Tennes and Vogt Receive Kewaskum Police Chief Awards

At the December Village of Kewaskum Board Meeting, Kewaskum Police Chief Tom Bishop gave out two Police Chief Awards for 2021.

The award is presented annually by the chief to “citizens for their demonstrated citizenship, community service, accomplishments, support of the Police Department or other deserving act as determined by the Chief of Police. Any member of the Department or citizen may recommend a person for this award.”

This year’s awards went to Angela Tennes and Kristy Vogt.

When presenting the award to Angela Tennes, Chief Bishop stated:

“On July 6, 2021, our office received a call from Geidel’s Piggly Wiggly regarding an elderly male subject attempting to buy a large number of gift cards. The employee recognized this as a possible scam and contacted our department. After investigation, Officer Rosales confirmed this was in fact a scam. Without the kindness and vigilance of Angela Tennes, who alerted us, this man would have been scammed out of approximately $6,000. Thank you to Angela Tennes and all the awesome employees of Geidel’s Piggly Wiggly for caring and looking out for our community members!”

When presenting the award to Kristy Vogt, Chief Bishop stated:

“For your assistance with an unusual suspected financial crime that our department investigated in July 2021. Without your assistance, Lt. Steiner would not have been able to fully understand the complicated process of how funds were misappropriated and how to properly communicate with the financial institutions involved. Because of your involvement, we were able to appropriately resolve this complaint. Furthermore, your overall contributions to improve the quality of life in the Village of Kewaskum through your civic engagement is also recognized and appreciated!”

Never Too ‘Young’ or ‘Old’ For Santa

Santa made a surprise visit to Legion Post 454 in Mt. Calvary earlier this month, and he proved that no one is too “young” or too “old” to meet with Mr. Claus. As word quickly spread that Santa had arrived at Post 454, members assisted in making the visit a memorable experience for all the children who showed up. Santa and his helpers also found time to visit

Kewaskum Village Has Two Open Trustee Seats

The Village of Kewaskum currently has two open Trustees seats for the April 5, 2022, Spring Election.

Trustee Richard Laubach announced that he will not be seeking re-election in 2022. Earlier this year, Village President Kevin Scheunemann submitted his resignation; resulting in an open one-year term. In addition, Trustees Richard Knoebel and Nathan Wendelborn are up for re-election in April 2022.

Village residents interested in running for a Village of Kewaskum Trustee position can obtain nomination papers from the Village Clerk or on the Wisconsin Election Commission website. Nomination papers must be turned in to the Village Clerk on or before 5 p.m. on Tuesday, January 4.

Candidate terms will be based on election results.

The top three candidates will serve a two-year term from April 19, 2022 – April 16, 2024. The fourth-place candidate will serve a one-year term from April 19, 2022 – April 18, 2023.

For more information, contact Tammy Butz, Village Clerk/Deputy Treasurer at 204 First Street, Kewaskum, WI 53040, by phone: 262-626-8484 or e-mail: tbutz@village.kewaskum.wi.us.

The Wonders of Christmas

Dear Reader,

When I think of Christmas I reminisce on the wonders as seen through the eyes of a child...the lights, the Christmas tree, the snowman, that special present, the garlands, the pageantry of events leading up to Christmas Day. A childlike wonder bypasses the commercialization and materialistic notions because of the simplicity and purity a child processes within the context of an uncomplicated life.

Let's stop for a moment; let's find peace through the darkness. Let's embrace the joys of this holiday season apart from the chaos and frenzy of mostly self-induced obligations. After all, if you're a Christian, the hope of it all began with a child in a manger long ago and far away.

Reader Believes 'More to the Story' on School Vouchers

Dear editor,

After reading [Wisconsin State Senator] Duey Stroebel's article, "The Whole Picture on Voucher School Funding," the picture seemed rather blurry to me.

There are many arguments for and against the voucher program, but one omission in Duey's argument in favor of it, was the cost of duplicate expenditures.

Aren't taxpayers funding teacher salaries, textbooks, supplies, utilities and maintenance costs in all of these facilities?

Logically, it would not cost less to maintain a building and grounds, or keep programs going, when students leave to attend another school.

Wisconsin taxpayers are now funding two separate school systems, a public and a private, out of one education fund, and local property taxpayers are continually passing referendums to raise their taxes to ease the financial burden on their local public schools.

Can't we find a way to fund and improve the school system we've had for decades, instead of siphoning money into another, private system?

I agree with Duey, there's more to this story.

Signed,
Anne Sesing

As we pass Christmas and tumble through these last few dwindling days on the cusp of 2022, never before has time seemed so crucial. We rush to take inventory, draw up a list of resolutions, promises we'll won't keep. Leastwise, beyond a few weeks or maybe, only days.

But mostly, we're in a hurry to fetch in the new year. Never rightly understood that. Oh, 2021 has proved to be an annum almost everybody wants to put behind them. As was 2020. Yet can't help bearing in mind Santayana's warning: those who forget history are doomed to repeat it.

Thanks to blunders made at the beginning, the pandemic clung to us like a tick in a dog's ear. An important lesson still hasn't sunk in. With freedom comes responsibility. Not only to ourselves.

Until and unless we keep it in the forefront of our minds, this plague will become a general malaise. An epidemic which claims ever more lives and continues needlessly.

A lesser, though pertinent point is when a person grows older and feels their life sped away. Precisely the same cause and effect. Too busy, poised for a leap into tomorrow, they neglected today.

It's then the entire mindfulness movement hits foursquare between the eyes. Such a simple answer. Right under one's nose. Be present. Live in the moment. With it will come a whole new attitude of gratitude. Hold up with the Guy Lombardo/Royal Canadians version of auld lang syne. Don't be so eager for the ball to drop in NYC. Ushering in the new/out the old.

True, 2021 wasn't the best of times. But if you lived to see these waning December days, then you were more than fortunate. Heaven smiled down and richly bestowed an unexpected blessing. That alone is worth a lingering thought and a hearty thank you.

Taking Care of our Own, Mayville Company Sends Relief to Kentucky

Feucht Trucking of Mayville delivered two semi-trailers full of donated goods to Mayfield, Ken. Following devastating storms

MITCHELL BRADLEY KELLER
ACTING EDITOR

A rare but intense series of windstorms whipped through the Midwest earlier this month, causing damage to a wide region in the Pioneer coverage area.

The storms, however, were not nearly as intense here in Wisconsin as they were in Kentucky where a series of tornados, including a EF4 that traveled an estimated 227 miles (potentially a U.S. record), destroyed more than 1,000 homes, killed 78 people and upended life for many in a 15-county area in the Bluegrass State.

Scott Feucht of Feucht Trucking, Inc. in Mayville, after seeing the destruction on the news and on the internet, asked his employees to think creatively about how they could help.

Business manager Kristin Schaefer began to ask around, and she connected with a motivated bunch from Winooski Bowmen Archery Club in Plymouth.

"They were looking for a trucking company," said Schaefer, who was happy to transport whatever the groups could combine to collect for families in need. "They asked if they filled two trailers if we could provide two trucks and drivers."

Schaefer happily obliged, but admitted to thinking two full trailers might be a hard ask. It was not.

"Never in my life did I think it would happen, but we had almost three trailer-fulls that we fit into two," said Schaefer, who said the response to the initiative was enormous.

Not only were the communities of Mayville and Plymouth (and the surrounding areas) able to send so many materials (diapers, clothes, etc.), but the materials being sent were, in many cases, brand new and specifically purchased for the fundraiser.

An inside shot of a semi-trailer of donated goods sent to Mayfield, Ken., which were collected by the Winooski Bowman of Plymouth and Feucht Trucking of Mayville.

"People did not donate used items. People went out of their way to buy new items. New everything," said Schaefer, who was stunned and humbled by the outpouring from the communities. "Brand new diapers, brand new jackets, backpacks, socks. Kentucky isn't as cold as Wisconsin, but it certainly is chilly."

The supplies, in particular, went to the City of Mayfield (population of roughly 10,000). Mayfield was hit very hard with some residents unlikely ever to return to their damaged or destroyed homes.

"Almost exactly the same as our little communities," said Schaefer in why Mayfield was chosen to receive the donations. "This easily could have happened here [in Mayville]. We saw there was a need for help, and we thought we should."

In this country, we take care of our own, and we should all be thankful to those who carry the torch toward disaster when comfort is needed.

There are several organizations still raising money for the Kentucky tornado relief. Visit redcross.org to get more information on how you can help.

Campbellsport Middle School October Students of the Month

Sydney Brandt
(6th grade)

The sixth grade team is proud to announce Sydney Brandt as a sixth grade Student of The Month for October! Sydney has been working very hard in all her subjects and always comes to class prepared to learn. She is great about sharing her ideas in class discussions and always ready to lend a helping hand to anyone in need. Thank you for making a huge difference in the sixth grade Sydney, keep up the excellent work!

Keegan Bowe

The student of the month for October is Keegan Bowe. Keegan is an excellent role model for all his peers in sixth grade. He is consistently striving to go above and beyond in all his academic areas. When in class, he actively engages and participates to problem solve and overcome any challenges when given a task. He demonstrates excellent leadership skills and frequently helps others in need.

Autumn Meier
(7th grade)

It is our privilege to announce Autumn Meier as the October seventh grade student of the month! Both students and teachers can agree that Autumn is the epitome of Cougar Character, always being respectful, responsible and resourceful while wearing a smile on her face!

Autumn is a diligent student. She gives 110 percent with every assignment and works hard to make sure she has done her best work. She isn't afraid to ask questions to ensure that she is doing her work properly and is willing to help her peers as well. She is patient, meticulous, and prompt. She goes the extra mile to check for accuracy. Recently, when out of school for an extended period of time, Autumn was regularly in contact with her teachers via email and google classroom and was able to return to school with most of her work completed, barely behind her classmates.

Keep up the good work and keep smiling, Autumn!

Brayson Baumhardt

Our eighth grade October Student of the Month is Brayson Baumhardt. If you know Brayson, you know that he is rather quiet. He isn't the type of student that tries to draw attention to himself. This reason, alongside others, is one of the reasons Brayson is our student of the month. Although quiet, Brayson leads by example in the way he carries himself, the actions he takes in the classroom, and the way he speaks to those around him. It is said that "character is who you are when no one is looking." Brayson shows the true meaning of character every day when he stays after his Cougar Time class has been let out to straighten Mrs. Flatt's desk and clean up the paper off the floor left by his classmates. He has never looked to be acknowledged for this small but mighty act of kindness, but his actions have not gone unnoticed. Daily, Brayson works to make the environment around him and his classmates a better place.

Brayson also leads quietly through his actions in the classroom. He is always respectful to his peers, his teachers and his environment. He is always willing to participate in class and does not let the fear of being wrong stop him from positively contributing to class. Daily, Brayson showcases the qualities that we look for as teachers – a willingness to learn and a respect for the process. Because of these reasons, Brayson Baumhardt is our eighth grade Student of the Month.

CHS December Students of the Month

Campbellsport High School is proud to announce its December Students of the Month. All high school students are eligible for this honor. Teachers make their selections based upon attitude, effort, character, interest and achievement as exhibited in the classroom and school community.

Administration, faculty and staff are committed to developing future leaders in our community. We want to honor those who are striving each and every day to be those future leaders who demonstrate this by their positive actions and behaviors.

Congratulations to Nathan Seefeld, Mercedes Herrmann, Emmi Anders and Joe Volz for being selected as the CHS Students of the Month in December.

Nathan Seefeld

The Campbellsport High School PE Department is proud to announce that Nathan Seefeld has earned the PE Student of the Month nomination for December. Nathan can always be seen exhibiting excellence. Each and every day Nathan comes to class with a smile on his face. He always puts forth his best effort and encourages and helps others to do the same, regardless of the activity. Nathan is a wonderful role model for his peers and we wish him well in his future endeavors. Good work Nathan! (Submitted by Mr. Schuh)

Mercedes Herrmann

I am proud to announce that I nominate junior Mercedes Herrmann for Student of the Month for the Campbellsport High School Social Studies Department. Mercedes is currently in my American government class and has clearly shown an advanced understanding of the content. Mercedes is always quick to finish her work and use her class time wisely. She has the ability to analyze any topic in class similar to how a political strategist would. She also keeps up to date with current events and shares with the class. Mercedes is a highly motivated individual who is able to balance her classes, and go above and beyond in them, even without having a study hall in her schedule. This is even more impressive since she is so involved in several extra-curricular activities. Mercedes has the capability to succeed at whatever she sets her mind to in her future. She is a good listener, a deep thinker and a thorough writer. I have enjoyed getting to know her and benefit from her critical and logical thinking that she applies to every part of her education. (Submitted by Mrs. Trewin)

Emmi Anders

This month the music department is proud to announce that Emmi Anders is student of the month for the arts department. Emmi has always enjoyed music and has played piano for years but this year she stepped up and offered to play a few songs on the piano at the chorus Christmas concert. Additionally, she and another student were selected to sing a duet at the concert. She was very proud of this accomplishment and practiced for it on her own time. Emmi has been stepping up to the plate and becoming a section leader for the alto section. I can hear her singing and she will ask questions and for help when needed. She has also aided other students in her section when they needed some support. Emmi will be participating in solo and ensemble in February and will be in the CYO musical for the first time this spring. Congratulations Emmi on all your hard work. (Submitted by Mr. Seidl)

Joe Volz

December's Math Student of the Month is Joe Volz. Joe has been a leader in the classroom throughout the school year and has demonstrated that he not only cares about his learning, but that of others as well. Much of what we do in class is group based and Joe can be relied on to bring out the best in his peers and elevate them to their best levels. In addition to that, this month we had a team assessment which had a particularly challenging question that we thought most students would struggle on. Of the more than 100 students who took this test, Joe was the single student who was able to figure out a solution that was correct. Keep up the great work, Joe! (Submitted by Mr. Wettstein)

KHS Coin Drive Winners

The Kewaskum High School Student Council ran a December coin drive to support the Albrecht Free Clinic. Four male staff members offered to participate and the staff member with the most money "won." The winner, Mr. Last, at left is dressed as Mrs. Claus. Second place Mr. Tennes, head KHS football coach is dressed as an elf. Both were great sports for a great cause! The students got a chuckle on the day before the holiday break when they saw these two characters in the hallway. SUBMITTED

He was a current member of Holy Trinity Catholic Church, Kewaskum, and previous member of St. Bridget’s Catholic Church. Fond memories were made with his children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and friends.

Those Barney leaves behind to cherish his memory include four children, Mary (Jim) Gutjahr of the Town of Addison, Michael Strobel of Kewaskum, John “Squeak” (Jodi) Strobel of Kewaskum, and Shelley (Todd) Bartelt of the Town of West Bend; four stepchildren, Susan (Alfredo) Kleppin Lopez of Madison, Cindy (Fred) Mollwitz of Mequon, Mike (Denice) Sterr and Larry Sterr of West Bend; a sister, Jeanette Eisenhaut of Fond du Lac; brothers-in-law, Paul Bodden of Kewaskum, and Larry (Nancy) Cotter of West Bend; and sisters-in-law, Susie (Thomas) Guth of Kewaskum, and Sally Fellenz of West Bend.

These were all of his “snappers and chickadees”.

In addition to his parents and wives, Barney was preceded in death by two brothers, Lester Strobel, and Raymond Jr.; daughter-in-law, Jane (Theusch) Strobel; many brothers-in-law and sisters-in-law, Tom Eisenhaut, Lorraine Strobel, Val Strobel, Sally and Don Funk, Irene and Alvin Wietor, Rose and Clarence Schmidt, Esther and Leo Nigh, Alvin and Valarie Straub, Norman and Lois Straub, Bernice and William Volland, Bernard Straub, Bernadine Bodden, James Cotter, Chuckie Fellenz, Colette (Bernie) Kastner.

In lieu of flowers please honor Barney’s memory by buying a Badger 5 lottery ticket, making a rack of ribs, having a shot of blackberry brandy (must be Leroux), playing Ship Captain Crew, signing in at 5th Quarter or Swedes, watching the Price is Right, taking a day trip to North Star Casino in Bowler, betting 12 and 5 on the roulette wheel, cheering on the Brewers, enjoying a fish fry at CC’s, playing bingo at the Curve Inn, shopping the Pig, listening to Syl Groeschel music, eating a windmill cookie, taking a nap, or telling someone, Mach’s gut!, Auf Wiedersehen! Schick dich!

A private family service will be held. Father Jacob Strand will officiate.

The family would like to thank Father Jacob Strand and Horizon Hospice Nurses for their wonderful support at this time.

A life, so beautiful, deserves a special celebration. You are invited to help us honor the life of our dad, Barney. UW-Division of Extension announces regional educators

The University of Wisconsin – Division of Extension is moving to a structure of having regional dairy, farm management and crops educators across the state. These positions will provide research-based education to dairy and crop producers by assessing the needs of farmers in their region, and designing and delivering educational programming and services to meet those needs.

Dairy and crop production are the largest agricultural industries in the state, and Regional Educators will offer specific expertise that can serve those industries across several counties. Regional Educators will:

- Design and deliver educational meetings and field days in the counties they represent.
- Provide consultation on production challenges to farmers and agricultural consultants.
- Contribute to digital outreach opportunities on agricultural topics through email, websites, and social media.
- Collaborate with other educators and specialists across the state
- Engage with Extension Committees on progress and planning.

The Kewaskum/Campbellsport region will be served by a regional dairy educator, regional farm management educator, and regional crops educator. these educators will cover Fond du Lac, Ozaukee, Sheboygan and Washington counties in 2022.

The Regional Dairy Agent is Tina Kohlman, who joined Extension in 1999, first serving as the dairy and livestock agent in Sheboygan County and most recently for Fond du Lac County. Kohlman’s dairy programming has focused and will continue to focus on dairy production management, including dairy calves and heifer management, animal husbandry and well-being, and nutrition to help dairy producers improve productivity, profitability, and efficiency while maintaining animal well-being.

“The regional staffing model allows each educator to focus in more specific areas of expertise, allowing them to work collaboratively across county lines to provide stronger support and resources to the agriculture industry in the four-county area,” Kohlman said.

The regional farm management educator is Stephanie Plaster, who joined Extension in 2013 serving as the farm management educator in Ozaukee/Washington Counties. Plaster’s educational programming will continue to focus on business feasibility and viability along with strategy development.

“I’m excited for the opportunity to expand my work with farmers and the ag community across these four counties,” Plaster said.

The regional crops and soils agent is Michael Ballweg, who joined Extension in 1987, serving as the crops and soil agent in Sheboygan County. Ballweg’s educational programming will continue to focus on: agronomic BMPs, forage production and utilization, cover crops, soil health and water quality.

“Regional ag specialization renews Extension’s commitment to delivering high quality evidence-based information to area farms and ag businesses,” Ballweg said.

Due to the last minute rush of closing their books, the First State Bank, in cooperation with all other Fond du Lac County banks, will close at 1 p.m. on December 31. In making this announcement, Mr. Thiel pointed out that these are the same as Saturday's hours. Two brush fires promiscuously lit last Friday exceeded their intended boundaries and it was necessary to all the local fire department to hold them and repair the damage they had created. The first fire was in the vicinity of the Herman Butzke home near Lake Fifteen about 3:30 p.m. Someone had began a fire in the marsh. It burned from the south of the Butzke home around the farm buildings, igniting the straw stack and then continuing north and east. The straw stack, being between the farm buildings, endangered them. The fire in the vicinity of the Duncan Buddenhagen farm had just overreached its intended bounds and the department was called to check it. Firemen were unable to put the equipment away from the Butzke blaze before going out to the Buddenhagen fire.

Looking back over the activities of the past year, our village can boast of more building operations and growth along that line than most any other place of its size in the country. In fact, it has beaten its former records, both in the number of new residences erected and the value of the improvements, which will be added to the tax levies for next year. The new residences erected, together with the extensive improvements made on others, will add approximately $75,000 to the village valuation of improvements.

Several weeks ago, the cover of the Saturday Evening Post contained a picture of a dog with a "For Sale" sign hanging about his neck and a small boy standing beside the dog, looking as though he was losing his best friend. A few days ago, a letter addressed to Miss Alberta Wright came from the Saturday evening Post. It contained a letter and her pennies. The letter stated the Saturday Evening Post had given the poor little boy in the picture some money so he would not have to sell his dog.

KEWASKUM'S DAYS GONE BY*5 Years Ago*January 5, 2017

After voters approved the November referendum, the Kewaskum School District started taking the first steps to making its capital project a reality. The $28.42 million project will address facility needs at the high school and middle school. Official survey work on the site has begun, and a vendor has been contracted to remove any asbestos that exists in the tile at the two schools. The first phase of financing, approved in December, includes a short-term note of $8.9 million, which carries an interest rate of 1.15 percent. The note was purchased by Washington County. The district intends to continue working with PMA Financial to secure financing for the remainder of the project. Voters approved a conceptual drawing that a Long Range Planning Committee worked on for a year to develop. That committee was made up of about 57 school and community members.

Last month, students from Kewaskum Elementary School were spotted doing random acts of kindness. As the entire school focused on the trait of kindness during December, the students learned about random acts of kindness. They then put what they learned into action. The results of the lesson were two-fold. While many students benefited from receiving help, they also learned that they received internal rewards when they reached out to others.

The Kewaskum High School group Noteables is a competitive show choir group. The group sings and dances to a set of themed music that is arranged and choreographed by Andrew and Lindsay Dahlberg. Under their direction, Noteables has become an award-winning company that is gaining the respect and admiration of other competing schools. The theme this year is about overcoming challenges.

Kewaskum's girls basketball team captured the Rio Tournament title, beating Rio 61-46 on December 30. To get to the title game, the Lady Indians defeated Randolph in a close game 40-38. Hailey Herriges, Makayla Dogs and Molly Schulteis were named to the all-tournament team.

Although there aren't a lot of wrestlers in the Kewaskum program, those who did participate in the two-day Merrill Tournament did well as the team went 5-2. Kewaskum placed seventh of 18 teams. The Indians were 3-2 the first day, beating Edgar, Eden Prairie, and Rosholt, and losing to Menomonee Falls and Port Washington. Their two duals the second day were exciting and close, with Kewaskum winning 34-33 over Green Bay Preble and 38-37 over Waukesha South.

Those who want to learn how to ice fish should meet at the Mauthe Lake Recreation Area picnic shelter located at the Kettle Moraine State Forest - Northern Unit. Instruction will include cold-weather safety trips as well as the appropriate gear and tackle. Because it is Free Winter Fishing Weekend, participants do not need a fishing license.

Many items were discussed during the December meeting of the Town of Kewaskum. One of the agenda items included preparing residents to go through property assessment updates in 2008. This will be done so the town can budget properly. It's estimated 450 parcels will be involved. Grota Appraisals recommends doing a full re-evaluation in 2011 as the last time this was done was in 2002.

HISTORY

Another item on the Town of Kewaskum agenda was posting and enforcing an unknown ordinance regarding dumping at the recycling center. Town officials previously asked clerk Nancy Boden to draft a resolution regarding the matter. She reported an ordinance allowing her to issue citations to those who dump at the center after hours is in place. As a warning, the town will post a sign notifying residents of the ordinance at the recycling center. Those who violate the ordinance will be issued a citation carrying a $100 fee plus court costs, which amounts to $249. Supervisors approved a site plan for a 34-unit mini storage building at 9114 N. Mill Road. Mark Braun will erect the storage building on the former Voight Recycling Property.

Firefighters from Kewaskum and Campbellsport worked on a structure fire December 28 in the Town of Auburn. The fire originated in the basement of a home on County Road G. There were no injuries. Firefighters quickly worked to extinguish the blaze that caused mostly smoke damage.

The Kewaskum Village Board will hear from a group of Bonnie Lane residents at the January 8 meeting. The residents say they are concerned with the condition of the Koser property that sustained a tragic fire this past spring. That fire was the scene of a murder-suicide in which William Koser is believed to have shot his daughter, Elizabeth, seven, set his home on fire, and then shot himself. Neighbors are concerned because not much has been done to the property since that time. There are concerns that the property may become a breeding ground for illegal activity.

Kewaskum Chief of Police Dick Knoebel reported that between three to four vehicles were broken into December 29 while at Hon-E-Kor Country Club and PJ Magoos. The department is investigating so no further information could be released.

Marissa Dehler and Stephan Kattar were named Kiwanis Students of the Month for December.

A Farmington Alumni Scholarship was recently established at UW-Washington County by Norb and Louella Dettmann. The $1,000 scholarship will be awarded each year to a returning UW-Washington County student who attended Farmington Elementary School. The couple lives in Boltonville.

Eric Ogi placed second at 145 pounds at the On the Waters Classic held at UW-Oshkosh campus. The senior lost the championship to sophomore Ben Provisor from Stevens Point Area Senior High School. Provisor had already won a national Greco Roman title and was the Cadet Greco Roman Wrestler of the Year last season. He would continue his winning ways, which included earning the right to go to the Olympics.

Willard W. Prost, 86, Kewaskum, passed away December 27. Henry A. Oppermann, 88, Town of Auburn, passed away December 26. Kathryn Elizabeth Ribbecky, 19, Campbellsport, passed away December 28. Ted L. Griepentrog, 67, West Bend, passed away December 29. Gladys L. Comeau, 84, West Bend, passed away December 29. Priscilla J. Swift Sr., 77, West Bend, passed away December 31.

The Town of Scott has entered into a contract with Assessor Ernest Matthies to conduct a reassessment of all residential and agricultural property in the town in 1997, with August 1998 targeted as the completion date. Total cost to the town is $27,000. Town officials have been made aware of a zoning violation which took place several months ago and needs to be resolved as soon as possible.

A special kindergarten program for four-year-olds developed by the Kewaskum School District will be featured at the annual convention of the Wisconsin Association of School Boards in Milwaukee in January. The Kewaskum project will be one of nearly two dozen programs highlighted at the convention January 16. According to George Allmann, district curriculum resource specialist and First Steps coordinator, the program began in 1991, when the district began to screen four-year-olds as part of its kindergarten screening program. That year, 10 students were enrolled. Today, 40 students attend class two mornings or afternoons a week with home visitation by the classroom teacher on Friday.

Begu's Family Restaurant, located at 1526 Fond du Lac Ave. in Kewaskum, was welcomed to the Kewaskum community by the Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce.

Bassooning his way to the top, Jim Baumhardt, a junior at Kewaskum High School, has accomplished an all-time first for his school and community. Recently, Jim was chosen to audition for the Young Artists (a scholarship organization in Milwaukee), entitling him to perform his solo, "The Bassoon Concerto" by Vivaldi, accompanied by the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra. Jim started playing the bassoon in sixth grade at Beechwood Elementary School under the direction of Clyde Brehm. Jim tried out for the Young Artists last year and received honorable mention.

Supt. Floyd Brenhold reported Monday night to the board of education on the progress made with the architects on the building needed for the split-shift program. Architects from Schuette-Moehon estimated the cost of a metal building of some 8,000 square feet would be $154,000, which includes heating and air conditioning. Although the building would be built in open concept, it would be equivalent of nine classrooms plus toilet facilities.

The cage ball marathon at Kewaskum High School was shortened to 24.5 hours instead of the scheduled 48 hours because the tired girls didn't get enough relief and simply ran out of substitutes. When they called it quits, the senior girls were slightly ahead of the junior girls, 1,267 to 1,088.

Schools in the 30th district (Elkhart Lake, Kewaskum, Plymouth, Random Lake, Sheboygan Falls, and West Bend) had representatives at the FFA District Contest that was held in Kewaskum. The Kewaskum team, consisting of Richard Loof, Dean Schmidt, Dale Prost, Paul Stoffel, Phillip Stoffel, and Dale Burke was the winning team of the district contest.

Other States have had Success with Wildlife Bridges, Where are Wisconsin's?

Crossing structures can reduce crashes by as much as 80 percent in some areas of the country

THE BADGER PROJECT

Deer cause more than 16,000 car crashes in Wisconsin every year, leading to millions of dollars in damage, and even a few lives lost. Yet the state has no wildlife crossing structures big enough for deer, which are effective in other states. The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources says they're not feasible.

Vehicles collide with deer somewhere in Wisconsin an average of about 45 times a day, according to records from the DNR. An average deer crash costs about $4,800, according to American Family Insurance. That puts the estimated total bill for deer crashes in Wisconsin at more than $75 million per year.

On top of the monetary damage, deer crashes kill an average of about eight people in Wisconsin every year, according to the Wisconsin Department of Transportation.

Some states around the country, such as Utah, Nevada and California, have embraced wildlife crossing structures to help reduce the problem. These are tunnels or bridges designed to move wildlife safely through roadways. Crossing structures can reduce crashes by as much as 80-90 percent in some areas, according to the Center for Large Landscape Conservation, a Montana group with a goal to unite American landscapes.

"The fact is that wildlife-vehicle collisions are expensive a lot of times, especially with these medium-to-larger size animals," said Daniel Olson, Wildlife Migration Initiative Coordinator at the Utah Division of Wildlife Resources. "It doesn't take avoiding very many crashes for [crossing structures] to pay for themselves, because the damage and injuries are so high for those types of events."

Just as in Wisconsin, Utah's deer population causes the majority of wildlife crashes. But the dominant species in Utah are mule deer, a migratory species. They account for about 10,000 crashes a year, according to Olson.

Utah has been constructing wildlife crossing structures since the 1970s, but the state has recently moved to build more. There are currently more than 50 in the state.

Fencing has to be installed along roadways for miles in either direction to ensure wildlife is properly funneled through the structure. Without it, animals would just shift the collision problem down the road, Olson said.

"We typically see a huge reduction in vehicle collisions when we use wildlife crossing structures, plus exclusionary fencing for the animals to cross," Olson said. "Those are a really effective combo."

In Wisconsin, the DOT has installed many wildlife crossings throughout the state for smaller animals like turtles, and deer are able to use the wildlife shelves or walkways built under waterway bridges, said Kristin McHugh, a spokesperson for the DOT.

But the DNR has decided larger wildlife crossings wouldn't be effective in "significantly" reducing deer collisions, said Scott Roepke, a Wisconsin DNR Area Wildlife Supervisor in La Crosse.

Unlike mule deer out west, white-tailed deer in Wisconsin are not very migratory. So building costly crossing structures in the state would have minimal impact, Roepke said. While Utah is able

CAMPBELLSPORT & KEWASKUM

Reflections from the WIAA Sportsmanship Summit

Members of CHS attended the annual meeting and provided feedback on the experience

Campbellsport High School (CHS) sent a team of four students and one coach to this year's Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association Sportsmanship Summit in Stevens Point on Dec. 8.

Coach Shannon Toshner took Maddie Smith, Aubree Koenings, Ben Timm and Lucas Beck to a conference that focused on the ideas of sportsmanship, school spirit and leadership. The objective was to learn ways that the group could improve their school, community and athletic programs.

The following thoughts are the takeaways from those Campbellsport student/athletes:

Coach Shannon Toshner: I'd like to start my review of the Sportsmanship Summit off with a thank you to CHS and Mr. [Tom] Griesemer. Thank you for recognizing leadership is a vital part in creating and sustaining a championship culture. Thank you for investing in our youth.

It was an awesome sight to see a large conference room filled with students, coaches and [athletic directors] eager to soak up knowledge to better their school and sports teams. From a coaching perspective, this summit was incredibly valuable, and I had a lot of takeaways that I would like to share at our CHS Coaching Summits, during the track and field season and now to the community.

My first takeaway was Craig Hillier's concept of: "Having a Season of Significance".

It was incredible to learn that there are two questions our athletes can ask for them to have a "Season of Significance."

They are:

- (1) What are your expectations of me as an athlete on your team?;
- (2) How can I (the athlete) help you (the coach) this year/season?

Wow! I cannot express my joy as a coach if I were to be asked these two simple questions.

My first breakout session was with Thaddeus Hilliard who provided the official's perspective. He had some great nuggets for both athletes and coaches. Thaddeus stated, "the greatest act of sportsmanship is to enjoy the game."

As a coach, and as a parent, it is my job to teach my kids and athletes sportsmanship by letting them play, teaching them that there are no shortcuts, making sure they learn a lesson versus a loss, teaching them to clap and teaching them to respect. Teaching the youth these principles will help them enjoy the game!

My next breakout session was "My Coach Plays F.A.V.O.R.I.T.E.S." with Mark Horbinski.

Do they?

They sure do.

The favorite athlete of a coach is an athlete that is coachable. But what does it mean to be coachable? You're a coachable athlete if you take responsibility for your words and actions, are open to asking and receiving feedback, strive for self improvement and personal growth, be a great teammate and (my favorite) give maximum effort with maximum focus.

Mark Horbinski stated and, as a coach, I wholeheartedly agree with this statement: "There is always a place on this team if you work hard and try."

My last breakout has the greatest potential and was about creating a Student Athlete Leadership Team (called S.A.L.T.).

I could see having a student-led leadership team bringing tremendous value to our school and sports teams. This team consists of humble, kind, selfless people that cannot only talk about leadership but also live it every day. I'm excited to continue to learn about this new program and have it up and running by next school year.

As I think we all know, the youth of today are the leaders of tomorrow.

Lucas Beck: While at the WIAA Sportsmanship summit, I had the opportunity to hear Mark Horbinski speak on the subject of "My Coach Plays F.A.V.O.R.I.T.E.S." (Faithful Accountable Versatile Optimistic Resilient Improving Teachable Enthusiastic).

Mark was a teacher, coach, and official for 28 years.

One of his main points in the speech was that coaches do play favorites. However, your last name has very little effect on whether or not you are a coach's favorite. It's based on the acronym characteristics.

The one that stood out to me was "Resilience."

Mark explained that the scoreboard does not define you and that even in the most heartbreaking losses you must be resilient. Even when you don't feel like practicing after school you have to be resilient and understand that just showing up to practice neither benefits you nor the team.

Aubree Koenings: When I went to the sportsmanship summit, I was fascinated by Craig Hillier who was the keynote speaker to kick off the event. He told us to be a good leader on our team and to have a good mindset.

Craig said that a good leader is always a notch-and-a-half above the rest of the team. This stuck with me because I believe that when being a leader on the team, you should always keep your energy above everyone else no matter the circumstance. A leader must always be poised and in control.

Craig stressed that one mistake shouldn't affect the rest of the game or dominate your mood. Your mindset should be: What can I do better from now on?

I also remember the energy he created in the room of over 400 people. We played "Simon Says" and guess that song. These activities led to everyone getting in the right mood in kicking off the day and it made me realize the importance of icebreakers and how important it is to set the climate.

Maddie Smith: I was most struck by the presentation related to Parents.

My biggest takeaway was that all we want as athletes is a positive atmosphere surrounding our athletics. Athletes aren't looking for a parent to critique their performance.

Be cautious on providing any advice until the child requests it. Give us time and space to recover. Be supportive of the coach and let him/her do his/her job.

Parents are in the stands to simply cheer for everyone on the team.

Sometimes, a simple "good luck," is all we want and need.

Kish Mens Basketball Defeats Lake County

Kishwaukee College's mens basketball team played Saturday, Dec. 18, in Grayslake, Ill. against the College of Lake County.

After being tied at halftime 36-36, the Kougars were able to extend to as much as a 14-point lead in the second half on the way to an 80-75 victory over the Lancers. Joshua Bocher led Kish with 24 points, 6 rebounds and 4 steals.

Jalen Smith added 14 points and 6 rebounds while Joseph Bocher (8 points), Damarian Stark (8 points, 3 steals), Austin Brown (7 points), Avery Medina (7 points, 6 assists) and Seth Gould (7 points, 3 steals) finished up the scoring for the Kougars.

Learn to Ice Fish

You love to fish, but in winter the lakes are frozen. What's an angler to do? Well, drill a hole and fish right through the ice. On Saturday, Jan. 15, head out to the Kettle Moraine State Forest - Northern Unit to learn the ins and outs of how to go ice fishing. Meet at the Mauthe Lake Recreation Area picnic shelter (located off County Road GGG south of County Road SS near New Prospect) at 12:30 p.m. We will start at the shelter to cover cold-weather safety tips, and the appropriate gear and tackle. Then it's off to Mauthe Lake to try our best to lure some of those fish out of the water. We will wrap up the fishing adventure at 2:30 p.m.

Equipment, tackle and bait will be provided. Come dressed for the winter weather. Bring something to sit on like a folding chair or bucket. This program is best for people older than six. Children must be accompanied by adults. This is Free Winter Fishing Weekend, so no fishing licenses are required. You will need to have a Wisconsin State Park System vehicle admission sticker.

Registration is available by calling the Ice Age Visitor Center at 920-533-8322 by January 13. We need participants to register to ensure plenty of gear and because there will be special surprises for all who attend the workshop.

If you have any questions, contact staff at the Ice Age Visitor Center. The center's winter hours are 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Wednesday through Friday, and 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

to track migration patterns and create models to predict where mule deer will cross, Wisconsin doesn't necessarily have that opportunity.

The Wisconsin DOT does use fencing to try and funnel deer under bridges and away from high-traffic areas, according to the agency's public affairs office.

Roepke's district office in La Crosse is considering installing an elk crossing near Black River Falls and has submitted a project plan to their superiors, but no decisions have been made.

Also, the recently-passed federal infrastructure bill allocates $350 million to states specifically for the construction of wildlife crossings.

Success out west...

While the impact of wildlife crossings for drivers can be beneficial, the structures can also help restore the historic migration patterns of local wildlife in some places.

When animals eventually figure out how to use a crossing structure, they use it a lot. A 2013 study in Utah showed that mule deer used crossing structures in the state a total of 31,000 times over five years.

"What that tells me is animals that were restricted now have access to a vastly bigger slice of habitat because we put that crossing in," said Matt Howard, Natural Resource Manager at the Utah Department of Transportation. "It will help build healthier herds and populations going into the future."

Despite seeing local reductions in wildlife-vehicle crashes around crossing structures, Utah hasn't seen much change in crash trends throughout the state.

"Because [Utah] is growing so fast, the problem areas just shift — once we solve a problem in one area, a new one will pop up," Olson said.

The number of crashes in Utah compared to 10 years ago has stayed relatively stable despite a fast-growing population because of the mitigation efforts, Olson added. On top of that, these structures can take years to plan and millions of dollars to construct — an average culvert or bridge takes five years to plan and as much as $7 million to build, Howard said.

"If you want to see a crossing structure up five or ten years from now, the work starts today," he said.

Lady Cougar Bowlers Beat Suns for Seventh Win of Season

December 20 was Senior and Parents night for the Lady Cougar Bowlers last home meet of the season, and the crowd was not disappointed.

The Cougars won the first six games before dropping games seven and nine to win the match 7-2. The team averaged 146 enroute to their win and this was the second time the Cougars defeated the Suns this season. The Cougars rolled high games of 181, 169 and 152. It was truly Senior Night as Campbellsport's only senior, Kylie Zehren, let the team filling 12 of 16 frames for a 75% fill percentage. The night once again was a team effort with all seven girls making contributions. After Kylie's great performance, anchor Brianna Thompson filled 11 of 16 frames and Taylor Muraski filled eight of 14 frames for the night.

The Cougars will be off for the holiday and resume play January 10, with three more trips to King Pin Bowl in West Bend.

Stats for the match were as follows (strikes-spares-total frames): Kylie Zehren 7-5-16; Amber Ninneman 0-3-8; Aubree Koenings 3-2-11; Hannah Thelen 1-4-13; Paige Jordan 2-3-12; Taylor Muraski 3-5-14; and Brianna Thompson 8-3-16.

LORI KREIS
KEWASKUM LIBRARIAN

LORI KREIS
KEWASKUM PUBLIC LIBRARY DIRECTOR

Another year wraps up, a good one here at Kewaskum Public Library. It is too early for annual statistics, but once they are available, I will be sure to share results. I do know we have surpassed last year in circulation, programming and other measures but that was expected after that year. However, we did see many returning patrons and a good number of new customers at the library in 2021.

There are some highlights from the year I would like to report. Some of our online databases were very busy; one a new database to our library and the other has been around a while. For several years, we have offered Ancestry Library Edition in the library. This awesome resource was accessible from home the entire year and the use of it from Kewaskum Library patrons was astounding. People performed genealogical searches in record-breaking numbers. Beginning in 2022, access to Ancestry Library Edition will no longer be available from your home, but you can use it in the library by logging on to one of our computers or using the library's wi-fi with your own device. The other online resource well used in 2021 was new to our library. Hoopla is a no-wait, no-holds streaming service of movies, TV shows, audiobooks and more. We started it a February and users are very happy with the services it offers. We plan on continuing hoopla in 2022.

Grab & Go kits for all ages began at the library during the pandemic and have continued to be popular all of 2021. The distribution of these has trickled down from weekly to monthly and we plan on discontinuing take home craft kits before summer reading begins. We are not suspending craft programs; they will just be all in-person. Early 2022, the library will be offering arts and crafts programs for adults, teens and kids such as calligraphy, anime crafts and kite making. Be sure to check this paper, our website or flyers in the library for dates and registration information.

There were new adult programs added in 2021. The partnership with the Tower Heritage Center of Washington County offers monthly historical programs, many with touchable artifacts. Mrs. Charles Dickens visited the library, portrayed by Jessica Michna and we look forward to another performance by this talented woman in 2022. See if you can guess who will be here. The recipe club for adults reconvened and will be meeting for late lunch instead of dinner next year.

For children, story times resumed in two new locations, outside on the library lawn and in the community room. We introduced parachute play outside and I think the adults had just as much fun as the kids did. There were a couple of stuffed animal adoption days for kids and escape rooms for teens.

We look forward to 2022 and a new year of new collections, a library of things and valuable programming for all.

Happy New Year!
