay does not meet air system code requirements, and plumbing fixtures are not all code compliant. Windows and ceilings throughout the building also need to be replaced. In addition, the boilers and generator are nearing the end of their lives.

According to the executive summary from February 5, 2020, space needs were determined to be about 12,693 square feet for the library, 7,285 square feet for the police department and 1,710 square feet for village administration.

Over the past couple of years, the committee has considered renovating the current space, rebuilding at the current location and building a new facility where the municipal annex building is on Fond du Lac Avenue and extending the building into the current municipal parking lot.

However, when the idea of building in the current parking lot was presented in 2020, members of the village's business community voiced concerns over losing parking, and that plan was abandoned.

At last week's meeting, Library Director Lori Kreis said that some library patrons have told her they would like to see the library be a standalone building situated near the Wisconsin 9/11 Memorial, where the municipal annex building is currently located.

Wendi Dreher, vice president of the Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce and owner of Hair on Main, had voiced that sentiment at the public meeting held on the issue in December 2020. She still believes that would be the best location for the library.

"I think for the betterment of the community, the library should not be connected to the police department and should be built where the annex is. It would be really good to have a nice building there. We are the only place in the state with the 9/11 Memorial, and we should upgrade what is near it," Dreher said on Monday.

However, at last week's meeting, Village Trustee Dave Spenner, who heads up the Shared Facilities Committee, said that is not an option. He said that the committee has ruled out that option, and the goal is to create shared facilities in order to save the cost of having separate mechanicals and restrooms.

Why Are You Coming Here?

BY JOSEPH KOCH
CONTRIBUTOR

As I prepared for my trip to East Africa, I made financial arrangements with my local bank. I discussed the trip, including where I would go, with the bank teller who looked at me with a smile. She said I was going to her hometown, Borama, Somaliland. (Note: Somaliland considers itself to be a sovereign country, but the world community still considers it to be part of Somalia.)

We talked for nearly an hour and at the end of the conversation, she rather nonchalantly mentioned she had two uncles there and asked me if I would like to meet them. Not really thinking too much about the request due to the casual manner she presented it, I agreed. She told me she would contact them and to come back in a week.

Returning in a week and partaking in another hour-long discussion, she again casually mentioned her uncles and stating that they agreed to meet with me. Thinking they worked a rather mundane job, I asked what they did for a living. She said one was vice president of the country and the other was head of civil aviation.

Excited to be meeting the vice president, I took the minibus from Jijiga, Ethiopia, to the Somali border before continuing to the capital of Hargeisa. The minibus from Jijiga to the border was a cramped ride that included a couple near miss, major traffic accidents. The trip from the border to Hargeisa was slightly less cramped and much more enjoyable.

I was a rather unique passenger and enjoyed the conversations with the other passengers. I sat in back with a couple younger college students who spoke very good English and thus served as my translators. An older, frail man with white hair and an orange beard, seated two rows in front and to the left of me, showed the most interest. He asked the normal questions, which I answered through the two interpreters. He asked me where I was from, and I answered Minnesota. He then said something that made the whole minivan laugh including the stoic driver. I asked the college students what the old man had said, and they said he asked why are you coming here when all of us are coming to Minnesota?

Throughout the trip, I did meet many people who had been to Minnesota or had relatives there. Included in that list was the teller's uncle, the head of civil aviation. He told me his story. He had moved to Vancouver and worked as a parking attendant. He did nearly every job imaginable including working at a pharmacy after moving to Minneapolis. He was a vital part of the store as he spoke perfect English and Somali which is important when giving instructions on usage of prescription drugs.

He was located in the Riverside area of Minneapolis which had a large Somali population. A Somali friend visiting from Atlanta saw this dynamic and suggested starting their own drug store. He said he didn't have any money. The Atlanta friend said he did and that with the Riverside contacts he had acquired while working at the pharmacy, they could make a lot of money.

They started a company and did, as the customers followed him to the new store. Within six months, both CVS and Walgreens offered to buy them out. They opened two more stores and again were offered to be bought and this time they couldn't refuse the offer. With the money they acquired, he returned to Somalia with the goal of making his home a better place.

His driver took us from his office in Hargeisa to Borama for one of his government meetings as he described life in Somaliland. He pointed out a bank. "That bank is owned by the richest woman in Somaliland. She used to own one little 10 foot by 10 foot khat stand that I'm sure you've seen."

Khat is a plant that is widely sold and chewed and serves as a stimulant. "People liked her, so she got a lot of business. She opened another stand and another and now she owns banks instead of khat stands."

A few miles passed. "Look at those young kids on the road. Much like Minnesota, we have potholes. They are shoveling sand into those potholes all day long. Then when you go over the potholes, it doesn't ruin your shocks as much. Of course, the sand blows out of the potholes in about seven seconds, but they are trying. Drivers give them a tip of something like five cents as they drive by."

A few more miles passed. "Right here I hit a goat a few months back. I stopped as I knew the goat would die and it was important for the farmer. The farmer wasn't home, but his young sons were. I told them to give this note containing my cell phone number to their father when he returned. An hour passed and the farmer called. I said I hit your goat and I think it's dead. The farmer said that the goat was dead, and I replied saying I'd like to pay for a new one. I then asked how much a new goat would cost. He said he would call me back which he did after five minutes. I answered and he said 24 dollars. I told him I wouldn't be back that way for a while. Then I remembered mobile money. I asked if he had an account and he said he did. He gave a six-digit number, sent the money to him by cell and repaid him without ever meeting him."

Mobile money is a way to send money from person to person and their corresponding banks through cell phones. It has become more popular throughout the world and in Somaliland it was possible to travel without any money as long as you had mobile money. An issue at the time was the mobile money company owned the largest telecommunications companies and banks, giving it a bit of a monopoly feel but it made for much more efficiency. A few more miles and unfortunately, we arrived in Borama and he had to leave. Even with the potholes, it was an entertaining trip.

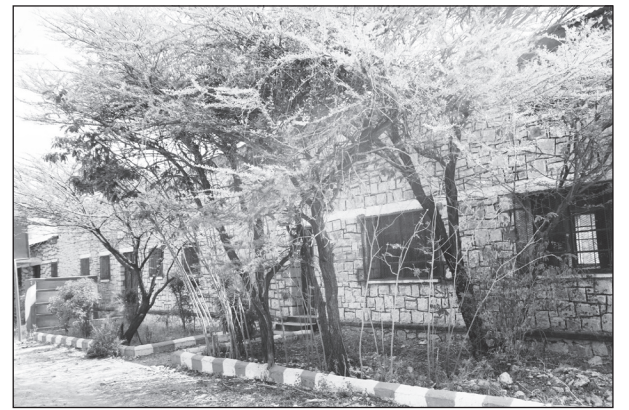

The visit with Vice President Abdirahman Saylici, was also enjoyable as he was personable and described Somaliland as well. He was talkative, yet rather quiet and humble considering his numerous accomplishments. Abdirahman veered from politics but one major issue is that this state, with its own government, is not recognized by other countries. These countries are afraid by recognizing Hargeisa, Somalia, who broke from the rest of Somalia in 1991, that they would anger the rest of Somalia, or sometimes called Mogadishu, Somalia.

Shopping at the goat and camel market.

Part of Amoud University

However, Hargeisa is considered to be safer, has many citizens supportive of the United States and has economic possibilities. For example, their neighbor is Ethiopia which has the largest economy in East Africa but has no port for exporting goods. Somaliland has a sufficient port in Berbera which would seem like a win win for both countries. However, Ethiopia's fear of upsetting Mogadishu means they decline using that port.

Despite being safer than Mogadishu, Somalia, it was still required to have an armed guard while traveling outside Hargeisa. The Vice President set me up with one of his assistants so that fulfilled that requirement. They showed me around Borama after my educational car ride to that city.

Included was a visit to Amoud University which was started in 1997, when there was only one university, but it was located in Mogadishu. The university is impressive as it has over 4,000 students and offers degrees in education, medicine, agriculture, environment, nursing, law, engineering and computer science.

They also took me to the city of Berbera, which has the previously mentioned port. They introduced me to the port director but my impression of him was not as positive as the other two government officials I met. He came off as arrogant and demeaning and I got the impression he could be easily bribed. However, away from the port we had a nice lunch at a restaurant on the water within viewing distance of the port. We visited Baathela Beach to escape the 110 plus degree heat, by jumping in the water. Strolling the city and just absorbing it was also entertaining.

The final area they took me was Las Geel, which are remarkably vibrant 7,000-year-old cave paintings. Las Geel means "Camels Waterhole" and marks where two rivers had met but now all that remains is desert. The colors are in red, white and yellow and depict humans and animals such as cows, dogs, goats and antelopes. Locals knew of these caves, but foreign archaeologists "discovered" them in 2002. What stood out was how bright they were, so hopefully the attention for tourists does not ruin this site. I was the only foreigner there and it did require a permit from the government to visit so this may help preserve these paintings.

My guards were not necessary in Hargeisa thus I could walk around freely in the city. There were reports that visitors needed to be on the lookout for young kids that would throw rocks at them. However, I only had one kid come up to me and that was to ask for money with an adult resident quickly shooing him away.

I found the city to be quite relaxing with numerous areas easily accessible from my city center hotel, the Oriental Hotel. Nearby was entertaining two markets, one for changing dollars to large bricks of Somaliland Shillings, and another market for nearly every type of food and goods or services. Close to the market is the Jama Mosque which I could admire from the outside, and near my hotel was the War Memorial, a MiG fighter jet that was taken from the Somali Army during the Civil War.

Outside the center was the camel market, to see camels being bought and sold. Otherwise, walking

Chief of Police Randy Karoses expressed some concerns during the Campbellsport Village Board meeting. Teens from age 13 to 15 are roaming the streets at all hours of the night, there is an increased use in marijuana that mainly involved those aged 18 and younger, and the destruction of signage in the village. A population sign and several informational signs have been vandalized. A street and stop sign have been removed from a corner. The police department is offering a $100 reward for information leading to the arrest of the person/persons involved in the theft.

At the request of the American Red Cross, the Eden blood drive was changed from September 23 to August 5. The State Fire Marshall is still checking the fires at the Clarence Rathmann farm west of Lake Bernice. The fire destroyed a barn and its contents and damaged an upstairs bedroom in the house August 4. Mr. Rathmann was at work when the fire was discovered. Neighbors were able to save the animals. Even though the fire department responded quickly, the barn was engulfed in flames. Firefighters wet down the house to keep it from burning. Some firemen were at the scene for five hours. Any information about the identity of two young men whose car was stuck in a ditch alongside the road near the fire is appreciated.

Firemen responded to two grass fires two days last week. The first was in the village and the second was at Lake Bernice. A passing diesel engine apparently started the first blaze. The second was apparently started by an unattended burning barrel.

It is expected that representatives of the Campbellsport Commercial Club and many of the business men here will go to West Bend to attend the meeting as the people here must now do their share to have the railroad service returned.

In the annual baseball game between the married and single men, the former won 36-32. The married men scored in every inning and the single men scored in each except the first and third. KEWASKUM'S DAYS GONE BY5 Years Ago*August 18, 2016

Washington County is well financially as it has the lowest tax rate the county has seen in 50 years and the lowest levy in 12 years. Today, Washington County has the lowest debt level that it has had in 25 years and is currently using just one percent of allowable debt. The tax levy has been reduced by more than 10 percent, or $4 million, since 2010, according to figures released by Washington County Administrator Joshua Schoemann during his annual State of the County address at the County Board meeting in June. He was at the Town of Kewaskum meeting on August 15 for a presentation.

Kayla Oelhafen, a Kewaskum High School graduate, is currently a junior at the University of Wisconsin-River Falls. She is majoring in animal science with an equine management emphasis. Her goal is to eventually become a horse chiropractor. She attended a certified equine massage education class at a therapeutic riding stable in Delavan. With her certification, Oelhafen has opened Healthy Gait Equine Massage Therapy.

When the Kewaskum Pool Committee met at the Kiwanis Park Pond for its latest meeting, the members decided that maybe relocating the proposed splash pad may be a good idea. It was suggested moving it to the area where the members sat for the meeting. The committee has been meeting monthly since March to consider options that will bring in more people. Options being considered include replacing the pond with a pool or adding a splash pad. It's possible the decision may be made to close the pond. Attendance has been fairly good this summer, with a total of 1,958 users in June.

Fifteen Kewaskum High School students, along with two teachers, traveled to Panama in June. For the two years prior to traveling, the students planned and raised funds for the trip.

Two long-time golf coaches for Kewaskum High School have resigned. Although his most recent team had the best season during his 18 years as coach, Glenn Eichstedt resigned due to knee problems. His assistant resigned after 18 years as well as Scott Rohlinger was finding it difficult to get done with work with a Milwaukee company in time to make it to the practices and meets. Eichstedt was just the second coach for the Kewaskum team since it officially started on a full-time basis in 1966.

Andrew Carlton, a Kewaskum High School freshman, presented a $1,500 check to Kewaskum School Board President Troy Hanson to be used for a Farm to School program at the high school through the Fuel Up To Play 60 program. The check is in addition to the $1,000 the Wisconsin Dairy Council donated for the 2016-17 school year.

Jacob is the first student from Kewaskum High School to study abroad in about 12 years.

The travelers were able to improve their language skills and learn a great deal about the German culture as they attended classes at Kethe Kollwitz Gesamtschule and took part in planned activities. During an early afternoon thunderstorm Tuesday, a bolt of lightning struck a rural home owned by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Etta about one mile north of Kewaskum. The bolt caused considerable damage to the house and set fire to the roof. Believed to have struck a TV antenna, the bolt blasted a hole through the roof, ceiling and wall of the two-family brick and log house, and shattered upstairs windows. Luckily, no one was home at the time so no one from the Merlin Seefeldt or John Breaker families was injured.

In addition to responding to the Etta fire, Kewaskum firemen also answered two grass fire calls. The first was a patch of grass along the C&N.W. railroad tracks parallel to Hwy. 45 between Who's Little Klub and CTH H, south of Kewaskum; the second between the railroad tracks and CTH V. It is believed the first started from a rubbish burner.

Last month, a theft of a video recorder, some tape recorders and about $15 in cash at the Kewaskum Elementary School occurred. Another burglary has taken place in one of the district schools as money was taken from a vending machine at Kewaskum High School. Tampering occurred on a vending machine in the cafeteria. Chief of Police Donald Hlavaty said either someone remained hidden in the building after clean up of play production or someone forgot to lock a door, allowing entrance.

Mr. and Mrs. Des Smith, Mrs. Michael Smith, Dennis Smith and Robert Norskog participated in a world-wide public service broadcast (Voices From Home) on August 8, which originated from radio station WAPL in Appleton. This program will be taped live for re-broadcast world-wide on Labor Day.

KEWASKUM LIBRARIAN

Last week, our summer learning program finished with a celebratory picnic for staff and patrons. There is a lot that goes into this program, from beginning with the planning, which occurs well in advance, to the final celebration, clean up and wrap up meetings with everything in between. None of it could have happened without the support of the community and generous donations from many.

First, I would like to thank the Monarch Library System, the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction and the Institute of Museum and Library Services for their three-year investment in Beanstack, the online platform and mobile app we used to track the reading minutes from our registrants. This asset was introduced last year during the pandemic and allowed libraries to connect with their patrons remotely to provide not only summer learning programs, but other reading challenges that we have used in the past year. I have only received compliments from participants on how easy it was to use to track reading and other learning activities.

Next, I need to express my gratitude to the local businesses who were generous with donations that we used for the drawing prize baskets. Michalenos Pizzeria donated numerous VIP passes that we were able to include in most prize baskets. We received gift cards from The General Store Antique Mall, El Pig's Butt BBQ and the Coffee Corner Bistro. Additionally, there were a couple of t-shirts each from the last two that were in a few of the prize packs. The Gift Nook in Kewaskum contributed a gorgeous arrowhead pendant that was in the Love Me basket for adults.

For our picnic, we received an awesome discount from Cousin's Subs in Kewaskum for several party packs and Engelhardt Dairy provided us with ice cream for all which was very refreshing on that warm Friday.

I am thankful for the hard-working staff that the library employs. They were instrumental in providing fun and enriching programs all summer long. For children, some of the programs we had were a stuffed animal sleepover, tie dye party and most of our storytimes were able to be held outdoors with parachute play.

We handed out over 700 craft kits this summer with every single kit handcrafted by a staff member and enjoyed by patrons of all ages. It is thrilling to view completed craft projects shared with us either in person or on social media and my staff feels fulfilled knowing how their hard work came to fruition. We plan to continue craft kits this fall, so please continue to show your projects.

Finally, I am so grateful for our dedicated patrons and readers to help make 2021 a banner summer. Our circulation and programming statistics were incredible. Your comments are appreciated as always and are well-received. And the drum roll — Kewaskum patrons read 144,171 minutes which is a total of just under 2,414 hours. Amazing!

Hope to see you soon.

the streets, talking to friendly kids and adults talk about Minnesota, was how I spent my time in Hargeisa.

The old, orange-bearded man in the minivan wasn't the only person to ask why I was going to Somalia; my taxi driver to the Minneapolis airport asked why too. He said he was from Mogadishu, and he didn't feel safe going back. When I told him I was going to Somaliland, he told me I should be good.

I was more than good in Somaliland. The trip was unique with the connections I had made, but it would have been enjoyable even without those connections. There were areas to stroll and take in the culture, amazing cave paintings, a lot of positive energy and, for someone who then resided in Minnesota, a major connection with many others besides the two uncles. My experiences in Somaliland made it very easy to answer the old man's question, why are you coming here?

Dear Editor,

Why us?

What did Kewaskum do to become hexed with deviant state representative and school board member Timothy Ramthun? Did one of our neighbors besmirch a goat? Did an unwitting Kewaskumite disturb a pharaoh's tomb? Did one of you visit a fortune teller and set off a series of self-fulfilling prophecies that led to this calamity?

I'm sure Tim can find a conspiracy theory that would explain it. He seems to use conspiracies to guide legislative action, these days.

He's certainly no wizard of fiscal responsibility. He's a grifter wasting our taxpayer dollars chasing something he watched on YouTube. (Ask him why he spent per diem of any state representative in 2020 while not showing up to work.)

If reversing this hex means donating to a Republican primary candidate, please take my money.

Our district is too great to be represented by this sideshow.

Fuzz Martin

Dear Editor,

Move along. Nothing to see here. That's what Ms. Anne Sesing would like for us to do. Her concern is the call for a forensic audit of election results. She states that there "were unproven partisan testimonies and wild conspiracy accusations."

"A Wisconsin Elections Commission (WEC) report released this week (February 3, 2021) reveals that a staggering 54,360 voters who claimed indefinite confinement did not have valid photo identification on file with their municipal clerk and were thus able to circumvent Wisconsin's Voter ID Law." {1}

Additionally, "In the most recent mover's list review, 232,579 voters were identified by ERIC as potentially having moved." {2} Wisconsin belongs to ERIC (Electronic Registration Information Center). ERIC is the system states use to validate voter registration.

Moreover, the ballot rejection rate of only 0.2 percent was significantly lower than "a then-record 1,101,474 absentee ballots ... cast" in which there was a 1.8 percent rejection rate. "Despite a 78 percent increase in the number of absentee ballots cast in November, there was a 78 percent decrease in the number of ballots that were rejected." {3} This disparity doesn't pass the smell test.

If these inconsistencies point to "one of the most stringent voter identification laws in the nation" according to Ms. Sesing, we indeed need more work done making the voting process more secure.

We endured three plus years of an investigation into the alleged Russian interference in the election of 2016. Millions were spent only to determine there was no interference that would have resulted in overturning the election. Democrats didn't accept the win for the entire term of the president. Now we have some who declare any investigation into the election process is due to "unproven partisan testimonies and wild conspiracy accusations." Were the same concerns expressed when "Democrats objected to electoral vote certification last three times a Republican was elected president?"

Finally, arguably, anything that is obtained easily is valued less. I have to ask, what is the obsession with making voting "easier?" If voting is one of the most important acts a citizen can engage in, it would seem implementing some measures to ensure fair elections is not a burden. It is the contention of many that any measures are comparable to Jim Crow 2.0. This can only be seen as an inability to conceive limits somewhere between a poll tax and not having any security at all, or cynical efforts to debase the process.

Sincerely,
Tinker Strom

August 11 (8/11) Serves As A Reminder To Contact Diggers Hotline Before Digging

Diggers Hotline hopes that the 8/11 date on the calendar served as an easy reminder for Wisconsin residents to call 811 before any digging project.

Dialing 811 on your phone is one way to get connected to Diggers Hotline, a free service that helps protect Wisconsin residents from injury and repair costs that may occur when striking a buried utility line.

Anyone in Wisconsin digging with a shovel, posthole digger or anything else that disturbs the soil is required to contact Diggers Hotline, either by phone or at www.DiggersHotline.com. Diggers Hotline takes information from Wisconsin excavators and passes that information on to Wisconsin utilities, who mark the location of their buried lines.

Installing a mailbox, landscaping projects, building a deck or laying a patio are all examples of digging projects that require contacting Diggers Hotline before starting.

It doesn't matter how deep the digging project will go. The depth of utility lines can vary for a number of reasons, such as erosion, previous digging projects and uneven surfaces. Utility lines need to be marked because even when digging only a few inches, the risk of striking an underground utility line still exists.

Anyone digging in Wisconsin, homeowners or professional contractors, is required to contact Diggers Hotline three working days before they start their digging project. Diggers Hotline can be reached via phone by dialing 811, or at www.DiggersHotline.com

On August 8 at 5:17 p.m., the Washington County Sheriff's Office Communication Center received a 911 call of a person down and receiving CPR on Highway 45 between Highway 28 and County Trunk V in the Town of Kewaskum. Dispatch began receiving additional calls indicating that the person was from a crashed motorcycle, and that there was a second patient over the guardrail. An officer from the Kewaskum Police Department and deputies from the sheriff's office began responding, along with Kewaskum Fire.

Upon the first responder's arrival on the scene, a woman in her late 40s from Jackson was found in the southbound lanes with significant injuries. A man, also in his late 40s from Jackson, was found down the embankment receiving CPR from a Good Samaritan. The motorcycle was located south of both patients on Highway 45. Lifesaving efforts on both patients were taken over by law enforcement and Kewaskum Fire, with additional assistance from West Bend Rescue and Lifestar Rescue.

The man was later pronounced deceased at the scene. The woman was conscious on scene and was transported by rescue to Froedtert Wauwatosa and is in stable condition.

The initial investigation showed that the motorcycle was operated by the man, and the woman was the passenger. The motorcycle was southbound on Highway 45 coming into Kewaskum when the operator lost control, ejecting both occupants. Weather is believed to have played a significant role in the crash as there was a very strong storm front and heavy rains that were moving through the area during the time of the crash. At this time, it is believed that no other vehicles involved in the crash, and the actual crash is believed to have been unwitnessed.

Highway 45 in both directions between Highway 28 and County Trunk V was shut down for approximately three hours for rescue and the investigation.

This accident is still under investigation by the Sheriff's Office Accident Reconstruction Team.

Personal Injury Crash

On August 5 at 8:34 p.m., the Washington County Sheriff's Office received multiple reports of a two-vehicle crash that occurred on County Trunk PV at Highway 45 in the Town of Polk. It was reported that the crash involved a van that was still in traffic and a sedan that was in the ditch. An off-duty Washington County Sheriff's Office deputy was on scene and advised that one of the occupants of the sedan had been ejected and that the operator of the sedan was still inside of the vehicle but was unresponsive. Washington County Sheriff's Office deputies, along with Jackson Fire and Rescue and West Bend Rescue, were dispatched to the scene.

Multiple witnesses reported observing the sedan operating in an erratic manner prior to being involved in the crash. The original caller in the incident was on the phone with Washington County Dispatch attempting to report the erratic driving when the crash occurred.

The crash remains under investigation by the Washington County Sheriff's Office Accident Reconstruction Team. The initial investigation revealed that the sedan had exited from Highway 45 northbound and failed to stop for the stop sign at the top of the exit ramp at County Trunk PV. The sedan drove through the intersection and over the median that separates eastbound and westbound traffic on County Trunk PV. The sedan then struck a westbound van on County Trunk PV.

Traffic on County Trunk PV was closed between County Trunk P and the on ramp for Highway 45 southbound for approximately five hours for the investigation.

The operator of the westbound van, a 44-year-old Village of Lannon man, was transported to Froedtert West Bend Hospital with minor injuries. The operator of the northbound sedan, a 59-year-old Village of Greendale man, was transported to Froedtert Hospital Wauwatosa via air medical helicopter by Flight for Life with critical injuries. The passenger of the northbound sedan, a 43-year-old Village of Butler woman, was transported to Froedtert West Bend Hospital with serious injuries and was later transferred to Froedtert Hospital Wauwatosa.

Negligent operation of a motor vehicle and impairment may be factors in the crash.

House Fire

On Thursday, Aug. 5, at 9:45 p.m., the Washington County Sheriff's Office was notified of a house fire at 2099 E. Moraine Drive in the Town of Farmington. Washington County Sheriff's deputies, Boltonville Fire Department and the Fillmore Fire Department responded to the scene. Kewaskum Fire Department Ambulance also assisted on scene.

The residence is a single-family home. The homeowner called 911 and advised that the southeast side of the house was on fire including the roof. Four adults, one child and two dogs were able to evacuate prior to first responders' arrival. Boltonville Fire personnel arrived on scene and began fire suppression efforts and extinguished the flames.

The homeowner told deputies that he was burning cardboard that day on a burn pile between 10 a.m. and noon. The burn pile was located approximately 15 yards northeast of the residence. The homeowner stated he believed the fire burn pile had smoldered out, so he went inside. The homeowner stated at around 12:30 p.m. the grass around the house started on fire and he extinguished the flames with a garden hose. The homeowner again believed the fire was extinguished. Then, at approximately 9:40 p.m., the occupants of the residence smelled smoke, the homeowner ran outside and saw that the southeast corner of the house was on fire as well as the grass next to the house.

The fire was contained to the southeast corner of the residence as well as the roof of that area. There were large portions of grass and brush on the north, east and south side of the property burned. The interior of the home sustained heat, smoke and water damage. The fire, smoke and heat damage are estimated at $80,000. The origin and cause of the fire was investigated by the Boltonville Fire Department and the Washington County Sheriff's Office. It appears hot embers from the burn pile started the grass on fire, which then spread to the brush on the southeast side of the house. The fire ultimately spread to the residence. The cause of the fire appears to be accidental from an unattended burn pile.

One adult was evaluated for smoke inhalation. One feline companion is unaccounted for.

No fire or police personnel were injured.

Drive Sober: Wisconsin's August Law Of The Month

As the busy summer travel season starts to wrap up, the Wisconsin State Patrol wants to ensure everyone is making responsible decisions to get to their destinations safely.

The State Patrol's August Law of the Month reminds drivers getting behind the wheel while impaired is dangerous and can be deadly.

Every three hours, someone in Wisconsin is killed or hurt in an alcohol-related crash.

Alcohol played a role in 6,050 crashes across the state last year; 167 lives could have been saved by getting a safe ride home.

"Every injury or death caused by impaired driving is preventable," said Wisconsin State Patrol Superintendent Anthony Burrell. "Our priority is to keep people safe, so we want everyone to protect themselves and others on the roads by planning ahead."

While more than a quarter of all traffic deaths in 2020 involved alcohol, it's not the only intoxicant impacting safe driving in Wisconsin. Legal prescriptions and illegal drugs are also a growing problem on the roads.

Last year, 2,250 crashes in Wisconsin involved drugs, including 80 fatalities. Those numbers are up from the previous year.

State officials are working to bring down these sobering statistics. This month, the State Patrol will join in a nationwide effort to crack down on impaired driving during the "Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over" campaign. That starts August 18 and runs through Labor Day.

Meanwhile, the Bureau of Transportation Safety is analyzing crash data to identify hotspots for OWI violations. State Patrol will help local law enforcement agencies focus their outreach and enforcement in certain areas. This pilot program is being developed in 12 counties in Wisconsin.

"These efforts will help eliminate impaired driving but can only be successful if everyone in the community steps up to do their part, too," Superintendent Burrell said. "Do not get behind the wheel while impaired and don't let someone else do so either."

If you see someone you suspect may be impaired on the roads, call 911.

You can also download the free "Drive Sober" mobile app, which includes a "find a ride" feature to help locate mass transit and taxi services.

Cougar PRIDE

BY THOMAS GRIESEMER
CHS ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

CHS Athletic Hall Of Fame Inductees Announced

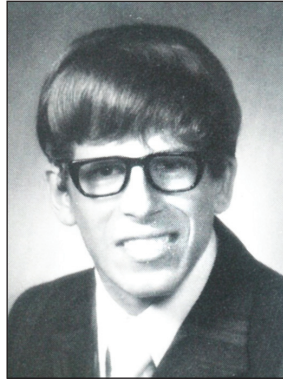

COVID-19 canceled many events or put them on the shelf for a year or two. The CHS Athletic Hall of Fame was no different. After a year off, the committee is proud to announce four new inductees to the CHS Athletic Hall of Fame.

With so many worthy candidates, the committee decided to induct four new members since no new members were added last year. The class of 2021 will be Cathy Vandermar, Rick "Rocky" Martiny, John Stoffel and Don Seefeld.

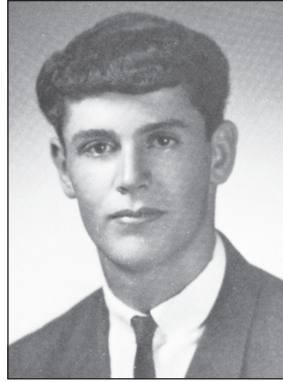

These are familiar names to many of us. If you do not know them, I will outline a few of their accomplishments as to why they were selected. A ceremony will be conducted to celebrate the induction of Cathy Vandermar, John Stoffel, and Don Seefeld at the halftime of the football game on Friday, Sept. 10. Rick "Rocky" Martiny will be honored at the 50th Annual Cougar Invite which will be held at Campbellsport Elementary School on Thursday, Oct. 7. Come out and show your support for the new inductees.

Cathy was a star in both track and cross country. She was a four-time state qualifier in cross country. That accomplishment would be reason alone for her induction, but there is so much more. Her best finish was 11th at the 1985 state meet.

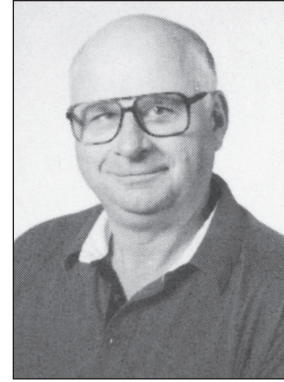

Unfortunately, we do not have her high school track records. However, Cathy went on to be equally successful at UW-Oshkosh in both sports. She was a division III all-american in 1989, national team champion in 1987 and 1988, and the individual WIAC and regional champion in 1989 (cross country). If that wasn't enough, she continued on and was a national team champion in 1990 and individual WIAC champion in both the 3000m and 5000m races in 1990 (Track). Cathy currently lives in South Carolina.

Rick "Rocky" Martiny

Since we are in running mode, let's take a look at Rick "Rocky" Martiny's credentials. In the words of Jim Vollmer, "Rick dominated and scored at track meets like no other." He single-handedly could beat other teams with his individual performances.

Rick led the 1973 track team to our only conference championship in track. He broke school records in the 440 yard dash, 880 yard dash, high jump, long jump, and the mile relay. His split time in the record setting mile relay was a sizzling 49.3 seconds!

Like Vandermar, Rick had success in both cross country and track. He was a three-time state qualifier in cross country and was a vital member of the state championship cross country team in 1973.

Rick was more than just an athlete. He was a leader and all-around great guy. In 1973, he was awarded the UW-Madison "W" Award for the Top Student Athlete. Rick joins his brother Larry who was in the Hall of Fame Class of 2019. Rick currently resides in West Bend.

John Stoffel was an all-around athlete, excelling in football, basketball, and baseball. He was awarded all-conference honors in all three sports and was the team captain in all three sports. However, John reached the greatest heights in baseball.

John's statistics in baseball his senior year were simply eye-popping. He had a 13-0 record, eight shutouts, three no-hitters, 15 strikeouts/game, and .5 ERA. The big lefthander was literally untouchable.

John went on to pitch at UW-Oshkosh for three years. He was one of the valuable arms in the Titan's NAIA World Series Championship in 1970. The scouts saw John's ability and he was drafted by the California Angels in 1972. He played in the minor leagues in Idaho Falls,

CORNER

A Walk In The Park With Ray Maurer

If you've ever been to the City of Oshkosh, you probably found yourself admiring the beauty that spans throughout the city. Oshkosh is nestled on Lake Winnebago with the Fox River running right through the city. The scenery is spectacular and the city is filled with some of the best parks in the Fox River Valley.

For local readers, you probably remember the name Ray Maurer, "Raymo" is the head of Parks and Recreation for the City of Oshkosh. Maurer has held that position since January of 2010 and oversees all the parks and their great facilities. Before coming to Oshkosh, Maurer was the director of parks, recreation and forestry for the City of Oconomowoc, a position he held for four years. After graduating from UW-Milwaukee in 1992 with a Bachelor of Science in community recreation he started out as the head of parks for the City of Cedarburg.

Maurer grew up just outside of Campbellsport and graduated from CHS in 1987. Maurer was a star baseball player for the Cougars and played for the legendary coach Hubie Diekvoss. Maurer was on the mound pitching when the Cougars won Diekvoss' 300th game. His senior year the Cougars went 23-4 losing to West Bend East in the sectional finals to go to state.

"Raymo" coached the CHS JV baseball team for two years while he was in college and was well known in the softball circuit in this area.

He played for the powerhouse Smith Insurance and Ashford softball teams, and was also a member of the Subway teams that were one of the top teams in the state.

Ray's parents are Ray and Elaine and he has three sisters (Michelle Ruplinger, Brenda Campagna and Penny Loomis). Ray lives in the Oshkosh area and has a daughter Anna. He loves to listen to live music, get out on the water at Silver Lake and bow hunt in the fall.

I just ran into Ray last Thursday night at the America concert held at the Leach Amphitheater in Oshkosh. This venue is one of the best places in all of northeastern Wisconsin to take in live music. Every Thursday night during the summer, they sponsor Waterfest and on Tuesday nights at the Leach they have free music.

The parks and recreation also has "Brews on the Bay" held at the gorgeous Menominee Park. Local breweries serve craft beers, they have live music, yard games, and food trucks.

If you've never been to Menominee Park in Oshkosh, put this on your bucket list before the summer ends. Menominee Park is an absolute gem. They have a free zoo, amusement rides, walking trails, a beach, baseball and soccer fields, boat docks, and plenty of good fishing spots right on the shore of Lake Winnebago.

Quad Cities, California, and Mexico. John's baseball career ended early with an arm injury. John is now a resident of Florida.

Don Seefeld's influence on young people and athletics in Campbellsport is far-reaching in his 30 plus years of teaching and coaching. First and foremost, he was an excellent teacher. He taught science classes and started the CAPP chemistry program at Campbellsport High School. Don was a most-deserving winner of "The Teacher of the Year" Award in 1990.

Don has an unbelievable passion for golf. He still golfs every day and had a hole-in-one earlier this year at age 80. His love for golf was shared with young people.

He coached three conference championship teams and one regional championship. He had one team state appearance and one individual state qualifier. Don had multiple stints coaching basketball. He was the varsity boys basketball coach, JV boys basketball coach, and varsity boys assistant coach. He was on the bench when the basketball team was state runner-up in 1992. He also coached former players in the East Shore League for over 20 years. Don continues to live in the Town of Eden.

As you can see, the four inductees are deserving members to our Hall of Fame. This is just one way that we continue to share our CHS story. Go Cougars!

KEWASKUM SCHOOL BOARD

school buildings during the upcoming school year, something that was not allowed last year during the pandemic.

In addition, board members said at last week's meeting that they did not want the district to require school employees to have COVID-19 vaccinations.

For athletics, the board would like the district to follow WIAA guidelines.

Board members indicated that they would like the district to monitor the pandemic situation and adjust as necessary. The board agreed that it wanted the school district to be able to make its own rules and not follow mandates set by the county health department.

"I don't want to pigeonhole our administration," School Board President Jim Leister said at last week's meeting. "I don't need big government breathing down my school board's neck telling me [what to do]. I want to self-govern with my board members."

The Kewaskum School District did not require masks or social distancing during this year's summer school. Administration received no complaints, according to Dr. Mark Bazata, the district administrator.

"Stay the course. You guys are doing a fantastic job," Leister said.

Board Member Stephanie Bird said that she would like a dashboard to be published on the district website if data is available about the number of COVID cases within the district. The board agreed that it would like the district to be transparent with that information if it is accessible.

The board directed Bazata to write up a draft of what the district's mitigation policies will be for the upcoming school year. The board is scheduled to review the draft at a regular school board meeting on Thursday, Aug. 12.

The plan will be fluid and can change if needed during the school year.

School Board Candidates

During last week's special meeting, the board interviewed 10 candidates to fill a vacant seat on the board. The seat became vacant when Doug Gonring resigned from the board on June 30 for personal reasons.

"I want to thank all the candidates for coming out. It is going to be a hard choice," Leister said.

A total of 11 people filed letters of interest to fill the vacancy on the Kewaskum School Board. Candidates include: Andy David, Frederick Luft, Nicole Fideler, Archie Graham, Connie O'Neill, Andrew Mazurek, Rhett Engelking, Bradley Petersen, Randy Reysen, Nathan Weseman and Karen Strobel.

One of the candidates, Strobel, was unable to attend last week's meeting but is still interested in the position.

Also not in attendance was one school board member, Dennis Aupperle, who was out with an excused absence. The other board members decided at last week's meeting that they would like Aupperle to still be able to weigh in on the final decision. The board members agreed that Aupperle could base his input on the letters of interest.

Candidates were asked several questions, such as what strengths they bring to the board, what made them want to apply for the board at this time, what they feel are the board's most important responsibilities and how they would handle complaints. In addition, they were asked if they would continue to comment on any Facebook pages that have been critical of school board members if they were appointed to the board.

After completing the interviews last week, the board said decided that it would make a selection during the next regular board meeting which candidate to appoint to the vacant seat. However, two of the board members, Timothy Ramthun and Aupperle, are not expected to be able to attend the regular board meeting this Thursday, Aug. 12, so the board now plans to appoint someone to fill the vacancy on Monday, Aug. 23, the day of the district's annual meeting.

The appointment is through April 22, when the position is up for election.

Moraine Park Earns Top Spot On Military Times Best For Vets

Moraine Park Technical College has earned the eighth spot on the Military Times Best for Vets college rankings as a Midwest, two-year college. This honor recognizes colleges across the country for their commitment to educating and providing opportunities to America's veterans.

Moraine Park has made this list for more than six years and serves as one of two technical colleges in Wisconsin to earn a place on this list. The Military Times surveys colleges and universities annually, and more than 350 schools participated in the latest Military Times Best for Vets: Colleges survey, which seeks details about the school's costs, programs, policies, and services that impact military-connected students. Federal data from the U.S. Departments of Education, Veterans Affairs and Defense, were also considered.

"The college is committed to making sure every veteran who steps onto our campuses are provided everything they need to be successful," Steve Pepper, student veteran specialist said. "I truly believe having someone our veteran students can turn to who can speak their language or understand some of their frustrations is important to their college experience and overall success."

Moraine Park offers many programs that qualify under Veteran Administration (VA) benefits, with flexible scheduling options. The college is continuously working to maintain a culture that supports the challenges that veterans may encounter.

"This nationwide recognition confirms the proactive work Moraine Park has been doing," Lt. Col. Scott Lieburn, U.S. Air Force, and dean of students at Moraine Park said. "As both a veteran and current active-duty service member, I am thankful to be part of a team of staff at the college that truly cares about creating and preserving a supportive campus culture for our student veterans."

The college also ranked 31 among all public colleges and universities in the Midwest and 38 among all colleges and universities in the Midwest.

The "Military Times Best" ranking is published in the Military Times magazine and is available to subscribers, as well as online at MilitaryTimes.com and other affiliated websites.

For more information about Moraine Park's Veterans Services, visit morainepark.edu/veterans.

Nearing the 40th graduation anniversary more classmates may begin to desire reconnecting with old friends. By this time many alumni are empty nesters, financially comfortable, free to travel more often and have a different life perspective that comes with age. Besides seeking to touch base with old friends, a desire to make new acquaintances with former classmates may be a goal. Cliques that may have governed class associations by wealth or sports participation or family situations in high school aren't so defined two score of years down the road. Those who would never have had anything in common in times past, now discover many similarities in hobbies, job situations, geographic location, or family life.

In these middle years, the realization sets in that life isn't perfect. Each graduate has experienced trials under the belt of life. All have wounds — whether from parents, siblings, spouse, children, friends, coworkers, the church, illness, finances, or tragedy. No one has been exempt, but there is a vast difference between the attitude of those who allowed the wounds to become stumbling blocks and the ones who have used the wounds as stepping stones to a greatly enhanced life.

Those who have allowed these times of testing to cause them to stumble generally have a negative outlook on life, are more likely to whine about injustice, are critical, and find it difficult to forgive anyone of anything. They don't look forward to much in life. These people look far older than their years; they've been wasted by the winds of time.

Peers who have 'made lemonade out of lemons' throughout their lives still have a positive outlook; they're able to find something good in even the worst situation. They desire to be a positive example for others. The secret these overcomers have discovered is that as long as they still have hope anything is possible.

Very often these conquerors have learned how to allow God to be in control. They have found peace and rest in the midst of the storms of life. Learning that God is a loving Father who has hope-filled plans for their future (Jeremiah 29:11) gives them the incentive to keep looking forward to what may be just around the corner. They begin to rise up to the purpose they were created for — to love and serve God by being His ambassador to others. Having purpose in life brings a satisfaction that cannot be measured.

Your class reunion gathering could be an opportunity to compliment the overcomers and encourage those yet to overcome. It's never too late to experience a turnaround in life.

Childhood is a happy, vibrant time when kids want to explore everything around them. We want to help children learn and develop by providing a rich environment and a compassionate, professional staff of teachers who encourage spontaneous curiosity and imagination.

Kids Care is currently seeking a Full Time 4K Teacher to join our excellent team! Candidates must hold Bachelor's degree in Early Childhood/Elementary Education or related field; have one year of child development experience in a school, kindergarten or licensed child care center and hold a teaching license through the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction including a certification from The Registry indicating qualifications as a child care teacher, level 14 or above.
